

One-Year Highway Program Allots $91 Million for Fiscal Year 1973

A $91 million highway construction program for fiscal year 1973 (July 1, 1972, to June 30, 1973) has been released by Thomas Doyle, director of the Department of Roads, including several projects in the Wayne area.

This amount includes obligations for engineering and purchase of rights-of-way.

The program was approved by the Highway Commission Aug. 25 and calls for the letting of 105 state and federal highway projects and 34 Interstate projects in the current fiscal year.

The department has earmarked $53.3 million for construction and improvements on 456 miles of state and federal highways. An additional $27.5 million is scheduled for letting during fiscal year 1973 for 36.1 miles of Interstate construction, mostly in western Nebraska.

Doyle said "the program is a balanced one with an equitable distribution of funds and work in the seven highway districts. Our one-year firm and five-year programs are realistic and obtainable within present and projected funds. They can be financed by a 'pay as we build' basis."

He pointed out, however, that projects let late in fiscal 1973 may not be completed in that time span, since many of the projects require a year or more for construction.

The department has several "standby" projects that can be let into the 1973 program if any of the scheduled projects are unavoidably delayed. One of the problems facing state highway departments is federal requirements on environmental impact of new construction.

A five-year program for fiscal years 1974 through 1978, released at the same time, calls for 2,141 miles of construction and improvements on the state and federal highway system with a total estimated cost of $318.6 million.

All expenditures are based on anticipated construction costs over the time spans involved. The five-year program lists 90 projects.

Contract lettings scheduled for fiscal year 1973 in District 3, which includes Wayne and neighboring counties:

- Cedar - Laurel to Jackson, 9.2 miles, $1,895,000.
- Stanton-Cuming-West Point on west 7.1 miles, $840,000.
- Pierce to Hadar, 18.1 miles, $490,000. Jct. N13 to Jct. N98, 7.0 miles, $335,000; Railroad crossing, McLean east, $20,000.

The five-year program calls for rebuilding of Highway 15 See HIGHWAY, page 6

Long-term Care Wing Proposed

The Wakefield Hospital Board and the Wakefield Health Care Steering Committee will conduct an open meeting Thursday, Oct. 5 at 8 p.m., to present a proposal for a new long term care wing to be erected alongside the present hospital building.

The meeting will be held at the Wakefield High School Library.

The need for a nursing home followed. The announcement some time ago that the Shady Rest Lodge would close its doors due to stringent laws passed governing nursing homes.

Members of the steering committee are Marvin Borg, Emil Muller, E. E. Turner, Bud Böckhauer, Marilyn Holm, Warren Bressler, the Rev. Robert Johnson, Alvin Sundell, Bill Rischmuelier, Alden Johnson, Paul Burman and Weldon Mortenson, with Ted Jones as an advisory member.

Farmers who attended Field Day at the Northeast Station Tuesday eye extension agronomist Russell Moormaw's weedy soybean field as he discusses narrow row soybean weed control. Moormaw astounds his listeners with talk of planting weeds in his fields. Such planting is for experimental reasons, of course.

A $25,407.84 carryover from last year's budget will be transferred to the Dist 17 School District funds, it was learned at Monday night's Board of Education meeting at Wayne High School.

Odometer Law Now In Effect

Wayne County Clerk Norris Weible reminds area residents that no Nebraska resident can title a 1969 or newer model without a completed Nebraska Odometer Certificate if bought after Sept. 1.

This is a result of LB 1351 which Gov. J. J. Exon signed into law in April.

Weible explained that "the intent of the law was to insure Nebraska car buyers would no longer be defrauded by those who would tamper with the odometer (mileage indicator or the speedometer) or by the out-of-state operators who would use car as a dumping ground for their high mileage units."

He added that there will be some inconveniences, but the benefits far outweigh the inconveniences.

Crops Field Day Turnout Boosted by Rainy Weather

By Brenda Gustafson

Weather conditions which kept farmers from fall plowing, putting up a third cutting of hay, or other field work, didn't hinder and may have helped attendance at the Northeast Station Field Day Tuesday, according to Cal Ward, station superintendent.

Several hundred persons, primarily from a 60 to 70-mile radius of the station, boarded flat beds pulled by tractors to view corn and soybean fields treated quite a bit differently from those on a "typical" northeastern Nebraska farm.

All of the scheduled topics were discussed, although some of the four stop locations had to be switched because of muddy roads and fields.

Topics of discussion were:

- Date of Planting and P. Placement and Rate for Corn; Yield and Economic Return from Crops in Northeast Nebraska; Soybean Fertility; Corn Insect Control; Irrigation Man a game; Soybean Row Spacing and Weed Control; Corn Weed Control; and Corn Weed Control in Reduced Tillage Systems.

David Wysong and Louise Palmer, extension plant pathologists from Lincoln, held a plant disease clinic at the headquarter building throughout the day.

Wysong said that while this is a good year in the absence of southern corn leaf blight, corn rust, and corn smut, this is an opportune time to alert farmers to the possibility of stalk rot.

Favorable conditions for stalk rot are "exactly what you have had in this area the last few days," said Wysong.

These conditions are "rather coaxing to moderate temperatures and abundant moisture," he said.

"Farming practices which increase the chances for stalk rot are high plant population and a relatively high nitrogen fertilizer program," Wysong said, and added that a farmer who suspects stalk rot should look for "individual plants that have died prematurely."

To confirm stalk rot, Wysong suggests that the farmer dig up the plant with the roots intact, wash off the dirt from the roots, and look for pink to purple discoloration of brace and feeder roots.

"A final test would be splitting the stalk lengthwise and looking for shredding deterioration."

The NPPD, a public corporation and political subdivision of the State of Nebraska, will initiate negotiations with property owners to purchase right-of-way easements along the proposed route.

Other public meetings will be held Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. at the Nebraska Public Power District Service Building, 8th and Madison in Norfolk and Thursday, Sept. 21, at 8 p.m. in the District Courtroom of the Dakota County Courthouse at Dakota City.

Council Votes Out Landfill Charge

The Wayne City Council, in a 2-1 vote Tuesday night, defeated the motion to charge city residents for the use of the landfill, located northeast of Wayne.

Councilmen Frank Praher, Darrel Fuehlberth, Harvey Brasch, Pat Gross and Jim Thomas vetoed the measure on a motion by Ivan Beeks.

A second by Councilman Keith Mosley, Gross told the Council that the "people don't want to be charged for the use of the landfill." Councilman Thomas added that he thought it was the "city's obligation" to run the landfill instead of charging the residents for its use.

Councilman Fuehlberth then said the city would be forcing residents to use the Wayne Refuse Service if the city did start charging rates to use the site.

Mosley and Beeks voted in favor of the measure while Councilman Vernon Russell abstained.

In a 5-3 vote, the members passed a motion to charge the Northwest town of Bell Telephone Co. a three per cent occupation tax.

According to earlier reports, the tax will be handed down to city residents using the telephone service, after the State Railway Commission ruled that the shifting of the tax is permissible.

In a motion by Councilman Harvey Brasch and seconded by Councilman Darrel Fuehlberth, the council passed the motion on its third reading. Councilmen Thomas, Praher and Russell voted against the passage.

Traffic Flow

The Council in another 5-3 vote, passed a resolution to prohibit right turns on a red light at Second and Main, Third and Main, and Third and Pearl.

Earlier, the members unanimously voted to allow traffic to make right turns after stopping at red lights.

But later they decided to allow only right turns after stopping for a red light at Seventh and Main. The councilmen felt that turning on red at the Seventh and Main intersection would be in accordance with other area towns as well as throughout the

Secondhand Appliances
Is a secondhand appliance a real bargain? It could be if you know what you're buying and if you're very selective. Consider the price of the appliance and check the warranty. Sometimes war warranties don't apply to a second owner even if it's still within the guaranteed period. Secondhand shopping might also include buying a slightly damaged model or a demonstration model from a dealer. In this case, know the dealer's reputation and how well he backs his claim. Buying a secondhand appliance at an auction or garage sale offers greater risk since there is no dealer to rely on. Other sources of secondhand appliances are stores with damaged, reconditioned, repossessed and school plan merchandise. Follow these guidelines when making a purchase: decision on a secondhand appliance. Analyze the electrical connections. Check safety seals to assure that all safety features are operational. Check the appliance for visible deterioration of parts or finish. This is the clue to the kind of care given the appliance. Do some comparative shopping and try to get a written guarantee. Look for terms "reconditioned" and "rebuilt." "Reconditioned" means the appliance has been cleaned and parts have been replaced to make the appliance operate. A "rebuilt" object has had a more thorough overhaul and its accuracy depends on the dealer. Service life of a secondhand appliance is usually half that of a new one. Remember this fact when considering price of the purchase.

NE Conference Leads Leagues In Last Week's Gridiron Action

The Northeast Conference proved to be the most active last week as eight of the nine teams battled it out in conference games.

Last year's No. 1 team, Creighton, retained the same spot after beating 1971 cellar team, Clarkson.

Wayne reserves defeated the top laurel team, 7-0.

Junior halfback Randy Workman scored the only Wayne touchdown Monday to lead the reserve football team to a 7-0 blanking of Laurel.

Workman crossed the line from four yards out, said reserve coach Ron Garver, on an off-tackle play during the second quarter in a contest at Laurel. Terry Hasebroock kicked the PAT.

Workman, along with Rick Mitchell, Bill Sweeney and Kim Baker led the defensive unit in the number of unassisted tackles with Sweeney making eight unassisted stops. Mitchell and Workman each had five while Baker counted four.

Wayne will host Pierce Monday in a 4 p.m. game.

Crofton, 30-18.

Pierce smacked Neligh, 16-0, while Plainview nipped O'Neill, 22-12. Rounding out the top four was area team Laurel coming from behind to beat Bloomfield, 14-6.

Over in the Husker conference, both the East and West Divisions had two teams hitting the pads.

In the Western portion, Wayne blasted Madison, 48-6, and Wakarusa, last year's bottom team in the Eastern conference, hit Wisner Pilger, 14-0.

Lyons, in the Eastern Division, knocked off Oakland-Craig in a squeaker, 8-6. Right behind the top club is Pender, thrashing a non-conference foe, Loganview, 24-6.

In the Lewis and Clark Conference, action remained at a standstill with all the teams playing non-conference teams. Wausa and Winside are on top of the Western Division with 1-0 records while Walhill and Hom are stake out the No. 1 positions with identical 1-0 marks.

Turning to this week's games, Wayne will continue its winning ways with a possible repeat of last week's score. This time we'll mark the figure at 32-6.

Stanton Edges Battle Creek

Phil Frank scored from one yard out in the second period Friday night to boost Stanton to a 6-0 win over visiting Battle Creek.

Sophomore Linebacker Rick Siefken intercepted two passes to thwart Battle Creek threats. The Mustangs lay on Plain view at home Friday

The Sparfacus exerciser can accommodate 14 students. Here, left, Scott Johnson, Rick Gathie, Roger Niemann and Virgil Kardell demonstrate four of the exercises.

Weight Machine Adds 'Lift' to WHS

The sixth period bell just rang and the halls at Wayne High School quickly filled with bustling students.

The gymnasium was quiet for a while, until the boys' physical education class exploded onto the scene.

Why were the boys so anxious to start their P.E. class? Many people today are concerned with watching their weight. But the students at Wayne High School are mostly concerned with how much weight they can lift in the boys' physical education classes.

Why the keen interest? The high school recently purchased, on a trial basis, a new weight machine that can accommodate 14 students at one time.

According to Athletic Director Harold Maciejewski, the Sparfacus exerciser is one answer to providing safety for students lifting weights.

The fear of a student dropping the weights on his toes, or other parts of his body, is eliminated, he said. The reason, he pointed out, is that the weights are stabilized in one area so if the student would drop the weights, they would not injure the student.

The exerciser, which weighs 2,500 pounds, can be used for most areas of sports in building up a student, even if he or she just wants to do moderate exercises.

The complete cost of the machine, he said, is about $2,600 including delivery.

The Wayne School Board will pay half the cost, Maciejewski noted, with the other half coming from donations the school hopes to raise through various drives.

The students learn to start out with the most weight he can lift at one time. From there, the athletic director said, the student takes 60 to 70 per cent of the maximum weight and lifts that amount to start.

The program involves almost every type of exercise needed for the many high school sports, including volleyball, swimming, wrestling, gymnastics, tennis, golf, baseball, preseason track.

New Boundary

Grouse hunters must observe a new boundary when after Nebraska's sharp-tails and prairie chickens. Grouse hunting in Nebraska will be open west of a line from the South Dakota border south on Nebraska Highway 14 to its junction with Nebraska 22, east on Nebraska 22 to U.S. 81, east on U.S. 81 to U.S. 30, west on U.S. 30 to Nebraska 92, west on Nebraska 92 to U.S. 183, south on U.S. 183 to U.S. 30, west on U.S. 30 to U.S. 283, and south on U.S. 283 to the Kansas border. The prairie grouse season runs from Sept. 16 through Oct. 15, with bag and possession limits of two and six.

Sunday Tractor Pull at Norfolk

The Riviera Raceway in Norfolk will host the first tractor pull ever held in Norfolk Sunday, billed as the Northeast Nebraska Championship Tractor Pull.

Area Drivers Slow Racing Action

Area race drivers seemed to be slowing down the past week end as the racing season nears an end.

No one from the surrounding area managed to capture a first place finish.

Hoskins' Gerald Bruggeman kept the racing circuit hot in the North Dakota and Norfolk racing spots. Friday, Saturday and Sunday with a fifth place showing in the second heat and ninth in the A feature at Red River Speedway at Fargo, Friday and Saturday.

At Norfolk's Riviera Raceway, the sprint driver took third in the fourth heat and sixth in the national championship race Sunday evening. Also running from the area was Gene Brudigan, who won third in the semi-main event.

Over in South Sioux City's Raceway park, Wakarusa's Dennis Crappen and Lyle Ekberg tuned up their engines. Crappen took third place in the B feature while Ekberg managed to finish second in the A feature and second in the heat race.

Randolph Runs String to 10

Randolph ran its win string to 10 Friday night while shutting out visiting Coleridge, 28-0.

Tim Witte scored one touchdown on a 42 yard run and passed to Dan Rudebusch 14 yards for another Steve Fish and Bruce Strahman had the other Randolph TD's.

The Cardinals try for No. 11 in a row Friday night at Hartington Cedar Catholic.

Chest pressing is another developing project. Rodney Kuhnhenn shows how it is done while Rob Mitchell does situps and Monte Lowe works on the leg press.

Lake's Water Turnover Cause Of Fish Population Decrease

Possible solutions to the many fish management problems of the Lewis and Clark Lake on the eastern end of the Nebraska-South Dakota border were discussed recently by biologists from the two states and the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife.

The fish production record of the 31,000-acre reservoir has been rather dismal. It offers fair catfishing at the upper end, fair numbers of white bass, and marginal fishing for other species. Its poor showing as a fishing lake can be attributed mostly to the fact that it is a regulatory reservoir for the downstream navigation, and is the smallest and the last of the Missouri's mainstem reservoirs.

With the large amount of water presently moving down the Missouri, the entire volume of the lake passes through the dam's spillway once every four days, much faster than most other reservoirs. This rapid turnover makes Lewis and Clark more like a wide spot in the river than a reservoir, but improvement has also robbed it of river characteristics important to fish.

Because of this flushing action, much of the lake's fish population goes through the spillway or turbines during their peltic period; a stage of development shortly after hatching when the new fry simply drift with the current.

This is one of the reasons that Lewis and Clark has such a poor base of forage fish, which are required to maintain game fish populations. Federal biologists have suggested introduction of the spottail shiner, a forage species that spends its early development in shortling vegetation rather than drifting with the current. It thrives in Mississippi River navigation pools, which have some of the characteristics of Lewis and Clark. It is not known if it can cope with the problems in Lewis and Clark.

Another factor in the lake's low fish population is the lack of spawning habitat. The creeks and rivers flowing into the lake once offered acceptable spawning areas, but siltation at their mouths now blocks spawning runs.

Biologists from the Game and Parks Commission, along with their counterparts from South Dakota and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, will continue to study Lewis and Clark's problems. Their recommendations may include introduction of new forage fish or modification of the reservoir.

Wayne State Faces Tough Emporia In Annual Band Day Tilt Saturday

Wayne State's football team, racked by a 44-0 loss Saturday, has another formidable date Saturday afternoon against Emporia State of Kansas before a Band Day crowd at 2 p.m. in Wayne's Memorial Stadium. Scouting reports indicate that Emporia's new wideback offense looked potentially powerful as the Hornets lost Saturday by the margin of late field goal to strong Arkansas Tech, 10-7. Tech perennially ranks among the nation's NAIA leaders. A year ago Emporia made Wayne one of its three victims, 14-7, against six losses and a tie. This year Emporia Coach Bud Elliott still has what he calls a young squad, loaded with sophomores, but against Arkansas Tech the Hornets proved a pre-season Elliott prediction his team would have good overall speed. Archery-Deer Season Opens September 16

A small army of silent hunters will stalk into Nebraska's woods and draw long before first light on Sept. 16, to be in position for the opening of the archery-deer season one-half hour before sun up.

Upland Hunters Aim for Grouse

Upland hunters can unlimber their scatterguns for the first major game bird hunt of the year on Sept. 16, opening day of Nebraska's prairie grouse season. Both prairie chickens and sharpshins will be legal game through Oct. 15. Basically, the open area of the state includes the Sand Hills, Panhandle, and Southwest, all though exact boundaries were changed somewhat this year. Maps showing the open areas will be included in the 1972 Hunting Guide, which should be available shortly. Hunters should find slightly increased grouse numbers this year, according to Game Commission surveys. Bag and possession limits will be two and six, and shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Gunners hunting on U.S. Forest Service lands at Halsey and Nelzel or on U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife lands at the Crescent Lake and Valentine national wildlife refuges should check for special regulations on those areas.

Allen Volleyball

Twenty three girls reported for volleyball at Allen High School recently, according to Coach Lorna Stamp.

Green-winged teal are the smallest of the ducks.

Oh, those Grouse. From 1927 or '28 through '49, "those were the years" Nebraska grouse hunters prefer to forget, for both prairie chicken and sharp-tailed grouse were off limits to hunting. But in 1950, the doors opened and Nebraskans have been hunting both species of prairie grouse since, with the exception of a closed season in '54. Open area in 1950 included Brown, Cherry, Keya Paha, and Rock Counties and part of Sheridan. This falls far short of today's open range which basically consists of north-central, western, and southwestern Nebraska. Limits that first season were two birds daily and also in possession as compared to limits of two and six respectively for '72. This fall's hunt bans off Sept. 15, and continues through Oct. 15. Early season shooting should be good, for the bird crop is up and grouse for the most part will still be in small, family groups. As the season progresses, grouse band together in large flocks and become more wary. Too, dogs should find the going easier in early season. Game bird connoisseurs favor early season grouse, for the birds of the year are young and tastier. Average weight is about two pounds. Prairie chickens, the favorite of early market hunters, are associated more with wet meadows and valleys where there is farmland intertwined with range land while the sharp-tails for the most part stick to the hills. Either way—after chickens or sharp-tails, be prepared for lots of walking. Volunteer check stations, where important biological information will be gathered, will be operating at Ainsworth, south of Valentine, Hatsey, Dunning, Taylor, Burwell, Alliance, and possibly Alkinston.

Rescue Unit Called

The Allen Waterbury Rescue Unit was called out twice last week. Last Tuesday afternoon, Larry Gotch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gotch, Allen, was taken to Wakefield for treatment following a motorcycle pickup camper collision. The camper had been driven by Paul Koester when the two collided on the main street of Allen. Gotch's injuries were limited to scratches and bruises on his left side and a heel injury which required stitches. Sunday morning the unit was called out about 5:30 a.m. to the scene of a one-car accident west of Noe's Station on Highway 20. It was discovered that there was no personal injury to the only occupant in the Madison County car which had gone into a ditch on the south side of the highway.

Duck-Hunting Maps Available

The 38 Nebraska wetlands areas purchased with federal duck stamp funds are featured in the new 1972 Waterfowl Production Area Map. Located south of the Platte River in south-central Nebraska, the areas are all open to public hunting during the fall season. Color illustrations of both diving and puddle ducks are included as an aid in identification. The maps are available free from National Wildlife Refuges, Wetland Management offices, and other Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife installations in Nebraska. The rainwater basin area has a good supply of water, and unless there is some hot, windy weather, it should provide some of its best duck hunting in years.

Paddlefish Investigation

A joint study by Nebraska and South Dakota is underway at Gavins Point to learn the size of the paddlefish population and how much of it is being harvested. Alan Carson, district fisheries supervisor at Norfolk, says the fish taken by gill nets and trammel nets are averaging 15 pounds. Quite a few paddlefish taken had broken or damaged paddles. Before each fish is returned to the water, a metal tag is fastened to the jaw. Snagging season on the Missouri heavyweight opens Oct. 1 and continues through April 30. Pheasants Looking Up. The outlook for pheasant hunting continues encouraging. Bird numbers are improved in the whole southwest, panhandle, and central part of the state. Anywhere from Hastings to Imperial in the southwest should be good. In the northeast, best shooting should be in Madison and Boone counties, southern Stanton, and northern Colfax and Platte counties.

MISHMASH

Fishing productivity in the public lakes along Interstate 80 isn't what it used to be. Studies show most of the lakes are overrun with slanted fish. Best of the bunch could be the lake at the Hershey interchange. Popularity of hunting continues on the rise. Hunting license holders in the U.S. climbed to 15,977,588, an increase of 607,107 over 1970. Expenditures for licenses and permits exceed the '70 total by nearly $7 million. These same hunters spend in excess of $160 million just to buy and feed hunting dogs. Mrs. Lee Whithead of Kamperville, Cazad, recalls one family from Missouri asking if they could have a funeral for their pet rabbit which apparently became overheated and died in camp. Request was granted. Still on the subject of rabbits, "jacks" eat sand and gravel to satisfy their need for minerals. Of all hares, the white-tailed jack rabbit is the fastest. When pressed, it can reach speeds 45 miles an hour. PLACES A GO GO... Free, Reduced-Price Meal Policy Adopted

Winside Public Schools have adopted the family size and income scale to assist them in determining eligibility for free and reduced-price meals for school children unable to pay the full price.

Eligibility determinations are made on a family basis, all of the children in the same family attending school to receive the same benefits, a free meal or a reduced price meal.

Unusual circumstances, such as illness or death in the family, also will be taken into consideration when determining eligibility for free or reduced price meals. The payment for a reduced price breakfast shall not exceed 10 cents, while the maximum price for a reduced price lunch is 20 cents.

Application forms were sent home with students, but additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. Information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility, school officials stress. Students will not be identified. Supt. Donovan Leighton will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents dissatisfied with the ruling may appeal the decision to High School Principal Ron Kramer, who has been designated as the hearing official.

End of Draft in 1973 Foreseen

"No American will be subject to being drafted into our armed forces after June, 1973, if legislation recommended by President Nixon is enacted by Congress," Congressman Charles Thone foresees.

The First District Congressman from Nebraska adds that the draft system that the Nixon administration inherited was definitely immoral, in his opinion. That system often provided that the poor and the uneducated were drafted, while those rich enough and well-educated ought to go to college escaped. President Nixon ended that evil system and replaced it with one where, all young men were subject to call only during their 19th year, and then dependent only on the number they drew in a lottery, not on their educational status.

"About 150,000 young men were drafted in 1970. In 1971, the number drafted was approximately 100,000. In 1972, about 50,000 men will be drafted, in addition to the President's proposed June, 1973, end to the draft law, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has set January, 1973, as a goal for the end of involuntary enlistment of personnel.

"A number of factors have combined to make possible the progress from 1968, when 299,000 men were drafted, to 1972, when only about one-sixth of the 1968 number will be called.

"During the past four years, the number of U. S. personnel in Vietnam has been reduced by over a half-million. The total size of our armed services has been reduced from 3.5 to 2.3 million people.

"A young service person who has completed four months of basic training now receives $321 a month, plus housing, meals, uniforms, free medical and dental care and other fringe benefits. The cash part in now more than double the $149 a month received just a few months ago.

"The armed services, while relying more and more on volunteers, have been able to become more selective about who they take. During the first six months of 1972, 69 per cent of all enlistees, both voluntary and conscripted, were high school graduates.

"What remains to be done to make possible total elimination of involuntary inductions?"

"When young men faced a strong possibility of being drafted, they were eager to accept the alternative of enlisting for a period of years in the National Guard or the Reserve. Now, there isn't that pressure. As a part of its plan for reducing the number of people on active duty with the military, the administration has placed more reliance on ready Reserves and a strong Guard force. Therefore, it is now extremely important that Congress act to make service in these forces more attractive.

"There remains the problem that some professions and skills offer so much better pay in civilian life that it is difficult to attract and hold people with these qualifications in the armed services. Doctors and dentists are the principal personnel in those categories but they also include people with skills in such fields as computer programming and electronics.

"The Administration proposes bonuses to keep those with special skills. For doctors, a special retention bonus is proposed to bring service pay up more nearly to what a civilian physician earns. A special armed services medical school would be instituted in which prospective doctors would obtain free education in return for up to seven years of service.

"In addition, I propose that the armed services take other steps to solve shortages of personnel with critical skills. The military should embark on a special program to recruit women with these skills and to make certain females have the same opportunities for advancement in these specialties as males.

"Further I propose that the military make a concentrated effort to end waste of its professional and highly skilled personnel in tasks that can be performed by para-professional and semi-skilled people.

"Finally, I propose that the armed services employ civilian personnel to reduce the need for professionals and critically skilled people in uniform.

"If the Congress and the Administration will cooperate in these necessary steps, young men in 1973—for the first time in 34 years—will not face the prospect of military service against their will. All voluntary armed services will make for a better military arm and a better America."

the hay they wanted, along with rations of grain and silage, made it through the third lactation.

The Cornell research team, headed by dairy science professor G. W. Trimmer, fed other groups of cows varying amounts of grain, hay and silage with results that ranged between the two extremes mentioned. "Death losses weren't high for any cow groups which got at least eight pounds of hay per day.

Cows which were on the all silage and grain diets with no hay seemed to lack resistance to disease and reproductive disorders.

There are also chapters dealing with container gardening, landscaping, limited areas, ground covers, minimum care plantings, controlling erosion, brightening neighborhoods, even attracting birds.

One section of the book concerns gardening's role in maintaining environmental quality. USDA experts have authored several chapters on plants as climate changers, ways to ease visual pollution, land planning, rent a garden projects and redesigning downtown shopping areas.

Copies of Landscape for Living may be purchased for $3.50 each from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

One advantage of the warm weather is that it has probably kept the fungus organism from developing too rapidly. Phallan should be used to control the organism, although it may make a difference since the organism has already started working. To assure maximum protection with fungicides, they should be applied before the disease develops. It is best to spray the pecan when they first appear and to keep spraying at two-week intervals.

No Hay Creates Problem

A three-year study of high silage and grain feeding practices made at Cornell University has turned up some startling evidence that no-hay rations not only leads to pesky problems and loss of milk production, they can also mean abnormally high mortality rate in dairy herds.

Thone Hosting Ambassadors

Representative Charles Thone was one of the members of Congress who were to host ambassadors to the United States at an International Soybean Fair Wednesday.

Foreign ambassadors and commercial and agricultural attaches were invited to the fair at a House of Representatives office building, where new food and feed used for soybeans were demonstrated.

Congressmen from soybean-producing districts hosted the fair in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, American Soybean Association, National Soybean Processors Association and other industry firms.

Thone was official host for the ambassadors and attaches from the nations of Greece, Qatar and Uganda. "About half of the total soybean crop of the United States is exported. Nebraska obtains a large share of this income from sales of soybeans abroad. In 1971, the Cornhusker state was fourth among the 50 states in exports of grains. To maintain and improve prices for this crop, we must expand our sales to other nations," Thone said.

High Moisture Grain is the name of the GAIN!

With an automated Harvestore feed processing system, you can harvest your grain early, at peak nutrition, before weather and lodging take their toll—there's less handling. Grain goes direct from field to structure. There is less storage loss. And, drying is eliminated. Livestock get a more nutritious and palatable ration, too. To feed more cattle without additional land and with less labor, the name of the gain is Harvestore and high moisture grain. Make us prove it.

The distinctive Mercury Marquis and Mercury have been completely redesigned inside and outside for 1973. All full-size Mercurys have a more formal appearance, thinner windshield pillars set at a raking 60-degree angle on four-door models, and a new rear appearance. All 1973 Lincoln-Mercury cars have a new front bumper system designed to prevent significant damage to safety-related components in 5-mph frontal impact into a flat barrier. The new rear bumper system offers protection in 2-3-mph impacts. A classic stand-up ornament graces the hood of the new Marquis (Brougham) (above) — the division's flagship of the Mercury line. New standard features for all full-size Mercury models include: radio-optional, steel-belted tires, wiper-windshield washers, an inside hood-latch release, automatic parking brake, release and front bumper guards. Power vent windows for four-door models, an AM/FM multiplex radio with a stereo tape system, a right-hand remote control rear view mirror and an anti-theft electronic alarm system are among the many new options.

Tractor Lights on Highway a Must

Nebraska has had lighting requirements for tractors and other farm equipment for many years; however, many people did not pay too much attention to the lighting until they were involved in an accident or until they were stopped by a law enforcement officer.

Primary among the lighting laws is regulation 39.735 which states that:

"Every vehicle, including road rollers, road machines, scrapers, graders, and farm tractors, (1) having a width, including load, of eighty inches or more, or (2) having any part thereof or having any load thereupon which shall extend forty inches or more to the left of the center of the chassis, shall display, when driven, pulled, operated, or propelled on the highway, during the period from one half hour after sunset until one half hour before sunrise, and at all other times when there is not sufficient light to render such vehicle clearly discernible, two clearance lights on the left side of such vehicle. One such clearance light shall be located at the front and display an amber or green light visible, under normal atmospheric conditions, from a distance of three hundred feet to the rear of said vehicle. The light at the rear shall be located at a sufficient distance above the taillight so as not to be confused with the taillight by those approaching from the rear. Such light shall be located on a line with the extreme outer point of such vehicle or load thereon."

Manufacturers have done a good job in the last 10 years in making good lighting available. The responsibility of keeping these lights clean and in good working condition falls back on the owner of the equipment. If the bulbs are burned out, the lights don't help.

The law also states that farm tractors shall have their lights on one half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise if the tractors are used on roadways. This means two or more headlights and a red light on the rear.

Farmers should also make sure the rear white light on tractors used for field work is not on when the tractor is used on the roadway.

Each year brings reports of automobiles running into the back of a farm tractor because drivers were blinded by these lights.

One accident in eastern Nebraska occurred when a motor vehicle slammed into the rear of a tractor that was traveling on the roadway with the field light still on. The driver related that he was not sure what he was approaching. The white light fooled him into thinking it might be a motorcycle. In the confusion and differential in speed, he was soon upon the tractor. A near fatal collision occurred.

In another accident, a motorcycle rider was killed when his machine ran into the end of a footbar on a tractor. The law stipulates that "the lights shall be located on a line with the extreme outer point of such vehicle or load thereon." Sometimes the footbar extends out beyond the outer edge of the rear wheels. In this situation the motorcyclist could not see the protruding end of the footbar.

ces, police cars, etc. Any blinking light should caution drivers to slow down.

Drivers should be aware of one other change that is taking place in the lighting of farm equipment. This is the presence of turn signals on some tractors. This development brings about another situation that auto drivers should be aware of.

If blinking lights are used on the tractors, the lights will blink until the turn signal indicator is

NE Station Adds Beef Specialist

The staff at the University of Nebraska Experimental Station near Concord has been increased by the addition of an extension livestock specialist.

Phil Menke, former Hitchcock County Agent, headquartered at Trenton, arrived at the Station last Wednesday.

Menke fills a position "newly created" as part of an expanded program "to serve a few more beef cattle men."

Menke will be "working with county agents, beef cattle operators, credit people and live stock industry representatives." He will serve as liaison person between the Nebraska Livestock Development Committee and northeast Nebraska and will concentrate his efforts on the production of feeder calves and other livestock programs to more fully and efficiently utilize northeast Nebraska's forage and crops residue.

Menke said he will do some work with livestock development, a special program supported by the Nebraska Bankers Association and other segments of the livestock industry, "as a way of feeding up grain and for producing more cattle locally" but emphasized that development will be encouraged "only where development will fit in a rational and logical way."

"I will have no resident research responsibilities at all," the native of Corad said. District beef extension specialists also will operate out of Lincoln and North Platte.

The district served by the Northeast Station includes the following counties: Antelope, Boyd, Cedar, Curming, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne.

Menke received his BA from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, his M.A. in beef cattle nutrition from the University of Wyoming.

He spent one of his undergraduate years working at the Fort Robinson Research Station near Crawford.

He has served as Hitchcock County Agent since 1968. Menke, his wife, Dixie, their three-year-old son, Clint, and baby daughter, Anita, are living on a farm east of Laurel.

Not Time, Nor Place

There seems to be a time and a place for everything. And if everything isn't in its correct place at the correct time, it's often called untimely.

Or, frankly speaking, it's a failure.

The time to plant corn is in the spring at the beginning of the growing season. The place to put it is in a plowed, disked, harrowed field. Sounds simple. Even "unfarmers" could probably figure that out.

The time to cultivate is when the weeds begin to pop up. Otherwise, why cultivate it?

If you decide to give your cattle a little green "vegetation" all year around, there is also a correct time to cut the corn for silage. Not too early nor too late during the growing season or it won't make good, preservable, nutritious corn silage.

If the corn is cut and stored when the ears are small and likely the proper place was prepared several weeks ago. You had the new pit dug or the old one cleaned out.

It's sort of like the Mrs. cleaning out the old fruit jars before filling them again.

And it's sort of like everything else the farmer does. It has to be planned well in advance. Even the silage pit has to be in the correct place. Out behind the grove where the snow drifts less and the wind blows the most while you are digging it out of the pit.

Unless, of course, you are lucky enough to have an upright, commercial silo. But the silage has to be put in that silo regardless of what shape or form it takes.

Ensilage crews, resemble the threshing crews of yesterday. Whoever owns the cutter usually is the one responsible for its operation. Several tractors and wagons are used for the hauling to the pit. One farmer with a tractor stays at the pit and keeps the silage packed.

Only Jimmy Lynch, and His Dareddevils have taken rides comparable to rides on an ensilage pit.

In the first place, the freshly chopped corn doesn't provide the perfect traction necessary for incline driving. The sides of Most changed Ford Division car for 1973 is the full-sized Ford. Shown here is the LTD four-door hardtop. All-new sheet metal below the window line and a new segmented grille give the 1973 Ford a more formal look. All 1973 Fords have a new impact-absorbing bumper system, although the overall length of the car is increased only one inch. Power front disc brakes, power steering, SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission and a 351-2V eight-cylinder engine are standard in all new Fords.

Back-packing Tips Are Passed on to Kiwanis

Dr. Wayne Wessel gave an interesting account to Wayne Kiwanis Monday of a back-packing trip that he and his 10-year-old son, Scott, and four other persons from Utah took to Bridger National Forest, near Pinedale, Wyo., this summer.

The party of six took a four-day back-packing trip about 10 miles into the Rocky Mountains, where they caught about 75 brook, cutthroat and rainbow trout at various secluded lakes. Counting side trips, they estimated they hiked about 40 miles.

Dr. Wessel listed several essentials for a back-packing trip—a good pack and frame, lightweight sleeping bag, lightweight tent and hiking boots and camping shoes.

A number of other items are needed, of course, including extra clothing, cooking utensils and food. The six had lightweight grill skillets and cook pots, freeze-dried foods with meals separated into separate bags, waterproof matches, compass, first aid kit, a collapsible rod and small tackle box.

Even with the stress on light-weight necessities and condensed, treated foods, the Wayne dentist said his pack weighed around 45 pounds after every weight-saving corner was cut.

Another interesting aspect of back-packing learned by Kiwanis

Social Security

Questions, Answers

Q. I'll be 72 next month, but I intend to go on working as long as I can. I can earn as much as I want after I'm 72 and still get all my Social Security checks. But will my earnings from the first part of this year, before I was 72, still affect my Social Security payments?

A. You will get a Social Security check for every month beginning with the month of your 72nd birthday—no matter how much you work or earn. However, your earnings for the entire year in which you become 72 are used in figuring what payments can be made to you for the months you were still 71.

Q. When I'm 65 next month, I plan to retire and apply for monthly Social Security payments. However, next year I'm going to visit friends in Norway for a year. Can my checks be sent to me in Norway?

A. Yes. Social Security checks can be sent to most foreign countries, including Norway. But be sure to notify the Social Security Administration of your address in Norway before leaving for your visit.

Tractor Lights — Judge Named For Hog Show

the pile usually slope at a 90 degree angle. When you try backing up it on the return trip, the angle goes from a 90 to 100 degree angle.

Up one side, over the pile and down the other side. The pile doesn't get larger, it only gets deeper and higher. And of course the more silage in the pile, the more packing is required.

Even Jimmy Lynch would probably get a thrill out of riding the tractor skidding and sliding on one wheel along the edge of the ensilage pit. Tractors aren't weighted and balanced for such stunts.

It seems like an hour before the tractor wobbles and bounces back on all four wheels, you make a mental note not to get that close to the edge again.

Such an act seldom goes unnoticed. At no time during the entire silage cutting has neighbor John returned that fast with a load to the pit.

You try to act nonchalant. Maybe by the time he reaches the top of the pile your face will have turned from greenish white to red.

He can see that you're right side up and unhurt. But if he so much as cracks a smile—

Mentally you threaten him with the time he backed his wagon too close to the edge of his ensilage pit. You're sure glad you remembered that.

Then you begin to laugh. You sure didn't have to worry about dumping that wagon load. Luckily the wagon tongue broke and only the wagon fell into the pit. Neighbor John sure bailed off that tractor in a hurry.

Yep, there's a time and a place for everything. But it isn't on a 100 degree angle atop an ensilage pit. If it is, most assuredly it is the perfect time for you to be anywhere but near that tractor.

And they talk about reckless drivers—moved to the turn position. At this time, the light opposite the direction of turn goes to a continuous light and the one in the direction of turn keeps blinking.

A humorous but potentially serious situation occurred in eastern Nebraska early this year. A farmer had purchased a new tractor with turning lights on it. Prior to making a left turn into a drive he looked to the rear and saw a car. He turned his signal on. He was just about to make his turn when he saw the car skid to a halt next to his tractor.

After the dust had settled, he asked the auto driver if he didn't see the turn signal. The comment was, "Yes, but it didn't register since those blankety-blank tractors aren't supposed to have turning lights on them."

This is a clue to be alert; you may see some of the newer tractors with turn signals similar to those on automobiles.

A number of other laws deal with certain situations of tractors and equipment on the highway. A common law in haying country deals with movement of stacks of hay from one point to another. Because stack moving is restricted to daylight only, the SAV emblem is the main warning device needed. Some all-terrain harrowing equipment moved at night must meet the clearance light requirements of the lighting law mentioned earlier, plus a flashing amber light four inches in diameter and clearly visible to traffic from all directions, and locating a well lighted pile-vehicles or flagmen at least 300 feet in advance of such vehicles to warn of approach of the overwidth equipment.

It's also a point of interest that new tractors are equipped with dimmers for their front lights.

Judge Named For Hog Show

The judge for the 1972, Northeast Pork Association's Market Hog and Feeder Pig Show, Sept. 26 at Laurel, will be Allen Krivohavek of Dorchester. Krivohavek is a well-known breeder of purebred Duroc swine as well as a judge.

Officials of the show urge all interested pork producers to take part in the show. The market hog show is open to commercial producers in Cedar, Wayne, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston Counties. The feeder pig division is open to everyone. Entry cards may be obtained from county agents, directors of the Northeast Pork Producers or from the Northeast Station. Entry deadline is Sept. 19.

Over $300 in premiums and trophies will be awarded. There is no entry fee to either division of the show.

Pender to Host Area Feeders

Cattle feeding outlook is most uncertain, Mark Tolman, of the Norfolk Station, reminds area feeders. Real help in making feeding plans is expected at the Northeast Livestock Feeders' Association annual outlook meeting Sept. 18 at Pender.

Speakers discussing different factors in the feed and cattle supply and demand situation will be Frank Dierks, Gordon Auction Market, Gene Munson, Norfolk P.C.A.; Bill Biles, Cumming County feeder; and Dave Mitchell, Producers Livestock Commission Co. of Sioux City.

There will be a social hour at 7 p.m. at the Pender Legion Hall. A prime beef roast dinner will follow. After the speaking program there will be time for questions and discussion.

A large crowd is expected at the central location of this Dakota, Thurston, Dixon and Wayne County organization.

Social Security

Questions, Answers

Q. Last summer I operated an ice cream stand and earned almost $250. Do I have to pay Social Security contributions on these earnings?
A. No. Your net self-employment income must be at least $400 before it is covered under Social Security. If your net earnings from self-employment were over $400, you would be required to pay the Social Security contributions to the Internal Revenue Service when you file your income tax returns for the year.

Laurel residents can be proud of their school which periodically reassesses itself and makes the effort to keep up with the changing demands of civilization. Thanks to their recent vocational program, Laurel will soon have skilled workers graduating from high school, ready to step into waiting jobs. Photo by Bill Jammer, Laurel School Photographer.

Laurel School Keeps Up

By Shirley Kraemer

"You can't judge a good book by its cover," nor a good school either, say residents of Laurel. Overshadowed by newly built, ultra modern neighboring schools, Laurel's original brick grade and high schools, built in 1908 and 1922, respectively, still remain in active duty.

Periodic additions have changed the appearance and productivity, however. In 1956 new hot lunch facilities, a gymnasium and three lower grade classrooms were added and in 1966 a physical science room, biological science room, two general classrooms, home economics, music and band rooms took shape.

1972 Addition

Then, not content to be left behind while admiring past progress, Laurel schools in 1971 completed a new metal vocational building, keeping up with the trend toward and growing cry for more blue collar workers. The new building, which provides 6000 square feet of floor space and is adequate for over 60 students, houses the industrial arts program and art and music rooms.

Girls Too

In past years wood-working had been offered boys in vocational training. Now both boys and girls can learn power mechanics, arc welding, soldering sheet metal work, drafting, mechanical drawing and the ever popular wood-working and construction carpentry.

Basic electricity and electronics, a class added this year, is offered seventh and eighth grade students on an individualized basis.

Vocational courses can be taken by students from the seventh through the 12 grades. Students who have related jobs, may obtain released time from school to work. Juniors and seniors have two-hour actual work periods which provide training similar to actual job situations. The aim of the entire vocational program is to provide the incentive for the non-college graduate to pursue a salable skill.

More Changes

During the 1972 summer months, the Laurel Public Schools again underwent major changes. The business administration classroom was enlarged and remodeled. New carpeting, L-shaped secretarial desks, work tables, new calculators and typewriters and new lighting system were brought in.

A larger room has been remodeled for guidance counseling and new rooms provided for a teachers work area and an honor student lounge.

And what are Laurel taxpayers getting back for their effort?

well, drop outs at Laurel High are virtually unknown. Laurel administrators feel it is because the incentive for students to remain in school is high, thanks to vocational training.

A demographic study prepared by statisticians notes that over the past two decades the agricultural population of the United States has declined by six per cent each year. The report concludes should the decline in manpower continue at the current pace, a leveling-off point may occur where this nation's demand for food could surpass agriculture's ability to provide.

NEBRASKA HOSPITALS OPERATE ON OIL

A modern hospital uses hundreds of things that come from oil: surgeon's gloves and gowns, plastic tubes and syringes, x-ray film, bed sheets, and even the paint on the walls.

But most of all, hospitals use energy. In the operating room, the intensive care ward . . . wherever patients are treated.

75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity).

But today, we're using these petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it's as sure as a surgeon's hands . . . a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

Cadillac presents the class of '73

Clearly, these are the most magnificent Cadillacs ever built. Not only for what you can see—the bold new exteriors and the plush new interiors—but as much for what you can't see.

You see here the new Sedan deVille, Eldorado Coupe and Eldorado Convertible. You don't see the six other new Cadillacs (more models than all other U.S. luxury cars have combined).

You see here the striking new styling outside—even more elegant for '73. You don't see the hundreds of innovations and refinements inside. To add new comfort and convenience.

And you don't see the many new niceties you may add. Like a lighted vanity mirror. A theft-deterrent system and steel-belted radial tires.

Clearly, you never had so many good reasons to visit your authorized Cadillac dealer. Cadillac Motor Car Division. The leadership shows.

Field Day Observers

Several hundred persons took "educational hayrack rides" at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station Field Day Tuesday. Rain on Sunday and Monday forced some minor program changes but didn't dampen attendance.

This tractor and flat bed was one of the six units going from farm to field throughout the day Tuesday at the Northeast Station.

Control of Diabetes Discovered in 1922

When a person cannot utilize sugar in the body, his body chemistry is upset. This person is diabetic, according to the Nebraska Medical Association. Diabetes is one of the oldest diseases known to man. However, until 1922, insulin as a control for diabetes, was unknown. Today, diet control and insulin provide treatment for most diabetics so they may live relatively normal, active lives. The cause of diabetes is still unknown. Diabetes is simply a disorder in which the body fails to make proper use of sugar. Insulin, usually provided by the pancreas, helps to burn sugar and provide energy. Sometimes, the pancreas fails to produce the necessary amount of insulin. Generally, diabetes is an inherited tendency. It is most common over the age of forty, and is more common in women and in overweight individuals. Early or mild cases of diabetes are not revealed by typical symptoms, says the Nebraska Medical Association. Severe diabetics may suffer frequent urination, excessive thirst and hunger, tiredness, loss of weight, itching, blurred vision, and skin infection. Older people have fewer symptoms. Diabetes in older persons can usually be controlled by diet or pills. The Nebraska Medical Association points out that a physical examination with a routine urine test will usually detect the disease. The Association urges individuals to have a physical examination every two years after age forty. Early detection of the disease makes treatment and control easier for both physician and patient.

Tire Guide Contains Tips on Care, Safety

A lot of information you always wanted to know about tires, but didn't know whom to ask, is now available from the Tire Industry Safety Council in a new edition of the Consumer Tire Guide.

The 16-page guide containing tips on tire care, selection, safety and mileage can be obtained free of charge by writing to: Tire Safety, Box 726, New York, N. Y. 10010. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The recently revised guide includes a reminder that new tire buyers should "be sure seller records your name, address and tire identification number as required by federal law."

The U. S. Department of Transportation regulations require that all tires made after May 22, 1971, be registered where they are sold.

The information enables manufacturers to contact buyers in case any safety defect is later discovered in tires of that production run.

Fully illustrated, the guide describes the basic tire constructions, and explains the meaning of size designations and information listed on the sidewall.

The new orange and black edition also contains inflation and load tables for current domestic passenger tire sizes and most sizes on popular imported cars.

Safety information includes tips on checking tread depth,
