Council to Tackle Police Chief Problem

Official discussion of what the city is going to do about its two chiefs of police won't come until next week.

City councilmen agreed Tuesday night to tackle the subject next Thursday night at 7:30 in a special meeting in the Woman's Club room at the city auditorium.

Discussion of the unique problem was postponed at Tuesday's regular meeting after mayor Kent Hall told the council he expects a legal opinion from the Nebraska League of Municipalities within the next few days.

That legal opinion may offer the city a way to "unravel a Gordian's knot" tied when district judge George W. Ditttrick of Norfolk ordered the city to reinstate Vern Fairchild as chief of police. Fairchild was fired in April by Hall, and the council later in the year hired Robert Evers to take over the chief's position.

Ditttrick's ruling left the city with two chiefs — a situation unique in the state of Nebraska and possibly unique in the nation, according to one city official.

That legal opinion is expected to define what the city can do now that Ditttrick has ordered the city to institute civil service protection for paid members of its police department. City officials are currently unsure whether Evers is still under his six-month probationary period, comes under civil service protection. Evers' probationary period ends this month.

In a related action, the council approved 61 mayor Hall's appointments to the three-man civil service board which will come into play for such things as firings, demotions or promotions in the police department.

Named to the board were Freeman Decker, professor of education at Wayne State College, and local businessman Robert Merchant and Joe Nuss.

Voting against the appointments was Vernon Russell, Harvey Brasch, Keith Mosley, Frank Prather, Ivan Beeks, Pat Gross and Jim Thomas voted to approve the appointments. Absent from the meeting was Darrel Fuebenthal.

In other action the council:

- Set a public hearing for 8 p.m. Jan. 8 for an application for an on-sale beer license from Pizza Hut. The firm, which now has a license with the county, has been annexed by the city.
- Agreed to turn the city's Christmas lights on Wednesday and leave them on through Christmas night.
- Voted 7-0 to reject an offer by Chicago and North Western Railroad to sell the city a piece of land on the east edge of Wayne for $3,800.
- Agreed to advertise for bids for extending water service to the city's industrial site on the east edge of the city. The project is expected to cost $41,000. Bids will be opened at the council's Jan. 29th meeting.

define what constitutes bottle clubs before pressing his argument further.

- Listened briefly to Andy Manes, owner of Andy's Pizza House, in his argument for permitting beer taverns to sell beer on Sunday. Manes said it was wrong to permit bottle clubs to remain open while forcing taverns to close Sundays. He said he would wait to see what the state legislature does to land at the airport by competitive bidding.

- Discussed at considerable length but took no action on the proposed contract between the city and Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) which will have to be approved before the city can begin buying power from NPPD once the interconnection is completed. Councilmen will discuss the contract at their first meeting in January.
- Approved hikes in the electrical and water rates for residential and commercial customers.
- Learned of a hike in natural gas rates by Peoples Natural Gas Co. The increase will cost the average small volume user, residential and commercial, about $11 annually, according to the gas company.
- Discussed but took no action on a suggestion by councilman Prather to pass an ordinance — restricting such things as pornographic films from entering the city. Councilmen may discuss the subject with the local theater operator.
- Approved 7-0 the application form from local contractor Arnold Anderson to raze five buildings in the east part of the city. The buildings will be torn down to make room for the new grocery store being built there. Anderson will have to post a $500 bond during razing.

DEARD HAMM of Wayne, right, won all those Birthday Bucks — $300 of them — in last week's drawing. Presenting him with the coupons is Neil Dinges, manager of McDonald's.

Local Man Wins $300 In 'Bucks' Give-Away

For the first time since August, a winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion in Wayne has walked away with the top prize of $300 in coupons.

Winning the prize last Thursday was Deard Hamm of Wayne, whose birthday falls on the exact date drawn at random earlier in the day and announced in all participating firms at 8:15 p.m.

The winning date was Sept. 9, 1932, and Hamm was in McDonald's when it was announced.

He can use the coupons he received as his prize just like cash in any of the stores or firms making the weekly give-away possible.

The last time $300 in coupons was given away in the promotion was when Ron Dalton and Rod Jorgensen, both of Wayne, split the prize in August Born on the same day, they were both present in a participating store when the winning date was announced.

Another $300 prize will be given away tonight (Thursday) at 8:15 if there is some shopper present whose birthday falls on the date announced. If the $300 prize goes unclaimed, the $50 consolation prize will be given away.

Like the drawings for the Christmas Bucks going on in local firms this holiday season, the Birthday Bucks drawings require no registering by shoppers. Shoppers need only be present in a participating firm when the winning date is announced to be eligible to win.

VINCENT KNIESCHE GORDON EMRY

Scouts to Get Eagle Rank

Two youths from Wayne will receive Scouting's highest honor next month.

They are Vincent Kniesche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kniesche of rural Wayne, and Gordon Emry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Emry. They will receive the Eagle Scout Award in a ceremony Jan. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Wayne High School lecture hall.

Both are members of Boy Scout Troop 175 in Wayne. Scoutmaster of the group is Rod Hughes, former Wayne resident who has moved to Norfolk. Assistants are LeRoy Middleton and Bill Kemp.

Young Kniesche, 13-year-old eighth grader at District 69 near Wayne, made a map identifying the trees on the campus of Wayne State College as his Eagle Scout project. The map will be presented to the college for display on the campus.

Emry, 16-year-old junior at Wayne High, helped rebuild the log cabin which stands next to the Wayne County historical museum on the east edge of the city as his project.

The two completed work toward 21 merit badges and their special projects to earn the Eagle Scout honor.

3 Graduate Summa Cum Laude

Three seniors graduated summa cum laude at winter commencement of Wayne State College Sunday.

Lorna Harder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Harder of Wayne, led the winter class with a grade point average of 3.90 (on a 4.0 scale). Also summa cum laude were Vicki Fahrenkrog O'Banion, Logan, Ia., with a 3.87 average, and Julie Ushio, Ailiance, 3.84.

Graduating magna cum laude were Darlene Miller, Wayne, 3.79; Vickie Daggett, Council Bluffs, 3.72; Rosalind Sherry Meier, Wayne, 3.68; Patricia Roberts, Wakefield, 3.67; Jacqueline Ullrich, Delmont, Ia., 3.66; Diane Podagy, Clarkson, 3.57; Lana Aidean Bell, Chambers, 3.51; Layne Herber, Omaha, 3.51; Sharon Skellton, Ralston, 3.51; Patricia Bergman, Council Bluffs, 3.50; and Linda Sterling Klusman, Coleridge, 3.50.

Graduating cum laude were Gary Oetken, Westworth, S.D., 3.48; Cheryl Walters Maee, Schuyler, 3.40; Doris Dickey, Laurel, 3.37; Susan Harrison Dyke, Kingsley, Ia., 3.37; Katherine Mann, Orchard, 3.36; Marcia Schieffer, Crofton, 3.33; Diane Driesen Brummer, Hartington, 3.30; Kristy Maxwell, Norfolk, 3.29; Joyce Friedrichson, Ida Grove, Ia., 3.28; Wendy Shof, Onawa, Ia., 3.27; Lois Bickley, Norfolk, 3.22; and Naomi Neeman, Blair, 3.20.

Commencement speaker Charles Thone, first district congressman, told the graduates they can if they get involved — change things at all levels of government. He noted that polls in recent years show a declining public opinion of government — partly due, he said, to lack of citizen involvement or even interest.

WSC President Lyle Seymour presented to Thone the college's Distinguished Service Award.

Goal Is in Sight for WHS Marching Band

Wayne High's marching band needs less than $2,000 more to reach its $12,000 goal for financing its trip to the Cotton Bowl Parade at Dallas on Jan. 1.

Band director Robert Dalton said the band had collected $10,200 by Wednesday afternoon — thanks to a $1,000 donation by the city of Wayne Tuesday night and several successful ventures by local businessmen.

"The fund drive looks in real good shape, but we still have to raise those final dollars," said Dalton. Student money is still coming in, he said, and money raised for the drawings for the portable color television set and the quarter of beef which will be given away later this week is still coming in.

The TV set will be given away at 10 p.m. during a dance at the National Guard Armory. Playing for the dance, which begins at 9 p.m., will be John Hartin and Co., a group which includes Dalton.

The quarter of beef will be given away at 3 p.m. Saturday at Johnson's Frozen Foods, which donated the meat.

Tickets for the dance and the two drawings are still available from band members or Dalton for $1 each.

Among the businesses which have helped boost the total in the fund are several who held special promotions in their businesses. Others have given cash donations to the fund.

Another business joining that group through promotions is Wayne Book Store, which will give five cents to the fund for each person who comes in and types his name today (Thursday) through Saturday. Planning on giving the group the interest from a $20,000 savings account for a month is Wayne Federal Savings and Loan. The interest will amount to $108.32.

Band members have been marching outside in spite of the recent snow to polish the marching routine they will use when they take part in the nationally televised parade on New Year's Day. The band members are also working on music they will play when they perform during a professional ice hockey game in Dallas and during a concert at the State Fair Park.

Bands from Wayne and Aurora are the only high school groups from the state which will participate in the Cotton Bowl Parade. It was earlier thought that Wayne would be the lone high school group from Nebraska in the parade.

After the parade, band members will take in the Nebraska Texas football game, also to be televised nationally.

Electricity, Water, Gas Hikes Coming

Wayne residents and businesses should notice increases in their electric, water and natural gas bills after the first of the year.

The city council Tuesday night approved hikes in the electrical and water rates to make up for the recent increase in fuel costs for operating the city's generating plant.

The increases average out to about 12.8 per cent for residential electricity and about 13.5 per cent for commercial electricity, according to city clerk Dan Sherry. Water rates will go up an average of about 11.5 per cent for homeowners and about eight per cent for businesses, he added.

The hikes mean that a resident who last month had an electricity bill of $12.80 will pay $13.75 for the same amount of electricity after the first of the year. A homeowner paying $6.40 every three months for water will now have to pay about $6.80 for the same amount of water beginning in 1974.

The hike in the gas rate, announced at Tuesday's council meeting, will add about $11 annually to the bill paid by the average homeowner and small business, according to Keith Mosley, manager of Peoples Natural Gas Co. The increase will be noticed on January billings, Mosley said.

Salaries for County Officials Are Discussed

Wayne County commissioners discussed but took no action on raising salaries of county officials during Tuesday's regular meeting.

Commissioners will take up the subject again Jan. 8, the last regular meeting scheduled before the Jan. 14th deadline for increasing salaries.

County officials are now paid either $6,500 or $7,200 a year.

Commissioners have to set the salaries for the next four years since the deadline for filing for those offices is the middle of March.

Named as county roads superintendent during Tuesday's meeting was Robert Nissen, who currently holds that post.

Discussed during the meeting were county-wide zoning, insurance for county machinery, and health and accident insurance for county employees.

'Then Take This...'

LEARNING how to make Christmas ornaments can be fascinating for young people, as Rick Kenny of Carroll knows. He and Julie Sieder, a member of Wayne's Youth Association for Retarded Citizens (YARC), tackled the activity during the YARC Christmas party Monday night at West Elementary School.

Mrs. George Bartels will host the group Jan. 8. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

250 Attend Reeg Reception At Wayne Redeemer Church

Over 250 guests attended the golden wedding anniversary reception for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reeg of Wayne, held at Redeemer Lutheran Church Sunday.

The open house event, preceded by a family dinner at Bill's Cafe, was hosted by the couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Reeg of Wayne. Henry Reegs have nine grandchildren and one great grandchild. A daughter, Bernita, is deceased.

Guests included the couple's wedding attendants, John Rudebusch and Mrs. Herbert Carsten of Randolph and Emilie and Herman Reeg of Wayne.

Guests were present from Fremont, Madison, Lincoln, Hoskins, Norfolk, Pierce, Laurel, Randolph, and Wayne, and were registered by Bill and Kathy Thomas of Hoskins. Gifts were carried by Marci and Tammy Thomas of Hoskins and Karen and Carmen Reeg of Wayne, and were arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fulton of Norfolk.

The Rev. S. K. deFreese spoke briefly, gave scripture and offered a prayer. Harvey Reeg extended the welcome.

The cake, baked by Mrs. Jack Ruback of Wayne, was cut and served by Mrs. Ray Reeg of Wayne and Mrs. Arnold Witte of Concord. Mrs. Alvin Reeg of Wayne and Mrs. Vernon Rudebusch of Randolph poured and Mrs. Larry Parker and Cindy Thomas of Hoskins served punch.

Waitresses were Mrs. Mary Ann Osbon of Lincoln, Mrs. Robert Thomas of Hoskins, Mrs. Harold Doerr of Bloomfield, Mrs. Richard Reeg and Phyllis and Linda Reeg of Fremont, and Judy Reeg and Mrs. Rodney Reeg of Wayne.

Assisting in the kitchen were LCW members from the church. Alvin Reeg of Wayne, Vernon and Elmer Rudebusch of Randolph and Bob Thomas of Hoskins assisted with coats and seating.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeg were married Dec. 19 in Randolph and lived on a farm southwest of Wayne for 42 years. Since then they have made their home at 510 Fairacres Road in Wayne.

Dinner Honors Baby's Baptism

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Johnson of Plainview were hosts recently to a dinner honoring the baptism of their daughter, Wendy Ann.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Roebber and Lisa of Wakefield, Brendt Lessmann of Norfolk, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Johnson of Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. Don Sherbahn of Wayne.

Wendy's baptism sponsors were Lisa Roebber and Brendt Lessmann.

Center Members Sing Greeting

The 95th birthday of Mrs. Maude Auker was observed at the Wayne Senior Citizen's Center Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Auker could not be present but was honored with the birthday song, sung to her over the phone by 44 center members. Mrs. Auker provided refreshments for the afternoon, and a cake in her honor was provided by Mrs. Gertrude Ley.

Others who celebrated their birthdays and furnished treats were Mrs. Elsie Stenwall and

48 Present for Last Meeting

United Methodist Women held their last meeting of the year Dec. 12. Joining the 42 members were six guests, Mrs. Wayne Nissen, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Wagner, Becky Wilson, Mrs. Irvin Fleger and Mrs. Cook.

Mrs. Lester Hanson presented a gift from the executive committee to outgoing president Mrs. Herb Niemann.

Mrs. Charles Nichols and Mrs. Larry Nichols arranged for a Christmas program to be presented by seven pupils from District 34, under the direction of teacher Mrs. Harry Lesberg. Refreshments were served by the executive committee.

Scheurichs To Mark 45th

MR. AND MRS. Paul Dangberg and family of Wayne, Mrs. Betty Shipley and family of Norfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Scheurich and family of Kearney are hosting an open house reception to honor the 45th wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Scheurich of Norfolk. All friends and relatives are invited to attend the 2 to 4 p.m. event, scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 23, at the Norfolk Presbyterian Church social rooms.

Need Treat for Birds?

Now that snow is on the ground, area residents may be interested in making a suet ball for birds. Mrs. Dorothy Brandstetter has provided the following suet ball recipe:

- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup sugar, honey or molasses
- 1/2 cup wild bird mix
- 1/2 cup yellow corn meal
- 5 or 6 slices of bread, crumbled
- 1 cup quick cooking oatmeal
- 4 tablespoons peanut butter
- 1 1/2 cups melted shortening or bacon drippings

Mix all ingredients together and form into balls. Put into mesh bags and hang in trees or feeders.

St. Mary's Program Held

Students at St. Mary's Catholic School presented their Christmas program Sunday evening. The children sang in Spanish, Latin, German and English.

Program selections included "The Friendly Animals," by first, second and third graders; "Deck the Halls;" a dance; by sixth grade girls; Spanish songs by the entire student body; "Why the Bells Rang," a play by fourth, fifth and sixth graders; "Stars," a dance by fifth grade girls; "The First Noel," a pageant, and group singing, with audience participation.

Background murals were made by fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

Following the program, Santa Claus made an appearance, distributing gifts to the youngsters present.

Fourteen Enrolled in Men's Jacket Course

Fourteen area women participated in the six-session sewing course on men's jackets held recently at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord.

Enrolled in the course, taught by Anna Marie Kreifels, area extension agent, were Mrs. Ed Fahrholz, Mrs. Leslie Carr and Mrs. Richard Blom of Allen, Mrs. LeRoy Koch of Concord, Mrs. Carol Hirschert of Dixon, Mrs. Tom Steffen of Hartington, Mrs. Milo Patefield and Mrs. Paul Huddleston of Laurel, Mrs. Harvey Anderson of Wakefield, Mrs. Lloyd Erickson, Mrs. Dale Suhr and Mrs. Clinton Landholm of Wausa and Mrs. Rollie Longe and Mrs. Val Damme of Wayne.

Fitting the jackets seemed to be the biggest problem, according to the instructor, and men for whom the jackets were being made were too tied up, riding tractors and combining corn and beans, to take time out for fittings.

The students found collars, lapels and inside construction of men's tailored jackets, to be different from tailored women's garments. Buttonholes on men's jackets, they discovered, are usually handstitched rather than bound, and pockets are more detailed and more numerous.

A Second Look

ALL THAT remains of a barn on the Verne Peterson farm about two and a half miles southwest of Concord are bent iron pipes that once formed part of a confinement area for pigs. A blaze last week leveled the barn and killed about 120 pigs before firemen could contain the fire. Units from Concord, Laurel, Dixon and Wayne answered the alarm phoned in by Robert Anderson, an employee who lives and works on the farm with his family. No one was hurt, but according to Peterson, who looks over the destruction, damage may run over $10,000.

Wakefield Hospital Bids Opened

Bids were opened last week by the Wakefield city council for interior materials to be used in the Wakefield Hospital extended care wing, now under construction. Interior materials will reportedly cost an estimated $49,000.

A decision is expected to be made on the bids about the first of the year.

The 42-bed extended care wing, which will provide nursing home facilities for the Wakefield area, will include 19 semi-private rooms, four single rooms and a dining-lounge area. Plans also call for a new laundry, kitchen and emergency room.

Present hospital facilities include 23 rooms, but no special provisions for long-term care patients.

The need for such a wing became pronounced when new rest home requirements forced the Shady Rest Lodge nursing home in Wakefield to close in July of 1972.

The hospital has already received applications from 28 persons interested in using the facilities of the new wing, officials said.

Groundbreaking for the wing was in early November. Footings are in, work is in progress on the sewage pipes and some block work has been done.

Completion is expected to be in about 10 to 12 months, according to Paul Burman, president of the hospital board, and Ed Schnaase, Wakefield mayor.

The wing will cost an estimated $450,000. Wakefield residents raised $80,000 to $90,000 in a fund raising drive, and $310,000 has been raised through revenue bonds. Wakefield did not receive the Hill Burton funds they had applied for.

Extra nurse aids and LPN's will be needed when the new wing opens, and a registered nurse will be on duty 56 hours per week.

The hospital administrator will assume the additional administrative duties which will be involved.

A 36-year-old Omaha man, William R. Pospisil, will arrive in Wakefield next month to take over as administrator of the hospital and the extended care wing.

Pospisil will succeed Eldon Nixon, hospital administrator the past six years. Originally from Lincoln, Pospisil attended the University of Nebraska one year and the Lincoln School of Commerce three years.

He has been employed in administrative positions with Colt Industries of Quincy, Ill., and a frozen foods company in Omaha. For the past year he has been employed as a controller, working with the financing of the new Doctors Hospital building in Omaha.

Pospisil and his wife have two sons, eight and six years old, and a daughter, three years old.

By Bob Bartlett

JERRY MATHERS just finished writing his book on Nebraska high school sports, listing some 10,000 records and championships, but already he's going to have to make one correction.

The Lyons High teacher will have to change the record for number of overtime games in basketball from six to seven. Allen and Winnebago snapped the 29-year-old record Friday when both clubs stretched their clash to seven overtimes.

For Allen coach Bob Moore and his club it was a heartbreaking night when the Indians' leading scorer, junior Jay Branchaud, dropped in the winning bucket during the closing seconds at the Eagles' gym. For both head mentors that will be one game neither will forget.

Allen's help in breaking the record is kind of an oddity too. The old record was held by another area high school team, Dixon. Back in 1934 Dixon and Fordyce made their game last six overtimes before Fordyce won, 19-18.

The strange part about the old record is the way the teams scored. During the last three overtimes, according to Mather, both coaches and tournament director agreed that the best way to get the game over with was to let the teams shoot free throws. So that's what they did in the last three overtimes. It seems both head mentors were being pressured to get the game done with so other teams in the Hartington High tournament could get started.

That's about all I know about the game. For those who know more about the situation, how about dropping me a line and telling me who coached Dixon and who played on the team? If I can get enough information, it should be worth a separate story.

ONE THING coach Moore's club has in common with Wayne State's team is their uniforms — nice looking on top but a little baggy on the bottom.

According to Moore, the school ordered new outfits this year after the old uniforms were ruled illegal last year. The old uniforms had two white lines running down the front which supposedly distracted the other team.

Anyway you look at it, the Blue and Gold combination is sharp looking this year.

WAYNE BOWLERS Dick Hoesfle and Jan Metteer will be ready to open the new year after fine performances last week. They shot the high individual games to win new bowling balls from Melodee Lanes.

Dick shot a 241, Jan a 206 during the contest to send the Wayne High marching band to the Cotton Bowl. Combine their scores with their handicaps and Dick had a 287, Jan a 264.

Runner up spots went to Mike Looft with a 211 scratch game (250 handicap) and Judy Sorensen with a 184 (241 handicap).

Altogether, bowlers donated $111.50 for the band trip by competing in the contest.

MIGHT MENTION that starting Jan. 5 men reglers will start city tournament action. The tournament runs to the 13th.

According to Wayne bowling association secretary Harold Murray, the tournament will be held in the same fashion as last year, with bowlers setting up their own times for doubles, singles and team events.

For the girls, their competition will start Feb. 2 and 3.

Reed's 30 Points Sinks Cats, 68-46

Osmond's Robin Reed used the pick-and-screen well Tuesday night as Osmond walloped the Winside Wildcats on their home court, 68-46.

Reed pumped in 30 points to sweep his team past the smaller Cats in Winside's second Lewis and Clark division battle.

The senior point man set up most of his shots on outside picks to shoot over coach Kortin Luff's club. "Reed was hitting from the middle range," Luff pointed out after his team's third loss against no wins. "He alone hurt us the most," Luff said.

Roger Weeder didn't do a bad job either, connecting for 15 points to complete the double-figure scoring for the Tigers. Weeder's effectiveness generally was felt on the boards when he scored on second and third chances.

"I'm not a bit dissatisfied with our defense," Luff said, noting that his team played a man-to-man game. Winside had 41 rebounds to 53 for Osmond, with Bob Hoffman leading the board work with nine and Brad Brummetts picking off six.

Offensively, it was another question for the first-year head mentor. The area team hit only 26 per cent for the night, despite a fine effort by senior Larry Weible. The 6'0 forward made 11 points, the second game he's been over 10.

Team scoring leader Bob Hoffman had a rather cold night. Usually the sophomore has been hitting in the teens, Luff pointed out, but against Osmond he tallied eight. Sophomore Tyler Frevert was the scoring leader with 12 points during what Luff termed a good performance.

Osmond held a 27-18 halftime margin, stretched that to a 47-30 matchup going into the final frame.

Winside, 0-3, will host Hart ington Friday in the last game before Christmas break.

The reserves fell to Osmond, 48-38. Winside had a one-point margin 9-8 after the first quarter, but Osmond unleashed a 19-point second quarter burst while limiting Winside to 10 to take command of the game. Norm Libengood racked up 14 points for team high.

Wrestlers' Long Break Starts After 2 Meets

With the exception of two wrestling tournaments Saturday, area high school wrestling teams will take a long break before starting dual meets after the first of the year.

Wayne and Winside will head into different meets, with the Wildcats venturing to the Hooper-Logan View tournament and Wayne traveling to the Wahoo invitational.

According to coach Doug Barclay the eight-team Hooper-Logan View meet will feature some tough competition. The predominantly Husker Conference teams will include last year's champ, Tekamah-Herrman, as well as another conference toughie, Oakland-Craig.

Other schools slated for the tournament are Columbus Lakeview, Scribner, Howells, Valley and Winside.

Although the team still is going through wrestle-offs, Barclay doesn't expect any major changes in his lineup for Saturday.

For Wayne's Don Koenig, his team is getting a second chance to see what it can do against Blair in tournament action.

The Bears and the Blue Devils will be among the 12 teams vying for the Wahoo invitational crown. But the strong competition won't come just from Blair alone. Koenig's grapplers will get a stiff test from another meet favorite, Wahoo. "I really haven't seen the other teams," Koenig pointed out, "so it's kind of hard to say what the teams are like."

Squads from Ashland, Fremont Bergan, Lincoln Plus X, Waverly, Utica Centennial, Schuyler, Clarks, Seward and York also will be on hand for the day-long meet.

In their first meeting, Dec. 8, Blair won its own invitational, leaving the Devils in eighth place after the 15-team meet. A few days later, Wayne lost a dual to Blair, 30-27.

Wakefield is the only area team that will be idle until after the holidays. But for coach Lyle Trullinger, the break will be a deserving one.

The Trojans were slated to wrestle three straight matches, starting with last Saturday's North Bend meet and followed by duals Monday and Tuesday.

Thanks to the weather, though, the Trojans only had one dual, Tuesday night at Pender. Monday's matchup at Hooper Logan View was cancelled due to icy roads.

Freshmen Nip Pierce Monday

Wayne High's freshmen basketball team evened its record at 11 when the locals beat Pierce, 30-25, Monday night at Wayne.

Paced by Jon Ley with 18 points, Wayne brushed off a 14-10 first quarter deficit to take a one-point lead at the half, 18-17.

Coach Duane Blomkamp's club stopped Pierce's second and third shots in the first period with an improving defense, then applied a press to get some quick baskets.

"We played a lot better than our last game," Blomkamp noted, "but we've got a lot of room for improvement." The team's next game is at Randolph tonight (Thursday).

WAYNE scoring:—Jon Ley 18, Tim Koll 4, Si Prather 4, Arron Nissen 2, Mike Wieseler 2.

Team 5 Downs Team 4 For Lead in A League

Team 5's first A league basketball game ended in a smashing victory over Team 4 as Butch Reiten led his troops with 24 points, to a 67-55 conquest Monday night.

The league leaders, with a 1-0 mark, led throughout, the four periods in the second game of the night. The winners led by two at intermission, 28-26, then pushed their lead to 49-36 going into the final frame.

Dave Schulte was high for Team 4 with 20 points.

In the first game, Team 1 edged Team 3, 75-73. John Warner and Duane Blomkamp had 25 and 18 points for the winners, during the close match. Denny Paul paced the losers with 19.

In the standings, Team 5 is all alone with a 1-0, with a three way tie for second between Teams 1, 3 and 4 at 1-1. Team 2 owns the cellar with a 0-1 mark.

Following the holiday break, Teams 5 and 3 play at 7:15 p.m. Jan. 7. Teams 1 and 2 will follow.

"The heart of the giver makes the gift dear and precious," Martin Luther

During the Christmas season, an untold number of gifts are purchased and given out of a sense of duty because it is expected or because gifts are customarily "exchanged."

We can only achieve the finest spirit of Christmas when we make our gifts dear and precious as was God's gift to mankind on that first Christmas, by giving of ourselves, from the heart, and perhaps to those who neither deserve nor expect our gift.

We wish for you and yours a merry and meaningful Holiday Season.

One Serving of Crow Coming Up

By BOB BARTLETT
They say crow comes in all sizes — small, medium and large. I'm just wondering which size the Wayne High basketball team is going to serve me after last week's game with South Sioux City.

The Blue Devils ignored my picking the Cardinals to win by beating the visitors 73-72 in the closing seconds of the game. That was one of four blemishes to knock my record to 10-4 for the year.

As coach Bill Sharpe noted, the players were "sky high for this game." Perhaps that's the reason the Devils couldn't get down to earth for their meeting with Columbus Lakeview the following night. The Devils took a 73-48 beating, but vowed they would even things if Wayne meets the Vikings during the West Husker tournament Feb. 18 at Wisner-Pittger.

Wayne takes a break this week, but all the rest of the area teams see action Friday and Saturday.

Wakefield, which also added a dent to my record last week, may have a whole new lineup for this Friday's match against Lyons.

Coach Joe Coble said after his team's 79-77 overtime loss to Coleridge Saturday that he is looking for "five ball players who want to move the ball, and don't care who they are."

Coble blames his team's first-half sluggishness for the club having to go into overtime against the Bulldogs and lose the match.

"I hate to say it this early in the season, but our game with Lyons is a must. We're going to have to win this one to come up with any kind of a season at all," he said.

Lyons, which holds a 2-1 mark — reverse of the Trojans' 1-2 record — will be sporting a lot of height when the East Husker club enters Wakefield's gym. Senior lettermen 6-5 Phil Mossman and 6-0 Mike Gustafson will pace the Lions. The team also has another 6-5 player.

Allen High should find Friday's game a little bit shorter when the Eagles host Homer. Coach Robert Moore's Eagles had to go seven overtimes against Winnebago last week before losing 67-65.

The Winside Wildcats, winless in three starts, host a strong Hartington team Friday. If the team can just get one win under their belt, Winside may start some confidence growing.

Laurel will host Emerson Hubbard Friday night. The Bears, Northeast Nebraska Activity Conference contender, is one team Wayne High's Sharpe hates to face each year. "They're always tough to play, whether at home or on their court," Sharpe admitted.

Again there isn't too much known about the Emerson team, except that they are quick.

I must point out that my 10-4 record could have gone the other way very easily — meaning that the majority of the losses could have been wins. Two games went into overtime, and if the area teams would have won, my record would have been 10-2.

Another loss could have been sliced off in that Winside-Wynot game, which the Wildcats led at the half and lost in the last quarter.

With that let's go on to this week's selections, winners in boldface.

Friday
Hartington at Winside, Emerson Hubbard at Laurel, Homer at Allen, Lyons at Wakefield.

Saturday
Allen at Wakefield.

Athlete Of The Week

NEIL BLOHM, ALLEN HIGH SCHOOL

This week's selection for Athlete of the Week wasn't easy by any means — the number of outstanding area athletes made it a difficult choice.

The obvious pick for Wayne area fans has to be Tod Bigelow after the salty, 5-8 senior sang a 20-footer to give his team a 73-72 victory over a strong Class A South Sioux City club. Tally that shot with his total points for the night and he becomes a strong candidate. But so does his teammates — Marty Hansen, Bill Keating, Bill Schwartz and Kim Baker, Scott Ehlers and Kerry Jech.

Granted, none of the players scored as well as Bigelow but their team playing warrants mention also as candidates for this week's honors.

Looking around the area, Wakefield's Gary Addick ranks as another top choice. His performance against Wisner-Pittger's superman, 6-8 Steve Hornbeck, makes him a top selection. According to coach Joe Coble, the 6-8 senior literally stopped Hornbeck in his shoes, allowing the Gator center only eight points and seven rebounds. That's a considerable drop from his previous game when the Wisner player dropped in 31 points against West Point Central Catholic for a 59-56 win.

Despite all the talent displayed, it's hard to overlook an excellent performance by Allen's Neil Blohm. It was Blohm's 22 points that kept the Eagles in the match against Winnebago last Friday, and as a result he is this week's Athlete of the Week.

The senior forward accounted for eight of Allen's 10 points in those seven overtimes against the Indians. As coach Robert Moore pointed out: "He played a fantastic game."

Blohm's specialty not only is in basketball, he's also a three sport letterman. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blohm of Allen, he has played on the Eagles football and baseball teams.

Police Blotter

Parked Car Mishaps
A parked car owned by V. V. Jacobmeier, 1322 Meador Lane, was struck while in a parking lot near 10th and Main Sunday. Nancy Wacholtz, 112 Blaine, said she was backing her vehicle out of a parking stall when the accident occurred about 4 p.m.

Monday morning about 9 o'clock Reah Sitzman, 509 Walnut, was backing her car from a parking stall on the 100 block of West Third when her vehicle and one driven by Raymond Langmeier, rural Wayne, collided.

Gene Fredrickson, rural Wayne, was driving south on Main about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday when he was struck by Steve Gibbons of Newell. The rear end accident happened when Fredrickson was attempting to make a right hand turn onto Ninth Street.

About 1 a.m. Wednesday a car driven by James Math, 800 Pine Heights, struck a metal building in an alley between First and Second Streets.

Veterans' Benefits Questions, Answers

Q. I draw compensation from the Veterans Administration for a service-connected disability. If I get a job, will it affect my compensation?

A. Not unless your VA rating is based on unemployment and you are rated 100 per cent disabled.

Q. Is my deceased husband, a World War II veteran, eligible for a headstone?

A. Yes; headstones are available for any deceased veteran whose last period of military service was terminated honorably. Suggest you apply to the Veterans Administration since this program was transferred from the Army Sept. 1, 1973.

Q. My brother was blinded during the Vietnam War, and can't seem to get interested in living again. What is the Veterans Administration doing about young men like him?

A. A VA recently entered into an agreement with the Blind Veterans Association to augment agency service to the blind. This is an addition to other agency benefits such as compensation for service connected blindness, guide dogs and electronic and mechanical aids, their repair and replacement.

Fix 'em, Eat 'em and Enjoy 'em

AFTER A year's lapse, Carroll's pancake feed still proved to be a popular event. Over 400 people gathered last Saturday at the town's auditorium to sample the free cakes prepared by the Carroll American Legion Auxiliary. The Carroll Community Club sponsored event was a huge success, noted club secretary Phil Olsson. Helping to prepare some of the hot cakes are, far left, Mrs. Ruth Jones and JoAnn Owens, while Mrs. Lloyd Morris and Mrs. Earl Davis rock the sausage, second from left. After the fixings, it's Mrs. Ann Roberts' turn to do the scrubbing. While all this activity was going on, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Westenstein of Carroll, butter up their hot pancakes. The annual event was not held last year because of conflicts with other activities.

'What if somebody slips and falls on dark street?'

WAYNE

Dear Editor: I have been watching the council meetings on Tuesday when it's on. Must say I don't always agree with the councilmen. For one thing, I think they should leave one street light on in each block, no matter which direction it is from Main Street. For about two years Third Street was lit up like a Christmas tree, and now it is so damn dark out that I won't let my kids out at night alone on the streets. I've noticed for the past 10 days that early in the morning there are lights on in the alleys downtown. Why can't a light be left on in front of the homes so people can see to enter or leave their homes?

Why should Wayne be so dark on the streets when all surrounding towns have their street lights on all night? If an older person happens to fall and get hurt on a dark street, who will have to pay for it if the person isn't able to pay the bill themselves? I think the city should pay the bill.

Talking about saving lights, etc., they could shut off all lights in the schools as I don't think they need so many on at night. Also, I've heard there are more lights on up at the college than they need on and they are on till around 8 a.m. or later. I also think some of the auto dealers could shut off their used car lots and showrooms. I don't think the stores would have to be open at nights like they are before Christmas. One regular night should be enough, and no Sundays open Again about using less lights in homes, I happened to go pass one councilman's house a couple nights in a row and every light was on in his home from the basement to the attic. Don't think he was cutting down on anything. One night he was at the council meeting and I suppose the next night at the college as he works at the college.

I heard that a person had to be 21 years of age to work on the police force. If that is true, then why the 19 year-old marking lines? Before the police ever had anyone marking lines on two-hour parking there was never anything said, but now everyone is talking about how hard up the city must be that they have to charge people for parking more than two hours to do shopping. Some only come into Wayne for special business (such as paying taxes and getting new car license) because they live closer to another town.

I think Wayne is forcing people to shop elsewhere in other towns.

I think Wayne had better wake up once and check into the background of who they hire, instead of hiring someone that has been in trouble with the police or is still in school. Some won't even hire high school students during the summer when they can work.

I think Wayne schools should have less going on at night if they want to cut on fuel saving for lights.

A CITY TAXPAYER

P. S. You will probably throw this into the wastebasket and not even print this in the paper as I would like for it to be.

Exon steers middle road during fuel crisis

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — Governor J. James Exon has decided to steer into the middle lane in the speed limit controversy.

President Nixon has recommended 50 mile per hour maximum speeds for cars (55 mph for trucks and buses) because of the energy crisis. Some of Exon's highway safety advisors thought 40 or even 45 would be reasonable on Interstate Highways in Nebraska (down from 75 mph), with no lower than 55 on other paved roads.

The governor announced last week he had decided to recommend that the 1974 Legislature set a 55 mph speed limit on all paved highways, Interstate included, for all vehicles.

The governor said the presidential recommendation of a two-tiered speed limit concerned him from a safety viewpoint. Exon said it would be dangerous to have trucks and buses traveling faster than passenger cars; however, he agreed that big trucks don't achieve their most efficient fuel consumption until they reach cruising speeds of about 55 mph or slightly faster.

There's no indication what the Legislature might do with the Exon recommendation, but at least one senator — Scottsbluff's Terry Carpenter — says he thinks the lawmakers ought to pass a bill giving the governor the power to set speed limits wherever he wishes when faced with emergencies, such as the fuel shortage.

It is Carpenter's view that it's unnecessary to have the Legislature called back into session to change the speed limit if one rate doesn't work out (if, for example, federal officials force a 50 mph limit on Nebraska, using the threat of upholding road-building aid as a lever).

Office Project Advances

The state of Nebraska and the city of Lincoln have officially become partners in another real estate deal.

The state already was using the city's credit to finance the educational television and game commission headquarters buildings, and last week documents were signed making Lincoln the state's landlord for the state office building.

It's necessary for the city to provide the bond financing because Nebraska's constitution prohibits the state from going into debt beyond $100,000. The office building is expected to cost nearly $21 million.

This is the way it works: The city issues bonds and negotiates a lease-purchase agreement with the state. The state's rent equals the payments due on the bonds. When the bonds are retired, the building is turned over to the state.

The new office building is to be built one block north of the capitol, between 14th and 15th Streets and M and N Streets.

The 1973 Legislature adopted the laws which made the current financing arrangements possible. The 10-year bonds — which carry an interest rate of 4.79 per cent — will be paid off with cigarette tax revenue dedicated to capital construction projects.

It will cost the state something like $7.7 million in interest over the coming decade, but part of that is relieved because the principal will be invested and earn interest while it is waiting to be spent.

In fact, officials estimated last week that a surplus of about $3 million should be available in the fund by 1984 when the bonds are paid off. That's because of the interest income through investments.

Penal Progress Predicted

Members of the Legislature's budget and judiciary committees both are predicting that significant funding steps will be taken in the 1974 session toward penal reform.

The Exon administration is to provide financial details later this week on proposals for expanding work and educational release programs.

Warden Charles Wolff said all it takes is additional money to get those programs going on a wider basis. There are, he said, plenty of prisoners eligible to use work or educational release (where the inmate spends his day on the job or at school and his night in custody) if financing were available.

The prisoners want more of these programs. About 20 of them testified last week when a group of legislators held a hearing at the State Penitentiary. They were almost-unanimous in urging expansion of the programs.

One inmate said all he was learning in the penal complex now was "how to fear and be feared."

In addition to the expanded programs, legislators and the governor are packaging a construction plan which includes a diagnostic and evaluation center, a new reformatory-type facility and renovation of the penitentiary.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING — 1900

With the Christmas season — at least the shopping phase of it — beginning earlier each year, perhaps before long "last minute" shoppers will be those who have waited until after Thanksgiving to do their holiday buying. Be that as it may, in the midst of this year's Christmas rush you may be interested in what the shopping aspect of the Christmas season was like at about the turn of the century. The best source of such information, of course, is the State Historical Society's collection of newspaper files.

In Beatrice, the mild, dry weather of early December, 1900, was looked upon as good for the town's Christmas business, although the Express remarked, "The croakers are beginning to view with alarm the protracted dry weather." For the Christmas shoppers who reportedly flocked to Beatrice, there was a wide range of goods offered. A fine rocking chair with arms could be had for $6.50, Bibles from $1.00 to $2.00, cameras from $4.00 to $30.00, and dolls from 39 cents to $1.75. Christmas trees were offered at from 20 cents up.

The week before Christmas saw Fremont stores staying open each evening to accommodate the holiday trade. As in Beatrice, bargains in furniture were suggested as gifts. For the man of the house there was a comfortable Morris chair for $5.75, with "some better ones for a little more money." Then there was a colonial rocker, upholstered in leather, which could be had for $25.00. This same advertisement reminded shoppers that "iron beds have come to stay."

So they said

Congress should recognize the urgent necessity of allowing us (railroads) to promptly increase our prices whenever it's necessary to meet rising costs. Railroads are not exempt from the cost-price pressures that affect every business. — Lewis W. Menk, chairman of the board, Burlington Northern, Inc.

Hazel Sorensen, Wakefield

'Was that a wise decision?'

WAYNE

Dear Editor: We realize that many times decisions are made on a local state and national levels based on facts of which individual citizens are not aware. We trust our elected officials to make the wisest decisions and be accountable for them.

We would like to know the facts that influenced those responsible for building a whole new college campus at Norfolk — Northeast Tech. The need for this type of institution is great and has a real purpose to fulfill. But why build a whole new campus, when we as a state are supporting a large, beautiful, efficient, well established campus already, just 30 miles distant — with a dwindling student enrollment, empty buildings, a faculty that sees its number chipped away at each year, contributing to frustration and insecurity in many homes?

Surely it would only have involved a small percentage of the capital outlay at Norfolk to have remodeled some of the buildings at Wayne State to conform to the physical plant needs for a tech school. By facing reality that a teacher training and liberal arts curriculum is not enough to satisfy the demand of the working generation of tomorrow, our state would have saved tax $$$ by altering the purpose of Wayne State to serve jointly the position it now holds as well as a tech school.

If it was predominantly political pressure from Norfolk interests, rather than common sense and financial management or competence, of our elected officials that made such a regrettable decision, shame on us! We are probably as guilty as anyone for not getting involved in public affairs, even POLITICS, much less to write such a letter and sign our names.

Pickett who has been manager of the Wayne exchange the past 12 years. — Flames which are thought to have originated from the furnace destroyed farm home two and a quarter miles south of Carroll last Wednesday evening, Vernon Jensens, who occupied the property, lost all the household furnishings except a sewing machine and their clothing. Beginning Jan. 1, 1944, rent on folding chairs from William Beckenhauer will be 25c per dozen per day.

Miss Ertum is a guest of Renee Willste at the Willard Willste home. Both are first-year students at the PEO Cotley College, Nevada, Mo. Mrs. Basil Osburn, Wayne, has been named Wayne County director of the 1959 March of Dimes, State Chairman Ted R. Hughes announced this week. A large crowd attended the Ellis Johnson farm sale 11 miles southeast of Wayne last week. The appointment, made Friday, is effective Feb. 1. Stinnett, Tex., Hutchinson County Herald

"If the value of the dollar doesn't stop dropping and the cost of merchandise doesn't stop rising we may be forced to carry merchandise to buy money."

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

MANUFACTURED WEATHER

Novel testing procedures have been developed by car manufacturers simulating highway wind and weather conditions to enable them to more efficiently locate and correct potential problems before they reach the consumer.

Searching out sources of an air whistling sound is one example. This type of noise can be especially irritating and distracting, occurring when the car is driven at highway speeds and the movement through the air creates a partial vacuum on the outside of the car. This vacuum may cause the air inside the car to be drawn out through small openings or around weather seals, causing the whistle.

Before the development of specialized equipment, test cars had to be driven on an expressway, with a technician listening for the whistling noise through a stethoscope. This type of testing was not very precise because of variations in wind, weather and road conditions.

In recent years, factory engineers have devised more scientific detection procedures. The vacuum condition that would develop at high speeds is simulated by pumping compressed air into the car through the trunk, pressurizing the passenger compartment. A trained technician then probes the car's interior with a precision sound-level meter to pinpoint any air leaks.

Water leaks are detected by an unusual method. Cars are subjected to streams of water-sprayed under 30 pounds of pressure (equalling the severest down-pour) at the most susceptible points of water seepage. The recycled water used for this test contains a chemical dye that glows when subjected to black light (which is similar to ultraviolet light).

After the car has been deluged for several minutes, a technician opens the doors and trunk to detect if any water has leaked into the car, and, using the black light, can spot the precise point of entry. Appropriate steps can then be taken to correct the problem.

OBSERVATIONS

Prune it, but don't rip it up

A bill that might destroy overnight the legal system built up through centuries of law and tradition for insuring the safe transfer of inherited property under the supervision of the courts lies in wait for the 1974 session of the Unicameral.

It is LB 354, introduced at the last session and held over for the 60-day 1974 meeting of the Nebraska Legislature.

Known as the Uniform Probate Code bill, it has a few attractions at first sight, but on closer examination it reveals some sinister flaws.

It would be a mistake to think that probate procedures concern only the wealthy. Even very modest estates — a small house or acreage, a few investments — usually need probate so that the property involved can be dealt with according to the will of the deceased, when an executor is needed, or according to the laws of the state if no will is left, in which case an administrator is called for.

The "Uniform Probate Code" has some appeal to those who think that anything which is uniform is therefore better. Doubtless some problems exist in present procedures and they ought to be remedied. It is arguable that many of these are personal failings more than a shortcoming of the statutes. But proponents of LB 354 tend to stress the court costs they claim would be saved, rather than the essential court supervision of the handling of estates, that would be lost.

The long-established principal of accountability, you see, would be tossed aside to make things "easier" or "cheaper." But the costs of Federal and state inheritance taxes wouldn't be lightened one iota.

This Code, in one form or another, actually has been adopted in a handful of states, including Colorado and Idaho. It offers no threat yet to time-proved procedures in most states that safeguard the orderly transfer of private property, ownership of which certainly is a distinguishing mark of a free nation's people. But such a bill actually is up for discussion in our Unicameral very soon.

Interestingly enough, Nebraska lawyers, through an opinion poll in their own Bar Association, have voted overwhelmingly against the proposal. Yet a segment of the Association apparently is ready to support the change before a legislative committee even without the approval of a majority of its membership.

Only a student of the history of Anglo-Saxon law could trace its development over many centuries. Most of the law we have now is in effect simply because it works. That is, it is fair, it is equitable, it preserves the right of disposing of one's property. In most cases today, probate is really a quite streamlined and reasonably prompt affair, far faster than some of the antiquated courts ridiculed by Charles Dickens more than a hundred years ago.

We should never forget that our system of law, like our system of government, is like a tree. It should be trimmed and pruned occasionally without a doubt. But it should not be torn up by the roots just for the sake of digging and changing, lest the whole system perish, root and branch.

Proper Calf Feeding More Important Now To State's 4-H'ers

Using the proper feeding program for 4-H market calves will have added importance with a recent change in 4-H livestock policy that makes growthiness a new criteria for live animal placings.

All market beef to be shown at State Fair and Ak-Sar-Ben must be weighed and identified during the month of March, explains Dave Williams, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension 4-H livestock specialist.

The starting weight will then be put on the identification form and filed with the county agent. County agents will inform the club members as to when and where calves will be weighed. Starting weights and daily gains will be given to judges at State Fair and Ak-Sar-Ben when they make their official placings.

Williams points out that average daily gain or performance will not be the judge's sole criteria, but will be balanced in with existing criteria of type, conformation, muscling, firmness and so forth. "But it will help the judge sort out poor doing animals," he adds.

The new policy differs slightly from the performance class initiated this year at Ak-Sar-Ben. In the performance class, the judge is provided with the birth date of the animal and its weight per day of age throughout its entire life. In regular classes, the judge will only receive weight gains since March.

"Because the animal's gains will be used in class placings, it is important that the 4-H'er follow a feeding program that allows his animal to make the right kind of gains and still turn out a good, high quality carcass," Williams said.

"Feed your market calves for a particular show or marketing date," he advises, "then have them correct in weight, finish and grade at that date. A 4-H market steer should weigh 1,000-1,250 lbs., carry about 3-5 inches of outside fat and grade choice when shown and sold. A market heifer will finish at a lighter weight than a steer of the same age and should weigh 900-1,100 lbs."

According to the 4-H specialist, the feeding program for market calves can be divided into two phases. During the first phase, a high roughage and low energy ration is fed to permit the calf to grow and develop normally, but not fatten. During the last phase, the calf is fed a high energy ration so that it will continue to grow and fatten, too.

"When designing a feeding program for a particular calf, it is important to consider the differences among breeds," he reminds.

Four H's can make use of a leaflet entitled "Programs for Feeding Club Calves," available at county extension offices, which contains a chart guideline according to breed and sex. By finding their animal's description on the chart, 4-H'ers can determine when they should conclude the growing phase and begin the finishing phase.

Williams notes that the beginning of the 160-170 day finishing phase may be right at or shortly after the March weigh date for some 4-H'ers with exotic-cross steers. Others with British breeds or British breed-cross steers will not have to begin a finishing ration until 120-150 days before showtime. Finishing time for heifers is even shorter for the respective breeds and crosses.

The 4-H feeding guideline also contains suggested growing and finishing rations and tips for what to do when a calf goes off feed.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

Each person has his own idea of Christmas cheer, but here is my version.

Many flame colors can be obtained by treating fuel for the fireplace, with chemical solutions.

Evergreen cones, small blocks of wood, sawdust, or newspaper rolled and tied at each end are material which can be treated, dried and used to produce different colors as they are added to the fire.

The following chemicals will produce these colors: copper sulfate, green; calcium chloride, orange; copper chloride, blue; lithium chloride, purple-red; potassium chloride, purple.

Do not use chlorates, nitrates or potassium permanganate. Chemicals should be kept away from children and pets, and all soaking jobs should be done outside.

Chemicals should be dissolved in a wooden pail or earthen crock, for they will destroy metal containers. The soaking mixture is made by dissolving one pound of chemical to one gallon of water, with one chemical per batch.

The material to be treated may be placed in a mesh or porous bag and submerged in the solution. A stone can be used to weigh the material down in the solution. Lift out and drain over the container, then spread the treated material out to dry. If the materials are allowed to dry on newspaper, the newspaper when dry can be rolled, wrapped tightly and burned in the fireplace.

Burning of the treated material should be confined to a well ventilated fireplace. Treated cones and wooden blocks make good novelty Christmas gifts, and bags to contain them can be made of dried mosquito netting.

Food Career Scholarships Available

Two types of scholarships are available Nebraska high school seniors interested in a career in food science and technology.

Scholarships valued at $500 are available on a national competition basis for incoming university freshmen. From six to eight $200 scholarships are also offered to incoming freshmen from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Food Science and Technology.

Both scholarships can be renewed each year at the University. The national scholarships are made available by the Institute of Food Technologists (IFT) to encourage young men and women to enter the field of food science and technology. In the past from two to four incoming NU freshmen have received the scholarship each year.

Food science and technology deals with industrial processing and food, and is a field that ranges from feeding the world masses to feeding map in space. Career opportunities for food technologists continue to grow yearly, and jobs exist with food processing and manufacturing companies, governmental agencies and institutions of higher learning.

The NU Food Science and Technology Department must have the applications for the IFT scholarships by mid February so they can be processed and mailed to IFT by March 1.

Applications for the NU scholarships must be filed at the NU financial aids office by Feb. 15. It is best if interested students also write a letter to the Department of Food Science and Technology expressing their interest in the scholarships and in the department, officials say.

Application forms for the IFT scholarships can be obtained by writing to Dr. Roy Arnold, Department of Food Science and Technology, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr. 68503. Any graduating high school senior interested in studying food science and technology is eligible to apply.

Hike for HOPE Plans Underway

Sponsors for the annual Hike for HOPE in Wayne have selected March 9 as the date for the third annual walk to raise money for the S. S. Hope.

Making plans for the event are members of the Phi Mu Sorority at Wayne State College.

Money raised in the hike will go to help support the 15,000-ton Navy hospital ship which has been traveling around the world to help people in need of medical help since 1960. The ship has made stops in such countries as Vietnam, Peru, Ecuador, Ceylon, Indonesia, and Brazil.

The ship is permanently staffed with more than 140 doctors, nurses and allied health personnel.

'Park the Plow' Advice Given by NU Ag Expert

The plow, which has symbolized agriculture since man began scratching a furrow with a crude pointed stick, may be headed for moonballs for the duration of the energy crisis. And in the interim, other tillage techniques which consume less energy may assume a more important place in the farmer's arsenal of implements.

"Park the plow" is the cryptic advice of Dr. William Splinter, chairman of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Agricultural Engineering. In a televised interview which may be distributed nationwide by the Extension Service, USDA, Splinter notes that "plowing requires more energy (horsepower), than any other farming operation."

He cites four other alternative tillage systems — sweep-plowing, chisel-plowing, discing and hill planting — which farmers should consider within their own situations to save fuel.

Plowing requires 19 horsepower hours per acre. Based on NU tractor testing results, the average tractor's rated efficiency was at 12 1/2 horsepower hours per gallon. Thus, 1 1/2 gallons of diesel fuel are required to plow an acre of land.

By comparison, chisel plowing is rated at 1 1/2 horsepower hours per acre; sweep plowing, 4 1/2 horsepower hours; discing, 5 1/2 horsepower hours, and hill planting, only 3.7 horsepower hours per acre.

Splinter notes that "all farms are different" and concedes that plowing will be required in some situations, especially where heavy bottom land is involved. According to Splinter, however, in the majority of instances the moldboard plow — part of the FFA symbol and the subject of many ballads of the soil — may be destined for obscurity.

"Today's huge gang plows are more difficult to put to other uses than the single plow which now holds mailboxes and has utility in other strange roles. The duration and intensity of the fuel shortage is likely to determine how many (and how soon) farmers' turn away from the traditional plow and the beautiful furrow patterns to other methods of tillage, documented to require less fuel, Splinter says.

Nominees for 'Good Neighbor' Being Sought

Know a good neighbor who goes out of his way to help others without thought of personal gain or reward?

Ak-Sar-Ben is seeking the names of such individuals, groups and clubs for its annual Good Neighbor Awards, reports general manager Dick Becker.

Perhaps he's an elderly gentleman down the block who bundles up at dawn on cold, wintery mornings and clears the walks for neighbors who are unable to do the job themselves.

Or a couple who consistently goes out of its way to assist ill confined or needy neighbors by making visits, bringing groceries or doing odd jobs that need to be done.

Or a community organization whose members volunteer unusual efforts toward the improvement or beautification of the area.

These are some examples of the kind of neighborliness which have earned deserving individuals and groups the coveted Ak-Sar-Ben "Good Neighbor Award" through the years from Nebraska and western Iowa.

Framed citations and gold lapel emblems will be awarded to the winners selected by a state-wide committee. Nominations are being sought for neighborly deeds performed during 1973, and nomination forms are available by writing the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards Committee, 63rd and Shirley Streets, Omaha, Nebraska 68106. All nominations must be post-marked not later than Feb. 1.

Safety Tips

Frostbite is a hazard during Nebraska's winter months. The Nebraska Medical Association points out that children, hunters and those who work outdoors are most susceptible.

The areas most commonly affected are the ears, nose, fingers and toes. The symptoms are pink skin changing to white or grayish-yellow as frostbite develops.

One of the dangers of frostbite is that you often do not feel it happening. Never rub frostbitten parts with snow or ice because this increases the risk of infection and gangrene. When frostbite occurs in fingers or hands, hold the hand under the arm, next to the body. Get the person inside as soon as possible and place the frostbitten extremity in lukewarm water. Remove the extremity as soon as a flush extends to the tips of the fingers.

When ears and noses are frozen, apply towels soaked in warm water. Frostbitten tissue should be handled with care and a physician should be consulted.

AVOID HOLIDAY FIRES

Candles burn, fires glow in open fireplaces and children romp around the house during holiday vacation. You are reminded, however, to be especially aware that clothing plus flame equals fire hazards. Clothing appears 18th on a list of 30 most frequently reported products associated with injuries.

Clothing is designed for style and beauty but it also has a close relationship with fire safety. Three factors must be present for clothing to burn: (1) a source of ignition, (2) a supply of fuel which is the fabric itself and (3) enough oxygen to sustain the flame.

Major ignition sources are matches, lighters, gas and electric ranges, space heaters, flammable liquids, and open flames such as candles and fireplaces. Look around — your home has sources of fire ignition.

Industry is fighting clothing fires with fibers, fabrics and finishes which prevent easy ignition and act as a poor source of fuel. But presently, most items of clothing provide a good fuel source for flames.

Once a fabric is ignited, sufficient oxygen must be present to sustain the burning process. Clothing which stands away from the body — turtlenecks, wide sleeves and wide pant legs — permit easy access to oxygen; therefore, if ignited, it would burn quickly. The more fabric fullness in a garment are three to six clients in each class with two teachers to a class. Children are grouped according to their age and needs, and each group is set off from the rest with dividers, she added. Groups have special names such as the "Jolly Jumpers" and the "Busy Bees."

A mother volunteer program proves helpful, with mothers taking turns doing school laundry, providing transportation for outings, providing equipment for school use and helping in the kitchen.

The CDDCC building is a one-story structure 50 by 34 feet with a complete kitchen, rest room facilities, enclosed office, quiet room, three instructional areas, a nap area and a physical therapy area. There also is a fenced play area with play equipment. The quiet room is a room where children are placed, if they become ill, until parents can come.

The hostel is a continuation of the CDDCC program. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sonnenfeldt are the hosts and have three clients at present. Maggie Corle is assistant houseparent and teacher at the center. Hopefully by Christmas a new hostel, with facilities for six clients, will be completed.

Besides Jo Bendin, the CDDCC staff includes Sharon Sanderson of Norfolk, assistant director. Instructors and staff members are Linda Singaas of Norfolk, Mary Ponca and Rose Schulte, Norfolk; Maggie Corle, Tilden; Debbie Meador and Kay Humphrey, Meadow Grove; Ellen Schlect, Woodland Park; Margaret Keeper, Norfolk; Mary Schulte, Norfolk; John Bennett, Norfolk; Stan Reiss, Norfolk, and Helen Cox, Norfolk.
