Wayne High Band Bound for 1974 Cotton Bowl Parade

Wayne High School's marching band is bowl-bound. The band will take part in the Cotton Bowl Parade at Dallas on Jan. 1, according to band director Ron Dalton.

expected today, (Monday), according to Dalton. The band, the first local band ever to march in a major college football parade, will leave Wayne for Dallas either Dec. 27 or 28 and return Jan. 2 or 3 following the Nebraska-Texas football game in the Cotton Bowl.

travel, lodging and expenses to and from the parade, Dalton noted. Several fund-raising activities have been discussed by students, Dalton noted, and others will be planned within the next few days.

and the like, according to Dalton. If the money is raised, 90 to 95 band students and 10 to 12 sponsors will make the trek to Dallas, according to Dalton. Three charter buses will be used for the 1,200-mile round trip, he said.

County Okays SLAP, Hears Bid for Providing Law Protection to Towns

Wayne County commissioners Tuesday passed a resolution committing the county to participate in SLAP — Selective Localized Accident Prevention. The county's approval of the resolution makes the accident prevention program a county-wide one and comes shortly after the approval to participate by the city of Wayne.

provide police protection to rural communities in the county through the sheriff's office. Meeting with the commissioners to discuss the subject were Herman Opfer and George Langenberg, both of Hoskins, and Howard McLain and Phil Olafson, both of Carroll. Present during discussion of the possibility of providing the law protection by hiring additional deputy sheriffs was county sheriff Don Weible.

possibly through the state crime commission, if commissioners decide to go ahead with the idea. Several other counties in the state have started offering law enforcement to small communities through their sheriff's offices because the small towns are unable to hire their own law officials, Weible said.

Last year the marching band from Wisner-Pilger made the trip to Miami, one of the two bands to take part in the Orange Bowl Parade. That community raised more than $20,000 to send the band to the parade after a goal of about $12,000 had been established.

City: Keep Sidewalks Scooped This Winter Or You'll Get Billed

City officials are urging all residents to keep their walks, off-street parking areas and the like clear from snow this winter. Sidewalks must be cleared of snow within 24 hours after a storm or the city will clear the walks and bill the property owner, city clerk Dan Sherry notes.

Red Skelton March Is On WS Concert Agenda

The Wayne State College concert band will present a fall concert Thursday night, including in its program a march by comedian Red Skelton and another number directed by a senior music major. Dr. Jay O'Leary, director, describes the Skelton work, titled "Red, White and Blue March," as "a serious piece of music and quite difficult to play." Music major Carter Leeka of Omaha will direct "Poika and Fuguo" by Weinberger. The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theater of the Fine Arts Center. One major work Dr. O'Leary chose for the program is "Chester," an overture for band based on Williams Billings' "Hymn and Marching Song of the American Revolution." It was composed by William Schuman, president of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York. Among those in the band are two students from Wayne and two from Concord. They are Jeri Hanzlik, clarinet, and Sue Sutherland, alto saxophone, both of Wayne, and Susan Stohler, flute, and Shelley Creamer, bass clarinet, both of Concord.

Governmental Agencies in County Decrease

For its size, does Wayne County have more or fewer governmental agencies than other counties? How many of these administrative bodies, with power to pass rules and regulations affecting local residents, are there in the county? A comparison of the local governmental structure with that found in other sections of the county is made possible through a report on the subject recently released by the Department of Commerce. It is called "Governmental Organization."

The data for it was gathered from all parts of the county in connection with the 1972 Census of Governments. The findings indicate that, in many areas, community affairs are being directed less and less by county municipal and township governments and more and more by autonomous or semi-autonomous subdivisions.

Meeting on Scholarships Is Tuesday

Last Tuesday's freezing rain forced officials at Wayne High School to postpone the meeting to explain, financial aid and scholarships to parents of seniors planning to attend school beyond high school.

Aim of WSC Talk: Motivating Students To Use Libraries

Of interest to librarians and teachers, Wayne State's Conn Library will host a talk Wednesday on how to motivate students for better use of encyclopedias and reference materials. Gary Hudson, WSC reference librarian, said the talk at 6:30 p.m. in Conn Library will range from elementary grades through college level. Speaker is Mrs. Alice Richardson, educational consultant for Encyclopaedia Britannica. Besides her comments on use of reference materials, Mrs. Richardson will explain the process of making reference works accurate and up-to-date.

Young Girl Victim of Gun Mishap

An eight-year-old rural Wayne girl was buried Saturday afternoon, the victim of a shooting accident at her home southwest of Wayne Thanksgiving evening. She was Jan Marie Spiltgerber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spiltgerber, who live four miles west and nine and a half south of Wayne.

She was dead on arrival at the Wayne Hospital after her mother brought her there moments after the shooting accident in the basement of the Spiltgerber home, according to the Wayne County sheriff's office.

The accident happened when Jan's 10-year-old brother was showing her how a 4-10 gauge shotgun operated, according to reports. The gun went off, striking the girl in the upper right arm and lower right chest, officials said.

Her mother brought her to the local hospital about 7:50 Thursday evening. Services were held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne with the Rev. Donliver Peterson officiating. Interment was at Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Serving as pallbearers were Marvin Dragu, Arnold Junck, Delmar Heithold, Dale Franzen, Roger Johanson and Doug Lage. Organist was Mrs. Norman Meyer.

Jan Marie Spiltgerber was born April 22, 1965 at Wakefield.

Survivors include her parents; a brother, Joel, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. August Dorman and Mrs. Alma Spiltgerber, all of Wayne.

Local, Area Musicians To Perform on NETV

More than 700 top high school musicians will participate in a special program, "Nebraska Music Educators Concert," Tuesday at 7 p.m. on stations of the Nebraska Educational Television Network. The 500-voice chorus and the band and orchestra, each composed of over 100 musicians, represent high schools from throughout the state. Finalists were selected through local competition to attend the annual music clinic.

WSC Getting Early Jump On 3rd Term

Looking months ahead, Wayne State will open registration for the 1974 third term Monday, continuing through Dec. 5. Third term is scheduled from April 24 through June 14. Mrs. Virginia Wright, registrar, said the early registration is intended to give an indication of students' course needs and to help the administration anticipate staffing requirements. Mrs. Wright said registration for the third term is hot-binding, in case students find they cannot attend. However, she urged them to sign up now even though their plans are not definite. It is not likely there will be apathy advance registration before third term, she said. Enrollment for second term, which opens in January, had an excellent response before pre-registration closed Wednesday. See 3rd TERM, page 7.

Frozen Into Place

TUESDAY NIGHT'S rain and freezing temperatures created some unusual and beautiful effects in the Wayne area. Among them, a strand of grass frozen against a strand of barbed wire and a canopy of ice along a fence row near Concord. The storm also caused power outages and other problems for area residents. Turn to page 9 for a story and other pictures.

Local Bank Urges Shoppers: Try Wayne First

First National Bank of Wayne has kicked off a "Try Wayne First" program to encourage local and area residents to do their Christmas shopping in Wayne. "We think shopping at home is important," said Bob Reeg, assistant cashier at First National. "Wayne stores carry more and better merchandise every year. Today, practically any item that can be found in larger cities can be found right here in Wayne," he noted. Reeg cited the benefits to the local economy of shopping at home, mentioning the indirect value of keeping dollars in the local economy, providing more jobs and encouraging the growth and development of new stores and shopping areas. As part of the program, local merchants will see "TRY WAYNE FIRST" page 7.

'News coverage was lacking'

Dear Editor:
We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Wayne-Carrill school board and the administration for giving us support in our effort to attain girls' sports. It has been an experience we will never forget.

We also would like to thank Mrs. Ron Dalton, our coach, for the time and effort she gave to this experiment. It could be a success. Our fans were really great, too, and we appreciated their loyal support throughout the season.

We wish, however, that we could say the same about the newspaper. Why didn't the Wayne volleyball team receive the same amount of coverage as other area teams? This was the first year for any competitive girls' sport at Wayne High, and you would think that this in itself would be enough to write a story about.

A 5-7 season is surprisingly good, considering the head start all other area teams have had. We succeeded in getting to the second round in both the West Husker and the Class B district tournaments. Enroute to this, we defeated the third seeded team in each tournament, which is good for a first-year team.

After this fine showing by the Wayne team, Wakefield got the headline. When I looked through the paper the first time, I thought you hadn't gotten the story yet. But after reading the story under the Wakefield headline, I happened to find the story on Wayne's team. How much "closer to home" could you get? You'd think a hometown newspaper would be interested in what the hometown team was doing. There are some people in Wayne who are interested in what the team did, and they should be entitled to a story on the game.

Would it be too hard to put a picture of

'Costume party was lot of fun'

Dear Editor:
As overall costume winner at the Halloween costume party at the theater, I want to thank you for helping sponsor it. It was a lot of fun.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Karen won the costume party sponsored annually by Gay Theatre, the Morning Shopper and The Wayne Herald.)

'Thanks for using our series on high food prices'

Dear Editor:
I greatly appreciate receiving copies of the series on food prices. It is really nice to see a newspaper use our material to this extent.

I do have a small request, though. If possible, could you send me at least one copy of the three articles that were continued from the front page. These were the second, third and fourth in the series. I would like to send a copy of each article to the authors and to the housewives included in the last article.

Again, thank you for running the articles and I hope to hear from you soon about the copies. It really does wonders for the ego to see this type of use of our stories.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Front pages of the issues carrying the four-part series on how housewives can stretch their food dollars were sent to Robin Hadfield, editorial associate at the Department of Agricultural Communications at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She prepared the series in cooperation with extension specialists at NU.)

OBSERVATIONS

It just makes sense

We compliment the First National Bank on its decision to sponsor a "Try Wayne First" program during the Christmas-holiday season.

Aim of the program is to emphasize on local and area shoppers the importance of shopping in Wayne stores rather than going outside the city to buy Christmas presents.

The bank is correct when it says the dollars spent in local stores do a lot more good than many people realize. They keep circulating locally rather than going into bank accounts in some distant community. They help pay salaries for employees and taxes for schools and roads. They help businesses improve their stores, provide better services, stock better items and keep prices competitive with those in large cities. The bank's program isn't aimed at the team in action along with a write-up? If it's a problem of not being able to get to the game, the annual staff would be glad to lend the paper a picture to use. Maybe next year we can look forward to some improvements in the coverage of our team.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We apologize to those people who feel we were unfair in covering Wayne High's girls' volleyball this year. If we were, it was completely unintentional. Several times we tried to photograph girls' volleyball games, but we usually failed in getting a good picture of the action. It's a difficult sport to photograph, more difficult than basketball or football, for instance. The newspaper was in much the same position as the girls themselves in that covering girls' sports extensively was a new experience for us. If we failed to equal the record the local team managed during its initial season, we vow to try harder next season.)

Dear Editor:
It sure is amazing to me that an incident which happened in Drake, N. D., should receive national television coverage and be commented upon by the editor of The Wayne Herald. I refer to the editorial "One More Black Eye" in which the Herald editor criticizes the Drake school board for burning books considered by the board as containing obscene language.

As I understand the situation, the books in question were required reading in a class taught by a teacher in the Drake school system. The school board took its action upon the request of some students and parents, who were protesting the obscene language in the books.

The Herald editor said "it's a sad state of affairs when a group which admits its provincialism can decide what books should be read by students." I presume that the Drake school board does not suppose it can determine all the reading material of students out of school. But it is my understanding that citizens in any community, when elected to the local school board, do have opportunity and responsibility to know what books are used and made required reading by school teachers. If it turns out that required books are objectionable to a majority of the citizens, then elected officials have the responsibility to see that those books are removed from the curriculum.

The latest ruling of the United States Supreme Court on pornography and obscenity recognizes that community standards vary and therefore local, not national, standards must prevail in deciding what is pornography and obscene. Why should the Drake, N. D., school board be maligned if they responded to citizen request that the objectionable books not be required reading?

I am one Midwesterner who doesn't feel he got a black eye because of what happened in Drake. Rather, public servants should be supported when they attempt to stem the rising tide of obscenity in our nation.

Did you know, to carry natural gas from the places where it is produced to the places where it is needed in this country, more than 225,000 miles of large diameter pipelines have been constructed. If you put all these lengths together in a single line, they'd come pretty close to the moon. And if you counted all the smaller gas distribution pipes as well, it's almost enough for two round trips. The American Gas Association.

A closer look...

By Norvin Hansen

THIS IS a story about Dr. Cecil Brent, the world famous brain surgeon at the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Brent is also known as Cecil Dumbrowski, an alias he uses when the occasion calls for it.

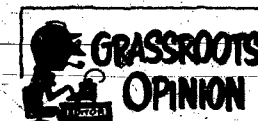

Dr. Brent is also known as Lyle Garvin, the local businessman, manufacturer, inventor, coach's friend, and, last but not least, practical joker.

Garvin picked up the name of Dr. Brent when he and some friends went to North Bend to watch a Notre Dame football game. It turned out they couldn't get into a high classed eating place because of the long line of people waiting for tables. Garvin walked up to the front of the line, started talking to somebody, and pretty soon a man in a tuxedo came out and led him and the others up to one of the best tables in the house. They even plugged in a telephone and put it on the table right beside Garvin.

Garvin got the table by telling them he was a brain surgeon out of the Mayo Clinic and was expecting a call any moment since he was a consultant on a brain operation in progress.

One of the best practical jokes Garvin ever pulled was the time he set up a couple local guys for a sweet corn escapade. He planned it all out in advance, and when the four of them got into the field, a couple angry farmers suddenly appeared and started blasting away with their shotguns and cussing the whole bunch out for stealing their sweet corn. When those shotguns started booming and the pellets started rattling on the corn leaves, some guys started heading down the corn rows with about the same fitness as a bull elephant trying to get away from a forest fire.

Not noted for being cheap when setting somebody up, Garvin once called up the Las Vegas sheriff and talked him into arresting the Wayne County sheriff when he stepped off the airplane after arriving there for some doings.

Bethelville, Minn. Record Review: "We have been told that the government is going to put a lot of money into a new rocket and... rumor has it that it will be named the 'Civil Servant'... you can't fire it... it won't work... and it'll cost the taxpayers a fortune."

Crooksville, Roseville Messenger: "The soaring rise in prices reminds us that inflation is like flirting with a girl... By the time you become alarmed, there doesn't seem to be anything you can do about it... The price of beef is so high, for example, that cows are no longer being branded; they're being engraved."

CENTREVILLE, ALA., PRESS: "Excellence in education is not so much teaching a child what to think, but how to think, so that he goes on seeking, choosing, and thinking, so developing the persistent habit of inquiry and reasoning, and if, years later, the knowledge he has acquired in school has become irrelevant to his purpose, dated or forgotten, he still has the ability to acquire new knowledge, to understand events more clearly and to adapt himself to new circumstances. Quality education is not just providing information, it is developing wiser minds."

Selma, Ala., Times-Journal: "Yesterday, historically speaking, Americans were promised a chicken in every pot and a car in every garage—and, for the most part, they got them. Today, however, the pot more and more frequently is empty, as, thanks to the crazy laws of economics (or men's fooling with them), as for the garage, more and more frequently it's full as a gasoline shortage threatens to turn the internal combustion engine into a decorator item. Thus we come full circle and tomorrow's smart politician may well promise Americans a chicken in every pot and a car that runs in every garage. As someone once said, political promises are like summer television—runs of the same old show. Almost, but with just enough difference to make life interesting."

Don't know if that joke ever came off, but one which did was when Garvin put an ad in a local publication for one of the fishermen. People were to call him — after something like 11 p.m. — and he would pay a high price for Clorox jugs. The price must have been higher than the jugs sold for at the store because there were plenty of late night calls, so many the guy got so mad he quit answering his phone.

Way back when Garvin had his store just off main street he set up a young guy working for him. Garvin and a friend staged a vicious argument, and then Garvin blasted away several times with a starter's pistol. When the young guy ran in from the front shop, there was Garvin's friend spread-eagled on the floor with blood all over him. The young guy screamed a couple times, then raced out of the store for the police department. The blood turned out to be ketchup.

One other time he and some friends made a coach nearly miss his team's game in the state basketball tournament. It so happened that they bought the guy a bus ticket and put him on the bus after a night out on the town. The guy had to call his wife and have her drive somewhere out west to pick him up so he could get back to coach his team in the game.

Old Garvin's noted for his inventions just about as much as he is for his practical jokes. He once invented a basketball pole and bandboard which collapsed out of the way when it wasn't being used. He ended up running an advertisement offering different lengths of pole for sale after the thing collapsed completely one day.

Then there was the invention he came up with for drivers who fall asleep at the wheel. It was a band that fit around your head, and every time you dozed off and your head fell forward or to the side, a mercury cell set off a buzzer.

The thing worked, according to the guys who saw him demonstrate it, but he didn't have it on when he apparently dozed off and rammed his pickup off the road west of Wayne the other night.

Now old Dr. Brent, the world famous brain surgeon out of the Mayo Clinic, is in a hospital bed in Sioux City trying to recover. Would bet he's putting just as much effort into hatching up some new practical jokes to spring as soon as he gets out of there.

ROADEO TESTS SKILLS
Once every year some of the nation's top professional truck drivers get together and compete for honors and prizes in the National Truck Roadeo, a contest of knowledge, safety and driving skills. To be eligible to enter the Roadeo, drivers must have a perfect driving record for at least one full calendar year prior to the event.

All competition at a national roadeo is based on the knowledge and skill required of professional drivers in their daily work.

Contestants first undergo oral and written examinations designed to evaluate knowledge of safe driving rules and regulations, trucking industry, first aid and fire fighting.

Drivers then inspect a vehicle with built-in defects; just as they would ordinarily check some 79 items on their own vehicles. Drivers are judged not only on ability to locate the defects but also efficiency of inspection. Driving over an obstacle course and maneuvering vehicles through prescribed situations is the highlight of the roadeo. Contesters driving semi-trailers must be able to park their 40-foot rig in a 44-foot space, deftly placing the huge vehicle no more than six inches from the curb.

Duplicating the feat of holding his vehicle to a pencil-straight line on the pavement, drivers must guide their trucks through a double row of small rubber balls, balanced on tees, with a two-inch clearance on either side of his wheels.

Judges for the event are traffic and safety experts from the trucking and insurance industries, Interstate Commerce Commission, U.S. Department of Transportation, and various state police forces and highway departments.

Winners of the event receive trophies and cash prizes, not to mention the prestige of being tops in their field.

New Look for 1974 Christmas Fair

The emphasis will be on fun at the First United Methodist Christmas fair this year, according to Mrs. Richard Keidel, Mrs. Keidel, Mrs. Bob Swanson and Mrs. Al Ehlers are general chairmen for the annual event, which will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the church fellowship hall. Shoppers should use the north door of the church.

A new look will be created this year as workers don festive red and white checked gingham aprons and hostesses wear coordinating red and white gingham dresses to carry out a central theme.

This year, eight separate merchandise divisions will be contained in a separate, appropriately decorated booth.

Shoppers may leave their preschool youngsters at the MYF baby sitting center in the church basement while they shop, and will be tempted by pie and coffee which will be served throughout the day in the adjoining church parlor.

Lunch of hot turkey sandwiches, relish, pie and coffee will be offered at $1.75 from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Two new types of merchandise have been added for the fair this year. Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mrs. Ivan Frese will be in charge of attic treasurers, where buyers will find everything from sheet music to antiques. The attic treasurers will be displayed on the stage at the back of the fellowship hall, where browsers won't be bothered by other busy shoppers.

Also new this year will be the gardening booth. Here shoppers will find a place to sit down and relax as they choose from assorted seeds, slips, plants and pots which will be arranged around a decorative fountain. Chairmen is Mrs. Al Ehlers.

Candy, cookies, cakes, pies, rolls, jellies and other baked and canned items will be found at the country store. Mrs. Terry Trube and Mrs. Derald Hamm are chairmen.

The stitchery booth, with a special department for tiny tots, will contain all hand-sewn, crocheted and knitted items. Chairmen are Mrs. Larry Thompson, Mrs. Bill Sharpe and Mrs. Craig Tiedtke.

In the craft boutique, arranged by Mrs. Bob Porter and Mrs. Chuck Thompson, will be shell work, decoupage, crackle art, plaques and the like.

Mrs. Deryl Lawrence and Mrs. Niel Edmunds will have charge of the cookbook section. Loose leaf cookbooks in hard binders have been compiled by the local Methodist women and, in addition, to new recipes, contain recipes from the last Methodist Women's cookbook published in 1972. These will be sold for $3 each. Blank recipe cards will also be available.

Youngsters will have fun at the grab bag booth, where 50 cents will buy a surprise gift. Mrs. Jerry Kohl is chairman.

The Christmas booth, set up by Mrs. Bob Sutherland and Mrs. Jay Lisa, will contain all the popular Christmas items, sure to put customers in the Christmas mood and enhance their own holiday decor.

Really work

'It's A Nice View'

Oh, women's lib! Everyone's been talking about it for a couple of years now, and here I am, still on the fence. I certainly have to agree that women have some legitimate gripes in the areas of equal pay work. And being a working mother I do go along with the idea that there is progress to be made in the field of child care. I am certain there is more to life than bridge clubs and rummage sales. BUT, I just don't believe the lib movement is God's answer to the 20th century woman's plea!

In fact I'm sure of it after witnessing two, barely-out-of-diapers female libbers in action at a recent women's meeting. The pair of self-assured banner carriers sat quietly back, enjoying their newly found sophistication during the business meeting. And as the guest speaker — a man — made the scene, the libbers assumed an attitude of hungry felines preparing to pounce.

Well versed in the art of entrapment, the gals hiked up their pant suits and lay in wait. At his first pause for breath, libber number one demanded, "How many people do you employ?"

Libber number two followed close behind with "How many of these employees are women, and what jobs do they hold other than menial secretarial ones?"

And when the question and answer session OFFICIALLY got underway they really let loose!

He was truly a gentleman of the old school. Neither his manners nor temper betrayed him as he graciously answered each of their charges and only once did a grin almost give him away.

But was I ever embarrassed. A busy man, he had taken time to speak to the group and conduct a tour of his plant, and here we were, being represented (not necessarily by choice) by a couple of thoroughly indoctrinated "women's libbers."

It was enough to make me blush when I thought of my subscription to "MS" magazine. Guess I'll stay atop the fence awhile.

"You Don't Have To Be Alone Anymore"

Underclassmen May Play Major Role In Lutt's Control, Fast-Breaking Game

FIRST YEAR head coach Korlin Lutt, center, gives two of his players instructions on some of the new plays his team will be using in the coming season. The Winside team will start Dec. 7 in an away game at Wakefield. The two players are Larry Weible, left, and Bob Hoffman.

Underclassmen may play a major roll in this year's Winside High basketball squad. And for a good reason.

According to first-year head coach Korlin Lutt, 12 sophomores are among the 21 players trying out for the team, each with plenty of talent.

"No one has a position sewed up," Lutt said. "As I see it, the seniors will be battling it out with the rest of the players for a starting berth."

Lutt's optimism about this year's squad is partly due to returning sophomore veterans Tyler Frevert and Bob Hoffman. They could take over one of the guard positions and maybe even a forward slot depending on the amount of competition, according to Lutt.

"Although I have five senior veterans on the team, I'm not sure who will make the starting five," he pointed out.

Lewis and Clark Conference standout Larry Weible at 5-11 is among the five seniors seeking a position. It may not seem he would be pressed for a starting slot, but the coach emphasized the strong possibility of sophomores winning a spot. He named sophomores Norman Libengood and Brian Denkiau as possible starters.

Also on the list of senior vets are Jeff Farran (the tallest Wildcat at 6-2), Steve Brummetts, Steve Deck and Bob Hartman.

Lutt notes that the team will be short again this year; on height but may be able to make up for that with speed. "We're going to run a control, fast-break game," he said, explaining that the offense will play a controlled type of game but will take advantage of the fast break when it comes.

To help his team get in shape for what appears to be a running type game, Lutt is putting his players through rugged workouts which include plenty of pushups if one player scores on another in one-on-one workouts. "I believe conditioning plays a major role in preparing a team for a game," Lutt emphasized.

Most of his game plans and strategy has paid off during his six-year career. Although his clubs have not posted any state championships, his closest bid finished second in the regionals. The Wayne State graduate, who teaches biology and physical education, started in 1966 at Hartington High before going to Crofton in 1969. Two years later Lutt moved to Ruthon, Minn., to head football and basketball. In 1972 he returned to the Cornhusker state for a year's assignment at Oakland. After a year's lay off from teaching — which spent working on his master's degree in school administration at WSC — Lutt decided to return to coaching.

How his return turns out depends on his team's adjustment to a tough schedule, including a strong Lewis and Clark league. At this stage most conference coaches are picking Osmond as the school to beat this year, but the Wildcat coach wants to add one more team to the list of strong league contenders — Coleridge.

Game Birds on the Run

The game farm business has its ups and downs. C. C. Cain, who operates the Cain Funk game farm adjacent to the Platte River near Venice, says there is a good run on exotic game birds.

According to Cain, he doesn't go a day without a call from some part of the country for birds. He has sold birds to individuals in all states, including Alaska.

Pheasants, which he usually has in good numbers, are about depleted. Some exotic waterfowl species, too, are exhausted, but not because of filling orders. It seems a couple of marauding mink did their Christmas shopping early.

Before finally trapping the two mink, they killed many ruddy shell ducks (from Siberia), manded geese (Australia), Japanese mandarins (at least 20 pair), wood ducks and from South America, red-crested porchards, rosy bills and chloes wiggeons.

Cain estimates the loss at $4,000.

Duck Virus Feared
Fish and Wildlife Service biologists fear the duck virus enteritis, which last year killed some 43,000 wild ducks and geese in South Dakota and which is known to be present today in waterfowl exposed to the disease, may spread to other wild waterfowl as the migration south continues.

Following the virus outbreak at Lake Andes, a symposium of wildlife-disease technicians concluded the outbreak was a dramatic example of what may be expected to occur more frequently as waterfowl populations are increasingly concentrated upon declining and deteriorating habitat.

The symposium also concluded that similar losses from other infectious diseases can be expected because of the trend in the reduction of prime waterfowl habitat.

Bottoms-Up
From the top of the cracker barrel to the bottom in one year. That's the story of Nebraska's fall turkey hunting. The 1972 fall hunt produced a record high 58 per cent hunter success — this fall, a record low, 40 per cent. Average fall success through the years is about 50 per cent.

Part of the reason for the disappointing season could be the late drop of pine seeds — about a week before the season opened — which kept the birds back in the areas where hunters don't generally go and away from food plots they normally frequent.

Most hunters either saw lots of birds, or none. Ken Johnson, the Game Commission's game chief, is one of the latter. He saw a flock of 18 turkeys the evening before the season opened but none the next two days. Ken has taken only three turkeys during the seven or eight times he has had a permit, proof that knowing where the birds are supposed to be doesn't assure success.

MISHMASH: Hunters are reminded that hunting is prohibited in Agate Fossil Beds National Monument. Fishing, however, is O.K. with a valid permit. A permanent ranger is now stationed in the area. The energy shortage has prompted a reduction in operating hours of Scotts Bluff National Monument. The monument is now open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., seven days a week. The Summit road closes at 3 p.m.

Nebraska's tremendously successful deer season produced at least one known doe with antlers. This was checked in at the temporary check station at Auburn. Similar animals have been taken in past years but are very few in number. The fact that more older age bucks were taken this season reflects the late harvest of crops last year. Considerable crops were still standing last season and the old, cagey bucks took advantage of the cover and just weren't available to be taken.

Imagine the surprise of a group of hunters in the Sargent area when the animal they thought was an exceptionally large deer stood up and was unmistakably a bull elk. Possibly the elk's presence can be attributed to a very extended random movement, maybe Wyoming. Or it could have been kept in captivity and escaped. As recently as a few years ago a bull elk was shot in the Auburn area.

The black bear which weighs as much as 500 pounds at maturity bears only about eight ounces at birth. Skunk musk is used in making perfume. The oil is refined and used as a fixative. I never hear them but some mice species reportedly can sing; they chirp and trill like canaries.

PLACES-A-GO-GO. Fontenelle Forest for late autumn marsh hike, Saturday and Sunday. Gateway Shopping Center Auditorium, Lincoln, for Central Flyway Decoy Contest, Saturday and Sunday, statewide for hunting pheasant, quail, duck, merganser, goose, coot, cotton-tail, squirrel, crow and archery deer, statewide for hook-and-line fishing, archery, handspinning and underwater powered spearfishing, and Missouri River only for snagging.

Two WS Players On District Team

Two Wayne State football players made this year's NATA District 11 all star team, selected by coaches of nine colleges.

Senior George Biszak of Sterling, Ill. and Stan Lewis, a junior from Chicago, were named to the defensive unit. Lewis won a spot as a lineman while Biszak was selected as a linebacker.

Wayne coach Del Stollenberg expressed pleasure at the selection of both Lewis and Biszak. Lewis, with another season to play, already has been watched by pro football scouts. With his size, 6-5 and 240 pounds, plus pretty fair agility, Lewis has attributed the pro game wants.

Of Biszak, Stollenberg has frequently said he was a major factor in leading the Wildcats as a unified team. Besides savvy as a linebacker, Biszak kept a young team fired up to use talent at maximum advantage.

The Wildcats fared better in the honorable mention list. Five players made the offensive unit and three were named to defense.

Seniors Layne Hurber, Joe McMeniman and Rich Mangiameli, all of Omaha, junior Dean Ott of Hooper and sophomore Jerry Bayse of Glenwood, Ia., were listed on the offensive unit.

Herber and McMeniman were named to tackle slots, Mangiameli a guard, Ott a halfback and Bayse an end.

Ron Coley of Indianapolis, a senior, won a position as tackle on defense. He was joined by junior Tom Allie of Des Moines as an end and sophomore Pat Donohoe of O'Neill as middle guard.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC group of 30 Wayne youngsters turned out to sign up for the first city winter swimming team Monday night. According to coach Gary Egler, the students will practice three nights a week and on Saturday for two swimming meets in January. Peg Pinkelman, 12, was one of the first students to sign up during the meeting at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

Defensive Tuneup Next After Cats Lose Opener

Inexperience and some defensive lapses cost Wayne State a loss in its basketball opener Tuesday, 84-67 to Northwestern College at Orange City, Ia.

Coach Ron Jones put his squad through a pair of drills Friday, stressing defense in a tuneup for the home debut against Briar Cliff last Saturday night at 7:30 in Rice Gym. A Wayne-Briar junior varsity preliminary was billed for 5:30.

The usually high-scoring Northwestern Red Raiders jumped to a 15-2 lead, and from then on, the Wildcats had to play catch-up. Once back on the track, they pretty well matched all the Raiders, except Dave Sikma. He romped for 33 points.

Junior center Neal Walde got credit from the coach for a "super job of defense on Northwestern's big All-American post man, Jim Woudstra." Walde held him to 16 points and only six rebounds, well below his average of last year.

Senior forward Ronnie Jones led Wildcat scoring with 18 points and topped rebounding with a dozen grabs.

Northwestern's Tom Cole led Wayne by only one, 33 to 32, but scored 18 of 25 free throws while the Wildcats hit three of eight chances.

After Saturday's clash with Briar Cliff, the Wildcats will play four games away, the first one Monday at Northern State, Aberdeen, S.D., before returning for the next home show Dec. 15.

Possession of Deer After Season Costly

Possession of deer in closed season can be very costly, according to Marion Shafer, conservation officer for Wayne, Pierce and Stanton Counties.

Jerald Uehling of Norfolk got the word when he was fined $100 and paid $300 in liquidated damages, plus costs, last week. An anonymous tip resulted in his apprehension and ultimate conviction.

District law enforcement supervisor Bob Downing received a call at 9 p.m. directing him to an address to apprehend a game law violator. Downing called Shafer, who made the actual case. The two were also joined by Madison County sheriff Marvin Adams and deputy Orlo Rath. The officers found a partially cut-up deer in the basement at the address given by the tipster.

With the Game and Parks Commission's conservation officer force spread thinly throughout the state, tips from the public are more than appreciated. According to Shafer, the poacher is destroying legitimate sport for the legal hunter as permit numbers are limited by estimates of illegal kill. If there were no illegal kill, he continued, more legal permits would be available.

Youth to Dominate Cats Lower Weights

For the first time in Doug Barclay's three-year coaching career at Winside High School, his wrestling squad will be composed mostly of young wrestlers.

But that doesn't necessarily mean the Wildcats are going to be pushovers. Hardly.

Although there are only two seniors on the squad—nine last due to graduation—a veteran force of four state qualifiers plus four returning lettermen will play an integral part in continuing the school's tradition in as a powerhouse in high school wrestling.

"We have Brad Brummels, Doug Lage, Monty Pfeiffer and Dan Bowers back from last year's visit to the state wrestling meet in Lincoln," Barclay pointed out. "Those grapplers will add strength to the lower and middle weights, with Pfeiffer probably going at 98 pounds, Brummels at 119, both sophomores, senior Lage at 135 and Bowers at 165."

Veteran junior Mike Anderson, a junior will take over the heavy weight spot after placing third in districts last year. "Mike has come a long way since last year," Barclay pointed out. He's much quicker and knows more moves, according to Barclay. Gregg Lage, a junior who got beat out by his brother Doug in the 126 pound wrestle-off before district last year, moved up to 132.

Barclay believes Dwight Lienemann, a junior, Keith Sueleand, Burt Schedhelm, both sophomores, will offer competition in the middle weights to give the team added depth. But the outlook for some of the lower weights is undecided.

A lot of freshmen and sophomores will be competing for the lower weights. "I'm kind of guessing which boy will make what weight," he said. "since we are minus a lot of experience in the lower weights."

But the head coach notes that "wrestling can afford something for every individual. There's no discrimination in this sport when it comes to body size. I'm sure I'll find some strong contenders in the lower weights once I have wrestle off."

Barclay's club has two weeks to get ready for what will be one of the toughest matches of the season. The Wildcats will take on a strong Wakefield club, which in the past has bowed to Winside.

"There's very little doubt that Wakefield will be strong this year," he emphasized. "But two boys we won't have to wrestle against this year are Kirk Gardner and Dave Rouse—and I'm sure glad of that."

Winside will be trying to defend its perfect 10-0 dual record, but Barclay pointed out that "everyone will be gunning for us with that record. No one is going to be easy to beat."

Assisting Barclay will be Carter "Cap" Peterson, who two years ago held the same position as a student teacher.

After the dual with Wakefield Dec. 7, the Cats venture back to Trojan country for a tournament Dec. 8. The rest of the schedule includes:

Dec. 11 at Pender; 15 at Stanton tournament; 20 at Lincoln; 22 at Hooper-Logan View tour; Jan. 12 Winside tour; 17 Hartington; 21 Randolph; 22 Wynot; 26 at Oakland tour; 31 at West Point; Feb. 2 at Plainview tour; 4 Plainview.

Boxers Fare Well

At Norfolk Bout

All five Wayne boxers fared well in their second bout of the year. Friday night at Norfolk, according to coach Gary Wiebelhaus

Rick Johnson, going at 94 pounds, was the most improved, the coach said. Also boxing were Doug Proett, 65 pounds, Dan Mitchell and Bill Marr at 128, and Frank Mrsny, 100.

The next smoker will be Dec. 8 at Pierce. If anyone is interested in participating, contact Wiebelhaus in Wayne.

THERE'S A better way to get hold of your opponent, third-year head coach Doug Barclay points out to his Winside High senior veterans. This year Barclay hopes his seniors and returning lettermen can continue the club's unbeaten 10-0 dual record from last year. Working out are Dan Bowers, bottom and Doug Lage.

districts and the county government itself.

The number is 11 less than was tabulated in 1967, when the previous Census of Governments was taken.

By way of comparison, there was a reduction of 3.7-per cent nationally in the number of local governments in the five-year period.

From the standpoint of population, Wayne County is listed as having one agency of government for every 248 local people. The average elsewhere in the nation is one for every 2,676. In the State of Nebraska it is one for 417.

In many communities, the figures indicate, the trend is toward a streamlining of the governmental process. Nationally, the number of local governmental agencies dropped from 81,299 to 78,268 in the five years.

In the early 1950's, if you were old enough to watch television, you saw a lot of Roller Derby games. Games were held almost every day and nearly all were televised. Roller Derby was as much a fixture on early television as Milton Berle or Howdy Doody.

Now that there's a little revived interest in the sport, you may be interested to know that some of the Roller Derby Stars of 1950 are still actively skating. Remember Gerry Murray, Ann Calvello, Mary "Pocahontas" Youpelis, and Mary Lou "Patrol" Tume in Roller Derby and you may see them again!

IRS Promise: Tax Return For '73 Shorter, Simpler

Taxpayers will find a number of time-saving improvements on 1973 individual income tax returns as well as shortened and simplified instructions, says Nebraska district director of Internal Revenue, Richard P. Vinal.

Describing the long Form 1040 and the short Form 1040A, which are now being printed, Vinal estimated that over 580,000 individual returns would be filed in Nebraska for 1973. Taxpayers in Nebraska filed 577,410 returns for 1972.

Most taxpayers who file in January receive their refunds in four to five weeks, while later filers may have to wait as long as eight weeks because of the greater volume of returns received, Vinal said.

The major improvements in the 1973 tax forms are:

- Elimination of Schedule B for reporting details of dividends and interest.
 - Elimination of requirement to list contributions for which the taxpayer has cancelled checks or receipts.
 - Elimination of requirement to list names and dates for claiming payments to doctors, dentists and hospitals.
 - Reduction in number of revenue sharing questions to a single item.
 - Elimination of income limitations for filing the 1040A short form.
- Taxpayers will also find two lines on their returns relating to the 1976 Presidential Election Campaign Fund checkoff, one line permitting them to check off for 1973, the other providing a second opportunity for those who failed to check off on their 1972 returns and now wish to do so.

Laurel Man Holds on to Craft From Past

By SANDRA BREITKREUTZ
The farrier, an important tradesman during America's youth and essential during the days when horsepower really meant horses, is gradually disappearing from the picture. If horses have become rare, the man who shoes them is more so — rare but not yet extinct.

Mexico ranch with eight brothers and sisters. His background led him into the trades of horse trainer, veterinarian assistant, livestock broker, cattle runner and rodeo rider, as well as farrier.

FIRST STEP IN SHOEING the horse is trimming the hooves. This does not hurt the animal if the farrier knows what he is doing.

works at the Dixon County Feed Lots on Highway 20 north of Laurel. He shoes horses and handles veterinary chores at the feedlots.

Horses should be shod every six weeks, Facundo explains, though he does his own more often. The usual fee for trimming the hooves and shoeing an animal is $15.

The farrier can fit factory-made shoes, but Facundo prefers to start from scratch. He gets the flat bars from a California firm, heats them on the forge and shapes them. Shoes can also be formed cold, according to Facundo.

There are light-weight aluminum shoes for race horses, polo shoes, shoes with steel corks for ice and mud and corrective shoes.

"Ninety per cent of the horses have 'crooked legs,'" says Facundo, and corrective shoes, specially weighted according to the defect of the particular horse can make the horse's legs appear straighter for shows and can eventually remedy the defect.

It takes about an hour to make a set of shoes and about 30 minutes to put them on, unless the job has been neglected too long.

Facundo spent six months at a Fort Worth, Tex., technical school in 1966, learning the farrier trade. He worked as a veterinarian assistant three years in Sapulpa, Okla., and spent seven years working with Laurel veterinarian Dr. Walter Chace.

Although he maintains a home in Nebraska, Facundo makes frequent trips to New Mexico (as often as every other week when time permits) where he is in partnership with his brothers and where he helps his parents, the Manuel Montoyas, on their ranch near Moriarty.

Montoya pulls a 37-foot trailer behind his pickup, loaded sometimes with cattle, sometimes with horses, and once even with buffalo. His forge is portable, so he can shoe horses wherever his other interests happen to take him.

Facundo is not as active in rodeo work as he was as a teenager, but two years ago he came close enough to championship to "make it interesting," he grins. Proo' stands in the way of his trophy for steer roping which is displayed at the Cowboys'

ALMOST DONE NOW. The final step is to file the nails smooth on the outside of the hooves.

Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City. Facundo also enters steer jerking, calf roping, team roping, bull riding, bareback riding and saddle bronc competition.

Montoya's experience as a cattle broker has introduced him to various interesting personalities through the years — among them Art Linkletter, for whom he bought and showed cattle at the Las Vegas exposition in 1969, Jack Linkletter and John Wayne, a friend for about 10 years.

Art Linkletter was in a way responsible for yet another of Montoya's fetidities — breeding dogs. Linkletter sent Montoya his first Australian Shepherd, Dingo cross from the Linkletter ranch in Australia. The cattle dog brings a $200 stud fee and pups sell for $75. Friends in Kansas keep the dogs for Montoya, who claims he hasn't the patience to work with them. Eventually, Facundo says, he may make Kansas his permanent home. He says he's got his heart set on a ranch there. You can be sure horses will play a big part in that dream when it comes true.

"I sure don't know why they don't use horses more here," he says. "It's more economical and easier on the cattle." Montoya doesn't think much of chasing cattle with a high-priced tractor. Completing the Kansas ranch picture will probably be Facundo's fiancée Janet Irwin, also of New Mexico. Where did they meet? A rodeo, of course.

TUESDAY'S RAIN and freezing temperatures coated everything from trees to streets with ice in the Wayne area, knocking out electrical service to many areas and damaging trees.

Crews Put in Long Hours Ice Turns Off Lights in Wayne Area

"We got by pretty lucky compared to some areas north and west of us," said manager of Wayne County Public Power District (WCPPD) following Tuesday night's ice storm.

Cal Comstock of Wayne said that crews worked long days Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in an attempt to restore electrical service to customers in Wayne County and part of Pierce County after rain and freezing temperatures left them without electricity.

"We've got a lot to be thankful for," said Comstock, who noted that farmers and towns around Creighton, Neligh and Battle Creek were much worse off than around Wayne after ice knocked electrical power in the northeast part of the state.

All of the customers of WCPPD had electricity restored to them Thanksgiving night, said Comstock.

Men worked Tuesday night until about 11 p.m., then came back and worked from 4 a.m. to 11 p.m. Wednesday. On top of that, they worked from 4 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Thanksgiving day, Comstock pointed out.

There was a lot of cold turkey served Thanksgiving, Comstock quipped.

Damage to WCPPD lines and equipment could run anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000, according to Comstock. Although all customers were being served again by Thanksgiving evening, much work on damaged lines remains to be done, he said.

Approximately 1,000 WCPPD customers were without power during the worst period, Comstock said.

The city of Wayne reported only one power outage which apparently was caused by the storm. That occurred to much of the north half of the city when a transformer burned out in the northeast part of Wayne. Power was out for most of the residents anywhere from an hour to two and a half hours Tuesday evening, with all service restored by 3 a.m. Wednesday, a power plant official said.

Damage to the transformer and some lines in the city is estimated by Wayne $2,000 to $2,500, according to Bill Mellor, superintendent of the city's distribution system.

An employee at the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. office in Wayne said a few telephone lines were forced down by the ice in Wayne but little damage was done.

Damage to trees and shrubs in the Wayne area was heavy, however. Numerous tree limbs were broken by the heavy ice, which began accumulation late Tuesday afternoon.

Theft Occurs As Workmen Repair Lines

The Wayne County sheriff's office is investigating the theft of some two-way radio equipment from a Wayne County Public Power District truck Thursday afternoon. Crews from the power district were repairing lines damaged by Tuesday night's ice storm when somebody stole a radio head, microphone and speaker out of the truck two miles north and about a half mile west of Hoskins on a county road, the sheriff's office said. Also taken in the theft were the keys from the truck, according to the sheriff's office. Value of the equipment is several hundred dollars.

SEASONAL REMINDER

To All Residents of the City of Wayne

With winter hanging over us, the Street Department again urges all residents to comply with the city ordinances regarding snow removal on sidewalks, streets, off-street parking, gas station platforms, etc. Ordinance No. 17-105 states that all sidewalks must be cleared of snow or ice to full width of sidewalk within twenty-four hours after the storm, or the city will hire personnel to remove it and bill the property owner. Also a summons to appear in court for violation of the ordinance will be issued by the Police Department. All ordinances will be strictly enforced.

In the business district, snow must be thrown into the street at least one foot from curb as soon as possible to permit removal by street crews. Only snow from sidewalk out to the street is permitted to be dumped into the street for city hauling. All snow behind sidewalks, stations, off-street parking, etc. will have to be removed by private operators.

The CITY CLERK'S OFFICE will have on hand a list of private snow removers for those interested. Also anyone interested in scooping or hauling snow may contact the City Clerk's Office.
