Costume Contest and Free Show On Saturday at the Gay Theater

The Wayne Herald and the Morning Shopper will co-sponsor a Halloween costume contest and a free show Saturday, Oct. 28, at the Gay Theater. Children of all ages are eligible to participate in the costume contest. All contestants will be given passes to the movie "Flight of the Doves," which will follow immediately after the judging of the costumes. The judging, which will commence at 1:30, will be done by members of the Wayne Senior Citizens, who will award trophies and prizes in the following divisions: Best over all costume, (boys and girls), scariest costume for girls, scariest costume for boys, funniest costume for girls and funniest costume for boys. Trophies are on display in the window of the Senior Citizens Center.

Teachers at West Elementary, Middle School and St. Mary's have passed out handbills to all children explaining all of the details. "Flight of the Doves" stars Ron Moody and Jack Wild, who were boosted into the limelight for their roles in the popular movie, "Oliver." Columbia Pictures' newest film for the entire family, is based on the novel by Irish writer Walter Macken, and is set in and over the cities, the green rolling hills and villages of beautiful Ireland.

The chase involves a sinister uncle's pursuit of two children, Finn Dove (Jack Wild) and Derval Dove (Helen Rave) who escape a wicked stepfather (William Rushton) to start a long trek to their Granny O'Flarity (Dorothy McGuire). The uncle, Hawk Dove (Ron Moody), is a ne'er do well who seeks to do away with the children before they can reach their Granny's where he knows they will be put into her custody and will be declared rightful heirs to their mother's estate.

The children recognize their uncle only by an identifying mark on his wrist, a tattoo of a hawk. This is the key to their repeating discovery of their pursuer's identity, as incident piles on incident and near capture lurks around every corner. It's wholesome entertainment for all of the kiddies—commentaries of The Morning Shopper and The Wayne Herald.

Bargains Galore For Sales Blitz

Merchants in Wayne will have bargains galore during a 5 1/2-hour sales blitz Monday, beginning at noon. Most business places will be closed in the morning in preparation for the sales blitz. Government offices at the city, county, state and federal levels will be closed all day.

Wakefield Given OK On Housing

The Wakefield Housing Authority has been authorized to build 20 units for elderly persons in ward received this week from Washington, D. C. The next step requested by federal officials is for the Wakefield Housing Authority, headed by Fred Lundin, to complete architectural plans and specifications.

In another development recently, the Wakefield Community Hospital Board appointed a 13 man finance committee for the proposed 42 bed nursing home wing. Committee members are Dick Pospisil, Robert Berns, Elmer Carlson, LeRoy Sievers, Marvin See HOUSING, page 7

Neil Sandahl, Wakefield, patiently waits in line Thursday evening as a host of area farmers bring in their grain at the Wayne Grain and Feed elevators. Sandahl loaded about 250 bushels of beans into his two wagons and headed for town. "This is only half of what I have combined so far," he added.

One-Car Accident

Sally A. Schaefer, 19, of Laurel, was taken to the Wayne Hospital Friday morning after the car she was driving skidded out of control on Highway 15, and landed in a creek on the east side of the highway. State Trooper Roger Bailey, Norfolk, said the accident occurred about five miles north of Wayne between 7-7:30 a.m. Her condition was unknown at the time of this printing. Examining the damage is Larry Jensen, Wayne, of Wortman's Auto.

Consumer List At the Library

A product Cross reference Directory has been purchased by the City of Wayne and is located in the reference section of the Wayne Public Library. The directory is an aid to consumers who have product complaints. It lists 3,000 name brand consumer products (foods, cosmetics, autos, appliances, etc.) with main office addresses of the manufacturer. Correspondence on product complaints, or requests for product information, should be addressed to the chairman of the board of those manufacturers.

ASC Deadline Nears

Wayne County farmers have only seven more days to nominate candidates for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) community committee men. "It's easy to do," said Raymond Butts, the county office executive director. "Each candidate is nominated by a petition which has to be signed by at least three eligible voters. Each petition may name only one nominee. The petition may be on any sheet of paper, no special form is required. Included in the petition must be a statement that the candidate will serve if elected. Eligible farmers may sign as many petitions as they wish. So far no petitions have been filed at the County ASC Office, 119 Main, Wayne. Closing date for nominations is Oct. 27. Final date is Dec. 1. The three ASC committee members elected by mail ballots for each ASC community will assist in administering ASC farm programs. Wayne County farmers also will choose two alternate committee men in the election. Alternates serve if a community See ASC, page 7

Runaway Car Jolts Dixon Post Office

A car being piloted by Roger James of Dixon rolled down a hill, over a small bank, across a lawn and into a propane gas tank behind the Dixon Post Office Thursday morning. The gas tank was knocked over onto its side, the stove inside the building moved several feet, and the stove pipe loosened from the wall by the impact, according to Postmaster LeRoy Saunders. No gas escaped from the tank and no major damage was done to the car. Saunders said this is the fourth time the Dixon Post Office has been hit by a runaway vehicle of some kind. In previous years two cars and a truck have run into the building.

Only Halfway To Chest Goal

The Community Chest goal of $10,000 was only at the halfway point to past week. Board President Bob Johnson reported following the latest audit of contributions. At Wednesday's board meeting the directors urged all captains to contact their volunteer solicitors and get all remaining calls made to persons assigned them. The board asks that all solicitors turn in their collection, to captains before Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Look into Winside History

By Pat Oswald (First of two-part series) Many years ago when our town was forming, it was located west of its present site and was called Northside. In 1881, the C.S.A.M. and O Railroad Co. extended through Wayne County, raising a dispute over the new location of a depot in this area. After two sites were selected, the area voters made up their minds that Northside would win the location. And the town changed its name to "Winside." In 1886, when Winside was being built, one train a day ran each way from Sioux City to Norfolk. Now the ground where the tracks once guided the old steam engines is covered with green Township. About 1890 Winside was organized as a township, with W. H. McClusky as its first mayor. Homes began springing up in the western part. Mrs. Minnie Anderson presently occupies the first house built in the area town. The newest house is a duplex being built by the Fred Wittler family. But houses aren't the only things going up in Winside. Many new trailer homes are moving in. Businesses. Businesses have changed much over the years. Early stores were a depot, roller mill, general store, blacksmith shop, harness and shoe repair shops, a brick yard, creameries, hardware stores, a millinery shop, an opera house, drug stores and at one time five elevators which were kept so busy one had to wait his turn to unload grain. All of the businesses were built on the north side of the street which still holds true today with Winside now having 30 stores. Winside finally had the streets paved between 1925 and 1927. But before then the town did not have any sidewalks. As a result, fences were built around the various stores and cows were turned into these areas to "mow" the grass. Schools. The first schooling received was in a room above a store. It wasn't until 1890 that the first school building was constructed as a two-level building. At that time, Harvey Mason was the first principal. In 1913 a new brick structure was built, mainly used for elementary and high school classes. The present high school was completed in 1963 and the See HISTORY, page 7

Wakefield Has Nation's Low

Wakefield had the nation's low temperature reading Thursday morning — a bone-chilling eight degrees, according to the Norfolk Weather Service. However, People's Natural Gas in Wayne, which records the official temperatures here, said that Wayne matched that reading, also with an eight-degree low, early Thursday morning.

Carl Wolfe, standing behind the counter, owned a harness shop in the early 1920's. The store was one of many that lined the north side of the town's main street.

Wayne Home Turned Into Showplace for Art

A walk through a forest is often a pleasing sort of trip for most people. The smell of fresh pine, combined with nature's golden touches of painted leaves usually instills in its visitor a type of euphoria.

For Wayne area residents, a drive in the country might produce that same kind of feeling. But at 309 E. 10th, three people share that experience daily. Sherian and Carlos Frey, along with their two year old son, Chad, live in a small white house across from the Wayne State Campus. On the outside, the cottage type structure blends in with the neighborhood. But on the inside a different world exists. Both Sherian and Carlos think of their house as a place where art grows and is exhibited with the changing moods of the family. Their front living room resembles a recycling center where scraps of wood and pieces of metal are combined to decorate the walls and fireplace. The couple puts together their talents in working with metal, wood and sculpturing to weave a whole new room within a room. Carlos, an art instructor at Wayne State, adds a different kind of art with his creation known as "the biggest key holder in Wayne."

Biggest keyholder in Wayne, the Carlos Freys' conglomeration of wood help to form this artistic creation that decorates their living room. The couple sometimes uses the divider as a place to hang keys and other odd materials.

Friday evening there will be an all-school pep rally at 6:30, followed by the Greek Olympics in the Willow Bowl. Saturday's climax will include an alumni reception from 10 a.m. to noon and lunch at 11:30 in the Student Center. ### Breakins At Pender, Wisner Breakins at three Wisner business firms and two schools Wednesday are being investigated by Wisner police. The Cumming County sheriff's office and the Nebraska State Patrol. Officials are trying to determine if there is any link with four breakins at Pender the same night. A reported $400 was taken at Farmers Elevator, about $35 was missing at Lovelady Ford and postage and hot lunch petty cash was taken at Wisner Elementary and Wisner-Pilger Junior High Schools, where considerable damage was done.

Marty Hansen is getting some great protection as he prepares to uncork a pass during Wayne High's come-from-behind, 21-15 victory at West Point Central Catholic Thursday night. Other identifiable Blue Devils in the dark uniforms are Kerry Jech (30), Dan Hansen (18), Dean Sievers (52) and Ron Magnuson (84). West Point's Tom Ridder (88) is being blocked out of the action by an unidentified Wayne player.

Blue Devils Keep Win String Intact With Late Drive at West Point CC

By Claire Hurlbert
 The state's longest win streak would have come to an end for a team of lesser determination, but the caliber of a true champion shone brightly through in a "chips down" situation.

At Hansen's club had dropped behind for the second time of the night, 15-14, with 6:11 left to play when they started the most impressive drive of the season. The clock eating 83 yard march — in a matter of minutes — from what appeared might be the coup de grace to an 18 game win streak to a 21-15 victory at West Point Central Catholic Thursday night.

The locals had cause to fold up on several earlier occasions when bad breaks, some self caused and others on brilliant defensive plays by a fire up West Point CC club, but not once did the Devils show any signs of giving up the crown with less than 100 per cent effort.

Four times the Devils converted on a clutch third down play in the crucial drive.

The key play in the stunning windup was a 37 yard pass from Marty Hansen to Randy Nelson. The ball was thrown perfectly, but it took a glim-fingered over the shoulder grab by Nelson to put the ball at the West Point 38.

Hansen, on third and six, swept end on a keeper, and got 10 yards to the 22, still 3:41 to play. The sophomore quarter back repeated the act on the Antelope Hunters.

Have a Good Year

Nebraska's firearm antelope hunters have recorded another successful season, with 80 per cent of the state's 1,048 permit holders downing a pronghorn.

The Banner Unit registered the highest success, with 85 per cent of its hunters filling their permits. Success figures in other units include North Sioux, 84 per cent; Fox Butte, 82; Garden, 84; Cheyenne, 84; Cherry, 84; Brown, 84; Dismal, 82; and Wildhorse, 64. Total pronghorn harvest during the rifle season was 842.

But there was still plenty of time for a West Point comeback, a minute and 21 seconds to be exact.

Quarterback Kevin Mahberg's pass to Clark Schinck was broken up by Kerry Jech and Mahberg was swarmed under by Rod Hoops, Brad Bluester and Larry Shupe on a second down. But a screen pass from Mahberg to Greg Stralshick picked up 11 to the WP 48.

Jech broke up another aerial and a Mahberg Joe McGill teamup for 11 yards was partly

A Bill Schwartz punt was fumbled and it appeared at least half the members of both teams had their hands on the ball, which kept squirting out, and about five yards closer each time to the goal line before Mike Dunklau finally claimed possession at the West Point eight.

Giese got three yards closer before Hansen ran a sneak on third down for the score, Thavon's PAT lying the game.

Dan Hansen recovered two fumbles before the half, but those breaks were partially offset when a Hansen to Kerstine flip was picked off by Schinck. Kerstine pounced on another loose ball before the error plagued first half ended.

Gordon Cook set the stage for the go-ahead TD with less than two minutes gone in the third period when he blocked a Mahberg punt at the West Point 15.

Giese reeled off nine and Hansen almost the same half on the left side of the line for the remaining six Thavon was on target again and Wayne led for the first time at 14-7.

The Devils blew another chance after Jech pirated a Central Catholic pass, the locals driving to the West Point eight before being set back on back-to-back penalties. Thavon's try for a field goal from the 25 was far enough but off to the right.

Kerstine was forced to field a punt at his one yard line early in the fourth but two plays later, resulted in a safety, with Dan Hansen fumbled in the end zone. Suddenly, with a 37 left, the spread was only five points, at 14-9.

Things were going to get more bleak before they got better.

With 6:11 left in the game, Mahberg hit McGill for an 18 yard touchdown strike and, even though Mahberg's placement was blocked by Nelson and Kerstine, the Bluejays had a 15-14 lead, leading up to the already related wild finish.

West Point was limited to five yards rushing, thanks to a dozen facies each by Shupe, Cook, Jech and Dunklau and an additional 10 by Chuck Brockman. The home team gained six in the first, lost 18 in the second, was a plus one in the third and came out on the "profit" side with 16 in the fourth.

The Wayne pass defense, which leaked early at times, toughened up to hold Mahberg to seven completions in 25 tries. Wayne had a 15.6 edge on first downs but was assessed 115 yards on 11 penalties.

Giese had 98 of Wayne's 225 yard yards. Hansen's late game carries boosted him to the runner-up spot with 58 yards and Kerstine contributed 49.

Wayne will play its final home game of the season Friday night against Laurel and then will finish out the schedule the following week at unbeaten Pierce.

Gonorrhea: Disease or Bad Word?

To many people, gonorrhea has been only a repugnant word—not a disease. They've always thought of gonorrhea as something other people catch. Not any more.

Whatever the man or woman in the street thinks about this social problem—some call it "sex pollution"—government authorities say that gonorrhea is more common in the United States today than strep throat—in fact, more common than any communicable disease except the common cold.

Thanks largely to the accent on youth and its new-found independence ushered in during the "Swinging Sixties," more than two million Americans a year are contracting the disease. That means a new case every 15 seconds, four per minute, 240 per hour, 5,700 per day.

Officials at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta describe the situation as a pandemic, meaning that gonorrhea is at the stage of a massive, world-wide epidemic.

In the 12 months ended June 30, 1971, the CDC reported 624,371 cases of gonorrhea—an increase of nearly nine per cent over the previous 12 months. But these staggering statistics are only the tip of the iceberg. Hundreds of thousands of cases are not reported to public health authorities.

Most of the victims are young people. The incidence of gonorrhea is highest in the 20 to 24 age group (more than 1,400 per 100,000 as compared with an average rate of about 300 per 100,000 for all age groups). The most rapid rate of increase—about 20 per cent per year—is taking place in an even younger group, boys and girls 15 to 19.

Many factors, social and medical, are responsible for the higher incidence of gonorrhea—relaxed attitudes toward sex in the church, the family, and the public generally; changes in sexual behavior and contraceptive practices; reliance on the "Pill" instead of the condom has removed some measure of protection against the disease.

Here are some of the medical problems

1. About 80 per cent of the women and approximately 10 per cent of the men who have gonorrhea do not have symptoms and so do not seek treatment. Yet they can and do spread the disease to their sexual partners. Moreover, a patient who is cured can easily become reinfected.

2. There is no routine "blood test" for gonorrhea. There are reliable methods for detecting the disease, but as a rule only those patients who suspect that they have gonorrhea apply for a test. This means that most of those with no symptoms go undetected.

3. Since the early post war years, penicillin has been used to cure millions of gonorrhea victims, but today it is necessary to use much larger doses than in the beginning. There are two other problems with penicillin: (a) a number of patients are allergic to it; (b) some strains of the gonorrhea organism are relatively resistant.

Still, there are some encouraging developments. Last year, for example, a new antibiotic, Trobicin (spectinomycin) was marketed by The Upjohn Company, a leading pharmaceutical firm, exclusively for treatment of gonorrhea. One injection of Trobicin produced a cure in about 96 per cent of the patients treated in clinical trials, some of whom had not responded to other antibiotics.

Extensive research is underway looking toward development of vaccines which will prevent both gonorrhea and that other member of the venereal disease family, syphilis. An effective vaccine, however, appears to be some years in the future.

Although gonorrhea is seldom fatal, it can cause serious physical damage to vital reproductive organs if it goes untreated. Fortunately, the disease is fairly easy to cure with drugs now available. So, what to do? Anyone with the slightest suspicion that he or she may have been exposed to gonorrhea should see a physician at once for diagnostic tests. The slight embarrassment this may involve is a small price to pay for future health and well being.

Wage-Price Regulations

Q If I complain to the IRS about a rent increase, may my landlord evict me in retaliation?
A No. Economic Stabilization rules forbid any retaliatory action by a landlord against a tenant who exercises his rights under the regulations. In addition, a landlord, in his renewed notice, must tell you it is illegal for him to take retaliatory action and that he will not do so.

Q Can my landlord increase my rent because the city made a special assessment upon him for the installation of sidewalks in my development?
A Yes. Special assessments, such as those for the installation of sidewalks, sewer lines and water lines, are now considered allowable cost items under the rent regulations. This means that landlords can pass on to tenants increased assessments, just as they can pass on increased state and local real estate taxes and state and local fire, levee and charges for all municipal services, except for gas and electricity.

Q Is a reduction of an employer's workweek without a proportionate decrease in pay considered a pay increase subject to controls?
A Yes. Such a benefit must be taken into account in determining the permissible annual aggregate increase for an appropriate employee unit.

Pre-Season Trip Can Aid Hunters

Breaking in a new pair of boots, patching comfortable old hunting britches, and zeroing a pet rifle are all traditional past-times for deer hunters impatiently waiting for opening morning to roll around.

All are important to an enjoyable hunt.

But, the wise hunter knows that the most vital aspect of his outing is finding a good place to hunt. Since most of Nebraska's lands are in private ownership, he knows that he will have to depend upon the hospitality of a Nebraska farmer or rancher.

A bit of pre-season liaison with landowners in the area he wishes to hunt will let him concentrate on his sport opening morning, instead of frantically running around the countryside looking for a place to hunt.

A sportsman will find that landowners appreciate the bit of advance notice a pre-season visit affords. This often makes for better understanding between the hunter and farmer or rancher than the hurried "how do you do can I hunt here?" visit on opening day.

The same consideration shown by pheasant, quail, and other small game hunters will also be appreciated by landowners.

Once seasons are underway, good behavior on the part of the hunter-guest is likely to make him welcome next season. If more hunters would secure permission to hunt before opening day and would remember that they are guests on private land, hunter-landowner relations in Nebraska would improve considerably, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

Hopes Shine For WSC Win

In a rather brief meeting, the Second Guessers club heard Wayne State Football Coach Del Stollenberg point out that last week's loss to St. Cloud, Minn., 20-12 doesn't close up any hopes for the Wildcats to win a game. The WSC squad generated more offense this time, he told the gathering, than in the past three games. The Wildcats piled up a total of 390 yards, led by Running Back Jim Clark, who had 96.

But again, he noted, Tumbles plagued the team.

This Saturday Wayne will round out its road trip games before Homecoming next week as the Wildcats take on Kearney State at the Antelopes' field. Last week Kearney crushed Peru, 48-14.

On Oct. 28 Wayne will host the Peru team at 1:30 p.m. at Rice Auditorium.

Freshmen Top West Point CC

Mallette also picked up 131 on the ground out of Wayne's 420 total yardage.

Wayne Junior High Blitzes Wakefield

The Wayne Junior High team rambled to 32 points behind the speedy running of Mark Brandt to blitz the Wakefield Seventh and Eighth graders, 32-0.

Brandt scored on two 70 yard jaunts and a 50 yard dash to lead his team with 18 points.

Vic Sharpe ran into the end zone on a 35 yard run around end while Marco Garlick hit across the goal line from four yards out on an off guard play for the other TD's.

Dieting — Will Power

When is the best time to go on a diet? According to the Nebraska Medical Association, if you are overweight, there is no time like the present. According to the majority of people who really should diet, it is tomorrow.

The essential cause of obesity, of course, is overeating with lack of exercise being a contributing factor. The single most important factor in dieting is the unshakable confidence that your abundant body can once more be the same one that got second glances for reasons other than how many cubic yards of space it occupies. Will power, it is called.

Stringent dieting should be considered in relation to your physical condition. Thus, should be done only under the direction of a physician. Too hasty reducing may be unsafe, and diet products advertised to reduce weight by curbing the appetite without experiencing hunger and its attendant discomforts should definitely be approved first by your physician.

The Nebraska Medical Association lists a few things to keep in mind when you go on a diet:

- Laxative products have no value in reducing weight.
- Massage is not recognized as having any fat or weight reducing value. Massage devices will not "reduce in spots" or remove "humps" or "bulges."
- Creams are of no value except as lubrications.
- Belts, girdles, and the like may cause the wearer to appear slimmer, but do not remove fat or reduce weight.
- Obesity is not effectively and permanently reduced by swimming, "Therettes," rubber garments and perspiration inducing baths, have no value for fat or weight reduction.
- It will not be easy.

Is it advisable to mow off strawberries this time of year? It is possible but not recommended to mow off strawberries at this time. The only logical reason for mowing would be a bad disease problem with the strawberry plants.

An annual event is the Old Settler's Picnic held each July. Old Settler's began in 1901 but has been held in Winside since 1918. At first all packed picnic baskets and got together.

Today there are adult and kiddie parades, rides on the midway and various entertainment throughout the day. Very few pack picnic baskets now.

Doctors, Dentists
There have been several doctors in Winside. Some of those remembered were Drs. A. B. Cherry, B. M. McIntire and J.P. Neely. Those more familiar to today's residents are Drs. D. O. Craig and George John. Dr. R. E. Gormley, dentist, came to the area in 1922.

Cemetery
Earlier pioneers were buried on their farms or taken to other towns for burial. As the town grew, people realized the need for a cemetery and organiza tions took the problem to the town board. After much work a site was located west of Winside still known today as Pleasant View Cemetery.

Banks
Many banks were organized with most of them established in the early days of the town's history. The first one built came in 1890, followed by the Merchants Bank in 1892. In 1894 a third bank was built, but like its predecessors, it too only lasted a short time.

For a spell in the 1930's there were no banks in Winside. It wasn't until 1935 that the present Winside State Bank was organized. This was the town's 10th bank to be in business.

Two years ago the bank expanded and remodeled the front of the building, which was erected in 1915. Recently, the bank installed a time and tem perature sign, the first of its kind in Winside.

First Fire
In 1888 Winside recorded its first fire, at the Post Office and McDermby Store.

During the early 1900's, a group decided to organize a fire department, but it lasted only a few years after interest declin ed. In later years another volun teer fire department was start ed. The present building was built in 1965.

The department has two fire trucks, a water wagon, supply wagon and a team of about 75 firemen. In more recent years a rescue unit was added.

Charles Jackson is president; Willis Reichert, secretary; George Voss, Chief, and Ed Oswald, assistant chief.

The Woman's Club organized the library in 1902 and in 1911 the town took it over. Members of the club held various entertain ment to raise money for a library.

At present the library is housed in the auditorium. Mrs. Harry Suhl Sr. is librarian. Board members are Gladys Reichert, Mildred Wolfe, Mrs. H.L. Neely and Mrs. Suhl.

A story hour is held each summer for area youngsters.

Winside's oldest resident, Henry Von Seggren, keeps spry and cheerful as he and his wife, Lizzie, look forward to celebrating his 96th birthday in January.

Winside's first house... after the area town started to expand in the 1890's, houses began to go up throughout the area. The first house built in Winside is presently occupied by Mrs. Minnie Anderson.

Food Stamps Sought For Thurston County

Hilary (Larry) Lassek of Walthill left the state capitol building last week visualizing Thanksgiving turkeys on the tables of a lot of the less fortunate Thurston County fel low citizens.

Lassek, director of the Golden Rod Hills Community Action Program, delivered a resolution requesting participation in the federal food stamp program. It had been signed by Thur ston county Commissioners and representatives of the Omaha and Winnebago Indian tribes of that county for delivery to Harold McGrew, state food stamp director in Lincoln.

"It may be too optimistic and it may be Christmas 'turkey' rather than Thanksgiving," said Lassek in front of the welfare building offices. "It depends on how last state and federal food stamp officials act in the next few weeks."

He estimated at least 1,500 of the county's 7,000 population will be eligible for food stamps. And a large percentage could come from the county's Indian popu lation of some 2,000 men, women and children.

Thurston is one of the two counties in the state still without a Food Stamps Program. Sioux County is the other.

Lassek indicated there is little good that he could find to say about benefits of the surplus commodity food program in which the county has been participating.

Food stamps permitting the beneficiary to buy a wide variety of food, including meat, have been available more than five years.

The signed resolution provides stamp applications to be pro cessed by Thurston County Wel fare for those on this aid program.

Non welfare applicants will be processed by Lassek's Golden Rod Hills Office of Economic Opportunity funded program.

"The group will be able to sell the monthly stamps to both groups of recipients," Lassek stated.

committeemen resigns, or can no longer serve in the position.

"Most farmers are eligible to be ASC community committee candidates," Buitts stated.

"Anyone, under 70 years old, a resident of the county, and eligible to participate in ASCS programs may be nominated."

When nominations close on Oct. 27, if six or more candi dates have been nominated in each community, the petitions will be reviewed for validity by the Wayne County ASCS execu tive director. If fewer than six nominations have been made, each ASC community committee now in office will add the appropriate number of names before the state is reviewed by the ASC County Committee.

Anyone eligible for nomination otherwise cannot be declared ineligible because of race, color, creed, sex or national origin.

Candidates who are eligible will receive a letter confirming this from the County ASC Com mittee no later than Nov. 15. Any candidate ruled ineligible will be so notified and may appeal the decision to the County Committee within 15 days.

Veterans Day

Changing the date of a holiday on a calendar does not necessarily change the date of the observance for many persons. This has been proven by many veterans organizations that have refused to switch the observance of Veterans Day from Nov. 11 to the fourth Monday in October, legislation passed by the 90th session of Congress in 1968 and signed into law by President Nixon June 26, 1968.

Veterans Day is being observed in Wayne today (Monday), but at least one area town reportedly is going to wait until the "real" Veterans Day. It is difficult to conceive Christmas being on any other day than Dec. 25; for New Year's Day to be celebrated other than Jan. 1 and it would be downright ridiculous to observe July 4th on July 2nd or July 5th.

The same with Veterans Day, many persons respond.

For it was at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, 1918, that fighting in World War I ended. Two years later, France and England chose Nov. 11, then known universally as Armistice Day, as the time for placing an unknown soldier in a vault in each nation's highest place of honor.

France chose the Arch of Triumph, England selected Westminster Abbey and the following year, Nov. 11, 1921, an American soldier, whose name was "known to God" was buried at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C.

In 1926, Armistice Day was made the official name for Nov. 11. Twelve years later, in 1938, another Congressional resolution made the date a national holiday.

If the idealistic hope had been realized that World War I was "the war to end all Wars," Nov. 11 might still be called Armistice Day. But only two years after the holiday was proclaimed, World War II broke out in Europe and shattered the dream. Over 16 million Americans took part and 406,000 died.

By changing one word in a 28-year-old resolution, the United States Congress on June 1, 1954, renamed the day this nation had traditionally set aside for honoring its war veterans from Armistice Day to Veterans Day.

Additional significance was added to Veterans Day in 1958, when two more unidentified American war dead were brought to Arlington Cemetery from overseas and interred beside the World War I soldier — one from World War II, the other in Korea.

To honor the three, symbolic of all Americans who gave their lives, an honor guard keeps day and night vigil as a tribute to all those who have died in U.S. wars.

President Nixon, in his prepared Veterans Day speech, said "to those who remember the mud of Flanders Field, the hurt and savagery of Iwo Jima, the cold and misery of Pork Chop Hill and the jungle heat and ambushes of Vietnam — to our veterans we say today here is a man for his nation, who in his particular moment of truth, said 'this is my land, my people, my America, and if need be, I will die defend her.'"

The President concluded his talk with "certainly the greatest achievement of all is peace with honor, peace that endures, peace that serves all mankind."

Whether Veterans Day is being observed on Oct. 23 or Nov. 11, there can be only one addition to that statement.

Sources

Freedom of the press. Is there such a thing?

Many people may scoff at the idea of such a statement while some may point to the Constitution that states in the amendments the press is guaranteed the right to speak freely. But, is that free speech today being muffled?

Several weeks ago a New Jersey reporter, Peter H. Jensen, was given a jail sentence because he would not divulge his sources of information to a grand jury. Bridge contended that his source of information was confidential and that he has the right to protect his sources.

But a Supreme Court ruling came out with the decision that journalists have no First Amendment right to refuse to appear before grand juries or to withhold confidential information and shield sources.

With this ruling out in the open, journalists across the nation are now faced with an either/or situation — either give up the names of your sources when involved in such grand jury magnitude or go to jail.

Neither one is much of a choice, if one can call the two ultimatums choices.

Perhaps on the local or small town newspapers, this court decision may not pose a threat to existing area journalists. Again, perhaps it may have an effect on all newspapers.

All papers need some source or sources of information in order to bring you the reader, happenings in and around the area in which you live. If some news breaking story, such as the one in Thursday's issue of The Herald about the controversy over the rescheduling of the Arrow Stage in the city, should evolve, an inside source may not want to be identified for fear he or she may lose his job.

Before going any further, let us state that this hypothetical situation has nothing to do with Thursday's story.

The fact that some editor has his job over such a matter is nothing new in today's society. Therefore a reporter should value his source's situation and should be willing to protect that source.

It should not be the court's entire right to take away the reporter's needed right to protect his source.

Of course, there may be some cases that might require a source to be identified. And it is a consensus of many reporters, according to a Newsweek article, that he or she would be willing to find a solution to the problem — that is releasing the names of some informers.

The not quite free press, it seems, is willing to bargain now for some freedom, but is freedom of the press dying? —Bob Bartlett

Razor Blades in Apples - - Most Are Hoaxes

LOS ANGELES—Lights glow through the drawn drapes of a house here, inside, voices bubble from the Saturday night bridge party in the living room. It is shortly before 9 p.m., Oct. 31, Halloween.

A small boy enters the room from the kitchen, hesitantly, he holds up two halves of an apple.

In one half — its single, sharp edge protruding slightly above the apple's skin is a razor blade.

Such Halloween scenes are being reported to police with increasing frequency across the United States.

No one really knows how extensive the new Halloween madness is, when it started, or what form it has taken.

Two-Thirds Discredited

But a study of the files of detectives who have investigated similar incidents in Los Angeles, Detroit, Philadelphia and elsewhere revealed:

—Almost two thirds of those incidents that are reported — about 63 per cent — turn out, under scrutiny, to be either hoaxes or occurrences of minor importance.

The eventual outcome of such incidents is rarely made available to the public.

—No known serious injuries have occurred from booby-trapped treats.

—Only one person, a woman in Green-Tawn, N. Y., in 1964, has ever admitted booby-trapping Halloween treats. She was placed in a mental institution.

—With the exception of the Green-Tawn case, apparently there has never been an arrest of an actual booby-trapper.

"No sane mind can conceive of the kind of human being who would cut a razor blade into a child's apple, then hand it to him without a word."

"In addition, there is an unknown quantity, an anonymity here, which adds to the hysteria. Parents read of one supposedly valid incident, then can't sleep at night because they know there may be some unnamed person out there waiting for their child."

"But, I guess you can't blame them for being concerned," the detective added.

Of the three cases investigated by Carr this year, only one appears to be legitimate: an eight-year-old boy, who told police he was given a candy bar with a double-edge razor blade pressed against the bottom, hasn't changed his story.

Other Cases

A man in a local suburb was suspicious of a cookie given his daughter by a "hippie-looking young man," whose appointment was plastered with psychedelic posters. He took the cookie to police for lab tests. The "foreign substance" turned out to be very old powdered sugar.

The third case was that of the child who took his apple to his mother at the bridge table. The boy, it turned out, had put the razor blade in the apple himself.

The reason?

"Perhaps for attention, perhaps to frighten, perhaps to really 'hook' his mother," said Carr. "He'd apparently heard about the razor blade business at school and just did it as a 'joke.'"

"Most of the kids aren't lying maliciously," Carr said. "They just do something on impulse, then the parents jump to the telephone to call the neighbors, the relatives and the police, and pretty soon, the kid's afraid to admit the truth."

"As far as I'm concerned," Carr adds, "just one legitimate incident is 'too damned many.'"

Most Philly

In 1968 and 1969 in Southern California, there were several wide and varying instances reported. Of those, all but two — or 71 per cent — were either patently phony, or were cases in which no immediate danger was present.

Europeans Skeptical As To Trade Talk Sincerity

By Arch Booth

As executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Arch Booth serves as a spokesman for American business. WASHINGTON—We have just returned from a three week series of meetings in Europe with European and American businessmen and officials. The trip took us to London, Paris, Frankfurt, Bonn, Brussels, Zurich, Geneva, Milan, Rome and Madrid.

We made the trip because of the growing significance of international trade to the American economy, and because we are well aware that the new European Community will be an economic superpower capable of dealing with the U.S. as an equal.

We had two objectives. First, we wanted to warn the Europeans that the threat of protectionism should not be taken lightly; that strong pressure groups in the U.S. are pushing restrictive trade legislation such as the Burke-Harke bill, and that it will be a tough fight to hold it off.

Second, we wanted to learn from the Europeans and from our own businessmen abroad: What do they see as the major trade problems? What should the U.S. do to help solve them? What are the opportunities for improved cooperation?

As usual, looking at things from "the other guy's point of view" proved helpful. As Europe sees it:

- One of our major findings is that Europeans are not convinced that we in the United States are serious about trade negotiations. They would like to see concrete evidence that we really mean business. Thus, our main task now is to secure a broad mandate from Congress that will allow the U.S. to participate meaningfully in trade negotiations next fall.

Until now our main effort at home has been to prevent protectionist legislation of the type contained in the Burke-Harke bill. That is not enough. We must obtain from Congress new authority for our government to negotiate more liberal trading arrangements with other countries.

We have learned that unless we produce evidence that we are interested in meaningful reciprocal multilateral trade talks, and enter into serious negotiations, the tendency of the Community to make special preferential agreements and to follow other practices harmful to America's economic interests will continue.

Detailed recommendations will be included in our report to the President and Congressional leaders, following careful study. Tentatively, recommendations among the following lines seem imperative:

Recommendations

1. That the U.S. Congress enact a trade bill empowering our government to enter into effective negotiations for new trade agreements next fall. This bill should grant the President authority to negotiate tariff reductions and eliminate non-tariff barriers. It should include broad negotiating authority in both industrial goods and agricultural commodities.

2. That a system of generalized tariff preferences on U.S. imports of manufactured goods from developing countries be instituted in concert with other industrialized countries.

3. That U.S. anti-trust laws be revised to give U.S. companies exporting and investing abroad more freedom to operate competitively.

4. That domestic American companies develop export consciousness and improved export techniques, rather than relying largely on export services by U.S. government personnel abroad.

5. That negotiations begin immediately to harmonize national environmental control policies to minimize inequitable effects on trade flows of different national standards.

6. That we continue to provide a climate for nondiscriminatory tax treatment for American exporters and investors overseas.

State Has 60 Traffic Deaths During August

Tom Ryan, accident records supervisor of the Nebraska Department of Roads, reports that 60 lives were lost on Nebraska streets and highways in August.

The toll represents an increase of more than two per cent in fatal accidents over the same period last year. Although deaths were high, statistically they were nine per cent lower for each 100 million miles traveled than in August, 1971.

Collisions between motor vehicles accounted for 25 deaths. "Run off the road" accidents were responsible for 18 deaths. These two types of accidents accounted for nearly 72 per cent of all the fatalities recorded for August. Seventeen people died in other types of traffic accidents.

Accidents on rural roads claimed 38 lives.

The largest number of fatalities were from 33 cents in Tampa to 61 cents in Vancouver and 62 cents in Honolulu.

What did you pay for a five-pound bag of potatoes? If you lived in Portland, Ore., they would probably have cost 45 cents, but in Cincinnati, the bag would likely have been 82 cents.

The wide price fluctuations dramatize the importance of shopping carefully for food (as well as everything else). Even in the most expensive city, there were plenty of bargains and vice-versa.

To be a smart shopper, you have to know the competitive prices and be able to tell if a "special" price is really a bargain or not. It takes effort if you want to do it right.

To the Editor:

The surgeon-general of the United States has cautioned every hospital in America to avoid use of fluoride water, commonly known as fluoridated water, in artificial kidney machines, due to a number of deaths.

As there is some resistance from advocates of fluorides in drinking water to this recommendation, I ask you to alert your local health officer, and your local hospital to this situation. If your hospital manager does not consider this matter as serious, I ask that you recommend publicizing that all patients with kidney disease go to cities in Nebraska which do not have fluorides in water, for any required treatment.

Section 2-2602, General Statutes of Nebraska, lists fluorides as such deadly poisons that they must be registered with the Department of Agriculture and other precautions taken. Whether your county attorney has power to stop use of the current fluoride chemical, hydrofluosilicic acid, by hospitals in their artificial kidney machines is not known.

Deaths due to fluorides in kidney machines are reported in Archives of Environmental Health, an official American Medical Association magazine, May, 1963; and by Dr. Gerald Posen, staff member of Ottawa General Hospital in Canada in charge of their kidney machine section. Other doctors worked with Dr. Posen in Ottawa, as well as John Marler, a chemical analyst.

Saturday Review of Literature, March 1, 1969, gives a complete account of these in the 15 to 24-year-old category. Twenty-five people in that age bracket were killed during the month.

Alcohol was considered a contributing factor in eight of the fatal accidents.

Fourteen fatal accidents involved truck drivers or other commercially employed drivers. Students were involved in 10 fatal accidents. Twelve fatal accidents involved driving too fast for conditions.

Average U. S. Army inductee is now said to have 12 decayed teeth, and average grade school teacher is now 35. Thus, the disastrous long term effect of fluorides on teeth, as well as kidneys and other organs is believed clearly proven.

If 12 ounces can cause death, enough is put in the drinking water of Omaha every year to kill the entire population 21 times over, and for Lincoln, the ratio is even worse.

affirming a decision by the Nebraska Supreme Court to allow the Harrington School District (District 8) to lease classrooms in Cedar Catholic High School and Holy Trinity Grade School for special federally funded classes. The 7 to 2 ruling ends three years of litigation on an issue which reaches far beyond the local school in impact. After the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled in favor of the local school board in February, new guidelines were drawn up by the Nebraska Department of Education which radically changed the approach to "Title I" programs.

The problem of not enough bus drivers to take care of school bus routes in Pierce has been partly resolved, however the school board and the bus coordinator have been forced to take some emergency measures until such time as sufficient drivers can be obtained.

Enough applications were received to fill the noon kindergarten routes with the private car system, but there are still two drivers short for afternoon routes. As a result, two routes are not being driven and parents must make other arrangements until the emergency is over.

"We Must Improve Rural Health Care"

The shortage of doctors and hospital care in rural areas is a national disgrace. Unless we act now, the health care available to small town families will grow steadily worse.

I will work for legislation to assure that all Americans have access to doctors and hospitals. We must educate more doctors, nurses and technicians and give them more incentives to live in small towns. I also think national health insurance is needed to guarantee all Americans that we will be able to purchase the health care we need.

Black Soprano One Of Week's ETV Features

A profile of noted black American mezzo-soprano Shirley Verrett highlights viewing this week on the Nebraska ETV Network.

"The PBS Special of the Week" Monday (tonight), at 7 p.m., features an in-depth interview conducted by Bernard Levin of BBC-TV and performances by Miss Verrett of a number of arias from her well-known operatic roles.

In the 14 years since her professional operatic debut with the New York City Opera at City Center, Miss Verrett has become one of the great singers of our age. In reviewing her career, she tells Bernard Levin that she has purposely limited herself to be a handful of roles because "I would rather have only five or seven or 10 in my repertoire that I do very well."

Also on Monday at 9 p.m., "The Silent Years" will present Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro." This, his first costume adventure, set the style for all of the flamboyant cloak-and-sword films that were to follow.

which Zorro eludes his pursuers with some fantastic acrobatics. Marguerite de la Motte, one of Fairbank's favorite leading ladies, is in the unenviable position of despising Don Diego the top while loving Zorro the daredevil, not knowing that they are one and the same.

"Zorro," a picture that never takes itself seriously, also stars Noah Beery as the villain Sergeant Pedro.

Two internationally outstanding performance productions also are featured this week on Nebraska ETV Network stations.

Claire Motte, of the Paris Opera Ballet, reveals her talent as an actress as well as a dancer in "Phaedra" Thursday at 8 p.m. The "International Performance" ballet combines the forceful choreography of Milko Sparembek with a libretto by Jean Cocteau.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m., "Playhouse New York" is a unique interpretation of William Shakespeare's "MacBeth."

"Throne of Blood" was produced in 1957 by Akira Kurosawa. In it, the character of MacBeth is transformed into a powerful warrior—Takotoki. The scheming Lady MacBeth becomes his wife Asahi. The three prophesizing witches become an oriental soothsayer. Toshiro Mifune and Isuzu Yamada head an outstanding cast.

Rescue Unit Members To Study Resuscitation

"EMERGENCY! Are You Ready?" is the theme for an evening meeting on Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) being held Wednesday, Nov. 8, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at the Immaculata Convent Cafeteria, 300 N. 18th, Norfolk.

The meeting is sponsored by the Northeast Area Nursing Education Committee of the Nebraska Heart Association and is open to anyone who is a member of a rescue unit in northeast Nebraska.

Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation is the life saving procedure combining mouth-to-mouth breathing with closed chest heart massage. Teaching this lifesaving technique is one of the many community service programs presented by the Nebraska Heart Association throughout the state of Nebraska on a year round basis.

L. Park at Drug Meet Wednesday

Loren F. Park, a member of the Nebraska Drug Commission, was in Omaha Wednesday for a meeting of that institution.

The group approved an application by the Lincoln Police Department for matching funds from the commission for a drug specialist to work in the Lincoln area approved funds for the Omaha Action Awareness program, and endorsed a teacher education program on drug use and abuse which will be undertaken by Creighton University.

Committee Co-chairman Mrs. Virginia Watson, R.N., urges rescue unit members to enroll before the Nov. 1 deadline as the meeting is limited to the first 100 pre-registrants.

The program will consist of a talk by W. J. Lear, M.D. on "Recognition of Clinical Death," and R. L. Tolletson, M.D., "Specifics of CPR," and a practice session using mannequins. A question and answer session will end the program.

A $1 fee will be payable the night of the meeting. Mrs. Watson said that any rescue unit member who did not receive a flyer on the meeting should contact Janice Tillema, R.N.,

Box 47, Hoskins, 68740, to pre-register.

AFS Convo On Tuesday

The American Field Service (AFS) Chapter of Wayne will be presenting an all-student convocation at the Wayne Carroll High School at 1 p.m. Tuesday regarding the function of the local AFS program.

Emergency ambulance equipment will be displayed throughout the evening.

The 31 counties served by the Northeast Area Nursing Education Committee include Antelope, Boone, Boyd, Burl, Butler, Cedar, Colfax, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Dodge, Garfield, Greeley, Holt, Howard, Knox, Loup, Madison, Merrick, Nemaha, Pierce, Platte, Polk, Saunders, Sherman, Stanton, Thurston, Valley, Washington, Wayne and Wheeler.

Jumbo-Sized

William Sachau of Allen is another area gardener who has experienced some jumbo-sized products this summer.

Sachau has a sweet potato that tipped a government-tested scale at three and three-fourths pounds. It reportedly was a large, smooth, perfectly shaped potato.

Featured speaker will be senior Rance Kriesche, who spent part of last summer in Austria under the AFS program. Mrs. Dorothy Brandstetter, local chapter president, will be on hand to explain the AFS program to students and will be urging students and families to become involved in the program either by being host-families or by applying for overseas study under one of the AFS programs.

Jon Thayer, Wayne's current AFS student from Thailand, is making his home with the Cyril Hansen family.

Starting a checking account with us is starting from the top. A checking account is the first step to financial technique, and so important. So try that first step.

About 85 students made the trip. Mrs. Bently and Mrs. Rickers' classes going Oct. 31, and Mrs. Akers and Mrs. Barclay's classes going Oct. 12. Elementary Principal Richard Mettler made the trip both days, and the Wednesday group was accompanied by Mrs. Donald Pate. Mrs. Letta Maynard made the trip Thursday.

Highway Act Will Help Nebraska Fight Record Traffic Fatalities

"As Nebraska seems headed toward record highway fatalities this year, it is encouraging to note that the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1972 will help our state in making our roads safer," said Nebraska Representative Charles Thone.

"The help in the act, as it passed the House of Representatives, comes because the legislation contains the major provisions of the Omnibus Highway Act which I introduced with other Congressmen on March 2. As this is written, the bill is in a Senate House Conference Committee.

"These provisions include four means by which traffic deaths and injuries can be reduced in a relatively short time.

"One means is by a two-year program to provide striping, or improved striping, for every rural highway in America. This would include reflective paint to mark every pavement edge as well as center striping.

"Another means is through provision of special federal funds for spot improvements to eliminate high-hazard locations on highways.

"A third action program provides special federal funds for eliminating obstacles adjacent to highway surfaces that are apt to cause death when vehicles leave the roadway.

"A fourth aspect is an increase in funding for upgrading protection at railroad crossings through relocation, separation or more effective warning signals.

"Complementing the foregoing programs would be two essential research efforts offering high promise and potential. The first would be a pavement marking research and demonstration program aimed at developing new devices and techniques for assisting motorists during adverse weather conditions when even the best of roads become hazardous to drive on. If, for example, we were able to come up with a new reflective paint with double the life span of paints presently in use, we would realize enormous savings amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars over the next decade.

"The second research effort would concentrate on a heretofore neglected area — drug using and high-accident probability drivers. Presently, very little is known about the driving habits and impact on accident statistics of either type of offender. A well-funded effort is presently underway to cope with the problem of the drunk on the nation's highways. It is high time we launch similar efforts against other identifiable types of offenders.

"It may well be that if we are able to develop ways and means to identify alcohol, drug using, and accident susceptible drivers that we will find that they are involved in a majority, perhaps as high as two-thirds, of all 'killer' and other serious accidents. If this should turn out to be the case, we could formulate new action programs which would, in my opinion, enable us to make a major breakthrough in reducing accidents and injuries on the nation's highways.

"Finally, the safety package contains three studies, any one of which could yield handsome safety dividends. The first would explore how to use mass media, principally television, to alert, educate, inform, and involve the American driving public in the cause of highway safety.

"The second study, would seek to find ways and means of involving the American driving public in the highway safety effort. Particular emphasis would be given to the traffic enforcement process where the creation of citizen adjuncts to assist traffic enforcement agencies would be explored. If, for example, we were able to organize and equip a dedicated band of motorists with two-way radios with their assignment to report accidents and to render first aid, a measurable contribution to easing suffering might be made.

"Clearly, no safety effort can succeed if people remain indifferent and uninvolved. Finding ways and means of promoting greater citizen participation could help to turn the safety effort into a safety crusade.

"The final study would explore the feasibility of creating a National Center for Statistical Analysis of Highway Operations. Perhaps the greatest weakness of the present program is the lack of such a center which, for the first time, would provide us with a specific, up-to-date, comprehensive overview of what is happening on the nation's highways. Establishment of such a center would assure that our safety money would be spent where safety programs really are.

"Last year, the nation had $2 billion in property damages, $2 million injuries and 55,000 fatalities caused by traffic accidents. Without action, we appear headed toward 80,000 traffic deaths per year, by 1980. I am very hopeful that the safety measures I helped put into the Federal Highway Act of 1972 can reverse Nebraska's and the nation's slaughter on the roads."

Speech Students At Vermillion

Wayne-Carroll High School students who attended the oral reading clinic at the University of South Dakota, Vermillion, last Saturday were Kathy Reinhardt, Bob Skokan, John Miller, Elaine Boden, John Thavon, Pat Hochstein, Phil Kober and Kathy Dranseika. The local group was one of about 20 schools, mostly from Iowa and South Dakota which participated in the clinic.

The all-day event featured demonstrations, and individual speaking events such as poetry reading, dramatic reading, oratory, humorous reading, television performance and radio speaking.

Local students received superior ratings in all events but oral readings in which they earned excellent.

Speech students are sponsored by Ted Blendenman, assisted by Mrs. Ann Meyer.

Math, Science Meet Scheduled For Instructors

The meeting will get underway at 7:30 p.m. No reservations are necessary.

Finance Meeting

Parents of all students in the Wayne Carroll High School are invited to an informational meeting regarding scholarship and financial aid application procedure for college applicants. The meeting, to be conducted by Ken Carlson, high school guidance counselor, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the high school lecture hall.

Most scholarships, formerly granted strictly on a basis of academic achievement, are now determined to a large extent upon financial need of the applicant's parents, noted Carlson. The College Scholarship Service Parent Confidential Statement (PCS) form, used by Wayne State College, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and most area colleges and universities to determine financial need, will be explained at the Monday session.

Some 27 species of ducks have been reported in Nebraska, and 16 of them are quite common in the state.

This particular work consists of carved wood with nails hammered in the middle. The bottom piece of wood is suspended by two separate links of chain.

Two pairs of feet. . . Carlos often times has his wife, Sherian, help him in casting new molds for his art work. Here he uses her feet in one of his works that is unfilled.

One of the families' favorite art works is the 'Moon Man With Diapers.' Both Sherian and Carlos admit that the idea of the diapers came from their two-year-old son, Chad.

The Freys' dining room also displays the wood theme as the entrance way is decorated in wooden chips glued together with another type of wooden frame over the window. In the background is a knitted piece of work by Mrs. Frey.

Weaving Different Mixtures Of Art Creates New Setting . . .

college, lacking two hours to graduate, and went into the National Guard.

After a stint in the service, Frey lived with his parents in Liberal, Kan., and opened an art studio.

"A friend helped me get started in painting portraits," he said, when he ordered seven different family portraits.

But after a while the Kansas native grew tired of painting and decided to go back to college to get his degree.

"I could paint fairly fast, usually one portrait in three or four hours, but I wanted to do something different."

In 1962 he created a parttime teaching job for adult art classes. From there, he knew he wanted to teach on the college level.

"I went back to Kansas University for graduate work in 1965 after I met Sherian in the summer of '63 and we were married in August of that year."

A year later the couple moved to Wayne after he was accepted as assistant professor in art.

"When we first moved here, we didn't have too much furniture. The only thing we had was two aluminum cots and a hot plate," he added.

After a trip to a furniture market in Chicago, the Freys decided that they could make their own furniture. And so they continued to make different types of chairs and tables.

"We wanted to have a central theme throughout the house," Mrs. Frey noted, "so we continued the wood theme from our couch and table to the walls and ceiling."

The room divider is only part of the Freys' "recycling" decorations. The family also has a welded collection of bolt-type nuts hanging from the walls.

"We particularly like this,"

Carlos pointed out, "since one side is natural rust and quite dark while the other side is painted in warm yellow and orange colors. Actually he tried to rust the material for a different effect but the color turned to a different shade. So, with the aid of paints, he created a rust effect. "When ever we get tired on one side, we just turn it around."

Over in the corner of the living room stands a ghostly figure called the "White Devil."

Both Carlos and Sherian have a joint interest in the project since the molds of the man woman figure are made from each person. The legs are one part of the ceramic sculpture that is made from Mrs. Frey.

"I then took a mold of my face, rearranged it somewhat, and attached it to a trunk of a body I made myself."

Frey changed the face so as not to give anyone the idea that the four-foot tall statue is a replica of himself. Adding a pair of bull horns to the head, the family named it "the White Devil" after painting the creation white with spots of red on its head and midsection.

At first when the figure, made three years ago, Carlos' nephew, John Paul Miller, was terrified at the sight of the white figure. But later the two-year-old got used to the man-made creature and dubbed it "Uncle Carlos."

What does the future contain for the couple? Presently, Carlos is adding more scraps of wood and metal to his "Graveyard of Ideas" in the backyard. Later on he hopes to take some of the wood, after it ages, and make a fence surrounding the backyard.

Right now his neighbors don't seem to mind too much about the "junk" in the backyard. "But I don't think of it as junk," he stressed. "To me it's art to be created."

The umbrella tree, one of Carlos' room dividers, located near the doorway, comes in pretty handy as a place to store the ole umbrella, until the wet weather hits the area.
