

AHS Election Hoopla Ends in Booths

If Allen residents happened to walk through the hallways at Allen High School last week, probably many people would get the impression the school had turned into an election convention hall with all the paraphernalia of a Democrat or Republican gathering.

Barriers were all over the school walls telling classmates and friends alike to vote—but not for President Nixon or George McGovern. Instead, the candidates were for the Dixon County Government Day at the Ponca Courthouse this Wednesday.

Members of the two foes, Right On Party and The Liberation Party, were out in full force during the earlier part of the week campaigning for their choices. But the day of shouting and banner raising came to an end Friday when the students "went to the polls" and made their favorite candidates the school representatives for the 14 county government positions.

When the counting had finished and the signs were halfway torn down, the ROP group had won the majority of offices.

Leading the Right On Party was Julie Tighe for county superintendent; John Malmberg, assessor; Mary Peters, treasurer; Brenda Young, clerk of district court; Lorna Beck, judge; Craig Bloom, surveyor; Terry Noe, sheriff; Kent Sachau, agricultural extension agent; Jehiel Hassler, veterans service officer; and LeRay Lubberstedt, assistance director.

The remaining four offices, won by The Liberation party, went to Susan Kjer, county clerk; Stan Perry, attorney; Kim Hanson, supervisor, and Shelia Bok, reporter.

In Wakefield, the students voted into office recently were Roger Gustafson, county superintendent, Kris Kraemer, clerk; Kaye Dolph, assessor; Le Ann Hale, treasurer; Donna Grosz, clerk of district court; Doug Fisher, judge; Marcia Leonard, surveyor; Sam Ulechi, sheriff; Doug Soderberg, attorney; Judy Gustafson, agricultural extension agent; Dave Bodlak, veterans service officer; Joni Paul, assistance director; Rex Hansen, supervisor; and Lori Holm, reporter.

Ann Pedersen Picked For UN-L Program

Ann Pedersen, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Pedersen of Wayne, is one of four University of Nebraska-Lincoln students selected as the first participants in a new Student Intern Program in the Office of Student Affairs.

Ely Meyerson, dean of administration for Student Affairs and coordinator of the program, said each intern will work 15 hours a week during the balance of the academic year under direct supervision of a full-time professional staff member.

Miss Pedersen will work in the office of financial aids and scholarships.

"Each of the interns will have the opportunity to learn a wide array of leadership skills, practice effective human relations and learn of Student Affairs services and University structure," Meyerson said.

The interns, once trained, will be given actual assignments in their areas to test their newly learned skills. Also, the intern will be another means to secure student input into the development of Student Affairs services and policies," Meyerson added.

The interns were selected from a field of 50 applicants. Meyerson said the interns are upperclassmen who possess a wide variety of campus experiences that qualify them for the program.

Miss Pedersen, 20, is a junior in the School of Journalism. The recipient of a Nebraska Broadcasters Association scholarship, she has served as a member of the Student Senate, the Publications Board and chairperson of Human Rights.

She graduated from Laurel High School.

Ed Planning Night Set for WHS

Students from all over Northeast Nebraska are expected to attend Tuesday's educational planning night at Wayne High School.

The fourth annual program will attract representatives from 19 business schools, colleges, trade schools and beauty colleges.

Main purpose of the evening is to give students an idea of the numerous avenues they may follow after graduation from high school.

Students are expected from Pender, Wadsworth, Wakefield, Emerson, Hubbard, Hartington, Cedar Catholic, Hartington High, Allen, Ponca, Coleridge, Randolph, Laurel, Pierce, Plainview, Osmond and Wayne.

Ken Carlson, guidance counselor at Wayne High who initiated the annual programs four years ago, said the evening program is very valuable to students trying to decide what to do after high school. Parents should benefit also, he said.

The annual program began as a vocational night with the main purpose to help students who did not plan to attend college, he said. However, this year there will be representatives from several colleges as well as trade schools and the like, he noted.

Business schools represented will include ones at Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Rapid City and Sioux Falls.

Colleges sending representatives will be Morningside College of Sioux City, Kearney State College, Wayne State College and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Trade schools which will be represented are Gateway Electronics Institute in Omaha, Blair College of Medical and Dental Assistants at Omaha, University of Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture at Curtis, Northeast

Nebraska Technical Community College in Norfolk, Nebraska Technical College at Millard, Western Nebraska Technical College in Sidney and Western Iowa Technical College in Sioux City.

Also represented will be Northeastern Nebraska Junior College and School of Practical Nursing at Norfolk.

Beauty colleges from Sioux City and Fremont will be represented also.

The program, open to both students and parents, will start at 7:30 p.m. with students being offered to meet with three representatives during 30-minute sessions. Students wishing to meet with only one or two representatives may do so. Short introductory and closing talks are planned.

21 At WH Cited For Citizenship

Twenty-one students at Wayne High School have been named to the citizenship Honor Roll for the first quarter, school officials report.

The honor roll, first of its kind in the school system, is an attempt by the school "to give recognition for something other than academic performance," said Deryl Lawrence, high school principal. Making the citizenship roll does not depend upon grade point, he noted.

The honor roll will also emphasize the need to develop good citizenship traits while still young, according to Lawrence.

Students are rated in 10 citizenship areas by each teacher, with ratings being outstanding, satisfactory and unsatisfactory. Students receiving 20 or more outstanding and no unsatisfactory ratings in their classes are named to the honor roll.

Making the honor roll this quarter were:

Seniors: Sally Kenny, Joyce Hau.

Juniors: Judy Bargholz, Debra Bodenstedt, Patricia Emry, Stephanie Mendyk, Ann Owens, Sophomores—Patricia Albertsen, Lori Gruenke, Carol Peterson, Julie Stephens, Carol Witte.

Freshmen—Donn Dutton, Rhonda Keisler, Paul Kesber, Paul Mallette, Kris Nedergaard, Damon Rockwell, Mike Schmol dt, Jo Tomrdle, Sue Owens.

Legion Elects 2 Wayne Men

Two Wayne men were elected as Wayne County commander and vice commander Friday night at the Wayne County American Legion annual meeting.

LeRoy Clark, 1217 Pearl, was named county commander while Wayne County Commissioner and selected vice commander by 15 members of the Wayne, Wadsworth and Carroll American Legion Posts, said County Adjutant Chris Bargholz.

During the business meeting the group decided to join the Auxiliary to sponsor a bingo party for the veterans at the Norfolk Veterans Home. Also, Wayne will be the site of next year's annual meeting.

UF Drive Goes Past $8,000

Donations to the 1972 United Fund Drive have climbed to $8,700, report drive officials.

Bob Jordan, member of the board of directors of the drive, said calls are now being made to persons who were not contacted during the regular drive to ask if they wish to donate.

Anybody who wishes to contribute and has not been contacted by today (Monday) should call the Wayne Herald.

Jordan said donations from those persons may push the drive total to near $9,000. Last year the drive resulted in collections totaling about $6,300.

Council Considers Work at Airport, Hospital Access

Surfacing taxiways at the city's airport and an access road to the proposed new hospital near Wayne State College were discussed during a special meeting of the Wayne city council Thursday afternoon.

The city attorney was authorized to talk with officials of the State Aeronautics Commission in Lincoln Friday to see if the proposed work at the airport would meet with their regulations.

Councilmen learned at the special meeting that about $6,000 or $7,000 would have to be spent to blacktop approximately 1,200 feet of taxiway at the airport. That is the cost if the city would do some of the grading work at the site, they were told by a councilman who met with a contractor who could do the work.

The contractor will work in the Wayne area until Dec. 1. If good weather continues so the council should decide as soon as possible if it wants the work done before winter sets in, the council was told.

The council will check further into the possibility of purchasing private land near the proposed hospital in order to provide the second of two access roads to the facility. The land being considered for purchase would amount to about 17 acres and would be large enough to include a park once the road is constructed.

Mayor Kent Hall told the council that the city is going to have to cooperate if there are to be two access roads to the hospital, one of the requirements if federal funds are to be obtained to help with construction.

Touchy Items Face Council Tuesday Night

Several controversial subjects will face the Wayne city council during Tuesday night's regular meeting.

Among the items on the agenda are a public hearing on the request for rezoning of a strip of land on East Seventh Street, consideration of the city's ban on parking between 3 and 5 a.m. and discussion on the city's recent move to permit persons who buy a permit to haul refuse for hire in the city.

Also on the agenda is the city attorney's report on his findings concerning how the city should make assessments to pay for paving half a block of Ninth Street just west of St. Mary's Church.

Also discussed will be the city's dog ordinance, blacktopping of taxiways at the airport and the city's six-year street improvement program.

Paula and Friends

PAULA PFEIFER, 1973 March of Dimes National Poster Child, poses for pictures with Wayne volunteers Marge Lundstrom, left, and Carol Witte at a regional meeting of the voluntary health organization held recently in Omaha. Paula, 5, was born with open spine, partially paralyzing her legs, and club feet. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pfeifer, Tulsa, Okla. The National Foundation-March of Dimes is the largest source of private support for research, medical services and health education aimed at preventing birth defects. Other Wayne County volunteers at the meeting were County Chairman Rodan Witte and Mrs. Bill Corbitt.

Poppy Sales Net $164

Wayne VFW Auxiliary members and children who assisted them collected $164.82 with their Poppy Day sales Thursday, according to Mrs. Charles Sleskmann, chairman.

Children who canvassed with the auxiliary members included Debbie Wert, Rochelle Friend, Lori Prenger, Jeff Moore, Jeffrey Jorgensen, Kurt Powers, Mark Middleton, Perry Managers, Roger Sabs, Robert Lamb, Robin Turner, Rick-Luit, Rod Koch, Terry Hamilton and Scott Havener.

Shaunna Roberts, this year's Poppy Girl, also participated in sales, and will compete in May in the District Poppy Girl contest to be held in Norfolk. Judging will be on the contestant's poppy costume, talent, knowledge of Americanism and patriotism and the number of poppies she sold. Shaunna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Roberts of Carroll.

Inside: 'A Closer Look'

There is a lot more work which goes into an election than many people realize.

That point is brought out in a regular column which makes its first appearance on the editorial page of this issue of The Wayne Herald. The column is titled "A Closer Look" and is written by the editor of the Herald, Norvin Hansen. It will appear in Monday editions of the newspaper.

"Sportsbeat," a regular column written by staff writer Bob Barlett, will begin appearing regularly in Thursday editions of the newspaper starting this week.

The two columns are efforts by the newspaper to give an interesting and informative reading about local events and actions which otherwise might not be carried in regular news stories.

VISTA Workers Seeking Town's Help in Helping Town

Two young women from New York are trying to pinpoint some of the problems in the Wayne area, in hopes of helping solve them.

The two, Katharine Cliff, 23, of Kendall, N. Y., and Barbara Bizilia, 21, of Waverly, N. Y., are the latest VISTA workers to be assigned to Wayne County.

About three years ago two young men worked for a year in Wayne as Volunteers in Service to America, helping establish the community's senior citizens center.

The two New Yorkers hope to be of similar service during the year they are located here, but first they say they have to find out from the people living here how they might help.

"Now we're just meeting people to find out what the community needs," says Miss Cliff, holder of a bachelor's science degree from a New York college. "It's not our place to come in and say you need this or this," she adds.

Several years ago VISTA workers came into towns and set up programs for local residents without much help locally," the two said. But the programs usually fell apart as soon as the VISTA people left, they added.

They hope they can involve local residents and officials enough in programs they want for the town so the programs will continue in years to come.

What are some of the things Wayne people have mentioned as problem areas during the three weeks the volunteers have been in the community? They said a few residents have cited the need for some type of homemaker service where persons go into homes of elderly people for an hour or so each day. That service might be able to help the elderly out of hospitals or nursing homes, they said.

Other persons in the area have cited the need for more doctors in the area. Hospital facilities seem inadequate and the local hospital is small, they said, but that should change with construction of the new hospital in Wayne.

Also mentioned by local residents as areas where work needs to be done are the seeming lack of communication between the college and community, and the possible need for a day care center where working mothers may send their children to save expense of hiring babysitters.

Those are a few of the problem areas mentioned by local residents, the volunteers said, but it is up to the community to decide if something needs to be done about them.

The volunteers may do a survey in the area to find out if there are a center or a youth center should be established. The youth center as the two VISTA workers envision it would not be set up just to provide relaxation for youths. Rather, they say, it could be organized so some of the activities could benefit others such as trips to the nursing home to entertain residents there.

The two women are working under the Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council, the sponsoring organization during their stay in Wayne. Their supervisor at Walthill, office for the five-county Goldenrod Hills Council, is Sharyn Roybal. The council serves Burlington, Dakota, Thurston and Cedar Counties as well as Wayne County.

Although the two are not working in the areas they were trained for during college, they still hope they can gain a great deal during their year here.

Miss Bizilia, who graduated with a degree in laboratory technology from a college in New York, said the year should be a good learning experience for them. Working in Wayne is a challenge to see if they can adapt to the community and be

Governor's Mansion Silver Service

A silver service from the battleship "Nebraska" is frequently used by this state's first lady when she entertains. The service was returned to Lincoln in 1922 on the request of the Governor Samuel McKelvie (after the ship had been deactivated) and added to the furnishings of the Governor's mansion. The original service, 25 pieces in all, consisted of a massive punch bowl with ladle and 18 cups, a very large centerpiece "pergne" (ornamental stand with dish and branches to hold flowers or fruit); a loving cup with a pedestal and a platter, all beautifully inscribed.

Volumes of the Governor's Papers in the library of the State Historical Society in Lincoln tell the story of the origin and disposition of the set. Gov. John H. Macey, in his second inaugural address on January 5, said: "It will be highly proper for our state, through its citizens, to present to the officers of the 'Nebraska'... some practical gift as a token of our interest in the fighting craft which bears our state name and a further indication that we are not insensible to the distinction which has been conferred upon us by the general government. A silver service or library would be better. I now bring the matter to the legislature and recommend... endorsement to some suitable plan for raising necessary funds by popular subscription." A prohibitionist Governor Macey obviously favored a non-bibulous gift but went along with naval custom and acquired in recom-mending the service.

The legislature accordingly appropriated $3,000 for its purchase, the money to be spent at the discretion of the governor. The order was entrusted to Reichenburg Smith Co. (later A. F. Smith Co.) of Omaha, which delivered the finished product in August, 1905. After being displayed in Lincoln and Omaha, it was stored to await the commissioning of the "Nebraska."

Launching of the ship by the builder, the Moran Brothers, at their yard in Seattle had occurred on October 7, 1904, but remaining construction and installation of equipment was not completed until three years later. At the launching ceremony Nebraska statehouse officers were present.

The silver service was finally presented on June 8, 1908, by Gov. George L. Sheldon to the commander of the "Nebraska," Captain R. F. Nicholson, aboard his ship in San Francisco Bay, where the U.S. fleet was anchored prior to continuing its voyage to the governor. Governor Sheldon, in his outgoing message to the legislature on January 7, 1909, reported that "a large number of the ship's sailors are Nebraska boys," and her commander is recognized as one of the most efficient... in the American fleet."

Two weeks later the "Nebraska" had returned to its American base at the Hampton Roads, Virginia, after completing the controversial world girdling cruise of a naval flotilla ordered by President Theodore Roosevelt. The "Nebraska" had visited New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Japan, the Indian Ocean, Europe, then sailed across the Atlantic Ocean.

During the World War I the "Nebraska" conveyed merchant ships in the Atlantic and following the Armistice in November, 1918, brought troops back from Europe. It was decommissioned in 1920, and was scrapped in 1923 after the United States agreed to the Five-Power Naval Pact, which limited armaments. The silver service and perhaps a few other personal mementos remain as reminders of the ship's service to the nation.

WATCH FOR THESE SIGNS OF LIFE

they watch for you!

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

It's human nature

Two VISTA workers have been in the Wayne area the past few weeks, asking questions, talking with people and trying to get an idea about how they might help in problem areas during the year they are here.

If memory serves us right, the two VISTA youths here a few years ago were helpful in getting the senior citizens center in Wayne started. That has proven to be a very worthwhile effort which has expanded what it has to offer to include something for almost every elderly person in the area.

However, it seems that those two youths came to Wayne with some preconceived ideas about what was wrong with the community. It caused them some problems during their stay in the area, mainly because people don't relish the idea of an outsider coming in with ideas thought up by some departmental head about how to cure local ills.

Wayne's problems, and it certainly would be unfair to say there are none, are local ones. They differ from problems Hartington has. And Hartington's problems are different than those in Wakefield or Winslow or Allen.

The two new VISTA workers are quick to say that they are spending most of their time right now in trying to find out what the community thinks is wrong and get some idea about how it wants to change things for the better.

If that is true, residents are going to be much more receptive to them. It's human nature.

Wayne County voters were right on the money Tuesday in their feelings toward the proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Statewide, voters defeated four of the 16 proposals. Voters in the county formed thumbs down on the same four amendments while giving approval to the other dozen.

And like the rest of the state, county voters showed their greatest dislike of the proposal to change the present $4,800 limit on annual pay for senators and to give the legislature the right to set its own salaries.

Across the state, voters turned that down by a 298,705 to 155,923 vote. In the county, voters dispatched it by a 1,920 to 877.

It's probably safe to say that proposal smacked too much of another example of snowballing inflation. If we can't control the price of hamburger or the cost of a doctor's visit, at least we can tell our representatives down at Lincoln we can't afford to pay them any more than $400 a month. That's probably what Nebraskans were saying to themselves when they came to that amendment.

Well, we turned it down alright, but now we can't be too quick to criticize the level of competency we have in the legislature. After all, a person can't really consider the job a full-time profession for what we're willing to pay.

County voters followed voters across the state in turning down proposals to include employees and legislators in an existing retirement program (1,517 to 1,167 in the county and 226,679 to 203,049 in the state), to permit per day payments to legislators when the legislature is not in session (1,710 to 1,011 and 271,860 to 162,244) and to remove the State Tax Commissioner from the state body charged with setting the state sales and income taxes (1,432 to 1,099 and 211,338 to 199,649).

It goes without saying that county voters followed the state in helping give President Nixon history's greatest margin of victory in a presidential race. The state gave the president an overwhelming 70 per cent support. However, Nebraska, long a Republican stronghold, was behind six other states in the margin of victory given Nixon. Those states:

pressure in the city and provide water for future development.

The Dixon County community of Ponca was complimented editorially in a newspaper published in Fulton, Ill., recently. The newspaper pointed out that the town is not dying as many rural communities are. The paper pointed to the community's annual rodeo, parade, and celebration which attracts between 4,000 and 5,000 spectators. It also cited the town's annual trail ride and Little Britches Rodeo as proof the community is alive and well.

Dick Lindberg passed this story along in his "Nearly News" column in the West Point Republican last Thursday: "A married gal trying to learn about football by watching it on the tube finally decided she understood. The racing season at Atokad this year set several records, including the longest season, the biggest attendance and record setting handle figures.

The racing park's final day, Nov. 4, set a record for the biggest Saturday handle ever, $322,541 in mutual betting.

The attendance for the season was 82,116 compared to the record 77,220 a year ago.

Girls' athletics a ticklish problem

Advocates of women's liberation should be pleased with the Wayne school board's decision to have an organized intramural sports for girls this winter.

Foes of higher taxes probably are giving the decision some closer looks.

Why? Mainly because running a sports program for girls, and that looks like what is in the future at Wayne, high-costs money. Lots of it. Once girls' athletics starts in school, it can develop into a full-fledged, expensive program.

For example, running an intramural fall volleyball program at Wayne High in September and October for 125 students would cost an estimated $70. A basketball program over three months for 120 students would cost $74. True, those estimates drawn up by a school official, are peanuts to what is now being spent on sports programs for boys in the school system. However, there are costs of rather limited intramural programs. What will happen to the costs once athletic competition for girls is expanded to several sports and includes contests between schools?

We admit that girls have been taking a back seat to boys as far as sports is concerned for too long a time in Nebraska. It is time more activities were opened for them in athletic competition.

How such programs are going to be financed is the ticklish part. We don't envy the persons on the school board. They are going to have to give a lot of thought to girls' athletics over the next several months, especially when the new budget is being drawn up next spring.

Dear Editor:

All concerned parents in Wayne and the Wayne area—take note! Do you have a bright, happy girl in your family—a daughter, sister, niece, or grand daughter? Many of you do and she is very dear to you. You have high hopes and aspirations for her. If she is under 18, do you realize she can be subjected to the draft the same as your sons, sharing the barracks with men and serving in a foehle in combat duty, if the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) is ratified by 38 states and made a part of our Constitution?

Do you value your family life and the sanctity of the institution of marriage? This, too, is in jeopardy if the ERA is ratified and made a part of our Constitution? Are you opposed to commanded abortion, having your children, boys and girls, share restrooms in our public schools? There would be no such thing as Widow's Allowance; no law against statutory rape.

Constitution: why did our Nebraska Legislature ratify this Amendment in only two days time? It is understood they received pressure from Women's Lib groups. Have these men, for whom we voted, no consciences? How could they betray the majority of Nebraska women? The answer to that is that most people are not really aware of the consequences of such an amendment. The women opposed to the ERA were not informed. We think terms of equal pay for equal work, and most of us will agree with that. However, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Equal Pay Act has already been passed by Congress.

All of these things have been interpreted to happen if the ERA is passed and made a part of our Constitution. All of these are the things the radical Women Liberationists, who are against family life and children, don't want about. They hide under the guise of equal work for equal pay.

There are those who believe there is something deeper involved in Women's Lib. We know the Communist Party has as its goal the undermining of this country. Why not undermine the American family and American standards and destroy everything it stands for?

Most women perform their duties in their homes with love because they love their families. American women have never had it so good. We have the highest standard of living of any country. Why take all these things away from us? How many women want equal rights as women in Russia have it? If some women want to fight in the armed services, drive bulldozers, construction work and other work that men do it is their business, but they have no right to impose what they want on American women.

Do you know that 21 states, including Nebraska, have already ratified the Equal Rights Amendment and only 38 states are needed to make it part of the Illinois just ratified the ERA and California will make the decision on Wednesday. What can we, as concerned men and women, do to help? We can send a P. O. M. (Personal opinion telegram) for $1.25 to Senator John Mills, State Capitol, Sacramento, Calif. Senator Mills has put up a fine record against the ERA but an organization put out recall petitions on him. He has agreed to cast the necessary vote to get the bill out of committee. Many small states will be waiting to see what California does on the bill. Why should we be concerned about what takes place in California? California is not the amendment, it is likely the smaller states will follow in their steps.

As a mother of three fine daughters, an aunt of several nieces, and for the generations to come, and in behalf of our American Society and the American way of life, I am deeply concerned and very opposed to such an amendment. We can all help by sending a telegram to Senator John Mills of California BEFORE November 15.

New Home, New Husband, New Life!

Years from now when her grandchildren ask, "What was your best Christmas, Gram?" Shirley So may well answer "December of 1972, when I got a new home, a new husband and a new life."

Shirley, a 20-year-old Chinese girl, arrived in Wayne earlier this month from her homeland, just in time to greet the American holidays. Waiting for her after a year and a half separation was her fiance, Bill Swinney of Wayne.

Met in 1970 Shirley and Bill met in Hong Kong in the fall of 1970 during an import period for the Bon Homme Richard, the Navy ship on which Bill was stationed.

Visits for the two were far between, but when Bill returned to the states last December, plans were already underway for a wedding. Little did the couple realize just how complex arrangements were to be gotten before the young bride-to-be would join her fiance.

Passport and visa paper worked things up for some time. Then Shirley's parents, who live in Macao, had to be convinced that the decision was the right one, and Shirley wanted to take her time about leaving, knowing that it would probably be many years before she would return.

At last everything was in order, however, and on Nov. 1, Shirley stepped onto American soil at Eppley Airfield in Omaha.

Shirley is staying with her fiance's mother, Mrs. Anna Swinney, and is enthusiastic about the new friends she has made. She has already attended a Tupperware party and gone shopping for new clothes.

"The women were so friendly," she said of the party, but shopping proved not so successful. "You are too little," Shirley mimicked the clerks who were at a loss to find anything to fit the petite young woman. "I don't want children's clothes," she added, noting that this was where they tried to find something for her.

Worked in Hong Kong Shirley, whose Chinese name is So Wai Fong, is one of seven children. She shared an apartment with her two older sisters in Hong Kong where the three worked to help support her parents. "My parents are very old and cannot work anymore," Shirley explained. Her father, So Kai, her mother, So Ma, and four younger brothers live in an apartment complex. A grand-mother who is now 90 had also made her home with them, but she is now in a hospital.

It was Shirley's grandmother who introduced her to the Christian faith. Her parents follow the Buddha religion. When she was about 14, Shirley completed her six years of Chinese schooling. Some Chinese children go to the English schools but her father believed in the old ways, she explained. Shirley apologizes for her English, fearing that she can not be understood. She picked up the new language from hearing it spoken in the Chinese cities. She can not yet read or write English.

called Shirley's impression of American homes. "One family in each house?" the girl had cried in disbelief. "Unique American food is also an unique experience for the young woman, who is accustomed to fried rice, sweet and sour pork; chicken, Chinese tea and of course, community bowls into which everyone dips his chop sticks. The young couple has not set a definite wedding date, but speculate that it will be later this month. They will be married at the First Christian Church in Wakefield by the Rev. John Epperson.

After she is married, Shirley says she wants to stay home about a month and then go to work. "I don't want to sit around... watch television all the time you know," she grimaced. She worries, however, that her hailing English may keep her from finding a job.

Bill, 22, was born and grew up in Wayne. He graduated from High School and is employed at Fullerton Lumber Company.

Goodrich-Lesch Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Roemhildt, Wayne, announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Goodrich, to Marvin E. Lesch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lesch, Waterloo.

Miss Goodrich is in her junior year at the University of Nebraska-Omaha where she is majoring in library science. She is a member of Chi Omega Sorority.

Her fiance is a 1972 graduate of Wayne State College and is affiliated with Phi Sigma Epsilon Fraternity.

Plans are being made for a June wedding.

MRS. LORENE MEYERS, FDA consumer specialist, explains that pharmacists have until Jan. 22 to comply with FDA regulations which call for special packaging in dispensing prescriptions.

FDA Specialist Speaks on Campus

A group of students and citizens heard Mrs. Lorene Meyers, consumer specialist with the Food and Drug Administration, speak Thursday at Wayne State College about the duties of the FDA and measures that have been taken by the department to protect the consumer.

Mrs. Meyers, who is from Kansas City, Mo., works in an area that includes Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. She explained to the audience that the goal of the FDA is the meshing together of law, science and administrative judgement to insure that food, drugs and cosmetic products on the market are not adulterated, do not contain harmful substances or are not labeled so as to mislead the consumer or cause harm to the individual.

"There are 7,200 manufacturers in the four state area, and only 45 FDA inspectors," Mrs. Meyers noted. "The department relies on active law enforcement and voluntary compliance on the part of manufacturers—to get implemented any changes found necessary."

Some of the products which have recently come under the fire of the FDA were demonstrated by Mrs. Meyers and included toys such as a dart game no longer available in toy departments, squeeze toys with small removable parts and a cap gun which created a noise registering 138 decibels.

Mrs. Meyers explained that before a baby walker was brought to the attention of the FDA, its scissor type action had been the cause of 21 amputations.

One division of the FDA, the Bureau of Radiological Health, deals with doctors, dentists and hospitals.

The speaker stressed the importance of reporting suspected products to the FDA, and noted that any of 17 district offices, 95 resident inspection stations or field offices may be contacted. Persons also may write directly to the FDA, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20852.

She also suggested that individuals who wish to keep informed read the periodical "FDA Consumer," published by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Meyers also spoke in classes to two groups of WSC students during her two-day stay in Wayne.

Minister's Wife Blasts 'Equal Rights'

In an impassioned plea that women wake up to the true fact concerning current Women's Liberation movements, a Wakefield minister's wife addressed a group of 25 persons Thursday evening at Wayne State College.

The speaker, Mrs. E. A. Binger, was invited to address the WSC Faculty Wives organization.

Mrs. Binger, in a talk which displayed intensive research of her subject, recited poetry, quoted Scripture and related comments by renowned persons to give impact to her ideas concerning Women's Lib movements and their objectives.

Mrs. Binger became involved in research on Women's Lib this past summer when asked to speak at the LWML retreat in Columbus. Alarmed at her findings on the subject, she prepared a collection of surprising facts and frightening theories which has put her in demand as a speaker in the area. Fifteen engagements lay ahead of her in the coming weeks.

"Women's Lib movements are not an honest attempt to secure better jobs for women," she said. "Women Libbers try to portray today's woman as an unhappy, second class citizen and an abject slave... it is a Communist attempt to capitalize on discontent."

Emphasizing the need to understand and stop the ERA (Equal Rights Amendment) being pushed by Women's Lib organizations for inclusion in the United States Constitution, Mrs. Binger put before her audience a list of hypothetical consequences compiled by a Yale Professor of Law:

Women will register for the draft at 18... Women are discharged from the military for having dependent children, the same will have to apply to men... male and female recruits must live together, sleep in the same barracks, occupy the same washrooms, etc... abortions could be commanded... under criminal law courts will most likely invalidate sodomy or adultery laws. Seduction laws, statutory rape, prostitution laws and obscenity laws would not conform to the Women's Lib amendment. Women would have the right to labor in the mines and to work as men in any job name change for married women would be legally nullified... alimony would be available to husbands as well as wives, child support requirements on the male would have to be revised... there would be no segregation of the sexes in the services, in prisons, in reform schools, in public restrooms and other public facilities... homosexuals and lesbians could demand the right to marry...

Thirty-eight states must approve the ERA in order for it to become a part of the constitution, Mrs. Binger explained. Twenty-one have already ratified the amendment, the second slate to do so being Nebraska, she said.

In groups she has spoken to thus far, the majority of the audiences were not fully aware of the implications of the amendment. Most felt, Mrs. Binger said, that the bill would simply grant them equal pay for equal jobs.

"We already have that right," she declared. California is considering the amendment now, and if California goes, Mrs. Binger theorized, 11 more smaller states, watching to see what happens there, will also go.

California Senator John Mills has asked for comments concerning the nation's feelings on the amendment in order to do what is best when that state's decision must be made this week, Mrs. Binger said.

HOW (Happiness of Womanhood, Inc.) is encouraging nationwide participation in National Telegram Day this Wednesday when all concerned individuals should telegram their feelings concerning the ERA to Sen. Mills at the state capitol in Sacramento.

Mrs. Binger also touched on other goals of the Women's Lib movements. Commenting on the proposed day care centers for pre-school children and blasting the head start program, Mrs. Binger quoted articles by proponents of the Communist system who note the necessity of reaching a child in the two years prior to school age in order to affect his value systems.

On abortion, Mrs. Binger's views were definite.

"Thou shalt not kill," she stated angrily, quoting "Exodus," "Jeremiah" and "Psalms." She went on to recite an excited poet's supplication that a child be allowed to be born.

MRS. E. A. BINGER, a woman and proud of it, speaks out against Women's Liberation and the Equal Rights Amendment.

'Mud Bowl' Victory Goes to Trojans; Wayne's Win Streak Ends at 20

By BOB BARTLETT
When the clock ticked off the end of Wayne High School's chances for repeating as Husker Conference champions Thursday, it also stopped the state's longest football winning streak at 20.
But one thing the clock did not stop was the pride the Blue Devils have in themselves and their coach.

BLACK AND WHITE — Not too many shoes and socks were left in their original colors Thursday afternoon with the splittling rains creating a virtual mud pie along the sidelines of the Scribner-Wayne football game.

Osmond's Gibbs Totals 3 TD's for Tiger Win

Osmond's Jim Gibbs raced for three touchdowns Wednesday afternoon at Wayne State's Memorial Stadium while piling up 135 yards in 18 carries to lead his Tiger club to a 35-14 whitewashing of Walthill for the Lewis and Clark Conference crown.

Gibbs, with the aid of good offensive blocking, was able to easily break through the Bluejays defense to scamper for two scores while quarterback Robin Reed hit Pat Clayton for a TD and a 21-0 halftime lead.
The Osmond defense, credited with stopping Walthill on the ground and through the air for only five first downs in the first half, eased up somewhat in the fourth stanza when reserves

The Wayne team proudly marched onto the middle of the Scribner field Thursday to congratulate the home team after its 12-0 win and the school's first conference title under head coach Dick Tingelhoff.

Mud-covered and discouraged, the Blue Devils hoisted Coach Al Hansen into the air to show fans the Wayne team is still proud of his leadership in guiding the team.

About two inches of water covered the Scribner field in spots, turning the Husker play-off into the "1972 Mud Bowl."
"You might say," Hansen pointed out, "that they (Scribner) had the mudders and we didn't. Our backs are not suited to mud. We're a power running

Stoltenberg Predicts Third Wayne State Win

Many Wayne State football fans may be wondering why head coach Del Stoltenberg did not predict more wins for his Wildcat club.

Last week the home club did it again, topping Yankton 21-6 after the head mentor, now 2 for 2 in predictions, saw Wayne would win its second game in nine starts.

Well for Wayne's finale Stoltenberg didn't change his mind. "Wayne will win again," he told the Thursday noon gathering of the Second Guessers as he looked toward Saturday's final game of the year.

"This year the Wayne club has more rushing yards, at least on paper, than last year's club and it's not too far behind the 3 club two years ago," Stoltenberg emphasized. In the interception and fumble departments the team still has an unpleasant lead over the last two ball teams, he grudgingly added.
"Now that we have a pretty good pass rush, which should make Ralph (Barclay, defensive line coach) happy, we can end the season on a 37 note—a lot better than 0-10."

Stoltenberg said his team took a "physical victory" over the Yankton eleven. "I was disappointed in the rushing game, but overall the offense showed true balance in throwing and running."
Turning to the last game of the season at Nebraska Wesleyan last Saturday, Stoltenberg noted that the Plainsmen would run out of a pro-set.

"They have a good quarterback by the name of Rich Federle, who has guided his team to three wins in the past four games." The Lincoln team, not an elusive team like Scribner."

Both clubs fought to a 0-0 tie in the first half, leaving many spectators wondering if the contest would remain deadlocked and minus a conference champion.

The slippery football looked like a glom of mud on pass plays. Neither of the teams' quarterbacks could muster a respectable passing attack as Wayne's Marty Hansen hit on two of nine attempts for just 14 yards while Scribner sophomore Russel Poppe tossed two completions out of five throws for 31 yards.

With 3:25 left in the third stanza, leading ground gainer Jon Dahl, with 106 of Scribner's 130 total yards, fired around left

On the next play Poppe rolled in for the game's first score. The score remained at 6-0 when Randy Nelson leaped through the Scribner line to block the PAT attempt, and give the Blue Devils some hope it could salvage the game on a TD and a point after.

The first TD was set up when the visitors tried to run on a fourth and three situation only to have Wayne's leading rusher, Shane Giese, stopped at the line.

Laurel Girls Tourney Victim

The Laurel girls' volleyball team was soured out of the C-9 District contest at Bloomfield Wednesday night during semi-final action against Plainview.

The young spikers were edged out of the first game, 16-14, before returning the favor to the Pirates, 13-15. But the tide turned back for Plainview in the final game, 15-10.

In the final action, later the same night, Coleridge handed Plainview two raps on scores of 15-12 and 15-9 to claim the district title.

Hunters With Poor Eyesight Make Targets of Companions

Beware that you, a fellow hunter or an innocent bystander, do not become the game when going hunting, warns the Nebraska Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Pointing out that deficient eyesight is responsible for many shooting accidents each year, Dr. R. H. Meissner, M.D. the Society's medical advisory chairman, urges hunters to have their vision tested before taking to the field. He said the Society has been advocating vision testing as a requirement in all hunting license applications for many years.

"A keen eye" is traditionally attributed to the hunter, Dr. Meissner said, "but among modern sport hunters the frequent absence of this trait is a contributing factor in numerous hunting accidents which blind seriously wound, and sometimes even kill, both hunters and innocent bystanders each year."

Information from the National Rifle Association indicates about one in four victims in hunting accidents is a case of mistaken identity — a human being mistaken for an animal. Faulty vision and poor judgment are linked in a further percentage of accidental shootings which occur when hunters shoot at moving objects without waiting to determine the nature of the target. And apparently, you are in the greatest danger from members of your own hunting party, a recent report from the Nebraska State Game Commission, for example, shows that more than half of the shooting accidents which took place during the State's 1971 hunting season involved hunters shot by their companions.

"Many people have sight defects of which they may be unaware," Dr. Meissner emphasized, "and the best way to rule out problems is by means of an eye examination. But a test for visual acuity is the very least that should be undergone by the prospective hunter."

"We want everyone who takes out a license to hunt to be sure, if possible, to identify his potential target," said Dr. Meissner.

To help in making themselves as visible as possible to other hunters, it is strongly advised that all members of hunting parties — as well as hikers and anyone else likely to be in a hunting area — wear bright fluorescent orange clothing. This color is found nowhere in nature, and is thus instantly identifiable as belonging to humans. This year for the first time Nebraska will follow a new law that "any person hunting deer or antelope with a firearm in this state shall display on his head, chest and back a total of not less than four hundred square inches of hunter orange material." This law does not apply to pheasant hunters; however, the Nebraska Society recommends that they also wear bright fluorescent orange clothing.

Hunters are also reminded that wearing sunglasses can result in a distortion of perception and increase the difficulty of distinguishing color contrasts. Sunglasses are, however, available with lenses which provide a maximum of glare absorption and a minimum of color distortion.

Four additional fundamentals of eye safety for hunters include:
1. Keep clear of hunter to avoid muzzle blast.
2. Wear protective eye wear to avoid shell casing and muzzle blast in the eyes and while walking through shrubbery to avoid twigs or brush in the eyes.
3. Keep gun barrel free of foreign matter.
4. Carry a plastic container filled with water to be used as an eye wash for dust and seeds.

Wayne State's Reggie Smith is quickly climbing the rushing poll in the latest statistics on Nebraska small college running backs.

Smith, 13th last week, has moved up to the fourth spot with a 77 yard rushing average. So far this year the 210-pound senior has collected 690 yards in 142 carries.

Heading the list of top 20 carries is Norfolk's Randy Pospichil, attending Central Community College in Seward.

Quarterback Rick Benedetto is now 11th in a field of the 13 top signal callers, two notches better than last week's last place finish. The freshman now averages 50.1 yards in the air for a total of 401 for nine games.

In the punting department, Kirk Park of Wayne State still remains on top with a 39.5 booting mark — one yard better than second place Jeff Mollring of Doane.

Pass receiver Gary Martins of WSC now is eighth in the pass catching field with 71 completions to his credit for 395 yards. Ken Ridley, Wildcat punt return specialists, dropped one place in ranking to seventh out of the top 10. His average is 14 kicks for 120 yards.

Team wise, the Cats remained in the same spot, ninth, in total offense. Defensively, the club gave up less yardage, from 249.5 to 232.5, but are still in third place.
