Tom Teaches Son 'Art of Survival'

by Betty Kavanagh

Old Tom Turkey will be strutting proudly and fanning his long, white tail feathers on Thanksgiving Day.

That is, the old Tom who lives on the Walter Jager farm east of Wayne.

He will probably ruffle his feathers and gobble jubilantly with no idea that he could have been the traditional meat served for dinner.

The wild turkeys brought by the Indians on the first Thanksgiving Day are usually pictured to be brown but they could have been white like old Tom.

He is believed to be a descendant of the White Holland Turkey which is thought to be of true American origin.

Old Tom has been a member of the Jager livestock family for four years. In his prime he weighed over 55 pounds. But he has won the hearts rather than the appetites of the Jager family.

'Rules the Roost'

"Old Tom really rules the roost around here," says Mrs. Jager.
"In fact, he sometimes acts like he should be getting a Social Security check or something."

Old Tom contracted a disease about a year ago and was sick for a long time. He lost a lot of weight during his illness but with the faithful, tender care from nine-year-old Huck (Hugh) Jager, he regained most of it.

Several years ago, the Jagers' oldest son, David, decided he would raise some turkeys.
And Mrs. Jager gave the usual mother's unneeded protests.

Like every mother, she knew when the children grew up most of the pets would be her responsibilities.

The Jagers have four sons:
David and Tom, who are graduates of the University of Nebraska
School of Technical Agriculture, Curtis, and Gregg, who is a student there. "Huck," who was named after a luckberry flour, is a fourth-grade student at District 23.

Mrs. Jager says at first the boys did most of the routine work for the turkeys but now
"Huck" does most of it.

"But then," she says, "we have only six turkeys this year."

She says the turkeys weren't as hard to raise as she had anticipated. The baby turkeys require a lot of care and a special feed

SO LONG, BUDDY — Hugh (Huck) Jager, nine-year-old son of M. Jager, three miles north and four miles west of Wayne, appears in the foreground to old "Tom," the senior member of the Jagers' turkey clan. Age is considered too old and tough to provide the main Thanksgiving table to be safe for another year on the Jager farm — one of the other four which is not so bright.

according to Mrs. Jager. Then she lets them more or less free for themselves around the farmyard.

Mrs. Jager has to oversee the care of several farm animals.
her husband lovingly refers to as "Fle Mac" and her critter
as "Fle Mac."

Mrs. Jager recalls last summer when old Tom faithfully guarded his mate, "Betty," while she was setting on her eggs.

"Betty and old Tom are the same age and have been real companions," she recalls. "When Betty was setting on her nest in the crib old Tom never left her side except to get a drink of water or a bite to eat now and then. And if anyone or anything came near her, old Tom would make a terrible noise and try to flog them."

According to some turkey growers, this is quite rare. Usually the Tom will only guard the eggs if he is afraid that he will lose them.

"We weren't sure it was the same thing that old Tom has,"
said Mrs. Jager, "and we were afraid to eat him."

So another young turkey weighing about 38 pounds was selected for the family feast.

Perhaps young Tom really does
have an ailment and perhaps it is an inherited asset. But whatever it is, it has kept him out of the rooster several times.

And the closer Thanksgiving Day gets again this year, the worse old Tom and young Tom
will be.

Perhaps this is one case where
"father" has truly taught "son"
the art of survival.

'Reprieve'

Last year shortly before Christmas the Jagers were planning a large family dinner and decided to have "old Tom" for the main course. He was so fat that he could hardly walk and he had a terrible limp.

"We weren't sure it was the same thing that old Tom has,"
said Mrs. Jager, "and we were afraid to eat him."

So another young turkey weighing about 38 pounds was selected
for the family feast.

Perhaps young Tom really does
have an ailment and perhaps it is an inherited asset. But whatever it is, it has kept him out
of the rooster several times.

And the closer Thanksgiving
Day gets again this year, the worse old Tom and young Tom
will be.

Perhaps this is one case where
"father" has truly taught "son"
the art of survival.

Dec. 14 Hearing On Concord's New Landfill

A public hearing will be held Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 2 p.m. at the Dixon County courthouse at Ponca on Concord's application for a new sanitary landfill.

The new landfill, according to Village Mayor Arthur Brunns, will be located on the Bud Hanson farm, a half-mile east of Concord.

The plan is to lease about three acres of ground. The contract for digging of the trench has not as yet been let.

The Village of Concord applied some time ago for state funds to replace the old city dump with the sanitary landfill.

South Sioux Businessman Is Candidate For Legislative Post in 17th District

J.R. (Bob) Murphy of South
Sioux City announced Wednesday
he would seek the seat in the Nebraska Legislature from the 17th district of Dakota, Dixon, and Wayne Counties.

Murphy, 53, a South Sioux businessman, becomes the second announced candidate. Mrs. Huley Schmiedeke of Dakota City, announced last month.

Murphy feels too much government is centered in Washington and should be returned to its respective local levels. He said he would oppose legislation which would further erode the locality and county authority and would extend his efforts to reverse the past trend of centralization of government.

"All levels of government are in the worst of financial situations," he said.

Murphy serves as president of the So. So. Development Corporation which has been instrumental in assisting business and industry in locating in Dakota County. He is a director of the Atokad Agriculture Association,
a member of the Dakota County Agricultural Society which sponsors the annual Dakota-Thurston County Fair, and is a member of the newly-formed board of directors of St. Vincent's Hospital in Sioux City.

He was honored by the Dakota County Board of Relations with that organization's "Best Citizen" award for his contributions to civil organizations.

He and his wife, Bess, reside at 110 E. 37th, South Sioux. Their sons, Kim and Brian, both attend college.

Murphy's only previous attempt at public office came in 1968 when he advanced from a field of four in the primary to a berth in the general election.
He lost to the incumbent, Senator Elmer Wallwey, who has announced he will not seek re-election.

Mr. Murphy indicated an awareness of the need to strengthen the role of state colleges in Nebraska's educational system, in order to better serve the needs of the students, the area and the taxpayer. "Elimination of the inequities of the state's financial support of the college student vs. the university student is essential to the structure of the entire system," he said.

Health, Phys Ed, Recreation Group Picks Kearney Man As New Prexy

Dr. Merwin Hoeder of Kearney
State College took over as president of the Nebraska Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation as the organization met in state convention Friday and Saturday at Wayne State College.

Three other officers who were elected a year ago as vice-presidents-elect were Dr. Stan Brasie of Concordia College, in the recreation field; Sonia Green of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, in physical education, and Betty Fikar of Lincoln, in health.

The 150 teachers and 100 college students attending elected Diane Skranstad of Hastings as secretary and Donna Neal of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln

as treasurer, effective immediately.

Also chosen as officers-elect were Dorothy High, Scottsbluff, president; Richard Johnson,
Kearney, vice-president-health;
Gary Duranski, Corning, vice-president-physical education, and Miss G. I. Willoughby, Wayne
State, vice-president-recreation.

They are scheduled to move up a year hence.

Reeling President Jackie Wedemeyer of Scottsbluff received an honor award for her contributions to NAHPER.

Feature speaker at the Friday banquet was Dr. Helen Slocum of the University of Minnesota.
Her topic: "Change Agents in Physical Education."

Chamber Boosts Medical Center

A resolution was adopted by the Board of Directors of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce recently in regular session.

Whereas: Wayne and the Wayne area has a need for a modern medical center; and

Whereas: A modern medical center is, in itself, a new industry,
and;

Whereas: Modern medical facilities are a prime requirement for obtaining new industry; and

Whereas: A new medical center will continue substantially to the economic climate of the Wayne area;

Be it therefore resolved, that:

The Board of Directors of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce go on record as supporting the efforts of the Wayne Hospital Foundation in establishing a modern medical center for Wayne and the Wayne area.

Propose Several Solutions To Curb Liquor Violations

Police Chief Vern Fairchild and several members of the Wayne City Council met with those persons dealing in the sale of alcoholic liquor Tuesday morning at the National Guard Armory,

The meeting was called by Chief Fairchild at the request of the City Council to discuss problems dealing with liquor violations, especially among minors, and conduct by those violators on the streets.

The meeting brought out proposals of self-policing by proprietors, keeping of a "minor book," stiffer penalties for those found to be in violation and an agreement by Chief Fairchild to place a foot patrolman on a beat in the business section to help in avoiding a conduct and drinking-on-the-street problem.

Fairchild's spokesmen for the Council, said, "we are going to seek stiffer penalties for violators and, in the case of those businesses apparently unable to control the problem in their places of business, a serious re-evaluation of those licenses before renewal."

Discontinue Glass Drive Until Spring

The Environmental Action Committee said that the monthly glass drive will be discontinued
during the winter months.

Everyone has been asked to save their glass until next spring, when the drive will begin again.

Tree Lighting Set December 2

President William J. Brandenburg of Wayne State College will officially open the Thursday, Dec.
2, tree lighting ceremony which takes place annually at the Willow Bowl. The ceremony, open to the public, is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Wayne State Faculty Wives and Faculty Women sponsor the program.

Master of ceremonies will be Dr. Bob Johnson and song leader will be Mrs. Connie Weber.
Special music will be provided by students representing various dorms and by a newly formed group of campus singers called the Joy Folk.

Of course, Santa Claus will be around, also, with candy canes for the youngsters.

Refreshments will be served at Terrace Hall immediately following singing.

Dixon Ready to Hook Up to Sewer System

Laying of pipe for the Village of Dixon Sewer System was completed Monday afternoon and patrons will be able to start hooking up to the sewer main as soon as the final approval is given by government inspectors.

The $62,000 project, started the past summer, is to be financed through federal and state grants, a Farmers Home Administration (FHA) loan and with United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) funds, with partial funding of the lag and outfall line by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The hookup cost, from the homes and businesses to the sewer mains, must be borne by the property owner.

Residents have several choices for those items available to the trenching work. The property owner, himself, may do the dirt work required for hookup, but all hookups must conform to FHA and village specifications.

Patrons have been asked to leave a filled-out questionnaire, sent to them through the mails,
at either the post office or John Young's service station, indicating their plans in who will do the trenching work.

Christensen Construction of Pender is the general contractor for the job completed Monday.

What's Cooking?

FROSTED APRICOT SQUARES

Makes 16 squares

Filling: 1 1/2 cups chopped dried apricots, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup water. 1/2 cup butter or margarine, One 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons water, 1 1/2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked.

Dough: 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar. For filling, combine apricots, sugar, salt, ginger and water in saucepan. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes, stirring occasionally until thick. Cool to room temperature. For dough, beat together brown sugar, butter and cream cheese just until smooth. Add flour; mix until just blended. Stir in water and oats. For base, evenly spread half of dough into a greased 8-inch square baking pan; chill. Chill remaining dough, then roll out between 2 pieces of waxed paper to form a 6-inch square. Spread filling over base. Remove waxed paper from one side of remaining dough. Place dough over filling; remove top piece of waxed paper. Gently press edges of dough together to seal in the filling. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350° F.) for about 30 minutes. Cool. Cut into squares. Frost with confectioners sugar frosting.

Saturday Showers Honor Bride-elect

Two bridal showers were held in Wakefield Saturday honoring Pamela Anderson, bride-elect of Michael Decker. Miss Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson, Wakefield, and Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Del Decker, Wallace, will be married at the Wakefield Covenant Church Nov. 27.

The shower held Saturday afternoon was in the Mrs. Lawrence Nelson home. Twenty-one guests were present. Game prizes were presented by the honoree and Karen Kamman, Orling Hanna, and Jodi Anderson, Wakefield, assisted with gifts.

Hostesses were Mrs. Alvern Anderson, Mrs. Lawrence Nelson, and Mrs. Harold Anderson, all of Wakefield.

Thirty guests attended the courtesy that evening at Evangelical Covenant Church parlors. Mrs. Marvin Felt conducted a "This is Your Life" program which was presented by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Norman Anderson; her godmother, Mrs. Joe Anderson; Mrs. Myron Olson; Vicki Carlson, Carol Mills and Gail Gray. Mrs. Fred Johnson presented devotions and Mrs. Marvin Felt played a piano solo. The bride-elect explained how she met her fiancé, Mrs. Malcolm Jensen, Emerson, sang "Perfect Love," accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Felt, and Mrs. Levi Helgen gave, "A House or a Home."

The group sang "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us," accompanied by Mrs. Felt. Mrs. Norman Anderson and Gail Gray assisted

Library Hour Is Thursday at Center

Thirteen Wayne Senior Citizens were at the center Thursday afternoon for the library hour conducted by assistant librarian at the Wayne Public Library. Mrs. Millie Pfleger, Mrs. Helger gave a brief resume of "The Night They Burned the Mountain," "I've Only Got Two Hands and I'm Busy Wringing Them," "Wheels for Ginn's Charlot," "The Phantom Palomino," "The Family Conspiracy," "Miss Wilness," "A Story for Henry," "Fleanor Roosevelt," "The Doctor's Confession," "America and Americans," "America's Knitting Book," and "The Yankee Cook Book." These books may be checked out from the center for one month, and be returned to the center or to the Public Library. Next library hour will be at 2 p.m. Dec. 16. The Rev. G. W. Gottberg from St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Windsor, presented the sermonette, "Death is Not Dying; It is Victory," at the center Friday afternoon. Twenty-one were present. Mrs. Hazel Smith accompanied group singing. Cake was provided by Glen Sumner and cookies by Charlene Frances.

Afternoon guests were the Paul family and Delbert Noltes of Norfolk.

Students Present Six One-Act Plays

An effective combination of much fresh talent, veteran thespians and hard work went into the production of two separate showings of one-act plays held Saturday through Monday at WSC Ramsey Theatre. The six plays were directed by senior theatre students.

'Footsteps of Doves'

"I Hear the Footsteps of Doves," directed by Shirley Smith of Laurel, led off the tri-production Saturday and Sunday evening. The sketch taken from "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," is a funny, funny episode which could have been taken from the everyday life of nearly any middle-aged couple. George, played by John Pigg, and his wife Harriet, played by Lisa Allen, are shopping for a bed-George for another double life they have taken in all their married life, and Harriet for a single so she can get some sleep at last. The debate is finally settled when George encounters an alluring young divorcee, Jill, portrayed by Linda Johnson. Jill is window shopping for a nice, old-fashioned double bed which would keep a couple together, and possibly for someone to share it with as well. The cast is rounded out by Dave Kekel who plays the overly-anxious salesman with whom we are all familiar.

All the players seemed remarkably well adapted to their parts, though more hysteria, particularly on Harriet's part, during the couple's discourse, might have been in order to keep the longer speeches from suggesting recitation.

'The Claw'

Number two on the bill was "The Claw," directed by Dwight Meyerlink. Pierre, portrayed by Ron Llenemann, is a man in his thirties, and Rose, played by Mary Harrison, is his young wife of two years. Making his home with the couple is Pierre's father, Jean Marie, portrayed by Gary Danber. Jean Marie is a paralyzed mute who knows of Rose's infidelity but is unable to relate the information to his son.

The cast also contains Emile, a hired hand played by Mike Hamm, and the handsome lover Etienne, played by Mark Porter. In a quickly moving story, Emile discovers some dangerous broken steps leading to the deep cellars beneath the home and Rose sees her opportunity to be rid of her dull husband. Jean Marie attempts to warn his son, but to no avail, and as

'Apollo of Bellac'

"Apollo of Bellac," directed by Ken Grafis, which concluded the first trio of one-acts, was an exceedingly well-cast comedy with Barbara Michael as heroine. Agnes, Ron Rieker as The Man; Mike Caruthers, Clerk; Joe Fresquez, Vice-President; Albert Kirtley, President; Barbara Ryan, Cheveredent; Donna Henik, Therese; Dave Cunningham, Lepedura; Lynn Johnson, Cracheten; Dwight Meyerlink, Schultz; Tom Brunner, Sassenutte, and Mark Hamm, Chairman. "Apollo" tells the story of a shy young girl who discovers that the secret of success in man's world, is to tell each man she meets how handsome he is. It is a simple plot, with its main charm coming from the humorous references to man's vanity, and a woman's ability or inability to deal with it. Especially worthy of note were the performances of Miss Michael, who managed not to come across too sweetly; Ron Rieker, good as usual in a character role; Caruthers, who is a beautiful, studly personage; and Mark Hamm, a complete success, as stand-in viewers have come to expect, in his part as a crotchety bachelor.

'Suppressed Desires'

Joe Dashiell was director of "Suppressed Desires," the first of the three comedies on the Saturday-afternoon and Monday night bill at Ramsey. "Suppressed Desires" is a clever take-off on the problems created for husband and sister by a sophisticated young socialite's obsession with psychoanalysis. Larry Fletcher, who plays Stephen Brewster, and Cindy Cook, who portrays Mabel, do a fine job, but are completely overshadowed by the brilliant performance of Maggee Harth as Henrietta. In a hilarious scene at the WSC stage, Miss Harth comes on like a pro. Though at times she may have tottered too long at an emotional high, her performance can only be called superb.

'Visitor from Mamaroneck'

In as nearly professional an exposition as is usually seen on the WSC stage, a small cast of four, directed by Charlene Hevle, brought the audience to a standing ovation at the conclusion of "Visitor From Mamaroneck," taken from "Plaza Suite."

'Crawling Arnold'

"Crawling Arnold," directed by Lynn Johnson, had a tough row to hoe, as they say, following Hesper's rousing show, and perhaps would have been seen prior to such emotionally stirring comedy. A couple in their 70's, Barry, portrayed by Ed Havlovik, and Grace, played by Teri O'Donnell, are the parents of Arnold, who is 35, and little Will, about two years old. Through most of the play, the audience, along with social worker, Miss Sympathy, played by Sherri Skilton, tries to figure out why in the devil Arnold crawls on the floor, eats lollypops, pouts and colors in his color book. It couldn't really be regression as his parents seem to believe. A clue emerges when it comes to light that Arnold's parents have provided him regularly with social workers who are willing to go to bed with him in order to restore his faith in himself. Strange how costuming can be so important in presenting a character's image, but Grace and Barry simply did not seem to be active, involved, young-looking, the type that would belong to an athletic club or be written up in Better Homes and Gardens, be wealthy enough to install an elaborate fallout shelter, let alone be able to consider building two. Grace and Barry looked old. They looked dowdy. Their home looked dowdy. It would also have been interesting to have seen Barry played not in "slapstick comedy," but straight, letting him be funny just in himself, without the affected, though amusing, antics. Also in the cast was Carol Olson as Millie, a colored maid, who was good in her brief appearance, if a bit over enthusiastic. Incidentally her makeup and costuming were perfect. In all, this season's one-act plays were in a class that straight, and an excellent quality entertainment for those who cared to find out.

Wayne State Wrestlers Into Action on Saturday

Wayne State wrestlers will go into action Saturday, and an 18-year-old recent years it will be a tough debut. They will travel to Manhattan, Kan., to grapple first with Kansas State University, then with South Dakota State after a few minutes' rest.

The Wildcats have a new coach, Bob Kruse, former Wayne State wrestling All-American who is taking the place of Don Pate, on leave for doctoral study this year.

Kruse has five letters in returning, headed by junior Ken Monroe of Arlington Heights, Ill., one of the nation's best. As a freshman he won the NIAA national title at 167 pounds, then placed second last year, losing an overtime decision in the finals. That gave him a 20-3 record.

The other lettermen: Tom Luth, sophomore 158-

Orange Bowl Flight

LINCOLN—The University of Nebraska Alumni Association will operate charter air flights for N. U. Alumni to the Orange Bowl again this year.

George Bastian, executive vice-president of the association, said one flight will leave Lincoln Dec. 29 and return Jan. 3. Another will leave Dec. 30 and return Jan. 4. Alumni headquarters will be at the Galt Ocean Mile & Hilton Hotels in Fort Lauderdale.

The package consisting of air transportation, football tickets, hotel, parade tickets and transportation to and from the Orange Bowl will cost $29 per person.

Application with full payment for the flights are now being accepted by the Alumni Association at the Nebraska Union. Last year, the Association flights accommodated 548 people.

All-Star Team Includes Five Allen Gridders

Five Allen High football players have been named to the all-star team of the Lewis Division of the Lewis and Clark Conference.

Eagles honored were Guard Jerry Gelger and Fullback John Warner to the offensive team, and End Terry Noe and interior linemen Gary Lanser and Fred Moore to the defensive team.

The all-star teams are selected by the league coaches.

Coyotes, although confirmed meat eaters, sometimes lapse into fruit diets and eat persimmons, chokecherries, juniper berries or any other fruit that is available.

Honorable Mention

Kim Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylen-Jackson, received honorable mention in the all-tournament team of the Nebraska and Volleyball Conference.

Awards were given at the finals of the conference met last week at Winslow.

WSC Cagers To Open Home Slate Saturday

Wayne State basketball fans will get a look at the 1971-72 Wildcats in their home debut Saturday night. South Dakota-Springfield is the opponent for the 7:30 clash in Rice Gym, following the junior varsity game at 5:30.

Wayne was scheduled to open the campaign Wednesday night against Northwestern College in Orange City, Iowa.

Wayne's junior varsity, coached by Rich McGill, has a 19-game schedule that might well be as demanding as the varsity's. The Braves have two games each with Creighton, UN-Omaha and Kearney, for example. They also are matched against a tuberville quint which has several grads from Wayne State's recent championship teams.

Allen's Depot Thing of Past

A bulldozer and razing fire last week in Allen erased the last sign of the Allen Railroad Depot, the site of much activity during the days when the passenger train was the main mode of long distance travel.

With the diminishing need for rail service, depots along the Burlington Northern have been replaced with mobile units in the past several years. Allen's last agent, Bill Kier, serves in such a unit located east of Osmond.

Chats with Ambassador

Speaking with Val Peterson (right), American ambassador to Finland, at a fund-raising dinner recently by Southwestern Michigan College Foundation, is a former Wayne resident, Mrs. Russell Owen, wife of SMC President Russell "Mac" Owen. The Owens lived in Wayne from 1958 to 1966 while Dr. Owen served as Dean of Administration at Wayne State College. As president of the Wayne State College Foundation, Peterson urged the 150 persons attending the dinner to give their support to the fledgling foundation at SMC. While visiting the Southwestern Michigan College, Peterson also spoke to the student body and met with area school superintendents and principals, upholding in his talks President Nixon's doctrine that we should lessen this country's commitment abroad, proceeding at a reasonable pace.

Ski Lift Tower Installed

The $1 million Devils Nest Winter Sports Complex is fast taking shape with the installation last week of the tower for the first major ski lift.

The electrically-driven double chair lift will have 127 chairs with a carrying capacity of over 1,000 skiers per hour.

The 90 new snow-making machines capable of producing over four inches of snow on an acre overnight during freezing temperatures will assure sking at Devils Nest throughout this winter.

Devils Nest will provide challenging runs for skiers of all skills, utilizing 14 ski trails up to nearly a full mile in length with a 400-foot vertical drop. For the less daring, there will be a beginner's slope, carefully groomed for 600 feet of easy, level learning.

There will be complete rental facilities for skis, boots and poles. At the base of the hill, there will be a ski barn with open hearth fireplace, snack bar and a ski accessory shop. The slopes will be patrolled at all times by members of the National Ski Patrol System.

An old-fashioned skating pond and skates also will be available.

Arne Martinsson and his wife, Joan, are the Devils Nest ski directors. They will head up the certified ski school with group and individual lesson programs, teaching the latest in ski techniques.

Arne is originally from Norway and came to the United States at the invitation of Stein Erikson to teach skiing in Aspen, Colo. He has 13 years racing experience and is an expert in the American technique.

POLLUTION IS A MENACE TO ALL AMERICANS ...
NOT JUST THOSE IN THE "WRONG" NEIGHBORHOODS

Out of sight, out of mind. Perhaps ugly scenes like this are never viewed by most of us but they do exist. They are a menace, not just to those who live or work in the vicinity of polluted areas, but to all of us. You can't isolate something like pollution . . . it spreads its insidious filth through every level of society, contaminating our air, water, and land today and threatening disastrous consequences for generations to come. We must all mobilize against the elements that contribute to pollution — beginning with the empty beer can tossed out of a car window, to the conditions that permit rat-infested slum areas. Our environment is a precious heritage . . . let's preserve it for ourselves and for future Americans!

Red-Cross Bloodmobile to Visit WSC Patrol Cars to Have Variety of Colors

WSC Student Senator Terry Schmidt from Bowen Hall will be in charge of this year's Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to the college campus. Stationed at the Student Union Birch room, the Bloodmobile will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 5.

The visit this year is being sponsored by the WSC Student Senate and Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. Again this year a contest is being conducted between dormitories and college organizations to see which will have the highest percentage of members on the donor list. Pile Hall and Delta Sigma Pi business fraternities came out on top during the Bloodmobile's last visit.

Those wishing to donate blood must be between the ages of 18 and 65, and if under 20 years of age, must have parental consent. Faculty and staff members are also eligible.

Persons interested in becoming donors should contact dormitory representatives for application and information forms.

The Governor's Highway Safety Committee, which is involved in "Operation Concern," has been advised of a major change in the color of the Nebraska State Patrol's vehicles.

Col. James E. Kruger announced that, effectively immediately, all new vehicles will be purchased in a variety of colors. The Patrol commander advised, those vehicles used primarily for traffic enforcement will continue to display red lights as well as the usual markings now on their present fleet.

Nebraska's first pheasant season was held in 1927, and an estimated 5,000 ringnecks were harvested.

Mission Festival Services Held

Mrs. Hans Asmus, Phone 565-4412

Annual Mission Festival services of Peace United Church of Christ were held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21, at the Rev. Roger Kiehl, associate conference minister of the Nebraska Conference of the United Church of Christ, gave the sermon. The church choir sang the anthem, "Come Ye Thankful for the Bread of Life." Mrs. Andrew Andersen was accompanist and Geri Benton, choir director.

Pastor Clifford F. Weideman gave the invocation and read Scripture and led in prayer.

The Prelude was an organ and piano duet by Mrs. Herman Martner and Mrs. Andrew Andersen.

A covered dinner was served following the morning worship services. Mrs. Dennis Puls was chairman, assisted by Mrs. Reuben Puls, Mrs. Evelyn Krause, Mrs. Nell McClary and Mrs. Walter Strate.

Car Breakin Try Reported To City Police

Two minor accidents and an attempted breakin were listed on the "light" police docket for early this week.

Sarah Stabens of 1202 Main reported to City Police that an attempt was made to break into her car Monday, but entry apparently was not gained.

A pickup, driven by Alvin Temme, Rural Route, Wayne, backed into a car which was driven by Twila Claybaugh of DeKalb, Ill. Temme was backing from a parking stall and hit the right rear of the Claybaugh vehicle, which was waiting for a traffic light to change in a Monday morning mishap at Third and Main.

Michael Peterson of Norfolk reported to police that an unknown driver hit his parked car at Fourth and Main Sunday.

Skylab Project Open To All Prep Students

High school students throughout Nebraska have been invited to propose experiments for use aboard Skylab the U.S. manned space laboratory scheduled for flight early in 1973.

Nebraska students, as well as high school students from any U.S. public private, parochial, U.S. overseas school are eligible to submit proposals for the project, which is being co-sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The project, designed to stimulate interest in science and technology by directly involving students in space research, calls for student experiment proposals to be submitted no later than Feb. 4, 1972.

Nebraska students interested in entering the project should ask their teacher to request an official entry form, rules, booklet, and sample proposals from the National Science Teachers Association, 1201 S. 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Students are asked to describe 7,000 words and should describe the proposed space experiment in accordance with the Skylab Student Project Rules Booklet.

The NSTA has divided the nation into 12 regions for the project, each with its own chairman. Nebraska is in region 11 along with Alaska, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, and Wyoming. Chairman for region 11 is Dr. James R. Walters, Professor of Science Education at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Students are invited to submit experiment proposals, within the guidelines established by NSTA and the NASA, in the areas of crew recreation and other aspects of living in weightlessness as well as scientific areas of interest.

Activities proposed by students will be judged on a regional basis and up to 10 per cent of entrants in each region will be selected as regional winners by local committees. All regional winners will be judged by a national committee and 25 will be chosen from these as suitable for flight.

NAST will make the final decision of those experiments to be flown from the 25 national winners. The names of the winning students will be announced in April of 1972.

The 25 national winners and their teachers will be invited to attend, with expenses paid, the Skylab Educational Conference and the presentation of awards to be held at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida. The Skylab Educational Conference will be held at the time of the launch of Skylab.

Way Back When

Long-Awaited Showdown

Face it, Mom, you're not going to budge Dad out of that easy chair in front of the TV set Thanksgiving Day—not even if you're late with a sumptuous meal that includes—Tom, Turkey and—all the trimmings.

If he's even no more than a lukewarm football fan, he's going to be settled early for the long-awaited showdown between the Nebraska Cornhuskers and the Oklahoma Sooners.

The Bob Devaneymen were national champions last year and have led the polls throughout the 1971 season. Oklahoma knows that when "you're No. 2 you have to try harder" and it is reported that the fever pitch has reached unequalled proportions in the Oklahoma City-Norman area for "shelling the Cornhuskers."

Seldom before have the two top-rated teams met on national television other than in post-season bowl appearances and never before has the Big Eight taken over the No. 1 and 2 positions in all of the major polls.

Movie playwrights couldn't have written a better script.

The Sooners, along with some of the two teams' common foes in the league, think the Okies deserve the top rank. The Huskers have different ideas.

So now the time for talk as to comparison of the two teams' power and the evaluation of Oklahoma's explosive offense against Nebraska's seemingly formidable defense is over. The time of truth has arrived.

Come on, No. 1!

Count Your Blessings

On the eve of another Thanksgiving, this may be the time to sit down and meditate—the countless blessings that "someone up there" has so generously bestowed upon us.

We'd bet that the assets far outnumber those on the debit side.

Sometimes those blessings may, through the maze of seemingly endless hardships, many of which prove to be actually trivial, oftentimes be taken for granted.

A country which has freedom of speech, freedom of religion, the right to travel anywhere in this United States unhindered and without the need of identification papers, the right to criticize leaders without fear of reprisal, the selection of government officials through a democratic method—none of this "just happened."

We aren't absurd enough to think or try to make anyone believe that this country is without its "ills." We have known of corruption and waste in government, an ever-increasing crime rate, protests that have turned from peaceful demonstrations into violent riots and an alarming drug problem.

Absolute perfection in everything the U. S. is not, but No. 2 is a heck of a long ways behind us.

We are thankful for so many things, but seldom take time to give thanks. Sharing top billing probably would be good health, a mate who has stuck by through thick and thin for over a quarter-century and for two children, one adopted, who gave us no more headaches than the average offspring.

When you hate rolling out of that warm bed in the morning to head into another day of work, consider those who have no job to go to—and suddenly the thought of work turns from drudgery to pleasure.

We're thankful for congenial, conscientious, cooperative and dedicated fellow workers, who helped "break in" a new editor.

How many times have you thought to be thankful for that morning sun, the evening sunset and all of the glorious hours in between?

We're thankful that we can breathe in fresh, uncontaminated, unpolluted air, unlike cities where industries' smokestacks belch black smoke over entire metropolitan areas and thousands of vehicles on over-crowded traffic arteries spew fumes into an already, gasping populace.

And, we have marveled, through trips into all 48 states in the continental U. S., plus journeys into Canada and Mexico, the wonders of nature, architecture that makes man's efforts so inferior to his companion.

We are thankful for the beauties of the many species of wild animals and birds, the "technicolor" provided by trees in the fall, the cleansing power of a newly-fallen blanket of snow and for the privilege of watching—the mystery of the plant and crop growth from a mere small seed.

There are countless other everyday things for which we are thankful.

We hope that never again will we take them for granted.

Capital News — 13 Per Cent State Tax Rate Likely to Change

LINCOLN—Now Nebraskans know what their state tax rates are going to be next year.

Or do they? Probably not.

The State Board of Equalization has set the rates—2½ per cent on sales, 13 per cent on personal income and 2.6 per cent on corporate income.

Only the sales tax rate is likely to be the actual rate during the coming calendar year. That's also the only one which isn't changed from the present year.

Since the state income tax is paid by individuals as a percentage of their liability to the federal government, the amount of money the state collects is affected by changes in the federal income tax system.

And congress has been considering a variety of plans—all of which would reduce personal income taxes.

So the 13 per cent state rate set by the equalization board Nov. 15—the statutory deadline for establishing the levels—is liable to change.

There was no sense in setting one rate and then having to change it later when that might not be necessary, they said. Since the statutes give the board until Nov. 15 to set the rates, the Republicans said they ought to wait.

Exon and the fifth board member, Tax Commissioner William E. Peters, said there was nothing to be gained by waiting. They said they had been assured congress wouldn't finish with the tax bills before the Nebraska deadline.

But the vote was 3-2 and a second rate-setting session was scheduled for Nov. 3.

The possibility—in fact, the probability—of congressional changes caused some fireworks between Gov. James J. Exon and the Republican members of the board.

Exon wanted to have the rates set at 2½ and 13 Oct. 8, and he convened the board for that purpose. At that point, the U. S. House had passed its version of the tax reform legislation and the Senate was considering its bills.

The three GOP board members—Secretary of State Allen J. Beerhmann, Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson and Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson—argued that it was better to wait awhile and see what congress might do.

Exon wanted to have the rates set at 2½ and 13 Oct. 8, and he convened the board for that purpose. At that point, the U. S. House had passed its version of the tax reform legislation and the Senate was considering its bills.

The three GOP board members—Secretary of State Allen J. Beerhmann, Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson and Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson—argued that it predicted congress would be finished, but they thought the board's options shouldn't be shut off prematurely.

In the interim before the final meeting, Exon had accused the secretary of state, auditor and treasurer of playing politics by frustrating his attempts to set the rates earlier. Peters, a Democrat appointed by Exon, issued a press release referring to the stubborn Republicans.

That led Beerhmann to read into the record at the Nov. 15 meeting what he called a "Tax Truth Manifesto," which called the statements by the governor and tax commissioner "unfortunate political attacks" which had the effect of "shattering public confidence."

Referring to their votes to delay action until the last minute, the GOP members said it is "the rightful expectation of every Nebraska citizen" that the rates should be set "on the basis of indisputable facts—the most accurate information available—and not on any political or economic considerations which might have the effect of misloading the taxpayers."

Replied the governor: "You are entitled to your individual and collective opinion."

Rate Set by Law

The corporate rate is, by law, 20 per cent of the individual rate. At 13 per cent for personal income, the corporations would pay 2.6 per cent. While the individual taxes are a percentage of what is owed Uncle Sam, the corporations pay a percentage of their earnings. That's why the percentage figures are so different.

If congress reduces the base on which the state taxes are figured, it will mean the state will have to increase its percentage just to get the same amount of revenue for its treasury.

For example: an individual whose federal income tax bill is $7,000 would owe the state $910—the 13 per cent figure. If the tax reform legislation under consideration in Washington reduces that federal liability to $950 on the same income, the state would receive $123.50—or $6.50 less.

But the state still would need $130 from that individual to provide the revenue for the appropriations already approved by the Legislature. The state cannot, as the federal government can, go into debt, so its taxes must provide all the money to be spent in each period.

That would mean the state's percentage rate would have to be higher. For example, a 14 per cent state rate would bring in $130 on a $950 federal tax bill. That's almost the same as the 13%

these baits over a period of days before they die. The general rat population is alarmed and continues to eat the poison bait until the area is free of rats. This type of bait is also safe to use around farm animals. If they eat baits they will show symptoms long enough before death to give them the antidote, Vitamin K.

Place these baits in protective bait stations to keep them clean and dry until rats eat them. Check these stations each day and replenish them as needed. If rats ignore the stations, move them around until they are in the right places to attract the rats.

When the baits stop disappearing, it means the farm rats are dead. Then start the second step. Clean up the ink accumulated over many years of farming. Put boards, planks and fence posts on platforms 18 inches off the ground. Mow and remove weeds next to buildings. Treat that area with a soil-sterilizing agent.

There are three steps to rat control on the farm. First, put out anti-coagulant baits such as warfarin, fumonil, pival, or diphacinone. These poisons are slow killers. Rats and mice must eat weed killer. The third step is to rat-proof cribs, bins and granaries. Use smooth metal or hardware cloth. Make it hard for a rat to find food except in the bait stations where there is clean, dry attractive poison baits.

Heating Cable Solves Problems

More and more Nebraskans are using heating cable to lessen winter's icy grip. And now being freeze-up is a good time to consider heating cable's many applications. Farmers are using heating cable in farrowing houses, milking parlors, farm shops, for melting ice around livestock waterers and for melting snow, especially in driveways. Some home owners have installed heating cable in basement floors to keep them warm.

Heating cable installations are measured in wattages per square foot. For melting ice, the requirement is 50 watts per square foot. Farrowing houses require about 40 watts per square foot while a basement floor may need only 10 watts per square foot.

You can install heating cables either in or below the concrete. Control of the heating cable with thermostats where heating concrete slabs or by time clocks or on-off switches where you're melting ice off slabs.

THOSE HUNTERS NEVER PAID ATTENTION TO THOSE PLAIN OL' "NO HUNTING" SIGNS.

go to the foot of the class. You as a beef raiser were creamed. Last February.

Last week I asked you to obtain the April issue of "The American School Board Journal." Notice the center four pages. Supplied by Archer-Daniels-Midland Company of Decatur, Ill. The DMC advertisement on page 21 reads "USDA approves the use of fortified combination with meat for Type A school lunches and other child feeding programs." No more, this message impressively and boldly printed at a 75-degree tilt.

Turn the page. A beautiful, beautiful photographic shot of a hamburger with mustard, tomato, onion, and a fleshy, foisted bun. The art work was creditably done by Dick Howe of Chicago under the instructions of Dave Frown. A full two-page insert on expensive glossy paper.

Read the large black print to the right side. "This is nothing wrong with meat that a little TVP can't cure."

Then in small white print: "Meat is beautiful, delicious, high in protein, scarce, and expensive."

TVP Brand

TVP brand (textured protein product) looks like meat. Can be flavored like meat. It's high in protein like meat. But it's plentiful, and just a fraction of the cost of meat.

Adding TVP is like adding more meat—better, in fact, because of its absorbent qualities. It's ideal for pizza, and for casseroles, sauces, sloppy joes, tamales, patties—any product that contains ground beef or pork. And ADM makes the widest range of seasonings, flavorings, colors, particle sizes and densities available.

TVP saves you money, and improves the taste, appearance, texture and nutrition of your product—whether fresh, frozen, or canned. In fact, TVP retains its texture—even after retorting.

Check into TVP. Call collect at 217-423-2571 or drop a line to Archer-Daniels-Midland Company, Decatur, Ill.

No Beef Ad

Mom, a Minneapolis ad-

tising agency paid $1,345 to run that Archer-Daniels destructive propaganda. Beef has never advertised.

Artificial soybean derivatives have been a 25-year flop on the commercial open market.

By phone I asked Dave Frown and the magazine sales manager, Hugh Morgan (phone 312-869-7730) the effects of this advertising.

The answers can be heard on tape.

"Unbelievable response to the ad," "Fantastic!", "we were always able to put extenders in meat—but the taste was bad, didn't look good," "not advisable except as an extender," "children cannot tell the difference," "needs natural mazzellules," "has an absorbent factor so it takes on the meat flavor," "Also, "The ad in the magazine and the school system acceptance by the USDA government gives the product respectability. All reviews are open. Potential is unlimited. repeat, "children cannot tell the difference."

The American School Board Journal is published by Harold V. Webb at Evanston, Ill. He also is executive director of the National School Boards Association, which is a federation of 50 state associations. Each state has two representatives who elect officers. Directors number 11—only four from the school boards—be law from cattle states. One is the elected association president, Dr. George E. Ewan, of Sheridan, Wyo., an orthodontist, and F. E. (Bud) Phillips of Fort Dodge, Iowa. The other two are Kenneth Fuhrmade of Scotia, N. Y., and Boardman W. Moore of Lafayette, Calif.

Moms, educators west of Joliet, Ill., will not deny that the majority of school operating and building income is derived from FICA and farm property tax. Property tax pays for all the buildings and some 75 per cent of operational and instructional expenses.

The Nutrition and Technical Research report sat on the desk of Under Secretary Ling, for over two months after being presented by the director of the School

Food Service—Herbert Rorex. The USDA set down specifications for "engineered" food proteins. "An extender—permissible to be calculated into the dietary nutritional requirements."

Meat served to a student is but two ounces per day, and can be frozen chicken, turkey, pork or beef—or come from five sources of other protein: two ounces of cheese, of dry beans, dry split peas, 21 ounces of peanut butter or an egg.

For the entire state of Iowa the federal government sent only 223,284 pounds of beef for the past school year.—Bledsoe Four and a half servings a year. However, some schools systems do buy locally.

No chain store or butcher shop in the USA can add "extenders" to ground beef without labeling or changing the product name. Why the schools?

tomor, but will they be trained the "School System" way?

I have several questions. Where were the dissenting voices of the cattle lobbyists who draw applause and a laudatory press in their association magazines? Maybe the same place they stood while allowing the Australian Importation Quota to be shifted to nations whose quotas was filled.

No Protestors

Where were the voices from school boards, from cattle country who should protect their future property tax incomes?

Are the administrators and advisors of the USDA tied into major commercial manufacturing corporation? Some ranchers say, artificial are no threat! Then why are Archer-Daniels, Staley, Ivalon Purina, Worthington, Central Soy, General Mills and Swift spending millions on research and development?

How can Clifford Hardin go from Secretary of Agriculture to chairman of Purina? And how can a Bureau director be nominated to replace him?

Sit back on the corral fence, my friends. Whittle a little toothpick and think: Who makes the money off margarine? Today, the cattle industry sells some $11 billion in finished cattle a year—and can not afford a million in more EDDIE COLLINS, page 5

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Adolph Hitler practiced his belief that to control Germany he must develop the minds of the children, and establish habits which would form characteristics to remain through adulthood.

Mom, American schools are subject to closer review. Certainly the youth behavior has not been modeled after children's Fables. The ideas of each doing their "thing"—of each individual testing the system; of non-conformism, of total disregard for personal appearance, of allowing the "generation gap" as the old partial failures by the custodians of the educational system. The vigorous destructive exploits of "hopped up" hippy-like students the past several years make me wonder if the educators do not need equal censorship to the kids.

The hiring of questionable teachers—who have taught and led uprising revolution, and who disrespect is as much of a problem as the kids themselves. Does this leadership come from Washington? From National Associations? Or, superintendents who govern and guide our school system?

How does the school system enter beef?

Well, Mom—through the back door, with a knife in the back, vigorously slashed and twisted.

'Innocent Look'

The School Lunch Program looks innocent—right? And the directing USDA surely would protect the well-being of the rancher and farmers, right? No Mom,

Ample FHA Funds Exist For Rural Housing Loans

K. L. Bowen, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, says ample funds are available for rural housing loans in Nebraska. The state allotment for this fiscal year is a little over $9 million.

tion office in Nebraska are available to all families in rural communities with a population of not more than 10,000. The applicant family must be unable to obtain commercial credit and the adjusted family income cannot be over $9,000. Adjusted income is the family's gross income, minus 5 per cent and an additional deduction of $300 for each minor child.

Loans can be made to build new homes, purchase existing homes, and rehabilitation of existing homes. In addition to the above, loans can be made to farm families to construct water systems for their dwellings and farm service buildings.

Also, loans are available for a maximum amount of $2,500 at an interest rate of 1 per cent to low-income families to make repairs or additions on their homes when the health and welfare of the family are threatened if the repairs or additions are not made.

Laverne Ostendorf, the local county supervisor, 112 W. Second, will explain further about the Rural Housing loan program and help complete an application for a loan.

Patrol Chief Stresses Accidents

Don't Just Happen — But Are Caused

Colonel James E. Kruger, commander of the Nebraska State Patrol, points out that the alarming increase in the number of traffic deaths and injuries occurring on the streets and roadways of our state should be a matter of concern not only to those individuals who operate motor-vehicles, but all citizens alike.

Col. Kruger stresses that deaths and injuries sustained in the day-to-day operation of motor vehicles don't just happen—they are caused.

Officers of the State Patrol are constantly mindful of tragedy when they are involved in clearing the wreckage of motor-vehicle crashes and picking up the bodies of victims. These tasks are followed by the more unpleasant one of notifying a family of the loss of a loved one.

Strict enforcement of the Motor Vehicle Code by enforcement agencies alone cannot solve the problem. Col. Kruger cited the fact that when one acquires an operator's license, he is privileged to operate a vehicle, but also accepts the tremendous responsibility that accompanies such a privilege.

VA Q & A

Q — I will be separated from military service in the near future. How long will I have to convert my Servicemans' Group Life Insurance?

A — You must make application for conversion and pay the first premiums before the expiration of 120 days after separation or release from active duty.

Adult Basic Education Class Set

Classes and tutoring sessions in Adult Basic Education will be offered at Wayne State College beginning Thursday evening, Dec. 2 at 7 p.m. and lasting until 9 p.m.

These classes will continue each Thursday in Room 17 of the Fine Arts Building, with no tuition charged to the student, as the program is federally funded.

These classes are for adults with less than a high school education who desire to qualify for a high school equivalence diploma or who would like to improve their knowledge of basic skills in reading, writing, mathematics, record keeping, etc.

Classes will be coordinated with the educational television high school courses being offered over Channel 19-17H and Channel 12 at 6:30 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

How will your life insurance benefits be paid

If you don't specify otherwise, the full amount of your life insurance will be paid your beneficiary in a single lump sum. But there are various settlement options available. Maybe it would be better to distribute the funds over a number of years, or as regular monthly income for life. More than one method may be selected by the policy owner. Is your policy written the way you want it to be?

Any time you have questions like these, or any others about your life insurance, feel free to get in touch with me. I'm here to serve you.

Lions Club Contributes Funds for AFS Project

The American Field Service, which sponsors foreign students coming to the United States and American students to visit foreign countries, received a $50 donation from the Wayne Lions Club Thursday to help the AFS finance its program.

Mrs. Oval Brandstetter, president of the Wayne chapter, its sixth year in the AFS program, said that approximately $1,000 per year is needed to cover expenses.

Rosa Costello from Ecuador, is an American Field Service student attending Wayne High School.

AFS volunteers, Lions Club treasurer, presented the check on behalf of the Lions to Mrs. Brandstetter.

Two Volunteers For Scout Posts

David Ley and Bill Workman have volunteered as district committee chairman and district commissioner, respectively, of the Lewis and Clark District, according to Dennis Boehme, district Scout executive.

Ley will head up seven committees and Workman will be in charge of 63 units of Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts.

The Lewis and Clark District comprises Wayne, Cedar, Cumming, Thurston and Dixon Counties.

In many areas of Nebraska, mule deer and white-tailed deer occupy many of the same areas. However, the mule deer seeks more open habitat, while the whitetail prefers wooded river bottoms and fields.

Offer Foreign-Born Course in English

A course in "English as a Second Language" will be offered to foreign-born persons at Wayne State College, beginning Thursday evening, Dec. 2, from 7-9 p.m.

Classes will meet in Room 17 of the Fine Arts Building.

There is no charge for these sessions, which are federally funded.

SS Q & A
Q—I understand that a person needs credit for five years work out of the 10 years ending when he becomes disabled, to be eligible for disability benefits. Is there a special provision for younger workers who may not yet have worked five years when they become disabled?
A—A person between age 24 and 30 needs credit for having worked half the time between 21 and the time he became disabled. A person not yet age 24 needs credit for 1 1/2 years of work in the three year period ending when his disability begins.
The marten, a member of the weasel family, declined greatly in numbers with the advance of civilization partially because his extreme curiosity made him easy to trap.

Some Household Workers May Be Missing Out on Social Security

Some of the nation's 11 million household workers may be missing out on social security protection, according to social security officials here.

"Many homemakers are unaware that they are required to send in quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers they employ," a spokesman said. "And that can deprive household workers and their families of disability, survivors, retirement, and Medicare protection under social security."

A household worker's cash wages count for social security if they amount to $50 or more from one employer in a three-month calendar quarter.

This generally means that the cash wages of a household worker are covered by social security if he or she regularly earns $4 a week or more for work done for any one homemaker," the spokesman said.

The homemaker-employer is responsible for sending in a quarterly report of household-worker wages that are subject to social security contributions. The homemaker-employer is also responsible for sending in the social security contributions involved, the spokesman said.

The household worker and homemaker-employer each pay a social security contribution of 5.2 per cent of the worker's cash wages.

"Some homemakers deduct the employee's contribution from his or her pay, while others simply pay the 10.4 per cent themselves," the social security official said.

The social security contributions and the wage reports must be sent to the Internal Revenue Service within a month after the end of each calendar quarter. They are due by Jan. 31 for the preceding October-December quarter, by April 30 for January-March, by July 31 for April-June, and by Oct. 31 for July-September.

Wage report forms are available at offices of the Internal Revenue Service.

"To get the proper social security credit for earnings from household work, a worker should be sure to give his or her correct social security number to the homemaker-employer," the spokesman said. "A free leaflet, 'Social Security and Your Household Employee,' is available at any social security office.

Household workers include maids, cooks, cleaning women, laundresses, some babysitters and yard workers. About 97 per cent are women, according to a U. S. Labor Department survey.

"And nearly 30 per cent are over 55," the social security spokesman added. "Social Security coverage is particularly important for this age group."

An eligible worker can begin collecting full monthly retirement benefits from social security at 62, or reduced benefits at 60. Medicare protection begins at 65. Social security also pays monthly cash benefits to eligible workers under 65 who have been severely disabled and cannot work for a year or more, and monthly survivors benefits to the families of insured workers who die prematurely.

Exon Declares 'War' On Traffic Violators

Gov. J. James Exon has announced that he is ordering an all out "war" on an enemy he describes as "more deadly than any enemy that we have ever fought before." His call for immediate action has been named "Operation Concern" and the text of his announcement follows:

"This year we are rapidly approaching a record number of traffic fatalities in Nebraska. If this record is established, all Nebraskans should hang their heads in shame.

"As governor of this state, I am directing the Nebraska State Patrol to utilize all possible resources in the apprehension of traffic violators and in the promotion of highway safety.

"I am also requesting the enforcement agencies at the local level, that is sheriffs, local police, and all peace officers, to join in the battle by intensifying their selective enforcement programs as a part of this all out effort. We know that many needless deaths are occurring on village and city streets, in addition to the increasing number on county and state highways.

"To make this effort effective, it is mandatory that violators be speedily and aggressively prosecuted. So I am asking all county and city prosecutors and judges to make special efforts to insure that this goal is accomplished.

"I am directing that all state vehicles be operated with "headlights on" throughout the remainder of 1971. And I urge all drivers to also drive with "headlights on" for their own protection.

"Highway safety is everyone's

'Write Hanoi' Campaign Pushed

Mrs. Frank Marsh, wife of the Nebraska lieutenant governor, has appealed to the women of Nebraska to join a "Write Hanoi" campaign, urging North Viet Nam to release American prisoners of war.

"We are well aware of the plight of our prisoners of war and those missing in action in Southeast Asia," she said, adding "it is my personal belief, along with many others, that one of the best ways in which to make the world and North Viet Nam aware of our concern is by mail requesting humane treatment and early release of our men."

"Mail campaigns have been highly successful," according to Mrs. Marsh. "My appeal is to the women of our state to join in the effort to contact the women of North Viet Nam and the USSR."

All letters should be sent to POW/MIA Write Hanoi, P. O. Box 94819, Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebr. 68500.

"Arrangements are firm for the delivery of this mail to wives of the Hanoi and USSR government officials," she concluded.

$500 Scholarship For Senior at WSC

Maurice (Mike) Nolte has received the annual industrial education scholarship of $500 awarded by Julian Torgerson of Sioux City for study at Wayne State College.

Nolte, a graduate of Farnhamville, Iowa High School in 1945, now is a senior at Wayne, planning to embark on a new career, teaching industrial education and safety education. His majors are, in those subjects.

He formerly worked in construction and attended Fort Dodge Community College, earning about 50 credit hours, mostly in night and winter classes. He also operated a truck line for some time.

Maurice Nolte

Motorist Should Change Driving Habits for Winter Road Surfaces

"Winter weather is here, and with it comes all the associated problems of driving which don't exist in warm weather," notes Tom Ryan, Supervisor of the Accident Records Section for the Department of Roads. "Drivers must adjust their speed and driving habits to compensate for these problems. Unfortunately we have already had several fatal accidents which can be attributed to bad weather."

Ryan pointed out that, other than snow packed and ice covered roads, the greatest danger the motorist would face is frost on the bridges and in shaded areas. Frost can remain on bridges and in shaded areas long after sunrise.

"If you encounter frost on the highway and start to skid, don't panic," he cautioned. "Release the accelerator and let the car coast to a stop. Using the brakes will often cause the car to skid that much more—especially on curves."

Ryan mentioned that November and December are the worst months for accidents at railroad crossings. He attributed this to three factors: 1. poor visibility due to windshields that are either fogged up or frosted over; 2. decreased stopping ability because of snow and ice on the roads; and 3. difficulty in hearing the approaching train because of heater noise, radios and new car sound proofing.

Pedestrian accidents are common, especially during the holiday season when pedestrians and motorists alike are distracted with the sights and sounds of the season. Also, the dangers are compounded because of fewer daylight hours and a greater volume of night driving.

Ryan urged motorists to use common sense and proper planning to avoid accidents during the winter months. He recommends that drivers reduce speed and allow more distance between themselves and the car in front. Plan lane changes and stops well in advance when streets are slippery. And, with the increased night-time driving, motorists should not over drive their headlights.

Ryan suggested the following checks for winter driving:
1. Have the brakes checked. If one brake grabs it could cause the car to skid on snow or ice.
2. Check the tire tread. Good tires are needed for snow covered roads.
3. Check the heater and defroster. These are necessary for keeping the windshield free of steam and frost.
4. Check to insure that all lights are working properly. Lights are especially important because of the possibility of bad weather.
5. Check the windshield washer for proper operation.
6. Motorists should carry a shovel, some sand or salt and a set of tire chains for emergencies.

VA Q & A
Q—What action should I take to get the increase that Congress recently voted for pension payments?
A—You need take no action. Any increase in pension because of legislation will be made automatically by the VA computer system.

Q—I plan to travel this summer and will not have a mailing address to receive my compensation check. What can I do about this?
A—The Veterans Administration will send your check to your bank for deposit if you submit a VA change of address form or a letter over your signature. You should also obtain two power of attorney forms from the VA, one to give your bank as evidence of its right to receive and deposit the checks to your account, and the other to be retained by you.
