

Many of the boys during the tug-of-war contest (left) gave it all they had Wednesday night to win the championship. On Thursday morning the parades started with a host of floats and riders in the gala event. Making things a little merrier for the children watching was this clown (above) passing out candy.

County to Receive Federal Funds If Senate OKs Bill

Unless the aid bill becomes stalled in the Senate, Wayne County will receive $152,068 a year for the next five years, with the City of Wayne to receive $38,731 of that amount, through the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972.

The tax reimbursement measure has been passed by the House, but still needs confirmation by the Senate.

According to City Clerk Dan Sherry, the federal funds were approved to assist city governments forced with overtaxation on personal property or threatened with bankruptcy.

Should the measure win Senate approval, Wayne will receive the $39,731 annually for the next five years for a total of $193,655, which likely would be added to the general fund.

County Clerk Leon Meyer has not received official notification as to how the remaining $113,337 per year on $566,655 over a five-year period, is to be distributed to areas outside of Wayne. It is possible that school districts and other governmental subdivisions are to share in the funds, along with the other communities in the county.

Wayne would receive $9.7 million for operation of state governments in the first year of the program and local governments, $24.8 million.

Dixon County will receive $106,339 annually for the next five years if the aid bill gets Senate okay, while Cedar County will receive $208,828 a year.

Other counties in northeast Nebraska would receive the following yearly allocations:

Stanton, $86,332; Cumby, $172,607 (including $25,157 to West Point); Dakota, $252,084 (including $75,459 to South Sioux City); Madison, $356,656 (including $155,841 to Norfolk); Pierce, $130,414, and Thurston, $111,928.

Rain Fails to Dampen Winside's Spirits At 72nd Old Settler's Two-day Reunion

Water, water and more water marked Winside's Old Settlers Days as children and grownups from around the area came to view the two-day festival that included water fights on Wednesday and Thursday night.

Even the weatherman had another type of water activity in store for the celebration as rain tried to dampen the spirits of the visitors towards the second evening of activities.

But not even the weather could dampen the spirits of Winside's three oldest settlers as the trio, along with other old settlers, rode in the parade.

Mrs. Martha Latt, 90, Estel Wilson, 86, and Mrs. Meta Nissen, 77, joined the rest of the audience in helping to celebrate the 72nd annual reunion.

The girls from Carroll and Winside helped to open up the gala water fights Wednesday as the visitors poured it on the Winside team to splash on to victory.

Carroll's Captain Mina Olson didn't tell the local girls, that her team, including Maureen Dorey, Carl Peterson, Teresa Brades and Deb Brown, practiced the night before. But never-the-less, Winside's Mary Landanger, Barb Lorenzeker, Robin Keenan, Karmon Schellenberg and Marlyce Rhode did their part to soak the winners.

Hundreds of area residents gathered during Wednesday's opening to view the activities of the Steelman Brothers Shows.

But the actual festivities started Thursday morning with the children's and grand parade.

In portraying the theme of "Characters Out of History," Debbie Woslager and Stacey Glass won with their version of the pilgrims sailing to new found shores. Taking second were the Slonacher children dressed as Indians while Douglas Oswald placed third, acting as Buffalo Bill.

The brother-sister team of Barry and Holly Franzen won the vehicle event, with Lisa Jensen claiming second.

In the pet riding event, Tom Anderson won first dressed as Sir RAINS, page 5.

No Action Taken Yet on Bridge

No action has been taken as yet concerning replacement of the bridge across Logan Creek, according to County Road Supt. Bob Nissen.

The bridge, just east of the city's sanitary landfill entrance, was washed out by high water Monday and dropped into the creek.

A corn crib on the Richard Heberer farm, southwest of Hoskins, was in the path of winds which touched down in the area Thursday evening. (More pictures inside)

Car Hits Gas Main; Burns

Randall Johnson of Wayne was treated for second-degree burns at the Wakefield Hospital, where he was held overnight for observation, after a car he was driving hit a natural gas meter and pipe in Winside Thursday night about 10:30 causing the car to burst into flames. (Picture on an inside page of this issue.)

Johnson's car, a 1972 model, was a total loss. It remained upright but it had to be turned over on its top to get it off the gas main. The Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. in Handolph was summoned to shut off the gas.

Winside residents not only were without gas for the remainder of the night, but without phone service as well. The blaze burned a telephone wire in two, causing the disruption in service.

Johnson, who was taken to Wakefield by companions, was released Friday morning.

The Winside Volunteer Fire Department was called.

Deadline Nears For 2nd 'Farmer-Feeder'

Businesses wishing to advertise in this year's "Farmer-Feeder Section" should have their advertising copy in by closing time Thursday, July 27.

Included in this year's supplement to The Wayne Herald, the annual one, will be stories and pictures of farm families and businesses in Wayne, Wakefield, Winside, Belden, Carroll, Hoskins, Laurel, Allen and Dixon. In addition there are articles of special interest from personnel at the Northeast Station, Concord, and a survey of area students attending the University of Nebraska School of Agriculture.

The Farmer-Feeder supplement, an attempt to focus on the importance that farming plays in our lives, is the Wayne Herald's annual tribute to rural Northeast Nebraska. The section will be a part of the Monday, July 31 issue of the paper.

Wayne Man Injured In Road Accident

Don L. Rademacher, Wayne, sustained an arm injury Friday night when the car he was driving went into a ditch and rolled over.

According to Deputy Sheriff Scotty Thompson, the accident occurred about 6:15 a mile west and three miles south of Wayne when Rademacher's car hit a waterhole, causing him to lose control of the car.

The top and right fender of his car were damaged. He was later taken to the Wayne Hospital.

Laurel Horse Show Postponed by Rain

A rainfall of 1.80 inches Thursday night washed out plans for the Laurel Horse Show, scheduled for Friday afternoon and evening.

The event has been rescheduled for Wednesday, July 26.

The Laurel A-H B and Bridle Club is sponsoring the horse show.

Danny Gene Condeary Hearing Set Aside

The hearing on a post-conviction petition by Danny Gene Condeary which was scheduled for this morning Thursday morning in District Court, was set aside because of the hospitalization of Arthur O'Leary of Omaha, attorney for the state.

No new hearing date has been scheduled, according to Charles McDermott, Wayne, who was appointed by the court early in June as attorney for the defense.

In his petition, Condeary, 26, of Shelby, asked for a new attorney and new trial. Condeary was sentenced April 28 to the Nebraska Penal Complex for a five-to-10-year term after pleading guilty to a charge of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury against a Wayne State College coed.

The charge had been reduced from an earlier charge of kidnapping, rape, sodomy and assault with intent to rape. The alleged incident occurred on or about Nov. 10, 1971, in Wayne County.

A pre-sentence hearing for Gale Gronenthal, Millard, who was charged in the same alleged incident, got underway July 12 and is scheduled to continue this morning (Monday) before District Court Judge George Dietrick of Norfolk at the courthouse in Wayne.

Comedian to Appear at Fair

Donald "Red" Blanchard of Villa Park, Ill., who has appeared at the Illinois State Fair 25 consecutive years as master of ceremonies for such celebrities as Bob Hope, Fatty Arnold and the Tikiana Brass, will perform at the Wayne County Fair Friday, Aug. 4, at 8 p.m.

Earlier that evening, the second day of the fair, will be the always-popular barbecue, the dedication of the newly-built grandstand in honor of Al Babe and a performance by the Crimson Cadets of Norfolk.

Blanchard left the farm in Pittsfield, Wis., many years ago to become one of Chicago's leading entertainers, a 40-year veteran in radio and television.

"Red" received an Oscar Award as the best comedian of the year in Chicago radio by the American College of Radio Arts, Crafts and Sciences.

Meeting of Dixon Budget Set Aug. 3

The village of Dixon will hold a budget meeting at 8 p.m. Aug. 3 at the town hall.

Reports on the cost of putting hot mix on the Dixon streets will be given at that time.

Theft, Vandalism Reported to Police

Mike Slevers of 608 Lincoln reported a tape player and eight tapes were taken from his car sometime Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

Bill Lauder of 118 Imbrogli reported a case of vandalism to his car, which had a window on the driver's side broken out. Both complaints were registered with Wayne City Police Thursday morning.

A bike, reported missing by Sandy Muehlmeier of 420 1/2 Main, was found behind a Main Street business by police Thursday morning.

Flier Now 'Pilots' Homemade Motor Home School Bus to Ultra-Modern Home

It's been a long way from a Linotype operator-pressman at the old Wayne News for Dale Samuelson, son of Mrs. S. F. Samuelson of 1114 Walnut.

The one-time Wayne resident recently retired as a lieutenant colonel after 30 years' service with the Air Force.

But there certainly is no rocking chair in sight.

Almost everyone regards a person as a special kind of guy who has piloted 324's, 329's and KC135's for the past 25 years. For those were the biggies of the flying birds of their eras.

But, even if the knowledge of the inside-and-out of his plane weren't enough, Lt. Col. (Ret.) Samuelson has become an expert in several other fields as well.

Such as carpenter, electrician, plumber, mason, welder—you name it, he's adept.

He and his wife, "Zibbie," spent their spare time in the last two years before his retirement renovating a school bus obtained at Hayward, Calif., into an ultra-deluxe motor home and have spent the entire time since his retirement on Dec. 30 of last year traveling over 9,000 miles in 23 states and Canada.

"We knew we wanted to get a leisurely view of the country when I retired," Samuelson said, "but we couldn't see up to $15,000 for a motor home."

So they picked up a phased-out 1951 model school bus at Hayward, where he had his last flight assignment, for $1,000. "I spent hours drawing up plans how we wanted everything arranged, but finally came up with what resulted to be everything to our liking," Dale said, adding "we haven't found a thing during our trip that we would change."

The bus was plenty long to begin with, rated as a 71-passenger bus for students and driver, with 14 rows of seats to accommodate five in each row. These all had to be removed.

But, headroom was a different story. Geared to average student height, a person 5-10 would do just walking down the aisle. So, in one of the few projects he didn't tackle himself, Dale took the bus to the factory and had the roof raised 14 inches. Now a person six-foot-three or taller can walk upright throughout the interior.

"We don't exactly 'rough' it in this vehicle when we travel,"

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Samuelson emerging from their "one and only home" of the past seven months.

The rear portion are complete bathroom facilities, stool with holding tank and shower—and, for Zibbie, a well-lighted dressing table.

The 18,000-pound motor home, which will average about seven miles to the gallon burning regular gasoline and a "range" of nearly 40 miles with its total 60-gallon capacity, will sleep four comfortably—and more in an emergency.

Modernistic innovations do not end here, however, as Dale appears to have "thought of everything."

He has a 2 1/2-channel citizen's band radio and short wave transceivers to contact law officials in the event of an emergency, a couple of two-ways so that Zibbie can direct him when he is backing the long vehicle, a remote-control starter at the rear of the bus where the engine is located, an eight-track stereo with speakers installed throughout the motor home, an air horn to "give 'em the attention we found out we needed in some areas,"

Funeral Services Held Thursday For Jerry Mahoney

Funeral services were held last Thursday at the Gass-Haney Funeral Home, Columbus, for Jerry A. Mahoney, 23, of Madison, Wis., formerly of Hoskins. He was found dead Sunday in a vacant house south of Sun Prairie, Wis. The Rev. M.W. Goldhammer officiated at the services. Burial was in the Pierce Cemetery. Services were held Wednesday in Wisconsin for his wife, the former Sharon Wheelan, 21, of Sun Prairie, who was found seriously injured in the trunk of a car and died later at a hospital from strangulation. Dane County, Wis., Coroner Clyde Chamberlain ruled Monday that Mr. Mahoney had inflicted the injuries on his wife and then shot himself. Tests are being made to determine if Mahoney believed to have been involved with drugs in Vietnam, as in the influence of drugs at the time of the incident. Jerry Mahoney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Mahoney, was born in Hoskins while the family was living in a small building on the property presently belonging to Mary Rollath. He was baptized in the Mrs. Manley Wilson home, Hoskins, by the Rev. W.F. Sprengeler and confirmed in Columbus. He attended school at Norfolk and Columbus. He was drafted into the Army in 1968, serving two years including combat in Vietnam. He was employed for a time by Behlen Manufacturing Co. of Columbus. Survivors include two daughters, Jody, 4, and Jamie, 13, his father, Alvin of Columbus, three brothers, John and Joseph of Columbus and Jim of South Sioux City; three sisters, JoAnn Ballow and Judy of Omaha and Jan, at home. Jerry, Joseph and a sister, who died in childhood, were triplets. His mother preceded him in death Aug. 4, 1970. Northern Pike weighing more than 10 pounds and caught on hook and line in Nebraska waters are eligible for a Master Angler Award.

Road Construction

All the streets in Carroll, except main street, are being resurfaced this week by the Brunswick Asphalt Co. Inc., Brunswick. According to owner Mike Bodenstedt, the cost of the project is about $12,000, including the relaying of asphalt and an arc coating. Working on the roads are Willis Laurence (left) and Mearl DePeal, both of Brunswick.

home. But the last leg of the journey will come after a family reunion at Estes Park next week—accompanied by Dale's mother, who is anxious to see her seven children, four sons and three daughters. Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Samuelson came to Wayne from Iowa in August of 1942 and Dale worked for his father, the editor-publisher of the Wayne News until called into service Feb. 8, 1943. Since experienced employees were almost an impossibility to get at that time, the News ceased publication shortly after. Three of Mrs. Samuelson's children were graduated from Wayne State, Stanley, now editor-publisher of the Osceola, Ia. Tribune, Mary Belle, now Mrs. Kermit Stube, whose husband also was a WSC grad, and Wayne, a professor at Kearney State College.

Work, Hobbies Keep 'em Hopping No Idle Time for Winside Couple

By Pat Oswald
Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lindsay, who farm 1-3/4 miles south of Winside, somehow find time to enjoy various hobbies in addition to the many other jobs they have on the farm.

One of those hobbies is gardening, with squash of three varieties - Turk's Turbin, Table Queen and Buttercup - dominating. Three years ago the Lindsays raised Hubbard Squash, several which tipped the scales at 10 to 15 pounds. The same year they raised turnips which averaged five pounds apiece.

Each year they plant sweet corn, two kinds of green beans, beets, carrots, cabbage and leaf lettuce. Along with those vegetables, they have a large patch of white potatoes, plain and hybrid tomatoes, red and white radishes and Bermuda and multi-plier onions.

Mrs. Lindsay said "multi-pliers grow in bunches of three or four which we break apart before storing in a dry place for winter use." This type of onion never sprouts, she added.

The garden is hoed by hand except for the squash, potatoes and sweet corn, which are planted in rows so they can be culti-

Mrs. Lindsay stands by the loom, from which she has completed 700 to 300 rugs out of old rags. The loom originally belonged to her mother.

ated with a tractor and cultivator.

Mrs. Lindsay laughed as she recalled a couple of incidents when "snappers" were hungry and helped themselves to her cabbage. On another occasion, they took Turbin squash.

Canning time is a busy time for Mrs. Lindsay, who freezes or cans much of her garden vegetables for the winter months.

In addition to gardening, Mrs. Lindsay enjoys raising flowers. Her favorite is the iris, followed by petunias and moss roses.

Another more unique hobby is one she has the year around, whenever she has a few minutes to spare - weaving rugs from carpet rags with an old loom.

The loom used for weaving is about 25 years old and originally belonged to her mother. Mrs. Lindsay learned its operation by watching her mother, but the art of "warping" the machine, a more complicated procedure, was learned from her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Sevl.

"There are 24 pegs and you 'warp' it by putting a spool of thread on each peg, then pull it through a bracket and space through holes," she explained, adding "you then pull the thread through, tie the knots and hook the thread onto the upper pegs."

"A crank on the side of the loom is turned to get the yardage needed," she added.

There are 24 threads in a group and 14 groups to work with in weaving a rug. "All in all, it keeps me on my toes to keep everything in its place," she said and confessed "I have really had some balled-up messes to untangle, but you learn by doing."

Mrs. Lindsay has made from 200-300 rugs for herself and others, she estimates. She weaves some donations of all rags that a person wants to part with.

Before weaving, rugs have to be torn, sewn and wrapped. One room in the home is reserved for sewing and storage purposes.

Besides hobbies, Mrs. Lindsay bakes most of the bread, cookies and other pastries eaten by her husband and herself. She uses an electric churn to make her own butter and enjoys quilting, but limits this hobby to church and friends' homes.

Then, in her "spare" time, she helps her husband in milking of 11 cows, raising about 500 chickens a year and delivering eggs and cream.

Mr. Lindsay also keeps well occupied with his woodworking and leather work hobbies. He began the woodworking hobby about 50 years ago at the age of 18 and among items he has made are various types of tables, shelves, lamps, trinket boxes, desk, sewing machine cabinet and candle and pencil holders.

Many of his items have set-in designs of various types and colors. To finish the projects, he uses linseed oil and paraffin wax or seals the wood and varnishes it to keep the wood's natural beauty.

Imagination shows up in his projects such as a trinket chest, which he made from walnut, red cedar, red mahogany and history.

One of his prized possessions is a jewelry chest he made for his mother, which stands about 12 inches high with doors in the front which, when opened, reveal three smaller drawers inside. There is a set-in star on top and on each side.

A comparatively new hobby is leather work, which he began 20 years ago. He has made belts, purses, billfolds, plier pockets, key chains, plus a number of other items. He orders leather in large rolls.

"To put a design on leather it has to be wet," he said, explaining that he then lays a template, rough side down, and traces the pattern off by rubbing a spoon across it to make an imprint. Special tools stamp the design to make it permanent. Some articles are hand-painted.

A cleaner is then used to remove fingerprints and smudges before applying a solution that gives the leather a shine.

Patterns used consist of fish, wildlife, animals, flowers, leaves, birds and emblems. Leathers used for trim and joining pieces together are bought in spools of various colors and sizes.

Maurice recalls with a laugh his first experience with dye painting. He was surprised by the simplicity of attaining the right color of red on his first try of mixing the paints.

"I decided to water the dye before beginning the painting job, but when I returned I discovered the paint had evaporated and turned into a dark, ugly red." The moral of the story, he said, is "If you are going to dye paint, stick with it until the job is completed."

The Lindsays always have time for church affairs. They are members of the United Methodist Church at Winside, where he is secretary of the board and she is a member of the W.S.C.S. In addition, she is a long-time member of the Social Circle Club and Faithful Chapter 165 Order of the Eastern Star Lodge.

Mrs. Lindsay also enjoys music and is very talented with the Jews harp, harmonica and accordion.

A busy, but happy, couple the Lindsays.

Ardyce Sorensen Funeral Services Are Held Sunday

Ardyce Sorensen, 66, of Wayne, died Thursday. Her services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Frank Pedersen officiated. Mrs. Frank Pedersen accompanied by Mary Regan, Paulbearers were Donald Pedersen, Mark Elsenberg, Delwyn Sorensen, Clifford Peters, Steve Ellenberg and John Watson. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Ardyce, daughter of George and Pearl Patterson, was born April 16, 1906 at Piller. She attended Wayne State Normal College and taught in Wayne County schools.

On Oct. 15, 1929 she was married to Harold Sorensen. They have farmed all their married life and moved to Wayne in 1963. She was a member of the Wayne Baptist Church.

She was preceded in death by her parents and one sister. Survivors include her widower, one daughter, Mrs. Donald Pedersen, two sons, Dick Sorensen and Dean Sorensen, both of Wayne; one sister, Mrs. Cleo Wallan of Alpine, Calif.; four grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

An unusual place to grow tomatoes, but apparently the plants grown by Mrs. Lindsay thrive in the vegetable "pot."

Edyth Prescott Graveside Rites Held Saturday

Graveside services for Edyth Prescott, 60, of Wayne, were held here Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at Greenwood Cemetery. She died Tuesday in a Sioux City hospital.

The late John Paperson of Wakefield officiated. Pallbearers were Wilbur Giese, John Surber, Douglas Kay, Alvin Voorhies, Clifford Johnson and Freeman Decker.

Edyth Prescott, daughter of True and Edith Tidrick Prescott, was born May 6, 1912 at Wayne. She had lived most of her life in the Wayne community. She received a BS degree from Wayne State College and taught for many years at Ashland and Edgar, Nebr., as well as in western Nebraska. She had also taught at Handolph where she was principal.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Miriam Kay of Livermore, Ia., and Mrs. Florence Storey of Broadwater; two brothers, Edward of Wayne and Russell of Berkeley, Calif., and numerous nieces and nephews.

Preceding her in death were her parents, one sister, Truma and two brothers, Harry and Dale.

Correction

The direction of the car and motorcycle in an accident last Sunday night was reported incorrectly. The cycle was traveling in a southwestern direction while the car was headed northeast.

Winside's Old Settlers Days

A game of musical chairs kept these boys jumping after their chairs during the audience participation show.

One ringer coming up at the horseshoe toss during the Thursday afternoon session.

Summer rain . . . Wednesday night turned out to be a wet one as boys and girls from the surrounding areas battled it out in water fights.

You had to turn the clock back a bit but these settlers were reminding the viewers of the pilgrims landing at Plymouth Rock.

Brenda Voss looks away in disgust after jumping up and down trying to pop her balloon in the balloon-breaking contest.

Which way do I twirl it? . . . this little baton twirler ponders her next move during Winside's grand parade.

Abe marches to town . . . during the children's parade, this Abe Lincoln entry brought quite a few laughs to the audience as the little tyke kept turning his head away from the camera.

Another Abe Lincoln entry in the children's parade featured Abe and his family.
