

Many a Scout took a turn at crossing the rope bridge displayed at the Lewis and Clark District Scout-O-Rama Saturday at Wakefield.

Activities Are Varied at Scout-O-Rama

Area Scouts took advantage of the sunshine Saturday afternoon to display some of their projects and to engage in friendly rivalry and competition by participating in the Lewis and Clark District Scout-O-Rama at Wakefield.

Cub Scouts raced model cars in the Pine Wood Derby and made their ways over bars and through barrels in the Obstacle Course Race.

Boy Scouts competed in the Wall Climb and "dug into" the grass with games of Tag-of-War.

The rest of the day was spent trying to walk the rope bridge, playing various carnival-type games available at display booths, and making numerous trips to the concession stand.

Eric Hoelsing, a Cub Scout from Hartington, won Snoopy, the puppy given away by Webelos Pack 172 of Wakefield.

First-place winners in the games and displays were: Brett Bostwick of Pack 200, Ponca, Pine Wood Derby; Pack 173, Hartington, Obstacle Course; Troop 165, West Point, Wall Climb and Tag-of-War; Pack 175, Wayne, Cub Scout Booth; and Troop 263, Belden, Boy Scout Display.

Dr. Paul Byers, Scoutmaster

Tossing paper airplanes or throwing bean bags, playing box hockey, watching Wayne Boy Scouts sculpture in clay, learning to "save a life" by artificial respiration, and getting acquainted with Snoopy, the puppy given away by Webelos Pack 172 of Wakefield, were all part of the day's activities.

Restrictive Parking Needed? Survey Results Say No!

by Sandra Breitkreutz

A weekend survey of persons in Wayne, particularly of those in the southwest part of town, showed the general feeling concerning the proposed parking regulations to be negative.

Mrs. John Yakoc, home owner at 108 Birch Street, believes there are too many parking restrictions all over town. "Where streets are wide enough to provide parking, they should have it," she commented.

Merle Hilton, who lives at 519 W. Fourth, has off-street parking for four or five cars, so will not be much affected by a decision, however, it is his belief that restricted parking on one side only would be better.

Robert Sutherland of 119 Wilcliff Drive, said, "I don't think I would mind no-parking on one side too much, as we have somewhat of a bottleneck on the north end of our street, but I think the other side should be unrestricted."

Mrs. Morris Anderson, a homeowner who lives on the corner of Pearl and W. Fourth, commented that partial restrictions would be in order. She noted, "Two driven on Oak Drive and met cars where there wasn't adequate room to pass."

Mrs. Robert Carhart, 1111 Sunset Drive One new regulations would not affect this area! says

Original Site For Hospital

It's official.

The new Medical Center will be located, as originally planned, in the southeast area of the Wayne State College campus.

This decision followed a meeting last week of Bob Carhart, chairman of the Hospital Foundation, two other members of the board, the architect, a representative from Consolidated Engineers, City Attorney John Addison and Mayor Kent Hall.

Carhart said the group reviewed the two sites, discussed utility services, access and desirability of the site from the standpoint of accommodating the type of building that will be constructed.

The Hospital Foundation chairman said that action is now being taken to bring about planning for utilities and access to be made available when the hospital is put into operation.

Hall, who had proposed an alternate site along Highway 15 at the northwest corner of the campus, said "the city will cooperate fully with the Hospital Foundation Board in every way possible and plans already are underway for assisting with utilities and other needs that we can provide."

Over 4,000 County Voters Registered for Primaries

In addition to naming their choice for president, May 9 voters will also be selecting one Republican from a list of four candidates, and one Democrat from a list of six candidates to vie for United States Senator in the November general election.

Three Republicans and one Democrat are running for congressional representative from the First District.

District 17 State Legislature Candidate Says Tax Situation in 'Befuddled Mess'

Chris Miller of Homer, one of the four candidates for the District 17 seat in the Nebraska Legislature, told members of the Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday noon that the state has a "befuddled mess" on taxation and "one which needs to be solved right now."

Miller, who operates the farm on which he was born 53 years ago east of Emerson, also said "there is a big job to be done

In the redistricting of schools," while pointing out that he would hope to be placed on education and agriculture committees if successful in his political bid for the Unicameral seat.

"Property tax has been ruled as discriminatory and unconstitutional in some states as a sole source of supplying revenue for educational purposes," Miller said and cited a similar tax case pending at Papillion. "The courts probably will give guidelines on how much of school funding can be taken from the state and how much from federal aid" and assumed that each would provide approximately one-third of that amount.

school board, member of a re-organization committee, vice-chairman of the Homer School Board, involved in a group instrumental in installation of the first telephone cable in northeast Nebraska, helped to organize several cooperatives, supervisor of the Co-op Credit Association and bank director. He served 16 years on the Dakota County Fair Board and as its president, six-year member of the Nebraska State Fair Board, as 4-H leader for 10 years, was the recipient of the Outstanding Young Farmer Award and was a member of the Lutheran Church Council at Herman.

9,600 Reasons for Christmas Cheer

By Brenda Gustafson

'Tis the season . . . the tree planting season that is. And while many a school class, a service club, or an individual family may have planted a tree or two, or even three or four, not many have undertaken on a scale like that undertaken by Ernest Ogler of Wakefield.

Ogler recently planted 9,600 evergreen trees on a five-acre tract north of the Wakefield ball park.

Ogler, who, like his wife, is a deaf mute, explained in a written interview how he became interested in planting so many trees.

"We wanted to put the acreage into good use, for a good investment. I was like to be among the trees, as I was raised in the southern part of Iowa. As a young man I usually spent good times with my father in our fruit orchard."

Ogler purchased his seedlings from a well-known Midwestern nursery. He selected 3,000 Austrian Pine, 1,000 Colorado Blue Spruce, and 5,600 Scotch Pine.

The planter, which was designed and built by Green, has two seats for the operators, a runner which opens the soil to allow

Ernest Ogler of Wakefield recently planted 9,600 evergreen seedlings which he plans to raise and sell for Christmas trees. A tree planter, which belongs to the Dixon County ASCS, was used for the planting. Ogler drove the tractor; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Green of Allen operated the planter. ## Wakefield Students Sponsor 'Town Hall'

Quips about "windy politicians" and promises "not to be as windy as the weather" were popular as candidates for Nebraska's 17th Legislative District addressed a wind-blown and rain-spattered audience at Wakefield Monday night.

In a "Town Hall" type meeting, sponsored by the eleventh grade American government class of Wakefield High School, candidates Chris M. Miller of Homer, John R. Murphy of South Sioux City, Leroy G. Pfister of South Sioux City, and Elaine Schmadelke of Dakota City explained their qualifications and philosophies and answered questions on issues of special interest to the audience.

Among the issues discussed and the answers given were the following:

Pollution control—Mrs. Schmadelke—"We must have strong enforceable legislation that will allow man and industry to co-exist."

Statewide lottery—Pfister—"The Legislature has been watching several states . . . in regard to state lotteries. It wouldn't surprise me to see this kind of bill introduced in the next several years. If one should be passed, I would like to see the profits used to fund education."

Tax base to support education—Murphy—"The question of the tax base used to support education is being settled in the nation's courts. They are no longer going to allow the structure we have in Nebraska (property tax)."

State aid to education—Miller—"I think we are going to have state aid to education. We are going to get it because the courts are going to rule property tax discriminatory and therefore unconstitutional."

Abortion—Mrs. Schmadelke—"New York and California have gone too far. I feel there are limited special cases, and I don't mean family planning, where abortion should be legal."

Gov. J. J. Exon's veto—Pfister—"Thank God the governor vetoed this bill. He did."

Statutory limits to taxes—Murphy—"I do not approve of a statutory limit. Experience at other levels of government has shown that every time money is needed, they raise the limit. To limit taxation, you have to limit spending."

"Devaney's" new coliseum—Miller—"This is supposed to be See TOWN HALL, page 5

Cookout Time Draws Near Once More

On the basis of past experience, some families may feel that backyard barbecues are devices put into the world to destroy good meat and ruin the cook's good humor.

With a little planning and brushing up on some barbecue know-how, the backyard chef can once again have a piece of prominence in your family.

According to Dr. Roger Mandigo, Extension meats specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, any fresh meat cuts that can be roasted or broiled are prime candidates for outdoor cookery.

Remember, fresh air and the pleasant aroma of outdoor cooking helps sharpen appetites and call for generous meal servings.

Dr. Mandigo suggests that for bone-in cuts allow three-fourths to one pound per serving; for boneless cuts, allow one-third to one-half pound. A general guideline for poultry is two young chicken broilers for four persons.

An important cooking rule—use low to moderate temperatures for best results in meat barbecues—applies to outdoor barbecues, as well as kitchen cooking. When cooking meat, coals should glow, not flame. The rate of cooking can be controlled by adjusting the distance of the rotisserie or grill from the coals.

To prepare the grill for barbecuing, line the bottom of the fire bowl with heavy-duty aluminum foil, then cover the foil with about a one-inch layer of gravel.

Start the fire for enough in advance so you will have a good bed of coals at the time you plan to start barbecuing. The usual method—which takes about 45 minutes—is to stack briquets in a pyramid shape, soak lightly with charcoal lighting fluid, let stand one minute and light.

Wood chips or flakes such as hickory, oak, or fruit wood give an extra smoke flavor to barbecued meat. Soak chips in water at least one hour before use to give maximum smoke without burning. Add a few chips to the coals while the food is cooking. Liquid smokes also work well in marinades and basting sauces.

Outdoor barbecuing can be a pleasant experience with a minimum amount of work. This family is preparing steaks and baked potatoes on the grill, and complementing them with a tossed salad and light dessert. Outdoor cookery also offers the male members of the family an opportunity to display their culinary abilities. (University of Nebraska Photo)

NORTHEAST EXTENSION Notes

Joyce Smith

"The only difference between grandparents of today and their grandparents is that today's grandparents have a future." With this thought in mind, May has become a time of celebration for senior citizens - it's Senior Citizens' Month.

Retirement, for too many people, means seclusion or retreat from active life. Actually a better word would be graduation or transfer. The new modern way is to regard retirement as the beginning of a very special phase of life with its own rewards. The only way for this to become reality is to plan for your retirement now.

By 1975, more than 20 million Americans will be 65 years or older. Whether you will be among this group or following close behind, remember you are forming your retirement pattern now. You will enjoy your retirement more if you plan for it as a goal.

Retirement will give you more free time than you have ever had since beginning school. It should not mean idleness. Activity, both physical and mental, is the secret for beginning this new life.

There's no harm in loafing unless laziness becomes the new way of life. Then just as the joints stiffen and muscles grow feeble from the lack of exercise, so does the mind. Use your capabilities and they'll stay with you longer. Old age need not be synonymous with growing old. You know - "You're as old as you feel," whether 27 or 72.

Your environmental and living needs must also be planned. You must decide when you want to live, how a housing and furnishings needs have changed from when you were just starting a family to your retirement years? What can and are you going to do now to prepare for your retirement needs?

One unifying thread that should run throughout your plans and actual retirement is safety. Much of the success and pleasure of your retirement will depend on how safe and convenient you make your home and surroundings. You'll be spending more hours in your home than ever before. Accidents rank third as the cause of death among persons 65 years and older. They are the number one cause of crippling.

Your retirement years should be enjoyable since it's the time to do everything you ever wanted to do. Plan now for an enjoyable, healthy, active retirement.

College Golfers Win NCC

Wayne State golfers won the Nebraska College Conference meet and placed third in the NAIA District 11 meet, played Tuesday at Fremont.

Originally scheduled for a 36-hole grid Monday and Tuesday, the meet was reduced by rain to one day, Tuesday, and 27 holes for NAIA scoring, 18 holes for NCC.

In NAIA standings, Hastings took the team championship with 459, Kearney State placed second at 474, and Wayne earned 477. Doane trailed at 483, Chadron State and Peru State tied with 484, Midland 499, UN-Omaha 5-1, Dana and Concordia 505 each.

The 18-hole NCC scoring put Wayne on top with a 310 total.

Jamieson Leads Hefty Hitting Wayne Pitchers

It is an unusual circumstance that four Wayne pitching regulars are batting at hitting averages, topped by the .571 of senior Gary Jamieson of Albia, Ia., who is four for seven. Ron Nelson, junior from Wausa, is hitting .454; Greg Kamp, junior from Omaha, .429; and Charlie Solano, junior from Sidney, .333.

Heying and Shupe lead the team in most key batting statistics—led with 14 runs, six doubles, one triple, two home runs. Heying leads in hits, 27, and in runs batted in, 22.

The team batting average in a 14-8 season is .262.

Kamp owns the top pitching record at 4-1 and his team-leading ERA of .37 is among the national highs. Nelson, 3-1, has a 1.16 ERA while Solano, also 3-1, has a 3.37 ERA.

Wayne has two doubleheaders scheduled in the coming week if weather and field conditions permit: Wednesday at the University of South Dakota; Friday at home against Peru State. A conference twin bill scheduled Friday, April 28, at Kearney State had to be postponed until May 13, and a doubleheader with Kennedy at Wahoo Monday was cancelled.

Wayne's Tom Keenan combined rounds of 35-39-36 for 110 and third place in the NAIA scoring. Dave Nelson scored 41-49-40-124. Tim Bramble and Larry Weltman each 39-39-45-123; Tom Nelson 44-45-40-125. (Only the four low scores count in team totals.)

In NCC scoring Keenan scored 74, Weltman 78, Nelson 80, Nelson and Bramble 81 each.

Jim White of Hastings capped the NAIA individual crown with a 194.

WSC Takes Second In District Play

Mitch Emery, Omaha, repeated as champion of tennis singles in the NAIA District 11 tournament Monday at Fremont and lifted Wayne State into a second-place team finish. Kearney State retained its team title with 29 points, Wayne 18.

Emery, a sophomore who was a high school state champion at Omaha South, is eligible for the national NAIA meet at Kansas City in June, along with the champion team and the doubles winners, brothers Roger and Dennis Fisher of Kearney State.

In the first-flight semi-finals, Emery defeated Roland Tella, Midland, 6-4, 6-4, then in the finals defeated Jim Paschal, UN-Omaha, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

Wayne's second-flight singles entry, Dave Lutow, lost to Greg Cheng, Kearney, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, and third-flight Wayne entry, Doug Coffman, fell to Russ Glaser, Midland, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

The Midland doubles team of Nelson-Mahoff defeated Wayne's duo, Don Lutow and Al Roth, 6-3, 6-0.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha placed third with 14½ points while Midland scored 10, Hastings 8, Dana 5½, Doane and Concordia 0.

ESU 1 Receives Film From Feeders

"Norman Borlaug: Revolutionary," a 15 minute color-sound film has been given to Educational Service Unit 1 by the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders' Association.

In the film, Dr. Borlaug, a U. S. Agronomist and winner of the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize "for his efforts to ease world hunger by developing high-yield wheat strains," discusses modern agriculture and "emphasizes basic priorities that must be implemented for survival."

Such immediate matters as population growth, pesticide use and waste pollution are considered in the film.

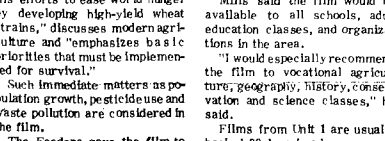

The Feeders gave the film to Unit 1 in hopes that it will reach as many persons as possible in the northeast Nebraska area, according to Bill McQuistan, association president.

"It's a real fine addition to our library. We appreciate it," Harry Mills, director of Unit 1, said in accepting the film.

Mills said the film would be available to all schools, adult education classes, and organizations in the area.

"I would especially recommend the film to vocational agriculture, geography, history, conservation and science classes," he said.

Films from Unit 1 are usually booked 30 days in advance.

Wayne Dentists Undecided On Health Care Program

Four Wayne dentists held off making a decision Tuesday until May 11 as to whether or not they want to be involved in the Wayne-Dental Health-Care program presently in the planning stages through the Golden Rod Hills Community Action program.

At the luncheon meeting, Drs. George Gottfrisch, Gordon Stupe, Richard DeNaeayer and W. E. Wessel, told the group that they would like more information concerning the future plans of the program.

"We would never neglect a child with a tooth defect that is painful because of lack of money," Dr. Wessel said, "but we would like to know more about the scope of the program."

The three areas the dentists are interested in knowing, Dr. Wessel pointed out to the group, are the list of current needs of the people involved in the program, program projections and the type of program to be incorporated.

"I'm sure the dentists in this area are interested in seeing a sound dental program for those who cannot afford it but we need to make further plans. We need more figures," Dr. Wessel added.

"I don't like to grab a bear by the tail unless I know where I'm going," said Dr. Stupe.

Pat Dahl, a member of the Golden-Rod Hills Community Action program, explained to the dentists, that "the program would only involve about two hours a month of your time and that's it."

Dr. L. Charlie Meyer, department of community dentistry at Creighton University, said this kind of program is very helpful in dental care for all as well as providing dental education.

"Dental care is particularly important for young children," said Marty Strange, GRHCA worker, because when kids get involved in an early age they tend to make dental care a habit."

Dr. Meyer pointed out that a program involving dental students at Creighton allows the students to visit in rural areas to help teach the children a good dental hygiene program.

"This is a good chance for my students to get out into a small town and see what dental care is needed. And it's a good chance for you to see how our program works."

The visiting doctors agreed that the area needs more and better dental health education but that they did not want to end up working on one child and having that same child coming back in three years with the same problem.

"Right now," said Dr. Meyer, "is the time to get the child out of the woods. Believe him of the pain."

Y'all Come!

Proposed Amendment Series No. 2

The Missing Voter

Years ago, a small village scheduled a victory celebration as an aftermath to a successful completion of a civic project. To insure adequate liquid refreshments, each villager was asked to pour one bottle of his best wine into a large cask. "I'll fill my bottle with water," reasoned one person, "the dilution will be so slight, who will notice?" When the feast commenced and the cask was tapped, nothing but water poured out. Everyone in the village had figured alike—my bit will not be missed. The moral of this story, of course, do your part, because every little bit DOES make a difference. And, that brings us to election time, where so often the comment is heard that "I seldom vote—my little old vote isn't going to make any difference in the outcome."

ments, with some important issues literally buried among the not-so-important. Unless the voters are well-versed on the issues, the legal-type, complicated wording will be difficult for most persons to understand. And, the reading of the entire 16 proposed amendments, even if clearly understood the first time, is a time-consuming thing. In 1970, we timed some voters in the booths taking 15 minutes or more to wade through the amendments—and this was at a place where voting machines were used instead of marking ballots. The Wayne Herald, in case you hadn't noticed, is publishing the entire list of proposed amendments, split into three issues, along with a brief explanation of each amendment. The last of the three-part series will appear in Monday's issue, the day before election.

That, of course, is not true. Many times elections have been won or lost by a single vote. What if everyone in Wayne—all 5,208 of us—had the attitude that "my little old vote isn't going to make any difference"? That would make for some pretty lonely, deserted polling places on May 9. To say that everyone should exercise their constitutional right to vote may be a time-worn cliché, but until a better-worded bit of advice comes along we'll have to stick with it. But, are we overdoing it in the listing of constitutional amendments for voter consideration? This year there are 16 proposed amendments, some of which are vitally important issues and some of which are of little or no consequence, even to the point of there being one amendment to correct improper grammar. Two years ago voters were burdened by another long list of proposed amend-

The Herald, and election officials, urge all readers to study these amendments carefully—BEFORE they head for the polls. Being "cold" on the amendment issues would leave a voter as much in the dark as the student who didn't cram for the exams prior to test day. Our 49 legislators were elected, by and as, to represent us in the Unicameral and author, support or fight against legislative bills after making a decision as to whether the legislation is in their constituents' best interests. But, as one longtime viewer of state politics stated, "We're legislating at the ballot box." The cry is to get everyone out and to the polls on election day. But might we not be, instead, scaring 'em out with burdensome proposed amendments? —Claire Hurlbert

Editor's Note: This is the second of a three-part series analyzing the proposed constitutional amendments that will be submitted to voters on May 9. The Herald is not advocating either the defeat or the approval of any of the amendments proposed, but only endeavoring to furnish information to assist the voter in forming his own judgment.

procedure. However, since then the adoption of the 17th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States has made this section unnecessary and obsolete. Proposed Amendment No. 11: Officers—Elections—Terms. Proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 11: Officers—Elections—Terms. This proposal, submitted by LB 504 substantially amends Article XVII of the Constitution of Nebraska by amending sections 1, 4 and 5 and repealing sections 2, 3, 7, 8 and 9. Article XVII relates to the schedule of operation of amendments to the Constitution. The amendments and repeal of sections is proposed to eliminate much obsolete matter and to clarify the remaining language. The Article would be much shorter and the new and retained language would contain only the following provisions:

Proposed Amendment No. 8: Electors—Age. Proposed Constitutional Amendment reducing age of electors to 18 years. This proposal amending Article VI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska is submitted by LB 221. The only change is to substitute the figure "18" for "20."

"Sec. 1. Whenever they shall appear in this Constitution, the terms of the members of the Legislature, elected members of the Legislature, or similar terms referring to members of the Legislature, shall include appointed and elected members of the Legislature.

Of elections at which constitutional amendments are on the ballot, this will be the third in succession that this provision of the state constitution which is proposed to be amended is submitted. In 1968 the voters rejected a change in age from 21 to 19 years, and in 1970 approval of amendment reducing the voting age to 20.

"Sec. 4. The general election of this state shall be held on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November in the year 1914 and every two years thereafter. All state, district, county, precinct, township and other officers, by the Constitution or laws made elective by the people, except school district officers, and municipal officers in cities, villages and towns, shall be elected at a general election to be held aforesaid. An incumbent of any office shall hold over until his successor is duly elected and qualified.

The Wild Tobacco

Whether you spell marijuana, ma-r-i-hu-a-na, ma-r-i-gu-a-na, or ma-r-i-ju-a-na, the product is still the same. But many people today are questioning "what is marijuana?" According to Webster's International Dictionary, marijuana is "the wild tobacco" that is smoked when its leaves are dry. Some preliminary government research studies claim that marijuana is a form of a drug that when inhaled will lead to the use of stronger drugs. Yet other reports, mostly from individuals who have tried to smoke the weed, say there are relatively few, if any, "bad effects."

This effect, instead, it gives you a "high" feeling, similar to the effects of alcohol but without the hangover or danger of blood clots. Of course, he pointed out, smoking marijuana doesn't have the same effect on every person. And the same can be applied to alcohol. This is not to say one is not as bad as the other or is not better. Whether a law is passed making marijuana legal or not, there have to be some restrictions. The smell of the weed, for instance, is not romantic enough to lure customers into a cafe if someone is smoking while others are trying to eat. There would have to be a restriction, if marijuana is legalized, similar to present ones regulating the consumption of alcohol. Since marijuana is claimed to give the same "high" effect as alcohol, then it could limit a person's judgment when either driving or working. It isn't fair to condemn or praise the use of the weed until further study is made public. For those who have "experimented" with the weed, the effects are known. But this doesn't give those people the right to push the use of marijuana on others upon whom the effect might be different. If a law is passed permitting the use of the drug, then it all boils down to the individual. Do I or don't I? —Bob Bartlett

Adoption of this amendment would eliminate much confusion as to how far governmental entities can go in interrelationships. For example, the state and political subdivisions of the state are now authorized to enter into agreements with other public agencies for the joint exercise of powers, privileges, or authority, and this amendment would eliminate any doubt of the right of the Legislature to grant such authority. One such statute is the Interlocal Cooperation Act of 1963. Proposed Amendment No. 10: Elections—U. S. Senator. Proposed Constitutional Amendment repealing obsolete provisions for election of a United States Senator. This proposal would repeal section 11 of Article XV, the Miscellaneous Provisions Article, of the Constitution of Nebraska and is presented by LB 502. Article XV, section 11, provides for a preferential ballot for election of a United States Senator. At the time the section became a part of our constitution, U. S. senators were elected by the Legislature and the section was added to change that children, not just those attending public schools. They say present interpretations of Nebraska's constitution prohibiting the distribution of the federal money the way Congress intended are unfair and could force more non-public schools to close because of a financial bind. Opponents, on the other hand, say schools established by religious denominations are fine, but they are the responsibility of the church groups which founded them, not the public. "I allow public money—even though Congress has made provisions for it to go to private schools—to be used by church-related institutions would be an erosion of the principle of church-state separation. In 1970, Nebraskans had a non-public school amendment to consider. That amendment would have allowed state aid to students attending private schools (not to the schools themselves), but it was rejected. Voters also rejected recently amendment which would have allowed buses owned by public schools to transport students to non-public schools. Many of the other amendments on Tuesday's primary ballot deal with technical corrections in the Constitution, including the elimination of references to the two-house legislature which still remain even though the unicameral system has been in operation for three decades.

It was pointed out that marijuana isn't such a "bad" drug. In fact, one person pointed out, it is much safer than drinking alcohol. Every time a person drinks any amount of alcohol, said Steve Kraemer, a guest speaker, the alcohol blocks the blood capillaries in the body. Marijuana, he continued, does not have Residency Rules Dropped The constitutional and statutory requirements dealing with voter residency won't be enforced in Nebraska any more. Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann, who is authorized by law to decide election questions, announced last week that he had concluded the requirements for a term of residency no longer can be justified in light of a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision. The high court, in a case involving Tennessee, said it is a violation of the equal rights provisions of the U. S. Constitution to require persons to have lived a certain length of time in a precinct, county or state before they become eligible to register as voters. Nebraska has required persons to have lived six months in the state, 20 days in the county and five days in the precinct before they could register. Beermann issued a ruling saying there were no compelling reasons to continue the requirements in the face of the federal court decision.

Legislature Loses One Of Speaker Candidates

LINCOLN—Nebraska lost one of its legislative leaders last week. Senator C. W. Holmquist, a power in the unicameral since 1965, died in an Omaha hospital. The operator of a grain and lumber business in Oakland, Holmquist entered the hospital the day after the 1972 Legislature adjourned and underwent surgery. He had been active in business and civic affairs in Northeast Nebraska for many years and was considered one of the leading candidates for legislative speaker in 1972. Holmquist was chairman of the executive board of the Legislative Council in 1969 and headed the Public Works and Retirement Committees in the 1971 and 1972 sessions. He will be on the May 9 ballot as a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention. His seat in the Legislature will be filled by an appointment by Gov. J. James Exon, with whom Holmquist had many battles. The last state senator to die in office was Sen. Stanley Matzke Sr. of Milford in 1969.

delegates to the national party conventions, and nominating finalists for November showdays in many offices, the voters will have to decide on 16 constitutional amendments. This will be the first time proposed changes in the state's basic document have been offered for voter consideration in a primary election. Most of the amendments are non-controversial. To reach the primary ballot—which is considered a "special" election because the general election is the traditional time for constitutional questions—the proposals needed the support of at least 40 senators on passage by the Legislature. One amendment which is causing comment is the last on the list—a proposal to allow federal funds allocated to Nebraska to be used by non-public schools. This is the way the proposal will appear on your ballot: "Constitutional amendment to provide that public funds shall not be appropriated to any school not owned or exclusively controlled by the state or a political subdivision; to permit the state to receive money from the federal government and distribute it in accordance with any terms of the grant, but to prohibit adding any state or local funds to such money." Supporters say Congress intends that its educational aid be used to help all

To The Editor: In your article of April 24, 1972, in which your paper stated the opinions of the school board candidates at the Tax Payers Forum meeting, I was quoted by your paper as saying, "The Wayne district levy is the fourth highest in the state at 67.88 mills, with only Alliance, Holdrege and Chadron higher."

school budget. Wayne superceded them with salaries of both elementary and secondary teachers. Please bear in mind we are comparing two AA* rated schools in Nebraska. Mrs. Janice G. Predoehl

I would like to point out to the reading public that this is only a fragment of the statement I made that evening. To leave it uncorrected would be misleading to the readers. My statement was, "Some folks say our taxes are high because Wayne has an AA* rating as a school system. This new classification is a rather recent development when we compare the rapid rise in taxes over an 11-year period, and this can't be the entire reason." In comparing all the AA* rated schools in Nebraska, Wayne ranks fourth from the top. I simply wanted to point out that I did not compare Wayne with all the schools in the state, but only those that share a similar classification. The interesting statistic between Alliance (the top in the state for mills levied for school) and Wayne ranking fourth from the top is the fact that the Alliance-average elementary teachers' salary is $8,190 compared to Wayne average elementary teachers' salary of $8,740. On the secondary level Alliance pays an average secondary teachers' salary of $8,901 while Wayne pays an average secondary salary of $8,863. It appears, therefore, that although Alliance spends more on their over-all

To The Editor: It appears in the report of the meeting of the Taxpayer's Forum on April 19 that I am plotting to do away with football and basketball if I am elected to the school board. Nothing could be farther from the truth and I would like to clarify the matter. The Taxpayer's Forum had asked each candidate to state plans for lowering the tax levy and I was seeking to answer this question. I said that, in my opinion, there were two realistic methods to reduce the tax levy. One would be to broaden the tax base. The second alternative would be to cut a substantial program from the present curriculum. It was here that I listed football, basketball, and teacher salaries as examples of "substantial programs." Just "paring the budget" or "tightening the budget" could not, in my opinion, save enough to lower anyone's taxes. Therefore, to state clearly my answer to the Taxpayer's Forum and to inform all Wayne-Carroll voters of my position, I believe that, until state aid is forthcoming, we cannot reduce our school tax levy substantially. I do believe that every effort should be made to hold the line on taxes and to continue our present policy of quality education. Mrs. Max (Margaret) Lundstrom

Sprucin' Up for

Spring

In spite of somewhat cool temperatures, Wayne residents heeded the call of spring, getting out in their yards and gardens, cleaning up after winter, and launching new improvement projects.

City employees Alvin Gehner and Gerald Otte work at the far end of a ditch near the elementary school which will soon be a covered culvert.

Yalo Kessler, 509 Pearl, finds it's time to begin the annual work on his large garden spot in the north part of town.

L. A. Washburn loads a huge pile of last year's grass, twigs and debris from a freshly raked lawn, dressing up still-another yard for spring.

Mrs. Clarence Beck reseeds part of her front yard at 421 W. Third.

Roseella Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Marshall, 506 Sherman, finds the weather mild enough to go out barefoot while making a clean sweep of things.

Elvis Olson, Wakefield, works at a new roofing job for the Mrs. Harry Swinney residence on Third and Blaine Streets.

Now Is an Ideal Time to Insulate Attic

At first blush, it may sound like sheer, unstruck lunacy. But summer is, in fact, a highly appropriate time to beef up the tired old original insulation in your attic.

If you've been up there recently, you know that a sagged attic gives a fair approximation of a sauna turned up high. Heat builds up steadily during the long summer days and hangs right in there through the night, radiating down through the ceilings of the upstairs rooms. The result: sleepless nights, and that feverish feeling that comes on during July and August heat waves. It's a proven fact that an attic frequently gets about 40 degrees hotter than the outside air. And that is a heap of excess heat.

Adequate insulation keeps the superheat harmlessly up in the attic, drastically reducing downward radiation. Ceilings stay noticeably cooler. The whole house can easily be about 15 degrees more comfortable than it was before you did the insulating job.

Louvers or a ventilating fan make the cooling effect even more pronounced. And if you're fortunate enough to have air conditioning, it will keep you comfortably at a much lower setting. Naturally this saves money on your electric bill.

Insulation experts recommend a layer of vermiculite poured between the attic joists right over the old insulation, to a total thickness of six inches. The added thickness in insulation will give you an immediate improvement in hot weather comfort, plus important savings in fuel costs when winter comes, the experts state.

That's another cogent reason to insulate now—before next winter brings another round of low temperatures and high heating bills. According to authoritative long-range predictions, fuel costs are going to keep right on increasing by seven to eight percent a year over the next decade. Insulation now will help you hold the line.

In fact, the experts say, your new attic insulation can easily pay for itself in two or three years of fuel and power savings. Everything from there on is money in the bank. Plus good sleeping on hot nights.

'Invisible Thread' Acts As Catalyst

"A very angry young man recently said, 'Law suits are civilization's alternative to revolution,'" quoted Nebraska Representative Charles Thorne, 1st District.

"According to this fiery young fellow, almost everything is wrong with America except its basic framework. He advocates wholesale change; yet realizes the best way to obtain it is to work within the system. He appreciates that in the United States, laws can be changed when over the majority view changes. He knows even a minority of one is protected in fundamental rights by our Constitution.

"Law Day is not a 'lawyers' day.' It is an occasion for citizens in all circumstances to consider the place of law in American life and to appreciate the contrast between freedom under law in the United States and tyranny under governments where rule is by one man, or a few men.

"Law is the invisible thread which binds our free society together. It is the instrument for correcting injustices and creating new benefits. From its inception, our legal system has been the catalyst for many important reforms and improvements that have benefited all people. Today, law has the leading role in the movement to improve the quality of American life.

"The best way to show appreciation of our rule of law is to improve society, strengthen the legal process and encourage the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

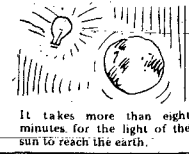

"When we see someone taking action that we don't like, when we hear someone speaking words that we don't like, when we view someone whose appearance we don't like, we should pause and give thanks for their precious rights of free speech, free press, free assembly, freedom of religion, legal counsel and a trial by one's peers if accused of a crime.

"As individual citizens, we have weighty responsibilities to our government and to ourselves. We have solemn duties to: (1) Be informed on issues of government and community affairs; (2) Vote in elections, including the Nebraska primary, May 9th; (3) Respect rights of others; (4) Practice and teach principles of good citizenship in our homes; (5) Serve on juries if called; (6) Obey, respect and uphold the law; and (7) Support those institutions and persons charged with law enforcement.

"A fiery young man also was Daniel Webster, who was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives when he was only 30. He said, 'The law has honored us, may we honor it.'

us and tyranny of mere will and the cruelty of unbridled, undisciplined feeling.' I we appreciate our rule of law, we will put in hard work to make it better."

It takes more than eight minutes for the light of the sun to reach the earth.

"MAKE THIS YOUR YEAR!"

Automobile Both a Blessing and a Curse

CHICAGO—Over the years, the private automobile has wedged itself into our modern society so that, today, it stands as both a blessing and a curse. Its benefits are many, and well known. On the other side of the coin, U. S. highway accidents last year resulted in an estimated economic loss of nearly $17 billion. This all-time high was fueled by increases in highway deaths, injuries and accidents, and the still-rising costs of auto repairs and medical care. These accidents claimed some 55,000 lives—an average of every 10 minutes—more than have been claimed by nine years of warfare in Vietnam, according to the Insurance Information Institute. But it was not always so. Like so many other things, the automobile did not just spring upon the scene full-grown. It, too, has humble origins. Some of the lighter and nearly forgotten moments of yesterday are seen from the viewpoint of the parallel development of auto insurance. "The automobile could be a dangerous vehicle," thought Dr. Truman J. Martin as he drove his electric runabout between house calls in Buffalo during the winter of 1898. Who knew better than a physician what damages a horseless carriage traveling nearly 10 miles an hour could do to the human body? Dr. Martin applied for a liability insurance policy to a Hartford insurer, which issued him the first American policy on Feb. 1, 1898. Although the company did not have a form that applied to the vehicle, it chose a close substitute, a "team form." The form had been developed just 10 years earlier and was designed to protect the owner of a horse-drawn conveyance from damages arising out of runaways, kicking and biting. Fire insurance policies were adapted in 1898 to apply to automobiles, but the policies did not cover fire from an internal source.

The early automobile, often called a gasoline can on wheels, had a remarkable tendency to burst into flames without notice. The first insurance policies took this tendency into account and would cover the auto for fire damage only when the cause of the fire was external to the vehicle in question. In 1899, a motor car owner could purchase a fire insurance policy, adapted from a building policy, for his vehicles. But he was covered only while it was on his property. While the automobile was being driven, the owner did not have fire insurance.

The early auto was such a hazard that its very presence was sufficient to void coverage of property that it was parked on or near. Special permission for the auto was required to maintain the coverage of the other property. Although the first liability insurance rating manual was published in 1896, the first manual to provide rates for automobiles as a separate class was issued in 1901. The manual said that rates for autos should be double that for teams of horses in general. The first rates made no distinction as to the type of automobile or the geographic location in which it was to be used.

A year before Henry Ford began turning out the Model A, a Boston ship owner was issued the first automobile physical damage policy in the United States. The ship owner was a good customer of a Boston insurer which issued him a policy on June 2, 1902. The contract was written on a schooner form as if the auto were a vessel sailing upon the land. Despite the fact that the word "automobile" was so new that it was not included in Massachusetts' statutes, the state attorney general upheld the company's action in writing the policy. An automobile accident at the turn of the century was more frequently the result of a gasoline tank explosion than a collision between two horseless carriages. So, many early motorists insured themselves against fire loss with an ocean marine policy. The first major claim made on an ocean marine policy written for an automobile was in 1904. The vice-president of an insurance company was driving from Worcester to Boston when his gasoline tank exploded. His own insurance company paid $9,500 for property damage.

A major British insurer introduced a comprehensive policy for cars in 1904 that based the premium rate on the size of the engine. The insurer charged its policyholders one English pound for every unit of horsepower. Rates were that high today, few could afford to drive a vehicle larger than a golf cart. The first automobile liability policies that were written on forms other than those for teams of horses were issued in 1905. Although they were much like the teams policy, they provided not only bodily injury liability insurance but also accident insurance on the owner and named chauffeurs. Drivers of Stanley steamers had some difficulty finding the right insurance policy to cover their horseless carriages at the turn of the century. Neither a fire insurance policy nor an ocean marine policy covered the peril of an exploding boiler. In 1900, the automobile was hard to start, hard to stop and hard to the latter fact. The early auto was also very conspicuous and difficult to "fence," making theft a very small problem. By 1905, there were 78,000 cars on the road and many were being pilfered. Theft coverage was added that year to ocean marine policies on autos with a $25 deductible or an exclusion for spare tires, tubes, rims and extra equipment. In 1914, a few insurance companies may have endorsed Women's liberation by including wives in automobile liability policies without additional premiums and without endorsements. However, the manual rates continued to require both a charge for an additional insured and that each be named in the policy. By April 1, 1918, the manual dropped both requirements and included coverage for anyone in or operating the vehicle with the owner's permission—without additional charges. Automobile theft became a big problem for society and the insurance industry after World War I. Coverage for theft had been available on ocean marine policies since 1905, but there was practically no demand until the automobile became fully accepted by the American public. By 1919, there were more than six million vehicles on the road and they were being stolen at the "deplorable" rate of 30 a month. That's all that existed some 66 years earlier. At the rate of 78,500 a month.

Power Mower Maintenance

If you're the kind of guy who takes his power mower to a servicing dealer to have the height adjustment levers moved from 1 1/2" to 2", then you're beyond hope.

If you're one step above that, this article is for you. If you're an ex-GI you're in even better shape. First, just apply the first rule of "police call."

Translated into mower maintenance, do the same with the area you're about to mow. You'd be surprised at how many damaged rotary blades, broken crankshafts and jammed reels this can eliminate. The result? Less costly maintenance.

The second rule of "police call" is "If it moves, pick it up." If you can't pick it up... paint it. In mower maintenance, this translates into "if it moves, lubricate it."

engine... where the grass bag hooks onto the mower deck... where the wheels rotate on the axle and where the axle attaches to the deck.

Get a cloth and wipe off all excess oil because that excess catches dirt and grass clippings. It's the oil you can't see after you put it on that's working for you. And that oil will keep those parts operating smoothly against each other and lessen the chance of serious troubles occurring because of jamming.

Lubricating the screws, nuts and bolts protects them against rusting and jamming, when and if they have to be removed or tightened. They're certain to lower the tab at your servicing dealer because of the time he saves in dismantling the mower, when and if it is called for. If you know how to use a screwdriver, you'll be wise to start every season by tightening every screw on the mower you can reach. With a wrench do the same to bolts and nuts. This will keep your mower in line and limit the stress on it. It will also eliminate excessive vibration from loose parts.

Vibration means more than noise. It means screw and bolt-holes are being widened by bouncing against the loose screws and bolts. This can lead to serious trouble and major service charges.

The engine maintenance should be left to a qualified servicing dealer. In fact, a good idea is to have your mower looked over by a servicing dealer either just before or just after the end of the mowing season.

'People Problems' Workshop to Be Conducted at Norfolk May 11 and 12

A "Workshop on People Problems" has been scheduled to be held at Northeastern Nebraska College in Norfolk, May 11 and 12, according to Tom Collins, director of the Nebraska Alcohol and Highway Safety Project with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Division. The free workshop is open to the public, and will concentrate on what can be done about the "people problem" of highway safety, with particular emphasis on the drinking driver. The workshop program, which includes lectures, discussions and films, opens at 8:30 a.m. each day and continues through the afternoon. A special feature of the workshop will be a discussion led by Samuel Slaughter of the U. S.

Department of Transportation, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, regional office in Kansas City. Others appearing on the program are Collins; John North, director of the Division on Alcoholism, State Department of Public Institutions; Dr. Wilbur C. Brinegar, staff psychiatrist, and Dr. Richard A. Sanders, administration director, both with the Northeast Mental Health Clinic in Norfolk; and Sgt. R. L. Brown of the Nebraska State Patrol, Norfolk. The final afternoon a panel of individuals from Madison County, including governmental, legal, law enforcement, social service and educational agencies will discuss "What We Can Do About People Problems."

Providers of Health Care Services Must Post Price Information Signs

OMAHA—Doctors, nurses, optometrists, dentists, dietitians, and other non-institutional providers of health care services are required to prominently post price information signs.

According to Richard P. Vinal, district director for Nebraska, a sign has to be posted in each facility, indicating to the public the availability and location of a price information schedule. This price information schedule, which is to be maintained at each place of business, must list the base prices for all principal services, as well as any changes in price. The base price is generally the highest price permitted for the period beginning Aug. 16, 1971, and ending Nov. 13, 1971.

Vinal went on to explain that non-institutional providers of health services generally can increase a price only to reflect increases in allowable costs, reduced to reflect productivity gains. However, the increased price cannot result in an increase in its base period profit margin. In addition, the aggregate price increase may not exceed 2.5 per cent a year applied to the annual revenues that would result from charging the base price for all services. Any increase above 2.5 per cent requires advance approval and an exception request based upon serious hardship or gross inequity must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

Social Security Questions, Answers

Q. I recently moved here and I noticed my Social Security number is a lot different from the numbers of my co-workers at the office. Should I get a new number in this area?

A. No. Your Social Security number never changes. You should use the same number all your life no matter where you live.

Q. I own a small grocery store and recently cashed a bad check for a person who used his Social Security card for identification. Can you help me locate this person?

A. No, sorry but we can't. According to the law, Social Security records are confidential and we are not allowed to give out such information. As a word of caution, Social Security cards are not intended to be used for identification purposes and, therefore, they are not good proof of identity for check cashing and related purposes.

Q. I am receiving monthly Social Security benefits as a widow and I'd like to get married again. Will my Social Security benefits stop if I remarry?

A. Benefits continue for most widows who remarry after reaching 60. However, the amount of your monthly benefit may change. Check with any Social Security office for the answer on your specific case.

Bill collectors meet many men of promise.
