By Norvie Hansen
Workers for Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) are fast closing the 17-mile gap that exists in the middle of the 230,000-volt transmission line being constructed across Northeast Nebraska.

Workers said Friday they hope to string up the transmission line across the final 17 miles by the end of this month. Line crews began working on the gap last week following approval by the Public Service Commission to go ahead with construction of the electrical transmission line. The 17-mile stretch runs northeast from about six miles southwest of Wayne to just northeast of Wakefield.

The approval didn't come without a rebuke by commission member Eric Rasmussen of Fairbury, however. Rasmussen sharply criticized NPPD for failing to comply with the statutes requiring prior permission from the commission to construct the line, according to associated press.

An NPPD spokesman said during a public hearing in Wayne in June that NPPD failed to apply for the permit because of an "administrative oversight."

Rasmussen said during Monday's commission meeting that NPPD and other power districts in the state have been "seriously remiss regarding compliance with statutory provisions covering construction of power lines," according to AP.

He added: "Many violations of these legal restrictions are present in this particular instance." However, Rasmussen voted in favor of permitting NPPD to continue with line construction through Wayne and Dixon Counties—the final leg on the 56-mile line.

He was quoted as saying that forcing NPPD to stop work or tear down what has already been constructed would be an economic waste and would be to the detriment of NPPD rate payers.

He said land use factor and future plans of landowners should be given more consideration in routing electric transmission lines, according to AP.

Hoskins Gets EPA Grant For Plant

A federal grant totaling $42,750 was awarded to the village of Hoskins last week for the town's development of a new sewage treatment plant.

Burt on two separate occasions made illegal purchases as a county commissioner.

The first instance was in December when Burt bought two tires. The tires were bought in the name of the county but were for the use of an unnamed third party, according to the charge.

The second instance was in April when Burt bought another tire. That tire also was bought in the name of the county but was for Burt's own personal use, the charge reads.

Bornhoff said that district judge George W. Dittick of Norfolk may consider the case during Wednesday's regular court session in Wayne County.

The two counts stipulated in the misdemeanor charge carry maximum fines of $200 each, according to Bornhoff.

The judge also may remove a public official convicted of malfeasance from his office, Bornhoff said.

Burt, 63, has been county commissioner since Jan. 1, 1971. His four year term will end the close of next year.

Burt, who stepped up from secretary treasurer to vice president of the Northeast Nebraska Association of County Officials in April, served as chairman of the county board his first year in office.

Current chairman is Joe Wilson, who lives southwest of Wakefield. Wilson also is in his third year as a commissioner.

The other commissioner is Ken Eddie of Carroll. Eddie was appointed to serve out the final two years of George Stolz's term after Stolz died late in 1970. He is now serving a four-year term.

Miller agrees with Rasmussen in one respect. He said Friday: "What's irking everybody is the (NPPD's) arrogance."

NPPD has had little concern for the owners of the land which the line is crossing, he said, and it's time somebody put a stop to it.

Miller was one of several landowners who refused to give NPPD permission to cross their land with the power line. NPPD later started condemnation proceedings against the owners.

NPPD's line, being built at a total cost of about $2,086,000, will serve the large steel mill being constructed northeast of Norfolk. In time, the line will be extended south into the Columbus area to provide more electrical power for all of Nebraska, according to NPPD.

The line would have been built in 1975 had not the large steel mill made it feasible to construct it about two years earlier, NPPD says.

Miller had another objection—a landing strip on his land.

He has said he received both state and federal approval for the private landing strip earlier this year—before NPPD applied for a permit for a line construction.

Construction of the line would make landing on his airstrip dangerous and would create a hazard for aerial spraying in a large area near his farm, he said.

Miller said Friday that he plans on checking to see if NPPD informed federal aeronautics officials about plans to build the line, something Miller says is required. If they did not, he plans on taking NPPD to court to see if NPPD has broken the constitutional rights of landowners in the area.

Miller also is in his third year as a commissioner.

The other commissioner is Ken Eddie of Carroll. Eddie was appointed to serve out the final two years of George Stolz's term after Stolz died late in 1970. He is now serving a four-year term.

NPPD WORKERS install insulators on the tall poles which will carry the 230,000-volt transmission line across Northeast Nebraska. Work resumed on a 17-mile stretch of the line in Wayne and Dixon Counties last week after the Public Service Commission gave approval to continue construction.

School Board Okays Budget, Anticipates Mill Levy Drop

Wayne-Carroll school board members last week approved a budget for the coming fiscal year, okayed two resignations and hired three new teachers.

The budget calls for raising approximately $838,400 through local taxation, about $16,000 more than the budget for the present year.

However, the mill levy required on property in the school district to raise money to operate the school may drop as much as one mill, according to superintendent Francis Haun.

Haun said the decrease in the levy will come about if the school district valuation does not drop below the present figure of $12,320,930.

95 Youngsters Registered for Park Program

Ninety-five youngsters are registered for the second session of Wayne's summer park recreation program, according to Mrs. Al Ehlers.

Mrs. Ehlers and Mrs. Mike Karel are coordinators of the program, which provides crafts, games, story and song periods for two hours daily at Bressler Park.

Beginning kindergarten through eighth graders are eligible to attend the 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. sessions held each Monday through Friday. The second session got underway last Monday and will conclude July 20.

One hundred and ten children took part in the first session.

The class of '95 was composed of the following: Misses Minnie Sorenson, Jessie M. Bratt, Gertrude M. Baker, Thea M. Hansen, Gertrude C. Grady, Gerta Hine, Francis V. McNamara, Charlotte L. Have a bunch of information stacked up relating to everything from gas stations closing down to use of scrap iron and steel to reduce solid waste. Will run through some of it, since the energy crisis is becoming something of a migraine headache for this country.

heard about or were purchasing black market products. Black market products are those which cost from six to 15 cents per gallon more than the distributor's regular supplier charged, McCollister said.

John McCollister, congressman from Omaha, described in one word the results of a survey he recently took of fuel distributors in Nebraska: "Shocking."

A Department of Interior pamphlet titled "Energy, America and You" offers suggestion on how use of electricity, natural gas and gasoline can be cut. Some of the helpful tips:

The survey showed that two out of every three fuel distributors in the state will not have enough petroleum products for their customers this summer.

—Use your stove efficiently. Make one-pot meals or cook more than one food at a time in the oven.

Many farmers, small businesses and municipalities will be without fuel this summer unless some action is taken soon, the Omaha legislator said.

—Save water. A dripping faucet wastes water that has to be pumped to your house and, if it is hot water, energy to heat it.

He commented that the survey results "confirm my feeling that the Administration must impose mandatory fuel allocations if the U. S. is to survive the summer without a crippling energy crisis."

—Use clothes washers, dryers and dishwashers only with full loads. And use them in the evening, early morning or on weekends when energy requirements are not as great.

"It appears that a sufficient amount of petroleum products exist to avert such a disaster — if they are allocated properly with priorities set for agriculture and municipal services," he added.

—Make sure your cooling and heating equipment is clean and well lubricated.

McCollister sent questionnaires to about 850 fuel distributors. He received replies from about 30 per cent. Some of the results of the survey:

—Stop and think before you turn on light switches. Do you really need the extra light, or is it just habit? If you need the light, turn it off when you leave the room.

—143 distributors said they wouldn't have a sufficient supply of fuel for the summer; 73 said they would.

—231 said they have been put on some form of allocation system by the major oil company or companies which supply them; seven said they were on no allocation plan; five said they have been cut off altogether from supplies.

—Those who replied said they will be short 8,367,000 gallons of gasoline and 7,667,100 gallons of fuel oil from now through August.

The main idea behind the policy is to let the areas return to their original native prairie state, but it also results in savings of $500,000 a year.

In general, regular prices the distributors and jobbers are paying for their product from major oil companies have increased noticeably since the base period, October 1971 through September 1972.

One 21-county district in central Nebraska is saving 1,000 to 1,500 gallons of fuel every week because of the limited mowing policy. Statewide, the fuel savings would probably be enormous.

Many of those quizzed said they had

There are other advantages to the policy, of course. The tall native grasses retain much more moisture than short or mowed grasses. Consequently, they are more fire resistant. The areas provide good nesting cover for pheasants, quail and other birds as well as protection for other wildlife.

Those are quite a few good reasons for the state to continue right along with that policy.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln left off the name of one Wayne girl who participated in the recent recital by 1973 All-State youths.

She is Stephanie Mendyk, whose sister Michele also took part in the recital at Kimball Recital Hall.

She played "Tarantella" by W. H. Squire for her cello recital. Her sister performed "Sonata I. Grave, Allegro" by Handel on the flute.

The three-week event on the UN-L campus ended the last week in June.

Congressman Charles Thone has sent questionnaires to officials in all the counties, townships, cities and villages in his district in an attempt to find out their opinions on federal revenue sharing.

His reason for doing so is a good one: "Whether general revenue sharing should be continued and whether proposed special revenue sharing legislation should be enacted ought to depend more on grass roots opinion than on the thoughts of those in Washington. The people who can give the most knowledgeable opinions about revenue sharing are the local government officials responsible for using them."

And finally, a bit of humor from the Nebraska Oil Jobber, publication of the state petroleum marketers:

"We can fuel some of the people some of the time, but we can't fuel all the people all of the time."

YOU AND YOUR CAR

For a Carefree Motor Vacation

Despite the lure of jet travel, eight out of 10 vacation trips are still made in the family car.

Motoring is the most popular form of vacation travel because it allows you to set your own pace, and the Interstate highway system speeds you over long distances to your destination, after which you can stop and sightsee at your leisure.

A well maintained car is a prerequisite for a carefree motoring vacation and a pre-trip checkup is a good idea even if you've been following a recommended periodic maintenance schedule. This will give you an opportunity to correct such items as wheels that are unbalanced or out of alignment which may not be noticed when you're just driving around town but which can cause severe vibration at high speed or develop an uneven wear pattern in just a few hundred miles of turnpike travel.

Tires are another item to check. Those with badly worn treads should be replaced before you depart. Be sure to inflate tires to the recommended pressure while they are cold. If you plan to carry a heavy load or drive at high speed, increase tire pressure but do not exceed the maximum recommended in your owner's manual.

It also pays to check fan belt and other drive belts and replace any that are in doubtful condition. In addition, inspect the radiator hoses and replace if they are soft, swollen or cracked.

You should carry necessary tools for changing tires or making minor repairs. For safety's sake, take along the basic emergency equipment recommended by auto experts — flashlight, screwdriver, pliers, tire gauge, extra fan belt, spare sealed beam headlight, flares or reflectors and first-aid kit.

If you are going to carry a heavy load, your car may sag at the rear, causing it to wander on the road, or scrape on bumps and point its headlight beams into the trees. Special overload shock absorbers will solve this problem.

Some add-on accessories that can make your trip more enjoyable are an air conditioner — especially good to have if you will be driving in hot climates — and a roof rack for luggage.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

Rugby, N. D., Pierce County Tribune: "Often the loudest voices complaining about the misuse of federal funds are those of individuals who are, themselves, misusing the funds—perhaps unknowingly. Many programs designed for poor people are being used by the non-poor level people. I think perhaps the most valuable programs designed for the underprivileged are those in which volunteers are used. The volunteers live pretty much on the level as those they are helping—they get a real feeling for some of the socioeconomic problems which exist. Those who 'get rich on the poor' seem to lose their sense of perspective, and may not be able to help the underprivileged."

MR. AND MRS. TIMOTHY VON BUSCH

Karen Menke Wed Sunday Afternoon

White glads and blue pompons appointed the altar of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside for the 2:30 p.m. wedding Sunday of Karen Menke to Timothy Von Busch.

The bride, a 1970 graduate of Randolph High School and a 1971 graduate of Ben Your Hair-dresser School of Beauty in Lincoln, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Menke of Carroll. She is employed by the First National Bank in Lincoln.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Von Busch of Lincoln, is a 1970 graduate of Lincoln High School and is employed by Ready Mix Concrete in Lincoln.

Guests, registered by Sally and Sandy Lorenz, were ushered into the church by Bernie Koehne and Jim Frederick. All are of Lincoln.

Ushers lighted candles and Mrs. G. W. Gottberg of Winside sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Wedding Song" and "We've Only Just Begun," accompanied by Mrs. LeRoy Damme of Winside. The Rev. G. W. Gottberg of Winside officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Lisa Test of Norfolk was flowergirl and Jason Von Busch of Lincoln was ringbearer.

Mrs. Bernie Koehne of Lincoln served her sister as matron of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Jim Frederick and Susie Wood, both of Lincoln, were bridesmaids.

Thomas Von Busch of Lincoln was best man for his brother and groomsmen were Charles and Byron Menke of Carroll, brothers of the bride.

The bride appeared in a floor-length gown of white sata peau and Venice lace, fashioned in empire lines with sheer bishop sleeves capped in lace. Matching lace edged the long mantilla and she carried blue and white roses, baby's breath and blue silk flowers.

The bridesmaids' dresses, made by the matron of honor, were floor-length fashions of pale blue seersucker with navy bodices and white sashes. They wore white garden hats and carried nosegays of blue and white pompons, baby's breath and blue silk flowers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Menke chose a pink polyester knit with white accessories. Mrs. Von Busch also wore a pink knit with pink and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Kratek of Pender and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Von Busch of Lincoln served as hosts to the reception held at the church parlors following the ceremony. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Paul Malzer Jr. of Lincoln and Mrs. Duane Kratek of Pender.

Mrs. Eugene Carstens of Pierce and Mrs. Virgil Erickson of Hastings cut and served the cake and Mrs. Elwin Nelson of Carroll, and Mrs. Thomas Von Busch of Lincoln poured. Mrs. Larry Sievers and Mrs. Gary Sievers of Wayne served punch. Waitresses were Carol Wood of Lincoln, Carol Menke of Norfolk, Lynelle Dolph of Wakefield and Lori Greunke.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Glenn Loberg, Mrs. Reynold Loberg, Mrs. Gurney Lorenz, Mrs. Clarence Stapelman, Mrs. Gary Stapelman, Mrs. Ronald Stapelman and Mrs. Duane Greunke.

Mrs. Shirley Wood and Mrs. Alfred Sievers pinned flowers. The couple took a wedding trip to South Dakota and will make their first home at 824 Sumner in Lincoln.

Wayne Midgets setting sights for perfect season

The Wayne Midgets only have one week to go before they will complete their league play in the Ralph Bishop League. Hopefully, the home squad can master last year's single defeat by going unbeaten.

As of Friday night the Midgets boasted 13 wins in a row—including nine league games—without a loss. Taking a quick look back this time a year ago, Wayne picked up its 10th and 11th wins off Norfolk, 4-1, and Pender, 6-3.

A review of the season's league games show that Wayne's closest match was at the beginning of the year with a 3-0 shutout over Wisner. Another close one came at the hands of Bancroft, 6-3.

Other league wins include: 11-1 and 16-0 over Walthill-Lyons; 5-0 over Pender; 7-2 over Wakefield; 10-4 over Laurel; and 7-3 over Wisner.

Wayne's game with Winside, set for June 18, was rained out. As yet, coach Hank Overin said, no new date has been set. If Hank had his way he would probably just as soon forget about that rematch with Winside.

Last year, you may recall, Winside spoiled the Midgets' hopes for a perfect season when they upset Wayne, 3-0.

Winside Midgets may not be a problem this year, though. According to a league ruling, in the past week or so the club was forced to forfeit all its Midgets games in which it used Legion-age players.

Although unconfirmed by coach Lynn Reber, sources say that the area team may continue using Legion-age players until the district playoffs of the state, Legion and Midget tournaments.

Stanton High football backers are pushing for the present football field to be moved from near the six-hole golf course to along Highway 57.

Although there is no official organization behind the move, notes the Stanton Registrar, coach Ron Bunkers along with 25 persons are in favor of the move.

Bunkers showed drawings of the proposed temporary move in order to have the old field "crowned." That means having the field filled and made higher in the center than along the edges. Included in the project is seeding.

Before anything will be done, members intend to meet with county officials and other organizations to get their help. In the meantime, there seems to be more sentiment growing to form a "Booster's Club" not only to get a new field built but also to get behind the local athletic teams.

Maybe it's a little early to talk about football, but a few avid fans might be interested in knowing that Nebraska's 1-back Dave Goeller of Pilger doesn't think it is.

Dave along with another Wisner Pilger grad, J. D. Alexander of South Dakota State University, are working out at the Wayne State gym to get in shape for the coming season.

The pair and two area gridiron hope fuls — Kirk Gardner of Wakefield and Wayne's Doug Sturm — work out three times a week. According to Kirk, Goeller has been giving the area players some tips to help improve for the NU football season.

Both Sturm and Gardner intend to try out for the university freshmen football team as walk-ons. Although some people may think it an impossibility for the two to succeed, the coaches on the Nebraska staff don't think that way. Plenty of football literature plus personal letters from the coaches are mailed to each of the former high school players.

Despite Sturm's broken arm he sustained Wednesday against Sioux City North, the local player still is set on playing for Nebraska. Doug plans to work on the leg weights until his arm is healed. According to a doctor's report, that could take six weeks.

What about the NU varsity football this year? Goeller thinks that Nebraska should have one of its strongest teams — strong enough possibly to take the Big Eight and make another bid for the national title.

For all those coaches of Midget teams in the Ralph Bishop League anxious to have an All Star game, now is the best time to make plans for the July 18 game at Pender.

The 7:30 p.m. match will feature the North and South squads. According to Hank Overin the South team will be made up of players from Pender, Bancroft, Walthill-Lyons and Wisner. On the North team will be Wayne, Wakefield, Laurel and Winside.

The coaches are asked to pick four players. Each of those players will play at least three innings in the nine-inning match.

Sioux City Team Wins Wakefield Tournament

Sioux City North bounced Wayne and Wakefield Wednesday to claim the annual Wakefield Fourth of July baseball tournament.

The North squad first got rid of Wayne in a 2-0 shutout performance by the team's top hurler Thomas before eliminating the host team, 11-1.

Wakefield, originally set to play Onawa in the second round of the four-team tourney, drew a bye for the 3 p.m. game when the Iowa team failed to show due to a conflict of schedules. That left the home squad enough time to check North during its squeaker over the locals.

Wayne and North both battled to a scoreless tie until the top of the fifth when the visitors made use of a Wayne error and a single by North's shortstop to push across the only two runs of the game.

That one error in the fifth not only cost Wayne a run but also a player. First baseman Doug Sturm suffered a broken left arm when a throw by short stop Randy Nelson to Sturm went wide. In an attempt to grab the wild throw Sturm reached out only to have North's catcher hit his arm.

According to coach Hank Overin, Sturm will be lost to the team for the rest of the season. Early reports note that the former Wayne High player will be in a cast for about six weeks.

In the next frame Wayne moved into contention with runners on first and third after an attempt to load the bases on a fielder's choice by Bill Schwartz resulted in the second out.

North ended Wayne's streak at 9-3 after the locals picked up their ninth victory Monday night against Pender. The home team used the same score, 2-0, to prosper on Charlie's three-hit pitching and 12 strikeouts.

Wayne opened the game up early with runs in the first and second frames.

After Sunday's clash with non league member Scribner, the Legion club will take on Wakefield Wednesday.

Wakefield managed only one run in the seven-inning championship round Wednesday night.

The visitor moved out to a 10-0 lead in five frames before Wakefield tallied its loner in the bottom half to stretch the match into seven frames.

Bruce Paul started the mound duties for the home team but gave up the reigns in the first to Bob Twite. Twite stayed on until fifth when Sam Utecht took over to finish the game.

After Wakefield's encounter with Onawa Sunday the area nine will take on Laurel today (Monday) at Laurel.

Teams 29 and 33, each have 24 points.

Last week three area golfers led the leagues with nine-hole pars. Jim Marsh, Ron Bunkers and Earle Racely finished the course with 36.

Women's Teams Share Lead In Golf League

The American League of the Wayne women's golf league has a co-leader this week after Tuesday's action. Teams 7 and 1 share the top spot with five points each.

Two weeks ago, after the Wayne Country Club's women's invitational golf match, Team 7, made up of Marion Evans and Janet Roenfeldt, was the sole owner of the league lead. Joining them is the team of Eugenia Jeffrey and Norma Janke.

In the National League, Team 16 (Ann Barclay and Jan McQuistan) still hold on to the No. 1 position with a one-point margin over Teams 24, 26 and 15 each tied for second.

Hunter Safety Course Subject At NE Tech

Nebraska Hunter's Safety is the title and subject of a short course which begins Tuesday evening at Northeast Technical Community College at Norfolk.

There will be four more Tuesday evening meetings of this five-session course, which is co-sponsored by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. The course is free to the public. The class will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Room 120 at the Maclay Building at 801 E. Benjamin. Any or all sessions may be attended without pre-registration.

Attendance at this type of hunter safety class is now required by some states before issuance of hunting permits, and it is possible this requirements may be adopted by Nebraska in the future.

Pending Farm Bill Could Reap Real Benefits For All Taxpayers

By Willard Barbee, Director, Nebraska Game and Parks Commission

That legislation now before the House of Representatives is passed and signed into law.

That legislation is the Farm Bill passed by the Senate June 6 with an amendment that could provide a number of wildlife benefits. The pheasant and the pheasant hunter undoubtedly stand to gain the most.

I do not mean to imply that farm programs benefit only farmers. Their regulation of the agriculture industry contribute to the well being of our economy and our society in general.

But, for most people, these benefits of farm programs have been very general

A piece of farm legislation may finally make a direct, tangible benefit available to all taxpayers — rural and city dwellers alike — provided that legislation now before the House of Representatives is passed and signed into law.

The version of the Farm Bill passed by the Senate would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to contract with farmers to take land out of production on a multi-year contract, rather than the year-by-year system now being used. In the event the Secretary elects to authorize multi-year contracts, the Department of Agriculture would also be obligated to provide cost sharing incentives to farmers to establish cover on the diverted acres.

The multi-year contracts and cost-sharing would induce farmers to plant a cover crop on diverted acres. At present, farmers are not certain how long fields will be left in the program and are reluctant to expend the time and money to establish cover on these lands. So, they stand with bare topsoil blowing and washing away.

In Nebraska, for example, 70 per cent of the state's 1.1 million set-aside acres were nothing but bare topsoil.

In the meantime, wildlife is in desperate need of habitat. Grass, weeds or any other cover on diverted acres would be a long way toward meeting this need. The cover crop would also reduce erosion and cut down on air pollution from dust and water pollution from silt.

Professional game managers have documented scientifically what hunters have suspected through years in the field — farm game species like pheasants fluctuate greatly in response to land management. Anything that causes more intensive agriculture, whether economic conditions or farm legislation, also causes a loss in habitat and a corresponding decline in the game population. A gain in retired acreage with good vegetative cover means more habitat and more birds.

But, game managers and pheasant hunters have a long way to go before they can start counting new birds. First of all, the Farm Bill must continue to receive support in Washington. Senator Carl Curtis, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, was co-sponsor of the wildlife amendment and supported it through the Senate. The bill quickly the House Agriculture Committee, of which Congressman Charles Thone is a member.

The bill must now be passed in the House with the amendment attached and then signed into law.

Even then, the battle is not won. The legislation merely allows the Secretary of Agriculture to enter into the multi-year contracts; it does not require him to do so. Only after he enters into the contracts is Department of Agriculture required to do anything about cover.

So, even after all of the legislative hurdles are cleared, favorable bureaucratic decisions will be necessary. The Secretary of Agriculture must decide how much land must be under the plow to meet our nation's needs at home and commitments abroad.

Of course, if he decides that every acre of available land is needed to meet these needs and commitments, then he will obviously not commit the federal government to much set-aside acreage, let alone on a multi-year basis.

As responsible members of society, we would have to go along with such a decision if the need for greatly expanded agricultural production is apparent. But, as wildlife managers and hunters, we will have to question any reluctance to use the set-aside program and its multi-year feature if the need for this production is not well documented.

However, speculation about the Secretary of Agriculture's philosophies would be rather meaningless if the bill fails in the House of Representatives. Right now, that is where every conservationist and every sportsman, whether rural or urban, should focus his attention.

Wayne's swim team won its first meet of the season Friday night at home with a 206-122 victory over Laurel.

Wayne Ties Homer For First Place; Trips Ponca, 5-1

Wayne moved into a first-place tie with Homer Thursday night with a 5-1 win over fourth-place Ponca.

The Northeast Nebraska Baseball League co-leaders stayed in command throughout the nine-inning contest, jumping out to 1-0 lead in the first frame before adding three runs in the fifth and another in the eighth.

Shortstop Randy Helgren powered his teammates with two runs on three hits while displaying some excellent playing. Helgren started the game with a double and later scored on a sacrifice by pitcher Randy Benish to put the locals out in front, 1-0.

Then in the fifth he smacked a single to get on base and later scored his second run of the night. The following frame he connected for his second double but was left stranded at second base.

During his coverage of shortstop in the fifth Helgren picked off a bouncing grounder in the dirt hit by Ponca catcher Bob Rockwell. With both knees on the ground—and nearly falling over he fired the ball to first baseman Fritz Weible for the second out of the frame.

Benish, who pitched his fourth win against no losses for the season, lofted a triple in the hot fifth to score two Wayne runners before coming home on catcher Dennis Paul's single.

Wayne is now 5-1 in league play and 10-1 for the season. After Sunday night's scheduled league meeting with Wakefield at home, the locals will travel to Ponca Thursday for the teams' second confrontation in a week.

Down Four Per Cent

Breeding populations of sharp-tailed grouse and prairie chickens in Nebraska were about four per cent below the 1972 level, according to surveys conducted by the Game and Parks Commission.

The sharp-tailed breeding population was 17 per cent lower than in 1972 and 18 per cent below the average of the past five springs, while prairie chickens were up 16 per cent over 1972 and 19 per cent above the five year average.

The combined index of the two species was still four per cent below the average of the past five years.

Wayne Man Fined

Wayne B. Teeter of Wayne was fined $10 and costs after he was ticketed by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission for operating an improperly equipped vessel.

Wayne Raps Bancroft, Pender for 13-0 Mark

One more week of scheduled Midget play for the Wayne squad and they could finish this season undefeated.

Friday night the team picked up No. 13 in a row without a hitch in a 3-1 squeaker over second-place Bancroft in the Ralph Bishop League.

The "home team" currently in the top spot, socked two runs in the first then added another in the third before Bancroft rallied for a single on a Wayne error in the top of the fourth.

Earle Overin took the win on the mound with his three-hitter during the seven-inning game. Bancroft's only run to put a blemish on Overin's attempt for a shutout came when Bancroft's first baseman slapped a bouncing ball to Wayne third baseman Dave Nuss. Nuss' throw to first for the attempted third out went into the dirt, allowing Coppel to come home. Earlier, Coppel made it to first on a walk.

Wayne's Gordie Cook had the hot bat for the home team, rapping two hits in three times at bat and scoring two runs. His two tallies resulted from singles that got him on first.

Last Monday night, the locals had little trouble downing Pender, 9-4.

Overin again picked up the win, this time with the aid of 11 strikeouts.

Wayne drew first blood with three runs in the first, two in the second and third before adding two more in the fifth. Substitute right fielder Dave Hix led his teammates with a double and a single in his two times at bat—with his double good for one run batted in.

Pender managed one run in the first and scored three in the third.

Tonight (Monday) the Wayne team will host Winside before

Medicare's Insurance Rolled Back

The monthly premium for Medicare medical insurance, scheduled to be increased in July, has been rolled back in keeping with President Nixon's 60-day price freeze policy, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

"The higher amount will continue to be charged until the premium record for each beneficiary can be corrected," he said. "Refunds in full will be made at a later date. This also applies to railroad retirement beneficiaries and Civil Service annuitants who pay premiums for medical insurance under Medicare."

Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and many other medical expenses of almost everyone 65 or over and disabled people under 65 who have been eligible for monthly social security disability payments for two years or more, he said.

Few Area Towns Have Fluoride Levels Required by Law

Only 55 communities in the state have enough natural fluoride in their water supplies to meet the standards of the mandatory fluoridation law passed by the legislature this year.

The only communities in Northeast Nebraska among those 55 are Ponca, Walthill and Winnebago. Wayne and surrounding communities are not on the list, according to the State Health Department.

Under the new law, communities must fluoridate their water supplies unless an election is held and the voters decide otherwise. Also contained in the law is a requirement that a new survey be conducted of the water supplies in the state's municipalities.

A 1971 survey showed that 55 communities have enough natural fluoride so they won't have to add it to meet requirements of the law, according to the State Health Department.

State to Participate In Guard's Test

The chief of the National Guard bureau in Washington has announced that Nebraska will be one of 13 states to participate in a three-month test of a new enlistment option for the Army National Guard.

According to Major William Whitney, state recruiting and retention officer, the option will permit non-prior service personnel to enlist in the Nebraska Army National Guard for six years and upon completion of their initial active duty for training period, serve the balance of four years in their unit and two years in the individual ready reserve control group (annual training).

The present six-year enlistment requires a period of initial active duty for training followed by participating in the units training activities for the balance of the six-year contract.

Whitney said the test will be conducted during July 1-Sept. 30. Purpose of the test is to determine if there would be any significant increase in the number of non-prior service personnel enlisting into the Army National Guard due to the decrease in time one would actively participate in guard training.

The Nebraska Army National Guard presently has some 500 vacancies across the state; however, plans are to continue an intensive recruiting campaign throughout the year in an effort to bring the state to 100 per cent of its authorized strength of 4,473.

Susan Oglesby, a native of Center ville, Ia., graduated in May last year from Drake University at Des Moines where she majored in social science. She taught last semester in the Wayne Community School system in southern Iowa. She will replace Vera Ebmeier, who retired this year.

Sandra Elliott of Wayne graduated from Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg. Born in Kansas City, Mo., she graduated from high school at Grain Valley, Mo. She helps fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of coach business teacher Don Johnson.

The board agreed to have superintendent Haun and board president Irvin Brandt meet with a committee from the Wayne city council to discuss enforcement of traffic laws on school property.

School officials have been seeking some way which would permit local police to regulate traffic on school land, something which is not now permitted under city regulations.

Interested in Planning Future of Nebraska? Attend Regional Meet

Wayne County residents interested in planning the future of Nebraska are being urged to attend a meeting today (Monday) at Norfolk.

The "Goals for Nebraska" meeting is one of 30 regional meetings designed to get as many citizens as possible involved in planning the future of the state.

It will be held at 1:30 p.m. at the Northeast Technical Community College. Also invited are persons from Antelope, Pierce, Madison and Stanton Counties. The idea of getting Nebraskans involved in setting goals for the state grew out of a meeting called in the summer of 1971 by the League of Nebraska Municipalities, the Nebraska County Officials Association and the Nebraska Press Association.

Some of the questions discussed by the 200 participants included:

What do we want Nebraska to be like in 10 years? Are we satisfied with education, health care and cultural opportunities? How and who can determine goals for 1 1/2 million people

Dixon County Riders Earn Show Ribbons

Dixon County 4-H'ers who participated in the district horse show held recently at Madison made a good showing this year, according to agricultural agent Roy Stohler.

The contestants and their ratings:

Jim Sharp, Obert, red ribbon in western horsemanship and pole bending and white in barrel racing.

Corliss Sharp, Obert, blue in pole bending, purple and medal in barrel racing.

Gary Kessinger, Dixon, blue in western pleasure horse class and blue in western horsemanship.

Debbie Woodford, Ponca, purple and a medal in pole bending and purple in barrel racing.

living in a diverse geographical area of 77,227 square miles?

Since then the steering committee selected at the meeting has met monthly to develop methods to get maximum citizen involvement to set general goals for the state as well as goals in the areas of education, housing, transportation, health and welfare, economic development, environment, land use, recreation and leisure, cultural opportunities and law enforcement.

Other preparatory steps for the "Goals for Nebraska" project included a statewide attitude survey in which persons were asked to evaluate many programs in the state, from senior citizen programs to pollution control and taxes.

More recently, Phase II began with pilot meetings held in Grand Island and Aurora. These experimental conferences were helpful in planning the regional and county meetings that will continue through the spring and summer of this year.

Regional meetings will not only serve to gather goals but also to train leadership for individual meetings in each of the counties.

Gov. J. James Exon has pledged full support for the "Goals for Nebraska" project and has given assurance of some state financial support to supplement the private contributions that are being sought.

The community affairs division of the Department of Economic Development is serving as technical assistance agency for "Goals."

After 30 regional meetings and the 93 county data gathering meetings are held, a "blue ribbon" committee will analyze findings and make a feasibility study of the goals which have been suggested. The committee's findings and recommendations will be printed in preparation of Phase IV of the project, when this information will again be shared with the citizens of the state so they can consider what Nebraska's goals should be and help set priorities. After that a final document will be produced.

Officials hope the document will have considerable influence on state senators as well as state and local officials as they plan for the future of Nebraska. Some of the projects that grow out of the suggestions will be undertaken by 1976 in connection with the national Bicentennial observance, officials said.

Interviewer Here Twice This Month

An interviewer for the department of labor office in Norfolk will be in Wayne twice this month.

W-C School System Retained on AA List

The Wayne-Carroll school system has been retained on the list of class AA accredited schools for the coming school year, board members were informed last week.

Only 26 school systems in the state have been awarded the AA accreditation by the state board of education. According to a letter from Mel Olson, administrator of school administrative services for the state education department, the AA accreditation should be a source of pride for a community.

"Maintaining your school system as an AA accredited system is indeed a compliment to your board of education, your administration of the school system, your staff, and the school community which supports your school program," he wrote in a letter to superintendent Francis Haut after the Wayne-Carroll school system was put on the list for another year.

"The fact that the quality necessary for recognition as an AA accredited system is maintained on a voluntary basis again is a distinct compliment to your school community," he wrote. "Other school systems in the state recognize your quality and look to you for educational leadership," he added.

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

THE MOST EVIL MAN IN THE U.S.A.

A few notes on the evil he created in 1969.

He found a quarter of a million "unemployables" who never could hold steady jobs.

He trained them and put them into work that pays money they never dreamed of earning before.

He's a businessman.

For poor kids who couldn't otherwise go to college, he took three hundred and fifty millions and saw to it that those who earned them got scholarships.

He gave eight hundred million to non-profit organizations for medical research, to help stamp out cancer and heart disease and a hundred other dread diseases of the world.

To build new housing for the poor and middle-incomes in U. S. cities, he put up one billion and a quarter dollars, so more people can live in decency.

Sure, he's been a polluter — as has everyone from the U. S. government to ordinary citizens. But last year he scraped up two and one half billions to fight pollution of air and water and nature. This year he plans to get up four billion more, to keep up the battle.

After that, he put up fifteen billion dollars in Social Security taxes to help provide support and medical care for senior citizens. And he added forty-one billion dollars in income taxes to help pay the bills of the U. S. A.

And all the while, he was contributing millions of hours of personal and business time to virtually every humanitarian cause you've ever heard of.

He's a businessman. The most evil man in the U. S. A.

Isn't it time somebody had a good word for this evil man who happens to do so much good for so many people?

We think so.

THE WAYNE HERALD

It's Hot, Involved Work

Thick smoke billows out of a tall stack. Trucks move in and out with almost clockwork regularity. A huge burner shoots flames into a bin, throwing heat out for yards around. An operator keeps close watch on a bank of controls to make sure machines run properly and ingredients are mixed to specifications.

The scene is the hot mix asphalt plant which has sprouted in an alfalfa field along Highway 20 just west of Laurel.

The plant has been pouring out the steaming hot asphalt at a high rate the past few days, filling up numerous trucks as they make the trip back and forth between the plant and the work being done on Highway 15 between Laurel and the highway spur leading to Concord.

Keeping all the plant machinery working together smoothly is Truman Rust of Milligan plant operator. He sits inside a small building which contains the large panel of instruments which control just how much sand, gravel, asphalt and other ingredients go into the huge hopper, heating them up to just the right temperature — about 300 degrees — before the mix is dumped into trucks below.

Drivers truck the mix to the crew working on the road, getting it there before the temperature drops much more than 15 degrees so it still meets state highway department requirements.

The plant will be in operation only a few more days, for work on the five and a half mile stretch of highway is about complete, according to officials. Work started on the $183,000 project late in June.

Photo Tips

DIXON COUNTY agricultural agent Roy Stohler gives some tips on operating a camera to Lori Steinmeyer of Rosalia during Monday's photography workshop at the Nebraska Extension Center, Concord. Steinmeyer from Nebraska State University turned out for the workshop. Helping conduct the all-day session was Don Spitzer, Wayne County agricultural agent.

Dr. Bernstein

Bernstein has been a frequent recitalist on college programs, directed the Summer Music Camp orchestra and served as director and guest artist at numerous music events in the area. He is concertmaster of the 55-member Northeast Nebraska Symphony Orchestra.

Government Contributing 24 Cents of Every Dollar County Residents Receive

In Wayne County, how much of the income received by local residents during the course of a year comes in the form of government checks?

To what degree do the federal, state and local governments add to the financial well being of the population?

As in most parts of the country, a sizeable portion of the income is traceable to public funds.

A special study of the sources of personal income, covering all parts of the country, indicating that about 23.5 cents out of every dollar received by people in Wayne County comes from some agency of government.

For the most part, the money represents wages and salaries paid to civil employees, benefits to those getting social security, unemployment compensation, pensions, public assistance and interest on bonds.

According to the latest figures, approximately $5,780,000 a year is reaching the local area from such sources.

The study was made by the Tax Foundation, a non-partisan, non-profit organization. It was based upon data compiled by the U. S. Office of Business Economics.

Ekberg Gets Trophy, Cash In Fourth of July Races

Wakefield's Lyle Ekberg made this Fourth of July a special day by winning a $250 first place prize at South Sioux City's Raceway Track.

The area speedster grabbed a win in the 40 lap A feature to pick up a trophy and the money. Earlier, Ekberg placed second in a heat race.

For two other area drivers, the outcome wasn't so fortunate. Both Dennis Crippen of Wakefield and Ron Fink of Wayne, blew their transmissions during the A feature.

Crippen did finish second in one heat and Fink came in fourth.

Last Tuesday at Hartington's track, Crippen came in fourth in a heat race and A feature. Fink notched a sixth in both the A feature and heat races.

Parks Beckon Campers

More than 15,000 public and private parks and campgrounds around the country beckon the growing multitude of campers. These areas range from the primitive that are little more than places to park among the trees, to the newer parks which are a lot like luxury resorts.

Nebraska has its share of camping facilities, with the latest to open located just off of the Greenwood Interchange on I-80, complete with swimming pool and the works.

Best of the state parks for campers are Chadron, Fort Robinson, Niobrara and Ponca. Fees are charged at each.

Choice camping recreation areas include Cottonwood Lake, Dead Timber, Enders Reservoir, Fremont Lakes (fee), Hard Lake, Johnson Lake (fee), Kearney County (fee), Lake McConaughy, Lake Ogallala, Lewis & Clark, Louisville (fee), Maloney Reservoir, Medicine Creek, Memphis Lake, Merrill Reservoir, Minatare Lake, Pibel Lake, Riverview, Rockford, Sherman Reservoir, Tinson Reservoir, Two Rivers (fee), Victoria Springs and Walgreen lake.

Best of the state wayside areas are Cheyenne, Cochran, Little Nemaha, Lodgepole, Mormon Island (fee), Union Pacific, War Axe and Windmill (fee).

For the primitive campers, tops are Indian Cave State Park and Wildcat Hills State Recreation Area.

Federal areas recommended are Harlan County Reservoir and the Nebraska National Forest (Bessey).

These Salt Valley areas Bluestem, Branched Oak, Conestoga, Pawnee, and Wagon Train offer good facilities but are often heavily used.

Bass Favorite
Crayfish is a "winner" for many bass fishermen, particularly those who have the patience to fish it the way they should.

First remove the pincers, so the crayfish can't crawl under rocks, etc., and stay there. Then hook him through the tail.

Free spool your reel at the initial sign of a fish, and let the line run easily through your fingers. Be patient. Soon the bass will stop, spit out the crayfish, and then retake it again, much like a plastic worm. When he begins moving out again, chances are he has swallowed the crayfish. Slam it to him!

Horsing Around The Water
For those people who may be riding horses around the water, Harold Green of the Corps of Engineers' Lewis and Clark Lake Project recommends that if you want to ride your horse tomorrow, stay out of the water with him today.

One drowning occurred at a Corps lake last summer. The rider, a good swimmer, was found under six feet of water, apparently struck by his horse. The rider seen in Marlboro commercials was killed recently when his horse panicked in the water and he was struck by the horse's hoofs.

"Like a drowning man," Green said, "a panicky horse will try to climb on top of you if he sees you. And the powerful, churning hoofs of a frightened horse are something the best swimmer can't handle."

Fishing Where-To-Go
Soldiers Creek, Fort Robinson, for rainbow and brown trout to 12 inches on worms, flies and grasshoppers in riffles and holes. Wood reserve best.

Dewey Lake, Valentine Refuge, for northern pike averaging five pounds on Dardavies, Mepps and spoons, in east end, through June. Walleyes on artificials through July.

Niobrara River, from Niobrara to Spencer Dam, for catfish on bluegill and minnows.

Enders Reservoir, near Enders, for white bass on jigs and thin fins by trolling, and casting from dam. Channel cat on shad gizzards in west end. Crappie on worms and minnows. For crappie, anchor in brushy areas.

Wagon Train Lake, east of Hickman, for channel cat to 10 pounds on prepared bait. Excellent population.

MISHMASH. Red shiners, sand shiners and fathead minnows are probably the most widely distributed and numerous minnows in Nebraska. Some minnows are voracious and feed on small fishes and insects. Some are omnivorous, ingesting both plants and animals. A few, including the carp, stir up the bottom mud, searching for insects and plant material to eat. Several hatcheries in Nebraska raise minnows for sale.

Heavy rains fell in May and early June in southern Saskatchewan, where many of Nebraska's ducks are produced, but not enough to significantly improve habitat there. Brood production has been slow. It's still too early to tell but J. Greg Smith, marketing director for Old West Trail, says travel is up in Nebraska and other member states. John Rippe, president of Brownville Historical Society, on the other hand, says visitors are down considerably.
