City Considering Buying Huge Tank To Avoid Winter Shortages of Fuel

Wayne is taking steps which may lead to purchasing a huge tank capable of holding half a million gallons of fuel in an attempt to avoid fuel shortages at the city's power plant in coming winters. City councilmen Tuesday night authorized the city's engineering firm to draw up specifications for a large tank or several small tanks capable of holding about 500,000 gallons of fuel. Cost of the purchase could run as high as $40,000, the engineer said. City officials will begin questioning local fuel dealers to see if the city could buy enough fuel during the summer to justify purchasing such large storage facilities. "There's no doubt but what this is the route we're going to have to take," said councilman Frank Prather when the council again took up the problem of fuel shortages at the power plant. Councilmen agreed that some solution is going to have to be found to avoid threatened fuel shortage such as the one which faced the city shortly after the first of the year. They approved drawing up specifications for the storage facilities so as to be able to advertise for bids later this spring if they decide to go ahead with purchasing. They noted that they would not have to purchase a tank or tanks if they find out later this year that the continuing fuel shortages will make it impossible to buy large quantities of fuel. Wayne earlier this year was in a near emergency situation when the supplier of fuel for the power plant cut back the amount the city was scheduled to receive and the power plant was unable to obtain natural gas. Several other communities in the area, including Wakefield and Allen, were faced with similar cutbacks. Councilmen decided to begin steps toward purchasing storage facilities after bringing up but taking no action on a proposal from Nebraska Public Power

District (NPPD) to intertie power lines. Several councilmen and city officials discussed NPPD's intertie proposal Monday night with NPPD officials and a representative of the city's engineering firm. NPPD has offered to connect its power lines at Emerson with the city under an agreement to sell power to the city. Sent to committee for study were three bids for work to provide sewer and water facilities to the site of the proposed new medical center just east of Wayne State College campus. Bids received on the work were from Tilden Construction Co. of Tilden, $56,116; Central Sand and Gravel of Columbus, $65,546; and Penno Construction of Pender, $67,170. Approved by councilmen was providing $150 to Northeast Nebraska Tech at Norfolk for setting up a scholarship for a Wayne resident wishing to train to become a fireman at the Norfolk school. If nobody within the city limits wishes to take advantage of the scholarship, it will be made available to county residents, councilmen agreed.

On a 5-3 vote, councilmen accepted the assessment schedule for paying cost of paving one block of Meadow Lane in the northwest part of the city. Total cost of the project was $13,633, with the city paying $12,703 and property owners paying $930. Voting to accept the schedule were Ivan Beeks, Harvey Brasch, Pat Gross, Keith Mosley and Darrel Fuelberth. Voting against the schedule were Jim Thomas, Vernon Russell and Frank Prather. Councilmen agreed to cut in

He said the cause of the fire could not be determined because of the extreme damage done in the blaze. Nobody was at home when the fire broke out, he said.

Seymour's Goal: Continuity

Dr. Lyle Seymour admits that being interim president at Wayne State College until a replacement for Dr. William A. Brandenburg can be found is not going to be easy. But he said he hopes he can provide continuity so the next president will have a good foundation to work from when he does take over. Dr. Seymour was named Saturday to become acting president of Wayne State when Dr. Brandenburg's resignation became effective today (Thursday). Dr. Brandenburg submitted his resignation Saturday to the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges during the board's monthly meeting in Kearney. The board accepted his resignation, which comes after nearly 17 years of service as college president, and approved Dr. Brandenburg's requests for a leave of absence from March 10 to September and a reassignment to full-time teaching at Wayne State this fall. Dr. Seymour has been vice president for academic affairs at Wayne State. After attending two years of college at Wayne, he received his undergraduate degree at Iowa State University at Ames in 1947. He earned his master's degree from the Ames school in 1951 and his doctorate from the University of South Dakota in 1960. He served as vice president for academic affairs, formerly called the dean of faculty, for about five years. Speech students from Wakefield High School received two superior ratings, six excellents and four goods to tie for third place in Saturday's Husker Conference speech contest at Madison. The school received 45 points in the competition, same as Lyons and Scribner. Pender won the contest with 52 points, three more than second place finisher Wayne High. Earning superior ratings in the judging were Miles Pearson, extemporaneous speaking, and Diane Tullberg, informative speaking. Excellent tags went to Suelen Sudell, informative speaking; Donna Gross, extemporaneous speaking; Debra Holmes, oral interpretation of prose.

University of South Dakota in 1960. He served as vice president for academic affairs, formerly called the dean of faculty, for about five years. Sponsored by Thea Memdats, and Dennis Crippen, the Wakefield students will compete next in the March 10th district contest at Wayne State College. Students receiving excellent or superior ratings in the district competition will advance to the state contest, which will be held in April at Doane College in Crete.

Farm, Ranch Youth Offered College Loans

Wayne High School seniors who live on a farm or ranch are eligible to apply for the Nebraska Agricultural Development Student Loan Program through Ken Carlson, high school guidance counselor. This loan program will enable financially needy students to attend any type of state-sponsored school above the high school level. Amount of the loan depends upon the ability of the student's family to help finance the student's education beyond high school. Interest on the loan is four percent and does not begin until nine to 12 months after the student completes his schooling or leaves school, Carlson said. The loan program was made possible through a state law passed in 1972. Purpose of the program is to give financial assistance to individuals from farm or ranch backgrounds in order that they may obtain a more secure future and at the same time make a maximum contribution to the state following graduation or completion of post high school training, according to Carlson.

Wayne, Hartington Cedar Rematch Set for Class B District Semifinals

By BOB BARTLETT
The stage is set for the third matchup between Wayne and Hartington Cedar Catholic tonight (Thursday) in the finals of the Class B district at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium. In two previous games the teams split, Wayne taking a 61-58 overtime win during the Wayne State holiday tournament and the Trojans evening the score with a 70-61 victory Tuesday night.

The Blue Devils, in an awesome offensive and defensive display Monday night, ripped Wisner-Pilger in the first half for a 38-11 lead and used reserves liberally in the remainder of the game to pile up Wayne's 13th win in 20 starts, 72-39.

Guards Doug Sturm, Todd Bigelow and Randy Nelson found the right combination to unflash one of Wayne's more potent attacks.

Sturm, playing one of his best games, collected six quick points with about five minutes left in the first quarter before an arm injury sent him to the bench. But a minute later the sparky senior was back again to collect eight points before the end of the quarter.

Both Sturm and Nelson, who have not played together since the Blair game, used teamwork for quick passes and good shots to finish with 10 points each.

Bigelow, seeking considerable action in part of the first and all the second half, mounted up 12 points to lead the Blue Devils in scoring. The 5-9 junior dropped in six points in the second quarter, then added four in the third and two in the fourth.

The locals jumped out to a 16-7 first period lead on outside shots and quick man-to-man defensive work.

Center Larry Shupe giving some of his best performances of the year, exhibited effective board control to better 6-8 Galop Steve Hornback.

Shupe, a 6-4 senior, kept Hornback on the outside to stop the Wisner junior from grabbing the important caroms.

Wayne put together its best offensive show in the second quarter on balanced scoring. Bigelow and Nelson accounted for 12 of Wayne's 22 points, while Shupe and forward Roger Saul contributed four each.

Saul, the fourth man to end up in double figures, left the game in the third with 10 points.

Wayne used its fast break throughout the contest and shot an impressive 54 per cent from the field. The Blue Devils started out hitting 57 per cent in the first quarter, then connected for 53 per cent in the second before dropping to 43 per cent in the third.

Hornback led coach Roger Hannen's 4-13 Gators with 11 points, his biggest tally coming in the third—seven points.

CC Victory

Another Bluejays team, West Point CC, came out a winner in the second match of the night when the Bluejays broke open a see-saw battle with about a minute and a half left in the contest.

West Point won over Tekamah-Herman, 64-57.

The Tigers, trailing by one after three quarters of play, 48-47, stayed close to Joe McGill and his hot shooting clan until two top Tekamah men, Mike McCue and Kent Petersen, collected their fifth personals. At that point, the Bluejays took advantage of several 1-1 foul situations to move away from the narrow one-point lead to glide past the Tigers.

McGill, considered one of the better area players, mustered 11 points—12 short-of team leader Tom Ridder. Bluejays Kevin Mahlberg was next in line with 19, while Warren Ortmeier collected 10. Glenn Randal, the fifth of only five who played, had one point.

For Tekamah-Herman, charging Mike McCue, another area standout, totaled 18 points. Mark Chamberlain was the only other teammate to accompany him to the double-figure scoring. He hit 10 points.

Teams Advance

Tuesday night Randolph and West Point Central Catholic earned the right to face each other in tonight's other semifinal game, scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

The Cardinals had little trouble with the Pierce Bluejays in the first game of the night Tuesday, taking home a 58-41 victory.

Coach Lyle Nannen's crew belted the Pierce quintet for a 12-8 first period lead, then edged to a 30-20 first half margin on SQUEEZING THROUGH. Wayne's Randy Nelson tries to squeeze through teammate Larry Shupe (right) and an unidentified Wisner player for a two-point play in the first half. Nelson, who scored 10 points, was one of four Blue Devils in the double figure column.

Athlete of the Week

Scott Doug
Von Minden Fischer
Allen High Wakefield High

When it comes to giving out accolades for athlete of the week honors, it is usually the outstanding efforts of the senior members of the squad winning the nominations.

This week the juniors are grabbing the spotlight—Wakefield's Doug Fischer and Allen's Scott Von Minden.

Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Von Minden of Allen, shot in 24 points against Walthill last week in the Class C district tournament at Wakefield to help stop the Bluejays, 89-86, in overtime.

His performance aided the Eagles to make it into the second round before the squad fell to Ponca, 55-54, again in overtime.

Von Minden ranked eighth in individual scoring in the Lewis and Clark league this season with a 15.1 average, one spot behind Stan Perry, who had a 15.5 showing in the loop.

Good shooting is only part of Von Minden's abilities on the court. He used his 6-2 frame to place second in the conference in rebounding. During the course of the season, he averaged 11.2 snags a game, about four short of leader Jeff Gulpin.

Wakefield's Doug Fischer doesn't possess the height really needed to make an outstanding basketball player, but he makes up for it with determination to win.

Last week on his home court the 5-8 guard played one of his best games when he ripped the nets for 18 points against Emerson-Hubbard en route to a 81-73 sweep over the Pirates.

Fischer could be spotted all over the court, not only offensively, but also applying a stiff man-to-man pressure on the Pirates' in the crucial fourth period.

Fischer and his teammates trailed through three quarters of play in the Class C district contest before the team limited the Emerson-Hubbard five to 18 points in the final stanza while tossing the Trojan's 28.

As coach Joe Coble later commented, "Doug played one whole of a game for us."

Cats Master 90-82 Win Over Hastings for 17-8 Final Season Showing

It ranked with the most satisfying wins of the year when Wayne State mastered Hastings College, 90-82, here Saturday. The Wildcats closed their campaign at 17-8, best since their championship years of 1967-70.

Hastings, now 22-3, came into the game ranking No. 17 on NAIA charts and a winning average of 20 points.

The host Wildcats, however, dominated the usually hot-shooting Broncos with a tight defense that shut off Hastings' inside game most of the time. Except for three brief times in the first half, Wayne led all the way.

A late spurt of long-range shooting lifting Hastings from a 33-25 deficit to a 40-38 lead before Wayne went to intermission with a 44-43 edge.

Wildcat scoring ace Dennis Stelkes poured in 16-second-half points to lead the winning assault. He ended with a 30-point total, high for him and the team this year. His 13 field goals also were a season peak. But most spectacular of his statistics: he hit 13 of 14 field shots.

It was a fitting finale for the Stelkes career at Wayne.

Tom Erwin of Concord, also posted his season high for Wayne with 18 points—7 x 10 from the field and 4 x 4 at the free throw line. Jon Harvey of Denison, Ia., contributed 11 points. Ron Jones of Kankakee, Ill., 10 points and 10 rebounds, matching 10 Stelkes caroms, high for the game.

Hastings got top production from Mike Trader and Paul Thomas, both with 18 points and eight rebounds.

Coeeds Make All-Stars

Wayne State's coed cagers claimed a major share of honors from the Nebraska College Women's Basketball Tournament Saturday.

The Wayne quint defeated Midland decisively in the finals, 53-37. Wendy Shol, Wayne's second ranking scorer for the season, saved her frustration at missing most of the tournament action because of injury by winning a free throw contest, an extra activity of the meet. Miss Shol is a junior from Onawa, Ia.

Four Wayne players were among 11 chosen for the tourney all-star team: Claudia Paulson, Ogdan, Ia.; Cindy Davis, Manson, Ia.; Martha Shrick, George, Ia.; and Jan Nyquist, Omaha.

Midland placed three on the all-star list: Marilyn Nelson, Cambridge, Minn.; Donna Broer, Sioux City, Ia.; and Shona Bohrnink, Fort Dodge, Ia.

All-star selections from Kearney State: Linda Czapsenski, Omaha, and Terri Nelson, Omaha, from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, Carol Meyerhoff, Lincoln; from the University of Nebraska at Omaha, Judy Melius; Miss Meyerhoff posted to top point total, with 40 in four games. However, Wayne's Claudia Paulson scored 37 in two games for the leading average. Her 23 against Kearney was the single game high.

Wayne's win over Midland reversed the outcome of the 1972 state finals. As champion, Wayne qualifies for the regional

Parking Accidents Plague Drivers

Two separate car accidents involving parked cars occurred two hours apart Tuesday afternoon.

At 2:40 p.m. a pickup and a car were backing out of parking stalls on the opposite sides of the street in the 100 block of West First when they collided, police report.

Earlier, about 1 p.m., in the same area, a 1973 pickup was backing from a stall when it hit the left rear end of a vehicle owned by the Crescent Electric Supply, Sioux City, police said. The driver of the truck was Albert Fuoss, Route 2, Wayne.

Student Manager A Six-Day Job

Mark Smith and Gary Glass like to go to basketball games. In that respect, neither boy differs from the majority of area basketball fans. But what they do makes them different. Gary, a sophomore, and Mark, a senior, carry on one assignment six days of the week. They're job—student managers for the Wayne High basketball team. What does a student manager do? Just about everything, they say.

Both Mark and Gary help coach Bill Sharpe and his assistants during the daily two-hour practice sessions. Mark and Gary are on duty through Thursday in preparation for the Friday games and workouts on Saturdays. Both boys, who were student managers last year, used their training in first aid to bandage and tape up many of the players. Gary got much of his training through Boy Scouts, as well as in his physical education class at school. During the games and practices the two can be found scrambling through the various charts, keeping track of the individual statistics on the Wayne players. When they're not writing, one or both will be in the locker room taping up ankles or knees to get Sharpe's crew ready for another game.

"Basketball is a lot of fun," Mark admits. "Although we don't get a lot of time to really watch it like the fans during the regular games, it is still an interesting sport."

Five Defending Champs Highlight NAIA District Wrestling at Wayne State

Five defending champions will highlight action Saturday when seven NAIA District 11 wrestling teams go to the mat at Wayne State. Host Wayne has three of the returning titlists. The University of Nebraska at Omaha, team champion last year by a 76.73 margin over Wayne, has the other two winners. UNO and Wayne are expected to battle again for the team honors, and just as close as last year. In a dual two weeks ago they settled for a 19-19 draw. Dana, Kearney State and Peru States have place winners returning. Midland and Chadron State will round out the field. Wayne's defending champions are Tom Luth at 158 pounds, Ken Monroe at 167 and Dennis Ruid at 190. UNO's contenders for repeat titles are Paul Martinez at 118 and Phil Gonzalez at 126.

Don Mau Is In Omaha For Evaluation

Don Mau, who has been hospitalized since an automobile accident in November, 1971, has been transferred from the Wayne Hospital to the University of Nebraska Medical Center at Omaha for evaluation. The Wayne ambulance service took Mau to Omaha Monday. The evaluation is expected to take several days, according to Dr. Robert Benthack of Wayne. Mau remained unconscious for nearly a year following the accident, but has shown improvement since November. Mau, who turned 20 this week, is the son of Mrs. Florence Mau of Wayne.

Siefkes Named MVP for 3rd Year

Dennis Siefkes, whose basketball teammates nickname him Mountain, stood on another mountain top Tuesday. The Wayne State team elected him most valuable player for the third straight year. And for good reason, says Coach Ron Jones, who considers the 67 senior center from Somers, Ia., the bulwark of his Wayne teams the past three years. Siefkes rewrote most of Wayne's records in scoring and field goal accuracy. He ranks first in career points with 1,576; season points, 649, and single game, 47. He also ranks first in career field goals, 652; career field percentage of .539, and season field percentage .553. His scoring average in 92 games is 17.1, including a freshman season — on a team of championship seniors — when he scored only 15 points in 18 games. In rebounding Siefkes ranks third with a career total of 732, behind the 969 by Larry Cony and 932 by Dean Ertosh.

Teammates also named Siefkes and Jon Harvey of Denison, Ia., as honorary co-captains. They are the team's only seniors. Coach Jones said of the pair, "They did about all a coach could expect. Denny has a mountain of talent, and with his size (6.7 and 225 pounds) he could be a pro prospect. Don gave us 100 per cent for four years. He has a lot of basketball savvy. It will be different coaching without them next year." Wildcat players named sophomore Chuck Collins of Butte, the most improved player. Playing in all 25 games, he "gained a lot of skill and confidence," Jones noted. Collins, a 6-8 forward, averaged 6.5 points, 5.8 rebounds.

Allen Ranks No. 1 in Conference Scoring

Allen coach Robert Moore figured that his team might be close to the top of the Lewis and Clark Conference in offense, and the latest statistics released by the loop shows that Moore's figuring was close enough. Not only have the Eagles grabbed the top spot in league offense but also in all games played. L-C secretary Jim Winch of Winside reports that Moore's club led the league with a 46.8 scoring average through eight conference games while holding a 44.8 showing for all games to be ranked No. 1 in both departments. According to Winch, who divided the stats up into two main categories—conference games and all games—the Winside club ranked 10th and 11th respectively in offense, averaging 28.6 points both in conference and all games. All Games Helping to lift the Eagles to the top bracket for all games were Charlie Peters, Scott Von Minden and Stan Perry, who ranked sixth, seventh and eighth in field goal accuracy. Walthill's Jeff Gilpin converted 58.2 per cent of his shots to lead the league. Peters shot 167 fielders and hit 82 for a 49.1 average. Following him were Von Minden, who hit 110 of 225 shots for a 48.9 mark, and Perry, who knocked in 112 of 244 attempts for 45.9 showing.

None of the Wildcat players made to top 15 bracket. In the individual scoring department, Perry grabbed the seventh spot out of the conference's 22 scoring leaders with a 15.5 average. Von Minden followed with 15.1 while Winside's Larry Weible came in 12th with a 14.7 average. Peters finished with an 11.4 clipping for 19th spot. The leader, again, was Gilpin at 22.8. Winside's Weible is the leading free throw shooter with a 71.4 average. The Wildcat senior holds the fifth spot, while Homer's Stan Copple leads the department with an 88.8 showing. Allen's Von Minden and

Perry came in at the 11th and 14th positions with 65.8 and 65.5 completion marks. The rebounding crown goes to Gilpin with an average of 15 a game. Following him is Von Minden at 11.2 Weible finished in 12th place with an 8.6 effort. In a final look at team defense, for all games, coach Winch's team holds the fourth spot in the 11 league. The Cats allow ed 883 points in 26 games for a 59.2 per game average. The Homer Knights led the league defensively, giving up only 50.3 points in 18 games. Ranking ninth is Allen with a 58.7 per game showing. The Eagles gave up 1,045 points in 18 games. Both in conference and all game statistics neither Winside nor Allen placed anybody on the assist leader reports. Conference Games In just conference games, Perry made fifth place with a 16.5 scoring average. Gilpin, of course, took the No. 1 spot with a 23.5 average. Placing 11th was Weible at a 14.3 per game clip. Allen had three men make the list for the best conference field goal shooters. Neil Blinn finished second to Walthill's Gilpin with a 57.6 average. Gilpin took top honors with a 58.6 average. Conference rebounding sixth place honors went to Allen's Von Minden with a 10.7 average. Winside's Weible grabbed an average of 9.4 caroms a game for 10th spot. The only area man to make the listings in the free throw shooting was Weible. He finished 11th, completing 77.5 per cent of his 30 attempts or 31 shots. Clark Division In a third division on conference stats, the leaders in the Clark division were announced. Again, Weible's name was sprinkled throughout the statistics with the senior placing sixth among individual scoring leaders with a 14.3 average. Kevin Kren of Coleridge took first honors with an 18 point per game showing. In the rebounding area, Weible placed fifth followed by Jeff Farran, a junior, in the ninth spot. Farran managed an 8.2 rebounding mark while his teammate finished with a 9.4 average. Roger Weed of Osmond was first with a 12.1 average. In the free throw department for the Clark division, Weible claimed the third spot with a 77.5 percentage. Another Osmond player, Robin Reed, finished No. 1 at 82.9. Again Winside finished fourth in defense as a team with the same average in all conference games—53.2. Osmond was on top with a 50.3 showing. ONE TEAM that will not make it to any finals, however, is the Blue Devil reserve squad. This year coach Ron Carnes' team finished with an impressive 13-2 mark — the best record in several years. According to Carnes, in 1966 and 1970 the teams had 12-4 marks, but since then no other squad has fared as well. Making this year's team a potent offensive club was the scoring ability of Kerry Jech, Bob Keating, Earle Overin and Kim Baker. All four men averaged nine to 10 points a game, according to unofficial statistics. Both Jech and Keating were the leading offensive board men, with Baker taking control on the defensive boards. All this good material will come in handy next year when head coach Bill Sharpe runs into a stiffer season. Some of the teams the Blue Devils will be facing in the 1973-74 campaign will be Bloom field and Creighton. "We're looking for a tougher schedule," Sharpe noted after Monday night's win over Wisner-Pilger, "to develop a better well-rounded ball club."

Looking for a Berth in the Class B Finals

WAYNE HIGH basketball fans probably have their eyes and ears tuned to tonight's semifinal district basketball contest between Harlington Cedar-Catholic and the Wayne High Blue Devils at Wayne State College. During their last two meetings the clubs split, leaving some wondering which is the better. Tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. all the questions will be answered. If the locals win, there is a strong chance for a berth in next week's Class B state tournament in Lincoln.

"Going one step further"

New Yorker Finally Finds 'Where It's At'

WALLY COX

Wally Cox is tired of traveling in cycles. But it took 24 years for him to find the path he was searching for.

The Brooklyn, N.Y., native who now lives in Fairbury, is a confirmed believer that his can help his fellow man through his belief and understanding of God.

"When I lived in the ghettos of Brooklyn, they were known then as the slums," he said. "There wasn't much hope—just the idea to find 'where it's at,'" he told a gathering at the Assembly of God Church in Wayne Sunday.

For Cox "where it's at" turned out to be joining street gangs and getting involved in murders, stabbings and robberies. The next step was drugs.

The euphoria lasted a long time, but it still did not solve his problems.

After several stints in jail, Cox, 27, continued his search. It ended by turning back to drugs to "find peace and joy of life."

"At 13, I turned away from God and everyone around me when my grandmother died," he said.

At that point, Cox put a barrier between himself and the rest of the world. "I had lost the one I really loved and I knew there wasn't anything to live for. So I started to find the kicks in life," he said.

The husky 6-4 240-pounder New Yorker started his jail terms in 1959 and spent a total of 43 months at Rikers Island in New York. "The terms weren't consecutive," Cox went on, noting that his longest sentence was 18 months.

It wasn't until 1966 that he went to prison for his first time. "In New York," he said, "you could get a prison sentence for a misdemeanor." Cox was sentenced to three years for a host of offenses, among them inciting a riot.

"I really didn't care where I was going. I still hadn't found where it was at," he said.

Twice during his stay, Cox tried suicide.

After his release from prison in August of 1969, Cox was still disillusioned about life and what it meant to him. The following month his mother gave him all her money—$49—to go to Springfield, Mo., to get away from the city life and to visit his brother-in-law.

"When I first arrived by bus I was hot and tired. My first thoughts were that I was out in some Plains area where cowboys still roamed the land."

But the tall New Yorker soon changed his mind after a week's stay. "I got all dressed up the first Friday I was there when my brother-in-law told me we were going out to a party," he said.

Cox pictured drinking, having fun and finally getting back into the social life. But the picture soon disappeared when he found out what the party was—going to church.

"It took some talking," he went on, "but I went."

While patiently waiting for the end of the service, Cox noticed that someone he wanted to get involved. "At first I questioned whether or not this was what I was looking for. Could this be what life is all about?"

His answer was yes.

Since 1969 Cox has been involved in helping people "regenerate with Jesus instead of with drugs."

Cox will be speaking at the Assembly of God Church through Sunday. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday), Friday and Sunday. He will speak at the 10 a.m. Sunday school hour for teenagers and college youth and at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

Kiwanians Ready to 'Flip Out' March 8

Flipping flapjacks will be the speciality of the day starting at 4:30 p.m. March 8 when the Wayne Kiwanians gather together at the city auditorium for the annual pancake feed.

Over 1,200 tickets were printed, said chairman Dale Gutshall, "and we expect all the Kiwanians to have them sold by next Thursday."

Already teams have been selected to man the tables, kitchen and grills for the big event which lasts until 7:30.

And to spur things, Kiwanian Freeman Decker has set up different teams to compete for a prize for setting the most tickets. According to Decker, a grand prize will be ready for the members of the losing team—cold pancakes after the feed.

Eight committees have been set up to handle the big crowd expected. On the ticket sales committee are Decker, chairman, with Dean Pierson and Harold Simpson helping.

Hosts, ticket taking and door sales—Carl Lentz, chairman; Ben Brandstetter, Al Cramer, Robert Haas, Kent Hall, Yale Kessler.

Food purchasing and delivery—Al Wittig, chairman; Dale Gutshall, George Phelps.

Setup—Cal Lundstrom, chairman; Max Lundstrom, Vern Fairchild, Dick Manley, Don Peterson, Wilbur Giese.

Waiters—Orvid Owens, chairman; Kenneth Olds, Loren Park, Bob Bartlett, Irwin Brandt, Circle K, Boy Scouts.

Food preparation and serving—Wayne Wessel, chairman; Cal Ward, John Struve, Rafael Sosa, Terry McClain, Walt Moller, Keith Mosley, Harland Pankratz, William Koeber, Roy Hurd, Jim Hummel, Dennis Boehme, Gene Bigelow, Roy Coryell, Neil Edmunds.

Return and clean-up—Leon Meyer, chairman; Lyle Marotz, Ray Shreiner, Dan Sherry, Francis Haun and Bob Carhart.

Dishwashing—Don Koeber, chairman; Bob Jordan, Dick Keidel, Deryl Lawrence, Don Wightman, Wilmer Marra, Adon Jeffrey.

Named to the four teams were:

Team A—Jim Hummel, chairman; Dennis Boehme, Roy Coryell, Vern Fairchild, Robert Haas, Richard Keidel, Yale Kessler, Wilmer Marra, Walter Moller, Loren Park, Don Peterson, LeRoy Simpson, Rafael Sosa.

Team B—Robert Carhart, chairman; Max Lundstrom, Gene Bigelow, Neil Edmunds, Dale Gutshall, Robert Jordan, Deryl Lawrence, Carl Lentz, Leon Meyer, Harland Pankratz, George Phelps, Cal Ward, Wayne Wessel.

Team C—Keith Mosley, chairman; Cal Comstock, Bob Bartlett, Freeman Decker, Francis Haun, Adon Jeffrey, William Koeber, Lyle Marotz, Terry McClain, Orvid Owens, Dan Sherry, Neal Swanson, Don Wightman.

Team D—Kent Hall, chairman; Ben Brandstetter, Irvin Brandt, Alan Cramer, Wilbur Giese, Roy Hurd, Don Koeber, Dick Manley, Ed Niemann Jr., Kenneth Olds, Ray Schreiner, John Struve, Al Wittig.

During the regular Monday luncheon at the city auditorium, the members honored Dale Gutshall and Freeman Decker for their time as members of the organization.

Gutshall received an eight-year pin while Decker was awarded a four-year pin.

DALE GUTSHALL, left, and Freeman Decker were awarded eight and four-year service pins Monday afternoon for their active participation in Kiwanis.

Charitable Deductions Now Proving Useful to Taxpayers in County

Bread cast upon the waters during the past year by Wayne County residents in the form of charitable donations are now returning as blessings.

So are various other expenditures made by them, such as for local and state taxes, for doctors' bills and the like.

To people who are going over their financial figures, preliminary to working up their income tax returns, the outlays of yesterday are the tax deductions of today.

How much do these deductions amount to normally? What have other people who itemize their deductions and are in similar income brackets been listing for charities, medical expenses and such?

Answers to these questions, based upon information provided by the Internal Revenue Service, have been prepared by the Commerce Clearing House, specialist in tax law.

They show that most families in the United States that have earnings of the size reported by the average family living in Wayne County list deductions of $1,940, equal to 21 per cent of their income.

In general, it is found, it ranges from 16 to 25 per cent of adjusted gross income. The percentage is higher among those in the lower brackets and lower for those with large incomes.

Local families with an income of $7,000 to $8,000, for example, would have a deduction of 23 per cent if they conformed to the average, whereas those at the $15,000 to $20,000 level would be taking 17 per cent.

Nationally, for those with earnings equal to the average prevailing in Wayne County, the amount normally listed for charitable deductions is $275. For interest paid on loans and installment debt it is $670, for local and state taxes it's $680 and for medical and dental costs it's $315.

If a family's deductions run higher than those taken by most others, it does not mean that they will be disallowed. Nor does conforming mean that they will be automatically approved, it is pointed out.

OBSERVATIONS

An article elsewhere on this page is another instance of our attempt to provide our readers a chance to put their ideas, opinions and feelings before as many people as possible.

Although we regularly carry editorials stating our views on a variety of subjects, we feel that this page in the newspaper is as much yours as it is ours. We will do everything we can to see that your views are given proper emphasis and display on this page...whether they agree with ours or not.

We welcome your opinions. They can be in the form of letters to the editor or, as this one, in an article better fitted to using separate from the letters column.

If you have something to say about a local subject, you will find no better place to air your views than on this page. Considering that more than 10,000 individuals read the newspaper twice a week, your articles and letters are bound to get the consideration they deserve.

We only ask that letters to the editor and articles be signed. They should be timely, brief and contain no libelous statements. If you wish, you may have your letters published without your name or with a pseudonym. We prefer, of course, that they be signed.

An open letter

Dear Mrs. Gibson:

I read about the recent vandalism to your home in Omaha. I feel sad for you and your family when I think how this must hurt you. But I feel much sadder when I think of the persons responsible.

They are sick, distorted individuals who are so limited in vision to think that a person's color is the most important fact to consider in their relationships with others.

But please do not think that those responsible for the vandalism are representative of the rest of the white people in your community, in your state or in your country. They are the gutter scum, the filth that did not wash down the sewers. They do not represent my feelings...or the feelings of a great many people I know.

I have long admired your husband. Not just for his feats on the mound during major league baseball games, but also for his worth as a man.

Too many individuals refuse to speak out, to take a stand, to comment on things as they see them. It is a unique person who has the courage to do so. For a black man or woman, it takes even more courage.

I have never had the honor to meet you or your husband. I would consider it a privilege to do so.

You have my sympathy. Those who damaged your home and hurt you have my contempt.

Something to be proud of

The decision by Dr. William A. Brandenburg to resign as president of Wayne State College certainly came as a surprise to many people. To those close to him, however, it was probably not too unexpected.

Dr. Brandenburg has served as president of the college 17 years. That's a long time, considering that the average stay for a president of a college is somewhere around four years.

During those years he has had numerous difficult times. During the 1960's there was considerable student unrest on the campus...as there was on campuses across the nation. Because he was the symbol of the college during those years he was often the person singled out for criticism by those who felt the college was not being run as they thought it should have been.

But during those years the college changed considerably, turning from an institution to train teachers to one to train persons entering diverse fields. The school earned recognition numerous times, not the least being the award for excellence received in 1971 in competition with about 800 schools across the nation.

And the school grew, increasing its enrollment from less than 1,000 to just over 3,000 and expanding its campus area from about 60 acres to 135 acres. There were numerous buildings constructed, helping keep the campus one of the most beautiful ones in the state while providing better facilities for the students and faculty.

This is not to say that Dr. Brandenburg was directly responsible for all the steps forward taken by the college during the past 17 years. He would be the first to admit that. But the steps forward were taken during his years as president, and he can be justly proud of that.

Wayne needs industry, sure, but what are we doing about it?

By FLOYD BRACKEN
Chamber of Commerce manager
"Wayne needs industry. What are they doing about it?"
Sometimes the question comes out: "What are you doing about it?"
Either way, the questions are being posed without giving much thought to their meaning. Let's examine the problem of industrial development and some of the things basic to it:
—Wayne is a city of some 5,400 people.
—Wayne is fortunate in having a state college within the city limits.
—Wayne has a fairly complete shopping complex furnishing goods and services to its citizens and the agricultural community.
—Wayne has a progressive city government furnishing, to the best of its ability, as complete city services as any city of its size in Nebraska.
Question: If Wayne has all this, then why hasn't Wayne been able to attract new industry?
Well, only a relatively few people have asked that question in the hopes of finding an answer. Mostly it has been: "What are they — or you — doing about it?"
It would take reams of paper and thousands of words to detail what needs to be done before an effort is made to attract new industry. But let us begin at the beginning.
Of first and paramount importance is the attitude of the people of Wayne. I mean all of us. Do we really believe we are big enough to accomplish big things? Do we really want industry? Or are we willing to lean back in our rocking chairs, fold our hands and say with resignation: "New industry will only create problems, and anyway, what industry would want to locate in Wayne? If they want to come, they will without any help from us. Why should we make the effort?"

In the early days of our nation there was this negative or defeatist attitude. But there were men and women who believed in the nation's future. They were willing to pay their time, fortunes and even their lives on the line for what they believed. They had a positive, "can do" attitude. They firmly believed it could and would be done.
There are in Wayne men who believe that Wayne can and will be able to persuade new industry to locate here. They are working hard to do the job. However, this is not their problem alone. All the people of Wayne must be willing to support them — through time, money and enthusiasm — or all the effort will be wasted.
They need your time. They need your money. Most of all, they need to know that you are behind them in what they are trying to do.
These people have taken the first steps. Will you walk along beside them? Will you tell them you believe they are on the right track? Will you help them break the trail to the future?
We've been asking our questions in the third person. Isn't it time we used the first person plural and asked: "What are we doing about our lack of industry?"

Historic changes in state miss by narrow margins in Legislature

LINCOLN—Nebraska's Legislature has come within a gnat's eyelash of approving two proposals which would make significant changes in the state's historic position.
One is a switch to a partisan Legislature. The other is legalization of an agency shop. Both issues were turned down recently on close votes.
The proposal to place a constitutional amendment on the 1974 ballot asking the voters if they wanted to elect their state senators on the basis of party labels flunked by six votes on its second showdown on the floor.

When the bill sponsored by Sen. Gerald Stromer, of Kearney first was considered on final reading it was only one vote shy of success—and that vote was available. Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha was defending a client in an Omaha court room at the time the vote was taken on LB-9. Had he been in the chamber, Stromer's bill would have passed.

Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha switched his "aye" ballot to "nay," putting him in position to ask for reconsideration of the vote.

When the issue came up again, Cavanaugh was in his seat and voting "aye," but there had been erosion in other support. The partisan Legislature issue went down to defeat by six votes.

Stromer said he didn't know if he would try again next session because the Legislature would be made up of the same membership.

The agency shop bill, LB 96, was sponsored by Sen. Harold D. Simpson of Lincoln, who said he had been an active union member for 25 years. His proposal would have allowed labor organizations to have included in their contracts clauses which would require nonunion members to pay the equivalent of dues if they received the same benefits the union negotiated for other employees.

The Labor Committee killed the bill, 52 Simpson sought to have it revived on the floor. He needed 25 votes to do that and after some lively debate, he got 22.

During the debate, Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha both complained that Labor Committee Chairman Richard Maresh was anti-labor.

"With friends like Maresh, labor needs no enemies," Mahoney said. The Omaha legislator claimed agriculture brings many bills before the state senate which, he said, are given a fair hearing. He said Maresh, a Milligan farmer, should have helped put the agency shop bill on the floor.

Carpenter said Maresh sought the chairmanship of the Labor Committee just to block labor legislation. "I don't think you (Maresh) were fair or reasonable," Carpenter said.

Maresh denied a bias against labor.

Big Issues Emerge
It took a while, but the big issues are emerging.

A hearing was held last week on the attempt to repeal Nebraska's 1972 ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U. S. Constitution. That has been one of the most emotional subjects of the session.

The state aid to schools question—perhaps the biggest of the session—was the subject of hearings earlier this week.

One state aid plan wasn't ready for those hearings—the one being prepared by Gov. J. J. Exon.

Exon said the citizens' committee which has been helping him write his plan hadn't completed its work.

Education Chairman Jerome Warner of Waverly complained that Exon had ample warning of when the hearings would be held and could have been prepared on time if he had tried.

Warner, who is sponsoring one of the bills written by legislators, said it appeared to be the governor's strategy to veto anything the lawmakers might pass and then present his bill as an alternative at the last minute.

That was labeled a "wild allegation" by the governor.

Cease Fire Called
There has been a cease fire, at least a temporary one, on another executive-legislative battleground.

The Legislative Council Executive Board decided the other day to allow Exon to go ahead and decide whether any of the three firms bidding on providing the state's central computer services should get the business.

The lawmakers previously had asked the governor to wait until a joint evaluation could be made of the bids from IBM, Univac and Honeywell.

Board Chairman Terry Carpenter contended the governor shouldn't have invited bids until consultants had conducted a study of the state government-wide computer needs. But Carpenter and other board members decided that since the bids had been received, the governor should move ahead with an evaluation of the proposals and decide what to do.

After his decision, the Legislature may step back into the picture and order a state computer plan, Carpenter said.

What's Phase III?

Q. What records, if any, must be maintained under Phase III?

A. All firms with sales of $50 million or more are required to keep records of profit margin changes as well as price changes which will permit the computation of weighted average price increases. Firms will have the obligation of producing these upon request. Also, all firms with sales of $250 million or more must file quarterly reports concerning any weighted average price change and their profit margin.

In the pay area, employers must keep records of wage rate changes affecting all employee units of 1,000 or more. In addition, pay adjustments affecting employee units of 5,000 or more employees must be reported to the Cost of Living Council.

Humor, Seriousness Evident in Wayne's 1st March of Dimes All-Male Cake Bake

Wife's comment to husband: "Did you read the directions on how to take the cake out of the oven?"
 Wag's comment to a local veterinarian: "I'd like to see the farmer's face when you tell him you have to go back to town to decorate your cake!"
 A baker's comment to himself: "Oops! I already made a mistake. I put the butter in the wrong bowl."
 That's a sample of the talk which went on during the first all-male cake bake in Wayne Tuesday and Wednesday. But the men taking part in the affair, out on to raise money for the March of Dimes, were serious as they could be when it came to mixing their cakes, peering in the oven at them and patiently decorating them.
 About 80 men and several boys signed up to take part in the baking contest, held at Peoples Natural Gas Co. They will get to see just how much faith their wives and friends have in their culinary skill tonight (Thursday) when the cakes are auctioned off.
 The auction begins in front of the gas company's office on Main Street at 7:30 p.m.

Rowan Willse, Wayne County March of Dimes chairman, said he hopes the sale will raise up to $300. Plans are to hold similar cake bakes next year and the year after that in an attempt to raise enough money to purchase a piece of equipment for the new area medical center planned for Wayne, Willse said.

Exams Are Offered For State Employment

Examinations for all types of clerical positions with the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare, Department of Health, Division of Employment, Civil Defense Agencies and Commission on Aging will be given in approximately 50 Nebraska cities on Saturday, April 14, says James Edington, Nebraska Merit System Director.

Local high school seniors who will be seeking employment in the clerical fields may find the April 14th Statewide Merit System examinations of importance to them. Positions as Typist Clerk I and Stenographer Clerk I are open to high school graduates with a background in appropriate commercial courses. Those interested in permanent employment in those agencies upon graduation this spring should make application to take the test in the center located nearest them. Commercial and guidance departments of all high schools have information regarding these tests.

All others interested in these and other clerical positions should also apply to take the qualifying examinations when they are given in centers near their place of residence. Tests are given every Wednesday morning in the State Capitol, but only two or three times a year in out-state centers.

In order to qualify for the tests on April 14, applications must be postmarked by midnight of March 23. Applications received after this closing date will be processed and scheduled for a future examination period.

Announcements listing the specific positions for which applications will be received are posted on post office and library bulletin boards, with copies also in the hands of high school commercial teachers and guidance counselors. Copies may be obtained directly from the Merit System Office, 11th Floor, State Capitol, Lincoln, Ne., 68509. Applications and information may also be obtained at an county welfare office or office of the Division of Employment.

New Corn Hybrid Coming

The University of Nebraska agricultural experiment station will release a new corn hybrid this year developed by the NU corn breeding project that will stand in spite of stalk rot, announced Dr. William Compton, NU corn breeder and associate professor of agronomy.

Explained Compton, "This new hybrid is another fairly early single cross hybrid (N31 x N132) like Nebraska 611. The new hybrid will be called Nebraska 612. The six means the hybrid is in the 600 maturity class for Nebraska, which is early in the southern part of the state and full season in the northern part of Zone II. The 600 numbers can also be grown in the southern and eastern portions of Zone III.

"Stalk rot is a problem with most hybrids. Nebraska 612 also gets stalk rot, but the physical strength of the stalk allows it to stand in spite of the stalk rot.

"Nebraska 612 is a good yielding hybrid, but its main attribute is that it stands up well. It doesn't break or root lodge under most conditions. It is small statured with low ear placement. Nebraska 612 is unrelated to other hybrids now being grown."

Information about this hybrid will be available in the corn outstate testing circular as experimental number 9042.

The project is also releasing six new inbred lines, number N20, N101, N103, N104, N132 and N138. Compton commented on each one:

"N20, N103 and N104 were developed from the stiff stalk synthetic, originally developed in Iowa and widely used as a source population for corn belt inbred lines."

"N101 and N132 were both developed from the Nebraska B synthetic, originally put together by Dr. J.H. Lonquist. Lonquist is now at the University of Wisconsin but was a long-time NU corn breeder. Both of these synthetics have been selected for improved performance in Nebraska by Nebraska corn breeders."

State's Soybean Crop May Be $100 Million In '73, Experts Say

Soybeans may well be a $100 million crop in Nebraska in 1973, up from the farm value of $84 million in 1972, those attending a soybean production conference in Lincoln were told Monday.

Dr. D. G. Hanway, chairman of the University of Nebraska Lincoln department of agronomy, said soybeans now rank fourth in value as a grain commodity in the state, and he added: "prospects this year are for the greatest acreage ever planted in Nebraska."

In opening remarks at the conference co-sponsored by the NY department of agronomy and the Nebraska Soybean Growers Association, Dr. Hanway said improved varieties and herbicides can spell yields of 45-50 bushels per acre under top-notch management.

The state's average yield was 33 bushels per acre in 1972—equal to the previous high in 1969, he noted.

In another presentation, Dr. A. W. Epp, NU agricultural economist, said both present soybean stocks and current cash prices underscore a real shortage of soybeans.

"The 1973 soybean crop will not be burdened by competition from a large carryover from 1972," he commented.

"Relatively high prices for soybeans should prevail for the 1973 crop," Dr. Epp predicted. In comparison, soybeans should prevail for the 1973 crop," Dr. Epp predicted. In comparison, soybeans should be in a stronger position than corn or grain sorghum, he stated.

Estimates of costs and returns from the three crops for 1973 are based on November 1973 prices of $3.50 for soybeans, $1.25 for corn and $1.12 for grain sorghum, he said.

"Assuming average yields for these crops and the quoted 1972 prices in 1973, soybeans would be considerably more profitable," he analyzed.

Epp outlined estimated net return per acre of $98.82 for soybeans, $71.84 for corn and $76.86 for grain sorghum. The net returns were computed on gross returns of $126, $122.50 and $113.40 per acre, for soybeans, corn and grain sorghum, respectively.

Expenses were calculated at $27.18 per acre for soybeans, $50.66 for corn and $36.54 for grain sorghum. The biggest difference in expenses was found in no drying costs for soybeans, and only 86 cents per acre for fertilizer compared to $12.52 for corn and $7.94 for grain sorghum.

None of the figures included total costs of production, he stressed. No changes were included for interest and taxes on land, interest on operating capital, or farm overhead costs.

Dean Lancaster, manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, told soybean growers that the serious shortage of high quality soybean seed "becomes increasingly critical in areas east and south of Nebraska."

He attributed the tight seed situation to adverse harvesting conditions late in 1972, harvesting beans at moisture levels unsafe for storage, loss of seed jobs through drying failures, a sharp increase in pod and stem blight in eastern Corn Belt states, mechanical damage in harvesting, processing and increased demand for seed due to probable increase in soybean acreage to be planted this spring.

Lancaster said Nebraska soybean seed germinates very well: "Ninety-six per cent of all Nebraska certified seed produced in 1972 is germinating above the 80 per cent minimum required for certification."

"Those growers who have not yet booked their soybean seed for 1973 will have little choice other than to use non-certified soybeans for seed," he predicted.

He warned that many lots are extremely low in quality—10-30 per cent contain cracked or split seed, inert material and mixed varieties," he said.

He urged growers to make sure the seed quality and germination level is known in buying non-certified seed. State law required that all seed sold have an analysis tag showing seed purity, date tested and other data, he said.

Dr. J. H. Williams, NU agronomist and plant breeder, said two Illinois varieties, "Bonus" and "Williams" and an Indiana variety, "Wells" performed well in Nebraska tests in 1972.

Emphasis in the Nebraska soybean breeding program, initiated in 1948-49, has been in developing strains responsive to good management practices such as irrigation, narrow-row spacing, chemical and mechanical weed control, consideration of lime requirements and soil fertility, rates of planting and time of planting.

"We are looking for genotypes of high yielding ability, good standability, appropriate maturity with disease tolerance and suitable oil and protein content," Williams explained.

In the long range, it is hoped that strains with a broader genetic base can be developed which are more tolerant to stresses of Nebraska growing conditions, he said.

traffic, some "good samaritans" gave me the extra push.

"There wasn't a doubt in my mind they were thinking 'Women drivers!', and they were right!

But the fact is, they helped.

I could almost write a book about the "good samaritans" in this area. About the many elderly sick people who depend completely on "good samaritans" for their groceries and mail to be delivered, trips to the doctors and many other necessary things they are unable to do for themselves. And about the children who have been given first aid and a ride home after a bicycle spill or the like. One "good samaritan" who can't be omitted from my list is a Wayne merchant who gave me a Christmas tree several years ago.

A few days before Christmas a close friend of mine was coming home from the hospital. I thought it would be cheerful to have a decorated tree in her home when she arrived. And Christmas trees, like most everything else, aren't cheap.

Since I had already purchased a tree for my home (and not from this Wayne merchant, because I'd never been in his store before) I hated to spend much money for another tree.

When I explained this to the manager, he said, "Take you pick. Our compliments and good wishes to the lady coming home."

Yes, I've seen many "good samaritans" lately. And I'll bet if I try I can see many more.

The recent Wayne Herald survey showed that more people read the letters to the editor than Rural Ramblings, but I thought I'd write my opinions in my column anyway.

It also showed that the people who read Rural Ramblings would, I think, most likely fully understand my opinion about the recent "good samaritan" letter.

I am not criticizing the lady in distress, only stating my opinions and experiences. But I have seen too many "good samaritans" in this area to let it go unsaid.

One specific incident which immediately comes to mind is the recent accident in Carroll of two small boys on a sled.

Had this happened in a large metropolitan area I doubt if those injured boys would have been made nearly as comfortable, as they were. Nor would the driver of the car been given aid as well as understanding.

Many residents near the scene made long distance calls, thinking nothing of the extra costs, to reach the ambulance, doctor and other necessary people.

Of course, in a metropolitan area it would not have required long distance calls, but would anyone have bothered to make a local call without fear of becoming "involved"?

To my knowledge no one asked for the many blankets which were immediately brought them: without any regard for their use on the dirty street nor to the blood spilled on them.

Unfortunately, the Carroll area has had several similar incidents.

No doubt there are some who were just observers, but it only takes a few to do whatever needs to be done during such an emergency. We only know that whatever needed to be done was done by "good samaritans."

Many times during the year there are pictures and stories in the Herald about those who have helped neighbors with their work, in the Carroll as well as the surrounding area, during a time of need. Undoubtedly, there are many such good deeds which don't get reported.

These are major incidents, but twice that I can recall I was in Wayne and needed help on a much smaller scale. I also recall that I received help.

Once I was parked near the State National Bank and once near the Super Valu. I knew better than to park on an icy street, but I was in a hurry and the parking space was available so I parked my car without thinking.

Later I could only get halfway out of my parking space. Each time, after much rocking, spinning wheels and half stopping

Now available in Amoco anhydrous ammonia

ACA

Now there's something new in anhydrous ammonia... our Agricultural Crop Additive (ACA). It could mean bigger yields for you. In our tests it produced wider, greener leaves—vigorous growth—better developed root systems and stronger stalks. And in 85% of the tests conducted, these growth differences resulted in increased yields compared to regular ammonia application.

Try Amoco ammonia (ACA) on your farm. The additional cost per acre is less than the price of a bushel of corn. It's recommended for corn and certain other crops, but don't apply it to wet, poorly drained soils. See us for complete details.

 cases of high blood pressure, but they have to find them first, says the Nebraska Heart Association. Most Americans who have the disease don't know it because they haven't seen a doctor lately.

Further information may be obtained from Ken Carlson, high school guidance counselor, or from Mrs. Charles Sieckmann of Wayne.

High blood pressure is a major factor in heart attack and stroke. But many people don't know they have it because they haven't had a medical checkup.

Financial Aid Offered Seniors
 Scholarships, grants and loans are now available to Wayne County residents for higher education through the local American Legion Auxiliary, reports a Wayne High School official.
 Applicants must be female and have applied for admission to schools of nursing, technical schools and colleges. All applicants for the awards must be a dependent of a veteran.
