Pair of Men Claim $300 Prize

The result of last week's Birthday Bucks promotion in Wayne was so unusual it probably won't happen again in a long time.

Two Wayne men split the $300 grand prize, the result of both having been born on the same day in the same year — Aug. 4, 1946.

The two are Ron Dalton, who was in Gambles at the time the winning date was announced, and Rod Jorgensen, who was at M and H Apco.

That marks twice within the space of two weeks that the $300 grand prize has been claimed in the 12-week-old promotion. Earlier this month a Wakefield farmer, Dale Pearson, won the grand prize. There have been 10 persons who have won the $50 consolation prize by being the person with the birthdate closest to the winning date.

Another $300 grand prize is offered this Thursday in the 8:15 p.m. drawing. To win either the grand prize or consolation prize a person must be in one of the stores taking part in the promotion. The date drawn at random earlier will be announced in all stores at that time.

Winners in the weekly promotion receive Birthday Bucks, coupons which can be spent just like cash in any of the approximate 80 stores participating in the promotion.

Oliver Brothers' Estates Still Unsettled

Strange Case of Legal Heirs Continues

The hearing called last week in Wayne County court involving the estates of three Wayne bachelors who died about the same time last fall is being continued on a day-to-day basis.

To be settled once it can be determined if there are any legal heirs to the Oliver brothers is an estate valued at $224,447.

If legal heirs cannot be proved, the estate will revert to the state of Nebraska, according to a Wayne attorney representing several alleged heirs.

The strange case had its roots some 30 years ago when the four Oliver brothers — Horace, Charles, John and William — drew up identical wills leaving each other's estate to the surviving brothers in case one of them died.

It became even stranger after Charles Oliver died in August last year, about 10 years after the death of Horace and the transfer of his estate to the three surviving brothers.

On the way to Charles' funeral, John and William were in a jeep accident which later resulted in their deaths only days apart early in September.

That left their possessions, including a 160 acre farm south of Wayne, unprovided for in their wills.

And it began a search for possible legal heirs by Wayne attorney Budd Bornhoff, attorney for the Oliver brothers for some 16 years.

Bornhoff searched through papers left by the brothers and found their mother's birth certificate. The certificate included her place of birth, England, but the specific town was illegible. After considerable more See STRANGE CASE, page 10

Rev. Bernthal Decides It's Right Time to Move

"If I was ever going to make a change, this was the time to do it," said The Rev. E.J. Bernthal in explaining why he has decided to leave Grace Lutheran Church at Wayne after serving it more than 24 years.

"The last call I received came 12 years ago," he said, and because the situation was so similar to Wayne he decided against making a move then.

Pastor Bernthal will begin in his new post as associate pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran Church at Twin Falls, Idaho, in early October.

The local church council will meet Sept. 7 to make arrangements for a new minister to serve in his place. In the meantime, campus pastor John Upton will handle that job.

In Twin Falls, Pastor Bernthal will be involved in a fairly new concept of team ministry. He will work with one other associate pastor, a director of Christian education and a minister of music and youth in serving the 1,100-member congregation. He will be primarily responsible for the overall Christian education program.

Bernthal is a native of Washington County in Nebraska. He was ordained in 1935 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Schuyler, and after four years accepted a call to Immanuel Lutheran Church at Sheridan, Wyo. In 1949 he moved to Wayne.

A circuit counselor in Wyoming and Wayne from 1959 to 1960, he was a member of the state stewardship board three years, state public relations committee seven years and has served as vice president of the See BERNTHAL, page 10

City Council Backs Change in Uniforms

Vernon Russell lost in a vote to have the Wayne city council oppose the change in police uniforms, but he succeeded in getting at least a couple fellow councilmen to agree some alterations in the uniform may be in order.

Council Tuesday night voted 6-1 to approve the uniform change, something mayor Kent Hall said everybody but Russell did at a private get-together of the council a few weeks ago. Russell was not at that meeting at which the subject came up and at which the council backed the change proposed by new police chief Robert Evers, according to Hall.

The council in effect formally sanctioned the uniform change earlier this month on a 6-1 vote approving police department claims for the month of July, some of which were for the new uniforms and accessories.

Russell, like Tuesday night, was the lone dissenter in that vote.

Russell forced a formal vote on the change because, he said, he wanted the public to know whether the council agreed with the change.

He said he opposed the change because it endangers the life and safety of the officers since they are not readily identifiable as law officers.

Although they voted to approve the change, councilmen Frank Prather and Jim Thomas agreed some changes may be needed to make the uniforms look more like traditional police dress.

Prather suggested a "more rugged suit" at night, noting that recognition is important for a policeman. He suggested using both uniforms — the new blazer and slacks as well as the traditional brown uniforms.

Thomas also agreed — at least partly — that the uniforms should be more distinctive, possibly by having police wear a badge on their hats.

Whether the uniforms will be changed and how was left up to the police chief, however.

He told the council the old uniforms have not been through away and could easily be issued to the men "if I come to have problems at night."

The uniforms have not caused him or any of the officers any problems so far, he said, and he would not have recommended the change if he felt it would jeopardize the safety of officers.

One of the councilmen, Pat Gross, criticized The Wayne Herald's survey of public opinion about the uniform change. That survey revealed last week that 94 of 102 readers who took part in it were opposed to the change.

The council "should not put too much emphasis on" the survey, he said, noting that it "was a very poor step" on the part of the newspaper.

Gross agreed the uniform change was a good one, "like a breath of fresh air," he commented.

Councilman Darrel Fuelberth noted that the change was desirable. "They (the uniforms) can be effective if we give them a change to work," he said.

The vote came after mayor Hall read portions of a letter from a representative of the firm which recently conducted the efficiency study of the city's operation.

The letter, according to Hall, contradicted comments made by Russell at the last council meeting about there being no need for extensive changes in the police department. The letter noted, Hall said, that there was lack of morale in the police department, lack of adequate record and storage space and a less than desirable public image.

These are the things the new chief has been trying to change by ordering new records and switching uniforms, according to Hall.

Not present to take part in the voting was councilman Keith Mosley.

Like That Fair Picture? Stop in and Pick It Up

So your daughter did pretty well at the Dixon County Fair last week, did she? Even had her picture in The Wayne Herald, you say?

Well, if she did, you are welcome to stop in and pick up the picture if you would like to put it in your family album or hang it on a wall.

All the pictures taken at the fair last week — as well as those taken earlier this month at the Wayne County Fair — are available without cost to our readers. All you have to do is ask for them.

In fact, almost all the pictures taken by the newspaper are available free to our readers. The pictures are filed at the newspaper for a year, then thrown away.

$50,000 Suit Results From Car-Bike Mishap

A Wayne man has filed suit in Wayne County District Court asking for more than $50,000 in damages as a result of an automobile-bicycle accident which injured his son.

Filing the suit Monday was Allen Shuffell, whose son Mark received a broken leg, cuts and scratches when his bicycle was struck by a car driven by Robert Coppel of Dakota City in September of 1971.

The suit charges that Coppel was driving his car in a reckless and negligent manner when he struck young Shuffell at the corner of West Second and Pearl Streets in Wayne.

The total being asked for in the suit, $51,852.10, includes $1,667.10 for medical bills and $185 for doctor bills.

Also filed in district court Monday was a suit on a purchase security agreement between J. and L. Implement Co. of Sioux City and Larry Kramer of Wayne.

The suit, filed by the Sioux City firm, charges Kramer owes the company $6,832.29 together with interest from March 3, 1970 when the agreement was entered into.

The agreement involved purchase of farm equipment costing $6,585.27, according to the suit.

Council Ends Its 'Contract' With City Engineering Firm

Wayne city councilmen Tuesday night terminated a non-existent contract with the city's engineering firm.

On a 5-2 vote, the council agreed to end its contract with Consolidated Engineers, Architects of Wayne, a contract which had expired earlier in August and which had not been renewed.

The vote came at the urging of councilman Jim Thomas, who failed to terminate the contract in May. That vote resulted in a 4-4 tie, with mayor Kent Hall breaking the tie in favor of continuing the contract with the firm.

It's not clear what the council will do next time an engineer is needed on a project, but Thomas said he wants the council to be free to hire "any engineer the city wants."

That freedom to choose is the reason he brought the contract up for a vote, he said.

At least one other councilman, Pat Gross, said the council was free under the contract which had been in effect to hire any outside engineering firm any time it wished.

He noted that it was unfair to the local firm to vote on the contract when none was in effect at the present time and when the firm is currently drawing up a new one which may be more acceptable to the council.

Gross said he has been in favor of some type of "retainer fee" in place of a contract such as the one which has been in force in past years. But the firm has not finished drawing up a contract which may include that aspect, he told Thomas, and therefore it is not fair to vote to terminate the contract.

However, Gross voted in favor of ending the contract.

Also voting to terminate the non-existent contract were Harvey Brasch, Ivan Beeks, Vernon Russell and Thomas. Darrel Fuelberth and Frank Prather cast dissenting votes.

In other action, the council tabled any further action on a proposed occupational tax on local bottle clubs pending legal clarification as to whether recent state legislation prohibits bottle clubs from charging $1 memberships.

The proposed tax of $250 would help replace the loss of revenue to the city caused by prohibiting selling memberships.

Council gave 7-0 approval — councilman Keith Mosley was absent — to participate in a federal-state-local project for acquiring park land next to the See COUNCIL, page 10

New Teacher Is Hired at Allen School

At a special meeting of the Allen Consolidated School Board Monday evening, Steve McManigal of Creighton was hired to teach social studies. McManigal is a graduate of Wayne State College.

Also at the Monday evening meeting board members decided to hold school classes from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. during the warm fall days of September.

The school offices has two new numbers this year, 635-1484 and 635-2485. The office may be reached by calling either number.

The Allen Community Development Club hosted a breakfast for the Allen School faculty at 7:30 a.m. Friday, prior to their all-day workshop at the school.

At the development club's dinner meeting Monday, plans were made to sponsor the coffee hour the morning preceding each football game. The coffees, to be held from 7 to 8 a.m., will be at the Home Cafe.

Holiday Means No Newspaper

Because of the coming Labor Day holiday, there will be no Monday issue of The Wayne Herald printed this weekend.

Limited postal service on the Monday holiday would mean subscribers of the newspapers who receive the newspaper by rural mail carrier or city carrier would not get their newspapers until Tuesday.

In addition, the newspaper offices will be closed both Saturday and Monday to enable employees to enjoy a three day weekend.

On Way to Parade, Float Is Sidetracked

The float belonging to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce just about made it to Friday's parade at the Dakota-Thurston County Fair.

It got sidetracked this side of Dakota City, however, when the trailer carrying it broke loose from the vehicle being driven by Dr. Orvid Owens. The float, not much the worse for wear, ended up in a cornfield.

Now, Chamber manager Floyd Bracken is worried about getting the trailer fixed in time for the parade scheduled during Wayne State Band Day.

The Chamber has been trying to enter its float in that parade the past couple years, but something always seems to happen at the last minute to keep it out, according to Bracken.

"We really want to get the float entered in the parade because nobody around town has ever seen it," said Bracken.

Firms Close For Holiday

Most businesses in Wayne and surrounding communities as well as city and county offices will close Monday for Memorial Day.

Offering limited service on the holiday will be the Wayne post office. There will be no window service and no carrier service, according to postmaster Wilbur Giese. However, the lobby of the post office will be open and there will be deliveries to boxes on Monday, he said.

Peterson Appointment To Benefit Area College

Citizens of Northeast Nebraska have a share, with Wayne State College, in the appointment of Val Peterson as distinguished professor of political science and public affairs.

Wayne State resident Lyle Seymour said Tuesday that former governor and ambassador Peterson will serve in varied ways on campus and also be available for lectures in the region.

Appointment of Peterson by the State College Board of Trustees follows a board policy that "distinguished professorships may be established for persons of national or international reputation."

Dr. Seymour noted that finds for the Peterson appointment will come from private foundations — not from state, funds or from the Wayne State Foundations, of which Peterson is president.

Four stages of Peterson's services are described this way by President Seymour:

—Student counseling to those interested in government service careers. This will blend with Wayne State's government service major, which prepares students for jobs in local, state or national government.

—Lectures to classes, drawing on Peterson's experience as Nebraska governor, 1947-1953, as federal defense administrator and administrative assistant to President Eisenhower, as ambassador to Denmark and, for the past four years, ambassador to Finland.

—A series of public meetings with tasks of general interest to the region on such topics as "The Press and Its Role in Public Affairs Today." These talks would be available available not only to Wayne State but to surrounding See PETERSON, page 5

His wife likes art, reading and knitting, and both are anxious for spring so they can plant a garden. Two potted palm trees, brought with them from Florida, will have to serve as a garden until then.

Utecht-Hanson Vows Spoken

Salem Lutheran Church of Wakefield was the scene of the wedding Aug. 18 uniting in marriage Pamela Sue Utecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derald Utecht of Wakefield, to Kerry V. Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hanson of Stromsburg.

The Rev. Robert V. Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Judy Harding and Alden Johnson sang "Wedding Song," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Mrs. Raymond Paulson. All are of Wakefield. The bride appeared at her father's side in a traditional floor-length silhouette gown of lace and organza. Cluny lace and delicate ruffling created a bib-effect bodice, accented the sleeves, and was fashioned into a lace apron front. A chapel-length train extended from the back waist and she wore a fingertip illusion veil caught to a matching headpiece. Wayne High Crew Big, Experienced; Outlook Favorable for Good Season

By BOB BARTLETT
Versatility and experience are key ingredients, most Wayne High backers will notice in this year's football team.

And, it will be apparent not just in the offensive and defensive backs, where graduation has taken its toll, but also in the lines.

Coach Al Hansen, in his 17th year in coaching and eighth at Wayne, is confident his early selections for the offensive unit may provide enough scoring power for the club to either share or win the Husker Conference title.

Quarterback Marty Hansen, a junior, will be at the reins again, marking the second year in guiding the Blue Devils. Hansen last year piloted the home club to a 9-1 mark and a second-place finish in the final conference standings after Scribner ended Wayne's winning streak at 20.

In addition to Hansen's quarterbacking duties, he will be available as a running back. That means coach Hansen has backup signal callers to spare. Senior Bill Schwartz and sophomore Paul Mallette may be called on to direct the team, the coach remarked. Last year Schwartz saw little action at quarterback but could see more this year, according to Hansen.

Although Schwartz is sick now, Hansen hopes to have him back in the lineup in the near future.

If Schwartz doesn't get called up for the quarterback job, chances are the 6-2 player will see action as an end or running back.

Mallette, on the other hand, is showing promise but may not see as much action during the early portion of the season, according to the coach.

Running backs? Again Hansen has plenty.

Leading off the list are seniors Gordie Cook and Randy Workman. Hansen says Workman may get the call for the fullback or halfback slot, pointing out that his strong blocking ability is one key factor in his selection.

Cook, who was a defensive starter on last year's squad, will be pounding the turf from one of the halfback spots along with a newcomer to the offensive backfield — Rod Hoops.

The 184-pound junior defensive starter in the 1972 season could be a top prospect for good running yardage this year, Hansen said. His top weight could put him at the fullback spot or halfback position.

At the ends will be two juniors — Gordon Emry and Earle Overin.

Hansen's offensive and defensive lines look plenty formidable this year.

Senior veterans make up this selection, with two top Wayne High wrestlers leading the pack — tackle Charles Brockman, 4-2 and 232, and Mike Dunklau, 6-1 and 200.

Dunklau, an all-conference pick last year, is one of two Husker selections helping guide the '73 crew.

Kerry Jech, also an all-conference senior, merits praise from the head mentor for his ability as noseguard on the defensive squad. He, along with senior Tom Frahm, will man the guard slots. Although Frahm does not have Jech's size — Frahm is 5-10 and 160, Jech 6-1 and 186 — coach Hansen feels Frahm is "just as quick and tough."

Senior Kim Baker will take over the center position, weighing in at 187, 20 pounds above last year's weight. The 6-1 vet has gained confidence, Hansen noted, making another strong addition to the Wayne club.

Defensively, the Devils will have a strong, charging front line with some offensive linemen going both ways. But, as Hansen pointed out, graduation definitely has taken its toll in the backfield. As yet, he said, there is no definite selection for defensive back positions.

So far Hansen has 51 prospects out for the season, including 16 seniors, 19 juniors and 16 sophomores.

Of that number, 27 are returning lettermen. Besides those mentioned, others include:

Wayne's first two games of the season (Pierce at home Sept. 7 and at Blair Sept. 14) should be true tests of the Blue Devils' ability.

Both opponents are touted as tops in their conferences. Pierce is expected to win the Northeast Nebraska Activity Conference while Blair should take the north division of the Twin Rivers loop and give Fairbury a battle for the conference title.

Both Wayne and Columbus Lakeview are picked to be top contenders for the Husker Conference. Those clubs will have a chance to settle the leadership question on Oct. 19 when the Blue Devils travel to the Vikings' field.

Wayne High's schedule includes: Sept. 7, Pierce; 14, at Blair; 21, at Wisner; 28, Wakefield; Oct. 5, at Stanton; 12, Madison; 19, at Columbus Lakeview; 26, Emerson-Hubbard; Nov. 2, at Hartington Cedar Catholic; 22, at Stanton; 29, South Sioux.

B-team schedule

Sept. 10, Norfolk sophomores; 17, Laurel; 24, at Pierce; Oct. 1, Hartington Cedar Catholic; 8, at Wisner; Pilger; 15, at West Point Central Catholic; 22, at Stanton; 29, South Sioux.

Senior Citizens Start Leagues Tuesday

The Wayne senior citizens will start their bowling season Tuesday afternoon at the Melodee Lanes, according to Joceli Bull.

Those interested should be at the lanes at 1:30 p.m. As far as she knows the members will be able to bowl three lines for $1 with the shoes free.

For more information contact Mrs. Bull at the citizens center.

Hoskins Drivers Falter in Bid For Championship

Hoskins race drivers Gerald Bruggeman and Gene Brudigan were neck-and-neck in point standings throughout most of the season at Norfolk's Riviera Raceway, but a Norfolk man charged ahead of the pair to capture the championship Sunday night.

Jerry Suhr drove hard from the drop of the green and took the lead on the fourth lap. From then on there was no way for the rest of the pack to catch him. Brudigan, a half lap back, had to settle for second place.

This Sunday, though, the top 20 drivers will have a chance to carry home a sizeable amount of the $3,000 purse during the season championship race — the Pepsi "50."

Other results Sunday: Third heat — Won by Brudigan; fourth — Bruggeman. C-feature — Won by Bruggeman.

Late model — Second, Dennis Crippen, Wakefield; fourth, Dennis Janke, Wayne.

Late model A feature — Third, Crippen. At Clearwater Speedway last week, Brudigan captured a first in the championship race and two seconds. Bruggeman rounded out the night with three third-place finishes.

Pool to Close

The Wayne swimming pool will close its doors this Monday at the end of the three-day Labor Day weekend, said manager Gary Egler.

27 Report for Frosh Football

Freshman football coach Duane Blomenkamp has 27 freshmen out for the 1973 season. Blomenkamp notes that this year he has quite a bit of size on his club, with some players weighing in around the 170 and 180 class.

Last year we had a 5-1 mark with our only loss going to Norfolk," the second-year coach said. Blomenkamp again expects Norfolk to be tough. Assisting the head mentor will be new assistant coach Robert Keilman.

Schedule: Sept. 20 - at Pierce; Sept. 27 - Laurel; Oct. 4 - Randolph; Oct. 11 - Norfolk; Oct. 18 - Wisner; Pilger; Oct. 23 - at West Point Central Catholic; Nov. 1 - at Hartington.

Fritz Takes Second in Norfolk Meet

Wes Fritz of Wayne baffled to a second-place finish in the Norfolk tennis tournament last Sunday to head the list of local entrants at the annual meet.

Fritz fell in the finals of the 18-34 singles to Larry Pochop, 6-2, 6-2. Earlier, he defeated another Wayne player John Warner, 8-6, 5-7, 6-2, before beating Doug Pohlman, also of Wayne, 6-3, 6-1.

Both Wayne men passed the quarter-finals after Pohlman drew a bye the first round and defeated Kevin Koehler 1-6, 6-2, 6-0. Fritz knocked off Don Hallway in two sets, 6-2, 6-0.

Tom Roberts, Wayne, found his bid for the top spot in the 35-over singles to be rough going. Jim Forster defeated Roberts, 6-2, 6-4.

In the doubles events, only one local team made it to the semi-final rounds. Fritz Pohlman fell to Jim Matthews-Larry Prochop after three sets, 6-2, 2-6, 5-3.

Earlier, the duo needed a 10-9 first set score to aid them in getting past their first round opponent with a final 6-3 score.

In the quarter finals they knocked off Dan Walters-Bill Unverferht, 6-3, 7-5, before advancing to the semi-finals.

Two other doubles entries didn't fair so well. The teams of Roberts-Jim Stevens and Warner-Nell Swanson floundered in the first round.

Local Tanker Places Third At Sioux City

Wayne's Lisa Barclay was the only one of 14 local swimmers to place at the Sioux City open swim meet, marking the close of summer AAU events.

Lisa, competing in the 11-12 age group, won third place in the 50-yard freestyle, good enough to earn her a plaque.

"There was a lot of stiff competition," coach Gary Egler commented about a 5 1/2 week end's meet. Teams from Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska entered the meet, he noted.

JUNIOR quarterback Marty Hansen will direct this year's Blue Devil team as it goes for the Husker Conference title.

Friends of Willard Holdorf collected just over $200 in their benefit softball games with the Wayne baseball team Tuesday night.

Gary Blecke, who helped organize the benefit game, said the event was very successful. "There weren't a lot of people there, but they were pretty generous," the rural Wayne man said.

Holdorf is undergoing treatment at Rochester, Minn., for complications which developed following a leg injury.

Blecke said Holdorf will soon become an outpatient so he can return home, but he will have to make trips to Rochester for treatment. Holdorf's leg will not have to be amputated as first feared, Blecke said.

Holdorf works for Ivan Frese on his farm near Wayne.

Although contributions were high, results of the games didn't favor Holdorf's friends. The town team won both games, the fast ball contest by 8-2 and the slow pitch contest by 7-6.

Playing on the team facing the local baseballers were men who had played softball with Holdorf this summer.

Open Golf Meet Starts Sunday

Area golfers still have time to enter the Wayne Country Club open tournament this Sunday starting at 7:30 a.m.

Over $2,000 in prizes will be offered to winners of the various flights.

Rowan Wiltse, in charge of the tournament, expects a good showing for the annual event. Those entering have until noon Saturday to pay their $10 entry fee.

Washington — Searching for food, the common tern may fly over the sea for as long as 12 hours, covering 200 miles, National Geographic says. Unlike herring gulls, terns disdain garbage and flotsam from fishing boats and eat only live food.

Three Golfers Win Invitational

Three men tied for the championship of the second annual Les' Steak House invitational golf meet at the Wayne Country Club.

Wayne golfers Don Echtenkamp and Bob Reeg tied with Snyder's Don Smeal after each fired a 67 in the low net division Monday. The low gross win went to Reeg, 34-35-69.

Dick Berry, last year's winner, shot the high score out of the 34 who participated, winning a plaque for his net of 100.

Sportsbeat

By Bob Bartlett

THE COUNTDOWN for the 1973 football season, as most head football coaches realize, continues.

In just over a week, high school teams will clash in their season openers, with Wayne High taking on Pierce at Wayne State's Memorial Stadium.

The following day, though, becomes college football preview as both the Wayne State Wildcats and the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers make their season debuts.

The Huskers start out the day with a 3:30 p.m. television match against Mark Harmon and crew from UCLA.

Last year, as most may want to forget, UCLA dumped Nebraska's hopes for repeating as National champs on a four-point defeat, 71-17.

You can bet plenty of Wayne State backers will be glued to their sets, anticipating the first of possibly two victories that day.

Yep, Big Red should have a field day with UCLA. Not to put down the visitors, but Nebraska looks big and strong — and even the Big Eight skywriters agree Nebraska may be a title contender for the No. 1 ranking in college football.

The finale of the day gives area college followers a chance to view the Wildcats in another replay of sorts — Nebraska Wesleyan at Wayne State, 7:30 p.m.

Last year coach Del Stollenberg closed his regular season with a 32-6 swamping at the Plainsmen's field. And he intends to keep that winning string going.

ALTHOUGH FOOTBALL seems to be in the spotlight, let's not forget the girls volleyball teams that will be opening their season action soon.

The Herald staff and volleyball teams for all five area high schools.

I'm asking each coach to send in information about the team (number on the squad, number of returning vets, etc.) and a schedule for the season. In addition to taking team pictures, I hope to give the schools more and better coverage this season.

AMATEUR BOXING returns to the area Sept. 13 at the Sioux City auditorium. There's plenty of room for interested boxers, according to Bill Engel. Those wishing more information should contact Engel at South Sioux City.

JOHN WARNER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Warner of Allen, is expected to see action as a linebacker on the Army's 1973 varsity football squad.

Warner, a sophomore at West Point, is a graduate of Allen High where he earned four varsity letters in football and three in basketball and track. During his senior year, Warner was captain of the football, basketball and track teams. He received the Athlete of the Year award in 1972 and was selected to the Lewis and Clark all-conference football team in both 1971 and 1972. Warner also received all-conference recognition in basketball his senior year.

Taking a look at the Army's season, a report notes that "the cadets will embark on one of the most challenging schedules in Army football history when they open against Tennessee Sept. 22."

Of the Army's first five opponents (California, Georgia Tech, Penn State, Notre Dame and Holy Cross) only California missed playing in a post-season bowl game last year.

Other teams on Army's roster are Air Force, Miami, Pittsburg and arch-rival Navy in the last game of the season.

RECEIVED A thank you note from Wakefield baseball coach Paul Eaton, complimenting the newspaper "for the work you go to in covering our baseball teams during the summer."

Sorry to say I don't feel I gave his teams the coverage they deserve, but I'm sure Paul is especially happy about bringing home the 1973 American Legion crown to Wakefield. Congrats to the team and coach.

Longes Return Tuesday From Hawaiian Vacation

Mrs. and Mrs. Rudy Longe returned Tuesday evening from Hawaii where they had accompanied her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lampe and daughter of Pender. A niece and her family who live near Honolulu were on their vacation at his home island of Kawaii and Longes and Lampes joined them for three days at the resort.

They visited cattle ranches, a pig farm, and pineapple plantations besides taking in the many other unusual sights.

They were surprised at the constant military vigil on all the islands, and at the number of Japanese who are buying property and building housing units and hotels from which all tourists are restricted.

Champion Awards Go to Charolais At 22nd Annual Laurel Sale, Show

Dennis Magnuson's champion Charolais crossbred animal brought the top steer price of $65.50 a hundredweight during the 22nd annual Laurel show and sale Tuesday night.

First National Bank of Belden paid the top premium price of $14.50 over the appraiser's bid of $51 per hundredweight for the Laurel youth's animal. The steer weighed in at 1,190 pounds.

Three other Charolais crosses picked up the other top honors, with Raleigh Burbach of Randolph having the champion heifer.

Burbach's animal brought $56 per hundredweight — $7 over the appraiser's bid. Norco Feeds of Norfolk purchased the 1,090-pound heifer — largest in its class.

Brad Kalin of Coleridge and Brad Erwin of Concord had the reserve champions. Kalin took the steer division with a 920-pound Charolais. Burney Order Buyer of Hartington paid $7.75 over the appraiser's bid of $50.25.

Stouffville Production Credit bought Erwin's reserve champion for $9 above the bid price of $48. His animal totaled 905 pounds.

Altogether 52 steers and heifers were entered in the show and sale, according to Gene Sohler of Laurel Sale Co. Average weight of the animals was 1,012, he added.

The sale collected a total of $30,071.13, with the appraiser's bids coming to $25,929.90 or $49.24 per hundredweight.

Total premium price paid to the youths was $4,141.23. Results of the sale, with exhibitor, home, animal weight, appraisal price and purchase price listed:

Dr. Seymour said the first and second stages will be implemented in the fall of 1973, the others as the program develops and funds are available. He commented:

"Wayne State College considers itself fortunate that Mr. Peterson has chosen to locate in Wayne and make his broad background in government available to the students of Wayne State and the entire region.

This will add a valuable dimension to the educational programs of Wayne State."

Peterson is a graduate of Wayne State. Besides his government service, he has been a newspaper publisher (the "Etgin Review"), school teacher, coach and superintendent, and instructor at the University of Nebraska, where he earned a master's degree.

A Clearance Sale for people who ask, "why buy a family-size Ford now?"

A Well, for starters, our Clearance Sale prices are the lowest of the year.

Q But why not wait for the new '74's?

A Well, your present car will be older. You'll get less on a trade-in. And the '74's will probably carry a higher sticker price.

Q Even on '73 LTD's and Galaxie 500's?

A Especially on those. Torinos, too.

Q But wouldn't I pay less for a smaller Ford?

A Certainly. But a family man needs a bigger car. Does a man with 4 children buy a 2 bedroom house?

Q I see what you mean.

A A Ford Galaxie or LTD gives your family the roominess you need. And extra comfort. Extra safety. Extra luggage space. They're made to order for family-size driving.

Q That makes sense. How soon could I get a '73 LTD or Galaxie?

A Drive one home today if you like.

Q No fooling!

A No fooling! No waiting. Immediate delivery during our once-a-year Clearance Sale. Come in today and drive home a big, beautiful bargain — that really fits your family — and your budget!

Fall is a busy season for ladders -- they are often used to help reach the apple on the top of the tree and put on storm windows.

This also is the time of year when there may be many accidents resulting from ladders, most of them caused either by the user or the manufacturer.

A dry place, such as a garage, is the best location to store a ladder. Do not hang it outdoors to become exposed to the elements or lay it on the ground where deterioration is even faster.

A National Commission on Product Safety report states some unsafe ladders are on today's market. A safe ladder will include non-slip threads on the steps and ladder feet wide enough so they will not readily sink into the soft ground.

Proper positioning of the ladder during use will help prevent accidents. Place the ladder one-fourth of its length from the foundation. This means that for a ladder 12 feet tall, the proper position would be three feet from the foundation. This will prevent slipping and tipping over backwards.

Before using a ladder, check it for cracked or bent parts and see that locks are firmly attached to the rungs before mounting a section ladder. To provide good footing for the ladder, do not place it on ice or a wet surface unless it is specially equipped with skidproof feet.

Because metal ladders are good conductors of electricity, the handyman must be extra careful with them when he is around electrical wires. This type of ladder should never be used near exposed wires or within four feet of open electrical apparatus.

If you become dizzy or panicky while on a ladder, don't climb down hurriedly. Instead, drape your arms over a convenient rung and rest your head against the ladder until the feeling passes.

Ladders, as is true of all tools used around the home, must be used with discretion. They can become instruments of destruction if not used properly.

Cost to the city for acquiring the approximate 12 and a half acres of land would be about $9,500 if the appraised value of the land is close to the price stipulated in an option the city has for purchasing it.

The federal government will contribute $19,000 toward land purchase while the state will match the city's share.

City attorney John Addison told the council the federal government has agreed to participate in land acquisition. State officials earlier this summer gave approval to the project.

Next step: getting the land appraised. If the land is appraised at the same or less than the purchase price, the city is obligated to go ahead with buying it, according to Addison. The city could refuse to cooperate with the governments if the appraisal is above the option price, he explained.

In other action the council: —Discussed its recent action in agreeing to issue industrial development bonds to help back a qualified industry wishing to move into the city. The city attorney brought up the subject after telling councilmen he has been negotiating the past few days with an industrial prospect which would probably require such backing.

—Approved mayor Hall's seven appointments to the group which will be responsible for publicizing and promoting the college. Named were Arnie Reeg, Wayne Wessel, Jim Marsh, Frank Prather, Bill Hagerman, Norman Nordstrand and Jim Hummel. Hall said he may appoint the other two members at a later meeting. The group currently is involved with spending the $4,000 the city voted to donate to help promote the college in an attempt to reverse recent enrollment dips.

—Agreed 6-1 (Thomas dissenting) to have the city's engineering firm — which the council later voted to terminate its non-existent contract with — draw up rough estimates of the cost of extending the runway from 2,800 feet to 3,600 feet. The city attorney told the council the work could be done at little cost to the city if federal and state funds could be acquired. Council sent to committee the attorney's suggestion that a radio beacon be installed at the airport. At its earlier meeting in August, council learned from the attorney that the beacon would cost about $50 a month following installation.

—Learned that one of the power plant engines needs overhauling, a project estimated to cost $35,000. No decision was made on the project.

—Agreed to check with county commissioners on the possibility of sharing the monthly costs of the Law Enforcement Teletype Systems (LETS) which police chief Robert Evers suggest to be installed in the local police station. Cost of installation would be about $800, but there would be a continuing monthly charge of approximately $157, according to Evers. The system would greatly increase the speed of receiving information about stolen vehicles and wanted persons, for example, because it would be hooked up with state and federal communication systems, according to Evers.

—Decided to let the city's insurance company deal with a $142,100 claim from Virginia Wright for damage to her carpet caused, she said, by a fire resulting after one of the city's

100 And Still Counting

A WAKEFIELD MAN who traveled in three states in a covered wagon as a youth reached the century mark this week. He is Argo Dixon, who turned 100 years old Tuesday, Born Aug. 28, 1873 in Cheriton, Ia., Dixon moved with his family onto land northeast of Wakefield in 1884, a year after his father constructed a dugout there. While the family was moving to Wakefield, they were caught in a spring blizzard near Bancroft, and Argo, his sister and his mother were forced to go on into Wakefield and stay at the hotel. Dixon has lived near Wakefield all his life except for eight years he spent in South Dakota and two years in Dakota County. He and his wife, who died early in 1964, had seven girls and five boys. Two of the boys died in infancy. Still living on land the Dixon family settled on back in 1884 is Jess Dixon, one of Argo's sons.

Strange Case

(Continued from page 1) work, Bornhoff came up with names of several persons who may be legal heirs to the Oliver brothers' estates.

Now representing several alleged heirs is local attorney Kem Swarts.

He said the list of possible heirs includes three first cousins who live in England and Michigan. The long list of 21 alleged heirs includes those three persons and first cousins once removed and first cousins twice removed from England, Wisconsin, Michigan and Arizona.

Swarts said a hearing to settle the estate will not be called by the court until Bornhoff has had time to further investigate the legality of the alleged heirs.

If the court rules that no legal heirs exist, the brothers' estate will revert to the state under a legal process called escheat. Under that process, the state invests the estate income and distributes income from it to the school districts in the state.

electrical wires burned through. The wire caused surges of electricity to flow into several homes in the northeast quarter of the city earlier this month, resulting in damage to some electrical appliances, according to reports. A television set in the Wright home caught fire as a result of the electrical surges, she said in a letter to the council.

—Approved the resignation of Mary Fisher from the Wayne Hospital Board. Mayor Hall said he will try to have a replacement for her ready for council's approval at its next meeting.

—Learned from an engineer the city has hired that construction of the connecting power line between the city and Nebraska Public Power District may cost between $15,000 and $20,000. The city is now negotiating a contract with the power district for supplying the city with emergency power.

—Sent to committee the request from police chief Evers for a pay raise for Melvin Lamb, who recently was promoted from patrolman to detective sergeant. Evers asked at the council's last meeting that Lamb's monthly salary be upped from $620 to $640, but the council voted against the increase.

Class of '23 Relents, Plans First Reunion

After letting 50 years pass since their graduation, Wayne High School students from the class of 1923 decided it was time to hold their first reunion.

Letters have been sent out and at least 15 of the class members plan to attend the Saturday night smorgasbord and Sunday noon picnic scheduled this weekend in Wayne. Reservations for the two events are necessary, according to Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mrs. Joy Hein, who are in charge of arrangements.

Other students who were not members of the 1923 class but who attended Wayne High School during the same time period are invited to join in the reunion activities.

Cocktails will be served at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at the Black Knight Lounge, and dinner will be at 6:30. The picnic, to be held at Bressler Park, will be catered and will be followed by a tour of the local schools.

2,000 Teachers Expected Here

Some 2,000 teachers are expected to attend teachers convention in Wayne late in October. The first time Wayne has hosted the convention.

The convention is scheduled for Oct. 25-26 at Wayne State College. There will be no classes at the college during the two-day convention, according to a college spokesman.

Teachers attending the convention will be from the Northeast Nebraska district of the Nebraska State Education Association. District president is Robert Rissler of Randolph. Helping him coordinate activities at the college is Loren Kamish, director of special services.

'What if that guy blows a tire?'

Playing a game just might save you from death on the highway

Driving is getting lazier every year. Power steering, power brakes, electric windows, mileage minders, "idiot" lights and other gadgets have taken the work out of operating a car and reduced the driver to almost passenger status. Modern cars are a pleasure to drive, but by becoming so automated, so physically undemanding, they have made it very easy for drivers to become more servants than masters of their vehicles. It's very easy to go "wool gathering" in today's automobile, to be physically present but mentally far away. This lullaby-like effect can be a killer when emergencies crop up. The driver's mental and physical reactions cannot be collected in time to take evasive action to avoid or minimize the hazard that suddenly confronts him. There's a number of ways to avoid or minimize the lulling effect of today's driving. Traffic safety experts recommend chewing gum. "Stretch" stops every two hours, switching stations on the radio and other mental or physical activity to break the monotony. All of these recommendations have value and no doubt help make driving safer, but they soon lose their novelty and driver interest in doing them tails off. One effective way to keep alert behind the wheel is to play the "What If" game. It's played like this: You're approaching a crossroad, so ask yourself, "What will I do if a car ignores the stop sign and shoots across in front of me?" "Do I brake hard?" "Do I try to turn parallel to the oncoming car and risk sideswipe rather than broadside?" "Do I take to the ditch?" Usually there's one alternative that is better than all the rest. If you've mentally pre-selected it, you don't have to waste vital time deciding what to do when you're suddenly confronted with that particular situation. Another example: "What will I do if the car ahead of me blows a tire and starts fishtailing all over the road?" "Do I try to zig when he zags?" "Do I brake hard and run the risk of a rear end collision from the car behind me?" "Do I hit my right blinker and pull to the right, shoulder and stop as quick as I can?" Still another theoretical situation: What if the car ahead starts weaving in erratically. The driver is either drunk or ill. "What do I do?" "Follow him at a safe distance?" "Try to pass him?" "Stop at the next rest area or service station and report him?" The list of "What If's" are almost endless. Sometimes they are inspired by the terrain, sometimes by the traffic pattern, sometimes by the weather and the road conditions. Playing "What If" is mentally refreshing and may never be more than just a game, but there may come a time when it is put to the acid test of survival or oblivion. Make playing "What If" a must, especially in the "Bulge Month" of August.

Capital News—

Name out of past, Caril Ann Fugate, back in headlines

Lincoln — A name from a decade and a half ago was in the news again last week — Caril Ann Fugate. At age 14, Caril Ann Fugate accompanied Charles Starkweather on the grisly trail which resulted in 11 murders and turned Lincoln into a city of terror. That was in 1958. Starkweather was sentenced to death and he died in the electric chair at the State Penitentiary where Caril Ann met last week with members of the State Parole Board to request a recommendation that her life sentence be commuted to a specific number of years.

The parole board late last week recommended that the State Pardon Board — composed of the governor, secretary of state and attorney general — consider her case. Favorable action by the pardon board would make Caril eligible for consideration for a parole by the parole board. If all systems turn out to be go, she could be freed from the State Women's Reformatory at York within a year and go to live in California where she is due to work with a minister. A York minister and many members of his congregation were among those who testified on Caril Ann's behalf last week before the parole board. Miss Fugate, now 30, was described as a dedicated, eager church worker who was especially effective in dealing with children. She also was described as a counsellor to other inmates at the York reformatory, where she never has received a disciplinary report during her 15 years as a prisoner. But all testimony wasn't favorable for the young woman.

Relatives of some of the victims of the 1958 killing rampage told the board Caril Ann should spend the remainder of her life at the reformatory as punishment for her part in the sensational murder spree. No matter how many good works Caril Ann has performed as a prisoner, they said, they wouldn't bring back the victims. While they said they favored parole in many cases, they contended an 11 murder rampage was so much different that it couldn't be considered in the same way as other cases. State Corrections Director Victor Walker told the board the state had done all it could toward rehabilitating Miss Fugate. Any further incarceration, he said, would merely be punishment. Board Chairman John Greenholtz said that was the decision he and his two colleagues faced. They had to determine where the line should be drawn between retribution and rehabilitation.

RAIL CRISIS POSSIBLE
The chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission told a Lincoln audience last week bad harvesting weather in Russian wheat fields this summer could create another pinch in American rail transportation. George Stafford said the Russian wheat crop looked good all year, but rains — some as much as 10 inches — had fallen in the Ukraine lately and if they disrupt the harvest and cause a wheat shortage the Soviets may return to the American market. It was the 1972 wheat sale to Russia, Stafford said, which was responsible for the rail transportation bottlenecks last year. Stafford spoke at a conference on federal procurement and foreign trade sponsored by Rep. Charles Thone, R-Nebr., and Vision 17, an economic development organization in Southeast Nebraska. Businessmen were given hints on how to increase their sales to the federal government and foreign countries.

TAX CUT HINTED
Gov. J. James Exon has hinted the 1974 tax rates may be lower than expected. The governor told newsmen receipts continue to exceed projections and it may not take rates as high to raise the tax money to finance state government.

GERDES FUNERAL HELD
Funeral services were held last week at Alliance for former State Sen. George Gerdes, who died at his Alliance ranch. Gerdes, respected as one of the most effective state legislators, had served in recent years as executive director of the Legislature. The burly former cowhand was a master of putting together winning combinations in the legislative cloak room. He used many of the same skills as the chief of staff for the senators

OBSERVATIONS

Even more opposed

Public opinion swung even more against the change in uniforms by Wayne police over the weekend. Another six ballots — all against the change — came in the mail after results of the mini-poll were tabulated. That put the total number of responses at more than 100 — 102 to be exact — with 94 opposed to the change and only eight in favor of it. Although nothing to jump up and down about, that is a pretty good response for the first of what will be a series of "Speak Out" questions we plan to toss out to our readers during the next few months. If there are those who are slighting the results of the survey as being unrepresentative, we can only say, "You had your chance to vote, just like those who opposed the change, and it's your tough luck if you didn't make your feelings known." We hope that will serve as something of a lesson for future "Speak Outs." If you have a definite opinion about the question, make sure you cast your ballot instead of letting others who agree with you do it for you. Several readers have commented that they think "Speak Out" is a good idea, just the thing to give the little guy up and down the street a chance to have as much voice about an issue as anybody else. Others mentioned that the series should prove to be a lot of fun for the readers even if the surveys make no claim to being an accurate sampling of public opinion. We only ask one thing of our readers, however. If you have an idea for a "Speak Out" question, make sure you give us a call or stop in and mention it. We want to make the series as interesting to our readers as possible, and your suggestions may make that task easier for us.

Unrestricted parking is adequate and close

To our way of thinking, there is visual proof elsewhere in this issue of the newspaper that there is plenty of unrestricted off street parking within easy walking distance of the central business district. The proof is the map of the downtown area showing what streets are limited to two hour or less parking and what streets have unlimited parking except for the few hours after midnight. The map is printed at the request of the local Chamber of Commerce, which wants to inform shoppers and businessmen as fully as possible about what areas are unrestricted and what areas are restricted for parking. There are about 20 full blocks of unrestricted parking available to persons who wish to spend a full day downtown and to employees who are not provided off street parking by their employers. Most of that parking is within two blocks or less of most stores. That doesn't seem too far away for a person to walk if he plans on spending several hours playing cards or meeting friends at the cafe. For those persons who wish to park closer to stores so they can get their shopping or business done quickly and without excessive walking, there is plenty of parking areas limited to two hours. We hope the city council does not decide to remove the two-hour parking zones, because as soon as that is done the person who most needs them will find them filled up too often. When that happens too many times, businessmen may see shoppers deciding to travel to some other town to do their business. When discussing the parking restrictions, a city councilman, made one good point. He said that whenever he goes into some other community of any size anywhere else, he expects to find parking limitations. It's reasonable to think that most people expect the very same thing.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 YEARS AGO
September 9, 1943 Mrs. W. F. Wright fell at her home Sunday and broke her left wrist. "Meatless Thursday" will be observed in all the cafes and restaurants in Wayne beginning today, the local war price and rationing board announced Tuesday. Chicken and non-rationed meats may be served, but a couponless day will be the rule. The unconditional surrender of Italy to the allied forces was announced Wednesday morning. The September war bond drive will get off to a big start today, when the precinct solicitors will have their working kits and start to call on farmers in their districts. Russell L. Larson, chairman of the county war bond committee, announced Monday the appointment of regional chairmen and precinct captains. Wayne training school, with a total enrollment of 158 students, convened Monday last year. The demand for Wayne homes to rent is on the increase.

25 YEARS AGO
September 2, 1948: Complete revision of traffic control in downtown Wayne, including the installation of three stop-and-go signals and the establishment of two through streets, was recommended to the city council Tuesday evening by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce Civic Affairs Committee. Dr. Howard Field and family, on their way from Alabama to their new home in Wayne, escaped serious injury in an automobile accident, it was learned here Tuesday. Milton B. Childs has been named secretary of the local Kiwanis Club succeeding Clarence McGinn who has moved to California. R. G. Fuetberth Wednesday began the construction of a new business building on his property across the street from the city auditorium. Everett Burley, manager of the Randolph Creamery, escaped serious injury Monday afternoon when his truck overturned on Highway 81 south of Randolph. In addition to one house already completed and another nearly finished, the firm of Cory & Dier, Wayne, will erect four more "factory-built" type homes in this city this fall. Diane Meese suffered a broken right arm when she fell off the slide at the campus school playground.

Dear Editor:
Please accept our compliments on your Monday paper. The highlights of our Dixon County Fair were all covered very well. We are especially proud of our 4-Hers this year. They did a beautiful job with their animals and also all handwork they completed in the agriculture hall. They were great! Special recognition and thanks should also go to our Fair Board and all the men and women of the county who worked so hard before and after the fair. Every one was worn out, but they would still say, "We enjoyed doing it." Thanks again to you and your staff and see you next August. Suzie and Marlen Johnson

GUEST EDITORIAL

Myth about TV news dominance

Broadcasting magazine is resurrecting the myth about television's dominance as a news medium and is building a special issue around it. "Among all mass media, television is now regarded as the fastest, fairest and most complete," says the weekly trade publication citing surveys by Roper and the Bureau of Social Science Research. Noting television's "position of primacy as a journalistic force," the magazine says it will tell the "how" and "why" of it which will be delivered to just about everyone in Washington from the FCC to the Senate and House plus state governors. Newspaper publishers, singly and in groups, ought to have their own "truth squad" to follow up and set the record straight just so our elected and appointed officials are not led astray. There is plenty of ammunition — surveys and studies — for that purpose. For instance: Studies by Audits and Surveys, Inc., and W. R. Simmons & Associates, for the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, found that while 77 per cent of adults 18 and over read one or more daily newspapers on an average weekday, 52 per cent of them will not see any TV news. Among persons 18-34, the figure is 57 per cent. Only one adult in five watches one or more of the big, early evening network newscasts. Over five weekdays, 56 per cent of the adult public do not watch a single one of the early evening network broadcasts. And over a two-week period, 53 per cent of the public do not see even one national newscast. If half the people aren't watching, how can a claim of dominance or primacy be substantiated? In contrast, the one-day newspaper readership of 77 per cent is only the tip of the iceberg. By the second day, 84 per cent will have read at least one newspaper. After five days, 89 per cent of all adults will have read at least one issue of a daily newspaper. The average reader — after two days — will have been exposed to a newspaper 1.9 times. After three days, 2.7 times. After four days, the frequency is 3.5 and at the end of a five-day period the exposure frequency is 4.3 times. So between Monday and Friday the average reader will go through more than four of the five days' newspapers. How do they read a newspaper? Three out of four read it at home with average reading time for all of 30 to 40 minutes. The average reader covers 25 pages a day, not including classified, and more than half start at page one and scan each page. The myth of TV dominance as a news medium amounts to the big lie — tell it often enough and the people will begin to believe it. The evidence to disprove it is plentiful if newspaper publishers, editors and columnists will take the trouble to spread the word.

Thone says campaign laws need reforming

By CONG. CHARLES THONE
We need reforms in our federal campaign laws, but we must make certain that they are workable and enforceable. The Senate has passed a bill for new reforms, but Senator George Aiken, the Senior Republican in that body, said that the Senators were not legislating seriously but were just trying "to make 'em look good back home." Senator Paul Fannin of Arizona said the Senate bill is "unenforceable." It would be better not to pass any new legislation than to vote for a bill with high goals and standards and no possibility of enforcement. The House Administration Committee is expected to begin hearings in September on the House version of campaign reform. One of the reforms I strongly favor is a requirement that there be only one fund raising committee for each federal candidate. At the present time there can be hundreds of committees raising and disbursing money for an office seeker. Another reform that I feel is very important is a requirement that the party national committees conduct the presidential campaigns. If the Republican National Committee had been in charge of President Richard Nixon's re-election, I can guarantee you that the dastardly foolishness of Watergate would never have occurred. Full emphasis must be placed on timely and detailed disclosure requirements. At the present time there is absolutely no limit on the amount of money that an individual or an organization can give to a candidate. The 1973 law must set reasonable limits on contributions from a single source. Campaigns are much too long. They wear out the public as well as the candidate. If through the election reform legislation we can require that the national party conventions be held later in the year, we will be able to shorten up the presidential campaigns. In addition to new election reforms, setting advertising rates for candidates, I certainly hope this portion of the 1972 law can be repealed. Watergate has caused much political shock in America. Hopefully, however, the effects will not all be negative. If we can pass legislation in 1973 to guard against many abuses in future campaigns, we will receive positive benefits from the misfortunes of last year. We have a good political system which has served America well. In Congress must take actions now which will help to rebuild confidence in those who hold and seek political office.

Seymour: Space Program Improving Technology

Astronauts at the Cape Kennedy space center have a favorite expression, says Wayne State president Lyle Seymour. "It gives us a warm feeling to know that the space ship was built by people with the warmest bid."

Despite that feeling, Dr. Seymour told Kivans Monday, the U. S. space program is in capable hands due to the vast improvement in technology which has advanced with the program.

Dr. Seymour said the present Skylab program currently completing a 59-day flight in space, is an immense stepping stone in the U. S. space program.

"Once Skylab-3 is completed sometime this year, both the United States and Russia will begin to work on a linkup between the two powers in space," he said. Following this step, the U. S. aims to set up a space shuttle whereby a rocket will be able to take off from earth, reach its destination and return to earth for reuse.

This, he noted, will end the program at that point. Because of the uncertain future of the program, Dr. Seymour said, NASA hasn't announced future plans.

The Wayne State president, among a group of people selected to view the Skylab-2 launching in July, said the high price of the program makes the question of continuing the space program "debatable."

"There has been a lot gained through the program, not only in man's knowledge of space but also in space spinoffs," he said.

Space spinoffs can be seen in the types of sophisticated equipment men are using today, he said. For example, quartz watches may soon be available to everybody at a reasonable price, and tiny pacemakers are now being used to regulate heartbeats.

"To me, these spinoffs make the program worth the cost," Dr. Seymour said.

During his visit of the Cape area, Dr. Seymour got a close look at the huge building in which the Saturn rockets are assembled. The structure stands about 525 feet high and contains 130 million cubic feet.

"What is really interesting is when the entire air-conditioned building opens its doors to move the rocket to the launch pad. All the hot, moist air rushes in, clouds begin to form and it actually rains inside," he said.

The biggest sensation during the actual launching (which only lasts 20 to 30 seconds) is the feeling of the rocket taking off.

"You can feel the vibration in your chest, which is a bigger sensation than hearing it," he went on.

The Skylab-3 adventure is not just for the U. S.'s knowledge, Dr. Seymour pointed out. The project is set up to study different fields of science for South America, Europe and Asia. Such fields as agriculture as well as geology and the ocean are among the areas astronauts are studying.

Club president Bob Carhart noted that next week the regular club meeting will be held on Tuesday, due to Labor Day falling on Monday.

In other business, the members were reminded that on Sept. 9 the club will hold its annual white sale at the city auditorium.

This and That... from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Pastures
I've been driving around Wayne County and find the brome pastures very dry and often eaten into the ground. There isn't anything that can be done about dryness, but much can be done with better management.

I heard a farmer say the other day that hot and dry days in August were normal for this part of the county and I believe the Weather Bureau records will agree with this. Brome grass is a "cool season" grass and therefore should be rested during the hot part of July and August. This means that pastures that grow well during the hot weather — such as Sudan grass and warm season native grasses — should be used in place of the brome.

Brome grass that is rested during the hot months, fertilized properly, and stocked at the correct rate (leave half, take half is still a good rule), is much more productive than brome that is not.

Why the Fuss?
Many people have long considered pasture a "poor cousin" and not worth the extra effort to make it more productive. But if anyone would sit down and figure how many pounds of beef is being produced from even a poorly managed acre of brome and multiply this by 50 cents a pound the results would be surprising.

And then if this figure could be increased by one-half or even doubled by good management it would prove that pastures can't be considered "poor cousins" (if they ever could have been).

Dollar Corn
Up until a couple years ago most farm economic studies were based on typical prices of dollar corn and twenty-five cent cattle. I certainly won't predict that present agricultural prices will remain at their present peaks, but there are many reasons to believe prices won't go back as low as they were a few years ago.

If this is true, we are all going to have to re-think what will pay or not pay under this new price relationship. We can no longer base our opinions on past experience. In other words, this is a new ball game and everyone should be aware of it. All of us should sharpen our pencils or better yet, but an electronic calculator.

Food for Thought
Increasing costs of living, especially food costs in the United States, has been getting a lot of attention, but cost increases are not confined to the U. S.

The average American spends about 16 per cent of his disposable income for food. Add food eaten away from home and the total is 19 per cent. This figure is the lowest in the world, and compares to 45 to 50 per cent in Russia, 43 per cent in Japan, 52 per cent in Denmark, 37 per cent in the United Kingdom and 37 per cent in Norway.

Archie White to Judge NEN Market Hog Show
Archie White of Hormel and Company in Fremont has been named to judge the seventh annual Northeast Nebraska Market Hog Show.

White, a native Nebraskan, has judged many shows throughout the Midwest and is recognized as one of the foremost authorities of the showing.

The show has been set for Monday, Sept. 17, at 10 a.m. at the Laurel Livestock Auction Co. Hogs will be entered from 7:30 to 10 a.m. on show day.

The "Northeast" Market Hog Show will have new faces this year since a class for purebred swine has been established. In the past, only crossbred swine could compete. This year both may compete, but they will be shown in separate classes.

The show is open to all crossbred and purebred producers in Cedar, Wayne, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston Counties. Copies of the rules governing the show may be picked up in the county agents' offices or at the Northeast Station.

input will be carefully considered as we plan future highway programs. Roads are built to serve people, and it's only fair that the people have a say in their development," he continued.

Doyle emphasized that questions on fiscal year 1974 through 1979 highway construction programs will be welcome. The new construction program was released in mid-July.

Highway commissioner Merle Kingsbury of Ponca will chair the meeting. He will be assisted by one other commissioner, the public assistance officer and several other DOR officials.

The district meeting is one of seven district informational meetings scheduled for September. The meetings are part of the Department of Roads Action Plan, which stresses public participation and involvement in highway construction and improvement plans.
