Council Cures Persistent Headache

The Wayne city council Tuesday night took a sedative and finally cleared up a headache which it has been fighting the past few months.

Brasch, Vernog Russell and Jim Thomas voted against the schedule.

But the solution came after no little discussion. Attorneys representing property owners in Westwood and persons who signed petitions opposing the schedule argued their cases before the council.

The attorney representing the property owners in Westwood told the council that it had a moral obligation to stick by its earlier commitment to charge part of the cost of the work to the general public. The work was done to solve a drainage problem which should have been solved when the city council approved the subdivision in 1960, he added.

An attorney representing petition signers opposed to the schedule — a total of more than 200 persons — told the council that it could assess only according to benefits received from the improvement and that assessing the general public for such a great percentage of the cost was arbitrary and illegal.

He said the council was wrong in telling the property owners that the public would be charged for part of the work and that approving the schedule would compound that error.

Local Youth to Get God Country Award

Kevin Jech, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jech of Wayne, will receive the highest church award in Boy Scouts Sunday.

The Wayne youth will receive the God and Country Award during a ceremony at Redeemer Lutheran Church, marking the successful completion of extensive work in the church.

A sophomore at Wayne High School, he was required to pass several tests and meet numerous requirements to receive the award, according to his minister, the Rev. S. K. deFreese.

Among the requirements were observing and writing about church ceremonies, mapping the world and identifying countries which have Scouting programs and working in the church, he said.

Young Jech is the first to receive the award in his church since his brother, Kerry, received it last year.

He belongs to Boy Scout Troop 175 in Wayne. His Scoutmaster is Rod Hughes.

Bid Opening Set for Work On Hospital

Bids will be opened April 26 in Wayne for construction of the $15 million medical center which will be built just east of Wayne State College campus.

Bob Carhart, president of Wayne Hospital Foundation, said he expects construction to begin in early May.

Five contracts will be offered in the bid letting: general, mechanical, electrical, food service or kitchen equipment, and carpentry.

The new medical center will replace the present municipal hospital in Wayne, providing modern health services to both the community and area.

Funds for the project will come from local and area donations, city contributions, Benedictine Order of Sisters in Norfolk and federal Hill Burton funds. The federal government has given approval for a $384,300 grant to help with construction.

Plans and specifications for the medical facility, which will be called Providence Medical Center, were completed earlier this month.

Wakefield Education Fair Set

An education fair open to the public will be held Monday evening at the Wakefield High School gymnasium, beginning at 7 p.m.

The fair, similar to one held at the school about three years ago, will include demonstrations in the areas of science, math, social studies, business, home economics, industrial arts, music, Spanish and English. The guidance program and media center also will be represented, and the physical education department will demonstrate the school's weight machine.

Elementary students will display their work in their own rooms, and students and instructors will be on hand to answer questions.

Dennis Crispen, math and physics instructor at Wakefield, is in charge of the program.

Purpose of the fair, he said, is to give elementary students and their parents the opportunity to see what the high school programs have to offer. Parents of high school students will have the chance to see the work their children are doing, and explanations of various programs will be provided by instructors.

Council Agenda Is Full For Debut on Television

City councilmen in Wayne made their debut on television Tuesday night, approving an increase in electrical rates, okaying the destruction of several old houses and agreeing to work with the Chamber of Commerce to attract new businesses to the community.

The council meeting was televised by Wayne Cablevision, Inc., the first time a council meeting has been carried by the cable TV firm.

The electrical rate increase okayed by the council on an 8-0 vote will mean a jump in residential bills of about eight per cent and a jump in commercial bills of about 10 per cent.

The rate increase will go into effect the end of April. Councilmen cited higher costs of producing electricity with fuel when shut off natural gas as the reason for the rate increase. It's the first increase in rates since January last year, city clerk Dan Sherry said.

Council okayed issuing a razing permit to Carlson Construction Co. of Wayne for destroying five houses on East Sixth Street just east of Dearborn. The construction firm will have to post a $1,000 bond before destroying the houses.

Given approval by the council was a proposal from the Chamber of Commerce which will tie various groups in the community together in an attempt to attract new industry and business to the city.

The Chamber has drawn up a plan which taps such groups as the Wayne County Jaycees, Wayne Industries, Wayne Development, state government and the Chamber in an attempt to get new business into the city.

Approved by the council was the naming of Adon Jeffrey, president of First National Bank, to the hospital board. He will replace Max Hendrickson, who has submitted his resignation from the board. Jeffrey will serve from April 1 to June 30.

In other action the council: Set a public hearing date on the request from Ken Dahl of Wayne and Dennis McConigal of Omaha for a package liquor license. The hearing will be 8 p.m. April 10.

Approved hiring Gary Egler as manager of the municipal swimming pool and G. I. Willoughby as assistant manager. (Separate story on the sports page.)

Okayed the proposed as: See COUNCIL, page 6

County Assessor: Apply For Tax Exemption Now

Homeowners 65 years or older have until June 1 to file for a tax exemption on their homes, said Henry Arrp, Wayne County assessor.

Arrp pointed out that the Homestead Exemption Act applies to those persons 65 or older whose household incomes do not exceed $2,800 for a single person, $3,500 for one married spouse 65 or over or two married spouses 65 or older.

The exemption also applies to veterans who are totally disabled by a non-military accident or sickness, he explained. But a serviceman's application has to include the sworn statement of three doctors affirming that the homeowner is totally disabled.

If an application is approved, 25 per cent of the first $15,000 of actual value of a homestead will be exempted in 1973 and 50 per cent in 1974.

Arrp added that applications are available at the county assessor's office and office personnel will assist anyone who wishes to file for the exemption.

The office will submit applications to the state tax commissioners, who will certify a list of homeowners who are to receive the exemptions and send them to the county assessors.

Ready for Curtain Time

WAYNE HIGH'S cast in "Fiddler on the Roof" is ready for the presentations scheduled Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m. in the high school lecture hall. The musical tells the story of a Jewish family in Russia shortly after the turn of the century. In conflict in the play is the father and his three oldest daughters, who he tries to have marry men of his choice. The daughters are played by, seated from left, Gigi Goblirsch, Marjorie Lundstrom and Lisa Lesh. Their parents are played by Kay Pankratz and Joe Manley. Tickets for the popular musical are selling for $1.50 for adults, $1 for students.

Hike Is Saturday... Sore Feet On Sunday?

Several hundred youths and adults are expected to take part in Saturday's Hike for HOPE between Wayne and Wakefield. The fund raising walk, second year in a row that Phi Mu Sorority at Wayne State College has sponsored one, begins with registration at 8 a.m. at the National Guard Armory on the east edge of the city.

Hikers will begin walking to Wakefield — and at the same time raising money for the mercy ship USS HOPE — at 9 a.m.

Among those who have promised to take part in the walk: Wayne mayor Kent Hall, Wayne State student senate president Jim Ricketts and Dr. Ed Elliott, Wayne State instructor who has vowed to jog to Wakefield and back.

Members of the college's football and basketball teams have taken up Dr.

Elliott's challenge to run the 20-mile course.

Students from several schools in the area have been asked to participate, according to Barb Ludwig, hike chairman, to push the number of hikers many times over the 28 who took part last year.

More than 1,500 hike cards have been distributed, but how many of those who have cards will participate is difficult to estimate, she said.

Money raised in the drive (hikers are paid a set amount for each mile covered by a sponsoring individual or business) will go to help support the ship which makes mercy missions to countries in need. The ship is a self-contained, 108-bed medical center which has a staff of nurses, dentists, doctors and other medical personnel.

Girl Scouts To Deliver Cookies Soon

Persons in the Wayne area who bought cookies from Girl Scouts during their recent sale will begin receiving them next week.

The cookies will be delivered starting on Friday. Persons who ordered the cookies may pay for their orders at that time.

Some 56,720 boxes of cookies were sold in the Prairie Hills Girl Scout Council in the eastern and northeastern part of the state, officials report. This is an increase over the 1972 sales, they noted.

The girls receive 25 cents profit from each box of cookies sold to help support their own Troop programs. The Council will use its share of the proceeds to help build the Troop house at Crossed Arrows Camp near Fremont and to help girls selected for national events.

Chairman of the Wayne drive this year was Mrs. Ronald Wert.

Bus Line's Trial Schedule Goes Into Effect Tuesday

Wayne residents who protested the bus schedule change made by Arrow Stage Lines of Norfolk last fall will see a result of their protests next week when a new Tuesday schedule goes into effect.

Local citizens, many of them members of the Wayne Senior Citizen Center, made known their objections to the schedule change by submitting a formal protest to the Nebraska Public Service Commission (formerly the State Railway Commission) and by appearing at a hearing set up by the commission in February.

Residents argued that the schedule does not allow area persons to go to either Sioux City or Norfolk for business and return the same day.

As a result of the February hearing, Arrow Stage Lines has been ordered to give Wayne a more feasible schedule one day per week as suggested by Mrs. Eldon Bull, director of the Senior Citizen Center. If after a test period of about three months the bus line still shows substantial loss of revenue, the Public Service Commission will allow the company to return to the schedule it adopted last fall.

Under the trial schedule, which goes into effect next week a bus will leave Norfolk for Sioux City at 7:30 a.m. each Tuesday. Stops will be made in Wayne at 8 a.m., Wakefield at 8:15 a.m., and Emerson at 8:30 a.m. before arriving in Sioux City at 9 a.m.

The return bus will leave Sioux City at 4:30 p.m. the same day and will arrive in Norfolk at 6 p.m. Stops will be made at Emerson at 5 p.m., Wakefield at 5:15 and Wayne at 5:30.

The schedule for Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday will remain the same. This is the schedule adopted by the company in September, with a bus leaving Sioux City at 9:45 a.m., stopping in Wayne at 10:55 and arriving in Norfolk at 11:30. The return trip begins in Norfolk at noon the same day, with arrival in Wayne at 12:30 p.m. and in Sioux City at 1:45.

This schedule, according to C.D. Busskohl, president of Arrow Stage Lines, allows the company to cut down on layover time for which bus drivers must be paid and frees the bus for afternoon charter service.

Busskohl said this week that if the Tuesday trial schedule does not bring in sufficient revenue to justify continuing it, the company will ask the Public Service Commission for permission to drop it and return to the current schedule Monday through Friday.

A Glimpse Inside

Yum! Yum!
A young man from Japan finds American cooking to his liking. He's Kiyoski Ogata, better known to the Dick Sorensen family of rural Wayne as "Nelson." One of several Japanese who has stayed with the family, he's the only one who has said he likes Mrs. Sorensen's pie best of all. Bubble, Bubble

The pot is bubbling again in the Legislature. The state school aid pot, that is. Governor J. James Exon has unveiled his plan for aiding schools and reducing the burden on property taxpayers. And at least one state senator, education chairman Jerome Warner of Waverly, wasn't very complimentary about the proposal. For a story on the latest bubble, turn to the editorial page.

Rah! Rah!

Baseball is making a comeback at one of the area high schools. Allen will offer the sport this year under coach Robert Moore after seeing two springs go by without the school fielding a high school diamond crew. Because of the "newness" of the sport, Moore isn't sure just how good his team will be. For a story on the team, turn to the sports page.

How To Shrink a Witch Among Problems Faced by 'Oz' Crews

Cast and crews of "Wizard of Oz" to appear on the Ramsey Theatre at Wayne State College next week, are coping with a flood of technical problems for their annual children's production.

The special effects crew has confronted the problems of witches that must fly through the air on broom and vacuum cleaner, a tornado scene which will incorporate the use of a wind machine and a shrinking witch. A local youngster, Christopher Nuss, will assist with the latter problem.

Costume crew members met the problem of turning life size college students into three-foot tall Munchkins by fashioning colorful flowing costumes which camouflage the fact that actors are walking and dancing on their knees.

Not the least among the problems was that of backstage room. This show calls for seven scene changes, each with an ample assortment of colorful but awkward props.

MAGGEE MARTIN, who portrays the wicked witch of the west in "Wizard of Oz" tries out her caldron from size "Wizard of Oz" in this year's children's theatre presentation by Wayne State College and will open Monday. Performances have been scheduled for 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 p.m. Wednesday. A 10 a.m. performance for Tuesday has been added because of the demand for reservations which are still coming in.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR John Pigg tries out the stunts which will give the Wizard of Oz his ominous height in the Wayne State College theatre department's annual children's show, to open next week. Measuring for a suit of clothes for the Wizard is Terry O'Donnell from the costume department.

Sales Can Yield Savings
A sale may mean a saving if you can answer "yes" to the following questions:
—Can you judge whether the sale item offers any real saving?
—Can you pass up a "bargain" that you don't need?
—Do you know when good sales occur in order to plan ahead?
Four common types of sales are:
Season Sales—Regular sales held at the beginning or end of a season. These cover seasonal goods such as clothing, fabric, sports, outdoor and gardening equipment, and gift items.
Clearance Sales—These are held to get rid of excess merchandise. Some real bargains can be had at January inventory sales or end-of-summer sales. However, be aware of unwanted items or articles which may be going out of style.
Stimulation Sales—These are to encourage buying during slow periods. Regular merchandise may be included as a sale item at a reduced price. However, sometimes a store will have ordered extra items of lesser quality as a "loss leader." This is to entice one into the store and then be lured to buy the regular-priced goods. Occasionally, a store will advertise a "brand name" item at a lower than its standard price. They may be "out" of it when you arrive and you're encouraged to buy another similar item. If this happens often in the same store, avoid it.
Traditional Sales—These are sales recognizing store anniversaries, special occasions as pre-Easter or holidays such as Washington's birthday. Reductions may be store-wide. These are often the most reliable sales when they occur in established stores.

Kirtley Pleased With Lay Mission Results

In speaking of the lay witness mission which the First United Methodist Church hosted last weekend, the Rev. Frank Kirtley said: "I personally felt it was tremendously successful in giving people an opportunity to identify with others who are endeavoring to live a Christian way of life."

Members of such witness teams as visited Wayne are made up of volunteers selected by the Department of Kolonia Ministries of the United Methodist General Board of Evangelism in Nashville, Tenn.

They are individuals from all walks of life and from many different denominations who, because of their convictions, are eager to give of their time to prove their concern for fellow man. At their own expense they travel with a coordinator to a church which has decided to hold a lay witness mission and share with the congregation their experiences and encourage the local people to share in a like manner, and thus become more actively involved in their beliefs.

"The evidence of our local young people at the meetings," noted Pastor Kirtley, "speaks well of kids seeking and wanting to find answers."

"The witnesses, who were from Mitchell, Huron, Eureka and Milbank, S.D.; Menomonee, Wis., and North Platte, Grand Island, Lincoln, Elmwood and Wahoo, arrived in Wayne Friday evening and were put-up by 23 families in the community. The group of 50 plus children included business, and professional men, blue collar workers, teachers, housewives and women who work outside the home. Ages ranged from nine to 70.

Dr. Donald Luymes, who is a chiropractor in Mitchell, served as coordinator of the group. Youth coordinator was Dan Sarik, a student from Lincoln, and children's coordinator was Mrs. Sylvan DeVries of Mitchell.

For most of the sessions, the participants divided into groups for witnessing and discussions. The mission lasted through Saturday and Sunday morning and was concluded with a farewell lunch for witnesses, local chairman and their families Sunday noon.

The congregational dinner Saturday night was attended by about 250 and the Sunday morning session, which took the place of regular services and Sunday school classes, drew 420.

At the evaluation meeting held by the congregation Sunday evening after the conclusion of the mission, several local young people and adults indicated their willingness to participate as witnesses in similar missions for other interested churches.

A more immediate result of the mission will be seen this Sunday evening. The Methodist congregation is inviting all interested persons to join them in a caring and sharing session. The meeting for adults, young people and children will begin at 7 p.m.

Meet Set to Discuss 6-County Jail

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the cafeteria of the Northeast Nebraska Technical College. City and county officials and other interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

according to Wayne police chief Vern Fairchild. The proposal to combine the jail facilities to take advantage of the city police department's current 24-hour surveillance of its jail was contained in a lengthy report on county jails in a six county area of Northeast Nebraska. The report, released earlier this month, was done for the Region 11 and 25 Joint Planning Commission for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice. All recommendations contained in the report will be discussed at the meeting. Other counties included in the study were Dixon, Cedar, Stanton, Pierce and Madison. The report recommended that an addition be built onto the Wayne County jail to provide space for the city police department, enabling city police to keep watch on the jail 24 hours a day.

KEITH MOSLEY opens wide for his share of cold sausage and pancakes Monday during the Kiwanis luncheon. Mosley's team finished last in ticket sales for the Kiwanis pancake feed several weeks ago. As a result, the team captain won the right to the first helping. Ready to serve the meal is president Bob Carhart.

to expect something for their money. Presently NE Tech offers 18 courses triple the 1969 number. In addition, the college has an adult education program in cooperation with Wayne State. Cox noted that of the eight districts in the state assigned to support certain colleges and tech schools, this district is the only one to have its budget okayed completely by the legislature.

There is talk that the senators want to reduce the districts from eight to five (LB 33), which is alright with us," he said, noting that the reduction would add three counties to the district. Before the presentation, Kiwanian Keith Mosley received a "cold" welcome from president Bob Carhart.

Mosley, captain of the losing team in ticket sales for the recent Kiwanis pancake feed, was served three frozen pan cakes and a piece of cold sausage.

Dr. Cox emphasized that the college is continuing to fill its role as a "community college" by serving its people. "Just like the Wayne County residents who pay their one mill to help support the college, everyone in the 21 county district has a right

'NE Tech Aiming to Serve Wayne'

The purpose of a community college, said Northeast Technical Community College president, Dr. Robert Cox, is to serve the whole community. We aim to serve Wayne County along with the 20 other counties that are helping to support the college," he said.

The college, he went on, was the first in the state to accept an associate of arts degree from a two year college such as the present Northeastern College in Norfolk. As of April 7, the college will merge with NE Tech to form one body. Wayne High contributes many interested students to the school, Dr. Cox explained, helping it expand enrollment.

Dr. Cox, during Monday's Kiwanis luncheon in Wayne, told the members that both Wayne High School and Wayne State College are essential to the growth and well being of NE Tech.

According to student population figures released at the meeting, this year marks the fourth year since the college

'Short Form Saves Time At Tax Time'

Many Nebraska taxpayers can save time and effort by using the short tax form to file their federal income tax returns for 1972, says Richard Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska.

The vast majority of taxpayers who take the standard deduction can use the new Form 1040A no matter how much income they have if it is from wages, salaries and tips, and not more than $200 is from interest income or $200 from dividends.

The new 1040A is a half sheet form which can be used by approximately 45 per cent of Nebraska taxpayers. With the information in the instructions and the relatively new computations that have to be made, most taxpayers can prepare their own 1040A return instead of hiring someone else to do it, Vinal says.

While 1040A users may not itemize deductions, they can still claim the limited tax credit for making political contributions, and if they choose, allocate one dollar of their tax money (two dollars on a joint return) to the presidential election campaign fund, Vinal said.

National Guard Unit In Wayne Seeks Help

John Dorcey of Wayne, commanding officer of the Wayne National Guard unit, is asking local and area businessmen to support the National Guard. He stated that with the end of the war in Vietnam, it is essential that employers give total support to the reserve forces because they are the backbone of the nation's defense and security programs. Dorcey said that failure to provide such support would result in reliance on a large standing military force "at an intolerable high cost."

comparable cost of sustaining a Guard counterpart is approximately $1,800," he noted. "All of the local employers must recognize the Wayne members need their cooperation to enable employees to take part in the military organization without impediment or hardships as far as their civilian jobs are concerned," Dorcey stated. Local Guard members are asking area businessmen to encourage their employees to take an active part in the National Guard.

Local and area businessmen have already given support to the local unit, according to SFC Dennis Spangler, administrative technician of the Wayne unit. This support has been greatly appreciated in the past and hopefully will be extended into the future, he said.

'Grazing on Set-Aside Is Okay During April'

The Wayne County ASCS office received word this week that grazing of 1973 set-aside that was in corn and grain sorghum in 1972 will be allowed in April.

Ray Butts, executive director of the county ASCS, stated that the normal prohibited grazing period for set-aside fields is from April 1 to Sept. 1. Due to abnormal weather preventing some farmers from gleaning corn and grain sorghum fields, farmers can graze during the month of April without a payment reduction, he said.

Butts emphasized that it is necessary for interested program participants to come to the ASCS office in Wayne and sign an application before grazing on these fields in April.

This authority applies only to set-aside areas that were in corn and grain sorghum in 1972 which abnormal weather conditions delayed harvesting and did not permit normal gleaning.

WSC Choral Festival 'Best Ever'

More than 550 singers were involved in the massed choir program at the third annual Wayne State College High School Choral Festival Saturday.

Singers represented eight Nebraska and Iowa communities. "It was clearly the best festival we have had thus far," stated Dr. Cornell Ruestad of the WS music faculty and conductor of the event, "for we are attracting more and better choirs."

The 1973 Honor Choir, chosen from outstanding high school choirs throughout Nebraska, was the Adams Central Choir from Hastings, directed by James Loch. These High school singers, who sang a 45-minute concert for the festival in the morning, were overnight dormitory guests of the members of the college choir the evening before.

Morning and afternoon massed rehearsals preceded a performance by individual choirs, with the Massed Choir program closing the day's activities.

Schools attending included Laurel, O'Neill, South Sioux City, Stuart, Yutan, Beemer and Westwood of Sloan, Ia. The WS Madrigal Singers and Concert Choir also performed.

Area Survey To Question Buying Plans

A sample of households in the Wayne area is among the approximately 15,000 in the United States included in the Consumer Buying and Residential Attitudes and Repairs Survey conducted by the Bureau of the Census.

Interviewing will take place the first two weeks of April. Taken four times yearly as part of a nationwide effort to guide governmental agencies in developing programs based on consumer spending patterns, the survey gathers information on intentions to buy a house, a car and major household equipment during the next 12 months. Questions about home repairs and alternations relate only to those made during the past three months.

The January survey showed that consumer plans to buy new cars were higher than in October, but there was no statistically significant change in plans to buy major household appliances, furniture or carpets, or to make home improvements.

Information supplied by individuals taking part in the survey is confidential and is published only as part of statistical totals in which no household can be identified.

One Teacher Resigns, Two Will Retire in Wayne-Carroll System

Only one teacher in the Wayne-Carroll school system had resigned by the time contracts were to be signed and turned into school officials Monday, reports superintendent Francis Haun.

Haun said Tuesday that the only teacher who has said he will not return next school year is Ernest Bedell, vocal music teacher in the middle school and high school.

Two other teachers will retire at the end of this year under the mandatory retirement age requirement, Haun noted.

They are Eleanor Edwards, language training teacher in the middle school, and Violet Rickers, fourth grade teacher at West Elementary.

All the other teachers in the system signed their contracts by Monday's deadline, indicating they would return next year, Haun said.

However, he noted, teachers have until the middle of June to sign contracts to teach elsewhere.

Teachers in the school system earlier this month voted to accept a salary schedule which had been agreed upon by representatives of the Wayne Education Association and the school board.

The school board will probably vote on whether to accept the schedule at its regular monthly meeting on Monday, April 9. The schedule calls for raising

Teacher Retires After 37 Years in Classroom

A graduate of Carroll High School and Wayne State College will retire at the end of this school year after completing 15 years of teaching Latin and English at Norfolk Senior High School.

Miss Blanche Collins taught at Battle Creek, where she was high school principal, and at West Point before going to Norfolk. Earlier she was employed for 13 years in South Dakota.

She has taught school a total of 37 years and has lived in Wayne since 1929.

"My high school career established the desire to be a teacher when I had such outstanding teachers as Mrs. Mildred Jones, now teaching English at Wayne State College; Mrs. Val Peterson, the former Betty Pleak, and Ruthven Andersen, well known and long-time Nebraska educator," she said.

Family members who also have been teachers include her mother, an aunt and an uncle.

Miss Collins received her undergraduate degree from Wayne State and her graduate degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder. In college she was active in the Newman Club and in Sigma Tau Delta, English honorary.

Her first experience in teaching came in a rural school after two years of college. Realizing she would rather teach in high school, she returned to college at the close of the year and completed work on her degree.

Memories of her early years of teaching include sponsoring pep club, directing plays, charting basketball games and planning junior senior banquets as well as being the only sponsor of a senior snack day trip. She has travelled through more than half the states in America and in Mexico and Canada.

Although she has taught both Latin and English, she lists Latin as "her first love," noting that students who take both subjects have a better understanding of both languages.

BLANCHE COLLINS

In commenting on today's young people, she said, "I feel the youth of today are so capable, and when the time comes they will come through."

She is a member of NU Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary for women educators, and Catholic Daughters of America.

After retirement, she will continue to make her home in Wayne, where her sister, Irene Collins, lives. She hopes to have more time to devote to playing golf, knitting, sewing, cooking and visiting.

Easter Seal Drive Starts April 1

The Easter Seal drive in Wayne County will get underway April 1, said Mrs. Mathilde Harms of Wayne, county chairman.

The drive will start both in the rural and city areas, she explained, and will end sometime about the end of the month.

According to Mrs. Harms, State National Bank will keep track of the funds collected, with David Ley in charge.

Set-Aside Requirements Reduced Once More

A further reduction in set-aside requirements for the full compliance provision of the 1973 feed grain program has been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in order to bring feed grain supplies more in line with expected demand.

The required set-aside for full compliance is changed from 25 to 10 per cent of a producer's feed grain base. For participants who elected not to comply fully with the set-aside requirements, the required set-aside remains unchanged at zero per cent.

The action is taken to prevent or alleviate a shortage in the supply of agricultural commodities, freeing an estimated additional 13.5 million acres for production of grain and other crops ahead of forage.

Department officials said the action is considered necessary after reviewing the March 1 planting intentions report. They are considered "insufficient" to fulfill projected domestic and export demand and maintain adequate carryover stocks, they said.

As a result of the reduced set-aside requirements, the department estimates that an additional 7.5 to 3.5 million acres will be planted to corn, the remainder of the 13.5 million acres will be available for the planting of other crops and for haying and grazing.

USDA officials stressed that no enrollment changes will be allowed in the feed grain and wheat programs.

Those producers who agreed in the recently concluded 1973 feed grain program sign-up (February 3-March 16) to set aside 25 per cent of their feed grain base will not receive less program payment and will automatically have their set-aside reduced to 10 per cent. Grazing and haying on the remaining 10 per cent set-aside will be optional with the same dollar-per-acre deduction as before.

Officials also stressed that program payments to those who elected not to set-aside any acreage would not be affected by the action. Conserving base requirements will remain unchanged. Total payment per farm for participation will remain unchanged from that announced on January 31 and as agreed to at enrollment.

Producers who have signed up in the 1973 feed grain program need take no further action at this time as no further signatories, forms or papers are necessary. There will be no additional cost to producers where remeasurement services are required.

Ak-Sar-Ben Helping Fairs Once Again

For the 20th straight year, Ak-Sar-Ben is offering matching grants to the county fairs of Nebraska. Executive director Tom Brock said this year Ak-Sar-Ben is offering a maximum of $1,000 on a matching basis to each Nebraska county fair, except those which conduct a pari-mutuel race meeting. The first program is a $500 matching grant for new construction. Ak-Sar-Ben is also providing an additional $500 "Spruce Up" grant for repairs, painting, landscaping, cement work, roofing and beautification. The County Fair Improvement Program is one of a series of projects of financial assistance to county fairs made possible by funds from Ak-Sar-Ben's annual race meeting. Brock pointed out, "We believe Ak-Sar-Ben's program of matching grants has been an important factor in making the county fairs in Nebraska the finest in the United States." Brock said Ak-Sar-Ben not only offers its annual grants to the county fairs, but is also the major contributor to the state admission taxes and daily license fees at the Thoroughbred race meetings in the state. In addition, Ak-Sar-Ben provides premium money at the county fairs. Last year, Ak-Sar-Ben awarded $38,243 in improvement grants, provided over $100,000 in the state admission taxes and state license fees, and contributed $28,353 in premiums for a total to the county fairs of over $166,000, Brock said. Over the past 19 years, these three sources of county fair aid from Ak-Sar-Ben have provided almost $3,000,000, according to Brock.

No one was hurt. Later that night, about 9 p.m., a car operated by Blane Rubbeck, Carroll, was backing from a parking stall near Ray's DK platform on Seventh and Main, when it struck a steel post.

Japanese Trainee Aims to Improve Farming Methods at Home

By BOB BARTLETT

In Japan, a farmer who attempts to make a living off the land usually has to settle for an average of two and a half acres. Reason—shortage of living space due to over population.

Kiyoski Ogata can't change that fact, but through the Japanese Agricultural Training Program he can help improve the farming methods in his home land.

Kiyoski, better known to the Richard Sorensen family of rural Wayne as "Nelson," is spending two years in the United States to learn more about swine farming. Helping him is the Sorensen family. Dick is a member of the National 4-H Program, the American organization which helps sponsor the Japanese program.

Nelson arrived in Wayne about the end of December. During his stay until next January, he works on the farm learning about hog raising. His main hope is to go back to Japan and begin cooperative farming with two of his friends.

One of my friends is in Idaho under the same program," Nelson explained, "and the third member is back in Japan."

Nelson, 23, decided to go into farming as a part of the Japanese custom for the oldest boy of the family to carry on his father's occupation.

About 10 years ago, Nelson said his father turned from practicing medicine to farming.

All the Japanese who come to America under the program, Sorensen pointed out, must pay their own way.

When Nelson came to Wayne, Sorensen agreed to pay him the going farmhand rate. At the end of each month Dick gives Nelson $50 of his paycheck while sending the remainder away to take care of paying traveling expenses.

"Nelson is a real good worker," Sorensen noted. "He really wants to learn, which makes it easier for me to teach him."

One thing that Nelson does have trouble with though is learning how to handle farm machinery. "I guess it is because in Japan they are not used to working with such big equipment," Dick said.

When Nelson's father first found out his son was going to raise hogs instead of the traditional rice, he didn't understand and didn't want Nelson to start such an operation. "But after a while, I convinced him," Nelson said.

Because of Japan's overpopulation, Nelson explained, it is hard to raise a lot of live stock since the cost of feed is so high. Most of the feed has to be imported, therefore raising the cost of production.

"We cannot afford to grow our own feed for the animals because there wouldn't be enough room to grow food for the people," he said.

Before Nelson came to the United States, he went through an extensive screening program along with several hundred other Japanese men.

"Only 18 per cent of us passed the stiff requirements to come over here," Nelson explained.

When he first arrived in America, Nelson stayed in the state of Washington for about six months to learn about the different types of orchard farming.

After that period, he came to Wayne to live and work with the Sorensens. In April Nelson will go to the University of Nebraska Lincoln to study swine production further. Three months later he will return to the Sorensen farm for the remainder of his stay in America.

For both Dick and his family, Nelson is not the first man they have helped. In fact, he is the seventh member of the program to work with the Sorensens.

"This is a real good program," Dick said. "About 1966 the program got under way, and ever since then we have signed up on a yearly basis. To have one of the Japanese men come over here to learn."

Dick said the program is becoming larger every year, with more and more men participating all the time.

While at the Sorensens, Nelson has learned that there is more food in the world than his normal Japanese diet of fish and soybean soup.

For Nelson there is one special kind of food that he really likes—good old American apple pie.

One reason Nelson has taken a real liking to apple pie can be attributed to Mrs. Sorensen. "She's a very good cook," Nelson beamed.

According to Mrs. Sorensen, Nelson is the only one of the seven Japanese men to enjoy apple pie.

Most of the men liked pork chops, steak or spaghetti, she commented, but Nelson is the only one to admit that he likes pie the best.

Choose Goals
The second meeting of the Carrolliners 4-H Club was held March 5 at 7 p.m. at the Carroll auditorium. Twenty-four girls answered roll call by naming their favorite subject.

Goals chosen for the year include community betterment, more girls attending 4-H judgings, more girls attending speech contest and more recreation at meetings.

The club discussed the speech contest. Project and record books were handed out and girls met with their project leaders.

Those on the serving committee were Karlene and Christi Benshoof, Kathy and Carol Peterson and Jeanine Harmer.

Next meeting will be March 26 at 7 p.m. at the Carroll auditorium.

Now available in Amoco anhydrous ammonia

ACA

Now there's something new in anhydrous ammonia... our Agricultural Crop Additive (ACA). It could mean bigger yields for you. In our tests it produced wider, greener leaves—vigorous growth—better developed root systems and stronger stalks. And in 85% of the tests conducted, these growth differences resulted in increased yields compared to regular ammonia application.

Try Amoco ammonia (ACA) on your farm. The additional cost per acre is less than the price of a bushel of corn. It's recommended for corn and certain other crops, but don't apply it to wet, poorly-drained soils. See us for complete details.

Veterans' Benefits Questions, Answers

Q. I hear the Veterans Administration medics are getting ready to "grow new arms and legs on amputees and regenerate hearts of people who have had heart attacks." Does this bring regeneration of the spinal cord any closer for paralyzed veterans?
A. There is nothing anywhere near as far along as growing new arms or legs on humans, or regenerating their hearts or spinal cords. But the VA does have some quite promising research on regeneration of limbs and hearts of animals, which lends hope for future progress in this field.
Q. How many former drug addicts and former alcoholics can the Veterans Administration hire by special appointments to help rehabilitate patients of this kind?
A. The VA has been authorized to hire 200 former drug addicts and former alcoholics under these special appointments. The agency also hires veterans who are ex-addicts for other jobs.
