Complaints to Wayne City Council Get Results

Sometimes it helps to complain about your bill.
Several property owners in Wayne proved that when the city council Tuesday night okayed an assessment schedule which would reduce their bill for paving work by $2,520.

The five property owners earlier this month balked at paying a total of $3,600 for paving half a block of East Eighth Street just east of Window, contending that St. Mary's Church also benefited from the street improvement but was not helping pay for it. They also charged that the city authorized the work without notifying them that it was to be done and giving them a chance to protest it.

Tuesday night the council okayed a schedule which would charge more than half of the $4,925 cost to St. Mary's Church and about one-fourth to the five property owners. Under the new schedule, which will be considered by the council when it meets as a board of adjustment to review individual assessments Jan. 9, the property owners would be charged $1,080 for the work.

St. Mary's bill would be $2,520. The city's bill for the work remains the same under the new schedule — $1,025. The new schedule would charge just over 54 per cent of the cost to the church, about 23 per cent to the five property owners and about 22 per cent to the city.

At least two councilmen — Jim Thomas and Pat Gross — said during discussion of several proposed assessment schedules that the church should be required to pay some of the cost of the paving because the church has gained an improved access road to its parking lot.

Councilmen put on file for future reference a petition signed by 95 persons protesting the council's recent action in picking up two options to purchase land just east of the proposed new hospital near Wayne State College.

The petition asked the council to reconsider its action in picking up the options on 22½ acres of land for a total price of $86,500 for two reasons. Reasons cited were "lack of stidty as to the need, location and value of the property" and "impropriety on the part of the city attorney."

The city attorney negotiated with the two property owners, Ed Niemann and Erwin Longe, and at the same time had the real estate listing to sell some of the property for one of the owners.

Councilmen earlier this month agreed to pick up the options of $100 each with an eye toward buying the land for an access road to the hospital and for development into a park.
Council is currently awaiting the federal government's decision on the city's request for federal funds which would pay for about half the cost of the land.

The petitions will be referred to in the event any action is taken on exercising the options, the council agreed.

The council turned down the offer by Miron Jenness to purchase two small pieces of land the city owns just south of the Fat Kat on North Main Street.

Jenness said he is installing a miniature golf course south of his business on land which he recently purchased from Dan Sherry. Purchasing the two small pieces of land still owned by the city would enable him to run wiring to the addition and give him ownership of all the land in that southeast corner of the block.

Councilmen agreed that the land should be put up for bid if it is ever sold.
In other action councilmen: — Learned from the Nebraska Liquor Commission that Dick's Tavern in Wayne will be forced to close for five days starting Dec. 18 for selling beer after closing hours.

— Voted to give all full-time city employees $25 gift certificates for Christmas. The certificates, in the same amount as a year ago, are redeemable in Wayne stores.

— Passed an ordinance changing the zoning of three lots on the south side of Seventh Street just west of Dearborn from multiple dwelling to highway business. Plans call for building a Derby filling station there.

— Approved having the city engineer draw up plans and specifications for asphaltic paving of lawns and other areas at the municipal airport.
— Authorized Bill Mellor, line chief, and Norbert Brueger, electric superintendent, to draw up specifications for a boom truck which the city will consider purchasing for the light department. The unit would cost about $20,000 and would replace the unit purchased about 15 years ago, Mellor said.

— Okayed purchasing a $200 frame building for use by Scouts in the Boy Scout Park in southeast Wayne.

The numerous advertisements in the newspaper and supplement offer shoppers ways to cut down their holiday expenses.

Over 7,000 Copies Are Printed Again
For the second week in a row more than 7,000 copies of The Wayne Herald have been printed for distribution throughout the area.

Deadline Is Today For Poems, Stories
Any youngsters with poems or stories they have written for the writing contest being sponsored by The Wayne Herald will have to have them into the newspaper office today (Thursday).

Winning entry will receive a cash prize of $15. The other two top entries will receive cash prizes of $10 and $5.
All three winning efforts and pictures of their authors will be printed in a special edition of the newspaper scheduled for publication early in December.

Youths with letters to Santa they wish to have printed in that special section should bring them to the newspaper by the end of this week to make sure they will be printed.

WS Dinner Is Popular
Due to heavy ticket demand, a third performance of the Elizabethan Christmas Dinner has been scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 17, at 6:30 p.m., according to Dr. Cornell Runestad, director of the Wayne State College Madrigal Singers.

All tickets for the Saturday performance are gone, but a few Friday tickets remain, he said. Tickets for Dec. 17 are available at First National Bank in Wayne, or from the College music department office.

The dinner features the traditional English banquet fare combined with English Christmas customs as sung by the Madrigal Singers, a select group of 16 singers.

Prices Effective Nov. 30-Dec. 5
Effective dates for the prices on items included in the 16-page Gibson Discount Center supplement in this issue of the newspaper are printed incorrectly. The prices are effective Nov. 30 through Dec. 5.

College Band Plans Annual Concert Sunday
Wayne State's symphonic wind band will present its sixth annual December concert Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Ramsey Theater of the Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Dr. Lee Mendyk, conductor, has chosen a variety of music for the concert.
Among major selections: "Folk Song Suite" by R. Vaughan Williams, "Death and Transfiguration" by Richard Strauss and the latest composition by W. Francis McBeth, "Seventh Seal," which Dr. Mendyk describes as "a very exciting piece for both listener and performer."

For listeners who like marches: "This is the concert to attend as we will play a medley of marches from such composers as Sousa, Haffner, King, Goldman and Fillmore," Dr. Mendyk said.
Members of the band include Jeri Manning, Wayne, B-flat clarinet; Susan Stohler, Concord, and Sheri Kjar of Allen, both flute; Shelley Cramer, Concord, bass clarinet; Susan Havener, Carroll, baritone saxophone; Mindy Anderson, Laurel, trumpet; Bruce Linatutter, Wayne, trombone; Tim Sharer, Wayne, and Pam Smith, Laurel, both percussion.

$33,000 Raised at Wakefield
The drive to raise $100,000 to help construct a nursing home at Wakefield reached the one-third mark this week.

A total of about $33,000 had been contributed to the fund by Wednesday noon, reported the Wakefield National Bank.

Residents in the Wakefield area hope to reach their $100,000 goal by early in December so a new facility for nursing home and extended care patients can be constructed next to the existing hospital.

The community has applied for a total of $300,000 in federal loan and grant funds to help with construction costs.
Donations to the drive may be sent to the Wakefield bank.

'Salute to Sports'

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD Steve Bodenshtet patiently watches his director, Mrs. Linda Nelson, during Tuesday night's "Salute to Sports" at the Wayne High School lecture hall. Steve, along with members of the Middle School's seventh and eighth grade cadet band, helped provide music for the program that included physical education demonstrations by fifth and sixth grade students under the direction of Don Koenig.

'Wayne's SLD Program One of Best I've Seen'

Guest speaker at the Monday night meeting of the Title III Community Council in Wayne was Mrs. Florence Schmerler, Title III evaluator from St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Schmerler, who directs the masters' program in learning disabilities at the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul, commended the Wayne Carroll school system on Project Success for the SLD (specific learning disability) child.
The evaluator noted she did not expect to find any schools as far advanced in this type program as Minnesota, which had been one of the initial areas to recognize the need and to implement such programs about six years ago. She was surprised to find, she said, that the Wayne program was not only equal to but actually ahead of the Minnesota programs.
Wayne has one of the best programs I've seen," she went on, "and a lot of the credit must go to your well trained staff and communication between project instructors and other teachers in the school system."
About 30 community council members turned out for the second quarterly meeting. Following subcommittee meetings and reports, video tapes of Project Success in action were shown. The same tapes had been shown at the November Orton Society meeting, Seattle, Wash., which was attended by Project Director Richard Mettler, Community Council President Dorothy Ley, Joan Owens, who is in charge of curriculum modification, Don Koenig, motor perception instructor, and Marian Renwick, who works with the language arts division of the program.
Next council meeting will be Jan. 29.

Cochran: 1 of 2 Drivers To Suffer Death, Injury

"I like me."
With this startling comment for an opener, Sgt. Curtis Cochran of the State Patrol launched into a safety talk that proved to Wayne's Kiwanis Club why it is important to think, "I like me."
"I can't like others unless I like myself," the veteran state trooper said. "This applies to everything, especially driving."
Sgt. Cochran, director of training in a 21-county area of Northeast Nebraska, made several other pointed statements.

"All drivers could drive twice as safely."
"One of every two of you in this room will suffer death or disability in a car accident in your lifetime—unless you start driving better."
"Most accidents are preventable."
The trooper urged drivers to see COCHRAN, page 10.

D., was the scene of the marriage ceremony Saturday of Cindy Schutte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schutte, Dixon, to Jacob Keffeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Keffeler, Stanton. The Rev. Gary Westgard, Laurel, assisted by the Rev. George Larson, officiated at the 5:30 p.m. rites.

The bride, attended by Rhonda Lillard, Laurel, was given in marriage by her father. She chose an ankle-length gown of lavender polyester and carried a double orchid surrounded with

Shipleys Are Feted At Dinner

A dinner for 100 guests was held at the Carroll City Auditorium Sunday in honor of the 45th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Shipley, Norfolk.

Hosting the event were the couple's five children, Delmar Shipley and Major Dale Shipley, both of Fort Collins, Colo.; Mrs. David Patterson of Chicago, Ill.; Allen Shipley and Mrs. Swede Erickson of Lincoln. There are 18 grandchildren.

Nancy Shipley registered guests and gifts were arranged by other grandchildren. Decorations included a blue and white floral centerpiece provided by the family.

A cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Lloyd Dunklau, was presented the couple by Mrs. Shipley's sisters and brothers. Assisting in the kitchen were relatives and friends Mrs. Fred Lorenz, jured.

The program included, "Anniversary Song," by grandchildren, accompanied by David Shipley, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Betty Shipley. Instrumental selections were presented by grandchildren Debbie and David Patterson and David Shipley. Nieces, Sandy and Sally Lorenz, read a poem.

Nan Lorenz of Carroll and Earl Shipley of McLean were married Nov. 2, 1927 at Yankton, S.D., during a WMAX radio broadcast. They lived near Carroll several years, later moving to Norfolk.

The occasion was concluded by a luncheon Mrs. Wesley Williams, Lincoln, cut the cake which was served by Kathy Shipley, Norfolk.

Operetta At Allen On Dec. 8

Students in grade one through six at the Allen Consolidated Schools will present an operetta, "Mr. Grumpy's Toyshop," Friday evening, Dec. 8, according to Mrs. Susan Van Minden, elementary music instructor.

A supper, hosted by the bride's parents, was held at the Black Steer in Yankton immediately following the ceremony. Wedding guests include Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lillard, the Rev. and Mrs. Gary Westgard, Laurel, and Rod Bressler, Emerson.

The couple will be at home at Chanute AFB, Ill., where the bridegroom is stationed.

Laurel Teen Takes Tour

Gloria Tuttle, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tuttle, Laurel, was one of the 77 Nebraska teenagers who took an eight day tour of Washington D. C., New York and Chicago.

The annual tour, which has been held the past four years, is sponsored by a group of Nebraska churches.

Miss Tuttle left Nov. 10 and spent the first day in Omaha for orientation. Next stop was Chicago where small groups were formed for street interviews with Chicago residents. The youth spent the afternoon at the Art Institute and sight seeing.

They arrived in New York City Sunday and attended services at an interdenominational church near the Hudson Bay. Afterward they visited Manhattan Island, the Statue of Liberty, Wall Street, Broadway, Times Square and the Empire State Building.

Monday they stopped at the United Nations Building, the Conference Building the Radio City Music Hall, with a subway ride thrown in Tuesday the Omaha group gathered at the United Nations Church Center to

Lorraine Neiman Married

In a 7 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Grace Lutheran Church, Wayne, Lorraine Neiman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neiman, became the bride of Randall Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Johnson. All are of Wayne.

The Rev. Marvin Bramman officiated at the double ring rites. Keith and Karen Meyer, Atkinson, sang "Each for the Other" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Verne Mills.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire styled gown of angelmist taffeta and re-embroidered lace featuring portrait neckline, long tapered sleeves and tiered chapel-length train. Her silk illusion veil was caught to a petal crown and she carried a cascade of orange roses.

Mrs. Larry Chamberlin, Kearney, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Barbara Dobias, Atkinson, and Niki Kraemer, Wayne. Their floor-length gowns were of green crepe polyester and velvet, fashioned with long sleeves and velvet boleros. They wore matching scarves and carried single yellow mums.

Beth Ehrnburg, Creighton, and Becky Dobias, Atkinson, were flowergirls. Candles were lighted by Deborah Thies, Wayne, and Nancy Dobias, Atkinson. Dirk Ehrnburg, Creighton, was ringbearer.

Roger Johnson, Wayne, served his brother as best man and LaVerle McDonald, Wayne, and Michael Roebber, Allen, were groomsmen. Ushers were Jim Neiman and LaMorthe Johnson, Wayne, Roger Stahecker, Yankton, S.D., and Melvin Van derheide, Laurel.

Mrs. Neiman chose a floor length gown of navy polyester and chiffon for the daughter's wedding. Mrs. Johnson wore a floor length frock of orchid polyester and both had corsages of yellow and bronze carnations.

Debbie Dobias, Atkinson, registered guests and Trudy Carmen and Lisa Johnson, Wayne, Mrs. Gary Fagen, Stuart, and Donna Libengood, Winside, arranged gifts for the reception.

Leland Brecker served punch. Margaret Miliken and Carl Sundell were married at the Wayne Presbyterian parsonage by the Rev. Fenton Jones Nov. 22, 1972. The late Sara Miliken Barby and Albert Sundell were their attendants.

The bride attended Wayne High School and the bridegroom is a 1968 graduate of Winside High School. He served with the U.S. Army in Germany and is engaged in farming. The bride has been employed at Arnie's.

SEVEN RETURNING lettermen will give new Head Coach Bill Sharpe (right) some good potential for a winning basketball season at Wayne High School. Helping out on

Sharpe Looking for Fast-Breaking Offense, Strong Wayne Defense

Often times during a football game you can hear the fans shout "defense, defense." Wayne Coach Bill Sharpe is doing the same shouting for his team. But this time the scene has changed to basketball. "I believe a good defense can stop any good offense. So I'm making defense the stabilizing key to this year's team," Sharpe emphasizes.

The first-year head man from Lakota, Kan., isn't quite sure what his offensive potential is. But one thing for sure, the Blue Devil fans aren't going to fall asleep watching this fast-breaking team go into action.

"We're going to use the fast break some of the time to get open for the good shots," Sharpe said. "We're not going to be a run-and-gun type of team because I don't believe in that kind of a game."

Instead, Sharpe went on, the Wayne five will be working for the good shots and making each one count.

"It's important for us as a team to stay even during our first six games before Christmas vacation," Sharpe continued. "If we can do that then maybe we can get a winning confidence going for the team."

Sharpe expects his two big men, 6.5 Larry Shupe and 6.3 Roger Saul, to pace his "double post" offense. "When we are pressed man-to-man then both boys will work out to flood the inside for the good shots. Other times we might go into a 1-3-1 zone offense to get into scoring position."

If the Blue Devils do work out of a 1-3-1, Sharpe feels that sophomore Marty Hansen might take the front position with three men, 6.1 Bill Schwartz, 5.10 Randy Nelson and Doug Sturm, battling for the wingmen spots. Sharpe points out that his team selections depends on whether the players can work well on both offense and defense.

"I'll be stressing defense throughout the season. If we have a consistent defense our team can better cope with the upcoming teams," Sharpe noted.

In looking at this year's turnout of 23 men, Sharpe noted that the biggest drawback is the lack of a team leader. "Right now we don't have a leader. But maybe in the future the team will find one."

This Friday Wayne opens its season schedule with the Blair Bears. "This team isn't too big, but one thing I've noticed is its quickness. We'll have to build up our defense and hope our offense comes through if we want to win this one."

Assisting Sharpe this year will be Ron Carnes and Duane Blumenkamp.

Other games in the 17-game roster include: Dec. 8, Emerson Hubbard; 9, Columbus Lakeview; 12, at Laurel; 15, at Plainview; 16, Wakefield; 28, 30, Wayne State College Holiday Tournament; Jan. 5, at Madison; 12, Stanton; 19, Neligh; 20, Tekamah; 26, at Pierce; Feb. 2, at South Sioux City; 3, Schuyler; 9, at Wisner; 17, at Randolph; and 20, Hartington Cedar Catholic.

2 City Teams Open Season With Victories

Five fast league players went into the double figure column Monday night to lead their team to a 74-65 win in the first week of men's recreation basketball at the Wayne city auditorium.

Randy Helgren poured in 21 points to lead Team 2 over Team 1 while teammates Scott Niemann hit 15, Bob Nelson 14 and Mike Keenan and John Rebersdorf 12 each.

For the losers Steve Forth tapped in 24 followed by Dennis Spangler with 19 and Mike Creighton with 10.

In the second game of the evening, Team 3 beat out Team 4, 73-64.

Sid Hillier led his troop with 20 as Denny Paul scored 18, Dave Schulte 14 and Breck Giese 13.

Lynn Lessmann was Team 4's high man with 28 while Bill Woehler collected 11.

Next Wednesday Team 1 will take on Team 3 at 7 p.m. in the city auditorium, followed by Teams 4 and 5 facing off at 8:30 p.m. Team 2 rears a by.

According to recreation director Hank Overin, all fast league basketball games will be played on Monday nights unless the auditorium is unavailable. If unavailable, games will be switched to Wednesday night. Otherwise, on Wednesday nights, the building will be open from 7:30 p.m. for all men who play in fast and slow leagues.

After 8:30, members of the slow league will play regular games.

Wayne State Cagers Face Northern Iowa 5 Tonight

Wayne State cagers have a toughie in their next game Thursday at Cedar Falls. Their opponent, the University of Northern Iowa, cherishes the idea of winning a title in the formidable North Central Conference this year.

And UNI just might do it, with a seasoned team of veterans led by 6-4 senior Bill McCoy, who is just 17 points short of breaking a Panther career point record. He has averaged 17 points in three years.

"With McCoy are four other starters strong on scoring. But defense remains a question mark, according to UNI sports information director Rod Williamson. Last year a shaky defense dumped the Panthers to fourth in the NCC.

Wayne, on the other hand, is noted for defense, and the Cats will have the advantage of two winning games behind them while UNI is opening against Wayne.

The Wildcats put their offense to work Saturday with a fast break that broke open an early see-saw battle with Briar Cliff and soared to a 91-74 triumph on the Rice court.

While the game was marred by numerous turnovers and 51 foul calls, Wayne coaches saw some progress toward stressing the fast break.

"You are bound to see more mistakes in a running offense," Assistant Coach Darryl Lehms observed after the game. "Fans have been used to seeing Wayne play a "controlled offense. We didn't have any turnovers." There was another kind of progress—in balanced offense. Five players scored in double figures, from the 11 by Chuck Collins, and 10 to the 11 who played got into the scoring. Last year when Siefkes was average Wildcats scored 10 or more.

The tall Briar Cliff Chargers gave Wayne defense more than it could handle in opening minutes. Finally, with 9:40 left in the half, junior forward Ron Jones hit a long corner shot to put Wayne ahead, 22-20. The Wildcat margin grew steadily thereafter, to 49-39 at the half, and up to 70 points several times in mid second half.

Jon Harvey's 12 points kept him in the scoring leading with 31 points in two games. Siefkes follows with 26. In rebounding Jones is out from with 23 grabs. Siefkes again scored with 20.

Wayne's junior varsity also remained unbeaten with a tense 82-80 win over Briar Cliff JV. The visitors, trailing by 11 five minutes before the end, missed one shot and two tips in the last four seconds in an effort to tie.

Experience, Poise Mark Trojan Team

If there's one thing coach Joe Coble wants to improve over last year's Wakefield basketball team is the 1971 season record of three wins and 13 losses.

And this year it looks like he may do just that.

"We have six returning lettermen on this year's squad," he said. "And it looks like we'll have a little height to help control the boards."

Six foot-six junior Gary Ad-dink will be leading his squad in the height department followed by 6-4 senior Dave Scheel. "The rest of the team averages about 6-1 or 6-0," Coble added.

Besides Scheel, the only other senior on the Trojan team is Randy Johnson. "We're predominantly a young team with juniors filling in at most of the spots," he explained. "But a lot of those boys have plenty of experience to make a sound ball club."

During the 1972-73 season Coble admits his squad was "butchered" by a lot of the Class B clubs it faced. "There won't be too much of a break this year with the team facing at least five Class B clubs, but we'll do better."

Coble's "double stacked" offense will work out of a 1-4 type of game. The Wakefield coach believes his club will be more balanced and have more movement on offense.

Helping out in that type of game will be juniors Doug Fischer, Keith and Larry Siebrandt. "All three boys are capable players," he said, "but I'll probably start with Fischer at one of the guard positions."

Coach Coble sees his team not only breaking away fast but also being able to control the boards. "I'm looking forward to using Scheel, Sam Utecht or Loren Hammer to help out on getting the rebounds."

In fact, with all the teams' potential, Coble went on record to say that his team should be shooting "between 35-40 per cent. They've vastly improved over last year."

Assistant Coach Tim Pehrson will be helping out this year's squad along with student teachers Ron Larson and Peter Rogge.

"You can bet one thing," Coble remarked, "we'll be tougher than heck."

Wakefield schedule includes: Dec. 1—at Winslow; 8—at Winslow; 9—at Coleridge; 15—at Lyons; 16—at Wayne; 16-27—Wakefield Tournament; Jan. 5—at Oakland; 12—Tekamah; 13—at Pender; 19—West Point; 20—Scribner; 27—Allen; Feb. 9—at Homer; 10—Emerson, and 16—at Ponca.

Eagle Coach Looks for Team Hustle

Enthusiastic, hustling and lots of fire. That's the way head coach Robert Moore describes his Allen basketball team for the upcoming 1972-73 season. "I've got some good material," the first year head man said, "but it may take part of the season to see how that material develops."

Coach Moore is setting his sights on four returning lettermen to help sharpen the team's scoring punch. Seniors Duane Mitchell and Pete Snyder shot at 14 and 10 point average respectively last year.

Two other starters, juniors Scott Von Minden and Charlie Peters, will find a spot in the Eagles' scoring drive, with Von Minden at 6.2 and 13 points a game last season. "Peters played a good game last year," his teammates said, "but last year he was sick half the season so that hurt his average." Peters poured in 10 points a game. "I'm not sure exactly what kind of offense we will play," Moore noted. "It mainly depends upon the opposition's defense—again it also depends upon how our team develops through the season."

Last year the Eagles finished with a 7-12 campaign under Coach Barry Carlson, who moved to Ogallala.

Coach Moore came to Allen this year from Halsey Dunning High School where he was the head football coach for six years. Prior to that time, Moore was an assistant basketball coach at Cambridge one year.

"I'm looking forward to a good season," he commented, pointing out that he is happy about the new addition to the team—senior Stan Perry.

"Stan is a transfer from Sioux City Central," the coach said. "I think he'll fit into our ball game if all goes well."

Another player the coach is eyeing is Peters. "It may take a little time but I think both these boys can really help our of fense."

Although it looks like the lettermen, especially the seniors, will dominate the starting five, Coach Moore also will have plenty of help in juniors Darwin Ruback, Tim Hill, Roger An derson, Randy Lanser and Jim Koester, plus senior Terry Noe. Allen will start its season this Saturday against Coleridge in the school's first of three home games.

The rest of the schedule includes:

Dec. 12—Hartington; 15—Homer; 16—Newcastle; 25-29—at the Wakefield Holiday Tournament; Jan. 12—Ponca; 13—Walthill; 20—at Homer; 23—Newcastle; 26—at Ponca; 27—at Wakefield; 30—at Walthill; Feb. 5-6 at Newcastle Invitational; and Feb. 9—at Emerson-Hubbard.

Eight Accidents Occur in City

A total of eight accidents before and after the Thanksgiving holiday kept Wayne city police on the go.

A three car accident on Main between 10th and 11th Sts. occurred about 8:51 p.m. Tuesday when a car driven by James May, 802 Logan, struck the rear end of a vehicle driven by Orvid Owens of 709 E 10th.

According to the accident report the May auto also slid into the path of a vehicle driven by Scott T. Thompson, Route 2, Wayne.

Earlier police were summoned to 505 E 10th where a property damage accident happened at the Richard Lesh residence.

Police reported that a car drove across the Lesh lawn and then hit a tree before leaving the scene of the accident. Later, William M. McCoy of Omaha, driver of the vehicle, told police of the incident.

A vehicle driven by Marla Peterson, 1210 Douglas, was damaged Sunday about 5 p.m. when another vehicle hit her car parked near Seventh and Dear born and left the scene of the accident.

On Monday, collisions happened about 8:40 a.m. at 305 p.m.

A car driven by Dolores M. Schultz, 309 S. Main, was traveling west on Fifth Street when another auto, driven by Bonnie L. Stutzman of Norfolk, struck the Schultz car.

The police report said the Stutzman vehicle stopped at a stop sign at Fifth and Sherman and then proceeded into the intersection when the accident happened.

Later that day an auto driven by Daniel J. Gustafson, 220 N. Second struck a car behind him when he stopped for a stalled vehicle and then backed up. The mishap occurred on Pearl between Second and Third streets.

Three other minor car accidents were reported to the police last week with two occurring before the Thanksgiving weekend.

About 2:15 p.m. Nov. 22 a car driven by Cal Ward, 1037 Lincoln, struck a car wash door at Baretman's Standard Service Station on South Main.

According to the report, the Ward vehicle was being pulled through the car wash when it rolled into the door. The car sustained minor scratches.

That evening, about 9:18, two autos collided on the 300 block of Main. A car driven by Jane Ring of rural Wayne, struck the rear end of a vehicle driven by Betty Henschke of Wakefield, when she stopped for a signal light.

On Nov. 24, a car driven by Terry L. Graf, 938 Logan, struck the side of a car driven by Cal H. Frevert, 418 W. Sixth, when Graf was backing out of a parking stall on the 200 block on Pearl. The accident happened about 11:30 a.m.

Area 4-H'ers May Apply for 4-H Caravan

Wayne area 4-H youths willing to spend six weeks with a family overseas to help promote international understanding are being asked to apply for the 1972-73 Four-H Teen Caravan.

The program, being sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation, will send youth groups to Europe, the Far East, Latin America and the Caribbean Islands.

The program is an opportunity for Nebraska 4-H youth to visit other countries for a minimal amount of money, according to Dr. John D. Orr, associate state 4-H leader. Costs vary from $875 to $1,275, depending on which country is visited.

Cost is low because interested national corporations furnish funds to the foundation to help underwrite the program, Dr. Orr said.

Four-H Caravan members may find themselves helping a host brother hoe a garden in Norway, working on a language study with a host sister in Barbados or attending a local 4-H club meeting in the Philippines.

Besides the stay with the host family, the Caravan program includes a 10-day educational tour of nearby countries, with some programs offering language training. Each Caravan group is made up of 10-15 participants and a responsible group leader who assists with planning and conducting the program, Dr. Orr explained.

Teens between the ages of 17 and 20 may inquire at county extension offices for further information and application blanks. Applications are due at the State 4-H office by Jan. 1.

The Teen Caravan is conducted by the National 4-H Club Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service. The program in the host country is arranged by cooperation with the 4-H counterpart organization.

Military Rites Held Friday for Virgil Truby

Military funeral services were held Tuesday at St. John's Lutheran Church, Wakefield, for Virgil Truby, 53, of Wakefield. He died Friday at his home.

The Rev. Donald E. Meyer, officiated. The congregation sang "Abide With Me" and "I Know that My Redeemer Lives," accompanied by Mrs. Ray Prochaska.

Palmer and Charles Sodereberg, Benton Nicholson, Jack Brownell, Archie Schultz, Ray Tondreau and Dave Opfer. Color and Honor Guards were furnished by the American Legion, Wakefield Post. Burial was in the East View Cemetery, Allen.

Virgil Edwin Truby, son of Edwin and Zella Utterback Truby, was born Dec. 17, 1918 at Allen. He was baptized and confirmed at the First Lutheran Church, Allen. He attended school at Allen.

In 1941 he joined the Marines and served until 1945. He later joined the Army where he served for 20 years. Upon retirement from the Army, he was employed by the Fair Store, Wakefield.

On Feb. 14, 1965 he was united in marriage to Amber Schlines at Martinsburg. He was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, Wakefield and the American Legion, Wakefield Post.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Truby of Allen; his widow, Amber, two sons, Daniel of Albuquerque, N.M., and Richard of Sioux City, Ia.; one daughter, Mrs. Wayne (Virlene) Lyngen of Albuquerque, N.M.; two step-sons, Larry Schlines of Sioux City, Ia., and Dennis Schlines of Wakefield; five grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Harold (Donna) Fender of Nampa, Idaho.

Benedictines Have New Prioress

Sister Imelda Koch of Immaculata Convent at Norfolk has been elected as the prioress of the Missionary Benedictine Sisters.

Missionary Benedictines are located in Wayne, Norfolk, Madison, Winnebago, Columbus and Omaha in Nebraska and in Graceville, Minn.

Sister Koch will serve for five years, succeeding Mother Anella, now Sister Anella Salber, who completed her term.

Mother Imelda, formation director at Immaculata, Convent since 1961, formerly taught two years at Raville, Nebr., and was principal and teacher at St. Leonard's School in Madison for nine years.

She has three sisters who are also in the order. They are Sister Therese, administrator of Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital in Norfolk; Sister Clare of Norfolk and Sister Roselle, presently attending school in Omaha.

Pack Meeting
Pack 176 will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Laurel City Auditorium.

Styrofoam Airplane Races will be held with all dens competing. The Webelos Dens will demonstrate experiments worked on during November.

Dens II will serve refreshments.

Select Class Motto
During a class meeting held recently the Laurel seniors selected as their class motto, "We hold the future of the World in our hands. How shall we decide?"

The peace rose was selected as the class flower. Class colors will be apricot and ivory.

Improvements Made
New lights and poles are being installed on Highway 15 on the east edge of Laurel with the work being done by the city.

Future plans are to add a new lighting system to the business district.

Residents are also noticing new yield signs replacing many stop signs in the residential sections. Mr. L.J. Mallatt, city manager, stated that yield signs are the first step in updating the city's rules and regulations. In the near future residents will comply with a one-way street parking ordinance, the first in the community's history.

Monday, city crews were busy stringing Christmas lights and decorations in the business district.

Book Fair
Mrs. Howard F. Hansen, Laurel High School librarian, reported over $500 in books were sold during the Book Fair held Nov. 6 through 10 at the Laurel Public School.

The Book Fair is held under the auspices of the Educational Reading Service. It has become an annual project for Laurel student librarians.

Norfolk or Sioux City to see a doctor, she said, because the schedule forces them to stay overnight in the city.

Even then, she said, they have to obtain an appointment with their doctor or conduct their business early the next morning before the bus leaves for Wayne.

The old schedule, according to Mrs. Bull, allowed persons plenty of time to conduct their business in Sioux City without having to catch the bus back to Wayne later in the afternoon.

Mrs. Bull said numerous persons, especially elderly ones, have complained about the new schedule and hope it can be changed.

Arrow Stage Lines changed its schedule on its run between Norfolk and Sioux City without informing the State Railway Commission as required by law, according to Saathoff.

Wakefield Giving Out Xmas $$$

Shoppers in Wakefield began registering Saturday for the annual Christmas promotion which will make several area residents a few dollars richer during the holiday season.

Customers are given tickets to sign. The tickets may be signed with the customer's or a child's name and then dropped into a barrel.

Drawings will be held at 3:30 p.m. each Saturday through Dec. 16. A final drawing will be held Friday evening, Dec. 22.

Those whose names are called must be present to win. Prizes will be paid in "Wakefield Dollars" which can be spent only in Wakefield firms.

There will be four $25 dollar winners every Saturday. On Dec. 22 one name will be drawn for the $100 prize, three for $50 prizes and two for $25 prizes.

In addition, one name will be drawn from the children's barrel, the winner to take his choice of a bicycle, sled and pony of $50 bond.

Dr. Paul Byers is chairman of the Christmas promotion.

Superstitious farmers once said of the few unusual round barns found in northern Vermont, "They built them round so the devil couldn't corner you."

Dummy Fills Big Roll in AHS Play

A REVIEW
One of the biggest parts in the junior class play at Allen High School Friday and Saturday nights wasn't played by a student. It was "played by a dummy."

Rubberneck the dummy, from which the three act comedy got its name, is the Wilkens family's answer to stopping nearsighted Uncle Elwyn Buford from running again—and losing again—for mayor of his community.

Uncle Elwyn, a near-sighted misfit played by Darwin Ruback, didn't like it that he was being forced to drop out of the campaign, which would have been his eighth straight over the past 16 years.

But disliking it even more was Mayor Fletcher Crawford, played by Neil Blohm. He made no bones about wanting the bumbling uncle for his opponent. "It unites the voters behind me."

Before long the whole Wilkens family was united behind the "Rubberneck for Mayor" campaign, something which eventually got national attention for the town.

Several students turned in commendable performances for the comedy, which was presented Friday and Saturday nights. Barb Greener was at ease as an flippant, smart acting teenager, and Darwin Ruback did a fine job of playing the part of the nearsighted candidate for mayor who refused to wear glasses. The part of the hypochondriac Arnold Gormeyer was played well by Roger Anderson.

Also filling parts in the play were DeAnn Troth, Diane Fahrholz, Denise Linafeller, Scott VonMinden, Chuck Peters, Kay Schroeder, Jim Koester, Melodie Davenport and Randy Lanser.

Working behind the scenes were Larry Gotch, Dave Riffey and Rex Rastode on lights and setting. In charge of costumes were Susie Magnuson, Kathy Moore, Sandy Dowling, LeAnn Nobbe and Susan Malcom. Carmen Blohm, Mikki Roebler, Colleen Chapman, Susie Malcom, Kendra Linateller and Karen Schultz had charge of publicity and tickets, and DeAnn Troth and Diane Fahrholz had charge of programs.

Director for the comedy was Kathy Ehrisman. Helping her as student director was Kim Jackson.

Delores Ballou Funeral Rites Held in Norfolk

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the First Christian Church, Norfolk, for Delores Ballou, 55, of Laurel. She died Saturday at her home.

The daughter of Edward and Lavina Tanner Lamb, she was born Jan. 16, 1917 at Norfolk. She was married to Bernard Ballou July 24, 1933 at Stanton. Most of her life was spent in Norfolk, except for five years in California. She moved to Laurel in 1962.

The Rev. James Landrum officiated at the services. Mrs. David Crane sang "We Shall See His Lovely Face" and "Abide With Me," accompanied by Mrs. Harold Milliken. Pallbearers were Alvin Newton, Gail Carman, Earl Evers, Clayton Quinn, Harry Nelson and Eugene James. Burial was in Prospect Hill Cemetery, Norfolk.

Survivors include her widow, or, Bernard; one son, Larry of Omaha; one daughter, Mrs. William (Shirley) McNely of Columbus; one sister, Vera a Bernard of Marysville, Kan., and seven grandchildren. Preceding her in death were her parents and one sister.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) program, administered by the Manpower Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor, has programs for disadvantaged young people still in school which provide after-school and summer-time jobs. For those who have left school, there are full-time programs of work and training. Most jobs are in schools, libraries and other public institutions.

'Burro' Eats Up Wayne County History

By ROBERT BOECKENHAUER

The "Burro" has been busy the past few weeks near Wayne, tearing up the last few miles of a trail that has been here almost as long as the white man.

The "Burrow" is a diesel-powered mobile crane which eats up railroad tracks as it backs up.

It has been busy removing the last few miles of track between Wayne and Norfolk, wiping out the most visible part of a line which once linked Wayne, Winside, Hoskins and Norfolk.

Pulling a flat car to the end of the line, the "Burro" rips up the rails and loads them on the car. After the rails are removed, crews come in and remove ties, culverts and bridges until only the original grade remains.

The right-of-way between Wayne and Norfolk has been sold by Chicago Northwestern Railroad to adjacent landowners and in time will become cornfields and pasture land.

Less than 100 years after the first railroad was built in the county, the railroad that played such an important role in the development of the area will be all but gone. Only about six miles of track will remain in Wayne County.

But there is a lot of history tied up with that railroad line.

County residents voted 50.0 in January of 1876 to authorize issuing $88,000 worth of bonds to help the Covington, Columbus and Black Hills Railroad Co. build a line into the county, according to Dorothy Huse Nyberg's "History of Wayne County."

Those bonds were to draw 10 per cent semiannual interest and a tax was to be levied to pay for the bonds. The railroad was to be paid half the money when a grade was built within one mile of LaPorte, the county seat at that time, and the other half when a rail line was completed to that point and a depot constructed within one mile of the LaPorte courthouse.

After great difficulties, the railroad completed the grade in the summer of 1877, entrusting the company to the first payment of $4,000. However, a man from New York who owned land in Hancock precinct got an injunction against the county board, restraining the board from issuing the bonds and stopping further construction.

Traces of this original grade are still visible in some places, mostly in pastures that have not been cultivated in the Coon Creek Valley.

In 1880-81 the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad, a division of North western, began building a railroad west from Emerson. The line went up the South Logan Valley and over the hills at Apex to Norfolk, bypassing the county seat at LaPorte and spurring the growth of the new communities of Wakefield, Wayne, Winside and Hoskins.

Branch lines from Wakefield to Crofton and Wayne to Bloomfield completed the local rail line in 1886 and as a result Carroll and Sholes were established.

The railroad was the key to the development of the area, permitting livestock, feed and grains to be transported to market and supplies brought to the county. This area of the state became well known for the prime corned steers which of ten topped the Chicago market. Sixteen of these steers, weighing 1,600 pounds and more, would fill an ordinary railroad car.

RAILROAD FOREMAN John Saltzman of Emerson looks back over the miles of land his crew has removed railroad tracks from the past several weeks.

In the line's more prosperous time, there were two regular freight trains and two passenger trains each way daily on the main line between Sioux City and Norfolk. These trains also linked up with trains running between Sioux City and Omaha via Emerson. One freight and two combination freight-passenger trains ran each way on the two branch lines daily, scheduled to link up with the main line trains.

Incidentally, connecting links between the branch and main line were maintained at Wakefield and Wayne to turn the branch line trains around. Also, a huge wooden water supply tank was located along the tracks to fill the water compartment on the tender. On hot summer days, cars of hogs would be pulled along the tank so water could be sprayed onto them to cool them off.

Besides the regular trains, there were numerous specials. In the fall there were train loads of cattle and sheep from the Western ranges bound for Sioux City, some of them with as many as 90 to 100 cars.

For several years crude oil from the Wyoming oil fields was hauled to a Minneapolis refinery, often on a special train of 80 to 100 black tank cars. With two black locomotives in front and a red caboose in the rear, the train looked like a huge black dragon with a little red spot on the end of its tail as it traveled across the plains.

And there were other special trains, too, like the ones that carried the people to Norfolk when Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey were in town. Walter Savage had his own carnival train headquartered in Wayne, and in 1926 when Wakefield had an unbeaten football team a special carried the team and half of the community to South Sioux City for a Thanksgiving Day game.

There was one train that made an annual trip between Oakland and Wausa. Called the Oakland-Wausa Baseball Special, it would travel from Oakland to Wausa one year and from Wausa to Oakland the next. It always stopped at Wakefield so the Wakefield Swedes could go along for the fun.

In those days it was said the sun rose at Oakland, shined on WORKMEN remove the last few miles of rail between Norfolk and Wayne, ending the role of the railroad in development of this part of the state.

Wakefield and set at Wausa.

These trains didn't chug along like the one that creeps into Wayne occasionally now. The main line passenger trains would travel up to 60 miles an hour. That meant the track had to be in very good shape, requiring a large number of men to work on it.

In her book, Mrs. Nyberg tells of the locomotive of a train falling through a flood weakened bridge and killing two crewmen.

She also tells of a Negro section hand putting a "crease" in DeGrass Britton's skull with a pick axe during an altercation on the depot platform in Wayne.

Britton later died from the blow and the section hand was sentenced to the state penitentiary.

No doubt there are many other incidents that might be recalled concerning the railroad in Wayne County.

A Wayne business, The Paper Airplane, won first place in a recent contest for the best display used in 16 stores belonging to Nebraska Book Co.

The store, managed by Fred Netherland, won top prize for its window display of a fall scene. Prize was a digital clock radio.

Job Man Plans Stops at Wayne

L. M. Wicks, interviewer with the Norfolk Employment Service, will be in the Wayne County courthouse two times during December to help any area residents with employment problems.

Wicks will be in the courthouse on Dec. 13 and Dec. 27 from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Survey: County Families Hiking Financial Standing

According to a survey of incomes and income distribution, Wayne County families have been upgrading their financial position in the last few years.

Most of them have benefited from the rising scale of wages and salaries in the local area.

As a result, a larger proportion of them are now in the middle and upper income brackets and a smaller proportion in the lower ranges than ever before.

The extent to which the upward shift has been taking place, from bracket to bracket, is detailed in a copyrighted report released by Sales Management.

Purpose of the survey, which covers all parts of the county, was to obtain a clearer financial picture of each community that was revealed by its "average income" figure.

It sheds light on what the average represents, whether it is based on a small number of families with big incomes compensating for a much larger number with small incomes, or whether earnings are well distributed.

In Wayne County, it is shown, the general level is higher than it was and the spread relatively good.

Some 65.2 per cent of the households in the local area had net cash incomes, after payment of their taxes, of $5,000 or more in the year.

It was a larger proportion than in previous years. In 1968 it was 55.7 per cent.

The rise, 9.5 per cent, topped the United States rise of 5.7 per cent. The state of Nebraska gain was 7.1 per cent.

Because only cash income was considered in the survey, full justice is not done to farm families, as no allowances are made for income-in-kind and lower living costs on the farm.

As to the various income groupings in Wayne County, the breakdown shows that 25.7 per cent of local households have a net of $5,000 to $8,000, that 12.3 per cent are at the $8,000 to $10,000 level and that 27.2 per cent have $10,000 or over.

The others have $5,000 or less left after taxes.

Although take-home pay has been on the rise generally, not all of the gain represents an improvement in real income. Inflation has been taking its toll along the way.

Mental Health Survey 'Not Successful'

Responding to a survey conducted prior to the Nov. 7th general election, Senator Carl Curtis did not take a stand on the development of community health centers and said nothing about the need to end discrimination against mental illness in national health insurance legislation.

Results of the survey of candidates for Congress, conducted by the Nebraska Association for Mental Health, Inc., were released recently by the association's president, James Green.

Green said only four of eight candidates responded to the survey. Those responding included Sen. Curtis, winner over State Sen. Terry Carpenter in the Senate race; Darrel Berg, loser to Cong. Charles Thone for the First Congressional District seat; Warren Fitzgerald, candidate for Congress from the Third District; and Carpenter.

Green said that those candidates who did not respond to the questionnaire must not consider mental health care to be an issue of national and local importance.

The survey asked the candidates to spell out their stands on the issue of ending discrimination against the mentally ill in national health insurance proposals.

Green said the association supports continued development of community health centers, calling them effective and efficient methods to reduce the population of state mental hospitals. They also make available a wide range of treatment alternatives to everyone in their geographical areas, he said.

"It is crucial, therefore, that we have the support of all members of Congress for the continued development of community mental health centers," he said.

KENT AND LOIS HALL

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

Scouts deserve thanks

The Boy Scouts of the Wayne and Laurel areas certainly deserve a tip of the hat from area residents concerned about the mounting problems of pollution. The Scouts are doing something about that pollution by regularly collecting old newspapers for recycling.

Troop 175 in Wayne collected more than 13 tons of paper Saturday — a huge amount in anybody's language.

But 13 tons of paper doesn't mean much unless you start talking about it in terms everybody can understand.

Thirteen tons of newspaper would last The Wayne Herald for over two months.

Using an average total of 24 pages a week, 13 tons of newspaper would enable us to roll out about 65,000 issues of The Herald. That's a lot of newspapers going into a lot of homes over a long period of time.

True, the area scouts' efforts at recycling paper is not making much of a dent in this state or this nation's pollution problem. But it is a fine step in the right direction. Combined with similar efforts across Nebraska and the United States, it adds up to one way to help keep ourselves from being swamped in discarded newspapers.

Mobile home tie-downs

A reader suggested recently that the Wayne city council consider adopting an ordinance requiring tie-downs on mobile homes.

His reasoning is quite simple. Tie-downs would make mobile homes much safer during Nebraska's wind storms, reducing the possibility of a mobile home being toppled over or rolled into another home.

Studies have shown that winds of 65 miles an hour will blow over mobile homes. It's probably an unusual year when Northwest Nebraska doesn't experience a wind that strong.

Wayne currently has no ordinance requiring mobile homes to be tied down to prevent damage during severe wind storms. Our reader's suggestion should be worth consideration by the local council.

Way Back When

30 Years Ago
December 3, 1942: The Adolph Baler and C. N. Olson cars had front wheels damaged Thanksgiving day when they collided near the Methodist Church. Perry Jarvis, Carroll, bought the former Porter garage building and will use the building for housing his trucks. Facing help shortage, men and women tackled the corn husking task and the result is that most of the crop has been taken care of. Fred Victor held a successful farm sale Tuesday. James Finn, son of John Finn, Carroll, received a broken leg Monday when a horse fell on him. A service flag with the names of 11 young men from the congregation who are in the armed forces was dedicated at special services Sunday morning in the St. Paul Lutheran Church, Carroll.

25 Years Ago
December 4, 1947: Fire from a gasoline cooking stove destroyed one of the trailers at the camp west of the college Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. David Cromwell and family escaped unharmed but lost most of their clothing and other possessions. Methodist Church installed a new piano Sunday presented them by Mrs. W. E. Way, a long-time member of the church. Wayne city school will offer driver education the second semester, according to a decision made by the board of education Monday evening.

20 Years Ago
November 27, 1952: Clearing skies Wednesday brought an end to a two-day storm highlighted by Tuesday's blizzard that isolated Wayne and surrounding towns. Gale-like winds drifted the four-inch snow and blocked all roads leading to Wayne. Installation services were held Sunday afternoon for Rev. Roy Beckmann, new pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Carroll, who with his wife and daughter arrived last Monday from Genoa, Colo. David Ratzlaff, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ratzlaff, Wayne, has been named one of the finalists in the Pillsbury fourth grade national baking contest. He will go to

There's a storm brewin' down Lincoln way

LINCOLN—The legislative and executive branches of state government appear headed on a collision course.

The crash should take place in January when the lawmakers convene for their 90-day 1973 session. Judging strictly on the basis of clues dropped by both sides during the pre-session period, differences which existed between the branches the past two legislative meetings will be emphasized in 1973.

Gov. J. James Exon already has established a record pace of vetoes. From the looks of things, there won't be much letup next year.

Such issues as state school aid, penal reform, mental retardation and others are likely to spark fierce debates between the senators and the governor's office.

There has been recent action on still another front—the operation of the State Department of Administrative Services (DAS).

The DAS director, Gus Lieske, has been involved in controversy since he took the post at the beginning of Exon's term. Critics have claimed Lieske has been dictatorial in his relations with other agencies and has reduced DAS staff in the name of economy but at the expense of service.

Exon, however, staunchly defends Lies-ke's record.

The type of job DAS is doing has been under a legislative microscope during the between-sessions period. A subcommittee of the Interim Budget Committee has been conducting the investigation.

A special task force headed by State Auditor Ray A.C. Johnson looked into the state accounting system and reported to the budget subcommittee that DAS isn't doing the accounting job the Legislature assigned it.

The Johnson task force recommended a new state department be created to provide central accounting, data processing and other service tasks. This department would be directed by a controller—instead of a chief chosen directly by the governor. The controller would be nominated by a committee appointed by the State Accountability Board. A governor would choose from among three names submitted to him.

According to the Johnson group's recommendations, the controller would serve an eight-year term, scheduled so it didn't coincide with a governor's term. The controller could be fired only for just cause and his employees would serve under a merit system.

The effect of these recommendations would be to insulate the accounting and central services operations from politics as much as possible.

The executive budget office, now an arm of DAS, would be moved to the governor's personal staff and would receive on an equal basis with the legislative fiscal analysts data produced from the accountants' computers.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney, approved the Johnson task force's report and voted to forward the plan to the 1973 Legislature.

The report included a series of criticisms about DAS operations, although Johnson and his task force said they wanted it understood many of the criticisms were valid throughout the seven-year history of DAS and weren't meant as a personal slam at Lieske or the Exon administration.

Nevertheless, Exon has defended the present DAS operations and would be expected to veto any bill to transfer the department's authority to a new controller's department.

So the operations of the state's central accounting services could be another lively topic in the 1973 session.

A related subject concerns the Exon administration's decision to ask computer suppliers what they would charge to provide the equipment and services the state now is leasing from International Business Machines (IBM).

IBM is one of three firms which have bid on the package. The others are Honeywell and Univac.

The legislative and executive branches are involved in a mini-dispute over the hiring of consultants to appraise the situation.

The lawmakers recently voted to have consultants hired to make an independent study. The implication was that there wouldn't be any outside evaluation unless the senators took action.

Exon, however, responded that he had been trying for several weeks to work out a joint plan for evaluation, but had been thwarted by legislative leaders. He cited dates and places where meetings had been held and said arrangements had been made for Nebraskans to show the bids to computer experts from other states who had been assigned to make the evaluation through the Council of State Governments.

That was just another example of the friction that is building between the legislative and executive branches during the days leading up to the 1973 session. When the play starts to be for keeps, the action is expected to be even rougher.

Study shows property tax forces the wealthy to dig deeper into wallets than poor

A frequently heard charge that the property tax is regressive—that poor families pay a higher proportion of their income in property taxes than the rich—is not supported by data, according to a study described in the November "Monthly Review" of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

For this reason, reform of school finance methods, a step being considered by many state legislatures—would not necessarily decrease the burden on lower income taxpayers, the study contends.

The study indicates that the residential portion of the school property tax in the Kansas City metropolitan area is proportional or even progressive—wealthy persons pay an equal or greater proportion of their incomes than the poor. The strongest results in support of the progressive nature of property taxes came from analyses using 38 school districts in the area as the basic unit of study.

Computer analyses indicate that the value of housing, upon which property taxes are assessed, rises more than proportionally with income. The statistical tests also imply that the school property tax rate averages considerably higher in school districts with high median income than in those with low median income.

Both effects reinforce each other, causing a fairly pronounced positive correlation between income and the proportion of income paid in property taxes, according to the study.

Alternatively, when the article's authors studied property tax incidence using geographical tracts from the 1970 Census of Housing rather than school districts as the unit of observation, the regression technique showed property taxation approximately proportional to income.

By census tract, the value of housing rises slightly less than proportionally with income, while the positive relationship between income and the tax rate is less pronounced, they found.

The conclusions about the proportional or progressive nature of the property tax do not necessarily give the tax a clean bill of health, the "Monthly Review" article cautions. Other major charges against the tax also should be considered.

Such criticisms include the charge that the amount of real property owned by a person bears no relation to his ability to pay taxes and that property ownership bears no relation to the services paid for out of property taxes. For example, critics of the school tax note that the burden it imposes on retired persons who live in their own homes but often have limited incomes.

The authors do not comment on the validity of any criticisms other than that the property tax is regressive. They emphasize that no final evaluation can be made until all major criticisms are considered.

December 5, 1957: Neighbors and friends gathered at the Carl Amend farm Friday to help the Amend brothers pick corn. Seven pickers were used in the project. Ed Casauwe, manager of the Wayne County Noxious Weed district, attended the annual weed district inspectors school held in Lincoln recently. Another week without precipitation allowed NE Nebraska farmers to step up their corn harvesting operations. Corn Tuesday was about 85 per cent picked according to County Agent Harold Ingalls. Jack Smith, work unit conservationist with the Wayne County Soil Conservation District six years, has been transferred to the Morrill County district at Bridgeport, it was announced this week. Santa Claus made his first visit to Wayne Saturday afternoon to take orders from NE Nebraska children for presents they would like to find in their stockings Christmas morning.

WE APOLOGIZE!

December and Christmas season is a time for remembering family and friends. In the category of friends is a very special type... your neighbors. To city folk, neighbors are usually considered a nuisance. To country and rural people, neighbors are almost a necessity. The mere mention of neighbors instantly brings to mind Neighbor John. Now, every farmer has a neighbor John, or someone similar. Some days you hate, envy, purposely aggravate or try to ignore him. But usually before the sun goes down you love, help, appreciate and might even go visit him. There have been many times when you stopped work to help him bale hay, haul corn or do other jobs, and then when you wanted a little help he was too busy. He must have found out that you had asked another neighbor first! Well, he did get around to helping you after he had his own work finished. When you're about ready to condemn him for all eternity, the Mrs. reminds you of the time you were sick and Neighbor John and his boys put up your entire hay crop. Then you think about the time you wanted to use Neighbor John's tractor and loader and he wouldn't let you use it until the next day. Cripes, you could have put your own loader on by then. But you didn't. But, boy, a week later did he ever come over in a huff and take them home. Never bothered to stop and see if you were finished with them or even have a cup of coffee. Well, you would have been done with them if you hadn't taken off a couple days to go to those sales. There is hardly anything that irritates you worse than Neighbor John's bragging about collecting more hail insurance than you. You always secretly accuse him of paying some of it back to the adjuster. What if his crop is insured for more money per acre? The higher damage to you had should make up the difference. ... or so it seems. And it sure seems like every time you mention you are going to buy a new tractor, he goes and buys one first. Then you have to buy a bigger one. At that rate neighbors can be a costly, aggravating nuisance.

But if you've never been snowed in on the farm, you have no idea how much you need your neighbors. Although they're getting to be farther down the road, it's comforting to know you can depend on them. City folk usually build fences to keep their neighbors out. Country folks usually build fences to let their neighbors in. City folk build fences high enough so the neighbors can't see what they are doing when their neighbors don't even care if they are home or not. Goodness, what's the fun of going somewhere if Neighbor John can't wonder where you went? He's always telling you about going here and there and where his Mrs. has been shopping for all the bargains. That's the only really bad thing about automatic yard lights. You once were able to tell exactly when Neighbor John got home because you watched for his yard light to go on. That's modernization for you. And what's the sense of a fence that's too high to visit over? Even when you and Neighbor John meet at the end of the fields, one climbs through the three strand barbed wire fence to visit for a few minutes. Well, maybe the Mrs. builds a pretty high fence around her garden, but it sure isn't to keep her neighbors out. It's to keep out the horse, chickens, pigs and other wandering creatures. She seldom has any trouble keeping the kids out of her problem is getting them in the garden. Without a doubt, Christmas season is the time for rural neighbors to remember and appreciate each other. Come a blizzard or next spring, you'll get back to the working, sharing, depending and friendly aggravating. That is, if you're still on speaking terms.

Native of Emerson Is Now on Staff of Ak-Sar-Ben

A native of Emerson, Harold Youngren, has been appointed to the Ak-Sar-Ben executive staff. Youngren, administrator of Girls Town in Omaha the past two and a half years, joins the staff as director of special projects. He will assume his post Dec. 4.

He will be involved in the total Ak-Sar-Ben program and will be assigned specific projects which are important to Ak-Sar-Ben's continuing program of serving this area, said Tom Brock, executive director of Ak-Sar-Ben. His appointment completes the re-alignment and expansion of the executive staff of Ak-Sar-Ben, Brock added.

Holiday Hold on Waistlines
Do you have trouble facing yourself in January because of what you ate in November and December?

It's certainly no secret turkey dinners, candy, fruit cake, and other rich "traditionals" can cause problems for those who are trying to maintain or lose weight.

Here are some suggested guidelines to keep your eating in line.

Find a reason why it's important you won't gain weight. Let this act as a barrier between you and the temptation.

Cut down on the size of serving you help yourself to. If you have eyes bigger than your stomach, don't be a plate cleaner. It's really less wasteful to leave food uneaten than to put stress on your body with too much food.

Don't play the "I'll diet tomorrow" game—start today. Eat no more than your needs. Let the refrigerator store foods, not your fat cells.

Don't taste food while you're cooking. You can add 200 to 400 calories before sitting down to a meal.

Remove visible fat from meats before and after cooking. Skim fat from gravies and dressings before thickening to reduce calories.

Eat meat and stay slim is quite true. Surround it with low-calorie foods from the other food groups, too. Go creative with fruits and vegetables to add color, form and texture to your meals. Choose fruit arrangements as a dessert too. Only eat rich desserts occasionally and in small size servings.

Breads and cereals can add low-calorie interest to your meals. Just watch what you add to foods from this food group. For example, sugar is what makes cereal fattening.

What's better way is there to top off a meal than with a food or drink from the milk group?

Choose low fat milk products when reducing.

Eating only the requirements of the basic four food groups—meats, 2 (2 1/2 oz.) servings; fruits and vegetables 4 (1/2 cup) servings; breads and cereals, 4

(approximately 3/4 cup or 1 slice) servings; milk, 2 (8 oz. servings)—gives the adult only 1,200 calories.

Begin keeping track of what you eat and eliminate foods not called for in the basic four food guide.

Think enough of your own well being to stand up to food pushing hostesses and say "only half that sized portion, please."

Of course, this works two ways. When people at your table say "Just a small piece," take them at their word.

Be sure to put a holiday hold on your waistline now. When January rolls around you'll be glad you did.

Over $111,000 in Scholarships Are On Line Tuesday

College scholarships totaling $111,000 will be at stake Tuesday when high school seniors throughout the country join in the written knowledge and attitude examination of the 1973 Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow.

This year, for the first time in the 19 year history of the educational program, boys are eligible to participate.

Scores on the 50 minute test will form the basis for selection of local Homemakers of Tomorrow. These students will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the Betty Crocker Search, and will remain in the running for state and national honors.

State Homemakers of Tomorrow — one from each state and the District of Columbia — will be awarded $1,500 scholarships. To be chosen in judging centering on performance in the written examination, they will also earn for their schools a 20-volume encyclopedia reference work. Second-ranking participants will receive $500 college grants.

Late next April, the 51 winners will compete in Washington, D.C. for the 1973 Betty Crocker All American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up. Scholarship winners of the four national winners will be $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

A $1,000 nutrition scholarship, instituted last year, will be part of the program again this year.

Beef Promoters Move to Gibbon

Nebraska's beef promotion organization will be working out of Gibbon, just east of Kearney, starting Dec. 1.

The group, Nebraska Live Stock Foundation, has had a temporary headquarters at Alliance.

Jesse Felker, program director, will be working out of Gibbon and will be able to fill all requests for information or materials if addressed to him there.

The foundation organized the 10 cent beef checkoff promotion, with a dime for each head of cattle sold being paid by the cattle as a fee for promotion, education, research and development.

Sponsors Hope For Big Crowd At 4th Party

Sponsors of the fourth annual Christmas party planned for Dec. 16 at the city auditorium in Wayne are hoping for an even larger turnout than a year ago. Last year the party attracted about 500 youngsters from throughout the Wayne area.

Sponsoring the party this year are the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Kappa Delta Gamma sorority and the Order of Diana at Wayne State College.

The annual party gives parents a chance to do their Christmas shopping while leaving their children at a place where they can have a morning and afternoon filled with fun.

Planned during the day are numerous games, a Christmas skit and cartoons. Youngsters will also be able to break large pinatas, paper-mache figures filled with toys and candy. They are also being invited to bring their entries for the picture contest being planned by the sponsors.

Businessmen in Wayne will be asked this week to make donations to help finance the party. Persons wishing to contribute funds to the party may send donations to: "Operation Christmas Party," TKE House, 814 Nebraska St., Wayne.

Wayne Man Given Probation Term

A Wayne man, Paul G. Hendon, was sentenced to 18 months probation for breaking and entering a motor vehicle with intent to commit a larceny. District Judge Merritt Warren of Creighton handed down the penalty during last week's district court session at the Wayne County Courthouse.

Actress, Teacher, Director Finds Teaching 'Most Rewarding' of Her Experience

By SANDY BREITKREUTZ

"For every drama class you enroll in, you must take a business course," said John Johnston to his teenage daughter in 1934 when he discovered her interest in the theatre was not a passing fancy.

"And more than that," he ordered, "your grades in business must equal those in acting or you will have to give up the latter."

The daughter followed her father's instructions, making top grades all through school. She taught for a time at a well-known drama school and worked with a theatrical stock company several years before coming to Wayne.

As Dr. Helen J. Russell, the actress-director-teacher has spent 14 years in the Wayne State College theatre department, encouraging promising thespians and instilling in friends and associates the wisdom of her own experiences when allowed to come in contact with the world of make believe.

Nearly every girl at some time during her life wants to be an actress, but how many are blessed with an understanding mother? Dr. Russell had such a mother in Kathryn Johnston, and that is a story in itself.

Her mother was born in the 1880's in St. Louis, Mo. Through a dance class she was spotted at by a stock company agent looking for a local number to fill out a show playing there. Kathryn joined the company at the age of 15.

After several years she left the stage, and went into business in Blackfoot, Idaho. By the time she met John Johnston she was "respectably settled" as the proprietress of a successful hotel. Little did Johnston know his wife's first love, the theatre, would affect his only daughter.

Helen was born in 1920 in Idaho Falls, and it was while she was attending high school in Ogden that her interest in the arts was seriously brought to her father's attention, and the ultimatum made. (Mr. Johnston had hopes of Helen becoming a CPA.)

After high school, Helen accepted a scholarship to a college in Salt Lake City, meanwhile "plotting" with her mother how to get into acting school.

After her first year of college, Helen stayed out of school a year to keep books for her father in his wholesale company. She swears it was unintentional, but an error in a purchase order caused Mr. Johnston to find himself with cartons and cartons of smoked salmon and herring rather than the few cases of merchandise he was equipped to handle.

Helen's brothers, who sold on the road for the company, pushed the fish products in "two-for-one sales," "three-for-one sales" and finally "four-for-one sales," and Helen admits the last of the stock may have gone into the Snake River. Helen was fired.

In 1940 she enrolled in Goodman Memorial Theatre, the Art Institute of Chicago, one of the nation's four largest acting schools.

At Goodman a freshman class of approximately 50 was weeded out to about 30 students before the second year. At the end of the second year another weeding out took place, with only the talented ones who could make it academically invited to return.

Helen not only survived the eliminations but earned full tuition scholarships and went on to graduate with an honor equivalent to summa cum laude.

Because she had one year of college behind her, she had enough credits for a bachelor of fine arts in acting by the end of her third year at Goodman. Her fourth year there was spent working on her master of fine arts in directing. She spent the summer of 1944 picking up extra hours at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., receiving her BFA and MFA at the same graduation ceremony at Goodman.

Because of her record, she was asked to join the Goodman faculty, spending the next year teaching acting to freshmen.

Her prize student that year she recalled, was Geraldine Page, now known to many for appearances in movies, on Broadway and in television specials.

"Another student of Goodman who graduated a couple of years before I did — was Karl Malden, now seen on television in 'San Francisco Beat.' His name wasn't Malden then, though. It was Sciciveltch, or something," Dr. Russell went on.

MARY MORRIS (seated), a well-known Broadway actress came down from New York to appear in the premiere performance of "Cellar and the Well," at the Artillery Lane Playhouse, St. Augustine, Fla. Dr. Helen J. Russell, (also pictured) shared the spotlight with Miss Morris in the 1948 production.

"And of course there was a young actor by the name of Factor," she continued, "who graduated a couple of years behind me. He was always cast in heavy parts at Goodman. Though he played Chicago night clubs to put himself through school. He is well known for his comedy sketches now as Shelly Berman."

After her first year of teaching at Goodman, Helen went to New England to spend her vacation as a summer stock actress and director with the New London Playhouse in New Hampshire. Her intentions were to return to Goodman that fall, but in the meantime she had another summer stock actress were approached by Patricia Dutton Burdine, a Vassar graduate, who wanted to start a winter stock company in Florida with Helen as leading lady and alternate director. The offer didn't promise the security the Goodman Theatre job held, but it was tempting enough.

Advertisements were inserted in "Variety" and other trade papers and the original crew of three set up additions in the New York hotel that September.

There were actors on the way up, actors on the way down, actors on "stiff" and college graduates at the tryouts. Times were hard and it was nothing to see the same ill-fitting suit on two different actors," she said.

Of approximately 60 who auditioned, eight were selected. The company was complemented with apprentices, college graduates who needed experience before they could join the actor's union.

The Artillery Lane Playhouse in St. Augustine, Fla., was converted from a bowling alley and opened in December of 1945. St. Augustine had always been a sort of writers' and artists' colony, and it was here that Helen became friends with Lucy MacLeish, sister-in-law of writer Archibald MacLeish.

"She was really something," Dr. Russell said of the woman whose closing over 30 evening gowns and countless furs often supplemented Helen's wardrobe for Playhouse presentations.

"She loved the theatre and would have been hurt if I hadn't used her clothes. I didn't like to have the furs even though they were locked up each night, but when I'd request two, she'd insist that I needed five! Mr. MacLeish will buy me another," she'd laugh."

Joan Blondell was in St. Augustine then. "She was really enthusiastic about the company's productions," Helen reminisced, "and probably would have appeared with us, but her stay in Florida was cut short."

Artillery Lane Playhouse folded after about six years and Dr. Russell returned to Idaho Falls to take a bookkeeping job.

A bonus with the job was the lease of a former dance studio above the firm. This was converted into a small theatre when Helen opened a drama school similar to the one she had operated in Florida during the summer months. Her boss allowed her time off during working hours to instruct the children. Later he even furnished a jeep filled with gas for her to drive to Rigby, Idaho, for her twice-weekly classes.

One of Helen's students at that time was a talented girl named Carolyn Collette, who won the coveted Miss Idaho award. Helen was scheduled to go to Atlantic City with Miss Collette as her chaperone for the Miss America Contest.

"While waiting for the big competition, the girl decided to go to Reno to get some experience in a chorus line," said Dr. Russell. "She met and married a multimillionaire there and blew her chances. Mmm too," laughed Dr. Russell.

Helen's application for teaching in the Idaho Falls school system had been submitted for some time, but the predominately Mormon community was not about to hire a Catholic and a woman to boot, though they hired other teachers with less sufficient teaching credentials.

Then ARCO, the Atomic Energy Commission, moved into Idaho with headquarters in Idaho Falls.

"This opened the community up, and my chance to get into the school came when a non-Mormon superintendent was installed. I was still a woman," said Dr. Russell, "and I got the job of theatre instructor at O. E. Bell Junior High School while a man was hired to teach at the senior high."

"I became enthused in working with this age group, though," she went on. "They were so uninhibited and ready to lose themselves and become totally dedicated in the theatre. I had five theatre classes with about 30 students in each." Also in Idaho Falls Dr. Russell served three years as director of the Community Playhouse.

In 1954 she enrolled at the University of Denver to pursue a Ph.D., setting a record by completing requirements in five quarters rather than the usual eight.

Dr. Russell received her doctorate at Denver in 1957 with a major in theatre and minor in speech pathology.

She came to Wayne State College in 1958 as associate professor of speech and drama. Now professor of theatre, she has brought to the department several innovations.

"Tonight at Eight," a bill of one-act plays directed each winter by senior theatre majors, arrived with Dr. Russell.

The theatre department produces four plays annually. The biggest of these is the Children's Theatre, also introduced by Dr. Russell. Begun in 1959 with an audience of 270 for "Little Black Sambo," this special production now attracts 4,500 people each year.

The annual production of such classics as "Othello," "Aeschylus," and, coming this year, Ibsen's "Ghosts," promises to grow in a similar manner. This production is geared to high school and college age audiences who charter buses from miles away to make the trip.

For several years, many of Dr. Russell's students at WSC went with her to Shore Acres Theatre in Sioux City for summer stock experience, but lack of local support there caused the effort to fail. The spirit remained, however, and many students last year found their way to Hagerstown, Ind., where Ron and Nancy Wachholz, also on the WSC teaching staff, have organized a summer stock theatre.

Dr. Russell says of her teaching career: "It was my second choice, but I wouldn't go back to the rat race for anything in the world. Teaching is so much more rewarding."

Wakefield Girl Helps Promote Beef Industry On D.C., NYC Tour

A Wakefield girl, Donna Johnson, is one of about 150 persons taking part in a tour to Washington, D. C., and New York City to promote the beef industry.
 Also taking part in the tour is Robert Jordan of Wayne.
 Miss Johnson, 19, was given the title of Miss Steak and Eggs by her sponsor, Milton G. Waldbaum Co. of Wakefield, for the time she is on the tour. The title will help publicize her parents' business — cattle feeding — and her sponsor's — eggs.
 Eddie Collins, well known radio and television commentator of the agricultural scene, is helping sponsor the tour. Collins is from Red Oak, Ia.
 Expenses of those taking part in the tour are being paid by farm organizations, private businesses and individuals.
 Tour members represent Nebraska, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.
 Major aim of the tour is to explain the cattleman's side of the story in the controversy over high beef prices.
 Those on the tour will meet with governmental officials and with housewives in an attempt to explain that cattle feeders are not making an excessive profit on their product, a four spokes man said.
 Many housewives, especially those back East, blame the cattleman for the high beef prices, he said, and the tour is an attempt to explain that

Experts Highlight Crop Days

Corn, sorghum, small grains, soybeans, grasses and alfalfa plant breeders from the University of Nebraska experiment stations and agronomy department will cover their particular crop areas at the Nebraska Crop Improvement Days set for Jan. 22-23 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education on the NU East Campus.
 Plant breeding reports will be sprinkled intermittently throughout the program in an effort to inform seed growers on latest developments in experimentation and research and advancements in new superior varieties.
 Said Larry Svaigr, associate manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, "I'm sure that some of our plant breeders will be talking about promising experimentals, of which some are very likely to be released as new varieties within the next year."
 Each breeder will discuss any new varieties, promising new experimentals and long-range research with regard to yield and resistance to disease and insects. NCIA members will also be given an opportunity to question the NU agronomists.
 The two-day event will also feature a nationally known expert to discuss current bean markets, a panel discussion on current and future certification procedures and a special ladies' program.

Fremont, spent the weekend in the homes of Oliver Noe, Dixon, and John Hamm.
 Mark Johnson, Kansas City, Mo. and Marsha Johnson, Lincoln, spent the weekend with their parents, the Bob Johnsons.

Pilger Youths Not Injured In Accident

Two Pilger youths escaped injury when the car they were riding in overturned on a county road about three and a half miles east of Stanton early Sunday morning.
The two are Ricky Marx, 18, driver of the automobile, and Harlan Stahl, 19. Stahl was taken to a Norfolk hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises and released.
The westbound car struck a concrete culvert abutment and rolled over, according to the investigating state trooper. The 1966 car was demolished.

Scouts' Paper Drive One of Biggest

DON'T TELL Boy Scout Troop 175 in Wayne that the Scouts' paper drives aren't successful. They'll just point to last Saturday's efforts and the more than 13 tons of paper collected in Wayne, Carroll and Winside. That's one of the largest amounts ever collected. Adding the approximate seven and a half tons of paper collected by Scouts in the Laurel area, just over 20 tons of paper were sent to Omaha for eventual recycling. Saturday's drive by about 28 boys and 10 parents will be the last one until late in January, according to Mrs. Duane Luft of rural Wayne, who helped her husband in coordinating the drive. Anybody who wants to get rid of large amounts of paper before the next drive may call either Marilyn Koch or Duane Luft.

Only 16 Per Cent of Wayne Co. Residents Born in Foreign Lands

What proportion of Wayne County's population consists of native born Americans and what part people who have come here from foreign lands?

To what degree has the new immigration law affected the makeup of the local population? Because of changes in the law, eliminating the old quota system that had governed entry into this country for some 50 years, there has been a vast increase in the flow of immigrants. According to the latest government figures, immigrants now account for about 17 per cent of the annual growth in the United States population. In other words, immigrants make up one out of every six additions to the population. By way of comparison, in the 1950's they represented only nine per cent of the growth, or one out of every 11.

In Wayne County, on the basis of data compiled by the Census Bureau, the proportion of native-born Americans is relatively high. No less than 84 per cent of the local population consists of families who have been in this country for three generations or more.

Elsewhere in the United States the comparable figure is 83.5 per cent, in the State of Nebraska it is 86.3 per cent.

As for those of "foreign stock" they constitute only 16 per cent of the Wayne County population. This designation includes persons who were born in other countries and persons who were born in the United States to parents of foreign origin. Since the new law was passed, in 1965, there has been a dramatic change in the number of people entering this country and the parts of the world from which they have been emigrating.

Whereas the bulk of them had been coming from Ireland, Canada, England, Germany and Scandinavia prior to that time, the new flow is mainly from Asia, Southern and Eastern Europe and the Caribbean.

In the 10 years ending with 1970, the number of legal entries was 3,322,000, which was nearly a third more than in the previous 10 year period. The largest influx now is from Mexico, followed by the Philippines and by Italy.

Most Chinese families in Hong Kong pay faithful homage to the Kitchen God who supposedly brings prosperity and enjoyment to the family table. One week before Chinese New Year, he goes on "home leave" to inform the Jade Emperor of the behavior of the household. The family makes many extra offerings at this time in hope of a favorable report.

QUESTION: Can I plan my estate to avoid the red tape Mrs. R— went through when her husband passed away?

ANSWER: Estate planning is a complicated and exacting science. Everyone who owns anything — a car, house, bank deposit, credit union shares, insurance, business interest, retirement benefits, etc. — has an estate. This estate, regardless of size, represents the most important money in the world to those left behind. The care, maintenance and conservation of this estate is not simply desirable but absolutely essential.

As you would not treat a member of your family for a serious illness, do not attempt to be a "do it yourself" estate planner. Contact your attorney or the Trust Officer of your bank. These men can be among the most important people in your life.
