Thailand Youth to Be Next AFS Student in Wayne

According to Bob Porter, publicity chairman for the local American Field Service Chapter, Wayne's AFS student for the coming year will be 17-year-old John Prayoon Thavon.

"Yes," as he is called, is from a small farming village, Ban Nongkhunoi, in Udon Province, Northeast Thailand. Most of his fellow villagers are his cousins, and like him, are Catholic. Most are quite poor.

As a young boy John lived with his family (he is one of 12 children) and worked with them in the paddy field. After completing his fourth year of primary school in the village, he went to study at Fatima Seminary in Ban Thare and visited his family on-odd-vacation. Ban Thare has a population of about 5,000.

An older brother, who has sponsored his education, then arranged for him to make his home with his (the brother's) in-laws while attending St. Joseph School in Ban Thare. Of his life with this family, John has written: ". . . Mother got up early to sell things in the market. She always spends the whole day in the market. I like to get up at the same time as she does to help her. Then the two brothers and I water some fruit trees and vegetables in our garden. After that we fill the jars in our house with drinking and using water. Then we raise our pets. . . Before breakfast the youngest brother and I prepare our lessons for our daily classes. . . After school we play some sports. . . We like to play soccer, basketball, takro, plug pong and volleyball. Then we water the plants in our garden and take a bath. Before dinner we learn together. After dinner we like to watch television at our neighbor's house. An hour before sleep we revise our lessons. . . On the holidays, Saturdays and Sundays, I always go to visit my younger fellow students at their homes to teach them and help them understand their lessons better. . . I go to mass once or twice on Sundays. . .

John says he likes to read and study and has joined the Youth

Association of Ban Thare which includes 20 young girls and 17 young boys.

Since he was a small boy, John's goal has been to help the Thai farmers in Northeast Thailand.

Upon his return from the United States, John intends to study to be a teacher at Khon Kaen University about four years, and if he has enough money, to study agriculture. He wants to learn as much as he is able, then work in an office, perhaps as a teacher, until he has enough money to buy his own field and some farming instruments. He intends to plant fruit trees, rice and corn and to raise pigs, cows, buffaloes and chickens. He wishes to experiment in agriculture in order to do his part in making the life of the farmer in his part of the country better.

John will arrive July 20 in New York, and following several days of AFS orientation, will come to Wayne to make his home with the Cyril Hansen family of Route 2, Wayne.

Vernie Larson, Wayne, Is Killed In Car Accident

Vernie V. Larson, 75, of 709 Pine Heights Road, Wayne, was killed Wednesday afternoon in a two-car accident five miles west and 1 1/2 miles north of Homer.

State Patrol reports said Mr. Larson was a passenger in a westbound car driven by Carl Carlson, 75, of Winside which collided at a county road intersection with a northbound car driven by Mrs. Alfred Harris, 51, of Homer. The mishap occurred about 2:40 p.m.

Mr. Larson was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital at Sioux City, Ia. Thomas Coriden, Woodbury County medical examiner, said death was caused by head injuries. Carlson was reported in good condition at St. Luke's with possible internal injuries and Mrs. Harris also was hospitalized in good condition with facial lacerations and a possible back injury.

Mr. Larson, a native of Laurel, had lived in Wayne the past 10 years after retiring from the Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha Railway. He had been a railroad employee for 44 years and was roadmaster at the time of his retirement.

Fire at Allen Farm

Lightning destroyed a stack of baled hay on the Forest Smith farm, Allen, early Tuesday.

A total of 2,700 bales were lost, but a stack of 300 bales and nearby buildings were unharmed.

The loss reportedly was covered by insurance.

The Allen Fire Department received the alarm at approximately 5 a.m. on July 4.

Grandstand Going Up

Fairgoers this summer will be treated to some extra comfort when this grandstand, now being constructed at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, is completed. It will be dedicated as the Al Baha Memorial Grandstand on the second night of the fair, Aug. 4. The new seating, which faces generally northeast, will accommodate approximately 1,500 persons, Marilyn Koch, secretary-manager, estimates. There are 15 tiers of seats, each 150 feet long, with much more knee space in between than the old wood grandstand afforded. Planks will be placed on top of the cement blocks shown in the picture.

Cuming Co. Judge Files for Re-election

Joseph F. Hunker of West Point, county judge of Cuming County since 1966, filed for reelection to that office with the Secretary of State Thursday.

Under the provisions of the recently-passed court reform bill, there will be three county judges elected in the 20th Judicial District, which is composed of seven counties—Wayne, Stanton, Pierce, Madison, Cuming, Knox and Antelope.

Jurisdiction under the new reform bill will be enlarged, duties will be more and different and the work will generally be under the administrative supervision of the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Every candidate, to be eligible, must be a lawyer, one of the major differences in the new system.

"The new system undoubtedly does have flaws, some known and probably some not yet discovered," Judge Hunker says, adding "but in the long run the people of Nebraska will be served with a better system of justice, and that's the name of the game."

A native of West Point, Judge Hunker is the son of F. J. Hunker, who began his law practice at West Point in 1856. Mrs. Hunker is the former Frances Armbruster of Stanton.

Judge Hunker began a 26-year military career with the Navy in 1932, then became a flying cadet in the Army Air Corps, winning his wings in 1937. He retired in 1958.

He returned to law school in 1960, after an absence of 30 years, and, after graduation in 1963, practiced law at West Point until 1966, when he assumed his present position as county judge.

The Hunkers' son, Fred, will begin his third year in medical school at the University of Nebraska this fall. A daughter, Mrs. Richard (Mary Jo) Rief lives at Dearborn, Mich.

Plans Made for Livestock Field Day at NE Station

Walt Tolman, district beef specialist at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station, said a full program is lined up for the Livestock Field Day Tuesday evening.

In addition to a swine program, Tolman says the program will consist of:

—Report on five experiments with high moisture and acid-treated corn feeding and see cattle, feed, storage structures and acid applicators.

—Several cattle feeders will tell of unusual, successful high moisture storage and feeding systems and will answer questions.

—Hear a brief, straight-from-the-shoulder report on some 64 Iowa feeders' experiences while testing acid storage and feeding high moisture corn.

—Summary of University of Nebraska Dairy Department experiments with alfalfa haylage preservatives.

—Weather permitting, the making of haylage for a preservative test.

Following a question-and-answer period, lunch will be served.

Dixon May Have Senior Center

All interested persons are invited to attend an organizational meeting at St. Anne's Catholic Church, Dixon, Wednesday evening, for a proposed Senior Citizens Center.

Arrangements for the meeting have been made by the Rev. Anthony Malone of Dixon and Ann-Marie Krefele, area extension agent from the University of Nebraska Northeast Station at Concord. They emphasize that there are no requirements for participants to meet concerning age, religion, sex, etc.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday will include a program to be presented by members of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center.

Eclipse Can Cause Damage to Eyes

Viewing the sun at any time can cause eye damage, but a partial eclipse is the most dangerous to view since light coming from the crescent or even tiny spots have full intensity and can permanently blind that part of the retina of the eye that it falls upon, warns the Nebraska Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Nebraska will have an eclipse ranging between 50 and 55 per cent Monday (today).

Dr. R. H. Melisner, medical advisory committee chairman and Omaha ophthalmologist, says "direct viewing of the eclipse at any time can result in serious eye damage or permanent blindness. The only safe method in which to view the eclipse is at home on TV."

Antique Museum Collector's Dream

By Betty Kavanaugh
Marvin Fuoss, well-known antique collector of rural Winside, has recently added a new version of the pioneer days to his unique collection.

Authentic, hand carved, scale models of horses, oxen, wagons and biggles now adorn the Fuoss living room.

Fuoss is well known in this area for his participation in various parades and the Northeast Nebraska Steam Threshing Show. The threshing show is held annually each September on the Ray Magnusen farm north of Wakefield.

The 1912 Model T Ford Runabout that Marvin assembled from pieces collected from practically every county in Nebraska has been driven in numerous parades in the area.

He dug the fenders, running boards, hood and other parts out of creek banks and from under other debris. Then one winter he sanded, polished and painted them in the Fuoss' basement.

Mrs. Fuoss grinned as she complained about the cost of the new red carpet bought recently for the interior of the runabout.

A case cross motor, 16-horse Twin City, 1500 International, 4080 Minneapolis, 1916 Clover Hailer, 2040 and 2545 Rumely Oil Bulls, 1,864-horsepower Dressing machine, 10-horsepower Mogul and a 10-horsepower Titan motor are a few of his priceless antique farm machines that he has restored to good working condition and uses at the threshing show.

"Antiques have no exact value," Fuoss says, "to one person they may be worthless, to another they may be worth $50 and to still another person the same thing may be worth $600 or more."

He admits that he has been offered some pretty fantastic prices for his tractors and Model T's. He seems dismayed that anyone would put a price tag on such historic articles. Occasionally he has been known to trade some of them.

Even his "new antiques" were for the purpose of resale but once he owned them, he decided to keep them.

The models were made by Marvin Kruse and Sons, Hartington.

Each horse in the displays differs slightly from the other, making them more authentic. And each horse has a handmade leather harness with spreaders, tassels, harness and some of them have rhinestone-decorated bridles.

The teams can be alternated to "pull" the buckboard, drag wagon and stagecoach.

Fuoss' scale model, brown oxen pulling the cloth covered schooner, looks burdened, yet strong.

His new collection also contains a surrey with a fringe on top and a buggy with a wiffle-tree and vinyl top.

"But the horses I have are work-horses and they wouldn't look very good pulling a buggy," Marvin explains. He plans to add other kinds of horses to his collection.

When asked about dusting such unique household objects, Mrs. Fuoss smiled and shrugged her shoulders. She is accustomed to it.

Old Spinning Wheel
Her house contains such antiques as a spinning wheel brought from Germany by her great-grandmother, a bathroom bowl set that is about 55 years old and an antique octagonal clock that "chimes on the hour and half hour."

The Fuoss' have two children, Sandra, 15, and Dennis, 17, who are also interested in antiques.

Dennis has collected over 155 pieces of antique barbed wire and enjoys making rope on his 1901 rope-making machine.

But storage for his antiques has become a major problem to Marvin Fuoss.

The garage, machine shed and any other available building has been fitted to its capacity with everything from an original sod busting plow to cowbells to cast iron seats to a hand pump vacuum.

Highway 275 Hearing At Wisner on Aug. 1

The Nebraska Department of Roads and the NEBRASKA Highway Commission will hold a public corridor-design hearing Aug. 1 on the proposed improvement to U. S. Highway 275 in Wisner.

The project begins near 17th Street then continues easterly for 1.2 miles. The design calls for grading, storm sewer work, concrete base and asphaltic concrete surfacing.

The hearing will be held in the Wisner City auditorium at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 1. All interested parties are invited to attend and to present their views on the proposed project.

Accreditation Given To Winside School

The Winside School has been accredited for the 1972-73 school year, according to Mel Olson, administrator, Section of School Administrative Services of the State Department of Education.

The action was taken by the State Board of Education recently upon the recommendation of the State Accreditation Committee.

Who-o-o to You, Too

This old night owl got a little balled up on the time of the day and was cavorting about during the day, along with three of his pals, when Richard Mettzer, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mettzer, spotted them in a tree in their yard at 1020 Pearl. By the time The Herald photographer arrived, however, three of the owls had wised up and hid out wherever owls are supposed to hide out during the day.

County Budget Hearing July 26

The Wayne County Commissioners have set Wednesday, July 26, at 10 a.m., as the date and time for the public hearing on the county budget for the next fiscal year.

The meeting, to be held in the commissioners' room of the Wayne County Courthouse, is open to the public, which may voice any comment on items in the budget at that time.

The figure of the proposed budget has not as yet been determined, since not all county offices have submitted their requests.

Homestead exemptions were signed by the board at Wednesday's meeting. Under a law passed by the Nebraska Legislature two years ago, persons who own and live on farms or homes in urban areas can apply for a tax exemption on real estate.

Youths Compete In Showmanship Event in Illinois

Jack Slevers of Wakefield represented Nebraska at the National Showmanship Contest held at the Northern Pump Farms, McHenry, Ill.

Slevers earned the right to represent Nebraska at the Nebraska Junior Hereford Association Progress Show held in June at Broken Bow.

Contestants from 22 states competed in the Illinois contest, sponsored by the American Junior Hereford Association.

Slevers' sister, Susan, finished second out of 76 girls in the girls' judging contest held at the National Contest.

Accompanying Jack and Susan to Illinois were their mother, Mrs. LeRoy Slevers, and cousin, Dean Slevers of Wayne.

Checking Doors

How many times have you heard someone ask, following some type of crime, minor disturbance or main street drag race, "where were the police when it happened?"

We'll tell you where.

They probably were checking doors — that's where.

Anyone thinking that a policeman's duties consist only of cruising around town looking for speeders or checking out suspicious-looking characters, should follow the man in blue around on his night rounds.

He has to check out family spats, many of which are settled before the policeman arrives and the "combatants" are by then acting like honey-moons — no longer in need of the law's services.

He has to check out unmet reports of loose and barking dogs and warn the owner to keep Fido confined and quiet.

He has to look for missing persons, whether they be runaways or elderly folks who may have become confused and wandered off — or teenagers who have overstayed their curfew and who have parents biting their nails.

He has to risk fielding a roundhouse punch while trying to break up an alley fight and then hope he is given no resistance from either or both brawlers should he decide they need a cooling-off period in a jail cell.

He is forced to push his cruiser far beyond safe speeds to catch a speeder or to get to the scene of a crash, etc.

Then, there is that ever-dreaded job of taking charge at a fatal accident, removing injured to the hospital or summoning an ambulance — and then sometimes having to be the one to break the news to the next of kin.

He has to investigate a report of a car parked in the middle of the highway across town. By the time he arrives, there may be no sign of a vehicle but at that instant the radio blares out a message that a motorist nearly hit a stray cow in the road — across town in the opposite direction. Again, no Bossie.

In between all of these duties, he has to check doors.

Would you believe that in a night's time, he has to check 362 doors? And some are given double or triple checks.

Virtually, if you will, the thought of making at least 362 stops nightly — counting front and back doors of all businesses — plus the spats, dogs, accidents, etc.

Do you still think a policeman's job is a soft life?

Doors are found unlocked or open — often. Then it is the policeman's job to check it out for possible burglary and, if obviously an oversight by the owner, call that person to come down and lock up.

Of course, there's always the chance that an unlocked or open door might mean there's someone inside — and the policeman is at a disadvantage. He can't see the intruder, but he can be seen — and he's a good target for a panicked burglar.

Any evidence of a breakin, however, would likely result in a call to headquarters for assistance or a "blow-by-blow" report by portable walkie-talkies should the officer enter the building alone. Should the officer fail to report back in a reasonable length of time, help would be on the way shortly.

It's no place for the faint of heart — or for heroes.

But, should door checks be the responsibility of city police or should those duties be confined to crime prevention or checking out businesses after reports of open and unlocked doors are received?

Should door-checking be at taxpayers' expense or a matter for private concerns, who could jointly hire someone to make the nightly rounds at a not-too-exorbitant cost for each to bear?

It might be a matter worth consideration.

Beer, Bricks and Report Cards

Now that the Fourth of July is over, let's take a look around the nation to see what's been happening.

A church in Dubuque, Ia. may have come across a way to entice church members to attend services more often. Offer your parishioners beer!

But not in church.

It seems that St. Joseph's Catholic Church has been having trouble getting people to participate in its activities. In an effort to lure the crowds to the festivities, the Rev. William Roach, pastor, purchased a $300 permit to sell beer. But, emphasized the pastor, there will be no bingo.

According to a lay director of the church board, the permit was obtained because an Iowa attorney recently cracked down on bingo and other gambling.

Down south in Stroud, Okla., the United States has selected its teams for the 13th annual International Berick and Rolling Pin Throwing Championships which will begin July 15.

The U. S. will choose two teams to compete against teams from Stroud, Gloucestershire, England; Stroud, New South Wales, Australia, and Stroud, Ontario, Canada.

The men use a five-pound brick furnished by Stroud, Okla. A two-pound hard-wood rolling pin, from Stroud, New South Wales, is used by the women.

How about school?

Maybe a sore subject for students enjoying their summer vacation, but for some mothers in Berlin, report cards were even a worse subject to talk about, especially trying to get quick information on why Johnny got a certain grade.

But Berlin may have found an answer this year — to be used in the future — dial-a-teacher.

With schools closing for the summer, West Berlin's educational system opened a "dial-a-teacher" service to explain final report cards by telephone. A city spokesman said some mothers in the past gave in to anger when they couldn't get a fast explanation of children's bad grades.

How many local teachers would be willing to get up in the middle of the night to answer a parent's complaint?

OSHA Is Hunting Flies With an Elephant Gun

Picture this situation, Arch Booth, vice-president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, asks. You are a small businessman with a half-dozen employees. One day, out of the blue, a federal safety inspector shows up and tours your establishment.

A few weeks later, you are notified that you have violated a section of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. You ask for a copy of the regulation you have allegedly violated. You are told there are no copies available, and fined $16 for the violation.

Two weeks later, you receive a 248-page list of regulations from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. There is nothing in it about the offense you are charged with. So, once again, you ask the officials for a copy of the pertinent regulation.

Another month passes, and you receive a 48-page supplement to the 248-page rule book. It covers your situation, but does not indicate that you are violating the rule. You appeal.

After a four-hour hearing, involving seven federal officials, the charge against you is dismissed in a 19-page decision. It dismisses your case, but it's a true story. And many other small businessmen have had similar experiences.

Expecting the small businessman to cope with a 248-page legal document is bad enough, but that is only the tip of the iceberg. The Associated General Contractors estimates that a building contractor who wants to get everything he needs to be fully informed of his responsibilities under the law would have to spend $6,000 for a stack of documents 17-feet high.

Yet — believe it or not — the OSHA began enforcing the new act with little prior attempt to educate the businessmen to his responsibilities. And no wonder... there is evidence that many of the federal enforcers have not been very well educated, either.

A safe environment is important at work or at home. But safety regulations have some relationship to conditions in the real world. Unfortunately, many of OSHA's do not. For example, fire extinguishers suitable for wood, paper and cloth fires are required on building construction projects — even for steel and concrete buildings. Or, take ice — drinking water for workers cannot have ice in it. Why? Because years ago, ice came from frozen rivers or ponds, and was therefore likely to be unsanitary. And so on.

Not a law but so complex that it cannot be understood by those who must live under it. But many of OSHA's regulations would be a mystery to any businessman who cannot afford to keep a staff of highly trained experts, as do the big corporations. There are 11 pages, for example, all relating to ladders, their construction and use. How many different ladders do you use in your operation? How long would it take you to see if you are in compliance with just this one regulation?

Congress, which passed the law in haste, under intense pressure from special interest groups, is now taking a second look, under equally intense pressure from outraged small businessmen. Taking a second look is a very good idea.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration is mistaken that, as an agency to follow with respect to its own practices, too. It clearly needs to become more educational and less punitive. And there are encouraging signs that it may be moving in this direction. After all, nobody wants accidents... but there are legitimate grounds for disagreeing on the best ways to prevent them.

BREAKING and ENTERING!

THE BURGLAR WAS ONE OF THE WORLD'S FIRST SPECIALISTS IN URBAN AFFAIRS. IN FACT, THE WORD "BURGLARY" COMES FROM THE OLD ENGLISH WORD "BURC," MEANING "TOWN". THE BURGLAR "SPECIALIZED" IN BREAKING INTO BUILDINGS!

THE FIRST U.S. BURGLAR ALARM WAS INSTALLED IN BOSTON ON FEB. 21, 1858. IT WAS A VERY SIMPLE DEVICE... A SPRING RELEASED BY OPENING A WINDOW OR DOOR TURNED ON AN ALARM. BURGLARY HAS NEVER BEEN THE SAME SINCE THAT DAY!

113 Million Vehicles Registered in America

LINCOLN — If there seems to be more cars on the nation's roads, it's because there are. The Department of Transportation (DOT) recently released figures showing a registration total of nearly 113 million motor vehicles in America.

The 112,922,354 registered vehicles include 92,752,515 automobiles, 19,527 buses and 10,729 212 trucks. The totals show a gain of 4.2 percent or 4,546,931 more cars than were registered in 1970.

Nebraska is listed among the 34 states with registrations of more than a million motor vehicles. The cornhusker state total of 1,022,693 includes 747,232 automobiles, 3275 buses, and 282,186 trucks.

(Motorcycles and trailers are not included in the DOT figures.) During 1970, 974,158 vehicles were registered in Nebraska. The 58,535 jump in 1971 was a 6 percent increase in the total number, and was above the national average.

California led all states with 12.3 million motor vehicles, followed by Texas with 6,984,269 and New York with 6,890,844. On the other end of the scale were Alaska with 150,655 and Vermont with 237,153 registered vehicles.

Total registration figures for neighboring states include: Kansas, 1,599,109; South Dakota, 441,689; Iowa, 1,841,680 and Colorado, 1,547,598.

To the Editor:

In my letter that appeared in The Wayne Herald of Monday, April 3, I wrote that my next letter would be "...what the Middletown, N.Y., Jaycees did to enlighten their members in the field of politics."

Well, this writer participated in radio listener shows and has been heard many times sounding off on Capitalism, Socialism and the Socialist Labor Party, etc.

Last winter, to be pleasant, I received a telephone call from the Middletown Jaycees, requesting a spokesman from the Socialist Labor Party to speak on the subject of Capitalism vs. Socialism.

Accordingly, on the night of Jan. 20, Aaron M. Orange, a retired school teacher and a member of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Labor Party, was a guest of the Middletown Jaycees and delivered a hard-hitting talk on the issue of Capitalism vs. Socialism.

The meeting was open to the public and resulted in a good question-and-answer period. A college, who had never heard a Socialist Labor Party speaker before, was impressed to the extent where he signed an SLP leaflet to be put on the mailing list.

Considering some organizations shy away from controversial subjects, the Middletown Jaycees are to be commended for having invited Mr. Orange.

More organizations throughout the country should make it their business to listen to Socialist Labor Party speakers.

schools are increasing the number of Greek organizations on the campus.

In recent years, some segments of the population have cast skeptical eyes on the value of the Greek system. "What purpose does it serve?" They ask.

The purposes are many. Although originally tagged as social organizations, all Greek groups place most emphasis on scholastic achievement. The groups provide special programs geared toward aiding the members having academic difficulties. As a result, most Greek organizations boost higher grade averages than the grade averages of the school population as a whole.

Greek organizations also sponsor and support annual philanthropic projects for various charities and needy persons.

Another emphasis of the Greek system is friendship. The skeptics say, "Don't join a fraternity or sorority because you will lose your identity. You won't make any other friends. You become concealed, self-centered and unfriendly to those outside your group."

This isn't the case. No Greek organization tells its members how to choose friends or what friends they may have. Instead the members are reminded that when they are being a friend to someone — anyone they should always do their best to be a good friend.

A member of a Greek organization does not lose his identity or identity as a person; on the contrary, members are encouraged to develop their own interests and potentials. The interests of the members are unlimited. The group also encourages each member to join other campus organizations which complement one's own interests.

Of course, there are a few things each group expects of all its members — participation in the group, good manners, maturity and moral conduct.

Along with the advantages are also the disadvantages. After all, who's perfect? Each member must devote a certain amount of time and money to the group. Yet in many cases, this output is more than returned in the benefits derived by membership.

Obviously, the Greek system is not for everyone, but the important thing to remember is to give the system some open-minded consideration. If you are parents

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

County Superintendent Margaret Graves reports that Pender has raised the incident tuition for the coming term. All other high schools contracting in the county or surrounding counties had reported increases last week. Pender will charge $1,490 this coming term as compared to $1,250 last year.

A 40-total bookkeeping machine brings a new degree of mechanization to St. Francis Memorial Hospital, West Point, according to Administrator Joe Kelson. Nancy Pieper is to operate the equipment. She is also Mediacare clerk at the hospital. The automated machine replaces a slow hand method of posting patients' accounts. In addition, the payroll of the hospital is being run on the machine at present; and future plans include putting the accounts payable and general ledger on the machine. Kelson said the machine has cut payroll producing time in half, from four to two days. Because patients' accounting can be produced on a two or three-hour period daily, the hospital will have its current financial status on a daily rather than monthly basis.

Pastor Louis C. Weltzenkamp, Oakland, was designated Pastor Emeritus of First Lutheran Church by the church council. Pastor Emeritus is an honorary position bestowed in appreciation for devoted service to the congregation and encouragement for him to continue to serve in behalf of the church. Weltzenkamp has served the congregation the past nine years.

Bancroft police are checking on acts of vandalism in the community park recently. An extra-large firecracker was apparently thrown into the stool in the men's restroom in the park, making total replacement necessary, and black-top chunks were placed in the stool of the women's restroom, making a time consuming and costly cleaning job necessary.

Ponca State Park was designated as a check point for the raft regatta held Saturday morning. The race, which involved some 170 rubber life rafts being paddled between Yankton, S. D., and South Sioux City, officially got underway at 6:13 a.m. at Riverside Park in Yankton. Ponca Park was the final check point and as early as noon dozens of spectators had begun to gather on the riverfront, looking upstream for the down coming rafts. The first checked in at Ponca at 3 p.m., cheered by a crowd of several hundred people.

The Fourth of July was a red letter day for Ladd Dietrich, Oakland, who aceed the third hole and eagled the fifth in the same 18 holes of play at the Oakland Golf Club.

John Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Schroeder, Laurel, left last Monday for Davis, Calif., where he will be interning at the University of California.

With the closing of Shady Rest Lodge in Wakefield last week, owner Theodore Jones announced that residents are being moved to nursing homes in the surrounding area. Residents are being transferred to Valley View Nursing Home, Pender, Dahl Retirement Center, Wayne, and other nursing homes in Lincoln, Omaha, Blair, Dakota City, Norfolk, Hartington, Coleridge, Walthill and Beemer.

Plattview's Board of Education members cut approximately $22,000 from the proposed budget — eliminating a second bus and a bus washing garage which had originally been in the plans for the coming year. The proposed budget now is about $35,000 over the 1971-72 budget, and based on valuation information available now (mostly last year's figures) it indicates a probable mill increase of one to two mills. The increase is caused mainly by salary increases and fringe benefits added.

Some of the woodcarvings of Pleasant Valley's Hugo Wuebben will be on display at the new National Carvers Museum building, for which ground is being broken on July 12. Wuebben, who received an invitation this week to attend groundbreaking ceremonies, has donated several of prospective college students or a prospective college student, please take a look at the system.

When you get to college, look it over, meet the members, ask questions about the various groups, evaluate yourself. Would it be good for you? Would you be good for it?

The choice is up to you, and you alone, but look before you decide.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fuoss To Farm

Larry Eugene Fuoss and his bride of July 1, the former Karen Ann Olson, will be making their home near Wakefield where the bridegroom is engaged in farming. The couple were wed in 2 p.m., double ring rites at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Rock Rapids, Ia., and took a wedding trip to California.

The Rev. Andrew Oppedahl officiated at the ceremony. Jay Sandholm sang "Where Do I Belong," "Because," and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Friedricksen. All are of Rock Rapids.

Candles were lighted by Orlan Olson, Rock Rapids, and Kevin Kay, Wayne. Guests were registered by Mrs. Verlyn Carlson, Wayne.

Mrs. Douglas Warda, Rock Rapids, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were JoAnn Law, Bronson, Ia., and Debra Fuoss, Wayne. Bill Lueders, Wayne, was bestman, and groomsmen were Gary Kay, Wayne, and Ralph Fuoss, Glenwood, Ia. Ushers were Denton Olson and Douglas Warda, Rock Rapids, and Greg Urwiler, Laurel.

The bride chose a too-length gown of lace accented, white imported organza over bridal taffeta, styled with high neckline, long, full sleeves and A-line skirt which extended into a chapel length train. Her bouffant veil was caught to a lace petal caplet and she carried a cascade of apricot roses and green, yellow and white carnations.

The bride's attendants were identically gowned in floor-length frocks of polyana over peau de soie in mint green, apricot and lemon yellow, respectively. They wore short matching veils and carried single long-stemmed nuns.

The men wore white tuxedos and ruffled-trimmed shirts, both with black trim. The bride's mother wore a light blue polyester knit and the bridegroom's mother chose pale green. Both had white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Fitzgerald, Rock Rapids, served as hosts to the reception for 125 guests held at the church parlors following the ceremony. Gifts were arranged by Kell Surber and Karla Kay, Wayne; Mrs. Milton Kuna, Crete; Lila Martens, Ash-ton, and Karen Verttoet, Rock Rapids, Ia.

Mrs. Lila Jones, Bellevue, Mrs. Ivan Anderson, Doon, Ia.; and Mrs. Herb McCormack, Rock Rapids, Ia., cut and served the cake which featured a flowering lighted fountain effect between the tiers. Mrs. Marlin McDougall, LeMars, Ia., poured and served punch.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Central Lyon High School, Rock Rapids, and a 1971 graduate of Wayne State College. She taught in the Allen School system the past year. The bridegroom is a 1966 Wayne High School graduate and served two years in the U.S. Army, stationed in Vietnam.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Olson, Rock Rapids, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fuoss, Wayne.

Mark Anniversary

Sixty relatives and friends met at the Carroll City Auditorium July 2 to help Mr. and Mrs. Enos Williams, Carroll, observe their 40th wedding anniversary. Hosts for the event were the couple's children, the Everett Marquardt family, St. Louis, Mo.; the Larry Williams family, Somerville, N.J.; and the John Williamses, Carroll.

Larry Williams served as master of ceremonies for the short program conducted by the couple's seven grandchildren. Mrs. Everett Marquardt and Sharon cut and served the anniversary cake and Mrs. John Williams served punch. Mrs. Larry Williams helped.

Helping in the kitchen and dining room were Everett, Scott and Stephen Marquardt and Larry, John, Shaughan, Kevin and Lisa Williams. Serving in the dining room were Jane and Laura Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married 40 years ago at the Methodist Parsonage in Wayne and have lived on a farm southwest of Carroll since.

Dale Langenbergs, Winside, Observe Silver Wedding Anniversary Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Langenberg, Winside, observed their 25th wedding anniversary last Sunday evening at their home. Guests present for the occasion were the Charles Jackson family, Ted Hoeman, Don Kochs, Warren Jacobsens and Walter Bleichs and the Jim Jensens, TDen.

Cards served for entertainment with prizes going to Ted Hoeman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bleich and Mrs. W. Jacobsen. A picnic dinner held at the Langenberg home Tuesday, was attended by Mrs. Lydia Langenberg, Clarence Langes, the Lawrence Smith family, Lee Thietgens and Hans Rethwisches.

Langenbergs were married July 6, 1947, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Wayne, and have spent most of their married life in the Winside community. Their children are Renee of Omaha, Mona of Norfolk, and LaRue at home.

East Downs West All-Stars, 8-5

The West All-Stars of the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League attempted a come-from-behind victory Wednesday night at Wakefield—scoring four runs in the last of the ninth, but the favored East squad held on for an 8-5 win.

The East took command of the game in the third inning, when it slammed across three runs off three hits to take a 5-1 lead. Second Baseman Larry Uemack was the sparkplug with a double that drove in two runs. Earlier, Left Fielder Ev Bradshaw hit a single that put Shortstop Rick Aadland across the plate.

The East squad had the hottest bats, getting 13 hits—two of which were triples.

Aadland was the team's strong man during the night contest at Wakefield, with a double in the first to set up East's first score, and a triple in the fourth. But that three-sacker turned out to be a holding place for Aadland as the next man struck out, followed by two more outs.

East Pitcher Kim Salton's allowed only one run in the four innings he pitched. The right-hander burned in his curve ball to nip the corners for five strikeouts.

Both squads began to cool down after the third with the East scoring one run in the seventh. Second Baseman Mike Raper set up the scoring play with a triple. Relief Pitcher Dale Martinson hit a single to drive in the run. In the ninth both teams caught fire in a slug-fest duel.

East blew across three runs off two hits via a double by Tom Prince and a single by Ron Rolles.

Jerry Stinger opened the heated stanza with a walk, followed by Prince's double. An error on West's second sacker allowed Stinger to score while Prince advanced to third.

After a strikeout and a ground-out, Rolles scored on a single to bring Prince home and bound an error on the second baseman brought Rolles home after he had stolen second.

With the score 8-2, most of the fans were leaving with no hope of the West to start a rally. But First Baseman Vet Beveler didn't waste any time, blasting a single to set up the team's first run.

Del Wacker, next to bat, was hit in the left leg with a fast ball to put him on first while Beveler advanced to second.

A free trip for Mark Prather loaded the bases with Monte Miller up to bat. Miller then socked a sacrifice to the outfield to push across the third run.

Right Fielder Mike Gahan and Pitcher Terry Lutt were walked to bring in one more score before Rob Eaton, the West's leading hitter, hit a high ball to first to score the last two runs.

According to game rules, Eaton was forced out on first when the West runner, Lutt on first, didn't advance to second.

But alertness for the West squad allowed runners to score from second and third when the East bobbled the ball.

Ron Ege then struck out to end the game.

Geese to be Released In Sand Hills Region

About 250 young Canada geese will be released in portions of the Sand Hills during the next few weeks as part of a Game and Parks Commission effort to re-establish a breeding population of large homers in that area.

This will be the third year of the restoration effort. During 1970, 96 goslings were released, while 165 were introduced in 1971. The area involved coincides roughly with that portion of the state closed to hunting of Canada and whitefronts.

It is hoped that the Canada geese will remember the Sand Hills as home and return there when mature and ready to nest. Birds released in 1970 should mature next year. If they return to the next, it would indicate at least some success in the program.

Most of the goslings being released carry at least some genes of the "maxima" strain of Canada geese, large geese that can weigh as much as 16 pounds as adults. The Maxima nested in the Sand Hills in pioneer days, but has since disappeared.

Goslings used in the restoration project are produced by a captive flock of geese kept at the Commission's Sacramento Game Management Area near Wilcox. This year's releases will be made at Sand Hills lakes on public and private lands in Brown County and on private lakes in western Cherry County.

Wriedt to Coach At Neligh High

Robert Wriedt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wriedt of Wayne, has signed a contract to coach wrestling, teach business studies and assist in coaching football at Neligh High School.

He had taught at Petersburg the past 13 years after graduating from Wayne State College in 1970 with a double major in physical education and business. The 1966 graduate of Wayne High School had played football as a prepster.

Wriedt and his wife, Jeannine, also a WSC grad, have a three-year-old daughter.

Larry Guch was the leading visitor's hitter and playmaker, scoring two runs and slugging four hits. According to Overin, the shortstop was "the best I've ever seen in Midget play" after catching five flies and assisting on six putouts.

Overin, in turn, pitched a gem, giving up four hits before ending the 13-inning contest for the team's 13th win against no losses.

Nelson spun around first and second before making it a stand-up triple.

Roland then popped the grounder to send the crowd's yells echoing throughout the city of Wayne.

Charlie began his pitching duties in the bottom of the fourth when he relieved starting hurler Earle Overin. But an intriguing Nelson took over after both clubs were tied 4-4 going into the fifth stanza.

Bancroft then scored two more runs in the seventh as Coach Hank Overin again put Roland into stay for what the crowd thought would be a never-ending game.

The locals opened the marathon game in the third inning with a run scored by Second Baseman Mike Meyer after he got on first via an error on Shortstop Larry Guch. A single by Left Fielder Marty Hansen put Nelson on third before a wild pitch brought Nelson home.

But an exploding fourth half for the visitors gave Bancroft four runs for a 4-1 lead.

Guch started off the inning, getting on first with a walk. Second Sacker Chris Coppel, who later finished the pitching duties, also got on via a free trip.

With men on first and second, Roland relieved Overin. But Charlie walked two more to give the visitors their first run.

A fielder's choice and two singles accounted for the other three runs, putting the home club behind for the first time in the game.

But Wayne came back with the aid of a blasting triple by Right Fielder Kerry Jech. On the next play, an error on Bancroft's third baseman allowed Jech to score while Catcher Bill Schwartz took first.

Second Baseman Randy Workman made it to first on a walk, putting runners on first and second.

Meyer then slammed a single to score the two men for a tie ball game.

Hansen and Nelson then go on bases via walks to load the decks before Roland flew out to the shortstop for the third out.

Wayne started another scoring drive in the following inning after Coppel took over on the mound.

Schwartz and Kim Baker both walked. A wild pitch sent both players to second and third and later both scored off a single by Meyer and a stolen base.

Going into the top of the seventh, Wayne held a 6-4 lead. But Bancroft team had its bats warmed up as Guch again got a single, followed by a free trip by Coppel. Roland then took over pitching only to have Bancroft's third baseman get on to load the bases.

A sailing double by Left Fielder Randy Tietz scored the tying two runs to send the game into extra innings.

Roland stayed on for six more

Midgets Get 13th Win in 13th Inning Nipping Bancroft, 7-6, in Thriller

The scorebook keepers at the Wayne-Bancroft Midget baseball game probably were happy when the bottom of the 13th inning rolled around. They could just sit back and relax after running out of numbers to put on the board for the remainder of the 13-inning contest that saw Wayne win its 13th game, 7-6.

There wasn't any superstition in those Midget ball players as both teams battled down to the wire after being deadlocked, 6-6, in the seventh inning.

Pitcher Charlie Roland was the man who broke the tie after Wayne broke its third bat, with a bouncing grounder through the hands of Bancroft Second Baseman David Soll, to push in Shortstop Randy Nelson from third.

Nelson shot a booming triple close to the right field wall, sending the over anxious crowd to its feet in hopes this would be the end of the 3 1/2-hour contest Friday night at Wayne.

Nelson spun around first and second before making it a stand-up triple.

Roland then popped the grounder to send the crowd's yells echoing throughout the city of Wayne.

Saul Hurls 16 Strikeouts To Shut Out Clarkson, 3-0

Roger Saul fanned 16 Clarkson batters Friday night for 3-0 shutout and Wayne Legionnaire's sixth victory against five defeats.

Saul, whose fast ball kept dusting the corners, caught the visiting team off guard with his inside throws for seven strikeouts in a row.

Wayne opened up the third inning with a run scored by Saul after he walked to first. A wild pitch then put Saul on second and Rod Cook on first. Joel Renner was put out on a fielder's choice, bringing up Center Fielder Doug Sturm.

Sturm then popped a high fly to right field for a sacrifice fly out that brought Saul across the plate.

Both clubs failed to score in the next two innings until the bottom of the sixth when the Legionnaires unleashed the final two runs.

Both runs, by Shortstop Tom Kerstine and Left Fielder Mike Creighton, were gifts from the visitors as Clarkson walked the next three batters.

Kerstine got on via a single

Nebraska-UCLA Tour Will Aid Cystic Fibrosis

Nebraska Community football fans have been offered a package deal for the Nebraska-UCLA game at Los Angeles, which will be played Sept. 9-while at the same time helping the Cystic Fibrosis Fund.

The total cost of the tour, which will include two nights at Las Vegas enroute to L.A., is $279. Lee Kovensky, who volunteered to handle tour details for those persons in the Wayne area interested, said roughly $40 of each tour ticket will be turned over to the Cystic Fibrosis Fund.

The tour will leave Omaha, Thursday, Sept. 7, in late afternoon or evening and will be flown by United to Las Vegas, with accommodations at the Frontier Hotel.

The tour group will be flown to Los Angeles Saturday, Sept. 9, and be quartered at the Hilton Hotel. Transportation to the game and back to the hotel will be furnished. The flight back to Omaha will be late Sunday afternoon. Game tickets are included in the package deal.

Kovensky urges those interested to contact him at 375-2809 for a reservation deposit of $45. Full payment must be made by Aug. 1.

Commission Sets July 31 As Date For Firearm-deer Applicant Drawing

Drawings to determine successful applicants in over-subscribed firearm-deer units have been rescheduled for July 31, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

The lottery was originally scheduled for July 21, but was delayed because several working days were lost during the holiday weekend. Also, the state needs the extra time to process permit applications into the computer system.

Applications will be accepted from residents only until July 15, and these will be eligible for the drawings. Non-residents may begin applying Aug. 1 for a permit in any unfilled unit.

This year, permit numbers were cut to about 24,000 from the 31,000 authorized last year.

Also, hunters are limited to one firearm and one archery permit. In the past, hunters could take both of their permits for the rifle season or both for archery.

Applicants for big-game permits are reminded to include their social security number on

Unscheduled Bath

Dale Strivens, assistant Boy Scoutmaster of Allen, gets a thorough dunking during Allen's Fourth of July Picnic. Strivens was knocked from his perch over the tank of water when those throwing baseballs hit a target, which automatically released the seat above the water. Strivens was busy getting out of the water as the stand set up in the Allen Park, was a popular spot for his "fans," many of whom were Boy Scouts from his troop.

Wayne Squads Hit Wakefield

All three Wayne teams scored a triple knockout at Wakefield Thursday, beating the home teams' Pee Wee, Little League and Pony League squads.

The Pony Leaguers ran away with their sixth victory in a row, blanking Wakefield, 8-0.

The 14-year-old under team which is undefeated, blasted open in the first with seven runs, aided by a three run homer by Rich Workman and a triple by Bob Keating for two more runs.

In Little League action, the 12-and-under team edged Wakefield, 6-5.

Kevin Murray and Tom Ginn each rapped out booming homers to lead their team with two RBIs each.

The Pee Wees blasted the home team, 14-2.

Annual Wisner Lions Club TRACTOR PULL SUNDAY, AUGUST 13 STARTS AT 1:00 P.M. — GUARANTEED PURSES —

Pinto Wagon: $2265*

We put a lot into it. You can put a lot in it.

What you can put in: over 60 cubic feet. Put the rear seat down and there's 60.6 cubic feet of carrying space. For comparison VW Squareback and Vega Kombi both give you a bit over 50 cubic feet.

The basic $2265* model. It's the ideal choice for people who want an economy car that carries more — of a wagon that costs less. The white sidewall tires (shown here) are $28.00.

Front Disc Brakes. Standard. And there's precise rack-and-pinion steering, which is normally found only in some of the more expensive sports cars.

2000cc Overhead Cam Engine. It's rugged, economical, peppy — and standard equipment. A 4-speed floor mounted all-synchronous transmission is also standard.

Better idea for safety... buckle up!

The Squire Option. That distinctive wood-sided wagon look, plus wheel covers, special trim, and more. No other economy wagon offers anything like it. Price with the Squire Option: $2479*. The luggage rack is $45.53 extra. The white sidewall tires $28.00.

Muscle Spasms Are Blamed for Hiccups

Hiccups can be embarrassing and uncomfortable. The Nebraska Medical Association advises that in most cases, hiccups cure themselves.

Hiccups are most often caused by eating or drinking too much, too fast. A hiccup is a spasm of the muscle dividing the abdomen from the chest.

If home remedies do not relieve your hiccups in a few hours, the Nebraska Medical Association suggests you call your family physician.

Some hiccups persist and last for days. Such an attack of hiccups is a symptom of disease. Relaxed, quiet meals with proper time utilized for eating should help avoid a discomforting, sometimes embarrassing hiccup attack.

40th ANNIVERSARY SALE

Some 40 years ago Mr. and Mrs. At Swan started a specialty shop for men and women at this location, 205 Main Street, Wayne, Nebr. Only through the ability, hard work and efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Swan can this special event be made possible.

In 1952 Mr. Swan and Bob McLean opened a men's specialty shop at 218 Main Street which is their present location. Mr. Swan continued on with the ladies' specialty shop at the present location, through the years she expanded the shop into a high class ladies' shop until her retirement from the retail business in 1962 at which time Troy Vaught purchased her interest in the ladies' shop.

Of course we all know that if it had not been for the many loyal customers and friends none of this could have been made possible, so we wish to say thanks very much to all of you, our good and loyal customers.

A Big Contrast in Fourth of July Celebrations at Wayne and Allen

Bombs bursting in air . . . the Wayne Jaycees put on an exploding fireworks display during the evening at the Wayne ball diamond. In the far right bottom corner, another shell explodes into dazzling shapes.

The Allen High Marching Band was one of the first of the nearly 60 parade entries during the Allen Fourth of July Picnic.

This shiny old Model T Ford in the Allen Fourth of July Picnic parade was entered by the Dixon County Historical Society. Obviously "at home" behind the wheel is Vern Jones of Allen. His passenger is Basil Wheeler, also of Allen.

"Whoa, horse. That's my hat back there" . . . one of the riders in the Jr. Hat competition tries to stop his horse after missing retrieving his hat.

ANTIQUE

(Continued from page 1) turn cleaner to a "Joker" cultivator to a wooden well to a grain cradle that dates back to 1843. Fuoss says that most of his larger antique tractors and motors are stored at the Ray Magnusen farm near Wakefield. "Besides the storage problem," Fuoss says, "it is quite a job getting all that equipment back and forth from the show each year." When asked for an approximate number of tractors, motors or other antique objects that he owns, Fuoss just smiles and shakes his head.

Knows Their History

But when asked for a definition or history of any particular article or piece of an antique, no matter how large or small or from which assorted pile in his various buildings, Marvin can automatically tell you the year, model and history of whatever it belonged to in his entirety. He has the foundation laid for a new 50 by 75-foot building which he hopes to have completed by fall to house some of his antiques. Fuoss owns 320 acres, rents an additional 160 acres and milks 50 cows. "So," he says, "my time is limited for doing other things."

At present he is alternately exhibiting some of his "new version" antiques in the Farmers State Bank in Carroll. Phil Olson, president of Farmers State Bank, reports that he and Fuoss have discussed plans for a museum in the Carroll vicinity to display some of his historical objects that may otherwise be lost to the public.

But, again, storage is the problem. Fuoss says that several possibilities are being investigated but they are open for suggestions. Fuoss has no intention of selling any of his antiques but feels that they should be displayed in the area where their true value to history and farming is remembered, appreciated and understood. Any area antique buffs interested in helping to rebuild memory of the past are urged to contact Marvin Fuoss, Winfield, or Phil Olson, Farmers State Bank.

Concord Postal Clerk Retires

Helen Carlson, clerk at the Concord Post Office, has retired after 27 years of service. Miss Carlson received her appointment as clerk July 1, 1945. At that time Earl Hughes was postmaster. Maxine Kardell, a clerk at Laurel, is being "loaned" to the Concord Post Office when extra help is required.

Two Cars Involved In Minor Accident

An accident at First and Main Friday at 5:15 p.m. caused only minor damage to a car driven by Donald Lienemann of Papillion. According to the City Police report, Lienemann had pulled alongside a car driven by Virginia Preston of 601 Hillcrest Road as she was making a right turn onto First, resulting in left front fender damage to the Lienemann vehicle.

Association Files Suit

The Lutheran Hospital Association of Norfolk filed a suit in Wayne County District Court, alleging that Elroy B. Brogren, Hostkins, owes the association $5,345.22 plus interest and costs, for merchandise ordered and delivered.

Dixon to Have Public Hearing on Streets A public meeting for all citizens in the village of Dixon has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 12, at the city hall to discuss what is to be done with Dixon streets. Nebraska law states that a village governing body cannot spend over $5,000 without the consent of the people. The estimate for resurfacing Dixon streets presented to the village board was $6,000, according to board chairman John Young.

College Officials to Do 'Double Duty'

Officers of the Northeast Nebraska Technical College board of governors will be heading two boards for the next six months. They will also be officers of the Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area board, in compliance with the Nebraska Community College Law, passed by the 1971 Unicameral as LB759.

At a double election held the evening of their June 22, 1972, meeting, the Northeast Tech board first unanimously re-elected Dennis L. Poeschl of Stanton as chairman, Cleon R. Roselius of Norfolk as vice-chairman and Ronald E. Aschoff of Osmond as secretary.

Then the board recessed the technical college meeting and convened as the Technical Community College Area board, when they voted unanimously to have the same officers serve in the same positions for the community college board.

Poeschl explained that the purpose of the community college area board is to prepare for the orderly assumption of duties and responsibilities of the administration and management of the Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area and its facilities, which will include the merger of Northeastern Nebraska College, which is the Norfolk City Junior College, with the Northeast Tech Area. Next January, the community college board to be elected in the coming November general election will assume these duties for the combined Community College Area, which so far will include the 14 original counties of the Northeast Tech Area, plus a portion of Dodge County.

Other counties or parts of counties surrounding this area are considering invitations to join the Northeast Area. In addition to the Tech board serving as a coordinating board for the merger, both the Tech board and the board of the Northeastern College will continue to operate their separate colleges until July, 1973, when the community college area board will assume all college responsibilities. The junior college board, which for many years has also served in two capacities, will then devote its full attention to the Norfolk Public Schools.

Another double duty situation will begin Sept. 1, 1972, when Dr. Robert P. Cox, who is president of Northeast Tech, also will become president of Northeastern Nebraska College, a separate position until July, 1973.

Dual president Poeschl, who has an insurance, real estate and abstracting business at Stanton, has been serving as an officer of the board since the district was formed by an area election in June, 1967. He was elected the first secretary and has been chairman of the board since June 1971.

Secretary Aschoff, Osmond farmer and former Osmond City clerk, also is a charter board member.

Vice-chairman Roselius, district superintendent of Nebraska Public Power District, has been on the board since April, 1968 when he was appointed to the seat held by the late F. Don MacLay who resigned his board position to apply for the Tech College presidency.

Allen Board to Meet
The Allen Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Allen Consolidated Schools.
