Drive at Wakefield Near Goal

Residents in the Wakefield area have a little more than a week to raise about $37,000 if they hope to reach their $100,000 goal by the Dec. 15 deadline.

The money would be used along with a federal grant and federal loan to help construct a nursing home and extended care facility next to the existing hospital in Wakefield.

Total collected by early Wednesday morning was $2,500, reports the Wakefield National Bank, which is handling contributions.

Persons who have not been contacted about contributing to the drive are being asked to send their donations to the bank, according to drive officials.

The rest of the money must be raised by the Dec. 15 deadline — Friday next week — or plans to construct the facility will be in jeopardy, they said.

Plans Call For Work on Highway 57

Persons in the Carroll area interested in the condition of Highway 57 from Carroll north to Highway 20 are being offered a chance to ask for a public hearing on proposed improvements to the highway.

The Department of Roads said that the plans for improvement call for acquisition of additional right of way and for construction including grading, culverts and roadway surfacing.

The stretch of highway is 9.3 miles from the north edge of Carroll to Highway 20 and is in both Wayne and Cedar Counties.

The hearing, ensures that interested persons can participate in the process of determining the need for, specific location and design features of the highway.

A report detailing the effect of this project on the local environment is submitted to federal and state agencies which have authority, Highway 57, page 7.

'I don't mind the high prices for steak or hamburger if I'm getting the quality I want'

Housewives in New York City are upset about the high prices of beef, but they would be willing to pay top money if they knew they were getting quality meat.

That's one of the things learned by some 150 persons who took part in a five-day tour to Washington, D.C., and New York City last week.

Robert Jordan of Wayne, who went on the tour, said people who live in the large cities in the East have little idea about what it takes to raise quality beef.

A few couldn't even name what kind of animal Big Mac was when the 1,600-pound steer sauntered into supermarkets and hotel lobbies, he said.

Big Mac, owned by tour promoter, Eddie Collins of Red Oak, Ia., is a pure-white Charolais which won the National Western Stock Show in Denver after his owners eyed him back to disguise him as an Angus.

Collins, a radio and television commentator on the agricultural scene, took Big Mac along on the tour in an attempt to explain to housewives, supermarket managers and government officials that the cattlemen is not making an excessive profit in his business.

Cattlemen, ranchers, elevator operators and others involved in cattle production from Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Wyoming and Colorado took part in the tour. The tour lasted from Monday through Friday.

Jordan, cashier with State National Bank in Wayne, said housewives and supermarket managers showed considerable interest in having beef identified as being from America or from some foreign country.

Some managers of chain stores and a few others probably know what meat is produced in this country and what is produced elsewhere, he said, but very few other people know.

He said housewives and persons involved in marketing beef want beef identified so they know where it is being produced.

Housewives said they would be willing to pay high prices for steak, hamburger and other cuts of beef if they knew they were getting quality meat, according to Jordan.

The beef industry is not doing a good job or promoting its product if most of the people in the New York City area don't even know that it takes special effort and money to produce choice cuts, Jordan said. About 10 per cent of the beef produced in this country is probably consumed in the New York City area. See BEEF PRICES, page 7.

Winside Gets Grant To Develop City Park

The town of Winside will receive an $11,750 federal grant to acquire and develop a park in the east side of town.

According to Congressman Charles Thone, the funds from the U. S. Department of Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will be matched by $5,975 in local funds and the same amount in state funds.

Five acres of land at Chapin and Main Streets owned by the Winside Baseball Association, are to be acquired, Thone said. The existing ball field will be redeveloped with a new backstop, bleachers, dugouts, fencing, lights, restrooms and landscaping.

Winside Mayor Vernon Hill said the town has been working on the project for the last eight months. As yet there is no definite date for construction.

Santa, Diorama Liven Ceremony At Willow Bowl

AS USUAL, Santa Claus appeared at the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony at Wayne State's Willow Bowl Tuesday night. As usual, the old saint had a bag full of candy for the kids.

And as usual, Santa followed a non-discrimination policy. He didn't ask for I.D. cards or birth certificates. Actually, weather being what it was (zero), there were few youngsters present, so several hundred collegians took care of Santa's goodies.

A new scene in the Willow Bowl is this diorama of Christmas. Pictured with the display is its creator, Mrs. Carlos Frey of Wayne, who designed and painted it with help from her artist husband and members of the Faculty Wives and Women.

Lonesome Boy Wants Mail

Tommy Gahl is lonesome. Until this year the nine-year-old boy attended school at Winside, but now that he is too weak to get out of bed much he misses the contact with other youngsters.

Of course the company of brother Dave helps some, but it just isn't the same. Every afternoon Tommy asks his mother to go to the post office to see if there is any mail for him.

Three years ago doctors discovered that Tommy had a malignant brain tumor. Many periods of hospitalization and periods of pain treatments followed, with Tommy being allowed to return home and attend school in between.

This year, Tommy has not been strong enough to go to school, and doctors at Children's Hospital in Omaha say there is nothing more they can do.

With the season of giving right around the corner, perhaps some of The Herald's readers will respond to the call for mail for a small boy. Cards, letters and drawings will make his day much brighter.

Tommy, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gahl of Winside, gets his mail at Box 207.

Any Donations Outstanding? Turn In Soon

Any persons who helped collect money during the 1972 Community Chest Drive but who have not turned the money in are being asked to do so as soon as possible.

Bob Jordan, drive president, said the collections should be turned in to him at State National Bank before the last meeting of drive officials early next week.

Jordan said any persons who have not given to the drive may leave donations at the bank.

He said the drive raised about $9,000 this year, almost reaching the $10,000 goal.

Compare the Numbers, You Might Win 1st $50 in 'Give-A-Way'

The first of nine $50 checks will be given away tonight (Thursday) in the Wayne Chamber of Commerce's Christmas Give A Way promotion.

Another $50 will be given away Friday night, and three $50 cash prizes will be given away next week — on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

The final four $50 checks will be awarded on Dec. 18, 19, 20 and 21, leading up to the climax of the promotion on Friday, Dec. 22, when $1,000 and eight bicycles will be awarded.

The contest is being run the same way as a year ago, according to the Chamber, except that this year three more $50 prizes will be given away than in 1971.

Two businessmen, Wayne Marsh and Joe Nuss, will draw numbers from a box this morning to determine 25 numbers which will be eligible for tonight's $50 prize. The numbers will be listed first through 25th, with the person holding the ticket with the first number winning the money if he presents his ticket to the Chamber of Commerce before 8 p.m. tonight.

If the person holding the ticket with the first number on it does not come forward by 8 p.m., the money will go to the holder of the second number listed, and so on until a winner is found.

All 25 numbers will be posted in Wayne businesses shortly after noon today so area shoppers can compare the numbers on their tickets with those on the list.

The climax to the promotion comes on Dec. 22, when eight bicycles, five $100 checks and one $500 check will be given away to area shoppers.

Judging will begin after Dec. 16.

Scholarships Given to Local, Area Students

Among students who received scholarships for study at Wayne State College this fall term are Bryan Stoltenberg and Sally Ann Finn of Carroll, Susan Purcell of Laurel and Lou Ann Dunklau of Wayne.

Stoltenberg, who received an Ak Sar Ben Scholarship, graduated last spring from Wayne High School and entered Wayne State in September as a sophomore after earning 30 credit hours by passing CLEP tests.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stoltenberg, he is majoring in sociology and plans a career in some phase of law enforcement.

Miss Finn, recipient of the Wayne Woman's Club Scholarship, is a freshman majoring in Spanish, minoring in library science. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Finn, she graduated from Laurel High School last spring. She was active there in Student Council, yearbook staff, Pep Club, Spanish Club, and Library Club.

City Planners Give Nod To Requests for Rezoning

Two requests for rezoning received the approval of the Wayne planning commission during public hearings Monday night.

Given the commission's okay were requests for rezoning six lots along the south side of East Sixth Street just east of Dearborn from multiple dwelling to highway business and for rezoning an area of about 10 acres just east of the National Guard Armory on the north side of Highway 35 from agriculture to highway business.

There were no opponents to the rezoning requests present at the hearings.

The request for rezoning of the land on East Sixth comes from W.J. Lueters, a local businessman who reportedly plans on building a grocery store there.

Requesting the other change in zoning is Berry and Company of Denver, which has announced plans for a 36-unit motel to be built at that site.

Both requests will now be sent to the city council for final action.

The planners decided to recommend to the city council that a strip of land along the north side of the proposed motel be set aside so trees, bushes and the like could be planted there to serve as a buffer for any future residential construction with might go on to the north of the motel.

Discussed at the meeting were the comprehensive plan and the land use map which are in the process of being drawn up.

Local, Area Girls Take County 4-H Honors

Dr. Orr emphasized that 4-H is a brick in the wall of life and that participation in 4-H activities is important in helping youths develop into productive adults.

Pfister Plans Talk on ERA At College

LEROY PFISTER

The public is invited to hear Senator Leroy Pfister speak tonight (Thursday) at the new dining room of the Wayne State College Student Center. Pfister's topic will be the controversial Equal Rights Amendment, which is on its way to becoming a part of the United States Constitution and which has come under fire of some area women recently. Opponents claim ratification of this amendment would entitle them to, or perhaps force them to, rights they really don't want, such as the "right to serve in the armed forces." Proponents claim such a "right" would never be enforced, and that many women are getting angry about nothing. Perhaps Pfister's talk will make clearer exactly what the amendment would mean to America's women. The talk is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. and area men, women and students are invited to attend.

Public Invited To Service

The public is invited to attend a Christmas Service this Sunday at 4 p.m. at the United Presbyterian Church sanctuary, according to the Rev. Robert H. Haas. The program is being presented by the United Presbyterian Women's Association. The service will be conducted by Mrs. Cal Ward. Mrs. T.H. Stevenson will explain the meaning of Christmas which are symbols used by Christians throughout the ages and now adopted to adorn our present-day holiday trees. Special music will be furnished by Mrs. Orvid Owens. Christmas carols will be sung by the congregation. A fellowship and coffee hour will follow the program.

Keep Outdoors Out

Would you think of trying to heat the great outdoors? Of course not! Well, this may come as a surprise to you, but you are probably doing just that, right now.

To help conserve America's energy resources and save money this winter, here are some hints to prepare your home for a "heat in."

Try to keep from opening and closing outside doors unnecessarily. Each time a door is opened, heat escapes, and your furnace has to work overtime to compensate for the lost heat. Use the sun to its best advantage. It is warm and free—so open up window blinds, shades and curtains and let its beneficial rays warm up your home. If you have a fireplace, be sure the damper is closed when you are not using it. Replace your furnace filter several times during the winter. If the filter is clogged, the furnace may operate all day long—especially during the coldest weather, and still not be able to perform adequately. Keep heat outlets free from obstructions. If you cover a radiator or block off a heat duct, the heat from that source is cut off and the room temperature will drop. If there are some rooms in your home that are not in use regularly this winter, turn off the registers and radiators in those rooms and keep the doors closed. There is no purpose in heating an unused room. And, if your basement, attic or garage is not heated, keep the door closed so that the heat from the rest of the house does not escape. These few simple steps are easy to follow and will lead you to a warmer, more pleasant winter.

Club Women Invited To Training Sessions

Home extension club lessons for 1973 are as important as the food people eat, the things families buy and the clothes women wear. In fact, that's what they're all about, according to area extension agents at the University of Nebraska at Northeast Station, Concord. The five leader-training sessions to be studied by extension clubs in our five-county northeast area for 1973 are "How to File Consumer Complaints," "Casseroles," "Winter Bouquets," "Why That Dress Costs So Much" and "Between Thee and Me—Interpersonal Relations."

specialists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln prepare the lesson materials on topics of interest to homemakers. There is no charge for the lessons. Educational programs offered by the Cooperative Extension Service are open to everyone. Dates will be announced prior to each training session.

NORTHEAST EXTENSION Notes

by Anna Marie Kreifels

Wise shopping will not only help you get the most for your dollar, but you'll be happier about the purchase you made.

It's almost impossible to total the elaborate buying merchandise which may need to be returned. However, you can avoid some complaints and returns by shopping carefully.

You'll probably be purchasing some clothing items to give as Christmas gifts. Here are some suggestions to raise your shopping IQ.

Be on the lookout for poor workmanship. Skipped stitches and uneven stitches can mean that the article will not last as long as it should. Seam allowances should be at least one-quarter inch wide on knit fabrics and one-half inch on woven fabrics.

When buying permanent press and 100 per cent polyester items, remember that they have an affinity for oily stains which are often difficult to remove. On such fabrics look for a stain release finish which means that both dry soil and stubborn stains will generally wash out.

Look for solid construction, sturdy seams and reinforcement at strain areas when buying children's clothes, boy's jeans and sportswear.

Make a few easy tests to judge other characteristics of the garment. Open and close the zipper to make sure it works smoothly. Test snaps to see if they work easily and are fastened securely. Examine buttons and button holes. They should be spaced evenly and match up exactly. Frayed buttonholes will get worse, crooked ones will strain and bunch up the fabric. Better quality clothing has interfacing behind buttonholes to give added strength.

Extra minutes invested in careful shopping will generally pay off in long term product satisfaction.

TRY FOR TWO...Allen's Scott Von Minden bends over backwards in his attempt to score for the Eagles Saturday night against Coleridge. Ready to assist is 4-3 junior Jim Koester (32) while Bulldogs' Kevin Krie tries to prevent the shot.

Eagle Foul Trouble Aids Coleridge in Win, 68-54

Early foul trouble started Coach Robert Moore's Allen Saturday night on the wrong road quarter and kept the visiting Coleridge team moving down the right road as the Bulldogs handed the Eagles a 68-54 loss.

Two Eagle starters, transfer student Stanley Perry and Duane Mitchell, were slapped with three fouls apiece in the first period, spelling big trouble for the shorter home club. As a result, both boys missed some action in the second period when they drew their fourth infractions.

"I don't think our defense was up to par," said Coach Moore. "I thought it would be, but I guess it wasn't."

Both Perry and Mitchell helped to control Coleridge's moving offense, allowing the visitors a one-point margin in the first quarter, 15-14. But by the time the whistle blew, ending the half, the Bulldogs had jumped to a nine-point lead, 36-27 after the two Allen starters were placed on the bench.

In the third period Allen closed the gap to six, 51-45, on the hot shooting of Scott Von Minden. The high-flying forward, who pumped in 16 points for high team honors, collected eight of those points in the second half when the home squad fired up on the comeback trail.

At one point Coach Moore's team was four down before it detoured from the victory road when Perry and Mitchell were both out of the game with their fifth fouls. The Bulldogs then mounted the lead to 14 and captured the first contest of the year for the two clubs.

In the early going, the Bulldogs found their offense penetrating the Eagles' zone defense for good inside shots while the home team had its troubles trying to move in against Coleridge's man-to-man defense.

Coleridge's Kevin Krie and Alan Benson, team leaders with 18 and 16 points, respectively, cracked Allen's line with the inside layups and tough re-bouncing, for the second and third shots.

"There's not too much to say," Allen's first year head man said, "except that there's a lot of wood to be chopped between now and before our next game in 10 days (Hartington at Allen Dec. 12)."

In the 6:30 game, the Allen reserves escaped with a 39-36 win over the Coleridge Pups as Eagles Randy Lanson, Neil Blohm and Tim Hill each collected eight points. High man for Coleridge was Rick Hansen with 24.

WSC Grapplers Take Tourney

Wayne State wrestlers won five championships plus a couple of seconds and a third to claim the Yankton Invitational Tournament crown Saturday. Rulerup Huron College, 112 points behind Wayne, placed four in the championship.

Individual winners for Wayne State's varsity team were Tom Cortez, 118 pounds; Larry Kers ten, 126; Kent Irwin, 134; Steve Gregory, 167; Ken Monroe, 177. Huron's first placers, Jerry Pickinpaugh, 142; Gary Billy, 150; Gary Keck, 190; Bill Ehlers, heavyweight.

Dakota State won the other individual title, Dan Kubik at 158. Wayne's other winners were Dennis Reid, 190, and Ron Coles, heavyweight, both second. Jim Meyer placed third at 142.

To round out an eight-team field, Wayne State reserves competed as a separate team, with Allen Smith gaining a fourth at 177, Ed Travers a fourth as a heavyweight. By the luck of pairings, Travers went against teammate Coles in the second round and lost by a fall.

Cortez achieved the only championship by a fall, defeating Huron's Mike Neubauer. And that provided the margin for Wayne's team victory.

Team scoring: Wayne 91; Huron 89; South Dakota State 45; and USD of Springfield 38.

Wayne Lineup Remains Same for Friday Tilt

By Bob Bartlett
Wayne High Basketball Coach, Bill Sharpe doesn't plan any major changes in this week's lineup when the Blue Devils host Emerson Hubbard at the Wayne State auditorium Friday night.

"I don't believe last week's game against Blair was a fair test of our present offense," Sharpe commented. "I can't see trying to make a change until you know what you've got."

Sharpe noted that his team is doing better than he expected. "Although that's not really good."

Friday's game marks the first home game for the Wayne quintet. Even though the game will be played at Rice Auditorium, the head man still feels the home court gives his team about a 10-12 point advantage.

"It would be nice to have a home court here at the high school, but I'm new here and satisfied," he added.

Sharpe reflected on the Blair team, explaining that in the past the Bears were in a similar situation as Wayne in regards to a high school home court. "At one time Blair didn't even have a place to practice," he said.

Sharpe isn't looking past this week's contest against the Pirates or Saturday's encounter with Columbus Lakeview.

"All the games are going to be tough. Until I know the team's complete potential, it would be unfair to look beyond the upcoming game," he noted.

Last week's starting five—Larry Shupe, Roger Saul, Doug Sturm, Marty Hansen and Randy Nelson—will carry out the second game assignments.

"I'm not quite sure what we will do about the last break game but I know we'll use it sometime," he said.

Coach Sharpe feels his team is improving and could become strong as the season progresses.

With that note, we'll pick Wayne to be victorious in its first home battle Friday night.

Other games include:

Wynof at Winside—In the Wildcats first Lewis and Clark Conference game, they should pull this one out for the team's first win in three starts.

Laurel at Hartington Cedar Catholic—The Bears are probably still trying to untrack from last week's loss to Norfolk Catholic. The feeling is go with the Trojans with their 11 record.

Wakefield at Wisner-Pilger—When the Gators traveled to West Point Central Catholic last week, they found "the going rough—a 62-41 loss and 30 turn overs. Maybe Joe Coble's Wakefield club won't find the Wisner five as hard as "thinks they might be, although 6-8 Steve Hornback will be in there punching for Wisner. Let's go with the Wakefield Trojans for victory No. 2.

Randolph Matmen Nip Blue Devils, 26-23

The Wayne High grapplers lost a close 26-23 dual at Randolph Tuesday night during their first season encounter.

Coach Don Koenig's wrestlers, stayed even with the host team, but could not get the pin in order to secure a tie.

"We were even during most of the matches," Koenig said, "but we failed to get the pin when we needed it."

Wayne's David Owens, Jim Neiman and Barry Rubeck were the only matmen to blank their opponents, earning the team three decision points.

In reserve action, the Wayne team also went down to defeat, by the same three point margin, 20-17.

Athlete of the Week

Dave Jaeger
Winside High School

Perhaps some people think that once a high school athlete has won state honors, he might feel he has reached the top of his class and there is no need to keep trying. But that is not the case as far as Winside senior Dave Jaeger is concerned. He's aiming to repeat his state wrestling championship in his class.

Dave was named this week's "Athlete of the Week" by the sports writers at The Wayne Herald for his team leadership during the Wakefield wrestling tournament last Saturday.

The 119 pounder won three matches—two on pins and one on a 13-2 decision—for a total of 16 of the team's 118 points. Winside gained top spot in the four-school tourney.

As a result of his first pin in a record 1:34, Jaeger was awarded one of six medals given to the boy in each weight division with the fastest pin.

Dave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jaeger of Winside, won the state Class D 112 pound title last year and is co-captain of this year's wrestling squad.

According to head coach Doug Barclay, "Dave really holds the team together. He helps the middle and upper weights especially the newer members, in gaining confidence."

"He's a good player," Barclay added, "he keeps things hustling during practice."

This year the 5-5 competitor played halfback on the Wildcat football team.

The selection marks the beginning of this new sports feature for the Herald. Each athlete—chosen from the previous week's basketball and wrestling matches—will be announced in the Thursday issue of the paper. The athletes chosen for the honor will receive a small "Athlete of the Week" card from the newspaper.

A Look Around at Area Sports

WHEN IT comes to sports, cousins Pat and Mike Matlette are on different sides of the field.

Mike, the Wayne High School baseball coach, doesn't see his cousin too often — unless he happens to attend one of the National Football League games Pat is officiating.

In a recent Omaha World-Herald article, Pat was featured as one of the 84 NFL officials around the nation who gather at different locations for the weekend battles for football supremacy.

"Pat never did play football in high school or college," Mike recalls. "He just got started officiating high school games while teaching at Blair High School."

Both cousins went to school together in Uehling. "We only lived a mile apart," Mike added.

According to the older member of the duo (by three months), Pat continued his high school job of refereeing before stepping up to the college ranks. "From there one of the pro scouts spotted him and offered him the job of officiating in the pro leagues four years ago," Mike said.

TURNING TO the sports scene closer to home, Wayne State swimming coach Roger Bentley said the college has a chance to lure the Big 10 high school swim meet to Wayne, Feb. 16-17.

"It is not definite yet whether we can promote the meet here or not," Bentley said, "but we're going to put our application in early in hopes things do work out."

The head coach believes that if Wayne can host the meet, the college would be in a good situation to offer scholarships to entice area swimmers to the campus.

"Not only would it help Wayne State but also it could bring in more money to the city."

LOOKING BACK, last week 13 younger members of the Wayne community were given a pat on the back by the President of the United States.

Wayne High Wrestling coach Don Koenig presented the youngsters to the President's All-American Physical Fitness Award in citing the grade school members for their participation in the school's physical education program.

The 13 members were chosen out of a field of 300 students for their excellence in the program. Congratulations go to Marco Garlick, Mark Brandt, Joe Kenny, Mike Weisler, Shelly Gildersleeve, Julie Kovensky, Lori Johnson, Terri Thomas, Lisa Nuss, Jay Davie, Susan Proett, Lisa Barclay and Sherry Workman.

BEFORE CONCLUDING, Gary Wiebelhaus of Wayne is asking all area boys interested in amateur boxing to give him a call.

Director of the Wayne amateur boxers, he already has four or five men working out. "But we would like to have some more boys join up."

Right now, Wiebelhaus is looking for men between the ages 16 and 25 in all weight classes. "Our next match is Dec. 27 at Norfolk," he added, "and we sure need some boxers for this one."

Wiebelhaus emphasized that the training sessions, on Monday and Wednesday evenings, are for beginners only. "We're only amateurs — not professionals."

Heading the list of top boxers are Jim Norman at 170 pounds, Jerry Ferricks at 185 and Jack Lull at 136. A new addition most of the area smoker fans might remember is 170-pounder Vaughn Korth. According to Wiebelhaus, Korth will be practicing at Blair but will fight for the Wayne team.

In the planning stages is a Wayne smoker to be sponsored by the Wayne County Jaycees. As yet no date has been set.

Burke Tankers Win Relays

Omaha Burke High School swimmers far outdistanced five other teams to win the first annual Wildcat Classic Relays sponsored by Wayne State College Saturday.

Winning first in 10 of the 12 events and second in the other two, Burke amassed 160 points.

The scrap for second place went to Norfolk with 90 points, while Omaha Bryan compiled 86, including firsts in the two events Burke did not win. Council Bluffs, Abraham Lincoln came in fourth at 78, followed by Sioux City east 70, and Sioux City West 44.

UNO Whips Wildcats, 72-49 for Second Loss

"We'll have to try something different," Coach Ron Jones said Wednesday after his basketball Wildcats took a 72-49 trimming from the University of Nebraska at Omaha the night before in Omaha.

"Something different" mainly will aim at one goal — hitting more shots. The Cats connected on only 27 per cent of their field shots at UNO, 5 of 11 free throws. For the season their field shooting pace is 37 per cent. That's generally too low for a winning season.

"Maybe we will have to go back to our control game," Jones mused. He has stressed a faster-paced offense this fall.

The Wildcats, after trailing by 10 late in the first half, surged within four points and finished the half six short of UNO's 33 points. Second half efforts added only 22 points to the Wayne score while the Mavericks effectively shut off the Wildcat inside game.

do with the outcome, Wayne coaches thought.

"It was about the most physical game I ever saw," Jones said. "The officials just didn't bail much, either way. That hurt our inside game, but it didn't bother UNO's outside shooting, and that's where they killed us."

In the second half, Wayne hit just two shots from outside the free throw lane.

Denny Sietkes, under heavy pressure, managed only 10 points before fouling out, while junior forward Ronnie Jones hit a team-high 76.

Wayne goes to Marshall, Minn., for a Friday night game with Southwest Minnesota State, then to Springfield, S. D., next Wednesday before its next home show Dec 21 with Doane.

Wayne State Athletic Department Eyeing Rocky Mountain Conference

Wayne State College has been looking into the possibility of joining a new college conference, and now it looks as if chances for joining the Rocky Mountain Conference are increasing.

But the question facing the college is joining the conference worth the time and money? Athletic Director Dr. LeRoy Simpson feels that the move to join the conference would not only benefit Wayne State but also the city of Wayne.

"Such schools as Kansas State College at Pittsburg and Northern Colorado at Greeley would be a great economic boost to the city when the schools travel to Wayne for a game," he said.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha, he said, dropped out of the conference, leaving six schools. In addition to the two mentioned, the conference includes Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia, Fort Hays State at Fort Hays, Kans., Washburn University at Topeka and Southern Colorado at Pueblo.

Dr. Simpson believes the conference would offer the college more variety in developing its sports program. "It could help to promote the ideals and amateurism of all sports as well as sportsmanship," he said.

The athletic director hopes Wayne State, along with Kearney State, will join the conference.

"There are many things to look at before we can join," he explained. First of all, he said, if Kearney does not join, Wayne's chances of joining would be reduced. "I doubt if the schools would be interested in recruiting just one school from Nebraska, so we would probably be eliminated."

"We have been informally invited," Simpson went on, "but our biggest problem is financing."

"We wouldn't want to go into this thing under financed. It takes a little more money than we have now to keep up with the other schools."

Dr. Simpson said the biggest costs would be scholarships and traveling expenses. "The conference is made up of six schools right now, with the majority of them located in Kansas. Therefore," he noted, "our traveling expenses would increase."

Another aspect, he pointed out, would be the need for more scholarships. "We would be entering a better league with a higher caliber of players. It wouldn't seem fair to join unless we could offer the schools equal athletic competition."

Although Dr. Simpson and the coaches feel that the Rocky Mountain Conference would be better than the loosely structured Nebraska College Conference, the question to join is up to the Board of Trustees. "The question of joining has not been presented formally to them," he said.

"The school has been nourishing the idea for a couple of years, but the final decision is up to the college president and the board," he said. "The board has to take the proposal before the state legislature for approval in order to get the needed money to help finance our share of the program," he said.

Wayne Girl Managers Say Wrestling is Fun

Wayne High Coach Don Koenig's wrestlers have an unexpected surprise added to this year's squad. In fact, there are two unexpected surprises — two girl student managers.

Jill Carhart and Teresa Dranselka will be adding a pleasant touch to the Blue Devil mat team as both girls take on the new job beginning this week.

"The boys were 100 per cent in favor of the addition," Koenig said.

"The girls' duties will involve keeping books on games as well as helping tape the boys for meets and practices."

"I think it will be a lot of fun," Jill commented, "but it also will be a lot of work."

Jill feels that she's "pretty lucky" to get the job. "There aren't a lot of girls besides us trying for the jobs. We just got it."

Both seniors agree that they like it a lot better than basketball because "it's more of a one-to-one sport where you can see each player in action."

But when it comes to comparing the sport to football, Teresa thought both sports are equal. "Wrestling isn't that complicated to me," she said, "and also I understand football pretty much."

The 5'3" blond, added "Besides the team being in favor of the new addition, the coach notes that the girls were a matter of necessity as well as something different."

They will help keep the running records, he mentioned, which will save about 8 1/2 hours of bookwork.

Koenig is hoping that in the near future the school will be able to buy the girls some type of sweaters, denoting that the girls are student managers. "I can't say too much right now until things are better settled," Koenig said.

Last year the girls became interested in the sport and observed high school wrestling much closer. With this background they hope to improve their knowledge of wrestling while helping the team in dual and tournament matches.

"I like wrestling because it breaks the routine of school," Jill said. For Teresa, her reason for joining could be summed up in three words "I like boys."

WAYNE WRESTLING MANAGERS Jill Carhart, left, and Teresa Dranselka agree the job will be a lot of fun but also a lot of work.

Winside Takes Easy Win Over Pender, 58-6

Winside's varsity wrestling squad rolled to an easy win over a young and inexperienced Pender team Tuesday night, 58-6, at Winside.

Doug Barclay's crew won all but the last match to take the team's first season match.

"I think the whole team did an outstanding job," Barclay said. "Both the reserves and the varsity played real well."

Out of the 13 varsity matches the Winside grapplers won seven pins. "I'm looking forward to next Saturday's action at the Stanton Invitational," he said.

The Wildcat reserves, under Doug Barry, also found the winning road as they blanketed Pender, 37-0.

Wildcats Drop 2nd, 55-35

A tall and experienced Ponca basketball team dumped Winside for the Wildcats' second loss of the season Saturday night, 55-35, at the Indians' gym.

Don Mohr led the Braves attack with 21 points as the Ponca tribe rolled up a 17-3 bulge in the first period.

"It was a case of us not making the baskets," said Winside coach Jim Winch. "We were out rebounded, and we gave Ponca second and third tries at the inside shots."

The coach admitted that his club does lack experience but he didn't want to take anything away from the Ponca. "They're a good team," he emphasized.

The Wildcats, with Larry Weible's 13 points in the game, came back in the second quarter to drop in 16 points to the home teams' 10 to make the score 27 to 19 at the half.

But another blitzing period by the Indians put the Ponca squad up in command once again with a 44-34 lead. Coach Larry Buhl's club then added the finishing touches with 13 points to give the club its first win.

This Friday night the Wildcats will be at home taking on Lewis and Clark Conference rival Wynot. Game time is 8 p.m. with reserve action starting at 6:30 p.m.

Wisner High Grapplers Dump Wakefield, 42-15

The Wisner-Pilger wrestlers handed the Wakefield squad the team's first loss in the Trojan's first dual opener Tuesday, 42-15.

Sentor Kirk Gardner, the only Trojan to pin his man, won his match over Gerald Eggerling in 25 seconds.

"Last year's State D champ in the 112 class, Dave Rouse, was upset when he dropped a close decision to Wisner's Kevin Rathke, 7-6.

"Dave got into trouble during the first period," said Coach Lyle Trullinger, "when he lost five points. But after that he wrestled very well."

"During the reserve match, Wisner came out on top, winning 20-6.

Eddie Collins hopes to solve that problem.
During the week he proposed to those on the tour that a promotional organization be established which would raise money to advertise top quality American beef.
The organization, which he suggested be called "Cattle Country Pro-Mo Co." could do such things as hold cattle shows in New York City which would help educate urban people about what makes a quality beef animal.
He also suggested that industry associated with cattle feeding be asked to contribute money to help promote red meat raised in America.

Want a HS Diploma? Check Out Program

Area adults interested in furthering their education are reminded that they can enroll any time in the Adult Basic Education courses taught one night per week at Wayne State College.

The program was started about a year ago to provide adults who have not received high school diplomas with the instruction they need to qualify for high school graduation tests given periodically at Norfolk Junior College.

Many of the students, rather than working toward diplomas merely wish to brush up on some phase or other of education, and some students are foreign born persons who wish to learn English as a second language.

Mrs. Letta Maynard has recently joined the program to assist in this field. Mrs. Stan Willis is in charge of the program, with assistance from Mrs. Keith Mosley. Visla volunteers Barbara Bizilla and Karen Cliff have also offered their services in acquainting the public with the program.

Mrs. Willis noted that if more funds can be obtained the program will be enlarged to include more instructors.

WS Freshmen Named Top Bandsmen

Linda Zvezdich of Omaha and Bruce Reed of Woodbine, Ia., received an annual band honor Sunday at Wayne State College — as outstanding bandswoman and bandsman. Both are freshmen.

Selection, made at the end of marching band season, was made by members of the college's two band honoraries, Tau Beta Sigma sorority and Kappa Kappa Psi fraternity.

Miss Zvezdich, a graduate of Omaha South High School, plays in the band's percussion section. Reed, a Woodbine High School graduate, plays trumpet.

Larry Nelson, president of Kappa Kappa Psi, announced the awards during the band's Christmas concert Sunday. In past years, he said, the two honoraries made one outstanding bandsman award, but this year decided to honor a bandswoman and a bandsman.

GEORGE VOSS, left, chief of the Winside volunteer fire department, and Charles Jackson, president, accept the rescue unit's plaque of appreciation from Mayor Vernon Hill at the community card party Sunday night. Other officers of the fire department, which helps to support the rescue unit, are Edward Oswald, assistant chief, Clarence Pfeiffer, vice-president, and Willis Reichert, secretary-treasurer.

Town Honors Rescue Crew

The Winside Federated Women's Club was host Sunday evening to a public card party honoring the Winside volunteer fire department.

A plaque was presented the rescue unit crew in appreciation for the services they provide the Winside Community. Mayor Vernon Hill made the presentation.

Bridge and pitch were played at 24 tables. Pitch prizes were won by Gladys Reichert, Mrs. Emil Hank, Mrs. Kenneth Wagner, Kenneth Brockmoller, Henry Koch and Kent Jackson. Bridge prizes went to Mrs. Allen Schlueter, Mrs. Wilmer Deck, Carl Troutman and Charles Jackson.

Door prizes were won by Gustav Kramer, Mrs. Emil Hank, Mrs. Marjain Glass, Mrs. Harlin Brugger, Allen Schlueter, Mrs. Herb Jaeger, E. T. Warne munde, David Warnemunde and Mrs. Carl Troutman. Warren Marozt won a box of groceries and Mrs. Gary Kant received a gift certificate from Stenwalls.

'Americans, Soviets must not fail in armament talks'

By Cong. Charles Thine
Perhaps the most important negotiations in the history of mankind are now underway.
Parleys for Vietnam peace are insignificant compared to the second round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) between the Soviet Union and the United States in Geneva, Switzerland, which began in the fourth week of November.
If SALT II negotiations fail, it will be extremely difficult to avoid an all-out include U. S. Air Force planes based in Europe and U. S. Navy carrier-based planes in the Mediterranean, Atlantic and Pacific. The Russians also want to count British and French missile-launching submarines as part of the U.S. forces.

There is also the possibility that the SALT II conferees may talk about the banning of mobile land-based missiles, multiple head missiles and antissubmarine activities in certain parts of the oceans.
Several outside factors can contribute to success of the SALT talks. The more Russia becomes dependent on American grain and other U. S. products, the more likely the Soviets are to want a satisfactory agreement.
The U. S. must also show that it can be tough. Tough talk will not be enough. We must show the Russians we intend to go ahead with more sophisticated submarines, bombers and missiles if agreement is not reached. If we show a tendency toward unilateral disarmament, we haven't a chance of reaching a mutual disarmament treaty.

'U. S. must show it can be tough'
Rumors are that Gerard Smith, who directed SALT I talks, wants to bow out after the SALT II negotiations are well launched. If this is so, I suggest that after the Vietnam peace negotiations are over the Vietnam peace negotiations are

'Dr. Kissinger should be named to head delegation' completed the President should send Dr. Henry Kissinger to head the U. S. SALT delegation.
Even though our defense consumes less of our budget than a few years ago, the U. S. this current year is still putting 22 per cent of federal funds into defense. If a real disarmament agreement can be reached, much of these funds could be applied to helping solve our many domestic problems.
It takes two sides to negotiate. At the SALT II talks, we must not only give our best but we must do everything possible so the Soviet Union will be anxious to negotiate also. Failure could bring the world to holocaust, which comes from the Greek word for burnt whole.

'nuclear war would be fatal for mankind' arms race with Russia. If we get into such a race, we're very likely to end it in a nuclear war. Such a war would probably be fatal for civilization.
Much patience will be necessary in order for SALT II to succeed. The first round required two and a half years. Three or four years may be required for the second round.
The treaty and agreement reached in the first SALT sessions, and ratified by Congress in 1972, provided for a five-year freeze on intercontinental missiles to those operational or under construction at the time of the agreement. This resulted in 2,359 missiles for the Soviet Union and 1,710 for the United States.
There were two reasons why the United States agreed to this numerical superiority for the Soviets.
First, many of the U. S. missiles contain multiple warheads, each of which can be guided to separate targets. The Russians do not yet have the capability for such warheads.
Second, the Soviets were building land-based missiles at the rate of 250 a year and sub-based missiles at the rate of 128 per year. Since the United States was building none, the disparity would have become worse without a treaty.
The second round of talks will attempt to cut back weapons. The U. S. wants to

'cutting back weapons is aim of SALT II' restrict the talks to limiting intercontinental bombers, submarines and intercontinental missiles. The Soviets want to talk about anything that could deliver a blow on the other country. This would

Sen. Warner says Gov. Exon's plan for state school aid 'disappointing'

LINCOLN — One of the state school aid entries in the 1973 legislative battle has been submitted.

Gov. J. James Exon outlined his plan last week at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Tax Research Council (NTRC). Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chief sponsor of earlier legislative plans and chairman of a committee studying school aid during this interim period, wasn't satisfied with the Exon proposal.

Warner said his biggest disappointment was the lack of mention of quality education by the governor.
The senator had appeared earlier before the NTRC meeting and had discussed a variety of school aid approaches being considered by his committee. One aspect he said had been rejected was a credit concept (in which a property owner gets a refund for at least a portion of what he has paid in property taxes).

Warner said this approach, which is one of the keystones of the Exon proposal, tends to help those who need the help the least.

The legislative proposals still are being presented at hearings around the state and one or more bills are due for introduction next month when the 1973 session convenes.

The governor's proposal calls for the state to pick up about one-fourth of the operating expenses of elementary and secondary education with direct aid payments to the schools.
In addition, half of what homeowners and farmers (the farm home and 160 acres) pay in property taxes toward the operation of local schools would be returned to them with a check from the state treasury. This is the "credit" aspect Warner complained about.

Exon's plan also calls for the state to provide all the operating expenses of the educational service units, now supported by a maximum of one mill on property in the unit boundaries.

The governor also proposed that the state take over the tax fund financing of the technical-community college system. The state already was due to provide three-fourths of the funding for the system, but the colleges have the power to levy up to one mill in addition to the revenue from tuition and other sources.

When he spoke to the NTRC members about an hour before the governor's luncheon address, Warner had said there were three key issues involved in state aid.

One is the level of aid. Another is the formula for distributing the money. And the third is a procedure for insuring school boards don't increase local spending.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786

Winter weather tips could save your life

Vicious winter storms are coming, there is no doubt about it, and a few tips about how to act if you are ever stuck on the road in a blizzard just might come in handy over the next few weeks.

The tips come from the Nebraska Civil Defense Agency. Here they are:

- Stay in your vehicle. Don't attempt to walk and find help because disorientation occurs quickly in blowing and drifting snow and you can become lost very quickly. Your car provides protection from the weather and is in the best possible location to be observed by highway maintenance crews.
- Beware of over-exertion and over-exposure unless you are in prime physical condition. Exertion from attempting to push your car, shovel heavy drifts and the like during severe winter weather such as strong winds, blinding snow and bitter cold may lead to a heart attack.
- Make provisions for a fresh supply of air to enter your car because carbon monoxide and oxygen starvation are deadly. Freezing wet snow and wind-driven snow can seal your car into a death trap. Run your car's motor and heater sparingly and only with the downwind window opened for ventilation.
- Clap your hands and move your legs and arms about vigorously from time to time to stimulate circulation, warm extremities and relieve tensed muscles.
- Turn on the car's dome light at night so others coming along on the highway can see the light.
- Use candles and a can to melt snow for drinking water. Don't eat snow.
- Do not attempt all occupants of the car to sleep at the same time.
- Observing some of these suggestions if you ever become stuck on the highway during one of this winter's storms could save your life.

Just too objectionable

Federal bureaucracy never ceases to amaze.
It's fairly common knowledge how it almost daily attempts to destroy the English language, probably one of the most beautiful and expressive languages ever developed by man. It's funny the bureaucrats haven't been fingered as communists trying to overthrow the country by diluting and polluting its language.
The latest incident did anger some people in Oregon. The Oregon Geographic Names Board has officially objected to a federal change of the name of "Wharehouse Meadows" to "Naughty Girl Meadows." The change was made on a map by the Bureau of Land Management.

The meadows outside Ontario was given its descriptive name in memory of four enterprising Ontario women who set up quarters each spring during settlement of the area to entertain sheep herders.
When you think about it, the Oregonians are probably lucky the bureaucrats didn't do worse. They could have tabbed it something like "Meadows of Idle Moments." Then they would have completely saved area residents from the objectionable sounding name.

Dear Editor:
The Wayne Herald once had a column where the orchid of the week went to some person or group for an outstanding thing they had done.
If this column were still in The Herald, the orchid for this week would surely go to the Caroliners 4-H Club and their leaders of Carroll. They were as busy as the bees on Honey Sunday. They should be recognized for the amount of money they collected.

There is clear and pure, and we are informed that in the winter the mercury stands sometimes as low as twenty six degrees below zero, though in the summer the weather is very warm.
We passed by one of the Indian villages as we came along, composed partly of miserable mud hovels and partly of a kind of tents, called tepees, made of buffalo skins stretched on poles, set up in a form of a cone, with a hole at the top for the smoke to escape. In these they pass the winter, no matter how severe.

The Indians, both men and women, dress in blankets of the most bright and gaudy colors they can find, though a few clothe themselves like the whites. We have met a number of them who seem glad to see us, and honor us with a greeting and a pleasant smile as we shake hands with them. There are seven chiefs of the tribe, Yellow Smoke, Fire Chief, Standing Hawke, and others whose names I do not remember. I think one of them is Cin de ha.

I have not yet entered on my official duties, my predecessor being still absent, though we look daily for his return. I am called Major, the Indians bestowing the title upon the incumbent of the office of government. I am told, also assigning it to the agent of the reservation. I do not expect, however, to avail myself of the military character, nor to use the cannon and rifles in the block-house, which stands on a knoll near the agency buildings.

I find a field of labor here beyond anything of which I had the remotest conception, and hope honestly, earnestly, and prayerfully to discharge the duties assigned me to the best of my ability. The Indians appear anxious to have their lands allotted to them in severalty, and each to own a farm in his individual right. This is an important step towards civilization and the improvement of their condition. I should have said, when speaking of the Indian villages, that there are a few cottages upon the reservation which are built of wood with some appearance of comfort. A Mission school, under the support of the Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian society, has been kept but is now vacated.

During his service in Nebraska Dr. Painter brought his family to the Omaha Reservation. In 1873 a daughter Emilie married William Henry Jackson, famous photographer-artist of the west.

Winners in other events: Oratory—Douglas Brenner, Westmar, first; Deb Bacon, Kearney State, second; Doug Steinkruger, Kearney State, third. Oral Interpretation—Steve Treague, Sioux Falls, first; Deb Bacon, Kearney State, second; Janet Pokorski, Chadron State, third. Extemporaneous Speaking—Doug Watloch, Southwest Minnesota State, first; Jeff Larson, South Dakota State, second; John Thompson, South Dakota State, third. Twenty teams competed, and five others did not come as planned because of threatening weather.

Thone Registers Easy Win Over Demo Opponent

Charles Thone of Lincoln, Republican incumbent to the Congress from the First District in Nebraska, handily defeated his opponent in the November general election, unofficial final results reveal.

Thone gained 126,789 votes to Democrat Darrel Berg's 70,570 to earn his second term in office.

The unofficial votes were finally tallied last week. The canvassing board was to meet this week to make the results official.

ers should be leaders in the nation in learning how to use metric measure and how to make it work.

Practice Electrical Safety

If you have received a slight shock from touching the refrigerator or the stove in your kitchen or basement, do something about it now. Do it today, because tomorrow you may be in a position to get more than a slight shock.

The first thing to do is to ground the case of the appliance that is giving you trouble. If you can't ground it now, at least turn the plug over if it is on 110 volts so the neutral wire is touching the appliance instead of the power wire.

All of your basement circuits, shop circuits and preferably your kitchen circuits should be grounded with the third green ground wire. This wire will carry current to the electrical ground instead of allowing the current to pass through the person.

In making wiring changes, go to the three-wire, grounded circuits for your convenience outlets, especially those that are used close to damp floors or metallic grounds like bath tubs, sinks or water hydrants.

Ground fault interrupters are required for all new outdoor receptacles on dwellings. They will protect you from current flowing from the power wire through you, but not from the shock that comes from touching both the power wire and the neutral wire at the same time.

Some precautions taken when fault first appears can eliminate fire or personal injury at a later date.

Investigate Metric Measure

Since the time of the cubit, nations and communities have struggled to come to standard agreements on systems of measurement.

The change to the metric system in Brazil created a revolution among the farmers, and the farmers of Latin America still measure with the arroba, carga, barra and various other odd measurements unrecognized in the world as a whole.

The farmers of the United States are not so provincial that they will create a revolution to retain a measurement system different from any other country of the world, but there will be loud complaints and bitter arguments as the United States moves into metric measurement.

The United States is the only major trading nation of the world that is not on the metric system. Since agricultural exports form a large part of the 11 per cent of the gross national product that is derived from foreign trade, agriculture will have to change to the metric system before other industries.

Metric measure is easier to use than the archaic measurements we inherited from the British, so instead of wasting time and energy in trying to fight the change of measurement to metric, Nebraska farm-

Cleaning the Workshop Isn't A Simple Task

It is a very satisfying, spiritually lifting feeling for the Mrs. when she has given the house a thorough nook and cranny cleaning. Usually she completes the job twice each year.

But the farmer also has a "closet" to clean — the workshop or tool shed.

But you aren't as systematic about cleaning as the Mrs. Your cleaning is often determined by the available work room in the shop. When this space gets to be a one person maximum, it's about time to clean the workshop. About time — but not quite absolutely necessary.

When the pile (the one just inside the door) of broken electric fencers, weak batteries, used machinery parts and grease buckets can no longer be piled onto the other pile of unround wheel rims, overflowing tool boxes, handless scoops and half full buckets of used hardware, it's time to clean the shop.

Another persuading factor is when you can no longer find the hammer, crescent wrench or other "lost" tools.

Well, as far as you're concerned, if everyone left the tools where you put them you'd know exactly where they could be found.

You left the big box end wrench on the pile of boards near the yard light pole but the Mrs. had to pick it up and put it in the tool shed, of all places. Well, maybe that's where the box. And every farmer's shop is practically filled with bolts, nuts and washers. Big bolts, little bolts, some nuts that fit some of the bolts and some that don't fit anything. There are also lock washers and flat washers that fit some of the bolts and some that don't.

The used, rusty bolts and nuts are usually tossed into one of the already half full, dented and sieve like buckets. The newer, extra or forgotten where they belong bolts and nuts are put in the old cigar boxes. The bolt boxes remind you of the "Mrs." button box. There are seldom more than two bolts alike and, like her buttons, they are never the right size. You usually end up buying new ones, with an extra one to add to the box.

Of course it would have been better if you had hung up the pitch fork and the rake and the post hole digger and the three pronged fork when you put them in the shop. But you didn't have time. Luckily they aren't out under the hay pile or in the snow. That would be worse than trying to find them in the workshop.

Underneath it all you find your long lost spade, still covered with dirt and beginning to rust around the edges. By the time you get it cleaned off, greased and hung up on the wall you have made a definite decision.

When you get this mess cleaned up this time, you're going to put things in the proper places the minute you're done with them.

Just look at that pile of aluminum "steel" posts. Now they are all bent and tangled when, with a little effort at the time they were slashed in the workshop, they could have been neatly tied up in the corner.

By this time you've located the tractor chains, car chains and part of a log chain. And two hammers.

You use the hammers to pound nails into the wall so you can untangle and hang up the chains.

When you finally work your way to the floor of the shop, you've located numerous tools, extra or forgotten about tools and machinery parts. Now all you have to do is remember exactly where you neatly put everything.

Well, at least now all you have to do is come in and look around instead of dig around. And at least two and maybe three — if they're careful — people can get into the working area.

Everything has been put up on the bench, 2x4 or hung up on the wall. All you have to do now is hang up the hammer and put the nails away first.

You put the hammer on the bench so you'll be sure to find it again when you need it. You spend several minutes trying to find the bucket with that size nails in it. Somehow the buckets seem to be full of everything but nails.

Oh, well, it's about chore time and if you want a cup of coffee before chores you'd better hurry. So you put the sack of nails on the bench alongside the hammer. That way you'll be able to find them again when you need them. That is, if nobody puts them away.

Farmer Injured When Caught In Machinery

Allan Splittgerber of Allona was injured Friday afternoon when he was caught in the power take off of his combine as he was harvesting soybeans.

Splittgerber was treated for facial lacerations and bruises at a local clinic and released.

His wife was present at the accident site and shut off the machine so Splittgerber's injuries were not extensive.

'Let Wet Corn Stand If You Can't Treat It'

There are a number of ways to handle wet corn, which is fairly common in many areas of Nebraska now, but if none of these methods is available or feasible, corn should be left standing in the field.

This is the advice of Norm Teter, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural engineer, who points out that wet corn, shelled and piled on the ground, will probably heat and develop toxic storage molds.

Some wet corn has developed non-toxic molds in the field already, Teter said. When shelled, this wet corn must be ventilated to keep it cold, dried within 48 hours to a moisture level that will keep in storage or ensiled as high-moisture grain.

Bins with aeration systems capable of delivering 0.1 cubic feet per minute per bushel through the grain will hold grain of 18 per cent moisture over the winter, Teter stated.

Shelled corn is ensiled by grinding and packing it into horizontal silos, or by putting the whole corn in vertical oxygen-limiting silos. It can be preserved artificially by evenly applying propionic and acetic acid mixtures (the most common is 80 per cent propionic and 20 per cent acetic) to the corn at the rate of 1.5 per cent by weight, he said.

These acids are mildly corrosive to steel, Teter warned, and will remove the galvanizing from metal bins.

"In handling the acid treatment, personnel should protect themselves with rubber gloves, goggles and respirators for organic acids if they are exposed to the fumes. A commercial type of treaters is recommended for acid application," he concluded.

Ak-Sar-Ben Is Seeking Latest Good Neighbors

Persons in the Wayne area would like to see a group of individuals recognized for unselfish, neighborly deeds during the past year are asked to submit nominations to Ak-Sar-Ben.

Ak-Sar-Ben is again asking people in Nebraska and western Iowa to make the nominations for the annual Good Neighbor Awards, according to Tom Brock, Ak-Sar-Ben executive director.

Framed certificates will be awarded to all groups, clubs or community organizations and good deed recipients as well as citizens deemed worthy of the honor, Brock said. Final selection will be made by a statewide committee.

Nominations are invited from newspapers, radio and television stations, chambers of commerce, agricultural extension agents and other interested groups and individuals. Nominations should cover some outstanding deed or service performed during 1972 without thought of personal gain or mercenary objective and not connected with the nominee's business or vocation.

All nominations must be post-marked not later than Jan. 15, 1973.

The program is in its 28th year. The heartwarming letters received from individuals and groups honored in previous years serve as ample evidence of the program's importance, Brock said.

For further information, write Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards Committee, 63rd and Shirley Sts., Omaha, Nebr. 68106.

Conference's Aim: To Cut Down on Accident Deaths

Accidents are the fourth leading cause of death in the nation among persons under age 38, and medical authorities estimate that up to 20 per cent of these deaths could be averted if current knowledge in emergency medical care was applied at an early stage.

A conference to upgrade emergency medical services (EMS) will be held in Norfolk at the Holiday Inn on Tuesday. Objectives of the conference will be to acquaint participants with EMS standards recommended by the state and the American Medical Association, to discuss adopting EMS standards and to initiate plans for developing and implementing local EMS councils.

All persons interested in EMS are invited to attend, including medical, nursing, hospital, ambulance, rescue, safety, communications, fire, law enforcement, civil defense, Red Cross, local governing officials and local planning personnel.

Sponsoring the program are the Nebraska Regional Medical Program, the Nebraska State Health Department, the Nebraska Office of Comprehensive Health Planning and Area Health Planning Councils and the Governor's Executive Committee on EMS, with financial assistance from the Health Services and Mental Health Administration's regional office in Kansas City, Mo.

Survey of Area Set Next Week

Residents in the Wayne area will be surveyed by the U. S. Bureau of the Census concerning employment and unemployment during next week.

This month's survey will include questions about any farm work done for pay, according to Walter Freeman Jr., director of the Bureau's data collection center in Denver.

Local households in the survey are part of 50,000 across the country that have been scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all households.

The survey is taken by the Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor. It provides monthly information on conditions in the labor force, prime indicator of the economic health of the nation.

The October survey showed that employment was continuing its steady rise which began in
