NORTHEAST EXTENSION

Notes

by Myrtle Anderson

The selection choice for the Christmas shopper looking for bed linens is a colorful one this year. Solid colors, stripes, geometric figures and the still popular floral patterns are available. However, there is more to a sheet and pillowcase than color and pattern.

Something new on the market is the "2-in-1" sheet. It consists of a fitted bottom sheet to which a top sheet is connected at the foot of the bed to the fitted bottom sheet. In permanent press percales, it should launder satisfactorily; however one would need to consider whether the person receiving it has a drier available since it would be cumbersome in line-drying.

Sheet sizes are important to consider. Cots, twin, three-quarter, full, queen and king beds all require specific size. Get the bed measurement first, then study the labels at the store or in mail-order-catalog. Correct fit is especially necessary for the fitted sheets. It is possible to buy extra long flat sheets for those who prefer them. Example: 81 x 115 inches in full size as compared to regular full-81 x 104 inches.

Fabric choice is more limited. There are 100% cotton muslins and percales or cotton polyester blends in both muslin and percales. Muslin sheets are woven with 128 threads or 130 threads per square inch while percale is available either with 180 or 200 threads per square inch. Research studies show percale sheets outlast muslin sheets so while muslin may be less expensive, the longer wearing, softer qualities of percale would justify the purchase of the latter.

Extra lace or rick rack for "trim" or "bedding" may be appealing to the eye, but may be irritating to the sleeper. Sometimes they do not shrink in the same degree as the main fabric and cause puckering, or do not wear as long. Note laundering suggestions on labels where special treatment is required.

Lowell Lutts Wed in Omaha

Dundee Presbyterian Church in Omaha was the scene of the wedding Nov. 20 of Sue McMorris, daughter of Mrs. Helen McMorris, Iowa City, Ia., to Lowell Lutts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil "Bud" Lutts, Wayne. Dr. Stinson of Omaha presided at the 7 p.m. ceremony.

Art Lastings sang "Colour My World" and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Bruce Crain.

The bride was given in marriage by her twin brother, Mel McMorris, and was attended by Marjalyce Hinz of Omaha. She wore a lace edged candlelight brocade fashion with floor length veil. Maid of honor wore rust colored sequin tulle.

Mark Klanderud of Omaha served as best man and Verdel Lutts of Wayne, a brother of the bridegroom, and Fred Colanino of Omaha, were ushers. The men wore black tuxedos.

and Debra and Verita McMorris, sisters of the bride, arranged gifts.

Kay Shaw and Beverly Bryant, also sisters of the bride, cut and served the cake and Chris McMorris poured. Another sister, Marilyn Dean, served punch.

The bride, a graduate of West Dubuque High School, is employed by Mutual of Omaha in computer programming. The bridegroom, a Wayne High School graduate, attended Wayne State College and is employed by the Omaha World Herald in the classified advertising department. The couple is at home in Omaha.

The bride's mother chose a beige and brown dress and Mrs. Lutts wore a two-piece jacket ensemble of cinnamon and blue. Both had autumn colored baby marm corsages. One hundred guests attended the reception held following the ceremony at the church dining room. Jayne Frank registered guests.

Burglary in Trailer Reported to Police

Motorists played it cautious during the first real winter driving conditions the past few days, with only three accidents reported to City Police.

Ice surfaces were blamed for a mishap at 12th and Walnut Tuesday morning at 9:55 between Phillips of Lindsay and Richard Fransen of Burwell. The McPhillips car was northbound and turning left when the accident occurred.

Sunday morning at 10:50, in the 100 block of East Third, a car being backed from a driveway by Lawrence Fenderson of Lincoln, hit the right rear fender of a northbound car driven by Robert Penn of Route 2, Another Sunday accident, this one at 7:18 p.m., saw cars driven by Roy Madison of Dakota City, Nebr., and Florence Wittig of 714 Windom, collide at Seventh and Main. The left rear door of the Wittig car sustained damage.

Also on the police docket was a report of a burglary at 821 Valley. Pam Gerritsen reported to the police Sunday at 5:20 p.m. that her trailer home had been entered and speakers for a stereo and five tapes were taken.

Results Differ In Registration Of WSC Voters

A voter registration campaign at Wayne State College produced some results that differ from reported national collegiate trends.

For one, students divided registrations evenly between Democrat and Republican Parties, according to Richard Kurtenbach, president of the Student Senate.

Elsewhere, Democratic leanings have dominated registration by young persons; news reports have indicated. Many have elected to register as independents, but only 15 went independent at Wayne.

Of 240 who registered, only 24 chose to sign up for voting in Wayne County. The rest chose to vote in hometown counties.

About 40, in addition to the 240, filled out forms requesting registration papers from home counties.

In an earlier registration campaign, also sponsored by the Student Senate and the Wayne Student Education Association of Nebraska, about 200 signed up to vote.

Squirrel season in Nebraska ends on January 31, 1971.

Bridge Repair Near Pender Is Planned

LINCOLN—The Nebraska Department of Roads has requested approval from the Federal Highway Administration for the location and design of proposed improvements to the Logan Creek Bridge.

This project is located on Nebraska Highway 9 at the Logan Creek Bridge north of Pender. Design provides for the acquisition of permanent easements to construct welded wire fabric jetties with steel pilings at locations immediately upstream of the bridge and 3,500 feet downstream of the bridge. The purpose is for bank protection and stabilization to control stream flow which is endangering the bridge and a section of the highway.

A study report and other data submitted in support of the request are available for public inspection at the District Office, 408 No. 13th Street, Norfolk; or for inspection and copying at the Main Office, 14th and Burnham, Lincoln.

Who is beneficiary of your life insurance?

Is your original beneficiary still living? Is it still the beneficiary you want? The birth of a child sometimes affects people's decisions regarding the distribution of benefits. It's usually possible to change or add names at any time. (In fact, it's often wise to have an alternate beneficiary, should you and your first beneficiary die as a result of a common disaster.)

Any time you have questions like these, or any others about your life insurance, feel free to talk it over with me. I'm here to serve you.

Camp for Handicapped To Be Near Milford

The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc. of Nebraska and the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Lincoln today announced plans for a permanent resident camp for handicapped Nebraskans.

The camp, called "Easter Seal's Camp Kwanis," will be located at the Kiwanis camp near Milford.

President Tom Plummer, Jr. of Qalala said the society has signed a lease for the site, renewable to at least 30 years. This agreement replaces plans for building an 80-acre site near Agew.

In making the announcement, Kiwanis President J. Taylor Greer of Lincoln said his group will receive no lease payment for the camp and that buildings planned by the Easter Seal Society for its former proposed site will be constructed at the Milford camp.

The Nebraska Easter Seal Society has operated its summer camp at Milford for three of the four years that the camping program has been offered in the state. Last year the camp moved to Fairbury due to a schedule conflict at Milford.

Plummer said the 77-acre camp has usable buildings including a lodge and eight new cabins. There is a swimming pool and "plenty of room for the camp and the campers to grow." However, he added, the camp does have architectural barriers.

"Our first project will be to remodel the buildings so they are easily accessible for the handicapped campers." This includes widening sidewalks and doorways, eliminating steps and installing ramps.

Last summer some 150 handicapped Nebraskans attended the Nebraska Easter Seal Society sponsored "Camp Easter Seal." Plans call for facilities for 600 campers upon building completion.

The Agent's Angle

By Harold Isalls

...dikes accounted for slightly more than 80 per cent of the total value of crop and livestock production in 1969 and just 80 per cent during the five-year period, 1965-69.

Fertilizer cost has been one of the most reasonable inputs for crop production in recent years.

Some farmers are getting close to the best combination of plant nutrients, while others may be using too much of one and not enough of another. Others appear to be using some of everything just to be on the safe side. This runs up a needlessly expensive fertilizer bill. Several routes are available to help farmers establish efficient fertilizer management programs. A combination of these may be the best.

First, crop comparisons can be made between different treatments. Farmers should not try to compare treatments of different years. Too many variables exist which affect crops differently from year to year.

The soil test is probably the best method of determining what fertilizers are needed. Soil tests should be conducted every two or three years so that changes taking place in the soil can be corrected by different fertilizer treatments. Fall is the best time to get soil samples.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln provides soil testing services to the farmers. Mailing cartons and information are available from county Extension Agents and many fertilizer dealers.

IF I CAN KEEP THAT BUYER OUTTA HIS CAR FOR FIVE MORE MINUTES--HE'LL PUT ON ANOTHER QUARTER.

rence Welk's used accordion. So by this reading, if I am right, a normal or even moderate terminal steerkid run would find a $1 collapse. (Usually called 25 to 50 lower by a market reporter and/or $2 lower by shipper and/or $3 lower by feeder or accompanying his shipment and waiting for the check.)

Cattle Pressure. Expect sharp and continuous pressure on cattle from Thanksgiving until the second week in January. In fact a $3 cattle break, I realize that the Cornbelt is far short of cattle needs—I also realize that the Hill Plains Commercial and the giant privately-owned feed lots are current. But all markets are psychological and cannot easily accept a break in rhythm, nor a shift in movement. Here are some facts:

First: The USDA is again monkeying with the numbers on the daily slaughter reports. They missed last week by 14,000—realize Mom, Sioux City, and St. Joseph combined do not sell that many fat cattle. Nor do Kansas City, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Peoria, throw in Fargo and Sioux Falls, total $4,000 fat steers. (Cow and stocker's here, —steers, no.) Three months ago, it was a $5,000 miss and a $2 cut beef collapse. Mom, if these errors are not intentional where is the severed head of the errant?

Second: Property Tax Time! The deadliest enemy of the cattlemen. Worse than the $2 report, less weed, blackleg, the USDA, bird watchers, Bess Meyerson, and pollutionists.

This head tax based on possession on Jan. 1 is assinine, is archaic, is the most assured cattle price depressant in America today. Each year in those states involved, cattle feeders are forced to bunch their selling into a year-end three-week period to avoid about a $5 a head tax penalty.

No Live Bids Knowing the cattle will move, local packers bid sharply lower and often bid only a kill out based on a "flat" carcass price or by the government grade and yield. No live bids. The bad part is the Eastern

NU Ag College Enrollment Increases But Slips to 13th in Size Nationally

Lincoln—The University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Agriculture has experienced an increase in enrollment this fall. But it also has a 6.5 per cent drop in freshmen enrollment and has slipped to a lower position in "size ranking" among the nation's land-grant colleges.

According to Dr. Franklin E. Eldridge, Associate Dean of the NU College of Agriculture, total undergraduate enrollment in the college this fall is 1,432, an increase of 23 students over last year. Enrollment figures indicate an increase of 10 sophomores, five juniors and 55 seniors, but a decrease of 29 students in the freshman class.

According to Eldridge, the substantial increase of seniors is partially attributed to a greater number of transfer students coming from junior colleges to NU. He noted that this plan of education has been encouraged over the past few years.

However, the Ag College administrator pointed to the decrease in freshman enrollment as a significant factor in the total enrollment picture. This decrease, he said, will possibly lead to smaller graduating classes in the future. In 1971, 265 students were graduated, the largest graduating class in the history of the college.

For the first time in many years, Eldridge said, the University of Nebraska has slipped to a lower position in size ranking of the nation's land-grant colleges. NU now ranks 13th, a drop from its former ranking of 11th.

The associate dean commented that "this should be of concern to all Nebraskans" since agriculture is the principal industry in our state.

Eldridge said he has seen no decrease in the degree of job opportunities for agricultural graduates. The decrease in students is not in the best interest of the agricultural industry if the state and does reflect a weakening in this particular educational choice by incoming students.

At a recent meeting of the National Association of State Agricultural and Land-Grant Colleges, reports showed that enrollment in the nation's land-grant colleges of agriculture increased by 8.6 per cent. Current undergraduate enrollment in these colleges is 58,965, the highest ever.

Eldridge noted that according to reports, the most sizeable increases have occurred in eastern portions of the U.S. He attributed part of this increase to an expanded interest in environmental quality and ecological concern. He added that many of the eastern colleges also have more women enrolling in the agricultural courses of study.

The largest increase of enrollment in any of the land-grant colleges occurred at Pennsylvania State, followed by North Carolina State. Eldridge pointed out that both of these colleges moved from sizes less than the NU Ag College to enrollments larger than NU.

In standing among the Big 10 land-grant colleges, Nebraska ranks fourth, Eldridge said. Iowa State University, which is the largest land-grant college in the nation, leads the Big 8, followed by Missouri, Oklahoma State and Nebraska. Kansas State is in fifth place, but Eldridge pointed out that this year Kansas State experienced a 141 increase in ag college enrollment—a sizeable increase in comparison to Nebraska's.

Hog Management Program To Be Jan. 27 at Pender

LINCOLN—Swine producers must accept the responsibility of saving pigs, rather than trusting the sow, a University of Nebraska Extension swine specialist said this week.

Dr. William Ahlschwede noted that production is the performance variable most closely tied to profitability and also the most frustrating for the hog producer. Attention in time and effort paid to this production phase can be gratifying if hogmen can bring about improvement in this area, the NU specialist said.

Increased production after farrowing is a result of husbandry practices, points out Dr. Ahlschwede. The total number of pigs saved is directly tied to profitability of the swine enterprise.

And such factors as disease prevention (clipping and disinfecting navel cords) and proper administration of medication (such as iron shots) are important in saving young pigs. Recognized husbandry practices can pay a tremendous return on an intangible talent for swine care which allows them to do a better job than others," according to Ahlschwede. Keen observation may play an important role in the capabilities of such producers as husbandmen, he speculated.

Ahlschwede's comments on hog management were made in connection with plans being developed for the annual series of University-sponsored Area Swine Days in January. Swine production and waste disposal problems will be discussed at the programs, set for Jan. 25 at the Hastings Civic Auditorium; Jan. 26, St. Patrick's Parish Hall, O'Neill; and Jan. 27, Fire Hall, Pender.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Today I am walking my neck out on this column.

I will set the scene. At this writing, cattle feeders enjoy the highest dressed and live light weight choice steers and heifers of any period since 1952. Friday closing asking price on carload beef is 50 higher for delivering next week. Our week's slaughter had been reduced 134,000 head—due to a Monday demonstration by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and by Thanksgiving. Joliet, Ill., hit 37.25 on prime steers, and 35.75 on heifers. Omaha scored 35.75 and 35.00—the Kansas Hill Plain feedlots had bids of 35.75. So everything pointed upward, right?

I say—no. At the moment you read this column, I expect fat cattle to have suffered a $1 a hundred setback as will the national carlot beef trade. Here are the points on which I base that conclusion.

First, a storm dropped two inches of rain on Boston and New York after moving across the Big Lakes where it dumped deep snow in Cleveland, Buffalo, Scranton, and St. Paul. A dumped light snow into the Virginias. This will cripple activity more than floodlights-and-tea slipping caperones at a junior prom.

Stay Inside While these Western Dads will subject themselves to cardiac strain-to-muscle a truck to the highway, no, I stress NO, Eastern modern thinking. Lib-minded, part-wearing pseudo-ebettants will get off her plump derriere to drive ten feet into a snowbank. Especially when she has a freezer filled with TV dinners, and has turkey bones for her football-watching husband to gnaw. (He might drive in case of a diminished liquid supply.) So temporarily we lose her as a buyer.

Second, Many carlots of beef were shipped Wednesday and Friday East unsold. Monday these must find a home. When jobbers and wholesalers find the chain stores with loaded warehouses and meat counters, they will duck into the thickets and play a watch-and-see game.

Most packers daily sell the giant chains by standing orders. But with that outlet stymied, the packer salesman will shift selling orders to beef buyers. At that point, beef will be like a tired farm dog heading home—even the Chihuahuas and fox terriers will bite him in the retreating flesh.

Also, there is a rumbling across the nation concerning additional walkouts by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters.

If the demonstrations are at the slaughter or packing plant level, beef prices would temporarily solidify, (give hogs would crumble.) But if at the retail and Eastern wholesale level, beef prices would collapse like Law-

Comparative figures on cash receipts from crops and livestock aren't always what they seem to be, and according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension economist, they tend many times to be misleading.

Dr. Phillip A. Henderson, in the Extension publication, "Corn-husker Economics" used an example 1969 figures on cash receipts from crops and livestock (the most recent year for which value of production figures are available.)

That year, Henderson said, cash receipts from livestock in Nebraska accounted for 72 per cent of the total cash receipts from farm marketings. Crops accounted for only 28 per cent, he pointed out, despite the fact that livestock is the fourth largest in grain sorghum, and fifth highest in the value of all crop production.

"Too often cash receipts are used as a measure of the relative importance of crops and livestock production within the state," Henderson said. "We forget that part of the livestock sold from Nebraska feedlots was imported from other states and that a sizeable portion of the sales of fed livestock actually represents crops marketed through livestock."

In a breakdown of the 1969 figures, Henderson's report showed that value of production added by livestock production totaled $588,325,000, while crop production accounted for $1,025,980,000.

Going by figures in the report, Henderson said "corn is by far the most important single commodity produced; followed by cattle, hogs, hay, grain sorghum and wheat." These six commo-

It was in the fall of 1921 that D. Hall came from Kennard and purchased the property on East 10th Street. His vision of building a greenhouse on the site was soon to be fulfilled. Construction began early in the spring of 1922. By fall the 2 story home and the largest of the six greenhouses were finished. The frame garage and boiler room were also built that year. It has since been replaced by the present cement block building in 1947. In the ensuing years of 1923-1940 the other greenhouses were erected, all are still in use. The Flower Shop that has just been replaced with this new one was built in 1946 by Wilbur D. Hall, who operated the business from 1945-1950. After his death in 1950, Hattie Hall and son Kent ran the business until her retirement in 1966. The Wayne Greenhouse has since been operated by Kent and Lois Hall.

THE WAYNE HERALD WEST HUSKER ALL-S'

OFFENSIVE TEAM

Quickness, speed, agility—these traits are more conspicuous than weight of the Wayne Herald's West Husker Conference all-star football team of 1971.

Coaches, who nominated the stars, favored the player who could execute quickly and surely. Eighteen players selected for 22 positions averaged a rather light 175 pounds. And that figure is raised a few pounds by the dream team's only real heavyweight, 270-pounder Bob Lingenfelter of Plainview, a defensive guard whose weight plus 6-8 height has attracted recruiting attention from numerous major colleges.

The defensive eleven lists only two other players as heavy as 190, and the defenders average 182. The offensive unit averages 186, ranging from 140 to 187. Coaches were asked to rate players of opposing teams only—none of their own—as "average" or "outstanding." Ballois listed these positions: offensive ends, tackles, guards, center, quarterback, backs; defensive linemen, linebackers, backs.

Wayne's undefeated Blue Devils (10-0 over-all, 7-0 in West Husker) placed four players in six positions; Pierce four players, Bloomfield two in three positions; Laurel, Stanton and Plainview two players each; Madison one player in two positions; Neligh, one player.

Mike Ginn of Wayne topped all nominees in votes. Coaches of all seven opposing teams tabbed the halfback as "outstanding" to put him among offensive backs. He also made the defensive unit as a back with three "outstanding" votes. In general, coaching opinion was more divided among defensive candidates than offensive.

Three other players rated double honors—Mel Harper of Madison at offensive back and linebacker, Rod Hagge of Bloomfield at offensive tackle and defensive end, Bill Fletcher of Wayne at offensive guard and defensive tackle.

Many others played both ways, and some received coaches' votes both ways. The quarterback plum went to Tom Schleppebach of Pierce, the only signal caller to gain an "outstanding" vote (he got three).

Madison's Harper won offense nominations at both quarterback and back (the ballots did not divide halfback and fullback positions because of varied offensive systems), and also at linebacker—a key factor of versatility which landed him on both teams. He threw three TD passes, ran two touchdowns over 70 yards, averaged about 10 tackles a game.

Versatility also marked Ginn's total performance, as he did about everything a football player can do—run, pass, receive, punt, tackle, and excel at all. The 6-1 and 180-pound senior compiled awesome statistics: rushed 1,201 yards on 184 carries (7.2 per trip), scored 22 touchdowns and 136 points, caught 18 passes for 404 yards, and completed one pass for 57 yards. That spectacular aerial—the receiver was downed almost instantly—traveled well over 60 yards and is credited with firing up Wayne's go-ahead effort which eventually beat Scribner, 26-14, in the Husker Conference playoff. And that isn't all of Ginn's performance. He intercepted four passes, made 49 tackles, punted 31 times for 1,270 yards, a 41-yard average. Several times he faked punts and gained first downs with long yardage to go. Oh yes, and he's an honor student with nearly all A grades. And the Wayne High baseball team's leading pitcher the past two years.

Rounding out the offensive backfield is Rick Tiedtke of Stanton, a key factor in the Mustang's second-place (8-1) West Husker finish. Coach Ron Bankers said of the mighty mite, 5-6 and 140 pounds: "Rick's speed (4.8 in the 40) and desire more than made up for his lack of size." He rushed for 597 yards, averaging 5.4, scored eight touchdowns, and returned kickoffs at a 17-yard clip. He did this in spite of an injury plague all season.

The two offensive ends, Dale Drahota of Pierce and Mike Schmoldt of Bloomfield, would make enemy defenses nervous if they played on the same team. Of course, quarterback Schleppebach did have Drahota on his team and found him a handy pass target. Drahota snared 11 passes for 301 yards. That's a fancy 27.4-yard average, and five receptions went for touchdowns. Fastest Bluejay with about 10.3 speed in the 100. Drahota can catch the ball in a crowd and run after he catches it," Coach Jerry Gdowski noted. Drahota is one of only three juniors among 15 all-star seniors.

Schleppebach passed for 456 yards and eight touchdowns, rushed for 264 yards, nearly five yards per carry. Gdowski calls him "one of the best faking quarterbacks I have seen."

Schmoldt also is a speedy one (10.6 in the century) who latched onto 22 passes for 286 yards and three touchdowns, plus another pass for an extra two points. Many of his receptions were key plays, says Coach Terry Lippold, who adds that "Mike probably is a better defensive end than offensive." He amassed 47 tackles

Coch of the Year

WALD'S 4th ANNUAL STAR FOOTBALL TEAM

DEFENSIVE TEAM

One year's record suffices to qualify Allen Hansen of Wayne High School Football Coach of the Year, by vote the seven other West Husker Conference coaches.

But the honor gains dimension when he considers past years of Coach Hansen's record. In 16 years as a head coach, 8 teams have:

- Won 96, lost 41, tied 7.
- Played undefeated seasons twice: 15 year (10-0) at Wayne and 1962 at Laker.
- Won West Husker championships in 1957, 1969 and 1971.
- Tied for West Husker championship in 1968 with Laurel.
- Tied for the Husker over-all championship in 1969, with Pender.
- Won the Husker title this year in 1971.
- Posted a remarkable 43-4-1 record in the past five years at Wayne.

Coach Hansen has suffered only four losing seasons each time in the first year at a school. He started his coaching career with three years at Homer, ten four as assistant at Chadron, four at Pigeon, three at Wakefield, six at Wayne.

Further tribute: Hansen will help coach the North squad in the annual Shrine game at Lincoln next August.

Lippold reports even more tackles and assists, 63 and 53 respectively, for his two-way ace, Rod Hagge, who played at tackle. His agility and quietness at 190 pounds would make him potent any place in the line.

The other offensive tackle position belongs to John Wild of Stanton. Coach Bunker's gave this tribute, "John's hustle and leadership by example was an inspiration to the other members of our ball club. His pulling and trapping consistency were an asset to our offensive success. He also led our linemen in defensive points and had two interceptions."

A Wayne trio occupies the middle offensive line. Bill Fletcher and Ken Frahm man the guard positions despite their light weight of 150 and 155. Coach Al Hansen explains that both are excellent blockers, quick on traps, efficient in running interference. Both got votes on defense, but Fletcher had enough edge to merit the two-way honor.

Scott Nisomann outpolled center nominees. Coach Hansen describes his 180-pound middle man as an excellent and strong blocker at center and equally tough in the defensive line, tied with Frahm for the most Wayne tackles at 75.

Defense continues to get more attention every year. Its practitioners seemingly get more pride, too, in playing defense. Anyone who walks the sidelines can understand this better as he hears the defenders taunt offensive teammates. By contrast, in the old days before two-platoon football, defense was something that filled time between offensive series.

The rising stature of defense is reflected in comments by coaches about defensive players. The comments tend to be somewhat repetitive since there are fewer statistical factors to measure a defender than ball-carrying or catching offensive players.

Still, there are important measurements. For example: speed and quickness. Plainview Coach Roger Stafford mentions that Bob Lingenfelter, at 270 pounds, runs the 40-yard in 5.2 seconds—a phenomenal figure. Lingenfelter made 44 solo tackles and 145 assists, blocked three punts, recovered three fumbles. Perhaps his most impressive statistic: downing runners for minus 32 yards per game. And on offensive tackle-eligible plays, he caught seven passes for 69 yards and three touchdowns.

At another defensive line spot, Dana Watts of Pierce got the coaches' nod on quickness and strength which enabled him to make 67 solo tackles, 41 assists, two fumble recoveries. Coach Gdowski said, "Dana is a perfectionist; he hates making mistakes." His football skill might be linked to his wrestling record of 37-4.

Another Pierce defender, Clayton Fisher, gained all-star honors with similar credentials—55 tackles and 20 assists, two blocked punts. As one of the three juniors, Fisher "has all the tools and will be a great one," Gdowski says. "Look for him next year."

The other junior all-star is Larry Wiebelhaus of Laurel in the defensive line—leading tackler for the Bears, with 20 or more in three games. Wiebelhaus rates a significant comment from Coach Bob Olson: "Larry has excellent reactions off the line of scrimmage." That word "reaction" figures prominently in the language of coaches teaching the difficult art of defense. A defender has no time to think. He must react instantly to offensive moves.

Laurel teammate Kevin Wacker also showed the reaction characteristic and landed a linebacker berth. He averaged 14 unassisted tackles per game this year and has been a leading defender for three seasons.

Another linebacker accolade went to Larry Decker of Neligh. Coach Roland Westerby says of him: "In my opinion he is the finest linebacker in Northeast Nebraska and very possibly the best in the state of Nebraska. He has averaged about six unassisted tackles and 25 assists per game. He has recovered or caused an average of at least two fumbles per game. He plays with every bit of ability he has. He played offensive guard and tackle as well, and if you'd ask him to play any other position, he would."

If a reader adds up the tackling averages listed so far, he could wonder what would happen if all these stars played together. But if an offensive player managed to evade them, he would still encounter the two defensive backs, Tony Bivens of Plainview of Wayne's Mike Ginn, whose credentials were mentioned earlier. Bivens compiled fine statistics—32 tackles, 116 assists, two fumble recoveries, one interception. He also played quarterback, scored five touchdowns by rushing and threw seven TD passes.

This is the 1971 West Husker team of all stars. Significant among coaching comments about them were phrases which can be summed up this way: "He gave it all he had."

Steam Autos Hissing Along Comeback Road

WASHINGTON—“Stanley had a better idea,” say more and more critics of car exhaust smog. They say steam—the overlooked descendant of venerable White, Doble, and Stanley steamers—may be the best hope to save the country from thickening, choking air pollution.

They talk hopefully of modern, fast, streamlined steamers costing no more but cheaper to run than today's gasoline-powered autos.

Several prototypes, pioneered by new companies, have won cooperation from the major auto makers and research and development subsidies from government agencies. They are no more like the hissing, beclouded behemoths of the 20's than Isinglass slide curtains resemble safety glass windshields.

Smog's Black Marks

But engineers say they still have a long way to go to perfect a true space-age steam engine that will incorporate the needed technology just beginning to be worked out.

A Senate Commerce Committee study maintains automobile gasoline engines are the cause of most dirty air in the United States, the National Geographic Society says.

The Committee reported that cars produce 85 per cent of smog in cities and 90 per cent of all carbon monoxide pollution. According to the Committee's study, steam-powered cars have one great advantage: They emit hardly any air pollutants—no more than three per cent as much carbon monoxide gas and seven per cent as much unburned hydrocarbons as a high-powered gasoline engine spews into the air even when equipped with smog-control devices.

Nevertheless, some of the newly-developed steam engines are dirtier than allowed under the lower emission standards that will be required by 1975 under the Mobile Clean Air Law.

Steam engines burn up almost all their fuel, usually cheap kerosene, to boil water or a working fluid into vapor, while gasoline engines produce power by exploding gasoline fumes, and omit quantities of unburned fuel.

Coils For Boilers

In place of old-fashioned boilers, modern steam power plants substitute small coil tubes never likely to blow up. Automotive steam engines match the size of internal combustion engines but are quieter.

Today's steam engines need only about 20 seconds to build up a head of steam and can go 100 miles an hour. They require no transmissions and can be thrown into reverse to help the driver brake.

Boiler water often must be added after about three hours of driving. Freezing is not considered a likely danger.

Steam engines are being tested in a few police squad cars and in trucks and buses. Major auto makers, while still trying to clean up the exhaust from gasoline engines, have contracts with several firms to develop new versions of an engine most thought had gone the way of the rumble seat.

VA Q & A

Q—Two years ago I was studying under the GI Bill but dropped out at the end of the semester. I now plan to enroll in the same school and program. How can I start my educational benefits again?

A—Notify the school to submit a re-enrollment certification to the Veterans Administration. This will start your benefits again provided the school and program are currently approved and you have not exhausted your entitlement.

Q—Are widows of World War II veterans who died of active duty or from service-connected disabilities still eligible for GI home loans?

A—Yes, a recent law revived, unused, expired entitlement for unmarried widows of World War II veterans, as well as for veterans themselves.

Q—My son died in service during the Korean Conflict. Am I eligible for educational benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A—No. Educational benefits are not available to parents.

People Ask Us--

QUESTION: We have never joined a church in the Wayne area. What will we do when we lose a member of the family?

ANSWER: A funeral service is essentially a religious function of great spiritual significance. Its purpose is to conclude the physical existence of someone we love with the knowledge that God's will has been accomplished. At this time it is a priest or minister to whom your family should turn. He is your logical counselor by virtue of his training and dedication.

Clergymen in the Wayne area are known for their compassion and understanding. Those people who do not have a church affiliation will find many friends volunteering to help them select a clergyman. Our personnel are familiar with many religious denominations and can be helpful in this choice.

College Veterinary Students Are Offered Lassie 4-H Scholarships

The proverb, "a dog is man's best friend" will have special significance for two young college students this fall. Lassie, probably the most familiar dog in the world, is the "friend" in this case.

Champion Valley Farms, Inc., will provide a young man and a young woman with an $800 scholarship in the Lassie 4-H Veterinary Medicine scholarship program. This is the fourth year the educational grants have been given in Lassie's name in an awards program arranged through the National 4-H Service Committee.

The scholarships are available to former 4-H'ers majoring in veterinary medicine at one of the 18 universities offering such a curriculum.

John R. Morris, president of Champion Valley Farms, says the purpose of the grants is "to help to make the animal world a better place in which to live." This year's scholarship winners will be selected by the Cooperative Extension Service and recipients will be announced during the 50th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

A Washington State University student, Blaine R. Russell, 24, of Shelton, Idaho, was one of the 1970 winners.

Russell attended the University of Utah for two years, taking pre-veterinary courses. He worked for the university at Hogle Zoo in Salt Lake City which gave him an added opportunity to work with animals. And earlier he was an active 4-H'er for seven years in Bonneville County, Idaho.

1970 winner. At the time of her award she was a senior at the U. of M. and editor of the Minnesota Veterinarian magazine for the 1970-71 school year.

Miss Bussian said that it was during her summer year at Abbott-Ludwig University in Freising, Germany, when she decided on a career in veterinary medicine. She was a 4-H member in Columbia County, Wis., for six years.

For information about these scholarships, contact the State 4-H Leader at the state land-grant university or the Dean at one of the 18 Colleges of Veterinary Medicine.

Drivers license examiners will be at the courthouse every Wednesday, from 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30.

Dutch Elm Disease Noted In 83 Nebraska Counties

Lincoln—The destructive Dutch Elm disease continues to take its toll of Nebraska trees. The disease has now been recorded in all but 10 of Nebraska's 93 counties, and according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension plant pathologist, it doesn't appear that an effective control is in the offing for the immediate future.

Dr. David S. Wysong, said there is no way of telling when the disease will occur in an unaffected area, and therefore, establishing a timetable as to when it will reach certain counties is impossible.

Of the 10 counties in which the disease has not yet been found, seven are located in the Panhandle. The remaining three counties are Boyd, Grant and Hooker.

In 1970, Wysong said, 12 new counties recorded cases of Dutch Elm disease, but in 1971, only one additional county, Blaine County, has been added to the list.

Although the rate of spread and time of occurrence cannot be established for Dutch Elm disease, Wysong said certain factors influence the disease spread in a community.

The American and Red Elm species are far more susceptible to the disease than the Siberian and Chinese Elms, Wysong noted. Therefore, the population of susceptible elms in a community can have a real bearing on what type of control program a community would plan.

Winter survival of the elm bark beetle is also significant since the beetle is the primary carrier of the fungus which causes Dutch Elm disease. Wysong said in a severe winter low numbers of beetles will probably survive, which means a decrease in disease development.

Initially, DDT was used as a control for the elm bark beetle. Since its banning, methoxychlor has been substituted, but according to Wysong, research and experience have indicated that methoxychlor is not as effective as DDT in preventing beetle feeding.

The "N" plant pathologist said this was noticeable in surveys of annual tree loss due to Dutch Elm disease in Lincoln. In 1969 and 1970, Lincoln sprayed elm trees with remaining supplies of DDT, and then with methoxychlor. In those two years, annual rate of tree loss was 3.2 and 3.6 per cent, respectively. In 1971, when only methoxychlor has been used, the annual loss rate has increased to 6.3 per cent.

In a situation such as this, Wysong said a community must determine whether to continue spraying or put emphasis on some other means of control.

Because there are so many factors involved in determining if a community should develop a control program, Wysong said he and NUS Extension entomologist Bob Roselle have developed what they call "rules of thumb" for communities considering such programs:

- Make a complete tree survey, reviewing the kinds, types, conditions and location of trees;
- Examine the topographical situation in relation with other towns or surrounding land area;
- Look at the tax base of your community—"Can you really afford to implement a control program?"

Wysong suggested that if a city has a population of less than 4,000-5,000 and/or if the community has less than a 30 per cent susceptible elm population, they probably should not consider a comprehensive Dutch Elm disease program.

He emphasized that long-range benefits can be realized if individual home owners and communities take action now in planning replacement species prior to the death of existing elms.

—Corn, which provides more food for men and beasts than any other food, has a mysterious heritage. While it was under cultivation when the first explorers reached the New World, corn was unknown in ancient times and cannot be traced to a wild plant!

Federal Agency Names Supervisor

LINCOLN—Robert P. Kelly has been named Nebraska state supervisor for the Division of Wildlife Services of the U.S.

Fish and Wildlife Service—in his new post, Kelly will supervise cooperative bird and mammal damage control programs on public and private lands and wildlife enhancement activities on federal lands. He also will review environmental impact statements concerning federal highway and airport proposals and cooperate with state agencies on programs to appraise effects of pesticides on fish and wildlife in the state.

Kelly, a native of Texas, received his B.S. degree in agriculture from Texas A&M College and his B.S. degree in wildlife management from Colorado State University. Before joining the Fish and Wildlife Service in 1966, he served as a wildlife biologist with the U.S. Forest Service. Before moving to Nebraska, Kelly supervised Division activities in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri.

VA Answers to Vets' Questions

Q.—I have been married six years to a World War II veteran who still carries his mother as the sole beneficiary of his $10,000 GI insurance policy. Can I get the Veterans Administration to change it since I am no longer able to work?

A.—No. Legally, the VA must pay the proceeds of GI insurance to the beneficiary designated by the veteran.

Q.—I have a certificate of eligibility for education benefits which I have received three months ago after filing VA Form 21E-1990 and a copy of my discharge papers with the Veterans Administration. Can you tell me why I have received no checks?

A.—The certificate of eligibility which you say you still have must be given to your school so it can certify your enrollment to the VA. After the VA receives this certificate, your checks will start.

Q.—Are there any income requirements for obtaining a mobile home loan?

A.—Yes. You must show, among other things, that your present and anticipated income and expenses are such that it could be reasonably expected that the loan will be repaid, and that you are a satisfactory credit risk.

Each year, the average American consumes a 155.8 pound combination of wheat, rye, rice, corn, oats and barley.

USDA Amends Ruling On Poultry Additives

WASHINGTON—Changes in federal regulations concerning the use of basting additives in poultry, based on comments received recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will become effective Feb. 17.

The amended regulations specify that solutions and edible fats added for basting and similar purposes to ready-to-cook poultry products may increase the weight of the processed product by approximately three per cent of the weight of the washed and chilled raw product complying with other federal poultry regulations. The regulation provides for minor deviation from the three per cent limit to allow for variabilities in injection and measuring equipment.

A "conspicuous, legible and descriptive name" must now appear on the label of any poultry product containing a basting or similar additive. The revised regulations also detail the way solution ingredients must be listed on the label.

Additives used for basting and similar purposes will have to be approved by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, and so must the processing plant's product control procedures. To gain this approval, the producer must control the amount of solution to comply with the new limit, provide for proper disposition of product not in compliance unless it is reprocessed, and set up a control system which can be monitored by USDA inspectors. He must also see that his product complies with the labeling used for its identification.

C&MS officials explained that the regulation changes stemmed from its review of the 37 comments it received after requesting public comments on poultry additives last year. An Oct. 8, 1970, Federal Register notice invited interested persons to comment before Nov. 9, 1970, on the scope of any formal proposal which might be issued. When USDA received requests for additional comment time, the period for public comments was extended until Jan. 11, 1971.

Comments received from the poultry industry, consumers and consumer groups during this period covered all aspects of the use of basting additives in poultry.
