Farmers living in Kansas during the 1930's had variety in their dust storms — black when the wind was from the north, red when it blew out of Oklahoma to the south.

And they had herds of grasshoppers which ate all the vegetation they could find... and then started on the fence posts.

These are some of the things Wayne County's new agricultural agent, Don Spitze, remembers about his boyhood. Read about some of his other memories and about his background in his first column on the Farm Page in today's Wayne Herald. His column, "This and That From Your County Agent," will appear regularly in Thursday issues of the newspaper starting this week.

Also inside today you'll find:

A letter to the editor from an owner of Wayne Refuse Service pointing out his side of the continuing difference with the city council over trash and garbage service. Turn to the editorial page.

Information from several specialists at the Northeast Station near Concord about what area farmers can do about wet corn. Turn to page five of section three.

Cold 'Cakes' Awaiting Losing Kiwanis Team

If ticket sales continue going according to last week's amount, it looks like the teams of Keith Mosley and Kent Hall will be eating cold pancakes.

Freeman Decker, in charge of this year's annual Kiwanis pancake feed tickets sales.

As of Monday both teams were tied with 63 tickets sold for the event, scheduled for today (Thursday) at 4:30 p.m. at the city auditorium.

Bob Carhart's team leads the pack with 109 tickets sold, followed by the team of Jim Himmell with 86.

Last year the feed netted more than 785 advanced sales with a total of 1,005 sold.

"We had 823 people attended last year," said Dale Gutshall, this year's feed chairman, "and we're hoping for a bigger crowd this year."

Proceeds from the feed will go to the Kiwanis fund to help support the club's youth program and various other activities.

During Monday's luncheon at the city auditorium, Howard Hoyt, Wayne State instructor in communication arts, presented a promotional film on the college. Hoyt gave credit to Dick Manley, in charge of the college's journalism department, for writing the film script.

'Agriculture States' No.1 Business'

In case anyone didn't know it, John Klinker made it clear Saturday night that agriculture is the No. 1 business in Nebraska.

And it will continue to be No. 1 through the next 10 years, he told the annual gathering of the Wayne and Stanton County Farm Bureau members, if the people want it.

Klinker, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau, believes that "agriculture is the No. 1 producer of wealth in Nebraska." Professional people do not produce wealth, he told about 750 people at Wayne State's student center agriculture does that.

Klinker noted that 1972 statistics showed agriculture responsible for $7.7 billion dollars for the state. Combined with the mineral industry, such as sand and gravel, these are the only two industries in the state that produce wealth, he emphasized. The mineral industry, he said, averaged about $100 million in 1972.

In looking towards the future, Klinker pointed out that Nebraska has "more unrealized agricultural potential than any other state in the nation."

Not only does it have the greatest resources in land, air and soil, but its people those who work the land make this state greater than any other, he said.

During his talk, Klinker acknowledged that the Wayne County Farm Bureau has grown from its five-member showing in 1961, the beginning year, to 212 so far in 1973.

"And we hope to continue our growth to give the farmer better representation in the state unicameral," he said.

Agriculture is losing its strength and influence both in the nation and state, he cautioned the group. But the Farm Bureau is giving its members the needed representation to keep on growing.

So far there are about 50,000 members in the state, he said, with about 13 14,000 active members. "Our aim is to give all the farmers in the state the proper representation both in the individual counties as well as in our legislative bodies," he said.

During the evening, Alice and Howard Beckenhauer were honored for their father's help in getting the Bureau started statewide back in 1946.

"Howard Beckenhauer," said Herman Utecht, Wayne County president, "helped to get things started when he donated $1,000 to the program."

Wayne High School's stage band played its way to first place in the high school division of the Mid-America Stage Band Clinic at Omaha Westside High Saturday.

The 23 piece local band was judged best among the 18 high school bands from Nebraska and Iowa which competed in the annual contest.

"They played very well," said director Ron Dalton, who saw two other local groups fail to place in the clinic the past two years.

"The experience they're gaining from playing against top competition is starting to show," he said.

Plans, Sketch Finished for Medical Center

A long-awaited dream for the Wayne area is off the drawing board.

Plans and specifications have been completed for the new Providence Medical Center to be built at Wayne.

When completed in the fall of 1974, the $1.5 million structure will replace the present outmoded hospital in Wayne.

Architects hope that construction will start by May 14, following letting of bids before the end of April.

The new hospital will be funded from four sources:

—The Wayne Hospital Foundation on the local level, which represents the combined giving of businesses and individuals from Laurel, Winside, Carroll, Dixon, Concord, and the surrounding rural community as well as Wayne.

—The Benedictine Order of Sisters in Norfolk on the regional level.

—Federal support of $384,300 under the Hill-Burton program.

—The city of Wayne through the transfer of the assets from the existing Wayne City Hospital.

—When the Providence Medical Center opens, the existing equipment at the present Wayne Hospital will have been relocated for use in the new facility," according to Charles Thomas, Wayne Hospital administrator.

To be located on one and a half acres, the new facility will be HOSPITAL, page 7.

Church To Host Witnesses

The Rev. Frank Kirtley has announced plans for the first lay witness mission to be held later this month at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Approximately 50 persons from surrounding states have accepted the invitation to spend the weekend of Mar. 23-25 with members of the Wayne Methodist congregation, sharing their personal spiritual experiences.

It is hoped that the mission will result in a spiritual renewal for the church and will spur individual members to further spiritual involvement following the mission.

Invitations went out to North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Oklahoma and Nebraska. A list of those willing to participate was provided for the local church by Dr. Donald Luyms of Mitchell, S.D., who will be serving as group coordinator.

The witnesses will be accommodated in various homes for the duration of their stay. An important aspect of the lay witness mission is the 24-hour prayer vigil which will precede it.

About 75 to 100 persons from the local church have committed themselves to assuring an unbroken chain of prayer for the success of the venture.

Local Guardsmen Seeking New Men

The officers and enlisted men of the National Guard unit at Wayne are participating in the statewide effort to recruit new National Guardsmen, reports

John Dorcey of Wayne, commanding officer.

Dorcey said that National Guard units throughout the country are beginning to feel the effects of the decision to eliminate the draft and fill the Army and National Guards with volunteers.

When the draft was in effect many young men were fulfilling their military obligation by enlisting in military reserve units such as the one in Wayne, he noted. This resulted in the Wayne unit remaining at full strength while many more young men were on a waiting list, he added.

Since the draft has been discontinued, the Wayne unit and others across the state and nation have found it necessary to begin an aggressive recruiting program to enlist volunteers.

Dorcey, who took over as commanding officer of the local unit in September, said the Wayne unit is currently 24 men below its full force of 161 men. Statewide the National Guard units are understaffed by about 500 to 800 men, he added.

Governor J. James Exon has issued a proclamation naming this month as National Guard Recruiting Month.

Dorcey pointed out that while many men reenlist and new enlistments are received each month, this is not offsetting the

Gift to Historical Society To Permit Museum Work

An anonymous gift of $1,144.92 to the Wayne County Historical Society has made possible the immediate payment for basement and foundation work done at the museum site and will allow the society to proceed with further plans for development of the museum.

The gift, from an estate, was announced at a recent meeting of the group, and plans were made to proceed with pump, waterline and sewer work.

Robert Boeckenhauer, president of the Historical Society, was to contact Salmon Well Co. in Wakefield and Mike Karel in Wayne for the work, which will get underway when weather conditions improve.

At Enters of Wayne has offered to donate his services in installing electricity at the museum, located on the east edge of the city.

Members of the Confusable Collectables Quarters Club have volunteered decorating services inside, and the Wayne County Jaycees will paint the outside of the museum.

Mrs. Bess Baier, Wayne, is purchasing evergreen trees for the memorial contribution of the gift for her father, the late Albert Watson. A check for $10 was given by Mrs. Dave Theophilus in memory of her late husband.

Wayne Gilliland, who was named during the last meeting to fill a vacancy on the board of directors of the society, will see about having a native grass plot planted near the museum.

The organization is in touch with individuals who are interested in moving a mobile home onto the museum site. The trailer lot will be offered free in exchange for having someone near to prevent vandalism.

Since the house was moved to the site on Highway 35 east of town several years ago many windows have been broken and all the stained glass windows have been stolen.

The city will be contacted about a security light. The gift is still pending the foundation.

The "historical group" had discussed many possibilities for the location of a museum through the years, deciding on the present site in 1968 when Mrs. Mable Sorenson donated the 2.1-acre plot.

The following year the society obtained the former home of Wayne County pioneer physician Dr. George Hess for a museum. The building, which had to be moved to provide room for a new filling station going up in Wayne, was donated by Joe M.

Hupp of Norfolk.

Last summer the society conducted a sale of antiques and collectables donated by interested parties and added $400 to its museum fund.

All persons interested in the preservation of Wayne County history are invited to attend the meetings held at the county Courthouse basement on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Mar. 26.

Mrs. Mathilde Harms has been named to head a membership drive for the society.

All Five Area High Schools Represented on Herald's First All-Star Club

By BOB BARTLETT
Each of the five area schools landed one player on the first Wayne Herald All-Area Basketball Team.

Wakefield's Dave Scheel leads the top five players with a 17.3 output per game, followed by Allen's Stan Perry, Wayne's Roger Saul, Laurel's Keith Olsen and Winside's Larry Weible.

All five men, the top scoring threats for their teams, were named to the new selection on ability and not position. All are seniors.

Dave Scheel
Scheel, the stalwart of coach Joe Coble's Trojan team, carried a magic touch into most of the games he played.

Like coach Coble pointed out: "As he went, so did the team." Dave, playing center, used his 6'4" height to collect a 15.1 rebound average per game. He hit a blazing 54 per cent from the field, and added a fashionable 70 per cent from the free throw line to boost his game average.

He displayed his team-leadership not only during games but also in the practice sessions. "He was a real hard worker in practice," Coble stressed. "As a result, he was selected team captain because he was a team leader."

Stan Perry
Not enough can be said about Stan Perry, according to his coach, Robert Moore.

The soft-spoken senior transfer from Sioux City doesn't say much either on or off the court, probably because he doesn't need to.

The flashy 6'1" Eagle guard used his numerous maneuvers and moves to score 18.1 points a game and hit it at a 45.9 average from the field. From the charity stripe, the leading Allen man pumped in about 70 per cent.

Moore admits that Perry, the only area player to make the Clark first team selections of the Lewis and Clark all-conference team will leave "Quite a vacuum" in next year's offense because much of this year's offensive and defensive plays were based around the Eagle player.

Roger Saul
There's not too much that can be said about Wayne High's outstanding senior center forward that hasn't been said already.

Quick, smart and consistent can pretty well sum up this 6'3" senior leader. Saul averaged about 14.7 points a game while hitting 49.5 per cent from the field.

"Roger took care of his responsibilities," said coach Bill Sharpe. "He played for the team."

His consistency, both from the line (67 per cent) and from the field, is one reason Wayne was able to change its dismal 1971-72 record into a winning one this season.

Keith Olsen
Senior guard Keith Olsen of Laurel is the only one of the five players who did not get an Athlete of the Week award. But his outstanding leadership for coach Joel Parks' Bears earned him a berth on this year's top five selection.

Keith ended the season with an 11.6 performance, collecting 220 points for the year. The 5-8 playmaker averaged 40.6 per cent from the field while netting 63 per cent from the line.

During the season for the Class C Bears, Olsen earned himself the nickname "stroke shooter" on his ability to score a lot of points in a row, especially when the team needed them.

One example is the Plainview game in the Wayne State College Christmas holiday tourney where he collected only three points in the first quarter. But the quick guard broke open in the second quarter, with a 20 point spree to bring the game within reach.

Keith has scored many important baskets for us," Parks commented. "He's the guy who got the points when we needed them."

Larry Weible
Wildcat forward Larry Weible's natural ability and his competitiveness earned him a place on the all-area team with his 13 point per game average in the free throw department. Weible averaged 70.5 per cent while holding a 31.6 per cent mark in field goal shooting. Weible had a 9.5 rebounding average during the 18 games he played.

In addition to taking command on the court, Weible also has another honor to his credit: winning a seat on the second team of the Lewis division of the Lewis and Clark Conference all-star team.

Second Top 5
Allen's Scott Von Minder and Charlie Peters head the list of the all-area second team, bringing the total to three Eagle men making the first and second teams.

Both players were named to last week's second team of the Clark Division in the loop. They held about a 15 and 11 point per game average respectively.

Also making the team is Randy Nelson of Wayne with his nine point average. Nelson, a 5'11" senior guard, was one of the most-talented players on the Blue Devil squad. As coach Bill Sharpe put it, "Randy has a lot of natural ability."

Although the quick guard did not possess the consistency in scoring to earn a position in the top five, his improvement during the season marked him for a seat in the second five.

Laurel's Gene Sarha also won a place in the second five with his fine display of quick moves and good shooting.

Before a knee injury sidelined coach Parks' 10 point man, the speedy 5-10 senior forward dazzled the home crowd with his nifty ball handling and team passing.

Wakefield's Randy Johnson rounds out the second team.

Johnson, a 6-1 senior forward, was one of the cogs in Coble's offensive machine. Doug was especially important in his shooting from the side, maintaining a 9.8 average per game, and his determination both during a game and practice sessions.

Winside High School took the honorable mention honors, placing two men on the squad.

They are, Scott Deck, senior, and Bob Hoffman, freshman. Others making the list were Tod Bigelow, Wayne, junior; Doug Fischer, Wakefield, junior; and Dave Dedrick, Laurel, senior.

DESPITE a swollen thumb, Val Kienast, owner of Metodee Lanes at Wayne, continues to roll the good scores during the first of five weekends of the St. Mary's open bowling tournament. Kienast and his partner, Jim Potts, currently hold the high in the doubles division with a 1,294 total.

Elgin Bowlers Lead In St. Mary's Meet

Cheatum Irrigation of Elgin took the first round lead in the St. Mary's open bowling tournament Sunday when the team rolled a 3,003 three game series.

Of the seven teams that competed in the first of five Sundays of action, Barners Lawn Service of Wayne finished second with 2,924.

In the doubles events the team of Jim Potts and Val Kienast is currently in front with a 1,294 total, nine pins ahead of the Pender duo of Calsten and Synneckpeper. Their total was 1,285.

Art Schaffer of Norfolk rolled a 658 series to take command in the first round of singles action while Dick Brekken of Columbus stands in the second spot with 648.

Thirty-five men entered this week's doubles competition and 18 signed up for the singles.

In the all events category, Don Sund of Wayne leads with a 1,714 total. Virgil Buss of Laurel bowled a 1,663 for second place.

Starting times for the second Sunday of action are from 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Metodee Lanes.

Club Marks 2nd Year With An Open Shoot

The Logan Valley Gun Club will start off its second year with an open gun shoot Sunday at the club's site on the Wayne County fairgrounds.

Dr. Richard DeNaeyer, field captain, said the shoot is open to anyone interested in participating. Those who want to shoot must bring their own guns and shells, he said, but shells will be sold at the site.

Although there will be no divisions, prizes will be given to the best shooters, he said.

Following the shoot this Sunday the club will sponsor another shoot on the 18th. This DeNaeyer pointed out, also will be open to the public.

A list of other events for the month of March and April shows:

March 25—Club will enter a registered trap shoot in Norfolk.

April 1—Club will host shoot open to the public.

April 8—College and high school shoot at Norfolk.

April 10—Starting Tuesday's nights, club shooting at the fairgrounds.

About a year ago the club was formed under the direction of its present president, Bill Wilson. Stacy Swinney was elected vice president while Marv Dranselka became treasurer and Mary Ann DeNaeyer secretary.

On April 4, the club will elect a new vice president, treasurer and secretary. Swinney will take over as president.

So far the club has about 100 members, including 65 family members.

Former Wayne, Winside Coach Suicide Victim

A former high school basketball coach at Winside and Wayne died Saturday at his home in Lexington.

Daniel Cahill, 33, was found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in his Lexington apartment, according to investigating officials.

Cahill, who had been head basketball coach and athletic director at Lexington St. Ann High School, served as assistant basketball coach at Wayne High from 1963 to 1965 before moving to Winside where he was head coach from 1965 to 1967.

While at Wayne, Cahill taught shorthand and typing. He was a native of Genoa.

Friday night Cahill's basketball team lost a Class D regional tournament final, 49-40, to Paxton at North Platte.

Farewell to 2 Wayne State BB Standouts

WAYNE STATE basketball coach Ron Jones admits that next year's team will be minus two big stars: center Dennis Siefkes and forward Jon Harvey.

Siefkes, this year's most valuable player and member of the District 11 NAIA all star team, will leave a big hole in the Cats' offense, but Jones said, "We'll have plenty of potential in next year's squad."

During the season Siefkes averaged 19.4 points a game, with his biggest output—30 points, against Hastings. "We will really miss him," Jones said during last week's Second Guessers' meeting.

Jones reflected that it was a sad moment for him at the end of the Hastings clash in late February, Wayne State's last game of the year. As the men were leaving the locker room, the head tutor watched Siefkes walk out of the dressing room, knowing that this would be the last time in his college career the No. 1 scorer in Wayne State history would be playing competitive ball on a college level.

Not to be forgotten is another Wildcat standout—Jon Harvey, the 6'6" senior who was "always there to help the team."

Jones pointed out that the Denison, Ia., native wasn't a tremendous player on the team or what he would call a team leader. "But he's one of those guys who worked out all the way."

Jones said Harvey is a player who knows his game and uses his head. His 17 point average is proof enough, Jones said.

"Jon was always thinking out there," Jones related. "He knew his limitations, yet he always played to the best of his abilities."

LOOKING AT the 1973-74 team, Jones noted that the WSC five could have better potential than this year's squad. "I'm not saying that we are going to be better. I'm just saying that we could be."

The head man will have 6.9 Chuck Collins returning, along with jumping Ron Jones, a 6.4 forward, and Neil Waide, another big man to fill the front court. Waide stands 6-8.

Although Jones is convinced that he will need some more height to fill the center spot, he added that he and his staff are looking into the possibility of recruiting seven individuals ranging from 6-6 to 6-9. The height is important, he went on, but most of all the player must be able to score.

Next season the coach is hoping to better this year's 17.8 record. "I am pleased with our team's finish against Hastings—a 90-82 victory—but I'm not satisfied."

Jones said that the team and staff were aiming for a 20.5 goal and could have done it. "Now we'll have to wait until next year to try again," he said.

Prairie Chickens, Grouse Usher in Nature's New Year

Nebraskans are again being offered ringside seats to a unique spring rite that ushers in nature's new year, as prairie chickens and sharp-tailed grouse begin their annual courtship dances.

In Nebraska's prairie grasslands, the early morning sounds of the grouse are a sure sign of spring. Warm weather and clear skies are the signal they are looking for, and any such day in mid-March should touch off their antics.

Male prairie chickens and sharp-tails open the show with ruffled tail feathers and inflated neck pouches, then dance and strut in competition for mates. They face each other, leap in the air, stamp their feet, emit sounds from the inflated neck sacs, and sometimes pair off for sparring matches.

Sharp-tails go through more elaborate gyrations than the prairie chickens, but the chickens are more colorful in appearance.

Wayne Tidal Wave Produces NAIA Swimming Title

"Fantastic!" That's the word Coach Roger Bentley applied to his Wayne State swimmers after their tidal wave victory in the NAIA District 11 meet at Chadron Friday Saturday.

Spring Sports Opens Action In April

March is the month when most sports spectators get to take a break from the long basketball season and prepare themselves for the spring sports. But already the five-area high schools are swinging into action for the warm weather outdoor activities.

Allen, Wakefield, Wayne, Laurel and Winside have athletes practicing for the track season, which will open in the first week of April.

The five coaches—Doug Barry, Winside; Bob Zohner, Laurel; Al Hansen, Wayne; John Torrison, Wakefield; and Charles Haag, Allen—express optimism about the upcoming season.

Girls track, popular at three of the area schools, also will open up about the beginning of next month.

Lorna Stamp, music director at Allen, will take over the reins from Haag and direct this year's girls club Winside and Wakefield of course, will continue their programs. Coaching the Wakefield Trojans will be Tim Peterson. Jim Winch will guide the Wildkittens.

Three area schools will participate in baseball and track.

The newest member to the baseball club is Allen. Coach Robert Moore will guide this year's Allen team. Wayne, under Mike Mattette, and Lynn Township Trojans will fill the other two spots.

Training to golf Wayne and Wakefield along with Laurel and Allen will be walking the greens.

Bob Parks will be coaching the Bear quilters, while Lyle Truogger will direct the Wakefield club. For Wayne, athletic director Harold Maciewiewski stands ready for another good season. George Saunders will coach the Eagles.

Wayne scored a meet record 189 points to 153 by Kearney State and 81 by Chadron State. The Wildcats won 11 of 18 events, they scored in every event, took seven seconds, six thirds, six fourths, four fifths and six sixths.

Bentley noted that his swimmers turned in their cager best times in no less than 22 events (including preliminaries).

Star of the Wayne show was Bob Floerchinger, winner of three events in district record time named most valuable swimmer along with Kearney's Paul Raffaeli.

Freshmen Floerchinger, from Omaha Burke, won the 200 butterfly, the 100 butterfly and the 400 individual medley. Both butterfly performances were at school as well as district records. He also swam on the winning 800 medley relay.

Other Wayne winners: Dave Justi tripling in the 200, 500 and 1,500-yard free-style; Dan Carney in the 200 individual medley, Don Wagner in the 100 back, Doug Krecklow in the 100 free.

The 400 freestyle relay quartet also won.

Second placers for Wayne were Mitch Veeder in the 100, 200 and 500 free-style; Krecklow in the 50 free; Mike Staller, 200 butterfly; Wagner, 200 back; and the 400 medley relay which clocked identical time with Kearney in district record time, but was declared second.

Coach Bentley poured praise over all his troops, but he gave extra mention to Veeder and Denny Moore. Veeder, besides his triple second-place effort, swam on two winning relays. Moore trimmed his best previous time in the 200 breast-stroke by nearly five seconds as he placed fifth in the finals.

Five Wildcats will go to the NAIA National Meet this weekend at Pittsburg, Kan.: the freestyle relay team of Justi, Veeder, Jim Bathen and Krecklow; plus "Wayne's Own Mark Spitz" Floerchinger.

Bentley said Floerchinger and Justi will enter one or two individual events, but he is not sure which.

Winners of the NAIA District 11 swimming championship for the seventh time in nine years are these Wildcats of Wayne: (front) Mike Anderson, Mike Staller, Denny Moore, Coach Roger Bentley; (second) Tom Carney, Jim Bathen, Rick Justi, Mitch Veeder, Doug Krecklow, Don

Vets in Wayne County To Receive $11,000 From GI Insurance

World War veterans in Wayne County who have maintained their GI insurance in force will be on the receiving end of some extra cash this year.

Some 150 of them will receive approximately $11,000, as their share of a record payout of dividends totaling $297 million.

The bulk of the money, $276 million of it, will go to 3,800,000 World War II veterans who hold National Service Life Insurance policies, reports the Veterans Administration. The remainder will go to 147,000 veterans of the first World War, who have United States Government Life Insurance.

The $297 million payment is the largest regular dividend ever declared by the VA—$11 million above the previous high it has become available because the interest earned by the trust funds governing the insurance policies has been unusually large.

Of the 540 veterans of the two World Wars who reside in Wayne County, according to the latest count, only about 28 percent will be getting checks, the figures show. They are the ones who held on to their policies.

The payments to them will average $133 if they are World War I veterans and $73 if they were in the second World War. The actual amounts, in individual instances, may run several times as large as this and in other cases, much smaller. It all depends upon the size of the policy held and on its duration.

For every $100 of insurance, it is noted, will be using their dividends to purchase additional insurance rather than taking the cash.

As for those in the local area who were involved in other wars, no distribution will be made to them because they were not covered by policies of this type.

Throughout the state of Nebraska, a total of nearly $2,205,000 will be paid to some 30,068 veterans, according to the VA.

The $11,000 earmarked for Wayne County vets will be payable on the anniversary dates of their policies and will be sent to them automatically, without application.

Most of the money, it is expected, will find its way without much delay into the cash registers of local retail stores.

Jessie Boeshart Funeral Rites Held in Laurel

Jessie Edith Boeshart, 79, of Laurel, died Monday at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Sioux City. The daughter of Charles and Laura Bennett Mitchell, she was born Jan. 8, 1894 at Artesian, S.D.

She moved to Wisconsin with her parents as a child. At the age of 16 she moved to her parents' homestead in Nebraska. On Jan. 21, 1914 she was united in marriage to John Charles Boeshart at her parents home north of Dixon. The couple resided in the Dixon area until 1946 when they retired and moved to Laurel.

Sewing and Sawing the Same To A Pair of Sisters at Winside

By PAT OSWALD

Sisters Mrs. Shirley Fleer and Mrs. Judy Houdek of Winside share a variety of interests and enjoy working together on them. The two housewives are presently involved in ceramics, which Mrs. Fleer took up at the public school last year, and they recently purchased a kiln for firing their ware.

Sewing for her family and friends is a big part of Judy's life, but Shirley laughs, "All I'm good for in sewing is to model."

Perhaps the most unusual hobby the women share is carpentry. The sisters have done considerable remodeling for friends and relatives, including knocking out and rebuilding walls, opening stairways, installing paneling, closing and making new doorways, altering windows, constructing shelves, papering and painting.

The sisters got involved in the hobby when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Swanson, purchased and moved into the old Winside Hotel a few years ago. Since that time the two have shortened a bathroom window, installed shelves, closed door ways and applied paper, paneling and paint to refurbish the interior of their parents' home.

Mrs. Fleer laughs as she notes, "I always said if I couldn't be a teacher, I'd be a carpenter." As it turns out, she is both. Mrs. Fleer teaches at the Winside grade school.

Mrs. Houdek adds, "I just decided to help Shirley because we enjoy doing things together and carpentering runs in the family."

A major project was recently completed in the Dennis Delp home. Mrs. Delp is Mrs. Fleer's daughter. Here the women opened a stairway and rebuilt walls. One of these walls involved considerable detail work accomplished with a saber saw.

"We don't know if we do the work right, but if we run into a problem, we just put our determination to work and figure out a way," the two lady carpenters declare.

In the Fleer home, a brother, Larry Swanson, was called upon to assist with paneling and the building of a bar. Mrs. Fleer completed the bar by padding the bottom with naugahyde, and decouping the top, a process which took 20 coats of plastic varnish applied every other day over a grouping of pictures.

Nothing out of the way has taken place in the Houdek home as yet, though plans call for some remodeling at a later date.

The Houdek family, which includes three children, Jennifer, six, Jerry, four, and Jeanette, two, moved last spring from Norfolk to Winside, where they feel it will be easier to raise their youngsters.

The Fleer children are Mrs. Dorinda Delp and Lee Fleer, both of Wayne, and Janette, at home. There are also two grand children.

100 Attend Title III Supper Tuesday Night

About 100 community council members, instructors, parents and children involved in the Title III Project Success in the Wayne Carroll School system attended the all-faculty potluck dinner at West Elementary School Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Carol Edmunds spoke briefly to the group on what a target classroom teacher is, and Mrs. Viola Hartman explained what it means to have the motor perception program for her kindergarten pupils.

Mrs. Orvella Blomkamp outlined the value of having a curriculum modifier in the school and Mrs. Marian Rennick gave a short talk on the importance of having parents who understand the SLD program.

Richard Metfeer, project director, showed a video tape on the evaluation given Project Success by validators following their two day visit to the school last month.

Following the meeting, parent workshops were conducted by

SCS Office At Wakefield Gets Award

William Yost, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Wakefield, reports that the Dixon County conservation unit has won a safety award.

The certificate is presented by the United States Department of Agriculture for preventing motor vehicle accidents during a 25 year period, beginning Jan. 1, 1948.

Yost estimates there have been an average of three vehicles located at the Wakefield office for the period indicated. They are normally driven about 10,000 miles each year, he said.

This would amount to nearly 750,000 miles driven without an accident, he noted.

Employees located at Wakefield during this time include Irvin Peterson, Lee Hanson, Clark Moore, Leonard Converse, Waldo Rodene, Ted Clapper, Donald Baade, William Yost, Norman Slama, Duane Hord, Gayle Setken and Carl Anderson.

The award was presented at a recent Northeast Nebraska conservationist meeting held in Norfolk.

Mrs. Jean Owens. She explained her role as a curriculum modifier and made note of steps parents can take to help their children in correlation to the subjects being taught in school.

Commissioners Grant Tax Exemptions

The Wayne County Commissioners granted the Assembly of God Church and the Regional office of Developmental Disabilities tax exemptions Tuesday.

Commissioners Joe Wilson, Ken Eddie and Floyd Burt approved applications for exemptions on individual vehicles used by the church and regional office.

But the commissioners tabled an application by the Grace Lutheran Church for an exemption on property the church owns in the Spahr's addition to Wayne. The board will take action at their next meeting, March 20.

In other business, the commissioners are considering using money donated by the Wayne County Hombers of Carroll for a crippled children's fund for Wayne County children.

The 4-H club offered to donate the $306.95 it collected during a rodeo last summer.

The commissioners will make their decision March 16 during their monthly welfare board meeting at the courthouse.

The commissioners gave county treasurer Leon Meyer permission to collect delinquent taxes that are overdue for two or more years.

When you give to the Nebraska Easter Seal Society you give hope, confidence, security and spirit to handicapped children and adults.

Along with several other youngsters, they unbuttoned their coats, tossed them onto an empty swing and took over the playground equipment in the park in The Knots in the west part of the city.

March 16 Set-Aside Deadline Near

Producers interested in participating in the feed grain set aside program have until March 16 to sign intentions, says Ray Butts, executive director of the Wayne County ASCS.

He said that 650 producers have signed up and about 1,100 participants are expected to be signed up by the deadline.

Producers were slow in signing up the first four weeks of the sign up period. However, Butts reported, "we are making up for lost time now. We are averaging over 60 signups a day now without any long waiting periods. The last few days will probably result in some waiting lines."

Most of the producers are using the 25 per cent option, Butts said. About 15 per cent of the signups are at the zero per cent option. The 25 per cent option requires set aside acres and does not limit feed grain plantings. The zero per cent option requires no set aside but limits feed grain plantings to last year's planted acreage.

The latter plan pays 15 cents a bushel times the farm yield and is paid on one-half the feed grain base.

Producers who participate under either option will be eligible for CCC loans on their feed grains, Butts said. The farms conserving base must be maintained under either option, he noted.

A producer participating in the 25 per cent option can take a payment reduction to buy back his set aside for haying or grazing. The payment is reduced 30 per cent for this privilege.

Those choosing the other plan can plant soybeans on the acreage that would have been set aside acres. This acreage could be used for any crop not considered a feed grain.

Wayne-Carroll Teachers Offered Contracts As Pay Talks Continue

Teachers in the Wayne-Carroll school district Monday night were offered contracts for the 1973-74 school year under the salary schedule presently in effect.

Members of the school board agreed to offer the contracts during their regular monthly meeting after Superintendent Francis Haun gave them a list of teachers he was recommending for rehiring.

State law permits a school board to offer contracts to teachers prior to completion of negotiations for the coming year, Haun told the board.

Teachers have until March 26 to sign their contracts, according to Haun.

After making that decision and agreeing to rehire the three principals without setting a salary, the board met in closed session to discuss current salary negotiations with the teachers in the system.

Negotiations have been going on for about the past month but the board and teachers have yet to agree on salaries for the coming school year.

Superintendent Haun recommended hiring 70 of the school system's teachers for the coming year. Three he said will resign at the end of this year.

Resigning are Ernest Bedell, vocal music teacher in the middle school and high school; Violet Rickers, fourth grade teacher at West Elementary; and Eleanor Edwards, language training teacher at the middle school.

Mrs. Rickers and Miss. Edwards have reached the mandatory retirement age, he told the board.

Resignation may also come from others on the staff, he said.

Current salaries for the principals are $15,400 for Deryl Lawrence in the high school; $13,700 for Loren Park in the middle school; and $12,200 for Richard Metteer at West Elementary.

Teachers are currently working under a salary schedule which provides a base rate of $6,650 for all teachers with four-year college degrees plus salary increases of four per cent for each year of experience in the local school system and five and a half per cent for each step up the schedule for educational advancement beyond the four-year degree.

Approved by the board were bids for a new bus for the school system.

The board accepted the low bid from Wayne Body Works of Fort Wayne, Ind., of $4,728 for the body and the low bid from GMC Wolske Auto Service of $4,348 for the chassis.

Other body bids were received from Ward Thomas, Superior Blue Bird and Carpenter. Other chassis bids came from Wortman Auto Co., Coryell Auto and Wacker's, all of Wayne.

The board also approved bids for a French horn and bongos for the school's music department. Low bid came from Tom's Music House of Norfolk, $458. Only other bid was for $477.50 from Hospe's Music Co. of Omaha.

In other action the board agreed to authorize Haun to begin searching for a teacher who would spend half time working on curriculum modification for students with learning disabilities in grades nine through 12 and half time working with the educable mentally handicapped in grades 11 and 12.

The decision came after the board reviewed seven educational objectives which Haun and the principals in the system consider of highest priority. The seven were taken from a list of several possible goals drawn up by the administrators and presented to the board earlier in the year.

Those goals reviewed by the board but not acted upon were art supervisor in grades kindergarten through six, educational television capability, performance goals written by teachers for pupils, broadening of the tax base and guidance director for grades kindergarten through eight.

The board also accepted a check for $325 from the Wayne County Jaycees to help pay for the school's new weight lifting and exercise machine. The Jaycees raised the money through the athletic club they started last fall. The machine costs about $2,500.

Heard a report on the school's Project Success, a federally funded project in language disability for students in grades kindergarten through four. Giving the report were Haun and board member, Mrs. Dorothy Ley.

Viewed a film and heard a report by principal Metteer and teacher Paul Eaton on the motor skills work being done in kindergarten.

Okayed adding the four administrators to the school's liability insurance plan. The cost for each is $25 for three years.

Three Vehicles Involved in Chain Crash

A three-car accident on the 300 block of Main resulted in minor damage Saturday night when a car operated by Gary Rahn of Allen failed to stop for two stopped cars, police said.

Rahn was headed south on Main when two cars, driven by Jeffrey Dinklage of Wisner and Dennis Weible of Winside, stopped for a light at Third and Main.

According to the Wayne police report, no one was injured when the Rahn car struck Weible's vehicle.

About 10 a.m. Sunday Miron Jenness, 303 E. Third, and John J. Hochstein, 909 Logan, were involved in a collision at the intersection of East Ninth and Nebraska.

Hochstein had stopped for a stop sign on Nebraska and proceeded to drive on when he hit the left front door of the Jenness vehicle traveling on East Ninth. No one was hurt.

Meeting Changed

The Winside school board will hold its monthly meeting on Monday night at 7:30 at the high school, said superintendent Don Leighton. Earlier it was reported that the meeting would be on Tuesday.

Space Saver

The demand for dual purpose seating—sleeping furniture grows as the number of people in small houses and apartments increases.

Dual sleep units in which one can either sleep or sit comfortably have been greatly improved recently, and their slim, trim silhouettes can hardly be distinguished from stationary sofas.

When selecting a dual purpose unit, the customer must decide how often the piece will be used for sleeping.

If the unit is to have constant use, select a better mattress. A wise choice in this case would be a sofa sleeper on which bed linens can remain when the unit is converted to a sofa.

There are three main types of seating-sleeping units—of a beds, sofa sleepers and day beds.

The sofa bed has no separate mattress. When the sofa front is lifted, the back drops down to form a flat surface. Usually seat and back are of smooth, tight construction over springs and form a comfortable sleeping surface. A bedding box under the sofa seat stores bed linens.

The sofa sleeper has a full sized mattress concealed under the cushions. To make the bed, cushions are removed, the seat is lifted up and out, and a mattress varying from double-bed to king-size stretches forth. Mattresses are either inner-spring or foam construction.

Added advantages here are that the bed linens can remain in place when the sleeper is converted back into a sofa and some constructions permit sleeping parallel or horizontal to the back.

Day beds have swung back into fashion and are especially welcome for smaller quarters. Day beds are stationary like regular sofas, but like sleepers, the seat cushions are mattresses even though upholstered to match the rest of the piece.

A day bed may have arm ends, but does not often have a stationary back. Bolsters or standup back cushions are used to give the impression of a sofa when the piece is set against a wall.

Easter Seal scholarships are awarded each year to four Nebraska college students who are working toward careers in health related fields. This is another way the Nebraska Easter Seal Society fights crippling. Scholarship information is available at the state Easter Seal office in Omaha.

Legislation Changes Coverage of Medicare

Legislation passed in 1972 makes important changes in Medicare. According to Dr. Everett Peterson, extension agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Any person age 65 or older who is eligible for Medicare but did not previously sign up for medical insurance (part B of Medicare) can do so now if he wishes. The three-year limit on enrollment no longer applies.

Medical insurance helps pay for physicians', out-patient hospital and other medical services and supplies. Hospital insurance (part A) helps pay for in-hospital services.

To obtain medical insurance is not now covered. It is necessary to enroll between now and March 31. Coverage will begin on July 1.

If an eligible person does not sign up during the current enrollment period, he or she must wait until the next one, Jan. 1-Mar. 31. And the premium will be 10 per cent higher for each year a person could have had this insurance but did not do so.

Unless personal financial resources are substantial, such insurance is essential to sound planning to meet health care costs after retirement, according to Dr. Peterson. Medical care costs have risen 35 per cent since 1967, he noted.

A person reaching age 65 on or after July 1, will automatically be covered under both parts A and B of Medicare unless he or she files a notice with Social Security declining part B.

Anyone nearing retirement age (62 or later), planning to retire soon, and eligible for social security retirement benefits, should contact the nearest Social Security office two or three months ahead of his birthday to apply for retirement benefits. By doing so, his retirement payments and Medicare coverage can begin as soon as legally possible.

However, Medicare coverage does not begin until age 65 regardless of retirement age.

People who aren't eligible for Medicare at 65 because they didn't work long enough under Social Security can get this insurance voluntarily beginning July 1. They will pay a premium of $12 a month for hospital insurance (part A). They must also take medical insurance (part B) at $6.30 a month.

Those interested in Medicare coverage on this basis should compare its benefits and costs with other insurance plans. Dr. Peterson says.

'Apply Early For SS Card'

Young people should apply for their social security cards several weeks before they'll need a social security number for their first job, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

"They can apply at any social security office," he said. "An application for a social security card is generally screened against files at the national record center in Baltimore to make sure no other social security number has been previously issued to the same person. This screening can take time," he said, "but it's important to keep your social security record straight."

A young worker builds disability, survivor, retirement and Medicare protection for himself and his family by work and earnings credited to his social security number.

The social security card stub or a record of the social security number should always be kept in a safe place, according to Branch. "If you lose the social security card you carry in your purse or wallet, you can get a duplicate faster if you have the stub or a record of your number," he said.

Cranes Coming Back

Time flies and so do sandhill cranes! Last Friday I heard the first reports of cranes back in Nebraska. Exactly two years and two days earlier, I was driving near the Kearney interchange on 180 when I heard music to my ears—a wild, clarion swells moving to the east, high overhead. There was no mistake; this was the vanguard of the annual migration of Sandhill cranes. I figured that spring was right behind. Should have known better, for several years earlier I had been marooned in Lexington at least a month after the first cranes pulled in. Driving out from Lincoln that day, the interstate had become spotted with ice, then ice packed, and finally buried under an avalanche of snow. Next day, a number of dead cranes were found, apparent victims of flying in the blinding snowstorm. Obviously those early arriving birds had jumped the weather gun. So did those I heard two years ago Feb. 21. If was several weeks later, in early April, when Rex Amack of Lincoln and I headed for Lexington to record the clamor of the cranes. That evening we taped the stiff-legged birds from the banks of the Platte River near Overton. Just as we were about to head for Lexington and some shuteye, our young host's dad, Mike Meyer, returned home. He had gone down the road a ways to buy a mate for his peacock.

PEACOCK WARNING SYSTEM

The fellow who sold Mike the peacock told him that this was the first time in memory that his peacocks were roosting in the barn, not outside. And sure enough, when Mike got home, he, too, found his lone peacock roosting in the barn. This was a first! Mike was quick to prophesy that "bad, bad weather" was on the way. When we left, the moon was shining in all its glory. At 6:30 the next morning, snow flakes were beginning to fall. And by 7, it looked like the "sky was falling." The blizzard did abate late that afternoon. Since that time, I've been looking to peacocks for my weather forecasts. Hopefully this year Old Man Winter will be more considerate, and treat the early migrating birds with a warmer and sustained reception. But don't count on it. Migration is gaining momentum, with cranes arriving and good numbers of whitefronts and smaller Canadas already established, particularly south of the Platte River.

EAGLES JOIN THE ACT

Bald and golden eagles want in on some of the "migration" news. Officer Don Hunt reports lots of eagles migrating north through his area—McCone County. Asked how he knows these eagles are migrants, Hunt referred to a survey conducted in the area in early January, which showed only 17 birds. But as of the other day, there were 60 to 70 bald eagles there, in addition to goldens. All of the bald eagles will move on while some goldens usually remain.

COYOTES LIKE LIGHTNING

It has been proven that lightning can strike twice at the same spot! How about coyotes: do they strike similarly? Jim McCole, conservation officer at Gering, says emphatically yes, but probably not the same coyote. Last week while with officer Leonard Sporing, in an aircraft moving a herd of about 125 antelope off a wheat field in Sioux County, McCole spotted a coyote coming off a point and attacking a trailing doe as it went into some chop hills. The big coyote reportedly made half a dozen passes at the antelope and apparently succeeded in getting the big antelope's jugular vein before the plane was able to drive it off. McCole said he saw this very thing happen on this same place back in 1963 when he was taking part in a Game Commission trapping program.

FALSE ECONOMY

Eight hundred and four individuals, representing 85 percent of all persons arrested for 31 fishing violations in Nebraska last year, were "victims" of false economy.

Assuming that all 804 were residents, had they earlier bought the required $4 resident fishing permits their total expenditure would have been $3,216. But, they didn't, at first anyway, and subsequently were arrested and fined for fishing without a permit. In addition to embarrassment, they were each fined a minimum of $10, assessed court costs of $6, and were still required to purchase a fishing permit. Total cost per individual was $20, or collectively, $16,080, almost five times what it would have been had they bought a fishing permit initially.

MISHMASH. While monofilament line doesn't rot the way silk or nylon used to, it does deteriorate in its own way, particularly after long exposure at sunlight. It also ages and is subject to abrasion. Best safeguard is to check the line frequently, particularly the first five feet or so. This should be lopped off periodically. An estimated 34 million acres of rural land, much of it wildlife habitat, will disappear by the year 2,000 as cities continue to sprawl. Suckers, much like minnows, serve as forage for predatory fishes. Largest sucker in Nebraska is the buffalo. President Theodore Roosevelt, an avid big game hunter, was the founder of the famed Boone and Crockett Club. Last record of the black-footed ferret (classified as an endangered species in Nebraska) was in 1959. Greatest single factor in the existence of the ferret is the maintenance of prairie dog towns. It appears reasonable that this ferret may still exist in the state. Coming up is National Wildlife Week, March 18-24. This year's theme: "Discover Wildlife. It's too good to miss!"

Area Youths Offered Chance To Get Permit

Boys and girls 13 to 16 years of age may take the necessary examination to apply for a Nebraska permit for implement of farm husbandry on Thursday, March 15 at the Northeast Station near Concord from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

This permit is required by state law for any youth age 13 to 16 driving a tractor for his parents or for anyone else. The cost of the permit is $2 and is good until age 16. A temporary permit is also available, which is good for six months.

Application blanks for this permit are available in the Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston County extension offices.

What's Phase III?

Q. Are mandatory controls in effect for any particular segments of the economy?
A. Yes. Mandatory wage and price controls are still in effect for firms involved in food processing and food retailing, the health services industry, and the construction industry. The voluntary program previously in effect regarding interests and dividends will also be continued. There are also special rules applicable to public utility rate increases.

Q. How are food processors and food retailers controlled under the Phase III Economic Stabilization Program?
A. Food processors will be required mandatorily to comply with Phase II regulations, somewhat modified, including promulgation and approval of cost justified price increases. Food retailers will be held to present margin markups. Minor administrative modifications will be made. Pay units in the food processing and retailing industries will continue to be covered by Phase II regulations.

Business Notes

Thone Seeks Area Ideas In Survey

Views on federal spending priorities are being sought by Congressman Charles Thone through a questionnaire he is sending to all residents of Nebraska's First Congressional District. Eighteen fields in which the federal government spends funds are listed on the questionnaire. Each recipient is asked to indicate no more than three areas where funds are needed and no more than three categories regarded as deserving of increased federal funding. "Results of this questionnaire will amount to an ordering of national priorities as seen by residents of the district I represent. Returns from this poll will be extremely helpful to me, and perhaps to my colleagues, as Congress works to adopt a budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1st that will avoid a tax increase and inflation," Thone said. The questionnaire also asks opinions on a federal spending ceiling, proposed farm support programs, sharing of federal government responsibilities by local governments and aid to Vietnam.

'Grain Drowning' Still A Problem

The wet conditions that existed in 1972 and were responsible for a number of farm fatalities last year are still haunting us, warns Rolling Schneider, extension safety specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. He pointed out that suffocation, "grain drowning," is usually associated with late summer or the time of year when grain is being moved from storage.

But a lot of the grain that was stored wet is being moved at the present time either for drying or market, Schneider said.

"We are experiencing some extreme packing of grain this year. Some of the grain in storage has swelled and is causing many problems in moving it," he said.

Schneider pointed out that usually three to five people each year die of "grain drowning." However, the problem could be a lot worse this year unless good safety practices are followed. He has the following recommendations when moving grain.

—Don't enter a bin of flowing grain.

—Never enter a bin when unloaded equipment is running, whether or not grain is flowing.

—Don't enter a bin that has automatic unloaded equipment without locking out the control —Never work in an obviously dusty moldy grain without a respirator. Never work in such conditions no matter what the protection, without a second person on safety standby. Use a respirator, capable of filtering fine dust.

Be aware that your tolerance to a given material may be limited, and that you should not expose yourself on the idea that "it won't hurt me." Later in life you may have used up all of your tolerance.

Always be cautious when working with grain that has gone out of condition. You can have molds, blocked flows, cavities, cave offs, crushing.

Don't depend on a second person, either on the bin roof or on the ground, or any other remote point to whom you shout instructions on equipment start or stop.

—Install ladders inside all bins.

Be aware that you can walk a bin down if you stay near the outside wall and keep moving.

If you must enter a bin with evident danger, use a rope and safety harness to support and lift you in the event of trouble.

Rural Ramblings

The Midwest was once a vast, unfenced rangeland. Cattle grazed wherever the grass seemed greener. Sometimes the greener grass was many miles from home, and the importance of branding the cattle for identification soon became apparent.

Stories about the Old West often have a tinge of romance and adventure, but they tend to omit the routine hard work that was required. Pictures and stories often dramatize roundup and branding, but often leave out the intense, grueling work.

Each spring the cowboys would spend days and weeks astraddle their ponies, while driving the cattle out of the brush and across the hills. The calves which had arrived during the winter were given the brand of their mother, their identification for the next roundup or selling time. Newly purchased cattle required the brand of their new owner.

Get the facts on the big beef factory

Find out how HARVESTORE is helping others multiply manpower, landpower production and profit

Cattle producers across the nation are packing on more economical gains by harvesting high-moisture corn, other grains, and forages early when protein and fiber are highest and field losses are lowest.

These valuable nutrients are then locked in and processed through a HARVESTORE System. Many cattlemen also process cornlage (low-moisture silage) and stover through their HARVESTORE. This permits them to save valuable feed and "pasture" corn stalks right in the feedlot.

Add the time and labor saved by HARVESTORE bottom unloading and automated feeding and you know why HARVESTORE holds the key to increased efficiency, profit and production.

NE Station to Host Farm Group Tuesday

The annual meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association will be held at the Northeast Station near Concord on Tuesday.

The board of directors of the association and the heads of several other agricultural groups in Northeast Nebraska are receiving special invitations, but the meeting is open to anyone with a special interest in the Station, says Cal Ward, Station superintendent.

Robert Craft, president of the Experimental Farm Association, and Ward have planned the program. The morning will be devoted to brief reports concerning the Station and current programs. The afternoon will be devoted to discussion of concerns, needs and opportunities for Northeast Nebraska farmers to which the Station program can be related.

Robert Kleiss, associate director of the Nebraska Experimental Station, will be present.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and will conclude about 3:30 p.m.

Fences have eliminated the need for over-all branding but the cowboys of today have resorted to more influential apparatus for holding and branding cattle. Of course some persuasion is needed to convince the steer that it should walk into that nice strong steel crate and stick its head out of the other side.

Cowboys of yesteryear with their trick roping, tying and man handling steers, would hardly believe today's branding methods.

Freeze branding, ear-marking ear tags and tattooing have become widely used but still aren't as universally accepted as the old system of branding.

Today's cowboys have even modernized the old branding iron. They use an electric one or a steel one that can be heated with a cow chip fire or a small gas furnace.

Today, brands on cattle are used for more than owner identification. Ear tags and other marks are used for identifying individual animals. They let you record the critter's age, pedigree, weight and performance.

The last time that bunch of wild critters took off down the road you were wishing you'd taken a little more time when unloading them to give them some kind of mark.

Sure was a good thing they stopped near Neighbor John's or you might have never gotten some of them back. Maybe it was because he didn't want your Henry 57 brands mixed with his registered herd.

But by the time you got them home you sure enjoyed burning a hole in their many hides. Next time they take a notion to roam you'll be able to get them back.

When you bragged to Neighbor John about branding your cattle when he didn't have his branded, he merely shrugged. You should have known he is always way ahead of you.

He's experimenting with that new electronic method of identification. Imagine an animal swallowing a radio transmitter which lodges in their stomach and transmits a coded number to a receiver unit outside.

Sure looks like with all his cattle there'd be so much interference he'd never be able to tell which was whose or what.

A good, hard working rustler wouldn't have a chance today. It would be rather hard to alter a new fangled brand like that. That is, if he even surmised there was such a thing.

The way some people keep experimenting, you just can't depend on anything staying the same.

Reports of Wet Corn Are Mounting

Reports that wet corn is spoiling in Northeast Nebraska are becoming more common, says Carl Ward, superintendent of the Northeast Station near Concord.

No doubt some corn is starting to heat and mold without the owner knowing it, and more losses will surely develop as the weather warms up, he notes.

Very limited market for dried corn to be stored or shipped out complicates the problem, but this area is fortunate to have many livestock to consume wet corn, he adds.

Wet corn may be dried, to prevent or check spoilage, or it may be preserved for later feeding by ensiling or acid treatment, Ward says.

Once spoiling has started, molding generates its own heat and damage develops very quickly, George Rehm, Station agronomist, warns. He stressed the importance of checking stored corn for spoilage and taking moisture samples to determine dangerous moisture levels.

Grain dealers and ASCS offices may have grain probes and moisture testers to use in checking grain, and their experience in grain storage makes them able to advise farmers about storage problems, he notes.

Shelled corn which carries 17 per cent or more moisture or cribbed ear corn above 22 per cent moisture may not keep as temperatures reach 40 degrees, notes agronomist Russell Moomaw.

The size of the bin or crib, air movement, trashiness, humidity and other factors affect keeping quality of the grain. If heating has started in stored corn, keeping quality may be improved and prolonged somewhat by moving and cleaning it, he says.

Growing or fattening cattle are perhaps best able to consume wet or even somewhat spoiled grain and wet corn may be held temporarily by ensiling it for later cattle feeding, Ward Tolman, station beef specialist suggests.

Sealed bins or silos are fine for such storage, he notes, and trenches, bunkers or even piles may serve if care is taken in their use.

Fine-ground corn, well packed will keep better than coarse or whole grain. Carefully applied, light plastic covers are necessary, and feeding or transfer to "sealed" storage should be prompt when the piles are opened, Tolman adds.

Acid treatment of wet grain is a new system researched at the Northeast Station last year and tried by a limited number of farmers. Successful storage and good feeding value are reported in most cases where recommendations of the acid manufacturer were followed. The cost is about equal to the cost of warm air drying, and the treatment can be made at home. Acid treated corn cannot be sold for human food.

Mold is of different sorts, note

Roy Stohler Speaks

'Smart Dairymen Can Cut Costs of Feeding Herds'

"Because of the record high prices of protein supplements, dairy cattlemen are costing over 150 per cent of what they did one year ago," according to Don Kubik dairy specialist at the Northeast Station near Concord.

Soybean oil meal is running $240 to $300 per ton in Nebraska and this has caused the ratio of feed cost to milk price to be the narrowest in history for this area, he said.

"Dairymen are looking at three possibilities to help reduce their costs. These are feeding more legume roughage, feeding more grain at a lower per cent of protein and using non protein nitrogen sources as protein supplements," he explained.

To get an idea of how these ration changes might help, he says farmers should look at the cost per pound of protein from various sources as shown in the accompanying table.

As the table shows, alfalfa is the cheapest source of protein available, he says. A dairyman can feed all alfalfa hay and eliminate the added protein in the grain ration if he feeds an adequate amount of grain.

Feeding more grain may seem contrary to beating the grain ration cost, but by feeding 30 per cent more grain per cow and cutting the supplemental protein out of the grain ration, a dairyman can furnish the same total protein for less money, Kubik says.

By adding no more than one per cent Urea to the grain ration in place of part of the natural protein, costs can be cut with no loss in dairy cow performance, he adds. The urea should be added gradually over a two-week period to the ration and molasses should be added to the grain ration to keep it palatable.

For a dairyman feeding alfalfa hay and corn silage half and half, which requires a 16 per cent grain ration, savings on a 30-cow herd would be about $1-a-day to go to higher grain feeding and reduce the per cent protein in the grain ration, says Kubik.

To change to part urea in the grain ration, the savings would be about $4 per day.

For the dairyman who can shift to all legume roughage and eliminate the supplemental protein in the grain ration he can cut costs over $6 per day, notes Kubik.

"Dairymen will have to decide if the savings is worth the time and trouble to make any of the above changes," Kubik concludes.

For more information, he suggests that farmers contact their county agent's office or the Northeast Station.

Tractor Tips For Youths Slated Soon

Boys and girls 14 to 16 years of age wanting to drive tractors for someone other than their parents need to obtain a hazardous occupation permit.

The permit is required by the Federal Department of Labor, and a training program is required before a permit can be obtained.

Training for those in Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Wayne and Thurston Counties will be given at the Northeast Station near Concord, March 15-17.

Application blanks are available from county extension agents in those counties.

The training will be from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day, and there is a registration fee of $3. It is given as part of the 4H program by the extension agents in the area.

What's Phase III?

Q: Under Phase III, are price increases completely without limitations?

A: As a general guide, increases of prices above presently authorized levels should not exceed increases of costs. Even where costs have increased, prices should not be increased if the firm's profit margin exceeds the firm's base period profit margin or, alternatively, if the firm's average price increases would exceed 15 per cent in a year. The definition and measurement of costs, prices, profits, etc. can be found in the regulations already established by the Price Commission.

Except to certain segments of the economy, this system of price control is largely self-executing.

Jr. Lawmen Needed for 6th Program

The sixth annual Junior Lawmen Program has been scheduled for June 11-15 at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Center at Lincoln Air Park.

Participation in the one-week program is open to boys completing the 11th grade. Three students will be endorsed from each of the 15 districts in the state. Application forms are available from American Legion post commanders.

Scheduled activities include classroom studies in such subjects as motor vehicle laws, court procedure, human relations, safety education and first aid, and tours of city, county and state law enforcement offices.

Highlighting the program will be field activities that include marksmanship, VASCAR and radar operation and maximum performance driving. Evening classes will be devoted to the defensive driving course developed by the National Safety Council.

Participants will remain in residence during the period and will be awarded certificates of achievement at concluding ceremonies.

Nebraska was first in originating a program that is being used as a model in other states. Developed by the law and order committee and offered with the cooperation of the Nebraska State Patrol, the program helps youthful participants understand the role of law enforcement in government and to appreciate what it takes to become an officer.

Donations To Charity Deductible

Persons who itemize deductions may deduct gifts to approved charities on 1972 federal income tax returns.

In addition to cash, taxpayers can deduct gifts of new or used clothing, furniture or other property, explained Richard Vinal, Revenue director for Nebraska.

For these items, deduct the fair market value, unless the property has increased in value, he said.

An IRS publication, "Valuation of Donated Property," explains rules and methods for determining fair market value. The booklet, Publication 561, discusses problems and pitfalls in making the valuation, particularly for the more common types of donated property. The booklet is available free of charge by dropping a post card to the IRS district office in Omaha.

Taxpayers who claim charitable contributions should be sure to keep the records needed to substantiate the gifts, Vinal said.

You should support the deductions with canceled checks, receipts, and other evidence showing the amount of the gifts, date made and the organization involved, Vinal said.

Now available in Amoco anhydrous ammonia

Now there's something new in anhydrous ammonia... our Agricultural Crop Additive (ACA). It could mean bigger yields for you. In our tests it produced wider, greener leaves—vigorous growth—better developed root systems and stronger stalks. And in 85% of the tests conducted, these growth differences resulted in increased yields compared to regular ammonia application.

Try Amoco ammonia (ACA) on your farm. The additional cost per acre is less than the price of a bushel of corn. It's recommended for corn and certain other crops, but don't apply it to wet, poorly drained soils. See us for complete details.

This and That From Your County Agent.

By DON SPITZE
Moving a Hard Time
 The most difficult part of writing my first column as your Wayne County agent was deciding upon a name. This is the fourth county I've been a county agent in and in each county my column has had a different name.

But why name a county agent's column "This and That From Your County Agent"? From an obviously agricultural name such as "Ag Remindings" or "Over the Barnyard Fence."

The reason is that the extension agent's job has changed through the years, has become everything else, and it is no longer 100 per cent commercial agriculture and farm-oriented 4-H work.

It's true that a very large percentage of my time will be directed toward helping commercial farmers (people who make their living by farming; and rural 4-H. But I will also be devoting time to such areas as horticulture, urban 4-H and community development.

Those reasons for naming my column: "This and That From Your County Agent" may be more of an excuse than a reason—to be perfectly frank that's the best name I could think of.

Let's Get Acquainted
 President Abraham Lincoln said something to the effect that events shaped him more than he shaped events, and I believe this also to be true in my life.

I was born in the heart of the dust bowl of Western Kansas. Even though I was quite young I can still remember the "Dirty Thirties" for such things as lighting the kerosene lamps at noon because the dust had completely obscured the sun we had a choice of colors in our dust storms—it was black, if the wind blew from the south it was red, (right out of Oklahoma), bordered grasshoppers... which ate all the vegetation they could find and then started to eat the tops of fenceposts, and my Dad spending all day combing wheat with a 14 foot combine and by the end of a long day having a grand total of 90 bushels of wheat!

This sort of thing went on for almost eight years in the area where I was raised.

But the rains finally came and I was able to go to college and obtain an agriculture degree from Kansas State. After graduation I operated the family farm until I was called into the Army during the Korean War.

After I had served my time, in the Army I operated a dairy farm, and irrigated farm, in Oregon. But the farm was sold, and I went back to school for some more education and then accepted a job with the Kansas Extension Service.

I spent about seven years as county agent in Kansas and then went to Colorado State University for an advanced degree.

After graduating I took a position with Doane Agricultural Service of St. Louis, Mo., as a professional appraiser for two years. It was in 1967 that I accepted the position as Thurston County extension agent at Walthill, March 1 of this year I accepted the position as Wayne County agent.

I hope you will find my column interesting, for I will be writing on a number of different subjects that should be of interest to a wide variety of people.

I invite you to stop in my office and get acquainted whenever you have the chance. It is located in the basement of the Wayne County courthouse.

Dixons Streets To Receive Oil Treatment
Plans are underway in Dixon to oil the town's streets, according to mayor John Young. During a preliminary meeting last week, both the members of the town board and a representative of North Iowa Asphalt Co., of Algona, Ia., set early this summer as the date for start of the project.
Young pointed out that total costs for the oiling will be released in the latter part of April or early May after the company estimates the amount of street repairs needed.

CHECK ONE!

The second 3 minutes of a long distance call usually cost...

- more than the first 3 minutes.
- the same as the first 3 minutes.
- less than the first 3 minutes.

(Bet you guessed wrong!)

Tell the truth now. Did you guess "less"? Then you're in the minority. Most people don't realize that the second 3 minutes of a long distance call never cost more and usually cost less than the first 3 minutes.

Here are some examples:

First 3 minutes	Each additional minute
75¢	25¢ or less
55¢	21¢ or less
55¢	18¢ or less

So don't be afraid to talk longer than 3 minutes. It costs less than you think.
