Contest Deadline Is Near

Thursday is the deadline for entries in "The Wayne Herald's Christmas writing contest."

Third, fourth and fifth graders from across the area are eligible to enter the contest, with the top three stories or poems and pictures of their authors being printed in a special edition of the newspaper coming out early in December.

The winner in the contest will receive a cash prize of $15 from the newspaper, with cash prizes of $10 and $5 going to the other two top writers.

Articles may be either a short story or poem written on some Christmas theme. Neither should be more than 500 words in length.

Judging will be done by local persons on the basis of originality, writing skills, appropriateness of subject matter and reader interest. Entries should be written or typed in a neat manner.

The contest is open to youths in Allen, Belden, Carroll, Coleridge, Concord, Dixon, Emerson, Hartington, Hoskins, Hubbard, Laurel, Newcastle, Pender, Pilger, Ponca, Randolph, Thurston, Wakefield, Waterbury, Winside, Wisner and Wayne.

Area youths are also reminded to mail their letters to Santa Claus to the newspaper as soon as possible. Those mailed in time will be printed in the special edition.

Criminals Slow Down in Dixon County

Criminal activity in Dixon County has been reduced considerably in 1972 as compared to 1971, reports Sheriff Dean Chase of Allen.

Chase said there was a reduction in all criminal offenses of 30 per cent from January to September.

He noted that one of the major reasons for the reduction is the county surveillance system initiated by the sheriff's department. Under the system, he and his deputy, Jim Stark, do much more driving throughout the county than was done in years past.

Persons who might be considering stealing a steer or breaking into a vacant farm home are much more wary when they know the two police officers cruise the county regularly, he said.

Through September this year, according to Chase, there were 11 burglaries in the county. Last year, there had been 25 burglaries by the end of September, he noted.

There were 37 larceny cases over $50 in the first nine months in 1972, slightly under the 41 reported a year ago during the same period, his reports show.

There were no auto thefts through September in 1972, he added, while during the same period, a year ago two automobiles had been stolen in Dixon County.

7 County Judges in Area Being Kept as Associates

County judges in Wayne, Stanton, Pierce, Antelope and Knox Counties will be retained as associate county judges when the new county judicial setup takes effect in January.

Named as associate county judges by the three district county judges have been Luverna Hilton in Wayne County, Katherine Inhelder in Stanton County, Milton Rosenkotter in Pierce County, Lesler Berg in Antelope County and Ora Ballard in Knox County.

The three district county judges—Joe Hunker of West Point, Bruce Henning of Norfolk and Eugene McFadden of Norfolk—will serve those five counties plus Madison and Cuming Counties.

The judge makeup in the county judges' court will be in Madison and Stanton Counties, where Hunker and Henning will vacate their county judge's chairs and move up to become district county judges for four-year terms.

Selected as associate county judges by the district county judges for those two counties were Mrs. Betty Wehrle, clerk of Madison County court, and Mrs. Effie Kahler, clerk of Cuming County court.

Hunker, Cuming County judge the past six years, said he would probably serve Wayne, Stanton and Cuming Counties when the new setup goes into operation in January.

He said Henning, 65, Madison County judge for 10 years, will probably serve Madison County, and McFadden, 48, a Norfolk attorney, will probably serve Knox, Antelope and Pierce Counties.

Hunker, 61, said the salaries agreed upon for the seven associate county judges will have to be approved by the state supreme court. He said the state's high court may meet next week to review the salaries established for the associate county judges who will serve the whole state.

Associate county judges will serve two-year terms, with the possibility of being reelected for additional terms.

Mailing Deadlines Are Here

The deadline is today (Monday) for Space Available Mail (SAM) being sent through the Wayne post office to armed forces in Europe, reports postmaster Wilbur Giese.

He said today is also the deadline for Parcel Air Lift (PAL) mail being sent to servicemen in the Far East.

Two other mail deadlines come up this week, he added. They are Thursday's deadline for PAL mail to armed forces in Canada, and the Arctic and all surface parcels to Alaska and Hawaii Friday is the deadline for airmail greetings and parcels to servicemen in South and Central America, Near East and Far East Friday is also the deadline for PAL mail to servicemen in Europe.

Giese said persons wishing to send cards, letters or packages to servicemen serving outside the United States should mail as soon as possible to assure delivery.

Dixon Men Elected Mutual Aid Officers

Bill Craven and Alan Van Buskirk of Dixon were elected as president and vice president for the Big Nine Mutual Aid organization during a meeting last week at Wynot.

The Big Nine serves nine Northeast Nebraska communities in rescue and fire emergencies. Included are Concord, Dixon, Laurel, Belden, Carroll, Wynot, Coleridge, Randolph and Hartington.

Magazine Sales Top '72 Record

Music students from Wayne High School and Middle School sold $2,806.44 in magazines, topping last year's record of about $2,700.

Of that amount, the Wayne-Carroll Music Boosters will receive a profit of more than $1,100. The subscription drive is sponsored annually by the Music Boosters.

Mrs. Marilyn Koch, chairman of the drive this year, said about 125 students participated in the two-week campaign which ended Tuesday. Prizes will be awarded each student whose sales were over $15.

Area residents who may not have been reacted during the drive are invited to contact Mrs. Koch for new or renewed subscriptions of most popular periodicals.

Contest Tickets Also Available At Safeway

Safeway was inadvertently omitted from the Herald's list of stores taking part in the Wayne Chamber of Commerce's Christmas Give-A-Way Contest. The list of stores putting on the promotion was printed in Thursday's issue of The Wayne Herald.

Area residents may pick up tickets at any of the stores in the promotion, offering them a chance at winning one $500 cash prize, five $100 cash prizes and eight bicycles for youngsters.

Scholarship Established at Wayne State

A new scholarship in memory of a former supervising teacher at Wayne Campus School at Wayne State College will be offered in the second term at Wayne State next year.

It will be called the Lettie Scott Memorial Scholarship, honoring a supervising teacher at the campus school from 1927 to 1945. After her death a year ago, her sisters made a bequest to Wayne State Foundation to establish a memorial scholarship in her name.

Dr. Freeman Decker, foundation secretary, said the scholarship will be awarded through the foundation. Criteria for awarding the scholarship will be academic record, character, financial need and promise as a college representative. Application may be made at the college's Student Financial Aids Office.

Plans Underway for Kids' Christmas Party

Youngsters in the Wayne area had better start getting ready for the fourth annual Christmas party scheduled for the city auditorium in Wayne.

The party, sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Kappa Delta Gamma sorority and Order of Diana at Wayne State College, is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 16.

Starting today (Monday) members of the sponsoring organizations will be soliciting businessmen for donations to help finance the party. Individuals wishing to donate should send contributions to "Operation Christmas Party," TKE House, 814 Nebraska St. in Wayne.

Wakefield Drive Hits $12,750

A total of just under $13,000 was collected the first week of the drive to raise $100,000 to help finance a 42-bed nursing home at Wakefield.

Donations at the Wakefield National Bank totaled $12,750 Saturday morning, a week after the drive officially began.

Donations will be used along with federal funds which have been applied for to help construct the facility on the north-west side of the present hospital in Wakefield.

The community has applied for a $160,000 grant and a $140,000 loan from the federal government.

Plans call for the drive to be completed early in December.

Any persons wishing to donate to the drive may send contributions to the Wakefield bank.

Concord's Top 3 Will Win Prizes

The village board of Concord and the Concord Betterment Association are sponsoring a Christmas lighting contest, it was announced this week. Prizes will be awarded the top three decorators.

There is no need to register. All that is necessary is the Christmas spirit and an eye for decorating.

Tearing History Up

WORKMEN WERE BUSY near Wayne Friday tearing up the last few feet of track on the Chicago Northwestern Railroad line between Norfolk and Wayne, completing a year-long job of ripping up the 24-mile track. Here, some of the 11-man crew lifts up a heavy rail which weighs around every three feet. An article on the history of the railroad line which with more pictures removing the tracks will appear in the next issue of The Wayne Herald.

Station's Hog Specialist Reports at Chicago Meet

Faster growing pigs apparently have bones that break easier than those of slower growing pigs, an animal science specialist at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord told a Chicago gathering Friday.

Bob Fritschen spoke Friday during the eighth meeting of the Midwestern Section of the American Society of Animal Science held at Chicago Friday and Saturday.

Along with NU animal science researchers E. R. Peo Jr. and P.J. Cunningham in Lincoln, Fritschen studied the influence or rate of gain on bone breaking strength in growing-finishing swine.

Fritschen reported that as rate of gain increased bone breaking strength decreased.

"The faster growing pig has a greater soft tissue growth that apparently is not proportionate with bone maturation when compared with the slow gaining pig," he suggested.

This relationship between rate of gain and bone breaking strength may be enhanced by the association between gain and feed conversion. The rapid gaining, efficient pig may be consuming less nutrients per unit of body weight during the growing-finishing period. In the same experiment the NU specialist found that the percent of stalfed floor had no consistent influence on bone breaking strength.

In another study on the effects of stalfed floors, Fritschen, Cunningham and W. T. Ahlschweide observed types and extent of foot injuries and rear claw dimensions.

Relating their conclusions, Fritschen stated, "The outside claws are larger than the inside claws, and they sustain more injury. We also found that 100 per cent stalfed floor causes more foot injury than 25 per cent stalfed floor."

Council and Planners Review Land Use Map

City councilmen and planning commission members Tuesday night reviewed the preliminary generalized land use map being drawn up by the commission.

The planning commission will meet again with the city's planning consultant to make changes suggested by councilmen during the meeting. The map will then be given to the council for adoption, providing city officials with a guideline for uses of land within the city for the next several years.

Major ideas built into the map prior to Tuesday's meeting included use of the railroad tracks as a bypass highway, extension of multiple dwelling zoning near Wayne State College and a park-lake area in the southwest area of the city near Logan Creek.

The council voiced disapproval concerning the park-lake idea, noting that it would flood too often to be of value.

Following further revisions, the map may be forwarded to the city council for approval sometime in January, according to a city official.

Tour Aims to Explain Feeder's Side of Story

A Wayne man will take part in an Eddie Collins sponsored effort to explain the cattle feeder's side of the story to people upset about the high price of beef.

Bob Jordan, cashier at State National Bank, will take part in Collins' tour to Washington, D.C., and New York.

He said the persons taking part in the tour will talk to congressional representatives and other government officials as well as to housewives in an attempt to explain why cattle producers have to have a certain price to stay in business.

Many housewives, especially those in non-rural states, think the feeder is to blame for the high meat prices, said Jordan. The tour is an attempt to explain that cattlemen aren't making that much profit on what they sell, he said.

Lunch Program At Center Now USDA Certified

The Wayne Senior Citizen Center hot meal service is now certified by the United States Department of Agriculture, and center members 60 years old or over who wish to pay for lunches with food stamps may do so.

Persons wishing to avail themselves of this service must apply for special meal cards at the Wayne County welfare office. The meals, purchased from the Broughton Food Service at Wayne State College, can be ordered each day through the center and will be delivered by center volunteers. Cost is 82c per meal.

Those who will be paying for this service with food stamps are reminded that since change cannot be given for food stamps, meals should be paid for a week in advance.

Senior citizens who may have further questions concerning the hot lunch program or the use of food stamps in connection with it are encouraged to call Mrs. Jocell Bull, center director.

MIKE GARVIN

Mike Garvin Named to 'Who's Who'

Mike Garvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Garvin of Wayne, has recently been honored by selection to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1972-73.

Selection to this honorary group is in recognition of the student's contributions to the college as well as academic merit. A major consideration is student leadership for the individual.

Garvin is a senior this year at Benedicline College in Alchinson, Kansas.

The faculty and administrators of the college make initial nominations of students, from which the final students are selected by the Who's Who organization.

All 21 students nominated from Benedicline College were selected for this year's list.

Crofton Family 'Lucky to be Alive'

They were pretty lucky. They all could have been shot.

That was Robert Bogner's comment after learning his wife, infant son and in-laws were unharmed by a pair of men who stole his car in Crofton and started a race with law officers which finally ended in a cornfield near Wayne Tuesday afternoon.

Fugitives Flushed from Cornfield Near Wayne county road a mile north of Wayne by local police after a state trooper speeding north from West Point spotted the stolen car just north of Wayne and radioed back to Wayne for help in stopping the fugitives.

Bogner said the two men stopped at the Cortlon home of his father-in-law, Joe Kuebler, shortly after noon Tuesday and asked to use the telephone. When they got inside the house, they pulled a handgun, ripped the telephone from the wall, tied up his wife and in-laws and stole the car.

"They didn't bother my six-month-old boy and put him on the floor," he said.

Marfillo and Frazee then apparently filled the car with gas in Crofton before speeding southeast toward Wayne, he said, because the car was about empty when they stole it.

The two escapes evaded roadblocks set up between Crofton and Wayne before being forced onto the county road.

Taking part in the search party after the two were forced off the highway were two airplanes, one of them flown by Don Johnson, operator of the Wayne airport.

The men were flushed from the cornfield about 3 p.m., nearly two hours after the first call reporting the stolen car was issued by the state patrol office in Norfolk. They were not armed when arrested, officials said.

Don Weible, Wayne County sheriff, said the law officers were lucky they captured the two before nightfall. They might have been able to slip away in the dark if the search had gone on much longer, he said.

Playing a large role in the apprehension of the two was the cooperation of law officials, according to Weible. There were state troopers, county law officers from Wayne, Cedar and Dixon Counties and policemen from several towns who helped chase and apprehend the two, Weible said.

Knox County sheriff Herb Thompson took the two South Dakotans to Knox County Wednesday on stolen car warrants.

The drama apparently started in Yankton when the two escaped from the state hospital. They took a taxi to Crofton, 17 miles southwest of Yankton, and then stole Bogner's automobile.

Yankton police said Marfillo, whose home address could not be determined, had been transferred to the hospital from the South Dakota State Penitentiary where he was serving a six-year sentence on charges of grand larceny and escape.

Frazee, reportedly from Rapid City, was committed from Rapid City.

The person who invented holidays must have been as crazy as the man who looked at one of Henry Ford's products and said, "Hm-mmmph! Damn thing will never replace the horse."

Holidays as far as newspaper people are concerned, have to be the work of the devil. Or maybe they are God's way of seeing if editors and printers are worthy of an eternal life. Hopefully, one without holidays.

But we shouldn't complain too much. I imagine holidays are looked upon with dread by a lot of other workers—everybody from a salesman working on a commission to a city official trying to get billing done for the month.

Who ever heard of doing three days' work in just two days? If's possible, if you want to get up or go home when the traffic lights on main street are blinking red and yellow, but it throws everything out of kilter. Tuesday seems like Wednesday and Wednesday seems like Thursday, and the whole week gets lousied up quick as a wink.

And then after you have done in two days what usually takes three days, you wonder if your boss is getting ideas about whether you are really working during non-holiday weeks.

Overheard in a Wayne cafe early Friday morning:
"Heck, anybody could see what was wrong with Nebraska!"
"Yeah, what was that?" was the quick reply from a fan hoping to hear how the local critic would have solved Bob Devaney's headaches in Thursday's clash with Oklahoma.

"They were behind when the game was over," came the simple answer.
Thursday's 17-14 loss was certainly a sobering one for Big Red fans. Those watching the game had to be amazed at the difference between this squad and the poised, powerful Tagge and company which methodically marched down the field in the closing moments to clinch the Thanksgiving Day win and gain an almost certain grasp of the No. 1 ranking.

A good comment for Devaney after the loss might have been: "They shouldn't have even been invited to the picnic."
We've heard of people getting played out, but society editor Sandra Breitzreut, really qualifies for that description.

In the past couple weeks she has reviewed some six plays at the college and high school. And there are more coming up in area schools which she may get to cover. After about the umpteenth play, it's a little difficult to write a story that people will read and enjoy. We just hope parents and students appreciate all the nights of work that go into covering school events such as plays.

Let's hear it for:

—The Wayne Chamber of Commerce for finally pulling off a farmer-businessman dinner. The feed attracted some 400 persons, probably more than the Chamber hoped for considering it was the first attempt at trying to show farmers that the businessmen in the city do appreciate them.

—Local boxers Jack Luft, Jerry Frericks and Jim Nieman for winning their weight divisions in the Wayne team's first action of the year at Macy recently. Gary Wiebelhaus, Wayne boxing enthusiast, is again ramrodding the local team.

—The volunteers for selling more than $700 worth of honey on Honey Sunday. Helping out were Wayne County Jaycees, Kappa Delta Gamma sorority members from Wayne State and members of the Youth Association for Retarded Children.

—Wakefield's Covenant Church for hosting a successful three day fall retreat. The fall retreat was the first of its kind at Wakefield. The Dixon County community was chosen because it offers an atmosphere you can't get in a big city like Omaha. So true.

—The 30 or so law officers who finally cornered two escapees from the Yankton State Hospital in a cornfield just northeast of Wayne last week. As somebody said, the day's gone when you can pull a Bonnie and Clyde trick.

Young writers are reminded to get their entries in by Thursday for The Herald's writing contest. The contest offers a total of $30 for the three best poems or short stories written on some Christmas theme. Winning entries and pictures of winners will be printed in a

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

Several Cedar County residents have been recognized for their work in conservation.

The seven, who were honored at the recent 26th annual conservation program in Sioux City, were Jim Kathol, Merrill Hochstein, Victor Nissen and Norman Sudbeck.

Jaycees at Neligh collected a total of $45 in Sunday's annual drive to raise money to help retarded children in Nebraska. The Jaycees sold 21 cases of honey during the Honey Sunday activities in Neligh, Clearwater, Orchard and Brunswick.

The South Sioux City teachers association has filed suit against the school board in the state Court of Industrial Relations.

The suit follows several months of fruitless negotiations between the teachers' group and the board on pay for teachers.

Major bone of contention is the addition of an extra step on the teachers' pay scale, one that would penalize new teachers.

The board and teachers reached an impasse over the item this year and named a negotiator for each side. When they failed to solve the problem, the teachers and board tried to pick a third person to help. The teachers want an outsider as the third person, something the board does not want, and are taking the issue to the court for a final ruling.

Madison police arrested Leonard Smutny after finding him early Tuesday morning inside a hardware store in Madison. The police found that a large number of watches, rifle cartridges, and other items had put in a box when they made the arrest. Smutny reportedly had other items on him when arrested.

Wausa is planning a community carnival Saturday to help pay for establishing a community center.

The carnival will include booths, bake sales, games and the like. The carnival will run from 3 to 9 p.m. in the community's auditorium.

Dear Editor:
March 22, 1972, was a black day for the women of America. Their destiny being determined by Women's Lib, the equal rights amendment was passed in the Senate.

Right now a young man is not exempt from the service because he is married and a father. In total equality a young woman who is married and has children will not be exempt either. Then we must have government day-care centers for the children where they will grow up to be good, little "whatever the government wants them to be."

There will be no laws that apply to sex alone. For instance, a woman will not have to change her name in marriage. What will we name the children? Once the family is gone it's goodbye America.

Let us remove women's liberation movement teaching from our schools and stop spending tax dollars to pay people whose intent is to destroy the family structure. Instead, teach our daughters the joys of womanhood. The most important person in the world is the mother and housewife.

We have the ideal way of life in America. Our society is built around the family. The family is the strength of the nation and is under attack by the Women's Lib. The ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment would be the toppling of our society as we know it today!

When personal ambition is allowed to dominate her role as wife and mother, the family may suffer.

Name Withheld Upon Request

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

the SOBER FACTS

THERE IS NO WAY TO SOBER UP QUICKLY

Exercise, coffee, food, inhaling fresh air . . . none of them help you sober up. The time spent doing these things is what helps. Each hour, the body gets rid of another ounce of alcohol.

Confusion about options

There seems to be quite a bit of confusion about what the city council's recent action in picking up options on two pieces of ground actually means.

It means that the land, about 22 acres just east of the proposed new hospital, could be purchased by the city sometime during the next year for an agreed upon figure. Total cost of the land would run $88,500, which comes out to be about $3,840 an acre.

What exactly will be done with the land or how much money will be spent in developing it has not been determined by the council. The council is, however, considering turning the land into a spacious park. The park, as now envisioned, would include roads, shelter houses, utilities and other things which would make it a showplace for the city.

What the council is now doing is waiting to learn whether the federal government will contribute funds to help purchase the land. The federal government's share, if it agrees to contribute funds, would run somewhere around half the total price of the land.

After the federal government makes its decision, the city-council will decide whether to purchase the land, paying the whole amount if the government decides not to participate or paying part of it if the government agrees to help.

If the council decides not to buy the land, the city will lose $200, the amount it gave for the options.

Snow removal

The risk of heart attacks outweighs the risk of broken bones.

That's what an insurance executive told the Lincoln city council when asking for repeal of a city ordinance requiring snow to be cleared from sidewalks by 9 a.m. each morning.

We won't go that far, but it is worth suggesting that the city change its snow clearing ordinance so elderly persons would not be required to have their sidewalks cleared within 24 hours after a snow storm.

Scoping snow is a hard job, especially if you are up in years. Each winter there are news stories about persons who die in Omaha or some other city while scoping their walks and driveways. Most of them are elderly. Changing our ordinance might keep that from happening in Wayne.

Laurel Produces Tragedy

A Review By
SHIRLEY KRAEMER

Laurel's Junior-Senior class play, "Flowers for Algernon," was presented last Tuesday and Wednesday to an audience that may have been thinned by holiday obligations. Attendance was probably hurt also by the fact that the play followed just three weeks after the school's first musical which drew a large crowd.

"Flowers for Algernon," is a tragedy depicting the life of 32-year old Charles Gordon who is mentally retarded. The well-executed presentation was a definite hit for the younger set; adults found the play slow-moving, but captivating. Charlie, portrayed by Dave Anderson, has spent a lifetime surrounded by parental rejection, the cruelty of co-workers and teenage pranks. His parents, played by Steve McCorkindale and June Pearson, find themselves unable to bear the repercussions of having a retarded child and make the heart-rending decision to have Charlie "put away."

Committed, Charlie falls into an even deeper web of loneliness. His only friend is Mrs. Donner, owner of the bakery where Charlie works. Cindy Schulte projected the warm, strong personality of Mrs. Donner, revealing the woman's love and concern for the socially rejected young man.

Charlie's life abruptly changes when three medical experts, played by Jerry Schulte, LaMonte Sohler and Rick Pippitt, discover that surgery improves the mental capacities of Algernon, a mouse used in experimentation. Although the medical team agrees that the human mind is more delicate than that of a mouse, surgery is scheduled for Charlie.

Charlie recovers and doctors, medical science and the entire world are astonished at the capacity of their man-made genius. But Charlie, suffering from a split personality and shadows of the past, finds himself still an outcast; an oddity.

He travels to New York City to locate his parents, but finds his father does not recognize him and his mother, old and senile now, cannot accept the change in him. Charlie's only consolation is in a fearful reunion with his sister, Norma, played by Kim Chace, whose portrayal provided a unique note of warmth in the play.

Alone and depressed, Charlie watches in horror as Algernon begins to regress, and realizes his own fate as the probability of

The curtain is drawn as Charlie places flowers on Algernon's final resting place.

Others in the cast include Susan Schroeder as Alice Kirlian, Sherri Peterson as Doris, Yvonne Kraemer as the nurse, Kevin Cunningham as Frank, Carolyn Wentworth as Gina, Keith Olson as Joe, Paulette Hanson as Mrs. Feldman, Nancy Wallin as Ellen, Patti Purcell as Bernice, Glenn Anderson as Connie, Sheryl Anderson as a chairlady, Lanita McCorkindale as Mrs. Mooney, Lori Brachvogel as Mrs. Nemur, George Thompson as Mr. Harvey, Mary Nelson as Jackie Welberg, and Resa Gadeken as Anne Welberg.

Noel Stanley played Algernon. Greg Anderson, teen-age Charlie, and Pam Renter, the child Norma.

High school plays usually follow the traditional choices of comic or suspense mystery plots. "Flowers for Algernon," proved unique and enlightening.

Director Ella Larsen and the entire cast are to be applauded for their selection of a presentation to charged with the emotions of a society unable to accept mental retardation.

Couple Thankful For 57 Years of Marriage

A Wayne couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes, counted among their blessings this Thanksgiving, 57 years of marriage. Married Nov. 24, on the day before Thanksgiving in 1915, the couple marked their anniversary Friday, the day after Thanksgiving this year.

John Barnes, who was born and raised southeast of Waterbury, went about a mile and a half south of his farm home to find his bride. The couple was wed at the Dakota City Methodist Church and spent the first year on the Barnes farm. They spent two years in Allen and moved to Wayne in 1919 where they have lived since.

Barnes was employed by Gambles for 10 years and also worked as a carpenter. Many people still call upon his wood-working talents for the repair of furniture. The Barnes family includes their four sons-in-law and four daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Morris of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Townsend of Albion, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tribble of Grovesprings, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffrey of Allen. There are 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

One of the couple's grandchildren is in Alaska and another, her sister, is en route to Panama.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes marked the special week with a quiet dinner in the home of a niece, Mrs. Lelia Maynard.

Wildcats Boast 9 Returning Grapplers

Nine lettermen will be bolstering this year's Winside wrestling team as the Wildcats try again to put men into the state finals in Lincoln next year.

Head coach Doug Barclay is looking forward to a strong season this year with one of 1971's top grapplers, Dave Jaeger, helping the Wildcats.

"Dave won his bid for state champ in the 112-pound class last year," Barclay said, "and this year he's aiming to take a state title again."

Barclay noted that Jaeger will move up to the 119-pound division—after gaining weight this summer. But the head man still expects Jaeger to be a top contender for state.

"He's one of the better take-down wrestlers I've seen," Barclay continued. "Dave also is very good at reversing and escaping."

Headlining the other weight divisions for the Wildcat club will be Dean Krueger, Brian Hoffman, Doug Andersen, Steve Sueli, Doug and Gregg Lage, Rob Langenberg and Ed Lienemann.

"Krueger holds the team record for the most takedowns with 13," Barclay said. "He's a good competitor and also gets a lot of falls."

Last year Krueger, wrestling in the 155-pound class, had a 17-2 record. This year, the coach said, he will be going in at 164.

It looks like most of the Winside club will be wrestling at heavier weights this year, especially one senior, Ed Lienemann.

"In 1971, Ed went in for us at 145 and did a good job. But this year he'll be at 185 pounds," Barclay winced. "That boy can gain eight pounds in one day and lose it the next," he sighed.

Also making the change is Steve Sueli.

A 119-pounder last year, he will be wrestling at 132 this season. "He's been real consistent," Barclay commented. "He's also greatly improved from last year."

Last year's district winner, Doug Andersen, is "really coming along," Coach Barclay is looking for this lad to be hard to beat throughout the season and especially when districts and finals roll around.

"Doug had a head and ankle injury last year which might have kept him from taking the state match," according to Barclay.

Brothers Gregg and Doug Lage also will be working on this year's mat team as both boys set their sights on a better showing in districts.

Doug, at 126 a year ago, will be working in the 132-38 class while brother Gregg, 5-0 during half the season last year, will stay at 98.

"It isn't really fair to say that Gregg had a 5-0 season without telling you that he didn't get in until the latter part of the season," Barclay explained. "The main reason," he said, "was that he wasn't down to the right weight. But when he did reach the 98 pound class, Gregg did a good job."

Another letterman, Rob Langenberg, will be going at the 138 or 145 pound class. "Last year he was third in districts," the coach said, "when he was wrestling at 132. Now we'll have to wait to see which weight class he makes."

The only Winside grappler to be on the losing side as far as weight is concerned, is Brian Hoffmann. Brian is coming along and working hard. As yet I don't know whether he will go at 165 or 155," Barclay said.

All nine will help give the Wildcats a strong look, Barclay emphasized. Combined with 21 underclassmen, Winside should be strong this year, he said.

WSC's Gottsch, Monroe On NAIA Dream Team

For the third year, Wayne State's Gary Gottsch is the finest Nebraska NAIA football center.

He is one of two Wayne State defensive ends, Ken Monroe the other landing a berth on the "dream team" of 25 gridder's picked by coaches of the state's 10 NAIA colleges.

Gottsch, a senior from Springfield, has been Mr. Rock of the Wildcat offensive line for three seasons. Coach Del Stollenberg has said on numerous occasions.

Monroe, a senior from Arlington Heights, Ill., moved into the select circle on the strength of spectacular defense all season. He was a District all-star honor able mention last year.

Ten other Wildcat players had honorable mention this year.

On offense tackle John Van denBroeke, Omaha, guard Rich Mangum, Omaha, running back Reggie Smith, West Point, halfback Dan Ernst, Aurora, and Kirk Park, Burlington, Ia.

On defense tackle Ron Coles, Indianapolis, Ind., middle guard Pat Donohoe, O'Neill, linebacker George Bisack, Sterling, Ill. and deep back Gordon Grotzky, Aberdeen, Wash. and Pat Holston, Scotch Plains, N. J.

Besides Gottsch, the only other three-time all-star is Rod Freiling, Concordia offensive end.

K-State Drops Wayne State Wrestlers, 20-11

Minus two ace wrestlers, Wayne State started its wrestling season Friday night with a home loss of 20-11 to Big 8 foe Kansas State University.

Minor injuries sidelined Ken Monroe and Ron Coles. As it turned out heavyweight Ed Travers, a junior in his first dual start, won a 5-1 decision subbing for Coles. Monroe's replacement at 177 was freshman Tony Brown, who yielded a 9-2 decision.

Coach Gary Russo counted it as a respectable team performance considering the lack of experience. He used four freshmen.

Besides the Travers win, Wayne got decisions from 122-pounder Larry Kerstine, a senior who transferred from Northwest Missouri State, one of Wayne's tough annual foes, and 134-pounder Kent Irwin, who came from behind for what was likely the meet's finest performance. Steve Gregory baffled his KSU opponent to a scoreless draw.

Homeowner Jim Meyer suffered a 10-3 loss at 142—two classes above his regular weight last year. He gave it a game try, see K-State, page 5

Winside Girl Managers Say Wrestling A Blast

Winside High wrestlers never had it so good.

Besides having some of the top grapplers on their team battling for state honors, the group also sports what may be the state's first girl managers.

The pretty lassies, Deb Dahl and Joni Langenberg, really enjoy their job. In fact, they think high school wrestling is a "blast."

"You can learn a lot," said Joni, a junior, "and you can also learn the techniques of wrestling."

Wrestling Coach Doug Barclay spelled out the situation to the girls when they first started a year ago. "You are here to help, not to have the boys look at you." But the girls really don't mind having the boys take a peek once in awhile.

"I think the chance to do something like this is very unique," Deb remarked. "It's sort of a challenge—especially when the guys first told us we couldn't do it."

Both girls started their jobs last year when none of the high school boys wanted the job as managers.

"When Mr. Barclay asked the high school girls if they wanted to have the job we were the first to sign up," Deb said.

But Deb and Joni weren't the only ones who wanted the jobs. "We had to compete with seven other girls before the team made the choice for the two girls," Deb said.

The brunettes agreed that one great advantage of working with the team is "getting off from school for matches and tournaments."

"The 'Stooges,' as they are called, are respected by the boys. Their (the boys') first reaction was that we wouldn't have the guts to do it. But Joni explained, 'I don't take guys—we like the sport and want to learn more about it.'"

Last year both girls went to the state meet in Lincoln along with Coach Barclay's crew. "We really had fun there," Joni smiled. "The boys from other schools got a kick out of the whole thing, all they could say was 'Golly, girl managers.'"

Deb and Joni have faith in this

Geese Bag Limit Changes Dec. 4

Nebraska's daily bag limit on Canada geese changes beginning Dec. 4, reminds the Game and Parks Commission.

On that day and through the Dec. 14 closing, goose hunters throughout Nebraska may take only one Canada daily, except in a portion of the Sand Hills that is closed entirely to the hunting of Canadas and whistlers.

Prior to Dec. 4, daily bag limits on Canadas is two birds per day, and the possession limit is also two. The two bird possession limit will remain in force through the end of the season, even though the daily bag limit is lowered.

The lower bag limit on Canadas was imposed for the end of the season to protect restoration flocks of Giant Canada geese that are being re-established in Nebraska and states to the north. These giant Canadas traditionally migrate into the state late in the goose season.

Cats Pick Off Red Raiders In First Home Dual, 71-69

Intentions seem to have become reality for Coach Ron Jones and his Wayne State basketball Wildcats judging by their opening game triumph Wednesday 71-69 over North-western College.

Coach Jones announced some time back he intended to have a better balanced team this year, less dependence on center Dennis Siekles.

That's the way it worked in the first outing. A glance at the scoring reveals why. Jon Harvey topped the Cats with 19 Jim Merchel hit 10, Siekles 8, and five others registered six each—John Burch, Jeff Pilbeam, Chuck Collins, Tom Erwin and Bob Wentz. Ronnie Jones added four, but he led the Cats on rebounds at 16 while Harvey picked off 12.

For Harvey it was a case of zipping right on from last year. He finished that season with a career high 17, and against Northwestern he posted a new personal high.

A year ago the Red Raiders dumped Wayne in overtime, 96-87 and went on to win the Iowa NAIA championship. This time the Red Raiders came perilously close to making an other overtime tussle of it. They whittled a seven-point deficit to two in late minutes, and they muffed a tying chance after a time out with five seconds left. Wayne built a 36-29 point lead at the half on a hustling defense that put the brakes on North-western's scoring whiz, Jim Woudstra. But it was his 18 point burst after intermission that kept Raider hopes alive. Erwin's clutch pair of free throws with 58 seconds left gave Wayne the margin it needed to win before Northwestern scored the final fielder.

Bowl-Bound Band Needs Donations

Wanted: donations to help send the Wisner-Pilger marching band to the Orange Bowl parade in Miami.

That's the call going out from persons trying to raise some $15,000 to send the 68-member band to the Dec. 30th parade through downtown Miami, according to one of the persons helping with the fund drive.

Ted Hueftmann of Wisner said it is "almost certain" the band will get to participate in the annual event.

Persons promoting the trip have talked to Ernie Sieler, chairman of the Orange Bowl committee, and he told them the color band has been unofficially accepted. The next thing is receiving a letter from the committee officially inviting the band. Hueftmann said the parade is "almost certain" the band will get to participate in the annual event.

but have they stopped to think about what happens to that dollar they spend away from home? Part of it will go to support the schools, churches and public projects of the community in which that dollar was spent. All well and good. But what about the schools, churches, etc. in our own community? These must also be supported. IT'S A GHOST — Jamey Gunter and Scott Deck quickly jump out of bed when the pair discovers they have a ghost in their presence during the Winside play, "Finders Creepers."

Winside Presents Comedy

A Review By
PAT OSWALD
Donald Payton's three act mystery, "Finders Creepers," was an all school production presented at Winside Tuesday evening. The "Finders Creepers" plot is set in the Nelson home which is also a mortuary.

Steve Deck and Jamey Gunter delighted the audience with their portrayal of the frightened young guests. Jeff Farran was magnificent in his role of Uncle Bob Nelson, the mortician, and made a very convincing business man.

AFS Club To Sell Note Cards

Wayne residents in the market for Christmas note cards will be given a chance to purchase the cards and at the same time help the local American Field Service chapter.

Student members of the AFS club will be selling the cards Tuesday evening from 7 to 9:30 in the residential area of the city.

Proceeds from the note cards sales will go to help pay expenses of bringing another foreign student to study for a year at Wayne High School.

Cost of bringing the foreign student to Wayne each year is $1,000, and money is raised by the local club through several projects during the year.

Helping in Tuesday's project will be members of the Wayne Kiwanis, who will drive high school students throughout the city as they sell the note cards.

This year's foreign-exchange student is John Thavon of Thailand. He is staying with the Cyril Hansen family of rural Wayne.

Truck Damaged Near Winside

An Omaha driver escaped serious injury Monday morning, Nov. 20, when the truck he was driving slid off a county road a half mile east of Winside, went out of control and landed on its side.
Warren D. Rippey was headed west when he met two oncoming trucks, according to Wayne County sheriff's office. Rippey pulled his truck onto the shoulder of the road to bypass the trucks when his front wheel caught in the mud, causing the vehicle to go into a ditch.
The truck cab was completely destroyed, the report said, but the post hole digger and pile driver mounted on the truck sustained minor damage.
Rippey, who works for the United-States Steel Corp. in Omaha, complained of a sore leg.
