

Murphy and Pfister to Square Off In November for Legislative Seat

J. R. Murphy and incumbent LeRoy Pfister, both of South Sioux City, will battle it out in the November general election for the 17th District seat in the Nebraska Legislature.

It will not be known until the 245 absentee ballots are counted which one heads the four-candidate race, but it will be inconsequential since the top two will have their names on the ballot this fall.

Unofficial totals, not including absentee ballots, have Murphy ahead of Pfister by 2,042-2,014. Mrs. Elaine Schmadeke ran third with 1,436 and Chris Miller last in a field of four with 1,353.

The report in Thursday's Wayne Herald that there was a red-hot, three-way race going was in error. It was incorrectly reported to The Herald that Mrs. Schmadeke had received 937 votes in Dakota County, whereas she had only 337, reducing her total unofficial count from 2,036 to 1,436.

County-by-county tabulation for the four candidates: Wayne-Schmadeke, 629; Murphy, 579; Miller, 384; Pfister, 380.

Dixon-Pfister, 693; Murphy, 499; Schmadeke, 470; Miller, 340.

Dakota-Murphy, 964; Pfister, 941; Miller, 627; Schmadeke, 375.

This will be Murphy's second try for a state senate post. He was defeated by Elmer Wallway of Emerson in 1958. Pfister had been appointed to the Legislature in January by Gov. J. J. Egan after Wallway's resignation to accept the directorship of the District 4 Office of Developmental Disabilities in Wayne.

Results still were not complete in the contest for Third District State Board of Education, but Walter Moller of Education, and Walter Moller of the directorship of the District 4 Office of Developmental Disabilities in Wayne.

Moller had 1,274 votes from Wayne County, Price had 411 and Alexander, 393.

Results from other nearby counties: Dixon-Moller, 834; Price, 505; Alexander, 357.

Dakota-Moller, 871; Price, 827; Alexander, 115.

Thurston-Moller, 437; Price, 407; Alexander, 219.

GOP Hearing Here Tuesday To Help Prepare Platform

The Nebraska Republican State Central Committee has scheduled a "grass-root views" hearing Tuesday, at 4 p.m. in the District Courtroom of the Wayne County Courthouse.

The purpose of the hearing, according to Milton Bish of Grand Island, state Republican party chairman, is to allow community leaders, citizens and party leaders the opportunity to help develop GOP policy prior to the drafting of the party's platform at the June 10 state convention at Omaha.

Bish added that the Wayne hearing, one of at least 10 to be conducted throughout the state, "will enable the party to be more responsive to state and local issues."

Robert Hasebroock of Omaha, who has been appointed state platform chairman, said the hearing is open to the public.

Bish said it would be helpful if those interested in speaking had a written summary of their presentation, to be given to the hearing chairman.

Charles McDermott, Wayne County GOP chairman, made arrangements for the local hearing.

WHS Cancels Law Day Plans

Law Day activities at Wayne High School have been canceled according to Ken Olds, chairman of Law Day at Wayne.

Olds said that plans to have several Nebraska Penal Complex inmates visit the school May 15 fell through because the prisoners could not attend on that date.

Olds also pointed out that school will be closing soon and "it would be too late to have the program."

Police Record Two Accidents

Only two accidents were reported to City Police the latter part of the week, when there were comparatively few entries made on the docket.

Vehicles driven by Glenn Sumner of Wayne and Craig Cook of Carroll collided about 6:18 p.m. Wednesday in the 200 block of West First Street.

In a Friday afternoon mishap, at about 3:27 p.m., a car being backed from a parking space by T. P. Roberts of 215 W. Fourth hit a car driven by Alvin Gehner of Route 2, occurring in the 200 block of West Second.

Tornado Season Months Ahead

The approaching months are the most likely months for tornadoes to occur, Thomas P. Roberts, director of the Wayne County Civil Defense, reminds.

If a tornado is spotted, persons are requested to contact any of the following numbers: Wayne County Sheriff's office (375-4911); police departments at Wayne (375-2626) or Winslow (286-4422); fire departments at Wayne (375-1122), Winslow (286-4436), Carroll (585-4444) or Hoskins (565-4444); Norfolk Weather Bureau, (371-3386) or Norfolk Civil Defense (371-3272).

Allen Preparing Land For Roadside Park

The Allen Community Development Corporation is presently leveling lots and sowing grass so that a small tract of land along Highway 9 in Allen may be used as a roadside park.

Plans for this year are to place picnic tables in the area. Long-range plans may include installations of lookouts for campers and trailers, according to Ken L. Inaffelter, Development Corporation member.

Many Have Excise Tax Refund Coming

William F. Peters, tax commissioner, announced that many Nebraska taxpayers are still eligible for a refund due them as a result of the repeal of the federal manufacturer's excise tax on automobiles repealed in December, 1971.

He estimates that less than 20 per cent of those eligible have applied for this refund. Anyone who purchased a new automobile after Aug. 15, 1971, and who paid a Nebraska sales or use tax on a tax base which included the now-repealed federal manufacturer's excise tax may request a sales/use tax refund from the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

Name, address, social security number, dates sales/use tax was paid, name of county where tax was paid, proof of receipt of refund, (all refund checks from automobile manufacturers have been, or will be, accompanied by either a check stub or other notice explaining the reason for the refund. These stubs or notices may be used for proof of refund.)

Wakefield Residents Hit by 'Mushroom Fever'

Hunters are not known for their good sense. They get up at unbelievable hours, travel great distances, brave atrocious weather, eat cold lunches, attempt to claim areas by squatter's rights, and refine the art of storytelling with tales of the conditions endured and the one that got away.

Mushroom hunters are no exception. Armed with buckets, baskets and paper sacks, they set off with a keen eye to the ground, hoping to bag the best for themselves and their friends.

Limited to season by nature rather than by law, mushroomers in northeast Nebraska must do their hunting in late April or early

Lowell Saunders, Dixon postmaster, missed out on his chance to claim the $400 Cash Night Jackpot Thursday night when he was not in one of the Wayne stores participating in the contest.

Hospital Board Studies Plans

The Wayne Hospital Board, in a Thursday afternoon meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office reviewed the plans for the new hospital to be built near the Wayne State College.

According to Chairman Bob Carhart, the members, along with representatives from the Hill-Burton program and the state health board, discussed some minor changes in the plans.

Carhart pointed out that the Hill-Burton agent did not say whether or not Wayne would receive any federal money. The decision, he continued, will be made later.

Wakefield Residents Hit by 'Mushroom Fever'

his interest to a river man-trapper named Emil Walters who lived on some Missouri River property Busby and his father hunted.

"Emil got us interested," said Busby. "He showed us a type of edible mushrooms and suggested when and where to look." Busby's wife, Marty, said she has gone mushrooming with her husband ever since they were married in 1963 and that their five-year-old daughter, Suzette, hasn't missed a year since she was born.

"We drove from Kansas to be here for the first of May the first I went mushrooming," said Mrs. Busby.

The Busbys time their hunting by a rule of thumb used by their friend, Emil. "May 1st or whenever the dandelions first bloom" is reserved for the first mushroom hunt of the season.

The morel mushroom, which resembles a cone-shaped sponge with a thick stem, is the only type of mushroom the Busbys pick. "I'm sure there are probably other edible mushrooms in the area but this is the kind we pick because we know it is safe," Busby said.

Contrary to some opinions, mushrooms do not have to be found under old logs. Busbys have found morels both in covered and in open areas. They have had especially good luck when the sun comes out following a brief spring shower.

Some people have concluded that mushrooms spring forth from the ground full-grown, like Athena from the head of Zeus in Greek mythology. "I don't know if there is any truth in this or not," said Busby. "But several times Emil 'staked' a smaller mushroom and returned in several days to find that the mushroom had not grown at all."

Low-lying wooded areas near the river seem to be good spots for morel mushrooms. The Busbys hunt north of Obert. "We would like to find a less well-known spot," said Busby, "but that would entail making arrangements with another cooperative farmer."

This sport, like many others, has experienced a rapid growth in the past 10 years. "For years we were the only persons mushrooming in this spot. Then we started running into a few other hunters. Last year you couldn't even drive down the access road for all the parked cars. You could practically reach out and touch the next guy," said Mrs. Busby.

This year the Busbys had their "opening day" pretty much to themselves. On the day they chose, a rainstorm came up in mid-morning. Since this was the fourth consecutive day for rain, the ground was soft and most of the "competitors" had left their automobiles out of the area or face the almost certain possibility of being mired in mud.

By early afternoon the Busby's Bronco was the only vehicle in the area. Since it was teeming rain, and not a warm rain at that, the Busbys had to devise a system to keep themselves, their French Poodle and their Golden Retriever, and another Wakefield couple hunting with them, reasonably dry while not giving up the hunt.

Ingenuity never fails the hunter, Busby put his family and dogs, including two very wet dogs, in the back of the Bronco, opened the tailgate, and started driving. Whenever anyone saw a mushroom he hollered "stop" and the hunters piled out and began picking.

About mid afternoon, Busbys met one other dealer. Carrying his umbrella in one hand and his bucket in the other, Cary Goeden of Hartington made his way across the clearing.

Goeden, who said he hunts every year, had left his car on a main road and walked over a mile to this spot. When the Busbys took their mushrooms and headed homeward, Goeden was still hunting scrupulously.

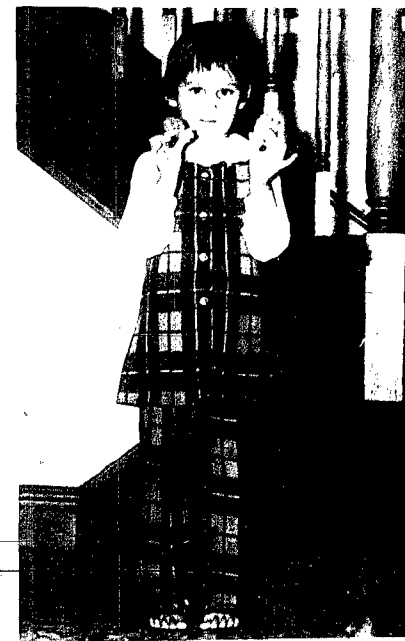

For all they know, Goeden was still mushrooming when the Bus-

Diabard mushroom hunter Cary Goeden of Hartington goes mushrooming north of Obert every year rain or shine. This year it was rain.

Suzette Busby, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Busby of Wakefield, holds up two mushrooms in the classic hunter-fisherman pose. "Last year I found more mushrooms than anyone," said Suzette. Her mother theorizes that it was because "she is located closer to the ground than the rest of us."

Howling Winds

The winds of war are blowing across the nation's college campuses again as well as the nation itself.

For some people the howling winds can be attributed to "those hippy-radical protesters on campus who should be exported for expounding communism."

The Monroe Doctrine devised by President James Monroe in the 1800's, clearly states that the U. S. would protect only this hemisphere, including North and South America, from invasion and keep out of the affairs of other nations.

Rents in Wayne Jump 40 Per Cent in Decade

The increase has also been huge for those who are living in the 1,113 rental units in the local area.

homes went up 43 per cent between 1960 and 1970. In the local area the rise was 31 per cent.

Back of it all was inflation in general and the steady erosion in the value of the dollar. It affected the price of land, materials, equipment, services and construction costs.

Dr. Ervin H. Goldstein, professor of history and philosophy at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, will be speaker for the Randolph High School commencement services to be held at the West School Auditorium Friday, May 26.

A school district No. 30 census will soon be taken with the release of data forms to families of the district this week.

Your 'Power Generator' Flashes Warning Lights

When red lights flash on the control panel at a city generator plant, it's an emergency. Unless quick action is taken there will be a power blackout.

The same warning can happen to your power generator.

Your power generator is your heart. One reason so many people die from heart attack is the failure to recognize symptoms and to seek help in time, warns the Nebraska Heart Association.

To The Editor:
On Monday, May 8, at about 11:20 a.m., the driver of a small blue and white van, Nebraska commercial license, drove this van precipitously out of the street onto the sidewalk at the southwest corner of Seventh and Main, proceeded south down the sidewalk forcing me, a pedestrian on this sidewalk, to get out of the way if I did not wish to be run down, and then parked the van on the sidewalk. When I stopped to get the license number the driver of the van and another young man with him got out of the van and made it quite clear that if I said anything they would wipe up the sidewalk with me.

Dutch Elm Survivors Will Be 'Supertrees'

Dead elms with their whitish-colored branches reaching skyward are stark reminders that something catastrophic has happened to the Nebraska landscape.

One can speculate with some confidence that some elms may be able to survive this specific death-dealing outbreak. Any survivors will be judged to be super trees because they have the ability to ward off the normally lethal disease.

Acid Responsible for Raising Cholesterol Not in Meat Fat, Livestock Board Claims

Not guilty! That's the verdict in regard to charges against meat fat in the cholesterol-heart disease controversy, according to findings released in a research paper presented by Dr. W. O. Caster, University of Georgia.

In Atlantic City: "It isn't the amount of fat in the diet as much as the fatty acid composition of the dietary fat that influences blood cholesterol and blood pressure. In experimental animals, the more the stearate (saturated fatty acid of meat fat) in the dietary fat, the lower the blood cholesterol. Blood pressure can be elevated by having too little, as well as too much stearate in the dietary fat."

and others, continue to bang away with recommendations that the public consume less saturated animal fat—claiming saturated fats raise blood cholesterol levels and that high blood cholesterol signals danger of atherosclerotic heart disease.

"On the other side, the livestock and meat industry, in the good company of many distinguished heart disease scientists, continues to bang away with research reports showing such recommendations cannot be supported by valid scientific data."

Since man does not have the answers to many of the things he is doing to and for the environment today, what lessons can he learn about himself and the environment from the Dutch Elm disease outbreak?

As plant and animal life studies progress, it becomes apparent that when any animal or plant is crowded into a small space there is a potential for disease outbreaks. Whether this was true for the elm is debatable but entirely possible.

The basic training program will begin Sept. 15 at the Patrol's Training Center at Lincoln Air Park. Col. Kruger indicated that the number of trooper candidates accepted will be dependent upon the existing vacancies due to retirement, normal attrition and resignation.

Penolite is a new systemic material that is very effective for controlling black spot, mildew and rust on roses. Use in a solution of two tablespoons per gallon of water.

Should geraniums be fertilized?

Geraniums require only medium fertility, so it is best to make sure there is good potting soil rather than any fertilizer.

How can bromo be killed in a lawn?

When treating a lawn for bromo, care must be taken in choosing a chemical that will not be hazardous to the other grasses. The best choice is Dalfon, used at 1/4 cup per gallon of water applied as a wetting spray.

THE KRAEMAER'S

Get Away From It All This Summer

"Home, home on the range . . . where seldom is heard a discouraging word, and the skies are not cloudy all day . . ."

That seems to be what many vacationers are turning to these days. A temporary home away from home, devoid of all pressures and problems of everyday routine.

And it seems that one answer to this quest is the modern day vacation ranch.

One such haven of rest is the River View Vacation Ranch of Philip Dowse near Comstock, Nebraska. For Dowse, wife Eleanor, son Raymond and family, the 640-acre ranch is situated in a peaceful valley on the Middle Loup River offers home, livelihood and happiness.

The idea for the vacation ranch was planted some 10 years ago when the Dowses started boarding hunters who came from across the nation to enjoy pheasant, grouse and prairie chicken hunting.

Visiting hunters expressed pleasure over the peaceful surroundings and often remarked that it would be a nice place to bring their families. Thus, the vacation ranch unfolded.

The ranch lays claim to being the first homestead in Custer County. When Philip Dowse's grandfather first set foot on the land in 1873, he remarked, "It's just what I've been looking for."

Philip Dowse thinks so, too. "Of his home and land, he says: 'God has given us this land, so why shouldn't we share it with others?'"

A visitor's stay at the ranch, which usually ranges from a few days to two weeks, is filled with such things as trail rides through rolling hills, fishing in two farm ponds, boating and skiing at the nearby Comstock Diversion Dam, or just relaxing under the shade of an old oak tree.

Philip Dowse gives all his guests personalized tours of the countryside in a sturdy, old-fashioned buckboard. His cohorts on these excursions are two mules, Iam and Schlitz. Dowse quips that his mules acquired their names because "one's a great big ham, and the other one has a slit in his ear."

As is always true with outdoor living, appetites increase tenfold. At the vacation ranch, Mrs. Dowse and Raymond's wife, Karen, stand ready to dole out family style meals of creamed chicken or roast beef, and, of course, plenty of mashed potatoes and gravy.

A new addition to the ranch this season is the Dowse's "summer kitchen." The wooden building with its large grill, stove and counter space, will hold as many as 50 hungry vacationers.

If a visitor to the ranch is a collector—of any sort—he will probably win Philip Dowse's favor. One of the Dowse's many projects is a museum that will house his collection of over 1,000 wrenches, including five duplicates. Other articles with which he will stock his museum are antique cookware and kitchen utensils (ever heard of a cherry platter?), antique grooming utensils, old irons and lanterns. He's also started a collection of various types of barbed wire once used in Nebraska—but so far he has only 50 varieties!

The Dowse family loves people. As Philip Dowse remarks, "You'd have to, to be in this business."

More Than 700,000 Boys Expected to Enter PH&T

All boys between the ages of nine and 12 in the Wayne area soon will have an opportunity to test their baseball skills in the Official Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit and Throw Competition.

The contest is scheduled for June 11, in Wayne, according to John Rebersdorf, chairman and PH&T coordinator for this area, and will feature each boy competing with other boys of his age in three events—pitching for accuracy, hitting for distance and timing for accuracy. The winners are determined on the basis of total scores.

Registration for the competition began April 15, Rebersdorf said, and will continue through June 4.

Local winners will advance to district contests on June 17 (or 18) at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha. Winners from there will go to division competition at a location to be determined by PH&T headquarters.

Winners and runners-up at every level—including the local winners—will receive plaques and jacket patches. At the division level, each participant from this area will compete in a junior-size baseball uniform loaned for the purpose.

They also will be feted at a banquet with major league stars and taken on a sightseeing tour of the city.

to competing before the All-Star Game audience, will be the guests of the sponsors, with their parents, for the trip to Atlanta and they'll all have box seats for the game. The boys also will meet many of the All-Star players at their home and at a banquet in their honor the preceding evening.

Rebersdorf said that in 1971, PH&T had more than 45,000 boys participate in all of the 50 states. This year the number is expected to exceed 700,000.

A practice session will be held on the football field south of the Wayne elementary school at 6:30 p.m. June 5. At this time, members of the Jaycees will help to acquaint the youths with the basic requirements of the program.

The PH&T contest is sponsored by major league baseball in conjunction with Phillips Petroleum Co. and local Phillips 66 dealers.

Commission Sets Permit Dates For Nebraskans

LINCOLN—New application dates will be in effect for Nebraskans seeking permits to hunt during the state's 1972-73 big game seasons, which will be determined by the Game and Parks Commission on May 18.

In past years, Nebraskans could begin applying for deer and antelope permits the same day the Commissioners adopted season regulations. In 1972, however, standard application dates have been set that should remain the same from year to year, regardless of the timing of Commission meetings.

For the first time, antelope and deer permits will not be accepted at the same time. Initial application periods, for residents only, include: Antelope, June 1 through 15; Deer, July 1 through 15, and Fall Turkey, Sept. 1 through 15.

To be eligible for permit drawings in oversubscribed units, forms must be at the Commission's Lincoln office at the close of the initial application period. Those received before the application period opens will be returned.

So much for spring fever, and a young man's fancy, etc.
