

'Battle of the Batters' Is A Blast

Without a doubt, Wayne's first "Battle of the Batters" was a success. The auction attracted more than 100 persons. Seventy-three cakes were sold during the bidding, some of them more than once when buyers gave them back to increase the amount of money going to the March of Dimes. Bringing the most money in the auction was the "cake" entered by Keith Mosley of Wayne. A 15 pound entry was made of plaster. It sold for $45 to Dr. William Koerber of Wayne.

Judged best overall by judges Marie Mohr and Sherian Frey, both of Wayne, was Dr. Koerber's three layered cake. It sold for $25 to Peoples National Gas Co., which provided ovens and display area for the contest and auction.

Runner up entry was "Snoo, py," baked by Don Kerl of Wayne. It sold for $17. Taking third place and selling for $8 was the map of Nebraska baked by Cal Ward of Wayne.

Earning honorable mentions in the overall division were cakes baked by Gary Pick, Larry Skokan and Tom McClain, all of Wayne, and LeRoy Sievers of Wakefield.

Best entry with a March of Dimes theme was Darrel Rahn's "Happiness Is Giving" entry. The Wayne man's cake sold for $17.

Taking second place in the theme division and selling for $32.50 was Keith Mosley's "The March of Dimes Is A Gas" cake. Willis Lessman's "March on Birth Defects" cake was judged third place. The Wayne man's cake sold for $10.

Honorable mentions in the theme division were cakes baked by Dr. Koerber, Ted Bahe and Jack Ruback, all of Wayne.

Winning first place in the division for youths was the cake baked by Joel and Greg Mosley, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mosley. Their cake, a detailed castle complete with veterinary clinic, sold for $18 to Wayne Veterinary Clinic.

Taking second place in the junior division was the cake

Two Oldest 'Battlers' Whip Up Fine Entry

George Baird and Ed Johnson found out they could have their cake and eat it, too.

The two senior citizens were the oldest ones to compete in last week's "Battle of the Batters" to raise money for the March of Dimes. Baird is almost 86 years old, Johnson, 79.

They baked a frosted yellow cake which sold for $8 Thursday night during the sale of the more than 70 cakes mixed, baked and decorated by businessmen, employees, farmers and youth earlier in the week.

And the person who bought their cake... Keith Mosley prompted delivered it to the Senior Citizens Center in Wayne Friday morning so the members could find out if the two men knew what they were doing.

"It was excellent," said Mrs. Eldon Bull, director of the center.

Chamber Seeks Members

The President's Club of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce will hold its first meeting of the year Monday night at the Chamber offices at 7 p.m.

The group, which is in charge of membership relations, is currently conducting a drive to sign up individuals and businesses for the current year.

Although the associate memberships will not bring much money into the Chamber, they will increase the number of people involved in Chamber activities, he said.

The President's Club has signed up about half of the 167 firms who belonged to the Chamber in 1977. "We hope to complete the drive to sign up

'Hiking School' High School To Get Trophy

The area high school which donates the most money during the coming hike for HOPE will receive a trophy to display in their school, according to persons in charge of the coming fund raising event.

Bard Ludwig, hike chairman, said awarding the trophy is one of the things which will be done to try to stir up youth interest in the hike, scheduled between Wayne and Wakefield March 31.

Money raised in the hike will go toward support of USS HOPE, a 15,000 ton ship which makes mercy missions to nations struck by disaster. The ship is a self-contained 108 bed medical center.

Sponsoring the hike, second year in a row for one in this area, is Wayne State College's Phi Mu Sorority.

Traffic Stopper

NO SERIOUS INJURIES were reported in a three-car accident on Highway 35 about six miles east of Hoskins Friday night about 8:15 p.m. Drivers of cars involved were Dale Ruehling, 21, Bancroft; Dennis Harris, 20, South Sioux City, and Jack Bossow, 22, South Sioux. State patrolmen investigating the accident said the Bossow car had just been pulled out of the ditch when the southbound Harris car came up from behind and was forced into the passing lane. The Harris car struck the northbound Ruehling car. Mrs. Harris, several months pregnant, was taken to the hospital at Norfolk and later released. Traffic was backed up several hundred yards for a couple hours before all three cars could be moved from the highway. The Ruehling and Harris cars sustained severe damage.

Board To Hear Reports

The Wayne Carroll School Board will hear several reports during its regular monthly meeting Monday night at the high school.

The board meeting begins at 7:30 p.m.

Board member Dorothy Ley and superintendent Francis Haun will report on the validation team which recently rated the Wayne Carroll language disability program one of the top ones in the nation.

Board president Irvin Brandt and member Wilbur Giese will report on their meeting with State Senator Robert Murphy early last week and on legislative hearings on bills pertaining to public education.

Other items on the agenda include offering contracts to the three school principals Richard Metteer, Loren Park and Cheryl Lawrence; offering contracts to teachers; discussion of liability insurance for board members, and opening of bids for a new bus for the school system.

New Face in County

NEW AGRICULTURAL AGENT Don Spitz discussed coming work with his secretary, Mrs. Ed Grose, after taking over the Wayne County job last week. Top Violinist to Play In Concert at WSC

An epic bard, rhetorician, lyrical and technical wizard, all rolled into one, Zara Nelsova is one of the finest cellists in the world.

This is the way the San Francisco Chronicle described the artist who will play at Wayne State College at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fine Arts Center.

Her concert, open to the public, is part of the college's Special Programs series. Admission is $2. (WSC students and faculty free with I.D. cards).

A frequent soloist with the leading orchestras of America and Europe, Miss Nelsova has regularly toured Europe since her debut, at 12, with the London Symphony.

Born in Canada, the third generation of a noted Russian musical family, she was educated in England, and now is an American citizen. She often performs in duet with her husband, Grant Johannessen, a distinguished concert pianist. In 1969 they performed for a White House state dinner honoring the prime minister of Australia.

A Nelsova tour in Europe evoked comments like this from a Vienna critic:

"The concert was a triumph, thanks to the American cello virtuoso, Zara Nelsova, who played her Stradivarius with incredible and inimitable beauty. The public reserved all its applause for the American guest, who is a great shooting star, a meteor in the firmament of music."

And another comment:

"Her playing was sensitive and majestic, and her bravura virtuosity made such an impact that the whole audience rose as one man to applaud for minutes on end. Seldom has the Konzerthaus witnessed such an outpouring of enthusiasm."

WS Offers Two New Majors

Two new majors in library media and in community service counseling were announced Friday by Wayne State College.

Dr. Lyle Seymour, acting president, said both will become effective in the fall term of 1973. However, most of the courses for both majors, currently being taught, and students who have taken the required courses can apply them to the majors.

Head librarian Charles Steil said the library media major of 30 hours is designed to prepare individuals for service in either school, or community libraries, or school media centers. The major can apply to teaching or non-teaching degrees.

Wayne State has offered a library science minor for many years and continues the minor, though calling it a minor in library media. It requires 21 hours. Steil said many courses in the major are new or modifications of present ones.

The community service counseling major aims to prepare para-professionals in the "helping professions." That's the term Dr. Robert Lemcke of the WS education faculty used to describe public and private agencies dealing with personal problems.

Dr. Lemcke said the new counseling major grew out of talks with leads of such agencies in Northeast Nebraska. They liked a major feature of the major—an internship which will put students into on-the-job training, Dr. Lemcke said.

He quoted some agency officials as saying, "We can use some interns right now."

Community service counseling, a non-teaching major, will combine minors in sociology and psychology already in the curriculum. Dr. Lemcke said the major also includes courses in guidance, education and industrial education concerned with vocations.

Africa Is Next Stop For Fisher

Agricultural engineer Wayne Fisher of the Northeast Station near Concord has accepted a teaching assignment in Africa beginning this week.

Fisher, along with his wife Evelyn, will leave today (Monday) for Waziland, Africa.

According to Fisher, he will be teaching land use and irrigation at the University in Waziland, where he hopes to spend two to three years.

Purpose of the program, he said, is to prepare the people to teach on a county agent level in Waziland.

Fisher, who farmed in Lancaster County from 1946 to 64, graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1968 with a bachelor's degree in agricultural engineering.

While working at the Station, Fisher received his master's in 1970. He joined the Station staff in 1969.

In 1964 Fisher was named Nebraska's Outstanding Young Farmer.

As yet, he said, his position at the Station has not been filled.

CC Directors Oppose Buying Colleges at Scottsbluff, Beatrice

The board of directors of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce has gone on record against proposed legislation which would give the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska power to acquire the facilities of two colleges in the state.

The bill, LB 179, would give the board authority to purchase facilities at Hiram Scott College at Scottsbluff and John J. Pershing College at Beatrice. Both private colleges are now closed.

In a resolution passed late last month, the Chamber board noted that it opposes the bill because the present state colleges and vocational-technical school are currently underfinanced.

It noted also that the bill covers a situation which is a local problem at Scottsbluff and Beatrice and not a problem of the whole state.

The bill "would work a further burden on the Nebraska taxpayer and further cut the budgets of the existing state colleges," the resolution noted.

The board called for a study committee to be formed to determine the value of additional units of higher education and to look into the financial conditions of the state colleges to make recommendations for providing relief to them.

The Scottsbluff and Beatrice colleges were beset by financial problems, forcing them to close when sufficient funds could not be raised to keep them in operation.

OBSERVATIONS

Huge tank probably needed

Wayne city councilmen will probably come under considerable criticism if they decide to go ahead and buy a large tank or several smaller tanks to boost the storage capacity of the power plant to near 500,000 gallons.

Some critics, noting the current and possibly continuing fuel shortage, would call such a purchase useless. The city might end up with a hungry white elephant, critics would probably say.

However, the city probably does need to purchase an additional fuel shortage tank to increase what some consider a present inadequate storage capacity. Whether the council needs to purchase such a huge tank is debatable, of course.

It should be pointed out that the council is "taking steps" which "could lead" to purchasing the tank or tanks only if it appears that the city will be able to purchase large quantities of fuel this summer. If the fuel crisis continues into the summer, the council has noted, the tank would not be purchased.

If there is a good possibility that the city could buy large quantities of fuel this summer, the purchase would probably be a good one. In years to come the city might be able to save enough money by buying large quantities of fuel to pay or help pay for the tank.

Pitger
Dear Editor:
"Love, honor and obey." Three beautiful words often used today in the marriage ceremony.
Sometimes women are offended by the word "obey." They might say, "Why should I obey him more than he does me?" A Christian wife, familiar with the words from a letter of Paul to the Ephesian Christians, is not afraid of these words: "Wives, be subject to your husbands, as to the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife as Christ is the head of the church." This does not make a woman inferior or give a woman unequal rights. This happens when the husband "lords it" over the wife and doesn't want to be a man.

Our United States constitution is so very fair in that we are all declared equal. Many fine laws which might seem unfair to some husbands are recorded on the books today because many husbands in our country love their wives "as Christ loved the Church and gave Himself up for Her."
Are we to see such fine laws swept away with the passing of the Equal Rights Amendment in our country?
I am in favor of equal rights when it is applied to all women, and if one of the needed laws would be equal pay for equal work, I say, "Draw it up and let's pass it!"

But the congressional intent of the ERA will not allow me to be in favor of the ERA. The ERA might look beautiful to the eye but reveals something else under the make-up!
I don't expect everyone to agree with me and I thank you for the equal opportunity to speak on this matter.
I maintain "Love, honor and obey!" Let's do away with the ERA!

Dear Editor:
The following of fire equipment is once again becoming a problem. We realize the curiosity and excitement involved, but we want to remind the public that property and possibly lives are at stake at such times.

At a recent fire some of the firemen had trouble getting to the scene and trucks had trouble maneuvering because of the congestion caused by onlookers' vehicles.
Some license numbers were jotted down by the firemen, and if the practice continues, steps will be taken to put a stop to it.

Nebraska law states
(1) Upon the approach of authorized emergency vehicles giving audible signal by bell, siren, or exhaust whistle, the driver of every other vehicle shall yield the right of way and shall immediately drive the same to a position as near as possible and parallel to the right-hand edge or curb of the roadway clear of any intersection and shall stop and remain in such position unless otherwise directed by a police officer or traffic officer until the police, fire department, or Civil Defense rescue vehicle shall have passed.
(2) It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle other than one on official business to follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm closer than 500 feet, or to drive into or park such vehicle within the block where the fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm.

The Wayne volunteer firemen are asking the public for their cooperation. If we ask it, a chance to do our jobs the best we can with the least interference possible.
If you would really like to be involved, why not join the Department? We would welcome any good men interested in serving their community and fellowmen. Contact any member of the Department. They will be glad to answer your questions.
It is not a glory job and can be and most often is hard and dirty work. The only pay is the satisfaction of helping someone in need.
Please, help us to help you, the people of Wayne and Rural District No. 2.

A closer look. . .

A Wayne businessman got 83 1/3 per cent revenge after being ticketed by local police for not scooping his sidewalks.
The story goes something like this:
A short time before being told by the police that he would have to go to court for not scooping his walks, the businessman had donated $15 to the police department for the state police officers association. After getting the ticket, he promptly stopped payment on the check.
He still ended up $3 poorer — he was fined $10 and $8 costs.

Another local businessman got his first ticket from the police in a similar situation. After making his donation, he found a ticket on his car for not pulling far enough into a driveway.
Although that humor was unintentional, that which has occurred at the past two city council meetings was the result of somebody's mischievous mind.
Councilman Frank Prather found into Tuesday night's council meeting to find a small toy scoop, perfect for a four-year-old boy, on the table in front of his chair.
Prather, it seems, was one of those persons who recently received an invitation to county court for leaving snow on his walks.
And at the council meeting before, Keith Mosley had been there, would have found a face mask to use during the meeting.
Mosley, most everybody will remember, was the one who made the motion to ban smoking in the council's chambers during regular meetings. The motion failed on a close vote, with Mayor Kent Hall forced to break a four-four tie vote. Hall, himself a puffer, decided not to change the status quo.

There's a theory something to the effect that history repeats itself. Looking at what's going on at Pine Ridge, S. D., one might be forced to believe that theory.

About the turn of the century federal troops slaughtered men, women and children at Wounded Knee, not far from where some militant members of the American Indian Movement have been holding several persons hostages in an attempt to expose what they call graft and corruption by the Bureau of Indian Affairs.
If things keep boiling on the Pine Ridge Reservation we may well see another clash between whites and Indians. There's no doubt who would come out on top, just as there was no doubt back on that bitter cold winter day when the government flexed its muscles and killed scores and scores of Indians for little reason.
This nation's history has been blackened time and time again in its dealings with the American Indian. I can only hope that lives aren't lost this time around.

I can't get over the amount of enthusiasm shown by the men and boys competing in Wayne's first all-male cake bake.
Several bakers spent hours and hours on their cakes, babying them during the mixing, baking and decorating last Tuesday and Wednesday. I'm not sure who spent the most time on their efforts,

Local Churches Schedule Lenten Services

Ash Wednesday, this week, marks the beginning of the Lenten season which will culminate with Easter Sunday on April 22. Many of the local churches have set up special services and programs for the Lenten season.

St. Paul's Lutheran
A Lenten season pulpit exchange program will provide St. Paul's Lutheran Church with various speakers for their 8 p.m. Wednesday evening services preceding Easter.

The Ash Wednesday service, this week, will be conducted by the Rev. Danver Peterson, who serves the local church. Sermon topic will be "A Kiss Judas?", first in a series of "Lenten Questions Which Demand an Answer," theme for the season.

The Rev. Paul Reimers from Trinity Lutheran Church in Winslow will speak on "Did You Forget, Peter?" Mar. 13. The Rev. Paul Moeller, of Christ Lutheran Church in Wisner will deliver the Mar. 21 sermon, "Did You Know, Caiaphas?" The Rev. Victor Moeller from St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Pender will deliver the Mar. 28 sermon, "Who's the Prisoner, Pilot?" On Apr. 4, the congregation will hear "Do You Really Mean It Jesus?" by the Rev. William Stanton from St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Emerson and on Apr. 11, the Rev. Ronald Nelson of St. Luke's Lutheran Church in Emerson will speak on "Why, God?" Holy Week services are scheduled for Maundy Thursday, Apr. 19, and Good Friday, Apr. 20. The sermon, to be identical for both 8 p.m. services, is Coffee hours will follow each of the Wednesday night services except on Ash Wednesday. Special activities have been planned for Palm Sunday when church young people will participate in the worship services.

A combined choir from St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the United Presbyterian Church will provide music in a major portion of the sunrise service to be held at St. Paul's at 6:30 a.m. Easter morning. Breakfast will be served afterward by the Luthera League and a film will be shown during the 9-10 a.m. Sunday school hour. St. Paul's own choir will sing at the 10:30 a.m. service.

Redeemer Lutheran
Redeemer Lutheran Church members, as they have since 1965, will hold a series of Lenten services featuring the appearance of special Biblical guests, according to the Rev. S.K. deFreese.

The Lenten characters, who vary somewhat from year to year, are portrayed by members of the congregation, dressed as the character would have been in Christ's day. A different Bible personality will be introduced during each service. Included this year will be John, Judas, Peter, Mary the mother of Jesus, and Simon of Cyrene. A guest speaker will deliver the message during the one service which will not feature a Biblical character.

The Wednesday night services, to begin this week, will be held at 8 p.m.

Theme for the Sunday morning services during the Lenten season is "Qualities of the Cross." Sermon topics will be "The Cross and Temptation," Mar. 11; "The Cross and Justification," Mar. 18; "The Cross and Illumination," Mar. 25; "The Cross and Consecration," Apr. 1; "The Cross and Sanctification," Apr. 8.

'Project Success' Students Learning by Doing

By SANDRA BREITKREUTZ
 "I hear and I forget, I see and I remember, I do and I understand."
 An old Chinese proverb has been adopted by Project Success workers as a way of providing a successful learning program for youngsters in the Wayne-Carroll school system.
 A Project Success, implemented in 1969 with federal funds provided by a grant from the State Department of Education in Lincoln, is a three-part program set up to help youngsters who, though bright, are unable to learn to read, write and spell through conventional teaching methods.
 It is actually three separate programs. The language arts division provides special learning techniques in the area of language. The motor-perception division has implemented innovations in the physical education program.
 And for those hours of the day when a student's inability to read well interferes with his comprehension in such areas of learning as math, science or social studies, a program of curriculum modification has been set up.

 Language arts and/or motor perception programs have been working effectively in many schools in recent years, but as far as is known, Wayne is the first school system to incorporate a curriculum modification program to provide help for the poor reader in these other areas of learning.
 How does the curriculum modification program work?
 It has been shown that the more parts of the body which are involved in each learning experience, the better the child is able to learn and remember. Project Success attempts to use as many senses as possible in each learning activity.
 Mrs. Orvid (Jean) Owens came out of semi-retirement in 1971 to head the curriculum modification part of the program.

 "If a teacher encounters a student with a special problem," she can come to Mrs. Owens, who will review the child's history, observe him in class, check out research material and suggest methods to the teacher to help the student.
 Because the program involves a method of individualized teaching, every child, including the one with a very slight problem or the one with no problem at all, benefits.
 Mrs. Owens has seen to it that there are learning aids for every area of study available in each classroom. The aids include math puzzles which require the student to do something physical as well as mental to solve various problems. Social Studies aids include maps where mountains are designed by rough, raised areas that the children are encouraged to touch.
 Sand trays enable a child to trace, erase and trace again any numbers or letters which give him trouble. Numbers and figures cut from sandpaper also provide the child with a physical experience to help him remember.

 All social studies texts at West Elementary have been taped so children who are slow readers can cover the same ground as the successful readers.
 As many as eight children at a time can use headphones at the listening station where tapes of various materials can be heard.
 Some of the teaching aids are purchased, but many are made by Mrs. Owens, work study students from Wayne State College and volunteers from the community.
 Teaching aids can be made of articles found in every household, not putting an excessive financial burden on the school or taxpayer. They may include paper plates combined with clothespins to form a series of self-checking math problems. The sand tray is merely a pan partially filled with sand. Egg cartons, plastic lids and various other articles are also put to use.

 A unique and important feature of the school system is that no child is singled out as being a failure or different. Children do not feel that they are failures because of the teaching aids. In fact, many of the students who do not need to use them feel privileged to be allowed to do so. And when they have free time, they often make use of the tapes or activities provided in each room.
 The original program has now been expanded to include the Carroll Elementary School, Wayne Middle School and St. Mary's Catholic grade school. In all, more than 600 youngsters are receiving benefits of the curriculum modification program.
 Books on curriculum modification, language arts and motor perception have been prepared by specialists in each department and are now in circulation in hundreds of schools throughout the United States.

 In addition, a summer workshop held last year will be offered again this year at WSC for college credit. The workshop, headed by Dorothy Ley, chairman of the Title III Community Council and Project Success staff members, introduced Wayne's program to 37 teachers last summer.
 Richard Melfler, elementary school principal and Project Success director, and other staff members also speak at various workshops and meetings throughout the United States in an effort to further promote the program.
 A team of four out-of-state validators recently spent two days analyzing the Wayne-Carroll program and are recommending it for adoption by schools national-

Photos by Sandra Breitkreutz and the State Department Of Education

 Mrs. Owens, curriculum modifier, talks with Diane Galtje about the Mormon's difficult journey westward. Diane can remember better when she actually feels the raised mountains on this tactile map.
 Math is fun with this puzzle made of a paper plate and colored clothespins. And when she's done, Pam Ulrich can turn the puzzle over and check to see if she's worked the problem correctly.
 Bright numbers which have been cut out by volunteers and applied to plastic lids provide a colorful math aid for first grade youngsters. Mrs. Don Koenig helps Jill Dion determine the correct order for the numbers.
 Steve Bowers, left, and Larry Brader make use of two of the eight sets of headphones at the fourth grade listening station.
 Angela Karel shows her teacher, Mrs. Mike Mallette, which number is greater on one of the line number charts available to first grade students.
 No problem of breakage with this dozen eggs, one more teaching aid that will help Scott Bowers and his second grade classmates understand the fundamentals of math.
 Fourth grade social studies projects are nearly as much fun as piloting an airplane when you can use the listening center. Dewayne Galtje, left, and Danny Urland can read their lessons in the book and come to the listening center where tapes will help them review the material.

In an item reporting the 25th wedding anniversary dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stenwall of Winside, there was an error in the children's names. Stenwalls have two daughters and a son, not two sons and a daughter, as our article read. Jill Stenwall, who is a freshman at Winside High School, the others are Teresa Stenwall, a WSC senior, and Star Stenwall, a partner in Stenwall's Conoro Service in Winside.
