Wayne Council Purchases New Equipment

Wayne city councilmen Tuesday night accepted bids on several pieces of equipment and for work at the municipal swimming pool.

Councilmen gave their approval to issue a new bottle club liquor license to incorporators of the Black Knight Lounge. Approval came on a 7-0 vote, with one councilman not being present for the council meeting.

Discussed and sent to committee a request from Bill Woehler for restricted parking on Logan Street from the railroad crossing south. Woehler said numerous cattle trucks have been parking there during the night, causing strong smells in the area. A committee will study the situation and make recommendations to the council at the next meeting.

Heard a preliminary estimate of cost of servicing the industrial area east of the city and the area out to it with sanitary sewer and improving the city sewage treatment facilities. That project could cost up to $300,000, the engineering firm said.

Okayed purchasing about $1,800 worth of coats, boots and helmets for the volunteer fire department.

Cost of three vehicles and an electric derrick for the city will run about $30,725. Cost of the improvement work on the swimming pool pipes will be just over $5,000.

Decided to advertise for a manager to run the swimming pool for the coming season. Allen Hanson, manager of the pool the past few years, has applied for the job again this year.

Set a meeting for 7 p.m. March 7 for the councilmen to discuss pension plans for city employees.

Heard a preliminary estimate of cost of asphalt work at the municipal airport. The city's engineering firm said that work could cost $25,600.

Okayed having the city Workman for action on the recent petition asking for paving on Grantland Road from Blaine to Maple Street. The council asked the city attorney to find out what per cent of the property owners have to request paving before a paving district can be formed.

Trucks were purchased for the street and light departments, a station wagon was purchased for the police department and an electric derrick was purchased for the light department.

Approved for work on swimming pool pipes was the lone bid of $5,461 submitted by Midwest Plumbing and Heating of Norfolk.

Farmers To Be Lions' Guests

Farmers in the Wayne area will be guests of honor at Tuesday, compliments of the local Lions Club.

Club members are inviting farmers to be their guests during Tuesday's regular monthly meeting at the Vet's Club in Wayne.

This is the second year in a row that the club has had a meeting where members invite farmers, a practice started to expand club membership beyond the city limits. Club officials have said that activities of the service group are not limited to the city limits and that as many farmers as possible should be encouraged to join the organization.

Post Office Holiday Forces Early Printing

Because of the coming Monday holiday, Washington's Birthday, The Wayne Herald will be printed on Friday instead of Saturday.

Printing the newspaper a day early will enable rural subscribers to receive the newspaper Saturday. Persons receiving their newspapers by carrier service in Wayne, Winside and Carroll and persons who pick up their newspapers over the counter in stores will receive their papers Friday.

If the paper were printed Saturday as usual, rural subscribers would not receive their newspapers until Tuesday because the post office will be closed Monday.

Persons with news or advertisements for Monday's issue of the newspaper should bring the information to the office by closing time Thursday.

Old, New, Unusual To Highlight Concert at Wayne High Monday

A variety of musical numbers is on the program for Monday night's midwinter performance by the Wayne High Concert Band.

The program will include everything from traditional concert marches to selections from the movie "Shaft" to novelty song and dance selections, says Ron Dalton, band director.

Also on tap is a piano duet arrangement of "Brian's Song" by band member Mike Nuss.

"Even the contemporary numbers we're doing should be enjoyable to listen to," says Dalton. "It's the most unusual concert we've ever had. . . it should really be a listener's concert."

Traditional marches selected for the concert, scheduled for the high school lecture hall at 7:30 p.m., include "Jubilee" by Kenny, Contemporary band numbers include two by Estampie, one featuring an antiphonal brass choir.

On the lighter side will be such songs as "The Windmills of Your Mind," "What Are You Doing the Rest of Your Life?" and "Sweet Gingerbread Man."

A highlight of the night's program, Dalton said, will be songs and dances of the Roaring 20s. They will feature two dancing groups—"The Adorables" and "The Charleston Charmers" both made up of girls from the band.

The program is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

an apple a day

... makes a lot of apples by the end of the year. Trouble with keeping apples... they spoil. Not so with dollars. They're just as fresh at year's end as when you put them there; in fact, a little fresher. You see, State National adds a little interest to improve the flavor.

Saving an apple a day might not be such a great idea. Saving a dollar (or two, or three, or more) a day is.

And that's no applesauce.

34 Seniors To Receive Scholarships

Thirty four graduates of Nebraska high schools will receive Board of Trustees Scholarships to attend Kearney State College during the 1973-74 school year.

To be eligible for a Trustees' Scholarship, the applicant must be a graduate of a Nebraska high school, be a resident of Nebraska, rank in the upper quarter of the high school graduating class, attain a high ACT or SAT performance and be recommended for the scholarship by at least one high school administrator or teacher.

Financial need is not a prerequisite for the scholarship. The scholarships provide for the remission of tuition at state colleges. The award is made to attend a specific college and is not transferable from one state college to another. An applicant may apply for a scholarship at one state college only.

Scholarships are made for one academic year (two semesters or trimesters) and are renewable for subsequent academic years upon application, but not to exceed eight academic semesters if completed within a total of five years. Recipients of scholarships must enroll as full-time students, carrying 12 hours or more for the fall term.

Students applying to Kearney State should contact Bill Redden, director of financial aids, by the March 1 deadline.

Cookware for Microwave Ovens

The microwave or electronic range in use in restaurants and other large volume kitchens for more than a decade, is gaining headway on the market for family kitchens.

With this new cooking method it is possible to prepare a complete meal in minutes rather than hours, but, its introduction has created some confusion—particularly concerning which utensils can be used safely and successfully in microwave cookery.

The microwave oven uses an electronic device to produce a form of energy that is similar to light or radio waves. This silent, invisible energy is directed into the oven from the appliance's power source. The food is cooked by absorbing or soaking up this energy very quickly.

The ideal utensil for microwave cooking is one that absorbs very little of the energy, while allowing it to pass through to heat and cook the food. Cooking utensils of glass-ceramics, glass and china with a sage glaze and no metal trim or metal parts do this very well.

Other acceptable cooking utensils include some types of chow-ware, some plastics and paper and plastic-coated paper dishes. One manufacturer has developed a heat-and-serve plastic dinnerware that is safe for use in microwave ovens.

When a recipe calls for food to be covered, waxpaper, paper, toweling and plastic wrap can be used rather than a glass lid which seems to slow down the heating process. Dishwasher-safe plastic, foam cups and baby bottles are still other good microwave utensils.

As for using a serving dish as a cooking utensil, care must be taken to use only microwave-safe dishes and plates. This way, some owners of microwave

Allen's Stall Chokes Eagles Attempt at Winning Loop Crown

By BOB BARTLETT
 "No school tomorrow" is a strange chant for a high school cheer at a basketball game. But not for Osmond High fans. And certainly not for the Osmond Tigers, who won the Lewis and Clark Conference crown Tuesday night at Wakefield.

The Tigers took advantage of a hot fourth quarter and burned in a 19-point effort to crush Allen High's hopes of taking the loop title home, 63-59.

The Eagles, playing one of their better games, put on a dazzling and speedy three-quarters of action, mainly behind the skills of senior guard Stan Perry.

The blitzing Eagle sank 23 points for game scoring honors, but even that effort failed to help in the lagging final period when Allen mustered only 10 points after leading by as much as seven during third quarter action.

The Eagles, with a two-point lead with 4:51 to go in the game, tried to slow the action and continue penetrating Osmond's 2-1-2 zone defense.

Within seconds Perry proved that he could once again break open the defense for an easy two on a layup to put his club ahead by four, 57-53.

But after Osmond whittled the lead to two again, coach Dale Rein signaled his club to go to a man-to-man defense.

And some defense it proved to be.

Allen, usually able to pick and chose to score from any spot on the court, suddenly found Osmond's press causing unexpected turnovers which the Tigers turned into scores for an easy lead.

After tying the game for the fifth and final time at 59-59, Osmond continued the press that eventually stopped Perry inside shots and the rest of the Allen crew outside.

With 52 seconds left in the game Perry tried a jumper from within the circle, but the ball bounced off the rim into the hands of Osmond's hero of the night, junior Robin Reed.

After a time out, Reed took the ball down the left side of the key and hit from 15 feet out to give Osmond a 61-59 lead.

With 15 seconds left Eagle Duane Mitchell, who had third team high with nine points, fired a pass to Perry as he was attempting to get free under the basket. The pass went wide, giving the Tigers the ball.

After an in-court pass, Reed drew a foul and converted both shots to tie the victory.

For coach Rein and his Tiger club, the L.C. crown was long in coming after last year's dismal 3-15 record. The Tigers now own an 18-3 mark. Allen stands at 12-4.

The Eagles started off the title game with an 11-10 lead and maintained a three-point margin at the half, 27-24.

Scott Von Minden, who poured in 12 points and had an undetermined number of assists, combined with Perry to aid his team to a 22-point third quarter effort while the Osmond club fired in 29 to give Allen a five-point lead, 49-44, going into the fourth frame.

Six-six center Brett Moritz played an important part in the Tigers' comeback. In the first quarter he scored only four points before three fouls sent him to the bench. But in the second half, he collected four quick baskets for a total of 12 points. Reed and Dennis Kumm were high for Osmond with 14 each.

Allen May Start HS Baseball Program

Allen High School may start a baseball program beginning this year.

According to Carl Miller, school board superintendent, the school board is looking into the possibility of setting up such a program. Miller said some of the problems facing the board are finding enough boys interested in playing and scheduling games.

The board, he continued, may take action on the subject at its meeting in March.

Mr. Automatic Gives Trojans 11th Win, 51-50 Over Emerson

Wakefield's Mr. Automatic—Dave Scheel—helped the Trojans pull out another victory Saturday night when the home team knocked off a strong Emerson-Hubbard five, 51-50.

With less than eight-seconds left in the game, Scheel took the ball down court and fired a 30-footer to ace the Trojans' 11th win against seven defeats.

Wakefield, shooting only 35 per cent for the night, had a four-point edge after the first quarter, 17-13, but the visitors used the second quarter to build up a two-point lead, 27-25, at intermission.

"We killed ourselves," coach Joe Coble said, "by missing six opportunities on 11 free throw conversions." Coble pointed out that Emerson is a strong ball club, but his team played poorly throughout the contest.

Prep Basketball Closes Season with Five Games

By BOB BARTLETT
 For basketball fans in the area, this weekend will mark the end of regular season action.

Winside will start off the action tonight (Thursday) when the Wildcats play host to Emerson-Hubbard. The game previously was scheduled for Saturday night but was changed due to the state wrestling meet in Lincoln this Friday and Saturday.

What's in store for coach Jim Winch's Cats?

Last week the Pirates suffered losses to area rivals Allen and Wakefield. Allen handed the Emerson-Hubbard team a 60-50 loss Friday on the Pirates' court while Wakefield nudged the club Saturday on the Trojans' court, 51-50.

All this might mean that Emerson probably will be ready to dump a loss on any team to get back its confidence for the coming districts at Wakefield.

On the other hand, the Winside quintet might be fired up after Friday's thriller win over Newcastle. The Wildcats netted their third win of the year on Steve Brumms last second shot for a 49-47 victory.

Although the game will be played at Winside, my guess is that Emerson will take this one. In other action, Friday night Wakefield will take on Ponca at the Indians' court.

The Trojans might be breathing a little easier after their Saturday night win, but Friday the Wakefield team won't find much breathing room in the northern part of the state. This game has the markings of a good battle since both teams will be in the same district.

The pick goes to the Indians, however.

In other games:

Friday
 Laurel at PIERCE—Bluejeans will end Laurel's two-game winning streak.

Saturday
 WAYNE at Randolph—Cards hoping to top Blue Devils, but if coach Bill Sharpe's team plays the way it did against Winside, the locals shouldn't have any trouble.

Tuesday
 Harrington CC at WAYNE—This is a must game for the Devils. During the holiday tournament, Wayne squeaked by a win over the Harrington team; if they play like they are capable, they should rack up another win.

Athlete of the Week

Roger Saul
 Wayne High School

Wayne's hot shooting Roger Saul has two things to celebrate this week. One, his 34-point performance last Friday night and, two, the fact that his average now stands close to 16 points per game.

The 6-4 center, this week's Athlete of the Week for the second time this year, dazzled Wayne and Winsor Pilger fans Friday night with a 34-point effort to pace his team past the Galois, 25-38.

In doing so, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Saul, collected his career high—second only to his 35-point effort against Madison and South Sioux City.

His consistency, said Sharpe, is one of the biggest reasons he is a high quality player. In addition to his other high-scoring games, the senior collected 20 points in the Tekamah-Herman and Laurel games.

Saul isn't what many fans consider a team leader. He's just a "team player." "Roger is kind of quiet," Sharpe noted, "but at the same time he's not a player who will stand around."

Not only has his shooting ability earned him top honors on the Wayne team, Saul is noted for his excellent rebounding ability and knack of getting the ball out of the foe's court in time for the fast break.

"Saul is quick," the head man pointed out, "and so many times this is the reason that our fast break is so effective." Sharpe isn't the only one who noticed Saul's good moves and effective ball handling. Wayne State Coach Ron Jones also has expressed interest in the local player.

Defensive Switch for Bears Nets 4th Win

Laurel's switch from a man-to-man defense in the second half to a 2-2-1 zone enabled the Bears to come from behind Saturday night to knock off a stubborn Crofton club, 68-58.

Down by 12 at the half, 38-26, coach Joel Parks' quintet (now 4-13) ripped open the game with a 27-point third quarter effort to put the home squad out in front by five, 53-48, going into the final frame.

"We couldn't stop them during the first half," Parks admitted. "They had the good shots and made them."

Both Warriors' top shooters, Jan Ausereme and Rally Tramp put-in 14 points each in the first half.

The big switch for the Bears allowed Ausereme to score only six points in the remainder of the game while Tramp tallied just one basket.

Laurel's Keith Olsen put together one of his finest nights with a 21-point display to grab scoring honors. According to Parks, both Olsen and Gregg Anderson had one of their best performances for the year. Anderson, who scored 10 points, came off the bench during the second half and helped the Bears come from behind.

In the first quarter the Warriors jumped off to a 20-10 lead and held on in the second for 18 points compared to Laurel's 16.

Crofton, making use of its shuffle offense, outmaneuvered the Bear's man-to-man press for the quick layups and good outside shots.

In the third frame, Parks' crew stepped up the tempo with a running attack in addition to the zone defense.

The preliminary game set the pace for the varsity match as the B squad played another come-from-behind game and topped Crofton reserves, 45-23.

Laurel trailed at the half, 16-15.

Mark Anderson and Scott Huefig popped in 14 and 10 points respectively. Laurel broke open the game with a 19-3 fourth period to rack up the win.

This Friday the Bears will travel to Pierce for their last game before heading into district play against Bloomfield Tuesday night at Norfolk.

Scoring, Rebounding Honors Go to Wayne's Roger Saul

MOST WAYNE HIGH School basketball fans know that 6-3 center Roger Saul is the team's leading scorer in 16 games the "hot" shooting senior has about a 19 point average.

The 5-10 playmaker is hitting at a nine-point-per-game clip, followed closely by senior Randy Nelson.

Both Nelson and junior Tod Bigelow scored 116 points in 16 games. But the difference is, Nelson has only played in 13 outings compared to the last 17 for Bigelow.

DENNIS SIEFKES, senior from Somers, Ia., receives the game ball from Wayne State athletic director LeRoy Simpson as a memento of his latest basketball record.

Cats to Try to Bounce Back After Suffering 1-point Loss to UNO

Now the task at hand for Wayne State basketball is to bounce back from a disappointing loss. The Wildcats have a trio of challenges ahead.

about seven points a game. The only other Wayne man to hit over the century mark this year is 6-4 senior Larry Shupe. Shupe has collected 106 points in Wayne's 16, about a 6.6 average.

Not too surprising is the fact that Shupe comes in second place with 114 rebounds. In his two best games, Shupe snatched 17 rebounds in the Pierce game and 14 against Laurel.

You might be thinking by now that the next department - free throw shooting - will show Saul leading again. Well, this time the lead switches from a senior to a sophomore.

Wayne guard Marty Hansen currently leads his teammates in free throw conversions, hitting 27 of 36 for 75 per cent.

The second best charity shooter is Saul, hitting 23 of 37.

Actually, it is hard to tell who has the best percentage when it comes to the charity line since none of the players has shot very many gift shots.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S win for the Osmond Tigers established a school record. The Tigers, who nipped Allen 63-59 for the Lewis and Clark Conference title, also won the football crown this school season to set up a first for the high school. On Nov. 12 the Tigers, with the help of Jim Gibbs' three TD's, stuck it to Walthill, 35-14.

THE GRUNTS and groans of the fastest growing interscholastic sport in the nation - high school wrestling - will fill the TV screen Saturday when stations of the Nebraska Educational Television Network present the 45th annual high school wrestling championships from Lincoln's Pershing Auditorium.

Approximately 575 wrestlers will compete during the two-day tourney Friday and Saturday.

Coach Doug Barclay's Winslow Wildcats lead the list of Class C schools in the number of entries with nine. Wakefield comes in 22nd out of 31 schools with three men entered.

In Class B Wayne ranks 11th, out of 35, with five men entered.

WSC Grapplers Tuning Up for Season Finale

Back somewhere near full strength, Wayne State wrestlers tuned up early this week for a couple of stern tests - the last before a season ending tournament.

They were billed Wednesday night (Feb. 14) for the top attraction of the year, a dual with UN Omaha in the UNO Fieldhouse.

Whatever the outcome, Coach Gary Rosso is sure of one thing, his Wildcats will be in some tough grappling both pieces.

Omaha, regularly one of the nation's foremost NAIA teams, has whipped the Wildcats soundly the past four years. Last Wayne victory in 1968. But this year may produce a different result.

Omaha is in the unaccounted-for-of having lost eight duals while winning 11 and lying one. The Mavericks managed a draw last Wednesday with Northwest Missouri State - which earlier lost a crippled Wayne team, 22-13 - then suffered a pair of trouncings, 39-5 by Oregon State and 39-6 by Oregon in the past weekend.

Bad Weather Takes Toll Once Again

For the second time in less than two weeks, bad weather has forced cancellation of a regional conference at Norfolk aimed at trying to help communities attract new industry. The conference, originally scheduled for Feb. 1 but postponed because of a winter storm, was postponed again Tuesday because of poor weather in the Lincoln area.

Governor J. James Exon scheduled the Norfolk conference and five other ones across the state to introduce a comprehensive guide to industrial development published recently by the Department of Economic Development.

New Radar

WAYNE POLICE OFFICER Keith Reed demonstrates the new radar equipment the police department received this week to enable the department to better check drivers passing through town. According to police chief Vern Fairchild, the department purchased the equipment several weeks ago at a cost of over $1,350. Half that amount was federally funded, he said. The radar can be hand held in a car or outside and can register the accurate speed of an oncoming vehicle whether it is traveling in front of the police cruiser, behind it or approaching from the side.

CATS —

It was all the more galling that Wayne had lost its third straight one pointer to Omaha on the Rice court.

There was joy in one towering accomplishment, though. That was the new career scoring record posted by Wayne's stellar center, Dennis Siefkes. On his fourth field goal of the game he broke Dean deBuhr's career mark of 1,492 points, set in 1967-68.

Announcement of this feat to the capacity crowd may have ignited a Wayne scoring burst which soon flared up. After a ding-dong exchange of leads, the Wildcats raced to a 37-28 lead with 2 1/2 minutes left in the half. Unhappily, it didn't last as Omaha's sharpshooting Calvin Forrest led a Maverick surge to a 41-all half tie.

The UNO onslaught continued after intermission — while Wayne's artillery also found the mark to gain a brief 54-53 lead. Again Forrest had a spree to help lift the Mavericks 11 points — 78-67 with six minutes left.

Somewhat, however, the Wild cats had no idea they were beaten. They solved the Omaha zone defense, mainly with little guard Jim Merchel working a variety of scoring tricks, and the Wayne defense shutting off Omaha without a fielder in the last 4 minutes 50 seconds. Merchel hit four shots, including a swashbuckling drive seconds before the end. It was a scoop shot layup designed to draw a foul. But there was no foul, and time ran out.

In that last 4:50, Omaha scored one free throw, 10 seconds before the end. It was enough, though Steve Fleming's bonus shot missed in fact, that one charity shot — resulting from Wayne's necessity to get the ball — was the entire margin of Omaha victory.

The teams matched field goals at 34, and rebounds were only one apart, Wayne with the edge. Omaha hit 16 of 23 free throws. Wayne 15 of 20. So little to make the difference between a chance at the conference title and settling for no better than third.

Siefkes padded his career record to 1,514 points with a team high 28. Balanced scoring produced 13 by Jon Harvey and 12 each by Ron Jones, Tom Erwin and Merchel. Omaha got 23 from Forrest, equalling his season high, 18 from freshman Kevin Nelson and 10 from Fleming.

pretty good condition in addition. Ed Travers was recovered from an earlier injury and set to fill the heavyweight slot.

A big plus: the return of 190-pounder Denry Reid to action in the latest deal after a month of recovery from an arm injury. He came back strong Saturday, pinning a Peru State foe in 4:05. That furnished Wayne points enough to insure the final victory, 24-16.

The scrappy Peruvians had led by 13-12 after the 158-pound match, but Wayne's upperweight trio of Tom Luth, Steve Gregory and Reid came through after light-weight wins by Tom Cortez, Larry Kersten and Kent Irwin. Two Wildcat regulars, Jim Meyer and Ken Monroe, missed the meet with illness.

Wayne's dual record before the UNO meet was 6-2.

Fire Chiefs Make Offer Of Scholarship

Wayne High School students interested in competing for the Nebraska Fire Chiefs Association's $200 scholarship award are invited to obtain application papers and more information from Ken Carlson, guidance counselor.

The award will go to the qualified senior who plans to enroll in an accredited fire protection science school, Carlson said.

Selection of the recipient will be based upon a written essay entitled "Why I Want to Attend a School on Fire Protection" and upon satisfactory high school grades.

Deadline for application is April 30.

More information can also be obtained from Chief N. A. Lundy, chairman of the association's scholarship committee, 128 E. Eighth St., York, Nebr.

Rats from pioneers' museum are still visible at several places in Nebraska, including Scottsbluff National Monument, located near Gering along the old Oregon Trail.

Golden Glove Contestants

TWO WAYNE STATE students, Rick Lock, above, and Bruce Brinkman will represent Wayne at this week's Golden Gloves tournament at Norfolk's city auditorium. The bouts, scheduled for Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., will be the first for the two contestants. Brinkman will go in as a heavyweight while Lock will enter in the 167-pound division. According to coach Gary Weibelhaus, winners of each weight class will advance to the Midwest Golden Gloves tournament in Omaha. Champions there will represent Omaha at the national tournament in Massachusetts.

Old, old battle between governor, legislature rages once again in halls of Capitol

LINCOLN—Those traditional adversaries—the Legislature and the governor—are fighting the budget battle again.

The ground rules are different this year, thanks to a constitutional amendment adopted last fall.

The Constitution now requires the governor to submit his budget recommendations in the form of a bill, which the Legislature must amend where it wants to make changes.

This pinpoints the areas of disagreement between the legislative and executive branches and lets the voters know just how each side feels on separate financing questions.

Before the constitutional amendment was put on the ballot, however, a law was enacted which directed the Legislature's fiscal staff to prepare budget recommendations.

The new constitutional language doesn't affect that law, although a bill is pending to repeal it.

The governor says the Legislature ought to follow the law until it is repealed. He says it wasn't followed this session. In fact, Exon sent Budget Committee Chairman Richard D. Marvel of Hastings a letter saying:

"I feel that the failure to act under that law is about as obvious a violation of legislative intent as I have ever seen. May I suggest that you consider directing your staff to comply with that law."

Marvel doesn't agree with the governor's interpretation of the law and the senator says he has the support of the attorney general.

According to Marvel, briefings conducted earlier this session by the legislative fiscal staff did amount to budget recommendations as contemplated by the law. The chairman says he has had verbal confirmation of this opinion in discussions with Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer.

The byplay's over who's responsible for what surfaced last week when Marvel's committee began its hearings on the Exon budget bill. When agencies started appearing before the committee to defend their requests and discuss Exon's recommended alterations, executive budget officers declined to enter into the debate.

That led to a "summit meeting" involving the governor, Marvel and legislative and executive staffers. They decided, temporarily at least, that the administrative spokesmen would wait until an agency has finished its testimony before the committee before offering their own explanations of the governor's decisions.

The alternative, as explained by the administration, would be a constant argument and debate between the agencies and the executive branch, preventing Budget Committee members from getting the information they were seeking.

One example of the problems involved developed during the hearing on the State Department of Education's budget. Witnesses from the department said time after time they couldn't understand the governor's rationale for changes he has suggested.

They accused him of making "unrealistic and unworkable" recommendations.

The next day, administration witnesses had their chance. They claimed the department had "misrepresented" the situation in several instances and had been unfair in its criticism.

Party Bill Comes Close

Another ballot was promised, but on the first try a bill to ask Nebraskans whether they want to choose state senators by party labels failed by one vote.

At least 30 votes are required to pass proposed constitutional amendments—and send them to the ballot booths for voter consideration—and the partisan Legislature bill got just 22 when it was offered for passage last week.

Speaker Richard F. Proud of Omaha, a longtime advocate of a partisan Legislature, changed his supporting vote to a negative so he would be in a parliamentary position to ask that the decision be reconsidered. A senator must be on the prevailing side to request reconsideration.

Proud said the issue will be raised again sometime this week.

If the other 29 votes hold solid, the 30th vote is available. Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha, who was absent when the original ballot was taken, said he would cast a favorable vote on the next go-around.

Nebraska's Legislature has been nonpartisan ever since it was converted from a bicameral to a one-house body by the voters almost four decades ago. The nonpartisan aspect was included in the same issue as the unicameral question and voters didn't have an opportunity to vote separately on the issues.

Ever since, then, there have been periodic efforts to put the nonpartisan question on the ballot by itself.

Never before, has there been nearly as much strength in the Legislature to accomplish that objective. Only once before, in fact, has a partisan Legislature bill even reached the floor (the others have been killed in committee) and it died on first reading.

OBSERVATIONS

Time to feel proud

A story on the front of Monday's issue of The Wayne Herald should have produced some smiles of pride among residents of the Wayne-Carroll school district.

The story pointed out that the Wayne-Carroll school district has the smallest enrollment of the 24 school districts in the state which have received the coveted double A rating from the State Department of Education.

At a time when the school board and teachers will most certainly come under criticism because of negotiations over salaries for the coming year, it is probably healthy to step back and take a fresh look at our school system.

The school, board, administrators and teachers are providing educational experiences of a high quality to the students. Nobody can prove that, of course, because nobody has yet devised an accurate way to measure the success or failure of a school system. But anybody who has been around numerous

General Logan in Nebraska

A 1971 Nebraska State Historical Society "Out of Old Nebraska" column was devoted to Memorial Day observances in Logan County. The west-central Nebraska county was named after the holiday's founder, General John A. Logan, the Union's great "civilian soldier" in the Civil War.

In conclusion, the column noted that it had been difficult to determine whether General Logan had ever stopped in Nebraska during trips to the West.

Subsequent research has revealed that the famous general, later a U. S. senator from Illinois, made trips to the state upon at least three occasions, the first time was in 1872, when he spoke at Nebraska City on behalf of Grant's second presidential campaign. According to J. Sterling Morton of the Nebraska City News, Logan again visited Nebraska in the fall of 1880. However, General Logan's most memorable (though uncomfortable) trip to Nebraska must have been in September, 1883, while he was returning to Ft. Niobrara in north central Nebraska after an inspection trip to the Pine Ridge and Rosebud Indian Agencies in Dakota.

The Valentine Reporter, Sept. 13, 1883, related that Logan and other dignitaries got an unexpected bath in the Niobrara

Letters to the Editor

Wayne

Dear Editor:

Late last summer I attended a meeting at Norfolk at which the League of Women Voters tried to organize a Northeast Nebraska Unit. Two women from Omaha were there to tell us that the League of Women Voters is organized only to inform people on issues at stake, who your senators are, how to contact them, etc.

They stressed that "we do not take stands on anything. Just inform people." However, they did feel that women "had much more important things to do than have babies and take care of a house."

They said they needed 38 to 40 people to organize a unit. There were approximately 11 people present and several of them left before organizational procedure took place, thus expressing their disinterest.

Now, ladies, your slips are showing. The League of Women Voters is not only out front with their stand for the Equal Rights Amendment, they are also making it their business to inform the people on only one side of the issue.

For one thing in the February 1 issue of The Wayne Herald they told you that Congress could draft women now but has chosen not to. True, but if the Equal Rights Amendment is ratified they will have no other choice. Remember it doesn't say equal rights for women, but equal rights for all without sex discrimination.

You cannot make the amendment say what you want it to say, girls.

Do not take the word of a few people concerning this very important issue, read everything you can about it yourselves. Many learned proponents even say they know it will mean drafting of women with no favoritism.

Go to the Congressional Records yourselves. Read it. It's all there.

Also read the Russian Constitution, Article 122 adopted in 1936, which reads, "Women in U. S. S. R. are accorded equal rights with men in all spheres of economic, government, cultural, political and public activity."

One Who Saw Your Slips

You're the kxy

Who makes an organization a success? Xxxx though my typewriter is an old model, it works quite well except for one of the kxys. I have wished many times that it worked perfectly. It is true that there are forty-six kxys that function well enough, but just one kxy not working makes the difference. Sometimes it seems to me that our organization is somewhat like my typewriter, not all the kxys except are working properly.

You may say to yourself, "Well, I am only one person. I won't make or break that organization." But, it does make a difference because an organization to be efficient needs the active participation of every member. You are a kxy person in the organization, and you are needed very much!

WAY BACK WHEN

How to prepare a newspaper ad that sells.

Most local newspapers reach just about everyone in the community they cover. And almost everyone scans the ads in their local newspaper.

Too many newspaper advertisers try to be different in their approach to advertising to get the readers' attention. Often they fail.

An advertisement that sells tells the story of the product — what it is, how it works, what its advantages are, and what it does for you.

If you use local newspaper for advertising make a note of these selling points in preparing your ad:

- Decide what it is you really have to sell.
- Then sell just that. Over and over again.
- Make your advertisement as "newsy" as possible. Price is news. A new product is news.
- Take enough space to tell your story with eye-catching fashion — don't crowd it. The money you save by reducing the size of your ad is wasted by the number of readers you'll lose. 4. Tell your story often. One ad's pulling power proves nothing. 5. Be selective. Run your ad where it will do the most good — your local newspaper.

Your local newspaper suggests that when you find the right selling combination that works for you, repeat it again — and again. It works!

Salary Talks At Allen High Not Underway

Teacher contract negotiations at Allen High School did not get underway Monday night when the teachers postponed presenting their list of proposals to the school board.

Gail Miller, high school superintendent, said no new date has been set for the teachers to present their requests. After the teachers list their proposals, the board will then take the matter under advisement and return a list of their proposals to the teachers before actual negotiation talks will start.

Latest Law Reduces Wait For Benefits

The new social security law reduced the six month waiting period for disability benefits to five months, effective in January, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

The first benefit will be payable for the sixth month of disability, rather than for the seventh month of disability as under former law, he said. For example, a worker disabled on Jan. 15, 1973, can begin getting benefits for July, 1973, with the check for July delivered in early August. Previously his benefits would begin for August with the check delivered in September.

The new provision will also affect disabled widows and dependent widowers who are eligible for benefits on the basis of disability.

In 1973, the new law will mean $198 million in additional benefits to 950,000 disabled workers and their families, according to Branch. Reducing the waiting period by one month will help to relieve some of the financial hardships faced by disabled people who have little or no savings or other resources to fall back on.

Social security pays monthly benefits to eligible workers and their families if the worker is severely disabled and expected to be unable to work for a year or more.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to come in for a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular degree of hearing loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if he has any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told an aid won't help should have a hearing test and find out about the very latest hearing aids.

The free hearing tests will be held at Hotel Morrison, Wayne, Nebr., on Friday, Feb. 16 from 10:30 to 3:00. If you can't get there on Friday, call or write the Beltone Hearing Aid Service, 1201 Nebraska St., Sioux City, Iowa, phone 258-1960.

'Alfalfa Hay Worth $35 If Fed in Right Manner'

A ton of good alfalfa hay was worth about $35 when fed with corn silage as a protein supplement instead of feeding a concentrate protein supplement with silage in a calf growing experiment just completed at Northeast Station.

Figuring corn silage of 35 per cent moisture at $10 a ton and a 40 per cent protein supplement at $200 per ton, the alfalfa replaced enough of these feeds to be worth $35 per ton if it was 15 per cent moisture, district beef specialist Walt Tolman reports.

Actually, alfalfa haylage rather than alfalfa hay was fed in the experiment at a rate to supply five pounds dry matter per calf daily with a full feed of corn silage. In the other comparison one and a half pounds daily of 40 per cent supplement was fed with a full feed of corn silage.

Good hay is equal to haylage per pound dry matter for beef cattle, Tolman says.

The silage and protein concentrate fed calves outgained the silage and haylage fed calves by one fourth pound daily. This can be an advantage or a disadvantage Tolman says.

If they are to go on pasture or into a feedlot, they will gain more rapidly and economically than the concentrate-supplemented calves which have been brought along more rapidly. If they are to be sold, the gain might be too low for maximum profit. The addition of two or three pounds of grain a day would probably have brought their gains up to those of the silage and concentrate supplemented fed cattle, according to Tolman.

Even better for cattle to go into the feedlot, they might be carried, as in this experiment, without grain beside what is in the silage most of the growing period and then brought up to 10 or 12 pounds of grain a day along with silage and supplement for 30 to 45 days before the full grain feed period starts or before they are sold to a feeder operator, he says.

In evaluating alfalfa hay, both a protein and a moisture test should be made. Tolman suggests.

Much hay is better than usual this year and so, me, was damaged by weather exposure and leaf loss at hay making time so that it would not be as valuable as the haylage fed in this test, he explains.

Government Changes May Point to Shift To More Beef Herds

By WILLIAM YOST.

District Conservativist

With current changes in the farm program, should there be a corresponding shift to more beef production?

Beef production can be increased in several ways, one of which is by increasing beef cow numbers. The rate of increase in beef cows over the past decade has generally been smaller in Nebraska than in the United States.

An increase in beef cows means an increased need in forage production. By converting marginal cropland to grass and increasing grain production on the better land, forage production will be increased.

Soil losses which are abnormally high under cropland will be significantly reduced by shifting to pastures. While current pollution abatement efforts are not specifically pointed to soil losses, some experts believe that a reduction in sediment movement from the farm will be required in the future.

By seeding grasses on much of this land, soil losses are reduced and at the same time provide more forage for beef production.

When is the best seeding time? What rate of seeding is used? How much fertilizer is needed?

These and other questions need to be answered in relation to soil types and slopes. The Soil Conservation Service has copies of soil maps for all farms and can provide any land owner an inventory of the soils that can be used in answering those questions.

Moving from one home to another is a time of mixed emotions. There is usually great anticipation and expectation for the new home, but it is also a time of nostalgia and reminiscing for the home and friends you are leaving.

Moving from one farm to another consists of considerable more than moving in town from one house to another. Actually, you have very little time for anticipation or nostalgia. The only thing you anticipate is a lot of work and the only nostalgia about it is the work you wouldn't have to do if you weren't moving.

The hay stacks you strategically placed in the fields have to be sold now or hauled to the new farm. Likewise, the bales which were put in the hay mow during 90 degree weather have to be redone now during zero weather.

There is always the possibility of selling them and buying some closer to the new farm. Regardless of which way you solve the problem, there will be hay to be hauled. Unless, of course, you are lucky enough to buy the hay on the new farm.

Moving grain is another problem. Sometimes this requires a considerable amount of negotiating with the other tenant. You must either buy his grain or wait until he moves it else, where, making room for your grain.

No matter how it is handled, you need an abundant amount of new neighbors. Going to be pretty hard to beat the old neighbors. Seems like you thought about that when you moved several years ago. Well, you've been lucky so far.

Usually the day before the big move the neighbors help move all the tools, fuel barrels, wagons, farrowing crates and other farm items.

On the big day everyone seems to know what has to be done and assigns himself and his pickup to the task. As soon as the work returns that the barns are ready, the livestock is loaded.

Things are going pretty well when you suddenly realize something is missing. "Hey, Mom, how's things going with the household stuff?"

Those good old neighbors have things under control again.

USDA Won't Extend Loans on '72 Crops

Loans on farm-stored 1972-crop corn, barley, oats, grain sorghum and rye will not be extended beyond current maturity dates, reports the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

United States Department of Agriculture officials have taken the action in order to make available additional grain stocks to help meet strong market demand, according to Ray Butts, ASC executive director.

The option to defer loan repayment beyond maturity dates for producers are designed because of storage and transportation problems will also apply to loans affected the USDA announcement, according to Butts.

On Dec. 31, farm-stored loans on 1972 crops affected by the announcement amounted to 212 billion bushels of corn, 34 million bushels of barley, 28 million bushels of oats, five million hundredweight of grain sorghum and four million bushels of rye.

With this announcement, all crop-year loans, farm and warehouse-stored, of corn, barley, oats, grain sorghum, rye and wheat will not be extended beyond current maturity dates. Previous USDA press releases in December and January announced that resale would not be available on warehouse-stored loans and farm-stored loans not covered in the latest announcement.

The long-time provisions of the loan contract gives Commodity Credit Corporation the option to call loans at any time, USDA officials said. This provision continues in effect.

Maturity dates for 1972 crop loans are as follows: corn, July 31; barley and oats, April 30; grain sorghum, July 31; rye, April 30.

Out of Old Nebraska

River: "Last week when the Senatorial party was returning to Ft. Niobrara from their visit to Rosebud and Pine Ridge agencies, the carriage occupied by General Logan, Senator Cameron, Capt. Woodcock and Mrs. Major McGillycuddy broke down just as the party entered the river near the mouth of the Minnehaduzza (River) and, in consequence, all hands got a splendid ducking.

"It was truly a picturesque sight to observe General Logan splashing around in the water up to his waist, his head bare and his long black hair tossing in the breeze with Mrs. McGillycuddy perched upon his shoulders expecting at every move on the part of the General to lose (sic) her balance and fall headlong into the watery waste.

"But after waiting an hour and no boat in sight, they began looking around for other means of escape when they made the discovery that they were less than four feet from the shore when they succeeded in reaching without difficulty.

"A representative of the Reporter happened to be near as they emerged from the water, and he says it was as good as a circus with all the modern attachments to watch them endeavoring to straighten out their tangled locks and rid their clothing of the muddy river water and all the time wondering if some newspaper man would get hold of it."

"We expect when they return to Washington, they will have considerable to say about the delightful bath they took in that beautiful rivulet up in Nebraska but they'll never tell just how it happened. P.S. Our informant says that Logan was all broke up over the affair for it took two solid hours to arrange his moustache so to make himself presentable in public. It resembled an Indian scalpcap when he emerged from the river."

Perhaps having Logan County named in his honor in 1885 helped to erase the general's unpleasant memories of his Nebraska misadventure.

Relative Cooperating In A Heart Project

The brother-in-law of a Wayne woman is one of 30 heart patients participating in a pilot project of Creighton University and St. Joseph Hospital in Omaha for testing of heart pacemakers.
He is Byron Jones, 72, of rural Emerson and Red Oak, Ia., who is related to Mary Miller of Wayne.
Jones has used a pacemaker
for more than 18 months.
A new telephone device now in use is expected to result in fewer surgery trips and more peace of mind for C.U.S.H. heart patients as a result of installation of equipment that can monitor over a great distance a pacemaker inside a patient's chest.
The device has two parts. One is a box about the size of a cigar box which has listening cup attached. The patient places the receiver of a telephone in the box and places the cup of the device on his chest.
Electrical impulses from the pacemaker are picked up by the pacemaker checking device and transmitted to a receiving unit at St. Joseph Hospital.
Jones and other patients call into the hospital once a month so officials can determine if the pacemaker is continuing to issue the necessary impulse to trigger the heart in regular beating pattern. When readings show the pace starting to fail, patients are advised it is time for surgery to replace the pacemaker batteries.

The 30 patients in the pilot program have been furnished the testing device without charge. New patients will have the charge for the device—about $250—included in the charge of supplying and im-planting the pacemaker.

Rolling Their Way to Fun

Food Not Critical Asset For Wintering Wildlife

Nebraska's severe winters can sometimes put a strain on the state's pheasant and quail populations, causing widespread concern for the birds. But, the time to help them has long since passed, according to Game and Parks Commission biologists.

When cold winds and snow roar out of the north, they almost always bring with them the pleas from concerned individuals for emergency feeding programs to tide the birds over. However, food is not the critical factor for wintering wildlife and, even if it were, feeding programs would not be the answer.

What the birds need most during the winter is cover, a weed patch or woodlot to break the icy wind. Without protection from prolonged blizzards, pheasants and quail may die of suffocation when ice and snow forms around the head and nostrils. Starvation is not a factor, since the birds can draw upon reserves of body fat built up during the summer and fall. Once the storm subsides, the resourceful birds can usually find natural foods on what appears to be a barren landscape.

Feeding programs have a number of built-in drawbacks that make them unworkable in Nebraska. The first of these is cost. During the severe winter of 1959-60, it would have cost more than $17,000 per day to purchase a minimum of rations of corn for the state's pheasants. The expense of distributing would have easily doubled or tripled the overall cost of the program.

Many well meant feeding programs meet with failure be-

Local Girl Makes KSC Honor Roll

Rebecca Sutherland, a freshman at Kearney State College, was one of 461 undergraduate students who received first semester grades averaging 3.5 or better (4.0 is an A) to earn listing on the Dean's Honor Roll.

All 461 students, 85 received all A's and have a 4.0 average for 12 or more semester hours of credit.

Parents of the Wayne girl are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Sutherland.

Sweet clover was once considered a noxious weed in Nebraska, and farmers were required by law to control it.
