Almost Unanimous . . . 4-H Is Really Worth the Effort

By BOB BARTLETT
Four-H. Is it really worth the effort?
Are all the records, meetings and planning really worth the effort of the 4-H leaders?
Yes! That was the emphatic answer of the majority of 100 persons who attended 4-H Leader Idea Day Thursday at the Northeast Station near Concord.
"We do need some changes though," said Thurston County agent Don Spitz.

The day-long meeting centered on the different programs and problems within the 4-H organization.
In a recent panel discussion in Lincoln, Spitz said, three former 4-H members discussed what is right and wrong with the present 4-H operation.
"The kids," he continued, "believe that 4-H should be continued but there should be some changes."
Two areas especially noted were keeping of records and awards.

"Many of the students question the purpose of the awards," he said, "while on the other hand a lot of the students want to know more about the meaning and knowledge of the awards."
Spitz explained that some panel members felt that many of the awards should be de-emphasized while others felt that a better understanding of the awards might help the program.
One such solution proposed was to have some of the members' peers help explain what it means to receive an award.

Another question brought before the panel dealt with the purpose of keeping records.
The panel mentioned that of ten record keeping is too complicated and unrealistic. Some pointed out that it becomes repetitious and there is too much emphasis on neatness and unimportant details.
"What this all points out," Spitz continued, "is that the students feel that 4-H needs a change."

Throughout the day leaders from Dixon, Dakota, Thurston and Cedar counties had a chance to participate in four workshops, with each workshop containing an average of six different programs.
"We didn't have as many come out this year," Roy Stahler, Dixon County agent said, "due to a switch in the number of counties attending and possibly the foggy weather."
Keynote speaker, Peter G. Wirtz opened the meeting.
Wirtz, coordinator of student activities at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, centered his talks on communications between adults and youth.
He stressed to one group the importance of separating thought from feeling in communications.

A teacher writes on the blackboard that all eighth graders are in trouble. The immediate reaction will be that every eighth grader that enters her class is presumably doing something wrong.
Wirtz noted that a better approach to the situation would be to have the teacher write on the board that she is angry and ask the students if they care to know why.
"This way," Wirtz went on, "the students will question among themselves what is wrong and not feel that they are being put down."
The "I message" would then say: "I am mad—do you want to know why?"
The second annual Idea Day also featured Jo Ann Luzio, assistant state 4-H leader at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and Dr. John Orr, associate state leader of 4-H.
Dr. Orr, in his discussion concerning recreation for 4-H clubs, noted that the secret of a good recreation program is to get everyone to participate.
"A good recreation program," he said, "can help build your 4-H club in membership and interest."

March of Dimes Drive May Set City Record; 'Batter Battle' Planned

A new record for collection in the March of Dimes fund drive in Wayne may be set this year, according to the county chairman of the drive.
Darryl Wiltse said Friday that just over $300 had already been collected by the Mrs. Jaycees in their Mothers' March and about two-thirds of the city remained to be covered.

About three years ago the drive for funds in the city was most successful, with about $875 being collected, Wiltse said.
"If people continue contributing at the present rate, he added, the drive for funds in the city could end up with about $1,000 donated."
The drive for funds in the rural areas of the county has just begun, according to the chairman.
Planned for late February is a "Battle of the Batters," a cake bake and sale which will take the place of solicitations from Wayne businessmen.
"There's one catch to the deal, however. The cake bake is an all-male affair, and women won't be allowed to help in the baking."
Trophies for the best cakes baked will be awarded in two divisions—junior level for youths up to the eighth grade, senior level for youths in high school and adults.
Cakes baked in the contest, slated for Feb. 27-28 at Peoples Natural Gas Co., have to be made from scratch.
"No cake mixes will be allowed, and women won't even be allowed to hand a spoon or fork to somebody competing," Wiltse said.
"However, the women can give all the moral support and do all the cheering they want," he added.
Wiltse said he hopes the baking contest attracts as many as 125 youths and adults.

Throughout the day leaders from Dixon, Dakota, Thurston and Cedar counties had a chance to participate in four workshops, with each workshop containing an average of six different programs.
"We didn't have as many come out this year," Roy Stahler, Dixon County agent said, "due to a switch in the number of counties attending and possibly the foggy weather."

DARRYL LEHNUS

WSC Coach Picked to Head Chest for '73

Darryl Lehnus, assistant basketball and baseball coach at Wayne State College, has been named president of the Community Chest in Wayne for 1973.
Lehnus replaces Bob Jordan. Named vice president of the fund raising group was Dennis Boehme, executive of the Lewis and Clark Scout District. Boehme takes over the position held last year by Ray Butts.

Teachers Hired At Allen High

Two new teachers have been hired at Allen High School.
The two, who take over classes taught by Mrs. Dewain Erickson of Wakefield, are Cheryl Alexander, 22, of Grand Island, and Tom Wiener, 23, of Hinton, Ia. Mrs. Erickson, who has taught at Allen seven years, recently gave birth to a son.
Miss Alexander, a mid-term graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is teaching 11th and 12th grade literature, and communicative skills. She will also handle the school newspaper.
Wiener, who graduated in December from Wayne State College, is teaching business classes.
Both began teaching at Allen last week.

Architect Nearly Finished With Drawings of Hospital

The architect drawing up plans for the new area medical center to be built in Wayne has about 65 per cent of the job finished, reports Robert Carhart, president of the Wayne Hospital Foundation.
Carhart said the Lincoln-based firm doing the drawings hopes to have the drawings done by the first of next month.
Once the drawings are complete, Carhart said, they can be sent to federal officials for approval. Final approval by the government is necessary before Hill Burton funds can be released to help pay for constructing the facility.
The federal government has already approved a grant of $384,300 to help build the $1,584,926 medical center.
"After we get the final okay on the drawings we can begin letting bids for construction," Carhart said Friday.

The facility will be called Providence Medical Center and will be built just east of Wayne State College campus.
The Hill Burton funds will be used along with money collected during a year-long drive in the Wayne area and donations from the Missionary Benedictine Sisters at Norfolk. About $700,000 has been raised through donations and pledges.
Carhart said a meeting will be held probably next week to determine what method to use to heat and air-condition the building.
Being considered are a proposal from the Energy Systems plant at the college and the possibility of installing a heat exchanger plant in the hospital itself.
The city of Wayne is preparing a proposal to provide electricity to heat and cool the facility.

The school board approved the pay increases at a recent board meeting. The three administrators have accepted the board's salary offers, Leighton said.
Kramer will be given $12,900 a year, $300 more than his 1972-73 salary, Leighton said. Elementary principal Allen Schuler will get an increase from $9,700 to $10,000.
Leighton said his new contract calls for a $600 increase for the upcoming term and an additional $500 during the 1973-74 school session. Presently, Leighton's salary stands at $14,000.

Comments on Bus Service Can Be Made at Hearing

Persons wishing to comment on the current bus service in Wayne and Wakefield will be able to do so at a public hearing in Wayne Tuesday.
The public hearing before the State Railway Commission is scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Wayne County courthouse.
The hearing was scheduled after the commission received comments from area persons protesting the change in the bus service by Arrow Stage Lines of Norfolk.
Mrs. Eldon Bull, director of the Senior Citizens Center in Wayne, said she hopes those persons who are unhappy with the bus service turn out for the hearing.
"If enough people show they are very unhappy with the service, maybe we can get it changed," she said.
Many elderly people are expected to attend the hearing, she said, because the present bus service makes it difficult for them to conduct any business in either Norfolk or Sioux City.
The current bus scheduled has a stop in Wakefield at 10:40 a.m. and in Wayne at 10:55 a.m. on its way to Norfolk from Sioux City. The bus stops in Wayne at 12:30 p.m. and at Wakefield at 12:45 p.m. on its way back to Sioux City.
That schedule forces persons who ride the bus to stay overnight in Norfolk or Sioux City if they want to conduct any business or see a doctor, Mrs. Bull explained.
The old bus schedule was set up so persons could leave Wayne about 8 a.m. on their way to Sioux City and get a ride back on the bus about 6 p.m. That schedule then forces them to do whatever they had to do in Sioux City without being forced to stay overnight there, she said.
Arrow Stage Lines changed its bus schedule last summer.
"It did so without informing the State Railway Commission as required by law, according to Ralph Sathoff, acting director of the commission's motor transportation department.

Coed Bound Over to District Court

A Wayne State College student charged with abandoning a dead human body has been bound over to Wayne County district court.
The student, Dorothy Spatz, 19, was bound over by district county judge Joseph Hunker of West Point following a preliminary hearing on the felony charge at Wayne Thursday.
Date for arraignment and possible trial has not been set.
Miss Spatz, a sophomore from a farm near Bee, is charged in connection with the finding of the body of a newborn baby girl in a trash room in the basement of Bowen Hall on Wayne State College campus early this year.
She is free on $2,500 bond.
The felony charge carries a possible sentence of one to three years in the state penal complex, a fine of up to $2,500 or both, according to county attorney Budd Bornhoff.
Judge Hunker bound her over to district court after hearing testimony from five witnesses.
The witnesses were William Jenkins of Carroll, custodian at Bowen Hall who discovered the child's body Jan. 4; Ken Monroe, husband of the resident director at the dormitory; Mary Redman, another Wayne State student from Bee who gave Miss Spatz a ride from her home to the college the day the body was found; Robert Mavis of Wakefield, criminal investigator for the State Patrol, and Don Weible of Wayne, county sheriff.
Miss Spatz had been free on $2,000 bond prior to Thursday's preliminary hearing.
Seward County attorney Byron Norval said his office is still investigating the possibility of filing charges in connection with the death of the child. Bee is located about nine miles northwest of Seward on Seward County.

In binding Miss Spatz over to district court, judge Hunker admitted as possible evidence an alleged confession signed by her saying she had given birth to a child at her home near Bee and had put the dead child's body in the dormitory's trash chute.
She allegedly told Mavis during questioning that she gave birth to the child Dec. 24 in the bathroom of her home. Her parents did not know she had given birth to the child, she reportedly told Mavis.
Mavis testified in court during the hearing that she denied having been pregnant, but in saying she had given birth to a child's body in a trash chute in the dormitory until being told of a statement made by another college student, David Nieland.
Mavis said she told him after being informed of Nieland's statement that she had been going with Nieland for about a year and a half and that she knew she had given birth to a child.

Tri-Cog Is Now Certified

The Tri-County Council of Government (Tri-Cog) received its certification Wednesday night during the council's monthly meeting at Crofton.
Larry Heron, from the Omaha office of Housing and Urban Development, presented the members with the certificate.
Heron, in a later discussion, told the group that as of Jan. 5 certain federal projects would be frozen and money would not be available. Included in the cutoff were low income housing for the aged, park development and sewer projects.
In other business, the members voted to set up a research committee to look into the needs for developing mentally retarded programs in Knox and Cedar Counties.
According to John Young, one of the Dixon County representatives, an earlier study discovered that six per cent of the Knox County population was mentally retarded. Cedar County's mentally retarded number five per cent of the population. This is a high rate, Young admitted. "Therefore, we thought that looking into such a program is necessary," he said.
Finally, the members decided that the Council will hold its meetings on the third Wednesday night of the month. The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 21 at Hartington.

Scholarships Offered to WH Seniors

Seniors at Wayne-High School may apply for scholarships being offered under the General Motors Scholarship Plan, reports Ken Carlson, high school guidance counselor.
Stipends range from $200 to $2,000 per year depending on demonstrated need, according to Carlson.
Committees of the colleges and universities awarded scholarships.

Survey Deadline Is Wednesday

Wednesday is the deadline for returning the questionnaires recently sent out by The Wayne Herald.
Nearly 2,000 of the forms were sent out in the spot survey to determine how well the newspaper is doing the job the readers want.
More than 400 of the forms had been returned by the middle of last week.
Printed inside this issue of the paper is the questionnaire which was used in the survey. Persons who did not receive the form may clip it out of the paper, fill it in and mail it back to the newspaper before the deadline.
"Although many of our readers rate the quality of the newspaper very high, some of them have specific criticism which are interesting to read," said Norvin Hansen, editor of the Herald.

"The more specific our readers are with their comments or criticism, the better it is," he said. "If the readers don't like a column or regular feature, we hope they tell us so."
"But," he added, "if they like certain things about the paper, we hope they tell us that also."
It will take several days to compile results of the survey, and results will be published when available.

Warm weather may not be such a blessing

The warm weather which finally broke the cold spell in the Wayne area recently may turn out to be less of a blessing than many people think.

If the cold temperatures had continued, residents in Wayne, Wakefield and Allen would probably have been forced to take some drastic measures to combat the fuel shortage problem. Right now, however, few people are thinking about what could happen if there is not enough fuel to run generating plants, heat college buildings and schools or the like.

One thing the cold spell was doing was forcing us to think about a possible fuel shortage. Many people were probably trying to cut down on the electricity and fuel consumed in their homes and places of business.

If the weather continues to be mild and we get out of this winter without being forced to face up to a possible fuel shortage we will have lost some more valuable time in trying to find a solution to one of the nation's most pressing problems — lack of adequate oil and natural gas to satisfy our ever growing needs.

Want to add your 2¢ worth?

Printed on the opposite page is the opinion survey which went out to nearly 2,000 readers of The Wayne Herald recently.

We are printing the form in the newspaper, something we had not planned on doing, because of the large number of requests for forms from persons who were not included in the spot survey. Anybody who did not receive one of the forms and wishes to fill one out may clip the survey from the newspaper, complete it and mail it back to us. A separate sheet of paper can be used for comments.

The survey was limited to about half our regular readers because of the high cost of postage. Since we had never conducted a similar survey we had no idea how many would be returned. If all the forms were returned, our mailing bill would be in the neighborhood of $200. To survey all of our readers, would have given us a mailing bill of just over $700 if all the forms were returned.

Not only that, the real work on the survey is just beginning. A lot of man hours are being racked up in taking down answers off the surveys. Surveying all our readers would have doubled the time and expense of compiling the results.

We are very pleased at the success of the survey. The number of forms being returned is greater than we anticipated. And the persons filling out the forms are giving honest and complete answers.

It will be very interesting to study the results once they are all in. We hope to learn a great deal from them. We hope also to make changes in the newspaper so it better serves our readers.

If you wish to take part in the survey, just clip out the form on the opposite page, answer the questions and mail it back to us. It will help us get a better picture of what our readers want in the newspaper.

List getting longer

Appearing elsewhere on this page is an article which appeared in the monthly publication of the Nebraska State School Boards Association.

The article lists some interesting things which could come about with increased state aid to schools.

Although we do not necessarily agree or disagree with what the article says, we feel it is worth reprinting so others can read it, weigh the points made in it, and, possibly, learn from it.

It is one of several articles touching on a variety of subjects which have been given prominent display on this page over the past several weeks. Among them have been one commenting on use of antibiotics in animal agriculture, another one asking whether the layman or the professional educator should control public education and still another one giving reasons why public bodies should be required to keep people informed through publication of legal notices.

The articles are the result of our attempt to develop the editorial page into a place where a variety of viewpoints can be offered to our readers. Some of the articles may be in line with your thinking. Some of them may not be. Some of them you may disagree with enough to contribute your own article or letter. If so, so much the better for the public — our readers — are best informed when both the pros and cons of a subject are presented to them.

If you wish to write an article on a subject which you think needs or deserves attention, we will be happy to consider it for use on this page.

Safety belts, when you think about it, it's a nice way to say I love you.

State aid to schools won't come without restrictions

An editorial appearing in the December issue of Bulletin, monthly publication of Nebraska State School Boards Association.

A number of senators, as well as Governor Egan, have publicly said they favor a substantial increase in state aid to schools — in certain amounts and under certain conditions.

One of the conditions almost unanimously demanded is the guarantee of property tax relief. That is understandable and a lot of school board members would agree wholeheartedly. In fact, 82 per cent of the 463 responses we received from board members and administrators to the questionnaire we distributed at the fall district meetings listed property tax relief as the (or a) reason for increased state aid.

The method of guaranteeing property tax relief, however, is an issue with many ramifications.

First of all, with that many board members committed to property tax relief, it would seem unnecessary for the Legislature to impose restrictions. But the message has been delivered loud and clear — state aid will be contingent on spending restrictions.

This makes it pretty clear that the state aid bill will not be designed for state aid to schools at all. It will be designed to relieve property taxes. Maybe the state aid bills should be relabeled.

Limiting the flat number of dollars that can be spent on each pupil would be a — erroneously, of course — that the same number of dollars will buy the same quantity and quality of education for each child in the state. That premise ignores the problems of sparsity, density, special education, pupil-teacher ratios, and a host of others.

Limiting the number of mills that could be levied would present the same problems plus some new ones, chief of which is the well-known fact that a mill does not raise anywhere near the same number of dollars per pupil in different districts.

This scheme for spending limitations would certainly compound the constitutional violation spelled out in Serrano, Rodriguez et al — namely, the dependence of the quality of a child's education upon the wealth of his parents and neighbors.

Perhaps the most vicious restriction that could be imposed is the one now in force in Kansas and once used in Nebraska — a percentage limit on per-pupil spending increases. This one penalizes poor districts and those with ultra-frugal boards while rewarding the high-expenditure districts.

A school district, for example, that has been forced to accept high pupil-teacher ratios and has deferred needed expenditures in order to keep its mill levy within reason, spends $629 per pupil (Papillion, 1971-72); whereas another district, with greater resources and a far lower pupil-teacher ratio may spend $1,800 per pupil. If the spending increase were limited to 6 per cent, as has been suggested, the low-expenditure district could add only $37.74 per pupil to its next-year spending, while the high-expenditure district could add $108.

The low-expenditure district would fall further and further behind.

A suggested alternative would be to limit those districts that are spending more than the average of all districts in the state but permit the others to spend up to the average. This would alleviate one problem somewhat, but it would do nothing to help the district whose expenditures are high in spite of prudence and maximum efficiency. A prime example of such a district is Sandhills (Halsey - Dunning - Brewster - Purdum), which still has a very low pupil-teacher ratio in spite of the fact that it is a well-served district including Blaine County and large segments of four other counties.

Another alternative might be to limit the number of dollars by which a district can increase its per-pupil expenditures. That would have some advantage over a percentage increase restriction but would still not be equitable to the district whose school board has been frugal to the point of skimping on expenses and needs to do some catching up.

Most of the conversation about state aid so far has dealt with the amount and the method of distribution, and those questions are far from being settled. But it is time to be giving some serious thought to whether spending restrictions are really needed when over 80 per cent of the board members are committed to property tax relief.

Directly related to the question of spending restrictions is the status of the Nebraska Court of District Relations. Nebraska is unique among the 50 states in having an NCIR with the power to set teachers' salaries. Some states have boards and commissions, but none has a labor court empowered to establish teacher salary schedules.

Certainly the Legislature and the Governor are going to have to wrestle with the question of the power of the NCIR if they insist on restricting the spending authority of school boards.

The boards would find themselves in an impossible situation with the Legislature on one side saying, "You can't spend more than this," and the NCIR on the other side saying, "You must spend this much."

Don't forget that 85 per cent of your school district operating budget is used up by payroll, payroll taxes and other expenditures that are required by the salary levels. The other 15 per cent includes the cost of utilities, insurance, building operation and maintenance, leaving almost no discretion at all in expenditures other than payroll.

A closer look...

By Norvin Hansen

No kidding, some of those comments on the surveys we sent out to our readers are jewels.

For instance: "It's Your Move is a real scream — you have landlords moving in and out of houses they own but have never lived in. So old, too. You look silly!"

Ridiculous would probably be a better description. I can remember one time when I had a 90-year-old lady moving about three times in something like two weeks. Before I recognized the name the next time I picked up the address changes she called me up and said she was getting "damn tired" moving that often. We got her moved back to her own home the next issue, and... if she's alive yet... she's probably still living there.

No doubt about it, we're going to have to do something to that little feature. Keep the landlords from moving too often... or else drop it.

And how about this little gem: "In the death notices, does it have to be he or she was preceded in death by his or her parents when one is 70 or over? By that time we all know that the parents have been gone for years. Have rates of people 70 and 95 still preceded in death by their parents. Just my pet peeve."

Now it's ours.

Then there are some beautiful answers to this question: "What should there be tested?"

Like: "The 'hysterical' letters to the editor which are full of inaccuracies. If you're going to publish them, then you ought to present the facts in an editorial." (True, but have you ever told somebody they didn't know what they were talking about? We have, and the results were about what you could expect. We'll give it some thought, though.)

"Mr. Hansen's views." (Please, it's "en", not "on.")

"Coffee company. It makes me dizzy, especially around Christmas." (That is just about what the typesetter says about it.)

Some of the comments verge on being brilliant.

Like the young adult who answered why he doesn't subscribe: "Don't like the owner."

And the person who made this general comment: "It's all okay by me."

And the person who summed it all up when she answered in one word the question about what there should be less of: "Mistakes."

It's going to be fairly easy to understand the answers to the questions about how often certain features are read. It's going to be something else trying to make heads or tails out of the comments. One person says there should be more area news and sports. Another says there is not enough news about people and events in Wayne.

One person says "Rural Ramblings" are exactly that — ramblings. Another says the column is the best thing we've got going in the newspaper.

One person says the news stories and editorials give only one side of the story. Another says the reporting and editorial writing is incomplete. People. They're hilarious one time, exasperating another, maddening the next. But one thing about them — they're unpredictable.

Gallop, you earn your money.

Last week's editorial picture of the pile of snow on one of the street corners in Wayne brought a quick response from Vern Schulz, street commissioner.

City employees did not pile that snow on the corner, creating a traffic hazard, according to Schulz. College workers did it, he said.

One person says who was responsible for putting the snow there. We did mischievously insinuate, however, that the city was responsible for getting it removed before it caused an accident, as similar piles elsewhere in the city did.

It probably makes a little extra work for city workers to have to carry away snow piled up like that by private citizens or businessmen. But we'll be a lot more man-hours are spent by mumberling residents who have to scoop out their driveways every time a snowplow comes along and cleans the street.

Since most of this week's column has been devoted to talking about the newspaper, I might as well add this comment from the guy on the Lake Park News in Iowa:

"If you think you have troubles pity the poor editor — if he attends a meeting he's being nosy, if he doesn't he isn't interested. If he writes an in-depth story it's too long, if he condenses one it's incomplete. If he takes sides on an issue he is prejudiced, if he doesn't he's a coward. If he asks for advice he is incompetent, if he doesn't he is a know-it-all. If he makes a mistake he hears about it for weeks, if he doesn't he never hears about it. If he expresses an opinion he wants to run the show, if he doesn't he lacks guts. If he misspells your name you never forget it. If he doesn't you don't read that story."

Wayne Dear Editor:

As a high school student I feel the Equal Rights Amendment could never be a "step forward" — I cannot see where sharing restrooms with men is a step forward. Sharing restrooms only takes away the privacy I have now. I want to keep my privacy.

It is not a step forward when a group of radical women, too old to ever be drafted themselves, force the draft on young girls. If we girls want to join the Army, etc. we can volunteer.

Women Libber's say girls won't be drafted, but they are wrong. If the Equal Rights Amendment goes through, being drafted will become one of our rights, and I say no thanks!

What have I, a young girl, ever done to make these women hate me so? Only women full of hatred could support the ERA. These women say they are protecting my rights, but I already have enough protection under the 14th Amendment and the Civil Rights Act.

I can only hope that the state senators will see their mistake and repeal the ERA. Please write the senators and show your support against the ERA.

A Concerned High School Student

Wayne

Dear Editor:

In the January 15th issue of The Herald, a concerned parent wrote that individualized math at the Middle School kept class sizes small. Even though I am not a teacher at the Middle School, I did student teach there when the individualized math program began.

The Wayne school system is very fortunate, in that there are enough instructors and facilities available to keep class size small — between 20 and 25. With this type of situation, each student can receive more personal attention, especially in an individualized math program.

Math usually is not a favorite subject, but it is necessary to have some understanding of math. Which is worse — cram lectures and lessons to the class and forget about the student as an individual, or let students spend more time on difficult areas when necessary? Why hold back better students? Why fail slower students?

Also, no one has had a failing average in the seventh and eighth grade math classes since individualization started.

While this parent's child was in the seventh grade, I wish he or she would have asked to visit the class. The teacher is in the classroom, but the teacher is not the one who "sits behind the desk and makes out the grades." In this program, there is actually more preparation required, and the teacher must be moving around the room to answer various questions. And if the parent's child can finish a chapter in half an hour, why doesn't the child have enough initiative and drive to finish the book, a couple of weeks and be finished with it?

Seventh and eighth graders should not be allowed to do as they please in most cases, but a lot of them do as they please at home, so why not at school? I realize this is a strong statement, but whenever a child gets behind in the class, the parents listen to the child and jump on the teacher. There was a time when parents backed teachers instead of always putting them on the line. How many parents ask what a teacher feels about the situation?

Teachers have an important task — to educate YOUNG children. Making accusations about a program without real knowledge of the situation is not using good judgment. And making accusations about good teachers will lose those good teachers.

I believe the individualized math program at Wayne's Middle School is good and sound. Parents, be glad you've got a school system that can offer this type of program, and teachers who are willing to try a new program to better educate your children.

Madison's Ray Unleashes 27 Points To Down Laurel Bear Club, 66-60

By BOB BARTLETT

Madison's standout guard Joe Ray capped the scoring honors in Friday night's tussle with Laurel, hitting 11 field goals and 5-9 at the free throw line.

But the flashy, senior also killed the Bears' hopes of winning their third game.

The 5-8 Dragon unleashed his potent scoring attack in the second half on Laurel's home court and piled up 27 points to pace his team to a 66-60 win.

The Bear's playing their usual man-to-man defense, continued their last break game against the taller Madison five. Although Gene Sarha and Keith Olsen split the nets for 22 and 21 points each, the undersized Bears could not hold on in the second half.

Madison could only get four points out of Ray in the first half, all of them in the first period. The Dragons and the Bears both played a cool first period with Madison scratching out a 13-9 lead.

But the trade winds started to change in the Laurel grid when Olsen cracked the nets for eight points in the second quarter to aid his team to a 23-20 first half edge.

"I thought our team did a good job," coach Joel Parks commented after the tough loss. "They played their guts out and they still lost," he said.

Laurel, now 2-9, converted the nets in the first half, blitzing 13 of 15 charity tosses.

At that point Olsen was 9 out of 8 at the line.

Sarha, who was right behind Olsen in the scoring department, nailed 3-4 at the line and teammate Chuck Hirschman had 2-3 to give the home team the three-point half-time advantage.

"I don't understand it," Parks confessed. "We're getting the good shots both outside and underneath. But the ball seemed to jump right out of the hole."

Laurel's man-to-man defense seemed to hold the visitors in the first half. But the match soon turned into a game of who could outrun the other team and score the most baskets.

Ray opened his barrage of 23 points in the second half, scoring

COME BACK HERE... Laurel's Dave Diederik momentarily loses control of the ball in second quarter action against Madison Friday night. Applying the pressure are Dragons Al Demmel and Dave Unger.

13 in the third and adding 10 in the fourth.

"That Ray is something else," Parks pointed out. "He and West Point Central Catholic's Joe McGill are the two best guards in this area. If it weren't for Ray's second half we could have won the ball game."

Madison put together two 23-point second half quarters to outgun the Bears' total of 37. Al Demmel and Kevin Kratochvil ended up with 17 and 14 points respectively for the visitors.

In reserve action, the Bears again fell short. Madison topped the home team, 45-40 to give the Laurel reserves their seventh loss to one win.

Mark Anderson led the troops with 10 followed by Greg Pippen and Scott Huetig with nine each.

Tuesday night the Bears will travel to Randolph.

Standard Farm, Home Takes Team Trophy In City Bowling Meet

The Standard-Farm and Home Bowling team of Elmer Bargholz, Ed and Jess Milligan, Larry Test and Larry Skokan finished first in the Wayne city bowling tournament, according to figures released by Harold Murray, Wayne City Bowling Association secretary.

The members of the Wednesday Night Owls League rolled a 7,462 scratch series during league action recently and collected a 753 handicap to win the event with a 3,215 total.

M & H Apco took the second spot with a 3,203 three game score, followed by Super Valu's trophy with a 734 total. First place in the all-events went to Laurel's Virgil Buss with 2,037.

The results:

TEAM	Scratch	Hdcp.	Total
Standard	2,462	753	3,215
M & H Apco	2,501	702	3,203
Super Valu	2,594	603	3,197
Wayne Grain	2,721	448	3,169
Funny's	2,724	411	3,135
Frederickson Oil	2,548	558	3,102

Hosts Standard-Farm and Home Bowling Association, 1407 210 1,350; Jacobson Miller, 1,059 240 1,299; Rebersdorf Baier, 1,084 210 1,296; Jetter, Beckman, 1,089 204 1,293; Buss, Kinast, 1,223 48 1,271.

ABOUT 22 teams entered this year's tournament, which, said Murray, tops last year's entries by 12.

We had 10 teams try out last season," he explained. "But this year more teams decided to try for the championship."

Murray felt that the increase of teams (22 out of a total of 30 scheduled teams) is due to the new handicap system adopted by the association during its fall meeting.

Instead of the regular 75 per cent of the difference between 200 and a person's average, a bowler now gets 100 per cent of the difference," he pointed out.

In the doubles and singles events, a number of entries also showed an increase. Thirty-eight men participated in the doubles compared to 34 last year and 19 competed in doubles, ten more than a year earlier.

Pat Holston and Rick Mangia combined for a 1,140 scratch series while collecting 210 pins handicap to win the doubles title with 1,350.

Ric Barner won the singles.

Cats' Pressing Defense Aids Second Win, 58-39

Winside claimed its second cage victory of the season Friday night when it shut off an improving Wynot club, 58-39.

Coach Jim Winch's Wildcats jumped off to a 20-4 first period lead aided by a pressing man-to-man defense.

Nifty forward Larry Wellie, pounding the nets for 21 points, helped the visitors with seven baskets and 7-8 free throws.

"With the exception of the first quarter," Winch pointed out, "Wynot played a pretty even ball game."

Wynot, which fell to the Cats in their first meeting, 58-20, stayed with the Winside club throughout the remaining three quarters. The Cats collected 10, 12 and 16 points while the Bluedevils scored nine, 11 and 15 in the final three periods.

"I think our press had a lot to do with Wynot's low scoring in the first quarter," Winch managed 13.

After Saturday night's encounter with Hartington, Winside will travel to another tough meeting, this time with Osmond Tuesday night. Winside was 2-0 for the year going into Saturday's game.

Blue Devils Mastermind New Offense in 72-59 Romp Over Neligh Team

Wayne High guard Randy Nelson's super night combined with the Blue Devils' super plays Friday night sparked a 72-59 thrashing of No. 2 rated Class C Neligh.

Nelson, who scored 25 points for the evening, used his quickness to jump inside of Neligh's switching defense to rap 10 field goals, while converting 5 of 6 at the line.

"Randy had a fantastic night," coach Bill Sharpe pointed out. "He helped our defense set up the plays as well as scoring."

The Blue Devils, using a 1-2-2 offense which Sharpe believes gives his men more choice in screening situations, let the visitors know that their ranking didn't mean anything to the now 8-4 local club.

Neligh took the back seat at the Wayne city auditorium when Wayne broke out to a 23-13 lead at the end of the first period.

"We were ahead 23-9 at one point," the coach noted, pointing out that Neligh played a poised game in the second quarter.

"They (Neligh) started out in a man-to-man defense but our quick guards—Nelson, M. A. R. T. Hansen and Bob Keating—beat them for the fast break for a couple of quick scores."

"At that point, the Warriors switched to a zone defense to try and contain the keyed-up Wayne offense."

"We tried moving our two post men, Roger Saul and Larry Shupe, farther out from the middle in order that our guards could get inside for the shots," Sharpe said, explaining his new locking offense.

In the shooting department, the facts were evident that the change did help. Wayne hit 31 of 65 shots for 47 per cent while Neligh gathered 24-58 for 41 per cent.

"Both teams did shoot well," he added.

But the one short coming on the new offense, he mentioned, is the inability to get the rebounds.

Although the figures were close, Wayne managed to collect 36 rebounds to Neligh's 30.

Wayne came out in a man-to-man defense which coach Sharpe labeled as being "a real fine job for us." The game charts proved the coach right as Neligh turned the ball over 20 times to Wayne's nine. "This," he noted, "did make a big difference in the ball game."

Sharpe felt that his guards did a good job in applying the pressure defense that enabled the Blue Devils to be in control of the contest.

"Neligh never was close," the coach said, noting that the Warriors came within nine at one point during the third quarter.

"Overall, I would say that as a defensive and offensive team, we played our best game," Sharpe remarked.

HIGH AND FLYING... a mass of hands and arms were flying at the Wayne High-Neligh game Friday night at the city auditorium. Blue Devils Marty Hansen (20) and Larry Shupe are beat out by several Warrior players writing trying to grab the ball. Neligh players are Bill Weaver (13), Mark Murphy (43) and Mike Morrison (23).

West Point Hits Frosh

Wayne High's Paul Mallette and Rob Mitchell collected 30 and 22 points respectively Thursday night, but the freshmen team lost its momentum in the fourth to suffer defeat against strong West Point Central Catholic club, 67-63.

Both Mitchell and Mallette teamed up for steals and fast breaks to help Wayne gain the lead in the first half, 30-29.

The locals continued the pressure in the third with a five point margin before faltering in the last period.

"I thought our boys played a good game," coach Duane Blomkamp said. "West Point had a good team and a good outside shooter," he added.

West Point's Orlin ripped the nets for 78 points on consisted shooting from the side. The 6-2 freshman has an "excellent jump shot," Blomkamp said. Larry Creighton and Dave Hix, Wayne's two post men, fouled out in the last period to add to the Blue Devils' woes.

"We started to stand around during that last period, which was one of our problems," Blomkamp added, noting that his team sometimes tried to rush the shots.

Defensively, Brian Magnuson was Wayne's leading rebounder, the coach pointed out.

Monday Wayne, 4-3, will face Schuyler in the first round of the four team Schuyler tournament.

Wayne's Balanced Offense, Defense Proves Too Much for Peru, 102-91

Whatever else you can say of a Wayne State Peru State basketball game, they're always exciting. So again Friday night.

Before Wayne put it away at 102-91, just about everything happened—except a Peru lead.

The main thing that happened Wayne won on better balance of scoring and rebounding and defense. While the visiting Bobcats had the top scorer in Arnanas Montague, who hit 30 from everywhere behind the boards and far out—Wayne got higher scoring from more players.

Big Denny Higgins set the pattern with a driving layup in 15 seconds after the tipoff. The Wildcats were up by 12-5 in less than four minutes as they worked their patterns with finesse.

Tom Erwin got the honor breaking the century mark as he swirled in for a hooking layup, hit it and got a foul to boot. The three pointer finished Wayne scoring and lifted Erwin to 16 points. He had a perfect game from the field, hitting all seven of his shots.

Coach Ron Jones noted after the game: "Better balance did it. We took good shots and hit 51 per cent."

Selkies connected on 11 of 19, Harvey on 8 of 12, Jim Mervol on 5 of 10. Wayne had a 55 to 46 edge in rebounding with forward Ronnie Jones leading on 15 boards. The win kept Wayne close in the conference race at 31, trailing UN Omaha, 40. Over all, the Wildcats are 10-5. Peru's 5-8 and 12.

Wayne will entertain Midland Tuesday night at 7:30 in Rice gym.

UP FOR THE REBOUND... Peru's Arnanas Montague nabs a rebound in the second half Friday night to cause Wayne's Jon Harvey.

Reserves Do It Again

Nine and Zip. That pretty much tells the story of the Wayne reserve basketball team.

Friday night the reserves did it again, when they beat a good Neligh team, 74-63, for the team's ninth win against no losses.

Wayne continued its tough man-to-man defense with a 19-15 first quarter lead and stayed in the driver's seat for three quarters before giving up 17 points in the fourth.

Bob Keating was the high point man for the night, hitting for 21 points. Earle Overin followed with 15, Kerry Jech had 10, Kim Baker had eight and Jack Froehlich seven.

Wayne High guard Randy Nelson's super night combined with the Blue Devils' super plays Friday night sparked a 72-59 thrashing of No. 2 rated Class C Neligh.

Nelson, who scored 25 points for the evening, used his quickness to jump inside of Neligh's switching defense to rap 10 field goals, while converting 5 of 6 at the line.

"Randy had a fantastic night," coach Bill Sharpe pointed out. "He helped our defense set up the plays as well as scoring."

The Blue Devils, using a 1-2-2 offense which Sharpe believes gives his men more choice in screening situations, let the visitors know that their ranking didn't mean anything to the now 8-4 local club.

Neligh took the back seat at the Wayne city auditorium when Wayne broke out to a 23-13 lead at the end of the first period.

"We were ahead 23-9 at one point," the coach noted, pointing out that Neligh played a poised game in the second quarter.

"They (Neligh) started out in a man-to-man defense but our quick guards—Nelson, M. A. R. T. Hansen and Bob Keating—beat them for the fast break for a couple of quick scores."

"At that point, the Warriors switched to a zone defense to try and contain the keyed-up Wayne offense."

"We tried moving our two post men, Roger Saul and Larry Shupe, farther out from the middle in order that our guards could get inside for the shots," Sharpe said, explaining his new locking offense.

In the shooting department, the facts were evident that the change did help. Wayne hit 31 of 65 shots for 47 per cent while Neligh gathered 24-58 for 41 per cent.

"Both teams did shoot well," he added.

But the one short coming on the new offense, he mentioned, is the inability to get the rebounds.

Although the figures were close, Wayne managed to collect 36 rebounds to Neligh's 30.

Wayne came out in a man-to-man defense which coach Sharpe labeled as being "a real fine job for us." The game charts proved the coach right as Neligh turned the ball over 20 times to Wayne's nine. "This," he noted, "did make a big difference in the ball game."

Sharpe felt that his guards did a good job in applying the pressure defense that enabled the Blue Devils to be in control of the contest.

"Neligh never was close," the coach said, noting that the Warriors came within nine at one point during the third quarter.

"Overall, I would say that as a defensive and offensive team, we played our best game," Sharpe remarked.

Area Residents' Health Is Better Than Average

How healthy are Wayne County residents? How does their health compare with people in other parts of the country? What progress has been made in recent years?

Some answers to these questions may be gleaned from the reports of the National Center for Health Statistics, the analytic arm of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Through weekly samplings of families across the land, it keeps constant watch on the physical condition of the population.

It gauges the general health of a community by the extent to which its people are able to pursue their normal daily activities without interruptions necessitated by illness or injury.

This is measured, by what is called a "disability days index," which takes account of the number of days of restricted activity, when a person is unable to go to work or to school, and those in which he is kept in bed or in a hospital, called bed days.

In the regional area embracing Wayne County, on that basis, the health of the population was somewhat better in 1970 than it was five years earlier, according to the government's figures.

They show that the average number of disability days in the area in 1970 was 12.4 per person, of which 5.7 were bed days. In 1965 local people had an average of 14.6 disability days, including 6.0 bed days. By way of comparison, the national average in 1970 was 14.6 days of restricted activity, 6.1 of them in bed.

Improvement was noted in this regard in all sections of the country except the northeastern states.

It appears from the figures, women are more likely to be incapacitated than men. They have 15.8 days of disability per year as against 13.2 for men.

The loss in WsWayne County, based upon the disability rate reported for its sectional area of 12.4 days per person, adds up to a total of 129,000 days for the year.

The American Medical Association, commenting on these health statistics in its publication "Update" notes that the healthier people in the country today are those who live on farms in the Midwest and have incomes of over $10,000 a year.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. Because of revenue sharing, my county is reducing its property taxes. Does my landlord now have to reduce my rent?

A. Yes. Your landlord must reduce your rent to reflect reductions in real property taxes.

For the formula for rent reductions based on decreases in allowable cost items, such as real property taxes, landlords should consult the Sept. 28, 1972, Federal Register. It may be obtained by sending 20 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Q. May a landlord increase the security deposit when he rents an apartment to new tenant?

A. Yes. The landlord may increase a security deposit when an apartment is rented to a new tenant if he can show that his customary practice before Aug. 15, 1971, was to increase the deposit when the rent was increased.

Q. What records are required to be kept by employers for documenting compliance with wage regulations?

A. Generally, those records that should be kept by an employer are the details of all wage, salary and benefit adjustments. This would include details of skill or inequity adjustments; wage and salary rates; changes in shift differentials; premium pay; pension, retirement, vacation and sick pay; increases in pension, retirement, health and welfare plans; cost of living provisions; employee incentive programs; any applicable contracts; and the percentage of workers or the total man-hours affected. An employer may also look at Form PB-3 to see what is required for documenting wage, salary and benefit adjustments. Forms are available at any Internal Revenue office.

Q. How much may a hospital raise its prices?

A. A hospital may increase prices to cover certain increased costs for labor, supplies and technology. A hospital can raise its price without notification by no more than an annual average of 2.5 per cent to reflect these costs. If annual prices increase average between 2.5 and 6 per cent, the institution must notify the Internal Revenue Service, and the appropriate Medicare intermediary.

To raise the average of prices by more than 6 per cent, an institution must apply for an exception. The application first goes to the State Advisory Board for approval or disapproval; then, the application is filed with the IRS district office; and the final decision is made by the Price Commission.

For more details, see IRS Publication 5-3014, "Price Controls and Health Care Service." It's available free by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Childhoods Spill from Box of Toys

By SANDRA BREITKREUTZ
Toys have been a magical part of man's existence since the earliest of times, and their magic does not vanish simply because one ceases to be a child. Consider the boxes of childhood treasures packed away in some corner of nearly every household, occasionally being shown to new youngsters so they can marvel over a dainty lace-adorned doll, a cast iron pony or carved wooden puppet.

Such a box is stored in the Wayne home of Dr. and Mrs. T.H. Stevenson.

One of the oldest items in the collection is Cinderella, a doll from the 1890's, which had belonged to her mother, Mrs. L.L. Rugles of Evanston, Ill.

"In those days," explains Mrs. Stevenson, "A child had only one doll and she took very good care of it."

This doll, which features a bisque head and fully jointed composition body is approximately 12 inches tall. She was restored about five years ago and has been fitted with a new wig.

From the same period is a small tea table, apparently a hand-rubbed walnut, which is just the right size for a doll's tea party.

A more recent addition to the collection is Shirley Temple, who will bring to many memories of 1935 or 1936. She, too, has been restored with a new wig, fresh paint and a new dress.

The box of treasures also contains the wardrobe of dolls clothes, mostly hand made, and a fascinating set of cast iron doll furniture. Each piece averages about two inches in height.

Painted and repainted many times as they were handed down from one child to another, the intricately detailed pieces of furniture were new in about 1920, estimates Mrs. Stevenson.

The set includes a high chair, tricycle, cradle, baby carriage, stove with oven on top, adjustable ironing board and three-quarter inch iron, floor-model radio, table with extension leaf, bath tub, lavatory and stool.

Also on a miniature scale are china figurines of Moon Mullins and Uncle Willie, both about three inches tall.

"And I'm sure at one time there must have been a Mamie," recalls Mrs. Stevenson. There are lots of tiny dishes and utensils, and once there was a child size electric stove which would get hot enough to bake petite muffins or boil water or cook an egg.

A toy microscope and sewing machine—yes, it works—from the '30's round out the collection.

"Most of the articles are pieces which have come from my family or my husband's," explains Mrs. Stevenson. "I guess I'm just lucky." She says when asked how she happens to be the recipient of the heirlooms.

"More recently I've started a collection of demitasse cups which my husband and mother-in-law add to occasionally. I love dishes," she continues, proudly showing the contents of a china cupboard.

"The majolica tea set from Pennsylvania to Illinois by covered wagon with my father's side of the family," she explains. The set, which includes tea pot, sugar bowl and creamer, carries its history from the year 1806.

The Stevensons have two children. Jim is a sophomore at the University of Chicago. Mary, who works and goes to school in Lincoln, has lately shown an interest in the collection which now contains dolls from her own childhood.

She will probably be the next owner of the box of Stevenson family memories.

Parked Car Struck Friday

About 11:45 p.m. Friday a parked auto belonging to Charles E. and Anna M. Current Route 2, Wayne, was struck by an unidentified vehicle.

The Currents told the police that they parked their car about 9:30 in the 900 block of Pine Heights and when they returned they found the car pushed up onto the curb. The car sustained damage to the left rear fender.

EASTERN COFFEE

- 6 dashes cardamom
- 6 tablespoons instant coffee
- 6 cups boiling water
- 6 teaspoon brandy
- 3 tablespoons sugar

Combine coffee and water. In each cup add a dash of cardamom and sugar. Fill with coffee. Top with a teaspoon brandy. Serve immediately. Serves 6.

A GREAT-GREAT-GRANDMOTHER received this tea pot on her wedding day in 1803. The set still contains creamer and sugar bowl and four cups and saucers.

THE YEARS MESH as Mrs. Stevenson sets the tiny green glass dishes out for a tea party for Shirley Temple of the 1930's and Cinderella who dates back to the 1890's.

WHEELS THAT TURN and hinges that open are features of the charming collection of miniature furnishings.

College Students Failing to Report On 'Forgiveness'

Many college graduates are not reporting on their income tax returns the forgiveness of government loans they received while going to college says Richard P. Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska.

The IRS has a special task force examining income tax returns of taxpayers who have had a portion of their college loans forgiven to test and seek out types of noncompliance with the filing and payment requirements of the Internal Revenue Code, said Vinal.

Preliminary results have shown that loans college students received under the National Defense Student Loan Program, Title II and the Health Professions Student Loan Program, which were partially forgiven after graduation, are not being reported as income.

Those taxpayers who fulfill the requirements under these loan programs have been receiving partial forgiveness of up to 15 percent of the loan yearly.

The amount of the forgiveness or cancellation occurring within each taxable year can be included in the taxpayer's gross income for such year.

Those individuals who have had a portion of the loans forgiven and have not reported it as income in the year it was forgiven should immediately file amended income tax returns, Form 1040X, Vinal said. Forms may be obtained at the local IRS office.
