

Victory Celebration for Medical Center

What may be a record in oversubscription in hospital campaigns in Nebraska and in the United States was achieved this week for the Wayne Medical Center building program as a total of $866,027 was scored to top a goal of $500,000 in this community of 5,380 population. The total is 173 per cent of the goal.

Area families—farmers and those living in nearby communities to be served by the new medical center—shared $121,819 of the total. The rest, $744,208, came from the families and businesses of Wayne.

Breakdown of Donations

Largest gift in the campaign was from the Carhart family and the Carhart Lumber company at $53,000. But more than 1,400 smaller subscriptions represented over half the achieved grand total.

"This is an evening we will long remember," Adon Jeffrey, campaign general chairman, told 150 volunteer workers gathered for the victory report meeting and celebration in the Birch Room of the Wayne State College student center Thursday. "We knew that every oversubscribed dollar would be needed and can be used. As a result we now have a built-in fund which can be invested for equipment needs in the future. I can assure you every dollar will be closely guarded by members of the board of directors of the Wayne Hospital Foundation."

It was an evening of big gifts and of the reporting of many smaller contributions. More than $230,000 in subscriptions were marked on the 50-foot score chart to the applause of campaign workers.

Among the big gifts reported in the total were $21,894 from teachers and employees of the Wayne-Carroll school system, district 17; $25,000 from the Dart Industries Foundation, manufacturers of Tupperware, through Iamier Frank Wilson, who grew up in Wayne and is now an official of the Dart Corporation.

Spemmed-for—the chapel in the new medical center was a $20,000 gift from John N. Elmgren and John F. Elmgren Jr., in memory of the late Mrs. Mary N. Elmgren.

Peoples Natural Gas, a division of Northern Natural Gas, subscribed $15,000, Keith Mosley, company manager in Wayne, announced.

A $20,500 memorial gift for the late

Mark E. Cramer came from the Wayne Herald, members of the Cramer family and some publishers who were his business associates.

"But the aggregate total of hundreds of givers, more than matching the large gifts, is something for all of us to remember," said Jeffrey. "The spirit of workers and of donors in this campaign has brought all of us closer together in a common cause—the best health care possible for every family in the area."

Began With Challenge

Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk had challenged families of the Wayne area by offering $500,000 toward construction costs if the amount could be matched by campaign subscriptions.

Jeffrey said the campaign office at 114 East Third will be kept open during the week of Mar. 6 through 10 so that anyone called upon by campaign workers can subscribe.

"We want as many thoughtful people who can consider gifts to be listed as donors in the records of this amazing campaign," the chairman said.

Robert A. Carhart has been named chairman of the follow-up committee, members of which will call upon new businesses and families who come to the area during the five-year pledge period. Kenneth M. Oida has accepted the chairmanship of the pledge service committee, and Claire Hurlbert will be in charge of publicity, Jeffrey said.

Campaign records will be moved during the weekend of Mar. 11, 12 to the chamber of commerce office at 108 West Third, (P.O. Box 3), and to the new medical center when it is occupied.

Need Recognized

Ten years ago, a group of individuals aware of the impending need for modern health facilities, formed a non-profit corporation known as the Wayne Hospital Foundation, providing a means by which tax-deductible gifts could be made for the Wayne Hospital.

This is the group which negotiated with the Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk and the group which is responsible for the Wayne Medical Center Building Program.

The Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk, who will operate the new Medical Center, own and operate a hospital in Graceville, Minn., and Lynch, and also operate Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital in Norfolk. The Medical Center in Wayne will be their fourth health care project.

The Wayne Hospital Foundation Board of Directors includes Robert Carhart, chairman; Kenneth M. Oida, secretary; Adon Jeffrey, treasurer; Dr. Robert Bentback, Phil Grless, Mrs. Don Kerl, Mrs. Dick Keldel, Rick Lund, Carl Nuss, Lyle Seymour, Vernon Hill of Winside, William Norvell of Laurel and Milton Owens of Carroll.

Wayne and the surrounding hospital service area have urgently needed a modern, acute-care medical center for more than a decade. Obsolete physical facilities in the present Wayne Hospital, including a shortage of space, functional defects and the impossibility of making the building fireproof, have pointed up this need since before 1960.

Some of the rooms in the 26-bed facility conform to today's hospital standards. And the demands of a daily growing population add to the burden. The present Wayne City census figure of 4,380 is nearly double that of 30 years ago (2,719) but the families are served by the same medical facility.

Total population of Wayne County and surrounding rural territories who use the local facilities is estimated at 15,000, or about 5,000 patients aplace for each of the three physicians remaining in Wayne—more than double the maximum recommended number.

Young physicians today look for locations where there are modern facilities for their patients—further proof of need for a new medical center.

Victory in Sight

Members of the Wayne Hospital Foundation have recently been in contact with two young physicians who have, with the near certainty of a new medical center, expressed an interest in locating their practices here.

This fact, added to the overwhelming enthusiasm with which area persons donated to the Medical Center Fund, are among the many positive indications that Wayne will soon offer the best medical care available for our area.

In addition, the proposed Medical Center location, on the northeast corner of the WSC campus, and the possibility of cooperative programs between Wayne State College and the Medical Center, may pave the way for increased college enrollment, still another plus for Wayne.

Wednesday Blaze Destroys Trailer

Fire Wednesday destroyed a mobile home at the Woehler Trailer Court. The trailer was owned by Andrew Manes and rented by Debbie Menkens and Sharon Nobbe, Wayne State College students, neither of whom was in the trailer at the time. A neighbor called in the alarm shortly before 4 p.m. Wayne firemen had the blaze under control in about 20 minutes. According to Fire Chief Cliff Pinkelman, the fire apparently was caused by a smoldering cigarette.

The blaze was confined to a davenport in the living area, but heat and smoke damage was extensive throughout the structure, and fire officials ruled the trailer a total loss.

According to Pinkelman, all windows and doors in the trailer were closed, and the lack of ventilation prevented the fire from spreading.

Barbed Wire 'Connection' Intentional

Phone Call Results In $25,000 Hospital Gift

A telephone conversation between Mrs. W.C. Shultheis of Wayne, and her cousin Hamer Frank Wilson III, of Orlando, Fla., recently netted the Wayne Hospital Fund Drive a gift of $25,000.

"Aunt Mary" mentioned the fund drive to Wilson during a phone conversation, sparking the Floridian's interest in the project. Wilson, a former Wayne resident, stated that the company with which he is associated has a special department for donations to charitable institutions. He vowed to check into the possibilities without delay.

In a matter of a few minutes, Wilson made a follow-up call, to notify his aunt that a gift of $25,000 was being made to the hospital fund drive by Dart Industries, Inc. The donation is to be a memorial to Wilson's father, grandfather and other relatives who were former Wayne residents.

Sorensen Receives Livestock Award

Richard Sorensen, Wayne, was one of 20 Nebraska farmers receiving Mid-America Livestock Classic Awards, presented during the luncheon program of the annual Mid-America Livestock Forum at the Omaha Hilton Thursday.

The awards were presented by Omaha Mayor Eugene Isahy. The purpose of the program is to stimulate economic growth and development in the Midwest through the wider and more efficient conversion of feed resources into livestock and livestock products. Another objective is to recognize those who have excelled in performance and provided progressive leadership in the development of the Midwest's animal agriculture economy.

The results were based on statistics that show a relationship between feed grain production and livestock production.

An Unthinkable Idea

This may well be the era of unthinkable solutions to insoluble problems. The idea of the U. S. government selling heroin, for instance, is pretty unthinkable.

But that may be the only practical solution to the problem of heroin addiction and the high incidence of violent crime which co-exists with it. Law enforcement officials and narcotics experts are now beginning to focus not on the drug problem, but on the crime which makes it possible for the drug problem to exist.

There are 150,000 heroin addicts in New York City alone. Those addicts must steal to maintain their expensive habits. Add to that already considerable figure the junkie populations of the other U. S. cities, and it becomes apparent that drug-related crime is one of our most serious problems.

New York City police officials have estimated that about 70 per cent of the violent crimes committed in that city are linked in some way with narcotics. Residents of lower income neighborhoods live in fear continually. Murders, robberies, burglaries and muggings are common-place in areas where scores of drug users are concentrated.

It's easy to see why crime and dope are such close working partners. Something illegal but widely sought after automatically implies a profit. There will always be those who are only too happy to provide the outlawed commodity—for a price. And that's where crime comes in.

The situation was similar during Prohibition. The well-meaning teetotalers didn't know it, but by pushing through the Volstead Act, they were providing organized crime with the solid financial basis it needed. By the same token, illegal heroin traffic is funneling millions of dollars to organized crime.

Remove the profit motive, and one could assume most of the crime would disappear. The government could remove the profit motive by undertaking its own drug dispensing and regulation program.

An unthinkable idea? True. You'll get no argument on that score from most Americans. But since the problem has become so acute, perhaps a radical solution is the only answer.

Under a federally-administered program, the drug problem might well reach a plateau and level off, and with the price of a fix stabilized at a low level, the robberies, burglaries and muggings would almost certainly decrease. The government could also regulate and educate much more efficiently.

Unless drastic action is taken, the drug problem that is crippling our cities will continue to mushroom. That can't be allowed to happen. The Sam pushing heroin? Yes, it's an unthinkable idea. But we may be forced to think about it. —Joel Knutson

Bye, Bye, Small Business

Probably few persons are acquainted with the Occupational Safety and Health Act. But, unless a bill introduced by Sen. Carl Curtis, proposing amendments to the recently-enacted law, is passed, the legislation will affect every business in the United States.

And, the provisions of the law can be extremely expensive. To the point of putting many private enterprises out of business. The Occupational Safety and Health Act was designed to provide utmost safety to all employees.

No argument there—until some of the provisions get nearly to the point of being ridiculous. To comply with the OSHA, all businesses would be required to:

- Have passage ways, store rooms, service rooms and all work areas clean, orderly and in a sanitary condition.
- Provide clearly marked exit signs with letters at least three-fourths of an inch wide and six inches high.
- Have guards and shields on all power grinders, emery wheels and compressor belts.
- Demand protective eye equipment be worn by all employees while removing tail pipes or mufflers and when using power grinders or doing body work.
- Protect open lube and front end pits with rails, guards or chains.
- Ground all power tools, power equipment and extension cords with a three-wire hookup.
- Provide ear protection for employees in body shops with noise above 90 decibels.
- Use power tools that do not have automatic locking triggers to the "on" position.
- Have protective railing for all unloading docks four feet or higher.
- Provide hot and cold running water in rest rooms. Ladies' rest rooms must have covered receptacle and, in a business where nine or more women are employed, a couch must be provided in the rest room.

Place rest rooms within 200 feet of any employee and separate facilities for each sex. Two required for 10-24 employees, three for 25-49 employees, four for 50-99 employees—all with hinged, open front seat facilities.

Use a color code system as follows: red—fire protection; orange—dangerous equipment; yellow—caution and marking physical hazards; green—safety and first aid; blue—equipment under repair; purple—radiation hazards; black and white—traffic and housekeeping areas.

There are many, many more provisions in the act—but this should give businessmen an idea as to the headaches confronting nearly every firm.

During the first six months of the Act, about 9,300 establishments were inspected for compliance. Of these, 60 per cent were cited for fines totaling $364,000. An additional 20 per cent of firms were found to have minor hazards that did not result in citations, leaving only 20 per cent of those inspected free of violations.

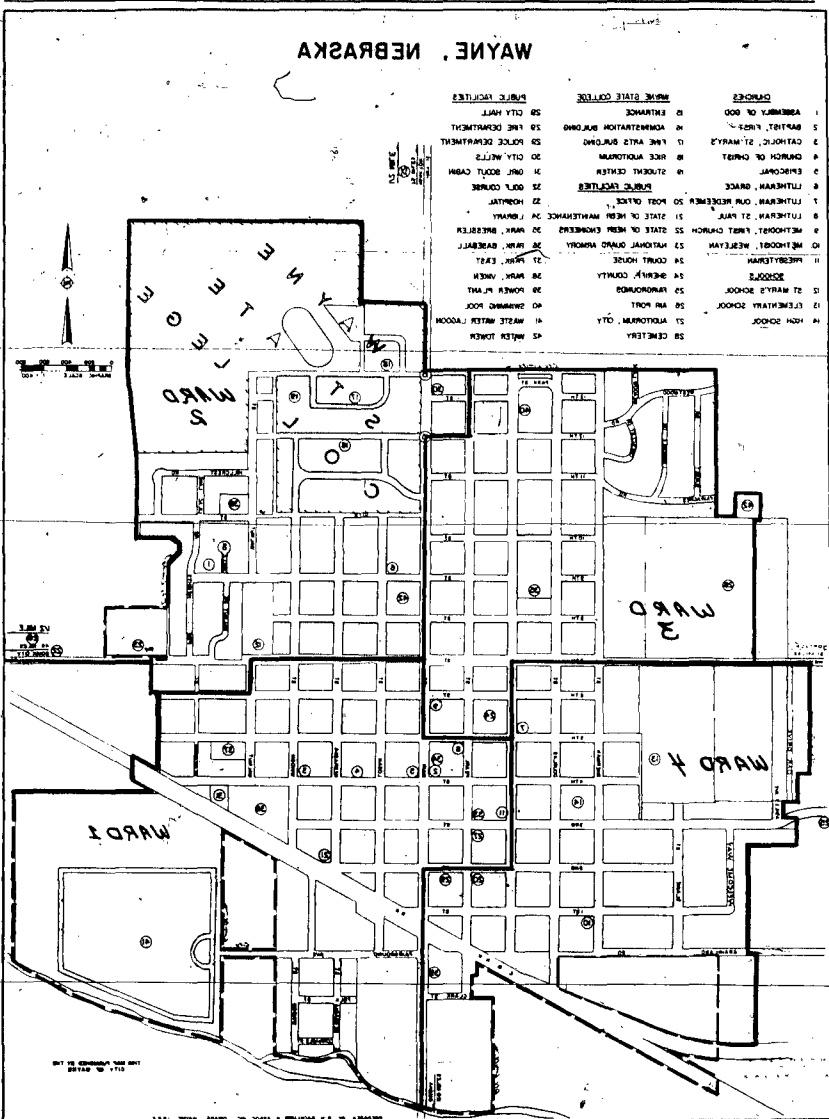

This means every business place has a one-in-five chance of NOT having a citation or fine!

And the fine is steep—up to $10,000 for each violation. A six-month prison term can be tacked on for a case in which a willful violation results in the death of an employee.

Sen. Curtis' proposal for amendments to the Act includes exemption for businesses, including farms, having 25 or fewer employees.

If the move is not successful, look for the government to become owners of a number of businesses for owners' refusal or inability to comply with the new law.

Let's see—how was it that the socialistic form of government began? —By Claire Hurlbert Films on venereal disease were shown to a mixed group Tuesday evening at the fire hall in Beemer. Films shown were "Quarter Million Teenagers," "The Innocent Party," "Dance Little Children," and "The Invaders," which explained the aspects of health, moral issues, control methods and public attitudes. The films were sponsored by the Beta Club.

To the Editor: Now that Wayne High School has finished its basketball season perhaps we could well ask ourselves some questions, such as:

Why did we have such an inferior record for the year when everyone thought we had prospects for such a good year? Why did several good potential upper-classmen drop out of basketball entirely? Is it true that some of those dropouts have done quite well on team play? Why did we have to bring a freshman up to play varsity this year? Has this been a practice in past years? Why do the Superintendent and all but a couple of school board members refuse to get involved in the problem? Do these other people have any idea of the anger and resentment among fans and players this year?

Why do members of other communities shake their heads in wonderment when they see what we have done with our team? Can we expect other players to respect someone given special privileges starting as a freshman? Is our whole athletic program designed around one, or at the most, a few players, or is it a team effort?

We could continue asking questions, but it's time others who have complained let it be known. This applies to those fans without players in school and those with. The big question unsolved is this: are we going to continue bellyaching and taking pills to lower the blood pressure for the next three years, or are we going to try and get something done now?

Sarha Shot Sends Bears to State

Gene Sarha bought his Laurel Bears a ticket to the state tournament Friday night. The unheralded and vastly underrated 5-9 junior cuffed a 15-footer with three seconds left in overtime, to boost the Bears to a 52-50 regional triumph over the Neligh Warriors, Friday night at Norfolk's City Auditorium.

The events which led up to the stunning climax were every bit as nerve-jangling as the pregame billings had predicted. The clubs had met twice before this season, with each claiming "the victory." Friday night's duel was to be the rubber match that would establish supremacy and send one of the squads to state.

Both clubs held the scoring edge numerous times, but neither could press the advantage to build a substantial lead. With the Bears sitting on a precarious two-point lead as the final stanza got underway, the pressure was on.

Neligh's deadly Mark Murphy immediately applied the thumbscrews, dumping a field goal to tie the score at 33-33, with 7:25 remaining in regulation play. The Bears' Bruce Johnson countered with a fielder of his own, and teammate Steve Urviler added another, to bring the count to 37-33. Warrior Terry McCoy converted a pair of charity tosses, but Laurel's stand-by George Schroeder maintained the four point edge, nailing a two-pointer from under the bucket. Neligh's Mark Magwire canned a field goal, and Johnson hit a free throw before Murphy pushed through another fielder to bring the Warriors within one, at 42-41.

The hearts of Laurel fans sank, as Magwire pushed the Warriors into the lead, 43-42, with three minutes left. But the setback was only temporary, as Johnson arched another long one in, for a 44-43 Laurel lead. Schroeder added a free throw to bump the margin to two, but Neligh's McCoy had the last word, firing in a fielder to knot the count at 45-45, with 1:35 to play. Neither team scored after that.

The Bears had gone into their patented stall with 1:15 remaining, but had lost the ball with 11 seconds showing on the clock. With Neligh appearing to have the last crack at the basket, what followed could only be described as a mad scramble, tempered by necessary finesse. Neligh brought the ball in, then turned it over to the Bears, who then returned it to the Warriors. The Neligh crew didn't get off a shot.

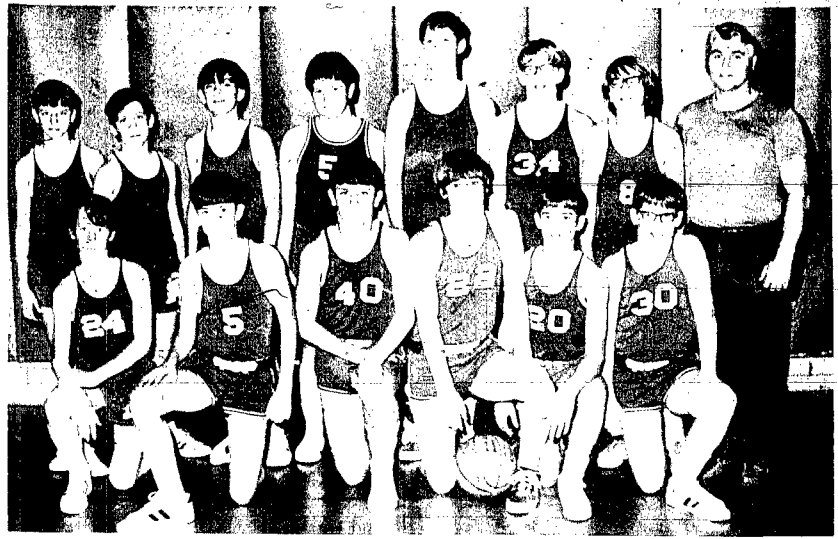

But the Warriors drew first blood in overtime, with Murphy hitting a field goal to put his team ahead by two. Schroeder deadlocked the count at 47-47, with a turnaround jumper, then converted a pair of free throw tosses to put the Bears up, 49-47. McCoy hit on a charity toss, but Laurel's Gary Chase retaliated with one of his own, and the count stood 50-49. With one minute remaining in the overtime period, Tim Riewer laid in an easy one to tie it again.

The Laurel stall flung prominently again, as the Bears owned the ball with just less than a minute to go. The Laurel quint played ring around the rosie, eating up a valuable 40 seconds, while waiting for the last shot. At long last, Schroeder weaved toward the basket. Once the 6-4 ace was inside, the Neligh defense shifted to stop the gap, leaving Sarha open on the baseline about 15 feet out. Schroeder's pass was on the money, and Sarha had plenty of time to hit the shot that swept the Bears to Lincoln.

Laurel's Keith Olsen (24) is not alone, as he tries a shot during the Bears' 52-50 overtime conquest of Neligh in Friday night's regional encounter. That's Mark Magwire providing resistance from behind. The lineup at right includes a pair of Neligh axes, Tim Riewer (13) and Mark Murphy, along with Laurel's George Schroeder. The clutch victors provided the Bears with a slot in the state tournament at Lincoln later this week.

Eighth Grade Roundballers

It had been an uphill battle to victory for the Laurel crew. They were down by small margins frequently in the first half and once trailed by five. But the shooting of Schroeder and Johnson allowed the Bears to regain a two-point deficit at the end of the first quarter, and stay within reach, to outscore the Warriors in the second frame and knot the count at 20-20 at the intermission.

The Bears' battle hardened defense, having stopped threats from Ponca and Bloomfield in district action, again proved its worth. But Friday's game featured a more balanced effort, with Schroeder inside, Johnson outside, and the other three Urviler, Keith Olsen and Sarha all around.

Schroeder, as usual, hit from everywhere, notching 20 points to lead all scorers. Johnson specialized on 20 footers, posting 17 markers. The other Bears were unable to provide much scoring help, but compensated for their defensive work.

Neligh's scoring attack showed better balance, with four of the starting five turning in double-figure charts. McCoy led on 13 points, while Murphy, Urviler and Magwire dumped 11 apiece.

One factor that had aided Laurel in the past failed to materialize Friday. The Bears had been getting about 15 points per game via the charity stripe, but the opportunities just weren't there in the clash with Neligh. The Laurel crew had only 11 chances from the line, and converted for six.

Laurel's 42 per cent shooting from the field didn't help either, as the Warriors hit 48 per cent. With problems from the line and from the floor, it was the Bears' defense that carried much of the load.

The regional victory will yield a trip to Lincoln for the Laurel squad later this week. The Bears will play Thursday, but a time and an opponent had not been announced as of Saturday morning.

Randolph Quint Wins District Class B Title

The Randolph Cardinals Friday night won themselves a berth in the state hardcourt tourney downing Creighton, 75-65 in the final round of Class B district play at Norfolk's high school gymnasium.

Randolph had knocked off Hartington Cedar Catholic, 64-44, Thursday night, and Creighton had edged Wisner-Pilger, 65-63 to set the stage for the final round showdown.

Early Reservation At Ponca State Park

Reservations are now being taken for early use of cabins at five Game and Parks Commission areas, including facilities at Ponca State Park. Special off-season rates are offered from May 15 through 31.

The cabins are modern and set up for housekeeping. Reservations are being taken up by the Ponca manager.

Cost of a standard, double cabin during the May 15 through 31 period is $9 per day, while small and singles rent for $7. The same rates are in effect from September 10 through 15. These off-season periods are the only time when one-day reservations are accepted. During the peak season, minimum reservation time is two days.

Lower off-season rates are offered by the Game and Parks Commission so that visitors may take advantage of the spring and fall outdoor recreation opportunities at state areas, without having to pay the prices of the high-demand period during the summer months.

The cabins are quite popular

Bronchitis Can Be Helped In Early Stages

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska Medical Association. Bronchitis is an inflammation of the lining of the bronchial tubes which connect the windpipe with the lungs. This inflammation and infection causes the air flow to and from the lungs to become labored.

Many people suffer a brief attack of acute bronchitis with fever and coughing when they have severe colds.

Chronic bronchitis, however, is the term applied when this coughing continues for months and returns each year, lasting slightly longer after each cold.

Chronic bronchitis is usually associated with heavy cigarette smoking. It is likely to begin in middle age and get worse as the years go on unless the victim seeks help early in the disease.

Antibiotic drugs have been of tremendous importance in treating chronic bronchitis. These drugs can usually overcome even deep and long-lasting infections.

However, to really clear-up and prevent chronic bronchitis, it is necessary to eliminate all sources of irritation and infection to the nose, throat, mouth, sinuses, and bronchial tubes.
