Makeup Is Approved for Presidential Search Group

The makeup of a committee which will seek out and screen candidates for the position as president of Wayne State College has been agreed upon.

Approving the makeup this week was a three-man committee of the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges. On the committee were Ward Reesman, Falls City; Jim Lane, Ogalala; and J. Alan Cramer, Wayne.

They agreed upon how the committee should be composed after receiving recommendations on the makeup from the Faculty Senate and Student Senate at Wayne State.

The search committee will be composed of three undergraduate students, one graduate student, three faculty members, one department head, one administrator and four area residents.

The four area persons will represent Wayne State alumni, Wayne State Foundation and interested area citizens.

Committee members will be named in the near future, according to Cramer.

The Board of Trustees has used presidential search committees to help select presidents at Kearney State and Peru State, Cramer noted, and it has worked out very satisfactorily.

Committee members will meet over the next few months to screen applicants for the position left vacant by the resignation of Dr. W. Brandenburg. Dr. Brandenburg stepped down as president the first of this month after heading the college for 17 years.

The committee will then recommend several persons for the president's post, with the state board making the final decision on who will take over the job.

Serving as interim president is Dr. Lyte Seymour, formerly vice president for academic affairs. Dr. Seymour is not a candidate for the position.

WSC Choral Festival Slated for Saturday

Wayne State's third annual High School Choral Festival Saturday is expected to attract 550 singers to the campus.

The eight high school choirs selected to participate in the all-day affair this year include groups from Laurel, Beemer, O'Neill, Stuart, Yutan, South Sioux City, Adams Central, Hastings and Westwood of Sloan, Ia.

Dr. Cornell Runestad, in charge of the event, and choral conductor, expects this year's group to be the strongest yet. "We are attracting better choirs with better balanced groups each year."

Each of the groups taking part in the festival will perform individually as well as in the massed group, he said.

The Wayne State Concert Choir and Madrigal Singers form the core of the massed group and perform for the visitors during the day.

Saturday morning after massed rehearsals will be the 1973 honor group, Adams Central High School Choir. Directed by James Loch, the choir was selected from the state's most outstanding choirs for the honor, according to Dr. Runestad. The group appeared at the state music convention in Kearney last November.

Massed choir selections this year include a piece for chorus and electronic tape, "In the Beginning of Creation," by Daniel Pinkham.

"We are not quite sure what to expect of this piece when performed by eight choirs," says Dr. Runestad, "because of its unique nature and because the improvisatory sections are subject to the interpretation of eight different conductors before being put together here."

The afternoon program where each group performs individually as well as in the massed group begins at 3 p.m. The public is invited.

Science Competition At WSC Is April 5

The annual science-mathematics paper presentation contest conducted by the Northeast Nebraska Junior Academy of Science will be held this year on April 5.

The contest will be conducted in Carhart Science Hall on the Wayne State College campus, with registration beginning at 9 a.m. and paper presentations starting at 9:30.

There will be two levels of competition this year—junior high (earth science, life science, mathematics and physical science) and senior high (biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics).

Students planning on participating in the contest should send abstracts of their papers to Harland Pankratz, biology teacher at Wayne State, by Tuesday.

Those wishing more information about the contest should contact either Pankratz or Sister Mary Jan Schuster at West Point.

The contest offers students an opportunity to tell other students and teachers about their research projects.

Lay Witnesses to Arrive Here Friday for Meeting

About 30 adults and 20 children and young adults will be arriving in Wayne this Friday afternoon to participate in the weekend lay witness mission being held by the First United Methodist Church.

Serving as coordinator of the group will be Dr. Donald K. Luymes of Mitchell, S.D. A lay member of the Mitchell Methodist Church, Luymes has served as coordinator of lay witness missions in North and South Dakota and participated in others. He has been involved in witness ventures such as this about a year and a half.

Speaker at the Cedar-Dixon County Farm Bureau banquet, to be held Friday evening at the Laurel High School auditorium, will be John Klinker of Omaha.

Klinker is the 1973-74 Farm Bureau Federation president.

According to Bob Dickey of Laurel, ticket chairman, about 150 persons will attend the annual event. Tickets, at $2.25 each, can be purchased from board members or at the door.

WAYNE STATE art student Keith Hesse demonstrates how art objects can be made by welding metal during Tuesday's second annual Art Fair at the college. The art fair, which included demonstrations by students in such areas as weaving, painting, sculpture and drawing, attracted 110 high school students from Northeast Nebraska. Schools represented: Laurel, Newcastle, Ponca, Pierce, Verdigré and Plainview.

2 of 3 WS Institutes Dead for This Year

Two of Wayne State's three international institutes are dead for this year, victims of the recent devaluation of the dollar and general inflation in Europe.

The two are the British and Scandinavian institutes. The third, the Nebraska Spain institute, is alive and well, however.

Norman Nordstrand, director of international studies at Wayne State, said the uncertainty of costs created by recent dollar devaluation and inflation killed the institutes.

Dr. Rafael Sosa, director of the Nebraska Spain institute, said enrollments for the institute have already been received from Wayne State and Kearney State. It will be held as planned, he said.

Youths to Vie at WS

Foreign Language Day at Wayne State will bring about 600 high school students to the campus Friday to show off their Spanish, French and German skills.

Dr. Rafael Sosa, chairman of the WSC department of modern foreign languages, has entries from 27 high schools that will participate in Spanish activities, 17 in French and 12 in German. Several are involved in two languages, a few in all three.

Each school is preparing some kind of performance—song, skit, dance, dialog or the like—to present in competition for prizes, in one of the languages, of course.

Also on the program is a two piano concert by James Day and Arne Sorensen of the WSC and Nebraska Christian College music faculties, respectively.

The visitors will see the Wayne State movie, "Give Your self a Chance."

Schools that have indicated they will attend the fifth annual program are:

Bellevue, Columbus, Creighton, Dodge, Emerson, Hubbard, Emmetsburg, Ia., Fairbury,

Roundup Set For Youngsters Entering School

Parents and youngsters entering school for the first time will take part in Friday's kindergarten roundup at West Elementary School in Wayne.

There will be one hour sessions conducted during the day, offering parents information about the school and youngsters a taste of what it's like to attend kindergarten.

Parents are reminded to bring their children's birth certificates. See ROUNDUP, page 6.

The Biggest Ever

THE WAYNE STATE FOUNDATION received a $40,000 check Monday from the Ardath Conn estate. According to Dr. Freeman Decker, executive secretary of the Foundation, the check was deposited in a bank and the interest will be used for scholarships for two vocal music majors. Dr. Decker pointed out that this is the largest amount the Foundation has received. Miss Conn, daughter of former Wayne State President U.S. Conn, stipulated in her will that the money be invested and the interest used for scholarships. The scholarships, Dr. Decker said, probably will be available this fall. Receiving the check is President Lyte Seymour. The total the Foundation has received so far this year is a little over $50,000. Earlier, it was awarded a $10,000 gift from Mary Lou Gleason, former Wayne State graduate.

Doctor Retains Membership in National Group

Dr. Roy M. Matson of Wayne has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for reelection at the end of the third year following their election to membership.

The Academy, the country's second largest medical association, is the only national medical group that requires members to keep up with medical progress through continuing progress.

Founded in 1947, it was instrumental in establishment of a new primary medical specialty in family practice in 1969. The new specialty is expected to increase the number of family physicians available to serve the public in the future.

Students To Visit Capitol

Eighty seventh grade students at the middle school in Wayne will punctuate their studies of Nebraska history with a field trip to Lincoln this week.

One class will make the trip today (Thursday) and the other class will go down Friday. Accompanying the students on the annual trip will be seventh grade teacher Dan Johnson.

The bus will leave the school at 6:45 a.m. each morning, with the first stop of the trip at the state capital for a guided tour.

The students will be introduced to Senator Robert Murphy, who will recognize them from the floor in the Legislature. They will meet briefly with Governor J.J. Exon in his office.

The tour of the governor's mansion is scheduled for about 11:15 a.m. In the afternoon the class will tour the Nebraska State Historical Society and will visit Elephant Hall on the University of Nebraska campus prior to leaving for home about 3:30 p.m.

Buses are expected to return to Wayne about 5:30 each day.

Mosley's Team To Feed on Cold Pancakes

The final tabulation is in and it looks like the team of Keith Mosley will be eating cold pancakes.

Mosley's team will get the treat as a result of selling the fewest tickets for the Kiwanis pancake feed held two weeks ago.

"We won't make Keith's team eat the pancakes until next week," said Freeman Decker, who was in charge of ticket sales.

According to Decker, Bob Carhart's team took first place in ticket sales with 251 sold. Kent Hall's team was second with 225, while Jim Hummel's team placed third with 185. Rounding out the four teams was the 143 tickets sold by Mosley's team.

Decker emphasized that the team captain will be served three leftover pancakes plus a cold piece of sausage this Monday. His team members will get to help him finish the serving.

Monday noon the club held a brief meeting at Bill's Cafe for those persons who could not attend an anniversary party for the Norfolk Chapter Monday night.

Students Working, Learning in Atomic Lab

The public will be able to tour the mobile atomic laboratory now on Wayne State College campus two evenings before it moves on to Midland College at Fremont.

The unit, a mobile radioisotope laboratory operated by Oak Ridge Associated Universities of Oak Ridge, Tenn., will be open to the public tonight (Thursday) and March 29 from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Students on campus are doing experiments in the laboratory during its two-week stay at Wayne State.

Featured speaker this week is John McMillan, University of Nebraska-Omaha physics professor and department chairman, who is discussing the theory of radioisotopes. Next week's speaker will be Ernest Kennitz of the UNO chemistry department, who will lecture on the biological application of radioisotopes.

The 37-foot trailer is packed with $100,000 worth of complex electronic equipment.

The special training division of the Associated Universities, under contract with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, provides basic and specialized courses in radioisotope techniques for on-campus training, aiding colleges and universities which do not have the facilities and staff for such training on their own.

The two-week stay on campuses across the nation is divided into laboratory and lecture sessions.

During its stay at Midland College, two Wayne State instructors will offer the lecture portions of the program. They are Dean Metz, associate professor of physics, and Wesley Fritz, assistant professor of chemistry.

Fritz, who has been at Wayne State since 1967, received his undergraduate degree from Southwest Missouri State College and his master's degree from the University of Delaware. He is studying toward his doctorate at the University of Kansas.

Metz, who has also been at Wayne State since 1967, received both his undergraduate degree and master's degree at Arizona State University and is studying toward his doctorate at the University of South Dakota. See ATOMIC LAB, page 6.

'Wizard of Oz' Plays Next Month at Ramsey For Children's Show

Lyman Frank Baum wrote a series of Oz books for children. The most popular of these, "Wizard of Oz," was written in 1900; became a musical comedy in 1901 and was made into a motion picture in 1939.

The Wayne State Theatre Department will present the stage version as their annual children's show next month.

The MGM version, seen regularly on television with Judy Garland as Dorothy, Ray Bolger as the scarecrow, Jack Haley as the tin woodsman and Bert Lahr as the lion, remains popular with children of all ages.

In this American fairytale story, which features such American qualities as cyclone cellars, oil cans, scarecrows and circus magicians, Dorothy Gale takes a trip through the wonderful land of Oz.

On her trip she encounters a variety of interesting characters as the wicked witch of the west, the good fairy, the Munchkins, the people of Oz, the scarecrow, the lion and the tinman. In an attempt to get back to Kansas, Dorothy helps her closest friends get the things they have always wanted.

Technical challenges to the production include seven different scene changes, a shrinking witch and several delightful song and dance numbers.

Performances are scheduled for 1 p.m. daily April 2 through 6 and 8 p.m. April 4.

Kollwitz Print Show On Display at College

The work of Kaethe Kollwitz, a German printmaker who lived from 1867 to 1945, is on exhibit at the Wayne State College Fine Arts Center for the public.

The show, which will continue through April 7, is being sponsored by the Carl Schurz Association and the National Association of Teachers of German.

In conjunction with the March 23 WSC Foreign Language Day, Kaethe Kollwitz, who has been called the greatest woman printmaker of her period, experienced a great deal of personal tragedy which seems to be exemplified in her work.

The artist was interested in the plight of the working class and because of her social views was persecuted by Hitler's Gestapo. She died April 22, 1945, 12 days before Germany surrendered.

The Kollwitz collection in clydes lithographs, woodcuts and etchings from the famous "Kollwitz cycles," "The Weavers" and "Peasants' Revolt."

Stuck On Your Tax Return?

Help is available! Several publications provide guidelines for preparing income tax returns.

"Your Federal Income Tax," 1973 edition, is available for 75c a copy at local post offices. Other free or inexpensive guides are "Farmers Tax Guide" and "Nebraska Income Tax Booklet." Other commercial guides can usually be purchased at bookstores or drug stores.

Internal Revenue Service has also established a toll free number to call if you have any specific questions about your income tax. The number is 800 642 9960.

Taxpayer Assistance Service is available to all Nebraskans as a free service in helping them figure their income tax. Locations in the northeastern part of the state are Omaha, Fremont and Norfolk.

Internal Revenue Service will figure an income tax return for an individual if income is less than $20,000 and the person takes the standard deduction. A person taking this option must send his W-2 forms and the 1040 forms along with his name imprint to the Internal Revenue Service.

As tax laws become more complex, many persons are seeking the help of a professional tax preparer. In working with a tax preparer choose someone who is likely to be around next season. Also get a copy of your return from the preparer and save it for future reference.

Eleven Returning Vets Head Trojan Ball Team

Although he has 11 lettermen back, Wakefield baseball coach Lynn Tomjack isn't about to sit back, relax and think he has this year's season wrapped up.

On the contrary. Last year's district champions are working even harder to win the right to represent the district in the state meet in Lincoln, he said.

"We were beat out last year on three hits by Omaha Cross High School," Tomjack said in disgust, "but we aim to improve this year."

During the school's 1972 campaign, the Trojans finished 6-4 after dropping a 5-1 contest to Gross in the state meet.

But this year Tomjack has two three-year lettermen guiding the predominately senior squad. A total of 21 players are out, including six senior and five junior vets.

Senior Kirk Gardner, leads the team with the highest career batting average, .266 and in career runs batted in, 74. The three-year letterman will alternate as catcher and outfielder.

Another three-year letterman is Steve Kay.

Kay poses as a threat to most opposing hurlers since he holds the second highest percentage for getting on base—62 per cent.

Last year the senior infielder batted a .276 average and led the team in runs batted in with eight.

Dave Rouse, who heads the list of two-year lettermen, led the team during the 1972 season with four doubles. A senior infielder, he also holds the record of the fewest strikeouts in the last two years—13. Last year Rouse struck out just three times.

Wakefield's pitching staff will be "just super," Tomjack emphasized. Three vets will share the duties, led by senior hurler Bob Twite.

Last year Twite led the pitching staff with a 1.21 earned run average in 34 and one-third innings. At the same time, he allowed only 21 hits while striking out 36. In addition to his pitching performance, Twite carried a respectable .240 batting average.

Sam Utecht, one of two junior hurlers, is a one-year letterman. During his freshman year, Utecht was noted for his hefty .367 batting average while scoring five runs and driving in seven. "This year," Tomjack said, "he'll be one of the men we rely on heavily."

The third member of the pitching staff, Bruce Paul, will offer plenty of variety for opposing teams—the left hander can pitch both left and right handed.

collected an 8.4 mark while hurling for the town's Legion team.

Other Trojan lettermen: Randy Hallstrom, senior outfielder, two-year letterman; Mike Hansen, senior infielder, two-year letterman; Mike Barge, junior outfielder, one-year letterman; Doug Fischer, junior outfielder, two-year letterman; Keith Siebrandt, junior infielder, two-year letterman; and Doug Soderberg, junior infielder, two-year letterman.

Tomjack pointed out that junior outfielder Jerry Musler is expected to see considerable action because of his "excellent hitting."

Rounding out the Trojan squad are sophomores Ray Jensen and Doug Schwartz and freshmen Gerald Barge, Tim Rouse, Scott Mills, Mike Soderberg, Gary Munter and Joe Urbanec.

This year the Trojans have a 12 game schedule, five at home and seven on the road.

On April 15 the Trojans will open their season with the first of two home games, against Hooper Logan View. On the 11th, Wakefield will host Bancroft. All home and away games are scheduled for 4:30 p.m., except the April 16 game with Hooper Logan View. That game will start at 3:30.

A list of the rest of the games includes:

April 13—At Wayne; 16—At Hooper Logan View (3:30); 19—At Homer, double header; 24—At Leigh, double header; May 1—Dodge; May 3—Wayne; May 5—Allen; May 7—Districts.

Barner's 777 Leads Columbus Tournament

Wayne's LeRoy Barner carries a 167 average Wednesday night during the men's league at the Melodee Lanes. That in itself is the most shocking news.

But last Sunday Barner turned things around and broke loose with a 708 scratch series to take the lead in the WNAK Bowling Tournament at Columbus Boulevard Lanes.

Barner, who rolled games of 207, 234 and 267, collected 69 pins handicap to finish with a 777.

The 20-year vet broke his old mark of a 685 series, but is still aiming to top his high single game of 787.

"I sure was happy and sur-

prised," were his only comments.

Barner later will compete in the finals of the five state meet in Yankton sometime in April or early May, following the completion of the seven-week tourney April 8.

The states included in the meet are North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

Rainbow trout taken from streams generally has a distinctive pink stripe running the length of the body. Rainbows that live in lakes are usually silver colored, with only a faint pink marking.

SID HILLIER

Guessers Elect Hillier As New President

Sid Hillier of Wayne will be the new president of the Second Guessers group—starting next year.

The Rev. Paul Begley and Dr. Freeman Decker will be in charge of the program committee, with Rev. Begley serving as chairman and Dr. Decker serving as co chairman.

"We decided to elect officers now," explained Dale Gutshall, present president, "to get the ball rolling for next year."

Gutshall said getting the election over with before the organization starts meeting again next fall will give officers time to set up a program.

Olsen, a senior, also was named recently to the first team of the Wayne Herald's first all-area basketball team.

Listed on the NENAC first team were Perry Brothers, Bloomfield senior; Mark Murphy, Neligh senior; Jay Fuchman, Creighton senior; Marc Riewer, Neligh junior, and Doug Eddie, Randolph junior.

Both Brothers and Murphy were unanimous choices for the first team.

Joining Olsen on the second team were Wes Pinkerman, Neligh senior; Kevin Roach, Mainview junior; Dan Peters, Creighton senior, and Bob Frerichs, Bloomfield senior.

Coach Fred Pierce indicated positive anticipation of this year's prospects though weather has kept team workouts inside. Pierce added that the ballplayers have been working hard since practice began Feb. 1.

Wayne, 26 1/2 last season, will be led by eight seniors. Experience will be a dominating influence on the club this year, with many of the players having two and three years of competition.

Coach Pierce's starting lineup will probably feature Jack Shupe, selected on the all area

Construction to Start Soon on Tennis Court

Construction of a new tennis court in Wayne will begin as soon as the weather permits, said Wayne Tietgen, secretary-treasurer of the city recreation board.

Monday night the board members were notified at their bi-monthly meeting by city clerk Dan Sherry that the city would begin building the new court west of the swimming pool when the weather warms up.

The $7,500 project will feature a doubles court with fencing and lights for night play. In order to make the project a reality, the board voted to donate $5,000, with the city to furnish the labor at a cost of $2,500.

The board also is considering using the court as a skating rink during the winter.

In other news the members voted to start remodeling repairs of the Middle Center at the fire hall some time this summer.

Tietgen pointed out that work will include repainting plus adding new curtains and possibly some new furniture. A grand opening tentatively is scheduled for early September.

The board also voted in favor of helping to purchase T-shirts for the members of the little league baseball program. The $2 cost, Tietgen explained, will be split by the board and the boy buying a shirt.

Most of the girl employees of the summer recreation program have been hired, said Norma Ehlers, board member in charge of the summer park program.

Mrs. Ehlers, who will receive help from Mrs. Mike Karel, said that nine girls were hired to help out this summer with the program for children in grades kindergarten through eighth.

During the meeting the board presented four Scout groups with $100 checks. Troops receiving the checks were 221, 175 and 174. Cub Scout Pack 175 also received a check.

Two other groups not present to receive their money were the Girl Scouts and Cub Scout Pack 721.

On May 21, at the board's next meeting, new officers will be elected.

Fahnestock Named to All-Conference

Laurel's Brent Fahnestock closed his basketball career at University of South Dakota with another honor last week.

Fahnestock, one of the all-time leading scorers for the Coyotes, was named a member of the All North Central Conference cage squad for 1972-73.

Lions Earn $650 for Hospital

The Wayne Lions Club earned about $650 for the area medical center to be built in Wayne by sponsoring its second annual St. Patrick's Day Dance Saturday night.

The dance, held in the city auditorium, attracted about 450 persons.

Club members sold between $800 and $900 worth of tickets for the event, according to club president John Vakoc.

Last year the dance earned the club about $400, which was donated to help build the new medical facility, he said.

Playing during the evening was Bob Haberer and The Wranglers.

Gustafson, Baier Stay Senior, Two in Singles

Bob Gustafson of Wakefield and Jerry Baier remain one and two in the singles division of the St. Mary's Open Bowling Tournament after three weeks of action.

Gustafson, who shot a 725—with handicap—last week, holds on to the No. 1 position. Baier stands in second place with 702. Pushing into the third spot is Clarence Stonhauser of West Point, who finished with a 700 series Sunday. Following him is Ray Fundum, with a 697. The Battle Creek native was in third place.

A noticeable change: Dale Rude, last week's all-events leader, drops to second. According to Harold Murray, tournament secretary, an error in figuring gives the Sioux City man a 1,819 total instead of 1,865.

As it stands now Rich Goergen, another Sioux City man, heads the list with 1,865. Rod Kvols of Laurel places third with a 1,778. Dennis Kudron of Columbus rounds out the top four with a 1,735 showing.

In team standings, Salmon Wells of Wakefield grabs the top spot, knocking L-Bar-K Lounge of Norfolk to second place.

The Wakefield team rolled a 3,099 while the Norfolk club holds onto second place with 3,053.

The Sioux City doubles team of Jumbo Sanders and Tim Drop still claims first place with a 1,037. The Wayne entry of Jim Potts and Val Kienast comes in second with a 1,294.

Last Sunday there were nine teams, 37 doubles and 74 singles entered, Murray reports.

Beginning this week, he points out, all entries for the doubles and singles events are filled and will be filled for the last Sunday of the tourney.

"There will be two openings this Sunday for teams in the 4 p.m. shift," he added, "and four more positions open on March 31." Outside of that, he said, the tournament is filled.

CONTRARY to rumors, Wayne State swimming coach Roger Bentley will not be coaching any spring sport during the 1973 season.

Bentley made it known last week during the Second Guessers Luncheon that the college's shortage in athletic funds will not allow him to work in any other sport.

Last year the college received notice that it was to trim its budget for the 1973-74 school year. As a result, the athletic department was among the first to know that it would have to cut some of its personnel in order to meet the college's needs. Bentley soon was told that his job as head swimming coach will be eliminated.

He pointed out that he hopes to find another coaching job, not in the college ranks but in high school.

The 1966 WSC graduate, as many of his colleagues know, has the ability to coach almost any sport without prior experience. He took over the coaching duties in swimming in 1969 and won the NCC and NAIA championships the past two years. In addition, his team won the NAIA District 11 championship this year at Chadron.

Roger's ability to coach isn't limited to swimming—he was the head track coach in 1969, the same year he earned his master's degree in physical education.

During his three-year stay at the college, Bentley was the assistant football coach and headed the tennis team last year.

This season, wrestling coach Gary Rosso will take over as head tennis coach while Randy Rolfsen, graduate assistant in basketball, will lead the golf team. Rolfsen replaces Ron Jones, the head golf coach, for the season.

One thing that shouldn't be overlooked is that Bentley made all conference honorable mention as an end on the Nebraska College Conference football team. He also was named WSC co-captain in his senior year.

YOU CAN tell that baseball is in the minds of Carroll residents. Just last week the town announced it is soliciting funds for its little league program.

Some of the townspeople were hoping to hold a pancake feed, with the $1 fee going to pay for uniforms and equipment. But some of the town leaders decided to scrap that idea in favor of rounding up funds through donations.

Anyone interested in contributing can contact Gene Rethwisch.

The program is open to boys in the Carroll area ages 8-14.

MOTORCYCLE ENTHUSIASTS will have their chance to witness some excellent professional racing this Friday and Saturday at the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Marty Miller, president of Bager Racing Association, announced that over 100 professional riders will compete in the last indoor motorcycle races of the season.

The races are scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Friday with two programs Saturday—1:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

A welcomed addition to the B feature race will be the only female contestant—Paula Swigg, "the blonde bomber from Minneapolis."

IN CASE some of you still have that urge to see some girls' basketball, this Friday night at 8 o'clock the Allen chapter of the Future Homemakers of America will hold their annual polo benefit game at the high school.

Team captains Kathy Moore and Julie Tighe will lead their teams.

Spring Workout

IT'S FOOTBALL time again. Well, spring football practice time at Wayne State. About 40 quidders turned out Monday for the first day of a three week grind which started with some of those famous old character builders like pushing a line sled and running an obstacle course of car tires. Coach Del Stollenberg and staff ran the team through fundamentals of ball handling, blocking, tackling. According to the head coach April 7 is the scheduled date for the first varsity alumni football game at Memorial Stadium.

14 & Ready for Hunting

In Nebraska, once you're big enough to tote a gun and know what it's all about, you can go hunting. Your big game hunting, though, is held off until you're 14, and you must be accompanied by an adult.

In Michigan, though, where I spent the past week, hunting doesn't begin until age 12. No one under that age may hunt in the Wolverine state. And for those who want to start hunting at age 12, they must first pass an extensive hunter safety training program. Big game hunting begins at age 11.

Officials of the Saginaw (Michigan) Field & Stream Club told this writer that their group alone prepares over 100 youngsters each year in hunter safety. And to get the job done, the club has one instructor for every two students. Women's lib hasn't left its mark in this department yet, as only one female has taken the course at Saginaw.

The Saginaw Club is one of 340 clubs in the state with membership in MUCC (Michigan United Conservation Clubs), which is the equivalent of the Nebraska Council of Sportsmen's Clubs. Here the parallel with Nebraska ends. Membership in MUCC 110,000 individuals.

HOUSE LOCATION IMPORTANT

Inasmuch as purple martins like room to fly around their houses, and also seem to fear predators if located too close to trees or buildings, purple martin houses should be erected in an open area at least 15 feet from overhanging limbs or buildings. Height should be anywhere from 8 to 25 feet above the ground, with 14 feet fairly standard.

Something that can be done now is to scatter a teaspoon of powdered sulphur in each compartment just prior to the nesting season. This should be done if mites or parasites have been a problem.

Purple martin scouts this year have been running a bit ahead of schedule, with sightings through February including Florida, Louisiana, Texas, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Oklahoma. When will Nebraska's first martin be seen?

NEBRASKA LEADS IOWA

In a comparison of state record fish, Nebraska tops neighboring Iowa, 11 to 8. Nebraska leads in largemouth bass (10 lbs., 11 oz.), white bass (4 lbs., 15 oz.), bluegill (2 1/2 lbs.), buffalo (33 1/2 lbs.), channel catfish (37 lbs.), flathead catfish (76 lbs.), northern pike (27 1/2 lbs.), yellow perch (2 lbs.), paddlefish (89 lbs.), sauger (8 lbs., 5 oz.), and walleye (16 lbs., 2 oz.).

Iowa heads Nebraska in smallmouth bass (6 lbs., 3 oz.), bullhead (4 1/2 lbs.), carp (50 lbs.), crappie (4 lbs., 1 oz.), muskellunge (23 lbs., 2 oz.), sheepshead (46 lbs.), brown trout (112 lbs., 14 1/2 oz.) and rainbow trout (13 1/2 lbs.).

THE ONE THAT GOT AWAY!

Ron Meyers of Columbus, bow-and-arrow record holder, for buffalo, and who once held three records simultaneously, lost his "biggest fish ever" a couple of years back.

Fishing a sandpit near Columbus, Ron's arrow found the mark on a giant buffalo. As he worked the fish toward the boat, the arrow began working loose. Ron jumped overboard, clothes and all, and when the buffalo was close in, slipped one hand into its gills. That was a mistake!

Instantly the ponderous fish locked its gills around Ron's hand. The struggling buffalo, with help from Ron's slipping hand on the boat, took Ron down at least eight feet before he could free his hand and shoot back to the surface. Right, the fish got away!

MISHMASH... Catfishing was cut loose as expected at the upper west end of McConaughy Reservoir. Fishermen from both boats and shore are loading up on channels, with shad the top producing bait. Still time to witness one of Nature's greatest spring spectacles—the Sandhill crane stopover in Nebraska. Anywhere from Grand Island on west to North Platte, particularly along the Platte River, the cranes are apt to be seen in the air or on the fields. Early April will mark their exit north.

VA Administration

Questions, Answers

Q—My son is in a military hospital and expects to be discharged soon. How can he learn about any Veterans Administration benefits that he may be entitled to?

A—VA counselors visit all military hospitals and military separation centers. If your son has not been contacted yet, suggest that he ask for the hospital's personal affairs officer.

Q—I am enrolling for the February semester as a college freshman. Having a wife and two young children, what will the Veterans Administration pay me under the GI Bill?

A—If you are a qualified veteran and attending school full-time, you will receive $316 monthly while in training.

Q—I am a veteran, age 44, and I have cancer. I am unable to work and must stay in bed 100 per cent of the time. Can I get any financial assistance from the Veterans Administration?

A—You may apply for a pension which is allowed to qualified war-time veterans whose annual income does not exceed $3,800. For further information, contact your nearest VA office, or the VA office where your records are located.

Q—I would like to know who my husband has designated beneficiary on his government National Service Life Insurance. Where may I obtain this information?

A—This information cannot be disclosed to anyone other than the insured or his duly appointed fiduciary during the insured's lifetime, unless authorized by the insured or his fiduciary.

Q—Who approves schools for enrollment under the GI Bill?

A—The state approving agency in the state where the school is located. However, the Veterans Administration is the approving agency for courses offered by schools in foreign countries, agencies of the Federal government, and for apprenticeship programs administered by Interstate carriers.

Q—Some branches of military service have six months active duty training programs followed by years of weekly drills. Are these persons eligible for educational assistance under the GI Bill?

A—No. Participation in these six months active duty training programs in the reserves or National Guard is specifically excepted from the definition of active duty for GI Bill purposes.

The number of doctors working full-time in Veterans Administration hospitals and clinics totals 5,280. This is a net increase of about 100 during each of the past five years, according to the agency.

Deadline for Enrolling for Medicare is Near

People 65 years and older who haven't already signed up for the medical insurance part of Medicare can enroll now through April 2 at any social security office, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

Medical insurance helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses. It is the voluntary part of Medicare, funded by individual premiums and general revenues from the federal government. The basic premium is $5.80 a month through June. It will be increased to $6.30 a month starting July 1.

Persons have seven months to sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare the first time. You can apply in the three months before you are 65, the month you become 65, or the three months thereafter. But you must apply during the three-month period before you're 65 to have protection beginning the month you become 65, otherwise protection begins a later month.

After your first sign-up period ends, you can sign up only during a general enrollment period, the first three months of every year. If you delay signing up for more than a year, however, you pay a higher premium.

This year's general enrollment period has been extended through April 2 because March 31 falls on Saturday, Branch said.

"Previously," he noted, "you had to sign up in an enrollment period that began within three years after you became eligible for medical insurance or within three years after your protection stopped because you cancelled. The three-year deadline was eliminated by the 1972 amendments to the social security law," he said.

"If you cancel your medical insurance, you can re-enroll only once," he said.

Nine out of 10 people 65 and over are enrolled in the medical insurance part of Medicare. Last year the medical insurance program paid over $2 billion in benefits on behalf of more than 10 1/2 million people.

The medical insurance part of Medicare supplements the Medicare hospital insurance program which helps pay for hospital bills and certain post-hospital expenses.

OBSERVATIONS

It's easier than helping

More than once we have heard criticisms of service clubs and organizations in Wayne for, according to some persons, constantly asking for donations.

The criticism, although probably justified in a few instances, is wrong in the case of those clubs and groups which come first to mind — Kiwanis, Lions, Jaycees, Hospital Auxiliary and the like.

Certainly, these groups have been out trying to raise money lately. The Kiwanians held a pancake supper the other week... the Lions' annual St. Pat's dance was Saturday... the Jaycees just wrapped up their yearly farm and home show... the Hospital Auxiliary earlier this year held a flea market. Club members would be the last ones to hide that they were trying to fill their coffers.

area residents were offered as much or more for their money as it would buy somewhere else — all the pancakes and sausages they could eat, a night out, a chance to display their products before several hundred people, some unusual gifts.

By and large, service groups in Wayne seem to do a good job of staying alive without periodically asking for donations. If they do need money for something, they usually offer you something worthwhile in return.

Those who make criticisms such as these are often the lazy ones who sit back while others around them do the work, searching for something wrong so they won't feel guilty about not giving a helping hand.

Serials get tiresome

One of these days the city council in Wayne is going to have to face up to two problems which are starting to resemble the old time serials shown in movie houses.

The problems: a dispute with the city's major trash hauler over the ordinance stipulating the requirements for obtaining permits to haul garbage and trash, and the troublesome job of deciding who should pay how much for storm sewer work done in the northwest part of the city.

Councilmen have been repeatedly tackling the refuse problem, only to toss it back to committee for further study or table it in hopes it will quietly pass away.

If we understand the problem correctly, and we're not sure if anybody does, it has arisen because the local refuse hauler wants to be paid better about who can haul trash and garbage in the downtown area. As it stands now, the company argues, somebody could buy a $10 permit — instead of the $100 one the company has purchased — and serve those businesses with little outlay for equipment. Vernon Russell, owner of the firm and a councilman, says he needs more protection if he is to make investments for expensive equipment required in the ordinance for holders of the higher priced permits.

The council, or at least a majority of it, seems to think the city ordinance provides the firm with adequate protection as is.

It boils down to a disagreement over interpretation of the way the ordinance is worded.

The other problem will force the council into deciding whether the storm sewer work benefited just a few property owners almost 100 per cent and therefore should be paid for by them or whether the general public has derived some benefit and should help foot the bill.

There are convincing arguments on both sides.

Some argue that Westwood Addition, where the work was done, was built before city law required that developers install storm sewers at their own expense. Consequently, the city should now help pay for installing that utility. It's unfair, they say not to require its installation during development and then to turn around and require that it be put in several years later.

Others argue that property owners in The Knolls, a development undertaken since the law was passed, were forced to pay all the cost of their storm sewer lines. It would be unfair, amounting to the city's subsidizing one developer and not the other, to have the general public pay part of the cost of the work in northwest Wayne now that it has finally been installed.

We are not familiar with the city laws, policies, precedents and the like which have to be considered before decisions can be reached on these two problems. However, the councilmen should be. And they should make decisions which will finally put these issues behind them. Serials have to stop some time.

Wayne

Dear Editor:

It was in the 1920's that Lew Winegar of Cozad (mentioned last week in "A Closer Look") wanted to buy a farm from my brother, Curt Banshoof.

Lew thought Curt was too stiff on the terms of the sale. While sale plans were pending, Curt's automobile got stuck in the mud. After several hours of work, Lew, with the help of a good mule team, finally got Curt out of the mud hole.

Lew never got any money for helping Curt, but he did get his way about the terms of the sale, and Lew bought the farm.

Your "Do You Remember?" feature awakens many memories among us older folks who were graduates of Wayne High School in 1897. I was one of them.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

Selecting Your Service Facility
One of the last things you want to think about when you buy a new car is that one of its 15,000 parts will fail after a while and you'll have to take it in for service. Unfortunately, no piece of machinery, no matter how perfectly designed or built, can run trouble-free forever. It must be served at regular intervals, and from time to time it must be repaired. Taking the trouble to find a good repair facility and getting to know the people there is worth the time involved.

However, just as there are excellent doctors, mediocre doctors and a few quacks, there are excellent repairmen, mediocre repairmen and a few gypsies. And just as there are first aid stations and full faculty hospitals, there also are repair shops with different levels of equipment and competence.

In selecting a regular automotive serviceman, choose one in whom you have confidence, even though you may have to shop around. Be satisfied that he either has available all of the equipment and know-how to properly service your car or is willing to pass you on to specialists when more complex work is needed.

Once you have decided on a facility, take your car in at the first sign of trouble, provide a full report of symptoms and give the repairman adequate time to make a diagnosis and repairs. Don't short-cut him and chances are he won't short-change you.

When your repair facility determines what ails your car, it can give you a pretty good estimate of the cost of repairs. Practically all service outlets use what are known as flat rate manuals which list the average time required for servicing the various vehicle systems. These provide a service technician with a reasonably accurate estimate of the cost of labor and of any necessary parts.

The estimate he is able to give, based on the guide, will at least help you decide whether to have the work done.

Bear in mind that it often is impossible to estimate the service required until parts are examined or systems opened up. In these cases, your serviceman will gladly call you when the situation has been assessed and give recommendations and an estimate of costs. If he won't, someone else will.

Marathon run for Legislative bill on Omaha city council finally ends

LINCOLN—The Omaha city council issue which had a marathon run in the 1973 Legislature finally was settled last week.

In an unusual set of circumstances, the bill had three tests on final reading. It passed the first two and flunked the last. LB 12 was sponsored by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who sought to have his city's council enlarged from seven to 12 members and to have them elected by districts instead of at large.

The first time the explosive question—bitterly opposed by Omaha city officials—reached its showdown on the legislative floor, it was passed 29-17.

But Gov. J. James Exon said he found technical flaws in the measure. He was willing to sign it, he said, if the Legislature would take it back and make some amendments.

The bill returned and was amended. Again it came up for final reading. Again it was passed, this time 27-15.

Again, the governor found defects which he said should be corrected before he could put his signature on it.

The bill returned once more to the legislative chamber and was rewritten to the governor's specifications. But on its third trip to final reading the bill drew a 22-24 vote and was killed.

Chambers said the bouncing back and forth between the chamber and Exon's desk was done by the governor in hopes LB 12 would be disposed of by the senators so he wouldn't have to sign it.

The issue, however, will be on this spring's city election ballot in Omaha and the voters there will have a chance to say whether they want to choose their city councilmen at large or by districts.

Many of the lawmakers said by getting the question on the ballot, LB 12 had achieved its purpose. They said there was a great deal of opposition in Omaha to having the Legislature impose an election system on the city.

Lincoln had a similar experience this session. A district election bill for the Capital City was introduced, but it was fiddled for withdrawal after the Lincoln city council agreed to put the question up to the voters this spring.

Seat Belt Bill Held

If LB 12's triple-header final reading was unusual, so was LB 514.

That bill technically was sponsored by Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, who ordinarily wouldn't have an opportunity to introduce legislation (although his wife, Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, can). The lieutenant governor, however, was serving as the state's acting chief executive March 1 when Exon was out of town and Marsh took advantage of the chance to have a bill introduced.

The result was LB 514, formally carried by Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance. The bill would make it mandatory that motorists and their front-seat passengers in Nebraska have lap safety belts buckled.

The Legislature's Public Works Committee held a public hearing on the proposal last week and decided to hold it for further study.

Marsh was lauded by Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell for showing "political courage of the highest order" for daring to introduce a bill which aroused so much opposition.

Anderson said the bill ought to be seriously considered.

Marsh said it was "a matter of life and death." He said he was surprised it had stirred the "discord, malcontent and downright objections" it had.

One reason, Marsh conceded, was that the original proposal wasn't very specific in its language. He told the committee he would like to have amendments he was drafting substituted for the original. The amendments would be based on a model bill drawn by the National Committee of Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances.

Among other things, Marsh said the fine for an unbuckled seat belt should be $10, instead of $25 as he originally had suggested.

Where's the fire?

If there's a fire in your town, you'd want a full report on it, wouldn't you? And when it comes to reporting fires and other local happenings, most people turn to their local newspaper for the news.

Your local newspaper's prime function is to present the news—with strong emphasis on local news.

That's why eight out of ten adults read a newspaper every day. No other news source can match local newspapers for speed, thorough saturation of a community.

Local newspapers deliver massive coverage to people of all ages 80% of all men and women read a newspaper every week. And the figures are almost as high for teen-agers—7 out of 10 (ages 12-20) read a newspaper every week.

Where's the fire? Who's the proud new parents? Who got married? All of these, and more, are reported in your local newspaper every week. And who wants to know? You do—with a full report.

Newspapers deliver the local story.

Phone Firm Is Offering 'Snip, Take'
Who says you can't take it with you when you go? If you're a Northwestern Bell customer in Wayne you can.
Northwestern Bell manager M. D. Smith says a new plan has been approved that allows telephone customers to take their phones with them when they move within the Wayne exchange. Officially called the Optional Set Recovery Plan, the program is also known as snip and take.
The new plan offers residence customers a $5 credit for moving their own telephones. The customer simply cuts the phone cord about two inches from the wall for desk sets or below the wall holder, which is left behind for Trimming sets. A telephone company installer collects the old sets and arranges for credit when telephones are installed at the new address.
Smith said the plan was so successful during a six-month trial in Omaha that the company decided to expand it throughout the state. According to Smith, more than 93 percent of the eligible Omaha customers took advantage of the plan.

4-H Food Projects Have Many Goals

By JOCELYN SMITH
Home Extension Agent

Knitting Is Popular In Area

Four-H food and nutrition projects are fun for both girls and boys, allowing freedom to gear the project to their particular interests and needs.

One objective of the projects is learning the importance of good nutrition so daily eating habits might be established and remain throughout life. Another is learning skills associated with foods—time and energy management, preparation, meal planning, consumer education, hospitality and food service, safety and sanitation.

The overall objective is that 4-H'ers learn to enjoy preparing, serving and sharing food. Parents play a large part in helping achieve these goals by closely supervising activities.

Tricks for Treats is a fun project geared for the younger set—eight to 12-year-olds, who learn the Basic 4 magic 4432 formula. Experiments help them understand the basics of preparing foods. Sandwiches, relishes, puddings, toast and cocoa, soup, cookies, biscuits, kabobs and a simple one-dish meal are some of the foods prepared and served. Buying practices and good work habits are also stressed.

After completing the beginning project the 4-H'er might enroll in the Bachelor Bob Outdoor Cooking project, which emphasizes how to plan, prepare and serve attractive, tasty and nutritious outdoor meals. The project will help them understand more about the science of foods, and they'll practice habits of safety and cleanliness.

In the You Learn to Bake project, the youth learns to use the oven to bake a variety of foods: cookies, cakes, vegetables, fruits and meats.

The 4-H'er will do intriguing experiments to learn the whys and hows of baking.

The middle and advanced units of the foods and nutrition projects help develop meal planning, marketing, food preparation and serving techniques.

Four H'ers learn why breakfast is so important in the Better Breakfast project. They learn to buy, prepare and serve fruits, protein foods, beverages, cereals, and quick breads. They might even plan and serve a guest brunch.

Planning, purchasing, preparing and serving techniques continue to develop as youths carry the Lunches and Suppers project. Foods appropriate for the lighter meal of the day are prepared, such as soups, sandwiches, salads and main dish casseroles.

Skills for preparing the main dish of the day are learned in the Adventures with Dinner project. Youths become familiar with meats, their importance to the diet, selection and preparation; vegetable cookery, yeast breads and desserts. Buyman ship is strongly stressed.

The 4-H'er might also choose Food Preservation for a project. Beginners learn about preservation through canning or freezing fruits and vegetables, with those carrying the project for the second year getting additional experiences in preserving meats, relishes and fruit spreads. In successive years, the 4-H'er goes into more depth to learn to preserve a variety of foods.

Exploring Foods and Nutrition challenges the older member to study a particular phase in which they have a particular interest. It is a self-determined project but guidelines help the youths plan the scope, depth and direction of the project.

Eating comes natural, but a good cook comes by lots of experience. Four-H food and nutrition projects help challenge a boy or girl to become a good cook at an earlier age.

Excessive muddy conditions this winter are plaguing area cattle feeders resulting in some cattle losses.

A survey shows that some feeders are suffering cattle losses mainly due to respiratory diseases.

The cold weather said Marvin Dunklau, that is creating the muddy conditions, is making it pretty hard on the cattle.

Dunklau, who raises about 1,500-2,000 head of cattle, about three and one half miles west of Wayne, said his biggest loss came to baby calves, not yearlings.

"I've had about a two per cent loss on yearlings and about a three to four per cent loss on calves," he explained.

A lot of the deaths, he went on, can be attributed to pneumonia.

Due to the lack of dry feedlots, many cattle in the Wayne area are prone to respiratory disease.

Dunklau pointed out that good drainage could help solve the feeders' problem. He also noted that a feed lot located on a hillside would be helpful.

Both Don Spitz, Wayne County agricultural agent, and Dunklau agree that if a feeder can afford using cement in the feeding areas, it would help.

An even bigger help, Spitz added, would be to use confinement feeding. But, he emphasized, the present cost ($100-150 per head) is not feasible for most feeders.

The cost for confinement feeding right now, according to Dunklau, would put most of the cattle men out of business.

Muddy Feedlots Causing Problems

Although Spitz believes that some of the ideas for improving a feed lot are too late for this year, he did list some methods that could be used next year.

They are:

Consider moving feedlots to better drainage areas.

Shape present feedlots with construction equipment to improve drainage.

Using mounds so the cattle can move to higher grounds away from the mud, and Using confinement feeding and paving whenever possible.

Fred Janke, who raises some 1,000 head of cattle about five miles south and one west of Wayne, said his losses haven't been too high this winter, but he did point out that respiratory problems are the biggest cause of cattle deaths.

"On the whole, most of the cattle have made it through the winter," he said.

One reason his losses have been small, he says, is because he allows his cattle to roam in a 20 acre pasture away from the muddy feedlot.

Larry Nichols, who raises 200 to 300 head south of Wayne reports no cattle losses. But his cattle are not gaining very fast in the wet, chilly weather, his wife points out.

The National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act, passed by Congress in 1936, established the first national labor policy of protecting the right of workers to organize and to elect their representatives for collective bargaining.

Plenty of Variety in 4-H Projects

mer and the 30 or so members of the Hombers 4-H Club for not thinking only of themselves but being willing to help other people.

It wasn't until I visited Pleasant Valley Livestock 4-H Club that I discovered why men and women become 4-H leaders. Herb Niemann was leading the games and having a ball doing it. Being a 4-H leader gives an adult a chance to act like a kid—legally. I'm really not kidding Herb, because it also makes me feel younger when working with young people.

Despite the amount of work, time and patience required to be a good 4-H leader, it's more than worth it, especially when you can have a hand in helping shape the career of a future farmer such as Steve Gramlich, guiding a group of 4-H'ers or working with the hundreds of other fine 4-H boys and girls in the county.

People, Places and Things

By DON SPIZZE
Wayne County Agent

This is a column on 4-H I will be writing from time to time to replace my regular column, "This and That From Your County Agent."

I will discuss most anything pertaining to 4-H and youth, hoping to make it of value for everyone in Wayne County.

I have asked several of my co-workers to write additional articles on 4-H because this is Nebraska 4-H Emphasis Week.

Last week I had the pleasure of visiting the Pleasant Valley 4-H Livestock Club. Herb Niemann, Cyril Hansen and Dave Jager are the main leaders in the club, although many parents also assist with the leadership.

Livestock projects are important in Wayne County 4-H and I would like to tell you something about a visit I had with one of the Pleasant Valley members after the meeting.

A 16-year-old boy by the name of Steve Gramlich said he had 52 ewes and two rams as his project. It was because of this statement that I interviewed Steve after the meeting.

Steve started his sheep project in 1969 by buying some ewes at Omaha. From my visit with Steve it would appear he has a very practical commercial sheep operation using crossbred native ewes. Corriedale and crossbred rams.

Steve has an excellent knowledge of sheep production and is even building his own private library on sheep production. Steve, who intends to stay on the farm after graduation and raise sheep, will be attending a two-day sheep shearing school later on this year.

The last question he asked me was how can the 4-H sheep project be promoted in Wayne County.

The question is a good one. Wayne County has long had a well deserved reputation for its 4-H beef program. Enrollment in horse, swine and dairy seems good, but sheep enrollment is quite low. So why shouldn't we have strong programs in all 4-H livestock areas? Maybe with the help of 4-H members, leaders and parents we can do just that. (I might add that the size of a project is not the important thing—it's what she or he learns that counts.)

Before we leave the Pleasant Valley 4-H Livestock Club I would like to add that this club also has an excellent 4-H tractor project program under the leadership of Dave Jager and Cyril Hansen.

Gordon Davis, assistant leader of the Wayne County Hombers 4-H Horse Club, was in the office recently with club members Mark Feer, Rick Lange, Bill Langenberg and Larry Anderson. This club is setting up a foundation to help crippled children. So far the club has collected over $300 for this foundation, mostly through putting on horse shows and the like. Gordon said he would like to challenge other county 4-H clubs to contributing to this worthy cause.

In some areas of the county 4-H has gotten a blackeye because of its emphasis on competition. I once lived in a county in Kansas where the only thing 4-H'ers, 4-H parents, leaders and even the county agent ever talked about was how to win awards, trophies and ribbons. Nothing else was ever mentioned.

Competition is fine and should have its place in 4-H because it's part of life. But it can be over done.

Hats off to assistant leader Gordon Davis, leader Bob Kra

I'm running out of ink, paper and time so I'd better wrap up this column. I've only been in Wayne County a few days, but I like what I see. Future 4-H columns will discuss the hundreds of other good things I'm sure I'll find in Wayne County 4-H in the areas of livestock, home economics and other 4-H project areas.

If you are a youngster who would like to join 4-H or an adult who would like to lead a club just call me and I will try to help.

The minimum age requirement to be a 4-H'er is that a youngster must have had his or her ninth birthday sometime during the calendar year of 1973.

1,099 Farmers Sign Up for Set-Aside

A total of 1,099 farmers in Wayne County signed up for the feed grain set aside program by Friday's deadline, reports Ray Butts, executive director of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation.

Butts said that figure compares with 1,175 farmers in the county who signed up by the deadline a year ago.

Producers who signed up under either of two options to them are eligible for Commodity Credit Corporation loans on their feed grains, according to Butts.

By ROY STOHLER
Extension Youth Agent

O.B. Boggs of the West Virginia Extension Service says "A project is a piece of the world's work which I have chosen to do during the 4-H club year. When completed, it will represent me—my thinking, my skill of hand, my work ideals. I must do it in the very best way."

Some of the more interesting 4-H projects which are available for 4-H members are some that do not receive as much publicity as those on beef, clothing and the like.

Following is a list of many of these projects:

Health

There are three projects available which involve health—Personal Health, Family Health and Community Health.

Personal Health takes a look at your personal health habits, such as the food you eat, personal cleanliness, rest, work, recreation, teeth, eyes, ears and personality. Family Health explores the mental, physical, spiritual and social health of the family. Community Health is a study of the community in relation to health. It takes a look at the water and food supply and other aspects of the community.

Photography

Do you take blurred pictures or double exposures? Perhaps the 4-H photography project is for you. There are four levels in the photography project. The first project introduces the camera, explains how a camera works and shows how to operate a camera. The other projects in the series help a member with taking flash pictures, using color film and making specialized pictures.

Money Management

This project is brand new and helps a 4-H member become a good money manager. It helps a member take a look at how much money he has to spend, to plan how he will spend it and what he expects the money to do.

Nebraska Heritage

This project provides an opportunity to dig into the past. It includes touring museums and historical locations, visiting with senior citizens to find out about the past, looking at family heirlooms and the family tree.

Native Nebraska Products

Do you like to do things with your hands? This project can give you the opportunity to do this. The one requirement for the project is that the major portion of the raw materials should be native products. Anything from wood, to cornshucks or any other Nebraska product can be used to create interesting decorations or other handi-craft articles.

Do Your Thing

Do you want to "do your thing"? You can be enrolling in the 4-H "Do Your Thing" project, which lets a member decide for himself just exactly what he wants to do. Some projects that might be included would be a study of foreign foods, writing poetry, rocketry, astronomy, geology, radio ham operation, flying or just about anything else. The member and leader determine the extent of the project and the requirements.

Rope

For some people the art of tying knots and splicing rope may be old-fashioned, but rope is still an important tool and is still used for many purposes. The rope project will help a member learn about the kinds of rope and the important knots and splices which can make a rope a more important tool.

Small Engine

How many small engines do you have around your home? Is the oil changed at correct intervals? Does the spark plug need changing? The small engine project provides an opportunity to learn about the different kinds of small engines and how they operate. It stresses good maintenance and safety at all times. Engines used on mowers, motor bikes, boats and implements lend themselves to this project.

Ecology

What a dig word, ecology, but we hear it more and more today as we become concerned about our environment. A 4-H'er can learn about our surroundings in this project. It includes the air, water and landscape and how it is being contaminated by people. The project encourages a 4-H member to take steps to improve their community so it will be a safe, healthful and pleasant place to live.

Entomology

Bugs! Where did these bugs come from and how do I get rid of them? What are they? Entomology is a study of bugs to control areas of identification, control and life history.

Wildlife

What kind of a bird is that? Can you tell what kind of an animal that was by the track he left? The wildlife projects can help you learn about the various birds, animals and fish which make up Nebraska's wildlife. The projects include bird identification, wildlife conservation, nature study, homes for wildlife, hunting and fishing laws, hunting safety and fishing.

Good Cows and Grass Mean Extra Dollars, Meet Will Emphasize

"Good Cows Plus Green Grass Equals $$$ From Pastures" is the theme of a meeting which will be held at the United Methodist Church in Maskell on Thursday.

The meeting, set for 8 p.m., is being sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Service and is open to all interested persons.

There are two basic factors in getting a profit from pastures, good cows and good grass, says Phil Menke, livestock specialist from the Northeast Station, who will talk about herd improvement and herd health.

George Rehm, Northeast Station agronomist, will cover pasture fertilization and management. Special emphasis will be placed on year-around use of the forage crops that are available to each farmer.

Russ Moomaw, Station agronomist, will discuss control of weed growth on pastures—particularly those which may have been mismanaged in the past. With use of fertilizer, weed growth can become more of a problem, he notes, and for full productivity weeds need to be controlled.

Through a total pasture-cow improvement program, including better cows, management and pastures, farmers can realize more profit from their pastures, the experts note.

The meeting will be informal, with time allotted to ask questions about pasture management for livestock production.

4-H Helps Youths in The Home

By MYRTLE ANDERSON
Home Extension Agent

Four-H home living projects furnish many opportunities for members, both boys and girls, to develop their creative abilities, enjoy their home more fully and become more efficient consumers.

The beginning 4-H'er can start with "Groom Your Room" to learn how to make his or her room attractive and convenient. A study of color and making a few simple articles for storage or decorations complete this project.

Next in order is the "Learning to be a Homemaker" project, which provides experiences to become involved with family living in work activities as well as having fun at home with the family.

The early teenage members are just getting involved in the recent project, "Count Down for Storage Spacemanship." This is an excellent project designed to meet their varied needs of interest and challenge their imagination to manage space problems in the home.

"Furnishings on a Shoestring" is a fairly new project designed for members who want to create an attractive surrounding with little expense. The "Plan Your Room" project is still a good one to precede or to follow this one.

"Background Unit," "Study, Reading or Business Unit," "Dressing Unit," and "Advanced Home Improvement," projects furnish excellent experiences for the older teenager.

Too many 4-H'ers are missing the opportunity to have attractive surroundings by using their energy and talent by not enrolling in these more advanced units.

Sometimes it takes only more encouragement from the parents and leaders.

NE Station Specialist Talks at Pork Meeting

Bob Fritschen, Northeast Station swine specialist, expressed concern over the number of animals culled from breeding herds because of feet and leg problems during an American Pork Congress at Indianapolis last week.

Fritschen was one of two University of Nebraska Extension specialists speaking at the conference, held Tuesday through Thursday.

The other specialist was Larry Blinney, NU economist who noted that price expectations for soybean meal and normal corn should make high lysine corn an attractive crop for pork producers in 1973.

Discussing feet and leg problems, Fritschen estimated that of all the animals culled from a breeding herd, between 10 and 26 per cent are culled because of feet and leg problems.

He also reported that in one English study, 65 per cent of all market weight pigs had foot lesions. Work at the Northeast Station indicates that foot lesion or injury incidence among concrete-reared pigs is nearly 100 per cent he said.

Both the English study and a similar one at the Northeast Station showed that outside claws sustained greater injury than inside claws, he said.

A greater percentage of the floor in slats also seems to increase the injury incidence, Fritschen told the group.

By reading, listening, asking and remembering, a farmer must continually renew and increase his knowledge and degrees in agronomy. And there seems to always be someone inventing something new to put him to the test.

For example, years ago weeds were controlled by the number of times you cultivated your crop. Now, weeds are controlled by a once-over application of herbicides.

You went from hoeing to cultivating to herbicides. That's quite an increase of degrees in anyone's education.

Getting successful results from a sharp hoe or cultivator requires experience, knowledge and untiring energy. Mostly energy. Applying herbicides requires about the same, only more emphasis on experience and knowledge.

Each herbicide, much like a piece of farm equipment, has its special features and limitations. And every farmer who uses a herbicide has to analyze the features of the various herbicides available and decide which one will kill the most weeds in his crops.

That is, if he knows which weeds he is competing with in his crops.

You always thought there were cockleburrs, creeping jennys and weeds. But when purchasing a herbicide you learned there are two general categories of weeds — grassy weeds and broadleaf weeds. These two categories are divided into summer annuals, winter annuals, biennials and perennials.

There is a herbicide for the weeds that germinate in the spring and early summer, another for the winter annuals that germinate in late summer or early fall. Before long you're almost convinced there is a chemical for every weed.

When you try to eliminate wild buckwheat, morning glories, toxtail and cockleburrs with the same chemical your plans can change drastically. When trying to eliminate almost any weed with chemicals you're at the mercy of many variables.

Crop rotation, weather, soil types, equipment, application options and many other factors determine what type of herbicide you should use. And if you should use it before, during or after planting.

If you have done your advance planning and know what crop you intend to plant field next year, you'll narrow the field of herbicides considerably. Otherwise it may be the other way around — the herbicide may decide what crop you'll plant in that field.

Like last year when you had to replant that bean field. You'd forgot what herbicide you'd been experimenting with the previous year. It sure killed most of the beans the next year.

With this much planning done you're about half way to deciding on which herbicide to use. You can put it on before planting when you might have plenty of time or take a chance on plenty of time and patience during planting. If you miss getting the job done then, you can always apply the herbicide after planting.

This part of the decision can be quite technical. Such as choosing the correct herbicide combinations to be compatible to each other and to the water, liquid fertilizer or whatever you mix with them.

But some guy with a glass jug and a little fire is way out ahead of you. He's invented some stuff to make all those chemicals compatible. Sort of works like a peace maker. Neighbor John says he's been using it for years and hasn't had any trouble with incompatibility in his chemicals.

You shrug your shoulders at that thought. It doesn't necessarily mean too much. Cripes, Neighbor John studies that stuff all winter. He probably knows what will mix with what without using anything. Then he probably uses it just because it says on the sack that you should use something else for good results.

Here again, your planning for the coming year will be greatly determined by the experience from and effectiveness of your program last year.

If you got fairly good results with a certain herbicide or combination of herbicides last year, chances are you'll use it again this year.

But if it didn't work satisfactorily — and you hate to admit to Neighbor John that you don't know how to systematically analyze your weed control program — you can always go back to a sure weed killer, the cultivator.

It always worked before. That is, if you could get the tractor and cultivator across that wet bottom. And if Junior didn't decide to take a summer course at college so you could have time to cultivate.

By golly, maybe Junior will

Wayne Girl 'Turning Somersaults' in Venezuela

Hallie Lee Sherry of Wayne is turning somersaults over her Peace Corps assignment in Venezuela.

She is part of the Physical Education-Teacher Training (PETT) program, instructing primary school teachers in the field of physical education.

Miss Sherry, 24, is serving a two-year tour of duty, in Valencia, a seaport city in northern Venezuela. She is working with the Ministry of Education and the National Sports Institute to assist Venezuela in promoting organized sports and recreation through the formation of teams, competitions and local leagues in the cities and towns.

Miss Sherry, a 1971 physical education graduate of the University of South Dakota, is a member of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

As a Peace Corps volunteer, she is the teachers' teacher, instructing them so they, in turn, can instruct children in the first, second and third grades.

She begins each Saturday morning with the teachers in the classroom. The first part of the day consists of lectures, demonstrations and discussions of physical education methods and techniques.

During the second part of the day the class moves to the playground, where teaching theory is put into practice. The remainder of the week she spends visiting each teacher, observing her teaching and discussing problems.

In her spare time, the Peace Corps volunteer works at the local Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA), teaching swimming and water safety, helping organize the swim team and coaching volleyball. The youngsters never had a pool until two years ago and, until the Wayne native arrived, never knew how to swim. Now they are learning the basic strokes and planning to organize the synchronized swim team.

'A Century of Brides'

About 20 models, wearing wedding fashions from the 1800's through 1973, appeared in the "Century of Brides" fashion revue held by Wayne State Faculty Wives and Women at their guest day breakfast Saturday morning.

Over 80 members and guests were at the WSC Birch Room for the breakfast where they featured the traditional wedding cake, cut by Mrs. Richard Lesh. Mrs. Yale Kessler served punch.

Mrs. Fred Webber wearing her own 1968 wedding gown to sing "Ich Liebe Dich" and "The Wedding Song." Accompanist was Mrs. Jay O'Leary. Mrs. Jim Hummel provided piano background for the fashion parade which was led by Kipp Lesh and Mary Johansen as modern day ring bearer and flower girl.

Oldest gown modeled was that of Mrs. Phillip Callahan, 1862. The gown, now belonging to her great niece, Mrs. Max Lundstrom, was worn by Lou Ann Hall.

Mrs. Lundstrom also contributed the gown of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Dennison, 1896, which was modeled by Mrs. Bill Taylor, and Mrs. Lundstrom's own 1951 dress, modeled by her daughter, Marjie Lundstrom.

Other models who appeared in their mother's dresses were Lori Lesh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lesh, 1949, and Pat Barclay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barclay, 1951.

Wearing their own gowns were Mrs. W. G. Ingram, a bride of 1922; Mrs. J. S. Johar, who was married in India in 1960; Mrs. James Phifer, 1968, and Mrs. Frank Teach, 1969.

More 18th century bridal fashions were those of Mrs. Henry Ley's grandmother, Mrs. William Nelson, 1881, worn by Mary Ann Ginn, and that of Mrs. Yale Kessler's mother, Mrs. Walter Samuel Pollack, 1887, modeled by Mrs. James Day.

Ushering in the 20th century was Rebecca Sutherland in the 1913 gown of Mrs. John Struve's grandmother, Mrs. Everett L. Gabeline. 1917 was represented by Stephanie Mendyk in the gown of Mrs. Steve Syre's grandmother, Mrs. J. R. Hall. Cathy Barclay wore the 1919 gown of Mrs. Milo Meyer's mother, Mrs. Nick Schmit.

Mrs. Howard Hoyt wore the 1937 gown belonging to Mrs. Walter Moller, and Laura Struve modeled the flower girl's choice of fashions for that year. Mrs. Robert Foote wore the gown of Mrs. Cecil Wriedt from 1939.

Connie Sutherland in the 1956 frock belonging to Mrs. Del Stoltzenberg and Teri Bigelow displayed today's counterculture wedding dress.

The parade concluded with a 1972 bride and her attendants. Kay Pankratz wore the gown of bride Mrs. John Schneider, and was attended by bridesmaids Lisa Lesh and Mrs. William Fletcher.

Chairman of the event were Mrs. Lundstrom and Mrs. Barclay. Committee members were Mrs. Corrine Cage, Mrs. Neil Edmunds, Mrs. Marie Grovas, Mrs. W. G. Ingram, Mrs. Dale Johansen, Mrs. Kessler, Mrs. Darryl Lehnus, Mrs. Lesh, Mrs. Don Pate, Mrs. Ruby Pederson, Mrs. Phifer, Mrs. Syre, Mrs. Jim Scheffer, Mrs. LeRoy Simpson and Mrs. Teach. Mrs. Lyle Seymour was responsible for the bridal doll centerpieces which appeared on each of the tables.
