

Tri-Cog Aimed At Resolving Problems

Local governments in Dixon, Knox and Cedar Counties recently formed a voluntary cooperative organization called Tri-Cog.

The purpose of Tri-Cog is to foster a cooperative effort in resolving problems, policies and plans that are common and regional, a spokesman said.

To date 17 municipalities and all three county boards have expressed an interest in joining the organization.

Officers and members at large from each county were elected to the executive board at an organizational meeting held recently at Bloomfield.

They are: Maurice Kneiff of Hartington, president; Ed Hesse of Crofton, treasurer; Ken Lina-letter of Allen, secretary; John Young of Dixon, Dixon County representative; Allen Beaudette of Bloomfield, Knox County representative; Erwin Koch of Wynot, Cedar County representative.

One person from each county board of supervisors also will serve on the executive board.

The next regular monthly meeting of Tri-Cog will be on Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Allen Fire Hall.

Don Meisner, administrator of the Siouxsland Intermetropolitan Planning Commission (Simpco), will be the featured speaker.

Every city or town that is working on a community project has been invited to present it at the Nov. 15 meeting.

Three members of the Wayne-Carroll High School marching band were priming up for this Saturday's state meet at Lincoln. Kim Schmitt, left, band vice-president; Mike Nuss, band president, and Jill Carhart, Student Council band representative, tuned up Tuesday night along with the other members of the band at a practice session in the school gym. Norvin Hansen

New Editor Is Named For Wayne Herald

Norvin Hansen has been named editor of The Wayne Herald, replacing Claire Hurlbert.

Hansen, 37, worked on the news staff of the North Platte Telegraph the past year. He served as the regional editor for the daily newspaper for about the past eight months.

The change in editors was effective Monday, according to Jim Marsh, business manager of the Herald.

A native of Bloomfield and a graduate of Wayne State College, Hansen worked on the Wayne newspaper for three and one-half years before accepting a job with the North Platte newspaper.

Hansen and his wife, Janel Jo, have two small children Scott Alan and Krista Marie. They live at 109 East Ninth Street in Wayne.

Laurel Lions To Flip 'Cakes On Sunday

Laurel Lions Club members will be waiting with spatulas ready for the first hungry customers to appear at their feed this Sunday at the Laurel City Auditorium.

Wives will assist with the one-day meal service, which will get underway at 6 a.m. and continue until about 2 p.m.

The annual event was begun several years ago as a special service to area-hunters during the opening week of pheasant season, but has since grown to include the general public.

Breakfast, at $1 per person, will feature pancakes, bacon or sausage, hot coffee and orange juice or milk. Pie and coffee will be served throughout the day, and the noon menu will offer ham or roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, corn, salad, homemade pie and coffee or milk. Dinner will be $2 a plate.

Proceeds will go toward Lions club projects such as sight conservation and community betterment programs, according to Duane Purcell, general chairman for the event.

Fund Drive Nears Goal

The Community Chest drive in Wayne has reached about 71 per cent of its $10,000 goal, drive officials reported this week.

Vera Hummel, secretary-treasurer of the Community Chest board of directors, said about 400 cards have yet to be turned in by workers. If all those come in, the drive could be 100 per cent successful, he said.

Captains of workers should make sure they check with those under them to see that all persons are contacted about donating to this year's fund drive, said Bob Jordan, board president.

He said a meeting will be held next week which will reveal how successful this year's drive was.

Funds are used to support a variety of local activities, including Boy and Girl Scout programs, city recreation activities and senior citizens activities. Other funds go to the USO, Florence Crittenton Home in Sioux City, Red Cross, Salvation Army and Cystic Fibrosis research.

WSC Computer Classes Offered To Area Schools

The first of a series of classes in computer programming, set up exclusively for area high school students and instructors, will be held Monday night at Wayne State College.

Invitations were sent to 10 schools by Maurice Anderson, associate professor in the WSC math department, who will be conducting the classes.

Meetings have been tentatively scheduled for each Monday at 7:30 p.m. The lecture will be held at Room 102 of Carhart Science Building. A workshop period will follow during which time participants will be able to actually use the computer.

The computer, which arrived at WSC in mid April, is used for administrative purposes as well as by various college classes.

Matzke: Wayne Has Much Going for It

Stan Matzke, director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development, told the Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday that "we are in a positive type of situation as far as industry is concerned, but for communities to obtain those industries requires a total community involvement."

"Nebraska and Wayne have a great deal going for them," the former University of Nebraska basketball letterman said, adding "and can be what they want to be, but must be able to put it all together."

The Nebraska Department of Economic Development's aim is improved economic conditions in the state, more jobs, increased tourism and the development of the 538 communities, the speaker explained.

Other goals are addition of new industry, expansion of present industry, improvement of local communities, broadening of employment opportunities, development of natural resources and improved working relationships with the citizenry.

The state agency is divided into five areas — community affairs, Indian Commission, in-

"We want to put the travelers off the Interstate and have them see our state," he said, adding that a day holdover for each car of tourists traveling through the state would mean a boost of $100 million to the state's economy. To aid in this, the agency has prepared short "circle tours" throughout Nebraska, he said.

The DEC also is a type of library center where anyone can obtain literature on various services, including a booklet that lists all state agencies where help can be obtained for almost any problem.

The agency also promotes Community Improvement Programs, the type of betterment program in which Concord was a recent finalist in its population category.

Council to Play Part in City's Developing Area

Wayne city councilmen will probably make a decision at their next meeting which will strongly influence the trend for business development on the east edge of the city.

Councilmen Tuesday night agreed to consider at their Nov. 15th meeting the request by Ward Reesman of Falls City to change the zoning of a strip of land on the south side of Seventh Street from multiple residential to highway business.

Reesman reportedly plans construction of a Derby filling station on the land, located just west of the Gibson Discount Center.

The city planning commission voted 4-3 Friday to recommend the zoning change.

Councilmen will consider in the near future another request for the same zoning change in that general area. This one coming from Wayne business man, W. Lueders.

Lueders, owner of Bill's Market Basket, is asking that three lots just south of Gibson's parking lot along the south side of Dearborn Street be changed from multiple dwelling to highway business zoning. Reports are that he plans construction of a grocery store.

That request was sent to the planning commission, which must make recommendations on all requests for zoning changes before the council can take action.

Also coming up before the council Nov. 14 will be the nagging problem of how to set up a fair trash and collection system for the city.

Vernon Russell, secretary-treasurer of Wayne Refuse Service, which formerly held a franchise with the city for refuse collection, asked the council to reconsider its decision of a few weeks earlier which now allows persons to apply for a permit to haul trash for hire.

Russell, who is also a councilman, said his company made a huge investment when taking over the franchise a few years ago with the idea that the city would continue permitting trash collection only under a franchise setup.

The council nearly bogged down in legal technicalities when considering the assessment schedule for paying for the half block of paving from the intersection of Eighth and Win-dom east to the alley.

Property owners are protesting the assessments because they contend St. Mary's Church will receive nearly 100 per cent of the benefits of the paved street since it leads directly to the church's parking lot.

The council's legal advisor was told to research the council's actions which resulted in the paving to find out if the assessments must be made against only those property owners or if an assessment can be made against the church.

The property owners' lawyer said it is possible the council illegally created a paving district by failing to publish a notice in the newspaper or advising the owners one had been created.

Mayor Kent Hall broke a tie vote to approve the assessment schedule to help pay for construction of storm sewers in an area generally west and south of the Middle School.

Several persons appeared before the council to protest the assessments against their property, and the result was a 4-4 tie. See COUNCIL, page 8.

Personal Taxes Are Due Nov. 1

Personal property taxes for Wayne County residents are due Nov. 1, said County Treasurer Leon Meyer.

The tax, he explained, is not on real estate but rather on such items as machinery, livestock, boats and golf carts.

Meyer said the area residents should receive their statements either Wednesday or Thursday. The first half of the tax will be delinquent Dec. 1, with the unpaid balance drawing nine per cent interest, he added.

To speed up the handling, he noted, taxpayers can mail in the statement with a check or bring the statement along when paying the tax.

Bazaar Is Saturday

Area residents are reminded of the Wayne Hospital Auxiliary's annual fall bazaar to be held this Saturday at the city auditorium. The doors open at 10 a.m.

In addition to gift items, candy, baked goods and grab bags, the bazaar will feature a white elephant table this year. Coffee and cookies will be served throughout the day and the noon menu will offer soup, sandwiches and pie.

Donations from members and non-members alike are still welcome and should be taken to the auditorium any time Friday, with the exception of perishables, which can be taken in Saturday morning before the doors officially open.

Proceeds from the annual event go toward furnishings and equipment for the Wayne Hospital.

Catalog Store To Open Here

Montgomery Ward plans to open a catalog sales store in Wayne within the next few weeks, according to a company spokesman.

H. Mudrach of Atlantic, Iowa, district sales agency manager for the Kansas City area, said the store will probably be located in the building formerly occupied by Wayne Auto Parts at 210 Main St.

He said the store will be opened as soon as a manager can be hired to run it. "If at all possible, it will be opened some time between now and Nov. 15," he said.

'Cake Day' Is Tuesday At Wakefield

Wakefield businessmen and Lions Club members will don aprons and chef hats Tuesday for their 23rd annual free pancake day.

The event, held the first Tuesday in November each year in conjunction with election day, draws about 3,000 persons.

Serving will be from 3 to 9 p.m. at the Wakefield Legion Hall. The fare will include pancakes, sausages and drinks. Entertainment will be provided by the Wakefield High School Trojan Band.

General chairman for the event this year is Ray Lund.

The junior class of Wakefield High School will also hold their annual sale auction Tuesday. Auctioneer Ivan Nixon, Wakefield, has volunteered his services for the 7 p.m. event at the vacant lot south of the Legion Hall on Main Street.

Twenty-three senior boys will go on the auction block, each to provide eight hours of work for his buyer.

In the event of bad weather, the sale will be held inside the Legion Hall, where the pancake feed will be in process.

Thone Pledges 'Honest Government'

Republican Charles Thone Monday promised two more years of "honest and sound government" if he is re-elected to another term from Nebraska's First Congressional District.

Thone, a native of Cedar County, said during a testimonial dinner at Les' Sloak House in Wayne that he has tried to represent the "good, common sense thinking that is Nebraska" during his past 22 months in Washington, D.C.

The fund-raising dinner for the Lincolnite was attended by about 75 persons, most of them from Wayne County.

Speaking on Thone's behalf was Sen. Raman Hruska, who campaigned with Thone two years ago when the freshman representative won his first seat in the House.

Thone, noted for his short campaign speeches, pledged another term of concerned, effective representation if he defeats his Democratic opponent Darrel Berg of Lincoln.

Hruska told the Republican gathering that American voters will return President Richard Nixon to the White House next Tuesday because they have seen every issue raised by Democrat George McGovern "meet in his hands."

"McGovern has been flaying away at such topics as inflation, unemployment, tax reform, defense spending, and amnesty to draft dodgers," Hruska noted, but he has been unable to turn those issues to his advantage.

McGovern's ideas about cutting $35 billion from the defense spending would be disastrous to this nation, according to Hruska, because America would then become a "second rate power."

If there has ever been a deterrent to war it has been the strong defensive posture of America, Hruska noted. Russia and China are aware that America has the "trump card" as far as military power is concerned, he said, and that this nation is capable of taking care of any trouble they may start.

"America — and the rest of the world — better watch out if we should ever lose our standing as the most powerful nation on earth," he said. "It doesn't matter if you are second, fourth or 100th... they are all the same after No. 1," he said.

Other issues touched on by Hruska:

Amnesty to draft dodgers—Nixon continues to stand by his earlier comments that draft dodgers are criminals and will have to face charges once the war in South Viet Nam is over.

Russian wheat deal—The grain sale is going to be a tremendous boost for American agriculture because of increased production. Higher implement sales and savings in cost of storage.

Inflation—Although the Nixon administration has not completely stopped inflation, it has started to check it.

Republicans gathered Monday night in Wayne for a testimonial dinner for Congressional candidate Charles Thone, second from right. Talking with him after the dinner are Sen. Raman Hruska, right, Ivan Robinson of Haskins, vice chairman of Wayne county Republicans backing Thone, and Charles McDermott of Wayne, county Republican chairman.

Fete Held For Bride

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Karmon Schellenberg was held Sunday at the Wayne Woman's Club rooms. The event was hosted by Mrs. Allan Frahm, Mrs. Henry Warrelmann, Mrs. Harold Meier, Mrs. Donald Brudigan and Mrs. Max Brudigan.

Thirty-five guests attended the fete. Decorations were in blue and white, chosen colors of the bride-elect, and entertainment consisted of games with prizes going to the honoree. Miss Schellenberg also baked a cake from scratch without using a recipe.

Lynn Frahm had charge of the guest book and Bonnie Frahm, Norfolk, registered gifts. Gift carriers were Nancy Brudigan, Wayne, and Connie and Tammy Meier, Wakefield. Mrs. Max Brudigan, Wakefield, grandmother of Miss Schellenberg's fiance, poured.

Miss Schellenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Schellenberg, Winside, and Ken Frahm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Frahm, Wayne, will be married Nov. 4.

Marine Ball Set For Nov. 11

The fourth annual Northeast Nebraska Marine Corps birthday ball will be held Friday evening, Nov. 10, at the El Rancho Supper Club near Pilsen.

The social hour is set for 6:30 p.m. with a cash bar. Dinner will be at 8. Guest speaker will be Hollis B. Francis, Norfolk, from Radio Station WJAG. All former Marines and their wives or dates are invited to attend. Tickets will be $3 each at the door.

Osbahr Reception Held

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Osbahr Sr., Allen, were honored Sunday afternoon with an open house reception at the Springbank Friends Church marking their 40th wedding anniversary. Dick Osbahr registered the guests and gifts were arranged by Mrs. Dick Osbahr.

LeRoy Osbahr, Hooper, who served as master of ceremonies for the 2:30 p.m. program, read the history of the Osbahr family. Grandchildren sang a series of songs, accompanied by Mrs. Clarence Emry, and family pictures were displayed on a table.

Mrs. Don Spaulda, South Sioux City, poured and Iva Kaye Osbahr served punch. Mrs. Jim Kennelly and Mrs. Bill Gotch cut and served the cake and Mrs. LeRoy Osbahr served ice cream. Church women who assisted were Mrs. Joe McAfee, Mrs. Ernest Stark, Mrs. Clarence Emry and Mrs. Mahlon

Stewart. Of the couple's 12 children, those present for the observance were Myron Osbahr, Sr., Harold Osbahr, Mrs. Bill Gotch and Iva Kaye Osbahr, all of Allen; LeRoy Osbahr of Hooper, Tom Osbahr of Council Bluffs, Ia.; Dick Osbahr of South Sioux City, and Mrs. Jim Kennelly of Omaha. Unable to attend were Mrs. Bob Rasmussen of Ventura, Calif., Ralph Osbahr of Kingsport, Tenn., and Charles and Clinton Osbahr of La Grange, Ga. There are 27 grandchildren. Osbahr's were married Nov. 5 at Dakota City.

Mrs. Frank S. Morgan will entertain members of the Coterie at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Boosters Will Meet

Wayne Carroll High School Music Boosters will meet at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Wayne High band room. Results of the Pershing Marching Band Contest to be held in Lincoln this weekend, will be heard, and a film of the contest will be shown.

Miss Longe Is Honored

Joyce Longe, Wayne, was honored Sunday with a miscellaneous bride shower held for her at the Grace Lutheran Church parlors, Wayne. Hosting the event were Mrs. Don Kay and Mrs. Rudolph Kay, Wakefield; Mrs. Lee Johnson, Bancroft; Mrs. Delbert Longe and Mrs. Warren Thum, Norfolk.

Miss Longe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Longe, and David Sievers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sievers, all of Wayne, will be married Dec. 9 in rites at Grace Lutheran Church.

Decorations for the courtesies were in lilac and deep purple, colors chosen by Miss Longe for her wedding. Guests presented the bride with favorite recipes and wrote out advice for her. Prizes at games, won by Mrs. Roger Stelling of Plainview, Mrs. Erwin Vahikamp, Mrs. Melvin Longe and the honoree, were presented to Miss Longe. Mrs. Stelling and Denise Kay, Wakefield, had charge of gifts.

NORTHEAST EXTENSION

Notes

by Myrtle Anderson

A new look at an old friend—the electric skillet—may reveal a valuable aid to using power efficiently. The electric skillet is one of the most versatile, portable and economical appliances ever made. It can do everything from baking a cake to roasting a turkey. It can be used anywhere that has an electrical outlet. Any appliance that can fry, bake, steam, warm and braise, all in one apparatus is bound to save the homemaker money.

Today when we are facing the more serious consequence of power shortage, conserving electrical power is a responsibility on our part as well as saving money. For example, the electric skillet could be used in place of the electric range to prepare a one dish meal more economically in terms of both money and electricity, than preparing a meal that used two or three different heat sources at the same time. According to the Electrical Energy Association, heating up an 8 inch range element consumes almost three and a half times more energy than heating up an average size, 10 to 12 inch skillet. Where an element on the electric range uses 4200 watts, the skillets uses only 1196 watts. However this does not infer doing away with electric ranges, but only advocates making full use of all oven space like cooking a roast, baking potatoes and biscuits all at the same time to get the most out of the kilowatt hour. Let the electric skillet do the simple cooking task, like baking a cake, that doesn't take full advantage of all oven space.

Candles give off a pretty light for the home and are a happy thought for holiday gifts.

St. Mary's Catholic Church, Wayne, was the scene of the Sunday ceremony uniting in marriage Maxine Haase and Roger Schwanke.

The Rev. Paul J. Begley officiated at the double ring rites. Honor attendants for the couple were Mary Ann Ginn and Dennis Jensen, both of Wayne.

The bride, who is a 1972 graduate of Wayne High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Haase. The bridegroom, also a WHS graduate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schwanke. All are of Wayne.

The couple are now at home at 421 Lincoln, Wayne.

Glenda Jeffrey To Marry Daniel Keenan

Making plans for a March wedding are Glenda Jeffrey and Daniel Keenan, both of Omaha. The engagement and approaching marriage has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffrey, Allen.

Miss Jeffrey, a 1969 graduate of Allen High School, is employed by the Hartford Insurance Company, Omaha. Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Keenan Sr., is a 1970 graduate of Paul VI High School, Omaha, and is employed in Omaha.

To Observe Community Day

Church Women United of Wayne will observe World Community Day this Friday with services at Redeemer Lutheran Church, according to Mrs. Robert Porter, public relations chairman. The 2 p.m. meeting is open to all area church women. The program will feature a panel discussion conducted by the Rev. Robert Haas from the United Presbyterian Church. The other churches which are active in the CWU organization will be presented by the panel members.

Church Women United across the nation are following a "Coming of Age Celebration" theme for this year's observance, relating to the millions of 18 to 21 year olds who will be voting in a national election for the first time this year. The theme applies to older celebrants, too, who recognize that mature Christian citizenship is never an accomplished fact, but a constant "coming of age" process.

Offerings received from various CWU groups at the World Community Day services and Community Day of Prayer services, held in the spring, go to an intercontinental mission fund. This year, World Community Day services will be concerned with programs of training to enable women to cope with rapid changes in society. Women are urged to bring children, books and materials for leadership and vocational training for American Indians, blankets for refugee and displaced persons, or emergency funds to be used "where needed most."

A luncheon will be served by the women of the host church following the service.

Officers of Church Women United, who are in charge of the annual service, are Mrs. Joe Corbil, United Presbyterian Church president; Mrs. Robert Porter, First United Methodist Church, vice president; and Oldtimers' celebration... Vern Hoscheit of the Oakland A's, helped the NE Nebraska Oldtimers' Baseball Association celebrate their annual meeting Sunday night at the Wayne Auditorium. A warm reception greeted the A's Coach as he presented Sam Bruner, the oldest living member of the Association, with a World Series game ball autographed by Auditorium. A warm reception greeted the A's Coach as he presented Sam Bruner, the oldest living member of the Association, with a World Series game ball autographed by all the members of the Oakland A's. In the center, the six Association members present, left, John Bowling, Roy Lennart, C. B. Missett, Lada Hanel and Gail Carmen, gather together. On the right, Hoscheit talks to the audience about the necessity of communication for a team to be a winner.

Team Communication Helps A's Win Series

It takes communication to be a winner. Just ask Vern Hoscheit, one of the coaches for the World Series Champion Oakland A's.

Hoscheit, told a gathering at the Wayne Auditorium Sunday night that without communication on his team the A's would have never won the title.

The World's Champagne Drinkers, he called them at the annual meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Oldtimers Baseball Association, put away their personal problems and played like a professional team.

"It takes unity," he emphasized. "Just like the Conard family that performed for you, to make any team go."

Turning to the groups of boys in the stands, Hoscheit told them that if they had desire and ability they could play professional ball.

In the past, he continued, to be a ball player a man had to be able to run, hit and throw. Today, all you need is one of those abilities to make it," he said.

The Plainview native cited Johnny Bench, catcher for the Cincinnati Reds, as the top baseball player of today. "He's the greatest I've seen," Hoscheit added.

"But," he went on, "we have some really good players on our team too." A player by the name of Vida Blue drew a lot of the audience's attention when Hoscheit "laid it on the line" about Blue's holdout earlier in the season.

"It was his lawyer that caused the hassle," Hoscheit pointed out. "Because he (Blue) hired a lawyer, there was a breakdown in communication between the team's owner (Charles O. Finley) and Blue."

Hoscheit labeled Blue as a terrific athlete, noting that one cause of all the publicity was the personal problems between the Oakland A's hurler and Finley.

Hoscheit, who plans to retire after the next season, said he does not intend to umpire after the quits baseball. "I wouldn't have that abuse."

In looking at the series play-offs and the final games, Hoscheit recalled that the fans in Detroit were disgusting. "They actually threw chairs and gravel at me when I was in the dugout after the game." At that point, he went on, it took "an army" of Detroit police to get him out of the stadium.

"But when we went to Cincinnati for the World Series, the whole picture was different."

The Red's fans acted like ladies and gentlemen even when their team lost, he said. "You can really respect a team and its fans for their kind of display."

As a sidelight to the games, Hoscheit pulled out several copies of the menus for the players on the flights. Part of the listings included a Mike Epstein size New York Strip Sirloin with a Big Hitter Joe Rudi potato plus a Reggie Jackson Au Gratin and a Fly Ball Williams Pie.

Also on the lists were Matty Alou Cocktails.

The area native, who teaches catching, relief pitching and sliding, explained that his 32 years in pro ball were climaxed on "that exciting, damp day when we won the World Series." Hoscheit served as the Three-I League (Iowa, Illinois and Indiana) president in 1960-61. In 1969 he moved to Oakland after working with the Baltimore club. "I was in the minors for 19 years," he smiled, "working with the New York Yankee outfit before I went to the Orioles."

a game ball from the World Series with the autographs of all the Oakland A players.

Also cited during the two-hour affair were members of the Plainview Magnet, Wayne, Pierce and Norfolk State Class A Midgets as well as six of the Oldtimers attending the meeting. Present were John Bowling, Magnit, Dwayne Van Auker, Randolph, Roy Lennart, Wayne, C. B. Missett, Norfolk, Lada Hanel, Clarkson, and Gail Carmen, Laurel.

Wayne Jrs. Hit Macy Team, 8-6

The Wayne Junior High football team sneaked past the Macy Warriors, 8-6, last week to cap its season with five wins and no losses.

Quarterback Mark Brandt guided his teammates on a 65 yard scoring drive in the first quarter in 10 plays with running back Marc Lawrence scooping in from eight yards out on a power play. A two point aerial from Brandt to Mike Wieseler gave the home team an 8-6 lead and the ball game.

Earlier the Macy squad recovered a Wayne fumble on Wayne's 10 yard line, and on a fourth and five found pay dirt via the air route. The try for two failed.

Coach Hank Overin's club started another sustained drive in the second stanza from the Macy 50 to the four yard line before the offense hit a Macy wall.

With about three minutes left in the game, the junior 11 faked a punt from their own 40 yard line while Brandt dashed around the end for 25 yards and a first down. From there, Wayne played ball control to run out the clock.

For the season, Overin pointed out, Joe Kenny was tagged the best lineman while Brandt was named the best back. The best all-around team member award was given to Wieseler.

Other Wayne victories came over Randolph 30-13, Wisner Pilger 24-0, Laurel 24-6, and Wakefield 32-0. The Junior High record now stands at 17-0 for the past three seasons.

the state's first girls' volleyball tournament at Scottsbluff Nov. 16-17.

In the other games Monday night, Newcastle's C team won in two games, 15-10 and 16-14. The visitors rallied to win the final two games in the B competition, 15-12 and 15-8 after dropping the first game to Winside, 15-5.

Perfecting Baseball Aim of Area Umpire

By Bob Bartlett

Vern Hoscheit, coach of the Oakland A's, said he wouldn't have the job of umpiring a baseball game with all the abuse an umpire takes. But John Mastalir would.

"Sure, an umpire takes some abuse," Mastalir nodded, "but I want to be an umpire simply because I love the game and I want to perfect it."

Mastalir, who works in the Texas minor leagues, believes that baseball is an art. "Where else can you see any better athletes on a field exhibiting their abilities?"

The Verdigris native agrees that minor league baseball has slipped somewhat as the No. 1 sport, but minor league baseball has "reached the bottom and is on its way up."

"Football has reached its saturation point," he commented when asked about the decline of baseball in the sports world. People are becoming more interested in baseball, especially on the college level, he said.

Mastalir listed such teams as U.S.C. and Arizona State as the college teams which have helped increase the fan's interest in the sport. "You begin to enjoy baseball more when you notice the finer points of the game," he said, "and college ball as well as umpiring a game teaches a person those finer points."

Working in the minors for five years, Mastalir said there does need to be some changes in baseball to keep the interest growing. "I would like to see a 22-second rule for pitchers throwing the ball. I believe that this would speed up the game."

Mastalir also suggested that the batter not be allowed to step in and out of the batter's box.

With the baseball season over, it would seem like it is time for area umpires to take a rest. But not Mastalir. "I can hardly wait until the season starts again."

Joe Kenny, left, Mike Wieseler and Mark Brandt were named as the best Lineman, Back and All-Around Player, respectively, by City Recreation Director Hank Overin after the three and their teammates finished this year's Junior High football season with a perfect 5-0 record.

Wildcats Bite Bobcats for First Win

Homecoming Victory, 35-28

The chant around Wayne State's campus this week is "No 1, go for 2."

"That's a short way of saying, 'The Wildcats got their first win, now let's beat Yankton'."

A considerable number of folks think the Cats will do it too. beat the Greyhounds of Yankton College Saturday afternoon. The 1:30 clash in Wayne's Memorial Stadium will be the last home game.

Yankton, like Wayne, has suffered a season of setbacks with two wins, six losses. That is a marked contrast to pre-season Yankton hopes for a conference championship last year. The Greyhounds topped a 5-3 season by nipping Wayne, 7-3.

To this day, the Wildcats say they never should have lost that game. A factor that should have obvious psychological value in Saturday's rematch.

The big factor, however, should be the momentum from last Saturday's heartening victory, 35-28 over Peru State. Coach Del Stollenberg said Sunday he was still "floating pretty high" after that rouser. Defense Coach Ralph Barclay said, "The team is improving right along, and I think they'll beat Yankton."

Ask any player and you get the same opinion. That first win of the season provided a strong tonic. However, returning players from last year also noted they can't take Yankton for granted.

They did not take Peru for granted. And a good thing. Peru made a battle of it till the end and could have tied or won in the last seconds.

Homecoming fans got their first excitement in a hurry when Wayne dashed to a touchdown on its first drive off the opening kickoff. Tailback Reggie Smith accounted for 73 of the 80 yards, including his 45-yard run to score on a beautiful option pitchout. Dan Ernst kicked for a 7-0 lead.

Peru wasted little time retaliating. Its first drive also yielded a touchdown on a 57-yard pass from Tom Froehlich to Jim Desbien. Joe Wallace kicked the first of his four extra points.

Undismayed, the Wildcats rapped off another scoring march of 80 yards, this one ending with wingback Dean Ott's 48 yard run. The conversion kick missed. All this happened in less than six minutes.

At this point defensive forces put on the brakes until Peru scored again on a 47 yard Froehlich pass to end Jon Winkie. Once again in the second quarter Peru scored after a muffed Wayne punt attempt gave the Bobcats a chance from the Wayne 13. Fullback Barry Reed ran the last three yards and Peru led, 21-13.

Again the fans had not long to wait. On the first play after kickoff, Smith took another pitchout from quarterback Rick Benedetto and romped 48 yards with handy blocking all the way to the end zone. Tight end Kirk Park grabbed a conversion pass from Benedetto and, presto, the score was knotted 21 all.

Fired up after the half, Wayne moved ahead late in the third period on Dennis Linke's two yard run through a gaping hole. Earlier in the drive he had gone 30 yards. Ernst kicked the point.

Another Wayne assault of 73 yards in the fourth quarter yielded what proved to be the winning touchdown when fullback Pat Dyer skirted right end for three yards, with him Bobcats trying to catch him. Again Ernst connected on the conversion.

Peru, helpless on the ground against furious Wayne defense, tried to go to the air. Froehlich hit three passes of 26, 38 and 27 yards, the last going to Winkie for a touchdown. Wallace's kick ended the scoring at 35-28.

But the game was far from ended. The final 7 minutes 13 seconds had spectators near apoplexy as Peru's air force attacked. Once, on fourth down with a yard to go at the Wayne 13, Peru's offense stalled out against a mountain of Wildcats.

Another Peru effort, starting with 54 seconds on the clock, failed as Wayne defenders broke up four straight passes. Halfback Pat Holston batted the ball away from a Peru receiver in the end zone and broke up another potential long gain.

Wayne's peerless defensive end, Ken Monroe, meanwhile kept the pressure on Peru backs. Finally, Wayne look over with 21 seconds left, and Benedetto fell on the ball for the last play.

So Wayne had its first win of 1972 and third place in the Nebraska College Conference, with a 1-2 record. Peru, 0-3, finished fourth.

Wayne, Pierce Featured In Battle of Unbeatens

By Bob Bartlett
The dust finally settled in the East and West divisions of the Lewis and Clark Conference late Friday night.
Osmond tripped up Winside, 7-2, in a blistering affair in the West, while over in the East side, home team Allen fell one point short to the Walthill Blue Jays, 13-12.
But don't think the storms are finally over in area conferences. Wayne will be traveling to Pierce, No. 1 in the NE Nebraska conference, where another whirlwind is sure to erupt, although the Blue Jays have notched their title, the home team has a good chance to knock Wayne from the unbeaten ranks.
The Blue Devils presently own first place in the West Husker Conference, but the addition of Columbus Lakeview could give the Wayne club some problems if it should lose to Pierce.
A new conference ruling this year permits choosing the division leader on the over-all standing rather than on the conference win-loss record. If Wayne should drop its last game, then Columbus Lakeview (now 7-1) would represent the division, providing it did not lose its final contest against David City Aquatics.

The basis for this ruling is that the Blue Devils won the conference last year and any team in the West division tying their record automatically wins the conference crown.
With that in mind, the hair-raising battle between unbeaten Pierce and Wayne (both 8-0) should prove to be the hottest contest in Northeast Nebraska.

Picking the winner in this contest is the hardest job for the crystal ball. But never fear, Wayne should remain on top of the conference. Let's pick the Blue Devils to end the 1972 season undefeated and make it two seasons in a row for the Conference championship.
As far as other area teams go, Wakefield (4-5) will take on tough Lyons in the team's final game of the season. The Lions' last week dropped a close match to Tekamah Herman, 7-6, to end up on the fourth rung of the East Husker ladder.
Trojan Coach John Torczon probably will find the Lyons team ready to claw for its season finale win. But we'll say the Trojans will battle back for a 5-5 record and top the Cats.
Both Allen and Winside will find things a little bit easier this week as the area schools will seek their last victories.
Winside will host Wynot (1-7) Friday night. It doesn't seem that Coach Doug Barry's crew should have any rebounding problems, so the nod goes to the Wildcats for victory number five.
For Allen, the Eagles will travel to Emerson Hubbard to meet the Pirates. Two weeks ago Emerson knocked off Walthill, 27-6, which makes choosing this contest a real headache. But let's stick with the area team and say Allen all the way.

Finally, Laurel won't find the season any less rough after it fell the crushing blows of the Blue Devils' last week. The Black and Orange may have changed colors somewhat (to black and blue) after getting hit by the home club, 36-0.
This Friday the colors should get back to the original versions with the area team hosting O'Neill.
It looks like the crystal ball, 26-11, will hit the road after this week's games and start searching for the top basketball and wrestling squads in the area. Coaches are you ready?

Fire Damages Luff Tractor
A tractor and a manure spreader were damaged in a fire Wednesday morning on the Louis Luff Jr. farm two miles south and 2 1/2 east of Wayne.
The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department answered the 8:30 p.m. call when a spark from the tractor engine apparently started the fire. According to Mrs. Luff, her husband had just finished filling the tank and started the engine when the fire started.
The steering wheel, tires and seat were melted in the blaze along with other damage to the tractor and loader, she said.
Mrs. Luff added that the hose on the gasoline tank also melted and the tanks did not explode.

Volunteers Needed
Volunteer Scouts and dads are needed to take down tents and repair the camp for winter at Camp Crossed Arrows near Fremont. Clean up dates, weather permitting, are scheduled for Friday, from 1:30 p.m. on and Saturday, Nov. 11 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.
For directions to the camp or reservations concerning organization for scouts, persons may call Mrs. Robert Carhart at Wayne, 375-1100.

Randolph Spikers Win NEN Volleyball Meet

It took three matches for each of the teams to win their respective spots in the Northeast Nebraska Volleyball Tournament Tuesday night at Laurel before the girls from Randolph spiked up the conference championship.
The Cardinals beat out the Plainview spikers for the top spot in three games, winning the first 15-13 before dropping the second 10-15. The girls then put the brakes on the Paretlets in the third match, 15-4, to take home the championship trophy.
Plainview had to overcome a stubborn Pierce squad in order to get into the final rounds. Both clubs each had a win under their belts when time became the deciding factor. Plainview was leading 11-9 with just seconds left with Pierce serving the ball. But on the play, Pierce knocked the ball out of bounds to give Plainview the ball game.
In the consolation rounds, Pierce took third over O'Neill, which lost to Randolph, 15-11, 10-15 and 15-6.
Monday night, area school Laurel was eliminated in the first rounds, bowing to Plainview 15-5 and 15-6, while Bloomfield, 15-3 and 15-6, while Randolph made it in three games over Crofton and O'Neill needed only two games to defeat Craigton. Pierce, last year's winner and a favorite this year, wiped Neigh out of the running in the final game of the night.

Conferences Set At Allen School

Parent teacher conferences have been scheduled for today (Thursday) at Allen Consolidated School according to school officials, and report cards will be distributed to parents at their scheduled times.
It was originally announced that the conferences would be held Friday.
Elementary school parents will meet throughout the day at 10 minute intervals. Parents of students in junior and senior high school whose last names begin with the letters A to L are scheduled for morning sessions at the school gymnasium. Parents with last names beginning with M to Z will meet in the afternoon.

Men's Basketball Starts Nov. 13th

The Men's City Recreation Basketball program will be bouncing its way into Wayne, beginning Nov. 13, according to City Recreation Director Hank Overlin.
All men in the area are invited to play. Overlin said, with two age brackets, for those 30 years or older and for those under 30.
Overlin pointed out that in addition to area residents playing, only college students who either graduated from Wayne High School or are living off campus and working in Wayne are eligible to participate in the program.
Practice sessions will be between 7:10 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays during the first two weeks of the program before the teams go into actual competition.
On Mondays, the fast league will play, he added, while Wednesday nights the slow group will see action. The Wednesday scheduling, he stressed, will not interfere with the city volleyball recreation at the National Guard Armory.

Allen Jr. Hi Wins

The Allen Jr. Hi team ran over the visiting Ponca squad, 28-6, last week, led by quarterback Brad Chase's two touch-downs.
Chase opened up the scoring spree in the first stanza with a 65-yard gallop into the end zone for the first six and later added six more.
After the Ponca Bravescors their only six points in the first, Allen struck back in the second and fourth quarters for the win. Todd Koester and Mike DeBorde each scored the remaining TD's.

Haase Boy Remains In Good Condition

Ricky Haase is reported in good condition at the Wayne Hospital this week following a car pedestrian accident last Thursday.
Ricky, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Haase of 413 W. 10th, received a broken leg when he was struck by a car near Seventh and Sherman. The boy remains in traction.

Ringneck Rendezvous

In 1927, Nebraska hunters went allied for the first time in state history in pursuit of the wily ringneck, a faucous, wild flying bird the George Washington, in his first term as president, tried to establish in the new world. Open area for that three day Nebraska season included Wheeler County and part of Sherman. Limits were five birds daily and five in possession.
Forty five years later, Nov. 4, more than 125,000 Nebraskans and thousands of out of state guests, far outnumbering the hunting fraternity that first season, will go after that same elusive pheasant. This time, however, all of Nebraska is open territory. The daily bag limit is down to three birds but the possession is up to 12.
Prospects for this weekend's opener look good; should be equal to or above last year throughout the state. Best increases have been reported for the southwest and central. Top shooting should be in the panhandle, south central, and central.

43 Million Acres of Pheasants
Almost all of Nebraska can be classified as pheasant range. Excluding the water and developed areas, the state has over 43 million acres classified as pheasant range, with approximately 13 million supporting moderate to high populations of pheasants.
The apparent top pheasant season in recent years was 1963, when the total harvest was an estimated 1,461,000 birds.
Saturday also marks the opening of the state's 78th quail season of modern days. In that first season in 1944, four counties were open: Johnson, Pawnee, Nemaha, and Richardson. Limits were five birds daily and five in possession.
Recently at Red Willow Reservoir, north of McCook, I had a pleasure of meeting the "old callfisherman" - 76 year young Fred Barker of North Platte. The "old" portion of his name referred not to his age but to his perpetual fishing and habitual catching of catfish when other anglers were striking out.
Fred has his favorite spots but on the day, I met him, he caught 11 catfish "all over" the lake. He uses a barge and drifts. And he "decoys" his fish. Must be something to his tricks, for he took 396 catfish two years ago. His decoy is a live bluegill on his top hook. He keeps it alive by hooking it in the tail.
"Cats swallow 'em this way and they never get loose." He explained that as the bluegill goes in the cat's mouth, its fins go up and there's no way it can be spit out.
No 1 Weapon
His No. 1 weapon, though, is the bottom hook on which he uses a doubled up piece of "white" crappie meal. He catches his bait the afternoon before, so he's ready to go early the next morning. The best time for cats is in the opinion of Fred Hlett's crappie but doesn't remove the skin, just the scales. Next he cuts a hunk of meat about four inches long and doubles it up, with the skin sides in. "No way," he says, "that it can come off the hook."
As Fred was about to head for North Platte, he said, "I'll be back if the weather holds." He hasn't missed a week of fishing in good weather for nine winters.

MISHMASH Attendance at Shub Museum of the Prairie Pioneer at Grand Island continues sharply up, with the first half of October exceeding all of October last year. The second part of goose season starts Nov. 2, and continues through Dec. 14. Antelope archery ended Oct. 31.
Those pesky ticks are hard nosed. Females are known to survive over 2 1/2 years without food. Spiders have been seen floating on threads of silk as far as 200 miles out to sea and as high as 2 1/2 miles above the earth. Wonder why ducks sometimes are hard to hit? Slow motion movies reveal that some ducks can turn over and fly upside down for short distances.

PLACES A GO-GO Silver Creek (Conservation City), on Nov. 4, for the Grand National Wood Bag Hunt. This inaugural event actually starts Thursday with filming of hunting scenes, but the big day for the public is Saturday, "Conservation Day."
On Saturday's busy agenda are an open trapshoot, open archery contest and muzzle-loading shoot, all at 10 a.m.; buffalo barbecue, 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.; pointing and retrieving exhibitions, 1 p.m.; falconry demonstration, 2 p.m.; challenge shoot; muzzleloaders vs. archers, 3:30 p.m.; and banquet, 7 p.m., featuring Roy Rogers, Bob Feller, Hamon Killbrew, five astronauts, Governor Exon, Harold Enslley, "The Sportsman's Friend" from Kansas City, and all members of the seven teams competing in the hunt.
Wildlife movies, taxidermy and gun displays, gun safety clinic, decoy carving, and Indian artifacts will be featured throughout the day.
Grand marshal is M. O. Steen, former director of the Game and Parks Commission.

Dub-a-dub Black Grub
Recently at Branched Oak Lake near Lincoln, Al Pugsley caught a bunch of good sized bluegill. However, when he got home and started dressing the panfish, he found black spots throughout the meat.
According to the Game Commission, the spots are probably black grubs the most common organism or parasite that would appear black in a fish. The grubs are not parasites of man and should be harmless to humans, particularly when properly cooked.

Families in County Smaller than Average

NEW YORK—How do Wayne County families compare in size with families in other sections of the country? Are they larger or smaller than they were 10 years ago?

Interest in the subject has been heightened recently from two directions. On the one hand, the ecologists, alarmed at what the present rate of population growth is doing to our natural resources and our environment, warn of the need to conserve and protect.

The Census Bureau, on the other hand, has just announced that, for the first time in history, the nation has had a six-month period of zero population growth.

What it means is that the number of births during that period just balanced the number of deaths.

In Wayne County, families tend to be smaller in size than in most communities. Census Bureau figures show that there are 299 persons per 100 households locally.

The average in the United States is 311 per 100 households and, in the state of Nebraska, 302.

Since 1960, local families have changed somewhat in size. At that time there were 320 persons per 100 households, as compared with the current ratio of 299 per 100.

Although the nation's birth rate has dropped temporarily to the replacement level of 2.1 children per woman, the real end of population growth cannot be expected until that rate has been maintained for a number of years, the experts point out.

The reason is that the number of births depends on both the rate and on the number of females of child-bearing age and younger in the population.

Not until every girl now born completes her child-bearing years and her daughters have held to the 2.1 rate, would births offset deaths on a permanent basis, they say.

When that happens, say the ecologists, a long step will have been taken to stop the steady deterioration of the environment through air pollution, water pollution and the like

Mrs. Dean Mann returned home from a Norfolk hospital Sunday where she had been a patient for two weeks.

Mrs. Hilda Lamaree, St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. John Morris, Wayne, were visitors Saturday afternoon in the Howard Iversen home.

The Bill Brochmollers, Big Springs, and Mrs. Frieda Dierichsen, Alice and Ralph, Scribner, spent Sunday in the Ivan Dierichsen home.

The first successful appendectomy operation on record was performed in England in 1736.

Portions of Bible To Be Distributed In Dixon County

The clergy of Dixon County will participate in the Key '73 Emphasis program, with the main objective being to distribute a portion of the Bible into every home in the county.

Area ministers voted to take part in the program during a recent meeting at Allen.

The portion referred to is that containing the Lutheran Acts in the language of the "Good News for Modern Man" from the American Bible Society.

The Rev. J. B. Choate, pastor of the United Methodist Churches at Puta and Allen, is the coordinator for the project.

He said 2,500 copies had been ordered and will be distributed by volunteers from the area churches. Each church will share between $10 to $15 of the cost.

The Interchurch Ministries of Nebraska is promoting the Bible distribution.

Halloween Winners

Industrial Proponents Seek Council's Help

In breaking the vote, Hall said storm sewers are very necessary improvements and the schedule is as fair as one can be worked out.

In other action the council agreed to take several steps toward helping Wayne Industries. It developed its industrial tract of land on the east edge of the city.

Bob Merchant, president of the group, told the council that with the city's help in developing the tract the group might be able to attract new industry.

He asked the city to consider providing sewer and water to the area, helping plot the land, working toward getting federal funds to help develop the tract and upping the city's financial contribution to the group from 3 of a mill to the legal limit of one mill.

Mayor Hall said the council will consider the requests, possibly taking action on the case next for more funds when the next budget is drawn up.

Learned from the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission that the Vets Club in Wayne will be forced to close for eight days starting Nov. 27 for selling to a non-member.

Agreed to have Tom McClain, Trust officer with State National Bank and Trust Co., work with the city attorney in drawing up a pension plan which councilmen can consider adopting to cover all city employees. Fee for his services will be $100.

Increased monthly rental fees for the old hangars at the airport from $25 to $30 and set $40 as the monthly fee for the six new hangars. The council will consider putting in hard surfacing aprons to the hangars at the Nov. 14th meeting.

Opened bids for a new two yard tractor loader for the street department. Lowest of seven bids turned in was from Mid-Continent Equipment Co. of Sioux City. Its bid, considering trade-in value of the present loader, was $22,899. Bids were sent to committee for recommendation.

Agreed to stand by its decision to charge Gibson's Store $261.32 for an electric meter supplied by the city for the building. Councilmen said the city has followed a policy of charging for the oversized meters in the past and should not change now.

Completed in mid September, the building is the base for the new trade and industries training program implemented at the school this fall.

Students enrolled in the program are taught basics of welding, small engine work, auto mechanics and house construction. Instructor is Randall Shaw.

Assisting Shaw in explaining the program and the facilities at the open house were students Larry Walker, Steve Deck, Brian Hoffman, Doug Lage and Ed Sienemann. Refreshments were provided for visitors by the students in the home economics department.

Over 50 persons from Orchard, Coleridge, Pierce, Petersburg, Carroll, Wayne, Pennington, Haskins, Wakefield and Winside, went through the facilities.

Which Hand?

Five-year-old Kraig Dolph puts out his hands for some free candy Tuesday during the West Elementary school parade at Wakefield. But Don Dubbs of the Cornhusker Cafe doesn't know where to put the candy. About 100 students from grades K-3 participated in the afternoon show while some of the town merchants supplied the children with candy. Also handing out the good stuff is Betty Sodenberg of the Fair Store.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

Government Studies

The U. S. Department of Transportation has come up with the average cost-per-mile of driving an automobile at 14 cents for a standard four-door sedan, 11 cents for a two-door compact and somewhat under 10 cents for the "sub-compact."

The Department of Transportation study listed average costs over a 10-year, 100,000-mile period. It said $2,787 would go for gasoline, $2,147 for maintenance, $1,350 for insurance, $1,800 for parking and tolls and $1,319 for taxes.

On the surface, it would appear that persons outside the metropolitan areas could erase a good share of the $1,800 allotted for parking and tolls.

However, the study obviously "forgot" one small item. Tires. That little oversight would be a major item over 100,000 miles of driving.

It also comes up short for most persons on mileage estimates, allowing for only 10,000 miles a year.

Your costs, therefore, are likely to be higher for total upkeep, but miles over the 10,000 per year estimate could change the cost-per-mile average.

It is relatively simple to keep track of your own total expenses, plus depreciation, and dividing that figure into the number of miles driven, which will give the actual cost per mile of vehicle operation.

In other words, you can junk the whole U. S. Department of Transportation study findings if you want to come up with accurate figures in your own case.

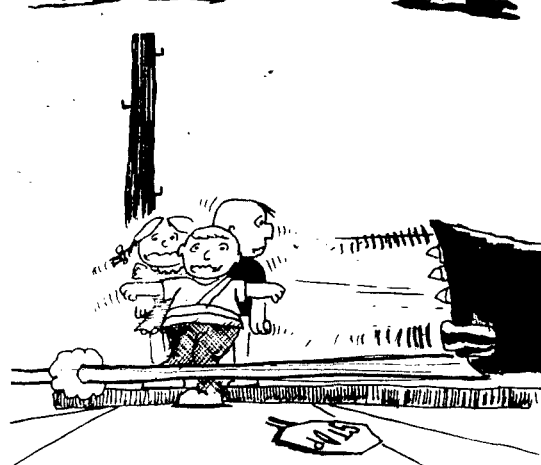

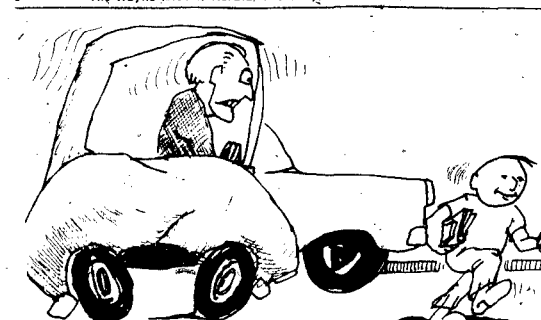

Isn't that too often the case with government studies? Believe it or not, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has proposed a $23,000 study to find out why little tots fall off tricycles, according to the editor of the Goodland, Kan., News.

Title of the study, as reported by Associated Press, is "The Evaluation and Parameterization of Stability and Safety Performance Characteristics of Two and Three-Wheeler Vehicular Toys for Riding."

The Kansas editor, who has a small tot who keeps falling off his tricycle, said he already had found the cause of that particular problem and "I will happily pass along the findings—for nothing—Uncle Sam wants it."

The startling answer was that the child was simply too small to be riding a tricycle yet. The problem solved itself in another year.

And, it didn't cost him $23,000, either.

Capital News
State Tax Collection May Be Federal Chore

LINCOLN—Uncle Sam may someday start collecting Nebraska's state income tax, but it won't be soon.

State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters is cool toward the idea, although he concedes there could be some economies in having the federal Internal Revenue Service gather the state's taxes at the same time it picks up its own.

But Peters says the state would have to sacrifice much of the control it now has over its tax system and, he says, that may be too big a price to pay.

The possibility of transferring the collection job to Uncle Sam has arisen with the passage by Congress of the revenue sharing act.

Contained in that law is a provision for federal collection of state personal income taxes. At the earliest, the provision would be implemented until the first of 1974, but it probably will be later than that.

At least two states representing at least five per cent of the federal tax liability must sign collection agreements with IRS before the federal officials can begin.

Peters predicted it would be a while before those requirements are met, although he said many 1973 legislators probably would be considering the possibility.

State Power Cut
Under the federal collection system as it now is contemplated, Peters said, the only decisions which would remain on the state level are, whether there will be a state personal income tax and what the rate would be.

"I'm not taking a firm position on this (possibility) until we get all the data in," the tax commissioner said. "When I do take a position, I want to be able to spell it out. While I think it's good enough for my own purposes to object just because of the transfer of control to the federal government, I don't think that's adequate for the policymakers."

Peters said his staff currently is preparing a detailed report for one group of policymakers—the Legislative Council's Revenue Committee.

"I think they should know about it," he said.

Federal collection, the tax commissioner said, would present some cash flow problems for the state. Federal officials would have up to 30 days to return to Lincoln money collected from Nebraska taxpayers, costing the state the use of the money for its own expenditures and the possibility of investing it for interest.

Furthermore, he said, the provisions of the statute say the federal officials would have the "sole discretion" in determining how much to hold back from its collections to cover refunds.

Some Problems
Peters said the state now may use any of its general fund revenues—from the sales tax or any other source—to cover refunds. It could cause some problems, he said, if the Washington officials decide they want to keep large amounts of income tax cash on hand.

The Nebraska also expressed some doubts about the ability of IRS to handle the additional job of collecting state taxes.

IRS "isn't blessed with an overabundant budget," he said, and is "really strained to do its own work."

In addition, Peters said, many federal tax agents have been put to work to help administer the anti-inflation policies of Phase II.

In any case, he said, the personal income tax is the easiest tax the state has to administer, so turning the job over to the federal government wouldn't really be saving his office that much work.

Rate-Setting Delayed
Peters also serves as a member of the State Board of Equalization, which lists among its duties the annual setting of state sales and income tax rates.

The deadline is Nov. 15. The rates currently are 2 1/2 per cent on sales, 1 1/2 per cent on personal income and 3 per cent on corporate income. (The corporations pay a share of gross income, while individuals pay a portion of their federal liability.)

To the Editor

We hear constantly "Why don't the Wayne area shoppers buy their supplies in Wayne instead of out of town?"

Then last weekend, the rural area of Wayne was left out in getting the Monday's Wayne Herald on time to read the Veterans Day Blitz sales of the Wayne stores.

The Thursday, Oct. 19, Herald said the newspaper would arrive a day ahead, so Saturday noon I raced to the rural mailbox to get the Wayne Herald to read the sales—and no Wayne Herald in the box.

I asked other rural subscribers and nobody received it on Saturday. So, all the city subscribers had advantages of reading about the Veterans Day Blitz sales.

The rural people received the Wayne Herald on Tuesday, after the sales were over.

Why didn't the Wayne merchants advertise the Veterans Day sales in Thursday, Oct. 19th, newspaper, so the rural people could save some money, too? Why???

So, why should we patronize only the Wayne stores, when the rural people get cheated like this event?

A Rural Lady
(Editor's Note: The Oct. 23rd issue of the newspaper was printed and delivered Oct. 20 to the Wayne Post Office for two reasons - to give employees a three-day weekend and to get the papers to all subscribers by Saturday in time for them to take advantage of the Veterans Day specials on Monday, Oct. 23. A mistake by a Star route driver resulted in the rural route papers ending up in Norfolk rather than being left in Wayne for distribution and delivery the next day.)

No Secret Voting in Early-day America

Voting in American elections once was a openly art that sometimes required self-defense.

The 85 million citizens expected to go to the polls Nov. 7 will ballot in privacy and on the same day. It wasn't always so, the National Geographic Society says.

Voice voting was widespread in the American colonies and continued in some states after the Revolution. Men gathered at a polling place and announced their choices aloud to an election judge. A bullying crowd greeted the votes with cheers and jeers.

The noisy public vote was replaced in New York State by a secret ballot in 1852, but privacy was discarded the following year on the ground that it "insulted the manliness and independence of the laboring man."

Paper Replaces Voice
Secret voting in national elections became federal law in 1875, but Kentucky held state elections by voice vote until 1891.

Paper ballots were used as early as 1634 in Massachusetts. But these and later ballots were unofficial and provided by the voter himself and were not necessarily marked in secret.

parties printed them for the convenience of their supporters. Each party produced its ballot on distinctively colored paper so poll watchers could see at a glance whether the party faithful were indeed faithful.

So many varieties, shapes, and colors of paper ballots were used—often to deceive—that the United States went all the way to Australia for a new system. It borrowed the Australian ballot, an honest listing of candidates, officially printed, and intended to be secretly marked.

"Kangaroo voting," as it was first called, was adopted by Louisville, Kentucky and Massachusetts in 1888, then by New York, Michigan and other states.

However, ballot reform came only after election day uniformity.

Variety of Days
Originally, each state could fix its own presidential election day so long as it fell at least 34 days before the first Wednesday in December, the date presidential electors met.

Lack of uniformity led to scandals such as "pipe laying"—the practice of sending political gangs across state lines to vote more than once on the different election days.

In 1845, Congress passed a law setting the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November as presidential election day. November was selected as the most acceptable month.

"Harvesting is over then, and winter has not yet made the roads impassable," said Ohio Representative Alexander Duncan in writing the 1845 law.

It was felt that election day shouldn't be the first of November because businessmen like to make out accounts that day. Public sentiment was against Sunday voting Monday was ruled out because many persons lived a day's journey from polling places and objected to Sunday travel.

Thus the present election day was chosen. It never falls on the first nor later than Nov. 8.

Time to Blow The Whistle

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States believes that a bill recently introduced in the Senate by Senator Bill Brock (R-Tenn.) deserves the support of every taxpayer in the country.

Put simply, the bill, S. 3984, is designed to curb unchecked expenditures of the Federal Government. It calls upon Congress to do the following:

1. Project all major federal expenditures over a five-year period.
2. Evaluate all major federal programs at least once every three years (zero-based budgeting).
3. Prioritize every proposed major federal program.
4. Designate a joint Congressional committee to evaluate the federal budget in terms of priorities.
5. Subject federal programs financed through trust funds to the annual appropriation process just as other tax-supported programs.

Employees Hired at 176 County Business Firms

NEW YORK: Oct. 22—According to a government study, just released, the number of business establishments in operation in Wayne county is relatively high.

In proportion to population, there are more of them in being in the local area than in many other sections of the country.

The facts and figures are contained in a report, issued by the Department of Commerce covering every county in the United States. It provides information on the number of people employed in each community, on their distribution and on the size of local payrolls.

The data is based upon tax reports, submitted by employers to the Social Security Administration, covering the past year's operations.

ally, 88 per cent are in that category. With regard to the employment picture, the report shows that Wayne County businesses provided gainful employment for 1,002 people in the year in jobs covered by Social Security.

Not included in this category are farm workers, government personnel, self-employed persons and domestic workers. As for wages and salaries paid to people in the local area, they have risen 1.1% yearly.

As a result, despite the fact that the amount of unemployment, locally and elsewhere across the country, has been above normal, the income picture as a whole has improved.

Payrolls subject to Social Security tax reached a new high in the year of $3,780,000. This compares with the total three years ago of $3,236,000.

Ballot Box Is Only Way To Cut Federal Budget

As executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Arch Booth serves as a spokesman for American business.

WASHINGTON—Have you heard the one about the Texas dachshund that was so long when someone stepped on his tail, he didn't feel it until the next day?

When it comes to government spending, we Americans are a lot like that dachshund—it takes so long for the "pain" message to filter through the economy that by the time we know we've been hurt, it's hard to figure out who to blame.

Well, this time, I'll tell you. On Oct. 17 and 18, our representatives in Congress took two steps that will lead to a tax-increase in the 1973-74 period, or a sharp increase in inflation, or both.

Cut this column and paste it on your bulletin board, as a reminder, so you'll know when you suffer the consequences in a year or so, that it was the men in Congress right now who did it to you.

Representative Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who led the unsuccessful fight for a spending ceiling, had this to say about the issue:

"I believe the American people are aware of what is going on. I know the American people want something done about it. If they cannot expect to get it out of this Congress, my guess is that they are going to elect a Congress on Nov. 7 that they think will work in the direction of containing inflation, of containing federal spending."

How about it, Americans?

Scientists Puzzled by Parasites' Immunity System to Destruction

Bacteria, viruses, single-celled organisms such as malarial and minute many-celled worms such as cause schistosomiasis all are classified as parasites, because they grow only in other organisms. When they grow in humans, they may cause disease.

The body defends itself against such diseases by means of the immune system. When the immune system senses incoming foreign organisms it produces antibodies that are tailor-made to cause the destruction of each particular organism. The organisms, of course, fight back for survival. And some of them succeed—enough to cause disease and enough that the organisms have survived in evolution. How do they succeed?

One-celled organisms and viruses probably rely heavily on numbers: the immune system might kill 99.99 per cent of the invading organisms, but the few that remain could still multiply themselves quickly into a new horde. Because the survivors of the first antibody attack more than likely have some inborn resistance to the antibody, the new horde is likewise resistant. Several cycles of this sort can lead to an organism that is not bothered by the antibody. Thus the recurrent fevers characteristic of malaria are caused by successive generations of the parasite, each more resistant than the last.

This sort of escape route is not open to multi-celled organisms, however. Even if the antibody is only 50 per cent effective against the cells of the parasite, the creature certainly will die. Conceivably an entire multi-celled invader could survive the initial immune response, but the odds against such a thing are enormous. Yet disease from multi-celled parasites is common so they must have ways of avoiding the immune response.

One possibility, apparently used by the worm that caused schistosomiasis, is that the foreign organism coats itself with molecules from the host and thus appears benign to the host's immune system.

Still another possibility is that the immune system trips itself up. This can happen when one factor in the system binds to, but does not kill, the parasite. This event unfortunately prevents the other factor from recognizing and killing the parasite.

These problems are important to the lives of millions of people around the world—the victims of malaria, influenza and many other diseases, including cancer. Just as the immune system locks on the multi-celled parasite as an outsider—and should be trying to kill it—so it also should be trying to kill the cancer cells which displays "foreign" characteristics.

Yet too often the cancer takes over. There must be ways in which cancer escapes the immune system. Perhaps cancer cells use some of the escape mechanisms known from other parasites, or perhaps it has a few tricks of its own. Scientists at the Salk Institute, in San Diego, and elsewhere are studying immune response to cancer as well as the causes of cancer.

Which escape mechanism does each parasite use? Are there additional escape mechanisms not yet known to science? These are the central questions which must be answered.

(One of a series provided by The Salk Institute, San Diego, Calif., to improve public understanding of science.)

The Agent's Angle

by Harold Ingalls

here in the late 1960's. From the 1970 feed grain crop, excluding wheat, between 5 million and 6 million tons were shipped to other states.

For each million tons of feed grain, one of the following can be produced:

- 3 million market hogs
- 667,000 choice slaughter steers from 700 pound yearlings.

2.33 billion pounds of milk.

The wealth generated at each step of producing and processing these products is lost when grain is shipped out of Nebraska. For maximum economic benefit to the people of Nebraska, the goal should be to market everything produced on Nebraska soil as a retail ready product.

In addition to an abundant feed supply, Nebraska has several other resources in her favor. Having been a key livestock producing state for the past five decades, the state has the experience necessary for expanded livestock production. Satisfactory weather for live stock production, and water capacity to triple the number of acres under irrigation are other important resources.

The goal of the Nebraska Livestock Development Program is to direct these resources towards maximum economic growth. To do this Nebraskans will try to grab a lion's share of the new U.S. business in beef and pork production and processing in the next decade. It has been suggested that Nebraska try for one third of the increase in U.S. cattle feeding, one fourth the new U.S. feeder cattle production, and one fifth of the new U.S. pork production for the next decade.

George David, chairman of the Coordinating committee for the Livestock Development Program states, "I am convinced that if Nebraska's hog production were to be increased, we would see more hog processors build plants here."

Producing enough feeder calves to stock Nebraska feedlots has become a crucial problem facing the state. David feels that, "If we can grow our own feeder cattle, then our beef industry can continue to grow normally, and in so doing, attract closely allied industry that will furnish employment for the people of the state. This will insure continual economic growth of our state."

HUNTING SEASON

Negligence can be extremely costly when the neglect involves firearms. And hunting season can bring out a rash of negligence in gun safety when people come in contact with their firearms only once a year for hunting season. So when you pick up that gun, pick up a few rules to keep in mind.

1. Never keep a firearm loaded in the house. If you need to try a shell in the gun, use a dummy load or go outside and point the gun up in the air.

2. The automatic first step in gun safety is to make sure the gun is not loaded except when hunting or target shooting. Always check the breach before handing a gun over to anyone.

3. Do not shoot until you are sure of your target! This holds true for any game.

4. Point the muzzle in a safe direction. When in the field, point the gun into the air and never point at a person.

5. Never carry a loaded shot gun in a car. The laws against this practice were prompted by many needless accidents. A rooster pheasant isn't worth the cost or time saved.

6. When crossing a fence, remember two rules. If you are alone, unload the gun and put it through the fence, then cross the fence and reload your gun. If you are with a companion, let one person cross the fence and then pass the guns to that person while the second crosses.

7. Always ask permission when hunting on someone else's land. It makes for better public relations and lets the farmer know how many hunters are on his land and where they are in case of an accident.

The following article is taken from the quarterly published by the Nebraska College of Agriculture.

The wealth generating capacity of Nebraska's feed resources is not being fully used and it doesn't take University President D. B. Varner long after he arrived in Nebraska to realize this. This realization sparked the beginning of the Nebraska Livestock Development Program in 1971.

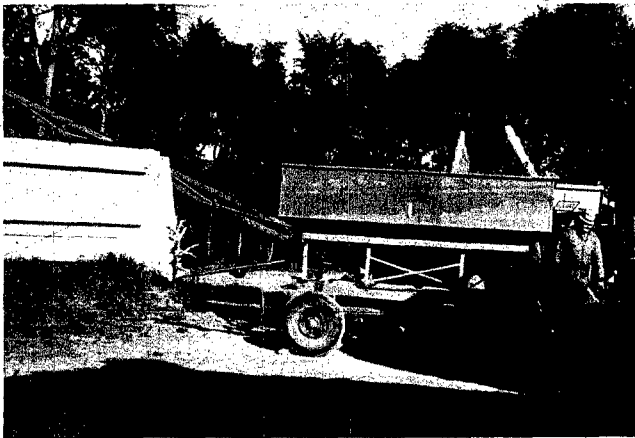

Shortly after Varner arrived in early 1970, he was asked to help with a conference on the shortage of boxcars for hauling grain out of Nebraska. He relates, "It occurred to me that we were involved in the wrong project. We shouldn't be concerned with how to get grain out of Nebraska, but with how we can market this grain with our own livestock here in the state of Nebraska."

Nebraska has the feed supply today to more than DOUBLE its cattle feeding enterprise. However, Nebraskans used only 50 per cent of the grain produced.

Glassmeyers Host Farmers

Between 15 and 20 farmers turned out Sunday for a field day at the Floyd Glassmeyer farm four miles south of Wayne.

Glassmeyer put on the field day to give farmers an opportunity to compare different kinds of corn grown on his land.

Corn Storage Experiment

High moisture shelled corn, ground corn and alfalfa haylage has recently been mixed together in a bunker silo at the Northeast Station at Concord. "We will be testing how it keeps and how it feeds," said Walt Tolman, district beef specialist. Previous experiments have indicated that high moisture shelled corn produces rapid and efficient gains in beef cattle but is difficult to store in bunkers.

Farmers Still Waiting To Harvest Big Crop

Wet weather continues to prevent farmers from harvesting one of the best corn crops ever produced in the Wayne area.

Harold Ingalls, Wayne County agricultural agent, said Monday that only about 15 per cent of the corn produced for feed has been harvested.

However, most of the corn cut for silage and that harvested with a high moisture content has already been taken from the fields, he said.

This year's corn crop should be one of the best ever produced in the Wayne area, Ingalls said.

4-H Club News

Dads Helpers
Dads Helpers 4-H Club met Oct. 16 at the Northeast Station. It was decided to begin all meetings at 8 p.m. and a discussion was held on organizing a singing group.

Officers elected for the coming year are: Brain Bloom, president; Clayton Hartman, vice president; Randy Bloom, secretary; Richard Abts, treasurer; Adel Kessinger, news reporter.

Next meeting will be Nov. 20 at the Northeast Station. The Louis Abts and Floyd Bloom families will serve lunch.

Adel Kessinger, news reporter.

Farmers Invited To Banquet

Farmers in the Wayne area are now receiving invitations to the first appreciation banquet ever put on by local businessmen.

Lee Foote, co-chairman of the Nov. 18 event said businessmen throughout the city are personally asking farmers they know to attend the banquet.

He said the dinner, slated for 7 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Union, will hopefully become an annual event. It is being sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, with the Chamber's agricultural committee heading up work on the affair. Serving with Foote as co-chairman is Arnold Marr.

Master of ceremonies for the dinner will be Creighton Knau, former farm director for Radio WMAX in Yankton. Knau is now with a farm construction company.

There should be numerous farmers harvesting 100 bushels to the acre on dryland plots, he said.

Many farmers who have irrigation systems on their farms used irrigation sparsely this year because of the adequate moisture during the growing period, according to Ingalls, and some irrigators did not use their systems at all.

"I can't recall when we have had this good a crop county wide," said Ingalls.

Farmers who planted soybeans this spring should also be happy with their crops, the agent said, because reports indicate that the crop should yield between 30 and 35 bushels to the acre on the average.

Ingalls said there have been reports of from 15 to 30 bushels to the acre.

About 90 per cent of the soybean crop has been harvested by now, according to Ingalls, but the soybeans that remain in the fields are not much dryer now than they were a few weeks ago.

The corn that remains in the fields is also drying slowly, he said, because the grain needs winds and hot weather to dry it out once the first freeze arrives.

Although the farmers are probably impatient to get into the fields, about the only dangers to the corn still standing are high winds or heavy snows which would knock the stalks down, Ingalls noted.

1972 Soybean Crop Can Be State's 2nd Largest

Nebraska farmers expect to harvest the second largest soybean crop in history this year, and the domestic and foreign markets are ready and willing, says a University of Nebraska Extension agricultural economist.

Dr. Mike Turner says this year's price will probably exceed the $3-per-bushel average price of the 1971-72 marketing year possibly by five to 10 per cent. Last year's price was the highest since 1947, he noted.

Nebraska's total crop is estimated at 24-26 million bushels, 53 per cent above last year's figure, yet still below the 1969 record of 31.5 bushels.

The United States expects a record crop of 1.317 billion bushels, with an average yield of 78.7 bushels per acre. This 10 per cent increase more than offsets Turner said, the reduced carryover stocks, which amounted to only 72 million bushels as of Sept. 1, the least in six years. The record carryover was in 1969, when 324 million bushels were on hand.

Continued strong demand, Turner said, will ensure a usage of approximately 1.3 billion bushels this year, placing carryover next Sept. 1 again near this year's low operating level.

Despite the high prices, Turner said there is nothing but expansion in store for soybean exports, with the world requirement for protein increasing rapidly and the reduction of fish meal availability.

The total of soybean exports are expected to reach a new high, possibly by as much as 20 per cent above 416 million bushels shipped during the 1971-72 marketing year.

A new dimension in the export outlook this year is the U.S.S.R.'s purchase of U.S. soybeans, which Turner said will involve about one million metric tons. The entry of Great Britain into the European economic community and a general increase in foreign soybean consumption are also factors in the ever growing export demand, he said.

Feeders Convention To Be at South Sioux

The Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association has announced that the state convention of the Livestock Feeders Trade Group will be held in South Sioux City, Dec. 4, 6, at the Marina Inn.

President Tom Baxter of Grand Island said that special state planning committees will meet at 2 p.m. on Dec. 4 and again at 10 a.m. on Dec. 5 just prior to the official opening general session at 2 p.m. on Dec. 5.

Oscar Bredthauer of Grand Island, president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, will be the opening speaker. He will be followed by State Senator Jerome Warner of Waverly with a talk on "State Aid to Schools." Also, on the program is Dr. Roger Mandigo, University of Nebraska meats specialist on the subject of "Meat Taste and Tenderness." Dr. Hudson Gimp, USDA researcher from the Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center will wind up the program with a talk on "Cattle Type and its Effect on Feedlot Performance."

The following day according to Baxter, will feature John Meitz, executive vice president of the Kansas Livestock Association, speaking on "Agricultural Labor Laws." Also, on the program will be Robert Swaggerty of Fremont, on demonstrating the art of "Implanting." Steve Grosserode of Grosserode Cattle Co. of Milford will tell the group how they operate their feedyard.

The annual banquet will be held Tuesday night, Dec. 5, in the Grand Ballroom of the Marina Inn. Radio, TV, and recording personality Key Allen will entertain at the banquet. He will be aided by the "Men of the West." Guest speaker for the banquet will be Dr. Robert Spitzer, president of Murphy Products Co. of Burlington, Wis. Dr. Spitzer is well known as an outstanding agricultural leader and speaker throughout the

Fertilizer A 'Bonus' In Pasture

With the proper fertilizer used on irrigated forages for pasture, the farmer rancher can pasture more animals on given acres, according to Dr. G. W. Rehm, University of Nebraska Extension agronomist at the NU Northeast Station, Concord.

Speaking during the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy, Oct. 29-Nov. 3, Rehm said that forage yields recorded over a three-year period showed a substantial increase in production through the use of fertilizer nitrogen and phosphorus.

Compared to non-fertilized forage, the use of combinations of nitrogen and phosphorus produced up to 250 per cent increases in yield," Rehm said.

A bonus to the increased yields was the increased production in protein. Rehm said that nitrogen and phosphorus fertilizers produced six times the protein normally found in an acre of forage which was irrigated but not fertilized.

Rehm cautioned that the NU studies do not mean that individual animals will gain more on properly fertilized and irrigated forage. The additional forage does mean, however, that more animals can be pastured on given acres.

"This, then, translates into greater animal production and greater profits from an irrigated acre," Rehm said.

Ahmed, a famous old bull elephant that roams in and about Marasabit National Reserve in northern Kenya, receives presidential protection. He is so huge and distinctive that he cannot be mistaken, and President Jomo Kenyatta issued a decree that Ahmed "may under no circumstances be hunted or harassed by any person."

Plans Made to Be Changed

Plans are some of the vertebras in the backbone of any successful business. Farming is no exception of that rule. In fact, there is a great possibility that farmers were among the first to make use of it.

Farming is definitely not a fly by night business. It can't be done all in one day and then forgotten about such as a salesman selling his wares.

Planning fits in alongside work and financing to insure a successful operation. Yet few farmers can sit down and actually write or draw their plans on a sheet of paper. Chances are most of them would get quite irritable if they were required to put their next two or three years operation down in black and white.

Some technical engineer or draftsman would probably be appalled if he could see the complicated mass of plans a farmer usually has in his mind. And a farmer must have a tremendous amount of alterations for those plans.

Long before this year's harvest was assured or completed, you were thinking about the planting and harvesting of next year's crop. You've already signed a contract with Neighbor John to buy so many bushels of corn from him next spring. So you already know how many acres will be put to corn.

Unless, between now and then Uncle Sam changes his mind about how many acres will have to be left idle. Or what crops can be planted on the "idle acres."

When you sowed the oats this spring you were planning the hay crop for the next five years.

Unless, this fall, you didn't get a good stand of alfalfa for next year. And if the old alfalfa, which is only four years old, is still pretty good, you might plow up the new seeding and use the old field again. But if the aphids overlooked your new seeding and it looked better than the old seeding, you'll plow up the old alfalfa next spring.

There, again, may be another determining factor in the amount of bushels of corn that you'll need to buy from Neighbor John. But you won't worry about that because he usually has a few extra bushels of corn or knows of someone who needs the few bushels that you didn't take. Or so he says anyway.

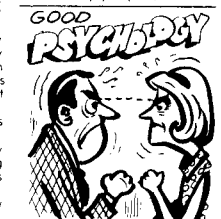

Most farmers aren't always completely aware of their planning during the summer. In any effort made toward harvesting and storing hay or grain is making plans for a snowy day. You also have to plan on how many snowy days there will be and how many little pigs that Old Momma Pig is going to be blessed with.

If you have an "open" winter and Momma Pig decides not to have a large family this time, you can always sell the unused grain or hay before the next harvest.

Or if the next harvest doesn't look very productive, you might need some of the stored grain for Momma Pig's next family.

But if Momma Pig has a big family this time and some of them look "motherly," you might decide to keep a few of them. Then you also have to make plans for adding to the tarrowing house.

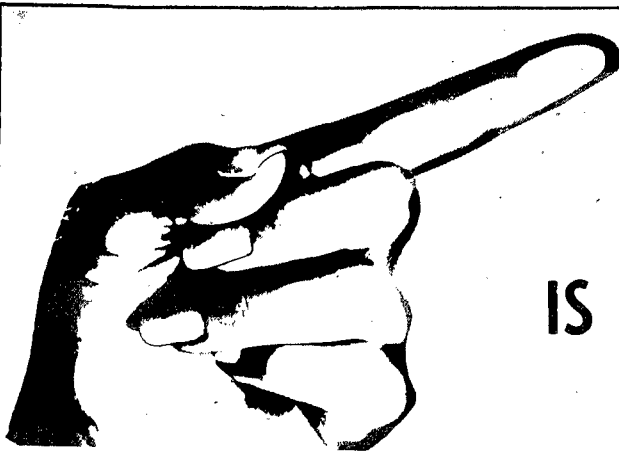

Plans also have to be made for Old Bossie. If you have enough grain to keep Bossie during the next year, chances are you'll add to the feeder

WSC Homecoming Highlights

Wayne State's homecoming Saturday included plenty of halftime activities — and antics — for fans who turned out to see the Wildcats dump Peru State for their first win in eight outings this season. Twirler Tancie Heckens of Emerson pranced beside the college band during the halftime ceremony. And the Wayne State Wildcat mascot plopped into Queen Kristy Maxwell's convertible, astonishing the queen and pleasing the fans.

ATTENTION VOTERS
Of Our County Court District:
(Antelope, Cuming, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton and Wayne Counties)

I am one of five candidates filed for County Judge for your counties. Under the new court reform laws, three will be elected from our seven-county district, so they must run in all seven counties.

I was born in West Point, and have been County Judge there since 1966. The other four candidates are from Norfolk. After 26 years in military service (Air Force pilot), I re-entered law school, graduating in 1963. I have since been the President of our Nebraska County Judges' Association and of our District Bar, and am a member of the Nebraska Bar, the American Bar, the Nebraska Juvenile Judges, American Trial Lawyers and the American Judicature Society.

I have been educated and trained for this type of work. Because our seven-county area is so large, I may not be able to meet each of you personally. I will appreciate your vote, and whatever other support you can give me. If elected, I will do my best to represent the people, under the law, providing the best justice I can.

JOSEPH F. HUNKER
Cuming County Judge
(Ordered and paid for by J. F. Hunker, 237 S. Farragut St., West Point, Nebraska)

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This Column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is damage from a flood or hurricane considered a casualty loss for federal income tax purposes?

A. Yes. Damage from a hurricane, flood or storm is considered a casualty loss if you actually sustained a loss. A personal casualty loss may be deductible to the extent that each loss exceeds $100. A casualty loss on business property or property held for the production of income is deductible in full, without regard to the $100 limitation. However, in both cases, the loss must be reduced by any insurance proceeds received or expected to be received. For further information, IRS Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses, and Thefts," may be obtained free by sending a postcard to your Internal Revenue Service office.

Arthur Forsberg returned home Friday from St. Luke's Hospital, Sioux City.

The Harold Johnson family, Papillion, and Roger Klausens and Jason and Mrs. Hilda Middleton, Laurel, were last Sunday dinner guests in the Kenneth Klausen home honoring the hostess' birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martindale, Grand Island, spent the weekend with Herman Ulechts in the Jerry Martindale home. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Martindale joined them for supper Friday and Saturday evenings.

Recent Move
Mr. and Mrs. Steve Martindale moved from the Vic Carlson apartment to the Clara Nelson house.

Damage Minor In Fire at NE Station

Smoke and fire damage was done to a small office building at the Northeast Station about noon Monday when fire broke out.

The damage to the building, located at the farmstead just east of the Station's main office building, was not major, according to Cal Ward, Station superintendent. He said damage would probably amount to a few hundred dollars.

The fire apparently originated in the furnace or in furnace pipes, according to Ward, and damaged the ceiling and walls of the frame building. The Concord fire department was called out to fight the fire.

When trapshooting was enjoyed on the Meyer farm at the south edge of town?
When Lowell Henney had the first skis in the area?
