

COUNT ZORGA

Cartoon Strips Begin In Newspaper Monday

A 16-year-old sophomore at Wayne High School joins the editorial staff of The Wayne Herald this week.

He is Dick Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carlson of Wayne. His specialty: drawing cartoons.

"Count Zorga" is just one of several cartoon strips young Carlson has been developing. One which appeared recently in The Herald was called "Hillbilly Blues." Other strips he is working on include "Not So Wild West," "Barnie and Cindy" and "Stuart Sor of Slick," a strip about an inhabitant of another planet who finds things on earth a bit confusing.

Carlson has been drawing "ever since I can remember." He is currently doing some painting along with his class in advanced painting at Wayne High School.

Drawing cartoons isn't very difficult, he says; if he can just come up with a funny idea. The funny ideas are the hard things to come by, he admits.

Carlson's cartoons will begin appearing on Monday's editorial page starting the next issue of the newspaper.

Wayne Woman Also Receives Scholarship

Verna M. Geewe of Wayne is one of the 40 Nebraska school teachers who were recently awarded $150 Ak-Ben scholarships for post graduate summer school study.

Miss Geewe, daughter of Mrs. Irene Geewe of Wayne, is a 1960 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1964 graduate of Wayne State College. She taught at Scribner three years and has spent the past six years as a business education instructor in the Wisner-Priger school system.

Also awarded a scholarship was Doug Barclay, teacher-coach at Winside.

Two Stumbling Blocks Now Facing NPPD's 230,000-Volt Power Line

Two large stumbling blocks now face Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) as it builds its 230,000-volt transmission line across Wayne and Dixon Counties.

One involves the Wayne municipal airport east of the city, the other a proposed restricted landing area on the Elton Miller farm about two miles west of Wakefield.

Both could halt further construction of the power lines in those areas and possibly force the power company to reroute the line.

NPPD has already constructed poles to carry the line inside a three-mile radius of the Wayne airport, possibly in violation of zoning regulations.

The Wayne city council Tuesday night ordered the city attorney to begin investigations to determine if the power poles are in violation and whether they might jeopardize the city's obtaining any further state or federal funds for airport improvements.

Zoning regulations require that no structure be built inside the three-mile radius which are more than 150 feet above the landing strip, according to a city official. City councilmen fear that the 70 to 80-foot transmission line poles built on hills south and east of the airport stand above that height.

If the poles do violate regulations, the city will have to decide whether to require NPPD to tear them out and put the line farther south and east of the airport.

That would probably delay construction of the line several months.

Miller is currently seeking approval of the Nebraska Aeronautics Commission for a restricted landing area for personal use on his land west of Wakefield.

NPPD opposed approval during a commission meeting Friday in Lincoln, saying that the line would come within 160 feet of the proposed landing strip, and would create a flying hazard.

Miller, who said he has been interested in flying for several years, has already objected to construction of NPPD's line, forcing the issue to condemnation procedures in Dixon County court.

The court awarded him $3,000 for easement rights, almost double the $1,525 NPPD offered for the five poles which would be on his land, he said.

Miller said he has already received federal approval for the landing strip.

Construction of the line across his property would prohibit further use of the landing area, which private pilots have used in past years for emergency landings, he said.

Miller said Wednesday that NPPD has failed to obtain a permit from the Nebraska Public Services Commission for construction of the line and that it's about time "they started doing things according to the law."

At Friday's meeting in Lincoln the state aeronautics commission questioned why NPPD went ahead with construction of the line prior to obtaining the state's approval.

The transmission line, being built between Dakota City and Norfolk, would serve the large steel mill under construction near Norfolk.

Methodists To Vote On Church

This weekend members of the First United Methodist Church in Wayne will vote on whether to build a new $330,000 church.

The vote will be held at the present church at Sixth and Main Street Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be a congregation charge conference at 4 p.m. Sunday to announce results of the voting.

Proposed is a new facility to be located on the west side of Highway 15 just across from Rice Auditorium on the north edge of the city.

The new two-level brick building would have 10 classrooms and a fellowship hall. It would be air conditioned and have a hard-surface parking area.

The congregation voted 125-73 in favor of building a new facility several years ago after a study was made to determine if the present church could be renovated or an addition built to it. Church members launched a fund raising drive in late 1967 with a goal of $110,000 in three years and $365,000 in nine years. Some $120,000 was pledged in the first three-year period, and as of last December there was a total of $75,418 collected.

On the building committee working on drawing up preliminary plans for the new structure are chairman Loren Park, Arnold Marr, Stan Morris, Willard Waite, Glenn Walker, Niel Edmunds and Troy Vaughn.

POSSIBLY IN VIOLATION of airport zoning regulations near Wayne and being opposed by a Wakefield farmer who is seeking state approval for a restricted landing area is NPPD's 230,000-volt transmission line (route shown in heavy dashes).

Scouts Coming Around Again For Newspapers

Get your bundles and boxes of newspapers ready, because Boy Scout Troop 175 will be conducting its monthly paper drive Saturday.

Scouts ask that residents in Wayne, Winside and Carroll tie their newspapers into bundles or put them in boxes on their doorsteps or curbs so they can be picked up during Saturday's day-long drive.

Residents are reminded not to put magazines, slick newspaper inserts and the like into their newspaper bundles because these will not be accepted by the recycling plant.

Saturday's drive begins at 8:30 a.m. Chairmen for this month's collection effort are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kemp of Wayne.

Hospital Bid Opening Slated Today

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) on construction of the $1.5 million medical center planned for Wayne.

Construction on the project is expected to begin in early May, according to Bob Carhart of Wayne, president of the Wayne Hospital Foundation.

Bids will be opened on work in five areas: general, mechanical, electrical, food service or kitchen equipment, and carpentry.

The new facility will replace the present municipal hospital in Wayne, offering medical services to Wayne and the surrounding area.

Denesia Receives Honor

A Wayne native, Thomas Denesia, has been selected as one of the 20 most outstanding Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) junior engineering students in the nation.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denesia of Wayne, he was chosen—for the honor—by the Society of American Military Engineers. He received a gold medal and a certificate of merit in recognition of the honor during the first annual Air Force ROTC aerospace awards banquet held recently at Wichita State University at Wichita, Kan.

A 1969 graduate of Wayne High School, Denesia, 21, is in his fourth year of a five-year engineering program at the school.

During the evening he also received the Air-Force Association Award.

Public Being Invited To 3 YARC Sessions

Three sessions during the state Youth Association for Retarded Children (YARC) convention to be held in Wayne this weekend will be open to the public.

The three sessions, all to be held Saturday, are a communication skills workshop at 1:45 p.m.; a musical program at 2:45 p.m.; and a basketball game at 8 p.m. All are scheduled for Rice Memorial auditorium on the Wayne State College campus. Sharon Racksdachel, a speech therapist with the Lincoln Office of Mental Retardation, will conduct the communication work shop. Mentally retarded children from the area will take part.

From 2:45 to 3:15 p.m. the Special Education Music Makers Brass Band, a group composed of musically talented retarded and handicapped youngsters, will perform under the direction of Dale Caris of Sioux City. Thirty members of the 90-piece band from the Sioux City area See YARC, page 6

Church Rededication Is Sunday

Rededication of the United Presbyterian Church building, which has served the Wayne congregation nearly three quarters of a century, will be held Sunday afternoon, said the Rev. Robert H. Haas, pastor.

The building, which was erected about the turn of the century at a cost of $12,000, has undergone its first major remodeling since 1925. The ninth month project was completed this past October at a cost of $70,000.

The Rev. Douglas Potter, who serves the United Presbyterian congregations of Laurel and Belden, will speak at the 3 p.m. rededication services. Potter served as moderator of the church governing board during the beginning phases of the remodeling program.

Wayne was a struggling prairie village of 100 persons when 11 charter members met to organize the First Presbyterian Church 92 years ago. Forty persons attended the first services held at the unfinished business house of J.L. Alcorn in 1881 and the first church building was dedicated in 1883.

The recently completed remodeling of the second, present building included a new narthex, remodeling of the chancel area, two new offices, new ladies' room on first floor, new room partitions and ceiling for second floor educational unit; changing of the heating system; exit from basement teen room; exit and stairway from second floor educational unit, new heating system for the first floor, change in wiring system, new light fixtures, carpeting, painting inside and out and other minor improvements.

Steinbacher Criticizes Schools In Speech at Wayne Church Tuesday

In a 90-minute speech directed against the secular humanist movement, John Steinbacher Tuesday afternoon criticized modern school programs in America, saying their continuance would lead to the downfall of the American civilization.

Steinbacher, editor of "The National Educator," a Fullerton, Calif., newspaper, and author of such books as "The Child Seducers," and "The Conspirators: Men Against God," was guest speaker at the Lutheran Women's Missionary League zone workshop held at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. His talk was open to the public.

In his opening remarks, he expressed distress with modern educators who are redefining the student, the teacher and the classroom. He quoted leading education journals which now speak of the student as a mentally ill patient, the teacher as a psychotherapist and the classroom as a mental health clinic.

Steinbacher says that secular humanist thinking, which he feels is behind these ideas, aims for the breakdown of all values the child has absorbed during his first years at home, just as Hitler did in Germany.

Steinbacher took offense with a teacher who had said, "I don't worry about teaching a child facts. I just teach him to think."

Modern education programs, which attempt to teach the whole child and put less emphasis on subject matter, will end in an eventual destruction of our civilization, he said.

One of the programs Steinbacher outlined as dangerous is the "Main Course" of Study for seventh and eighth graders, which he called the catechism for secular humanism.

William Glasser, a psychiatrist who was well received when he spoke in Wayne last fall, was blasted by Steinbacher for his teaching techniques.

Glasser, who wrote "Reality Therapy" and "Schools Without Failure," emphasizes non-graded teaching and initiated the magic circle.

The magic circle allows fifth, sixth and seventh graders to meet for periodic discussions without judgemental or biased comments by instructors, on topics of their own choosing.

"These brainwashed students," says Steinbacher, "pick topics which are always controversial, ones such as abortion, Vietnam or the pill."

"In the magic circle," he went on, "the attitude is always liberal—there is no black or white."

Steinbacher concluded his talk by urging people to become informed about their school systems and involved in protecting students from what he feels are dangerous programs.

About 100 attended the all-day LWML Christian Growth workshop, with an estimated 200 persons present to hear Steinbacher's speech.

Mrs. E. A. Binger, Wayne Zone Christian Growth chairman from Wakefield, conducted the meeting. Opening devotions were by host pastor, the Rev. E. J. Bernthal. Mrs. Ray Prochaska, district Christian Growth chairman from Wakefield, spoke briefly and closing devotions were given by the Rev. G. W. Gottberg of Winside.

Mrs. Herbert Heywood, district president from Hooper was also in attendance. LWML members were present from Altona, Winside, Wayne, Carroll, Laurel, Concord, Wakefield, Martinsburg, Newcastle, and South Sioux City.

Kirtley Gives Center Sermonette

Eighteen were at the Wayne Senior Citizen Center Friday afternoon for the sermonette by the Rev. Frank Kirtley of the First United Methodist Church. His topic was "If a Man Dies, Will He Live Again?" A sharing and caring session followed. The singing was led by Amanda Owens, accompanied by Alma Spittiger. Next sermonette and singing will be at 2 p.m. Friday, May 16.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Wes Pfueger, assistant librarian from the Wayne Public Library, brought eight new books to the center and reported on them to the 11 members who turned out for the library hour.

Books which may be checked out from the center and returned to either the center or the library, include "Money for the Taking," "Forever and a Day," "Big Freeze," "January Thaw," "Proudly They Die," "The Battle of the Little Bighorn," "Never No More," and "She Fell Among Thieves."

The books may be kept out for one month. No library card is necessary for the center library service. Next library hour will be at 2 p.m. Thursday May 17.

The monthly potluck dinner at the center Wednesday was attended by 35 members. Lillian Kirchner and Esther Larson arranged the centerpiece. On the volunteer committee were Ed Johnson, Glen Sumner, Anton Pedersen, Mary Echtenkamp, Louise Hoerzon, Emma Soules, Lidia Vahkarnp, Elizabeth Meyer, Alice Dorman, Anna Jensen, Goldie Leonard, Anna Mohlfeld, Mathilde Harms and Rena Pedersen.

Genevieve Craig accompanied group singing and Anton Pedersen showed slides of scenic Nebraska and center happenings including the boat ride taken by center members last summer.

Emma Soules, Lillian Zapp, Rena Pedersen and Jocell Bull put together an Easter egg tree with twinkle podge. Next potluck dinner will be May 16.

An Easter lily was presented to the center by Ruth Wright.

Club Meets With Mrs. Mohlfeld

Happy Homemakers Home Extension Club members met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Alvin Mohlfeld with nine members and a guest, Mrs. Paul Hilpert.

Mrs. Bernhard Spittiger read an article, "Grocer Begins Selling Soybean Burgers." The lesson on winter bouquets was presented by Mrs. Mohlfeld.

The group decided to visit the Manor in June and appointed a committee for the May 4 county home extension spring tea to be held at the Wayne city auditorium. Plans were made for a booth at the county fair and a committee was named to make arrangements for a club tour in July.

May 17 meeting will be at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Bernhard Spittiger.

EXTENSION NOTES

Careless Shopping Habits
When food costs rise, the finger of blame seldom rests on the food shopper. Yet, poor shopping habits do contribute to higher food costs.

Most consumers pride themselves on housekeeping skills, but they don't hesitate to clutter up a store. There are those who leave a jar of pickles on the sugar shelf, a can of tuna on the bread shelf, a bag of grapes among the magazines and a half gallon of ice cream with the lettuce.

The store manager has to discard unrefrigerated produce and defrosted foods, hire a stock clerk to keep the shelves tidy and raise prices just a bit to cover these unnecessary expenses.

Some shoppers test every item they buy for freshness. They snap beans, pinch the peaches, squeeze the tomatoes and strip back the sweet corn, then leave what they've tested for the next consumer.

The produce manager has to continually rework the display and discard damaged produce. To make up for the loss, he'll put a small markup on everything else sold in the department.

Prepackaged produce is a different result of efforts to reduce loss from too much handling of delicate fruits and vegetables. Although shoppers have expressed a dislike for prepackaged produce, they dislike even more the increases resulting from excess handling losses.

How about the shopping carts in the parking lot? Each cart costs the retailer $30 to $50.

One of the most expensive costs in the retail food business is shoplifting. Not limited to any one community, it is a nationwide problem. Many large food stores plan on losing one percent of gross sales every year because of shoplifters.

The next time you complain about food costs, look at your shopping habits. Would they pass an inspection test?

Coach Stamp finds new records for Allen girls' track

ALLEN HIGH GIRLS' track coach Lorna Stamp made it official last week — the school does have records in individual events.

Last week I reported there weren't any records on file. Well, that statement wasn't wrong. It's just Miss Stamp decided to run down the list of events her girls ran so far this season and check who had the best marks.

As of Tuesday, JoAnne Roberts, who holds the record in the long jump with a

Wildcat Cindermen Give Best Performance at Sioux City

Wayne State's track team enjoyed its best performance in several years Saturday with Kevin Carper and Layne Herber setting two records and each winning two events in the Art Van Wyngarden Relays in Sioux City.

Carper, of Scribner, claimed one of the marks on his 6.2 high jump — short of his 6.4 school record, which he has cleared several times.

Herber, of Omaha, launched the discus 144.3 for the meet mark.

Carper also collected a first in the javelin with a 110.4 toss, and 14-3 leap for the Lewis and Clark Conference, is the leader for the Eagle-ettes. She set that mark during the conference's first girls' track meet at Winside.

She also has the best time in the 100 yard dash, with a 1:30.0 clocking, taking second in that event at the LC meet.

Looking at the rest of the list:
 80-yard hurdles — Karl Erwin, :12.2;
 50-yard dash — Kathy Moore, :07.1; 220-yard dash — Marcelle Book, :33.2; 400-yard dash — Karl Erwin, 1:13.2; 800-yard run — Colleen Chapman, 3:15;
 440-yard relay — Diane Fahrenholz, :59; 800-yard relay — Karl Erwin, 2:11; shot put — Cathy Smith, 26-10; high jump — Diane Fahrenholz, 42, and discus — Kim Jackson, 85-10 1/2.

An interesting sidelight, Roberts, Fahrenholz and Erwin are freshmen. Could be a lot of new records in store for the girls and the school.

NORFOLK'S Brian Frink is off to the National Junior Golden Gloves championships.

The 134-pound son of former Carroll residents Mr. and Mrs. Don Frink, went

According to his sister, Mrs. LeRoy Nelson of Carroll, Brian will attend the bouts scheduled for sometime in August. As yet, she pointed out, where it will be held isn't definite. Of the three locations mentioned, Minnesota has been eliminated, leaving Detroit and Dallas as the two contenders. Right now, signs are pointing to Dallas as the site.

This is the third straight year Frink has won the state junior king title and his second consecutive Tri-State award.

IT LOOKS like some of the women in Hoskins are getting in their share of fun this spring with several volleyball games. Wednesday night last week both teams took two games each. More games are scheduled during the remainder of the month.

Players include Marci Luhr, Lois Anderson, Betty Bronzynski and Kathy Davids on one team and Jeannie Plantenberg, Judy Miller, Cheryl and Sherry Deip on the other.

Wakefield Raps Leigh for Two

Wakefield blasted three home runs in the first game for an 11-8 victory, then coasted to a 12-0 shutout over Leigh Tuesday in a twin bill to boost the team record to 5-1.

Catcher Kirk Gardner, third baseman Keith Siebrandt and center fielder Randy Hallstrom each connected for a round tripper in the early stages of the opener to give the visitors an 11-3 command after three innings.

Wakefield then managed to hold on after Leigh rallied with five runs in the fifth.

In the second game, the Trojans wiped up the Panthers on the two-hit pitching of Bruce Paul.

Paul whiffed 13 batters and walked none during the match to make his record 2-0.

Wakefield opened its scoring barrage with four runs in the first and added one in the second and two in the third before bursting out for another four runs in the fourth. Wakefield added its final run in the fifth.

During the two games, the Trojans smacked 25 hits to bring their season team average to .436. They have scored 58 runs

KEVIN CARPER, Wayne State's record high jumper, clears a six foot height easily in a practice leap. The April graduate from Scribner continues to spark Wayne's track team, which is forced this year to do all its competing away from home. Carper has done 6-6 several times since he first posted that school record last year.

Council Moves Part Way To Extending Bar Closing

The city council moved a third of the way toward permitting taverns to sell beer and package liquor until 1 a. m. during Tuesday night's council meeting. The council approved a motion to extend the closing hour from midnight to 1 a. m., but voted against going along with reading the ordinance at three separate meetings — apparently to give the public a chance to object to the extension.

The vote to extend the closing hour — 6-2, with councilmen Vernon Russell and Ivan Beeks voting against it — came after one tavern manager, Mike Looft, told the council that all taverns and bottle clubs should close at the same time.

"There shouldn't be any favoritism, with one closing three at midnight and the other at 1 a. m.," said Looft, manager of Dick's Tavern. "I feel it's unfair to have to put my customers out at midnight, and they can get up the street (and drink in a bottle club)," he said.

Current ordinances permit bottle clubs and non-profit clubs such as the Vet's Club to remain open until 1 a. m., but require places which sell only beer to close at midnight.

At least one councilman, Pat Gross, noted before the vote that there is a question of fairness in permitting some liquor places to remain open longer than others.

The council will now have to vote on the proposed ordinance at its next meeting. The council could vote in favor of it again and do away with the third and final reading, or it could require the third reading and still another vote before finally disposing of the issue.

Approved during the council meeting was the apparent low bid on asphalt work to be done at the municipal airport east of the city.

Apparent low bid was turned in by Brockman Construction Co. of Sioux City, $24,707.

Also bidding on the work were Western Engineering, Harlan, Ia., $24,741; Brower Construction Co., Sioux City, $25,800, and Kraco Construction Co., Sioux City, $29,499.

Sent to committee for further study were bids turned in by four companies which supply large fuel storage tanks. Bids were for a variety of tanks, ranging in size from 100,000 gallons to 430,000 gallons.

The council has been considering purchasing large storage tanks in hopes of avoiding any future fuel shortages such as those which faced the city this past winter.

Also sent to committee was the proposal by Nebraska Public Power District to connect its power lines with those of the city's.

At the same time the council voted 8-0 to hire an independent engineer to come up with recommendations about how the city should intertie with the power company.

"Because we can't get (storage) tanks until November and because of the fuel problems, it's imperative that we intertie," councilman Jim Thomas said during the discussion.

"I don't want to go through another winter like last year," Thomas said, referring to the problems the city had in January and February in obtaining fuel to power the generators at the city light plant.

Thomas said that such things as who would own the substations, how long a contract the city would sign with MPPD and the like could be negotiated at a later time. "What we have to do now is intertie," he emphasized.

In other action the council voted 7-1 (Russell abstaining) to change the hours the city landfill is open for dumping of trash.

The hours will be changed to noon to 3 p. m., and 6 to 8 p. m. Tuesday and Thursday and noon to 5 p. m., and 6 to 8 p. m. on Saturday.

Carroll High Graduate Consultant in Turkey

A graduate of Carroll High School, Dr. Warren W. Sah's of Lincoln, next week will complete a two-week stint as an agricultural consultant in Turkey.

Dr. Sah's, brother of Mrs. Arthur Cook and Gilmore Mrs. of Carroll, has been working for the Turkish Ministry of Agriculture and the Rockefeller Foundation at Ankara, Turkey.

Director of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural research facility at Mead, he has been helping develop an experiment station management organization.

He also has been laying out experimental fields, shaping land for irrigation, advising persons concerning establishment of sprinkler irrigated areas and planning facilities for shop, seed and chemical storage, machinery parking, general stores and offices.

The Turkish Ministry of Agriculture has acquired an experimental farm consisting of 300 hectares (about 740 acres). The farm will eventually total about 600 hectares and will be used by several research institutes for various experimental purposes.

Dr. Sah's, who attended Wayne State College before graduating from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, spent one year in India with the Rockefeller Foundation in 1961 and 1962.

Sponsoring the meeting is the Dixon County sheriff's office.

Wakefield Will Host Area 'Staters' Sunday

All Boys and Girls Staters, alternates and their parents are invited to a meeting at Wakefield Sunday afternoon to acquaint the youths with what they can expect during the June event.

Being hosted by the Wakefield American Legion and Auxiliary, the meeting will begin with registration at 1:30 in the Wakefield fire hall. The meeting begins at 2 p. m., with speakers and a question and answer period scheduled.

Purpose of the meeting, first of its kind in the area, is to give the youths an idea of what goes on during Boys and Girls State in Lincoln and to permit them to become acquainted with those who will be attending from this American Legion district.

Presiding at the meeting will be Mrs. Merle Von Minden of Allen, District Three Auxiliary president, and Darrel Merry of Thurston, district Legion commander. Lunch will be furnished by the Auxiliary units and Legion posts in the district.

The annual Boys and Girls State will be held at the Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln June 9-15.

All money pledged will be spent on development of the hospital and on costs of borrowing for interim financing and in increases in construction costs.

The new hospital to be called Providence Medical Center, will be built east of Wayne State College. Bids on construction of the facility were opened today (Thursday).

Turn Clocks Ahead

It's just about that time to set your clocks ahead again so you keep in step with the rest of the people during daylight saving time.

You are supposed to turn your clocks ahead one hour at 2 a. m. Sunday when the state officially moves into daylight saving. You'll probably find it a lot easier to turn them ahead when you go to bed Sunday night.

The extra hour of daylight lasts until the last Sunday in October.

Six Towns Scheduled To Participate in EDITH Fire Drill

Six area towns, including Wayne, will participate in the upcoming EDITH drill May 12 at 8:30 p.m.

Fire chiefs from Winside, Carroll, Concord, Dixon, Laurel and Wayne pointed out that they intend to promote EDITH — Extra Drill In The Home.

Three area towns — Allen, Wakefield and Hoskins — are not sure whether or not they will join in during the drills. The individual departments are scheduled to make their decisions in their May monthly meeting.

Wayne Firm To Open 1st Branch Office

Triangle Finance, a Wayne corporation specializing in small consumer loans, will open its first branch office next week.

The branch office will be located at West Point, with Rick Kraemer serving as manager.

Kraemer, a native of Allen, has been assistant manager at the Triangle Finance office at Wayne the past year and a half. Prior to joining the firm he was a bookkeeper at Allen.

Kraemer and his wife, Bernita, will move to West Point this week.

Wayne Man To Help Greet 2 Norwegians

Clifford Dahl of Wayne, member of Sioux City's Sioux Viking Lodge No. 494, Sons of Norway, is on a committee which will greet and entertain two dignitaries from Norway when they arrive this week.

The Norwegians are mayor Arne Rettedahl and city manager Magna Knudsen of Stavanger, a sister city of Sioux City.

A delegation from Sioux City was in Stavanger last summer and the two men are returning the visit.

A reception banquet for the two men open to the public, will be held at a Sioux City this evening (Thursday).

Two Plan To Attend Exchange Gathering

Among those planning to attend a state gathering of exchange students at Kearney May 4 and 5 are Jon Thavon and Renee Kniesche.

Jon, an exchange student from Thailand, has been staying with the Cyril Hansens of rural Wayne while attending Wayne High School the past year. Renee, a senior at WHS, spent last summer as an exchange student in Argentina.

The Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission will be host to the 80 exchange students who expect to attend, about 25 Nebraskans who have been exchange students in other countries, families and host families.

The meeting will feature rap sessions, a chuck wagon dinner at Ft. Kearney State Park, a talent show and a tour of Pioneer Village at Minden.

Co-hosts for the events are Ft. Kearney State Park and Kearney State College.

Terrible Terry pulls one off, gets lawmakers to okay Exon's budget without slightest change

LINCOLN — Nebraska's lawmakers started Gov. J. J. Exon and most of the state last week.

Without warning and apparently without premeditation, the senators voted to adopt the governor's budget without a comma or a dollar sign changed and then go home.

They backed off from the latter part of that decision as the week progressed, but there was every indication as this was written that the Exon budget recommendations would be adopted.

And it wasn't at all certain that the 1973 Legislature, which could use up to 90 working days, would last out its full complement of time.

There was a decision against immediate adjournment upon adoption of the Exon operating budget so other issues could be considered before the senators go home, but many lawmakers have indicated they want to close up shop as quickly as possible.

At the middle of last week, it wasn't even clear whether this week will find the lawmakers at their desks in the legislative chamber or at home on spring vacation.

The original plan, adopted weeks ago, was to take off Good Friday and all the following week. That was in jeopardy, however, as discussions of final adjournment continued.

There was one hint: The senators overwhelmingly rejected a motion Wednesday to start the spring layoff a day early. They voted to be on duty Thursday of last week, leaving open Friday and the subsequent week.

All this fuss started abruptly a week ago Monday when Gov. J. J. Exon made an appearance before the senators.

The governor said the Legislature should go easy on spending and, if it did, the state income tax could be chopped from 15 per cent to 10 per cent. The state sales tax could be reduced from 2 1/2 per cent to two per cent, the governor said, if the federal revenue sharing money were used to help finance state government instead of used to support school aid, as he originally had suggested.

The major reason these tax rate cuts are possible, assuming the Legislature didn't authorize additional spending, is because the Nebraska economy has been healthy and yields from the sales and income taxes have been greater than expected.

Exon no sooner had left the chamber after his address than Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter took the floor to set in motion a remarkable series of events.

Why not, Carpenter asked, adopt the Exon budget bill with no changes and then adjourn without passing any other bills? If the governor can meet the state's legitimate needs with his operating budget and still reduce the taxes, Carpenter said, he ought to have his chance.

Support for this idea was immediate. Even Budget Chairman Richard D. Marvel, whose committee had prepared 11 pages of amendments costing more than $2.5 million to the governor's recommendations, lined up with Carpenter.

The lawmakers would be back in session in January — and could be called into special session earlier, if necessary — Marvel said, so adjustments could be made in the appropriations if Exon and the agencies found they couldn't live on the money in the governor's budget.

There was a lot of debate. Many senators — although minority, as it turned out — argued that the Legislature would be avoiding its constitutional duty to review the budget if it just accepted the Exon recommendations without study.

Nevertheless, the Carpenter motion was adopted on a 27-17 vote.

There was some retrenching in regard to immediate adjournment and by the next day the senators agreed they should pass those bills which didn't have any impact on the tax-supported general fund.

But, at least through mid-week, the Legislature was hanging firm on its decision to let Exon prove he could survive on his original budget recommendations.

The governor sent a letter saying he had never asked that his budget be adopted without amendments and that he had never suggested that the lawmakers refuse to appropriate any money at all for capital construction. Furthermore, he said the tax rate cuts he had talked about require the use of revenue sharing money the lawmakers had decided should be kept unused in a separate trust account.

His letter didn't change anything immediately. Neither did a letter from University of Nebraska President Durward Varner, who said NU would be in trouble if it didn't get the construction funds it had expected.

Special interest groups — from those supporting mentally retarded programs to welfare mothers — also were active trying to get the legislators to reconsider.

OBSERVATIONS

What an honor!

Wow! What an honor for the Wayne-Carroll school system to have one of its programs named among the top seven in the nation.

There are probably hundreds and hundreds of school districts which receive federal funds for innovative educational programs such as our "Project Success," but only seven of them have been singled out by the federal government as standing heads and shoulders above the rest.

It's an honor for a school to be singled out as among the top in its conference. It's even a greater honor to get recognition for being one of the best in the state. It's an honor of the highest rank to be cited nationally.

We can only echo superintendent Francis Haun's comments about the latest laurel to come our way: It is a significant recognition which everybody in the school system and the school district can justifiably feel proud about.

We won't begin mentioning names of persons who had a hand in earning the school district this honor. We would most certainly leave out somebody who helped. But those persons who have had a part in the program — and that includes everybody from school administration down to the community council, parents and children themselves — can hold their heads up a little higher today. After all, they're in the national spotlight.

Just a few comments

There's been too many things going on lately to wrestle with each one individually, so we'll take the easy way out and touch on some of them just briefly.

Youths at Allen are bucking each other to see who can send the most mice to college. Yup, that's right, mice. The mice won't be hitting the books, of course. In fact, they'll be the teachers. They will be used in studies to find cures for cancer at various research colleges across the nation. Who knows, one of those mice the Allen kids send to college just might be the one to solve the cancer mystery.

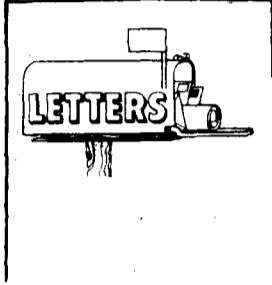

We've heard of shortages before, everything from fuel to lumber to sugar. Now it seems there's going to be a fertilizer shortage in the area. And federal officials seem concerned about it. It's too bad they can't wrap up and ship out to the farmers some of their daily pronouncements, predictions, warnings, guidelines and the like. We're sure it would turn barren land into blooming meadows.

Probably most drivers in the area would settle just for a nice stretch of Highway 15 past the Wayne golf course, and beyond. But it sounds like we're going to get a four-lane, super-duper of an improvement. We're betting that by the time it's all said and done, the money that will be spent on that little project would turn the highway between Wayne and Laurel into something which wouldn't give a guy thrills and spills every time he drove over it.

It's good that a group of businessmen are working to get a Thursday night promotion started again in Wayne. In a time when shoppers can hop in an air-conditioned, comfortable auto and drive to Sioux City or Norfolk in 30 or 40 minutes, businessmen should do everything they can to make sure local and area residents shop at home. The "Happy Birthday Bucks" promotion being worked on should prove every bit as popular as the old Cash Night drawings. One reason is that the "Bucks" could be used to pay such things as your telephone or gas bill. It's an attractive twist to add to the promotion.

Speaking of promotions, we would like to see the city of Wayne lead the way in a downtown-improvement program. Now hold on for just a minute. We're not talking about something which would cost thousands and thousands of dollars. More like hundreds. But it could prove so successful that businessmen and residents would be more than happy to spend money to make the town even more attractive. We would like to see the city set the pace in cleaning up, sprucing up and painting up city buildings. With a few buckets of paint and a lot of elbow grease, the city buildings in town could be turned into very attractive places. And we're betting that the businessmen wouldn't be far behind after they saw what could be done. Of course, for the city to do so somebody on the council would have to start doing a little pushing. Maybe it would be just the thing for the city to tackle, considering some of the problems we've had the past couple weeks.

Fremont Chief: What kind of man will you get?

Fremont

Dear Editor: I have just heard of the termination of chief Vern Fairchild from your police department, and I am very concerned about it.

All of us in law enforcement feel that our responsibility, when hired, is to enforce the laws of our city and state. It is very difficult for me to understand why the city of Wayne would fire a chief of police for doing his job. It makes me wonder what kind of new chief your city will be able to hire. Will he bend the law to fit the whims of a few?

It has been brought to my attention that your newspaper has given the chief's cause your backing. This is commendable. If the chief was wrong, I am sure he would expect The Wayne Herald to state this to its readers.

This is my feeling, and if you care to use any part of this letter in your paper please do.

Fred Whit, Chief of Police

'Don't let the guest editorial discourage you'

Wayne

Dear Editor: I hope you will continue to print all the facts and information as you have so beautifully done in the past year.

The poor taxpayers in this community appreciate your good editing to help keep us informed. Don't let the guest editorial by councilman Pat Gross discourage you.

Do you suppose there are some covered-up facts that Gross knows about, and is afraid you might find out about?

I don't need to use four-letter words, as he did, to express my disgust with his editorial. And to think he's representing people in his Ward... or is he?

Concerned

'The farmers need Highway 15 rebuilt'

Wakefield

Dear Editor: This is to answer about the golfers worrying about their golfing if the road (Highway 15) is rebuilt.

Most of them who play make their living off the farmers or people who live on this road that leads to Wayne.

I do wish they had to ride on this road as often as we do and they wouldn't worry about their golf course no matter what they do.

If we have to ride on this road very much longer we won't have a car to drive.

In fact, it may get so bad we will go elsewhere to trade.

There isn't a road in the state that needs to be done worse.

You better work to get this road done before '75.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 Years Ago

May 6, 1943: Fire which started from an oil stove Wednesday was extinguished at the Charles Heikes home south of Wayne before the house was damaged. The stove was destroyed. Norma Jean Test, Carol Freese, Annabel Warren, Grover Perkins, Gregory Stuve and Dick Kirwan escaped with minor injuries Monday evening when the E. C. Perkins car, driven by Grover, struck a culvert southwest of Wayne. The car was badly damaged. Scattered rains fell over this territory last Thursday with .15 of an inch registered at Wayne. While on duty at 12:30 Wednesday morning, one of the Wayne air unit guards was the victim of assault. As the guard asked an intruder to halt, another suddenly sneaked from darkness and struck him unconscious with a board. Wayne's army air corps unit will assist local workers in gathering scrap metal in the big drive being staged between May 10 to 22.

25 Years Ago

April 29, 1948: The Lindsay twins, Everett and Edwin, will celebrate their 75th birthday anniversary Saturday. The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning when lightning struck the north gable. Kiwanis club members observed the silver anniversary of their organization with a banquet Monday night. Phyllis Foster, junior at Wayne city high school, was chosen delegate to Nebraska Girl's State. Thursday is the traditional Bum's day at Wayne High School. Wayne State will graduate 155 teachers this year.

20 Years Ago

April 23, 1953: Fire damaged a utility room at the C. J. Boyce home Thursday morning. Some farmers report oats has been hurt by the lingering cold weather. Members of Wayne's newly organized camera club met Wednesday night to work out details for an exhibition of black and white prints and colored slides. An estimated 2,200 high school students from Northeast Nebraska participated in the District III Music contest held at the college Friday and Saturday. Rev. John F. Schortinghuis, pastor at Theophilus Evangelical Church, has resigned his position to accept a position at Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church, At Latic, Iowa. Wayne County soil conservation district officials were hosts to bankers from the county at a dinner meeting at Hotel Morrison Tuesday night.

15 Years Ago

May 1, 1958: Marlan Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Carlson, Wayne, has been selected for the third consecutive year to receive the Pi Kappa Lambda award at the University of Kansas. Howard Flier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Flier, Wayne, won the fourth annual Wayne Jaycee's teen age safe driving road on Sunday afternoon. Richard Longe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Longe, Wayne, suffered bruises and minor cuts last Wednesday while participating in a mass parachute jump with the 101st Airborne division. State Patrolman Carl W. Scheel was guest speaker at the Wayne Kiwanis Club meeting Monday noon at Hotel Morrison.

10 Years Ago

April 24, 1963: Mark Tietfort, Cozad teacher for the past three years, has received a National Science Foundation grant, which has a value of approximately $6,000. Tietfort is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Tietfort, Wayne, and was a graduate of Wayne High and Wayne State Teachers College. Dennis Marshall, Wayne, suffered lacerations about the head and arms and a hip injury Thursday night in a one car accident three miles north of Wayne.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

Car Cosmetics It's a Sunday sport in most of our communities to get out the car and give it a sudsy washdown and polish.

However, depending on your geographical location, local climate and the condition of the atmosphere where you live, you will have more or less varying things to look out for, and more or less work to do to preserve that new car look.

As noted in the Automotive Information Council's "Handbook for Automobile Maintenance," exterior maintenance doesn't require special equipment, and it's a good do-it-yourself project for the whole family.

The handbook goes on to point out that frequent washing with warm or cold water mixed with either a special car wash compound or mild laundry detergent is the best way to preserve your car's finish. Don't try to wipe off dirt with a dry cloth, the manual cautions—abrasive action of the dirt particles will scratch the finish.

It's especially important to wash your car frequently when it is exposed to salt air. Be sure to remove dirt from joints and crevices and flush with plenty of fresh water. If you live in an area where chemicals are used to melt snow and ice, the car should be washed as soon as possible after exposure to these materials.

Modern cars are finished with enamel or lacquer designed to resist fading from long exposure to the sun. However, the finish can be marred by a number of substances such as tree sap or ash from industrial plants. An application of liquid or paste wax or special silicone compound forms a thin barrier that protects the painted surface.

Chrome plated or polished aluminum surfaces also require protection against corrosive agents. Bumpers are especially vulnerable to snow-melting chemicals because they are so close to the road. Prolonged exposure to salt-laden air may cause pitting of bright metal parts. Wash them frequently and be sure to get dirt and salt out of corners and hidden areas where corrosion usually starts. Special cleaning solutions are available for use on chrome-plated surfaces.

Washing and polishing may not remove hard coatings of tar or dead insects. Special solvents are available for this purpose. After removing the stains, polish the area to get the shine back.

Remember, taking care of your car's locks is not all that hard and it could pay off at trade-in time.

FARM PAGE

Farmers Being Urged To Avoid Accidents

With summer around the corner, farmers should review tractor safety tips so unnecessary accidents don't happen, says Roy Stohler, Dixon County agricultural agent.

He notes that the farm department of the National Safety Council, which is placing special emphasis on tractor safety during April, estimates that 800 to 1,000 fatalities occur annually from tractor mishaps. Thousands of others suffer disabling injuries, he adds.

Nebraska had 21 tractor-related deaths in 1972, according to Stohler.

Here are a dozen tips Stohler urges tractor operators to remember before going into the fields on their tractors:

- Stay clear of ditches, embankments and holes.
- Don't allow others to ride, and keep children away.
- Cut speed when turning, crossing slopes or on slick surfaces.
- Watch for and avoid obstructions such as rocks and stumps.
- Stay off hills and slopes too steep for safe operation.
- Avoid overloads, and engage clutch slowly with heavy loads to avoid backward tipping.
- Hit loads to the drawbar and use front end weights when needed.
- Keep PTO shields in place, shut off PTO before dismounting tractor or adjusting equipment.
- Set wheels as wide as practical for the job.
- When stopped, take tractor out of gear, set brakes or use the part lock, and remove the key.
- Avoid driving when tired or ill.
- Drive defensively when on roads, anticipating what other drivers may do.

Killing Dandelions

As soon as the first bloom appears is the time to treat for dandelions. Any warm day this month when the temperature is above 60 degrees and there is little wind is a good time to control dandelions. Amine or other non-volatile salt formulations of 2, 4-D are the choice materials.

Crabgrass and Foxtail

These two grasses are often a problem in lawns but there is still plenty of time to apply pre-emergence control of crab grass and foxtail.

P, R, E emergence chemicals used late in the spring are most likely to give effective control of crabgrass and foxtail during late July and August. Materials applied extra early could be reduced in effectiveness when needed most.

Start by removing all excess dead grass, trash and leaves from the lawn. Next apply the pre-emergence as directed and distribute evenly. It is better to apply one half of the pre-emergence going one direction and the rest of the material at a 90 degree angle to the first application. Then water to move the material down where it can perform the intended job on germinating weed seeds.

For additional information on chemicals and identification of lawn weeds, ask the Wayne County extension office for the publication "Lawn Weeds and Their Control."

Control of Musk Thistle

Timing of spray on control of musk thistle is important. Musk thistle is most susceptible to 2, 4-D when in the rosette stage (prior to flower stalk elongation) and actively growing. Ideal growing conditions exist when daytime temperatures are above 60 degrees and soil is moist. Under these conditions, 1.5 pounds of 2, 4-D per acre will kill the plant. Under poor growing conditions you may need two pounds.

A musk thistle will produce approximately 10,000 seeds per plant and all seed productions must be eliminated to achieve practical control. Because the seed may be in the soil for several years before germinating, retreatment will be necessary in following years.

Lactating dairy cows should not graze treated pastures for one week after spraying 2, 4-D. Traces of the chemicals have been found in the milk of lactating animals grazed on treated forage prior to the one week waiting period.

New Law for County Fair

The Nebraska Poultry Disease Act requires that poultry entering exhibitions be Pullorum Typhoid clean. Proof of compliance with this act must be presented to the superintendent of the poultry exhibits when poultry is entered.

In order to comply with the law, poultry exhibitors must show proof that the poultry was purchased from an approved hatchery and are under four months of age or that they have been tested to show they are clean of this disease.

To the best of my knowledge all hatcheries in this area are approved, many will test for this disease for a small fee. If you intended to exhibit poultry at any show or fair, you had best check to be sure you can comply with the law.

Orr to Speak At Monday's 4-H Banquet

John Orr, state associate 4-H leader with the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension division, will speak on "Keep Fun in 4-H" at the annual Wayne County 4-H Leaders Banquet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Union.

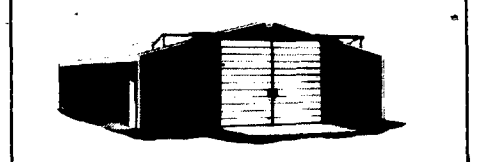

JOHN ORR

The banquet is sponsored by the five Wayne County banks and honors all county 4-H leaders, with special awards going to leaders who have completed two, five and 10 years of service.

Backyard Farmer Quiz

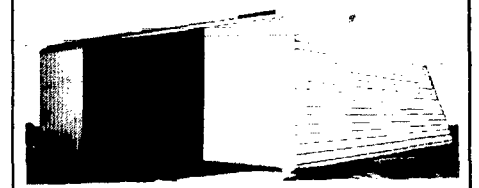

What is wrong with home grown popcorn that doesn't pop? Answer: If popcorn doesn't pop, it is dry enough to pop. If it has too much moisture, put kernels into a jar and add a few cent moisture. To dry it out, leave it on the ear and hang it somewhere out of the rain until it is dry enough to pop. If it has too little moisture, put kernels into a jar and add a few teaspoons of water.

Rural Ramblings

Continual depletion of any resource will eventually exhaust the supply. An excellent example is your bank account. If you keep spending money and not put any back into your account, your banker likely will be sending you a little note.

A corn field is a lot different from a bank account, but the idea is the same. If you keep forcing Mother Earth to produce an abundant crop of grain eventually she tires out.

And like when the banker calls and you're forced to replenish your bank account, last year's corn crop hinted that you should replenish the land.

You figure the best and cheapest way is to give back to her what she deposited in your feed yard. Besides, that should provide your fields with just about every mineral needed. Well, it sounds logical anyway, and great grandpa got by with it, didn't he?

Anyway, it's either clean out the feed yard or put another board on top of the feed rack.

Now if everything on the farm could be done according to the book it might not be so hard. For instance, if you had two tractors and spreaders and one good tractor with a loader this "redistributing" job wouldn't take long.

That is, if you had Junior there to operate the tractors and spreaders. Then all you'd have to do is keep filling the spreaders as he'd return from the fields with the empty one.

But things are seldom done according to the book. Once, when you were laid up, Neighbor John and his boys came over and it worked that way. But darned if you're going to break your leg just so you can get some help!

Seems like about half of any job is getting started. First you drive the tractor and spreader into the feed yard. Now that led in group singing, accompanied by Mrs. Carl Mann.

The May 15 meeting will be in the Lane-Maritz home.

Miniature Golf Moved

WORK ON MOVING the former Pen Way miniature golf course from just east of Wayne to south of the Fat Kat on north Main Street is continuing this week. Miron Jenness, Fat Kat owner, said he hopes to have the miniature course open by May 15. To be called the Putti Kat, it will feature 15 holes with possibility of expanding to 18 holes, Jenness said.

Can the Veterans Administration help him?
A. If your son will visit the nearest Veterans Administration Hospital or outpatient clinic, he will receive immediate assistance. If none is near him, telephone the nearest VA office to find out where he can receive this assistance.

Shrubbery that is closely spaced will cost about 1/10th as much as a six-foot wooden fence.
The shrub border will require more space than a fence, however. A fence that takes 6-10 inches of space is more suitable for a small yard; properly spaced shrub borders require 6-12 feet.
Shrubs require several years to fill in and reach a sufficient height. One possibility is using a short section of fence in areas where immediate privacy is desired and filling in the rest of the border with shrubbery.

New Boat Regulations Aimed at 16-footers, 'But May Apply to All'

Boat owners planning to lay out hard-earned cash for safety equipment had better first investigate the new requirements set up by the Coast Guard, which will become effective on Oct. 1 of this year.

At first, the new regulations will apply only on the Missouri River, Lewis and Clark Lake, and Carter Lake, but someday may be in effect throughout the state. They will involve only boats 16 feet long or longer, and the number and type of life saving devices on board them.

According to the Coast Guard, 67 per cent of U. S. boat owners will be unaffected by the rule changes.

Life saving devices have been categorized into four types:
Type I must be designed to turn an unconscious person from face downward in the water to vertical or slightly backward. It must have more than 20 pounds of buoyancy and be designed to be worn.
Type II must meet the same requirements as Type I, but it need only have a minimum of 15.5 pounds of buoyancy.
Type III is any approved device designed to keep a conscious person in a vertical or slightly backward position and must have at least 15.5 pounds of buoyancy. Although the Type III devices have the same buoyancy requirements as Type II, the less stringent turning requirements allow a more comfortable and wearable device.

Type IV is any approved device designed to be thrown to a person in the water. It must have at least 16.5 pounds of buoyancy. This type is not designed to be worn. The most common Type IV is the buoyant cushion.
All presently approved life saving devices acceptable by the Coast Guard fall into one of the four classifications.
On recreational boats less than 16 feet in length and on canoes and kayaks, all four types meet Coast Guard requirements.
However, in all boats 16 feet or longer, except canoes and kayaks, there must be a Type I, Type II or Type III life jacket on board for each person. Type IV devices will not fill the requirement for this length of boat after Oct. 1.
On recreational boats 26 feet or longer, there must be one Type I, Type II or Type III jacket on board for each person. In addition, there must be a Type IV device aboard immediately available for use. The reason for this is because the bigger boats are less maneuverable than smaller recreational boats and have, in general, freeboards which make reboarding more difficult.

Veterans' Benefits Questions, Answers

Q. If I go to school full-time under the GI Bill, can I work in my spare time and still receive my monthly educational allowance from the Veterans Administration?

A. There is no restriction that prevents you from working while attending school full-time, nor does it affect your monthly entitlement.

Q. Can you tell me how much the Veterans Administration has to pay for those television advertisements and radio spots we hear?

A. The VA pays nothing as these are public service announcements donated by the media in the interest of keeping veterans and their dependents informed of their benefits under the GI Bill.

Veterans' Benefits Questions, Answers

Q How can I apply for my special dividend which I hear the Veterans Administration is paying to holders of World War II GI life insurance policies?

A Sorry to disappoint you, but you can't. Special dividends to VA pay regular dividends to veterans who have kept their World War II "V" prefixed National Service Life Insurance and World War I "K" prefixed United States Government Life Insurance policies. Dividends are paid on the anniversary date of each policy and no application is necessary.

Q Why is the Veterans Administration's budget for fiscal year 1974 being reduced?

A VA's budget is not being reduced. Overall expenditures will be some $300 million higher than in the current fiscal year.

Allen Clinic Attracts 700

GWEN MCGHEE, Allen High School nurse, fills another syringe and Mrs. Mary Rohde of Emerson gives little Lori Carlson of Wakefield a dose of oral polio vaccine during Tuesday's immunization clinic at Allen. Lori, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Carlson, was one of about 700 youngsters who received measles, rubella shots and oral polio vaccine during the clinic, conducted by Educational Service Unit No. 1 at Wakefield. Students in the health occupation class at Allen High helped conduct the clinic.
