

Wayne Teachers to Receive $150 Base Pay Salary Hike

The Wayne-Carroll Board of Education granted a base salary increase of $150 and raised the maximum contribution of the district toward hospitalization insurance from $8.45 to $10, effective the beginning of the 1972-73 school year.

The board unanimously approved Dr. Irvin Brandt's report on negotiations with the Wayne Education Association Monday night at the April meeting of the board at Wayne High School.

The salary increase will range from $180 to $500, depending on the position of faculty members on the experience and preparatory scale.

The new salary schedule will see new teachers with bachelor of arts degrees receive $6,650, with an experience increase of four per cent the second year to $6,816 and four per cent raises each succeeding year up to six years for a salary at the end of that six-year period of $7,980.

Each nine hours of work toward a masters degree will result in an additional 5.5 per cent of the base pay. That is, a new teacher with a BA plus nine hours will receive a base pay of $7,016, which would increase to $8,612 after seven years; a new teacher with a BA plus 18 would begin at $7,382 with a possible $9,244 after eight years; a new teacher with a BA plus 27 would receive a base of $7,747 and on to $9,875 after nine years.

Those new teachers with a masters degree or BA plus 36 would receive a base of $8,113 and $10,773 after 11 years; a new teacher with an MA plus nine would range from $8,479 to $11,405 after 12 years and a beginning teacher with an MA plus 18 would have a range of $8,845 to $12,937 after 13 years.

The principal said, if adopted, the M.C.P. would take three years to fully implement.

Don Goeden, with $15,176, had the low bid for the completion of the parking lot paving in the area west of the high school, which was accepted by the board. Other bids received were from Christensen Construction, $15,520; Norfolk Concrete Finishers, $16,051.50; and Vakoc

Construction, $22,200.

In other business the board: —Approved February bills in the amount of $9,802.83.

—Approved motion to take bids on a building to house tractors, snow-blowers and lawnmowers. The state fire marshal has "purchased" the school into removing all gas-burning engines from the boiler room where they now are stored.

The new salary schedule will result in an additional $22,753 outlay for District 17 or an average 3.8 per cent increase for 67 teachers in the Wayne-Carroll school system.

There were eight meetings conducted between representatives of the school board and the Education Association before the new salary schedule was agreed to by the negotiating teams and ratified by the WEA membership.

The only other changes in the schedule was for extra duty pay, $50 a year to the head wrestling coach and $75 a year to the assistant wrestling coach.

There were no alterations in other areas—personal leave. See TEACHERS, page 8.

Wayne to Have New Car Wash

Work began this week on an automatic car wash and remodeling service station facilities at the site of the old Co-Op station on South Main, with completion expected to be the first of June.

Eldon Bareman, who came to Wayne from St. Paul the first of February, has leased the Standard Station on North Main and also has a lease on the automatic car wash and remodeled station operations.

Bareman said the cars will be pulled through the automatic wash on a 45-foot-long conveyor. The facility will have a capacity of 60-70 cars per hour.

Bareman's family will not move to Wayne until school is out this spring. They have a son, Ward, a senior at St. Paul High School, who plans to enroll at Wayne State College this fall.

Carroll Girl to Represent Nebraska at 4-H Meeting

Linda Baler of Carroll is one of four Nebraska 4-H'ers who will be traveling to Washington, D.C., April 23-28 as Nebraska representatives to the National 4-H Conference, one of the highest honors a 4-H'er can receive.

Linda, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Baler of Carroll. Others picked as representatives were Bruce Trefler of Osceola, Rita Wojtaszek of Ord and David Howe of Kearney.

The four were selected from over 40,000 Nebraska 4-H'ers on the basis of past records relating to leadership, citizenship and general involvement and interest in 4-H.

Dairy, foods and junior leader projects were Linda's main project areas during nine years of 4-H work. She is now a freshman at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and a member of the University 4-H Club.

She has participated in the Interstate Youth Exchange with a family in Minnesota, and has attended the 4-H Citizenship Short-course in Washington, D.C. Linda has also served as 4-H hostess at the Nebraska State Fair.

During their week's stay at the Conference, the four delegates will join with some 900 other 4-H'ers from the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia in discussing national 4-H programs and future development.

Linda Baler

In keeping with the 1972 theme of the Conference, "A New Day—A New Way," 4-H'ers will focus on several key areas, provide counsel in program development, suggest methods of increasing the impact of 4-H to additional youth, establish a model for youth-adult interaction and develop a greater understanding of national issues and voter responsibilities.

The 4-H'ers also will have an opportunity to visit Capitol Hill and talk with Nebraska's Congressional delegation.

Hay Burns Thursday At Norman Deck Farm

Hoskins Volunteer Firemen were called to the Norman Deck farm, six miles east and a half mile south of Hoskins, about 12:15 Thursday, where several stacks of chopped hay were burning.

Gary Koehlmoo, son of Arnold Koehlmoo, Pilger, had been chopping hay on the Deck farm, and as he pulled out of the drive to leave the place noticed the hay smoldering. As no one was home at the Norman Deck farm, Koehlmoo drove a mile west to the Myron Deck farm and Mrs. Myron Deck placed the call for help.

It is believed the fire was caused by sparks from the motor of Koehlmoo's commercial grinder.

Three firemen were on the scene about three and a half hours. Less than a ton of hay was lost to the fire. Insurance covered the loss.

Candidates Skip Mudpies and Discuss Issues at Two-Hour Session in Allen

In national politics a little mudslinging is common. But in Allen the candidates for Nebraska Legislative District No. 17 put down their mud pies and talked about the issues.

The two-hour discussion at Allen High School, which centered on equality of taxation, education, abortion, welfare and pollution, kept more than 75 persons glued to their seats in the Allen gymnasium.

Edwin Fahrenholz, chairman for the Dixon County Farm Bureau, moderated the talks for the four candidates, sponsored by the Wayne, Dakota and Dixon County Farm Bureaus.

During the program, "Meet the Legislative Candidates," these were the responses of the candidates:

Senator LeRoy Pfister, South Sioux City

Equality of taxes—"I would love to see the little guy relieved of the heavy tax burden and pin the big fellows in Nebraska."

Education—Sen. Pfister said that he would vote against state aid to schools if it meant taking away local control of the schools.

Abortion—"I'm definitely against it." If you can eliminate the young at that stage of life, he said, then what prevents a person from taking the lives of the elderly?

Welfare—The department needs more study.

Pollution—Pollution control is in the "infancy" stages of learning, but it is a necessity to have such a program.

Bob Murphy, South Sioux City

Equality of taxes—"The present tax structure is a 'tax burden.' It is time for a 'total tax restructure.' To do this, said Murphy, "we have to do four things: One, know the source of revenue; two, understand the instrument of tax action; three, get the response of the taxpayer; and fourth, know the function of government spending."

Education—"One half of the present budget is educational spending. 'There's no escape from funding education.'"

Abortion—"Somewhere between church and physical well being, the nation will live with abortion."

Welfare—"Presently there is too large a government bureau that is poorly planned. What we need to do is have one department instead of 62."

Pollution—"Right now, he said, the program is a 200 per cent overkill program that everyone is jumping into and no one knows for sure where to go. 'We should proceed with caution.'"

Chris Miller, Homer

Equality of taxation—"We do have an archaic tax system that needs to be restructured."

Education—"Already in Texas and California the use of property tax for educational purposes have been eliminated. I believe the rest of the nation will follow suit."

Abortion—"Physicians and churches will be talking about this topic for a long time, he said. 'But with the widespread of venereal disease, we would be opening up a whole new field that could possibly spread VD by allowing abortions.'"

Welfare—"The welfare system needs to be changed."

Pollution—"The factories and big companies, he said, are our biggest concern. We must save our small cities first."

Law and order—"I must talk on this subject because we do need more respect for law and order."

Mrs. Elaine Schmaddeke, Dakota City

Equality of taxes—"There is Outstanding Feeder for 1972—John Servino, program director, presents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Ponca, the stockman award at the Saturday night Feeder's banquet at Wayne State College.

Kennedy Named Outstanding Feeder

Experience is the best teacher. And who knows that better than Frank Kennedy, the 1972 winner of the Northeast Livestock Feeders Outstanding Feeder of the year award.

"This is one of the greatest experiences of my life," said Kennedy, "It's the highlight of our lives."

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, who farmed near Ponca, were presented the award Saturday night at the Wayne State College student center.

At the ninth annual Northeast Livestock Feeders banquet Kennedy thanked everyone in his own quiet way. He didn't have to say anything. The lines that painted his face and hands told the story of the work he put into his farm and community to help them both grow.

In 1948, Kennedy organized the Cornbelt Feeders Organization which later reorganized at the Northeast Livestock Feeders. During that beginning period, he served as president for five years.

Seven years later Kennedy canvassed his community to get donations to establish the Northeast Station at Concord.

But Kennedy's service to the Dixon communities started before 1948. In 1938 he served on the committee which organized to promote the establishment of the Rural Electrification Association in Dixon, Dakota and Thurston Counties.

Until 1954 he served on the board of directors for the R.E.A. Kennedy served on numerous committees including the Dixon County Extension Board.

From 1931 until his retirement he was interested in soil conservation and eight years later Kennedy was the first farmer in the area to use contour farming. Beginning in 1923 until 1929, he served on the Dixon County Extension Board.

Although Kennedy's interest in farming continued to grow, he could not forget about his community.

Kennedy served as president of the Waterbury Consolidated School Board for eight of his 23 years while for two years he was president of his church board and a member of the Dixon County Fair Board.

Presenting the award to Kennedy was John Servino, awards director for the N.E.L.F.

Also attending the banquet was Toastmaster Gary Chapman, U.S.D.A. Livestock Market News, Sioux City Stockyards; Bill McQuistan, president of the N.E.L.F.; and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. William Stanton; and Mayor and Mrs. Kent Hall.

Donald "Red" Blanchard kept the crowd of over 500 persons entertained with his stories during the banquet.

Council Rejects Amending Ordinance To Allow More than 5 Liquor Licenses

The City Council rejected an application for a liquor license Tuesday night by Frank Woelher during a public hearing at the council's regular session.

In a unanimous decision, the council rejected the application after councilman Keith Mosley motioned for the denial saying that the present ordinance, No. 725, states that the limit of liquor licenses in Wayne shall be no more than five.

Councilman Harvey Brasch seconded the motion after councilman Pat Gross told the council that the ordinance, changing the number of licenses from three to five liquor licenses in 1968, would have to be changed again if the council approved the license.

During a public discussion Don Pfeiffer, Nu Tavern, pointed out that present liquor inventories for the five licenses in Wayne show that there has been a decrease in the amount of liquor sold. Pfeiffer said that in 1970, there were 2,229 cases of liquor sold while 1,935 cases were sold in 1971.

In other action concerning liquor licenses, the council voted to hold a public hearing on the issuing of a bottle club license to Deb's Lounge, formally Putz's, on April 25.

The council, in a unanimous decision, decided to hear the application at the next council meeting by Harlan Farrens, the owner.

In discussion of the Eastwood Addition, the council unanimously voted to reject the planning because of the area's lack of accessibility.

Councilman Mosley, who motioned for the rejection, said that the planning commission rejected the plans after careful study when it was revealed that lots five and six in block one and lots one through 12 were inaccessible and lot eight showed "no hope of access."

Councilman Darrel Fuelberth, who seconded the motion, agreed when it was noted that the area would need two more fire hydrants in addition to the two already present.

Mayor Kent Hall appointed a committee of councilmen, Gross, Fuelberth and Jim Thomas to study a comprehensive planning program for the city of Wayne concerning overall changes in zoning and planning in the future.

R. and M. Wozniak, Fremont, in charge of the comprehensive planning for Wayne during the past three years, told the council in a letter that the cost of updating the comprehensive plan—See COUNCIL, page 5.

Charge Filed After High-Speed Chase in Wayne

Carlson complained of backaches and was hospitalized overnight in Wayne. A passenger, Cindy Owens of Carroll, was treated and released.

The Department of Roads said that the reason for installation is because of current inadequate drainage in that area.

NORTHEAST EXTENSION

Notes by Joycelyn Smith

The rib roast—allas prime rib or standing rib—is one of the most popular but most misunderstood cuts of meat.

This favorite comes from the center or rib section of the beef animal, between the loin (back) section and the shoulder (chuck) section. Some markets advertise rib roasts as "first three ribs". Others tout 4th, 5th, and 6th, while others simply have rib roasts. There is a considerable difference in the eating quality and economy of the different cuts of rib roasts.

The choicest, or the most tender and most expensive rib roasts are called the first ribs or sometimes the eleventh or twelfth ribs. Next are the center rib roasts and finally the sixth and seventh ribs, usually priced below the others.

All rib roasts come in any of the following styles: 1. Standing 10 inch Rib Roast, measuring from backbone to end of ribs, with backbone and small bones still on, will weigh 6 to 8 pounds.

2. Standing 7-inch Rib Roast is the same as above roast but 3 inches of the short ribs, part of the backbone, and small bones have been cut off. It will weigh 5 to 7 pounds.

3. Rolled Rib Roast is like the standing 10-inch rib roast but all bones have been removed. The meat is rolled and tied, with the boned short ribs sometimes wrapped around the roast. It also will weigh about 5 pounds.

The best value is usually the seven inch roast even though price per pound is higher. When buying meats try to purchase according to price per serving rather than price per pound.

The preferred method of cooking for tender cuts of meat is the dry heat method. Place the standing rib roast, fat side up, in a shallow open pan. A rack may be used but is not needed.

Fabulous Fifties

Students and teachers at Wayne Middle School raided their attics and scrounged in trunks last Friday to come up with a look for the 1950's.

Students may have snickered a bit over their "new look" and at the sound of hit records from two decades ago, played over "Station WMS" by disc jockeys Don Koenig and Miron Jeness, but at least two instructors were overheard saying they felt quite comfortable in the outdated garb.

POLLUTION IS A MENACE TO ALL AMERICANS ...
NOT JUST THOSE IN THE "WRONG" NEIGHBORHOODS

Out of sight, out of mind, Perhaps ugly scenes like this are never viewed by most of us but they do exist. They are a menace, not just to those who live or work in the vicinity of polluted areas, but to all of us. You can't isolate something like pollution . . . it spreads its insidious filth through every level of society, contaminating our air, water, and land today and threatening disastrous consequences for generations to come. We must all mobilize against the elements that contribute to pollution — beginning with the empty beer can tossed out of a car window, to the conditions that permit rat-infested slum areas. Our environment is a precious heritage . . . let's preserve it for ourselves and for future Americans!

Requests for Tax Filing Extension Must Be Received by IRS by April 17

OMAHA—Taxpayers planning to request an automatic extension of time for filing their 1967 returns are reminded by Richard P. Vinal, Internal Revenue Service District Director for Nebraska, that these requests are due no later than April 17 and must be accompanied by the full balance due.

"Taxpayers requesting an automatic extension of time must do so by filing a Form 4868 with the Ogden Service Center," Vinal said.

In filling out the Form 4868, the taxpayer must make a tentative estimate of the tax for the year. The full balance due shown on the application must be attached to Form 4868.

"The filing of Form 4868 is a request for an automatic two-month extension of time for filing a Form 1040," Vinal added, "not a request for a delay in payment of individual income tax."

Form 4868 is available at any Internal Revenue Service office. Vinal also reminded taxpayers that the amount of your income is a key factor in determining whether you have to file a 1971 federal income tax return.

A single person under 65 years of age with a gross income of $1,700 or more for the year has to file a return. This requirement applies to minors and students.

No return is required from anyone 65 or older on the last day of the tax year unless the gross income was $2,300 or more. Married couples living together and filing a joint return do not have to file unless their combined gross income is $2,300 or more, or $2,900 if one is 65 or older, or $3,500 if both are 65 or older. However, when the income is under these limits, a return should be filed to get a refund of any income tax withheld from salaries or wages.

Businessmen, farmers, and other self-employed persons must file a return if their net earnings from self-employment were $400 or more.

Darrel Fuelberth working on a program to increase their state sales tax and refund that portion to the communities of that state. It is Nebraska's duty to follow suit, this would eliminate the concern over retail business and make a city sales tax feasible. Maybe it is anyway.

Navy Offers 2 New Enlistment Plans

New three-year enlistment programs have been announced by Petty Officer Donald D. Krusie, navy recruiter at Norfolk.

Two enlistment options, according to the recruiter, are titled the "Seafarer" and "Airman" programs, and are designed specifically for the young man who desires to serve in the challenging environment of the sea, without incurring the longer active duty commitment imposed by attending duty at an advanced training school.

The programs can guarantee duty with one of the Navy's sea-going units whether that be a guided-missile destroyer operating in the Pacific Ocean, or a sophisticated aircraft squadron embarked on an aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean Sea.

The Navy has openings in March for 2,279 men in the Seafarer program and 1,456 in the Airman program.

Recruiter Krusie explained the new program: "Under the Seafarer program, young men will be guaranteed duty on board a ship operating from the coast of their choice. Rather than attending a 'Class A', or an advance training school, after recruit training, men will receive on-the-job training in one of three apprentice ships. Seaman (general shipboard duties), Fireman (engineering assignments) or Constructionman (Seabee or construction trade assignments)."

A young man in the Airman program is guaranteed assignment to an aviation unit on the coast of his choice. Duty may be to a Naval Air installation, aircraft carrier crew, or an aircraft squadron embarked in an aircraft carrier.

Both the Seafarer and Airman programs are open to 17-year-olds who have a high school graduate, or 18 to 31-year-olds who hold a high school diploma or an equivalency. (Waivers may be granted to non-high school graduates who score high enough on entrance examinations.)

All enlistments will be a pay-grade E-1, with a beginning salary of $288 per month, plus housing, meals, medical care, uniform allowance and other military entitlements.

Men in the Seafarer or Airman programs who later wish to attend an advanced training school will be permitted to apply, provided they contract for the additional service obligation required for school.

The Seafarer and Airman programs are the minimum enlistment offered by the regular Navy. The normal enlistment with a guarantee of advanced schooling in the electronics or nuclear propulsion fields carry a six-year obligation.

Additional information on the Seafarer and Airman programs is available from Recruiter Krusie, whose office is at 511 Norfolk Ave., Norfolk.

to make a study of traffic control signs in the city.

Following a discussion on a proposed stop sign at West Second and Sherman, the council agreed that it would be best to have a complete study of all the traffic control signs in the city.

The alley west of Dearborn Street was voted to remain open after the council decided "in all fairness" that the alley should not be a private parking lot for the people in that area.

Engineer Duane Upton, Council member, reported that his bid would let May 9 on a storm sewer project near Meadow Lane pending further study.

In committee reports, Councilman Gross, finance committee, asked that the firm of C. W. Daly and Co., Omaha, be allowed to handle the fiscal reports instead of First Mid-America, which presently handles the city's reports as a fiscal agent.

Gross contended that Daly, who used to work for Mid-America, now has opened his own business and has shown more aggressiveness than First Mid-America.

In a discussion period, Mayor Hall questioned the integrity of the action stating that he could understand the shift if First Mid-America was providing poor service or that the city could save more money by transferring the account.

The motion, seconded by Fuelberth, passed unanimously.

In other action from the finance committee, Gross noted that there would be a meeting next Tuesday at 7 p.m. on the retirement program.

Councilman Thomas, of the light and power committee, said that City Plant Superintendent N. H. Brugger was picked by the American Public Power Co. as the recipient of the "Seven Hats Award" to be presented June 26 at a convention in San Francisco.

The council voted to pay expenses for the mayor and possibly his wife to attend the convention along with Brugger and his wife.

So far there is no further word on the purchasing of a new airport hangar, according to councilman Brasch.

The council decided to wait until further study on the feasibility of buying a power rake for the cleaning of the city's parks.

The city will continue studying the paving of the Grabland Road, which will cost the city approximately $24,000.

A trenching machine will be purchased from the Digsall Co., Iowa, for $2,500 for trenching

Car Totaled In Thursday Crash

Dixon County Sheriff Dean Chase and State Highway Patrolman Joe Yosten investigated an accident which took place shortly before 6 p.m. Thursday about five miles north of Allen at the intersection of Highways 9 and 20.

A 1964 Cadillac, driven by Bob Elliott of Ponca, was proceeding west on Highway 20 and had attempted to turn left when it collided with a semi-driven by Julian Elgert. The truck had been totaled on Highway 20.

The Elliott car was totaled. About $100 damage to the right front of the semi was reported. The semi belongs to Sioux City Truck Sales.

No one was injured, though the Allen Rescue Unit administered oxygen to Mrs. Truman Fahrenholz. Mrs. Fahrenholz, Elliott's daughter, was a passenger in the Elliott car.

According to Mrs. Fahrenholz, the sun had blinded her father's view so that he did not see the approaching truck.

Salaries for secretaries, custodians, cooks and bus drivers will be set at the May meeting.
Teacher approval was given by the board to a curriculum change proposed by Principal Daryl Lawrence.
The proposed Multi-Career Curriculum Program was described by Lawrence as a "refinement or restructuring of the current offerings, the major feature being the emphasis placed on providing students with opportunities to plan according to recommendations evident in the various study emphasis areas."
"The student would have, in the M.C.P., an option of choosing, with the help of staff counseling, a high school program in one of five emphasis areas—general curriculum, vocational-technical, vocational-business, home economics and college preparatory."
"Supported the recommendation of Supt. Francis Haun for re-election of teachers."
"Instructed Don Koeng to check further into exact cost and possible bids for a proposed weld machine for the purpose of year-around conditioning of welders."
"Discussed the possibility of renting space from St. Mary's School for the purpose of providing instruction to disadvantaged children. Supt. Haun reported that the Wayne parochial school was interested in pursuing the title I-sponsored program."

Education—"We owe it to our students to give them the best education possible. So that all students, whether in ghetto, rural or city schools, may all compete equally."
Abortion—"I could vote for a law that would make abortions legal if the law set a limit to when the abortion could be conducted." Mrs. Schmadieke set that limit up to three and a half months. "But I do believe that this is too important an issue for 49 legislators to decide. I would want it put to the people."
Welfare—"Presently California has a welfare system whereby the recipient has to work for at least 35 hours a week for the state, to become a part of the program. I believe this program bears watching."
Pollution—"There are three kinds of pollution: air, water and mind. We have accomplished the first part and that is to recognize the problem. Now is the time to do something about it."

Nottingham: Alias the Bowling Ball

"I picked up the name from some of the defensive players because I run hard and low and I'm always knocking people over."
That's how Don Nottingham, Baltimore Colts rookie running back, explains how he earned the nickname of "The Bowling Ball."
Nottingham, a 5-10, 220-pounder out of Kent State, was the last player selected in the 1971 National Football League draft, and the World Champions Colts are glad they got him.
"He's quite a prospect despite his size," says Coach Don McCafferty. "He's durable, tough, and has a very strong body."
It didn't take long for Baltimore reporters to pick up Nottingham's new nickname. Sports-caster Pat Summerall, calling the play-by-play during the nationally televised pre-season game between Baltimore and the Colts, commented, "watch out for the bowling ball!"
Don is a bowler—a sport he enjoys with his wife, Shelly. A left-hander, he says he likes to get out to a bowling center for fun and enjoyment. His high game is a 214, but he admits his average is somewhere near the 150 mark.

Many Filings Incorrect on Listing Casualty or Theft Losses on Returns

OMAHA—Richard P. Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said today that many taxpayers claiming casualty or theft losses are experiencing delays in the processing of their federal income tax returns. This is because they are either failing to deduct the $100 limitation or not showing this computation on their return.
Under a new program this year, the Service Centers are identifying and correcting taxpayer errors in order that taxpayers will not be subject to later interest charges.
Vinal explained that a personal casualty or theft loss is allowed only to the person who owns the property and must be reduced by any amount received through insurance. The amount that may be deducted must further be reduced by $100.
As an example, a taxpayer suffers a casualty or theft loss of $1,000 of which $500 is recovered by insurance. The taxpayer can claim that portion not covered by the insurance minus $100—or a total of $400.

Rules of Conduct Can Help Keep The Mind Young

If you are at retirement age or beyond, you probably worry a little about keeping up with life. Everyone at your age is properly concerned about maintaining his health and activity.
A wise doctor developed these "Rules of Conduct" for his own life. First, he said he realized that the mind stays young and flexible after the body begins to get a bit stiff.
So, he concentrated on staying young by keeping his mind active. The doctor widened his friendships among young people. He said they shocked him occasionally, but he tried to understand their viewpoint.
The doctor and his wife exchanged more strenuous amusements for those that taxed their strength less. They also kept up their old friendships.
They found that these gradual adjustments helped them keep the good mental outlook that is important in maintaining good health.

Pike Population Believed Peaked

LINCOLN—Anglers taking northern pike from Branched Oak Lake near Malcolm have never had it so good, but northern fishing will probably never again be as productive, according to Game and Parks Commission biologists.

The northern pike populations of the Salt Valley lakes around Lincoln illustrate "peaking," a phenomenon that involves most new impoundments. Nearly all new reservoirs reach a "golden age" in sport fishing, usually a few years after the dam is closed. The time a fishery needs to reach this peak depends on several factors, including water fertility, climate and species involved.

For northern pike in Salt Valley lakes, this peak has always come about three or four years after the reservoirs began to fill.

A check of old Master Angler Award applications shows each Salt Valley lake producing the greatest number trophy northern pike in its third and fourth years. Beginning in 1962 with Bluestem and Wagon Train reservoirs, a Salt Valley lake was completed each year except 1966. So, anglers have had good northern pike fishing around Lincoln since about 1965.

After this peak is reached, pike fishing drops off rapidly. Branched Oak seems to be following the same pattern, as its production for Master Angler pike rose sharply during the past winter's ice fishing. Newest of the Salt Valley Lakes, Branched Oak was completed in late 1967, and fish were first stocked there in 1968.

Several factors account for this abrupt rise in fishing, then the sudden drop in the population. The trophy northern now being taken from Branched Oak have grown from the first batch of fingerlings stocked in the lake by the Game and Parks Commission.

Their rate of survival in the new lake was much higher than it would have been for young northern pike in an old lake, because there were no larger predators to prey on them. In addition, the fish experienced a remarkable rate of growth because they had little competition for available food. Most of the survivors of this original stocking are now real tackle-busters.

But, when an angler takes one of these lunkers, he runs into a basic law of fisheries management. Any body of water will support only so many pounds of each species of fish, whether large numbers of small fish or a few large fish.

Chances are the niche held by that 10-pounder the angler hauled from the lake will be filled by five, two-pounders, rather than another 10-pounder. Any later crop of northern fingerlings does not have it as soft as the lunker did as a youngster in a new lake.

In most lakes, this would mean a slight drop, then a leveling off in northern pike fishing after the peak is past. Since the Salt Valley lakes do not offer suitable natural northern pike spawning habitat, pike fishing will virtually end in the Lincoln area in a few years, after fishermen and nature have depleted the original crop.

Anglers should be prepared for this decline as a biological fact of fish management. At the present time, northern pike are not a renewable resource in the Salt Valley.

One hope for a viable northern fishery in the Salt Valley is the artificial spawning marsh concept, which is the second step of zoning at Bluestem Lake near Sprague. If this experiment works, a stable population of northern pike may be possible in the Salt Valley in the future.

Bancroft Bulldogs Rip Wakefield Trojans, 11-4

The Wakefield nine evened their season record at 1-1 at the Wakefield baseball Park Tuesday as the Bancroft Bulldogs blitzed the Trojans, 11-4.

Bancroft combined seven hits off three Trojan pitchers and were aided by 10 Trojan errors to give Bancroft their first season win while Dell Sol led Bancroft with two singles and a double.

The Trojans managed to raise their team batting average to .375 with their 10 hits but could not manage any game-breaking hits as they stranded 12 men on base.

Junior Bob Twitte hurled the first 2 1/2 innings, giving up three hits, striking out five and walking only two. But a leaky defense allowed the Bulldogs to score four runs by the top of the fourth inning.

Senior Pat Starzl pitched the next 2 1/2 innings and also was touched for three hits while striking out one and walking another, but Bancroft poured in five more runs through a frustrated Trojan defense.

Senior Kevin Peters hurled the last inning.

Wayne: Kyle Willis 39, Wick Fields 48, Tod Hornhoft 39, Mark Schram 42.

Wakefield: Randy Johnson 42, Brad Schwartz 43, Allan Feagle 47, Davon Fischer 52.

Six Teams Form Northeast Nebraska Baseball League

A proposed revival of the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League got an enthusiastic reception Sunday at Wakefield as six teams reunited under the NEBL banner.

Teams rejoining the old loop were Dakota City, Homer, Newcastle, Ponca, Wakefield and Wayne.

A major change in the league's operation will confine all league play to Sundays, with the exception of rain-outs. Weekdays will be open to the make-up games and non-loop scheduling.

The 10-game season will begin May 28 and continue through July 30, followed by a four-team playoff.

An intra-league game matching East Dakota City, Homer, and Ponca) versus West (Newcastle, Wakefield and Wayne) will be held July 12 at Wakefield. An all-star game with the Dodge County League also will be proposed.

The opening-day pairings (managers in parenthesis) are: Newcastle (Tony Knoff) vs. Dakota City (Oed Green); Wakefield (Gary Schlotfeldt) vs. Ponca (Gordon Nelson) and Homer (Bud Vassler) vs. Wayne (Frank Overlin).

Dick Rupert, member of the Nebraska (orniskusker football) team, will be the guest speaker at the Wakefield athletic banquet Apr. 18 in the Wakefield elementary auditorium.

Tickets for the 7 p.m. dinner may be purchased from any "W" club member or Kevin Peters, president, before Apr. 14.

Fight Against Cancer

April is Cancer Control Month as proclaimed by the President of the United States and by Congressional resolution. During the month the Society conducts its annual educational and fund-raising crusade...

Are we getting anywhere against cancer? That's the question most often asked of the American Cancer Society. The answer is a very definite "yes" and here's why.

was in the 1940's. Today the figure is 81 per cent and could be close to 100 per cent if every woman had a Pap test and had proper, prompt treatment.

Thousands of women in this country are alive and well today because of a simple, quick and painless cancer test. With less trouble or discomfort than getting her hair set, a woman can have a Pap test.

The death rate from this form of cancer has been cut by more than half in the last 30 years, but the Cancer Society has set a goal of having all American adult women take the Pap test by 1975.

This month hundreds of thousands of volunteers will be visiting American homes for contributions.

Yes, we are getting somewhere. That's the word from your American Cancer Society.

Still a Bargain

The Washington D. C. Water Power Company has come up with some interesting statistics that, if accurate, would give evidence that electricity is one of the biggest bargains that we have.

The WWPCC fact sheet claims that it costs .7 of a cent per day for the comfort of an electric blanket; a blender uses .06 of a cent of electricity per use; a can opener, 1.5 cents per year; a clothes dryer (five loads a week) costs 3.2 cents per use; a washer (hot water not included) .3 of a cent per use and a freezer, $11 per year.

The most expensive electrical appliance probably is a frost-free refrigerator, which runs up a $27-a-year tab. Color television viewers pay about $11.40 a year for electricity to run a set eight hours a day.

Items, such as electric fans, fry pans and hair dryers range from .09 of a cent to .7 of a cent per hour. An electric iron costs about one cent an hour to operate.

For the person looking for a few tips on economy, the WWPCC marketing development coordinator has this advice: —Setting back the thermostat at night may mean a saving of six to seven per cent, with the closing of draperies cutting down on heat loss.

Avoid setting hot water heater thermostats above 60 degrees and do not have pipes from water heaters longer than necessary, since each 25 feet of pipe wastes a gallon per drawing of hot water.

—Fix all leaky faucets, since even a very small leak is equivalent to adding one person to the family.

Resides cutting down on those utility bills, these practices, if observed, would enable the housewife to keep the breadwinner at home on weekends making those improvements to cut down the monthly bills.

A two-way benefit. —Claire Hurlbert

Several Alternatives for Governmental Financing

This is the second of a two-part series on the basic questions in providing and financing public services during the 1970's, authored by Dr. Everett E. Peterson, University of Nebraska Extension economist.

Peterson discussed the pros and cons of several other alternatives for local governmental financing, including sales and income taxes. Local sales taxes can be productive when applied in retail trade centers. Local income taxes work best in employment centers.

"Any community seeking to upgrade or expand public services should explore the possibility of obtaining state or federal funds available under existing grant-in-aid programs," Peterson suggested. While he termed this "not the complete and painless answer to all local public finance problems," he termed grants-in-aid and revenue-sharing as "fiscal facts of life" in the federal system of government.

Departure by most states from the property tax field as a means of obtaining a significant proportion of operating revenue has resulted in "indirect financial help" to local government, Peterson said. Local governments, especially school districts have increased their property tax levies enough to offset this shift several times over, from the standpoint of the taxpayers, he said. Ceilings on property tax levies rarely apply to school districts.

"Taxing authority of local governments could be expanded and made more flexible by liberalization or removal of present restrictions on property tax rates and borrowing while retaining appropriate safeguards," Peterson believes.

"Ability of local governments to provide and finance public services can be further enhanced if more states would authorize local non-property taxes and other broad-based levies."

"Such local taxes are needed in many communities because property tax revenue increases more slowly than economic growth and cost of public services in an inflationary period, and it bears little relation to ability-to-pay as measured by current income flow. Local sales and income taxes should be collected by the state and returned to taxing districts for local administration."

Direct financial assistance in the form of state grants-in-aid and revenue sharing accounts for one-third of total general revenue of local governments, Peterson said. In 1969-70 state aid went mostly to local schools (60 per cent), welfare (18 per cent), and roads and streets (9 per cent).

"State (and federal) grants-in-aid are a recognition of the inability of local governments to balance costs and benefits of public services in an urban-industrial society. Wide differences persist in quality of local services and in amount of state support for the 'big three' services after 50 years."

Recent court decisions on discrimination in education resulting from widely varying local property tax bases will lead to major changes in methods of financing public schools, and in state and local tax systems.

The Sarano Declaration (California) will force major changes in school finance when it becomes "the law of the land."

Options being considered among the states include: —Statewide property tax, or pooling and re-distribution of local property tax revenue;

—Greatly expanded state aid from sales and income taxes;

—Transfer of local school taxes from wealthy to poorer districts.

"People in rural areas should realize that the first option would shift a part of urban school costs to farm property," Peterson warned.

Revenue sharing is relatively unimportant as a form of state aid to local governments but will increase in the future, he predicted. So far, its main use has been to replace revenue lost from property tax relief measures, he said. Even though most states no longer rely upon the property tax as a major revenue source, they can, and should, assist local governments in improving its administration and reducing its inequities, Peterson said. He had these suggestions:

—Better assessment is the key to improved administration and requires effective state supervision, professional rather than elected assessors, full disclosure of valuation practices, and adequate appeal procedures.

Inequities can be reduced by general adoption of the "circuit breaker" approach to prevent overloads on low income people and exemption of personal property.

More research is needed on the effectiveness of preferential assessments, deferred taxes, restrictive agreements, and site value taxation in controlling land use and recapturing socially created increases in land values for public rather than pri-

Legislative Criticism By Exon Offsets Praise

LINCOLN—Gov. J. James Exon wasn't much impressed with the legislative session which completed its 50-day run last week.

He found some things to praise—but more to criticize.

The day before adjournment, Exon accused the senators of "spending the cupboard bare" and in a "farewell address" on the final day the governor referred to the "frequent differences" which occurred during the session between the legislative and the executive branches.

"Legislation that was not accomplished is disturbing to me, my administrative team, and I know, to many of you personally," Exon said just before the senators cleaned their desks and went home.

"For the second straight year, the Legislature has exceeded the governor's budget recommendations. . . and yet," he said, "in some vital areas, appropriations were cut short of real need."

Despite about $2 million in budget items over his recommendations, Exon said, the lawmakers had "shorted" the State Game Commission by about $200,000 it was "most disappointing," he said, because "recreation and recreational development is and will continue to be an important investment for our state."

Questions Logic

He also complained that the senators had appropriated $3.4 million more than he had suggested for state aid to sewage treatment facilities, yet had rejected his recommendation that a revenue source—such as liquor taxes—hadn't been dedicated for the water quality program.

"In this same field of environmental commitment," he said, "the question must be asked as to why the refusal to transfer water quality planning to the Department of Environmental Control, where we recommended it should be and has been so urged by federal authorities."

He objected to legislative rejection of a family farming act designed to control corporation-operating farms. "Is there any doubt that we do today face the threat of verticle integration by large corporations?" he would hope that next year we can come back and work together to remedy this situation," he said.

An interim committee already has been assigned the task of developing a proposal. When the family farm bill was killed (this past session, senators said they favored the idea but weren't satisfied the specific plan would work.

Election Reform

"In my address to you in January," Exon told the lawmakers, "an election reform measure that would call for realistic reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures was promised. I had hoped that we could work together with this Legislature in developing model legislation for Nebraska."

"By your failure to act, you have continued the system that prescribes unlimited spending for all campaigns. We shall try again in this area next session."

He blamed the Judiciary Committee for "thwarting" for the second year in a row "our proposal to raise sentences for those who are convicted of an attack or murder of uniformed officers on guard."

Such officers daily risk their lives in the performance of their duties. They are society's first line of defense. They deserve special consideration."

Judiciary Committee members said when they killed the Exon proposal that a complete review of sentences for all crimes was underway and that it would be a mistake to make piecemeal changes.

The governor said "amplification on our are to have a promising future. —More money from local, state and federal sources for more and better public services is not the sole answer to rural community development. But adequate public services are essential if growth is to occur and/or quality of life is to be improved in rural areas.

Regardless of the structure of local government, public services must be paid for. Two revolutions in public finance are now beginning and will have profound effects on local and state tax structures in this decade.

The crisis in public education will bring long overdue reforms in school finance. The current controversy over revenue sharing is forcing Congress to abandon its "something policy" on local and state tax structures, to consider federal assumption of all public welfare programs, and to study ways to streamline the federal grant-in-aid system.

state highways has been increasing at an unbelievable rate" since the nighttime speed limit had been raised to 65 miles per hour by the 1971 Legislature.

"We have furnished statistics that prove beyond any reasonable doubt that the speed limit increase (from 60 mph) was an unwise move. You failed to act," he said.

Legislators have said they weren't convinced by the governor's statistics that the change in the speed limit was responsible for the highway fatality rate.

"In January, I came before the Legislature with a request for your body to go on record with the governor in meeting our legitimate need and at the same time hold the line on the personal sales and income tax rates," he said.

"Perhaps my greatest disappointment is that you saw fit to pass spending measures beyond revenue projections."

In a statement released a day earlier, Exon said the lawmakers had authorized spending which would exceed revenues by about $8 million during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Tax Rate Hike

Gus administrative services director, Gus Lieske, estimated it would take an increase in the income tax rate of 1 per cent to 16 per cent to finance the proposed spending.

It wasn't all criticism, however. Exon said he was happy with legislation to assist in the fight against drug abuse, to help veterans, to establish a kitty for financing capital construction from the cigarette taxes; to bring the state into compliance with federal requirements for billboard control; to establish a Mexican-American commission and to drop the age of majority to 19.

By the time the senators had adjourned, Exon had sent eight vetoes to the chamber. Referring to that, the governor said, "At least no one can accuse this Legislature of being a rubber stamp body."

'71 Social Security Report Due April 17

People who got one or more monthly social security retirement or survivors checks in 1971 and who earned over $1,680 in 1971 are required to submit an annual report of their earnings to Social Security by April 17, according to Robert L. Pelkey, social security district manager in Norfolk.

The annual report shows how much a Social Security beneficiary earned last year in wages and self-employment income, and what, if any, he expects to earn this year. The key word is "earn." Income from interest, dividends, other retirement plans, rent, or sale of real or personal property (unless received by a real estate dealer), should not be included in the report of earnings.

The annual report is used to determine if a beneficiary was paid the correct amount of cash payments last year. It's also used to adjust his monthly payments for this year according to his estimated earnings, the district manager said.

Disability beneficiaries or beneficiaries who were over 72 during all months of 1971 do not need to make an annual earnings report.

"There are penalties for beneficiaries who file late or do not file an annual report when one is due, unless good cause can be shown. A penalty means a loss of benefits," Pelkey said.

Annual report forms are available at any Social Security office.

The Agent's Angle

by Harold Ingalls

Following her husband's death, Henderson noted that since the program is designed specifically for women, the participants will be able to discuss common problems with their peers.

During the opening session of the program, Henderson will be reporting on the usual provisions and pros and cons of different leasing arrangements.

The morning session also will include a presentation by Dr. A. W. Epp, NI Professor of farm management, on considerations in choosing a tenant, and discussion by Lester Stecker of Grand Island, president of the Nebraska Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, on services available through professional farm managers.

Following a noon luncheon, Jack Steele, NI Extension agricultural engineer, will discuss water use districts—"What they are and how they operate."

Glen LeDoy's Land Company of Omaha will deal with the question, "are you being 'threatened' by residential and industrial development?"

Other areas to be discussed are estate planning by Wahoo attorney Curt Bromm, and costs and expectations of fertilizers, herbicides and insecticides by Henderson.

The one-day session will conclude with a report by W.C. Bowlin, farm field underwriter, State Farm Insurance, Lincoln, on insurance needs and possibilities for absentee land owners. Henderson encouraged all interested women to pre-register for the event. Registration forms are available at the County Extension office. Fee for the conference (which includes a luncheon and coffee break) is $7.50.

The NI economist pointed out that although the conference is headlined as a program for women owning farm land, it is open to all women interested in learning more about the farming business and problems involved.

Mother Nature and Mother Pig

Mother Nature is quite often blamed or credited for doing things that no one else can control. She is given credit for the earth's natural, awe some beauty, for the good plants that we want to grow. And she is blamed for the ones that we don't want to grow.

It depends on whether we want the sun to shine or the rain to fall whether she is blamed or credited for the weather. She is also given credit for the balancing of the wildlife. Her methods, planning and timing are usually beyond question.

Except when her timing and planning disrupts your planning and timing. And you definitely put the blame on Mother Nature for the delay in the arrival of Mother Pig's family.

According to your calendar and schedule, her family should have arrived over a week ago, long before the field work started. If it's not Mother Nature's fault, the Mother pigs are just trying to be independent or stubborn.

Bad Timing

It's as though they know you will have to take time off from your field work for them. But for once—again—you're trying to be patient. Like any of the many rambles and dreams a farmer has, you're positive these plump, lazy, expectant mammas are going to produce over a 10-pig average.

Just because they've never done it before is no sign they can't do it this time. Neighbor John's mother pigs had an 11-pig average the last time. He so he said.

The last several days you've been feeding the expectant mothers in the farrowing crates, then turning them outside during the day. You're hoping this will acquaint them with their "delivery rooms" and thus avoid any unnecessary stress. Or you as well as them.

One windy, crisp spring morning you have an extra cup of coffee before going out to chore. It's almost an hour later than usual when you start for the barn. Also an hour later than usual when you make your rounds at the "maternity ward."

As your hand touches the latch outside the door, shrill, squeaky sounds reach your ears. The closeness of the deep, rough, complacent grunts indicate at least one mother who didn't make it to her "delivery room."

Quietly and slowly you open the top door and peek over. Sure enough. Laying with her back tight against the door is a proud, contented mother pig.

A Bonanza

And at first glance you're proud too. She seems to be practically covered with little, clean fuzzy, squeaky, hungry piglets. Must be at least 13 or 15 of them.

No need to intrude on such an intimate family group as that. So you close the door, go around the barn, climb over the fence and go in the other door. What's a little fence climbing with a couple buckets full of feed twice a day when you can have luck like that?

The remainder of the morning is spent putting gates around the new arrivals and rigging up a heat lamp to keep them toasty warm and comfortable. As you work around the tiny, mortgage-lifter, little thought is given to the many hours that you spent cleaning, rearranging and disinfecting the farrowing crates.

The wiring over a farrowing crate now has to be rearranged over the makeshift, undisinfected pen. But a couple lengths of baling wire to hold the dangling lamp above the piglets remedies the situation quickly.

From that time on every Mother Pig is confined to her quarters except during a couple hours each day. In fact, you're almost confined with them.

Soon the Mother Pigs have become accustomed to their "rooms" and their families are arriving regularly. The squeaky little piglets are becoming playful, noisy, hungry, fat little pigs. The curl in their tails gets lighter every day. Looks like you are making about a nine-pig average.

Demands Attention

Then Mother Nature intervenes again. That big, monstrous, stubborn, brazen old swine demands attention. RURAL RAMBLINGS, p. 5

Steers Involved in the 1971-72 Nebraska Commercial Beef Feed Evaluation program at three feedlot locations have posted an average daily gain of 1.98 pounds per head.

The 759 steers representing 43 ranches, on feed at Alsworth, Alliance and Lexington, represent an eleven fold increase in numbers over the 66 head entered in the program in 1968.

Complete feedlot gain and carcass data are collected individually on steers, tabulated and returned to each participating cow-calf producer. Final feedlot gains, after completion of the feeding period, will be adjusted to a constant dressing per cent, which tends to eliminate differences in fill.

During the growing period, all steers were fed a predominantly roughage-supplement ration to achieve maximum growth without fattening.

"Because of the large number of steers entered at the Prairie States feedlot near Alliance, 109 steers—representing Charolais, Simmental, Limousin and similar breed types—were separated and grown for only 35 days before being placed on a finishing ration."

"From a management standpoint, cattle representing these breed types should be placed on a high concentrate ration early, in order to more closely achieve a quality grade of U. S. Choice at a desirable slaughter weight."

If you're a woman and you own farm land in Nebraska, you'll be interested in the University of Nebraska-sponsored Program for Women Owning Farm Land to be held at the Nebraska Center April 20.

According to Dr. Phil Henderson, NI Extension Economist in farm management, very little attention has been given to the problems a woman encounters in learning the business of farming if she is left with a farm fol-

Protein Tests Show Only Partial Feeding Advantage

Natural protein, such as soybean meal or corn gluten meal, has proved better than urea to supplement corn silage in cattle growing experiments at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station at Concord, but it has not had any advantage in finishing rations of high moisture corn, as some people had expected.

Natural protein did not produce either more rapid or more efficient gains than urea in two recent tests with high moisture corn, Walt Tolman, beef researcher reports.

The cattle were all fed a soybean meal based supplement the first month while they were being brought to full grain feed, then part were switched to a urea supplement. Nebraska research during the last two years has consistently shown this to be an excellent starting system for cattle to be supplemented with urea during finishing.

Starting is a critical time, Tolman says, roughage should be full fed at first and gradually reduced to prevent off feed and other digestive upsets. Rather generous protein and vitamin rations early in the finishing period are recommended by many feeders. Protein levels can usually be lower toward the end of the feeding period for cattle that have about done growing and are just fattening.

Northeast Station experiments have shown little roughage is needed in cattle finishing rations after the starting period. Levels of corn silage as low as five pounds daily and hay at one to 1 1/2 pounds daily have been as good as more roughage and cheaper.

Peonies Need Spraying Help for Blight

One of the first signs of spring in the home garden is the emergence of peony shoots. As these shoots begin to show through the ground, start preventative spraying for blight control.

Peony blight is a destructive disease which kills young shoots or later causes flower buds to blacken and remain closed. Large, irregular, unsightly brown areas also develop on the leaves.

The source of the blight infection comes from last year's plant debris. The fungus responsible for blight is capable of surviving the winter in this residue and reinfesting plants the following year. Removing and discarding all the old foliage surrounding the newly emerging shoots will help to lessen the amount of disease.

Following the clean up, spray shoots and surrounding soil with Maneb, Zineb, Ferbam, or Bot-ran (3 teaspoons per gallon) or a copper-containing fungicide such as Bordeaux mixture. Continue spraying at two week intervals until right before blooming.

Proper coverage is a must for controlling the disease. The addition of one teaspoonful of household detergent per gallon of spray solution will aid in keeping the spray from running off the leaves.

Because the advantages of proper mulching in the home garden program are so convincing, "to mulch or not to mulch" is not a real question. When, how much and what kinds of material to mulch with are the important decisions that must be made.

The functions of a good mulch are to conserve moisture, yet permit percolation of water into the soil; to control weeds; to prevent drying effects of sun and wind from crusting the soil surface; to modify extremes in soil temperature; to prevent rat drop splash and erosion of soils; and ultimately to add nutrients and humus to garden soil as the organic mulch decomposes.

Mulches can be used throughout the year in a gardening program. Right now may be one of the most critical times in a mulching program. Herbaceous perennials and spring flowering bulbs are trying to poke their way through winter mulches.

Carefully remove the mulch from the immediate vicinity of the growing plant. Later, organic winter mulches can be partially (or completely) worked into the garden bed and new summer mulch added to the area.

A number of factors must be considered in choosing a mulching material: material cost and availability; its appearance; the degree of fire hazard caused by the material; the possibility of spreading weeds, insects and disease with the material; and the overall effect the mulch will have on changing soil properties.

Generally, organic mulches are preferred over inorganic mulches because of the added benefit to soil properties. However, drastic changes in pH and nitrogen content of the soil are associated with the use of some organic mulches. Check with your local nurseryman or garden center regarding the specific properties of advertised mulch materials.

Acidifying organic mulches include apple pomace, leaves from oaks, needles from pines and cypress, and some forms of peat moss.

Rural Ramblings — ides she needs attention when having her family. And she gets it. All day and most of the night.

I walk the floor when trying to decide if you should call the vet. You'd sure hate to lose about 15 little pigs. And you're positive she is going to put your average over that 10 mark.

You decide to be considerate of the vet and wait until morning before calling him. So need for him to be up all night too. Although it probably wouldn't be the first time.

So you spend the entire night making hourly visits to the hog shed. Even the Mrs. relieves you and makes a couple visits. The last time about 4:30 a. m. Surely Mother Nature will take care of things from now until morning so you can catch a couple winks of shuteye.

In the morning you don't even wait for the coffee to perk. Got to make your rounds and, if necessary, call the vet before doing any of the other chores.

When you enter the hog shed the sounds you hear aren't the contented, motherly pig sounds that you want to hear. It's more like absolute chaos.

Every animal in the barn is awakened. A steel pan is being banged against the concrete floor. One steel crate is being rocked, clanked and, if possible, stretched.

Suspenseful Moment
You instantly realize there will be no need for the vet this morning. It's all over and she wants everyone to know about it. You can hardly wait to get to her and count her new additions.

But you needn't have hurried. It didn't take long to count them. Or rather, IT. One big, fat, ornery looking pig stands defiantly beside the mother.

Oh well, that's farming for you. Anyway the two of them might pay part of the interest on a mortgage. And as you grab the feed pan you warn the defiant looking little rascal if he's not careful he might help make that payment sooner than he thinks.

You came close to boating neighbor John's average this time and without a doubt you'll beat it the next time. There you go planning ahead again. And, again, that's farming.

Odors and Production
One of the most commonly asked questions asked by producers building new facilities, according to Bob Fritschen, district swine specialist at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station, is "how about exhausting the air from under the slats?"

Fritschen answers that "at the present time, I know of no research evidence indicating that pit exhaust systems will support improved production when compared to a conventional sidewall exhaust system."

"This suggests to me that if there is no difference in the productivity between pigs that these ventilation systems support, that the justification for one over the other would have to be based upon such factors as initial cost, operating cost, maintenance, etc."

Kiwanians See Films Of Easter Seal Camp

Mrs. Wayne Mann of Omaha, field consultant for the Nebraska Easter Seal Society, explained the philosophy of the Easter Seal Society, where funds are spent and showed a film on the resident camp located near Lincoln for the Kiwanians at their weekly dinner-meeting Monday.

With the recent advances in the medical field, most handicaps do not present unsurmountable obstacles," she stated.

Mrs. Mann said that the Society operates on a quarter-million dollar budget, with approximately 90 per cent of that money being used in the state.

"Our overall program is mainly information and referral," Mrs. Mann stated, adding that the Society has an equipment and loan program, helps to eliminate barriers to the handicapped, pays tuition for children's speech therapy, sponsors scholarship programs and conducts the popular day camp, heading into its fifth summer, for youths seven years and older.

A delegation of 15 Wayne Kiwanians and wives attended a banquet for Kiwanis International President Wes Bartlett Wednesday evening at Fremont.

Bartlett spoke of the role of Kiwanians in helping to make life better in America and urged banquet-goers to continue their efforts along those lines.

Employment Survey To Be Taken in Area

The Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in this area during the week of April 19, Walter A. Freeman, Jr., director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Denver, has announced.

This survey is conducted monthly by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor. A scientifically selected sample of households throughout the entire United States is interviewed. The employment and unemployment data that are based on results of this survey provide a continuing measure of the economic condition of the nation.

For example, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the overall jobless rate was 5.7 per cent in February, down from 5.9 per cent in January and 6 per cent in December, while employment was essentially unchanged.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept strictly confidential by law, and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include Ruth Kaehler andatherine Moeller.

Saunaging of game and non-game fish is permitted only in the Missouri River from October 1 through April 30. All other waters of the state are closed at all times.

LEGAL PUBLICATION

At a regular meeting of the Mayor and Council of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, held at the regular meeting place at 7:30 o'clock P.M. on the 26th day of March, 1972, the Mayor and City Council of said city passed and approved and published Ordinance No. 223 of said City creating and establishing Street Improvement Districts within the said City of Wayne, Nebraska, as follows:

The Wayne City Council will hold a hearing April 25 at 8:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at the Wayne City Auditorium pertaining to the proposed parking regulations in the southwest section of the city shown in the above map. The area involved is west of Main to and including Oak Drive; from West Seventh south to the railroad right-of-way, and Fairgrounds Avenue from Main to South Window.

Newly-adopted guidelines which give Vietnam veterans "absolute preference" for training slots in most programs funded by the Department of Labor were cited by C. W. Nixoe, director today as another example of how government agencies at all levels are cooperating to help returning veterans find suitable jobs.

He said that the Labor Department's administrative changes aim to increase veteran participation in programs authorized by the Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA) and by the Economic Opportunity Act (EOA). Nationally, about 74,000 veterans were recruited into these programs from July, 1971 through January, 1972, he said.

To ease the entry of young veterans into the classroom and on-the-job training components of MDTA programs, the Labor Department has waived some of the normal personal and income requirements for veteran enrollment.

For the EOA programs, however, veterans must meet the low-income family requirements. They then will be the first in line for such programs as the Concentrated Employment Program, "Operation Mainstream," Public Service Careers, and the Job Corps.

Nixon, who attributed the February drop in the national veterans' unemployment picture to the close cooperation of federal and state governments, local agencies, business groups, and the National Jobs for Veterans Committee, said these same groups will be cooperating in carrying out the Labor Department changes in MDTA and EOA.

He said the VA was that each regional manpower administrator in the Labor Department will immediately notify state employment agencies and all sponsors, including state governors, mayors and community action agencies, regarding the changes. State employment agencies will also be advised of existing training slots, and they will be given 48 hours to refer a veteran to vacancies. If veterans are not available to fill the slots, the jobs will be filled with others, he said.

Mary Stecher of Hooper gained the $100 award given for the first time this year to the highest ranking graduate. She earned a 3.95 grade-point average, one of the highest ever achieved at Wayne, and was one of four summa cum laude graduates.

Kevin Carper of Scribner received the Fred Dale Athlete-Scholar Award of \$100, which combines excellence in athletics and scholarship. Carper currently has a grade average of nearly 3.5 and holds the Wayne State high jump record of 6-5 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The foundation presented two $500 prizes to faculty members—one to Dr. Charles Maier, assistant professor of biology, for research, the other an Excellence in Teaching award to Kenneth Halsey, assistant professor of business.

Blue Key, national honor society for men, made two traditional awards. Fred Johnson, president, and a graduating senior, presented the outstanding faculty member award to Dick Manly, assistant professor of journalism and director of the college news bureau.

of the day when Blue Key announced him as the outstanding first-year teacher. Both received plaques.

The graduating class set several numerical records—most seniors in Wayne history, 235; most total graduates, 238; the most receiving bachelor of science degrees, 64, and the most honor graduates, 46.

One bachelor of science in education diploma was given posthumously, to John M. Hansen, who died in an auto accident 13 days before graduation. President W. A. Brandenburg presented the diploma to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beck, last week.

People Ask Us--

QUESTION: Under what circumstances is an amount for funeral expenses available under the Railroad Retirement Act.

ANSWER: If an employee who is completely or partially insured under the Railroad Retirement Act dies leaving no survivor eligible for an annuity at the time of his death, a lump sum is payable. This is equal to ten times the basic amount, and is paid to the surviving widow if she was legally living with her husband when he died.

If there is no eligible spouse, and the funeral expenses are unpaid, the lump sum may be assigned to our funeral home by the person who assumed the responsibility for these expenses. If our costs are paid, reimbursement will be either the amount he paid, or the lump sum maximum.

Under certain circumstances the lump sum may be paid to us, without an assignment, if no one assumed responsibility for the funeral costs.
