Suit Against City May Go To District Court Shortly

District Judge George W. Dittrick may set a date to hear arguments in the suit by Wayne's former chief of police against the city when he holds district court in Wayne County Sept. 5.

Fairchild is seeking reinstatement and back pay. Dittrick of Norfolk, has already turned down a demurrer and two motions by the city asking that the case be dismissed.

Addison this week submitted an answer to the suit stipulating several reasons why Fairchild has no legal right to sue the city.

Fairchild was fired this spring after he conducted an investigation of local liquor establishments by bringing in men from outside the city to attempt to purchase liquor in bottle clubs without memberships and to attempt to spike beer with liquor in bars.

Hall said he fired Fairchild because Fairchild had been given authority to conduct the investigation but had not been given authority to break the law.

Hall later said there were other reasons which also figured in his decision to fire Fairchild. Being sued by the former chief are Hall and city councilmen Darrel Fugelberth, Vernon Russell, Pat Gross, Keith Mosley, Harvey Brasch, Frank Prather, Ivan Beeks and Jim Thomas. The council did not participate in the decision to fire Fairchild, according to Hall.

Wanted: 'Speak Out' Ballots

Readers are reminded to return their "Speak Out" ballots by Friday so results may be tabulated and announced in Monday's issue of the Wayne Herald.

The first "Speak Out" mini-poll asks readers their feelings on the switch in uniforms by the Wayne police department.

An easy-to-use ballot offering readers a chance to voice their opinion as well as make some comments was printed in last Thursday's issue of the newspaper. Persons who missed clipping out the ballot may vote by using a piece of paper.

Future "Speak Outs" will ask readers their opinions on a variety of subjects—from local and area governmental spending to value of athletics for girls. If the series proves worthwhile, it will be turned into a regular feature in the newspaper.

Mighty Fine Eatin'

AS USUAL, hundreds of area residents turned out for the free barbecue which helped kick off the three-day Dixon County Fair Tuesday. Enjoying their food on a rack of baled hay are some of those who turned out for the feed while Norman Anderson, left, and Arnold Witte, both of Concord, fill up plates of others in the serving line. The fair continues through today (Thursday) with the public dress revue and tractor pull, both starting at 1:30 p.m., the parade of livestock before the grandstand at 6:30 and the grandstand show at 8. A teen dance will be held this evening at 10 o'clock.

School at Laurel Starts On Friday

Opening day of school at Laurel will be this Friday. Busses will run and lunch will be served at noon, but classes will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. Volleyball girls will hold an organizational meeting at 2:30 p.m. that day.

Insurance forms and application blanks for decreased price or free meals will be sent home with students Friday or Monday. Parents are encouraged to purchase lunch and milk tickets before school reconvenes. Rural students may obtain their tickets Friday.

At their meeting earlier this month, school board members adopted a raise in the price for hot lunches at the Laurel-Concord schools from 35c to 40c for students and from 45c to 50c for adults. Milk will be served with each meal.

Morning and afternoon milk will cost 10c per carton this year instead of the 3c per carton charged last year when Laurel received government subsidy.

Because of increased food prices, the board also decided against hiring a lunch room monitor. One of the school secretaries will take over those duties.

Laurel cooks hired for the year are Mrs. Deras Erwin, Mrs. Mabel Tangeman, Mrs. LaVern Johnson, Mrs. Dorothy Huelig, Mrs. Mae Kiefer and Mrs. Claribel Anderson.

According to school administrators, remodeling the Laurel school library is complete with the exception of a few minor details to be finished within the week.

A 71 year old man who lived in Wayne all his life was an apparent suicide victim Monday morning.

He was Carl Lueders, who was found dead in his garage by his wife early Monday morning. County attorney Budd Bornhoff of Wayne said Lueders apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Seekers of City Post Cut to 2

The number of applicants for the city administrator's job in Wayne has been cut from seven to two, the result of screening by the city council and mayor Monday afternoon.

Mayor Kent Hall said the two applicants have been sent letters inviting them to come to Wayne for personal interviews with the council.

A final decision whether to hire one of the two men for the job should be made by the middle of September, according to Hall.

If one of the two is hired, he might be able to take over the Wayne job sometime in October or early November, said Hall.

Both men currently hold city administrative positions in other states, according to Hall.

In addition to teaching the strings class and private lessons on all stringed instruments, Palumbo will teach the music in general culture course and in instrumentation. He also is an experienced string instrument repairman. Mr. and Mrs. Palumbo, both natives of Denver, have one son, 9 months old.

Line Failure Gets Blame for Surges

Wayne power plant officials are blaming line failure for the power fluctuations and electrical appliance damage Friday night.

Norbert Brugger, superintendent of the electrical generating plant, said a feeder line near the substation at 13th and Pearl Streets burned through shortly after 6 p.m. Friday, causing sudden fluctuations of amount of power being sent into homes in the northwest quarter of the city.

He said there were reports of See SURGES, page 5

Commissioners Officially OK Mill Levy Cut

Wayne County commissioners officially adopted a county budget calling for a 10.54 mill levy during their meeting Tuesday.

The mill levy, based on an estimated county valuation of $40,153,935, is more than two mills lower than the present levy of 12.57 mills.

Major reason for the tax cut was the decision by the commissioners to use federal revenue sharing funds to help finance road and bridge work during the next 12 months, according to county clerk Norris Weible.

By using more of those funds than had been planned, commissioners were able to cut that levy from 6.63 to 4.63 mills, he said.

Rural Youth Charged for Break-Ins

A 17-year-old rural Wayne youth charged with two counts of burglary was released from Wayne County jail Tuesday after posting $500 bond.

Latest winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion sponsored by Wayne businesses is Dave Schulte of Wayne.

Although he didn't win the jackpot prize like last week's winner, he won $50 in coupons which can be spent just like cash in any participating firm.

Schulte, business manager at Wayne State College, was in the Ben Franklin Store when the winning birthday was announced at 8:15 p.m. Thursday. Police Offer Traffic Tips To Youths

Youngsters who will be attending kindergarten in Wayne this fall have been invited to participate in the annual traffic safety class conducted by the Wayne police department.

The school is scheduled for today (Thursday). Assistant chief E. L. "Pat" Hailey said he sent out 55 invitations to parents with youngsters attending school for the first time this fall.

Youngsters will become acquainted with police officers, learn about what traffic lights mean and listen to the talking traffic light used in the class.

Hailey, who has conducted the class the past several years, also will take youngsters on a walk through the downtown area so they may practice how to cross streets safely.

Youngsters with last names beginning with A through H are to attend the 8:30 a.m. session. Youths with last names beginning with I-N should attend from 10:30 to noon, and youths with last names beginning with O-Z should attend the 1:30-3 p.m. session.

Hailey said any youngsters unable to attend the session for them may attend one of the other two, preferably the final one.

Driver Escapes 1-Car Mishap Minus Injuries

A Wisner man escaped from a one-car accident north of Winside early Sunday morning without serious injury, according to the state patrolman investigating the accident.

Richard Risor, 38, ran his northbound automobile off the dead end at the junction of Highways 35 and 98 about 1:15 Sunday morning, reports patrolman Brian Busch of Norfolk.

Busch said Risor suffered only minor injuries and his car sustained only slight damage in the mishap.

Local Firemen Help Put Out Hay Stack Fire

The fire was at the Willard Malchow farm eight miles north and four west of Wayne, where a stack of chopped hay started on fire by spontaneous combustion, reports local chief Cliff Pinkelman.

Little damage was done by fire, Pinkelman said. Friday afternoon firemen were called to the Elwood Pilger home at 320 E. Seventh in Wayne after an electrical cord overheated and started on fire. Damage in the fire, which was extinguished by the fire men arrived, was limited to a desk, floor and telephone cord, according to the chief.

County Gets High Marks For Business Activity

On the strength of its business activity during the past year, Wayne County is given a high rating in a nationwide economic survey.

The study shows that it was an above-average retail market. Local residents earned more and spent more per family than people in most areas of the country. The facts and figures are brought out in a new "Survey of Buying Power," conducted and copyrighted by Sales Management, the marketing publication. It gives comparable data for every county in the United States.

In Wayne County, it is shown, there was an upswing in business due to stronger consumer buying. It produced a sales volume in local retail stores of $24,966,000, a rise over the previous year's $22,206,000.

In terms of population alone, this was more than average. Figured on that basis, local retail business should have amounted to only .0051 per cent of the national, since that proportion of the total population lives in the area.

It went above that quota, however, and accounted for .0056 per cent of the national volume.

Consumer spending in the year for goods and services increased considerably from the previous year, despite public resentment over higher prices.

Among many people, the steadily rising costs, with no end in sight, has led them to purchase new cars, washing machines, television sets and other expensive items before prices go up still further. Better incomes made it possible for them to do so.

Net earnings of Wayne County residents, after payment of taxes, came to $29,798,000.

It was equivalent to a median net cash income of $6,253 per household, with half of the families earning more than this and half less.

The relative standing of one community to another, in terms of purchasing power and business vitality, is shown through an "index of sales activity."

Wayne County is given an index rating of 110, or 10 per cent above the national average.

Recreation FB Practice for Youths Begins on Monday

Recreation football in Wayne gets underway Monday afternoon when eighth graders turn out at the local ballpark to open fall practice.

Hank Overin, city recreation director, said this year's program is open to any city or rural youths in grades third through eighth.

Eighth graders will practice Monday and Tuesday at 3 p.m. with helmets, cutoff pants, light shirts and tennis shoes or soccer shoes. Helmets will be furnished by the city recreation department.

Eighth graders will check out equipment at 4 p.m. next Wednesday at the Middle Center above the firehall.

Practice for eighth graders will continue at 4 p.m. on Thursday and Friday next week before a break until practice resumes on Sept. 4.

There will be no practice for eighth graders on Sept. 5 so seventh graders may check out equipment at the center at 4 p.m. Eighth graders will practice again on Sept. 6 but not the following day so fifth and sixth graders may check out equipment at the center.

A full day of practice for all youths signed up for football program will be held on Sept. 8.

with third and fourth graders practicing at 10 a.m., fifth and sixth graders at 1:30 p.m. and seventh and eighth graders at 3 p.m.

Overin said third and fourth graders will participate in the tackle-above-the-waist program. They are to furnish their own shoulder pads, which will be checked to make sure they offer correct protection, Overin noted. Youths unable to furnish their own pads will be issued ones from the city.

First game for eighth graders, only youths who will play other towns during the season, is at Schuyler at 6:30 p.m. on Sept.

The eighth graders will play five games this season.

Other youths in the program will be divided into teams on the basis of age and ability, Overin added.

Helping Overin with the football program again this year will be Denny Paul, a Wayne State College student who is beginning his third year as Overin's assistant.

Also coaching and serving as officials will be Bill Schwartz and Earle Overin. Marty Hansen and Dave Hix will be officials, and Julie Overin will serve as timer.

Busy Camps May Cause Auto Mishaps

The crush of Nebraskans congregated on the state's beaches, picnic areas, campgrounds and other outdoor recreation areas each weekend increases the probabilities of mishaps during sessions of summer fun.

According to the Game and Parks Commission, boating and swimming mishaps produce the majority of recreation-related fatalities, but activities on land hold potential for tragedy, too.

Bustling campgrounds and picnic areas offer all sorts of volatile combinations, such as children at play, traffic passing through, campers and boat trailers backing into position, and dozens of parked vehicles obstructing visibility.

Best safeguard against accidents in these busy places is vigilance on the part of the driver and the pedestrian, and a consideration of the rights of the other fellow, according to Carl Gettmann, chief of the Game and Parks Commission's law enforcement division. Parents have a special obligation to see that children stay away from places offering such hazards.

Another weapon in the battle against recreation area accidents is strict observance of the law. Regulations regarding parking, speed limits, camping, and restrictions on pets were drawn up by experts in the field of outdoor recreation, and safety was one of the top priorities when rules were formulated, according to Gettmann.

"Strict observance of these regulations adds a margin of safety to any outing," he said.

Stoltenberg: They're in Good Condition

"They're in good condition," said Coach Del Stoltenberg as he surveyed 65 gridders who turned out for football practice Monday at Wayne State College.

He termed the physical condition generally better than last year, when his squad came back trimmer than usual.

But if there was some poundage other than muscle on his troops, Stoltenberg and staff immediately put them through drills guaranteed to melt the excess in 90-plus temperatures. Of 28 lettermen expected back, 23 were on the scene, and the others were due soon.

Returning veterans will man most of the offensive positions, but the defense suffers from graduation of six starters, most of them three or four lettered performers.

The biggest offensive gap is at center, vacated by Gary Gottsch, a three-time NAIA all-district choice.

A major problem for Stoltenberg is finding a power runner to replace Reggie Smith. While there are lettermen at all of fensive back slots, none ground out yards like Smith, who averaged 100 in eight games after shifting from defense.

Three lettermen are vying for quarterback—Rick Benedetto of Schiller Park, Ill.; Dave Miller of Savanna, Ill., who did most of the signal calling last year as freshman, and Tim Denham of Cumberland, Ia.

Denham, a junior, played quarterback as a freshman, moved to tailback last year but was sidelined by a third-game injury.

Wayne opens at home Sept. 8 against Nebraska Wesleyan, the last foe on Wayne's 1972 schedule. That game produced a 32-6 Wayne victory.

IT MAY LOOK like a gymnastics class, but this is football practice (note the helmets) at Wayne State. Gridders are toughening up with all sorts of exercises, including this shoulder-wrencher—hand-walking across football goalposts, and back. With the temperature around 90, too!

Hoskins Racers Place 1-2 at Norfolk Oval

Hoskins stock car buffs Gerald Bruggeman and Gene Brudigan placed one-two in the B feature during Sunday night action at Norfolk's Riviera Raceway.

Gerald also came in fifth in the third heat. Two places behind another Hoskins racer, Harold Brudigan, who also pulled off a fourth place showing in the C Feature.

Gene Brudigan managed a pair of second place showings earlier, coming in right behind the winner in the B Feature at Grand Island on Saturday and in the first heat at Clearwater on Wednesday last week.

Taking first at Clearwater in that first heat was Bruggeman. Bruggeman also raced to a runner-up showing in the A Feature at Clearwater.

Uniforms Wanted

Members of last season's Wayne town team are urged to turn in their uniforms to manager Hank Overin as soon as possible.

Ikes to Pick New Directors

Members of the Izaak Walton League in Wayne will elect three new directors during a meeting at their lake northwest of Wayne Sept. 10.

Going off the board of directors are Richard Baier, L. C. Doescher and Al Shuffelt.

Also to be named soon by the Ikes are new officers to replace Don Langston as president, Glen Walker as vice-president, Earl Beeks as secretary and Al Shuffelt as treasurer.

Norfolk Players Net Wins in 2nd Tennis Tournery

Norfolk tennis players bested Wayne entries in all but one division in Saturday's championship round of the Wayne County Jaycees' second annual area tennis tournament.

Only local player surviving that final round to pick up a trophy was Tom Roberts, who bested defending champion Jim Forster, 6-3, 5-7 and 6-2, to win the men's senior division.

A year ago in the first Jaycee net tournery, Norfolk's Forster defeated Roberts in the championship round to take top place.

Roberts beat J.S. Johar of Wayne, 6-3 and 6-0, while Forster downed another Wayne player, Rafael Sosa, 6-2 and 6-3, in Thursday's semifinals.

Norfolk players swept up the honors in all other divisions, however.

Mark Forster came from behind to down Wayne's Doug Rose in the 14-and-under class. Forster lost the first set, 1-6, then rallied to win two straight, 7-5 and 6-4.

Forster easily handled Ravi Johar of Wayne in Thursday's semifinal play, 6-0 and 6-0. Rose also advanced to the finals in two sets by downing John Keating of Wayne, 6-2 and 8-6, Friday.

Winning the 15-to-38 division was Mark Ahlman, 6-2 and 6-2 over Tom Eynon. Ahlman advanced to the finals round by downing Mark Schram of Wayne in Friday's semifinals, 6-2, 2-4 and 7-5. Eynon won his Friday semifinal match with Duane Grosse of Wayne, 2-6, 9-7 and 8-6.

Taking the men's junior division was Larry Pochop, 6-0 and 6-2 winner over Wayne's Doug Maurer. Pochop defeated Wes Fritz of Wayne, 6-2 and 6-1, in Saturday's semifinal action while Maurer earned his finals berth by coming from behind to down Jack Manske of Wayne Thursday, 3-6, 6-0 and 10-8.

Norfolk's double of Jim Matthews and Pochop defeated Wayne's Doug Pochman and Dan Rose in two sets Saturday, 6-2 and 7-5. Matthews-Pochop got by Tom Roberts and John Warner of Wayne in Friday's semifinals, 6-4 and 6-3. Pochman-Rose were 6-3, 4-6 and 6-1 winners Thursday over Wayne's Neil Swanson and Doug Maurer to earn their finals berth.

The tournament, held at Wayne State College, attracted 46 players.

DIVISIONAL CHAMPIONS in the second annual Wayne County Jaycees' tennis tournament included Tom Roberts of Wayne, left, and Mark Ahlman of Norfolk. The tournament attracted 46 players from Wayne and Norfolk. Competition was held at Wayne State College Thursday through Saturday.

Couples Invited To Participate in VB League

Wayne couples wishing to play volleyball this fall should turn out at the National Guard Armory at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 5.

Hank Overin, city recreation director who will manage the league again this year, said there is no fee for playing volleyball.

Wednesday night games from 7:30 to 9:30 will be played through early November, according to Overin.

He said he hopes to organize four teams with at least three couples on each team. If more couples wish to play in the league, the four teams will be made larger and players will rotate during games, he added.

Laurel Group Takes Option On More Land

Stockholders in the Laurel Development Co. recently picked up the option on 3.5 additional acres of land south of Laurel and adjacent to Hillcrest Addition to round out a nine and a half year completion date to regulate the area for residential building.

The company will begin immediately to survey, landscape, pave and develop the new area for ready sale lots. The land is being purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Dempster of Laurel.

A verbal agreement also has been reached on the final 30 acres of land adjoining Hillcrest to the east.

According to Bill Norvell, president of the development company, the stockholders feel an established home area is an added incentive for prospective home builders, and there is a strong possibility for interest in building a mobile home court on the edge of Laurel. "We simply are paving the way," he said.

The company, with 32 stockholders, was formed in 1964. To date, 26 new homes have been built in Hillcrest Addition and another is in the planning stage.

with screening were Paul Harm, city administrator at Norfolk who was guest speaker at Monday's Kiwanis luncheon, and Maurice Coles, a consultant with the firm which earlier this year completed the efficiency study of local city government. That study recommended the city change to a city administrator form of government.

Harm, in his eighth year as city administrator at Norfolk, told the Kiwanis what his responsibilities were and what relationship he had with the mayor and council. He stressed that one big part of his job was public relations.

Hall said both Harm and the representative of the Carl S. Becker Co. of Denver were very helpful in screening applicants for the Wayne post.

Itchy state senators are looking out, up

Capital News—

Legislature fast becoming springboard for state's ambitious politicians

LINCOLN — For many years, the Legislature was considered a sort of dead end in politics.

There were notable exceptions. Robert Crosby, who arrived in the chamber as a young senator from North Platte, went on to become governor, for example. There were others, too, but most state lawmakers wound up their political careers in the Legislature.

That trend seems to be changing — and fast.

Of the six candidates for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate in 1972, three were state senators — Terry Carpenter (who won the nomination but couldn't win Sen. Carl T. Curtis), Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox and John DeCamp of Neligh.

In 1970, Henry Pedersen of Omaha took a shot at lieutenant governor and J. W. Burbach of Crofton made a run at governor. Neither survived the primary.

The 1974 election season already is arousing senatorial interest.

Carpenter, the veteran from Scottsbluff, says he isn't ruling out a bid for lieutenant governor. Also considered possibilities are Frank Lewis of Bellevue and Gary Anderson of Axtell, both rookies in the 1973 session.

Ziebarth, who retired from the unicameral to make his U. S. Senate effort, meanwhile, is considered a sure bet to run for Congress in the 3rd District. He also has given some consideration, he says, to lieutenant governor, but lists such a race as unlikely.

It is interesting to note that Anderson, a former Olympic champion marksman, was elected in 1972 to fill the legislative seat Ziebarth was vacating.

Anderson and Lewis are recent converts to the Democratic Party.

There are some who say those conversions in political faith were inspired by the possibility of serving as running mates to Gov. J. J. Exon, who is considered a cinch to seek a second term and a cinch to win if he does.

Even Republicans, privately, are conceding that they don't have anyone in their candidates' stable who has a good chance of beating Exon. That doesn't mean the GOP is forfeiting the governorship, however, and among the names which keep popping up in speculation as possible challengers are Omaha trucker Richard L. Herman, Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh of Lincoln, Public Service Commissioner Robert Marland of Lincoln and Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings.

Still, with Exon the early favorite, Democratic lieutenant governor candidates are numerous. "The woods are full of them," Carpenter says.

As for himself, the Scottsbluff senator said he is most apt to seek another term in the Legislature.

One main reason, as he tells it, is that he wants to follow through on state acquisition of Hiram Scott College, a defunct private institution whose facilities are to be turned over to the University of Nebraska if the Board of Regents accepts them.

Carpenter said that isn't a major state issue, but it is vital to the people in his home area and to him. He said he would be much more strategically positioned to get the funding necessary for operating NU programs out of Hiram Scott if he returns to his legislative desk.

Also making the lieutenant governor's post attractive in the 1974 campaigns is a raise in salary. Lt. Gov. Marsh is drawing $7,500 now, but his successor is to be paid $25,000 — the same salary the governor gets.

That change was made by the 1973 Legislature, with help from Carpenter. But Carpenter says he didn't lead the charge because he was interested in the money himself, but because he thinks the lieutenant governor deserves more prestige.

The salaries for other statehouse officials — auditor, attorney general, secretary of state and treasurer — also were raised, beginning with the terms starting after the 1974 elections.

Marsh is toying with the idea of running as a replacement for Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson, instead of making a bid for the governor's office.

The treasurer will draw $25,000 and Swanson, because of a two-term ceiling placed on the office by the Constitution, can't run to succeed himself. He is figured as a likely candidate for the Public Service Commission.

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer, Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann and Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson all are expected to ask the voters for new terms in 1974.

Carpenter, a practicing Democrat these days, suggests they may have trouble because of the Exon landslide. Carpenter predicts and because of Watergate's splashing on Republican candidates.

WAY BACK WHEN

OBSERVATIONS

Readers taking advantage of 'Speak Out'

There are a lot of people out there who want to voice their opinions on a variety of subjects.

That's the conclusion we're coming to as we watch more and more "Speak Out" ballots filter into our office.

It's as if many of our readers have been just sitting back waiting for a convenient way to tell us and others what they think of some of the things going on around them. "Speak Out" seems to be one of the best ways for them to do exactly that.

By Monday, more than 70 individuals had taken time to clip the "Speak Out" ballot from last Thursday's issue of the newspaper, fill it out and return it to us personally or through the mail. Although that is not a large number of responses, it is about what we expected from the first "Speak Out." Hopefully, many more will be returned this week.

We urge you and those around you to return your ballots this week if you haven't already done so. The ballot was printed on the top of the editorial page in last Thursday's newspaper. If it has already been clipped out by somebody else in your family or if you have thrown the newspaper away, just jot down your opinion on a piece of paper and give it to us. The question asked was whether you consider the change in Wayne police uniforms to be a good one for the community. If you wish, jot down some comments.

Future "Speak Out" questions in the series will concern themselves with such things as the value of girls athletics, spending of tax funds, local and area governmental decisions, decline in Wayne State College enrollment and the like. If the series of mini-polls proves to be successful, the newspaper will attempt to make them a regular feature.

'And each year it's hosted better'

Except for perhaps one or two of their number, the state of Nebraska really wasn't familiar with the 12 young men who lived at Wayne State College from August 9 through August 17.

Yet, as their predecessors have done the past two years, the North All Star Basketball Team defeated the South in the Nebraska Coaches Association's annual cage classic in Lincoln.

Certainly, the people of Wayne can be proud of the job these 12 men and their two coaches accomplished. What they did was unique in the five-year history of the game. In no other year, has a team such as the 1973 North squad been such an underdog due to the fine talents of the opposition. But it was the North all the way.

The city of Wayne also should be proud of the manner it hosted the training camp. Each year we leave Wayne saying, "How could the camp ever be hosted better?" And the following year, it always is better. That's a record that's hard to beat.

We especially appreciate the efforts this year of Dale Gulshall and the Chamber of Commerce. The sensitivity with which Dale and other members of the community handled our needs was appreciated by both players and coaches.

And, too, there is Wayne State basketball coach Ron Jones, who we hope is appreciated in his own backyard as much as he is by us. His organization, assistance, bus driving and coordination with the college and community is nothing short of superb.

This year, we hosted an All Star basketball mini camp for youth in the Wayne area. In a small manner, we hope to be able to return to your community and area a share of what has been given to us.

There is an infectious kind of spirit in Wayne. A spirit of cooperation, interest and good will that is not bounded merely by the edge of the business district, the perimeter of the college campus or the city limits.

It's the kind of spirit that urges the Nebraska Coaches Association to say thanks — appreciative of all that has transpired and all that is in the future.

Revenue sharing funds starting to bring results

Those revenue sharing funds the federal government has been dishing out are finally starting to have some effect in this part of the state.

Wayne County officials decided to dip into the funds the county has received and expects to get during the next 12 months in order to cut the mill levy for the current fiscal year. The levy will drop more than two mills — from 12.57 to 10.54 — if the county's valuation turns out to be what is expected. That's a pretty good drop in this day of rising wages, rising equipment costs and rising everything else. We've disagreed with county officials plenty of times in the past. We'll probably do so many more times. We won't disagree, however, with attempts at cutting the cost of government.

We do want to mention one thing, however. That expected tax cut for county residents isn't actually a tax cut at all. We're still paying the same for operation of our county government. We're just paying for it in a little different manner. It doesn't matter where the funds come from — federal government, state government or county government. They are still tax funds, and the guy digging into his billfold is the one who is paying them.

In a way, those federal revenue sharing funds are probably costing taxpayers more in the long run than if they were collected locally and spent locally in the first place. Most businessmen will tell you that you make more profit if you cut out as many middlemen as possible.

Trading stamps are community booster

From the Industrial News Review

To some, analyzing the impact of trading stamps on local economies may seem a little like writing a college thesis on the contributions of pop art to the culture of the 20th Century.

Superficially, the contributions of each would seem to begin and end once they have served their initial purpose. In the case of trading stamps, it is a well known fact that they help merchants achieve and hold high volumes of business and that they promote customer goodwill. But studies show their influence goes much deeper into the community and has more far-reaching effects than simply motivating increased business traffic and giving consumers additional merchandise when they are redeemed.

Trading stamps benefit the consumer, retailer and community as a whole in many ways. Consumers benefit indirectly since merchants who don't give stamps will most likely have to compete in other ways offering greater selection of merchandise, discount prices and other incentives such as bonus products. From the retailers' standpoint, merchants who don't give stamps may find their business improved by the presence of trading stamps in the community. This is shown in a study revealing that 54 per cent of shoppers who redeemed stamps also purchased products in retail stores after first seeing the items in question displayed in a stamp catalog.

While stamps generate additional business, which in turn, increases the financial stability of the community, they also affect local economies in another way. In many cases, the total value that goes back to the community from payrolls, rents, taxes and other expenditures of stamp companies and their employees exceeds the money paid by retailers to the stamp firms.

Critics of advertising, trading stamps and other forms of promotion often overlook the fact that these activities, many times, provide benefits to the consumer and community as well as to the merchant who uses them to attract people to his store. Promotion, therefore, is not only a valuable tool for businesses, but also a legitimate and vital service to society.

Says UN-L extension economist: 'Cheap food probably thing of past'

American consumers are not likely to enjoy again, in the foreseeable future, the so-called "cheap food prices" which they once experienced.

American agriculture has the capacity to produce more than can be marketed at present prices, once world grain output gets back to normal.

Costs of production in agriculture will rise more rapidly under Phase IV and will not decline as agriculture product prices are expected to do.

These are the predictions of Dr. Everett E. Peterson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Economist, in analyzing what many observers have described as unprecedented prosperity in agriculture, based on record prices received by farmers for their products.

Conceding that claims of an "Agricultural Millennium" have strong support in the ratio of prices received vs. costs of production, Peterson nevertheless pointed to some danger signs looming ahead.

For the first time in many years, the cost-price squeeze faced by farmers has been reversed. Since 1967 as 100 per cent, prices received by farmers are up 72 per cent, with most of the increase coming since July, 1972. During the same period, prices paid for goods and services were up 46 per cent.

On July 15 of this year, prices of hogs, calves, beef cattle, soybeans, dry edible beans and potatoes were above 100 per cent of parity, figured on the old base years of 1910-11.

Net farm income was estimated at 20 billion dollars for 1972. It is expected to reach 24 to 25 billion dollars in 1973. "Thus, at first glance, farmers are experiencing 'the best of all possible worlds' — prices exceeding 100 per cent of parity, and no restriction on land devoted to crop production," the NU economist commented.

High yields and heavy exports are key factors in the current prosperity, Peterson said. The Nixon Administration has placed heavy reliance on agricultural exports to reduce balance of payments deficit, strengthen the value of the dollar internationally, cut costs of federal farm price support programs, and prevent collapse of U. S. grain prices as occurred in 1967 and 1971.

Agricultural exports for the fiscal year ending July 7, 1973 were 12.5 billion dollars, resulting in a positive balance in agricultural trade of 5.4 billion. This is in contrast to a negative balance in all U. S. trade of 3.0 to 3.5 billion, Peterson pointed out.

In further analyzing reasons for ag prosperity, Peterson sorted out various factors as "unusual," "temporary," and "likely to continue."

Hopefully unusual, he said, was the adverse weather during the winter and spring of 1972-73, which made harvesting difficult and costly and caused extensive economic losses in the livestock industry through lack of gain and cattle deaths.

Seen as continuing influences on the agricultural picture are:

- Strong domestic demand for most farm commodities because of high employment and rising incomes.
- Prosperity in Japan and Europe, prime customers for U. S. farm products.
- Temporary situations, which should be noted carefully because of their possible "one-time" influence on U. S. agriculture: were cited by Peterson:
 1. Failure of Russia's wheat crop, drought in India and to a lesser extent, poor crops in The People's Republic of China, (Red China). Good to average crops this year appear certain in preliminary reports from the USSR and China.
 2. Poor catches of anchovies by the Peru fishing industry, which hiked the price of U. S. soybeans above $400 per ton as a protein source, and resulted in an embargo on the export of soybeans. This caused consternation and ill will among European customers, principally France.
 3. A rare phenomenon, perhaps not recognized by some observers — the simultaneous occurrence of the low points of both the hog and beef cycles. More hard to predict is the continuing impact of the devaluation of the U. S. dollar, he said.

Uncertainties in foreign demand for U. S. farm products are rare, Peterson said.

It is important to recognize that the Administration's first priority in regards to the reservoir of raw materials is "cheap food" for U. S. consumers, despite an apparent concurrent drive to expand U. S. exports.

It would not be surprising, the economist said, for an embargo on wheat and feed grains (similar to the ban on soybean exports), to be instituted if harvesting problems were to recur this fall. This would be a more distinct possibility if exports continue high through September, he said.

U. S. grain stocks are down, with a record disappearance of 49 million-plus tons of feed grains in the period, April through June, eight per cent more than in the same months of 1972. Carryover is expected to be down to 20 million tons by October 1, or six weeks supply if the same rate of disappearance continues.

The outlook for continued volume exports is best for soybeans, then feed grains. Russia may import some U. S. wheat as it rebuilds its own stocks. It is well to remember that the USSR is the world's largest wheat producer, Peterson stated. India and China are trying to become self-sufficient in food production, and will buy only in short-crop years.

USDA export projections for 1985 show 800 million bushels of wheat, down from the 1.2 billion in marketing year 1972; and up only 26 per cent over the marketing year 1970-72. Feed grains are seen as up 100 per cent over marketing year, 1970-72, and soybeans up a whopping 83 per cent, to 823 million bushels.

In the area of farm programs, the Agricultural and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 appears to provide protection against the repetition of the 1967 and 1971 price breaks for farmers, Peterson said.

He summed up: If we are truly entering a new era of expanding foreign markets for U. S. farm products, American farmers will be better off in the long run if foreign trade is based on sound economics in this and other nations. Foreign demand for our grains and soybeans would then come from rising consumers' incomes rather than economic distress or disruption of food production by weather.

"The value of the U. S. dollar can be strengthened by increasing our exports of both farm and non-farm products but especially by effective inflation control. Policies to achieve the latter include: higher income tax rates and tax reform; reduction in defense expenditures and restrictions on credit. While these are not politically popular, they seem necessary to avoid international economic and political chaos."

Helping Youths Cope Aim of ETV Series

How to help eight- to ten-year olds learn to cope with their emotions is the subject of "Inside Out," a new interdisciplinary series of 15 minute films to be previewed on stations of the Nebraska ETV Network during the last week of August. The 30 programs which make up the new instructional series will be shown on a continuous schedule starting Monday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. and on Tuesday through Friday afternoons from 2 to 4 p.m. They are being broadcast especially for media specialists, health educators, school psychologists, classroom teachers of grades four, five and six, and interested parents to view before the lessons become part of the regular ETV in-school programming in September. Portraying experiences common to young lives, the "Inside Out" programs deal in new ways with social, emotional and physical problems. For example, one of the 30 programs of the series, "Because It's Fun," focuses on Bill who, thinks that winning is the only thing that really counts and can't understand why others enjoy themselves playing just for the fun of it. The film explores the good feelings produced by skillfully engaging in physical activity. Another example of the programs in the series is "Getting Even." Three children form their own secret club and build a clubhouse, but in doing so exclude some of their friends.

When the friends try to even the score, feelings harden on both sides and a fight breaks out. The film attempts to help students understand what acceptance or rejection by a group means and what causes people to act vengefully. Along with the series, one insertive program is directed to educators to help them understand the use of the "Inside Out" programs.

A group of educational and broadcasting agencies in the United States and Canada — organized by the National Instructional Television Center — provided the financial, intellectual and technical resources that produced the "Inside Out" series. The Nebraska Department on Education ETV Services is one of the 31 agencies included in this group. Advertising doesn't cost, it pays.

SS Beneficiaries To Get Increase In Checks in June

Social security beneficiaries will receive an increase in their monthly benefits of 5.9 per cent next June instead of the 5.6 per cent initially estimated when the benefit increase legislation was enacted early in July.

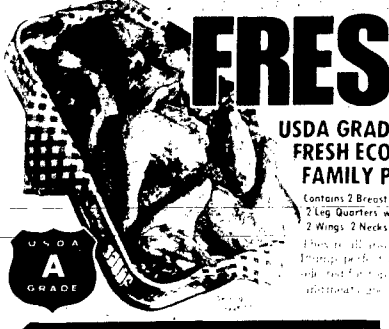

Dale Branch, social security manager in Norfolk, said the 5.9 per cent increase represents the percentage increase in the consumer price index for June 1973 over the CPI for June 1972, the two months to be considered in fixing the amount of the benefit increase called for in the legislation.

The figure was an estimate widely discussed during development of the social security amendments in a bill providing for the extension of the Renegotiation Act of 1951. The exact increase could not be determined until the CPI figure was calculated.

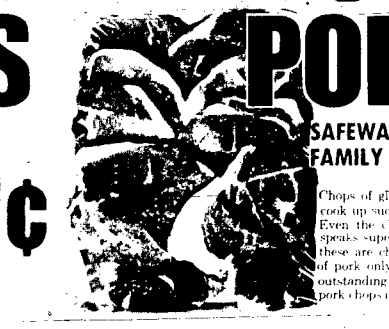

The increase becomes effective with monthly benefit checks for June that will reach social security beneficiaries in July next year, Branch said.

With the 1973 graduating class, a total of over 8,000 students have graduated from the school since its first class of 41 men graduated in 1947.

Also attending the school, sponsored by the Central States Conference consisting of the bankers' associations of 16 Midwest states, was Robert Jordan of the State National Bank and Trust Co. in Wayne.

The school requires attendance for two weeks each year for three years for graduation.

Those attending this year's school had the opportunity to hear the school's lecturers and over 100 experts from all parts of the nation. A total of 1,648 students from 36 states and several foreign countries completed the school this year.

Fat Billfolds Possible for Farmers

For the first time in years Nebraska farmers have a chance to get parity prices or more for their products and gain incomes equal to other major industries, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural economist.

Dr. Michael Turner, extension marketing specialist, pointed out that there could be some catches in the situation for some farmers, however.

"Nebraska is farther from ports than any other state, and therefore, is in the poorest position to deliver grain to those ports," he said.

"Since a relatively small amount can be moved down the Missouri on barges, our only recourse is the railroads.

"When other states create a heavy demand for railroad cars, we get the kind of crunch we had in the winter and spring of 1972-73, when inability to ship grain cost Nebraska farmers and elevators millions of dollars."

In view of the record breaking crops in sight for this fall, it seems farmers would be wise to take a good profit now whenever they can move their grain, instead of holding for bigger profits and perhaps finding that they had lost money instead, Turner said.

"If we can keep the grain moving steadily out of storage, we may be able to avoid some of the spoilage and delay we have had in the past since moving grain at a steady pace would open up storage for the new crop," he said.

The potential situation was pointed up at a meeting of the Grain Marketing and Utilization Committee on the University's East Campus.

Dr. James Tippert of the State Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported a record corn crop of 561 million bushels in 1973, grain sorghum pointed for 121 million bushels (only one percent off the record) and soy beans 51 percent higher than last year with 27 million bushels.

Howard Elm, executive secretary of the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers Association, also reported that grain has been moving in Nebraska at the rate of a million bushels a day this year.

"At that rate," he said, "we will still have grain to move as far down the road as we can see."

He was referring to the fact that Nebraska's old crop grain in storage on July 1 and the grain that normally will move from the coming crops will total over 700 million bushels. At a million bushels a day it would take more than two years to ship just the 1973 fall crop.

Eric Rasmussen, Nebraska Public Power Service Commissioner, said that nationally the distribution of rail cars is as efficient as possible.

He said it was not in the best interest of Nebraska farmers when the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) turned down a merger of the Union Pacific and Rock Island Railroads.

"This merger would have given the Union Pacific direct access to the Gulf ports and permitted them to maintain control over their cars, he said.

Glenn Kreuschler, director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, agreed that transportation is still the main problem for Nebraska farmers and elevator operators.

In answer to a question on the chance of frost catching Nebraska's corn before it is mature, Dr. D. G. Hanway, chairman of the NU Department of Agronomy and chairman of the Grain Committee, said there is little chance with normal fall weather.

The crop is mostly in a normal stage of maturity, with a few minor exceptions, he said.

ETV Coverage
Of State Fair.

Nebraska Educational Television Network kicks off an expanded State Fair broadcast schedule on Thursday, Aug. 30, to give full coverage to the longest fair in the State Fair's 104 year history.

The ten-day fair coverage opens Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with the daily "State Fair '73 Highlights" program. Each night at that time Don Jacks of the University of Nebraska public relations staff will host a round-up of the day's activities filmed by a 40-person NETV crew.

East of six-horse shows to be carried by ETV will be broadcast Saturday, Sept. 1, at 8 p.m. "The Pony Show" will be seen live and in color with special commentary by Tom Bare and Bob Van Neste, veteran ETV announcers.

High Moisture Corn
Farmers in this area I can obtain the supply of fuel for grain drying will be very limited this fall. You might wish to consider storing high moisture corn in a silo for later feeding.

Here are four basic points to consider when storing high moisture corn in a silo.

1. High moisture corn should be stored after it has reached maturity. Moisture content of 70-75 percent appears to be a desirable level for harvesting from both the standpoint of feed value and keeping field losses low. As harvest progresses, the moisture content may drop rather rapidly with good drying weather and drop below 24 percent moisture. At these moisture levels, the keeping quality may be satisfactory but the variation in moisture content may result in several changes having to be made in ration composition as the silage is fed. You can avoid these changes by adding water to bring the grain back up to a standard moisture content as the silo is filled.

2. High moisture grain should be stored whole if oxygen-limiting silos are available and stored coarsely cracked if it is stored in trench silos. Where corn and cob meal is stored, the cob should be ground fine enough that it will all be consumed by the cattle to which it is fed. This usually requires about a half inch screen if a hammer mill is used.

3. The silo should be filled as quickly as possible to keep spoilage at a minimum.

4. Where high moisture grain is stored in open silos, it should be covered with plastic as quickly as possible to keep spoilage and fermentation losses at a minimum. Using a thin layer of high moisture forage over the plastic helps keep the plastic tied down to the silage, reduces opportunity for punctures in the plastic to occur and allows air to get into the silage.

Horizontal Silos

The horizontal silo may be an answer to the feeder's problem for storing high moisture corn and silage this fall.

Filling horizontal silos is easy since the silage can be dumped directly onto the floor, reducing truck and labor requirements at time of filling. One of the new developments in the use of the horizontal silo is a higher wall to provide deeper storage. Deeper silage storage reduces the top area of the silage that is exposed, and greatly reduces storage spoilage.

A Bit Balky

JUDY KAVANAUGH tries to muscle her balky mode of transportation around first base after getting a hit in Monday night's donkey ball game at Carroll. Her efforts and those of other players on her team, the Carroll MGS, resulted in a 6-5 win over the all-male Carroll softball team. More than $200 reportedly was earned during the game, with the money going to improve the Carroll ball park. The girls, by the way, get their name from Merlin Jenkins, who played on the losing team.

Depot Is No Longer the Center of the Community

There was a time when the whole community seemed to center around the depot, even though it was on the south end of town.

People would gather there to welcome newcomers to Wayne, relatives who had gone to Norfolk or Sioux City for business, or friends who had taken a train ride over to Winside or Carroll to see what was going on.

Arrivals and departures on the train were news in those days... and they were reported in the local newspapers as such.

Those days are gone now, have been for some time; but the old depot still stands. It's not in as good a shape as it was when it was built in 1914 to replace the frame depot, of course, but it'll take quite a few more years before it really starts to show its age.

There are plenty of things inside the depot which haven't changed much from the time when it was a bustling place: a map showing the railroad lines in Nebraska and surrounding states, a yellowing notice to shippers signed by depot agent J. J. Kunzman, dusty light shades hanging from the high ceiling in the waiting room, the window with the word TICKETS painted above it, the drinking fountain in the men's restroom.

The depot has given way to progress, however. Now it's used as an office and storage space for a local feed dealer. In time, it may be used for something else. It will be a loss to the community, however, if it is ever torn down. Older residents of the town, the ones who can still remember when it was one of the most important places in town, would be the first to look upon that day as a sad one.

"Last year, the Salon was a sedan—and a sensational road car. This year, it's two sensational road cars—a new coupe and the sedan. You can get either one for far less than you'd pay for an expensive imported touring car."

Team GT road performance with family sedan comforts—you've got a new 1980 Cutlass. Like Salon. A special suspension and steel-belted radial tires are standard for the new low-back steering wheel. Plus, the house of mental-type interior means a reclining lounge seats up to six, velour upholstery means there's family-size room in back. Terrific!

Cutlass Salon. Built in the grand touring tradition.

"You'd be amazed at how many people buy an Omega just because it is an Oldsmobile. We say Omega's a compact with big-car thinking built into everything but the price."

One of the more cars than some smaller competitors. Its wheelbase is longer—111 inches. Its track is wider. And you can feel the difference on the road. Solid. Smooth. Quiet. And roomy inside. Cut-pile carpeting, wet-look vinyl trim, a soft-grip steering wheel are standard. Omega S¹ package and Rocket V8 are available, too. Coupe, hatchback or 4-door sedan—it's a lot of Olds for the money.

Omega standard equipment includes: 250-cu. in. 5-cyl. 3-speed synchromesh transmission □ Full-foam seats with deluxe upholstery and wet-look vinyl trim □ Cut-pile carpeting □ Soft grip steering wheel □ New combination shoulder and seat belts for driver and right front passenger □ New hydraulic bumper systems, front and rear □ Die-cast, chrome-plated grille □ Bright metal window and wheel-opening molding □ Space-saver spare tire (hatchback)

1. The good stuff comes standard—including soft-grip steering wheel.
2. Like to camp? Order this tent with your hatchback.
3. Special suspension, sport wheels and mirrors—and more—in Omega's S package.

Omega. It's a lot of little Oldsmobile.

"Three good reasons your next wagon should be an Olds"

CUSTOM CRUISER. Real class of the wagon class, on a 127-inch wheelbase. Luxurious interior, pile carpeting, deep-foam seats. Many power features—and over 106 cubic feet of cargo space. Available with and without exterior paneling, and in 2- or 3-seat models.

VISTA-CRUISER. With outer paneling, a Vista Vent window in the roof, automatic transmission, power steering and power front disc brakes all standard, you've got a lot going for you already. Easy-lift tailgate. 116-inch wheelbase. Available with 2 or 3 seats; also with 60/40 divided front seat.

CUTLASS SUPREME CRUISER. Our new lowest priced wagon entry. But you still get a Rocket V8, automatic transmission, power steering and power front disc brakes standard—plus a 116-inch wheelbase, and 145 cubic feet of cargo space.

"One last word—about prices. There are still some people who think Oldsmobiles are priced higher than other cars—because they're Oldsmobiles. The truth is, we think you'll find Olds prices a pleasant surprise. It's another reason to come in and see why Oldsmobile is always a step ahead!"

Oldsmobile reserves the right to make changes at any time without notice in prices, colors, materials, equipment, specifications and models, and also to discontinue models.
