North All-Star coach Alden Johnson is determined to get his man—even if he has to call the state patrol to do so.

And that's what it took to round up the 12th member of the North All-Star basketball team last week to complete the roster for the fifth annual Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star basketball game Friday in Lincoln.

"Both Aldie and I searched for Mark Murphy of Neligh to complete the 12 man schedule after I learned that Mike Scanlon of Omaha Northwest could not make the game," said public relations man Larry Fauss.

Larry started the search Tuesday, but when he spoke with Mark's mother in Neligh he learned the youth left earlier in the day for a couple of weeks vacation in Houston.

Fauss knew he had to contact Murphy immediately to find out if the Class C all-stater would still want to play basketball. So he made a quick call to the state patrol in three states—Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas—to be on the lookout for a certain type car with three passengers.

But Larry wasn't willing to stop there. Later Tuesday he called Kansas City turnpike officials and had them be on the watch.

By this time both the coaching staff and Fauss were pacing the floors in search of a replacement. The following day, though, things changed.

Murphy and his friends stopped on the outskirts of Houston Wednesday and by chance decided to call home. His mother gave him the message that he had a chance to play on the North All-Star squad. Of course, the answer was yes.

It looked like everything was going Mark's way when he found out that an airport was located not too far from where he stopped.

To his surprise a 5 p.m. plane—the last for the night—would be leaving Houston for Omaha. But after he got to the terminal and bought his standby ticket, Mark learned there wasn't enough room on the plane and he would have to wait until the following morning.

Thursday Mark finally arrived in Omaha and made the trek to meet Mark.

"We were very anxious to meet Mark," Larry said after all the action slowed down for a moment. "This situation says something for the boy's enthusiasm."

Fauss went on: "He really wants to make the team and he can be a valuable member of the North team."

The 6-3, 170 pound Murphy could replace Scanlon, also 6-3 and 175 pounds, without too much trouble. Scanlon will draw to participate with his Legion baseball team in the state tournament last weekend.

"It's no shame to be the 13th man on the list," Fauss acknowledged of Mark's making the squad, "especially when there are about 100 players in the state who are classified as all state material."

Murphy's reaction to the invitation was typical—disbelief.

"I always wanted to play on the All-Star team, but I thought my chances were almost nil after the 12 members were picked for the North squad," Murphy said.

Son of Dr. and Mrs. William Murphy, he definitely believes his squad will win the All-Star clash Friday. "Because we are the underdogs this year," he said, "it gives the team as well as me the incentive to win. No one expects us to win, so we're going to give it everything we've got."

Murphy, as some area basketball players remember, made all conference in both the Husker and NENAC Conferences during his high school years.

In his sophomore year the forward was selected to the Wayne Herald's West Husker Conference top five before his school switched to the Northeast Nebraska Activity conference the remaining two years.

One of Wayne County's Oldest Residents Dies

Funeral services for one of Wayne County's oldest residents, Mrs. Loretta Brugger, 95, were held Saturday in Wayne.

Mrs. Brugger, who would have been 96 in October, died Wednesday morning at Dahl Retirement Center in Wayne.

She was the founder and charter member of the Social Circle at Winside, which started in 1904. She also was a member of the American Legion Auxiliary and St. Mary's Guild and past member of the World War I Auxiliary.

Mass of the resurrection was held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church with Father Paul Begley officiating. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery. Pallbearers were Ed Johnson, James Hansen, Felix Dorsey, Frank Heine, Charles Denesia and Will Collins.

Mrs. Brugger, who was born to Peter and Mary Rielly Pryor on Oct. 20, 1877 at Traer, Ia., grew up in the Wayne Winside area after moving here at the age of 10.

She attended Wayne Normal College and taught school in Wayne County during her early years.

After marrying John Brugger on Oct. 2, 1901 in Wayne, she farmed with her husband north of Winside except from 1912 to

City Residents Use Water, Electricity at Record Pace

Wayne residents used water and electricity at a record pace during the month of July, city officials report.

A total of 28.5 million gallons of water was pumped last month, way over the 23 million gallons pumped during the same month last year, says clerk treasurer Dan Sherry.

In the three month period starting the middle of April, 70,700,000 gallons of water were pumped in the city, he said. That is 13,800,000 more gallons than were pumped in the same quarter in 1972.

"That has to be a record for the month of July and a single quarter," said Sherry.

Reason for the record pace consumption was the large amount of lawn watering being done in those hot weeks in late June and early July, Sherry explained. Another reason was the heavy use of water-cooled air conditioners. "It seems like there has been more lawn care recently, and there are more new lawns and air conditioners than in past years," he noted.

If it had not cooled down after the middle of July, water consumption would have been even higher, Sherry said.

Not only would water consumption have been greater, electricity records would have been even higher than those set in July, according to power plant officials.

Total electrical production during July was 2,650,600 kilowatt hours. That total production is nearly a quarter million kwh higher than the previous record of 2,440,500 set in December last year.

Had it not cooled off, electrical plant production in July may have topped the three million kwh mark, something that has never been done before, according to plant superintendent Norbert Brugger.

The high point in electrical production last month came on the afternoon of July 11 when engines were grinding out 6,800

Kilowatt hours refers to the amount of electricity produced during a certain period of time. Kilowatts is a term used to describe the amount of electricity being produced at one point in time.

State Official Urges Screening Barbecue Area

A state official has urged that the area where sandwiches are made at the Wayne County Fair barbecue be screened in, by next year.

State Department of Agriculture official Ron Miller of Lincoln inspected the barbecue again this year and strongly suggested that the sandwich making area be screened in, according to Marilyn Koch, secretary manager of the county See SCREENING, page 8

New Policeman on Council's Agenda

Wayne city councilmen Tuesday night will consider recommending hiring of a policeman to replace the patrolman who resigned earlier this month.

Council will consider hiring a man to replace John Redel, who has resigned after just over seven years on the police force, during its regular meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Woman's Club Room at the city auditorium.

Redel resigned effective end of this month to take a job with the city street department.

Councilmen also may read for the second time an ordinance which would place an occupation tax on bottle clubs in the city to replace the $1 memberships the club formerly collected and jet to display in one of the city parks. The Air Force is making several T-33A, two-seat trainer jets, available to prior applicants such as Wayne if they wish to have them.

Consideration once again of a proposed ordinance which would give Wayne Refuse Service exclusive franchise to collect garbage and trash in the business district and exclusive franchise to collect garbage in the residential area. Councilmen have been taking up, discussing and tabling proposed ordinances for the past several months.

Consideration of a proposal from Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) for connecting the city's electrical system with NPPD. The city currently is in the process of obtaining materials to build the connecting link but has yet to sign an agreement spelling out what NPPD power will cost.

Discussion of the Department of Road's proposal to change the speed limit on highways passing through the city.

Consideration of a permit requested by Dr. Gordon Shupe to raze a house on the corner of Main and Lincoln. The house has already been razed.

Discussion of the council's recent decision to force installation of sidewalks in a large area in the east part of the city.

New Man, New Uniform

THE LATEST addition to the Wayne police force, former state patrolman Doug Rother, shows off the latest in dress for local policemen — light blue blazer, dark blue slacks and stockman's hat. The police began switching to the new uniforms last week, possibly the first police force in Nebraska to give up their traditional uniforms for the dressier look. Rother, who began with the force last month, was with the state patrol five and a half years. He is now studying full time at Wayne State College as well as working nights for the police department. A second semester sophomore, he's aiming at a business degree.

Young Men Are Jailed

Two Wayne County youths were sentenced to seven days in county jail and fined $53 in court costs each Thursday on charges of assault and battery.

The two are Joseph Roberts, 19, and John Meyer, 18, both of Wayne.

Sentencing the two was district court judge Joseph Hunker of West Point.

Charges, filed by county attorney Budd Bornhoff of Wayne, stemmed from an incident on June 2 south of Wayne, a court official said.

ETV to Film Activities at Senior Center

Activities at the Senior Citizens Center in Wayne will be televised by Nebraska Educational Television Network today (Monday).

Televised will be performances by the Center's band, Bobbles and Bubbles, and other group activities.

Mrs. Jociell Bull, Center director, said she was informed about the televising last week when she and Center members attended the Senior Citizen Roundup in Lincoln. An ETV See ETV, page 5

Biking Their Way West

AN AMBITIOUS TRIO from Wakefield took off Wednesday afternoon on their 10-speed bikes with Colorado as their destination. Thanks to the Wakefield Legion club's come-from-behind performances at the area baseball tournament at Wakefield, the three planned to be in Broken Bow Saturday night to see Wakefield compete in the first round of the state tourney. The state tourney has special meaning for one of the bikers, Bob Eaton, right, since his brother Paul is Wakefield's coach. After that rest, the bikers, who also include Paul Jensen, left, and Bob Gustafson, will continue on to Colorado for a few days of vacation before returning in time for classes at Wayne State College.

Youths Plan Carnival on Thursday

Wayne youngsters will be able to take part in a neighborhood carnival Thursday while helping the fight against muscular dystrophy.

The carnival will be held at 120 S. Blaine under the direction of Terry and Tammy Hamilton, children of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hamilton.

It will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Carnival activity will include pinball shooting, ring toss, shooting gallery and penny pitch. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Helping out on the event will be Tim and Todd Pfeiffer, Don Stoakes, Scott Kuderna and Greg Shuler.

All proceeds from the event will go to aid the fight against dystrophy, and related diseases.

Last year, in cooperation with Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, more than 20,900 little carnivals were held by children across the country. Over $345,800 was raised for research and patient service programs.

Screening for City Position To Start Soon

Wayne city councilmen will meet next week to begin screening applicants for the position of city administrator, mayor Kent Hall said Friday.

Hall said the councilmen will meet Monday to cut down the number of applicants so individuals can be invited for interviews.

Seven persons have applied for the administrator's post, created by the recent adoption of a reorganizational plan for the city. Applicants are from Nebraska, Illinois, Oklahoma, Missouri, Georgia and California, a city official said.

Hall said a person will be hired for the job possibly sometime in early September. He said the new administrator will be named as soon as interviews with the applicants can be completed.

The administrator will have a variety of duties under the new setup. Among them will be estimating city expenditures and revenues, drawing up the proposed budget, serving as a public relations officer, recommending to the mayor and council appointment and dismissal of department heads under him, drawing up a job classification and pay plan, and supervising public buildings and other public property.

Gasoline Shortage in Area Eases

Gasoline shortages around the area seem to be easing somewhat as the vacation season comes to a close.

Stations in Allen and Dixon which were experiencing shortage earlier this summer now report they have enough gas on hand to meet customer requirements.

Paul Rahn of Paul's Service Station in Allen presently is on an allocation but notes he made it through a severe shortage in the month of July. Rahn said that at the end of June he was completely out of gasoline and had to wait for his July ration. It looks like Rahn's problem may be history as he now has enough gas on hand.

John Young, owner of Young's DX in Dixon, reports his shortage problem is almost a thing of the past. "I'm not completely over the shortage situation, but things are improving quite well."

Several times during the last two months, Young had trouble trying to supply his farm customers. "I ran out twice, once in June and July," he said.

In Wayne the majority of stations are doing okay, with M&S Oil still limiting drive-in customers to 15 gallons.

"We're still on that 70 per cent gasoline allocation," said station owner Mern Mordhorst, "and 80 per cent allocation on diesel fuel."

As far as other Wayne stations go, there are no limitations on gasoline purchases.

In Winside, Tri-County Co-Op has placed a $3 limit on motorists buying gasoline. McClain Oil Co. in Carroll continues its $1 purchase limitation.

Green Thumbers are repairing America

A comment

'We can still do a good day's work. . . give us a useful job and we'll show you'

Results:
 —In Salt Lake City, they did a beautiful landscaping job around the state capitol.
 —In Oklahoma, they restored a Cherokee Indian home.
 —In Arkansas, they built a large picnic area.
 —In New Jersey, they restored a church where seven Presidents have worshipped.
 —In Sioux Falls, they restored a pre-Civil War log house.
 —In Virginia, they carried out a beautification project on a plantation established as a new state park.

Remarks:
 —"The men have one complaint — they all want to work longer."
 —"We can still do a good day's work. Age is no barrier. Give us a useful job and we'll show you."
 —"We're extremely grateful for the assistance this organization has given us, both spiritually and financially."
 —"It's a lifesaver to us older men who want to work but are unable to do so because of age."

A federal program which deserves more attention than it has been receiving is responsible for those results and prompted those remarks by persons directly involved in it.

Called Green Thumb, Inc. it is a program which many people consider one of the nation's best success stories in its sometimes futile attempts to deal with the ever increasing number of elderly citizens.

The program, funded by the U. S. Department of Labor, offers elderly men and women a chance to earn the minimum wage to supplement retirement income or social security payments. Elderly persons are put to work on any public or non-profit organization (and doing a variety of tasks to help reverse the American trend to destroy and ruin the environment. They plant, trim, water and cultivate trees. They lay sod, thin bushes, clear dead trees, prune trees and weed flower beds. They help build parks, campgrounds and hiking trails. They plant trees and bushes along highways and around public buildings.

The Green Thumbers are mostly retired, low income, rural men who range in age from 55 to 94 years. They average 69 years. They are scattered throughout 17 states. They number about 2,500.

The benefits of the program are two-fold: providing additional income and social identity. "But the dollar value does not equal the physical and psychological impact that being useful and independent can have," says Harold Buckner, state director for the New York program in an article in the most recent quarterly issue of The Lutheran Digest.

Proof of that is the comment by the 77-year old foreman of a crew of Green Thumbers working on improvements along a New York highway. It gives us pride to be able to work for ourselves and at the same time benefit our country."

Sociologists and other experts have long realized that one of this nation's most wasted resources is its elderly population. It looks like Green Thumb, Inc. might be doing something about it. Maybe Wayne and surrounding communities should give the program more than a passing look. More information about the program is available by writing Green Thumb, Inc., 1012 14th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

They're pruning trees, pulling weeds, restoring houses, landscaping roads, . . . they're making America beautiful

OBSERVATIONS

A couple things to keep in mind

If the city can obtain that two-seat trainer jet from the Air Force at a reasonable cost, it will be a nice addition to the city.

The jet could be permanently parked at the Lions Club park next to the municipal airport, for instance, further prompting campers to stop there overnight. It would probably entice a few motorists to stop off for a driving break to look over the machine. Or, it could be put in one of the other parks in the city, making it a bit more accessible to youngsters who would want to climb on it and inspect everything from the exhaust to the cockpit.

The city council, which will ultimately make the decision on whether to obtain the aircraft, should keep a couple things in mind, however.

Bringing "the aircraft" to the city is going to cost some money, possibly quite a bit. The council should start thinking about how much it is willing to spend to bring the aircraft to Wayne. What the limit should be is difficult to say, but taxpayers might think anything over one or two thousand dollars would be too much.

If the aircraft is obtained, there will probably have to be some attempt to keep it from being a gold mine for vandals. Vandals in other communities have turned such aircraft into eyesores in a few short years. A perfect example is Yankton where a jet flown by Joe Foss, former South Dakota governor, soon looked little better than another addition to the local junkyard.

That problem, keeping the airplane accessible to those interested in inspecting it while keeping it inaccessible to those who would wish to paint their initials on it, is not going to be an easy one to solve.

SOME 20 law enforcement officials from Northeast Nebraska turned out Tuesday night for the first in a long series of classes which will be conducted in Wayne by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The classes, organized by Wayne police chief Bob Evers, will continue for possibly one year, offering law officials expert instruction in a variety of areas.

Classes scheduled so far include ones on factors of mobs and analysis of crowds, Aug. 21; defensive tactics, Sept. 4; search and seizure, Sept. 18; testifying in court, Oct. 2; report writing, Oct. 16; and police and mentally unstable persons, Oct. 30.

Present for Tuesday night's opening class were law officials from Macy, Winnebago, Tekamah, Decatur, Ponca, Wayne State College and Wayne. Evers said he expects other communities and counties to send lawmen to the classes as they continue.

The classes are especially suited to lawmen who were on forces when the state law was passed requiring formal instruction of all new police officers. They will offer the officers a chance to pick up some credit toward state certification, as now required of new policemen, Evers said.

THAT LADY you may have seen walking up and down city streets marking tires on parked cars Thursday is Mrs. Janice Boyce, part-time dispatcher with the local police department.

She started handing out warnings Thursday, the first day in several weeks that local police have marked parked cars, says Evers. She began handing out tickets Friday after the one-day grace period.

Evers said parked cars will be marked during spot checks to make sure motorists aren't violating local regulations.

IN OTHER local police news, officers began switching to their new uniforms last week. The uniform is a light blue blazer with a department crest on the pocket, dark blue slacks, white shirt, striped tie and stockman's hat.

According to reports, Wayne is the only community in the state where police wear blazers and slacks instead of the traditional uniform.

THE AUGUST 9th edition of the Wall Street Journal carried an advertisement titled "Blood, Sweat and Steers — The Three Year Poker Game."

The ad is the first in a series which will be printed in "thought leader" publications by the Beef Industry Council of the National Live Stock and Meat Board in its expanded public relations program.

It points to the forces of nature which have combined with unnatural risks, like artificial price ceilings, to create the current beef supply crunch. Tracing the cycle from cattle rancher to feeder to packer to retailer, the ad concludes that the law of supply and demand operating in a free market will have to start working again to solve the beef crisis and that no businessman "can hang in there indefinitely when he knows the odds are stacked against him."

The advertising program — to include additional publications reaching opinion leaders and homemakers — is the initial step in a 16-point public relations effort financed by investments from industry organizations over and above the Board's $2.7 million central program of consumer public relations, education and research.

What Is A Teacher?

WHAT IS A TEACHER? A teacher is many things... She's knowledge with a smile on her face... Democracy with a book in her hand... Wisdom with a flick of white chalk-dust on her left eyelid.

She comes in all sizes and temperament... Short, tall, skinny, plump... Laughing, serious, happy and sad.

She's the future of the nation in a sack dress... Love with a college education.

In her everyday work week, she's expected to be: Diplomat, philosopher, politician, fight referee, pediatrician, policewoman, practical nurse... and quiz program conductor.

SHE HAS LITTLE CHILDREN in her eyes... And all her dreams are young dreams.

She's a psychiatrist without a couch... Politician without a promise... Baby-sitter without the right to raid the icebox.

She makes money than a dishwasher... Or a ditchdigger... or a garbage collector.

She makes less money than a woman wrestler... Burlesque strip-tease dancer... Or the woman blackjack dealer in Nevada.

Her days are filled with school bells... Young chatter... Chalk dust... Waving hands... Questions... and worried parents.

A TEACHER IS EQUALLY ADEPT AT: Blowing small noses, teaching fractions, putting on galoshes, finding lost mittens in dark clock-rooms... and making parents feel good at parent-teacher meetings.

She spends four years in college, studying hard, in order to learn how to: Make orange paper pumpkins at Halloween, umpire baseball games at recess time, tell young boys to throw bubblegum in the wastebasket.

IN ADDITION TO knowing all there is to know about reading, writing and arithmetic, not to mention science, biology, history and music, a teacher has to be an authority on Baseball... Grasshoppers... Little girls... Snakes... Young love... Little boys... and how to live three months of the year without a paycheck.

While grateful parents spend their evenings watching television, attending cocktail parties, complaining about the high cost of the school system, teachers spend their evenings correcting examination papers... Smiling at people at parent-teacher meetings... and wishing they had become stenographers.

Teachers can be found after school... Taking aspirin, picking up spitballs, washing blackboards, rehearsing plays, sewing angel costumes for Christmas pageants... and just sitting at a desk waiting for strength to get home.

TEACHERS ARE EXPECTED TO: Go to church... Keep out of debt... Have creative minds (but not disagree with the board of education)... stay away from cigarettes, beer and bingo games... and give willingly to the United Fund.

A teacher dispenses magic... Sells futures... Dreams are her stock in trade...

From her small classroom will come the doctors of tomorrow, the men who will go to the moon, the great artists and novelists of the year 2000... The industrial tycoons and all the leaders America will need to survive in a puzzled world...

She's the future of the world with a ruler in her hand... Progress with a pencil back of her ear.

Underpaid, unappreciated at times, harried and overworked, she gains her pay in secret satisfaction...

Secretly, she will admit, "I have the greatest job of all..."

And she has... Because she holds the history of the world in the palm of her little hand... She's a teacher.

NEBRASKA... the good life

'Alternatives Available For Swine Feeders Trying To Cut Costs of Feed'

High soybean meal costs have sent swine producers in search of feeding methods that will lower their supplemental protein cost and still give them a similar net return for their product.

University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension livestock specialist Keith Gilster offered these four alternatives: 1. reduce the amount of protein in the ration, 2. use other high-protein feedstuffs, 3. use high lysine corn, and 4. use synthetic lysine.

Producers might consider lowering protein levels to 56 lbs. per head per day for bred gilts and sows, to 1.65 lbs. for lactating gilts and to 1.82 lbs. for lactating sows.

During periods of high supplemental protein costs, the following dietary protein levels may be fed to growing-finishing swine: 16-18 per cent pigs two weeks of age to 30 lbs. body weight, 14 per cent for 60-100 lb. pigs and 12 per cent for 100 lbs. to market weight.

Some other possible protein sources include cottonseed meal, linseed meal, cottonseed meal, dehydrated alfalfa meal, fish meal, meat and bone meal, tankage and blood meal. All except fish meal are lower in cost per unit than soybean meal.

However, the following limitations are recommended: cottonseed meal or conglutened meal should not exceed 10 per cent of the total diet, meat and bone meal should not exceed 5-10 per cent and blood meal should not exceed 2-5 per cent.

Dehydrated alfalfa meal or finely ground alfalfa hay may be added to supply not more than one-third of the total protein in the diet of growing-finishing swine.

Legume pastures might also be used to reduce ration cost. For finishing pigs on good legume pasture, the regular dry lot protein requirement can be reduced by two per cent.

For sows, excellent pasture might replace all supplemental protein, with two to three pounds of grain fed depending on the female's condition.

Feeding trials at NU have shown that feeding a gestation diet of 66 per cent finely ground alfalfa hay results in good reproductive performance. This diet was fed at the rate of six pounds per head per day. Feeding a diet of 100 per cent dehydrated alfalfa meal also results in good reproductive performance.

All swine diets should include proper levels of vitamins and minerals.

Experiments at the NU indicate that when high lysine corn is used as the major feed grain for swine, the dietary protein level can be reduced by two per cent during both the growing and finishing phases without hurting performance and possibly improving feed conversion.

Research results indicate that lowering the protein content of the diet from 14 to 10 per cent at 100 pounds body weight may not adversely affect carcass muscle and fat content when high lysine corn is used as the corn source in the 10 per cent diet.

The supply of high lysine corn available as swine feed is low now, and supplies of seed corn were depleted early this spring. This may indicate an inadequate harvest of high lysine corn this fall.

Research results indicate that pigs fed a corn-soybean meal diet with 12 per cent protein and 15 per cent lysine from 100 pounds to market weight have similar performance and carcass characteristics compared to pigs on a 14 per cent protein diet.

However, pigs from 100 pounds to market weight fed a 10 per cent protein regular corn-soybean meal diet plus 15 per cent lysine grew slower, required more feed per pound of gain and had carcasses with more fat and less muscle than pigs fed the above two diets.

Hoskins Levy Jumps Six Mills For Fiscal Year

Hoskins residents will notice a sizeable jump in their mill levy for the 1973-74 fiscal year.

The town board approved a six-mill increase for the 1973-74 fiscal year budget during the board's special meeting Tuesday night.

According to town clerk Mrs. Shirley Mann, the forecasted budget for the fiscal year is $60,857, compared to $36,969.64 spent the previous fiscal year. That's a jump from 18.5 mills to 24.99 for the upcoming fiscal year.

Of the total budget, about $7,860 will have to be raised in local taxes. One reason for the projected increase in the budget is the possible new streets and sewers to be built sometime within the fiscal year. Cost of that work is estimated at $36,000.

Garden Quiz

How do you control grasshoppers in the garden?

Three insecticides are approved for use on most garden crops for control of grasshoppers. Malathion, Sevin, and dimethoate will kill grasshoppers, but do not last more than two or three days.

Spray the borders of gardens to reduce migration of more hoppers into the garden. Always read labels, use correct dilution and observe waiting periods before harvesting garden crops.

DRIVING

All students will register their cars and supply additional information on their motor vehicle. You may not drive your car to school unless it is registered.

There will be no driving of the cars during the school day without permission from the administration and from the parents.

Students are expected to drive in the proper manner and reports of careless and reckless driving before and after school will be sufficient reason to discontinue your driving privileges to school.

STUDENT ATTIRE

Students are expected to come to school dressed in the proper manner. Such things as grooming & attire are of concern.

We realize the styles tend to be a problem but we feel that the patrons of the school desire our students to be neat and modest in their dress.

PHYSICALS

The high school students who plan to participate in sports or take part in physical education should have a physical examination. You cannot participate without a physical. Get these physicals out of the way prior to school. You can pick-up the doctor's forms at the school office.

Kindergarten students must have a physical and it is recommended that students in grades 1-6 also have one. Students in grades 7-12 who will be taking physical education will need a physical.

Victims of the system?

In some circles, it's "in" to be down on the system. After years of thought and action we still believe that the system is a good one—that it works for your good.

We're referring to our economic system that runs on profit—the system that has provided America with the highest standard of living in the world by far. (Four out of 5 families own TV sets,

3 out of 5 own their homes, and 1 out of 3 own 2 or more cars.)

We've lived with this truth so long it has become trite. Some people just take for granted the system that has put men on the moon. Some seem bored by abundance. Others are attacking the profit system with false arguments. Our system isn't perfect. It does have its faults. But it deserves to be judged on its record.

In a nationwide public opinion poll, a majority of people interviewed said they believe that business profits average 28% of sales after taxes. They are wrong. The fact is that over the past 20 years profits have averaged about 5% on sales—or 5 cents on a dollar.

We all profit from profits.

'Conservation Is Important To Everyone'

Ever wonder why some farmers seem to make out better than others? Or why some communities prosper when others go downhill?

Often the difference between success and hard going is the little things that affect a business from day to day, like having a soil and water conservation plan, says William Yost, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Wakefield.

Conservation farming keeps soil where it belongs, holds soil moisture to tide crops over dry spells, stops gullies and shaved operating costs, he says.

Best of all, according to Yost, it gives the landowner new pride in his field and farmstead.

Conservation of soil and water resources is important to everyone, Yost adds, and conservation planning can create a more beautiful and bountiful community, providing everybody a better place to live.

There are correct conservation practices for both rural and city residents, adds Yost. Information on those plans are available from any Soil Conservation Service office, he notes.
