

Sorensen Named Outstanding Young Farmer

Richard Sorensen, rural Wayne, Saturday was selected the state's outstanding young farmer-rancher by the Nebraska Jaycees. Sorensen was chosen from a field of 35 nominees. Jaycees presented Sorensen with the award Saturday night at the annual Outstanding Young Farmer-Rancher Recognition Banquet at Lexington.

Sorensen, the first award recipient from the Wayne area, farms two miles north and two miles west of Wayne. He was nominated by the Wayne Jaycees, and in addition to the award, he will receive an expense-paid trip to the national Young Farmer-Rancher convention at Sioux Falls, S. D. March 2-5. Of the state winners present at the convention, four will be chosen as national award recipients, and will be presented with new cars. At the Saturday meeting, the Lexington Jaycees gave Sorensen a set of matched luggage.

The Wayne County Jaycees selected Sorensen in mid-December at a board of review meeting. According to Jaycee president Bill Workman, the local chapter had not participated in the program for about five years, but saw a change to improve farm-community relations through participation in this year and in coming years. Sorensen has been active in Jaycee work, serving as state director in 1968 and as past director, president and vice-president of the local chapter.

Workman and his wife accompanied the Sorensens to the recognition banquet at Lexington. Keynote speaker was Dr. Donald O. Clifton, president, Selection Research, Inc., Lincoln. In addition to the Outstanding Young Farmer-Rancher, awards were presented for progress in agriculture, soil and water conservation and contributions to community, state and nation. Advance followed the awards dinner.

The state and local Jaycees used the same criteria in selecting candidates. Under consideration were progress in agriculture, conservation activities and contributions to community, state and nation.

Sorensen's list of qualifications was impressive. Of particular interest was his work in agri-

Seven Adults Receive HS Certificates

Mrs. Stanley Wills, instructor for the free adult education classes held weekly at the WSC Fine Arts Building, has announced that seven students, who have classes in mid-October, have passed their high school graduation examinations, and have received certificates.

The classes, funded by the federal government are open to all area people of all ages. Many of the present students are in their 50's and some are high school drop outs in their early 20's. Most of the students are studying in order to qualify for high school graduation diploma. Some are reviewing subjects which they need help in order to prepare themselves for college classes.

Assisting Mrs. Wills are Mrs. Keith Mosley, and a student, Terry Neufeld, who works in foreign languages. Classes meet from 7 to 9 p.m. each Thursday evening in Room 17.

The high school graduation exams are given in Norfolk one day each month.

Persons interested in registering for classes, or in learning more about the program, are advised to contact the WSC Registrar's office.

'Squared Circle' Action Scheduled Saturday Night

"Ladies and Gentlemen..." That traditional greeting Saturday night will introduce the St. Mary's Men's Club annual Boxing Smoker at the City Auditorium. The first match is scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m.

Matchmaker Gary Wiebelhaus, has lined up a 15-match card featuring pugilists from Lincoln, South Sioux City, Norfolk, Creighton, Bassett and Wisner. Every weight class will be represented, with two heavyweight bouts scheduled.

Area boxing fans will recognize the names of such as Steve Elk, Norfolk Golden Gloves champion who is undefeated in six years of boxing. Four other ring-side Golden Gloves champs will be on hand, and Bob Nielsen of

Young Cyclist Is Hospitalized

One youth was hospitalized, another suffered minor injuries and five persons were ticketed for licensing violations and allowing unauthorized persons to drive as a result of a motorcycle accident at 3:45 p.m. Sunday four miles northeast of Hoisington.

Kevin Kruger, 13, of Randolph ran into a cycle operated by Fred Planer, 14 of Pierce and was taken to the Hoskins rescue unit to a Norfolk hospital with leg injuries and cuts. Planer was treated and released at the hospital for cuts and bruises.

State troopers issued summonses to several other cyclists for violations.

Easter Seal Drive in March

Neighborhood volunteers, under the chairmanship of Mithilda Harms, will begin circulating "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" kits for the Nebraska Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults next month.

The new red, white and blue kits contain a picture of the 1972 chairman, Nebraska Football Coach Bob Devaney, and a child who has received Easter Seal services. Inside is information about the programs in Nebraska and envelopes for contributions.

After the neighborhood chairman has made her contribution, she will pass the kit along to her neighbor. When the kit has been passed around the block, it is to be returned to the neighborhood volunteer.

Observers of Wayne County will receive an appeal letter for contributions. Some residents may receive both a letter and the kit. In this way they may choose which way they wish to contribute.

Through gifts to Easter Seals, over 5,000 handicapped Nebraskans last year received a variety of services, including transportation to medical facilities and special schools, physical and speech therapy and hospital equipment.

Of the funds raised in Nebraska, 90 per cent stays in the state to serve handicapped persons.

Tillage, Conservation Meeting Here Friday

Area farmers are reminded of the Tillage and Conservation meeting Friday at the Wayne City Auditorium.

Modern terrace designs, soil losses under the 1971 storm conditions, upset hazards, reduced tillage planting problems and factors to consider with fertilizers and herbicides will be the areas covered at the all-day meeting, which is to begin with a 9:30 a.m. coffee. Lunch will be available at the auditorium.

Milk Producers To Award Plaque To Congressman

The Nebraska Division of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. will hold its annual meeting Saturday, March 4, at Laurel. The Nebraska Division includes the Plainview and Laurel plants.

Dinner will be served at the City Auditorium from 11 a.m. until 12:50. The business meeting will be held at Laurel High School Auditorium, beginning at 1 p.m.

All businessmen and chamber members are invited to the dinner.

Special guest this year will be Congressman Charles Thone, who will be presented a plaque as a special thank-you from the Dairy farmers of Nebraska for his work and effort in behalf of the dairymen of the United States.

State Champs

Car Strikes House in Freak Mishap

An unusual accident occurred Monday about 3 p.m. According to police reports, a driverless car owned by Steve Mrs. 720 Logan, rolled down Logan and struck a house at 202 E. Seventh. The car had been parked in front of the residence at 720 Logan. Damage was listed for the west side of the house and for the left front of the car.

A Saturday accident in the parking lot of the Diers Supply Store left two cars damaged. James Chambers, Wakefield, and Barbara Munter, Wakefield, were backing out of opposite parking stalls when the cars collided. The left rear fenders of both cars were damaged.

Another backing-out mishap occurred Saturday at the LIP Dairy parking lot. Jay Wilkerson, Wakefield, was backing out of a parking stall, when his car struck a parked car owned by Douglas Dowling, Wayne. The left side of the busling car was damaged.

WSC Coeds Staging Sewing Demonstrations

Co-eds in the clothing design class at Wayne State College are putting on a series of demonstrations this month and next at McDonald's Store of Wayne.

While it might be stretching a bit to paraphrase the popular book title and call the demonstrations "Everything You Wanted To Know About Sewing But Were Afraid To Ask," the students will cover a variety of dress-making problems that might vex the home dressmaker. The first demonstration dealt with the planning and making of darts. Two members of the class, Linda Denton of Fremont, and Rosemary Schueder of Cherokee, explained and demonstrated dart-making techniques Thursday afternoon while a number of women shoppers watched.

Two more demonstrations on dart techniques were given Saturday at the McDonald Store by Rosalind Meier, Kathy Tooker, and Mary Jo Redmon of Bee, today (Thursday) from 3 to 5 and Saturday from 10-12 and 1-3, yoke making and gathering will be demonstrated by six other co-eds, Marjory McCartan of Pocatello, Id.; Judy Olson of Rutland, Ia.; Donna Parle of Humboldt, Ia.; Doris Meyer of Wayne; Mary Nygren of St. Edward, and Marilyn Jurovski of Albion.

Later demonstrations will concern collars, sleeves and skirts. (Mrs. Laverne Roehmilt, who teaches the clothing design class said a style show of garments made by the students is planned for later.)

Fabrics for the demonstrations are furnished by Associated Titles of St. Louis through the McDonald Store, and a sewing machine has been provided by Gambles Store, Wayne.

Pastor Burton E. Brush, Newcastle, officiated at the double ring ceremony and Darrell Conrad, Newcastle, sang, accompanied by Mrs. Ross Armstrong of Ponca.

The bride chose a floor-length white gown of silk organza, worn with a fingertip veil and carried white roses and hyacinths. Her attendants, Marilyn Stringer of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Jean Ekstein of Omaha, were gowned in floor-length fashions of powder blue crepe and royal blue velvet, they carried single, large white tulips.

Terri Thomas of Newcastle was flowergirl, and Randy Hodges of Newcastle was ringbearer. Best man was Marvin Swick of Dixon and groomsmen was Melvin Swick Jr., of Hartington. Ushers were Dick Grossvener of Ponca and David Blatchford of Dixon.

Mrs. Melvin Swick of Hartington registered the 170 guests who attended the reception at the (gospel) chapel parlors. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Thomas of Newcastle, Mrs. Fred Carey of Ponca and Mrs. Shirley Lindberg of Duluth, Minn., and served the cake. Mrs. Harold Bastede of Laurel poured and Mrs. Mildred Grossvener of Ponca served punch.

Waitresses were Lori Grossvener and Diane and Sharon Brush, all of Newcastle.

The bride, a 1968 graduate of Newcastle High School, attended Grace Bible Institute in Omaha one year. The bridegroom, a 1965 graduate of Westminster High School, Westminster, Colo., spent four years in the U.S. Navy, and is employed by BIL at Dakota City.

Married 60 Years

Long time area residents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McLaw, marked the 60th anniversary of their marriage Sunday afternoon at the Dixon United Methodist church. About 190 friends and relatives were present to honor the Wayne couple, who until recently had made their home in Dixon.

Guests included Mrs. Margaret Lisle of Dixon, Mrs. Gertie Frisbie of Concord, and Mrs. L. M. Noe of Allen, who had been present at the couple's marriage ceremony. Other guests were present from Wayne, Wakefield, Hartington, Laurel, Ponca, Omaha, Halston, Havana and Bellevue.

Henry McLaw of Halston served as master of ceremonies in the program and a greeting and prayer were offered by the Rev. Clyde Wells. Chester McLaw gave a reading, and the eight great grandchildren sang, "You Are My Sunshine." A vocal selection, "How Great Thou Art," was presented by granddaughters, Mrs. Darrell Doeschler, Mrs. Vern Schultz, Mrs. Harold Murray and Donna Doeschler.

Mrs. Chester McLaw presided at the guest book and Donna Doeschler and Gloria and Kay McLaw arranged gifts and cards. Mrs. Henry McLaw poured and Mrs. Clifford McLaw served punch. WSC members assisted in the kitchen.

NORTHEAST EXTENSION Notes

For the young homemaker starting out, a good basic set of cookware should include a 12- and two-quart covered saucepan, a covered four-quart Dutch oven, and a nine inch open skillet. These utensils will accommodate many range-top cookery tasks. Buying hints include the following:

- The construction and finish should make the utensils easy to clean.
- Covers should be close fitting and snug to prevent moisture loss.
- Handles should be made of sturdy, heat-resistant material strong enough to support weight of the utensil when filled.
- Handles should be properly balanced so they won't tip easily.
- Special finishes should be heat-, stain-, and acid-resistant.
- The material used in the cookware should not in any way affect the color, flavor or nutrition of the food being cooked.

Educational Theatre Success

In order to fully appreciate "Oedipus Rex," the Greek play staged by the WSC Theatre Department this weekend, it is important to recall that Greek tragedies, such as this one by Sophocles, written sometime around 400 B.C., were created originally as religious ceremonies, and as such, had to conform to entirely different criteria than does drama as we have come to know it today.

Greek plays were elaborately narrated stories rather than actual portrayed events. Therefore, a striving for realism in the Greek theatre was probably of far less consequence than was the need for ceremonialism and the necessity of correctly interpreting the playwright's chosen theme.

The tragedy of Oedipus is not so much the fact that his personal life has been thrown into nightmare status by a foretold incestuous relationship. The tragedy is that Oedipus' life, from his first day, has been fated by the gods to be tragic, and nothing can be done to prevent it.

In preparing a facsimile of the early Greek theatre, the various crews on "Oedipus Rex," seem to have considered every detail, beginning with mood-inspiring background music, created especially for this production by John Lepazza, Dan Robbers, Tim Shiner, Carter Leitch, Tom Itani, and Dennis Soubra. For the special sound effects, the use of tympani, recorder, wind chimes, tom tom, cymbal, and claves were incorporated.

Perie, and somewhat foreboding, the music somehow signified the characters' inner turmoil, which words alone, written in a style unfamiliar to our ears, would not have been able to depict.

The stage, which suggested the stone front of a great Greek house, was shallow in keeping with the nature of the Greek Theatre, and instilled in the audience a feeling of solidity and permanence, almost emphasizing the length of time this great work has been a part of our culture.

The costumes were superb. Vivid, rich colors and fabrics, contrasting with more subdued shades of corse materials, helped the audience identify the characters and their parts in Oedipus' society.

The masks too, seemed to dramatize the individuals and enhance the theme of the work.

Lighting techniques added greatly to the climax, and carried one through the rather lengthy anti-climax of the final episode, reserved in Greek tragedies for the tragic lamentations toward which the entire play focuses.

More significant today than when the play was written, with our manner of speaking having been so altered in that time span, would be each actor's ability to deliver his lines without making them sound like recitation. Naturally, the biggest share of this burden fell on the lead, Oedipus, played by Gary Bunker. Duntzer came across with significant aplomb in the most dramatic of his scenes, but, none-the-less, lost some of his audience by lack of variety in his pitch and intonation in other slower paced areas.

Mark Hamm, in the less demanding part of Creon, was more consistently articulate.

Magee Hartin, a newcomer who did so well in a recent modern roll, did not adapt so well to this classic. Perhaps this was partly because the character of Jocasta, whom she portrayed, is so difficult to identify with in our time of liberated woman.

Note should be made of the performance by Lynn Johnson as Teiresias, the blind prophet of Thebes, and Mike Caruthers as a priest of Zeus.

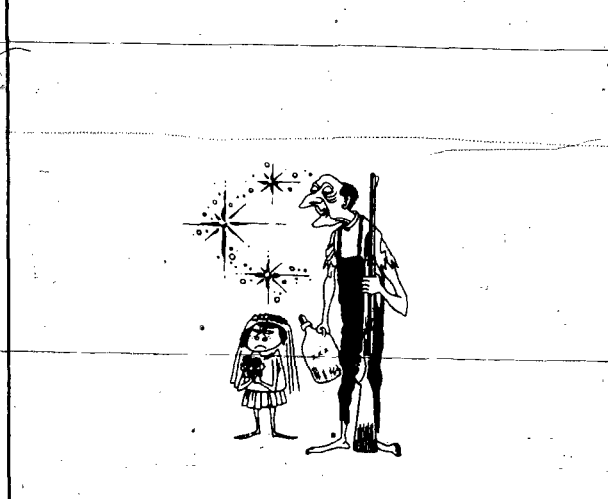

It was also evident that many hours of preparation were behind the clear chants of the senators of Thebes and the suppliants, played by Dave Cunningham, John Pigg, Albert Kirtley, Martin Torrey, Gary Kelmers, Tom Bruner, Mike Hamm, Donna Henning, Debbie Dert, Peggy Emshor, Norma Trausch, Mary Harrison, Pam Nelson and Patsy Benson.

A messenger from Corinth was played by Ken Grafias; a shepherd, by Ron Rieker and a servant from the palace by Ed Havlovic. All did a fine job.

Barbara Michael and Linda Johnson carried the less significant roles of Antigone and Ismene, daughters of Oedipus and Jocasta.

Almost 1500 persons, which included 15 high school and college groups, turned out for the four day stand of this experience in educational theatre, according to Dr. Helen Russell, professor of theatre at WSC.

Wakefield Upsets Emerson-Hubbard

First-Round Results
 Bancroft 76, Winside 65.
 Wakefield 41, Emerson-Hubbard 40 (ot).
 Pender 77, Allen 55.
 Winnebago 65, Walthill 48.

Wakefield pulled the only upset in the first round of the Class C District tournament at the Wakefield gym this week, the Trojans upsetting Emerson-Hubbard in overtime, 41-40, Monday night.

Winside was eliminated in the other first-round game that evening by top-seeded Bancroft.

Second-seeded Pender ended Allen's season Tuesday night and advanced to the Thursday semifinals against Winnebago, a easy winner over Walthill.

Wakefield will take on Bancroft in the other semi-final tilt.

Wakefield turned in the big surprise in first-round action by eliminating fourth-seeded Emerson-Hubbard, Pat Starzl putting in a field goal with two seconds left to turn the Wakefield gym into pandemonium by ecstatic Trojan fans.

Lennie Gradert had boosted Emerson into a quick lead in the overtime by stealing a Wakefield throw-in and putting it up for two points and Lanny Bodlak made a four-point binge after canning two free-throws following Sam Uecht's foul.

Pat Ilenney, Emerson's top scorer for the night, was injured during a scramble for the ball and had to be replaced in the lineup, taking away one of the Pirates' top ball handlers.

After that, things went all bad for Emerson. Bodlak fouled Starzl, who hit one of two to make it 40-37. Gradert rebounded but Lonnie Pickering was called for palming the ball, giving Wakefield possession.

Starzl canned one from the side with 36 seconds remaining and the point spread went to 40-39. Pickering missed an opportunity to pad the total for Emerson after being fouled by Dale Scheel, but missed. Randy Mayberry and Scheel tied the ball and the tip went to Kevin Peters of the host team.

Uecht took a shot with just seconds left and missed, but Starzl was there to put it back into the net with the clock showing two seconds remaining.

Scheel had sent the game into overtime with his two free-throws with 2:07 left in regulation time. Neither team could score after that, though each club had numerous chances.

A desperation shot from near midcourt by Scheel appeared headed home but hit the front of the rim and bounced back into the playing court at the buzzer.

The game was loaded with turnovers and poor field goal percentages on the parts of both clubs, numerous shots by each teaming out.

Bodlak has his worst night of the season by scoring only 12 points, far off his usual production. The usual sharp-shooting senior meshed three fielders in the first period and then had to settle for six free-throws the rest of the distance.

A good share of the blame for Bodlak's sub-par performance was Uecht, who covered the slip-

WCS Swimmers To NAA Meet

The Wayne State 400-yard freestyle quartet earned itself a trip to the NAA national swimming meet Tuesday.

Jim Shores, Jim Bathen, Doug Krecklow and Jim Onstott swam a school and pool record 3:25.0, good enough to qualify for the nationals.

Onstott also has qualified in the 100 and 200 freestyle, and Bob Seymour in diving.

The record-setting relay climaxed Wayne's dual victory of 7:29.9 over Concordia here Tuesday. Metro State of Denver was supposed to compete but failed to come.

Both Wayne and Concordia took forfeit wins.

Still trailed by 47-34 to begin the fourth.

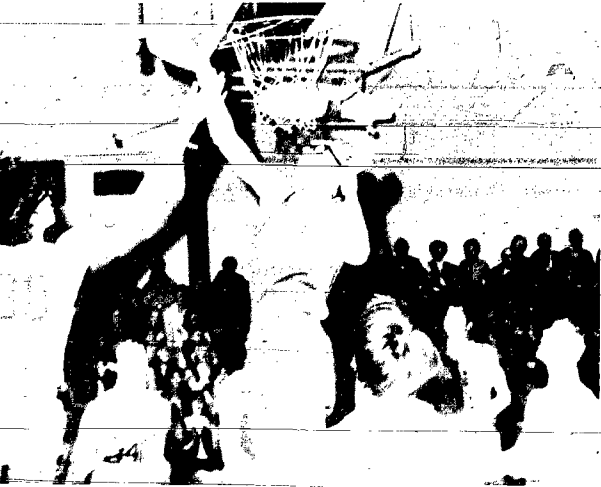

The Bluejays came within eight points in the fourth quarter, but quickly faded as Winnebago turned it on again.

Leading the Indians' four-pronged attack were Joe Morris with 19, John Lashley with 15 and Mack Bass and Ray Harlan with 13 apiece.

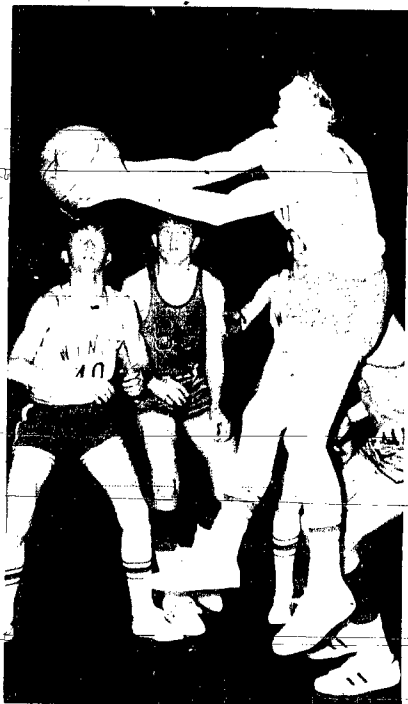

Jeff Gilpin of the Bluejays was the most impressive player on the court, winding up with 23 points before fouling out six minutes before the end. Teammate Jeff Meyer added another 13 to the losing cause.

District Tournament Action

Jon Bohmer of Winside gets off a real fadeaway jump shot during the Wildcats' 76-63 defeat at the hands of Bancroft Monday night in the Class C District basketball tournament at Wakefield. The entire Bancroft team is waiting in case the ball doesn't go through the hoop. The Bulldogs' six-foot-five, 200-pound Todd Simonson is at the left. No. 30 is John Zwygart, partially hidden is Jeff Bringer, No. 44 is Bob Roth and No. 50 is Duane Tietz. At the extreme right is Greg Titterington of Winside.

l a berth opposite Hartington in the semi-finals, by drubbing the Osmond Tigers, 70-48.

A pair of Bees accounted for the only double-figure Bloomfield scoring, but other point totals were evenly spread, lending solid support to the scoreboard card. Perry Broders and John Scott, the Bees' season scoring kings, provided 18 and 13 points respectively, to head up the Bloomfield offensive attack.

Loig Gansbom and Robin Reed posted 10 counters apiece in the losing Osmond effort.

In the second half of first-round action Tuesday night, Hartington stopped Oteridge, 71-53, and Bloomfield dumped Osmond, 70-48, to fill out Thursday's slate of semi-final contests. The Ponca-Laurel scrap is set for 7 p.m. at Rice, with the Hartington-Bloomfield encounter to follow at 8:30.

Scoring mainstays Tom Cobler and Larry Flickoff led their Hartington squad to a 71-53 triumph over Oteridge in Tuesday night's curtain-raiser.

The Coleridge five was never really in the game, even though Steve Dirks pushed through 20 points. Hartington's defense, a bright spot all year, was never in better shape, as the Coleridge crew had trouble getting to the basket.

Cobler and Flickoff were the whole show for Hartington, as Flickoff netched 21 points and Cobler contributed 20.

Winnipeg started and ended fast against Walthill to chalk up a 65-48 victory in the curtain-raiser of Tuesday night's double-header.

Bancroft had four double-figure men, Jeff Bringer and Todd Simonson, a 6-5, 200-pounder, with 19 each and Bob Roth and Duane Tietz with 15 apiece.

The Eagles were down by 7-1 early and never recovered enough to seriously threaten, behind by 12-6 at the end of the first period, trailing by 30-19 at halftime and having the score doubled on them at 60-30 after three quarters of action.

The fast-breaking Pendragons had a host of dangerous shooters, attested to in the fact that Keith Berg and Calvin Henander each had 14 points, John Bernhardson a dozen and three players with eight. Nine of the 10 players used by Coach Steven Olson registered in the scoring column.

At the same time, the second-seeded Dragons played a swarming defense against the Allen mainstays. John Warner was

Snowmobiles Fun, But Safety Is the Key

Snowmobiling is a pleasant pastime. Usually, Or at least until you remember that this increasingly popular playing was involved in more than 100 deaths last winter, the majority of them being in the Midwest. This too, of course, is where the snowmobiles are.

No deaths were reported in Nebraska. Altogether, according to the National Safety Council, 102 persons were killed and 428 were hurt in snowmobiling mishaps across the U. S. snow belt. The winter before that, 82 died, and 54 the year prior to that.

On the brighter side, the number of snowmobiles in use there now are more than a million roaming America's northern landscape—apparently has increased faster than the fatality rate.

Be Sensible, Stay Sober

Based on the growing number of snowmobiles and tragedies involving them, experts have concluded that operators are going to have to begin paying more attention to sensible and sober operation, adequate training, proper maintenance and sufficient insurance of their snowmobiles.

All accidents reported appear to be related to the recreational use of snowmobiles," points out the Safety Council. Most still are single-machine mishaps. Snowmobiles are not where autos are yet—with most accidents involving collisions with other moving vehicles.

More than 80 per cent of snowmobile fatalities result from falls through thin ice, rough terrain and collisions with stationary objects. Other moving motor vehicles, even trains, sometimes are involved. Collisions of all varieties led to 53 per cent of the deaths last season.

Be Wary of Traffic

Although snowmobiles are primarily off-the-road machines, about 30 per cent of all accidents occur on highways. Road mishaps claimed 42 lives last season, with alcohol often a factor.

Engine noise may drown out the sounds of approaching traffic. Steep embankments or flying snow may prevent both the snowmobile operator and the oncoming motorist from seeing each other, and at night, a single headlight may confuse a passing auto driver.

Off the road, hazards abound. Barbed wire fences have killed or seriously maimed operators who drove through them, particularly at night when they are virtually invisible. Snowmobilers should also watch out for camouflaged ruts, rocks and fallen trees. Lights should be checked as most accidents happen at night.

Even if snowmobilers drive safely, the construction of the machine itself may cause injuries, since the vehicle is small and hard to see. The throttle should be kept free of packed snow, and operators should avoid wearing long scarves that might become caught in the track mechanism.

Dressing warmly is important, in either a snowmobile suit or layers of clothing that include thermal underwear. Since most machines are open and unheated, freezing temperatures and high speed increase the chill factor and can cause frostbite to ears, nose, cheeks, hands and feet. Unfortunately, despite operators' best intentions and actions, statistics indicate that as the number of machines increases so will the number of accidents, injuries and insurance claims.

NCC Wrestling Meet Saturday

Wayne State wrestlers go to Chadron Saturday in quest of another Nebraska College Conference championship—their eighth straight.

It appears the Wildcats are favorites, but not necessarily invincible. Kearney and Chadron have individuals with excellent records against strong competition.

Perhaps the 158-pound class will provide the tensesst battle if Wayne's Tom Luth and Chadron's Bob Lynch meet in the finals, as seems likely. Lynch, defending champion, has a 23-0 record which is the more remarkable because he has had only two points scored against him. Last year Lynch decided to fight 12-5, in the conference dual meet. Luth has a 10-1 mark after missing first-term competition.

Besides Lynch, there will be six champions returning, including three from Wayne. Ben Monroe will go after another 177 title, but Dennis Feld will compete at 190 instead of the heavyweight class he won last year, and Kent Irwin will go at 134 instead of 126, which he won in 1971.

Upsets Highlight Rec League Play

A pair of upsets, with cellar teams knocking off second-place squads, sparked first-round play-off action for the Wayne Men's Recreation Basketball League Monday night.

In the curtain raiser, underdog Team 1 rallied to inch past Team 2, 52-49. The loss put the second-place Team 2 crew out of the running for the tournament championship. The dark horse Team 1 outfit trailed by eight at the half, but staged an 18-point third-quarter effort, to lead by two going into the final period. The winners outpointed the favorites, 12-11, in the final frame, to hold on to their slim advantage.

High pointman for the winners was Mike Gandy with 14 points. Rev Murray and Scott Niemann added 10 apiece.

Six fifties paced the Blues with 16 counters. Randy Hobins contributed 15 and Bill Workman chipped in 12.

Herb Swan's 24 points weren't enough to boost Team 3 over Team 4. The favored Team 3 squad fell by a five-point margin, 53-54. The upstart Team 4 crew opened a five-point halftime lead, then held on through repeated threats, to maintain the advantage to the final buzzer.

Darrell Doeschler and John Mason collected 15 and 14 points respectively for the winners, with 12-point help from Bill Carlson. Behind Swan's 24-point lead, Paul Reimers notched 11, and Mike Looke canned 10 for the losers.

Next playoff action is set for Monday, Feb. 28, with Teams 5 and 4 battling at 8, and Teams 6 and 1 meeting at 9. The winners of those games will compete the following Monday for the tourney title. Teams 2 and 3, officially out of the tournament, will play Monday at 7. The contest will be the last game for both clubs.

St. Mary's Notches Double Win Sunday

Wayne St. Mary's hardcourt squads capped the Central League crown Sunday, downing Madison in first team and reserve contests.

The local seventh and eighth graders outpointed the Madison (five) 30-24, to post an unblemished 7-0 season mark. Monte Love canned 15 points to spearhead the St. Mary's drive.

Wayne reserves, composed of sixth and seventh graders, mounted an unbreakable defense, to hold Madison to a game total of four points, while scoring 17 of their own.

The local's full court press forced numerous turnovers as the young Madison crew was unable to get to the basket. Point leaders for Wayne were John Keating and Mike Wieseler, with eight apiece. The win boosted the reserves' season mark to 6-0.

Hunting Regulations to Be Discussed At Public Hearings in Capital City

LINCOLN—Regulations governing hunting at Clear Creek and Plattsmouth waterfowl management areas will be topics of two public hearings scheduled by the Game and Parks Commission for its regular meeting in Lincoln on Feb. 25.

The hearing involving regulations for Clear Creek and nearby Lake McConaughy is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. It should be of special interest to sportsmen not only in that locality, but those across the state as well.

In recent years, the Clear Creek area has been the subject of much conflict and controversy over hunting rights along a portion of the refuge boundary known as the "firing line." Large numbers of Canada geese fly from the Clear Creek Refuge to Lake McConaughy, each day during the goose season, and their favorite path crosses public land controlled by the Game and Parks Commission. Competition for choice hunting spots on this land is keen, occasionally resulting in bitter disputes among hunters.

Purpose of the Feb. 25 hearing is to get public reaction on the problem in an effort to establish regulations and management policies that will allow hunters equal opportunities at Clear Creek. Since the waterfowl at Clear Creek also use Lake McConaughy, hunting regulations on the lake and on adjacent public lands controlled by the Commission will also be considered.

Regulations on the Plattsmouth Waterfowl Management area, which will be unveiled at 10 a.m., should not attract nearly as much discussion as those on Clear Creek. Hunting at the Plattsmouth area has been under strict control by the Game and Parks Commission since 1957.

In its management of both areas, the Commission hopes to provide hunters with good sporting opportunities, while giving migrating waterfowl a helping hand with food and sanctuary on refuges and through closely regulated harvest of birds.

Both hearings will be held on the third floor at the Game and Parks Commission headquarters, 2200 N. 33rd Street, Lincoln.

WS Tankers Dunk USD

Wayne State swimmers defeated the University of South Dakota, 84-29, here Saturday in a dual meet that saw four records broken.

Senior Bob Seymour of Grand Island, one of three Wayne double-winners, copped both the one-meter and three-meter diving, and set school and pool records in the latter with 251.3 points (old record 231.7)

Scott George, freshman from Omaha, posted a school record 11:22.7 in the 1,000-yard freestyle and also won the 550-free style in 5:27.4.

Jim Onstott, freshman from Fremont, toured the 100-yard freestyle in school and pool record time of :49.5 (old mark :50.3).

South Dakota's only individual winners, Mark Heeder, won the 200 backstroke in pool record 2:15.7 (old record 2:16.7).

Wayne's Dan Carney, freshman from Norfolk, won the 200 individual medley in 2:16.5 and the 200 breaststroke in 2:36.2.

Other event winners:

400 medley relay—Wayne (Don Wagner, Carney, Jim Shores, Onstott), 4:02.5.

200 freestyle—Jim Bathen (Omaha), Wayne, 2:03.8.

50 freestyle—Doug Krecklow (Omaha), Wayne, 23.7.

(Wayne also swam the 400 freestyle relay, in 3:36.7, but declared exhibition.)

The NAIA District 11 meet is scheduled March 3-4 at Kearney State.

The students are members of AFS and Youth for Opportunity programs.

The dinner is scheduled for 1 p.m. at the high school commons.

Car Dealers Required

To Post Base Prices
 OMAHA—Retail automobile dealers with gross sales of over $200,000 are required by the Economic Stabilization Act to post their base prices for new cars.

In answer to questions posed by many automobile dealers, Richard P. Vinal, district director for Nebraska, stated that base prices are the actual prices charged for new cars in a substantial number of transactions during the base period. The actual prices charged during the base period may or may not be the "sticker price."

Vinal added that it is common knowledge that the purchaser of a new car is rarely required to pay the "sticker price." However, if the "sticker price" was the actual price charged in a substantial number of transactions during the base period, then the "sticker price" may be posted as the base price.

Medicine Never Should Be 'Loaned'

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska Medical Association. How many people do you know who cannot resist trying a friend or relative's left-over medicine?

Four thousand years ago, the ancient Babylonians had the quaint custom of placing a sick person on his bed in the street, so that everyone passing by could offer advice as to the most likely cure. People still get poisoned that way every day.

Other people's medicine and self-diagnosis can be deadly. Reactions to drugs differ a great deal with different people and even in the same person, if taken at different times and under different conditions.

The wrong medicine not only gives no permanent relief, but can cover up important symptoms of real illness, postpone proper treatment, and often, allow serious disease to progress unchecked. Never borrow someone else's medicine.

A prescription is for one patient, one purpose, and one period of illness.

Proper inflation is the most important factor in the safety and mileage life, and station air towers are often inaccurate by several pounds. Double check pressure with your own air gauge if possible.

Government Exempted From Price Controls

OMAHA—Federal, state and local governments have been exempted from most of the price controls of the Economic Stabilization Program.

Richard P. Vinal, Internal Revenue Service District Director for Nebraska, said that new price control regulations published in the Federal Register on Jan. 27, 1972, allow federal, state and local governments to adjust prices on any work, service, publication, facility, license, or other similar items of value performed, furnished, or issued by the governmental unit.

Kiwanians Hear Antique Car Collector
 Ken Halsey, economics instructor at Wayne State College, talked on antique cars at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club Monday noon, defining an antique car as one in which the value has appreciated. Instead of depreciated, through the years because of declining numbers of that particular model.
 He categorized antique collectors as (1) incidental owners, those who have had an old car in the family for years without earlier thought of it becoming a hobby, (2) the hobbyist, one who collects for his own pleasure and intrinsic value with non-profit purposes, and (3), the investor, who is strictly in it for a business and willing to pay in the area of $20,000 for the rarer models.
 Halsey estimated there are 100,000 persons in the latter two categories with interest increasing rapidly. Most sales, he said, are sight unseen telephone deals.
 The speaker's hobby began, he said, when he was a freshman in high school and purchased a Model T Ford for $7 and later selling it for $10. Since, he has sold a number of cars throughout the country.
 Antique car collecting, he pointed out, does not have the hazard of reproduction as other antique collections, and noted the first cost is the primary cost. But, he warned those who are considering going into the car collecting hobby to first make sure they have ample room for storage.
 If you're using studded tires this winter, remember most states require they be off your car by a specific date, in most cases April or May.

Basketball Scoreboard Party Held

Mrs. Robert Miller, Jr., Phone 287-2543

The First Christian Church, with the Rev. and Mrs. John Epperson in charge, hosted a Basketball Scoreboard Party at the church following the ballgame Friday evening. Fifty high schoolers, Coach and Mrs. Joe Cobler, Coach and Mrs. Tim Pehrson and Coach and Mrs. John Torzan attended. Decorations were in Trojan colors. Entertainment consisted of a chat session and table games. Two films, "The Three Stooges" and "The Little Rascals" were shown. Pastor Epperson gave a short devotional. Parents of the Christian Church youth served lunch. Plans are to continue this event with the 1972 football season.

The Agent's Angle

by Harold Ingalls

be inconsiderate of another's safety?

I could list a few blameworthy "go-ers" words like suicidal, stress, temper, aggressive, incompetent, confused, bored, forgetful, ignorant, vindictive, "stoned"... even "future-shocked" to toss a new one at you. But these words alone don't really explain accidents. Human limitations and faults definitely are bonded to the accident situation... but there's no simple answer to my question.

I do believe, however, that people don't opt to bear the consequences of accidents—when they think about it (which isn't often). Life is complex, and every day we're hit with a torrent of pressures, conflicts, personal woes and decisions. Things change so fast that we can't keep up.

Perhaps the threat of accidents takes a back seat to that of not getting our work done on time, getting old, money and health worries, social and political strife... you name it!

But fear accidents we should. A look at the "ax-stats" should confirm that safety is terribly important—a MUST in all we do.

We want to realize our goals, manage our problems, maybe even find some joy in life. So, why can't we grasp the relationship between safety and the continuing capacity to "hang in there" and being able to work toward these ends with hope for success? Accidents only worsen problems, make the road tougher and snatch success away.

This is what we safety guys are yacking about. We're trying to convince you that, whatever your game, you can't make it unless you're alive and in one piece—and that you can do plenty to keep hazards and errors from sideling you. I say safety and success go hand-in-hand.

NE Station Conducts Alfalfa Experiments

"Alfalfa continues to be an important crop in northeast Nebraska—and when we think about fertilizing it, some farmers have wondered if nutrients other than phosphate are needed on the non-sandy soils," Russell Moomaw, area extension agronomist at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord, said.

"In order to get an answer to this question, combinations of several nutrients were applied to an established alfalfa stand in Thurston County," Moomaw added. "A trace element mixture provided the heaviest yield, a mixture that included boron, copper, zinc, manganese and iron."

Information from the Northeast Experiment Station has definitely shown that phosphate is needed for top production of alfalfa. Experiments have shown that sulfur, potassium and trace elements are not needed on the non-sandy soils. The rate of phosphate applied should be based on a soil test.

For dryland alfalfa on sandy soils, sulfur will be needed with phosphate. An application of 100 pounds of sulfur per acre should be sufficient for three years. Potash may be needed in some sandy soils, but a soil sample should be taken to be certain.

4-H Beef Weigh Day Saturday

4-H members are scheduled to weigh and tag all market beef cattle Saturday. Cattle will be weighed at the Wayne State Barn between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The weight and identification is used for a comparison of rate of gain over a uniform feeding period. Many feeding trials confirm that rate of gain is the best single measure of efficient performance.

Both individual and market pens are to be weighed. The pen project started seven years ago and consists of five steers weighing no more than 3,500 pounds on weigh day. For the first time pens of five heifers weighing no more than 3,000 pounds will be accepted this year. Pens are not shown at the County Fair but are placed at the annual sale held about Sept. 6. Placings are based on rate of gain and packer appraisal.

The starting weights on individual cattle are used for making up county fair classes. Fair premium monies are divided between conventional placings and rate of gain. The sale order of individual calves and pens is made on a combined score from rate of gain and packer appraisal.

Zero in on Safety in '72

We borrowed the following thoughts from Jack Burke, editor of Farm Safety Review.

"The contradiction between our instinct for self-preservation and the inconsistent application of protective steps necessary for that survival is a curious thing. People say they want to live to be 100 but watching the m at the table, tavern or behind the wheel makes one wonder.

What inner forces lead many of us to gamble our lives, ignore or disobey safety practices, or

One of Sorensen's beef cattle ventures close to investigate. The farm produces 150 head each year.

This big fellow was somewhat hesitant when the photographer climbed into his pen. So was the photographer. According to Sorensen, the 650-pound boar is responsible for much of the farm's success.

Sorensen Named Outstanding Young Farmer

ing Program. Under the program, Sorensen hosts Japanese agriculture students at his farm, instructing them in American methods of agriculture. Sorensen first entered the program in 1964 and has hosted Japanese students since that time. Sorensen's present trainee is Seikichi Tokumoto, an Okinawan student, who arrived in January and will remain at the Sorensen farm through the summer.

Sorensen farms 640 acres, with the chief emphasis placed on the production of SPF "disease free" hogs. Yearly hog production averages about 1,500, with about 500 gilts, 150 boars and 100 sows sold each year.

Sorensen began farming with 80 acres in 1959, upon returning from a stint in the service. In 1960, he became involved in the "disease free" program, and in 1961, he first brought hogs to a SPF lab in Wayne. According to Sorensen, the hogs must be blood tested once a year, and weighed and back fat probed at 140 days. At least 14 per cent of the herd must be checked for general health. In order to retain the SPF rating, the advantage of the system, Sorensen said, was the assurance of clean hogs.

Sorensen's SPF operation concentrates on the production of purebred Hampshire and Duroc hogs; and Hampshire-Duroc Yorkshire crossbreds. He also feeds about 150 beef cattle each year.

Sorensen is a past president and director of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association, and served as a delegate to the 1971 National Pork Congress. He has received the Pork All American Award, and was selected by former Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to participate in commodity meetings in Washington, D. C. in 1971.

Experimental Farm Assn. Meets March 14

The Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association has set its annual public meeting for Tuesday, Mar. 14, at the Wayne City Auditorium.

The day will be devoted largely to reporting on research work at the Northeast Station and the public is invited. The program will begin at 10 a.m. and run until mid-afternoon. The morning will be devoted to crop-related work and the livestock reports will be given in the afternoon.

Don Ardsler, president of the association, will be in charge of the meeting and John Kroger Jr., will report on activities of the association.

The Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association was organized to establish an experimental station in northeast Nebraska. The Association continues to serve in an advisory and liaison capacity. This annual meeting is held to provide an opportunity for interested people in the area to keep up with accomplishments and results at the Northeast Station, located near Concord.

Dropping Water Supply in State Reason For Concern, But Not for General Alarm

There is reason for concern about dropping water tables in Nebraska, but to sound a general alarm because water tables are dropping in some areas is an oversimplification of the situation and can be misleading.

This analysis was made by Dean Axthelm, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension water resources specialist.

Noting the importance of the groundwater reservoir—about three-fourths of the state's four million irrigated acres depend on groundwater supplies—Axthelm had these observations:

—Water tables are not declining in all parts of Nebraska; in fact, they are rising in some areas of a few central and south-central Nebraska counties.

—All of the areas of groundwater decline together comprise but a relatively small portion of the total land area of Nebraska.

—The amount of groundwater supply in each area of groundwater decline is different from other areas. And, the groundwater supply within a specific decline area may vary from one location to another.

—Both the rate of decline, which is dependent on the rate at which water is being removed, and the amount of water remaining available for recovery determines the severity of the situation.

"It is not enough to know the decline in an area," Axthelm said. "The saturated thickness of the water bearing material in an area is also critical."

As examples, he explained that if there is 80 feet of water bearing material and the decline is 12 feet, about 85 per cent of the water saturated thickness remains.

Management and conservation is important in all areas but is critical in the uplands, the NU water resources specialist said.

"Using better management methods will extend the years of useful life of the groundwater reservoir. Among present methods available for conserving water are reuse pits, soil moisture saving, tillage practices, monitoring equipment for detecting soil moisture to effectively program irrigations and water saving irrigation distribution systems. Also, limitations could be imposed on the amount of water pumped or we could grow crops that use less water."

"On a larger scale, Axthelm called for serious thought about ways of using water now leaving Nebraska and procedures for transferring some of the unused surface waters to areas of need.

"We also need to find satisfactory ways of assuring users in those areas providing this water that they will have sufficient water for their needs and even perhaps paying them for water delivered. Costs and benefits for transfers of water need to be determined," Axthelm concluded.

'Slow and Easy' Plan

Some animals are automatically thought of as being dumb and stupid. Actually, the animal may be reasonably smart. Yet when their name is mentioned some people immediately think of that animal as one that can't figure things out for itself.

A hog, for instance, may be considered dumb and stupid, yet somehow it always seems to know exactly what you want it to do. What other explanation could there be for it always doing exactly the opposite?

Except for your constant, unheeded insistence that it stay within a certain fenced boundary, little headwork is expected from a hog.

A farmer usually thinks of a hog as being dirty, odorous, glutinous, troublesome, weighty, clumsy, and uncooperative mortal. Yes, a hog may be dumb but to a farmer it isn't completely stupid. And when that hog reaches about 220 pounds it definitely is at the height of its intelligence.

Dividing Day
You know this is true, especially the day you and the Mrs. try to divide the heavier hogs from the lighter ones.

The commission men put yellow chalk markings on the backs of the hogs that he thought were heavy enough for market. So all you and the Mrs. have to do is to simply run the lighter hogs out of the hogshed and shut the door.

But first on the agenda is to get the entire bunch of hogs into the hogshed without too much exertion. For them and you, too. Slow and easy is the plan. That way the fat, unsuspecting (you hope) hogs won't get excited and lose any of those precious $$$ pounds.

One plump, marked hog is lazily eating at the self-feeder and a couple are lounging in a corner of the feeding area. The Mrs. started near the door. It is supposed to keep any of the other hogs from coming out of the shed. You'll just walk slowly around the feeder and drive those few into the hogshed.

Sounded Good
Well, it seemed like a good plan.

You forgot to take into consideration that the feeder is wide and round and taller than you can reach over. A perfect merry-go-round full of good food for a glutton that wants to keep eating and getting fatter.

If you wanted that hog to be eating and taking on a fill it wouldn't eat a mouthful! You don't dare yell or try to scare it for fear of alerting the entire herd. The next best thing is to tap his memory that you are the boss. And what you say goes. And right now you say "Get in that hogshed!"

But it solemnly takes another bite of feed, lets the feeder lid bang and looks at you with those little beady eyes while choosing upon the feed. When you move toward him he merely moves around to the next lid. So you grab a couple of the broken boards lying on the ground, reminders of your last sorting job, but it only holds its snout higher and champs his floppy jowls while he looks at you from under those mid-trusted ears.

Trying to wave a board in each hand, one on each side of the feeder, you resemble one of those aviation men of the olden days when they were trying to learn how to fly. You'd like to fly right over that feeder and onto that hog!

Pace Quickens
The pace is gradually speeding up.

First you chase it in one direction, make a fast, skidding turn and chase it the other way. Or is it "chasing you"? If this hog didn't have a bright yellow mark on its back, you'd leave it right here to eat. It sure seems to know it, too. Maybe that's why it's so fat—it never leaves the feeder.

The Mrs. quietly walks toward the feeder. She has also picked up a board.

Evidently the hog you've been chasing around the feeder hasn't wised up the others about what is happening. They seem to be calmly waiting near the wide open door.

You go around one side of the feeder—again and the Mrs. goes the other way, only to discover that the hog knew you had outnumbered it. It is lumbering toward the other hogs and goes into the shed.

You and the Mrs. run quickly and crowd the remaining hogs into the shed. But once inside you're positive that every hog in there has been told, in hog language, that this is Red Alert. And every hog in there seems to know exactly what its job is during such an emergency.

Original Plan
But slow and easy is the plan, remember?

You'll just wait for them to get settled down. Besides, you don't have the sorting gates nor the pens organized for sorting. A small hole is needed for the Mrs.—to hold—in the alleyway. And you need a large gate to use while crowding the smaller hogs toward the gate the Mrs. will be holding.

Now to find the hogs with the yellow marks on them.

At first things go according to plan. A little skill, strategy and quick actions and you have a few smaller hogs moving toward the Mrs. She opens her gate and lets them into the alleyway, then outside and out of the way.

Suddenly you can no longer see the yellow chalk marks. They must think they've outsmarted you by rubbing off the marks. So you start judging their weight, leaning wearily on the gate.

All at once the gate is slammed against you. You are struggling to keep your balance. To say nothing of trying to keep from being smashed under the gate and against the wall.

Old beady eyes is making a bee-line for the door. Your not-so-soft or pleasant voice alerts the Mrs. of his coming. But she already has the gate across the door.

Wayne Herald Want Ads!
Where buyers and sellers meet.

Mismatch
Talk about throwing weight around, that hog sure tries! It must know it weighs about a hundred pounds more than the Mrs. It runs the gate with every ounce of energy that it can muster. Luckily the Mrs. bounces back from the gate at the same time it rebounds. And she manages to grab the gate again at the same instant old beady eyes charges again.

This is the time and place where all plans are omitted, loss of weight or not. Fortunately the Mrs. has the gate braced against the inside of the door. Somehow the gate holds against its weight and you manage to get the hog "enticed" away from the Mrs.

And a variation of this procedure continues until you concede. Regardless of the formerly desired number of hogs to be marketed. This number is often determined by your complete exhaustion and your fear of needing a rendering truck rather than a livestock truck.

Maybe they are dumb and stupid but there is a lot to be said and a lot to be written about trying to convince a 220-pound hog that it should go to market.

And there is a lot that SHOULD NEVER be said and there is also a lot that CAN NEVER be written about that subject!

One of the main features of Laurel's annual fine arts festival, held Saturday afternoon at the Laurel City Auditorium, was the fashion show of clothing made by the 45 models or their mothers.

Over 200 persons gathered at the auditorium for the 1:30 p.m. program. Master of ceremonies Ruth Elmeler extended the welcome, and Music Chairman Mrs. Morris Elmeler introduced Marilyn Mackey, pianist, and Kieth Matthews, drummer, who presented their winning entries from the Feb. 12 music contest.

Six-minute extemporaneous speeches were given by Mrs. Armin Trwiler on "The World of Color," and by Mrs. Marlon Kraemer on "A Season of Fear." Judges Ella Larsen, Mrs. Robert Munter and Mrs. Gary Westgaard selected Mrs. Kraemer to represent the club at the district contest to be held in Howells Mar. 11.

Needlework judges Mrs. Robert Munter and Mrs. Lena Schroeder announced that a knitted jumper by Mrs. Arnold Elmeler and a quilted poncho, by Mrs. Walter B. Chace, both blue ribbon winners, would be entered in the district contest.

Blue ribbons were also awarded Anna Borg for a sleeveless knit sweater; Mrs. Kenneth Finley, afghan; Mrs. Gustie Loeb, two capes, a baby blanket and card table cover, and Mrs. Merle Von Minden, poncho.

Blue ribbon winners in the crafts division were Mrs. Kenneth Finley for a cane chair seat and Kenneth Finley for work on a bedroom chair and stool.

Red ribbon winners were Mrs. Merle Von Minden, poncho and cap; Mrs. Esther Vollerston, sofa pillow; Mrs. Fenton Crookshank, baby afghan; Mrs. Walter Chace, sweater, and Mrs. Galen Hartman, hairpin lace poncho.

White ribbons went to Mrs. Joe Moore, afghan, and Norma Erlanson, pillow.

Several hundred school art pictures, judged by Mrs. Gary Smith, were also on display. First place winners were Shelly Fredrickson, Elliott Ehrenholz, Scott Anderson, Kay Anderson, Julie Crisp, Bradley Bath, Jana Wacker, Laurie Stanley, Janet Carlson, Kelly Helms, June Stark and Kathy Hansen.

Second place winners were Tom Jacobsen, Fern Sue Wayman, Alan Mathiason, Brenda Anderson, Paula Chace, Deanne Manz, Lisa Schrieber, Renee Wallin and Sheryl Anderson.

Third place rating went to Brenda Rees, Scott Kardell, Phil Martle, Nancy Jensen, Lee Skocho, Joy Mathiason, Donald Dalton, Stacey Carmen, Judy Johnson, Cindy Schaefer, Glenn Maxon, Kathy Anderson, Lisa Anderson.

Honorable mention winners were Scott Bath, Mitchell Hansen, Teresa Johnson, Debra Casey, Scott Norvell, Clark Maxon, Antoinette Wayman, Blake Maxon, Mike Burns, Sally Johnson, Lori Mathiason, Donald Burns, Julia Anderson, Tracy Nelson, Larry Gross, Gary Lutz, Nevi Ann, Dennis Anderson, Turia Lillard and Debbie Helms.

The program was concluded with a silver tea. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. James Lofquist, Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. V. E. McNatt, Mrs. Morris Elmeler and Mrs. Clair Pigg.
