

Carhart Hanger Bid Okayed by Council

The Wayne City Council accepted a bid of $33,423 from Carhart Lumber Wednesday to build a new 7-hanger at the Wayne Municipal Airport.

The bid, along with the hanger plans, will be sent to the State Aeronautical Board for approval.

On Tuesday, the council had opened bids from other companies including Snodgrass and Sons, Wichita, Kan.; Stevens Construction, Norfolk, and Kirk Construction, Fremont.

The council then decided to wait until Wednesday to let the City Engineers study the plans.

Kirk had the lowest bid on a four-plane carousel-type hanger with $19,729 but the council, in a letter to all contractors, rejected the carousel.

The only other bid below Carharts was Stevens' bid of $25,890. Stevens' plans called for sliding doors instead of the six electrical bifolding doors specified in the plans.

Other bids included: Snodgrass and Sons—$36,900, and Kirk's second bid of $43,216 for a six plane T-hanger.

According to City Clerk Dan Sherry, construction of the hanger will be completed in about 100 days after the state okayes the plans and Carharts begins construction.

As yet, the council hasn't decided upon the rental fee for the new hangers. The fee, said Sherry, will be about $50 a month. The fee for the old hangers is about $35 a month.

Dixon Turns Down Liquor by Drink

Liquor by the drink in Dixon was defeated by two votes in a special election on Wednesday.

Fifty-two persons voted in the election, with 27 voting against liquor by the drink, and 25 voting for the issue.

Ralph Ginn, 64, Dies at Hospital

Ralph Ginn, 64, former Wayne State Head football coach, died Friday morning at a Pierre, So. Dak. hospital.

Ginn was the head football coach at South Dakota State University in Brookings for more than 20 years before retiring from active coaching duties.

Three weeks ago Ginn was elected to the Helms All-College Football Hall of Fame.

He had served as state chairman of the Cancer Crusade and as a member of the board of directors of that group.

Auction Date Changed; Complaints Registered

At their meeting Tuesday evening, Wayne County Historical Society members made final plans for the June 3 auction. The public is asked to note the change of date, and to bring their donations in by June 1.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Lella Maynard, Mrs. Mabel Sorenson, Wayne Gilliland and Marle Ring. Ring addressed the group in behalf of himself and his neighbors concerning their feelings that the present museum site is unsuitable.

Historical Society members explained to Ring the need for a large site so as to provide housing for a display of farm machinery, and noted the difficulties the group had encountered in their attempts to obtain other buildings. Ramps were suggested for easier access to the present building.

Robert Boeckenhauer reported that the basement would be completed immediately following corn planting, and mentioned that men would be needed to assist with the pouring of the floor. He also reported that the city was not interested in a cooperative well. The society made plans to have a well dug at the earliest possible time.

NU Regents Will Visit NE Station

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents and other University officials will tour the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Station at Concord on June 9.

The party of 17 is scheduled to arrive at the Wayne airport at 1 p.m. on that date. They will then be driven to the Station for a brief tour of the operations there.

Gregg Jager Is Honor Graduate

Honor Jager of Wayne was one of six honor graduates at the University of Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture at Curtis, which had commencement exercises Friday afternoon, with Dr. James Zumbeke, chancellor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the guest speaker.

Jager was enrolled in Ag Machinery Mechanics Technology.

Selection of the honor graduates was made on the basis of leadership qualities, citizenship and personality displayed throughout the 21 months of training.

Diplomas were awarded to 97 graduates of the sixth class to graduate at Curtis, which is a post-high vocational-technical school offering training in agriculturally-related fields.

Two Wayne Elementary Teachers Receive Project Success Awards

Two Wayne West Elementary teachers received $25 awards for their creative programs in Project Success Friday at a Project meeting at the West Elementary School.

Mrs. Etta Fisher and Mrs. Nell Edmund each won the $25 award after Miss Mary Lee Enfield, a language disability director from Bloomfield, Minnesota, judged the various projects that helped make Project Success a reality.

According to Miss Enfield, she could not decide on one project that would receive the entire $50 award. "The two programs I feel are the most significant in instructing children with learning differences."

Miss Fisher is a second grade teacher with her project called "touch and feel." The students in her class touch an object and describe it in writing.

Mrs. Edmund's project consisted of a felt bulletin board where the students would construct what they thought was a situation similar to the weather outside.

Miss Enfield pointed out that so far Project Success, established to help children with "learning differences," has shown real progress since its beginning last year.

"I hope to have the results next week after I have studied the program completely. From what I have seen now, Project Success is a success."

Before closing the meeting, West Elementary Principal Richard Metteer said that the State Advisory Council has approved the program for next year. "All that is needed now is for the Commissioner of Education to approve the program."

Principal Metteer pointed out to the group that if they get the go-ahead, the program probably will be expanded to the kindergarten level as well as the fifth and sixth grades.

A surprised Mrs. Tietgen gladly receives the $400 cash prize from McDonald's Manager Don Mangors.

Wayne Woman Wins $400 Whopper

If you had 40,000 pennies you would probably be as happy as Mrs. Grant Tietgen.

Just convert those 40,000 pennies into dollars and you would have the same amount that Mrs. Tietgen won in Thursday night's cash drawing—$400.

Mrs. Tietgen, 308 E. Sixth, didn't know what to say when her name was announced in McDonald's.

"I don't know what I'll do with the money," she said. "I guess I'll put it into a savings account."

I usually have to work for it (money). Now I've just won it," Don Mangors, McDonald's manager, presented Mrs. Tietgen the money after she told her husband, who is assistant manager at Safeway.

"He (her husband) didn't have any comment," she said, "he just grinned."

According to Chamber of Commerce Manager Floyd Bracken, the cash night drawings will be discontinued temporarily.

Students Planning Institutes Abroad

Seven Wayne and one Carroll student will participate in institutes abroad this summer, sponsored by Wayne State College.

Nancy Hamley, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Hamley, Kathryn and Susan Hepburn, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hepburn, and Darlene Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Miller, all of Wayne, are among students land, with the Nebraska-Britain Institute.

The students will start their studies at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, then travel through the Lake Country of England enroute to another academic session at the University of London.

Their lecturers will include members of Parliament and prominent British scholars. The institute schedule also includes numerous trips to historic and cultural landmarks in London and other areas of England.

British institute students, along with similar groups going to Scandinavia and Spain, will fly from Chicago to Amsterdam June 22 and split up there for flights to their respective countries. The return to Chicago is scheduled for July 28.

Wayne Police Sponsoring Weekly Films With Emphasis on Drug, Alcohol Abuse

The Wayne Police Department will present free outdoor public information films each Sunday evening at various locations throughout the city, with at least half of each week's hour-long films devoted to drug or alcohol abuse.

The other portion will cover such subjects as traffic safety, motorcycle safety, police/community relations, shopping, protection, pedestrian safety, buco protection, personal protection, babysitting safety and hunter safety.

"There will be no formal programs presented with the films, to begin as soon as it gets dark each evening, but the officers operating the projection equipment will be available to answer questions."

"We want to keep the program as loose and informal as possible," Police Chief Vern Fairchild said, adding "we invite the public to bring their lawn chairs or blankets to sit on and bring a picnic lunch and let the kids play and enjoy themselves."

The first of the summer-long films will be June 4 at Bressler Park, 10th and Lincoln, a 29-

Priest Turns Pitman at Indy 500

Once a year the Rev. Paul Begley gets the urge to do something really different.

He doesn't put down his cross and bible to start protesting. He just takes off in May for Indiana and the Indianapolis 500 to work as part of the pit crew.

"I started working in the pit as part of the fire crew about 10 years ago," Father Begley said "when my brothers invited me down to Indianapolis to help them on the fire crew."

Father Begley's brothers, Pat, Don and Bill, own a fire equipment company in Omaha. Each year the Begleys are invited to the race to man one of the fire fighting stations in the pits.

"I'm in charge of six cars," the pastor of St. Mary's noted, "to check on the danger of fires."

According to Father Begley, he picks the top race driver of the six and stays at that post.

"What I do is have a fire extinguisher ready when the driver pulls into the pits. When he stops I hold the extinguisher near his head in case of a fire."

Since the race cars burn mostly pure alcohol, Father Begley continued, it is hard to detect a fire. "Usually I can tell by the rippling waves of air. If that happens, I tell the other two men at my station to turn on the fire extinguisher."

During Father Begley's time in the pits, he has worked for two winners and one driver who took second place.

"I remember when Parnell Jones was the 1967 winner. Boy, was it a great feeling to know that you were working for the winning driver."

The following year Father Begley worked for Bobby Unser, who also won that year. Later, in 1970, Mark Donohue finished second.

"It's not only racing that makes me excited but the people who come to watch—they're fascinating!"

Many people, he said, come up to release the everyday tensions of life. Maybe even looking for some blood. "But on the whole, most people enjoy seeing a good race."

"I know I would never get into one of those cars and drive it as fast as those race drivers push their cars."

This year, Father Begley pointed out, the drivers are setting preliminary speed records in the 180-mile-per-hour range.

"I keep in tune with what is going on in the racing circuit a month before the big race."

Father Begley reached to the floor where he had stacks of newspapers from the raceway.

They print up a daily paper just during the month of May, he explained, to keep those interested, informed about the new drivers, entering and the new types of machinery coming into the field of driving.

Father's eyes sparkled when he started listing some of the statistics on the new drivers and how their cars performed during the time trials.

"When I was younger I use to help my dad work on cars," he noted, "that's how I became interested in cars."

"I used to help repair fenders and do other car body welding. After that I used to help some of the stock drivers fix up their cars back in 1948 and '49."

Since Father Begley started working at Indianapolis, he has met and talked with the late Dan Blocker, of Bonanza, and astronaut Jim White, as well as other celebrities.

"The one thing I like most about the race is to hear those famous words from track operator Tony Hulman.

"Gentlemen start your engines."

Spanish Class Starts June 12

Mrs. Maria Grovas, instructor of Spanish at Wayne State College, reminds students and adults of the June 12-August 2 Introduction to Spanish course to be taught on campus.

The course, which offers three credit hours, is ideally suited to high school juniors and seniors, adults planning a trip to Spanish speaking countries, or others who have had no previous instruction in this field and who wish to gain a basic working knowledge of the language.

Registrations must be in by June 12.

Summer Music Camp Starts July 30

Summer Music Camp for high school students is on the Wayne State College calendar for the 28th year, July 30 to August 6.

Oldest of Midland music camps, it will offer some new features along with traditional programs, according to Dr. Raymond Kelton, director of the camp and chairman of the Wayne State music department.

For one innovation, the camp's symphonic wind ensemble and concert choir will take a feature role at the college's summer commencement Aug. 4. They will provide the program in lieu of a speaker. In the past, camp bands have played processional music for commencement.

Seven workshops also are innovations for students. Dr. Kelton said registration will be limited in these special classes: keyboard workshop, vocal solo coaching, wind instrument solo coaching, sightreading for singers, brass instrument fundamentals, string instrument instruction, and stage band fundamentals.

Campers also can participate in the usual groups—band, orchestra, choir and stage band.

Wayne Has 5,441 Estimate Shows

Wayne had a 1.2 per cent growth from the taking of the 1970 census through July 1, 1971, according to a preliminary population estimate prepared by the Bureau of Business Research, at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Wayne had a 1971 census of 5,441.

Chief Fairchild pointed out that the films are open to persons of all ages, but each film may be especially geared to a certain age group—kindergarten, primary, intermediate, elementary, junior high, senior high, college and adult.

In addition to Bressler Park, the films will be shown at Viken Park, East Park and east law of Middle School. "We will go to a different location each Sunday so that we can make this more of a neighborhood program," Fairchild says.

"There will be no rain dates and, in the event of bad weather, that week's film will not be shown, since the films have to be ordered early on a one-date basis only."

The films are supplied from the Police Officers Association of Nebraska film library.

"To our knowledge, there is no other program like this in the state," the chief concluded.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

Patriotism Dead?

Values, ideals, goals, have all taken on a new shape in recent years. And some of the feelings which filled the hearts and served as guiding forces in the lives of parents and grandparents, are unknown in the lives of today's young adults.

Words like patriotism, national anthem, Americanism, flag, have been stored away on a shelf and are dusted periodically and set out for decoration at appropriate times of the year. And yet, before we are too critical, let's ask ourselves the following questions:

Is it the fault of a harbored child that he has never felt the sting of war? Can one expect a surge of grateful pride to spring from the souls of a generation which, like its parent, has fought a war, but unlike its parent, has yet to know the joy of victory or peace from that war? Is it so difficult to understand why a young man is reluctant to cheer on the warriors in a fight that has no meaning for him?

No, it is not yet time for the new generation to know what patriotism is all about. For this age, Memorial Day, V-Day, Veterans Day, will continue to have little or no meaning outside the opportunity to take the family on a picnic or watch a parade.

But there is no reason for dismay: patriotism is not something that can die—lie dormant for a time perhaps, but not die. At another time, hopefully tomorrow, but perhaps years from now, the new generation will win its own victory—perhaps through war, perhaps, ideally, without it; maybe in Vietnam, maybe down the block in the rat-infested shums. The war, the battlefield will be its own, not outlined by guides set forth by another generation.

Only then will the means that have led to the hoped-for end be glorified, exalted and mounted on a pedestal for all to applaud. Then will our soldiers, our evangelists, our new thinkers, philosophers and teachers, and yes, the flag and national anthem, too, spur in them a feeling akin to patriotism.

And the next time you bristle at seeing a young father, with beard and scraggly hair who forgets to stand during the national anthem; who neglects to take down the flag at dusk, take heart. Don't you know he feels an unfulfilled longing in his heart, a loneliness, an emptiness, when he sees your pride in, your love for your country shining in your eyes as veterans pass by?

Only God knows how much this young man, who may have lost a buddy to the Cong; who rides a bike to save his country from so quickly becoming covered with soot; who gives one Sunday a month to provide a recreation program for underprivileged children; who carries a banner in a peace march—only God knows how diligently he is seeking the meaning of patriotism.

A Who-dun-it

A woman in Houston, Texas, was charged recently with smuggling heroin and a nude picture of herself to her husband, who is serving a 12-year sentence in the penitentiary at Huntsville—in the Lone Star state.

Authorities found the picture in the prisoner's sock and the capsule of heroin hidden in his mouth as he was being returned to his cell following a visit with his wife.

It is common knowledge that smuggling of narcotics into a prison is a felony, but unless it falls under the pornographic classification, we didn't know there was a penalty for a wife giving her husband a picture of herself, even in a clothesless pose.

It could raise some questions, however.

We're curious whether hubby asked the same question that kept bugging us: Who in the world took the picture?

Of course, there are some cameras equipped with a delayed-action shutter so that a person can hit the trigger and then quickly race around and get in front of the camera before it goes off.

That's probably the answer.

But, then, who developed the roll of film?

Of course, it is highly possible that the wife was a darkroom hobbyist (here, again, we're referring to photography) and developed her own pictures.

Shucks, maybe those two possibilities solved our own invented mystery—and killed what we thought might be a much more interesting story.

Attempted Assassination Spurs NRA Comments

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The wave of hysteria following the senseless assassination attempt of Governor George Wallace has again created a demand among some for additional controls of firearms. Certain well-meaning, but misguided, individuals suggest that additional gun laws are the cure-all for attempted assassinations and crime. This thinking is a fallacy. The man charged with the shooting of Governor Wallace was in violation of local and state (Wisconsin and Maryland) firearms control laws before he fired. As the National Rifle Association, and many thoughtful leaders, have constantly stressed—let us rigidly enforce those laws now on the books and invoke mandatory penalties for the criminal use of a firearm, such as those now part of the Federal Gun Control Act of 1968 and those called for by many bills presently before the Congress. For example, legislation introduced by Rep. Bob Casey (D-Texas) which calls for a sentence of not less than 10 years (first offense) and 25 years for the second offense and subsequent offenses for the criminal use of a firearm.

May 17th, the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency reported favorably on the so-called "Saturday Night Special" bill introduced last year by Senator Birch Bayh. This bill would prohibit the sale or delivery of crudely made and unsafe handguns not suited for sporting purposes. There still remains the problem of establishing criteria for what constitutes a sporting arm and what constitutes a so-called "Saturday Night Special."

The million members of the National Rifle Association and all shorter-sportsmen are abhorred at this most recent tragedy and will support any legislation which is meaningful in the fight against crime but which also protects the rights and privileges of the law-abiding.

The Neligh Volunteer Fire Department was well represented at the thirty-fifth annual Nebraska State Volunteer Firemen's Association School at Grand Island May 18-20, and was presented one of four state-wide Ak-Sar-Ben awards for fire prevention. The award included a plaque and a check for $100.

A big question right now seems to be if Randolph is going to have a town baseball team this year. They are already included in the Tri-County League baseball schedule. The team that still doesn't exist is scheduled to play Pierce at Pierce Wednesday.

Irrigation Has Worldwide Impact

LINCOLN.—"Irrigation, without question, contributes to the health and happiness of human resources in this nation and around the world."

This is the opinion of Dr. D. G. Hanway, chairman of the Department of Agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Hanway believes that the world population is dependent on irrigation for important elements of its diet, "both directly for such items as fruits and vegetables and indirectly for meat from the added production of feed and foraging."

"We live in a nation that is holding land out of production to prevent the accumulation of costly surpluses," Hanway said, while as many as two-thirds of the people in the world go to bed hungry each night because a "complex set of national, social, economic and international trade conditions prevent paying the costs of production and distribution and moving food produced with our excess capacity to hungry people.

"Expanding irrigation in the United States cannot be justified as being needed to feed the hungry in the world," he said.

Dr. Hanway asserted that corn yields under irrigation in Nebraska have doubled in the past 20 years. "It might be fair to assume that water applied per acre has changed little. Thus, we have doubled our water use efficiency under irrigation. This is also significant conservation."

He explained that irrigation provides productive employment opportunities of many diverse kinds, and that it helps support the institutions and services of the community.

Fruits and vegetables which come from the intensive irrigation areas such as California and Texas have improved the diets of our population with a major impact on health of the general public, the nutrition of pregnant women, the mental development of young children and the vigor of growing youth.

"Only through irrigation could the potential of the long seasons; low humidity and abundant sunshine of these areas be translated into high-quality, low-cost food for so many people," Dr. Hanway said.

United States agriculture today, aided by irrigation, can produce "far in excess of demand," he said.

Dr. Hanway said the only exports from many Great Plains communities are agricultural products. These exports pay for television sets, automobiles, clothing, food, automatic washing machines and deep freezers as well as tractors and production supplies.

"The export-import balance of communities—with irrigation an important factor—determines their relative standard of living," he said.

He warned, however, that water must be managed as well as used.

"We must be concerned with managing water so that we prevent salt accumulations in the soil due to the system over centuries of use. The leaching of nitrates in areas of sandy soils and high water tables has been well documented. The added organic matter produced under irrigation, if properly managed, should offer opportunities to improve soils as a rooting medium for plant growth.

"We don't know how much we can increase water use efficiency but gains of two or three times seem possible by the end of this century if the public will support adequate research programs directed to this end.

Agriculturists working with engineers are needed to develop effective irrigation systems and the management tools of soil testing, plant tissue testing and water management necessary to make sophisticated programs pay off, and "maintenance of water quality must be a governing concern in all operations," Dr. Hanway said.

Research Terminated in Breeding Cattle to Attain Genetic 'Bonus'

Can mice be selectively bred so they are as big or bigger than rats? If so, could this genetic bonus be applied to livestock such as cattle? Over 40 years ago in 1930, a USDA scientist set out to answer these questions.

The late Hubert D. Goddard began what was to be the longest selection study in mammals ever attempted. Only recently did his colleagues terminate the research he began.

When Dr. Goddard set out to breed mice the size of rats, little was known about selective breeding. He wanted to find out just how effective selection for one trait would be. Mice were a logical choice for his experiment because they are small, reproduce rapidly, and are mammals as are domestic livestock. If the mice grew larger with each succeeding generation, perhaps cattle would also and open new vistas for beef production. Or would the mice stop getting bigger after many generations, indicating a limit to the effectiveness of selection for improving livestock?

After selection for 84 generations, the answer was plain. For 35 generations, the mice increased from a weight of 25 grams to 45 grams when weighed at 60 days of age. However, no increase in weight was noted after the 35th generation, even though selection continued for another 49 generations. The mice had reached a plateau and did not attain the size of rats as Dr. Goddard had suspected they might.

Dr. Goddard began his studies with eight male and 28 female albino mice. The population was then closed. He selected for weight at 60 days of age keeping the heaviest of the mice as parents of the next generation.

Once a week, several virgin female mice were mated to several virgin males. The numbers varied, but usually five females were mated to each of three males. These mice, for the most part, were the largest available at the time. Uniformly large mice of one family were given preference over other families whose members were of variable weights. After weaning, if the mice were exceptionally large, their sires were mated to the same females.

The number of mice varied from 100 to 1,000 per generation with the average being 649. The number of sires and dams per generation averaged 37 and 100 respectively. In all, 54,535 mice were part of the experiment.

Having proven that size of mice reaches a plateau after many generations of selection for one trait, it will be interesting to note further progress with cattle and other livestock. When will they, too, reach the limits of their genetic growth?

County's Federal Aid Share Is $1.1 Million

(Special to The Herald)—NEW YORK—To what extent is Wayne County sharing in the billions of dollars of federal funds that are being distributed by the government annually in the form of grants-in-aid?

Of the $29 billion handed out by Washington in the past fiscal year, how much reached the local area?

Based upon Treasury Department figures and a state-by-state analysis of them made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit organization that keeps track of government taxation and spending, Wayne County's share was relatively small.

An estimated $1,129,000 went to the local area under a variety of community aid programs.

The grants made throughout the State of Nebraska as a whole totaled $162,000,000, the Tax Foundation reports.

They were for such purposes as tax renewal, welfare and public assistance, highways, food stamps, job training, health, education and many others. The figures take into account only grants-in-aid to states and their communities, it is noted, and do not include other expenditures made by the government in local areas for goods and services.

As to the cost of these benefits, it comes out of federal income and excise taxes that are allocated to the grants-in-aid programs.

Wayne County's share of these costs amounted to approximately $1,344,000 last year. It is estimated from a breakdown of the Tax Foundation's figures. The state's total contribution is listed as $192,000,000. This is exclusive of the amount that must be paid in matching funds.

In some states, the costs involved exceed the benefits received. In others the reverse is true.

There is no intention of striking a balance in that regard. The awards are intended to be made on the basis of local requirements and needs.

Many communities are not getting as much as they might from the grants programs because they are unaware of what is available and therefore have not submitted applications.

In fact, according to Senator William Roth of Delaware, there is no one in Washington itself that is aware of all of them. With much difficulty, he states, he has been able to compile a list of 1,350 grant possibilities.

St. Peter's Catholic Church, Stanton, was the scene of the double ring wedding Friday of Patricia Oertwich, Omaha, and Robert Jackson, Millard.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Jackson, Stanton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, Winslow.

The Rev. Father Kenneth Carl performed the 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony. Altar boys were Rodney and Randy Oertwich, brothers of the bride. The altar was appointed with two seven-branch candelabras.

Orville Von Seggern, Hooper, accompanied by Mrs. George Benson, Jr., Stanton, sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "One Hand One Heart," the wedding song from "West Side Story."

The bride, given in marriage by her step-father in attire in a floor-length gown designed and fashioned by her sister, Mrs. Harlan Perske, of white chiffon over crepe, fashioned with an empire waist, high stand-up collar, leg of mutton sleeves and detachable train. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was caught to a lace-trimmed circular headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Maid of honor Nancy Oertwich, and bridesmaids wore gowns of chiffon over taffeta in a rainbow of orchid, yellow, aqua, pink and lime green. The empire styles featured high necklines, late bolero-effect bodices and cuffed, long sheer sleeves. Each carried a nosegay centered with a candle.

The bridesmaids and their escorts were Barb Jackson, Norfolk, sister of the bridegroom; Brad Schellpeper, and Maureen O'Brien, Stanton; Connie Von Seggern, Don Haneline and Kathy Beck, Omaha; and Scott Jackson, brother of the groom, and Phillip Witt, Winslow.

Jim Jackson, Lincoln, served his brother as best man. Flower girl was Sara Putzner, Norfolk and Russell Jackson, Stanton, brother of the bride was ringbearer.

Ushers were Harlan Perske, Fremont, Duane Wegner, Omaha, Gary Erickson, Norfolk and Robert Schellpeper, Lincoln.

The bride's mother chose a floor-length pink print dress with matching accessories and the mother of the bridegroom wore a blue print floor-length dress with matching accessories. Each had a corsage of carnations and roses.

A reception and dance followed at the Stanton Community Building, with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schellpeper of Stanton serving as hosts to the 250 guests. Mrs. Gary Erickson, Norfolk, registered guests.

Lunch was served by Jean Caskey, Stanton, and Debbie Putzner, Connie Heiderman and Jeanette and Judy Jackson opened and arranged the gifts.

Those assisting with the serving were Mrs. Ramona Schlicht, Mrs. Leonard Putzner, and Mrs. Richard Putzner cutting the cake. At the coffee service was Mrs. Harlan Perske, waitresses were Debbie Stuehlik, Julie Van Dieken, Kim Schellpeper and Bev Chleboun.

The bride is a graduate of Stanton High School and the Omaha College of Dental Assisting and is employed in Omaha. The bridegroom is a graduate of Winslow High School and Lincoln Barber College and is employed in Omaha. They will reside at 502 "C" Street, Millard.

JE Has Final Meeting

Gail Schoonover Bride Of Roger A. Hochstein

In a 1 p.m. ceremony May 6 at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Norfolk, Gail Jane Schoonover was united in marriage to Roger Anthony Hochstein. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew R. Eddy, Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hochstein, Wayne.

The Rev. Gary Ostrander officiated at the double ring ceremony. Candles were lighted by Rodney Eddy, Colorado Springs, brother of the bride, and Mike Lange, Hoskins. Jim Dedrichson was organist and Steve Burkam sang. Both are of Norfolk. The Rev. Paul Begley, Wayne, and Russell Smith, Jr., Scottsbluff, read scripture.

The bride appeared on the arm of her father in a floor-length gown of angel gauze fashioned with a full, circular skirt, victorian sleeves, a high neckline and a detachable train caught to the back waist. Her tiered illusion veil was caught to a toque of organza folds and she carried a cascade of blue and white tea roses and stephanotis.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Russell Smith, Jr., Scottsbluffs. Bridesmaids were Cheryl Lynn Eddy, Colorado Springs, also a sister; Joan Marie Hochstein, Wayne, sister of the bridegroom, and Nancy Gash, Norfolk. Each wore a full-length frock of sheer blue crepe styled with demilobe silhouette skirts softly gathered at the waist, tucked bib, high neckline and full, sheer sleeves. They carried nosegays of blue and white pompons.

Serving as best men for his brother was Ronald J. Hochstein, Champaign Ill. Groomsman were Patrick Hochstein, Wayne, also a brother of the bridegroom, Tom Lange, Hoskins, and David Wasmik, Lincoln. They wore black tuxedos with blue ruffled shirts.

Bette Jo Hochstein, Wymot, and Ritchie Lange, Randolph, were flower girl and ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Eddy chose a bone lace dress and Mrs. Hochstein wore light blue, each had a blue and white rose corsage. Grandmothers of the couple Mrs. Arthur Potter of Syracuse, Kansas, and Mrs. A. A. Lange of Laurel had blue and white carnation corsages.

Following their vows they lifted their wedding candle, a gift from the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Art Potter, Syracuse. The candle was made especially for the couple by the National candle making champion and featured the wedding invitation cast inside.

A reception was held at Burns Hall, Norfolk, with Mrs. Ronald J. Hochstein, Champaign, registering guests. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hartshorn, Syracuse, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lange, Hoskins, were hosts.

The four tiered cake, baked by the bride, and decorated by her mother, was cut and served by Mrs. Richard Long, Ulysses, Kan., and Mrs. Jim Agler, Norfolk. Sandy Kleckner and Becky Clark, both of Norfolk, served punch. The couple's new home is at 1201 Passwalk, Norfolk, where both are employed.

The bride, a graduate of Palmer High School, Colo. Springs, attended Nebraska State Christian College, Norfolk. The bridegroom graduated from Wayne High School and attended Wayne State College. He spent four years in the Army serving 31 months in Frankfurt, Germany.

Treat Family to Backyard Camp

Light of your children's summer: It may have to go without swaying pines, canoeing, swimming, and sleeping in tents, but even little tots will love camp, all alone, and best of all, you'll be in on the fun.

SUIT THE CHILDREN
Your camp can be a daylong affair with a dozen children, or it can be just your own kids for two or three hours.

Some children thrive on structure at a camp. If they've ever gone to church, scout, or 4-H camp they're apt to like an hour-by-hour plan, counselors, officers, badges, nametags, "headquarters", duties and other children, particularly preschoolers, will have more fun if the camp is freewheeling. Let the children plan the camp, checking all plans with you ahead of time. Set time limits, physical boundaries, and decide what is an acceptable number of campers. Have the children understand that you will be in charge.

GET OTHERS TO HELP
If camp plans include more than five or six children, ask other parents, older brothers and sisters, grandparents and friends to help. Make it a neighborhood or block camp if that's appropriate.

Select a day and choose a site.

A backyard is fine if there is enough space. Provide for a few crashers and little brothers and sisters who will tag along. The campsite might include several cooperating neighbor's backyards or a local park. You'll find it easiest if you don't go too far from home to save carrying equipment and food.

ABOUT OVERNIGHTS
Kids love to sleep outdoors in the summer. A tent or camper is fine but a blanket on a clothesline or over a card table makes a nice daytime tent also.

WHAT TO DO AT CAMP
Most organized camps have a name, opening and closing ceremonies, active and quiet times, singing, learning sessions, crafts and food.

Aubrey McGann Interim Pastor For Concord Evangelical Free Church

Members of Evangelical Free Church, Concord, have announced the arrival of the Rev. Aubrey McGann, Kingstom, Jamaica, as the interim pastor.

McGann, who preached his first sermon at the age of 13, has been open house

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Herrmann, Laurel, will observe their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 4, with an open house reception at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Wayne, from 2 to 4 p.m.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend. No formal invitations will be issued.

Mrs. Anderson Hostess

Mrs. Alvin Anderson was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the 2 p.m. meeting of Club 15. Six members answered roll call with a bulb and plant exchange. Mrs. Kenneth Ramsey and Mrs. Harvey Beck were guests.

The group spent the afternoon at cards, with pitch prizes going to Leona Janke and Louise Ramsey. June 23 meeting will be at 2 p.m. in the Morris Backstrom home.

It's surprising what you can do to make a tent, particularly if it's in your own backyard. A backyard family camp can be a special treat for a tribe of energetic youngsters this summer. Though maybe just a bit crowded, these children seem content in their "blanket tent" thrown over a small tree. Clothesline or card tables can serve the purpose, too. (University of Nebraska Photo)

It also helps to have a theme to build activities around. Let the children name the camp. For opening and closing ceremonies see BACKYARD CAMP, page 6.

Oklahoma Christian Blasts Wayne, 16-6; Wildcats Finish with 26-11 Record

Wayne State baseball of 1972 ended Friday night after reaching a season record number of wins in the afternoon. The Wildcats bowed to Oklahoma Christian College, 16-6, in the evening, so bowed out of the NIAA Area 3 playoff at Enid, Okla.

Crippen, Benson

Continue Streak

Wakefield's Deonis Crippen and Mike Benson continued to drive on a hot streak last week at Le Mars, Ia., and South Sioux City.

Benson took second in the heat race at Le Mars, followed by Crippen. At South Sioux, the field was reversed.

In the A feature at South Sioux Crippen finished sixth followed by Benson. But in the same feature at Le Mars, Benson took second while Crippen finished seventh.

Wakefield's Roy Korth was the only other area man to place with a fifth place showing the C feature.

The Oklahomans thus qualify for the NIAA national tournament next week at Phoenix, Ariz. They pounded five Wayne pitchers in their second playoff win over the Wildcats.

The tourney began Thursday with a 3-2 Oklahoma Christian decision—two homers by Wayne by Marty Going and Jack Shupe, also two homers by Oklahomans Dennis Morgan and Mike Blalock. Wayne's pitching ace Greg Kamp suffered the loss, his second against seven wins.

Thursday night Wayne whipped Emporia State, 7-4, with Kevin Petersen gaining the win for a 5-1 record after relieving starter Charlie Solano in the third. The Wildcats scored all seven runs in the fourth inning.

Hamline Coaching Position To Former WHS Standout

Don W. Meyer, a standout athlete at Wayne High School and the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley, has been named head basketball and baseball coach and assistant professor of health and physical education at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn. Don, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don V. Meyer of Route 1, Wayne, has been assistant basketball coach at the University of Utah.

At Wayne High, he was captain of the basketball, baseball and football teams and won all-state and all-conference berths in basketball.

He was a three-year letterman in basketball and baseball at the University of Northern Colorado, was captain and all-conference in basketball and named to the National Association of Basketball Coaches All-American team.

In baseball at that school, he was all-conference and awarded

NCAA District 7 all-star recognition

Prior to going to Utah, he was a graduate student assistant basketball coach at his alma mater and then was head baseball and assistant basketball coach at Western State College at Gunnison, Colo.

Meyer, who will receive his doctorate in health and physical education from the University of Utah this June, worked under Utah head coaches Jack Gardner and Bill Foster as administrative assistant in areas of recruiting and freshman coaching.

He will go to Hamline in June for recruiting. During the summer he will be defensive lecture coordinator at the Snow Valley basketball camp at Santa Barbara, Calif., which include as teachers Lakers Coach Bill Sharman and Lake player Gail Goodrich.

Town Baseball Opens Season

The Wayne town baseball team will open its season Sunday, weather permitting, against Hamline which holds a 2-4 record.

Last Sunday the Wayne team had a practice session against Wakefield, said Oerlin, winning 4-1.

Action according to Oerlin, will begin at 8 p.m. at the Wayne ball park. The tentative starting lists include: Gordon Jorgensen, catcher; Gordon Jorgensen, pitcher; Fritz Weible, first base; Randy Heigen, second base; Herb Swan, third base; Bob Brandt, shortstop; Wayne Magdanz, left field; Jerry Nicolson, center field; and Larry Meier, right field.

Other players on the roster are: Lynn Lessman, Steve Hix, Randy Jacobson, Steve Heying, Marty Going and George Jones.

Nebraska Vets Will Receive Work Services

Disabled veterans in Nebraska are to receive "preferential treatment" in all manpower services. The new policy, effective immediately, was announced today by State Labor Commissioner Gerald E. Chizek.

The announcement is the result of a directive received from the Secretary of Labor as part of a continuing effort to carry out the objectives of the President's Jobs for Veterans Program.

Some 14,000 disabled veterans in Nebraska will be able to benefit from increased manpower services such as job development, placement, and enrollment in training programs. This includes Vietnam-era vets and vets of previous wars.

It is hoped that unemployment among this group of veterans will decrease substantially. In making the announcement, the commissioner said, "These young men have more than given of themselves. Now it is up to us to fulfill our responsibility to their usefulness by helping them adjust to the needs of a civilian labor market."

Local Company Lays Plans For Branch Office

Pat Gross, manager of Triangle Finance Company in Wayne, announced last week that a branch office would be opened in West Point by his company by late summer.

This is the first branch office for the firm, which has operated locally the past 40 years. A license for Triangle to locate was granted at a recent hearing before the Nebraska Department of Banking in Lincoln. There were no objections to the application.

Gross noted that a location had not been finalized yet. The company will make small loans to individuals and businesses, and hopes to serve the West Point community by enabling businesses to sell installment contracts for merchandise on a local basis and make installment buying more readily available.

Thone: Students Could Be Millionaires

Students with vocational-technical degrees have a better chance of becoming millionaires than those graduating with bachelor of arts degrees, U.S. Congressman Charles Thone Friday evening told 88 graduates of Northeast Nebraska Technical College.

"The prospects look very good for the future of this college and for this class of graduates," Congressman Thone said in a commencement address before 650 persons.

He said he was especially pleased that the technical college area will be merging in a year with the two-year academic college at Norfolk.

The congressman commended Northeast Tech for offering only fields where there are demands for graduates. He pointed out that the demand for this class until 1980 will include 37 per cent more secretaries, which had the largest number of graduates at tech, and there will be 48 per

LHS Graduation Wednesday

A crowd of 1,100 friends and relatives gathered at the Laurel High School auditorium Wednesday evening for the presentation of diplomas by School Board president Warren Patefeldt to the 54 graduating seniors.

The Laurel High School concert band played "Pomp and Circumstance," and the recessional. Pastor William Silbert of the World Missionary Church in Laurel, gave the invocation and benediction. The swing choir sang "The Road Not Taken." Denise Dirks gave the valedictorian address and Susan Purcell the salutatorian address.

Legion Commander Boyd Sutton presented Ann Swanson the sports award; Bruce Johnson the music award and Robert Gaden, the citizenship award. A community service award was presented Vern McNabb for his 24 years on the school board and his work within the community. Instructor Mrs. Julia W. Boughn was recipient of this year's Haskell Award.

Awards were presented by Principal Fenton Crookshank to the following: David Deyloff, four-year Regents Scholarship and named alternate to the University of Nebraska Regents All-State Scholastic team; Susan Purcell, Board of Trustees four-year full tuition scholarship to Wayne State; Ruth Diederich and Sally Finn, Wayne State Scholarships; Denise Dirks, admitted to advanced placement standing in English and Philosophy by University of Nebraska and awarded one-year subscription to Reader's Digest; George Schroeder, Athlete of the Year Award; and Robert Gaden and Mickey Maitliff, "I Dare You Awards."

Special recognition was given the following nine members of the graduating class who maintained Alvin Sundell for the awarding of diplomas. The class motto was "May the Promises of the Past become the Realities of the Future." Colors were ice blue and silver. Sponsors were Dennis Crispin and Lynn Tomjak.

Each graduate received the class flower, a white rose, prior to being ushered out by Juniors Brenda Kusemark and Kirk Gardner. A crowd of 1,000 attended the exercises.

Survivors include his widow; one son, Lee of Minneapolis, Minn.; one daughter, Mrs. Randall (Marla) Olson of Bancroft; four grandchildren; four sisters, Mrs. Alvin (Marie) Grabencamp of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Fred (Irene) Kemper of Yakima, Wash., and Mrs. Ed (Vig) Lemke of Pilger.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters and two brothers.

Allen Graduates 29 Seniors

Twenty-nine seniors were graduated from Allen Consolidated High School at commencement exercises Wednesday night.

Special recognition was given to Valedictorian Kathy Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chapman of Allen, who maintained a 97 average throughout high school and to co-Salutatorians Vickie Hrbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carol Hrbert of Dixon, and John Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Warner of Allen, who had 95 averages.

Miss Chapman received the Reader's Digest Award to the valedictorian and a one-year renewable Regent's Scholarship to the University of Nebraska.

The K. R. Mitchell Scholarship went to Miss Hrbert. Darcy Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julie Swanson of Allen, was chosen as alternate.

Gaylor Strivens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Strivens of Dixon, received the Parent-Faculty Organization scholarship. The alternate was Evelyn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson of Allen. Warner was recognized as being one of the 1,377 young men selected to attend the U.S. Military Academy at West Point this year. He will leave in July.

Commencement speaker Melvin P. Olson, administrator of School Services for the State Department of Education, encouraged graduates to use their talents and abilities to find their respective niches in life.

Donations may be left at the Security State Bank in Allen or may be given to Julie Swanson, president of the Allen Alumni Association.

37 Graduate at Wakefield

Of the 37 Wakefield High School graduating seniors, four were honored at Wednesday evening commencement exercises for maintaining a four-year grade point average of 94 per cent or over. The honorees were Devon Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Fischer; Ruth Gustafson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gustafson; Cynthia Kall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kall, and Linda Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Swanson.

Students with an 87 per cent average for the four years were Marvin Bodlak, Vleki Carlson, Steven Kraemer, Cynthia Larson, Kathy McClain, Carol Mills, Elizabeth Rhodes, Carolyn Roberts, Jacquelin Slevens, Linda Tullberg and Kathleen Victor.

Scholarships were presented by guidance counselor Kenneth Quam to Linda Tullberg, the Steve Wilkerson Memorial Scholarship; Carolyn Roberts, American Legion Auxiliaries Scholarship and Wayne State College Co-op Scholarship; Cynthia Kall, Alternate University of Nebraska-Lincoln Regents Scholarship, a letter of recommendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, and a Midland Lutheran College President's Scholarship; Vleki Carlson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Regents Scholarship; Linda Swanson, Midland Lutheran College President's Scholarship; Devon Fischer, Midland Lutheran College Honor Scholarship, and Elizabeth Rhodes, National Merit College sponsored Scholarship from Midland Lutheran College.

Guest speaker for the 8 p.m. ceremony was the Rev. Gail Axen, Carroll. The Wakefield High School Trojan Band, directed by Mrs. Diane Trullinger, played the processional and recessional and the Rev. James Marlett, pastor of the Wakefield Presbyterian Church, offered the invocation and benediction. The Patriots sang "With a Voice of Singing," and the boys' octet sang "Let There Be Music," directed by Mrs. Trullinger.

A congratulatory message, signed by President M. Nixon, was read to the class of 1972, who were presented by Mr. Schnoor to School Board president Alvin Sundell for the awarding of diplomas.

The class motto was "May the Promises of the Past become the Realities of the Future." Colors were ice blue and silver. Sponsors were Dennis Crispin and Lynn Tomjak.

Each graduate received the class flower, a white rose, prior to being ushered out by Juniors Brenda Kusemark and Kirk Gardner. A crowd of 1,000 attended the exercises.

Survivors include his widow; one son, Lee of Minneapolis, Minn.; one daughter, Mrs. Randall (Marla) Olson of Bancroft; four grandchildren; four sisters, Mrs. Alvin (Marie) Grabencamp of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Fred (Irene) Kemper of Yakima, Wash., and Mrs. Ed (Vig) Lemke of Pilger.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters and two brothers.

Music Awards Banquet Held in Laurel

Over 165 parents and students attended the annual Laurel High School music awards banquet held May 17 at the Wagon Wheel Steak House. Invocation and benediction was by the Rev. Clyde Wells. Connie Johnson extended the welcome and special guests were recognized by David McIlroy.

Guest speaker was John Hartin, Norfolk. The Wigner chorals sang under the direction of Joe Stuchan, provided several musical selections.

Keith Lunde and David M. Elroy presented student awards to the 60 band members and 30 chorus members. David Deyloff received the John Phillip Sousa Award and Pam Smith was given the Outstanding Senior Band Member Award. The American Legion award went to Ann Swanson and the National School Choral Award to Jerry Wells.

Student band officers for 1972-73 were announced as follows: David Bloom, president; Connie Johnson, first vice president; Kevin Cunningham, second vice president; Pam Hirsch secretary; Nancy Walsh, treasurer.

Chorus officers for the coming year are Mary Nilson, president; Carolyn Wentworth, secretary-treasurer; David Anderson, student council representative.

Door prizes were awarded Julie Paulsen and Kim McCorkindale.

BACKWARD CAMP

remotes, an American flag and have the children start and sing "America." A clothesline and clothespins will hold the flag in the absence of a pole. If you don't have a cloth flag or can't borrow one for the day, have the children make one on paper (coloring both sides) and tape it to a yardstick. A flashlight will hold the flag during the ceremony then position it in a basket of sand for the duration of the camp.

Active times could include volleyball, softball, tag, dodgeball, kick soccer, tetherball, or whatever the children like to play. It could also be just free time.

EATS AND TREATS

A morning or afternoon snack will prove needed breaks. Keep it simple—milk and cookies, wedges of apple and fruit juice, peanut butter and jelly on squares of bread or crackers. You'll save cash and cavities by staying away from pop and candy.

Let the children help make lunch as part of their camp duties. Make sure they help clean up, too.

For the learning part of camp you might help organize a nature walk around the yard or to a nearby wooded area or park. Have children identify animals and plant life. An older 4-H'er would be a good guide and helper, or check out library books for reference.

Let the children identify types of grasses, clovers, weeds, flowers and vegetables. They may come across frogs, garden snakes, worms, and any number of insects. They'll spot birds, too.

Equip them with pencils and paper so they can keep a list of what they see. A prize could go to the camper who sees the widest variety.

SIDEWALK ARTISTS

You might stage an art show. Cut a roll of plain white shelf paper into one or two poster-size pieces for each child. Have a supply of big and little brushes, poster paints, water, old newspapers, and muffin tins or plastic cups.

The children can work on a cleared driveway or patio.

A clothesline becomes the art gallery. Be sure to let the paintings dry flat to avoid streaking when they're hung.

A judge could award prizes or parents and friends could be invited to a showing. The children could send invitations out a day or two ahead of the camp to announce their gallery's opening. Perhaps this camp could wind up with a neighborhood potluck supper. That way fathers and mothers who work can join in the fun when they get home.

PET SHOW CAMPING

Children might prefer the pet camp. Have them bring pets in costume or not. Set up card tables or a picnic table for exhibiting the little ones—gerbils, snakes, hamsters, etc. Insist on cages. Cats and dogs should be on leashes to keep the show friendly.

Pets could receive prizes for the biggest, littiest, funniest, newest, oldest or shortest tail. Extra prizes could go to those who perform.

Try a turtle race: Put pet turtles at the center or a round circle (string or twine laid on the ground).

Prizes can be little things—a piece of fruit, chewing gum, or plastic coin for the trainer, or a gift-wrapped dog biscuit or catnip for the performer.

This is another camp where an audience of parents and friends will double the excitement.

Whether the camp you have is elaborately planned or a last-minute affair, you and the children would both enjoy it. Here are some things to keep in mind before you start:

1. Lay some ground rules and let the children lead the planning.
2. Keep it simple.
3. Get help from other people.
4. Know the children who are coming.
5. Be sure parents know if you're serving lunch.
6. Have enough supplies on hand for half again as many campers as you are expecting. Word tra-

Smith-Corona: the graduation gift to help make sure there's another graduation.

Congratulations. It's not every day your son becomes a Freshman in college. And you know, of course, the work is going to get a lot tougher from here on.

Which is why a Smith-Corona makes an ideal graduation gift—it can help for the next few years of school.

With spelling for instance. Because a typed word that's misspelled looks misspelled and just asks to be corrected.

Our electric portable can save time too, since a student can learn to type twice as fast as he can write by hand. Creative thoughts can't slip away either, because a typewriter really listens to the student—accepts every idea as fast as it's thought up.

This can all add up to organization. When that happens, confidence and self-esteem can't be far behind.

With the right amount of application and ability, your student can go on an easier path toward next graduation.

But why Smith-Corona? Because all typewriters are not the same. That's why. We invite you to compare Smith-Corona with any other typewriter to prove it.

Compare durability, portability, features. Compare years of experience in making typewriters (especially electric portables).

Then remember that Smith-Corona is the only completely American-made portable, and you'll know why more people in the world buy Smith-Corona Electric Portables than any other. And why you should, too.

Our dealers are in the Yellow Pages.

SMITH-CORONA. We think we make better students. We know we make better typewriters.

Deluge of Rain Creates Mudville, Nebraska

Northeast Nebraska, including the Winside and Hoskins areas, got a taste of a little water, this week. Four and a half inches to be exact.

Farmers in those areas as well as town residents, expected the weatherman to give the area a little rain. But 4½ inches in one hour was a bit too much.

"This is the most rain I've seen in my 27 years of farming in Hoskins," said Wayne Thomas. "It sure was coming down."

"The most damage it did around here was to plug up the fences and knock some fences down."

Other area farmers experienced mostly soil erosion due to flooding. One of the biggest concerns to these farmers is whether or not they will have to replant the corn. The answer to some farmers is "just wait and see."

The Winside area was the hardest hit in the area with some rainfalls reaching five inches.

"It (the rain) looked like a sheet of snow," said Mrs. Louie Willers. "It was coming down so hard the rain looked like big snowflakes."

The Willers, who live one and a half miles south of Winside, had some flooding problems when water from a small dam on their land flooded over. The feed lot and the surrounding areas were covered with about 10 to 12 feet of water.

"We were really getting worried," Mrs. Willers said, "when the water started coming up the road and surrounding the house."

All the cattle were accounted for, she said, but the Willers did have a little problem rounding them up.

"When the feeding area flooded the cattle started swimming toward the deeper part of the watered area. My husband had to go out there and try to get the cattle to stay in one area."

By Wednesday morning the Willers family began the job of repairing the torn down fences. But the repairing of the feed lot has to wait, said Mrs. Willers, "until things dry up."

The Louie Willers farm, south of Winside, turned into an example of Mudville U.S.A. Wednesday morning after four and a half inches of rain fell in an hour Tuesday.

A moment of solitude . . . Wayne Thomas and his grandson, Billy, look over the land.

After the water settles, it will be a matter of time before farmers can check to see if the recently planted corn crop will have to be replanted.

The high waters covered many roads in the northeast Nebraska area. As a result the waters dumped debris along the roads.

More than 10 feet of water flooded the Willers' farm, leaving many feed troughs turned over.

Wayne State Students Will Present Piano-duet Recital

The Music Department of Wayne State College will present students from the studio of James Day in a recital of original works for one piano-four hands on Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre in the campus Fine Arts Center. The public is invited to attend this free program.

The program has been planned to present seldom heard compositions in the piano-duet medium. On the program are two noteworthy works of interest, one by Brahms, the other by a Frenchman, Florent Schmitt.

Five of Brahms' "Love Waltzes" for piano duet and mixed voices will feature pianists Beverly Sapp of Norfolk and Sara Bettenhausen, Hartington.

The vocal part of the composition will be performed by an octet consisting of Laurie Wolters, Beth Bergt, Tim Sharer and Steve Carman, all of Wayne; Marla Schieffer, Crofton; Jean Knell, Newcastle; Roger Praeuner, Neligh, and Dick Palmer, Hartington.

Four pieces from the Florent Schmitt duet suite based on the fairy tale old Lukolo of Hans Christian Andersen will feature Dr. Robert Johnson of the Communication Arts Department, prefacing each musical setting with the appropriate Andersen narration. Other program selections include composers J. C. Bach, Schubert, Grieg, Respighi, Debussy and Casella. Performing pianists are Jerl Manning, Laurie Wolters, Beth Bergt, Melinda Anderson, Jeanne Knell, Dianne Svatore, Rosemary Raasch, Bonnie Slefken, Marla Schieffer and James Day.
