Students new to the Wayne-Carroll school system who have not registered for the 1973-74 school year are to do so on Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon, reports superintendent Francis Haun.

Haun said regular classes will begin for all students in the school district on Wednesday, Aug. 29.

Buses will make their regular runs that day, he notes, and students who will be riding buses will be mailed a schedule before the opening day so they can anticipate the time the bus will arrive at their homes.

Buses will leave Wayne schools about 4 p.m. that first day of school, he added.

Elementary students will be given a note to take home the first day of school so parents will know what supplies the students will need for their classes.

There will be three sections of kindergarten this year, all at West Elementary. Morning sessions will run from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and an afternoon session will run from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

All other classes will begin at 8:50 a.m. Times for dismissing are 3:15 for first grade, 3:20 for second grade, 3:25 for third grade, 3:30 for fourth grade, 3:55 for middle school and 4 for high school.

Haun noted that the price of school lunches will be slightly higher this year. Lunches will be available for $2.50 per week or 55 cents for single meals, he said.

Teachers in the school system are to report at 9 a.m. on Aug. 27 and 28 for workshop activities.

An all-staff luncheon is scheduled for the elementary school lunch room at 12:15 next Monday, Aug. 27, and new faculty will be special guests at a faculty picnic at Bressler Park that evening.

Wayne Youths Earn $22 for MD Battle

A pair of Wayne youngsters, Terry and Tammy Hamilton, earned about $22 during their muscular dystrophy carnival Thursday afternoon.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hamilton, held the carnival in their backyard, offering persons a chance to take part in a penny pitch, ring toss and other activities to help raise funds to fight the disease.

Helping them put on the event were Scott Kudrna, Don Stoakes, Mark Shuffel, Gwen Meier, and Bob Lamb.

Area Student Ranks High Among Grads

A student from Laurel, Bruce Curtiss, was one of the 17 students earning their baccalaureate degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln with high distinction at the close of the second summer session.

Curtiss earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration with the highest scholastic honor given by UN-L.

Also receiving degrees at the close of the session were Linda McFarland of Wayne, master of education degree, and Pamela Olason of Carroll, bachelor of science in education.

About 500 students received graduate and baccalaureate degrees from UN-L Friday at the close of the summer session.

Nearly half of the students completed work toward advanced degrees in the Graduate College.

Since only one formal commencement is held each year at the University, diplomas were distributed at the Administration Building or mailed upon request of the graduates. All of the graduating students are invited to take part in the commencement ceremony held each May.

Rural Schools To Start Year On Aug. 27

All rural school districts in Wayne County are expected to start the 1973-74 school year on Monday, Aug. 27, says the county superintendent's office.

That is the day the county superintendent has suggested that rural school districts begin the school year, but an isolated school or two may deviate from that date according to the superintendent's office.

The Wayne-Carroll school district will begin regular classes on Wednesday, Aug. 29.

Tax Levy to Drop 2 Mills in County

Thanks partly to federal revenue sharing funds, Wayne County taxpayers won't have to dig quite as deep into their pockets to finance the county for the 1973-74 fiscal year.

County commissioners Tuesday approved an altered budget for the coming fiscal year which probably will require a 16% of 10.54 mills — down more than two mills from the present levy of 12.57.

County clerk Norris Weible said the levy cut was possible because the commissioners decided to use more of the federal revenue sharing funds which have been received or are expected this coming fiscal year.

The county already has received $139,873 from the federal government, said Weible, and another $175,846 is expected in the next 12 months.

By using more of the funds to help pay for road and bridge work in the county this year the commissioners were able to shave the levy for that fund from 4.63 mills to 4.63, said Weible.

The levy to support the noxious weed fund was boosted slightly Tuesday, from .27 mill to .30, according to Weible. Before Tuesday's alterations, county officials anticipated a drop in the mill levy from 12.57 to 12.51.

If the estimated mill levy holds true for this fiscal year, county taxpayers will be paying out $10.54 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation rather than the present $12.57.

Weible said the county already has realized some financial help from the federal revenue sharing funds. About $37,000 of those funds were spent earlier this year to help purchase a new piece of road equipment for the district covering the southeast portion of the county.

About $20,000 was spent to help pay for a piece of earth moving equipment for the district covering Carroll, according to Weible.

Following is a breakdown of the mill levy adopted by the commissioners Tuesday with present mill levy in parentheses:

—3.10 (3.28) for general operation of county offices

—4.63 (6.45) for roads and bridges

—1.72 (1.51) for relief

—05 (none last year) for soldiers and sailors relief

—49 (.59) for county fair

—30 (.49) for noxious weed control

—25 (.25) for sinking fund for county improvement.

Reader Says: Let's Have More Chances To 'Speak Out'

"Thanks for the opportunity to speak out. Let's have more of it, OK?"

That's the comment of one of more than 40 individuals who filled out and returned their "Speak Out" ballots by Friday.

Almost every reader of the Wayne Herald who clipped the "Speak Out" ballot from Thursday's issue of the newspaper had a comment to make about the first question in our mini-poll series.

The first "Speak Out" asks readers to tell us whether they thought the change in police uniforms in Wayne was a good one for the community. Policeman recently switched from their brown uniforms to more casual sport jacket, slacks, white shirt and tie, and stockman's hat.

The ballot appeared on the top of the editorial page in the last issue of the newspaper. If another person in a family has already clipped it out, readers may simply write down their answer and any

Free 'Dogs' Served to About 1,000

JUST OVER 1,000 people were served free hot dogs and pop by the Wayne County Jaycees Thursday night in Wayne.

The Jaycees and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce financed the free meal, served at the corner of Third and Main Streets, in connection with the Chamber's annual Back-to-School promotion. One hungry youth enjoys a free hot dog, minus bun, while sitting on the curb (left).

Serving a group of girls is Jaycee Dave Lev of Wayne (above). Craig Tiedke, who helped Jack Manske plan the feed, said many of the people who turned out for the feed complimented the sponsors. He said the feed attracted a large number of adults as well as youths.

Area Students Are Enrolled in Nursing School

Carroll, Winside and Wayne youths have enrolled as freshmen at Nebraska Methodist School of Nursing in Omaha.

They are Sally Kenny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Kenny of Carroll; Jean Weible, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weible of Winside, and Teresa Dranselka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dranselka of Wayne.

The three are among 138 students in this year's freshman class. A reception was held for the new students and their parents Sunday at the school's Indian Hills Educational Center.

Farm Appraiser: Production Speculation Is Major Reason for Current Rise in Rural Real Estate

Speculation on future production potential is causing the current rise in farm real estate, according to Dave Ewing, a rural real estate appraiser from Wayne.

Ewing said that whether buyers are right or wrong in anticipating higher future profits is unimportant to the seller. Under such conditions poor grade land may command a much higher price than its real value — a seller's market.

Ewing said this is why it is so important for a farmer to have a clear idea about the value of his land. He suggested complete appraisals and updating every five years.

Appraisals take into account the value of buildings, potential rental value, average and potential production, other similar sales, and trends in the market.

Ewing said that since many of these factors can change quickly, an exact appraisal may be incorrect after one or two months. Particularly in the case of a sale, opinions should be adjusted after that period, he said.

Sherman Geib, a rural appraiser and consultant from Madison, Wis., said nothing helps an appraiser do his job more than good farm records.

"I wish more farmers would keep careful records. It helps in determining average productivity," Geib said.

Both Geib and Ewing were instructors at a seven-day appraisers and farm managers school last week at the Nebraska Center on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's East Campus.

The school was sponsored by the American Society of Farm, Managers and Rural Appraisers in cooperation with the Nebraska Society.

Geib said 51 appraisers and managers attended the school. The purpose of the school is to teach the basics of both fields. Some students are professionals who attend it as a refresher course, and others either plan to take up management or appraising or are in a related field such as banking or law.

Farmers and foreign trade

Farmer & Foreign Trade

Not long ago Americans were known throughout the world as the enterprising people who could produce almost anything better than anybody else. American cars, machinery, appliances, electronics, tools and instruments dominated the markets wherever they went, and that was almost everywhere.

As we all know, that image is tarnished today, and worse than that, our economy is a mess, largely because we've been passed up in nearly every department by the Japanese, the Germans, and others.

The once gung ho American is today so hung up on social experimentation, medicine, three-day weekends, guaranteed income, and what he calls his ecology, that he is pitiful competition for anybody who wants to go after his customers' and markets.

At times it seems as though all Americans have just about gone down this same tube, but of course that is far from the truth and agriculture is the great exception. It's the one bright spot where we still run circles around the competition. Nobody can turn out the food and fiber like the American farmer, and he isn't slowing down a bit, and he gets better at it each year.

American agriculture offers more promise than any other segment of our economy for restoring a decent balance to our foreign trade.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who is easily the best man we've ever had in that job, has been stumping the country in support of legislation to open the gates for more of our farm produce to be sold overseas. Most congressmen are ignorant, if not downright antagonistic, toward agriculture but they respond to letters and post cards, and they will respond to yours if you'll just take a couple of minutes to do the job. Remember, it's not just for agriculture. If we are going to depend on Japan for our Sonys, we are going to have to give them something besides paper promises in return.

Some things we can't afford

America is a wealthy country, but there are many things that we cannot afford.

We cannot afford to pay 75 cents a gallon for gasoline just because we think pipelines are ugly.

We cannot afford to sacrifice our forests to the gypsy and tussock moths just because some nature lover had a bad dream about DDT.

We cannot afford to cut back production of grain because some of our neighbors think it might upset their environment.

We cannot afford to turn off our industrial plants because nuclear power is mysterious and appears dangerous to certain groups of old ladies and backpacking enthusiasts.

We cannot afford to encourage food poisoning because recycling is a catchy idea.

We cannot afford to add $10 an acre to cotton production costs just because some diehards would like to prove beneficial insects can take care of our pest control problems.

We cannot afford to cut vital agricultural and industrial fuel supplies just because some senator wants to punish offshore oil developers for accidents.

We cannot afford to buy all our manufactured goods abroad just because organized labor has decided pay for value received is a silly idea.

We cannot afford to outlaw tin cans just because a few people are irresponsible.

We cannot afford to pay for non-production just because somebody might produce too much.

We cannot afford to boost supermarket prices 15 per cent just because some people believe a label should read like a textbook on organic chemistry.

We cannot afford a political philosophy that says free lunches are more important than free men.

1st Sergeant John W. Botts, Black Volunteer

In Spanish-American War

An unusual item in the J. Sterling Morton Collection at the Nebraska State Historical Society in Lincoln is a letter written by 1st Sergeant John W. Botts from the Army of Occupation in Cuba. Undated, the letter is thought to have been written sometime in 1899. Botts, who claimed to be the "only colored vol. from Nebraska," had gone to Kansas to enlist in the 23rd Kansas Colored Infantry Regiment. Commander of the regiment was a Negro. Lieutenant Colonel James Beck, Manhattan, Kansas. At least thirty of the commissioned officers of the regiment were Negro.

The short duration of the Spanish-American War (April-December, 1898) prevented the 23rd from seeing action, but the unit remained in Cuba until well into 1899 as a work-rehabilitation force. Several of the men married Cuban señoritas. Colonel Beck claimed that his regiment was one of the best disciplined in the expeditionary force, based on the low incidence of AWOL's and court martials.

The letter, which follows, indicates a close friendship between the Morton family and Sergeant Botts. The Botts name first appeared in Nebraska City newspapers following the Civil War:

San Luis DeCuba
27 miles from Santiago DeCuba

To My Dear Friend Mr. Morton,

As I sit at my rude-constructed desk away out in the mountains of Cuba where it rains every day and sometimes twice, I am thinking (of) one of my friends who looks forward to my success in life and whom I appreciate very highly. Mr. Morton, I hardly realize I am over 3,000 miles from home and a stranger in a strange land where the sun shines not 365 days out of a year and every 4 years 366, but I can thank the Lord that I have not been sick or have been attacked by any big snakes or monkeys that are so plentiful in this country.

Mr. Morton I will try and relate to you my trip which will long be remembered by me. Aug. the 24th (1898) we left New York on board the Vigilance, a U. S. transport ship. It was a crowded affair for over 850 men and at one time we had nearly 500 of them sea sick and worse, yet we had a storm on the 28th of Aug. It was a Cracker Jack to the men (who) began to pray and cry and some of them threw away playing cards and dice and swore they would sin no more but I could note the different last pay day. All day I could hear them saying "Seben Come Leven."

On the 1st of Sept. we arrived in Santiago Bay. We passed the Morro Castle, also the wreck of the Mermaid and all the way down the Harbor we could see sunken war vessels almost. All were Spanish. The next morning we landed in the dirty city of Santiago and the sights I saw was enough to make my body shed tears, dirty, ragged, black and white children, naked and barefooted and poor as a snake, begging and crying for something, some sick from starving, others from the dreadful fever, which Santiago has its share of. The streets are narrow and dirty, the slops run down the middle of the street and the stench is terrible.

The most of the people are poor and the U. S. Government feeds them. Some of the girls are very pretty, but they are thinly clad and do not look like an American woman. They resemble our race a great deal, but they are smaller and they do not make any different (differentiation?) in color. They wonder why some of the soldiers are white and some are so black and all called Americans; they say they love us, using this expression "Cabano Amego Much a Mollo Americano" which means Cubans friends good Americans.

I am learning Spanish you know. The high(er) class of people are much harder to realize the fact that they are friends. They do not like us very much and I expect we will have to give them a little taste of Black Americanize yet. There is about 2,500 soldiers out in the hills and they have been ordered to lay down their arms. I have a piece of plank off of Gen. Mecco's house and was invited down to his sister's house for dinner, which I could not enjoy. They fed me something like cornbread with sugar in it which did not suit my taste. They called it "Umbreado."

I also have a button off of an officer's coat of the battleship Marie Teresa and one off of a Spanish Captain. Well Mr. Morton, Guard mount is blowing the bugle and I will close and will write you more the next time. I also hope you will send me some paper to read as I get very lonesome out here, being the youngest first sergeant and can not play with my men. I am by myself most of the time.

Give my kindest regards to Mr. Carl Morton and to my friends. From John W. Botts, 1st Sergt. Co. H, 23 Kans. Vol., Santiago, DeCuba. Stationed at San Luis.

P. S. enclosed find one of my pictures. It would be grand (in my eyes) to see it in a newspaper as the only colored vol. from Nebraska.

This is another in a series of articles prepared by the Nebraska State Patrol to draw attention to August as one of the "killer" months on state roads and highways.

SOS is quickly understood in all languages.

The three letters comprise a familiar international signal of distress, an unmistakable appeal for help, and are applicable to everybody.

We need an SOS for highway safety, especially during those dangerous driving days of August.

Safety applications can be built around the letters SOS. They could become warning beacons in safety. It takes a little imagination, but depending on the situation, SOS could have a variety of meanings.

Let's make August our SOS month:

- For those who believe in safety — Soldiers of Safety!
- For drivers who imperil our children — Spare Our Sadness.
- For drinking drivers — Sober Or Soused?
- For non-believers in safety — Sold Or Skeptic?
- For inattentive drivers — See Our Signs!
- For exhibitionists — Show Off Stuff.
- For late starters — Start Out Sooner.
- For drowsy drivers — Sleep Offsets Sleepiness.
- For critical drivers — See Our Sins.
- For those intending to turn — Send Out Signals.
- For lovers — Smooching Or Steering?
- For lane changers — Swing Out Slowly.
- For Close Followers — Short On Space.
- For horn blowers — Sound Off Softly.

—For Slow Drivers — Sort Of Selfish.

—For stop sign violators — Slow Or Stop?

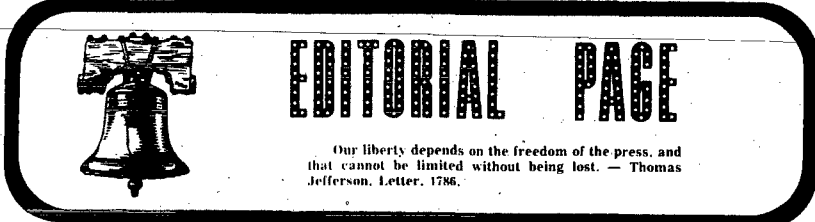

—For needless chance taking — Short On Seconds.

—For the late summer season — School Opens Soon.

—For the driver who did a little social drinking last night — Start Out Sober.

So, while you are driving, keep looking over the scene and see if you can spot some hazard. Then, after you stop, think up a SOS slogan suitable for that hazard. Slogans themselves won't prevent accidents, but looking for the situations which could cause them will go a long way towards highway safety.

Let's make SOS a slogan to live and drive by, especially during the month of August.

By Norvin Hansen

BRIGHT AND EARLY Thursday morning — only hours after the newspaper hit the streets — there were several "Speak Out" ballots on my desk.

That's what I call quick response. Hopefully, many more readers will take a few moments to fill out their ballots and mail them back to me so they can be tabulated along with others returned in our first mini-poll.

The ballot, if you haven't heard yet, has to do with the recent change in police uniforms in Wayne. It asks your opinion about whether the change is a good one for the community. There's even room on the ballot for a few comments.

I would be the last one to say the poll is any kind of scientific sampling of public opinion on this latest conversation piece. But I'll be the first one to defend "Speak Out" as a way for readers of the Herald to stand up and be counted. Too often have I heard somebody say something to the effect that they never get a chance to give their opinion on a certain subject. It could be a school dress code, county commissioners' decision, editorial comment in the paper, youth activities, city council spending or any other subject which causes them to raise their eyebrows.

There have always been ways for the little guy to voice an opinion, but we're just making it a little easier for him to do so through our "Speak Out" series.

The series will run for the next few months. If it turns out that a great number of our readers start clipping out the ballots and mailing them back to us, we'll try turning it into a regular feature.

We plan to have a "Speak Out" ballot on the editorial page once a month.

If you haven't filled out your ballot yet, do so now. Results will be published in an issue of the newspaper later this month.

MEMBERS of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center will probably be glued to television sets once telecasting of "The Grand Generation" is started over Nebraska Educational Television Network this fall.

The local center was the scene of filming for that new one-half hour weekly program last Tuesday. The center's band, Bobbles and Bubbles, performed and members danced while the cameras filmed away.

Ken Johnson, project coordinator for the series, said "The Grand Generation" will feature news, information and entertainment for older Nebraskans. It will be seen statewide, he said.

THE PERSON who submits the winning "Husker Cheer" will receive a pair of tickets to the University of Nebraska-University of California game at Nebraska on Sept. 8.

Conducting the contest are members of Tassels and Corn Cobs, UN-L student pep organizations.

Mark Rasmussen of Omaha said that when Bob Devaney came to Nebraska in 1962, someone coined the phrase, "Get off your fanny and help Bob Devaney." "We hope the winning cheer in this contest, referring either to head football coach Tom Osborne or the team, will become a regular feature at future football games," Rasmussen said.

All cheers submitted should be reasonably short and simple. Deadline for submitting entries is Sept. 1. They should be sent to: Husker Cheer Contest, Corn Cobs and Tassels, Nebraska Union, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr. 68508.

VIEWERS of Nebraska ETV will be able to take in major State Fair activities this year. Daily coverage of the fair starts Thursday, Aug. 30, at 7:30 p.m.

About 40 network personnel will film and videotape major events during the fair, first 10-day fair ever held. Among those to be seen statewide on ETV will be six horse shows, the 4-H dress revue, 4-H singing competition and 4-H clothing competition.

A HOSKIN'S COUPLE, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wagner, recently visited the world's largest space exhibit during a trip to Huntsville, Ala.

The Wagners visited the Alabama Space and Rocket Center, a display designed to let visitors find out firsthand what it's like to be an astronaut. They viewed spaceships, walked on a simulated moon crater, snacked on space food, operated a lunar landing computer and fired a rocket engine.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

SAE Is Mark for Quality

Have you ever looked at a can of motor oil or brake fluid and wondered what the initials SAE mean? They stand for Society of Automotive Engineers, a technical society formed in 1905 and now consisting of over 30,000 professional engineers from all branches of the industry.

They work independently, not representing their companies or affiliations, to develop standards and specifications for automobile components and products like headlights, brake fluid, motor oil and brake linings.

Standards are voluntary, many of them goals for a manufacturer to work toward when making a particular component, and are reviewed and updated each year where technology has advanced.

The SAE also assists the government by providing technical expertise and advice.

A new activity undertaken by SAE within the past year as its Vehicle Research Institute. Under the Society's management, fundamental research projects are being conducted at universities and research centers. At present, the emphasis is on highway safety, although research projects have been conducted in other areas and the program is expanding. One new area is noise.

The Institute provides a unique opportunity for industry and government to work together in funding basic studies, eliminating duplication of effort and funding while developing better common understanding of engineering problems and solutions.

As reflected in its meetings, publications and committees, the SAE and its members are concerned today with problems of energy shortage, vehicle emissions, highway safety, noise, conservation of natural resources and mass transportation, as well as the bread and butter problems of designing more efficient and more effective motor vehicle parts and components.

The consumer derives the ultimate benefit from this scientific research, because efforts are aimed at providing a safer, more efficiently operating automobile.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

AN EARLY morning fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Dale Fiscus farm home near Pender recently.

The Fiscus family was gone at the time of the fire, which was discovered by a passing motorist. A neighbor, Willis Krusemark, called the alarm into the Pender volunteer fire department, after the motorist stopped and told him about the blaze. By the time the firemen arrived, the house had been completely destroyed.

Tips on Buying Men's Knits
Everybody is talking about men's knit clothes, and consumers are buying knitwear at a rate never matched before. But for the careful shopper, the basic rules of good buymanship still apply.

What's good about men's knit clothing? Knit clothes are comfortable to wear because they "give" to body movements, wrinkle less and won't lose their shape. Many patterns and designs are available, and knits are easy to care for and retain a fresher look longer.

Double knits can be worn anywhere and are ideal for travel. They come closest to being uncrushable — even when packed in a suitcase.

Men's knit clothes are made of both synthetic and natural fibers. Fiber content and care instructions should be noted on the garment labels. Some garments made of synthetic fibers are treated with a stain-repellent or fabric protector finish. Such a finish will keep synthetic fibers from attracting soil and body oil so the garment will stay clean longer.

Shop for firmly woven knits which are less likely to snag. If snags do occur, pull them to the inside of the garment. Do not cut them off.

Some men find knit fabrics too warm for summer wear and too cold for winter.

Men's knit garments are available in a wide price range. Some manufacturers claim they get better styling, finer details and better colors with woven fabrics. This may be one reason why some men continue to choose wovens over the higher priced double knits.

Currently, more than one-third of all garments sold — men's, women's and children's — are knits. It's predicted that by 1980 this proportion will rise to two-thirds.

She carried a cascade of pink bridal roses, purple statice and white stephanotis encircling an orchid corsage center accented with white and lavender streamers.

Sheryl Kleiss of Humboldt, Ia. was maid of honor and Mrs. David Zach, Wayne, Jackie Ellis, South Sioux City, Debbie Harvey, Pryor, Okla., and Karen Nolte, Wayne, were bridesmaids. ## Variety Key to SF Displays

Outdoor crafts, wildlife habitat settings and a number of other recreation conservation-related displays will be featured at the Game and Parks Commission's exhibit at this year's State Fair.

Among outdoor craftsmen-on-hand will be Larry Witt of Lincoln who will demonstrate the art of decoy carving, with a helping hand from carvers Ralph Stuehlt and Cliff Holle-stell, both of Lincoln.

Carl Wolfe and Dick Nelson will show how to tie flies, while representatives of the Bair Co. will demonstrate hand-loading. Gary Gablehouse of the Commission's education section will present his environmental magic show, and Dick Turpin plans to treat visitors with a few tunes on banjo and guitar.

Wildlife will again be a big part of the Commission's State Fair offering, but emphasis has been changed somewhat. Rather than concentrating on sheer numbers and variety in the cages, the Commission will attempt to display wildlife in accurate representations of the plant and animal communities that comprise their natural habitat.

NAVY SEAMAN RECRUIT
Gene Sarha, son of Mrs. Rhea V. Sarha of Laurel, has graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center at San Diego.

Gets Wings

Second Lieutenant Robert Nedergaard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon M. Nedergaard of Wayne, has been awarded his silver wings at Laughlin AFB, Tex., upon graduation from U.S. Air Force pilot training.

Lieutenant Nedergaard will remain at Laughlin for flying duty with the 85th Fighter Training Squadron.

A 1968 graduate of Wayne High School, he received his B.S. degree and commission in 1972 upon graduation from the U.S. Air Force Academy.

His wife, Jenness, is the daughter of retired Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. R.M. Roberts of Littleton, Colo.

Earns Badge

Cadet William Kline, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. M.H. Kline of rural Wakefield, received a parachulist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

During the first week of training, Kline underwent a rigorous physical training program and received instruction in the theory of parachuting. The second week tested his ability through jumps from the 34-foot and 250-foot towers. The final week he was required to perform five static line parachute jumps.

Still Time for Towns To Compete in NCIP

There is still time for Nebraska communities to enter the Special Awards Competition of the Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) for 1973, according to Mrs. Marie Arnot, director of the community affairs division of the Department of Economic Development.

"Even if your community is not among the 187 towns and 14 neighborhoods that are participating in the NCIP this year, it still has the opportunity to take part in the special competition," Mrs. Arnot said.

The Special Awards Competition provides recognition for communities which have decided to concentrate most of the improvement efforts in one particular area of concern.

Any community wishing to vie only for the special awards should prepare a scrapbook which records the activities related to the special awards category or categories and submit it along with an entry form by Oct. 1 to the community affairs division. Only projects or portions of projects accomplished between Oct. 2, 1972 and Sept. 15, 1973 are eligible for consideration this year.

Special plaques will be presented in each of the following nine categories: Downtown improvement, economic development, environmental action, farm and ranch development, health and safety programs, public facilities and governmental services, recreation and leisure time, social services, and tourism promotion and special events.

Judging is done on a statewide basis, and taken into consideration are the community's public and private resources. Awards Day will be Nov. 2.

Banner Year for Ranches

Some of Nebraska's privately owned guest ranches are enjoying banner years. Visited Herb Newman's guest ranch, 17 miles north of Stuart, and found his facilities filled with guests, as they have reportedly been since late spring. Ranch-style living, including horseback riding, fishing, chicken feeding and egg collecting, goat milking, family-style meals, and the works, have been bringing repeat visitors.

Bill Stite's Ponda Rosa Boys and Girls Ranch at Buffalo City, 7 1/2 miles south and east of Nebraska City, welcomed its last group of youngsters for the season. His adjacent Buffalo City, complete with hot hotel for dining (fried chicken is the specialty), Purple Sage saloon, ice cream parlor, Nebraska City's first bank building, historic displays, entertainment, etc., have attracted its biggest number of visitors ever.

Bill Powell's Deer Lawn Guest Ranch, southwest of Valentine, is temporarily closed until lodging construction is completed. Bill hopes to have facilities ready for use by hunters this fall.

Some "Natural" Muskies
There is at least limited natural reproduction of muskie in Merritt Lake.

Larry Hutchinson, district aquatic wildlife supervisor at Bassett, said two "naturally produced" muskies have been caught there this year, one a five-pounder that was three years old, and the other, a 12-pounder that was somewhere between four and six years.

The last stocking of muskies occurred in 1964, when about 50 adults were released. Any survivors would be nine years of age.

Wild West in Miniature
One of the more popular attractions at the Buffalo Bill complex near North Platte — Wild West Show, steam-powered narrow gauge railroad, and Buffalo Bill's Scouts Rest Ranch — is the 20,000-piece miniature Wild West Show on display at the park. Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Palmquist, who hand-carved the show, presently are attending the display.

Another of the Palmquist's creations, a miniature circus containing some 30,000 pieces, has been leased for 10 years at a cost of $200,000 for display at Ringling Brothers' Circus World which opens in 1975 not too far from Disney World in Florida.

Fishing Where-To-Go
Duck Lake, Valentine. Refuge, for bass to four pounds on rubber worms and Johnson spoons.

Brunched Oak Lake, north of Malcolm, for largemouth bass, crappie and bluegill. Earlier in year (spring) for walleye along face of dam, and in winter, northern pike to 18 pounds on smelt and chubs, fished close to tree trunks and brush.

MISHMASH. Nebraskans like their camping. According to the outdoor recreation comprehensive plan prepared by the Game Commission, 38.9 per cent of all Nebraskans participated in overnight camping last year. Tom Lonowski of Kearney, a recent bridegroom, owes Merle Rundquist of Osceola a special thanks. Rundquist found the wedding band that Lonowski lost last week at the York rest area on I-80.

Are you one of those purple martin fans who put up a new house this year but drew a blank? A Tampa, Fla. biologist wrote in the Purple Martin Capital News that martins would have nothing to do with a new home he installed but continually buzzed the place where his old house had been. So he put the old one back up and almost immediately martins occupied it. Eventually the birds explored the new house and accepted it, too.

Still on martins. Saw two martins last Friday. Otherwise the neighborhood appears deserted by the apparently migrating birds. The National Park Service has invited public input to the master plan study on Scotts Bluff National Monument at a preplanning meeting Aug. 28 or by submitting written statements.

Friday is a big day for sportsmen, for the Game and Parks Commission will set hunting season dates and limits. One day later, Saturday, the state's first season on big game — archery antelope — gets under way. About 10 to 12 per cent of the bowmen score each year. Walt Somers of Lincoln, one of the state's top bass fishermen, reports that while fishing one of the Salt Valley lakes recently a small perch jumped into his boat.

People risk injury whenever they make casual contact with free-roving wild animals: Last year some 938 human-bear encounters were reported at national park and monument areas, resulting in 82 personal injuries. For those light fitting rod sections, rub the male ferrule through your hair or along your nose before putting the rod together. Enough natural body oil will gather on the ferrule to make it easy to separate many hours later.

PLACES-A-GO-GO. Brownville jazz workshop through Saturday; Gosper County Centennial Fair (Elwood), through Saturday; Culbertson Centennial Celebration, Friday through Sunday; Northwest Nebraska Rock Club Rock Show (Crawford), Saturday and Sunday.

CAMPPOUTS. North Platte Big Red Teens and Rolling Platters at Halsey Forest; Fairbury Oregon Trail Campers at Deahler City Park; McCook Pioneer Campers at Champion Lake, Imperial; Hastings Prairie Schooners at Stromsburg City Park; Ralston Ramblers at Memphis Lake; Lincoln Rollin' Platters at Hord Lake, Central City; Grand Island Sunsetters at Pressey Park, Broken Bow; and Nebraskan City Wewanago at DeSoto Bend, Wilson Island, Iowa.

5 Injured in 2-Car Mishap Near Waterbury

Five persons suffered minor injuries in a two-car wreck at the intersection of Highway 20 and a Dixon County gravel road a mile east of Waterbury Aug. 12.

Taken to a Sioux City hospital by the Allen rescue unit were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wyant of Sioux City, who were returning home after visiting Mrs. Wyant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCord of Allen.

The Ponca rescue unit took Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Cross of Laurel and a passenger in their car, Josephine Fickle of Paw-tucket, R. I., to Sioux City for treatment.

The mishap occurred when Cross attempted to make a left-hand turn onto the highway from the gravel road, the investigating officer said.

Wyant, his wife and their daughter were released from the hospital after treatment. Mrs. Cross was kept at the hospital overnight, but the other two persons in the Cross vehicle were released that evening.

Potter Is Spark for North Win

The North All-Stars must have had some inside information when they picked Paul Potter of Columbus as one of the co-captains for Friday night's All-Star classic in Lincoln.

Potter, chosen along with Fremont's Mark Hansen to lead the North squad in the fifth annual contest, pumped in 17 points to lead his team to a 93-86 upset victory over the talent-loaded South.

The victory gives the North All-Stars a 3-2 edge in the series. Potter was leading scorer for his team, which trained last week at Wayne State College, while proving to be a valuable man in passing, rebounding and defense.

More than 3,000 fans watched the North handle the South, even though the South had more height, more all-stars, and Fairbury's highly talented Bob Siegel.

Siegel, however, ended the game 16 points, 11 fewer than teammate Dennis Forrest of Omaha Central. Forrest pulled down eight rebounds while setting series records for points score and free throws, 13 out of 16.

Close behind Potter in scoring were Tom Westover of Lincoln Northeast with 15 points and Rick Seidel with 14. Also in double figures in scoring for the winning team were Kevin Moore of Chadron with 12 points, Steve Harris of Lincoln High with 11 and Hansen of Fremont with 10.

Forrest and Siegel were the only players in double figures for the losing South squad.

THE MAN WHO SOLD NEWSPAPERS

When Mark Twain was a young man, he was editor and publisher of a growing newspaper in a small Missouri town.

One day he received a letter from one of his subscribers. The subscriber said that he had found a spider in that morning's edition of his paper. He wanted to know if this was an omen of good luck, or of bad luck. Mark Twain, a hustling space salesman as well as an editor, wrote to his customer:

"Dear Sir: Finding the spider in your newspaper yesterday morning was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which of the town's merchants is not advertising. He will then go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

School Kids Under 12 Need Immunization

School will begin in a few days in the Wayne area, and parents are reminded that children entering school up to age 12 have to be immunized.

Laws, passed by the last legislature, require that all children up to age 12 entering a Nebraska school must be fully immunized against measles, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis and polio.

Parents should consult private physicians to see that their children are up to date on immunizations before entering school.

Children should especially be immunized against measles and rubella since these are the diseases that occur most often in schools. One immunization with a combination vaccination can now prevent both diseases from occurring.

Tours will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue through mid-afternoon. Lunch will be available.

Sediment pollution is the most serious pollution problem in the Elkhorn River basin. This is an example of where it all begins.

Seven of the nine approved practices in the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Land and Water Development Assistance Program are directly aimed at the reduction of sediment load in the streams and rivers of the Elkhorn Basin. Do your part and make plans now for the construction or paralleling of terraces, grassed waterways, tile drains for terraces, native grass seedings, dams or diversions with the assistance of the Land and Water Development Assistance Program! See your local SCS Office now!!

Reduce slope and increase farmability of your land by push-up terraces. Parallel where possible to eliminate point rows.

Replace grassed waterways with tile drains and farm all your land with modern conservation practices.

Add flood protection, eliminate gullies, and add recreation to the value of your farm with a multi-purpose dam.
