If Fuel Crunch Hits Home, Home Lights May Stop Burning

Electrical service to homes throughout Wayne would probably be cut back if the municipal power plant ever comes close to running out of fuel during the coming winter, city councilmen learned Tuesday night.

Turning off electricity flowing into private homes is one of the steps which could be taken if the city's fuel tanks ever start running dry, Mayor Kent Hall told the councilmen at their regular meeting.

But that would happen only if the shortage gets "real serious", and appeals by the city for voluntary conservation of electrical power fall short, Hall noted.

The possible steps in case of a fuel shortage as outlined by the mayor:

- ✓ Shutting off street lights on one side of the street.
- ✓ Shutting off street lights on both sides of the street.
- ✓ Shutting off lights in all city parks.
- ✓ Cutting off half the city for one hour, then supplying it with power for an hour, while cutting off the other half.
- ✓ Running only the smallest motor at the generating plant, which would provide a quarter of the city with power every hour.

Hall noted that he hopes the "day never comes" when power plant officials have to start shutting off portions of the city to conserve fuel, but he noted that even if that does occur, homes and businesses would get electrical power often enough so they could be kept warm during cold spells.

Councilman Frank Prather in September had asked city officials to draw up a list of steps which would be taken in case fuel runs short, noting that it should be done months and not days before they are put into effect.

Hall said Tuesday night that he, city administrator Fred Brink, city clerk Dan Sherry and power plant superintendent Norbert Bruggen drew up the fuel conserving steps.

Councilmen asked for time to review the proposed steps before taking official action on them. Councilmen having suggestions for additional steps, or suggestions will probably make them at the Nov. 13th meeting.

SHOWING OFF the plaque and trophy Wayne High's marching band won at Saturday's marching band festival are drum major Gary Stoltenberg, left, and band president Gardon Cook.

Band Repeats Top Performance

Wayne High's marching band has done it again.

The 73-member band Saturday earned its second straight superior rating in the annual Nebraska High School Marching Band Festival at Lincoln. The superior rating is the highest given participants, requiring perfect ratings from all three judges in the event.

And for their efforts, band members won another large trophy, just like they did a year ago when they placed among the top in the competition, as well as a plaque for participating in the event for the 10th time in 16 years.

Wayne High's band was one of only six to receive the superior ratings, according to conductor Ron Dalton. A total of 13 bands in Wayne's class, participated this year.

Wayne competed with such bands as those from Albion, St. Paul, Syracuse, Wahoo, Ord and Waverly.

Performing in precision drills for six and a half minutes at Lincoln's Pershing Municipal Auditorium, the band played "Trumpet Voluntary," "Brasses to the Fore," "Amazing Grace," "Basin Street Blues," "Don't Fence Me In" and "Brasses Wild." Included in the performance were block band drills, a dance step and a compressed band routine which Dalton says has become a trademark of the Wayne High band.

Leading the musicians as band major was senior Gary Stoltenberg, a transfer from Laurel High School. Laurel earned a two-plus in the judging, just below Wayne High's rating. Dalton said a film was made of the band's performance and will be shown on television during the next meeting of the Wayne Carroll Music Boosters on Nov. 5.

Next public performance of the local band will be in the Veteran's Day parade in Wayne on Nov. 11.

Saturday's festival, which attracted nearly 60 bands this year, is the largest indoor marching band competition in the world. Nearly 4,000 high school bandmen participated in the competition.

WSC Prof, '64 Graduate To Take Part in Confab

A Wayne State College professor and a 1964 graduate formerly of Randolph will take leading roles in the Wisconsin School Music Association convention at Madison Friday.

Dr. Cornell Runestad, WSC choral director, will lead two sessions for choral directors on the topic "Teaching Literacy and Style in the Choral Rehearsal." He plans to explain how historical, analytical and stylistic factors influence music being studied.

A demonstration choir that will assist Dr. Runestad is directed by Rod Witte, 1964 music graduate of WSC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Witte of Randolph and grandson of Mrs. Luther Milliken of Wayne. Witte directs choral music at LaFollette High School in Madison.

Wayne State faculty members who were invited to lead recent out-of-state events include orchestra conductor Michael Palumbo, guest clinician for the American String Teachers Association junior high festival at Carroll, Ia., and Dr. Neil Swanson, chairman of the business department, who led a session at the Conference on the Role of Women in Business Management at Dakota State College, Madison.

Wes Fritz of the physical science faculty received a National Institute of Health grant to attend a seminar at Columbus, Mo., Monday-Wednesday this week. It was sponsored by the Association of Schools of Allied Health Professions.

City Re-Hires Engineering Firm

Wayne is back in the business of contracting for professional services.

Tuesday night the council voted 5-3 to re-hire Consolidated Engineers-Architects of Wayne and Omaha as the city's engineering firm, reversing action taken in August which resulted in terminating the city's long-standing contract with the firm.

Council voted to re-hire the firm after Fred Brink, recently appointed city administrator, recommended that the city accept Consolidated's contract proposal, one of two being considered by the council.

Brink noted that many experts agree that it is cheaper in the long run to contract for engineering, architectural and legal services than it is to take bids on individual projects.

—When Wayne had a two-cell wooden jailhouse where the power plant site is now located.

He said Consolidated is very familiar with the city's history and is able to provide much information at a minimal cost which would be very expensive if a different engineer were hired for individual projects.

Voting in favor of renewing the contract were councilmen Darrel Fuelberth, Frank Prather, Keith Mosley, Vernon Russell and Pat Gross.

Opposing the decision were Ivan Beeks, Harvey Brasch and Jim Thomas, who was successful in getting the council to vote 5-2 in August to end the contract. Voting to terminate the contract at that time were Beeks, Brasch, Thomas, Russell and Gross. Mosley was not present for that vote.

Thomas again argued Tuesday night that the city should remain free to hire any engineering firm it wishes on individual projects. He apparently gained that point when councilmen agreed to make a small change in Consolidated's contract which would permit the engineering firm to take part in projects only at council request.

He also noted that a contract with an engineering firm is not necessary now that the city has a full time city administrator. The administrator should be able to do much of the work the council had asked the city's engineering firm to do in past years, he said.

IN OTHER ACTION, the council voted 8-0 to recommend to the state that a bottle club license be issued to Melodee Lanes.

The state liquor commission will make the final decision on the request by the bowling establishment, which currently has an on and off-sale beer license.

There were no opponents to the request.

Council voted after Val Kienast, operator of the business, said he would have to give up his present license for the right to sell mixed drinks and on-sale beer.

After that decision, council voted 6-2 to have the city attorney draw up an ordinance which would permit the council to limit the number of bottle club licenses issued in the city. Council will later discuss how many to issue and whether to issue them on a population basis. Action on the ordinance may be taken at one of the council's two meetings in November.

Voting against having the attorney draw up the ordinance were Brasch and Russell.

COUNCIL ALSO DISCUSSED but took no action on an offer by a local industrial development group to sell about 50 acres of land to the city for $32,000.

Wayne Industries has offered to sell land east of the city so the city can develop it into an industrial park.

Several councilmen noted that more information about total cost of developing the land — which reportedly could run as high as $390,000 — is needed before a decision on the offer can be made.

Robert Merchant, president of the industrial development group, told the council that it is very difficult to sell an industrial prospect on locating in Wayne without having a developed site.

He said "It's pretty hard to say to an industrial prospect that this is what we plan to do rather than what we have done."

He noted that several firms have been looking at Wayne as a possible site for plants, and that one, a Dakota City firm, is very close to making a decision on purchasing land.

"We know now that we'll have to have a site developed to get industry," councilman Gross said. "We may have to go into debt (to accomplish it), but in time the mill levy would go down," he added. Money spent on developing the site would probably be the best investment the city ever made, he noted.

Council will discuss the sale offer at its next meeting after the city administrator gathers more detailed information about total costs, possible federal grants or loans and other information.

In other action the council: AGREED 6-2 to pay reserve police officers $2 an hour. Voting See COUNCIL, page 5

No MS Drive, But Canisters To Go Out

The Multiple Sclerosis Society did not conduct a fund-raising drive in Wayne this year, but canisters for contributions will be placed in local business places during the month of November.

Assisting Wayne MS chairman Mrs. Jerry Malcom is canister chairman Judy Bargholz, whose mother, Mrs. Harry Bargholz, is one of Wayne's seven multiple sclerosis patients.

Multiple sclerosis strikes between the ages of 20 and 40, and can lead to paralysis, blurred vision, uncontrollable tremors, severe speech impediment and bowel and bladder problems.

There is no cure for MS, and no really effective treatment for MS patients has been developed. The cause of the disease is not known; although Dr. Hillary Kopravski has reported finding in the brain tissue of MS patients a parainfluenza virus of the type known to cause acute respiratory illness.

Two other independent investigations, one in England and the other in Australia, have strongly substantiated Dr. Kopravski's findings. The isolation of the virus does not necessarily prove that it causes multiple sclerosis; but it is evident that it might.

Band at AHS Seeks Funds for Festival Trip

Allen High School band has been invited to attend the ninth annual Dakota Days Band Festival at Rapid City May 31-June 2, according to director Lorna Stamp.

Bands from all over the United States and Canada attend the festival each year, and last year two European bands were present.

Approval for the trip has been given by the school, and parents and band members are trying to raise $1,500 for lodging, meals, transportation, chaperones and bus drivers. The group expects to earn the needed amount through various projects.

Area residents who have odd jobs are invited to contact band members. If anyone wishes to make a cash donation to the project, Mrs. Ed Fahrenholz, Band Mother president, should be contacted.

Simple Beauty

ALTHOUGH FALL'S colors are becoming more and more evident in the Wayne area every day. There is still beauty in simple black and white scenes. These broken pods on a milk weed along a country road are proof of that.

Methodist Church Scene of Emry-Anderson Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony Thursday evening at the First United Methodist Church, Patricia Emry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Emry, became the bride of David Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Anderson. All are of Wayne.

Guests, registered by Pam and Todd Larsen of Hooper, were ushered into the church by Gordon Emry, a brother of the bride, and Jay Kohl. Special guests at the wedding were the couple's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Murray of Thurston, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson of Laurel and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Emry of Allen. Candles were lit by Maurine Anderson and Bradley Emry, sister and brother of the couple. Ron Dalton played "Trumpet Voluntary." Mrs. Larry Rabass sang "Entr'act Me Not To Leave Thee." "The Lord's Prayer" and "Wedding Benediction," accompanied by Mrs. Fred Webber.

The bride was attended by Brenda Gaunt of Wayne and Julie Larsen of Hooper. The bridegroom's attendants were his brother, Greg Anderson, and Donn Dutton.

The bride's gown, fashioned by her mother of cream colored crepe and lace trim, featured an empire waistline, Victorian bodice and toe-length skirt. Her finger-tip, illusion veil was caught to a large organza bow headpiece and she carried with her bouquet of burgandy roses, pink carnations and white stephanotis, a lace handkerchief which had been made by the bridegroom's grandmother Murray.

The bride's attendants wore similarly styled gowns of burgandy polyester double knit and carried brandy snifters, each holding a burgandy candle, pink stephanotis and greenery.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Emry chose a dress of lime green crepe with a lace coat. Mrs. Anderson wore a light blue knit.

Dr. and Mrs. Niel Edmunds greeted the guests who attended the reception at the fellowship hall following the ceremony. Gifts were arranged by Larry Anderson.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Delbert Larsen of Hooper and Mrs. Gordon Licht of Norfolk. Sue Daniels of Fremont poured and Sharon Hemmingsen of Newell, Ia., served punch. Waitresses were Donna and Diane Kraemer of Menomonee, Wisc. Shelley Emry, Kathy O'Donnell and Anita Sahaahl.

The couple is at home in Wayne.

During the meeting the board went on record in support of:

— Legislation to bring about an increased state role in the provision of transportation for the elderly.

— Legislation to liberalize eligibility requirements for participation in the 90 per cent Homestead Tax Exemption program.

— Study and recommendations for the reform of state will and probate codes.

Miss Leonard will serve as a member of the technical advisory committee to which Mrs. Bull was appointed chairman by board chairman Art Nebelsick of Crete. Next board meeting will be Dec. 6 at Lexington.

Heaped high on vegetable stands lining the countryside and colorfully displayed on supermarket produce shelves are the beautiful vegetables of autumn.

Squash, in its many varieties, is a favorite to many appetites. Best known winter varieties to us are the smooth-skinned beige butternut, cylindrical in shape with a bulbous base; the mottled green-skinned buttercup, which has a turbanlike formation at the blossom end, and the smooth, dark green, widely ribbed acorn. All yield a rich golden flesh which is high in vitamin A content but low in calories.

For today's homemaker — busy as always — the preparation of squash can be quick and easy. Bake it in serving size portions wrapped in foil along with other foods for dinner.

Wash; cut small squash such as acorn into halves; cut larger squash into individual serving; remove the seeds and stringy fibers. Dot each portion with a generous pat of butter or brush with bacon or drippings. Season with salt, pepper and one or more of these spices: mace, nutmeg, cardamon and ginger. Honey or brown sugar may also be added. Wrap in foil or place in a covered baking dish. Bake at 300 degrees F for 1 1/4 hours or at 400 degrees F for 30 to 60 minutes until tender. Time varies according to size and type of squash. Test for doneness by squeezing gently. Some prefer uncovering the squash during the last 15 minutes of baking.

Squash may also be baked uncovered in a shallow greased pan. Place cut side down for first half of the baking period to allow it to steam; Turn up, brush with butter and season. Allow longer baking time when using this method.

But don't stop with using squash as a vegetable. Its flavor is scrumptious in pies, too, and some consider it better than pumpkin. Use the foil baking method, minus butter and spices to prepare it. No need to put buttercup or butternut squash through a sieve. It has little fiber content and can be whipped up in the electric mixer. Many squash pie recipes are similar to pumpkin pie recipes, with perhaps the only difference being a bit more sugar sometimes added to the squash.

The clinic, to be hosted by the Fremont Junior High School, will be held at the senior high school building. Registration at 9:30 a.m. will be followed by a morning and afternoon of rehearsals, and the day will conclude with a 7 p.m. concert at the high school gymnasium. Parents and friends are invited to attend the evening presentation.

About 100 students from Wayne, Norfolk, Columbus, Fremont, York and Beatrice will be taking part in the program. Dr. Paul Todd, professor of strings at the University of Nebraska-Omaha, will be guest clinician. The program, to be made up of numbers which individual schools are working on now in preparation for the clinic, will include "Festique" by Danielt; "La Tambourine" by Bauernschmidt; "Dall'en Set" by Starer; "Train Ride" by Matiesky; "Knuckle Concerto" for piano and orchestra by Haslings; "Summer of '47" by LeGrande; and for string orchestra, "Danza for Strings" by Nelhybel.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Wills of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. John Pedersen of San Jose, Calif. Honor attendants were Christina Barber of Carson City, Nev., and Ensign Peter Romanski of London, England. Kristi Wills of Wayne was flower girl. Captain H. V. Bolles of Newport officiated at the double ring rites. Charlene Jensen of Seattle, Wash., sang "The Wedding Song," accompanied by Mrs.

Bolles. Guests were registered by Jennie Martinez of Pueblo, Colo.

Ushers were Lieutenants Joel Heuring and Michael Stewart, the couple's commanding officers, and Ensigns Peter Smith, Brock Phillips, Robert Coleman and Barry Coombs. All are of Newport, R. I.

The bride chose a white knit floor-length dress and carried a nosegay of assorted flowers. The bridegroom and best man wore full dress whites and the ushers wore full dress blues.

Mrs. Wills selected a blue knit floor-length dress. Mrs. Pedersen chose a blue knit suit. The bride's parents served as hosts to the reception for 60 guests held at the chapel recreation room following the afternoon ceremony. Ellen O'Leary of Boston, Mass., cut and served the cake and Willie Beverly of Newton, Tex., poured.

The couple took a wedding trip to the New England states and after the first of the year will be stationed at the U.S. Naval Base in Adak, Ala.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Wayne High School and 1972 graduate of Wayne State College. She is presently enrolled in the U.S. Navy officer candidate school at Newport, R. I.

The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of a San Diego, Calif., High School and a 1973 graduate of the United States International University. He completed officer candidate school earlier this month and will be attending an advanced communications school in Key West, Fla., until Dec. 7.

Wayne State's Bid for Share Of NCC Title Falls Short

Wayne State's football Wildcats are girding for their season finale Saturday, with intentions to make a fine record better. Despite two straight losses, Wayne will have a 5-2-1 chart going into a clash Saturday afternoon with Iowa Wesleyan at Mount Prospect. It's the first meeting of the two teams. Wesleyan evened its record at 3-3 Saturday with a 20-17 win over Principia.

Coach Del Stoltzenberg says of Wesleyan, "It's hard to know what we can expect, except a single-wing offense. We haven't scouted Wesleyan, but do have films."

Last Saturday Stoltzenberg had his Wildcats prepared for a Peru single-wing in case Bobcat quarterbacks were unable to play. But it turned out first-string QB Terry Criger was ready enough to play after an ankle injury a week earlier. In fact, Criger ran well enough to score a 27-yard touchdown.

Matching that, however, was the running of Wayne's starting quarterback, junior Rick Benedetto, who got away for a 38-yard broken field dash — longest Wildcat run of the season. And Benedetto added enough more yards to put his rushing net on the plus side for the year. The significance of that: all four Wayne quarterbacks now have plus rushing yards — a rather rare feat on any team.

But Wayne domination of both rushing and passing against Peru went for naught in the important matter of scores. Peru came off a 7-16 halftime deficit to win by 20-16 and take a share of the Nebraska College Conference title with Kearney State. It is Peru's first piece of the crown since a 1965 tie, also with Kearney.

The champs finished with 2-1 league records while Wayne and Chadron shared third at 1-2. Ironically, both losers own better season records and scoring totals than the NCC winners. Chadron, 5-3 over-all, tallied 168 points, gave up 68, while Wayne scoring is 154-107. Kearney's 141-114. Peru's 124-158. Wayne dominated Peru in the first half of their Oak Bowl clash. Though Peru scored first, on a Criger to Gary Rosenbeck pass for 44 yards, Wayne roared back on the next drive. It ended with a Benedetto pass for eight yards to wingback Dean Ott and Rich Mangiameli's point kick.

Then another Benedetto pass found split end Maurie Minikin handsily out behind Peru's defense, and Wayne had a go-ahead touchdown, of 56 yards, plus a Mangiameli kick. Before the second quarter ended, an Ott punt to the Bobcat three-yard line led to a safety on the next play when defensive end Tom Allie tackled Criger in the end zone — second time this year Allie has done this.

The second half was something else. Peru drove to a touchdown in the third quarter — on Criger's 27-yard jaunt. Then in the fourth quarter, after Wildcat defense had driven Peru back to its own eight with two quarterback blitzes, a booming Peru punt eluded the Wildcat receiver, and Peru recovered the fumble at the Wayne 31. Two plays later, Barry Reid-punt-Peru on top with a 22-yard end run, and the conversion made it 20-16.

Wayne stalled one more Peru drive. In the last two minutes 21 seconds, Wildcat quarterback Dave Miller passed for three first downs on eight tosses, only to have the ninth pass fall into Bobcat hands as time ran out.

Ott Leads in NNC Receiving

Triple threat Dean Ott, Wayne State's do-everything football player, took over the lead in Nebraska collegiate pass receiving after last week's games.

NAIA District statistics issued Wednesday show the sophomore wingback from Hooper atop pass receiving with a 56-yard-per-game average. He has caught 31 aeriels for 448 yards. He also ranks fifth in punting with a 36.4-yard average, and is tied for second in scoring on 54 points.

Earlier in the season he ranked up pretty well in rushing too. But in recent weeks he has done less rushing, more wide receiving.

For the second game in a row, Ott posted a Wayne season record in pass receiving. Five catches for 51 yards lifted him to 448 yards, erasing the old mark of 405 by Gary Martens last year. Last week Ott set a season record for passes caught. He now has snared 31.

The NAIA district stats show

DEAN OTT
Wayne ranking third among nine colleges in team defense, sixth in offense — a drop from the previous high point of second in both defense and offense.

LARRY WEIBLE DOUG FISCHER

Athlete of the Week

For the second week in a row, offensive and defensive stars from four of the five area high school football teams rate mention for this week's Athlete of the Week award.

The list includes: Wayne's Marty Hansen, a dazzling 211 yards against Emerson Hubbard last week; Winside's Larry Weible, exploding for 221 yards against Coleridge; Doug Fischer and Randy Bargholz of Wakefield's defensive squad that stopped Hartington Cedar Catholic for three quarters and enabled Wakefield to post its fourth win in seven starts, and LaMont Sohler and Sterling Stolpe of Laurel for offensive leadership in the Bears' close loss to Pierce.

But two of those stood out in last week's games — Wakefield's Fischer and Winside's Weible, one leading the defense, the other scoring all his team's points. The result: they share this week's Athlete of the Week award.

In last Friday's 34-13 loss to Clark title winner Coleridge of the Lewis and Clark Conference, Weible not only made it three weeks in a row to go over the 100 yard barrier but set a career record in the number of touchdowns scored in consecutive games. He has scored all eight touchdowns in Winside's last four outings.

The senior halfback rolled up 221 offensive yards in a losing effort against the Bulldogs. Combined with some 30 yards in punt returns, Weible had about 251 yards for the night.

This makes the second time this year that Weible, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Weible of Winside, has received the honor.

Wakefield's Fischer isn't noted for his offensive ability, just his tough defensive play.

During the Hartington CC game, the senior made 15 tackles, boosting his total to 85 for the year, intercepted one pass for a 21 yard return, and blocked and recovered a punt that set up Wakefield's first score.

"He played a super game," coach John Torczon pointed out. "He's a dedicated player."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fischer of Wakefield, he is the third Wakefield player to earn the Herald's Athlete of the Week honor.

Neligh, Plainview Clash to Decide First of Three Conference Races

A real powerhouse football game is in store for Northeast Nebraska Activity Conference fans Friday when Plainview and Neligh square off to decide the loop champion.

The Pirates, ranked No. 1 in Omaha World Herald's Cals C standings, lead the league with a 6-0 mark. Neligh, the newpaper's No. four team, is second at 5-1.

This conference match will be the only one this week to end three conference races.

Although the field will be narrowed in the East half of the Husker league from three co-leaders, the race is hot and rapid.

West Point, Scribner and Hooper Logan View share the top billing with identical 4-2 marks. But the standings will change a bit when the West Point club takes on division foe North Bend. Scribner goes out of the division as does Hooper Logan View before those teams round up the season Nov. 9 against division opponents.

In the West half, powerful Columbus Lakeview has the conference half virtually sewed up with only two division games remaining — Madison Friday followed by Hartington Cedar Catholic.

Even if the Vikings should lose one of those matches, they would still win the loop since a tie with Wayne would go in favor of Lakeview. According to Conference rules, Wayne cannot repeat as champion if a tie develops because the Devils represented the conference last year.

Over in the Lewis and Clark Conference, all seems to be

Reserves Fall To South Sioux

Wayne High's reserve football team ran into a case of fumbleitis Monday night in losing their second game of the season, 20-6 to South Sioux City.

The locals lost three of four fumbles with one very costly miscue happening in the first quarter.

"We had the ball on South Sioux's two foot line and fumbled it," coach Ron Carnes said.

Wayne scored the first touchdown of the game in the third quarter on a 15 yard pass from quarterback Paul Mallette to Dave Hix for a 6-0 lead. The try for two failed.

But the host squad came back with its six pointer to knot the game at 6-6 going into the fourth period. South Sioux then struck twice to close out Wayne's season on a 4-2 record.

Rob Mitchell led rushers with 84 yards while Gary Hansen had 11 tackles for the defense. Other leading defenders were Dave Sherry and Steve Brandt with eight and seven drops.

Young Boxers Fair Well At Norfolk

Six of Wayne's boxing entries at Norfolk's smoker Saturday did "a real good job," according to coach Gary Wiebelhaus.

"All the kids won trophies," he pointed out, even though no decision was handed down in lower weights.

Frank Mrsny, Doug Proett, Rich Johnson, David Hamm and Kevin Nissen participated in the first smoker of the year along with a new member of the team, Stuart Nissen. "Darren Proett also went to the bouts," the coach pointed out, "but there was no one in his age group to fight."

Rick Lock was the only member of the group to go three rounds. The 165-pounder lost a decision after winning the first round. He was knocked down in the second round.

The next scheduled bout is Nov. 23 at Norfolk.

Three Area Teams Wrap Up Season Friday

Newcastle dumped Allen, 19-7. Some reports say the Eagles have a chance to win the division if Homer beats the Red Raiders this Friday, but it seems doubtful that such an upset will occur.

Both Allen and Walthill have almost identical overall records — the Eagles 3-5, the Blue Jays 3-4. However, the Walthill clan gets the nod because of Allen's increasing number of first string injuries.

Laurel won't find Friday's match with rugged Wausa of the L.C. league any more pleasant than last week's disappointing 20-16 loss to Pierce. The Vikings are a strong team — too strong for the Bears to handle.

Two squads that will continue after Friday are Wakefield and Winside.

The Winside Wildcats were the latest area favorite to drop from the division title scene when they fell to Clark division king Coleridge of the L.C. league last Friday, 34-13. The Cats are going to have to shrug off that big loss to prepare for Friday's Osmond game.

Although the Tiger's are not as potent as last year, coach Doug Barclay knows this isn't going to be a game the team can take lightly. I'm sure Winside will show its true championship form and top the Osmond club.

My feeling about the Wakefield at Emerson Hubbard match is that it will be a toss up. Some area coaches may feel that Emerson isn't that strong a team, but the Pirates can surprise any good team.

The Trojans, on the other hand, are a team that has really improved over the past two weeks — with the offensive stealing the show one week only to have the defense take its turn the following game.

Somehow I have the feeling Wakefield will get both its offense and defense going the same night to knock off Emerson.

My prediction tally for the season is 19 right, 14 wrong for 60 per cent. I picked two out of three matches right—Friday night with the only flaw being Coleridge's defeat of Winside. Since Wayne and Allen played in midweek, I did not pick winners in those contests.

WSC Coeds Beat Platte

The Wayne State women's volleyball team dealt another pair of defeats to Platte College Monday night at Columbus.

Varsity coeds had to stretch a bit in 15-10 and 17-15 games. The reserves, however, whizzed through a 15-11 game, then decided they would go out and blank the Platte girls in the next game. And that's what happened: Wayne 15 to 0. So the reserves remained unbeaten in four outings.

The varsity now has a 5-6 record. They go to Lincoln Saturday for a triangular with UN-Lincoln and Peru State, then to Seward Sunday for another, triangular with Concordia and Creighton.

Wakefield JV's Knock Off Lyons

Wakefield High's reserve football team ended its season with a 26-6 win over Lyons Monday night at Wakefield.

The home team jumped out to a 13-6 halftime lead on the able running of Scott Mills and Randy Kahl. Mills took the opening kickoff 70 yards for a 6-0 lead before Kahl raced 55 yards for the second score.

In the second half Tom Hattig hit on a one-yard plunge and quarterback Mike Soderberg completed a 45-yard strike to Scott Keagle for a team's first win in two starts.

"Ken Dolph did a good job of receiving the ball," added Coach Joe Coble, pointing out that Soderberg and Keagle also had a good night. Defensively, Coble praised Hattig and Chuck Leonard.

Sportsbeat

By Bob Bartlett

AREA SPORTS FANS may be thinking that this week's sports section should be labeled "The Larry Weible Story." Despite all the publicity the Winside High senior is receiving, the fact remains he is one of the Wildcats' outstanding players.

Just listing some of his accomplishments takes considerable space, and during last week's game against Coleridge, he moved closer to breaking his seventh school football record.

In the last two games, Weible broke the longest run from scrimmage with sprints of 85 yards. Another mark he set was scoring the most points in a game — 20 during the 21-14 beating of Ponca. He also holds the single game rushing record of 221 yards to topple Galon Stevens' record of 141 yards set back in 1970. Weible already has surpassed Phil Witt's 1969 single season rushing record of 622 yards. With two games remaining, his total is 683 yards.

Two other marks the Winside halfback has broken are career rushing and the most points in one season.

So far Weible has scored 50 points — four better than Witt's 46 set in 1969. As far as the career rushing mark is concerned, the senior is far above Jerry Wacker's record of 847 yards. Weible has 1,102 yards.

"If Weible continues his present 7.2 yards a carry," coach Doug Barclay noted, "he will break Witt's and Dale Miller's shared average of 5.3 yards a carry established in 1969 and 1970."

Just to add a little more spice, during the last four games Larry was responsible for all eight of his team's touchdowns.

RECEIVED A letter from an irate Emerson-Hubbard High School student complaining about the way Winside's freshmen played against the Pirates several weeks ago.

According to the letter, Winside used not only freshmen and sophomores against Emerson's freshmen team but also a few juniors. The writer pointed out that the Winside squad was unsportsmanlike in its rough playing.

To clarify some points I talked with both the Emerson and Winside coaches.

According to Carter "Cap" Peterson, Winside does not have enough freshmen for a freshmen-only football team. As a result he plays some sophomores in his lineup.

Al Porter of Emerson-Hubbard said he understood Winside's situation and has no complaints as far as the use of sophomores. But one thing he did object to was Winside's use of juniors and varsity players on the squad.

During that contest Emerson had two players injured, one suffering a broken collar bone. Peterson pointed out that his players were not out to injure their opponents but some injuries are expected in the sport. "Football" does involve hitting," he said.

Porter agreed that some injuries should be expected in a good game. He pointed out, "As far as I'm concerned, I'm not worried who we play football against, just as long as we play someone."

MONDAY'S initial story on the top men's and women's bowling scores received a lot of favorable mention. I hope to continue writing about more high scores in addition to getting some feature stories on some of the area bowlers who have good nights.

One thing that should be mentioned is that several bowlers were left out of Monday's story. One was Floyd Burt, who shot a 226 in the Saturday Nite Couples league two weeks ago. Also, Dee Schulz of the Friday Nite Ladies group had a 477 series and Cleone Zach rolled a 175 in the Go Go Ladies league last week.

Wayne, Wakefield Fall In West Husker Battle

Wayne High's first-year girls volleyball team made it through the first round of the West Husker playoffs Tuesday afternoon before falling in the semi-finals rounds.

The Wayne girls defeated Madison, 15-13 and 16-14, during the eight-team tournament at Hartington Cedar Catholic High School. But the locals lost their sixth game against four wins for the year when Emerson-Hubbard delivered the final blows, 5-15 and 6-15.

"I think the girls did real well against Madison," said coach

Mavis Dalton. "It looked like a real team effort."

Wayne now advances to district action Nov. 12 at Hooper-Logan View. As yet no pairings have been released. Other teams in that district are Hooper-Logan View, Randolph, Hartington Cedar Catholic, Arlington-West Hill, Fremont Bergan, Tekamah-Herman and West Point Central Catholic.

Wakefield, also in the Husker playoffs, went down in the first round to Hartington Cedar Catholic after winning the first set, 15-8. The host team came back with 7-15 and 9-15 wins.

"Hartington caught us on their home floor," Trojanette boss Ernie Kovar said of his team's loss, dropping the club's record to 9-5. "But I don't want to take anything away from Hartington — they hardly make any mistakes."

In other first-round action, Emerson-Hubbard defeated Stanton, and Columbus Lakeview topped Wisner-Pilger to advance to the semi-finals. Lakeview also beat Hartington CC to set up a Columbus-Emerson collision Wednesday for the West Husker crown. The winner of that game will meet the East half representative next week for the conference title.

Wakefield now hosts the C-4 districts, which includes Allen, starting Nov. 12.

Elsewhere in the area, Allen completed its season with a loss to South Sioux City Tuesday night to finish its record at 3-4.

Coach Lorna Stamp's girls lost two straight varsity sets, 9-15 and 10-15. The same story held true for the reserves, who fell to the host team, 10-15 and 2-15. Winside coach Don Leighton said he was pleased with the way his girls played against Newcastle Tuesday night, although Newcastle beat his varsity club.

The Wildkittens went down in two straight, 11-15 and 2-15, for an even 7-7 record.

The reserves and freshmen teams, however, took their matches. The reserves polished off Newcastle in three sets, 15-8, 9-15 and 15-9 for a 3-9 mark after the C team claimed its fifth victory against four losses, 16-14, 8-15 and 15-3.

Winside plays Osmond today (Thursday) before heading into district play at Battle Creek. The Wildkittens are paired against Stanton in the second game on Nov. 12. Other teams in the district are Tilden Elkhorn Valley, Elgin High, Madison, Elgin Pope John, Norfolk Catholic and Battle Creek.

Laurel's A team lost Monday night to Neligh and Plainview in a triangular.

The host team fell to Neligh, 13-15 and 6-15, before Plainview added the final touches with two straight victories, 2-15 and 11-15.

The Bearettes' record is 5-4 overall and 5-3 in the conference.

The B team also went down to both clubs for a 4-8 record.

Laurel starts Northeast Nebraska Activity Conference play Monday at Pierce.

Groups, who would find an evening visit more convenient, may call the school to make arrangements.

Two years ago, when a similar project was attempted, orders for various books were taken. This year, several copies of each book will be available so orders will not be necessary.

The collection covers the latest in fiction, many non-fiction and professional books. The prices range from 95 cents to $1.25 each.

The fair, which will hopefully become an annual project, is being sponsored by the high school library and the junior class.

Drivers, Check License Date For Expiration

Wayne County residents who have not taken a driver's examination for some time are urged to check the expiration dates at the bottom of their driving licenses.

According to the records of county treasurer Leon Meyer, there are a lot of drivers in the county who are running the risk of a fine. Some, in fact, have licenses which are over a year past due.

A license, good for four years, expires on the operator's birthday during the years his age is divisible by four. Application for a new license can be made during the 90 days preceding the operator's birthday.

An eye examination and written test will be given each operator who applies for renewal of his license. Examiners may also ask him to drive for them.

Members of the Rook Club met Wednesday evening in the H. C. Falk home.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Edwin Meierhenry and Mrs. Elphia Schellenberg, high, and Mrs. Kathryn Rieck and George Wittler, low.

Next meeting will be Nov. 15 in the Edwin Meierhenry home.

Small Business Key To Economic Growth

Big businesses across the nation usually generate the big news when it comes to making economic changes. But it's the small businesses, said Don Sabbann, that make up the majority of today's economy.

Sabbann, an executive at the Dakota County State Bank in South Sioux City, pointed out that many people may forget that the small business is responsible for much of today's advancements in the business world.

"That is why Nebraska governor J. James Exon proclaimed the first two weeks in October as 'A Stand Up for Small Business Week,'" he told Wayne Kiwanians during Monday's luncheon.

"Most people consider profit a dirty word," he went on, "when it really isn't." Profit motivates a lot of small businessmen to venture into bigger business — that is one reason today's small businesses are so valuable to our economic growth, he noted.

Small businesses are the anchor of the community — they give the community drive, he emphasized, and they are the basis of free enterprise.

Sabbann labeled small businesses as the "doorway for the young and minority races" to improve themselves and achieve success.

But not every business can be a success, he cautioned. "There are high risks and sacrifices in running your own business, but the rewards are great for those who can make it."

Of the 100,000 businesses that start up each year only half survive the first 18 months of operation, and another 20 per cent fail in the first 10 years.

Sabbann said the biggest problem in a new company is poor management. "About 20 per cent of small businesses fail because of low capital," he said.

Looking to the future, Sabbann speculated that recreation will continue to be a promising field for new businesses. "People have more leisure time," he pointed out, "and want to get out of the house and do something."

Another area that seems promising, he said, is electronics. "Many of our young people are buying a lot more music and stereo equipment," he pointed out.

"But to get into a small business and keep it going, you've got to be willing to sacrifice," he reiterated.

Uncle Sam's changes in air, water standards 'very confusing'

LINCOLN — The director of Nebraska's environmental control department says he is frustrated by changes the federal government keeps making in air and water quality standards.

"It's very confusing," James L. Higgins said. But Higgins said it is his job to enforce the standards as they are handed down and he tries to do it as reasonably as possible.

The director said many persons would like to make environmental measures the scapegoat for the current energy shortage, but he said it really is only one of many reasons for the crisis.

EVEN MORE to blame, according to Higgins, is the lack of a national energy policy, failure of many industries and citizens to conserve and lack of construction codes which demand proper insulation.

Higgins said Nebraska is doing pretty well, in relation to other livestock states, in meeting feedlot waste disposal standards. In fact, he said, feedlot problems probably will be solved before municipal waste problems are taken care of.

He said the 1973 Legislature's decision to remove second class cities (those with fewer than 5,000 residents) from his department's control in regard to solid waste disposal (dumps) was "a blow to our program."

A solid waste management act which will force planning on a county-wide basis will be offered to the 1974 Legislature, he said, to bring the laws back the way he would like them.

ALTHOUGH HIS department does have authority over air and water quality, Higgins said he doesn't care to get into smell control. A decision on what stinks is a personal one, for the most part, and Higgins said he would be "very reluctant" to be the state's judge on what smells are acceptable. Feedlots, he said, are a good example. It would be difficult to raise livestock without odors.

Burning leaves, on the other hand, are considered to have a pleasant smell by most people. Nevertheless, Higgins said, leaves shouldn't be burned. The leaf fires emit carbons which deteriorate the quality of the air.

Furthermore, he said, leaf fires are dangerous in municipalities because the thick smoke is a traffic hazard and there always is a danger of the fires spreading.

Tax Rates To Be Set

The State Board of Equalization will meet early in November — the deadline is Nov. 15 — to set the rates for sales and income taxes in 1974.

Tax Commissioner William E. Peters says there is a chance the income tax rate will be lowered again. It was cut from 15 per cent to 13 per cent by the 1973 Legislature.

The reason for the rate reduction — not to be confused with a reduction in the dollars taxpayers send to Lincoln — is the effects of inflation on prices and wages.

The state is making more money from the current rates than had been expected, Peters said.

Every time wages go up, the take from the state income tax rate brings in more money from the wage-earner. The same is true, of course, when prices go up. The same sales tax rate will bring in more revenue when it's applied to purchases which cost more.

The reason it's the income tax which gets adjusted, rather than the sales tax, is that each increment (one percentage point) of income tax is smaller, lending that tax to more fine tuning.

The sales tax is adjusted in half-per cent increments, but each half-per cent involves a great deal more revenue. The state take on sales now is 2½ per cent. In Omaha and Lincoln, the only two cities which have exercised the municipal sales tax option, the rate is 3½ per cent, with the city governments getting the proceeds of the additional one per cent.

School Income Tax Possible

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly has suggested that the state consider establishing a school income tax.

Warner says a portion of the state tax rate would be dedicated to the schools and the proceeds of that portion would be sent back to the school district in which the taxpayer lives.

He said this scheme would help answer critics which say it isn't fair to use property taxes as the only measure of how well a district is able to finance its own schools.

Revenue from the local property tax and the special income tax would be used to decide whether additional state money is needed in the form of so-called equalization aid. Equalization aid now goes to those districts which have little taxable property value and lots of students to educate.

OBSERVATIONS

We could make it happen

An official of a packing plant at Dakota City made some interesting comments during a Sioux Falls television station news broadcast the other night. They are worth passing on.

He said something to the effect that people in this part of the nation should not be so concerned with attracting new industry to their towns and cities. Instead, they should be concerned with developing and promoting what we already do well. That, of course, is raising grain and feeding livestock.

He said industrial development groups should pay more attention to helping promote agriculture and agriculturally related businesses rather than trying to attract new industry, and those persons involved in lending money to farmers and feeders should try hard to make money available so they can grow and expand.

The comments have merit, we think, and should be listened to.

For instance, Wayne County feeders raise thousands of head of cattle and swine each year. And what happens to them? They are shipped away to some other town or city for slaughter. It doesn't seem unreasonable to think that a small packing plant could make a go of it close to Wayne.

At the same time as we are sending our cattle and swine elsewhere for processing, we are shipping large amounts of feed grain to other parts of the country for others to use in fattening their livestock. It seems reasonable to think it would be much better if we could keep that grain right at home to feed and finish our own livestock.

We'll admit that it's much easier to come up with those ideas than it is to come up with the steps necessary to make them a reality. But if the ideas are good ones, there are plenty of people in the area who could figure out how to make them work. What if takes is for those people — farmers, feeders, bankers, industrial development proponents, interested citizens and others — to get together and start working on making it happen.

Tips for providing cover

We've written in the past about the importance farmers play in making sure abundant wildlife continues to flourish in Northeast Nebraska. Now the Lewis and Clark Natural Resource District offers some simple, inexpensive steps farmers can take to assure abundant wildlife on their property. Those tips:

—Leave strips of uncut, ungrazed grass along streams to act as a sediment filter for runoff water.

—Leave strips of less than efficient grain along field edges so wildlife can utilize cover and food together.

—Push rocks, stumps and brush to field corners and leave it to provide winter shelter for rabbits and pheasants.

—Fence only 75 per cent of a stock pond to provide full grass cover and clear water while at the same time permitting livestock to drink with ease.

—Donate wet or alkali spots in crop fields to wildlife since they provide excellent cover.

—Plant the right vegetation: native grasses, alfalfa, sweet clover, cedars, pines, cottonwood, oaks, ash, walnut, red dogwood, chokecherry, mulberry.

—Follow good grazing management by growing shrubs with berries and harvesting with equipment that leaves cornstalks standing for winter cover.

The resource district emphasizes that following those steps not only provides wildlife with cover but also contributes to good conservation of land and water.

Now that more and more land is being put into production, farmers are going to have to be more and more concerned with providing adequate wildlife cover. Farmers should remember that they are responsible for making sure that the wildlife that existed on their land when they took it over does not disappear during their use of it.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 YEARS AGO

October 28, 1943: Brown McDonald Store in Wayne was entered Monday night by burglars who took men's clothing, luggage and some money. Mrs. J. H. Morrison succeeds Florence Evans as clerk for the draft board. Ronald, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grone, was injured Tuesday when he fell down a cave while playing at school. Rev. Mr. Henkle, Auburn, was here Wednesday evening to deliver a trial sermon at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Ray Kelley, Carroll, suffered a broken right leg Saturday when he slipped and fell while working in the yard at his home. All the oil mat has been laid on the highway south of town and half of the armor coating has been completed. If the weather permits, the construction job will be finished next week. Light rains fell Saturday and delayed corn picking for many people that day. A Chamber of Commerce committee met Tuesday evening to initiate plans for pre-Christmas activities.

25 YEARS AGO

October 28, 1948: Itinerary of the forthcoming WOW farmers' trip to Europe, with Albert R. Watson, Wayne, and Senator Morris Schroeder, Hoskins, included in the 25-man midwestern farmer group, was revealed this week. All is in readiness for the third annual employer-employee party to be staged in the city auditorium tonight. The tavern in Hoskins owned by Jim Friend was broken into early Saturday morning, but apparently nothing was taken. The Edwin Morris and Charles Sieckman cars collided at the corner of Second and Sherman Thursday noon, upsetting the Sieckman machine. No one was injured. An exhaust spark from a tractor being used for corn picking is thought to have caused the fire which destroyed about two acres of corn on the Orville Nelson farm northwest of Wayne Monday afternoon. The Wayne fire department helped extinguish the blaze. Defective wiring was thought to have been the cause of a fire which threatened the Coed Theater building early Saturday morning.

15 YEARS AGO

November 6, 1958: D. E. Davis, Carroll, won the first weekly trucker prize of $50 in the Sioux City pork days program last Monday. County Agent Harold Ingalls will present a show on the pros and cons of the Nov. 25 national corn referendum over Sioux City television Tuesday noon. Wayne High debators won four of six rounds in the Omaha Tech High School debate tournament Saturday. About 100 persons visited the NE Nebraska Experiment farm Thursday afternoon at Concord to learn how concrete buildings can be constructed by the fill-up method. Wayne's United Council of Church Women will sponsor World Community Day services at 2 p.m. Friday at Redeemer Lutheran Church. WSTC's orchestra, directed by Eugene Helm, will present its fall concert at 8 p.m. Monday at the city auditorium. Harold Diehm became the first contestant to repeat as a winner of The Wayne Herald's football contest this week.

10 YEARS AGO

October 31, 1963: Loren Park, Wayne City School elementary principal, was elected president of the District III department of elementary principals at the District III teachers' convention in Norfolk last week. Mike Karel, Wayne, is a member of a quartet singing major roles in the performance of "Music Man" which is the first production of the season for the University of Nebraska Theater.

Out of Old

Blacksmiths in Early Nebraska

Of all the craftsmen in the early Nebraska scene, perhaps none were more important than the blacksmiths. Much of their work involved the shoeing of horses and oxen, but this was only one of the tasks performed by these highly skilled workmen. They also fabricated a host of common household items as well as entire wagons, carriages, or sleighs, and they could repair virtually all types of machinery then in use on the frontier.

The smith's raw material, iron, demanded a sense of timing and a kind of resolution which perhaps set him apart from other men who worked with their hands. It required very special skills to produce functional beauty from a substance so difficult to work with.

The 1885 Nebraska Gazetteer and Business Directory, on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society, lists more than 700 blacksmiths in the state.

HAZEL SORESEN WAKEFIELD

Virtually every community could claim one or more blacksmith shops, which, with the general store, the post office, and newspaper served as bulwarks of frontier society. Although the horse is most often associated with transportation in the 19th century, oxen were also used extensively, especially for the more arduous tasks. Because of its cloven hoof, the ox required a different type of shoe than did the horse, and the beast's bulk demanded a different technique on the part of the blacksmith. Fred Graves of Raymond, Neb., in an interview conducted by the Federal Writers Project in 1941, described the process:

"The ox was shoved into its place in a frame built for the purpose and brought to its knees. The hoof turned up and the beast tied down with ropes, the smith began his work of shoeing the front feet. This accomplished, he would put a heavy wide canvas under its middle and, with a windlass, lift the big animal off its hind feet. Thus he would make ready to shoe the hind feet. Kneeling, he would fit the shoe, rising and making several trips to the forge and anvil to fit it perfectly to split hoof."

The turn of the century saw the beginning of a decline in the number of practicing blacksmiths, and between 1900 and 1930 innovations in manufacturing, transportation, and communications made nearly obsolete not only the blacksmith but many of the kinds of articles that had been in demand during the 19th century. Today, there are few blacksmiths still plying their trade as they did in the past, and the sight of a smithy shoeing horses is apt to draw a crowd.

The role of the pioneer smithy lives on in museums such as the restored blacksmith shop at Steele City, a National Register site in Jefferson County. Built by J. W. Peters in 1900, it includes many typical tools and equipment used by a frontier smithy. Although blacksmiths are no longer common, their importance to the history and development of Nebraska has not been forgotten. The Steele City blacksmith shop may be visited by tourists.

Thone writes 'We must put attention on rural health care crisis'

By CONG. CHARLES THONE

About a third of Nebraska's 92 counties have two or fewer physicians. There are no physicians in 14 Cornhusker State counties, which is 10 per cent of the counties in the nation without doctors. Eight Nebraska counties have one physician each, and 10 counties have only two each.

National attention to the growing crisis in rural health care is urgently needed.

The lack of medical personnel within reasonable distances is even more distressing when we realize that one person in four in rural areas in the nation is poor, compared with one of eight in cities and one of 15 in suburbs.

WITH OTHER MEMBERS of Congress and in consultation with the American Medical Association, I have introduced a bill that would authorize a serious federal effort to help rural areas attract the services of doctors, nurses, dentists and other health personnel.

Our bill would establish an Office of Rural Health within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In the past there have been scattered programs that have helped the health needs of rural areas. For example, a program of the National Health Service Corps has provided physicians for one community in Nebraska's First Congressional District. Our proposed legislation, however, would be the first comprehensive program for rural health needs.

MOST LIKELY, some counties in western Nebraska have never had physicians. Records going back to 1940 show that certain counties in our state have not had a doctor in residence since that time. It isn't feasible to have a physician in every county in the United States.

What is feasible is to provide most imaginative ways of bringing health care to people, or people to health care. Our proposed legislation would underwrite development of better transportation and communication for health purposes, part-time use of physicians and other health personnel, improved use of medical personnel working under the guidance of physicians and development of emergency care and self-help methods.

THE BILL PROVIDES for research into these problems at the national level. It also provides for loans and grants for innovative programs in specific rural areas. Any demonstration projects funded would have to be developed with the view of becoming self-supporting within three years.

The Office of Rural Health would also coordinate all other federal programs that might aid rural people. Our bill provides that the office would report back to Congress annually on the effectiveness of its program.

In Nebraska, more than half of the non-federal physicians practice in Douglas County (Omaha). It is obvious to me that steps are needed to make health care more accessible to rural people.

'Wayne is what we would like our city to be'

Dallas, Tex.

Dear Editor:

During September, my wife, Marion, and I spent several days in Wayne, as her brother, John F. Barr, had passed away in Omaha and was buried in Wayne, where he had been in business for a number of years.

While in Wayne, we saw quite a bit of the community and the college. We were amazed to find such clean streets; well-maintained homes, yards and college grounds. Wayne gave us the impression that it is the type of town we would like ours to be.

We are sure that the friendliness of the many friends of the family, and the way they all pitched in to aid and assist Mrs. Jessie Barr at a time when she most needed empathy and understanding, is more than one could ever expect in Dallas or probably any large city. The good people of Wayne brought in food and worked so hard at making things as easy as possible for us.

We felt that all the people in Wayne should know that two Texans, at least, are so very pleased with everything we encountered over a four-day period that we spent in your outstanding city. We obtained a very good education and have had our faith in humanity restored. Thank you for your many kindnesses, and we hope to again visit Wayne under more normal circumstances.

We hope that you are able to put this in your paper, as we have no way of thanking so many deserving people.

Work Is Underway At Site of New Store

Grading, dirt hauling and tree and stump removal began Monday morning at the site of the future Lueders GW Store on the east edge of Wayne.

The independently owned store, to feature a full line of groceries and an in-store bakery, will be operated by William Lueders Sr. and William J. Lueders Jr., who currently run Bill's Market Basket on Main Street.

The Market Basket will be closed when the new store opens early in 1974, according to the owners.

About 25 persons will be employed in the new firm, several times as many as now work at the Market Basket, said the younger Lueders.

The GW store will be located on half a city block across the street south of Gibson's store. The building, to cover 10,000 square feet, will feature a northwest corner entrance with parking on the north and west for 50 to 60 cars. Five empty houses which now sit on the building site, will have to be razed and moved.

Work is expected to continue throughout the winter, with completion estimated for sometime in the spring, according to Lueders.

The William Lueders family has operated Bill's Market Basket on Main Street about 15 years.

Mrs. Elmer Whitford Presents Demonstration

Chattersew Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Dwight Johnson with nine members attending. Mrs. Elmer Whitford was a guest and demonstrated the making of bead rope necklaces.

Honey orders were taken from members for Honey Sunday. Plans were made to assemble packages to send to two servicemen who are sons of club members. Each member is asked to bring candy or cookies to the November meeting for the packages. The door prize was won by Mrs. Leland Sawtell.

Next meeting will be Nov. 16 in the Basil Wheeler home.

TESTING WATER WELLS

Some well water tests sent in from Wayne County have shown higher than normal concentrations of nitrate-nitrogen. High concentrations of nitrates can be harmful to human health, but unfortunately there are people that try to take advantage of this situation.

I would like to quote the following statement from the State Department of Health. "It has come to the attention of the Department of Health that certain persons or organizations are selling or offering for sale chlorinators to Nebraska farmers claiming that chlorination will remove nitrates from their water supplies. In some cases, these agents 'test' the water for nitrates and claim high readings even when nitrates are not found."

Chlorination is a proven and effective procedure for destruction of harmful micro-organisms in water. However, it should be emphasized that chlorination will not remove nitrates, and the health department warns farmers not to buy chlorinators. They hope thereby to remove nitrates from their water supply.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"There is no pleasure without a tinge of sadness."

Hatz Probably most of us would like to sample a life of unending pleasure, completely devoid of sadness. However, common sense tells us that at least a little bitterness and disappointment must be expected, if only to give us perspective and enable us to enjoy more fully the pleasures that are sure to follow in the normal course of events.

It has been said that we never do anything for the first time without a trace of sadness. No matter how pleasant, or how unpleasant, it may be, the realization that we shall never again have that experience leaves us a little saddened.

Our consideration for people and our sincere desire to provide help for those under emotional stress are the foundation of our unexcelled service to this community.

STALK ROT

Stalk rot in corn is of some concern every year, but it seems to be of even more importance this year.

There is no "cure" for stalk rot, but there are some practices that will help reduce the amount of the disease for next year:

1. Use hybrids whose past performance has been satisfactory for stalk strength, resistance to root and stalk rot, maturity and yield. Resistance to other corn diseases and insect pests should also be considered.
2. Do not exceed plant populations recommended by the seed corn company for the varieties selected.
3. Take soil samples to determine nutrient requirements of the crop to be grown. Do not use excessive amounts of nitrogen.
4. When possible, plant hybrids that utilize the fall growing season.

DON'T BURN THOSE LEAVES

Don't burn those leaves, but instead make a compost pile for use in your garden.

One way to make a compost pile is to place alternate layers of organic matter and soil in a pile four to five feet wide and no more than five feet high. The soil layer should be two to three inches thick and the organic layer six inches thick.

Add to the soil one half pound of complete fertilizer, such as 5-10-5 and one fourth pound of superphosphate.

Moisten each layer as it is placed in the pile. After a couple of months, turn the pile by cutting down from one end in thin slices and pile it in a new place.

Repeat the process a month later and by next spring the compost can be worked into the garden soil to improve the soil structure.

"Bread is the best advice to give the hungry" (Russian Proverb)

Farm Fertilizer Storage Can Be Safety Problem

Farmers purchasing fertilizer this fall and storing it on the farm to hedge against a possible shortage next spring should exercise extreme hazards, says a University of Nebraska Extension safety specialist.

Rollin D. Schnieder urged farmers to take a good look at the type of fertilizer and the way in which it is stored to avoid possible problems.

Vet Warns Farmers About Cattle Scab

Cattle scab, a disease that is capable of causing losses of $25-$90 or more per head, has again invaded Nebraska, warns University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension veterinarian Dr. Alex Hogg.

The current outbreak of scab in cattle was discovered by

Staff Member At NE Station Picked for Post

Glady's Stout, extension home economist at the Northeast Station east of Concord, has been named secretary treasurer of the home economists section of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Association.

She and other section officers were named at the organization's annual meeting in Grand Island Friday.

The association is composed of cooperative extension service staff members at the state, district and county levels.

Named president of the association was Mrs. Twyla Lidolph, Lancaster County extension home economist.

Now Good Time To Feed Trees

Either after the leaves have fallen from a shade tree or just when new ones appear in the next growing season are the two times when it is best to feed trees with fertilizer, and the job should be done once a year, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

The nursery professionals provide these instructions to make the results more effective. Feed the shade tree when the ground is damp. Use a crowbar or some similar tool to make a circle of holes in the ground about 18 inches apart, ideally eight to 12 inches deep, under the tree at about the point of the end of the longest limbs. Put two or three tablespoons of fertilizer in each hole, top them off with soil, and the job is done.

The process assures two benefits. The fertilizer is applied near to the root of the tree where it will do the most good, and it is beneath the level of grass roots to avoid over abundant growth where it is not desired.

Nebraska regulatory officials in August and involves only a few large feedlots in northeast Nebraska.

Last year's outbreak in the southwestern United States — should serve as incentive for Nebraska producers to watch for the disease, he notes.

When the highly contagious disease is discovered, regulatory officials quarantine the involved herds or feedlots and begin a program of dipping the animals in an approved insecticide, Hogg explains.

Cattle scabies, commonly called scab, mange, itch and barn itch, is a skin disease caused by tiny parasitic mites living on or in the skin. There are four species of mites that affect cattle in this country. Of these four, USDA officials are especially concerned about psoroptic cattle scabies, Hogg says.

Psoroptic mange mites live on the surface of the skin and cause scabs to form. The scabs are small at first, but grow to cover large areas of skin. These lesions usually occur on the shoulders, top of the neck, or around the tail head.

The feeding activities of the mites cause an intense itching, so the affected animals persistently lick themselves, rub and scratch. Cattle may lie down and roll over in attempts to relieve the severe itching. Highly contagious, the disease will spread rapidly through a cattle herd.

Another skin condition that may resemble scabies is ringworm. Ringworm is a fungus disease which may have a similar appearance, but does not produce the intense itching seen in scabies. Ringworm is also common on the face and head — areas not usually affected by scabies.

If a cattleman suspects his cattle are infected with scabies, he should have his local veterinarian make a diagnosis. Mange mites can be collected from the edge of the lesions, then sent to State or Federal regulatory veterinarians to confirm the diagnosis.

The approved treatment for scabies is dipping in toxaphene solutions. Dippings should be repeated at 10 to 12 day intervals to destroy young mites that have hatched from eggs after a previous treatment.

Although scabies does not kill cattle, the animals eat poorly because of the irritation produced by the mites. Weight gains are reduced, or there may even be weight loss, resulting in higher production costs.

Meat quality and wholesome ness are not affected by scabies, Hogg adds, but since the disease is highly contagious a major outbreak would result in slowed production, therefore, high production costs.

Soldier From Winside Gets Commendation

Specialist Four Stephen Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Carlson of Winside, has received the Army Commendation Medal during ceremonies at Fort Carson, Colo.

Carlson earned the award for exceptionally meritorious achievement by saving a life while on leave from the 517th Medical Co. at Fort Carson.

According to his citation, on June 12 while in the Epply Airfield Terminal Building at Omaha, awaiting a flight back to Colorado Springs, Carlson came to the aid of an elderly woman who appeared to be suffering from a heart attack. Through mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, he was able to revive the heart attack victim until the rescue squad arrived on the scene.

A medical corpsman, Carlson entered the Army in January of 1972 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. The 21-year-old soldier graduated from Winside High School in 1970 and attended Wayne State College.

TAKE CARE ON TRICK OR TREAT

When witches ride broomsticks and your youngsters parade as goblins and ghosts we would like to offer some advice. Please tell them not to eat any of the treats they collect until they get home and you have had a chance to inspect them.

Unfortunately, every year we hear about people giving drugs or poisons to children for candy. If you do not recognize something your child has brought home destroy it at once if you are in the least bit suspicious. If candy is in liquid form be sure it is sealed in such a way that nothing could have been added.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.
