

Pfister Comments on Top Issues

Editor's Note: Jim Pratt, a junior at the University of Nebraska, majoring in Journalism, wrote the following exclusive story, at the request of The Wayne Herald, concerning viewpoints on major issues before the Legislature of LeRoy Pfister, recently appointed senator from Nebraska's 17th District, which includes Wayne, Dixon and Dakota Counties.)

Of the many issues facing the 1972 Unicameral, Senator LeRoy Pfister of the 17th District says the most important is reduced state spending and personal property tax relief.

"The most important issue right now is the holding-the-line policy of Gov. Egan's on state spending and to reduce the personal property tax and the real estate tax in the state of Nebraska," the recently-appointed legislator said in an interview last week in Lincoln.

Pfister supports Egan's personal property tax plan over that of Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton. (Egan's plan would provide a 50 per cent exemption after six years and a $1,000 maximum refund. Burbach's would reach 90 per cent after seven years.)

"I'm definitely in favor of Gov. Egan's plan to reduce it gradually," Pfister said.

"These things cannot be eliminated immediately. They're going to have to be phased out gradually, and this is the governor's plan."

"This gradual phasing-out and the economic growth in sales and income tax will eliminate most personal property and real estate taxes within 5-10 years," Pfister predicted.

Pfister said: "I'm sure everyone would like to see Sen. Burbach's plan, and it would be fine if it could work, but it just can't."

"The governor's plan is a much better plan than Burbach's, because Burbach's plan would affect the schools and the county court-houses in dire need of funds," he added.

How will the Legislature settle the issue?

"I haven't the slightest idea," Pfister said.

Pfister called the budget the "next greatest issue." "I would like to see a dollar value for a dollar spent, that's it," he said.

"I am not in a position to waste money in my own affairs, and I don't feel that we should be wasting money in our state government."

On another controversial topic, no-fault insurance, Pfister said, "I would like to see a no-fault insurance plan adopted."

"I think it would eliminate a lot of problems, notably, sharing money in solving an accident settlement. Each party would be satisfied sooner."

The 47-year-old Senator said he was not sure which no-fault insurance plan he preferred. "I'm not knowledgeable enough in this field to go into any depth," he said.

Although he favors the concept now, Pfister said, "When I go to studying it, maybe I'll have a different opinion."

What do his constituents think?

"The ones I have had feedback from are in favor of no-fault insurance, if it's a good, sound law," Pfister remarked.

The senator noted the decline of small, family farms and the growth of large, corporate farms.

"We've got to work out some kind of a plan of supporting and helping the small community and the small farmer," Pfister said.

Pfister declined to comment on whether President Richard M. Nixon's controversial appointee, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, might help or hurt the small farmer.

"The man hasn't been in there long enough to really tell what his ideas on certain things are," he said.

Appointed Dec. 17 by Gov. J. J. Egan to replace retired Sen. Elmer Walliway of Emerson, Pfister says he enjoys his new position.

He said he has helped get some work started on completion of two new bridges (I-29 and Hwy. 20) over the Missouri

Truck Takes Ditch to Avoid Hitting a Car

Both the tractor and trailer units of a semi were extensively damaged at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday when the driver, Bill Hawkins of Winside, went into a ditch three miles west of Wayne on Highway 35 while avoiding a collision with a car making a left turn at an intersection.

The truck is owned by Schmoe-Welle Transfer of Winside.

The driver of the car, James J. Rohrbach of Niobrara, who was working in the Wayne area, said he started to make a left turn and when he saw the approaching truck, swerved back to the right lane.

Hawkins went into the ditch at the southeast corner of the intersection to avoid hitting the car. Visibility was poor at the time and the highway was slick.

The Wayne County sheriff's department investigated the mishap.

Bill Hawkins of Winside, driver of this truck that went into a ditch to avoid colliding with a car Wednesday morning during blizzard-like conditions on Highway 35, three miles west of Wayne, had a close call as his tractor stopped just short of hitting a couple of poles, helped also by the fact that the trailer jack-knifed.

Guest Clinician Appeared With Various Name Bands

The second annual Stage Band Clinic sponsored by Wayne State College will bring 10 high school bands to the campus Saturday for a day of playing to the critical ear of guest clinician Roger Pemberton, New York City.

Pemberton and the Wayne State stage band, directed by Dr. Lee Mendyk, will give a demonstration of jazz improvisation and the necessity of saxophonists doubling on other woodwind instruments. This is scheduled from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Starting at 8 a.m. Pemberton will give constructive criticism of each band's performance, then he will rehearse each band for the rest of its allotted 30 minutes.

Pemberton has appeared as soloist with the Indiana University band, where he earned a master's degree in music, and with the orchestras of Woody Herman, Ralph Marterie, Buddy Morrow, Ray Anthony and Don Jacoby. He was an instrumental soloist at the 1957 East appearing with vocalist Peggy Lee.

Most recently, Pemberton has worked with the Merv Griffin television show as arranger and artist, playing lead alto saxophone and doubling on clarinet, flute and piccolo.

Since 1961 he has taught at the Indiana University School of Music.

Other committee chairmen who will serve during the month-long campaign are Mrs. Richard Janney in Carroll and Mrs. Wayne Gilliland in the rural areas of Wayne County.

The menu will consist of pancakes, sausage and either milk or coffee.

Flurry of Fender-Benders Continues

The recent rash of property damage accidents continued, as January ended with six more mishaps on Wayne streets and February began with another two accidents.

One of the Tuesday wrecks involved four cars at Seventh and Main at 10:13 p.m. A southbound car driven by Kenneth Benders of West Point was stopped at the traffic signal and was hit in the back by Jean Elain Wilder of Akron, Iowa. Charles Plesner of 204 W. Fourth, in an attempt to miss the other vehicles, hit a northbound car driven by Yvonne Frances Brunks of Auburn, Iowa.

Another Tuesday mishap, at 2:21 p.m., saw a car driven by Lon Allen Reams of St. Paul, Minn., hit by a Joy Lynn Rawson of Kingsley, Iowa, the latter vehicle pulling out of a parking lot.

Two collisions related to icy streets occurred Saturday. The intersection of Sixth and Main was the scene of one of the fender-benders, as a car driven by Ricky L. Leapley, Belden, struck a car driven by Robert R. Langenberg of rural Hoskins. The Langenberg car was stopped behind other cars at the intersection. Leapley apparently was unable to stop due to slippery driving conditions, and struck the Langenberg vehicle from the rear.

A broadside collision at the intersection of West Second and Lincoln resulted in $388 damage to a car driven by Helen A. Beckman, 120 Lincoln, and front end damage to a car driven by Charles R. Schultz, 314 Sherman. See ACCIDENTS, page 6.

Nearly Half of Population Under Age 18 or Over 65

LINCOLN—A study of statistics gathered in the 1970 census suggests that age distribution of the population presents problems in at least half of the counties in Nebraska.

This analysis is made by Mrs. Dorothy Switzer in an article prepared for the January issue of Business in Nebraska, publication of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Mrs. Switzer notes that there are 36 counties in the state in which 50 per cent or more of the population is under 18 and aged 65 or over, while in an additional 11 counties, the proportion was 49 per cent or more.

Counties having high proportions of persons aged 65 and over and a high proportion of those under age 18 thus had below-average proportions of the population in the working-age group.

The economic base in those counties was likely to be lower than in counties having larger percentages of population in the prime income-earning age brackets, she concludes.

She suggests that these age factors have a direct bearing on some of the critical fiscal problems that the state faces and that they constitute a challenge to find additional ways in which older citizens particularly, may make even more meaningful contributions to the ongoing life of their communities and the state.

The survey shows that in Wayne County, 28 per cent are under 18 years of age and 12.2 per cent over 65, putting 40.2 per cent of the county's total population in those two age groups.

The statistics on bordering counties, with percentages in the under-18 group listed first, followed by the percentages for those over 65:

Dixon, 34.3, 17.1; Stanton, 36.2, 13.9; Pierce, 35.2, 15.3; Madison, 32.7, 14.9; Thurston, 38.9, 12.4; Cedar, 41.1, 14.6; Cumming, 35.5, 14.8.

'Togetherness' at Wakefield Hospital

By Brenda Gustafson

Family shows predominated at the Wakefield Community Hospital during the month of January.

"Like Father, Like Son" could be the title of the Corbit family feature.

On Jan. 19 Bill Corbit of rural Wayne entered the hospital with a ruptured appendix. Three days after Corbit's release from the hospital his six-year-old son, Tim, had surgery—an appendectomy.

Corbit, whose appendix had ruptured two days before he went to the hospital and who had a 10-day bout with the flu previous to that, has had a slow and painful recovery.

Tim, on the other hand, was sitting up in bed the day after his operation, playing with a full tray of equalization, by his company. By the second day, Tim was up and around.

Corbit watches his son's speedy recovery with a mixture of wonder, envy, and thankfulness in his eyes. "I didn't feel like that," he said. "On my second day I was still trying to raise up off the bed."

As Tim bent from standing position to touch the floor, Corbit, who still has difficulty bending over, just shook his head.

"Sons and Mothers" is another title that could be given to the Tim Corbit feature. Ten minutes after six-year-old Tim entered the hospital, seven-year-old Alan Lindsay of Wayne, entered. Alan's reason—an appendectomy.

Tim's mother, Sharon, and Alan's mother, Jeanne, haven't left their sons' sides.

Alan, a second-grader at St. Mary's, didn't know Tim, a first-grader at Wayne Elementary, before the boys became roommates; but a fast friendship seems to be developing.

This friendship includes the boys' mothers. When the boys received their first meal on Monday night, they were concerned that their mothers weren't eating at that time. "I'll share with you, Mom," said Alan.

After supper the boys played several games of dominoes with their mothers.

If one of the boys' Hot Wheels should stray across the hall, it might come to a halt in Mrs. Gene Wheeler's room.

Another Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wheeler of Allen, are another Family Affair. Wheeler entered the hospital Jan. 1, following his third heart attack. His wife, Opal, entered the hospital Jan. 19 and had surgery the following Saturday.

Wheeler has been hospitalized for over 100 days during his three hospital stints since last September.

"I only missed two days visiting Gene before I entered the hospital myself," said Mrs. Wheeler.

"Little did I dream that I would be here too," she said. Wheeler said that it is a good thing that he has not been released from the hospital before his wife entered.

"It's a lot easier on me, the shape I'm in, to be here instead of worrying about going back and forth from home," he said.

"This way Opal doesn't have to worry about what I'm doing," See TOGETHERNESS, page 6.

Scholarship at Winside Honors Former Teacher

A scholarship fund has been started at the Wayne High School in memory of the late Ruth E. Troutman, a former mathematics and science teacher at Winside.

Mrs. Troutman taught from 1930 to 1938, and from 1939 until her retirement in 1968.

The new award is called the Ruth Schindler Troutman Memorial Scholarship, and will be given each year to a Winside High School graduate who continues his or her education in mathematics or a related field.

The scholarship fund will provide $100 for the recipient. Income for the fund will be provided by money donated by Mrs. Troutman's relatives, and by memorials given at the time of her death.

Charge Filed In Wayne Drug Case

Blair Thomas Hagman, 21, Wayne, and Jeff Modde, 20, of Hartington, were charged with unlawful sale, delivery or disposition of depressant or stimulant or counterfeit drugs after being arrested by Wayne law officials Monday.

Both men appeared in Wayne County Court late Monday afternoon and waived preliminary hearing. County Judge Lawrence Hilton bound the two over to District Court and set bond for each at $2,500. Both are being held in Wayne County Jail in lieu of bond.

In another area drug-related incident, two Norfolk men were arrested Saturday and charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance, and unlawful possession of marijuana. Arrested in an early-morning raid by Norfolk police and agents of the County Sheriff's office and State Patrol, were Gene Langenberg, 24, and Robert Nelson, 24, both of Norfolk.

Both men are free on $1,000 bond.

Board Reviews Tax Exemptions

The Wayne County Commissioners met Tuesday and, acting as a board of equalization, reviewed 72 applications for property tax exemptions from religious and charitable organizations. The three board members signed all but two of the requests, tabling the two for further study.

The commissioners also signed warrants for payment of outstanding bills.

No other action was taken. The commissioners will meet again Feb. 15.

NORTHEAST EXTENSION Notes

by Myrtle Anderson

Product safety is making front page news in practically all areas of consumer goods. Homemakers are concerned with safety in the home. The appliances industry is working with concerned groups in and out of government to improve design and quality control so that homemakers will have the safest possible home appliances.

The safe use of appliances really for one thing, on proper installation. Many appliances require adequate clearances, as between a range and cabinets over it. Television sets get hot and should not be enclosed in unventilated cabinets even though some decorators prefer to conceal them. Certain gas appliances must be vented; gas space heaters should not be used in sleeping areas. Read the specification sheets that the dealer has before buying and see that directions for correct installation are followed.

There must be adequate power available. Don't overload circuits. Use only one major appliance on a circuit. Many portable appliances now use more current than the old ones to give faster and better performance so it is wise to limit the number of these on a circuit.

If there is a three-pronged plug on an appliance, it is there for a reason. If the wall receptacle won't take it, have the receptacle changed; do not tamper with the plug.

Keep appliances in good repair and clean. Worn cords and plugs should be replaced correctly. Unplug toasters, can openers, blenders and such before wiping off with damp cloth. Locate these far enough away from the sink so there is no danger of their falling into the sink when in use.

A collection of grease can be a fire hazard. Wash burners on a range to keep them operating properly. If they are clogged with a spillover, use a straightened paper clip to clean rather than a wooden toothpick which could break off.

WSC Wrestlers Eye NAIA Meet

According to the timetable of Wayne State Wrestling Coach Bob Kruse, progress is good toward the season goal. That goal

Intramural-Festival To Be at NU-Lincoln

Wayne State College is among 11 Nebraska four-year schools planning to participate in the first annual Nebraska Intramural Festival April 21-22 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The festival will include men's paddle ball, men's basketball, co-recreational volleyball, mixed doubles in tennis and mixed doubles in badminton.

Dan Steller, director of intramurals and recreation at NU, said other four-year colleges indicating interest in participating are University of Nebraska at Omaha, Creighton, Kearney, Peru, Concordia, Dana, Midland, Wesleyan, Hastings and the host school.

It is expected that future intramural festivals will be held at different sites.

is the national NAIA meet next month.

Progress is measured by several factors. For one, the dual meet record now 5-5 after several early losses against big-time competition. For another, several Wildcat wrestlers who had early troubles now are winning. And still another, the stalwarts who were supposed to be winners are winners.

Walhill Winner Of Jr. High Meet

Winside Junior High dropped a 4-30 decision to Walhill in the championship finals of the Emerson basketball tournament Saturday night after having beaten Ponca, 27-11, and Newcastle, 36-13, in earlier rounds.

Ponca defeated Wakefield for consolation honors. Other teams in the meet were Homer, Allen and the host school.

Norm Libengood and Bob Hoffman were the big scorers for Winside throughout the meet.

example, is undefeated in 15 matches. Significantly, the 155-pound (or close to that) Coles usually has been heavily out-weighted in most matches, but handled his opponents with ease.

Then there's Ron Monroe, still undefeated with 12 wins and one draw. The junior who won a national title as a freshman and placed second last year at 167 in the nationals, has been going at 177 all season, but will eventually drop to 167 where he is most effective against national caliber opposition.

A pleasant addition to the squad is Wayne freshman Jim Meyer, who has won nine of 12 matches at 126 pounds. Kruse says of Meyer, "He doesn't do anything spectacular. He just gets out there and makes the right moves—usually doesn't build up a big score, but takes advantage of the openings."

Tom Luth, sophomore 158-pounder who may drop to 150 in late season, has an 8-1 mark after starting in January. He has strong potential in the nationals, Kruse believes.

Frank Ruennen came on recently to challenge Denny Reid at 190 and now has a 3-0 mark. It's a tossup before every meet which one will win the 190 job. John Kletnick is 8-5, mostly at 167 pounds, but probably will go down to 158 when Monroe invades that class.

Boxing Card Scheduled For Feb. 26

St. Mary's fourth annual boxing smother will be held Feb. 26 at 8 p.m. at City Auditorium with matchmaker Gary Wiebehaus expecting to have a card lined up of approximately 15 matches.

Boxers are expected from Wisner, South Sioux City, Sioux City, Lincoln, Norfolk, Creighton, and Wayne State College.

Anyone who is interested in getting on the card is asked to contact Wiebehaus at 515 W. Fourth at least two weeks prior to the date of the matches. Wiebehaus said he would have to have all fighters lined up around Feb. 10, so as to draw up the matches at that time.

Cliff Ginn is in charge of advance sales, with ringside tickets selling for $2.50 and general admission tickets at $1.50. Tickets also will be sold at the door. Boy Scout Troop 175 will have a concession stand at the auditorium during the matches.

Wayne Frosh Cagers Fall to Norfolk

The Wayne High Freshmen dropped their second game in eight outings this season Monday, bowing to Norfolk Public in a high-scoring tilt, 70-59.

Dan Johnson's yearlings had a 16-12 edge at the end of the first period and a nine-point advantage at 32-23 at halftime, but couldn't match the 47-point second-half pace of the visitors.

Wayne was down, 49-46, after being outscored by 26 to 14 in the third, and fell farther off the pace in the fourth as Norfolk collected another 21 to the locals 13.

With just 1:40 left in the second fourth, the Wayne frosh retreated by only 58-57, but a Norfolk fast break added several Wayne turnovers and fouls, allowed Norfolk to move out to a comfortable margin.

Wayne outbounded the taller Norfolk quint, 41 to 49, with Bob Keating and Rod Hoops each picking off 12 and Earl Overin, 10. But in the shooting department, the Norfolk club had a big edge, 48 per cent from the field, compared to 39 by Wayne.

Roger Chamberlin of the winners took game laurels with 25, aided by teammate Mike Test's 19. Overin was high for Wayne with 20, Keating contributed 16 and Rick Mitchell, 12. Marty Hansen, who chipped in eight, fouled out early in the fourth.

Wayne, which had lost only to David City Aquinas before Monday's defeat, plays Pierce next Monday at 4 p.m.

Men's Recreation League Basketball Features a Trio of Close Contests

Team No. 6 and Team No. 2 came from behind in the second half to post victories in Men's Recreation League basketball Monday night, while Team No. 3 made a two-point intermission-lead hold up for a 61-53 win over Team No. 1.

Six Hilltop potted 12 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter to lead Team 2 past Team 5 by a two-point margin, 55-53. The losers had a 10-point advantage at 41-31 entering the fourth after 13-10 and 22-20 edges in the first two frames.

Mike Bilhoff canned 14 and Bill Woehler, 11, for the losers; Bill Workman was winners' runner-up with 10.

The opener of the triple-header was closer, still, Team 6 winning a tight tussle with Team 4 by a single point, 64-63.

That game was nip and tuck all the way, No. 6 on top by 19-15 at the end of the first but trailing by 37-35 at half-time. The score was locked at 51-all after three quarters of action.

Ron Dabon and John Dorsey formed a potent one-two punch for the winners with 22 and 21 points respectively, aided by the 11 on the part of Dick Dittman. Team 4 also had a three-pronged attack in John Mason (17), Darrell Doetscher (15) and Wayne Wessel (14).

Don Koerber paced Team 3 in the finale with a 22-point production, Herb Swan potting another 17 and Dick Metteer, 12.

Team 1 had led by 16-13 at the end of the first stanza, but fell behind by two, 27-15, at the intermission and had a bad third quarter, scoring only eight points, to trail by 49-33 heading into the stretch.

John Meyer's 13 topped the losers' scoring. Rex Murray and Don Hansen had another 10 apiece.

Together —

The bad thing, said Wheeler, is that "this has been such a slice." Some problems—12 point
Mrs. Wheeler said there were some problems associated with having both members of the family hospitalized at the same time.

"I had to give my Stinson car, 'Fisher,' away," she said. "Then had to prepare to leave just like when going on vacation. I had to get the paper stopped, the bills paid, the vacuuming done. And I had to get things lined up with the girl who rents our basement apartment."
Wheeler and his wife are not in the same room. Wheeler walks up from his room to his wife's every day. "I have the paper drops in to assist several times during the day, and comes up to say goodnight each night."
"Some people wonder why we don't ask to be put in the same room," said Wheeler, "but we wouldn't want to be in the same room."
"If one of us would have a little basket, it would just make the other more upset," he said.
When Gene Wheeler entered the hospital the first of January, there was another family showing in the making.
On Dec. 29, seven-year-old Sherry Ulrich of Martinsburg had an appendectomy. On Sunday, Jan. 2, Sherry's baby brother, Eric Gene, was born. Eric Gene was the 1972 New Year's baby at the Wakefield Hospital.

Savings Bond Sales in Wayne County Exceed Quota by 7.2 Per Cent for 1971

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds in Wayne County during 1971 totaled $164,902, according to Tolly F. Ley, county chairman. December sales of $4,507 pushed the county to 107.2 per cent of quota for the year.

Statewide sales during the year amounted to $1.5 billion, for an increase of almost $2 million over 1970, yielding an overall gain of 21 per cent. The increase represented 118.6 per cent of the 1971 state sales quota.

Ley attributed the increase in sales in part to the continued one-half of one per cent bonus interest rate paid on E and H Bonds, making the overall rate 5.5 per cent, when the bonds are held to maturity.

Among neighboring counties, Dakota County showed the highest percentage of sales over quota, with a 23.8 per cent gain over 1970, yielding 121.8 per cent over quota. Cumulative gains for the year were: Clay County, 149.7 per cent; Douglas County, 124.3 per cent; Madison County, 107.2 per cent; with sales of $1,007,812. Stanton was the only other neighboring county.

Early Days Recalled

William Janke who observed his 83rd birthday with friends and relatives at his home in Windsor Thursday, reminisced recently his early days in Nebraska.

Born Jan. 27, 1889, in Germany, he came with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Janke, to Wayne when he was two and a half years old. They lived with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Sorenson, in Windsor, until a one-room farm home was located for the family of six.

After two years more rooms were added. Teams and wagons would leave from south of Windsor in the early morning for an area around the Elkhorn River, and return that evening with lumber and sawed lumber posts were made from Elkhorn trees.

Mr. Janke recalls going barefoot to herd 45 head of cattle for his family and neighbors at the age of five. A shepherd dog, "Shep," was his close friend and killed many of the snakes, which with gophers, infested the prairie where the cattle grazed.

Janke received his education in a rural school south of Windsor, but didn't start at an early age because of the coyotes in the area which often attacked small children. His sisters, Martha and Bertha, attended the same school.

Accidents —

Schultz was eastbound on West Second, and the Beckman vehicle was northbound on Lexington, when the two cars met at the intersection. Neither vehicle was able to stop because of icy streets. The left side of the Beckman vehicle was damaged, with front end damage listed for the Schultz car.

A third Saturday mishap appeared to be a hit and run. Mrs. Doris Jacobmeyer, 1312 Meadow Lane, reported that her car, which had been parked in the 100 block of East Second had been struck in the left rear panel.

Two "backup" collisions were reported Monday. According to police reports, a car driven by Sandra Forester, Standish, was backing up in the Super Valu parking lot when it struck a parked car owned by Jim Thomas, 108 Williford, Wayne. The Thomas vehicle suffered rear end damage.

Slow Tire Leak Poses Threat

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The results of a leaky faucet might be lack of sleep or an expensive water bill, but the consequences of a slow leak of air from a tire could be much more disastrous, according to highway safety researchers.

The Tire Industry Safety Council says a recent study conducted by the British Automobile Association indicates leaky or severely underinflated tires may be the prime factor in road mishaps involving the unexplainable "cross-over" type of accident.

"The researchers found that a motorist can drive for many miles and not be aware there was anything wrong," says Rose R. Ormsby, chairman of the Council. "Then when the driver stops in the gas pump and realizes the vehicle or changes lanes to pass, there can be a sudden and drastic loss of control."

Bulletin Explains School Financing

LINCOLN—Nebraskans have an opportunity to gain an understanding of public school finance in the state through a new bulletin published by the Bureau of Educational Research and Field Services at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The bulletin represents a summary of current Nebraska public school receipts and expenditures; state revenue for public schools; state support for public schools, and federal aid for schools. It was prepared by Dr. C. Cale Hudson, an associate professor in the NU Department of Educational Administration.

Dr. Hudson states that this bulletin has been prepared on the premise that it can present the basic system of school finance in Nebraska in a manner that will encourage more people to study the problem both in practice and theory.

Copies of the bulletin, "Understanding Public School Finance in Nebraska, 1971-72," can be obtained from the University Extension Division, 511 Nebraska Hall, 901 N. 17th Street, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, 68508.

Stop the Music

The stage was set for entertainment at the White House Friday night, as President Nixon and his 150 guests dined back after the Medal of Freedom dinner to enjoy the music of the Ray Conniff Singers.

If you don't like what's going on, muscle everyone out and take over. Supporters of Causes, from Martha Mitchell to Carol Ferafi, seem to feel they have the right to hijack the spotlight whenever their righteous indignation compels them to speak.

Incidentally, Mrs. Mitchell was present at the dinner, and when asked by reporters how she felt about the incident, Martha, typically tactful and soft-spoken, stated that Miss Ferafi "should be torn limb from limb."

We regret the fact that our position on this matter puts us in Mrs. Mitchell's camp, but we agree that Miss Ferafi should not have made that speech. Those who wish to express their opinions can picket in front of the White House, or mount a soapbox on any street corner. They can write letters to their Congressmen and letters to the editor.

The issues and the political persuasions of those involved are of no importance here. The situation could easily be reversed, with a conservative replacing a liberal president. The fact remains that there is a proper time and place for protest.

Meanwhile, back at the choral, Ray Conniff and his singers will continue to ply their trade, albeit without the stimulating presence of Carol Ferafi. This is one performance the group is not likely to forget.

Well, Ray, that's show biz. — Joel Knutson

Spending Tax Dollar

This is the time of year when decisions are being made which are of tremendous importance to every property owner, but the average taxpayer doesn't appear to care enough about how his money is being spent to attend the public meetings where it is decided just how his tax dollar is to be distributed.

But he sure gives 'em heck at the morning coffee breaks or saves up all his fury to rip the hide off the county assessor or county treasurer when he appears to pay his taxes.

Those fellows don't set the tax rate, everyone knows that. They just follow the directions of the people who elect them. The guy whose money is being spent should be interested in how it is to be doled out—before and during the time the meetings are held and before the issue is closed. He, through the proper channels, is entitled to voice his "two cents worth" of opinion.

On the wall in the county assessor's office is a big "sliced pie," showing where your tax dollar goes.

By far the biggest slice of all is the $1,800,000 allowed to education—72.32 cents out of every one of those tax dollars collected by the county.

The county's share is $440,000, or 17.65 per cent, and the city gets $210,000, or 8.75 cents out of each tax dollar.

If this distribution of tax money does not meet with a person's approval, we would suggest that he express himself NOW—to the ones spending his money.

Not later at the county assessor's or county treasurer's office. —Claire Hurlbert

An Open Letter to the Johnson Family: There are many nice things about living in Wayne. Phones Outnumber People in D. C.

Americans have more telephones and use them more often than anyone else in the world, according to figures released by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The United States, with 120.2 million phones in service as the year began, had five times as many phones as second place Japan, which reported 23.2 million. The United Kingdom was third with 15 million.

There were 58.35 telephones per hundred Americans, but in Washington, D. C., the phones outnumber the residents. The nation's capital could double as the world's telephone capital with 116.9 telephones for every 100 residents.

Both Nebraska cities listed in the booklet—Omaha and Lincoln—are far ahead of the national average in telephones per hundred population. In the state capital, there are 107,000 telephones, or 64 per hundred residents. Omahas have 132,000 telephones, or 72.3 per hundred residents.

In the world rankings, Sweden placed second with 56.37 phones per hundred and Switzerland was third with 48.26 per hundred residents.

The rate of overseas calling increased markedly. In 1970, there were more than 26 million telephone calls between the United States and nations abroad, over seven times the number completed in 1960.

The number of overseas calls, AT&T estimates, will reach 33 million this year, an increase of 27 per cent over 1970.

Telephone circuits from the United States to the rest of the world were expanded by more than 500 per cent in the past 10 years. Telephone users in all 50 states now have access to over 97 per cent of the world's telephones.

Government Operation Budget Debate Certain

LINCOLN—Floor debate was scheduled to begin this week on the expenditure of a half-billion dollars for the operation of state government.

The Legislature set up the beginning of floor discussions on the budget bill for Tuesday of this week after taking the unprecedented action last week of taking the measure out of the hands of the Budget Committee before a committee majority was ready to let it go.

Budget Chairman Richard D. Marvel of Hastings told his colleagues the committee had agreed essentially as long ago as Dec. 15 on the basic ingredients of the operations budget measure.

He said he had tried to get a committee vote to advance the bill to the floor for consideration without success. After the last attempt, Marvel said, he decided to put the committee members to work on studying present and past reform bills to convene them again this week for another crack at advancing the bill.

Five of the nine members of Marvel's committee said that when they were ready to act on the bill, Marvel wouldn't call a meeting. One of the five—Sen. John Savage of Omaha—referred to the chairman as a "dictator."

The five-member majority claimed Marvel delayed convening the committee because he didn't agree with changes they wanted to make in the budget proposal.

The issue was whether state agencies should be given their appropriations for the 1972-73 fiscal year in a lump sum as the committee majority wished—or by programs with a spending limit on each program—as Marvel has advocated.

At the same time the Legislature was discussing whether to raise the bill from the committee, the five senators were asking on the floor that Marvel be ordered to convene the committee.

During the parliamentary maneuvering, the motion to withdraw the bill from committee was dealt with before the motion to direct Marvel to call a committee meeting.

After the first motion—introduced by Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln—was passed, there was no need for the second one.

Gov. J. James Exon, arguing that spending flexibility is needed in a tighter budget, has been urging that appropriations be made in lump sums. He made the same request last year, but was turned down.

This time, however, he had a majority of the committee on his side. When it turned out the bill was put on the floor before any action could be taken in committee on the flexibility question, Exon said he might introduce his own budget bill to put the issue before the Legislature.

Although several governors have talked about putting their budget recommendations into bill form, none has. Exon's predecessor, Norbert T. Tiemann, had said he would have offered his budget in bill form to the 1971 Legislature had he been re-elected.

Exon Recommendations: Exon already had his recommendations—which he delivered in his budget message early in the session—translated into bill form.

There are dollar differences between the appropriations suggested by Exon and in the bill the committee was preparing, but they aren't great.

Out of nearly $200 million in general fund—or state tax—spending, the committee bill is only $1 million larger than the Exon recommendation.

The key issue is the amount of flexibility the lawmakers are willing to grant to administrators—not the amount of dollars.

During the decade he has served as budget chairman, Marvel has sought to lead the executive branch so the Legislature can be sure the money it appropriates is spent the way the senators intended.

Marvel's committee began by sending letters of intent to the agencies, explaining how the budget committee expected the appropriation to be used. The letters, according to the attorney general, had no legal weight—and many state departments ignored them.

The committee then began writing its instructions into the budget bill as an expression of intent. But this, too, was ruled informative, but not binding on the administrators.

So, beginning in 1969, Marvel's committee broke the appropriations down into programs and said an agency couldn't spend any more for any single program than was listed in the bill.

That had sticking power. But Exon has argued that it prevents an administrator from making wise use of his funds. If he runs short of money to perform a vital service, he still can't shift the funds from another program which has a surplus.

As an example, he said, he family budget. One way would be to say the housewife has $200 a month to operate the household. Under the flexibility concept, she can spend that however she thinks best as long as she keeps food on the table, clothes on the family's back, hair cut and all the other things she is expected to provide.

Under the program budgeting philosophy, she would get an amount for food, another for clothing, another for haircuts and so on. If company were coming and the food bill was likely to go up, Mrs. Housewife still couldn't dip into the clothing budget—even if she wasn't going to need a new dress. She would have to get along the best she could at the grocery store and have a surplus in the clothing fund, which may or may not be "reappropriated" for the next month.

February 5, 1942: R. J. Brandtetter and co., O. K. Brandtetter, Le Mars, Iowa, bought the Simon Strick John Perry implement firm in Wayne and took charge this week. The city of Wayne, as well as surrounding towns, have all accepted the nation's "war-time" schedule and will soon forget their timepieces have been turned ahead an hour. Ray Harmer's car was taken from the Carroll business district Saturday night. It was found abandoned Sunday south of town. A shotgun, scotch, shovel, blanket and a pair of gloves were taken from it. George Monk, Dixon tractor, lost the middle finger on his left hand when his glove got caught in a corn elevator chain. Harry Adams, Estherville, Iowa, is in charge of the Peoples Natural Gas business in Wakefield. Mr. Adams replaces Delmar Fitch who goes to Seattle to accept a position, having finished a Diesel engine course. Fire broke out Tuesday afternoon in the C. B. Thompson barn, west of Wayne Sales pavilion. About $200 damage was done before the fire was controlled.

February 6, 1947: Winter took a second tight grip on this area last Wednesday and Thursday when snow, wind and cold combined to halt travel and other activities. Nine inches of snow was recorded by the State National Bank gauge and thermometers registered 10 to 12 degrees below zero. No school was held last Thursday and Friday in Winside, Wakefield, Hoskins and Sholes. Wakefield basketball boys who went to Ponca Friday evening were able to get only as far as Allen on their return trip and were housed in the Allen school for the night.

They returned to Ponca Saturday to finish the tournament. The Shir Isaac farm sale, set for last Thursday, was postponed until Monday and the Henry Maw farm sale was postponed until Feb. 7. Melvin Rothmiller, blind youth, has established a radio repair shop in one of Verne Thompson's cottages west of the college. The Cornhusker Garavan will be on display at the Wayne city auditorium Monday. It consists of a truck and trailer on which model displays have been constructed and carries 30 feet of exhibits.

River Commission to Aid Rural Development

A sizeable part of the solution to the need for rural redevelopment in Nebraska can be provided by the establishment on Jan. 24, 1972, of the Upper Missouri River Regional Commission.

The Commission will be a joint effort with the federal government by the states of Nebraska, South and North Dakota, Wyoming and Montana to promote economic development. Congress voted funds for this commission in 1970, but they were held up by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget. I have been working for release of these funds since before I was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

First work of the commission will be to develop a comprehensive plan for development of the entire region. The initial appropriation for this fiscal year is $300,000 to be used for staff and services involved in collecting facts and beginning planning on a regional basis.

The Upper Missouri River-Regional Commission is the sixth of its kind formed in the nation. Based on changes in population between 1960 and 1970, the Upper Missouri is needed more than any of the other. The Upper Missouri River five-state area had a population gain of only 1.7 per cent during the decade of the 1960's. The other commissions—Upper Great Lakes, Coastal Plains, Ozarks, New England and Four Corners—had population gains of 6.8 to 13.5 per cent. Of course, some of the other regions do have more unemployment and lower standards of living.

Upside Down Logic

A North Carolina magazine, "The State," observed some upside down logic in a recent publication.

"We have courts that protect criminals and condemn law officials; public officials who advocate violence instead of order; artists who win prizes for ugliness instead of beauty; moralists who condemn ethics and exalt license; ministers who preach against a Divinity, and 'peacocks' who aid our enemies.

"Our region definitely has not been sharing recently in the nation's growth. Between 1950 and 1960, each of the five states had population gains of between 2.1 and 14.2 per cent. In the following 10 years, however, Nebraska showed the best gain for the U.S.

"Nebraska's small gain looks less healthy when further examined. Sixty-seven of the state's 93 counties lost population during the 60's, and 23 counties in Cornhuskerland had their peak population in 1900 or earlier.

"The commission to develop this region will have each of the five governors as members. They will elect one of their number, on a rotating basis, as a co-chairman. President Nixon will appoint a federal co-chairman. Action by the Commission will require approval of a majority of the governors and the federal co-chairman.

"The commission will have the responsibility for deciding which state is most important to promote the economic development of the region. The Department of Commerce keeps statistics on four kinds of activities in which existing commissions have invested funds. Developing people to be good workers, through such efforts as vocational education, is the category that has received from 25 to 93 per cent of the funds among the five commissions. In other types of development, percentages of funds invested have varied among the commissions as follows: industrial development, 4 to 38 per cent; transportation, 3 to 34 per cent; natural resources, 0 to 28 per cent; and recreation and tourism, 0 to 22 per cent.

"In addition to planning and administration funds, the commission is expected to have $2-3 million in federal funds annually to invest in projects.

"Since Nebraska has about 40 per cent of the population of the Upper Missouri region, I am working both to have a Nebraska man named as federal co-chairman and to have the commission headquartered in our state.

"We must find ways to stop overcrowding of cities and to attract industry to small towns. In our area, establishment of the Upper Missouri River Regional Commission is a giant step in that direction."

A Beef Comment -

By Walt Tolman

Area Beef Specialist - University of Nebraska - Northeast Station

Remarkable success in controlling wastes from several "problem" cattle feedlots indicates stockmen should reconsider any waste control planning which has been delayed.

One Colfax County lot frequently partly flooded by a creek was diked and the "run-off" was pumped up for irrigation use. Cost sharing under the farm program made the project very attractive financially.

Drainage from a large area above another feedlot in the county was diverted with considerable improvement in lot condition as well as waste control.

Mounds for the cattle to rest on in muddy seasons and pumping liquid accumulation to a plastic-lined, above-ground-level settling basin improved a third, low-level-laying lot in lot settling basins aid in reducing heat stress to cattle, several feeders who have tried them believe.

Redesigning lots to improve waste management has usually been found to result in greater animal comfort and efficiency such as providing drier resting places for cattle in wet weather or convenience in feed handling, Wayne Fisher, Northeast Station

There will be little expense and likely if there is expense it will be more than compensated for by improved lot conditions for cattle comfort. If there is a serious waste disposal problem, correction will surely be necessary and will probably be more convenient if the lot owner chooses the time and method than if he is forced to make quick adjustments because of complaints.

It seems clear that stockmen will be required to meet public demands for proof of innocence of environmental damage. If a substantial number of "approved lots" can be shown by the Environmental Control Council, there should be less possibility of pressure for more rigid and demanding regulations and more aggressive enforcement which would cause hardship in making some of the difficult adjustments.

Assistance in planning waste control systems and applications for approved status of lots may be had from County Agents, the Soil Conservation Service and from private engineers.

Cow-Calf Workshops Scheduled at 2 Sites

A beef cow-calf workshop has been scheduled for Feb. 4 at the Emerson Fire Station, and Feb. 10 at the Northeast Station near Concord.

The workshops are designed for farmers who are interested in improving, enlarging or establishing beef cow herds.

The Emerson schedule:

Dr. Frank Baker, chairman of the Animal Husbandry Department at the University of Nebraska, will discuss the potential for cow-calf operations at 10 a.m., followed at 10:45 by a discussion on economics of cow-calf operations for northeast Nebraska by Phil Henderson, Extension economist at NU.

The afternoon session will begin at 1, with Jim Gosey, Extension beef specialist at NU discussing nutrition requirements and the utilization of roughage and later, at 1:45, Dr. Marvin Twiehaus, chairman of the Veterinary Science Department, talking on diseases, pregnancy testing and vaccination program for the cow-calf operation.

The Feb. 10 meeting at the Northeast Station will start at 7:30 p.m. Gosey will discuss the performance measures of a beef cow herd such as calving per cent, weaning weights, feeding efficiency and rate of gain. He also will review the goals a cow-calf operator will need to establish to keep him competitive in the 1970's and 1980's.

A representative of the Midwest Breeders Cooperative will discuss bills and the use of artificial insemination as a herd improvement tool.

These meetings are being sponsored by the Dixon, Dakota and Thurston County Extension Services and Midwest Breeders Cooperative.

Case Illustrates Need for Wills

When Millie was a small child, she was adopted by Maude and her husband. Maude and her husband died several years later. Many years after that, Millie died.

Millie was survived by her husband and by 20 of Maude's nieces and nephews. Although Millie left a substantial bank account, she did not leave a will.

A suit arose between Millie's widower and the 20 cousins to divide Millie's money. The cousins argued that, because Millie had left no will, her money should be divided under the intestacy laws of the state of Nebraska.

Under these laws, the surviving husband would be entitled to only a portion of the estate, while the other relatives of the deceased would be entitled to share in the balance of the estate. Millie's widower argued that Millie was not really Maude's child—she was only an adopted child. Thus, he contended, Maude's nieces and nephews were not really relatives of Millie, and he should receive the whole of Millie's estate as the only surviving heir.

The Nebraska Supreme Court recently held that the cousins could share in Millie's estate. The court noted that Nebraska's laws are among the most liberal in construing adoption statutes. Although at common law, adoption of heirs was unknown, modern statutes permit this, and adoption serves obvious humanitarian aspects and purposes.

The Nebraska statutes provide that the adopted child shall have all the rights, duties and other legal consequences of a natural child born in wedlock, and is to be considered the legal child of his adopted parents. Thus, the cousins may participate in Millie's estate.

This case illustrates the need for wills. It is possible that the estate will be divided as Millie would have wished. On the other hand, Millie might well have wished everything to pass to her widower, to some charitable organization, or even to one or a few among her adoptive cousins.

In the absence of a will, her wishes in the matter will be immaterial—her property will be divided according to legal formulae which are believed to be reasonable for general application, but which do not take into consideration specific family situations.

Farm Tractor Roll Bars Not Required

LENTOLA—Many Nebraska farmers may be wondering if roll bars or protective cabs are required on their farm tractors, particularly if an employee is driving the tractor.

According to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension safety specialist, the answer at this time is "no."

Hollis Schneider said although at present there is no requirement for protective equipment on "agricultural" tractors used for "agricultural purposes," he believes such a safety standard will be proposed in the near future.

A hearing held in Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 did relate to roll over protective structures for tractors used in "construction work," Schneider noted.

Rural Ramblings

'Togetherness' Is Starting Tractor

One nice thing about cold weather is that you and the Mrs. learn that sometimes you really need each other. It often requires a great amount of togetherness. And understanding. You actually do things together.

It's also one of the few times when you hesitate to call your neighbor for help. Most likely he and his Mrs. are working together on a familiar project.

Pulling a tractor to get it started.

Of course you know the older tractor with the loader will start because you used it this morning to loadilage. But you need to use the power take off on the newer tractor to grind feed. Besides, if you let that big tractor set too long during the cold weather, it might freeze and bust something.

You know from past experience to get the Mrs.' assistance "voluntarily" a lot of tact and diplomacy is required. But once you've assured her that she can drive the newer one with the cab on it, she consents. But then, she always says, "I'll be right back."

While you are getting a log chain and hooking up the tractor, she is donning her winter apparel. She comes out of the house looking like a little, fat eskimo.

You remark that she is dressed like it is going to take all day. She must have so many scarves around her neck, ears and head that she can't hear you. Anyway she doesn't answer you.

Silly Question

Instead she starts asking silly questions like "Did you turn on the key or pull out the starter button and is it full of gas?" This time you ignore her questions. Didn't you start this tractor every day last spring, summer and fall? If anyone knows how to start it, you should.

Nonetheless it does require fuel to start it but you filled the tank the last time you used it. Or was it the time before? Anyway, you aren't going to know. During the past hour you've checked and double checked everything remotely connected with the starting system. You think—but you're sure it's full of gas.

Once the Mrs. is seated in the cab you give her a couple last-minute instructions.

You've got it in the right gear for starting and all the switches are A-O-K for go. All she has to do is push the choke half way when it starts. And keep the clutch pushed in till you give her the signal. Then when the tractor starts she is to push it in and just let the tractor coast to stop.

Final Advice

Otherwise if she steps on the brakes it will jerk the other tractor weighed individually or together. One advantage in individual weights is that a substitution can be made in case of death loss. We will accept pen bids for buyers for the first time this year.

The starting weight not to exceed 3,000 pounds (total for five head on weigh day).

A similar program to get rate of gain on individual animals was adopted in 1967. The starting weights are now used to classify all market cattle at the county fair. One half the premium money is awarded the rate of gain.

Beef Project

In 1964 we announced in this column that Wayne County 4-H members would try a new beef project; this was to be a commercial pen lot consisting of five steers. We now have records on a total of 117 pens fed over the past eight years.

We get inquiries each year from other counties about this project.

Following is an example of how we try to describe the project and relate some of our experiences.

The commercial pen project shall consist of five steers weighing not more than 3,500 pounds when officially weighed and tagged about Mar. 1.

These cattle may not be fed with other than 4-H project animals. They are shown only at the annual sale held about Sept. 1. No special fitting is allowed—that is they are not to be haltered, washed or clipped.

Sales 21 Years

The first annual 4-H beef sale was held at Wayne in 1950. We have had continuous annual sales since that time. This event is held at the Wayne Sale Barn about a month after the county fair. The sale has been well supported at about the same premium level each year. Premiums paid on individual cattle has averaged about $2.50 cwt. and $1 cwt. on pen lots.

On sale day cattle must be unloaded before 4 p.m. We commence weighing in mid-afternoon. Two or three packers mark bids as the cattle leave the scales. The highest bid on each lot is listed. We then calculate a score for each animal and prepare the sale list beginning with the highest scoring animal (same system for pens). Bidders may keep the animal or turn to the packer at bid figure. Packers have taken 98 per cent of those sold.

Scoring System

The placing and sale order is determined by a scoring system based on (1) rate of gain—one point for each 1710 pound average daily gain. (2) Packer appraisal—100 points for the highest appraisal, deduct one point for each 25 cwt. less.

This project began in 1964 with seven pens fed. The number of pens in succeeding years has been 15, 17, 12, 16, 18, 22 and 10. The average daily gains have improved from 2.35 pounds in 1964 to 2.69 pounds in 1971. The best gaining pen to date averaged 3.7 pounds daily over a 200-day feeding period. It is interesting to note that from one year's records the top gaining pen showed a profit of $45 per head while the lowest gaining lot showed a loss of $43 per head.

Fed 180 Days

The feeding period over which rate of gain was measured has varied but in general was about 180 days. Pen lots in the same family and other individual 4-H calves may be fed in the same yard.

In practice most of our pen feeders do not show individual cattle. All calves are tagged at weighing for identification. (Calves making up a pen can be again.)

This time when you give the signal you don't even turn around. You just wave and quickly grab the steering wheel again.

There is a slight tug and your tractor is spinning, lunging and almost chugging its last mechanical breath. Then you turn around and see short, intermittent blue puffs of smoke coming from the other tractor.

So you open the throttle a little more and make another circle around the yard. But it is still lurching, puffing and lunging although it sounds like it is firing every now and then.

Your next circle around the yard is broken when you decide to give it a straight, fast trip out the lane. When you reach the end of the lane with still no results you stop.

You decide to have a serious consultation with the Mrs. The way that tractor is firing you know it has to be something she is doing wrong.

Could Be

When you've rechecked everything again she meekly remarks that if she didn't know any better she'd swear it was out of gas. You're swearing, too. But because it's long past noon, you're cold, hungry and still have all that grinding to do. But just to prove her wrong you check the fuel. There's fuel in the tank alright, but not enough to cover that little pipe in the bottom of the tank.

Now you hurry to get the tractor back in the yard before a neighbor comes along and you have to admit you're trying to start a tractor without fuel.

Then it requires only a short turning when the intermittent puffs of smoke become a solid black spiral and eases to a clear, steady vapor.

Your morale is badly damaged but you're relieved to find nothing seriously wrong with the tractor.

The next time you might not be so lucky. In fact, it might not even start like that again.

Now you'd never have done it without her. Together you just can't miss.

4-H'ers Embark on 'Community Pride'

LINCOLN—Nebraska's 42,000 4-H members are embarking on a new "Community Pride" program, designed to develop awareness of community needs and to motivate members, parents, leaders and citizens to do something positive and concrete.

The new program will be five action steps making up the word pride—plan, renew, improve, develop and enrich—explains Kenneth Schmidt, associate state 4-H leader at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Schmidt called on 4-H members to "not limit concern to the community as a whole but be aware of the specific human needs of the citizens around you."

"Food baskets for disadvantaged persons at Christmas are a good start," he commented, "but we must go much further to make an impact on the lives

- Landscape school, playgrounds, parks, homes, plant grass, trees, bushes.
- Build and maintain a rest stop for tourists.
- Conduct safety clinics in bicycling, hunting, traffic.
- Restore or beautify historical monuments.
- Provide a flag pole for the fairgrounds.
- Put up road directory signs to local farms and ranches.
- Adopt an elderly person to be remembered each week with a visit and on special occasions.
- Help disadvantaged families.
- Start a re-cycling campaign.
- Conduct recreation for children or elderly.

"Becoming conscious of the needs of one's community and experiencing pride in doing something worthwhile is a giant step toward becoming a mature adult," Schmidt pointed out. Pride and concern for the community can stimulate action leading to betterment of the environment and improvement of the quality of life, the state 4-H official said. "In addition, the program should make evident to 4-H'ers that citizenship is social responsibility. Community Pride is citizenship in action," Schmidt concluded.

Milk Supply Exceeds Consumer Demand

LINCOLN—If milk supplies continue to be in excess of consumer demands for dairy products, the United States Department of Agriculture may be forced to shut off the increased supply by lowering the support price.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln economist T. A. Evans told those attending the Dairyman's Field Conference here that during the past year milk producers have been receiving the highest price in history, and the producers have responded by increasing the supply of milk somewhat faster than consumers have been willing to buy it.

Preliminary USDA estimates show that per-capita consumption of milk and milk products declined about one per cent in 1971 and milk production increased about one per cent.

The increase in production, together with the decrease in consumption, has meant an increase in USDA purchases of dairy products to support the price of milk, Evans pointed out. During the first 10 months of 1971, such purchases increased over 25 per cent on a milk equivalent basis.

This has caused considerable concern among dairy industry leaders, Evans said, adding that "a continued increase in production without a corresponding increase in consumption may result in USDA officials taking a long hard look at the level of dairy price supports."

Although the number of milk cows and number of farms reporting milk cows notably declined during the five years prior to 1970, Evans noted that the decline in number of milk cows in Nebraska slowed considerably during 1971. While there was a decline of five per cent between 1969 and 1970, the decline was only two per cent between 1970 and 1971.

According to the NU Extension economist, this slowing of the decline in milk cow numbers reflects the improved returns from sale of milk during the past year.

In a prediction of some of the dairy trends during the past years, Evans pointed to a strong move toward production of Grade A milk. In 1970, 73 per cent of the nation's milk production was Grade A. He estimated that by 1980 most of the milk in Nebraska will be converted to fluid grade.

According to Evans, such a move will create severe pricing problems and will pose a real problem for cheese plants and other plants that depend on a supply of manufacturing grade milk for their operations.

In accordance with the general downward trend in consumption of dairy foods, Evans noted in particular that there has been a decline in consumption of high fat dairy products and an increase in consumption of low fat products. Whole fluid milk, butter, cream, evaporated and condensed milk and ice cream have all declined on a per capita basis, while skim milk, cottage cheese and low fat milk have tended to increase.

Evans said the principal exception to these trends is cheese, which increased in production by about 10 per cent during 1970. In 1971, the Nebraska production of American-type cheese increased 20 per cent over the January-November period of 1970. Evans added that the per-capita consumption of cheese also continues to increase despite rather sharp increases in retail prices.

"To reverse the long-time trend in consumption decline of the majority of dairy foods, Evans said the dairy industry has taken action during the past year to increase the national push on dairy promotion. "A reverse in this trend is absolutely necessary if we are to continue to have a healthy and prosperous dairy industry," Evans commented.

As for the outlook for next year, Evans predicted that there will be a continuing favorable price

People Ask Us—

QUESTION: Do I have to pay Federal Income Tax on the life insurance proceeds I received recently?

ANSWER: Probably the insurance money you received is exempt from Federal income Tax. Life insurance proceeds are paid to related beneficiaries for the purpose of providing funds after the death of the insured. However, if the insurance money was paid to you in satisfaction of a debt, or for some other valuable consideration then all or a portion of the money must be included in your gross income for Federal Income Tax purposes.

As a general rule, therefore, this money is tax exempt if you are the surviving spouse or a relative of the insured and the insurance proceeds were paid in a lump sum to you as the beneficiary.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—What is the personal exemption for 1972?

A—The Revenue Act of 1971 increased the allowance for personal exemption to $675 for the 1971 tax year.

Q—My son earned more than $675 from a summer job last year. Can I still claim him as a dependent?

A—If your son was a full-time student regardless of age for some part of each of any five months of 1971 or was less than 19 years old at the end of the year, you can claim him as a dependent regardless of how much money he made, provided you meet all the other dependency tests, including furnishing over one-half of your son's total support.

Q—I received a refund on my 1971 state income tax in 1971. Do I have to report this as income on my 1971 federal income tax return?

A—You must include in income of the refund that gave you a tax benefit in the earlier year. For example, if you took a deduction for state income taxes on your 1970 federal income tax return and received the full benefit of the deduction through a reduction in tax, you must include the refund as income on your 1971 federal return. On the other hand, if you did not deduct state income taxes on your 1970 federal return, the refund is not to be included on your 1971 federal return.

Q—How much money can I earn before I have to file a federal income tax return?

A—You must file a Federal income tax return if you are single and had income of $1,700 or more last year ($2,300 if you are 65 or older) or if you are married and you and your spouse's combined income is $2,300 or more ($2,900 if one spouse is 65 or older, $3,500 if both of you are 65 or older). If you are self-employed and had net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more, you must file a federal income tax return.

Q—Will the IRS still figure my tax for me?

A—If your adjusted gross income is $20,000 or less and consists only of wages or salaries and tips, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities, the IRS will be glad to compute your tax at your request. However, you must take the standard deduction instead of itemizing your deductions, fill in certain lines, and file your return by April 17, to have the IRS do the figuring for you. Be sure to read the instructions that come with the Form 1040 as to the lines that have to be completed.
