

Four City Councilmen Favor Rezoning on Seventh Street

The City Council Tuesday night voted, 4-2, in favor of authorizing City Attorney John Addison to draw up an ordinance changing the zoning from R1 (residential) to B1 (highway business) in an area on West Seventh Street.

However, six affirmative votes will be needed at the Apr. 11 City Council meeting before the area can be used for business purposes.

In normal Council procedures, only a majority vote (four) is needed for passage of general business, but in the case of rezoning and annexations, a three-fourths majority (five) is required.

The four affirmative votes served only to advance the proposal to an ordinance-writing stage. At the Apr. 11 meeting, unless one of the councilmen opposed to rezoning changes his vote—and the other "yes" votes remain unchanged—the rezoning issue will be killed.

Those voting in favor of rezoning were Keith Mosley, Jarvey Brasch, Pat Gross and Jim Thomas. Those opposed to rezoning were Darrell Fuebler and R. H. Bantester.

The area involved is 1 1/2 blocks from Lincoln Street east to a half-block west of Main and running 150 feet north of Seventh.

Dr. Gordon Shupe, owner of some of the ground in the area involved in the proposed rezoning, presented a petition, signed by 96 persons who supported the rezoning proposal.

Another petition, this one objecting to the rezoning for business, was presented by Dr. R. L. S. Rasmussen, containing 26 signatures of property owners or residents in the area involved.

The latter petition referred to findings of the Planning Commission on the matter which reportedly included: "people overwhelmingly against rezoning, would cause conflict between traffic and pedestrians, creating a safety hazard, traffic-carrying capacity on Seventh would be reduced and would prevent orderly growth of city by spotted strip-zoning."

The Planning Commission had voted, 3-2, to reject the rezoning proposal, with four of the nine members not taking part in the voting.

Gross, speaking in favor of rezoning, said that he "couldn't buy" some of those findings. Thomas said that he was in favor of spot zoning. "We need business and we don't want new businesses to go out of the city limits."

Fuebler countered with "If we open up to spot zoning, we'd just as well throw out the zoning district map."

Hwy. 20 Project In Laurel, Dixon Area Approved

The Nebraska Department of Roads has completed and approved a highway location and design study report on a proposed improvement of Highway 20 between Laurel and Jackson.

The project begins near the junction with Nebraska Highway 116, north of Dixon, then easterly along Highway 20 for 18 miles to approximately 7 miles west of the junction with Nebraska Highway 12, northwest of Jackson.

The design provides for acquisition of additional right-of-way and access control, grading, culvert extensions and bridge widening.

A location and design study report and other data filed in support of the approval are available for public inspection at the Department of Roads District Office, 408 N. 13th, Norfolk. Copies of this data are available upon request at the Main Office, P. O. Box 94759, Lincoln, Nebr. 68509.

Car which Al Bahe was driving when he suffered an apparent heart attack Wednesday morning.

Al Bahe, Civic Leader, Dies

Al Bahe, 70, retired rural mail carrier and secretary-manager of the Wayne County Agriculture Society, suffered an apparent heart attack Wednesday morning while driving his car.

The attending physician, who said the preliminary indication was that Mr. Bahe had suffered a fatal attack, added that the Wayne civic worker was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital about 9:15 a.m.

Mr. Bahe, known in Wayne as "Mr. Fair," had earlier been downtown and in a Wayne cafe. A short time later, while driving south on Lincoln, car tracks showed that his car left the road on the left side, went over a curb and hit a tree in the front yard at 1031 Lincoln, at the home of John Owens.

In addition to being secretary-manager for the Wayne County Fair, Mr. Bahe had, in January, been re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska Association of Fair Managers.

Cancer Crusade Kickoff Thursday

The Wayne County Cancer Crusade Unit will hold its 1972 kickoff meeting for all volunteers Thursday evening, Apr. 6, at 8 p.m. in the Women's Club Rooms at City Auditorium.

Mrs. Rudy Longe will preside and films will be shown.

Mrs. Cliff Johnson and Mrs. Fred Gildersleeve, city chairmen, and Mrs. Lester Hansen, rural chairwoman, will discuss the April program and distribute campaign kits and materials. Also 1971 merit awards will be presented at this time.

A board meeting of the Unit met recently with Mrs. Johnson to make plans for the annual Crusade. It was decided not to have a downtown drive this year.

More Windows Smashed by Vandals; New Cars Stripped of Wheels, Tires

Two cases of vandalism, two reported larcenies and a pair of minor accidents were listed on the Wayne City Police docket for the past few days.

Tires and wheels were again the object of thieves at the Coryell Car Lot, where a new car was stripped of both back wheels and tires. The lot was the scene of a similar theft two weeks ago when wheels and tires were stolen from four new cars. The latest incident was reported to police at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Another case of stolen wheels and tires was reported Wednesday morning at 6:45 by Jim Johnson at 1212 Main. Johnson reported that two wheels and two tires for a 1967 model car were taken from his garage.

Broken windows apparently were the action of vandals in two cases. The window in the car wash at Wayne 66 Service was smashed, according to an 8:00 a.m. report Sunday.

The other case of vandalism was reported by Willis Lessman at 8:40 a.m. Monday, concerning headlights broken out of a Carhart Lumber pickup.

Police were called to one reportable accident. Cars driven by Pamela Schlemmer of 203 Main and Wesley Ellis of 311 Pearl, collided in the 200 block of Pearl at 1:14 p.m. Monday.

Reeds Moving to Hawaii

Don Reed, who has been associated with Kenneth Olds in the practice of law for the past 13 years and Wayne County attorney since January of 1967, told The Herald that he and his family will move to Honolulu, Hawaii, in the near future.

Reed did not disclose his future plans and said they would not be finalized until after arriving at the Reeds' new home, probably early summer.

The Wayne attorney is a native of Norfolk where he was graduated from high school. He received his degree from Wayne State College in 1951 and his doctorate of jurisprudence from the University of South Dakota in 1959. He came to Wayne after being admitted to the bar in February of 1959 and has been associated in the Olds and Reed law firm since that time.

Following graduation from Wayne State he spent four years in the Air Force as a radar operator on all-weather fighters. He was discharged in 1955 as a first lieutenant.

His wife is the former Janne Griffith, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Griffith of Wayne. Janne was graduated from Wayne Prep and Wayne State College.

The couple has two children—Cameron, 12, and Barbara, 10.

Girl Editor For Stater

Marle Sander, a junior from Waterloo, will serve as editor of the Wayne Stater in the fall term, 1972, at Wayne State College. Her appointment to the college newspaper editorship was announced by Dr. Freeman Decker, director of publications.

Miss Sander, who majors in English and minors in journalism, currently is secretary of the Student Activities Board, treasurer of Berry Hall, and a member of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary in English. She has been news editor of the Stater this year.

She was valedictorian of her 1969 class at Waterloo High School.

Legislative Candidates Are Invited to Allen Meeting

The Wayne, Dakota and Dixon County Farm Bureaus are sponsoring a "Meet the Legislative Candidates" meeting Monday, April 10, at 8 p.m., at the Allen High School Auditorium.

Letters of invitation have been sent to Sen LeRoy Pfister of South Sioux City, Chris Miller of Homer, Bob Murphy of South Sioux City and Mrs. Elaine Schmadeke of Dakota City.

The Farm Bureaus stresses that it does not endorse a political party, nor does it endorse any candidate for office, but is sponsoring the meeting to acquaint the voting public with the candidates for Dist. 17, made up of Dakota, Dixon and Wayne Counties.

Each candidate will be given 15 minutes to give his or her views and a question-answer period will follow.

Some of the Farm Bureaus' suggested topics include opinions on equality of taxation, education, abortion, welfare and pollution.

Exports Important to Nebraska Farmers

Nebraska ranked tenth among the 50 states in dollar value of agricultural exports last year and even higher in certain specific categories, a deputy assistant secretary of agriculture told approximately 800 employees who attended the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) State conference in Lincoln last week, according to Larry Heinemann, chairman of the Wayne County ASCS Committee. "Your farmers sold more than $100 million worth of feed grains overseas to rank fourth in the nation," Andrew J. Mair, deputy assistant Secretary of Agriculture from Washington, D.C., told the group.

County ASCS committee members and executive directors from most of Nebraska's 93 counties attended the two-day meeting Thursday and Friday at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel. Attending from Wayne county, besides Heinemann were Ralph H. Olson, Lloyd Morris and Irma Utecht.

"One purpose of the meeting was to get the latest available information on various programs that ASCS administers," Heinemann explained. Programs ad See EXPORTS page 8

Wallace Peterson, left, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, chats with a couple of Kiwanians following his address to the club Monday noon. Don Koerber, who had charge of the Monday program, is in the center. At the right is Keith Mosley, Kiwanis president.

Candidate for U.S. Senate Says it Is Time to Clean up 'Unfinished Business'

Wallace C. Peterson, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, told the Kiwanis Club Monday noon that "it is time to get on with the unfinished business of America."

"We hopefully are bringing to a close a dismal chapter in our life—the war in Vietnam. But it is not enough to end this unpopular conflict. We must at the same time end the military domination of our national life."

"For a quarter of a century, between 8 and 9 percent of our national output has gone into military purposes, with dubious benefits in terms of our national security and adverse consequences in terms of our domestic economy, including an excessive "brain drain" of badly-needed scientific and technical talent.

"Military spending and war must be judged major causes of the inflation which has periodically wracked the economy since the end of World War II."

The head of the economics department at the University of Nebraska told Kiwanians that military outlays should be pared back to the pre-Vietnam level, about $50 billion per year, in the next four years.

The blunt fact is that the military sector is the only place left to get some of the resources needed to attend to long-neglected domestic needs.

"We cannot squeeze any more out of agriculture without crippling this vital sector even more than it already has been and the illusion that economic growth would be painless was to give us needed resources has proved to be just that—an illusion."

Other "unfinished business" referred to by Peterson was an end to the draft, an end to deception and concealment of information by the government so that there can be a restoration of credibility, the stopping of the government's "stagflation" of news and the fulfillment of the promise of social and economic justice for all.

"In the richest and most productive nation on earth, far too many Americans still lack decent income, decent housing, decent medical care, decent employment and opportunities for a decent education.

"Consider these facts," Peterson said. "One of eight Americans said James I. (Jim) Shelton, executive director of the Northeast Center.

"We received our first client in February of 1972. We now have six clients working in the Adjustment Center and three prospective clients in processing.

Higher Telephone Rates Effective Last Weekend

Northwestern Bell's increase in intrastate telephone rates went into effect at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, according to Howard P. Doerr, vice-president and general manager of Northwestern Bell's Nebraska operations.

Basic monthly rates for most residence and business users served by the company will be affected, Doerr said.

Doerr pointed out that the new rates, authorized by the Nebraska State Railway Commission Feb. 14, are the first general increase in telephone charges for the company's Nebraska customers in nearly 15 years.

The company was authorized additional earnings of $3,325,000 by the Railway Commission, and the new rates are designed to yield that amount.

Opportunity Center Aids Mentally Retarded

By Brenda Gustafson

From the window display at 717 Dakota Avenue a passerby might think that a new garden supply center is going to open in South Sioux City.

But what the Northeast Opportunity Center is cultivating is far more important to Northeast Nebraska than climbing roses, petunias or geraniums.

The Center has been established "to offer vocational evaluation and work adjustment" to mentally retarded adults from Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne Counties.

"We serve adults, ages 18 to 65 years," said James I. (Jim) Shelton, executive director of the Northeast Center.

"We received our first client in February of 1972. We now have six clients working in the Adjustment Center and three prospective clients in processing.

The Center can handle up to 40 clients," Shelton said.

The present clients are Pat Armstrong of Ponca, Fernie Ellis of Allen, Bill Pearson of Newcastle, David Perkins of Waterbury, Jerry Watkins of Hubbard and a South Sioux City girl.

Word of Mouth

Shelton said that most of these clients heard about the Center "word of mouth" from someone who was interested in mental health.

Finding all of the persons who could benefit from the Center presents a problem, according to Shelton.

"People still have the habit of hiding their mentally retarded son or daughter in the closet like a family skeleton," he said.

"Under Nebraska law we have no right to access to county welfare roles," said Shelton, explaining that such information might give valuable leads.

"Work is our major topic," Shelton said in discussing the Center's programs.

"We try to teach pride in a job, getting along with peers and supervisors, and how to produce in quality and quantity," he said.

A client may begin his course at any time and proceeds at his own speed. "It is an individualized program," Shelton said.

"Pre-admission work includes case work on the client's family and arrangements for a medical examination and psychological tests," he said.

An evaluation of the client's abilities and limitations is then conducted at the Center.

"Within the next 20 work days, the client is shuffled around to the different work areas in the Center," said Shelton. "He is also given vocational tests."

Individualized

When the client's course is decided, he is placed in the Work Adjustment area. Work supervisors carefully scrutinize each client's progress.

"Clients are evaluated every three months," Shelton said. "Supervisors have set guidelines as to what each client should do to enhance his abilities—as to what must be completed before the client can move on."

"To succeed in each area, the client must demonstrate ability, initiative and improvements over disabilities," he continued.

Presently the Northeast Center is operating in its wood shop, paint shop, and assembly area. The work is primarily unskilled manufacturing and janitorial.

Thus far clients have built a feed bank, garden trellises and garden fences. The work is provided by sub-contracts from local manufacturers.

"It usually takes a client one or two years to finish the course but some may finish as quick as three months and others may take as long as five years," Shelton said.

"Clients who can not finish the course and obtain jobs in the community are placed in the Work Activity Center, a sheltered employment program.

"Clients in sheltered employment are staffed again every six months to see if they can continue course work," Shelton said.

Stamps Won't Pay

According to a notice posted at the Wayne County Welfare office, food stamps may not be used to pay for meals to be delivered by Broughton Food Service in the Senior Citizen-sponsored hot meal program.

In the event Broughton would make application to the Food and Nutrition Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and become certified, food stamps could then be used in payment of meals.

This week's Cash Night jackpot is expected to attract a large number of Thursday night shoppers, with the prize having built up to $350.

The name drawn will be announced at 8 p.m. in those stores participating in the weekly contest.

Should the jackpot go unclaimed again this week, the jackpot will go up to its maximum limit of $400 next week.

Damage Suit Filed

On Mar. 14, a suit on damages amounting to $315,195, plus costs, was filed in district court by Alvin Carlson of Winslow against Philip W. Witt and Winslow Dehy, Inc.

Plaintiff claims damages were the result of an accident occurring July 6, 1971 when the pickup which he was driving, was struck by a Winslow Dehy truck, being driven by Witt, at a county road intersection three and six-tenths miles West of Winslow.

"Work is our major topic," says Jim Shelton, executive director of the Northeast Opportunity Center at South Sioux City. Here two of the Center's six clients, Bill Pearson of Newcastle and Jerry Watkins of Hubbard, build a garden trellis. (Additional pictures on Page 3, Second Section)

A Sunday afternoon feature of the annual Farm and Home Show this past weekend was a 45 minute styleshow, sponsored by the Mrs. Jaycees. Thirty-four men, women and children modeled new fashions provided by the Joint, Kuhn's, Larson-Florine Clothing and Larson-Florine Ladies Shop, McDonald's Paper Airplane, Swan-McLean Clothing and Swan's Women Apparel.

Participants paraded from the stage, down a roped off center aisle and through an archway furnished by Wayne Greenhouse, as Mrs. Dennis Boehme detailed the costumes to the audience.

Door prizes went to Mrs. Dale Franzen, gift certificate from McDonald's; Mrs. Dick Mencl, gift certificate from Larson's; Mrs. Robert Olsen of Laurel, billford from Kuhn's; Mrs. Arvid Samuelson Jr., water chair from the Joint; Mrs. Herman Vahlkamp Jr., gift certificate from Paper Airplane; Laura Hagemann, gift certificate from Pat's Beauty Salon, and Joyce Suber, perfume from Hazel's.

Potted lillies, which had been part of the decor, were presented by Mrs. Jaycees to the Wayne Senior Citizens Center and Villa Wayne.

8-Ettes Meeting Held

8-Ettes Card Club met Mar. 14 in the home of Mrs. Val Kluenast. Guests were Mrs. Roy Hurd and Mrs. Jim Evans, and prizes went to Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Ted Bahe and Mrs. Dick Mencl.

Mrs. Mencl will host the 8 p.m. meeting Apr. 4.

'50's Make Comeback

For the Fabulous Fifties Day held Friday at Laurel High School, students had rummaged through trunks and upset attics to come up with mid-length, full skirts, bulky, moth ball-scented sweaters, neck scarves, white baby socks, saddle shoes and an array of unusual hair styles, including well greased locks for the boys.

The day's events were concluded with a '50's dance, held that evening at the school with dancing to records of the '50's. Student Council President Robert Gadeken crowned Brad Harder and Ann Coughlin King and Queen for their realistic costumes.

The event was sponsored by the Student Council.

Son is Baptized

Brian James Kropp, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Kropp of Pilger, was baptized this week in services at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Wayne. The Rev. Paul J. Begley officiated at the ceremony. Godparents are Ronald Wemhoff and Mrs. Jim Araji.

Brian was born Mar. 4, 1972, in Norfolk.

People Ask Us--

QUESTION: Why should I call your funeral home instead of another - aren't all funeral homes about the same?

ANSWER: The C & O Railroad once rejected surveyor George Washington's bill for $300 with instructions that he return the bill itemized. Washington re-submitted the bill itemized as follows: Nails and stakes, $5.00, knowing where to put the nails and stakes, $295.00.

The same is true for mortuaries. They all sell caskets, but here the similarity ends. The casket in a funeral service can be purchased at any mortuary, but it is the professional skill of funeral home personnel and their knowledge of the family's needs that make the big difference in a funeral service.

Cole-Rauss Wedding Held in Norfolk

Married Mar. 18 in 7 p.m. rites at Mt. Olive Lutheran Church, Norfolk, were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis G. Rauss, who are now at home at Route 2, Lot 1-8, Norfolk. The former Barbara L. Cole, Mrs. Rauss is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Cole, Norfolk. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rauss, Wakefield.

Attending the couple were father, the bride's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Swartz, the bride's uncle, Darwin Zwady and Dave Filberts, Norfolk. Mrs. Diane Glassmeyer, and Steve Glassmeyer, Wayne; and boxer Roffenrath, Laurel.

Others in the wedding party included Shelli Zwady, Norfolk, flower girl, and Chris Glassmeyer, Wayne, ring bearer. Flowers were Jim Meyer and Dave Pater, Wayne.

The bride's gown was a floor-length fashion of nylon organza over white satin, styled with Venice lace accents on the flocked bodice and sleeves and lace appliques on the skirt front. She wore a matching mantilla and carried an oval tinted rosas.

The bride's attendants were identically poised in floor-length fashions of red and blue print and carried football mums.

Pastor LeRoy Paul of Norfolk officiated at the double ring ceremony and Burt Foreman of Beatrice sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Yolanda Kraemer Is Bride

Bouquets of pink gladiolus and lavender pompons appointed the altar of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Laurel, for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Yolanda Marie Kraemer, to John Clayton Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hansen. All are of Laurel.

The Rev. Michael Kelly of Laurel officiated at the double ring rites and Mrs. Melvin Botger of Columbus provided the "Wedding Benediction" by Lovelace.

The bride appeared at her father's side in a street-length fashion of white and pink lace and satin. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and lavender pompons. Yolande Kraemer, Laurel, who served her sister as maid of honor, wore a two-piece bonded knit in lavender and carried lavender and pink pompons.

Timothy Hansen, Laurel, served his brother as best man. The men wore dark blue, double-breasted suits with lavender shirts.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kraemer chose a red bonded wool dress and plaid coat ensemble with red and white accessories. Mrs. Hansen wore a blue and white bonded knit with blue accessories.

A reception for about 30 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Mrs. Melvin Botger of Columbus cut and served the cake which had been baked and decorated by Mrs. Freda Swanson, Laurel.

Guests at the wedding included the couple's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tuttle of Laurel and Mr. and Mrs. Alwin Anderson of Dixon.

The couple took a wedding trip to Denver and will be home after Apr. 1 at 407 Oak, Laurel. The bride is a 1971 graduate of Laurel High School and the bridegroom is a 1970 LHS graduate. The bridegroom is presently engaged in farming.

About 100 guests from Buckner, Sibley and Independence, Mo.; Sioux City, Ia.; and the Wakefield area were present. Gifts and cards were arranged by Linda Erlandson.

The birthday cake had been baked and decorated by Mrs. Marlow Gustafson, Mrs. Dean Frye, Buckner, poured and Mrs. Freda Swanson, Independence, Mrs. Marlyn Frye, Sibley, and Mrs. Robert Erlandson, Sioux City, served punch.

On the kitchen committee were Mrs. Albert Anderson, Mrs. Elwin Fredrickson, Mrs. Levi Helgren and Mrs. Joe Helgren.

The program included vocal selections, "Do Lord" and "Kum Ba Yah," Erlandson's grandchildren and great-grandchildren, accompanied by Nancy Carlson, William Yost sang "Surely, Goodness and Mercy," accompanied by Mrs. Marlyn Frye and the New-Way Singers sang "Day by Day" and "Amazing Grace," accompanied by Renita Jensen. Devotions were by Pastor Fred Jansson and Mrs. Warner Erlandson gave the response at the closing of the program.

Erlandson has two daughters, Mrs. Dean Frye and Mrs. Paul Burns; two sons, Robert Erlandson and Warren Erlandson; eleven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

His birthday was Mar. 29.

Nine Confirmed

During Sunday morning services at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Laurel, nine young people were examined and received the rite of confirmation.

The Rev. H. K. Niemann, who officiated, chose "Justified by Faith," as his topic.

Confirmations are Lydia Barbee, Cheryl Hansen, Scott Huettig, Gordon Lutz, Jerry Maxon, Gregory Pippitt, Valerie Rath, Debra Roland and Lisa Schroeder.

Twenty-one were at the Center Plan Hard Times Dance

Twenty-one were at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center Friday afternoon for the sermon, "Guiltily," by Pastor Marvin Bramman of the Wayne Assembly of God Church. Singing, led by Pastor Bramman, was accompanied by Mrs. E. G. Smith. The next sermonette is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday, Apr. 14.

Engagement Announced

The engagement and approaching marriage of Suzanne Von Seggern and David Olson has been announced by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Von Seggern, Scribner.

Miss Olson and her fiancé, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Olson, Concord, will be graduating in May from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln.

September 2 wedding plans are being made for St. John's Lutheran Church, Scribner.

 The area involved, said that if businesses were allowed to build in the area, "we are going to lose our privacy and a suitable place to bring up children." He expressed the fear that if this area were allowed to be rezoned, the next move probably would be for the area on the other side of his home to be rezoned. "Then I'll be completely surrounded," he said, adding that "I don't believe anyone on the council would want to be enclosed by businesses."

Addison, speaking as a citizen instead of as city attorney, said that rezoning WOULD increase traffic and WOULD cause a hazard to children. People bought homes in that area in good faith that the area would remain a residential area. "He echoed Johnson's stand with 'how many people who signed the petition presented by Dr. Shupe would have signed if businesses were going to be located across the street or next door to THEIR residences?'"

Dr. Shupe countered that at least one of the signers of his petition lived within 75 feet of the proposed rezoning area. He pointed out that most of the homes were untenable and "every possible avenue toward development, including a considered condominium, have met only with failure." Dr. Shupe assured the council that a business would move in if the area were rezoned. "Otherwise, what is a person to do with the property?" he asked.

Proposed Paving District No. 71, along Grainland Road, had its first of three readings and the council asked for an estimated preliminary assessment schedule by City Engineer Sid Magdanz before the third reading, scheduled for Apr. 25.

In other business:

City Clerk-Administrator Dan Sherry read a letter from the Nebraska Liquor Commission, stating that three Wayne business places have been placed under 15-day suspensions for selling liquor to non-members. Patsy's was ordered closed from the closing hour of Apr. 9 to the opening hour of Apr. 25; Les' Steak House was ordered closed from the closing hour of Apr. 23 to opening hour of May 9, and the Black Knight was ordered closed from the closing hour of May 7 to the opening hour of May 23.

Department heads of the city will meet with professional consultants Apr. 18 to discuss a retirement program for city employees, requested of cities of the first class.

Given a deadline of Apr. 30 by the railroad to remove glass collected in the glass drive from its right-of-way. The Streets and Alleys committee was instructed by Mayor Kent Hall to work with the sponsoring environmental group and give any assistance possible.

Allen Hansen was hired as swimming pool manager for the summer at the same salary received in 1971.

The Streets and Alleys Committee was to investigate a proposed flashing caution light installation at Seventh and Walnut for a school crossing.

The State National Bank and Trust was approved as the depository for the next year.

Approved a retail package liquor and on-sale beer license for Scotty's and a retail on-off sale beer license for the Gem Cafe.

Set Apr. 11 as date for public hearing on an application for a retail package liquor license for Frank Woehler.

Approved the advertisement for bids on Storm Sewer District 71-2 and set Apr. 27 as the date for a public hearing on Street Improvement Districts 67, 68, 69 and 70, areas that include near the post office, the auditorium, near the Gay Theater and in the Fairgrounds Ave.-Nebraska Ave. area.

Amended a city ordinance to include the mandatory numbering of trailer houses as well as businesses and homes, those numbers to be 2 1/2 inches minimum and near the entrances.

Opportunity

 courses in mind for the coming year but is awaiting completion of staff and facilities.

"Within the year we will be starting a food preparation and training area, where a supervisor and seven clients will prepare and serve the noon meal for the rest of the clients and staff," Shelton said.

"We will also be starting a related instructions class when the teacher comes in two months. Here we will teach the client related social awareness, how to do with leisure time, basic math and money management, and speech development," he said.

The Center staff now numbers five. Staff members in addition to Shelton are: Arthur Magel, workshop director and contract procurement manager; Sherry Madison and Deane Davenport, workshop adjustment supervisors, and Sue Snyder, secretary/bookkeeper.

Plans are to add a family resource services director, a related instructions teacher, a work activities supervisor, a guidance counselor, two house parents and an assistant.

Future Hostel

While in the Work Adjustment program, clients live at home, in foster homes, or, in the near future, in a hostel.

When a hostel is purchased house parents and an assistant will be sought. "The houseparents will receive a salary of $3,600 plus room and board," Shelton said. "They must supervise the hostel and recreational activities of the clients. While the wife is pretty tied down, the husband can have an outside job."

"The assistant is usually a college student with a major in sociology or psychology. He works 20 hours a week at $1.80 and gets free room and board," Shelton said.

"House parents have two nights off a week and one weekend off a month, with the assistant in charge during these times," he said.

"House parents are usually people in their 50's whose own children have grown up and left home. They are heavily screened as there is no way we could tolerate any physical or verbal abuse or harassment," he said. Placement and follow-up services are provided for clients who complete the Center's course.

Objectives

"Our objective is to place clients back into the communities they came from, but if jobs are not available there, we will place them anywhere," Shelton said.

In addition to helping the client locate a job, the Center sees to it that he has located proper living quarters, Shelton continued.

"We follow up on the client every three months for the first three or four years and every six months after that," he said.

"A client, his employer, or his landlord are free to contact us at any time if a problem arises," he said.

Seventy-five per cent of the cost of operating the Center is paid for by the federal government through Title 16, under the Department of Public Welfare. The other 25 per cent is provided by the state of Nebraska, through the Department of Institutions, Office of Mental Retardation, by participating counties, and by donations.

"Local gifts, including time or equipment, may be put up for matching funds," Shelton emphasized.

"Our budget last year was $75,000, with $12,360 of that coming from participating counties," Shelton said.

$100,000 Budget

"Next year our budget will be $100,000, with $17,836 coming from participating counties," he said. "Part of this increase can be attributed to the addition of another county. As of July 1, Hurt County will be added to the list of participating Northeast Nebraska counties."

"We are the newest Center in Region 4 and also in the state," Shelton observed. Other Region 4 Centers operate in Norfolk and in Columbus.

"Some time next year we will be opening a day-care center for mentally retarded pre-schoolers, ages 2 to 7 years," Shelton said. "We plan to run a survey on the five-county area to determine the area with the greatest need for such facilities," he said. "The day-care center will be located there."

The South Sioux City location of the Northeast Opportunity Center was not selected by such a survey, but was selected because it is close to industry for subcontracting, Shelton explained.

leans live in poverty; one-third of our aged live below the poverty line; an unjust tax system takes 30 per cent of the income of the average family while some millionaires go untaxed; we subsidize, through tax breaks, home ownership for the wealthy; the family farm faces extinction, caught in a vicious cost-price squeeze and unemployment continues at over 6 per cent while inflation is still very much with us.

"What this adds up to are basically two things—we are unable to deliver a fair and decent share of the good things that this nation is capable of producing to ALL Americans and, second, wealth, power and income are being concentrated in fewer and fewer hands, rather than the reverse. Peterson estimated that tax loopholes for the wealthy cost $30 to $40 billion in lost revenue that must be made up by the middle and lower-income taxpayer.

To reverse the trend, Peterson added, we must end preferential tax treatment of capital gains, income derived from mineral resources and interest on state and local bonds.

"Too, we must have a program of rural economic development, a full-employment policy, a National Educational Bank, a modernized G. I. Bill, an urban bank system and a system of deferred compensation and measures to bring the power of giant corporations under democratic control."

The Senate candidate visited Wayne State College, Monday afternoon and later talked informally at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Ley.

311 MAIN WAYNE, NEBR.

The NAIA national swimming meet provided Wayne State's senior diver, Bob Seymour, his climactic event in a fine Wildcat career. Superlative competition kept Bob from placing, but Coach Roger Bentley praised his performance.

Jim Onstott Scores in Freestyle Event For Wayne State at NAIA Swim Meet

Jim Onstott put Wayne State back into the national scoring of the NAIA swimming meet Saturday. He finished 11th in the 100-yard freestyle, good for two points.

The Fremont freshman clocked 49.84 in the finals after doing a 49.53 in the preliminaries.

Coach Roger Bentley found reason for both pleasure and disappointment in the Wayne performance. He could say the two points doubled Wayne's only previous national scoring—a one-point 12th by Russ Nyberg several years ago. He could also note that records fell in all but four of the 30 events of the NAIA meet at Marshall, Minn.

There was some disappointment, Bentley said, only in Wayne's times—a fraction of a second under season peaks. Nationally, the meet times generally went far below the best reported on the last NAIA charts.

"It really was tough competition," Bentley said. "For example, only five hundredths of a second separated Onstott from seventh place. Halfway through the last lap it actually looked to me that he was leading."

Because of the torrid times, next year's qualifying minimums for the national meet will be lower in most events. Wayne's 400-yard freestyle relay team will have to lower its best time of this season by about three seconds to qualify for the national.

The foursome swam 3:25.3 at Marshall, but did not place. Next year it will have to post a 3:22.8 even to qualify.

Bentley was elated at the meet to be NAIA Area 3 representative to the national swimming committee.

Besides Onstott, the relay quartet included Jim Shores, Fremont; Doug Kreeholz and Jim Batten, both of Omaha.

Wayne's senior diver, Bob Seymour, competed in one-meter diving, but did not place in the top 12 despite what Bentley called excellent performance. One of Seymour's dives slipped below his usual style, "and that was fatal in such stiff competition," Bentley said.

'Listening' for Grouse

LINCOLN Game and Parks Commission wildlife technicians will be out bright and early in the Sand Hills, during April, listening and looking for prairie chicken and sharp-tailed grouse display grounds to learn the level of the birds' spring breeding population.

These spring grouse surveys have been conducted along the same routes for many years. Comparing the number of display grounds and birds using them to the same figures from previous years provides up-to-date biologists with an index of the number of birds that survived the winter to produce next fall's crop of birds.

Technicians start driving routes about an hour before dawn. They pause periodically to listen for drumming and tromping sounds made by the birds

Even though Andy Varipapa is nearly 81 years old, he looks 65 and bowls as if he were in his twenties.

Varipapa, whose bowling career spans a half-century, is the senior citizen among 50 athletic celebrities who were named by President Nixon to the Advisory Conference on Physical Fitness and Sports.

The veteran senior bowler keeps youthful while enjoying his favorite sport three or four times a week near his Huntington, New York, home.

Varipapa stresses that bowling has helped keep him fit.

"I don't bowl for average," he says, "I bowl to keep active—to keep my bones oiled up. I don't bowl by the game either—I bowl by the hour."

This constant practice technique developed years ago enabled Varipapa to win the back-to-back National All-Star bowling championships at Chicago in 1946 and 1947, at ages 55 and 56.

At the "young" age of 68, Andy thrilled national television audiences with nine straight strikes on the TV show, "Jack Pot Bowling."

Varipapa began his sports career at age 15, after watching bowlers compete at a bowling center close to the Brooklyn butcher shop where he worked. He actually attributes his rise to bowling fame to losing his machinist job in the Brooklyn Navy Yard at age 30.

Bowler Andy Varipapa Still Tough at 80

After winning the local bowling championship in 1929, Varipapa began developing his unique trick shots—he calls it "precision bowling"—with the bowling ball.

One showstopper involves bowling with two balls at the same time—one right-handed and one left-handed—so they cross halfway down the lane and each picks up a single pin.

He made five motion pictures on bowling from 1934 through 1957 and happily notes that the first one, MGM's "Strikes and Spares," was an Oscar nominee.

Varipapa enjoys the sports and eagerly encourages others to take up bowling. For years he took his bowling clinics all over the world—to Europe, Alaska, North Africa and Hawaii. He even bowled in such odd spots as the middle of Crosley Baseball Park in Cincinnati and once on a specially constructed lane on Seventh Avenue in New York.

He retired from active bowling competition at the age of 71 in 1962. However, he still averages about two exhibition dates a month, which is hardly retirement. In addition, Andy travels throughout the country appearing before TV cameras to carry the National Bowling Council's "Thirty-Plus" program to senior citizens.

"I'm available whenever they want me. I'm a great showman and it keeps me young and active," says Andy.

Wayne State College Tennis Team Opens With 6-3 Victory at Doane

Wayne State's tennis team opened its 1972 campaign Tuesday with a 6-3 loss to Doane College at Crete.

Mitch Emery, the only returning letterman, and Dave Lulow accounted for all the Wayne points. Each won in singles, and they teamed for a doubles victory.

Singles—Mitch Emery defeated Enrique Sanchez, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4; Dave Lulow defeated Jeff Yagle, 7-5, 6-1; Steve Nelson, Doane, defeated Don Lulow, 6-1, 6-2; Stan Pryor, Doane, defeated Doug Coffman, 6-0, 6-0; Chuck Burns, Doane, defeated Nick Berger, 6-0, 6-2; Howard Brown, Doane, de-Remaining on the Wayne schedule: April—14, at Creighton U.; 18, University of Nebraska at Omaha, here; 20, Briar Cliff; 21, Creighton; 26, Concordia, place not settled.

May—4, Morningside; 8, Dana. The NAIA District 11 meet will be played at Fremont Apr. 30-May 1.

Big Fourth Quarter Results in Comeback

Team 2 trailed throughout most of the game, but scored 24 points in the fourth quarter to nip Team 3 by a 29-26 score. In the High School Basketball Basketball League Monday night at City Auditorium.

The winners, led by Randy Nelson (19) and Mike Ginn and Charles Roland (14 each), trailed by 51-46 to begin the fourth. Doug Sturm had 26 points for losers' high, Shane Glese next with 13.

Kerry Jeel and Kyle Willis scored 22 points each to lead Team 1 to a 75-66 victory over Team 6. Todd Bigelow providing the third punch with his 17 points. Bill Schwartz of the losers took game honors with his 23, followed by Randy Workman with 16 and Mike Meyer with a dozen.

Marty Hansen and Larry Shupe registered 16 counters and Earl Overin, 14, as Team 5 posted a 61-45 victory over Team 4. Bob Keating had 12 for the losing side.

Next Monday night's action will see Team 3 vs. Team 6 at 6:45; Team 5 vs. Team 1 at 8 p.m. and Team 2 vs. Team 4 at 9 p.m.

Nebraskaland Magazine Sponsoring Essay Contest for School Students

LINCOLN—Pollution is a dirty word, as the saying goes. However, as a topic of conversation, pollution becomes more popular every day.

Now, the Game and Parks Commission is giving school pupils a chance to say what they think on the subject. Pollution is the basic theme of the Mari Sandoz Essay contest sponsored annually by NEBRASKALAND Magazine, official publication of the Game and Parks Commission.

Posters, letters and rules are being mailed to all Nebraska schools within the next week. Now in its eighth year, the essay contest is open to all pupils in Nebraska schools, grades 7 through 12. The actual theme for 1972 is "The Environment Needs You—What is the Solution?"

Young essayists are urged, in 500 to 1,000 words, to observe the major causes of pollution in Nebraska or specific areas and to suggest correctional measures to clean up the environment. It is hoped that the youngsters, already concerned with the dirty environment, will become even more concerned. And, they may come up with some practical solutions to this high-priority problem.

Eggs at Easter, a Longtime Tradition

LINCOLN—Eggs at Easter time are a tradition with most American families, yet the use of eggs as both symbol and food predate the Christian religion.

Pagan ceremonies included eggs as a symbol of the earth, life and rebirth of all growing things.

A vestige of this earlier use is said to have encouraged early Christians to consider eggs as a symbol of the resurrection. In medieval England, egg-throwing and egg-rolling matches were traditional on Easter Sunday.

In 1810, Dolly Madison started the tradition of rolling colored eggs down the slopes of the Capitol grounds on Easter Monday. But this practice was so hard on the Capitol lawn that the egg roll was moved to the White House in 1878 at the suggestion of President and Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes.

The plentiful supply and reasonable price of eggs help make this year's Easter basket even more attractive, says Dr. Glenn Frorning, product technologist, Poultry Science, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

For those intent on having a good supply of hard-cooked eggs ready for Easter eating, Dr. Frorning offers a few suggestions for preparing and storing.

When buying eggs, note USDA grade and size. Highest quality eggs are labeled USDA Grade AA (or Fresh Fancy) or USDA Grade A. These eggs are suited for any use and recommended for use as hard-cooked eggs.

The eggs are easier to peel after the Easter hunt if they are stored in the refrigerator for about five days before cooking.

When hard-cooking, cover completely with water in a pan. Bring the water to simmering and allow to simmer for 20 to 25 minutes. Do not let the water boil. Then cook the eggs at once under cold running water.

The green discoloration that sometimes appears between the white and yolk of a hard-cooked egg results from a chemical reaction between sulphur in the white and iron in the yolk. This discoloration is harmless, but unattractive. To help prevent it, cook eggs at low temperature, avoid overcooking, and cool promptly.

After you have dyed the eggs (using one of the harmless food coloring dyes), store them in the refrigerator until the Easter egg roll. While eggs are in the Easter basket, be sure to keep the basket away from hot places like radiators, etc. After the egg roll, immediately put the eggs back into the refrigerator. Plan to eat the hard-cooked eggs within one or two days.

To remove the shell from hard-cooked eggs, crack the shell well before peeling; start peeling at the large end of the egg, placing the egg under cold running water if necessary to ease off the shell.

Hard-cooked eggs can be refrigerated either in the shell or out. But if the shell is removed, the eggs should be protected in a film wrap.

Dehydration and darkening of the cooked egg white can be prevented by keeping the eggs in a closed container and covered with water. These eggs should not be kept more than seven to 10 days under refrigeration.

It won't be long until the Easter bunny comes hoppin' down the bunny trail—and to celebrate the occasion, many Nebraska youngsters are busy dyeing and coloring holiday eggs, expressing their spring-time creativity by using food dye and crayons on those special eggs.—(University of Nebraska Photo)

—Meet Monday—
The Allen Community Development Club met Monday evening at the Home Cafe with 24 members attending the dinner meeting.

Ken Lawson, director of the Siouxland blood bank in Sioux City was the featured speaker. He spoke on how to become a member of the blood bank which allows its members and their immediate families to receive units of blood free of charge at a participating hospital. The program for this service is a minimum of one pint of blood from a member of the family each year. Applications blanks and more information may be obtained from Ken Linafelter, secretary of the Development club.

Wayne Students Guests In John Neihardt Home

About 65 Wayne Middle School seventh graders spent an hour and a half last week chatting with John G. Neihardt, Nebraska's poet laureate, in his Lincoln home. The visit was part of the annual social studies field trip which a portion of the class took on Thursday, and the remainder on Friday. Accompanying the students on the bus trip was instructor Dan Johnson, who had arranged with Neihardt for the visit.

The poet, displaying an obvious interest in the young people, read to them from what he considers his greatest work, "Cycle of the West" and recited a poem written for his daughter about spring. He related incidents of his childhood and youth in Missouri and Nebraska particularly in Wayne, and told them the biography, "Big Elk Speaks" which he has written, showing them the hoop of the universe, peace pipes and a drum which had belonged to the Indian holy man.

Neihardt concluded each day's visit with a question-and-answer session, remarking that the students had some "good questions" and signed autographs for all.

Neihardt noted that his autobiography was due to be published this fall, and mentioned a forthcoming field appearance on the Dick Cavett show.

The field trip, which began at 6:45 a.m., also included a guided tour of the capitol, an opportunity for the students to view the Legislature in session, and seeing bills read and voted upon. Each day, District 17 Senator LeRoy Pfister recognized the students from the floor and took a few minutes to speak personally with them and sign autographs.

A tour of the governor's mansion enabled one group of students to visit with Mrs. J.J. Exon. A guided tour of the Nebraska Historical Society concluded the day's events.

ministered by ASCS include the wheat and feed grain set aside, the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) and other related ones (DESIGNED to stabilize farm income and encourage soil and water conservation, the chairman added.

Helmenann quoted Deputy Assistant Secretary Matr as saying that last year Nebraska ranked fourth in exports of meat and meat products, fifth in hides and skins and sixth in wheat. In all, agricultural exports from Nebraska totalled $287.5 million in fiscal 1971. Nationally, farm exports reached an all-time high of $7.8 billion in the 1971 fiscal year, Matr said.

Helmenann also quoted the deputy assistant secretary as saying that President Nixon has taken positive steps to improve agricultural trade. Matr listed the following examples:

The President lifted the embargo on non-strategic trade with Mainland China;

He eliminated the old requirement that 50 per cent of grain sold to mainland China, Russia and certain other eastern European countries be carried in U.S. flag vessels;

He cut the dollar loose from gold and realigned the international monetary exchange rates;

He lifted a surcharge on U.S.

exports and started high level trade negotiations with the European Community, this country's best agricultural customer, and with Japan, our best single-country customer.

"Another speaker at the conference told us that the Department wants our thinking about any changes that should be made in farm legislation," Helmenann said. He was Elvin J. Person, deputy administrator, State and County Operations, for ASCS from Washington, D.C.

"The Agricultural Act of 1971 has one more year to go after this season," Person told the group. "So we want to hear from you folks who deal with farmers daily when considering how to make changes in current programs."

"Another problem is that too few city people realize that farmers are contributing something valuable when they take land out of production under (NSB) programs," Helmenann quoted Person as saying. "Farm payments are not gifts—they are earned by the farmers who set aside land and forego income," Person stressed.

SHH going strong after two-thirds of their Saturday walk was completed. Left, Barb Engler, and Karen Kudera, both of Osmond. The two girls are members of Zeta Mu Chapter of Phi Mu Sorority, which sponsored "Hike for HOPE" with a walk to Laurel and back, a distance of approximately 30 miles. Hikers were paid by numerous individuals for each mile they walked, the money to go to support the hospital ship, Hope. These girls, by early Saturday afternoon, had completed 20 miles of the hike, having walked to Laurel and back to the Dixon spur when this picture was taken.

Over $700 Collected in Saturday Hike for HOPE

Thirty-two women from Phi Mu Sorority Chapter at Wayne State College set out on a hike to Laurel and back Saturday which netted them between $700 and $800 for project HOPE. HOPE (Health Opportunities for People Everywhere) is a hospital ship which serves medically underprivileged area all over the world. Phi Mu members obtained about 600 sponsors for their walk, each of whom pledged a certain amount of money per mile that a particular girl would finish. The signatures were obtained from businessmen, students, faculty members and parents. Six Phi Mus completed the 30-mile round trip, and 29 of the 32 made it clear to Laurel. The six finalists were Sara Schroeder, Ann Sassen, Carol Olson, Karen Kudera, Barb Engler and Terri Story.

Susan Havener as Meg Boyd and Dan Proett as Joe Hardy sing "He's Near to You" in the musical presentation, "Damn Yankees," held this weekend by Wayne-Carroll High school.

Michael Stokers at Home in Omaha

Making their first home in Omaha are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ray Stoker, who were married in Mar. 25 rites at Pleasantview Berean Fundamental Church, Omaha. Mrs. Stoker, nee Kathryn Ann Kjer, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kjer, Allen. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stoker, Wichita, Kan.
The Rev. Dan Wiens, Hope, Kan., officiated at the 2 p.m. rites and Dwight Goering, Galva, Kan., sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Because," accompanied by Nadine Glanzer, Carpenter, S.D.
Attending the bride were Eunice Jantzen and Janet Warkentin, both of Lincoln. Ira Combs was best man and Leonard Simmons served as groomsman. Ushers were Jerry Conant, Gilbert Claussen and Terry Wolfe. All are of Omaha.
The bride's hand-fashioned, empire style gown of white lace featured nylon pouf sleeves and was accented with a fingertip illusion veil brought to a pearl headpiece. Daisy trim adorned her chapel length train and she carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies, gladioli blossoms and roses.
Eileen Helevig registered guests and gifts were arranged for the reception by Dorothy Thiessen, Patti Kriebel, Lois Heppner and Judy Wedel.
Serving at the reception were Orla Harde, Linda Kroeker and Eileen Helevig, all of Omaha.
The bride is a graduate of Allen High School and Grace Bible Institute, Omaha. The bridegroom graduated from Southeast High School, Wichita, Kan., and attended Grace Bible Institute two years.

Bridal Courtesies Held Monday at Wakefield

Sherry VerPlank, who will become the bride of Steve Oswald, on Apr. 1, was honored Monday evening with a bridal shower held for her in the Covenant Church Fellowship Hall, Wakefield.
Decorations were in blue and white, chosen colors of the bride-elect. Forty-five guests were present. Game prizes were presented the honoree and the program included two vocal selections by the NewWay Singers of the Covenant Church and a poem by Mrs. Allen Salmon. Mrs. Eva Holm presented devotions. Mrs. Steve Buss of Norfolk and Ginnie VerPlank assisted their sister-in-law.

Bridal Shower Held

Seventy three guests from Coleridge, Hartington, Laurel, Belden, Dixon, Concord, and Allen attended the bridal courtesies held Thursday evening at the Laurel United Lutheran Fellowship Hall for Yoshida Kraemer.
Miss Kraemer and John Hansen were married Saturday afternoon at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Laurel.
Hostesses for the Thursday fete were Mrs. Howard F. Hansen, Mrs. Wayne Newton, Mrs. John McCordinkale, Mrs. Ralph Milligan, Mrs. James Campbell, Mrs. Lloyd Bohlen, Mrs. Everett Jensen, Mrs. Dale Bartling, Mrs. Harold Thompson Jr., and Mrs. Curtis Crandall of Laurel and Mrs. George Hehner Jr. and Mrs. Marvin Domina of Coleridge.
Decorations included a centerpiece of candles and fresh carnations in pink and lavender and a keepeeke ribbon doll made by

NORTHEAST EXTENSION

by Anna Marie Kreifels

After July 3, 1972, all ready-to-wear apparel and fabric yardage leaving manufacturing plants must have labels that tell the customer the proper care methods to use in cleaning them.
The ruling by the Federal Trade Commission requires that wearing apparel, as well as piece goods for clothing, have permanent labels attached, clearly outlining instructions for maintaining and caring for the garment.
Another portion of the FTC ruling states that the label must be provided in such a manner that the instructions are legible for the useful life of the garment.
Many qualifying labels will be sewn into the garment and the yardage care may be printed on the selvage. Another possible suggestion for fabrics is that the consumer would receive a corded label to be sewn or ironed into the finished garment.
In some cases, a label may advise not using a laundry practice often associated with a particular fabric. Chlorine bleach, for example, is often used on white cotton fabrics, but if the fabric has been resin treated—chlorine bleach should not be used.
A label for a blouse made of resin treated cotton might state "Machine wash warm. Do not use chlorine bleach."
Consumers can look forward to greater satisfaction from ready-to-wear apparel and yardage through the care information that will be appearing on labels.

Confirmation Rites Are Held Sunday

Confirmation was held Sunday morning at Zion Lutheran Church by Pastor Jordan Arlt.
Confirmations, with parents' names in parenthesis, are Kevin Kruger (Durrell), Steven Thayer (Leland), Sandra Carter (Groz), Cheryl-Pahrenholz (Gurrol), Jane Luebe (Orville), Nancy Kruger (Ralph), Julie Bargetat (Gerald), and Lana Koepke (Herrman).

Plan Hard Times Dance

The Wayne Senior Citizens old fashioned dance held Thursday afternoon at the center drew a crowd of 34 members. Music was furnished by Al and Annela Dehn and squares were called by Glen Sumner.
A hard times dance, with prizes for the best costumes, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Apr. 27. Square dancing, waltzes, two steps and polkas, with singing of the songs of yesterday, will be featured.

Vacation Begins

Easter Vacation at the Laurel-Concord Public Schools and the Dixon Public School will begin with Wednesday dismissal about 3:30 p.m. Classes will resume Tuesday, Apr. 4.

Space Stowaways

John LaPuz (left) as Milt and Tom Bryner as Mike have the two leads in the WSC Theatre Department's children's shows, "Space Stowaways," to be presented April 4 through 7 at Ramsey Theatre. The boys are shown here with the life size space ship which will be a part of the colorful sets. Reservations for the six scheduled performances may be made by calling 375-2200, extension 234. Season tickets will also be honored.

Students to See Circus Wednesday

Kindergarten and first grade students at Allen Consolidated School will be attending the Shirlee Circus in Sioux City Apr. 5. The classes will be accompanied by teachers and room mothers.

Over $1,000 Added to Asmus Fund

A benefit dance, held Monday at Two Rivers Steak House, Ewing, netted the Stacy Asmus fund $1,198.50, according to the Ewing sheriff, who was among those working on the project.
A football, autographed by members of Nebraska's No. one team, was auctioned to Leon Spangler, for a bid of $255. A beef was donated by Wilbur Spangler, and music was provided by Bud Van Fleet and the Sandhills Troubadours, Bill Legate and the Howling Cowboys, Lawrence Legate and the Sons of the Purple Sage, Loring and Denny, the Prisoners,

POLLUTION IS A MENACE TO ALL AMERICANS ...
NOT JUST THOSE IN THE "WRONG" NEIGHBORHOODS

Out of sight, out of mind. Perhaps ugly scenes like this are never viewed by most of us but they do exist. They are a menace, not just to those who live or work in the vicinity of polluted areas, but to all of us. You can't isolate something like pollution . . . it spreads its insidious filth through every level of society, contaminating our air, water, and land today and threatening disastrous consequences for generations to come. We must all mobilize against the elements that contribute to pollution — beginning with the empty beer can tossed out of a car window, to the conditions that permit rat-infested slum areas. Our environment is a precious heritage . . . let's preserve it for ourselves and for future Americans!

Social Security

Questions, Answers

Q—Since my father died, I've gotten monthly Social Security survivors benefits. I will turn 18 next year and will be graduating from high school. Can I continue to receive my checks if I go to college after graduation?

A—Yes. You may continue to receive benefits until 22 as long as you are a full-time student and unmarried. You should receive a notice sometime before your 18th birthday telling you to get in touch with the Social Security office if you plan to continue in school.

Q—Our five-year-old granddaughter gets Social Security checks because her father died. We are thinking of adopting her. Would this stop her Social Security checks?

A—No. Adoption by a grandparent does not stop a child's Social Security benefits. However, if the child were adopted by anyone other than a grandparent, step-parent, aunt, uncle, brother, or sister, the benefits would stop.

Q—I collect monthly Social Security survivors benefits based on my son's earnings record. If I marry again, do I need to report it to Social Security?

A—Yes. Because you get benefits as the parent of a deceased worker, you are required to report your remarriage. Generally, a remarriage ends a dependent parent's benefit.

Q—Next month I will be moving, but I'm not sure of the exact day. How late in the month can I notify social security of my new address and still get my next check at my new home?

A—Generally, if you notify us by the 15th of the month, your check for the following month will be issued to your new address. And it's a good idea to notify your post office, too.

Q—I have just been ordained into the ministry. I was told that I have to file a form with Internal Revenue Service to get Social Security coverage. Is this true?

A—No. Clergymen are now covered automatically under the Social Security program. You do have to file a form 4361 with the Internal Revenue Service, however, if you want your earnings from the ministry exempted from coverage. The form can be secured at any Social Security office or from the Internal Revenue Service.

effectiveness of their brake systems by stopping upon specified distances. Fade resistance must be demonstrated by making recovery stops subsequent to a series of fade stops. Vehicles also must demonstrate acceptable stopping performance after the brakes have been exposed to water. At the end of the tests the brakes must pass a system integrity test inspection.

New Standards For Motorcycle Brake Systems

According to information received by the Nebraska Department of Roads, the U.S. Department of Transportation has issued a new standard for motorcycle brake systems. It requires each motorcycle to have either a split hydraulic service brake system or two independently actuated service brake systems. The latter incorporates a hydraulic brake system and a hand-operated parking brake.

Vehicles with a hydraulic brake system must have a reservoir for each master cylinder. Also, master cylinders must be labeled as to the proper grade of brake fluid. If the service brake is a split hydraulic type, a failure lamp is required. In addition, three-wheeled motorcycles must be equipped with a friction-type parking brake.

Beginning Again

The Herald contacted the Wayne Ministerial Association for an item that would relate with the upcoming religious observance—Easter.

The following article was authored by the Rev. Frank H. Kirtley, pastor of the First United Methodist Church at 516 Main.

And this is eternal life, that they know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent. John 17:3.

Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth" is built around the idea that human beings and the human race have the capacity to recover from any disaster and forever to face toward a new and better day. As Sabina puts it, "That's all we do—always beginning again! Over and over again! Always beginning again." This is the story of the race. It is the story and glory of living. For it is a mark of the divine upon the souls of men.

This is no whistling in the dark to keep up our courage. God, at Easter, is saying that this is a world in which new and creative influences may never be done in. God breaks out of every tomb into which men try to put him. The future does not belong to the scientist, tyrant, or pagan. The future belongs to God.

At Easter, God calls to Christians to shake off the grave-clothes of doubt, disillusionment, and fear. He forever calls us to a new life and a new hope. And Easter today brings the Christian world to its knees and then bids it go forth to conquer. It tells us that God's world is not static or doomed, that it is dynamic and ongoing. It tells us that nothing can stop the purposes of God.

Our world is not old and dying. Within it are the seeds of a new and greater life under God. This is our Easter faith. This is cause enough for our hallelujahs!

Eternal God, renew our faith this Easter Day in the risen Christ and so renew our faith in life eternal, now and forever. Amen.

Stick With Tradition

For you fellows who might be thinking along the lines of a live pet for your children at Easter time, take some advice from a "guy who's been there." Don't.

Stick with the conventional hiding of Easter eggs and you'll be able to sit back and sympathize with the guy who didn't.

It's been more years than we care to remember, but we deviated from the old custom when our daughter was little.

Except that we obviously weren't smart enough to learn our lesson the first time—we had to make the same mistake twice.

How could you turn your back on that fluffy, white little rabbit in the window that was just begging for a home with little kids?

We couldn't, but how we wished later that we had.

Making things worse, our next-door neighbor bought one from the same litter for his children.

He was smarter than we were. He talked his wife-ones into "making a point—Easter present" of the rabbit to our daughter, who was delighted by the fact that now "we can raise a family of rabbits."

After surviving the horrifying thought, we found this was to be the only fortunate thing of the entire episode. Both were boy rabbits.

It was odd, the way our luck was to run, that even this fact didn't turn out to be a freak of nature, a miraculous reproduction between two rabbits of the same sex.

We found very quickly that house-breaking a pet rabbit must be an impossibility. The "trigger" must have been somewhere on the underside of their fluffy bodies because it "happened" every time you picked them up and put them on your lap.

Everyone knows what a crowd of male admirers a female pup draws at certain times of the year.

That crowd isn't even a quorum compared to the turnout of neighborhood canines when you let a pet rabbit loose in the yard.

It calls for some expertise in baby-sitting to avert a tragedy in front of the children. The rabbit is playful and unafraid—the dogs are hungry.

Troublemakers as they were, it was a sad family that conducted a "funeral" a couple of years later when the rabbits contacted some sort of disease and died very suddenly.

That was just before another Easter and daughter wanted another pet rabbit.

No way.

But we "cleverly" suggested, since we had a small acreage at the edge of town, "how about a couple of colored chickens instead?"

Second best was better than nothing at all, daughter figured, so she hesitantly agreed.

How could we tell by looking at those little, tiny chicks, dyed orange and green, that they, deep down, were man-eaters?

When the feathers grew out and the dye disappeared, we recognized the breed as Leghorns.

They also were cannibals.

They picked at each other, and, as they grew big and haughty, even had the family dog completely baffled. Whenever he came within sight they lined up like a couple of warriors, sharpened up their spurs and charged—one high and one low.

That was a little on the comical side at first—until their confidence expanded to the point of taking on humans—anyone that came into the yard.

We had seen Frankenstein and other monster movies and the thought of a couple of Leghorns ruling the world caused us to go for the axe the day those little Easter chicks sent daughter running to the house in near hysteria.

We couldn't have even considered a tame rabbit dinner—but even those tough old Leghorns stewed up well.

So, fellas, do yourselves a favor and follow the age-old custom of coloring and hiding Easter Eggs. You'll be glad you did.

—By Claire Hurlbert

The Crucifixion of Jesus

As the crowd led Jesus away to his death, Simon of Cyrene, who was just coming into Jerusalem from the country, was forced to follow, carrying Jesus' cross.

Great crowds trailed along behind, and many grief-stricken women. Two others, criminals, were led out to be executed with him at a place called "The Skull." There all three were crucified. Jesus on the center cross, and the two criminals on either side.

"Father, forgive these people," Jesus said, "for they don't know what they are doing." And the soldiers gambled for his clothing, throwing dice for each piece. The crowd watched. And they laughed and scoffed. "He was so good at helping others," they said, "let's see him save himself if he is really God's chosen One, the Messiah."

The soldiers mocked him, too, by offering him a drink of sour wine. And they called to him, "If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself!" A signboard was nailed to the cross above him with these words: "This is the King of the Jews."

One of the criminals hanging beside him scoffed, "So you're the Messiah, are you? Prove it by saving yourself... and us, too, while you're at it!"

But the other criminal protested, "Don't you even fear God when you are dying? We deserve to die for our evil deeds, but this man hasn't done one thing wrong." Then he said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom." And Jesus replied, "Today you will be with me in Paradise. This is a solemn promise."

By now it was noon, and darkness fell across the whole land for three hours, until three o'clock. The light from the sun was gone... and suddenly the thick veil hanging in the Temple split apart. Then Jesus shouted, "Father, I commit my spirit to you," and with those words he died.

When the captain of the Roman military unit handling the executions saw what had happened, he was stricken with awe before God and said, "Surely this man was innocent."

Capital News — Property Tax Exemption Could Go to the Courts

LEN OLIN—The fourth time was the charm for Sen. J. W. Burchack of Crofton.

After shepherding three previous personal property tax exemption bills through the legislative process only to have them fall victim to vetoes, Burchack won his victory last week.

On a 31-16 vote, the Legislature overrode Gov. J. J. Exon's objections and passed an exemption bill into law.

But there were indications immediately that there would be another hurdle to cross—in the courtroom.

Exon had maintained all along he didn't agree with Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer's conclusion that the provisions of Burchack's exemption plan are constitutional.

The governor had private attorneys research the matter and decided the procedures Burchack has campaigned for during two legislative sessions are unconstitutional.

In a statement he issued just after his veto was overridden, Exon said he wouldn't participate in any court test, even though he said he still was convinced his attorneys were correct.

But Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh—who has sponsored the governor's alternative personal property tax relief measure—said he might bring a court challenge.

And Omaha Sen. David H. Stahmer said he thought he would, too.

How It Works

Pending any decisions from the judiciary, this is what's ahead for owners of eligible personal property in Nebraska: Starting next year, owners of business inventories and agricultural inventories and equipment may deduct 12.5 per cent of their personal property tax bill in those categories.

Local governments will bill the state for the revenue they otherwise would have received from the property owners.

The next year—and each year until 1977—the exemption grows by 12.5 per cent. The limit would be 62.5 per cent, reached after five years.

Earlier versions of the bill called for a 50 per cent reduction the first year, leading to an ultimate 90 per cent waiver.

The size of the beginning relief level has shrunk ever since then. The 12.5 per cent progression which finally survived the veto was the lowest yet.

Exon had maintained the other versions would have required increases in the result of spurring the state's industrial development and produce additional job opportunities.

Furthermore, he said, if a tax is unfair—and he maintained the personal property tax is unjust—then it is just as unfair to levy it against large businesses as it is against small ones.

Governor's Plan Dies

When the veto was overridden on LB 1241, an alternative plan espoused by the governor dropped out of contention. The two bills had been running side-by-side through the legislative process.

Burchack—and the attorney general—claimed the Exon plan was unconstitutional.

Under terms of LB 1475, the Exon bill, there would have been 100 per cent exemption for business and agricultural inventories and equipment—but the property owner could claim up to certain amounts in refunds.

The property owner would pay his full bill to the local government, then he could deduct from his sales or income tax payments up to 850 the first year. That amount would grow over six years until it reached a peak of $1,000.

That would mean a corporation owning a half-million dollars in personal property taxes never could claim more than $1,000 in relief, while a farmer or small businessman whose total bill was $1,000 could after six years get the entire tax wiped out.

Exon argued this was the only fair approach, but Burchack said it was what made the governor's proposal, in his opinion, unconstitutional because of discrimination.

There were two exemption measures, both drawn along Burchack's lines, passed by the 1971 Legislature. An override attempt at the first time fell short. The second veto was submitted after the session had adjourned. The first bill this year couldn't muster the support to survive a veto. But the fourth attempt succeeded.

To the Editor:

Consumer reports show that the cost of living in Sydney is comparable to that of Washington D. C. This may not seem very bad unless (1) you've ever been to D.C., and (2) if you consider that the average annual income is less than that of a Nebraskan—about $5,700 a year. "In short, nothing is cheaper here than it would be in the States.

If anyone were to classify the British as "tea toddlers" and Americans as "capitalists" and then ask me to classify Aussies, I'd have to say "friendly, but apathetic."

Aussies are very, very apathetic to their government, (although voting is compulsory), their nation and to each other. Their favorite saying: "It'll be right, mate," supports this and typifies the Australian reaction in the face of impending danger.

Australians may seem curious on an American, but actually could care less if he wails away with his job, girl, and money. They are very carefree and easy going here, and don't break their backs over anything. Not lazy, but apathetic.

Aussies do deserve credit for the way they spend their leisure time.

If one can handle the main stumbling blocks of unfamiliarity, high prices and apathy, he would really love it here. It is, indeed, a beautiful country with a lot to offer such a person. Job opportunities are here for those who want to look, although they do not meet you at the plane with job offers.

The money isn't great, but a typical American, working at his average speed, would be rummaging rings around everyone here.

To sum up Australian life, it would be safe to say that it is a whole new bag here, from the music, life styles, cars, everything.

There's adventure here for those who want it, along with mindboggling differences, both good and bad, that you have to experience in order to fully understand.

In the four months I've been here, I've developed a great sense of patriotism to my mother country, the expected longing to return and a certain amount of love for Australia—no matter how you look at it.

I would suggest that anyone who is ever planning to come "down under" get hold of factual reports on Australia and not expect to set it on fire with starry-eyed dreams.

I like it here very much and don't plan on leaving for some time, because, after the mysticism of false reports falls away, Australia is a beautiful country that shouldn't be taken for face value.

At the moment it's got much more to offer than most places.

If anyone is thinking of Australia, I'll be more than happy to help in any way I can. Always glad to help out a fellow Yankee.

Pay Board's Decisions Knuckle Down to Big Unions

By Arch N. Booth

As executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Arch Booth serves as a spokesman for American business. The National Chamber federation represents an underlying membership of more than 5,000,000 business firms, organizations and individuals.

WASHINGTON—The scene is a stock ingredient of grade "B" Westerns: the camera takes us through the swinging doors of the saloon. Within, a tense group of hard-eyed men sits around a smoky, green-felt-covered table, playing poker. One of them is losing heavily.

Suddenly, the big loser accuses another player of cheating. As he makes the accusation, he jumps up, knocking over the table and going for his gun. The lights go out. There's an exchange of gunfire.

In the confusion, it's very hard to tell who's right and who's wrong. And that's exactly what the loser has in mind when he breaks up the game.

George Meany followed the script pretty closely when he quit the Pay Board, dragging three of the other four labor members with him. The only substantial deviation is that instead of being a big loser, his problem seems to be that he wasn't winning enough. And a look at the record makes it quite plain that "winning enough" for the AFL-CIO means cleaning out everyone else in the game.

Meany's first demand was that the Pay Board be completely independent of the Administration's Cost of Living Council. The President agreed. Meany's second demand was that the Pay Board be tripartite, with equal representation from business, labor and the public. The President agreed. So organized labor started the game with a deck stacked to its specifications.

Not surprisingly, the subsequent decisions of the Pay Board favored the big unions. After announcing that 5.5 per cent would be the maximum permissible annual wage increase—with 7 per cent allowed in special "catch-up" cases—the Board granted the following increases in excess of its own rules: Soft coal miners, 15 per cent; aerospace workers, 8.3 per cent; United Transportation Union, 10 per cent; West Coast dock workers, 14.9 per cent.

The Board also acquiesced in construction industry wage settlements averaging about 11 per cent a year.

But even that wasn't enough for organized labor. The dock workers wanted 20.6 per cent, not a "little" raise like 14.9 per cent.

So, kick over the table, douse the lights, and start shooting.

Labor fired two wild shots. The first was the charge that wage controls are "unfair" if profits aren't controlled. The second was the charge that profits are "hoarding."

Profits were better in 1971 than in 1970, but then, they could hardly have been worse. In 1970, after-tax corporate profits, as a per cent of sales, were 2.3 per cent. That was the lowest profit for any year since the end of World War II. In 1971, the figure rose to 2.5 per cent. An increase? Sure—but still the second lowest profit for any year since World War II. Only 1970 was lower. These are official, U. S. government figures, by the way.

But it's a mistake to try to control profits in any case. Profits are a reward for efficiency. Tax revenues come from profits. So does the money to invest in new businesses, which could provide the new jobs we need so badly now. That's why the government chose to control prices, rather than profits. After all, prices are what concern you, as a consumer. And prices—for the big corporation, anyway—are very firmly controlled. The limit on annual increases is 2.5 per cent. Only the "little guys" and the farmers are exempted. Whether such an exemption is wise is arguable, but it certainly isn't an example of favoritism for "big business."

The labor-ears obviously hope to deceive people by appealing to vague fears of "big business," to cover up their own sordid record. In an election year, they will have a lot of help from politicians seeking their support. It's safe to predict that the situation will get more confusing, rather than less. And, unfortunately, we won't be able to spot the "good guy" by his white hat.

Northeast Opportunity Center; Teacher of Pride in One's Work

Jim Shelton, executive director of the Northeast Opportunity Center often visits work areas. Shelton is no stranger to workshops as he was Shelter Workshop Manager at the Martin Luther Home in Beatrice before taking his present position.

Sub-contracts from local garden shops provide work for clients at the Northeast Opportunity Center. Here Fern Ellis paints a small garden fence. Notice the janitorial equipment in the background.

These bulls will also be exhibited at the Cherry County Fairgrounds, Valentine, Apr. 10, and at the Prairie States Feedyards two miles south of Alliance on Apr. 11. Several pens of crossbred Simmental and Limousin steers are being fed at the Prairie States Feedyards as part of the Nebraska Commercial Herd Evaluation Project.

He had little if any stand loss from the treatments studied. "Broadleaf weed control was good to excellent on herbicide treatments applied preemergence or postemergence, but not on several applied preplant," he said.

"Cultivation alone did not give adequate broadleaf or grass weed control." Preemergence and preplant treatments gave good to excellent control of grass weeds, but postemergence treatments did not.

Corn plots receiving preplant treatments did not yield as well as those receiving preemergence or postemergence treatments. Burnside got yields above 6,000 pounds per acre with six treatments applied preemergence and one applied postemergence.

The six best preemergence treatments were: Lasso plus 2, 4-D ester post) at 2.5 and 0.25 pounds per acre; Lasso plus Lorox at 1.5 and 1 pounds per acre; Lasso plus Bladex at 1.5 and 1.5 pounds per acre; AATrex at 2 pounds per acre; Rammed plus AATrex at 2.4 and 1 pounds per acre; and Bladex plus AATrex at 1.5 and 1.5 pounds per acre. The best postemergence treatment was Outfox plus Lasso at 0.5 and 2 pounds per acre.

BULL TEST STATION
The Eastern Nebraska Bull Test Station will sponsor an open house Sunday, Apr. 9 from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., according to station manager Gary Slerks.

Slerks said guests will be able to view and inspect 146 bulls that are nearing completion of their 140-day performance test. He noted that final weighing of the bulls will be Apr. 17-18, with

Advantages Derived by Corn Tillage

LINCOLN—Minimum or no tillage can conserve water and soil and help reduce the cost of corn production, and it may also increase the chance for outbreaks of corn diseases, particularly in continuous corn areas. However, on balance, the advantages derived from conservation tillage outweigh the disadvantages.

This was the opinion cited by a University of Nebraska-Lincoln plant pathologist during a Tillage Practices Workshop here at the Nebraska Center.

Dr. Michael G. Boosalis said that the important aspect of minimum or zero tillage as it relates to corn disease is that huge amounts of residues remain on the ground surface from one crop to the next.

"Minimum or no tillage allows much of the corn residue, such as leaves, leaf sheaths and particularly ear husks and stalks to overwinter without complete deterioration of the tissues," Boosalis said. "A minimum or zero tillage field may have well over 500 pounds of residue per acre after the planted crop has emerged."

Root and stalk rot, as well as fungus and bacterial blights, are the principal diseases associated with corn residue. "One of the primary reasons for the recent upsurge of these diseases may relate to the large quantity of corn residue left relatively undisturbed in the field from the time of harvest until shortly before the next season's crop is planted in the same field," Boosalis commented.

"We do know that corn residues from diseased crops left on top of the ground will harbor high populations of a particular fungus or bacterial pathogen. A much greater number of parasites will survive through the winter and spring in surface residues than in residues covered by soil."

However, Boosalis emphasized that minimum or no tillage is by no means the only factor involved in the disease epidemic of a crop. Other cultural practices cited by Boosalis as affecting disease outbreaks in corn include high plant population, narrow row spacing, irrigation, imbalanced fertility, and continuous cropping of corn. He added that the susceptibility of the corn variety may also determine the severity of the disease.

how much they would weigh if they were on Mars, the moon, the sun or other various planets.

As they were getting rowdier and louder during their unimpressive time on each scale, I called them to look at a particular display. My husband quietly reminded me that I wasn't in Carroll and that I should lower my voice.

But I attracted their attention long enough for them to look at the display of a simulated trip to the moon. At which my two youngsters displayed about as much interest as one does at the rising sun.

Fifth-grader Explains

Then my fifth-grader pressed the electrical switches outside the display case to show the various positions of the astronaut and nonchalantly explained the entire voyage to me.

But I was determined. They were going to behave and pay strict attention during the show and learn something. If I remembered correctly when I was their age and saw the show it was a spellbinding, never-to-be-forgotten experience.

A blue uniformed usher announced that the show would begin soon. So he took our tickets and a lady carrying a flashlight escorted us to the soft, reclining seats midway to the center of the large round room.

Before long the room darkened, the stars came out and the narrator began taking us on an imaginary trip through the solar system.

My eighth-grader must have been more fearful of her mother's wrath as she was quite attentive. That is when she wasn't interrupting her father's snores.

Suddenly I noticed my fifth-grader happily involved in watching the intensity of the glow from a luminous souvenir. In loud, firm whispers I told him that he could watch that at home in the dark and that he might never again have the opportunity to see this show.

Just a 'Rerun'

"Aw, Mom," he said very disgustedly. "They have better shows than this right in Wayne and I've already been there twice."

Then, of course, I remembered the children telling about visiting the Planetarium at the Wayne College. It was part of their school program.

Maybe the Wayne Planetarium isn't located near a large, beautiful lake or in a metropolitan area, nor does it have the priceless international exhibits but its story is the same. And perhaps it is displayed and told in a better way for the average adult and child to understand.

Funny, how we sometimes have to go so far away before we see things so close to home.

Anyway, I should have known better than to try to compete with the Wayne School and their educational program.

I enjoyed the trip but I wonder how many others in this area are unaware or simply didn't pay any attention when the shows were presented at the Fred Dale Planetarium this past season.

Planetarium Director Carl Rump told me the last public show for this season was Sunday, Mar.

26. But they will begin again in the fall and I, for one, will be watching for the opening announcement.

He also informed me that the planetarium would be open during June for any public groups such as schools or clubs that want to see it.

Imagine that. Right here in Wayne. And has been going on for quite some time!

Columbus to Host

Tillage Field Day

Columbus will be the site of the first Tillage Field Day, Tuesday, Apr. 25, co-sponsored by Loup Power District and a Columbus radio station.

This field day will feature planting equipment from tillage manufacturers represented in the Columbus area in actual farm operation. Corn growers and the public will have an opportunity to see and compare equipment and various tillage and planting methods, question the various manufacturing representatives, and see side-by-side comparisons of the tillage operations. The demonstration plots will be available for additional observation during the growing season.

Rain dates for the field day are Friday, Apr. 28, and Monday, May 1.

Loup Power District is furnishing 50 acres of irrigated farm land three miles east of Columbus for the plots.

—Wrangler 4-H Club—
The Wrangler 4-H club met at the Northeast Station Mar. 6. Special beef projects were discussed.

Demonstrations were given by Mark Creamey on tying knots, Jack Warner, rope knots and Kevin Kraemer on making a picture.

Lunch was served by Danny Koester and Lindy Koester. Next meeting will be Apr. 5. Diane Witte and Todd Koester will serve.

Jeff Creamer, news reporter.

—Leslie Lassies 4-H Club—

The Leslie Lassies 4-H club held their first meeting in the Robert Thomsen home, Feb. 10. Officers elected were: Janeen Thomsen, president; Carol Clausen, vice president; Lynn Svoboda, secretary; Jill Kai, treasurer; Gloria Hansen, news reporter.

Leaders are Mrs. Robert Thomsen and Mrs. Roy Kai.

The second meeting was held Thursday evening, Mar. 16, in the Robert Hansen home. New members are LuAnn McQuistan and Theresa Bruns. Members worked on family trees and two films were shown.

The next meeting is Apr. 20 in the Jerry Clausen home.

Gloria Hansen, news reporter.

—Wayne Co. Hombres—

The Wayne County Hombres met Tuesday evening at Hoskins. Twenty-two members were present.

Election of officers was held with the following results: Rick Lange, president; Larry Anderson, vice president; Debbie Davis, secretary; Dan Frink, treasurer; and Mark Flerk, news reporter.

Junior leaders are Robin Flerk and Brad Frink. Stanley Langenber is the leader, assisted by Gordon Davis.

Families serving were the Don Assumes and the Orville Andersons. The next meeting will be a riding meeting Apr. 18 at the Hoskins Arena.

—Carrolliners 4-H—

The Carrolliners 4-H club met Monday at the Carroll city auditorium with 35 members and 11 guests present. Hostesses were Kathy and Carol Petersen, Karlene Benschoff and Jodi Isom.

Two new members joined the club. They are Sheila Gramlich, Charmie Milligan, Kathy Petersen, Theresa Godsey, RayLynn Hanse, Debbie Wolslager, Lori Burbach, Monica Eddle, Karlaene Benschoff, Kim Richter-Meyer, Holly Rees and Renay Harmler.

Leaders are Mrs. Martin Hansen, Mrs. Merlin Kenney and Mrs. Milton Owens. Officers are Leann Owens, president; Sally Kenney, vice president; Debbie Rodenstedt, secretary-treasurer; and Peggy Bowers, news reporter.

Junior leaders are Sally Kenney, Carol Petersen, Jill Kenney, Leann Owens, Debbie Rodenstedt, Janet Hansen and Renay Harmler. The group decided to charge dues of 10¢ to cover expenses.

The Apr. 30 meeting will be at 7 p.m. at the Carroll city auditorium.

—Concordette's 4-H—

The Concordette's 4-H club met Mar. 13 at the Northeast Station, Concord.

Susan Stohler gave a demonstration on exploring plants. Darcy Harder demonstrated making cookies and Janet Lehman gave a demonstration on sleeves. An experiment on flour was done by Diane Rhodes. Glennis and Almore 4-H, page 5.

Greener Pastures at Home

This Rural Ramblings story is going to be deviated slightly from the farmer's everyday routine and problems. There are times when practically everyone needs to break their routine and take a closer look at others in order to see themselves more clearly.

Yours truly recently had the opportunity to visit friends and relatives in the big, windy city of Chicago. It's no great distance away for today's traveling but the city is quite a contrast to any in our area.

When driving toward the city as my family and I did, one instantly detects their great pollution problem. It's like a mammoth, gray fog blanket is trying to smother the entire city. We were several miles into the city before the smoky-colored, dirty-smelling air penetrated the interior of our car. Fortunately we stayed where the fresh, pure air tried to push its way from across Lake Michigan toward Chicago.

No Comparison

I can't understand how the pollution caused by one farm tractor about every mile can possibly compare with pollution like that. Unless perhaps it is like the cliché "If everyone lit just one little candle..." Perhaps if every farmer and small town resident did just one little bit to eliminate some sort of pollution we could be definitely assured of the continuance of our fresh, pure air. And the opportunity to see the bright blue sky and the snowy white clouds floating by.

Except when hampered by Mother Nature's rain clouds, which we regularly welcome.

But I must say their local traffic commuters were very polite. They must have recognized us as typical Westerners who were used to narrow gravel roads. Anyway they seemed to give us plenty of room when exiting or approaching avenues and expressways or changing traffic lanes. In fact, several following cars didn't even honk their horns when they were suddenly slowed down by our wrong exit.

Having been making occasional visits to Chicago for longer than I care to admit, I've grown quite familiar with some of the city. And the children have long ago thoroughly investigated every inch of their grandparents' property. So during each of the last several visits I've tried to impress my folks and friends by trying to prove I'm a good, devoted mother. So I insisted on taking the children to a major place of interest. And one that is educational as well as interesting.

Adler Planetarium
My prime target during this trip was the famous Adler Planetarium. Besides visiting grandma, my two Wayne Middle School youngsters were going to learn something that would be educational. So their protests went unheeded as we motored toward the planetarium.

The Adler Planetarium is a red and gray stone globe-shaped building located near downtown Chicago and Lake Michigan. There were 11 persons in our party attending the show, including two other children. Needless to say, we exerted great effort in trying to make the four children at least pause to look at some of the aged, priceless, telescopes and other astronomical articles which were exhibited inside large glass cases.

The children enjoyed weighing themselves on scales that showed

Medical Association President Says National Health Care No 'Cure-All'

State medicine in England has resulted in archaic hospitals and a declining standard of care for patients, Dr. Roger Mason, of McCook, president of the Nebraska Medical Association, says.

Dr. Mason said that many young doctors in England have become disillusioned with a lack of minimum standards of clinical competence consistent with good medical practice. A call for the incentives for good doctoring are being sounded.

By their own admission, hospitals in Britain are archaic, Dr. Mason noted. He said that one professor of medicine reported a need for a new general hospital in each of 20 districts within one region, but government funds are not available to pay for them, and there are no prospects of having the money available.

The point of their situation is that their National Health Service, which was inaugurated with their Health Act of 1946, has left British citizens with at least as many problems in cost and in

New lightweight long-leg control!

Your figure is pampered and flattered with the all-over control of the long leg panty. Reinforced front panel controls your tummy as the side panels slim your hips and thighs. And more, back panels shape and control the derriere. Even the panel-attached garters help to smooth and flatten. All this in cool, lightweight nylon and Lycra® spandex at a pocket pleasing low price. In White, Black, Pink, Blue, Lemon, Cifoc, and Beige. In sizes: S-M-L-XL.

$17.00

Only Bestform offers you such a great little figure.
