Wayne City Council Approves Budget Of $1.9 Million; Levy of 22 Mills

The Wayne City Council began to look the Monday night Democratic convention as the members see-sawed on the proposed city budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

During the five-hour Tuesday night meeting, the Council gave preliminary approval to the proposed $1,906,317.06 budget at a 22.40 mill levy.

This year's budget represents a drop of 1.88 mills or about $35,000 compared to last year's budget of $1,941,930. The mill levy for last year was 23.56 mills.

But in a discussion session, Councilman Frank Prather pointed out to the members that the upcoming budget could function on the same amount but on a different mill levy.

Prather proposed that the city adopt a 22 mill level with the various funds adjusting to the 4 difference.

The Council, in a quick decision, voted in favor of the 22 mill levy. But Mayor Kent Hall told the group that to drop the .4 of a mill would only create problems in the figuring of the funds.

Presently, most towns and cities round off their individual fund mill levies to the nearest even number, Mayor Hall and Councilman Pat Gross pointed out.

The Council finally decided to quit "splitting hairs" and passed the proposed budget at a 22 mill levy.

Currently, the .4 of a mill would have accounted for about $3,100 to be paid by the taxpayers.

Other cost figures include: General fund—$173,200; Street fund—$245,725; Airport fund—$49,200; Sewer maintenance fund—$40,125; Auditorium fund—$24,275; Park fund—$30,718.74; Fire fund—$67,485.20; Hospital fund—$400,028.12; Library fund—$33,920; Amusement fund—$8,240; Social Security fund—$21,400; Bonds—Issue No. 1—$20,000; Bonds—Issue No. 2—$10,000; Bonds—Issue No. 3—$27,000; Bonds—Issue No. 4—$30,000; Sewer revenue bonds—$40,000; Electric fund—$500,000; Water fund—$100,000; Insurance fund—$80,000; and Tax foreclosure fund—$5,000.

The Council opened sealed bids for proposed street improvement projects districts Nos. 66, 69 and 71, plus storm sewer district No. 71-2.

GHI Construction of Jackson had the lowest bid of $50,084.14 for the project, while Risco Construction Co. of Wisner, the only other bidder, priced the three-month job at $62,154.60.

The Council decided to delay any further action on the project pending a study by the street and alley committee.

City Engineer Sid Magdanz told the group that he appraised the project cost about $45,000. "The increased price could be due

Condrey Asks For New Trial

A post-conviction petition in Wayne County District Court Wednesday by attorneys for Danny Gene Condrey, Schuyler, in which Condrey asks for a new attorney and a new trial.

Condrey had been sentenced to the Nebraska Penal Complex for a five-to-10-year term after pleading guilty to a charge of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury against a Wayne State College coed.

A Thursday, July 20, date has been tentatively set for a hearing on the petition.

A pre-sentence hearing for Gale Gronenthal of Millard, formerly of Columbus, charged with conspiracy to commit a felony to wit: kidnap and rape, was held Wednesday morning in the district courtroom but was continued to Monday, July 24, at 10 a.m., before District Court Judge George Dittrick of Norfolk.

Gronenthal was charged in the same alleged incident in which Condrey received the prison sentence.

WSC Graduate Dies After Fall From a Horse

Diana Halstrom, 24, of Meriden, Ia., an April, 1972 graduate of Wayne State College, died Sunday evening as a result of injuries suffered when she was thrown from a horse at the Inter-Varsity Christian Camp, near Colorado Springs, Colo., where she was employed.

She was taken to a Colorado Springs hospital, but died a few minutes after arrival.

As a student at Wayne State, she had been president of Inter-Varsity and active in the Cooperative Christian Ministries. She had been employed the past several weeks at the camp.

Up'n Coming

Sunday, Summer Information Program film series, shown by the Wayne Police Department, to be at East Park, Fifth and Walnut, at dusk. In case of inclement weather, films to be shown at police garage.

Tuesday, 8:30 a.m., County Commissioners meeting at courthouse.

Wednesday, Thursday, Winslow Old Settlers Picnic.

Beer Is Stolen After Break-in

An undetermined amount of beer was taken at Wayne Cold Storage Co., east of Wayne on Highway 35, sometime Tuesday night.

Tom Prenger, owner, had not inventoried as yet as to how much beer was missing.

Detective Scotty Thompson told The Herald that entry to the building was made through a big overhead door in the rear, a hole being made alongside the door lock.

Planning Group OKs Rezoning

The City Planning Commission approved the zoning change of the Gordon Shupe property of West Seventh between Pearl and Lincoln, during a Monday night meeting at City Auditorium.

In a 7-1 decision, with Andrew Manes abstaining, the commission voted to change the Shupe property from its present R-1 (prime residential) zone to B-1 (highway business).

The change now has to go before the City Council for final approval.

Dr. Shupe, who owns the property, told the commission that he would need the zoning change in order to bring in a new business. He contended that the area is growing, with Highway 35 bringing in more traffic into the Wayne area.

Mayor Kent Hall, also in favor of the change, explained to the members the present concept of how Wayne's business district is growing.

"I have some visions for Wayne," he said, "but first I must define zoning."

The mayor went on to say that zoning provides for "orderly growth of a city."

Hall pointed out three business niches in the city, including Seventh Street west of Wayne.

"Let's let the city grow," Hall added.

Cletus Sharer was the only member to vote against the change.

During the commission meeting, the members selected Norm Mordhorst chairman; Bob Jordan, vice-chairman, and Chuck Carhart, secretary.

Mordhorst told the members that Mort Marshall, of the Board of Adjustment, would be leaving soon and appointed Willis Johnson to serve on the board. Johnson also will retain his present position.

Other members of the planning commission are Larry King, Jean Nuss and Bob Allen.

Examiners Are Coming

Driving license examiners will be at the Dixon County Courthouse in Ponca from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today (Thursday) and July 27.

Wayne Youth Escapes Injury

A 16-year-old Wayne boy escaped injury Monday evening when the car he was driving slid on wet pavement and slammed into a cement bridge railing six-tenths of a mile north of Wayne.

Randall L. Nelson, 1414 E. Fifth, was driving north on Hwy. 15 when he apparently lost control of his car, spun around and hit the bridge, damaging the left front end of the vehicle.

According to Investigating State Trooper, C.L. Zurcher, Norfolk, the accident occurred about 11:10 p.m. Zurcher said the car sustained extensive damage.

Cape Wayne Launching

NU Honor to Former Wayne Schoolman

Dr. Norman F. Thorpe, who was superintendent at Wayne High School for two years before joining the Nebraska University staff in 1941 as assistant director of the Extension division, was cited Tuesday afternoon as the first recipient of the Norman F. Thorpe Service Award, sponsored by the Department of Secondary Education at NU.

Edward Schwartzkopf of Lincoln, chairman of the Board of Regents, presented the award to Thorpe in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the University and the state of Nebraska in the field of education.

Dr. Thorpe is retiring this year from the University as associate dean of Teachers College, professor of secondary education and of educational administration, and chairman of the Department of Educational Services. He has served on the faculty continuously since 1941, except for four years in the Army Air Force during World War II.

Dr. Robert Egbert, dean of Teachers College, presided at the reception in honor of Dr. Thorpe in the Nebraska Union.

Those attending the reception included Dr. Thorpe's former students, colleagues and friends.

A native of Waco, he holds an AB degree from Peru State College and MA and Ph.D. degrees from the University.

Dr. Thorpe began his career as a teacher and superintendent at Panama. Before coming to Wayne in the 1939-40 school year, he had been superintendent at Weston and Silver Creek.

Dr. Thorpe and his wife, the former Goldie Creech, have three children: Douglas Lee, an attorney in Los Angeles; Mrs. Serge (Sue) Castiglione, who lives near Boston, and Mrs. John (Mary) Dolce of Lincoln.

Penn Graduated From Nebr. U With Distinction

Robert G. Penn, Wayne, was one of 10 seniors graduating with distinction during the University of Nebraska-Lincoln summer commencement exercises at Perahing Auditorium at Lincoln Wednesday night.

Penn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Penn of Route 2, Wayne. He received a Bachelor of Science degree from the College of Arts and Sciences, with a major in zoology. His plans are to enroll at the University of Nebraska Medical Center at Omaha this month toward a career in medicine.

John Brandstetter, a member of the graduating class from Wayne, sang the national anthem. Chancellor James H. Zumbeke presided and President D. B. Varner conferred degrees. Dr. Alan Saegren, director of summer sessions, was master of ceremonies and the Rev. Alvin M. Petersen was chaplain.

Other area graduates include Henry Keith Schmude, Wayne, Bachelor of Arts from the College of Arts and Sciences; Steven Molne Keri, Wayne, and William Penn Graduated, page 5

Police Films at East Park on Sunday

"Grooving" is the title of a 31-minute color film to be shown Sunday night at East Park, Fifth and Walnut, in the Summer Information program series presented by the Wayne Police Department.

The film features unscripted dialogue among a group of 14 to 18-year-olds who are drug users, non-users and ex-users. In a series of confrontation sessions over several days, the superficially carefree youngsters marathons or not are challenged or brushed aside.

The subtle dangers of pot are faced; the illusions of self-control and especially the feeling of euphoria while motivation evaporates and school grades drop.

The film, especially for junior and senior high, college and adult age groups, is designed to present a broad, condensed range of drug experience as a springboard for discussion.

The second film of the evening is "Highways of Agony," a 27-minute presentation in color for senior high, college and adult age groups. Parents are advised that this film may not be the best suited for smaller children.

Directed at all drivers, this film makes brutally clear what alcohol, speed and recklessness

City in the Dark

Night came early to Wayne residents Monday and Tuesday as a malfunction in a power switch at the light plant shut off electricity for a total of 1½ minutes.

According to Andy Anderson, plant employee, the malfunction has been corrected.

New Rate Schedule

The City Council at Tuesday night's meeting decided to retain the operation of the sanitary landfill and set up a rate system in order to make the operation self-supporting.

In a six to one majority, with Councilman Vernon Russell abstaining, the members voted to take the landfill off city tax rolls and attempt to make it self-supporting.

Earlier, Russell asked the Council if it would be willing to lease the landfill to him. The Council took the proposal under advisement in its sewer and landfill committee.

Councilman Prather told the group that the city should retain the landfill operation as a service to its citizens.

But Russell argued that if the city continues to operate the landfill, it will operate it as a loss.

Russell referred to figures released by Ivan Beeks, chairman of the sewer and landfill committee, showing that the city operated at a $2,000 deficit for the 1971-72 year.

It is obvious, he said, that the city will continue to lose money. Russell pointed out that he could run the landfill area at half of the city's cost and still make a profit.

"I could operate the landfill for about $4,000 in my first year," he said.

Prather maintained that the operation of the landfill was still

City Retains Landfill Job

The city's responsibility and that the Council should not lease the operation.

City receipts for the 1971-72 year totaled $11,445 while expenses amounted to $13,270.

According to City Clerk Dan Sherry, the new rates will take effect as soon as possible.

The new rates are:

Car—75 cents; pickups—$1.50; trailer—$1.50; dump truck—35 cents each cubic yard; packers—45 cents each cubic yard; and building materials and demolition—50 cents each cubic yard.

The rate for debris from home buildings, the council noted, is negotiable with the sewer and landfill committee and the sanitation engineer.

Drainage Improvement

Construction began last week on one of two new culverts being installed on Highway 15 south of Wayne. According to Stan Johnson, project manager for the Norfolk Bridge and Construction Co., the structures, at a cost of $23,000, should be finished in five weeks. Pictured at the top are Johnson, left, and Jerry Kiehl, in the foreground is Allan Anderson and in the background are, Michael Krueger, left, and Kenneth Hahn.

Peggy Hoeman Wed July 8 in Carroll

arranged on a white Bible given to her by her grandmother. The bridegroom's attendants were Ric McNeal, Omaha; Richard Sherman, Stryker, Ohio, and the bride's brother, Perry Hoemann, Hoskins. Ushers were Roger Anderson, Winside, and Alan Meyer, Wayne. The men wore white, Edwardian jackets with black, flared trousers and lavender ruffled shirts. Candles were lit by Doug Anderson, Winside, and Diane Morris, Carroll. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hoemann chose a lavender and white ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white jaspe orchids.

The bridegroom graduated from Jewell, Ohio, High School and is employed as an advertising consultant for Riverview Memory Gardens, Defiance, Ohio. Making their home at Winside, where the bridegroom is employed by Winside Building Supply, are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duering. The couple were wed in June 24 rites at the Laurel United Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Duering, nee Marcella Smith, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Smith, Jr., Laurel. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Duering, Winside. The Rev. Robert Neben, Laurel, officiated at the 7 p.m. rites. Sheryl Anderson, Laurel, sang "Never My Love" and "Theme Song from Love Story," accompanied by Mrs. Vernel Gade, Laurel. Candles were lit by Marla Smith, Laurel, sister of the bride, and Krist Dorlag, Winside, sister of the bridegroom.

For her wedding day the bride chose a floor-length gown of white vintage crepe, fashioned with hand-draped empire waistline and short sleeves. A train of chantilly lace was caught to the shoulders and her shoulder-length veil cascaded from a floral crown. She carried yellow roses and stephanotis. Mrs. Gerald Bruning, Fremont, who served her sister as matron of honor, chose a floor-length gown of flocked dotted swiss in mint green. She carried a colonial bouquet of mint green and yellow daisies.

Best man was Scott Duering, Winside, brother of the groom. Steve Anderson, Laurel, and Kevin Brockmoller, Winside, ushered. The men wore black-trimmed white, double-breasted jackets, black flared trousers and black-trimmed gold ruffled shirts with black bow ties. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Smith chose a coral-colored tulle knit with black accessories. Mrs. Duering wore a powder blue polyester with beige accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Rolde, Laurel, served as hosts for the reception held at the fellowship hall following the ceremony. The 100 guests were registered by Dolene Benjamin, Lincoln, and gifts were arranged by Mrs. Doug Crain, Sergeant Bluff, Ia., and Mary Pat Finn, Carroll, gift carriers were Doreen, Greg and Doreen Rolde and Jeff Anderson. ## NORTHEAST EXTENSION Notes

Older individuals are often bombarded with brochures for "retirement havens" of doubtful value, sure cures for chronic ailments. The Institute of Life Insurance suggests that the older citizens apply several guidelines to check out the validity of operator's claims. For example, before signing any contracts, or agreements, or putting down a deposit, he should check the legitimacy and reliability of the mail advertiser by contacting the local Postal Inspector. Other good resources to contact are the local Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau. Other practices to keep in mind are: Never sign your name under empty spaces, regardless of verbal assurances made by the salesman; Don't get rushed into signing anything; Read carefully and understand everything you sign; If in doubt consult a lawyer, a knowledgeable relative or friend; Always get a detailed receipt when you make any kind of payment; When buying on credit, know the total amount you have to pay - not just the weekly payments; Keep a copy of anything you sign. File it in a safe place; Beware of health devices and health aids such as copper bracelets, good luck charms, etc.

Laurel Couple Honored

Fish Care After Catch

There are few thrills equal to catching a fish, no matter the size or kind, but for many anglers the pleasure ends there, for they don't follow through until their fish reach the table.

Actually, most fish are delicious table fare, including the despicable carp, and steps can be taken to assure they will reach the table in prime condition. The key, of course, is you and I. We have to keep our fish fresh until they're cooked or otherwise placed in the freezer.

Boat fishermen occasionally toss their catch into the bottom of the boat where they die or deteriorate in the sun. About the only time you can get away with this is in cold weather, and even then you have problems; the fish become coated with grime, etc.

Still others put the fish on a stringer and simply tow alongside until they drown. In cool weather the stringer is OK, but even then the fish should be brought aboard when the boat is in motion and placed in a pail of water or in a live well. And this water should be changed frequently.

In summer, of course, fish deteriorate more rapidly. Those fish neglected to any degree will not have a desirable flavor no matter how good the cook. Immediate care is a must. Either return the fish to the water promptly on a stringer—line or large mesh type—or preferably, make minimum cleaning preparations and place on either crushed ice or cube's in a portable ice box.

But when using a live stringer, do not run it through the gills. This hampers the fish from taking oxygen from the water and death usually results in sort order. Instead, run the stringer through the lower jaw—piercing the thin membranous tissues just behind the jaw bone. No pain to the fish. The fish so strung can breathe more normally.

At this time of year, take along an ice chest. You can pick up a styrofoam unit almost anywhere for a dollar or so. And when we all have to stop fishing for even a minute, particularly when there's action, do it anyway. Clean the fish, wiping the body cavity dry, and place immediately on ice. You can do the other later—the scaling, skinning, etc.

MILK CARTONS ON ICE When at home, complete the cleaning. You can place the fish in a container full of water—lots of people use milk cartons—and freeze. In the event it's impossible to clean the fish when still fresh, freeze them intact in a container of water or wrap them in a good grade of paper to prevent drying out and place in the freezer. Either way, when you ultimately thaw them in a pan of cold water, you'll find they'll clean almost as easily as if fresh; and that the flavor will still be good.

Apprehensive of this, last summer I turned down an offer of about 100 white bass for an office fish fry from George Lelloy of Buffalo Bill's Scouts Rest Ranch at North Platte. Business was so brisk one evening off his boat at Midway Lake that "Captain" George literally froze the fish live in their tracks. Now, knowing better, I would jump at his offer, but undoubtedly he has had other takers since.

MAGNIFIED FUN A simple way to entertain old and young alike when action slows while camping is to take along a magnifying glass. Start by looking at a knot in the picnic table; the pattern and swirls in the wood tell a story of the tree while it was growing. Saw off a section of a fallen branch and study the rings to learn how old the branch was. Find a spider web and visualize the tremendous skill it takes to engineer such construction. How about ants? Check the heavy loads they're carrying. Or bird feathers? You'll find many different kinds while moving around. And don't pass up butterfly wings. Under your magnifying glass study the colors and the wonderful construction.

MISHMASH... Anchor selection for boats is no easy chore. While heavier anchors generally hold better than similar ones of lighter weight, the anchor's design is of greater importance. Some have more working area than others in their blades, while others tend to bite into the bottom quicker or deeper... Snap swivels reduce the twist and make it easy to change lures... Crowd the cover if you want bass on surface bays. The closer you drop the big to lily pads, sunken logs, cutaway banks and tree roots, the better your chance for a strike. Often the ability to drop your lure right against shore rather than a foot away will mean the difference between a full stringer and no fish at all.

PLACES TO GO... The DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge across the Missouri River from Blair where the Steamboat Bertrand (sunk in 1865) has been unearthed. More than two million artifacts have been removed from her hull, with selections from her cargo on display... Old Fort Sidney, two blocks south of Highway 30 in Sidney, where part of the history of Nebraska's old Army posts lives on and is on display in the restored home of the commanding officer. Fort Sidney was founded in 1867 and in its early days was a link in the Army's chain of forts along the Oregon Trail.

Wakfield's Rob Eaton started the pitching duties but was relieved in the second by Terry Lutt. During those two innings Sloux City scored six runs to break a 4-4 deadlock in the first.

Wakfield was able to tie the game at 6-6 in the fourth but the home team broke open the game with a single in the fifth and six runs in the seventh and Sloux City's Mike Cadwell and Ev Bradshaw were the team's leading hitters, each slamming a home run.

Wakfield's record stands at 2-6 while Sloux City retains the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League's top spot with an 8-0 mark.

Friday night Wakfield is scheduled to host Ponca in a makeup game at Wakfield.

Ladies Golf Match Slated for July 19-20

The second annual Port of Sloux City River-Cade Ladies Golf Tournament is slated for July 19-20, at Green Valley Golf Course.

An 18-hole qualifying round will be played July 19 to determine flights with the final 18 holes played July 20. Both days scores will count toward the total.

Entry fee is $7.50 and the deadline for registering is July 14.

Winside Blasts Wayne's Perfect Record

Pitcher Earle Overin hurled 11 strikeouts Monday night at Winside. But the best team didn't pay any attention to the number of outs. Just to the number of runs it scored, as Winside knocked off the visitors from its unbeaten streak, 3-0.

The Winside Midgets took advantage of two walks, a single and double to devastate Wayne's hopes of an undefeated season.

Winside Third Baseman, Mike Anderson was the big slagger of the evening, blasting in two runs off a double in the third. Ex-Los Angeles pitcher slapped a single for the first RBI of the night.

Both pitchers gave up only three hits as Winside's Legs tossed four strikeouts while pitching. Overin had walked five and hit another Winside player with a pitch.

After the home team scored its three runs in the third of two hits, the Winside club cooled off the remainder of the game.

Wayne gathered its three hits with one in the third, fourth and the top of the sixth, but failed to capitalize on any of its singles.

First Baseman Randy Nelson and Second Baseman Randy Workman were the only players to get close to scoring, but each man was stranded on third.

For Wayne its best news came at 13-1. The Midgets will travel to Wakefield Wednesday in search of their first win. Last Saturday, the Midgets beat Wakefield in a squeaker, 7-6, in 11 innings.

Deadline for declaration is Saturday at 7 p.m. Entry fees will be $10.50 for the championship flight and $8 for other flights, according to Mike Kates, golf professional at Green Valley in charge.

The hosts scored a pair of runs in the first and another in the third.

Leading the batting attack for Winside, which evened up the season record at 5-5, were Dan Bowers, two singles in three at-bats, and Brian Hoffman, with a double.

Lattie Langenberg connected for a single and was credited with two of the three runs scored by Winside, coached by Bob Brandt.

Allen Teams Split

Allen's Brent Chase hit a triple last week to lead his Midget team to a 4-2 whipping of Martinsburg at home.

Gregg Carr and Dan Koester shared the pitching duties for the winning club.

In Little League action, Sunday Allen knocked off Emerson, 11, via another triple on the part of Chase. Again Carr and Koester shared the mound. In a Babe Ruth game, Emerson was victorious, 5-1. Pitcher Paul Snyder took his loss after Tim Hill slammed a triple, double and a single, followed by Dan Kliver's two singles.

Some Fishermen Hooked On Types of Fishhooks

Fishhooks are some of man's oldest tools, dating back to about 10,000 years ago, when a bone-tipped or barbed hook was used to take fish. The gorget worked by burled in bait; and when a fish swallowed the hook pulling on an attached line would free the pointed bone and turn it in the fish's gullet.

Mass production of fishhooks began during the 17th century in London, and Charles Kirby is credited with developing many of the basic production methods that are still followed today.

Modern hooks are made almost entirely by machine, and have high degree of uniformity. A quality hook is made of steel. It should have a sharp point, a barb that won't break under pressure, be corrosion resistant, and have a smooth eye.

Choosing the most effective hook depends on factors such as how a fish strikes; the shape and position of its mouth; type tackle being used; and the size of the fish being pursued. Unfortunately there is no all around hook.

Fish with a hard, bony mouth require a hook that can be set fast. Short barbed hooks imbed

Wakefield Beats Pony Leaguers

The Wakfield Pony team snapped Wayne's perfect record of 6-0 Saturday, nipping the home team, 8-6, at Wayne.

Wayne's 14 and under players grabbed a 4-0 lead after slamming across two runs in the first and two singles in the second and third.

But the visitors came back with five big runs in their half of the fourth to take the lead, 5-4. Wakfield's runs came on three walks and two singles as the club gathered in four of its eight hits for the afternoon game.

In other action, the Little League and Pee Wee groups knocked off Wakefield, to the tune of 9-8 and 9-2.

In the 19-year-old and under class, Wayne's Jeff Dix was the power hitter as he slammed a two-run homer and collected another RBI or a triple for Wayne's only three runs.

In the 12-year-old and under class, Wayne's Steve Bodenshtet led his team with a booming triple as the home team nipped Wakefield, 9-8.

Wayne Town Team Stills Newcastle Threat During 12-7 Comeback Victory

Newcastle's five runs in the first inning put a scare into the Wayne town team Sunday night. But the home squad played heads-up ball in the remaining eight to knock off the upset-minded visitors, 12-7.

Pitcher Paul Eddie gave five runs, including a two-run homer by Newcastle's Miller, before the Wayne club settled down to action.

Third Baseman Gordie Jorgensen opened the third with a double to begin the team's scoring drive, with Newcastle's Mark Prather on the mound.

Earlier, Wayne scored its first run via Third Baseman Legeman after he tangled and stole home on a passed ball.

After a double and three walks, scoring two Wayne runs, Prather was relieved by Wortman. But the home team continued to score with Catcher Steve Hix's two-run single.

A sacrifice fly by Bob Brandt pushed across Wayne's fifth run for a 2-0 lead.

The home team scored four more runs in the following inning to mount its lead to 10-5.

Wayne added two runs for the win in the last two to boost the town team's mark to 5-1, behind first place Sloux City (6-0).

Eddie, Northeast Nebraska Baseball League's leading pitcher, hit his fifth win fanning 14 batters.

Jorgensen was the leading hitter for Wayne, scoring three runs and slugging two hits during four times at bat.

Sloux City Woods blasted Wakefield in another Sunday night contest, as the home team, Woods, piled up 11 runs to Wakefield's six.

Wakfield's Rob Eaton started the pitching duties but was relieved in the second by Terry Lutt. During those two innings Sloux City scored six runs to break a 4-4 deadlock in the first.

Wakfield was able to tie the game at 6-6 in the fourth but the home team broke open the game with a single in the fifth and six runs in the seventh and Sloux City's Mike Cadwell and Ev Bradshaw were the team's leading hitters, each slamming a home run.

Wakfield's record stands at 2-6 while Sloux City retains the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League's top spot with an 8-0 mark.

Friday night Wakfield is scheduled to host Ponca in a makeup game at Wakfield.

Ladies Golf Match Slated for July 19-20

The second annual Port of Sloux City River-Cade Ladies Golf Tournament is slated for July 19-20, at Green Valley Golf Course.

An 18-hole qualifying round will be played July 19 to determine flights with the final 18 holes played July 20. Both days scores will count toward the total.

Entry fee is $7.50 and the deadline for registering is July 14.

Pender Gals Defeat Wayne in Twin Bill

The Pender gals popped Wayne with a double loss Monday at Pender, stopping both softball clubs, 13-12 and 8-3.

In the 18-year-old and under game, the visitors fell behind, 7-2, after Pender slammed seven runs in the first four innings, then lost, 8-3.

Wayne's Kathy Dransalka led Wayne with three stolen bases while scoring one run off a wild pitch.

For the 14-year-old and under division, Laura Haase blasted a triple while Tammy Schultz went four for four at the plate, hitting three singles and a double. Despite Wayne's 14 hits to Pender's eight, the locals lost by one, 13-12.

Funeral Services Set for Former Wayne Resident

Funeral services for former Wayne resident, Henry Barton Hachmeler, 50, of Benson, Ariz., are tentatively set for 2 p.m. Friday at the Hiscoc Funeral Home, Wayne. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. Mr. Hachmeler died Sunday at Benson, Ariz. The son of Helne and Ethel Hachmeler, he was born Sept. 1, 1921 at Wayne. He graduated from Wayne High School and Wayne State College. In 1950 he graduated as a pharmacist from the University of Lincoln. He was married to Whitelma Eilers April 3, 1972 in Tucson, Ariz. He had worked at Wichita, Kan., Houston, Texas, and Blaine, Ariz., prior to moving to Benson. Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Ethel Hachmeler of Wayne and his widow, Whitelma of Benson, Ariz.

CITY BUDGET

(Continued from page 1) to two factors," he said. Magdanz pointed out that clean air board has cracked down on cement plants across the nation that continually pollute the air. "As a result, some plants have to shut down or modify their existing plant operations to conform with the guidelines. This, in turn will be a cause for an increase in the price of concrete pipe, and the concrete needed for roads." The city engineer also explained that the new government safety regulations also hamper plant operations. The members then decided to study the bids for the next meeting July 25, in hopes that the city could re-let bids sometime in the fall or winter and attract more bidders with a lower price. In a 7-1 vote, the Council vetoed the preliminary plan for the Mats Subdivision, north of Wayne. The councilmen felt that the subdeveloper should provide adequate sewage facilities, such as a sewage line and connect with the city's present line, instead of the city having to pay for the cost of installing a new line in the area. Councilman Keith Mosley was the only dissenter. In an unanimous decision, the members voted to stop publishing the minutes of the council meetings in The Wayne Herald. The members, after Councilman

Gross examined the $2,895 spent annually for the publishing of the minutes, voted to stop publication of the minutes only, with the legal still to be printed. Under a state ruling, a first class city does not have to have its City Council minutes printed in a newspaper. The members voted to take the savings and use it in advertising the city of Wayne. The purpose of the advertising, which will include signs and other ads, will show prospective businesses that Wayne has its own electrical plant to offer electricity plus make area residents aware that Wayne can sell electrical power. In earlier discussion, the members heard two members of the Nebraska Public Power District offer Wayne a chance to hook up with NPPD's present lines. The representatives told the group that the "interconnection system" would provide Wayne with extra electricity when and where it needed it. In turn the NPPD would be able to use power from the Wayne plant. Mayor Hall pointed out that the system would have to be studied before the council could vote on any final action. The electrical committee, headed by Jim Thomas, along with Norb Brugger, plant superintendent, will study the $160,000 estimated cost for Wayne to connect with the NPPD system. In a letter to the Tax Forum, Mosley, chairman of the street committee, told the group that the assessment for Storm Sewer Improvement District 71 is fair. "It is the opinion of the sewer and landfill committee inasmuch as the City of Wayne has prepared a pre-assessment schedule and held a public hearing, with no objectors, indicates to the committee the plan and one-third of special benefits, two-thirds general obligation assessments meet with approval of the citizens who are charged with these assessments. Taking these factors into consideration we feel it would be unfair to re-assess the project when agreement by the people has been reached. "Your group has also indicated the responsibility of the project cost should be that of the developers and/or property owners. "The area in question was developed prior to the sub-division rules and regulations by which the city presently abides. Therefore, when the area was taken into the City of Wayne, it became the responsibility of the city, not the developer or entirely the property owners in the immediate area." In other action: The Council heard from Lester Lutt, who asked, in a letter, to repeal Wayne's present ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday. Decision will be made at the July 25 meeting. Voted for the public welfare committee to study the possibility of purchasing a new fire truck. Decided to vote on the rezoning of the Shupe property at the Aug. 8 meeting at 8:30 p.m.

Appointed the finance committee to study the hiring of Jerry Malcom as the 1971-72 fiscal year auditor. The decision to either hire Malcom or another company will be made at the next meeting. The Council voted to change the present fire zones, which presently includes one zone in the business district, to three zones. The Council heard from Maurice Cole of the Carl Becker Co., a management firm for public-owned businesses, to study Wayne's management system. Decided to allow Dick Carlson, city building inspector, to take six correspondence courses, relating to building codes, at a cost of $45 each. Then members voted to reimburse Carlson after he has completed each course. Voted to install light poles and lights at the fairgrounds and include a metering system, to meter the electricity primarily to the city's records as to the amount of electricity used, both presently and in the future. Voted to set up more stringent regulations on those persons who fail to pay their electrical bill within a 90-day period. No new regulations have as yet been established.

PUBLIC NOTICES

Every government official or board that handles public moneys, should publish at regular intervals an accounting of its showing, where and how each dollar is spent. We hold this to be a fundamental principle to democratic government.

The fire, blamed on individuals setting off fireworks, completely destroyed a two-story farm home five miles south of Laurel July 4.

Fire Chief Mel Olson said it appeared that a spark from a firecracker started burning near the wooden front porch and spread to the outside walls of the house.

A neighbor noticed the porch burning and called firemen at 5 p.m., but the house was already past saving when they arrived. The fire was contained to the one building.

The farm place, which had been unoccupied the past two years, is owned by Willard Malchow of rural Laurel. The loss is covered by insurance.

Wakefield Couple Chosen to Participate In Young Farmer Seminar at Ames, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Hansen, a young farm couple from near Wakefield, have been selected to participate in a national young farmer educational program under the sponsorship of the Federal Land Bank Association of Norfolk according to Benson G. Thornton, Association manager.

They will attend the young farmer seminar at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation. The AIC meeting annually attracts some 2,500 agricultural cooperative leaders, youth and young farm couples from throughout the United States. The 1972 meeting will be held on the campus of Iowa State University at Ames, July 30 through Aug. 3.

Several hundred young farm couples from across the country attend the seminar each year, where they are acquainted with the structure, operation and principles of agricultural cooperative organizations. Thornton explained.

The American Institute of Cooperation is an educational organization, established nearly 50 years ago and chartered as a university in the District of Columbia, for the purpose of conducting research and encouraging the teaching of the science of cooperation. It is supported by the nation's cooperative interests.

owned by its farm and ranch member-borrowers.

The Hansens were chosen from among farm couples under 35 years of age in Antelope, Madison, Pierce, Stanton and Wayne counties—the area served by the Norfolk Land Bank Association. Selection was based on the progress they have made in their farming operation, civic and social contributions to the community, leadership in the agricultural industry, and interest in cooperative organizations, Thornton said.

Their farm operations involves farming 240 acres of land on which they raise corn, oats and beans. They raise and feed out a substantial number of hogs, a year.

They are active in the American Legion and the Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Seven Area Students On NU Dean's List

Seven area students have been named to the College of Engineering and Architecture's Dean's List at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

These students earned a grade average of 3.5 or above (4.0 is an A) during the second semester. Earning straight A averages from northeast Nebraska were Reed Miller of Pilger, a senior in Civil Engineering, and Jerome L. Buss of Pierce, a junior in Construction Science.

Others on the Dean's List from the Wayne area: Carl Matson and James Sturm juniors from Wayne, in Electrical Engineering; Glenn Johnson of Wakefield, senior in Agricultural Engineering; Daniel Nebuda of West Point, sophomore in Computer Science, and Forrest Stockwell of Hartington, senior in Civil Engineering.

The annual summer institute is just one phase of AIC's continuing education and research activities. Theme of the 1972 institute is "Farmer Cooperative: Action-Innovation-Coordination."

During the four-day meeting, the Hansens will hear talks by noted agricultural leaders, participate in workshops and engage in numerous activities with other young farm couples attending the institute. They will be guests at a reception held for couples attending under sponsorship of the Federal Land Bank Association in the four state area served by the Federal Land Bank of Omaha.

Sponsorship to AIC by the Land Bank Associations include travel, registration at the institute, lodging and meals. The Land Bank System is an active supporter of AIC and its educational activities. It is a cooperative leading organization, entirely.

Understanding, Guidance Needed By Youths, WSC Dean Tells Kiwanians

Dr. Arthur Dugan, dean of the School of Education at Wayne State College, in addressing the Wayne Lions Club Monday, said "we are all concerned with youth, whether as teachers or parents, and we must be able to understand them, try to predict what they will do and exercise control through guidance."

In the area of understanding, Dr. Dugan said "life to a young person is an adjustment of different problems toward maturity. Many will listen to their peers on less-important problems, but turn to those parents when advice is needed on long-term objectives."

Pointing out that characteristics are formed at an early age, Dr. Dugan said we can predict with a high percentage of accuracy those youths in the eight-to-12 age group who may become juvenile delinquents, but we also can predict with equal accuracy those who will reach high levels in college studies as early as high school.

One's ego, his self-image, was given as one of those all-important characteristics, and that ego sometimes is damaged in the way youths are handled.

"Permissiveness often is worse than hard-nosed discipline," the WSC dean cautioned, adding children often are frustrated with demands of things which they are incapable or which are forced upon them at too early an age.

Guidance is also essential to help a child in choosing a vocation.

Northeast Tech Budget Hearing To Be July 27

A proposed budget for the 1972-73 school year at Northeast Nebraska Technical College will be submitted to the board of governors at a meeting Thursday (tonight) at 8 p.m. at the Maclay Building.

The public hearing on the proposed budget will be held July 27 at 8 p.m.

Other items on the July 13 agenda include the hiring of additional faculty and other personnel and consideration of bids for campus construction Phase III, those bids to be opened at 2 p.m.

4-H Club News

Modern Misses 4-H Club met June 27 in the home of Judy and Jodene Korn.

Members discussed both ideas and practiced modeling. Demonstrations were given by Jodene Korn on punch and Judy Korn on doughnuts. Members adjourned into their projects.

Next meeting will be July 14 at 1:30 in the home of Gail Grone.

The United States Atlas is a prize item in Wayne State College's documents repository, located in Conn. Library. Pictured with the huge atlas are Charles Current, documents librarian, and his assistant Mrs. Bonnie Moomaw.

Wayne State's Conn Library Offers N.E. Nebraskans Plenty of Reading

Thousands of federal government publications—some caught up in national controversy—are available for Northeast Nebraska residents to use. Where? In the government documents section of Wayne State's Conn Library. Anybody may use the documents library and check out publications in it for a four-week period. The government documents repository, established several months ago at Wayne State, receives whatever publications the library staff requests from the U. S. superintendent of documents. Publications arrive almost daily, and they cover thousands of subjects. Citizens who want some publication not available here may suggest it be added, according to Charles Current, WSC documents librarian. Farmers will find dozens of informative publications. Topics include marketing conditions, plant disease research, irrigation, conservation, chemicals, crop reports, the livestock and meat situation, the farm income situation—the latter two currently hot national subjects—and many more.

Many of these publications come regularly, weekly or monthly.

An item of interest to anybody studying political science, is the Weekly Presidential Documents. A recent edition publishes verbatim the agreements of President Nixon's Moscow summit meeting.

The library also receives reports of commissions that stirred plenty of public interest; those on marijuana, obscenity and pornography, equal employment, product safety and the safe streets act. The Pentagon Papers which were big news several months ago are on hand.

Not all the publications are heavy stuff. There is a magnificently printed book on "Sport Fishing" and others deal with many recreational subjects.

Several dozen publications come from the military. Most of them are more elegantly printed—lots of color, better paper—than other U. S. documents.

Department of Commerce products are loaded with statistical facts on topics like weather, census, business and industrial conditions. The library's largest section comes from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Senate and House Journals arrive regularly. There are many papers from the Environmental Protection Agency and the U. S. Information Agency.

Current considers the huge United States Atlas as the library's prize possession. Its 417 pages (14 by 19 inches) cover thousands of subjects hard to find elsewhere.

Citizens can check out government documents without cost. Other facilities of Conn Library also are open to anybody. The only difference is that to check out materials from the main library, borrowers who are not college students or staff must leave a money deposit when they check out material. The deposit is returned when the material comes back.

If the noise levels encountered in many of our metropolitan areas continues to increase at a decline per year—as it has in some cities in recent years—the year 2000 could find such communities engulfed in deafening roars.

Freshman Orientation

The business of entering college came a bit easier to the unders of freshmen who will enter Wayne State in September. Some of them attended the first of four orientation programs Friday to learn about college life—classes, activities, dormitory living—in talks by faculty and students. The final step, pictured above, was drawing class registration cards. Additional orientations are scheduled Thursday this week, Monday and Wednesday next week.

Safer Campaigning by Candidates Urged

An executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the Wayne County, Arch Booth serves as a spokesman for American business. These are his views:

WASHINGTON—The smiling, hand-shaking candidate, closely surrounded by crowds of happy supporters is an American scene familiar to all Americans. It's probably the first picture that forms in our mind when we think of an abstraction like "election" or "democracy."

Candidates know this, so they try very hard to put themselves into that picture. But should there be another scene, not as often repeated, yet still harder to forget for those who have witnessed it, even through the cold eye of the camera? The fallen candidate, lying in a pool of blood... shock and anguish written deeply on the faces of his grief-stricken aides... former well-wishers milling about in frightened confusion.

How do we prevent a recurrence of that scene? Well, first we must face facts well known to all security personnel. There is no way to be sure that the candidate and a candidate are "safe." Political assassins have been looser, demented individuals acting irrationally and therefore unpredictably. It is this unpredictability that places an almost hopeless burden on those charged with protecting the candidates, when they mingle with crowds.

Logically then, the best way to protect our candidates and our office-holders is to end the practice of wading into crowds. There is really no reason for a candidate to engage in mass hand-shaking. It is a colorful endeavor from an age before television. Very, very few citizens can get close enough to shake hands anyway. The candidates do more for the resulting news coverage than for its inherent value.

Surely, this is a luxury we can do without. And the time to start is now.

The National Chamber and the AFL-CIO disagree on many issues. But we are both totally dedicated to the survival of our political system. Therefore, the AFL-CIO accepted our invitation to join us in presenting to the platform committees of both major parties the following statement.

"The tragic events of recent years have created great concern among all Americans for the safety of candidates for high political office. We therefore join in an appeal to both political parties to establish stringent security rules for the campaign of their candidates for the offices of President and Vice-President."

"The assassinations of John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King—and the attempted assassination of George Wallace—are conclusive proof of the vulnerability of national leaders to the lone, isolated act of violence."

"Although the vast majority of Americans are politically mature and dedicated to seeking their goals through the traditional political system, we must now face the fact that political campaigning as we have known it offers no real safeguard against that individual who, for whatever reason, would resort to violence.

"Unless there is a tightening of security—with the full cooperation of the major candidates of both parties—we may see a repetition of previous tragedies that could have serious repercussions throughout the nation."

"We recognize that the candidates are not likely to initiate on their own any new security guidelines. There is too great an appeal in grass roots appearances. Further, which of two opposing candidates would make the first approach, and risk being accused of having lost confidence in the electorate?"

"Accordingly, we urge the two political parties to devise their own compact—one which publicly spells out stringent new campaign security rules. We ask that such rules be made conditions for party leadership, and that they in no way be left optional to the candidate."

"Only if the parties demand it can we expect the candidates to campaign in a manner that will alleviate risks to their personal safety."

"We ask that both parties make this demand; not only in the interest of the candidates themselves, but also in the national interest."

Aowa Watershed Dam Built; First In Dixon County

The first of 65 dams was completed last week in the Dixon County Aowa Creek Watershed, according to William Yost of the Soil Conservation Service office at Wakefield.

The dam, which will hold 11 surface acres of water, is located on the Odin Iukken farm near Ponca.

Constructed on a 579-acre drainage, the dam contains 65,000 cubic yards of earthfill, a 30-inch diameter concrete pipe and is 40 feet high.

"The Soil Conservation Service designed the dam primarily for erosion and flood control," Yost said, "but recognizes recreation and wildlife benefits will result from this size of dam."

"When the Aowa Watershed project is completed, there will be 10 dams that will have pools over 10 acres in size. This will do much in retarding floodwaters, in addition to improving the environment in the area," Yost concluded.

Nearly 73 million people ride bikes in America every year. Estimates are that the figure will jump to 100 million between 1975 and 1980.

Depersonalized Yippie

One of the Yippies who have contributed to the debeatification of Flamingo Park at Miami Beach, was appalled at the suggestion that the group should work during the summer "so you don't have to come down here looking like this."

Scott Brown, an 18-year-old Yippie from Atlanta, who was pandering to collect money to help feed the demonstrators, shot back the answer "I couldn't do that or I'd become indistralized and depersonalized."

Those who despise the type of life led by "squares" and those who want to avoid the "industrialized and depersonalized" status still are not too humble to accept handouts from the "establishment" they revolt against.

They still expect the "square" who puts in an honest eight-day workday, comes home to his family and putters in the yard or garden to put food in their mouths, clothes on their back (what little they require) while sitting back and bad-mouthing their benefactors.

When does the "establishment" quit bowing to the "gimme" groups? A decision was reversed to allow the grubby looking group to camp out in one of Miami's most beautiful parks.

The pungent odor of marijuana filled the air, one news reporter said, and television cameras took pictures of the young protestors openly smoking grass.

Still, we find daily in Nebraska newspapers of young persons convicted of smoking marijuana and fines or jail sentences meted out.

Are laws enforced only when a handful are involved and overlooked when vast numbers are involved?

"Skinny dipping," or bathing in the nude, used to be a fun thing reserved for young boys in the off swimming hole far, far out in the bonobos, certainly not in an area where there was a possibility of an outsider finding the spot.

Friday night at Miami Beach's Flamingo Park, 50 young persons, half a dozen or so of which were women, stripped down to the buff and invited onlookers to do the same.

The next day the demonstrators "decided" after a meeting with police, to prohibit nude bathing. Miami Beach Vice-Mayor Robert Goodman, who visited protestors in the park, said "I think it's great. So a few ordinances will be broken. So what? People go skinny dipping in their own pools in this city every day."

There are several other things we can think of that are done daily in the privacy of one's own home—but public displays of those acts would result in charges of indecent exposure.

And, we can't help but wonder if Miami and Miami Beach taxpayers are as ready as their city dads to laugh the whole thing off.

They're the ones who are going to have to foot the bill for cleanup and park restoration.

We doubt they share the "so what" attitude.

Portable Gallows

The cries among some Americans are that the United States' court system is not upholding the laws per se in the types of penalties, heaped to various persons who have committed serious crimes.

Perhaps this is true. Many convicted criminals are getting away with "murder." Not just as a saying but as a fact. If the court systems go along with the Supreme Court's feelings on abolishing the death penalty, then our whole system of justice could be in trouble.

This is not to say that we are in favor of using the death penalty for every person who commits a crime or crimes, but to note that the wiping out of the penalty could result in a situation where a person's respect for law and order could dwindle to the point where laws mean absolutely nothing.

On the other hand, some people might revert back to the vigilante system of justice used during the settler days when our country was expanding westward.

A Los Angeles police chief doesn't seem to think so. A case in point happened last week after a hijacking in that area. Police Chief Edward M. Davis, as quoted by the Los Angeles Times, recommended skyjacking be hanged at airports after a "rapid trial... with due process of law."

That last phrase sounds too impossible to be true. It seems that Davis automatically is condemning a hijacker to death before a fair trial, but he covers this up with the clause of "due process of law."

Davis goes on to say, "I would recommend we have a portable courtroom on a big bus and a portable gallows and after we get the death penalty put back in (referring to the death penalty being put back into the California statutes) we conduct a rapid trial for a hijacker out there and then we hang him with due process of law out there at the airport."

In some countries, the death penalty is still being used. There is nothing wrong in a country, such as ours, occasionally using the death penalty as a deterrent to crimes such as first degree murder. As far as the penalty for hijacking, the decision to put someone to death remains to be questioned.

There is no clear-cut answer. But to adopt a snap-on-the-hand policy is not the answer.

—Bob Bartlett

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor may be published with a pseudonym or with the author's name omitted if so desired; however, the writer's signature must be a part of the original letter. Unsigned letters will not be printed. Letters should be timely, brief and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

To The Editor: I am writing this letter because Rapid City needs your help. As you are aware, we have just experienced one of the most devastating floods in the history of the United States. Nature can be cruel, we have learned; but we have also found that people can be kind. So many Americans—and people in other countries, too—want to help and have asked what can be done to help us.

Here is the situation at the present time: The immediate crisis has eased in that more than 1,000 homeless families have been supplied with food, clothing, temporary housing and medical care. What they need now is money to help them rebuild their lives. Many of them have only the clothes on their backs—all their personal possessions were lost. Most of them have suffered the crushing loss of family and friends. Some have also lost their jobs when the businesses they work for were destroyed in the flood.

I am making an appeal on behalf of the flood victims to you and your readers to help get the families back on their feet through private donations to the Rapid City Area Disaster Foundation, Inc., P. O. Box 747, Rapid City, S. D. 57701. Cash donations are deductible on your federal income tax return. These funds will go to disaster victims in the Rapid City area and will be administered by responsible Rapid City people. None of the funds will be used for public projects.

There is another way you can help the people of this area. Plan to vacation this summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota and visit Mt. Rushmore. This is one of America's finest family recreation areas, and tourism brings more "new money" into our community than any other industry. The jobs of many of our local people depend on tourism, and we must also find new jobs for unemployed flood victims. If tourists avoid our area because of the flood, the financial damage to local families and businesses will be multiplied many times.

I should point out that the Black Hills are as beautiful as ever with only a very small area damaged by the flood. None of the major attractions were affected, all main highways are open, and there will be little or no inconvenience to the visitor. Fewer than one per cent of the campgrounds and motel facilities were in the flood area. And, our visitors will find that South Dakotans are as friendly and helpful as ever.

Tourist information is available from our State Travel Department by dialing the following toll-free number: 1-800-843-1921.

Your concern for us has been greatly appreciated.

Don Barnett, Mayor of Rapid City

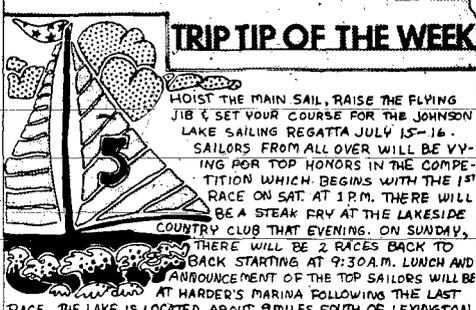

To the Editor: We would like to take this means of thanking The Wayne Herald and Wortman Auto Co. (the two Wayne businesses) for sponsoring our cars in the Soap Box Derby held in Norfolk on June 25th. We hope that you were as proud for sponsoring our cars as we were for winning first and second place.

We would also like to thank Bill Workman of the local Meats for supplying transportation for Lori's race to Norfolk. We hope our good fortune this year will encourage more entries and more sponsors next year.

Terry and Lori Lessmann

Old West Lore Still Can Be Found

Cattle kings and sobsters, blue-coats and warriors, furmen and freighters, gunmen and preachers... all had a hand in carving modern-day Nebraska's "good life" from the raw frontier.

Centuries have passed since the first white men set foot in the prairie wilderness that was the Indian's simple paradise. Rugged trappers wandered through the Plains, leaving little to note their presence.

Then, came the first serious venture into the uncharted West. Lewis and Clark explored the valley of the Missouri, the vanguard of a host of daring men to follow. A scant 15 years after their 1804 journey, the first Army garrison took up residence at Fort Atkinson. It was only the beginning for such outposts, for throughout the 19th Century, a string of forts like Kearny, Hartstuf and Robinson were built to protect the settler and westward-bound emigrant.

The cry of "gold" in California speeded the influx of every type of adventurer to the Western Plains, as they hurried to and through Nebraska. Mile-long wagon trains stretched out along the valley of the Platte, as men, women and children severed their ties to the past to seek the better life they dreamed of at trail's end.

Stirrings of trouble with the Indians grew as the wagon trains brought more and more settlers into the virgin land. A way of life was slipping away, and the Indian seemed powerless to stand in the way of the coming of civilization.

War cries echoed across the Nebraska plains as the Indian sought to regain his lost birthright. It was a tragically unequal contest, despite the gallant battles waged by such brilliant leaders as Crazy Horse, Red Cloud and Sitting Bull. From skirmishes on the Blue River to the last-itch stands in the Pine Ridge, the prairies echoed the sounds of battle.

Times were changing quickly. The Overland Stage and then the romantic, but short-lived Pony Express traversed the land. The talking wire of the telegraph and finally the first transcontinental railroad forged the final links in connecting East with West.

Even before the Indian war had ended, the prairies felt the impact of the plow. Then came a new kind of war as cattlemen faced farmer, when settlers rushed to take advantage of the government's offer of "free land" under the Homestead Act.

It was a time of bold and daring men, both good and bad, and the land gave rise to such unique figures as Wild Bill Hickok, Sam Bass, and the most famous of all, Buffalo Bill Cody. Legends of their exploits still thrill the imaginations of 20th Century America.

The history of Nebraska is dominated by heroic deeds performed by larger-than-life characters, and much of that lore of the Old West still lives. Visitors can find it in the hearty handclasp of the cowboy or the warm greeting of a passer-by. And, the places where it all happened are all here to be explored. All manner of restored forts, state and national parks and monuments offer a moment's transport into those exciting yesterdays.

Capital News — Filipi's Career Aimed At Fighting Pollution

LINCOLN—Many years before it became the "lin" thing to do, T.A. Filipi was out crusading against pollution. For 35 years as a state employee, Filipi has been working to clean up the streams, keep the water supplies pure, maintain sanitation in swimming pools, and regulate the disposal of junk.

At the beginning of this month, Filipi retired at age 68. He had started with the state July 1, 1937, when he was hired to establish a division of public health engineering in the State Department of Health.

"Little did I know that the people of the state would put up with me for 35 years until the mandatory retirement age was realized for the benefit of both," he said recently.

"I look back with gratitude for the privilege that was accorded me to work with the people of the state of Nebraska in the promotion of an environment that is not only biologically safe, but pleasing to the normal thinking human being."

Filipi recalled objections in the "old days" to the use of chlorine to purify water. He said people frowned on chlorination because they wanted to keep the "natural" taste, even though the taste came from bacteria that packed the pumps to prevent freezing.

But this attitude, plus the very necessary cooperation of municipal officials who have slowly, but surely, seen the need for a better environment, has led to accomplishments in which we can all take pride.

He said Nebraska is a leader now in safe and dependable water supplies, modern and attractive swimming pools, more than 500 swimming pools, pasteurized milk in every community, recreation camps "second to none and a host of other environmental monuments well recognized by the citizens."

Often Frustrating

"My professional career has been one of satisfaction. Yet perhaps a frustration from time to time because of my impatience to get things done right now."

"I therefore apologize to those persons who perhaps thought I was brash and impatient, to those persons whom I have pounded unmercifully to get improvements done, and to those persons who were intimidated by the mere mention of my name."

There have been improvements, he said, but the work isn't done. "Nebraska's citizens can be proud of their state and its environment," he said. "It is rich in natural and manmade resources and especially blessed with its good, solid citizens."

With our rapid advancement, we cannot rest upon historical background, but must make every effort to maintain the land, the water and the air in such a manner that this will be a good place in which to live, work and enjoy both natural and manmade recreational facilities.

Average County Family Has $17,200 in Assets

(Special to the Herald)

NEW YORK, How well off are Wayne County residents financially? Are they richer than they think?

Taking into account the cash savings of the average local family, together with the equity in his home, its car, personal property, furniture, insurance, pension reserves and other assets, what is its net worth?

A family balance sheet, with assets listed in one column and liabilities in another, may provide a pleasant surprise, since most people have never taken stock of how much they have acquired over the years.

Some guidance in this direction is available now, based upon local figures and upon national studies made by the Federal Reserve Board and others.

They show, as would be expected, that there is a direct relationship between a family's average earnings and its net worth. Those in the high income brackets have assets equal to several times their annual income while those with modest incomes have accumulated proportionately less.

Applying the national yardstick to Wayne County and to the earning levels in the area, the indicated net worth of the average local family comes to approximately $17,200.

The figures apply to the so-called average family (together are all age groups—the older ones, who have been adding to their assets over the years, as well as the younger ones, who are on the way up).

For typical families in specific brackets, the estimates are as follows: those with after-tax incomes of $6,000-$8,000, a net worth ranging from about $13,000 to $18,000; those with $9,000 to $12,000, from $21,000 to $28,000; and those in the $15,000 to $20,000 bracket, assets ranging from $68,000 to more than $140,000.

For the entire Wayne County population, on this basis, the total net worth is approximately $55,500,000.

Life, Death Separated by Seconds

You never know when or where it may happen—at home, in the office, on the beach or on the highway. You may be with someone who has a sudden accident or a sickness that can cause him to stop breathing. Common causes are drowning, poisoning, suffocation and heart attack.

It only takes a few minutes to learn the simple procedures that could mean the difference between life and death says the Nebraska Heart Association. The Association recommends that everyone over 10 years of age be taught rescue breathing. This procedure uses air from your lungs to fill the lungs of the victim.

To determine whether the victim is breathing put your ear to his mouth and watch his chest for rising and falling movements. If he is not breathing, act immediately. Have someone else send for a doctor or rescue squad while you begin rescue breathing.

The first step is to open the airway. Lift the victim's neck with one hand and place the other hand on the forehead and tilt back his head.

Keep one hand under his neck and pinch the victim's nose shut with your other hand. Take a deep breath, place your mouth tightly over his open mouth. Then blow air into his mouth. If his chest rises, you are doing the rescue breathing properly. After his chest has moved up, take your mouth away and let the chest go down by itself.

Continue this procedure every five seconds until medical help arrives. If the victim begins to breathe by himself, you may stop the rescue breathing procedure. In that case, place the victim on his side until help arrives.

For more detailed information and illustrations, ask the Nebraska Heart Association for its pamphlet, "Rescue Breathing To Save A Life." It contains information on how to resuscitate infants, children and adults.

A wallet-size card also is available from the Heart Association illustrating these emergency measures and describing early warning signs or symptoms of heart attack. This card in your wallet or purse may be worth someone's life.

The Nebraska Heart Association carries on a year-round program of teaching rescue breathing in schools throughout the State. For more information on this life-saving program contact the Program Department, Nebraska Heart Association, 3624 Farnam, Omaha 68131.

The Agent's Angle

by Harold Ingalls

Useful "Castaways"
Today ecology is in vogue. So put some of those environment-saving ideas to work. Your home gardening chores can be less time consuming and less expensive if you re-use some household "castaways."

A nylon stocking that has outlived its intended function makes an excellent cord for tying plants. The elastic quality and resistance to weathering and decay make the nylon stocking durable, and it will "grow" with the plant. Nylon stockings could be used as a bag to store or dry plant materials. Cut lengthwise and stretched, nylon stockings could be used as screening material. Of course, runners would be a problem in this case, too.

Aluminum containers that once contained 35-mm film make excellent air-tight, water-proof, non-breakable containers for seed storage. Be sure to label each container with date and kind of seed.

Disposable plastic containers have many uses in the home garden. They can be used for seeding flats, flower pots, plant collars, and squirt bottles for fertilizers, pesticides, etc. Be sure to label these properly, also.

Used paper cups, plastic cups, and styrofoam cups make excellent pots for seedlings.

These are just a few suggestions on how to recycle household "castaways." If you have any other ideas for saving time, money and materials, please send them to Brent Hooley, Horticultural Specialist, District 106A Miller Hall, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr. 68503. If the number of responses is sufficient, another article or a circular can be written with credit given to each author for showing his idea.

Sunflowers New Crop
Sunflowers are a new crop for Nebraska farmers. The 1972 planting season has not been the best for the crop and many fields were planted at later than optimum dates.

The College of Agriculture needs information about insect, disease and other problems in sunflower production although potential disease and insect problems can be predicted from past experiences in Nebraska and other states.

Many factors affect these and the only source of Nebraska information is from growers. Growers who see indications of damage by insects or disease should contact their county agents, who can in turn contact the proper specialists.

This would provide a picture of production problems and possible future control suggestions.

4-H Club News

HI-Raters
The HI-Raters girls 4-H club met July 6 at the county courthouse.

Rhonda Kulesche gave a demonstration on First Aid and the group practiced judging.

Hosts were Mabens and Kites. Lisa Magnuson, news reporter.

HI-Raters
The HI-Raters 4-H club met Thursday evening in the county courthouse. Roll call was to name a breed of horse.

Projects to be entered in the fair were discussed. Kenly Mann and Mike Rethwisch had charge of entertainment.

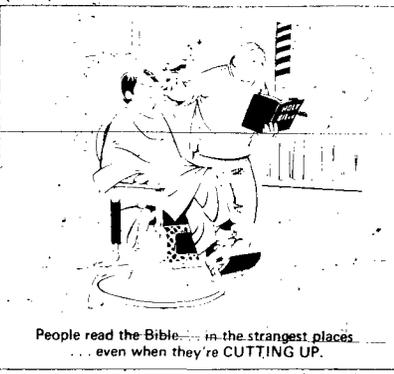

Next meeting will be at the fairgrounds.

Tim Maier, news reporter.

Charmers 'N Farmers
The Charmers 'N Farmers 4-H club met Friday evening in the Edison-Thies home for the last meeting of the season. Eleven members answered roll call by telling what they would like to do July 4.

Fair projects were discussed. Linda Thies demonstrated making pudding. Lori Thies reported on foods we eat and Dwayne Thies gave a report on erosion.

The girls recently held a party for their mothers as a 4-H project. The party was held in the Daniels Grange home.

Itching, Planned Harvest 'Disease'

Everyone knows about the heart-disturbing love bug itch, the long-term seven-year itch and the restless, springtime itch. But few people except the farmers know about the oat itch.

The oat itch is most noticeable during July. It occurs most often during the July harvest but it can occur for short periods of time during the year.

During July this disease is usually accompanied by extremely hot weather, nerve-wracking breakdowns, torn canvasses, plugged cylinders, stripped augers and overloaded wagons.

It is also an irritating itch that affects the entire family. In one way or another, sometimes by way of relayed irritation.

But, to the farmer, the oat itch is also a welcomed, fulfilling, tolerable-illness that is planned for early in the spring.

'Fever' Strikes

Neighbor John usually gets the "fever" about a week before anyone realizes it is around. Some years you could swear he goes out and mows that first round just to get you nauseated.

After the oats are in the windrows they look like one big unending, golden string wound around the field.

Unlike new mown hay, windrowed oats don't have a nostalgic, romantic smell. All it has is an itchy, dry smell.

You're eager to get it over with. So, the old combine rattles, creaks and churns while the canvasses go around and around as it gobbles up the windrows. The oats go into the wagon hooked on behind and the straw goes into the wind on the other side.

Naturally.

The oats are always the heaviest and thickest down through the draws. That is also where the straw is the tallest. And if it has rained recently that is also where it is the muddest.

But you aren't about to leave the best oats in the field. So you fitfully work your way to the draw. Mud or not, plugged combine or not, you're going across.

Then there is a loud thud. The canvasses keep turning and putting more straw in the cylinder even though it has quit working. Before you get everything shut off, you're really in a jam.

Well, the combine got plugged before you had to worry about the mud.

Of course when you are down in the draw you are protected from the wind. The sun beams down and the wind blows overhead. Way overhead. Not even a faint breeze touches you.

Baking Oven
You climb halfway into the combine trying to free the cylinder. At this point the combine begins to serve as a baking oven.

The aggravation, perspiration and conglomeration all multiply the irritation as the oat chaff sits down your neck.

Several short back-ups, several quick starts and several hard thuds in the combine before you make it across the muddy draw.

You don't hear anything from the Mrs. so you assume that the wagon is going to hold the oats.

When you reach the other wagon and wait for her to unhook it, you don't hear anything from her either.

Goodness, you'd think she could at least unhook a wagon for you. So you ball off the tractor and are around the combine in a few long, fast steps.

Disappeared
She won't unhook the wagon for you because she isn't there.

She is slowly, laboriously trotting along the windrow where you just combined.

At first you are concerned about her but when you find that she isn't hurt physically, you begin to laugh.

And laugh and laugh. A deep, hearty laugh. Even the tears begin to run across your dirty, chaffy face. You're almost doubled up with laughter. Finally you have to catch your breath.

And as you raise up and pause from laughing long enough to take a gasp of breath, you notice that she isn't even smiling.

Just standing there with her hands on her hips, staring at you. And it's not a pleasant, understanding stare at all.

Worse Than Itch
All of a sudden you know you have something worse than the oat itch.

In fact you might not even have a hand. Nor any lunch or supper either. Even if you do get supper it sure won't taste as good as usual.

But from past experience you know the best thing for you to do is get on that tractor and get out of the way before you are hurt—physically.

You make the next round and she is waiting with the empty wagon. By now she is able to smile at least a little. Although it is weeks before it is actually mentioned that she fell out of the wagon.

And you are able to concentrate on what had happened.

Well, she found out you weren't taking a nap.

But with the Mrs. helping pull straw out of one side and turning the cylinder, it's not very long before you are ready to start on across the draw.

New Obstacle
Now to make it through the mud. Seems silly that it is so hot and dry yet so muddy underneath the straw.

With the Mrs. in the oat wagon to level off the oats perhaps you can make it to the empty wagon without pulling out of the windrow.

But it takes several lunges, several short back-ups, several quick starts and several hard thuds in the combine before you make it across the muddy draw.

You don't hear anything from the Mrs. so you assume that the wagon is going to hold the oats.

When you reach the other wagon and wait for her to unhook it, you don't hear anything from her either.

Goodness, you'd think she could at least unhook a wagon for you. So you ball off the tractor and are around the combine in a few long, fast steps.

'Day of Truth' for Cattle Judgers

Cattlemen will be "looking through the hide" of cattle to forecast the beef they will make at Iowa Beef Processors pens at Dakota City Saturday, July 22. The day of truth will be Monday, July 24, at the packing plant when the carcasses of these cattle will be given the usual USDA quality grades by regular federal graders and a further grade called yield grade for freedom from waste.

Feeders goal is to produce fine eating tender, flavorful, juicy beef at as low a cost as possible and with as little waste, especially excess fat, as possible. This cattle marketing study of the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association helps meet the goal.

Four leading feeders have selected cattle from their lots which they studied carefully for outward appearance to indicate they will produce either the ideal beef or unusual carcasses for some reason. They have fed them in their usual way and will bring them together for this live comparison and carcass study.

Two prominent and successful Cuming County feeders along with Walt Tolman, beef researcher from the Northeast Station, will lead feeder appraisal or judging-of live cattle. Bob Turner, USDA grader supervisor, and his coworkers will make the carcass grades.

The Saturday live animal study will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 22. The Monday program will start at Equitable Savings and Loan Association meeting room in South Sioux City at 1 p.m. Monday, July 24 and move to the Dakota City packing plant coolers for carcass observation.

Both meetings are open to the public, and are expected to interest more on your program the best. But nothing short of a good shower will cure that.

Several bins full of oats will ease the pain quite a bit.

est students and consumers as well as cattle feeders. This is the third market study sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association with the cooperation of the USDA Marketing Service, Iowa Beef Processors and the Nebraska Agricultural Extension Service.

Apples Susceptible To Summer Rot

In Nebraska, apples are susceptible to several kinds of summer rots. These rots may show up any time between the late growing season and storage.

Damage to the infected apples range from minor external blemishes to complete rotting.

Most of the summer rots are incited by fungi. Some of the common names of these rots are: Black Rot, Bot Rot, Sooty Blotch and Bitter Rot. In most cases these diseases are favored by mild temperatures and humid conditions.

Prevention of summer rots begins with proper management. This involves correct pruning, watering and fertilization. Healthy trees are better able to fight off infection by these organisms. But even by following recommended cultural practices, fungicides are needed for effective control.

In a well-managed orchard, free from debris, etc., a half-pound of zineb, combined with a half-pound of captan in the cover sprays will effectively control summer rots. Spraying should begin at petal fall and continue at 10-14 day intervals until one week before harvest. These sprays should also be combined with an effective insect control program.

In poorly-managed plantings, two pounds of each fungicide will not effectively control these rots. Therefore, the key to control is a properly managed, clean orchard, Jack Rieselmann, extension assistant says.

What is the proper way to water plants?

There are three different types of spray that can be used—soaker hose, spray wand or overhead watering. The soaker hose is considered better than overhead watering since the water comes out in a mist rather than a downpour that could force water into the flowers.

When the leaves turn yellow and the flowers drop off of a gardenia, what can be done?

Gardenias are very sensitive to humidity and need a great deal of supplemental moisture. Therefore, apply a mist spray several times a day and if the problem persists, put the plant into a "plastic cage" to protect it from the humidity.

What is a fairy ring and how can it be controlled?

A fairy ring is a fungus that lives on the old roots of long-dead trees or shrubs. The name is derived from the mushrooms and toadstools that form a ring around the base of the dead wood. Total elimination is impossible until the woody pulp the fungus feeds on is gone but toadstools can be removed by flooding the area or by pushing mercury into the soil, accompanied by soap to penetrate the ground.

Social Security Increase Automatic

Social Security beneficiaries need not apply for the 20 percent benefit increase signed into law by President Nixon July 1.

Robert L. Felkey, Norfolk, Social Security district manager, said all Social Security beneficiaries who are on the benefit rolls in September will receive the increase automatically. The increase is effective beginning the payments for the month of September payable Oct. 3.

The new law also includes a provision for automatic annual increases in Social Security benefits as the cost of living rises in the future. A recommendation made by President Nixon in his 1969 message on Social Security.

Under the new law the contribution and benefit base—the maximum amount of annual earnings that is counted for benefit and contribution purposes—will rise from the present $9,000 a year to $10,600 in 1973 and to $12,000 in 1974.

Thereafter, this amount would be adjusted automatically to keep pace with rising wages. This means that as earnings rise, workers whose earnings are at or above the level of the maximum earnings base will pay contributions on higher earnings— but they also will have those additional earnings counted toward the benefits that will be payable to them and their families in the future.

Quiet Is Shortlived at Northeast Tech

The usual summer quietness of the classrooms did not last very long this year at Northeast Nebraska Technical College.

In the first actual physical step in the merger of Northeast Tech with Northeastern Nebraska College at Norfolk, 54 students in the practical nursing program began classes Wednesday in facilities designed for that purpose in the Macley Memorial Building on the Tech College campus.

The nursing school moved the past week from the basement of one of Northeastern Nebraska College buildings, where classes have been held since the program began in September, 1968.

The moving process finally got the best of the curiosity of children who live near the Tech College. They came over to ask, "What are you going to do, set up a hospital over here?" More explaining was required when movers carried in brown-haired, blue-eyed "Mary Chase, a life-size mannequin doll used for class demonstrations and named after the company that manufactured her.

The nursing program is the only one at the 14-county college that is fully funded with state appropriations. The program is limited to 32 students each in one-year classes, which begin twice a year—in March and September.

Nurses in this September's new class will be the first to live in the new three-story dormitory on the Northeast Tech campus. If they wish, Fifty-four double rooms in the all-glass dorm are also made available to other students from the two colleges.

The next starting class is already filled, reports Mrs. Breneman. However, applications are being taken for future classes.

The two separate classes, underway at the same time, are identified as freshmen and seniors. Graduation for the present seniors is planned for Sept. 14, 1972.

Most of the 148 graduates since the program started have been placed in Northeast and North Central Nebraska, reports Mrs. Breneman. However some have taken jobs from coast to coast.

Students begin in classes as young as 17 and graduates have ranged to age 58. So far there has only been one male graduate and there is currently one additional male student. "There is a great demand for male LPN's." The field is

River-Cade Announces Full Program

A full schedule of events and activities will entertain and thrill Slouxcader's at SlouxCity's River-Cade 1972. That evening a square dance will begin at 8 p.m. at the Hilton Marina Inn and a teen dance is slated for 8 p.m. at the Municipal Auditorium.

Sunday schedule begins with services of worship at the bandshell in Grandview Park. The second round of boat races will take place with testing at noon and races beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The Coronation Pageant begins at 8 p.m., at Municipal Auditorium and River-Cade 1972 concludes its celebration with a final display of fireworks after the pageant.

Throughout the week river excursions by boat and helicopter will enable persons to view the commercial and recreational river traffic as well as riverfront industrial and park area on both banks.

Opening-day activities also include a carnival, Huck Finn Fishing Contest from noon to 2 p.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m., for youthful anglers, in cross country. A run is scheduled just before the parade at 6:15 p.m., along the parade route.

Evening activities include Rick Nelson and the Stone Canyon Band at 8:30 p.m. at Municipal Auditorium and a fireworks display on the riverfront.

Thursday's schedule includes a country western show with Faron Young, Wanda Jackson, and Justin Tubb at 8 p.m., at the Municipal Auditorium.

The U. S. Army's parachute team, the Golden Knights, will present their aerial show Friday at 7 p.m. on the riverfront. The Boy Scout Camping Jamboree will begin and Warren Cowington and the Tommy Dorsey Band will perform at the River-Cade Ball at 9 p.m. at the Hilton Marina Inn.

A tractor pull contest will open Saturday's activities at 9 a.m. on the riverfront in a boat parade will follow at 10:30 a.m. The Golden Knights will perform at 1 p.m., and again at 4:30 p.m., and wide open for men," Mrs. Breneman said.

She explained that the program's affiliations with hospitals and nursing homes will be the same as they were when the course was taught at Northeastern College.

During their year, the nurses spend time at the two Norfolk hospitals for training in medical surgery, obstetrics and care of the acutely ill. They spend four weeks at St. Joseph Nursing Home in Norfolk, working with the aged, and four weeks at Bishop Clarkson Hospital in Omaha, which is a larger facility than is available in the immediate area. The Omaha experience is also valuable for exposure to the various different facets of a large metropolitan hospital, which is necessary for the well-rounded LPN education, Mrs. Breneman explained.

Her staff of registered nurses includes Mrs. Tom Armbruster, of Norfolk, Mrs. Vance Dufrenoy of Meadow Grove, Mrs. Fred Nolze of Clearwater, Mrs. Walter Schacht of Neligh and Mrs. Jack Patters (part-time) of Norfolk. The department secretary is Mrs. Bryce Pohman, Stanton.

Dennis Stoltenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stoltenberg of Carroll, was graduated from the Academy of Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department July 7 and is now an officer with the Glendora, Calif., Police Department. Dennis is a 1964 graduate of Wayne High school.
