

Time Nears to Apply for Low-Rent Apartments

Applications for those people who might like to live in the rent elderly housing complex being built in Wayne will be taken the next week or so. The applications will be taken as soon as the community building and its office space is completed, according to Mrs. Elsie Echtenkamp, executive director of the complex.

The complex will consist of an elderly couple, two unrelated people of the same sex who have demonstrated their ability to live together, a single person 62 years of age or older or a single person under 62 who is handicapped or disabled.

Applications for such things as a family with the head or a spouse 62 years of age, disabled or handicapped. Educations are also figured for each individual in a family which has extraordinary medical expenses, unusual occupational expenses or which must care for children or sick family members.

The legal authority will also take into consideration the applicant's source of income, age or disability, present housing condition and urgency of the housing need. Other things will also be considered, Mrs. Echtenkamp explains.

People living in the city of Wayne and Wayne County will be given preference over other people, she says. The housing development located at the corner of Fifth and Dearborn Sts. in the east part of the city, has apartments suitable for one, two or three people.

NORTHEAST EXTENSION Notes

Modern recipes specifying the exact pan size and shape, oven temperature and time have been tested for the best possible results. If the pan is too large, breads and cakes will rise less and brown poorly.
When it is necessary to substitute, use pans with the same amount of surface area as the pan's liner measurements. For role pans and round cake pans, the diameter or width is measured across the top opening. For other shapes, the measurement will include the depth and width length.
Of course, not all pans have the same kind of cake. Smooth aluminum pans give a golden brown color. Glass ware absorbs and holds heat well for even baking. For glass pans, use an oven setting of 25 degrees less than the recipe suggests. Bent or warped pans make baking trouble and give uneven results.
Use a baking sheet or low-sided pan for cookies. If no cookie sheet is available, substitute an inverted cake or roasting pan. If only one is available, use a baking sheet on several layers of foil for quick bread-and-od transfer.
The oven itself adds a last touch of perfection. Place a large

People Ask Us...

QUESTION: Can I plan my estate to avoid the red tape Mrs. X went through when her husband passed away?
ANSWER: Estate planning is a complicated and exciting science. Everyone who owns anything—car, house, bank deposit, insurance, business interest, retirement benefits, etc.—has an estate. This estate, regardless of size, represents the most important money in the world to those left behind. The care, maintenance and conservation of this estate is not simply desirable but essential.
As you would not treat a member of your family for a serious illness, nor attempt to be a "do it yourself" estate planner. Contact your attorney or the Trust Officer of your bank. These men can be among the most important people in your life.

Dry Summer Flowers for Fall Decorations

Want to add sparkle to your dry fall arrangements? Include colorful flowers from your summer garden, suggests Wayne C. Whitney, Extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Most people think of leaves, weeds, greens and a few twigs when they consider fall arrangements. But many flowering summer annuals make attractive additions when properly dried, says Whitney.

Summer annuals that dry well are cockscomb, coral bells, daisies, gerberas, marigolds, strawflowers, dahlias and zinnias.

To dry these flowers, pick just before they reach their flowering peak and strip the leaves from the stem without damaging flowers. If the stem is more than three-eighths of an inch thick, crush the end of it lightly with a hammer or wooden mallet.

The stems of the flowers in a loose bunch and hang in a shaded place to dry as sunlight will bleach the colors. Air movement will help drying, but avoid a strong draft.

Battle Underway for Starting Slots on WS Grid Team

The battle for starting assignments when Wayne State opens its 1971 football season Saturday at Emporia State was nearing final decision Tuesday.

The offense will have a new look with only three returning starters to join eight newcomers. The returnees are left end Reggie Yates of Davenport, Iowa; left tackle Dennis G. York, an all-conference and all-NIAA district choice last year, and left guard Pat Ivers of Chicago.

Coach Del Stoltenberg said front runners at other offensive spots are up something like this in the line:

Rusty Kallander of Norfolk at right end after playing defensive back last year, described by Stoltenberg as "having a lot of talent and coming into his own."

right tackle; a 6-3 and 230-pounder with good mobility.

The offensive backfield has been a wide-open tussle, with three positions vacated by graduation and the quarterback slot challenged.

Senior Jim Kearney of David City, a McCook Junior College, and senior Marty Goring of Tekamah, Wayne's starting quarterback for two years, are the top contenders.

Also available is freshman Neil Sullivan, who piloted Chicago St. Rita to the city Catholic high school championship last year before a crowd of some 60,000. He was named the game's outstanding player. Stoltenberg tabs Goring as the favorite to beat out college experience.

At left halfback, Mel Tarpley, senior from Lincoln is the top prospect. A Shrine Bowl star after graduation from Lincoln High, Tarpley attended McCook College and transferred to Wayne last year. As backup for durable Sam Singleton, now graduated, Tarpley had little chance to play, but showed speed when he did. He is a versatile trackman as a sprinter, long jumper and triple jumper.

At right half, Mike Wiese, junior from Avoca, Iowa, appears to be No. 1 choice. At 5-8 and 185, he's a burly ball carrier. Behind him are a pair of freshmen: Cliff Patterson, Aurora, Ill., and Dennis Ulanowski, Burnham, Ill., both coming off high-ranked prep teams.

Denis Linker, a junior who learned high school football under Stoltenberg when he was coaching at Grand Island, has a good chance at the fullback slot. He's close to the 5-9 205-pound size of departed Jerry Lucke, twice Wayne's most valuable offensive player.

Also contenders are Junior Jim Clark of Fremont, who doubles as punter, and freshman Bill Volk of Indianapolis, Ind.

On defense the roster sounds like a mix of veterans' back and pretty well entrenched newcomers are Gordon Godfrey, halfback from Ayer, Iowa, and George Blazsak, middle guard from Sterling, Ill.

Veterans returning on defense are ends Ken Monroe, Arlington Heights, Ill., and Monty Miller, Newcastle, tackles Mike Winn, Grand Island, and Dan Boy, Wessington, Ind.; linebackers Bruce Cramer, Olympia Fields, Ill., and Reggie Smith, West Point; halfbacks Charlie Wendt, Raleigh, Iowa, and Pat Holston, Elizabeth, N.J.

Athlete of the Week

Larry Wiebelhaus
Kevin Wacker

By Marvin Hanson

Outstanding defensive performances on the part of two Laurel High School football players earn them recognition as the first "Athlete (G) of the Week."

The recognition goes to junior Larry Wiebelhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wiebelhaus of Laurel, and senior Kevin Wacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wacker of Laurel.

Laurel's new coach, Bob Olson, had plenty of praise for the two after Friday's game, a 6-0 loss to visiting Bloomfield. And he had plenty of reason to compliment them.

Wiebelhaus came up with 21 tackles and a pair of assists. If you think that's something, consider Wacker's effort: 21 tackles and five assists.

If added proof of their worth to Laurel in that game is needed, one of the officials at the game even singled them out as putting on excellent performances.

Olson said Wiebelhaus gave most of his tackles because of his speed and quickness. He breaks through the opposing line very quickly, enabling him to corral the runner before he is able to get away.

Wacker was picking up a lot of his tackles Friday night when the Bloomfield runners got by the Laurel tackles. Wiebelhaus, who was off the field for only about one play, handled defensive middle guard and offensive guard duties in the game, opening one for the Bears, Wacker, who never saw a rest after the opening kickoff, handled defensive linebacker and offensive tackle jobs.

Olson said both players are "real hard workers." He goes to those kind of performances going for them, they've got to have something extra going for them.

Both will receive "Athlete of the Week" cards for their performances.

Stoltenberg Tells Club Of WS Football Lineup

"Our offensive line is the hardest hit by graduation," Del Stoltenberg told Wayne Kwanians Monday noon as he talked about the WS Wildcats following a luncheon at the Woman's Club Room.

Stoltenberg, head football coach at Wayne State College, gave the club a preview of the Wildcats' 1971 football lineup and schedule, and noted that defensively most of last year's

Izaak Walton's Name Officers, Set Rock Shoots

Local Izaak Walton League members met Monday night at Bess Lake northwest of Wayne to elect officers and plan the league's annual blue-rock shoots.

Re-elected as directors were Morris Weible and Ed Sheehan. Richard Bauer was named to replace Ed Seymour who has completed his term of service. Each of the directors serve a term of three years.

Other league directors currently in office are Merton Hillen, Earl Beeks, William Chace, L.C. Doeschler and Al Stautek. Richard Bauer was named to replace Bauer to replace Bowen Wiltse who recently resigned.

The directors plan to meet in the near future to elect officers for the year.

Norris Weible, president, said the flies will kick off their annual blue-rock shoot at the municipal airport Sunday.

Tom Prenger is general chairman this year of the weekly shoots which will start at 2 p.m. each Sunday afternoon through Oct. 17. The final event will be the annual Thanksgiving shoot.

Shooting Sunday will include practice shooting and shooting for prizes. Weible said.

'Last Chance' Tourney Scheduled for Sunday

Scheduled for Sunday at the Wayne Country Club is a "last chance" two-ball tournament.

The event, the last of its kind at the golf course this year, gets its name from the way golfers will have the name of a famous person and his "last chance" (Lester's last stand, etc.) They will have to find their partner with the same famous name.

Fourth of the year, the event will be followed by a potluck supper at 6:30 and bridge at 8. Those taking in the supper are to bring their own table service. Coffee will be furnished.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kelton and Mr. and Mrs. Jack March are in charge of the affair.

Death Cancels Longtime Wager

The recent death of a Minnesota man has terminated what was perhaps the longest football bet in the nation.

The bet was between former Wayne resident W.A. Lerner of North Platte and Arthur H. Durban of Paul, Minn.

Placed by the two was a carton of cigarettes or the cash equivalent of $1.20 on the longest football game in August 1934 when the two were attending Stout Institute in Wisconsin. Lerner was a teacher in the Clearwater, Neb., school during the regular school year in 1934.

Lerner, now a principal in the elementary school system at North Platte, said he sent many a carton of cigarettes to the north-lander in recent years he has received checks equal to the present cost of $3 or more.

The bet was a "non-pay-off" during the years 1942-45 when Lerner served in World War II.

A strange factor in the bet is that both bettors last saw one another in 1936 when Lerner was on a fishing trip to Minnesota.

Lerner graduated from Wayne High School and Wayne State College. He is the brother of Walter Lerner and Mrs. Frank Heine, both of Wayne.

Reserves Rap Laurel, 34-0

Touchdowns by Gordon Cook, Kerry Jech, Marty Hanson and Bob Addison enabled the Wayne High reserve football team to ease by Laurel Monday afternoon, 34-0.

The team action for the reserves will be Monday at Pierce. The game starts at 7:30.

Young Cook had the best effort at churning out yardage, coming up with a 12-3 average during the day.

Leading the other aspect of the game was Brad Pflueger with 40 yards.

Cook ran 15 yards for one touchdown and 10 yards for another to lead scoring in the action. Jech scored his TD on a pass from Marty Hanson. The pass play covered 60 yards and gave Wayne a 29-0 lead at intermission after Hansengraber's treble wish with a pass for the extra point try.

Horseshoe Winners Named at Winside

A horseshoe pitching round robin was held at the Winside ball park Sunday with Walter Hamm in charge.

Class A winners were Tom Duffman, Wilson, first; Roy Jensen, Newman Grove, second; Clarence Nelson, Newman Grove, third; and Elmer Wacker, Wayne, fourth.

Hoskins Driver Wins Championship Trophy

Action on the stock car racing ovals in the area ended Sunday with a Hoskins driver being named champion high point man at Collins Field, LeMars, Ia.

Gerald Bruggeman took first place in his heat at LeMars Saturday night only to experience having his engine blow up eliminating him from further competition. However, this previous sizzling record at the field earned him the honor of being the season's champion high point man on the oval.

Bruggeman was presented the trophy in brief ceremonies at the field Saturday night. His wife Ruth was at his side honored by track officials as trophy queen.

Girls Are Needed For Flag Football

More girls are needed to take part in recreation flag football reports Hank Overin, director of Wayne's recreation program.

Overin said about 14 girls turned out for the sport last Saturday afternoon. Another 10 girls are needed to make the sport worthwhile, he said.

Area Ringneck Fans May Have to Work

Hunters in the Wayne area are going to have to just as hard a time bagging ringnecks this year as they did last year, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

Pheasant populations are up slightly everywhere but in the northeast and the Sand Hills. Commissioner officials report.

Prospects for hunters in the state this year range from bright on the waterfowl scene to about the same as last year for pheasants, quail and big game, they note.

Rec Grid Games, Schedules Announced

Games with other towns have been scheduled for the local junior high recreation football team, reports Hank Overin, director of the city's recreation program.

The team will play four games this season—Randolph at the Wayne baseball park at 7 p.m. on Sept. 28, at Wisner at 4:45 on Oct. 5, at Laurel at 4:45 on Oct. 13 and against Wakefield at Wayne at 4:45 on Oct. 19.

The sixth through the eighth graders who are not on the traveling team will be divided into teams for games on Tuesday evenings. The lightweights will play from 4 to 6 on Tuesdays, the heavyweights from 6:30 to 9 on Tuesdays.

Here's the schedule for the recreation graders, effective this week:

Monday—4-6 p.m. eighth grade junior high team.

Tuesday—4-6 p.m. sixth and seventh grade lightweights.

Tuesday—6:30-9 p.m. seventh and eighth grade league teams.

Wednesday—4-6 p.m. eighth grade junior high team.

Thursday—4-6 p.m. all sixth and seventh graders and all eighth graders on league teams.

Friday—4-6 p.m. eighth grade junior high team.

Saturday—10 a.m.-noon, fourth and fifth graders for tackle above the waist.

Saturday—1:30-3 p.m. all sixth graders.

Saturday—3-4:30 p.m. girls flag football.

A total of 85 youths have checked out full sets of equipment for tackle football, Overin said. Another 35 will be taking part in tackle above the waist. They will wear only helmet and shoulder pads.

The total out for football this season is slightly less than last year, according to Overin.

Helping the director with the sport this year will be Mike Creighton and Denny Paul, both students at Wayne State College.

Duties of ESU One Many, Varied

by Ed Szypulski

What is Educational Service Unit One? What are its duties, its responsibilities, its goals? Developed to offer to rural communities the educational programs which they could not afford otherwise, ESU One is now in its fifth year of serving Wayne, Jones, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston Counties.

Since it began in 1967 it has offered and maintained special services in the following areas: educational programs, training programs, gifted programs, psychological testing and evaluation, school nursing services, speech and hearing clinics and a media center.

The ESU One offerings are funded by local and state money. Directing the whole operation is Harry Mills of Wakefield.

This is the first of a series of articles which will be carried over the next several months about the organization. Subject at hand: speech clinics and the present hearing conservation program now being carried on in local school systems in the six-county area.

Purpose of a hearing conservation program is to identify those students with possible hearing impairments, provide threshold tests for those who fail the screening examination, provide audiological assessment for those who fail those tests, give medical evaluation and treatment if necessary and give rehabilitation depending on the type and the severity of the hearing impairment and follow up testing.

Through the use of an audiometer and multiple screening unit 100 children receive a hearing examination at a school test, which consists of listening to a series of short quiet beeps presented at a fixed level of loudness.

If any student fails this test he receives a more thorough examination called a "gold test," which is evaluated by the speech clinician.

If the hearing loss is severe enough, the parent will receive a form letter suggesting the child be taken to his family physician.

At the physician's office the doctor will give a medical evaluation of the hearing loss and the medical treatment required.

The doctor returns the form and the recommendations he has made back to the therapist, who will retest these students at a later date to check if the heavy loss has improved.

Following are the speech clinicians working for ESU One: Florence Judd, Hartington, Kent Gerlach, South Sioux City; Jill Wilcox, Crofton; Sydney Kruse, Walthill; Peggy Roush, South Sioux City; Ed Szypulski, Creighton; and Lois Ley, Wayne.

A recent nationwide survey of business activity shows that Wayne County turned in a better performance in the past year than most communities. Wayne County was accorded an above-average market rating on the basis of the findings, which indicate that local residents per person, earned more and spent more than was general across the country.

Although 1970 was far from a record-breaking year throughout the United States generally, it was a better one for retail merchants in the Wayne area than for those in most other localities.

The figures show that Wayne County stores ended up with a sales volume of more than $19,324,000 as against the prior year's $18,190,000.

It was more than might have been predicted from the standpoint of population alone. With 0.050 per cent of the national population living in the local area, that proportion of the county's business would have been its quota on that basis.

It went above that mark, however, and produced 0.053 per cent of that national total.

The results point to the stagnation of the local economy during a period of national recession, in which unemployment was high and the cost of living rising rapidly, business in the local area held up better than in many sections of the country.

Making it possible was a strong earnings picture. The survey shows that net income locally, after payment of personal taxes, reached a total of $29,744,000.

It was equivalent to $9,925 per household, an average arrived at by dividing the overall income by the number of local households.

The relative standing on one community to another, in terms of purchasing power and business vitality, is shown in the survey through an "index of sales activity."

Wayne County's index is given as 106, or 6 per cent above the national average.

The county's relative standing is brought out in a new "Survey of Buying Power," produced and copyrighted by Sales Management, the marketing publication. It contains comparable income and spending figures for each area.

Annual Birthday Party Set

Mrs. Forrest Nettleton Phone 583-4533

Preparation is now well in hand for the 32nd annual birthday party of the Methodist church to be held Wednesday, Sept. 29 at 2 p.m. in the church basement. The program will feature a chalk talk, "The Woman at the Well," by Mrs. Wayne Hankins.

Chairman of the coming event is Mrs. Charles Whitney.

members answered roll call by telling where they had spent their first year in school. Mrs. Fork accompanied group singing and card prizes went to Mrs. Dora Stolz, Mrs. Bertha Isom and Mrs. Leota Swanson.

Mrs. Eunice Glass will host the Oct. 8 meeting.

Roof Leak Might Cause Trouble

Like the proverbial bad apple, a worn roof on an otherwise sturdy house can spell trouble.

Worn spots on the roof lead to leaks. These, in turn, allow water seepage that can damage walls, ceilings, floors and structural beams.

If electrical wiring gets wet, it can cause short circuits, fires. So, when a roof gets shabby, or bald spots begin to show, reroofing is wise and economical.

A new roof on an older home adds fresh beauty as well as many years of weather protection. Considering this, a new roof is an inexpensive investment. To get the most for your money, keep these points in mind:

Choose a roofing material that will give maximum service and minimal maintenance. For example, heavy-weight asphalt shingles, which weigh 250 or more pounds per 100 square feet of roof area, are designed by the manufacturer to last 20 to 25 years without maintenance.

Use the roof to upgrade and individualize the house exterior. You might choose one of the distinctive new colors available in asphalt shingles: white, black, pastels, "rustic" (subdued shades), "earth" (shades of brown), "forest" (green hues) — all designed to allow easy coordination of roof color with other exterior features and with the geographic surroundings.

Make sure the roof is properly installed. Roofing is not a do-it-yourself job. Employ a skilled professional roofer to do the work.

State Heart Association Notes Heart Attack Risks

What kind of a statistic are you? That, after all, is what each one of us is to the scientists who study the pattern of disease — the sum of all factors that may be involved in producing it — in a population.

There is a special group of statistics are the people who have taken part in more than a dozen studies of coronary disease and heart attacks in many parts of the country. Probably the best known of these is the Framingham (Mass.) Study. Over the years and across the country, their individual histories have merged into a composite picture from which it is possible to single out various factors that raise the risk of heart attack.

On the basis of these findings, analyzed and correlated from several sources, a medical-census-taker could draw your coronary profile — your risk of suffering a heart attack — the Nebraska Heart Association points out. But first, this is what he would want to know:

Your sex: It makes a difference; and before you hasten to add "live la difference," ponder this: Men in their middle years (45-64) die of heart attacks almost three times more often than women in the same age group. At age 50, men are five times more likely than women of the same age to suffer a heart attack. Not only do women live longer, but they are less likely to die of heart attacks.

Your age: You may think youth is your shield and armor, but coronary disease is the number one killer of people in the United States who died of coronary disease in the past year never reached three-eighths and ten. They died too young, between the ages of 25 and 64. Evidence is mounting to show that coronary artery disease starts the stage (for heart attacks) that sets early in life.

Your weight: Everybody may love a fat man, but — among middle-aged men who are 30% over their normal weight, the risk of a heart attack is twice as great as among middle-aged men of normal weight.

Do you smoke cigarettes? Cigarette smokers in a population study which has been going on in Framingham, Mass., since 1949 had twice the risk of non-smokers of having a heart attack. This study also indicates that smokers who give up cigarettes reduce their risk to nearly the level of people who have never smoked. It was also found that pipe and cigar smokers have no more risk of heart attack than non-smokers.

What do you do for a living? The answer to this question may provide the key to your way of life. Is your job sedentary, or physically active? If it's sedentary, do you try to compensate after hours for the lack of physical activity on the job? Or do you have too many labor-saving gadgets for your own good?

If you're not getting much for a physical exercise after office hours, you may be putting yourself in a high-risk category on this count. The more you move, the longer you live, notes the Nebraska Heart Association.

Do you have "blood pressure" or "cholesterol"? Only your doctor can answer these questions, and it might be a good idea to see him if you haven't had a physical examination lately. High blood pressure and high blood cholesterol levels spell high risk of heart attacks.

In this case, however, the Nebraska Heart Association says, what goes up can come down, and therein lies the key to what you — with the help of your doctor — do to reduce your risk on these two fronts.

No one has yet discovered the fountain of youth, nor is anyone suggesting that men alter their sex; but everyone can see his doctor and do something about overweight, smoking, exercise, high blood pressure and high blood cholesterol.

Mary's Catholic Church.

Heard the city engineer report that it will cost an estimated $20,000 for replacing paving and installing storm sewers in Meadow Lane. About five per cent of the paving cost, or $1,000, would be raised by special assessment and the remaining amount would come from general obligation bonds.

Considers a proposal that the city pay a portion of the cost for paving alleys. The matter was referred to the street and alley committee for further study.

Set a public hearing for 8 p.m. Sept. 28 regarding a request made by Dr. Gordon Shupe of Wayne to receive a property at Seventh and Lincoln Streets from residential to business.

Accepted a Burroughs maintenance contract on the city's billing machine at a cost of $2,121 for 12 months.

Authorized Bill McElroy of the city light department to hire additional help from the F. A. Pedersen Co. of Omaha for stringing power line from Sixth Street to the northeast corner of Pine Heights. A three-man crew and equipment is available from the company at a cost of $1,900 per 48-hour week.

Decided to investigate the cost of adding fluoride to city water.

Discussed paying 50 per cent of the cost for a new fence on the east side of the golf course. Ray Agler who farms the adjoining ground, has offered to pay the remaining 50 per cent. The matter was set aside for further consideration.

Adopted a city ordinance for controlling poultry and egg-laying businesses located inside the city limits so as to prevent odors.

Heard McElroy describe the efficiencies of a 30-foot electric ladder costing around $4,870. Council decided to investigate the advantages of the ladder and asked for a demonstration at a future date.

Council received a letter from the local Chamber which charged that the parking ordinances were not being enforced in the downtown areas and suggested that the ordinances be enforced regardless of the people involved.

Mayor Kent Hall said he would talk with the chamber and point out the number of parking tickets recently issued in trying to correct such violations.

Mayor Hall appointed Vern Schultz as sanitation commissioner, an office left vacant by the death of Henry Victor.

Councilmen were informed that the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission has set a 9:30 a.m. hearing Wednesday in Lincoln to consider Al Wittig's application for a retail beer license which would permit the selling of beer at Super Valu in Wayne. Council denied Wittig's application following a public hearing earlier this month.

After accepting a bid from Blue Cross-Blue Shield for insurance covering Wayne volunteer firemen — an action taken earlier this month to meet new state requirements — council was informed this week that they cannot add insurance for the firemen until the present wage-price freeze is over.

Funeral Services Held Wednesday For Harold Zapp

A former employee of Wayne County died Monday at the age of 68. Harold Francis Zapp retired in March of 1970 due to poor health after being employed by Wayne County for 13 years.

The son of George and Nora Zapp, he was born Feb. 9, 1903 at Nacora, Nebr. On Dec. 9, 1937 he married Dorothy Stansberg at Fort Dodge, Ia. They lived at Winnebago until moving to Wayne in 1957.

Services were held Wednesday at the First Lutheran Home with the Rev. S.K. de Fresse officiating. Solist was Mrs. Terry Bartling accompanied by Mrs. William Kugler.

Burial was at the Rose Hill Cemetery, Emerson. He was preceded in death by his parents and three brothers. Survivors include his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Alan (Sue) Zapp; one son, Vern of Sequim, Wash.; and one grandson.

The Wage-Price Freeze

Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

Q-How did the Internal Revenue Service get involved in answering questions about the Wage-Price Freeze?

A-The Internal Revenue Service undertook the assignment at the request of the Office of Emergency Preparedness which is the operating arm of the new Wage-Price Program. Utilizing its nationwide taxpayer assistance network, the IRS receives, analyzes and investigates complaints and answers questions at 360 offices throughout the country.

Q-What does the IRS do after it receives a complaint of a Wage-Price Freeze violation?

A-The IRS will acknowledge the complaint and, if there is a reasonable basis for concluding that a violation may exist, it may contact the alleged violator to obtain voluntary compliance with the Presidential order or conduct further investigation. The IRS officers will report to the Office of Emergency Preparedness any violations it discovers. Actual prosecutions are the responsibility of the Justice Department.

Q-Will the Justice Department seek an injunction to stop the freeze?

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

Our Lack of Concern

The accidental and probably unnecessary death of a flock of six wild turkeys near Valentine points up the need for cities and towns to be extremely careful when poisoning at city dumps.

poison such as Warfarin. The latter poison, according to the officials, has the same lethal effect on rats but does not pose a great threat to wildlife. Warfarin is more deadly to rodents than to other animals, they explain, while 1080 kills indiscriminately.

The accident merely spotlights one of man's biggest faults today—a lack of concern over the many other forms of life that exist on this planet.

We had better learn to live better over that life or we will soon be living on a barren planet. — N.H.

Someone Is Watching

Beautiful autumn weather is an incentive to get out on the highway and go some place.

Presto! A highway patrol car seems to appear from nowhere. The officer arrests you for speeding.

Everyone in law enforcement work throughout Nebraska, including Gov. J. J. Egan, is attempting to halt the killing via automobile on the public highways.

A European Flavor

The decision to adopt the European system of highway signs seems to us to be a good move by the Nebraska Department of Roads.

It means that the traffic signs motorists are so used to seeing as they drive about the state will be done away with.

The federal government is urging the switch to the European system in order to have more conformity throughout the nation and the world. The European style of traffic signs are easily understood by people of different nations. The language barrier is overcome by such simple and universally understood signs as the one for a telephone or the one telling drivers they must stop.

Besides making the highways safer, the European signs will give an international flavor to our driving. And that's going to be a real change when you drive through the Sand Hills. — N.H.

Salute to AFS

The American Field Service in Wayne and throughout the nation is being honored this week—designated by the U. S. House of Representatives as AFS Week—in recognition of its 25th year as an international high school exchange program.

Members of the local AFS Chapter are currently in their sixth year of hosting an exchange student at Wayne High School.

In observance of AFS Week and to raise needed funds that will make it possible for another AFS student to study at WBS next year, local AFS members sponsored a convention at the high school Wednesday morning and plan to hold a jewelry-and-junk garage sale on Sept. 25 at the LeRoy Simpson residence, 914 Douglas Street.

The AFS program not only includes foreign students studying in the United States, but also provides for American youths to study overseas.

Two Wayne High School students are recent participants in the overseas study program. They are Lethan Hepburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hepburn, who studied in Germany last year, and Elaine Lundstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lundstrom, who spent the summer in Ecuador.

A salute is due all those participating in the local AFS and Americans Abroad program. It is the effort toward creating better relationships between nations and individuals.

Local residents wanting to show their enthusiasm for the AFS program will have the opportunity of doing just that by contributing and purchasing items at the upcoming jewelry-and-junk sale.

What may appear to be a small contribution or purchase will help in extending the local AFS program for another year. — M.M.W.

Good Old Days

It's easy to see what the term "good old days" might mean to those in the Wayne County area when they look at the history of tax growth in this country.

Even in the year 1960, when per capita taxes were more than $600, would qualify for this description compared to the present. A recent study shows that in the current fiscal year, governments at all levels will collect an estimated $1,175 in taxes for every man, woman and child. This averages out to more than $3.20 for every calendar day of 1971.

At the beginning of this century, the federal, state and local governments were averaging $17 from every American. Real growth in taxes, however, took place since 1940, when per capita taxes were $96. In 1950, the average tax load jumped to $337 and in 1960, it stood at $628.

Federal income taxes produce the bulk of all tax receipts. In the past fiscal year they totaled $123 billion. This is nearly double the $62 billion collected in 1960 and almost five times the revenue from this source in 1950.

Difficult as it may be to believe, the federal government in 1940 was realizing only $2 billion from the income tax.

There is, of course, a pride one may have in being able to live, work and pay taxes in a country as great as America. By pooling finances via a reservoir of taxes, Americans provide themselves with hundreds of services including Social Security, welfare and education programs, law enforcement, public highways, military protection and aid to infants.

Americans are a free people. Using that freedom we tax ourselves via a system of self government to provide luxuries unheard of in other nations. It is a very simple. The more government services we decide to provide for ourselves, the more it is going to cost. As it is in any household, the only way to cut spending is to cut services. Is that what we want so we can return to the good old days? — M.M.W.

Drouth Is Costly

Without a doubt, farmers in the Wayne area have been hit by this year's drouth. The damage is especially hard to accept because of the promising spring and early summer rains.

Numerous farmers in the area are now clipping their corn in order to get at least some food value from a crop of loss. It is estimated that nearly $40 million was lost by the farmers in the Wayne area during the month of August.

New UN-L Chancellor Both Top Administrator, Explorer

LINCOLN—Dr. James H. Zumberge sat in a hotel lobby, quietly puffing on his pipe and discussing his career.

He said he wasn't a daring man and he didn't look it. His clothes were conservatively stylish and his gray hair, which had turned prematurely, it turned out a gave him more the look of the head of a university than an explorer.

He is both. The 37-year-old native Minnesotan at the University of Nebraska Board of Regents had chosen to be the next chancellor of the Lincoln campuses and outside activities four times has led expeditions to the Antarctic wastes.

Zumberge, who takes over at UN-L Feb. 1, is dean of the college of earth sciences at the University of Arizona at Tucson. He was the first president of Grand View State College near Grand Rapids, Mich., and served there until 1968 when he went to Arizona.

In addition to his administrative background, Zumberge has an international recognition as a scholar in geology. His specialty is glaciology.

He was chief glaciologist for the United States Ross Ice Shelf Project in Antarctica for the International Geophysical Year (1957-58). He had organized three later expeditions to the South Pole, all supported by the National Science Foundation.

Twice, he was a member of expeditions to Arctic Alaska.

As he sat in the hotel lobby talking with newsmen, he said he had been a heavy reader as a youngster in Minnesota. Many of the books he enjoyed were about explorers and when it came time to go to college (the University of Minnesota) he decided the study of geology would combine his "natural inclination toward science" and the bent toward exploration he had picked up vicariously through his childhood reading.

Zumberge, author of 75 professional journal articles, three books and numerous papers given at national and international meetings, was awarded his doctorate from the University of Minnesota in 1950 with a major in geology and a minor in soils.

He joined the faculty of the University of Michigan that year as an instructor and became a full professor 10 years later. From 1950 until 1962, he was a consultant in ground water and non-metallic deposits in Michigan.

During much of the time Zumberge was serving as president at Grand View, Durward B. Varner was president of another school in the Michigan system—Oakland University near Detroit.

Varner, now president of the University of Nebraska system, will be Zumberge's boss, come 1 February, but both men say they hadn't been friends in Michigan.

Competitors for state support and "fierce competitors" at that, they say. Zumberge said he visited Lincoln recently for an interview with the regents.

Another acquaintance, but no more, in Michigan was Dr. Howard Neville, who was provost at the University of Michigan and later president of Claremont College in California before becoming vice-president for business and finance at UN-L.

Zumberge said he had no social contacts with Neville and only one professional contact.

Zumberge "Top Candidate" Zumberge was the only candidate on the seven-nominee list presented by a search committee to be interviewed for the UN-L post.

Regents Chairman Robert Raun of Minden said the board decided Zumberge was "clearly the outstanding candidate." Raun said the board was determined to get him, even though Zumberge's initial reaction to the offer was negative.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Today, a double gain with a half twist. Never have we asked for direct help, today we do. Remember, we are to have a cookout in New York City on Sept. 20-22. Last year our organization is putting up $10,000 to help with expenses, but we want more of your wives to travel and to relate the cattle message to America.

We could go to Omaha, Casper or Denver and have a tremendous cookout, but our livestock would get little national coverage.

Our problem will soon worsen. The problem is sponsorship of an unlimited import meat by Senator Javits and Mayor Lindsay. They continually ask for an unlimited import flow to reduce meat costs for their constituents.

The greater obstacle will be soybean hamburgers which will hit full blast within the kindergarten-junior high span of your kids.

From a protein value standpoint

Threshers' Reunion

Set for Sept. 25-26

The 15th annual Northeast Nebraska Threshers' Reunion, a popular event for people of all ages, is scheduled for Sept. 25-26 at the Bill Mayberry farm 11 miles east of Nelora.

Each fall, Mayberry and other old-timers from throughout northeast Nebraska bring out the old steam engines, threshing machines and other farm equipment used in another era of history. The event is similar to the annual Eastern Nebraska Steam Threshing Show, held over the weekend on the Ray Magnuson farm south of Allen.

The Nebraska event will include a parade of giant tractors and steam engines at 11:30 and 3:30 both days. A demolition of a 7-cylinder tractor-powered threshing will be in operation. There will also be a plowing exhibition with a steam engine on an eight-bottom plow.

Summer Dormancy of Lawns

If you've noticed that your lawn has turned brown the past month or so, it is probably not due to disease, but rather a physiological condition known as summer dormancy. Bluegrass in a naturally tends to go dormant during the hot, dry summer months of July and August. However, this natural tendency can be prevented by keeping the soil moist. If you want a green lawn during the summer, follow a good watering program.

If you do not plan to continue a watering program during the hot summer months, you may not want to start it but allow the lawn to go dormant. During extended drought conditions, supplemental moisture may be required to prevent drying of the lawn.

The dormancy concept for summer care should not be practiced on newly established lawns or lawns existing on sandy soils or heavy, compacted clay soils. In the fall when temperatures cool and moisture retention increases, the grass will break dormancy. When this occurs, normal lawn care procedures should be practiced. A late fall watering, to a depth of one foot, will help to prevent soil dryness during the winter months and the early spring growing season.

Can you think of one solution to the problem of pollution? It's YOU!

Hiss, Pop at Steam Threshing Show Heard by Hundreds

Easily over a thousand people turned out for the two-day Eastern Nebraska Steam Threshing Show southeast of Allen over the weekend. The event, put on the past eight years by Ray Magnusson, had its biggest day Sunday when cars continued to pour into the field throughout the afternoon, leaving the place looking like a county fair by late afternoon.

Featured at the show were a variety of steam and horse-powered machines ranging all the way from miniature threshers to the real thing. Among the crowd, as usual, were both young and old—the young marveling at how farm work was done with such lumbering engines, the old remembering how it was before the internal combustion engine became popular.

Pictured are some scenes from the show. The threshing event, of course, attracted a huge crowd. Two Bellwood men, Edward (center) and the right and his son, work on the oil pump of a scale model of a 6 1/2 hp case steam engine.

The one-cylinder gas engines attracted their share of the crowd, just as Claude Whitney of Bayard did when he oiled one of the big Minneapolis engines. Silhouetted against the sky are two of the men feeding the thresher, powered by the big Minneapolis above them.

NATIONAL HOME MONTH SECTION

Most Space, Least Cost Mark Lesh Home

Richard Lesh constantly uses the phrase "maximum space at minimum cost" when describing his home at 505 E. 10th St. in Wayne.

And he has every reason to do so, for the home is the result of hours of research and planning by architect Carl Koch and his associates.

The result of that planning and work was the Techbuilt house, a middle income house designed to avoid the monotony of prefabricated homes while still being appropriate for many climates and sites.

Lesh, head of the art department at Wayne State College, first heard of the Techbuilt houses while watching the once-popular "Omnibus" television show.

The house appealed to him then and now for a simple reason, he says. The reason is its practical design. There is no wasted space which can't be lived in, he says.

Because of its unique design, the Lesh home has no attic or basement even though it is a two-story affair.

The upper story contains a tasteful living room with a brick fireplace, three bedrooms, a full bath and other area. The lower floor, set into the ground a few feet to take advantage of the earth's heating effect in the winter and cooling effect in the summer, contains another living space with a brick fireplace, a kitchen and dining area, a family room and more bath facilities.

One surprising thing about the house, considering the large amount of space devoted to windows and the severe winters of Nebraska, is that there is no thermopane glass in the house.

The architects who designed the house, says Lesh, calculated everything and decided that homes above a certain latitude do not need that added building expense if properly constructed. He says his home's heating bills run below homes of a similar size which have the double-pane glass.

Probably one of the reasons for the low winter heating bills are the large windows running almost the full length of the two living rooms on the southeast end of the home.

Because of the way the home is situated on the sloping lot, the low winter sun pours in through those windows, forcing the furnace to shut off even when it is below zero, explains the owner.

While taking advantage of the winter sun, the home cancels out much of the effect of the strong summer sun through such methods as low overhanging roofs.

Another unique aspect of the home is the way it was built and constructed. Made of four-foot panels, it was trucked to the building site in 1955 and put together primarily with staples and an extremely strong glue. For the most part, the home had no nails holding it together. Yet, says Lesh, it is several times stronger than most conventional homes.

Although consisting of four-foot panels made in a factory, the house is not prefabricated, emphasizes the owner.

The panels are so constructed that they give great freedom in the way they are put together. Bedrooms and living rooms can be placed almost anywhere, spaces can be left unfinished and the house can be changed as a family's needs change—all because of the built-in freedom of the panels.

Prefabricated homes usually come in a package which allows little alteration once they are completed, he explains.

The house is actually very simply put together. Steel posts and exposed beams carry the weight of the house. The panels are arranged around the supporting structures to please the owner.

One of the more striking aspects of the exterior of the home are the large windows on the southeast side. They give the whole home a sense of openness and freedom. The Lesh family maintains its privacy by trees and shrubs which were planted when the home was built.

The entrance, stairway, furnace and fireplaces, plumbing and kitchen equipment are located in the central portion of the home. That leaves both ends, or almost two-thirds of the house, for living space.

But when talking about his family's home, Lesh repeatedly comes back to the idea of its simple sensibility. It's not an expensive home and doesn't profess to be, he says.

But it is liveable.

7-Sided Home Is Enjoyed by Leys

Although some people might not like the design, few people would call the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Ley of Wayne "square."

The home is far from being "square" — in the geometrical sense. It features seven sides and is more of a triangle shape than the usual square shape associated with homes.

The design of the home, which was adopted because of the V shape of the corner lot, is enjoyed very much by Mr. and Mrs. Ley. They enjoy decorating the walls and find them easy to work with, said Mrs. Ley.

Although they have lived in the home only about two months, the home looks well established. Hanging from the balcony on the east side of the home are elk antlers — just the right thing to emphasize the rough wood exterior of the home.

Located at the corner of Meadow Lane and Westwood Road in northwest Wayne, the home has a brick and natural cedar exterior. Windows include three kinds — the full-length ones looking over the balcony on the east side of the house, the celestial windows underneath the eaves on the south side and the more conventional windows on the north side.

A striking feature on the inside of the house is the circular staircase from the main living room to the recreation room in the basement.

There are two bedrooms up-

Halting Water Pollution Begins Right at Home

What can individuals, concerned about water pollution, do to prevent it?

Some water pollution is caused by the phosphates in detergents. These phosphates act as a fertilizer to encourage the dangerous growth of algae in our waterways.

The growth causes fish to die and turns lakes into odorous swamps.

There are at least three ways people can help to reduce the polluting phosphates that pour into our waterways annually.

1. Use low-phosphate detergents.

2. Follow manufacturers' instructions — exactly. It has been estimated that if everyone would carefully measure detergent, according to the direction on the container, and use no more than the amount recommended, water pollution due to phosphates would be reduced one third.

3. Instead of detergent, use phosphate-free soap.

Many commercial laundries believe that soap does a better

Brick and natural cedar surfaces and a seven-sided design make the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Ley unique. The stairs and two bedrooms downstairs. Laundry facilities are located in the basement.

The house also features carpeting throughout and instant boiling water in the kitchen sink, something Mrs. Ley has used a few times since moving into the house recently.

Located downstairs are two small offices for the young couple. Mrs. Ley is a speech therapist for Educational Service Unit One in northeast Nebraska. Her husband is assistant cashier and trust officer at State National Bank in Wayne.

The home also has a one-car garage, located underneath the long balcony.

Running through the upstairs of the home are exposed beams. The beams, which serve a main structural purpose, have a rough dark surface in the living room, complementing the general exterior appearance of the house.

Carhart Lumber Co. in Wayne built the home. Designer of the unusual house was Bill Taylor, an employee at Carhart Lumber.

cleaning job and at lower cost than detergents. To be effective, however, it must be used with truly soft water.

Municipally softened water isn't enough. It is usually seven or eight grains hard. Recommended for use with soap is water of zero hardness, like that produced by a water-softening appliance.

Increased pollution of water sources, followed by the increased use of purifying chemicals, has reduced the palatability of some water supplies. If water doesn't taste as good as it might, it can be improved by installing a filter or water purifier on the cold water line.

A filter can remove unwanted pollutants including chlorine.

All pollution isn't man-made. Nature adds many pollutants to water — silt, dirt, iron, sulphur, acidity.

Water conditioning equipment can effectively remove any or all of these materials from water, and filter the water to greater clarity at the same time.

No Hot Water Left?

Not Heater's Fault

In Numerous Cases

Water heaters are very good. That's why many families often run out of hot water.

Paradoxical as it seems, the above conclusion is the simple truth.

Most manufacturers build such a long life into their water heaters that one may be working at high efficiency, from the mechanical standpoint, long after its gallon capacity has lagged behind the growing needs of the family.

Just getting a "larger" water heater isn't the whole answer.

Ask a plumbing contractor to figure existing and anticipated water needs. This should include all plumbed-in appliances, present or planned for.

Frese Home Features 'Kitchen In the Round'

This round kitchen in the Ivan Frese home at 810 W. Third Street in Wayne is the most distinctive feature about the home.

Mrs. Ivan Frese of Wayne can look forward to working "in the round" every time she has to fix a meal.

Reason: her kitchen in her new home at 810 W. Third St. is circular.

Mrs. Frese got the idea for the round kitchen from a magazine she was reading a few years ago. When it got around to time to plan her own kitchen, she adapted and altered that plan so it would suit her new home.

In the center of the circular kitchen is a round storage area which contains the stove. The stove includes a strong fan which vents odors and fumes down through the floor and out of the house. That feature does away with having a fan and vent above the stove.

The stove is hidden except for the burners on top. Considerable storage space is located around it.

Drawers, cupboards and sinks—all built to fit the round nature of the room—take up the rest of the kitchen area. Lights for working are hidden under the upper cupboards. Along with those lights are several outlets for appliances, doing away with the need for them to be visible on the walls of the kitchen.

The cabinets are all finished with a light blue metal for easy cleaning and care. The surface is textured to give the effect of wood or leather.

How does Mrs. Frese like the kitchen now that she has been in her new home about a year?

"I'm pleased with it and enjoy working in it," she says.

The kitchen is nice, she explains, in that all she has to do when cooking something on the stove is to turn around and she has a surface to work on. Kitchens often are located a short distance from a table or shelf so steps have to be taken from a stove to a working area.

Patio Can Be Handy As Well As Handsome

A patio need not be a square slab of cement which detracts from a home more than it adds.

That's certainly true at the home of Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Hirt at 412 Oak Drive in Wayne.

The patio in the rear of the Hirt home is a round area of poured concrete, offering a pleasant change from the usual square patios.

Located just off the dining area, the patio is especially handy for Mrs. Hirt when the couple is eating snacks or cooking out. Dr. Hirt, who is in his fourth year of teaching in the biology department at Wayne State College, said the patio is a welcome addition to the home on summer evenings when the sun goes down. It will be even more useful when a tree near the patio grows high enough to provide shade during the late afternoon, he explained.

Leading from the round patio to a long two-level flower bed are two stone walks. The flower bed, the Hirt's own idea, was added after the couple moved into the home.

Although they have lived in the home only a year, they have succeeded in making the house look well established in that time.

The thick growth of grass on the lawn and the spacious flower bed are two reasons the home looks "lived in."

Their home features four bedrooms and two baths and is located on four levels. The unfinished basement provides the Hirts with the fourth level in their home.

The home was built by Vakoc Construction Co. of Wayne.

Chain Can Add Much to Your Home

Resourceful homeowners are finding dozens of practical uses for chain.

Chains of proper strength make easy, dependable supports for shelving, counters, tables or even swinging sofas and beds.

The two basic types of chain—welded, for tougher lifting and holding jobs, and weldless, for lighter chores—come in many different metals and finishes. Or, they can be painted to match favorite color schemes.

Home-made chain fences, with chains fastened to metal or wooden posts, can mark off garden areas.

Or a fine dog run for the family pooch can be made by stretching a wire between trees and fastening a chain to the wire to permit freedom of movement.

Creaky old double-hung windows work better when worn sash cords are replaced with sash chain.

This is an easy handyman's job and requires only a hammer, screwdriver, small chisel and pliers with a good sharp wire cutter, to cut sash chain to needed lengths.

Insulation Important to Homeowners

Adequate insulation in homes is much more important to homeowners than many people realize, according to home builders.

A poorly insulated home is uneconomical and uncomfortable, but proper insulation means that all rooms in the home will be evenly and comfortably heated in the winter.

But insulation isn't important only in the winter, according to the experts.

Uninsulated walls and ceilings allow heat to build up during hot summer days so that even cooling night breezes bring little relief.

Insulation acts as a shield against the sun, holding in the cool air which enters a home during the night.

There are several reasons owners of homes in Wayne should strongly consider making sure their homes are adequately insulated. Among those reasons:

—It increases the property value. Home loan organizations will often loan money for insulation of homes because they consider it a good improvement. Also, insulated homes will be more attractive to the prospective buyer.

—It can save much money on fuel bills and air-conditioning.

—It needs no upkeep once installed. Insulation is usually a once-in-a-lifetime purchase.

Nelson Home 'Designed with Men in Mind'

Long and useful are the best adjectives to use in describing the farm-home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelson. Their home is located six miles north and a mile and a quarter west of Wayne.

"Designed with men in mind" is the way Mrs. Marvin Nelson of rural Wayne describes her farm home.

The home, located six miles north and one and a quarter west of Wayne, was planned and built in such a way that her husband and others coming in from the field would feel comfortable and be able to move about with little trouble, she explained.

For example, the laundry area and a half bath are located just a few feet from the doors leading to the garage and to the outside. That way, Mrs. Nelson explains, the men are able to change from their dirty clothes and clean up without having to go to some other part of the house.

The half bath is unique in that the storage area for towels and the laundry basket are situated so they are only an arm's reach from Mrs. Nelson when she is ready to wash in the laundry room. The laundry basket rolls on wheels so it is easy to move about.

Mrs. Nelson's laundry room has a door which leads out to the backyard and the clotheslines.

Her kitchen was built with the same goal in mind. Although large and roomy, it isn't in the way of the table where most of the dinners are eaten.

The home, built by Carhart Lumber Co. of Wayne about seven years ago, also has three bedrooms, a large living room and a family room upstairs.

The basement includes a large recreation room almost the full length of the long house. Mrs. Nelson says the room works well for such things as 4-H meetings or showing films.

Also downstairs is another full bath, a room which can be used as an extra bedroom and a room where her husband can do paper work or talk with other cattlemen. That room, she says, is one of the most used ones in the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and their three children farm several hundred acres of land and raise cattle on their farm. They lived several miles west of where they now live before their new home was built.

Living Alone More Popular In Wayne Co.

Living alone is becoming more and more popular in Wayne County, official reports indicate.

Although still below the national and state averages, living alone by men and women—some young and some old—is quite popular in the county.

No less than 16.5 per cent of the dwelling units in the county are occupied by singles. The figures are slightly higher for the nation as a whole, 17.6, and for the state, 18.5.

However, the figures show a dramatic increase in the number of "singles" over the past 10 years. In 1960 only 9.9 per cent of the dwelling units were occupied by single people.

The number of one-person households in Wayne County is now 492—up considerably from the 1960 total of 285.

In most other parts of the country, similarly, there have been big increases in the number of one-person households.

Figures showing the change in the living style in Wayne County were contained in data compiled in connection with the recent Census of Housing.

Got Hay Fever? Air Conditioning Just Might Help

Hay fever time means sneezing, and other symptoms for sufferers, and it usually comes at a time when the majority of people are trying to escape the heat.

Such problems can be easily alleviated by central air conditioning, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling-Information Bureau points out.

Pollen and other impurities are filtered out and the air is dehumidified and cooled at the same time.

Doctors often recommend air conditioning for those suffering from allergies.

In addition, the home stays cleaner and quieter because the doors and windows are kept closed.

With central air conditioning Mom doesn't mind cooking, and the family tends to stay home and enjoy the coolness.

Court Area Is Unique Feature at Felber Home

An open court or atrium is the dominant feature of the Walden Felber home at 1002 Sherman St. in Wayne.

Black wrought iron gates and a peaked roof help emphasize the court area, which the Felbers adapted from the courts popular in homes in Latin American countries.

Growing inside the court area are flowers and plants, giving a visitor a feeling of being inside the home while still being able to enjoy the fresh outside air.

Surprisingly, the court area gives Mr. and Mrs. Felber little trouble in the winter. The winter winds whip the snow through the area and help do away with any scooping or shoveling, she said. Underneath the walk in the court are electrical wires so any ice can be quickly melted off if it is necessary.

Another feature of the home, which was finished in 1966 while the Felbers were on one of their many trips out of the country, is the long patio in the rear of the house. Just over 50 feet long and about 10 feet wide, the patio can easily seat a host of guests and tables.

Getting dominant display inside the home are some of the many items collected during the couple's trips. They include chairs from Spain, decorative pieces from such places as Portugal and art pieces on the walls from Mexico and other countries.

All furniture in the home is made of pecan wood.

Marble chips set in terrazo form the floor for the foyer of the court area.

Throughout the home the Felbers have speakers to pipe in music from their stereo or radio or for use as an intercom. Speakers are also located in the basement and on the patio.

The patio can be entered from both the guest bedroom or from the kitchen area.

The basement of the home has a full bath, a den and a large area not yet finished. It offers the couple considerable storage space.

The home is built of light colored brick and rock. Exposed black beams on the exterior of the home provide a pleasing contrast to the exterior surface.

Carhart Lumber Co. of Wayne built the home after Mr. and Mrs. Felber got the idea from a picture in a magazine. Roy Christensen, an employee at Carhart Lumber, helped adapt the plan so it suited the Felbers.

Ownership of Homes Is High in Wayne County

Over half of the dwellings in Wayne County are owned by the people living in them, according to official figures.

No less than 57.8 per cent of all the dwellings in the county are owned by their occupants — a rise of more than one per cent over the past 10 years.

The figures are contained in reports released by the United States Department of Commerce. They were based on data gathered during the recent Census of Housing in the nation.

Compared to some parts of the country, home ownership in Wayne County is at a high level.

There is a total of 3,239 year-round dwelling units in the county. Of those, 1,873 are owner-occupied.

Most of the upward trend in home ownership took place in the eight years or so prior to 1968 when there was little unemployment, when incomes were moving higher and when the availability of mortgage money at favorable rates made it possible for many families to own a home of their own.

Nationally, the number of home owners rose 7.1 million in the 10-year period, going from 32.8 million to 39.9 million, the figures show.

However, because of the increase in population during those years, the percentage of families in the nation who were living in their own homes was only slightly higher in 1970 than it was in 1960.

Although there has been much trading up in recent years, with people selling their homes to buy bigger and better ones, there has also been much money spent on improving the older dwellings through extensions, alterations and repairs.

During the past year alone, home owners spent nearly $15 billion on such upkeep and improvement, the government's figures reveal.

Because of inflation and the decline in housing construction in recent years, home values have been zooming in most areas.

In Wayne County, on the basis of the median price asked for local homes, $12,600, the total value of owner-occupied property comes to about $23,600,000 — far above what it was in 1960 when the median value was only $9,600.

Hammering Noise in Many Water Pipes Is Easy to Correct

Bothered by water hammer? If pipes slam or shudder when water is suddenly turned off, it may be because they have become lined up with hard water deposits.

There are anti-hammer, shock-absorbing devices which can be installed on these pipes. Or, relief can be gained by fastening pipes to supports more securely, particularly where a pipe turns a corner.

This is the refreshing view visitors to the Walden Felber home get after they enter through the court.

WITH THE TREND TOWARD OUTDOOR LIVING WHY NOT CONSIDER AN OUTDOOR PATIO?

Stop in today and ask us about a concrete patio at ground level — or a redwood patio if your floor height is above ground level. If you want privacy, also ask about a redwood patio fence. Sliding glass doors serve as an attractive entryway from the patio to an inside dining area.

Work Rewarding

Mrs. Clarence Beck each year has her many hours of work on her yard rewarded by a thick and healthy growth of grass to set off her home at 421 West Third Street in Wayne. Mrs. Beck, who has lived in the home with her husband for the past several years, says it takes a great amount of work and considerable amount of chemicals and water to keep a lawn looking its best. The Beck home, a tasteful bright yellow against charcoal gray, is complemented well by the use of shrubbery in the front. The shrubbery is mostly juniper plantings.

Flowers, Shrubs Can Brighten Any Home

Mary Kruger spends many hours weeding and trimming around the flowers and shrubs in front of her Wayne home.

The result is an attractive, appealing home.

Making a home look nice means more than just mowing the lawn and making sure the paint looks fresh.

Spending time grooming the lawn and raising flowers is a perfect way to set your house off from others. The home of Mary D. Kruger at 702 Sherman St. in Wayne is a good example of how flowers and shrubbery will improve the looks of a house.

Miss Kruger raises a host of flowers around her home and sidewalks. The flowers include such things as roses, chrysanthemums, moss roses, tea roses and junipers.

Along the sidewalk in front of her home is a row of red roses. They have been there many years, she said, and were not moved or harmed when the sidewalk was installed a few months ago.

An employee at the Wayne State College cafeteria, she said she raises the flowers partly as a hobby and partly as a way to keep her home beautiful.

She got used to having a beautiful home when she lived on the farm with her parents. "I just kept it up after getting a home of my own."

The flowers at her home, which she shares with her sister, Esther, are always neatly groomed and well watered. She said she spends many hours keeping the plantings looking well.

Also a collector of fine china, she worked at the local hospital for 22 years before giving up that job. Her sister also worked at the hospital for several years before retiring.

Her small home, which she says is just about the right size for her and her sister, has five rooms and a finished basement. It also has an attached garage for her car.

RE-STYLE YOUR HOME

Any style home can regain its youth if the building products are chosen well and used wisely. It doesn't have to cost a lot of money. Take this comfortable house. But it's a Plain Jane that could be a house of the year.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Perhaps the bulky porch has outlived its usefulness. Remove it. Re-style the windows with shutters. Give a strong accent to the new entrance. Replace the old siding with Vynasol (vinyl fused to steel) Siding. Guaranteed for 30 years. Cover the overhang, window and door casings. Throw your paint brush away and enjoy life.

Apply Vynasol Siding in a color, accent windows with white casing cover, paint the door a bright color. Show off the strong, roof lines with pre-painted gutters, soffit and fascia cover. This entire job can be done in just a few days. No further exterior maintenance.

Here's a backyard view of our same home, re-styled with Vynasol siding. More enjoyment has been added with a screen enclosed patio for outdoor living. A carport may also be considered, either free standing or attached.

Your home also has hidden possibilities. Let us give you more comfort and enjoyment with less maintenance. End the high cost of heating, cooling and exterior maintenance.

Home's Outside Deck Adds Living Space

Outdoor living space can sometimes be the most pleasant living space of all, and wooden decks can make the outdoor area around the home usable from the first sunny days of spring until the lingering afternoons of autumn.

To enlarge and improve a living room, dining area, family room or even a bedroom area, consider adding a durable redwood deck.

Then the family can breakfast, dine or entertain outdoors without mud or leaves underfoot. Overhangs or screens can protect from too much sun or wind.

Decks of insect-resistant redwood can be left unfinished or water-repellent treated to preserve natural color. They can also be stained or bleached to match or contrast with the house.

Many Ways to Home Free of Dust

Air in the great outdoors may not be as clean as it used to be, but air in the home may be even dirtier.

Remodeling Is Easy, Rewarding

The nice thing about remodeling your home is that there are so many new and improved and exciting products to put into the job.

On the outside, there are attractive new roofing materials, better-looking and longer-lasting siding, new and more beautiful windows and much more.

Inside, there are exciting and colorful bathroom fixtures, up-to-the-minute kitchen appliances, new walls and floor and ceiling materials. There are new lighting systems, improved home comfort systems, to just name a few things.

Oftentimes, with the new products that are available, you can have a remodeled house that's better for your needs than a new one—and at less cost too!

Last, but not least, there are increasing numbers of skilled contractors in every community to do the work.

Their experience guarantees a quality job, done promptly at reasonable cost.

If you are handy around the house, doing the job yourself might be the way to modernize.

Remodeling a home can be a rewarding experience. You not only better your own living, but you help to improve the neighborhood as well.

It's a mark of good citizenship and a good investment too. That's why home improvement is one of the most popular pastimes in America.

particle called dust, which can provide air pollution problems.

Dust makes easy entry to homes. Doors, windows and other direct openings are its greatest welcomers. Unvented clothes dryers, appliances and home workshops are major contributors.

There are some tools to remove home air pollution from the air and fight it at its source.

Kitchen exhaust fans can remove vaporized oils and unwanted food odor. Easy-to-install clothes dryer vents are usually more efficient than dryer lint traps.

Vacuum cleaner bags should be emptied frequently to prevent trapped dust from being forced back into the air.

Dust from home workshops can be reduced by an exhaust fan and heavy duty vacuum cleaners. Dusty repair work and use of highly volatile liquids should take place in areas where the polluted air cannot circulate throughout the home.

Furnace air filters should be changed at least every month, especially during the home heating season.

If the air flow is restricted by a dirty filter, it could require the furnace to operate for longer periods of time in order to raise the air temperature to a comfortable level.

Another source of household air pollution is cleaning agents. These should never be combined. In some cases, the mixture could release toxic gases. Read labels carefully.

After painting window sashes, move window up and down when paint is partially dry, to stop sticking.

Low-Rent Complex Should Have Effect On Housing Situation

The completion of the low-rent elderly housing complex in the next few weeks should have a noticeable effect on the housing situation in Wayne.

Why? Because there will be 38 dwelling units which will be open to elderly and retired single people and couples. Filling that many units should result in making several homes in the area available to renters or to people wishing to buy homes.

The housing project, located in the east part of the city, includes living units of two types—efficiency units (for single persons) and one-bedroom units (for couples).

Both types have four rooms—living room, bedroom, kitchen and bath—but the efficiency unit has a different kitchen plan. The efficiency unit has about 420 square feet of living space, the one-bedroom unit about 520 square feet.

The project, which will be called "Villa Wayne," is costing about $600,000 and was started with funds from the federal government.

The local housing authority, which is in charge of the development, has a contract with the federal government. Under it, the government guarantees payment of the housing authority debt service for 40 years. When the contract expires, the project will belong to the city of Wayne.

A community building is one of the features of the development. Centrally located, it will have a recreation area, storage room, maintenance space, laundry rooms and office space.

FHA Helping Provide Homes in Rural Areas

A considerable amount of the money loaned out by the Farmers Home Administration office in Wayne goes toward providing homes for people living in the rural areas of Wayne and Stanton Counties.

A total of $737,320 in loans was approved by the local office during fiscal year 1971, according to LaVern Ostendorf, county supervisor at the local office. That money was loaned to 58 borrowers in the two counties.

The amount of loans currently outstanding, according to Ostendorf, is $3,758,733. That amount is outstanding to 203 borrowers.

The loans include those for rural housing loans, farm ownership loans, annual operating advances, emergency loans, soil and water loans, association loans and rural rental housing loans.

During the fiscal year, 1972 there will be a considerable increase in the overall funding of the Farmers Home Administration program in Nebraska, according to State Director Kenneth L. Bowen.

He said that $10 million has been allotted for rural housing loans, a slight increase over last year. Also, farm ownership loans will be at the $14,500,000 level, an increase of $5,500,000 over last year.

Anybody wishing information about the FHA programs should contact Ostendorf at the FHA office at 112 W. Second St. in Wayne.

'Be Sure Insurance Covers Completely'

Most homeowners are happy to hear that their homes are growing in value each year—but, at the same time, this creates for them an insurance problem that is growing worse each year.

"Insurance coverage purchased 10 or even five years ago might have seemed more than adequate then," says Stephen P. Janco of CNA/Insurance.

"But in today's market, the same amount of cash would not replace more than a fraction of your home."

One new development offering some protection from this hazard is the new inflation-guard endorsement to the homeowners policy.

It provides a graduated increase in coverage, ranging from one per cent on the date the policy has been in effect three months, up to 12 per cent after 33 months.

Another new trend in homeowners' insurance gives the policyholder a chance to upgrade his coverage more frequently.

Walls Important to Interior of Home

Whether they're in a new home, an addition or a remodeling project, the walls of a room are influential elements in establishing a decorating motif.

People notice walls first since they form the background for the room and its furnishings. Wall treatment, as a result, is extremely important to the success of a room.

According to a design engineer with a large interior furnishings company, a homemaker or decorator must first design space in terms of the individual needs and interests of those who will use the room.

"She must then see that the surfaces which enclose this space reflect a central design concept and also complement and coordinate the needs and interests of the family."

Depending upon the design of the room, walls can be painted, papered, tiled or paneled in a variety of colors, textures or wood grains. The choice and type of material selected will directly affect the cost and maintenance of the room.

Familiar solutions to many remodeling projects have been paint and paper. Today, however, the demand for distinction and individuality in wall treatments invites the use of more textured and/or wood grained surfaces.

Paneling of durable, low maintenance, high fidelity woodgrained and textured surfaces in a variety of colors and tones has put an infinite selection of wall treatments within the budget of most families.

Prefinished hardboard paneling is available in rough sawn, marble-textured, "pecky," planked, random grooved and antiqued surfaces to meet every design need.

As the primary element in room design, walls tie the room together. They visually unify the space.

Decoration Isn't Costly

It doesn't take large expenditures of money or work to make the front of a home look distinctive and pleasing. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Farrans at 110 South Pearl in Wayne is a good example of what can be done without too much effort or expense to improve the looks of a home. The front of their house, which they have lived in for a number of years, features a bricked flower planter, wrought iron decorative chair and planter and another area for flowers and small shrubs. The wrought iron decorations and the flower areas stand off well against the green with white trim house.
