School Board Learns Cost Of Better Carroll School

It could cost as much as $43,000 to remodel the elementary school at Carroll and as much as $209,000 to replace it with a new building, Wayne-Carroll school board members learned Monday night.

Those estimates are contained in a four-page report prepared for the board by a Lincoln architectural firm which was hired last year to study the building at Carroll and come up with estimates of what it would cost to provide better facilities for students in grades kinder-square feet in a new building would lower or raise the total price considerably, he said, but the cost per square foot of $27 for masonry and steel construction and $22 for wood construction would remain about the same.

Cost of construction per square foot is quite high, he told the board, because the building is so small.

Cost of remodeling, which would make the building last a minimum of 10 years and possibly 20 years, would be $5.11 per square foot, the firm's report shows.

Actual cost of remodeling or building a new facility would run more than the two estimates given in the report, however, since no architectural or engineering fees were included in the estimates, according to Jones.

Also not considered in the cost estimates for a new building was the cost of tearing down the existing facility.

eral months after superintendent Francis Haun early last year listed that as one of the "three most pressing problems" facing the school district. The other problems listed by Haun at a regular board meeting in March were athletic competition for high school girls and bleachers for the high school auditorium.

The architectural firm did not recommend that the board either remodel the existing building or build a new one.

The board is now considering the cost estimates and may discuss the subject at next month's regular meeting.

Lynn Jones, representative of the architectural firm, told the board that the estimates on how much it would cost to build a new school - $209,000 for masonry and steel construction, $173,000 for wood construction - are "very general" and could change considerably if the board decided to build a larger or smaller school than considered by the architectural firm.

The firm estimated the building would contain 7,300 square feet, including 2,700 feet for three classrooms and 2,400 for a multi-purpose room.

That remodeling would be extensive, according to the report. Included would be additional lighting and new fixtures in each classroom, stripping of the old roofing to the sheathing and replacing it with new insulation.

Board members have been considering remodeling and new construction at Carroll for several months.

Rural Woman Joins $50 Winners

Mrs. Ray Reeg of rural Wayne won $50 in last week's Birthday Bucks drawing in Wayne.

Mrs. Reeg, latest in a growing list of shoppers who have won $50 prizes in the weekly promotion sponsored by Wayne business, picked up her coupons after being in the Black Knight Steakhouse when the winning date in the drawing was announced last Thursday night.

A person with a birthday on that exact date was not present among the participating firms, so the $50 consolation prize went to Mrs. Reeg.

The grand prize of $300 in coupons will again be offered tonight, (Thursday) in the 8.15 drawing if it is not claimed, another $50 prize will be given away.

Allen Board To Support Koester Drive

The Allen village board voted Monday night to support a drive to raise funds to help pay for Danny Koester's operation.

The 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Koester of rural Allen is undergoing a bone-marrow transplant in a Seattle hospital. Vic Carpenter was appointed the village chairman to raise the funds.

In other action, members decided to split usage of the town's two wells, using the north well one week and the new well three weeks a month.

Also, the board noted that E. H. "Jack" Mitchell will be assigned police duties only instead of combining his job with street maintenance. That part of Mitchell's job was given to Ed Asbra, who presently is the town's maintenance man.

Finally, the board passed a resolution to hold the village election in conjunction with the statewide primary in May.

Board members whose terms expire this year are G. D. Kjer, Don Kluber and Ken Linatetter.

City Council Okays Another Payment to Former Police Chief

Wayne councilmen voted 6-2 Tuesday night to pay former chief of police Robert Evers $1,650 in severance pay.

The payment will be in addition to the payment of $825 plus benefits voted for Evers at a special meeting late in December when mayor Kent Hall informed the council he would "terminate the services" of Evers as chief before his six-month probationary period was completed at the end of December.

Councilman Jim Thomas, admitting he was bringing up a "sore subject," recommended the additional money as severance pay because of the "city's obligation" to Evers.

Thomas said the city hired Evers illegally after the former chief, Vern Fairchild, was fired early last year by mayor Hall. The city was ordered to reinstate Fairchild as chief in December by the district judge.

Councilmen Keith Mosley and Pat Gross agreed with Thomas that the city has a "moral obligation" to Evers after hiring him and telling him he would be offered fulltime employment with the city's police department. City administrator Fred See COUNCIL, page 7

Puff, Puff Is No-No

Wayne councilman Keith Mosley fought his battle for cleaner air again Tuesday night. And this time he won.

As a result, smokers on the city council may have to take up chewing gum during council sessions, and visitors to the meetings may have to sneak out into the lobby to light up.

As soon as the Mosley-sponsored ordinance is published in the newspaper — possibly before the next council meeting later this month, for sure by the council's first meeting in February — no smoking will be allowed while the city fathers are in session.

Mosley even offered to pay for publishing the ordinance, the step which makes it a legal addition to the city's other ordinances and regulations, to assure the taxpayers that it will cost them no money. That could cost Mosley between $8 and $10, but he said he would be happy to pay it.

Mosley nearly lost his fight to get the no smoking ordinance passed Tuesday night on a legal technicality, but by the time the city attorney (who smokes) was through talking and the councilmen (some who do, some who don't) were through arguing, the ordinance was considered valid.

Funeral Held For Operator Of Local Cafe

Funeral services for William A. Davie, operator of Bill's Cafe in Wayne for nearly 10 years, were held at First United Methodist Church Tuesday afternoon.

Davie, 46, died Sunday at Wayne Hospital.

Born Sept. 21, 1927 at Sioux City, Davie grew up and attended school in the Dow City and Danison, Ia. area. He had lived in Wayne the past 19 years.

Survivors include his wife, Sharon; a daughter, Dawn, and three sons, Randy, Jay and Todd, all at home. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Emily (Marcella) McCoid of Dow City and Mrs. Jay (Virginia) Nollen of Arlan, Ia.

Davie was married to Sharon Lindsay on Jan. 28, 1955 in Wayne.

Conducting Tuesday's services was the Rev. Frank Kirtley. Bearers were Darrel Soden, Deard' Hamm, Ivan Beeks, Grant Tietgen, Lee Swinney and Tony Reiners. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

7 County Officials Get 25% Salary Hikes

Wayne County commissioners Tuesday approved 25 per cent increases in the salaries paid seven of the 10 elected county officials.

Effective the first of next year when officials take office for four-year terms, the county clerk, sheriff, treasurer and assessor will receive $9,000 a year, up $1,800 from their present yearly salary of $7,200. The county superintendent of schools, clerk of district court and attorney will receive $8,125 annually, up $1,625 from their present yearly pay of $6,500.

In addition, the board agreed to provide annual salary hikes equal to the cost of living increase established by the federal cost of living council. If the cost of living goes down over any year, the salaries will be reduced accordingly, the board agreed.

The three county commissioners made no changes in the salaries paid themselves, currently $6,500.

Clerk Norris Weible said the salary hikes will "probably not raise the mill levy in the county." He said treasurer Leon Meyer has estimated that the county could earn about $10,000 a year by investing funds currently deposited in banks but not drawing interest. That amount would be almost enough to pay for the salary increases, Weible said.

The salary increases approved by the board, not counting any cost of living increase, will cost the county an additional $12,075 each year.

Currently holding those seven offices are Weible, Meyer, sheriff Don Weible, assessor Doris Stipp, superintendent Fred Rickers, clerk of district court Joann Ostrander and attorney Budd Bornhoff.

All those officials, as well as commissioners Joe Wilson of Wakefield and Floyd Burt of Winside, are in the last year of their four-year terms. Primary elections for those offices will be held in May, with the general election taking place in November.

The 25 per cent salary hikes follow similar salary increases in surrounding counties, and the commissioners said the increase for Wayne County officials will put them on about the same level in pay as officials in counties of similar size and valuation.

In other action, the commissioners named Wilson to another one-year term as board chairman.

Petitions To Ask Hall To Resign

Wayne city councilman Vernon Russell said he plans on seeking signatures for petitions asking for the resignation of mayor Kent Hall either this weekend or early next week.

Russell said he will submit the petitions to the council to show the other members what the public thinks of the job mayor Hall has been doing over the past three and a half years.

Russell asked for but failed to get Hall's resignation at a special meeting of the council late in December. At that time he said he would personally spearhead a petition drive to get Hall to resign.

"Personally, I've got nothing against the mayor," Russell See PETITIONS, page 7

Public Hearing Slated on Fairchild Case

Wayne's three-man civil service commission will hold a public hearing next week to decide whether mayor Kent Hall was justified in firing police chief Vern Fairchild late in December.

The commission will hold a public hearing on the matter at the Woman's Club room in the city auditorium at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

On the commission are local businessmen Robert Merchant and Joe Nuss and Wayne State College instructor Dr. Freeman Decker.

The commission, with just Merchant and Nuss present, ruled recently that Hall was justified based on the charges made in writing against Fairchild. Fairchild then requested See HEARING, page 7

City Nearly 'Out of Woods' in Energy Crisis

The city of Wayne is "not out of the woods" when it comes to the energy crisis, said city administrator Fred Brink, but the town may be able to pull through this winter if the weather cooperates.

Brink, speaking to Monday's Kiwanis gathering, explained the city has about 200,000 gallons of fuel on hand — enough to keep the city power plant running for at least a month if it were shut off from natural gas.

The power plant burns about 7,000 gallons a day, he said, during very cold weather. Right now the city is on a stand-by basis with Peoples Natural Gas to burn gas whenever possible instead of diesel fuel. "We should be able to pull through the winter if (Keith) Mosley helps us," he noted, adding for those who did not know that Mosley is manager of the gas company in Wayne.

One thing the city can control is the rising cost of fuel. Monday the city was notified that its supplier, Standard Oil, raised the cost of diesel fuel 6.4 cents a gallon, he said. "That's a 33 per cent increase, since I took over as city administrator Oct. 1," he noted. Since then the price has jumped from 18.5 cents a gallon to 24.9 cents.

One alternative to the fuel increase is to hook up with Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) which the city is currently considering, according to Brink. That would be a very good insurance program for the city, but one problem is that the minimum contract is for 10 years, he said.

FRED BRINK

It has been pointed out by some, he continued, that the 10-year contract eventually leads to phasing out of generator plants in small towns which hook up to NPPD.

Brink pointed out that buying power at various times could prove to be expensive also, especially during NPPD's peak time of the month. As a result the cost could go up for electricity, he said.

As it stands right now, though, the line is about 40 days away from being completed, which could mean the line wouldn't be ready for use until about spring, according to Brink.

Both Brink and mayor Kent Hall believe that with the cooperation of everyone the city can See CRISIS, page 7

Cash Registers Ringing Nicely In Wayne, Dixon, Cedar Counties

Businesses in Wayne, Dixon and Cedar Counties kept well ahead of the state as a whole in net taxable retail sales during the third quarter of 1973, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln publication reveals.

The dollar volume of taxed sales in Wayne County during July, August and September was $5,189,000, up 25.2 per cent from the $4,144,000 recorded during the same three months in 1972, according to the UN-L Bureau of Business Research.

That percentage increase is considerably higher than the 18 per cent increase registered statewide, the Bureau's publication shows.

Three factors contributed to the 18 per cent increase in net taxable sales across the state, the publication points out. The level of commodity prices increased nearly nine per cent, and the population rose about one per cent. "Discounting the combined effect of these two factors still leaves a marked increase in the real, or physical, volume of aggregate and per capita retail sales activity," according to the publication.

Cedar County's increase in dollar volume of taxed sales was actually greater than Wayne County's, jumping from $4,973,000 to $6,543,000 for a 31.6 per cent increase.

Dixon County experienced an increase in net taxable sales from $2,186,000 to $2,795,000 See RINGING NICELY, page 7

Nancy Wachholtz, features two WSC professors in lead roles. Dr. Robert Johnson, professor of communication arts, plays Macbeth and Dr. Helen J. Russell, professor of theatre, has been cast as Lady Macbeth. Another Wayne resident, Ted Blenden, a Wayne High School instructor, is also in the production, playing the part of Banquo.

Although rehearsals for the production are currently underway, some casting problems have yet to be worked out. "Macbeth" includes a total of 32 parts. Some actors will be carrying dual roles for the WSC presentations.

"Macbeth," one of William Shakespeare's most famous tragedies, was first presented in 1606, and is still very popular today, a tribute to the universal theme of ambition, greed and guilt.

Macbeth, a Scottish nobleman, is encouraged by the ambitious Lady Macbeth in a plot of murder the king and take over the rule of Scotland. The deed done, Macbeth finds to protect his position he must kill again and again. Eventually he meets his match in Macduff, another nobleman.

"Macbeth" is an exciting and intense psychological character study, interspersed with witches' predictions, the supernatural, sword fights and duels.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Anna Marie Kreifels

BATTLE WITH BOREDOM
Boredom may be the biggest cause of discontent in children, teens and adults. Why? Because of the tendency to practice only one form of leisure activity — watching TV.

In recent years leisure activities have become more important to many Americans, and the trend will continue in years to come.

Stimulating leisure activity doesn't just happen. New experiences and a variety of activities must be planned. Winter is the ideal time to try some new leisure activities.

First, zero in on your personal interests and try to broaden these. Develop a new hobby or talent. Listen to a different radio station. Visit your library and select an exciting book to read or some different records to listen to. Enroll in an adult education class or in a workshop offered by the extension service. Challenge yourself to do something with old things and become a part of the ecology movement.

Also look at possibilities for giving your time and work for the good of others. Deliver hot meals to elderly citizens. Visit shut-ins or residents in nursing homes. Become active in a civic group or a community organization. Look for ways to improve your community.

Think positive, look energetic and plan in advance. You'll find that a busy person has less time to feel sorry for himself and become bored. You'll become a happier, more interesting person if you learn to make the most of your leisure.

Newlyweds Home in Carroll

The Trinity Lutheran Church at Hinton, Ia., was the scene of the ceremony Dec. 29 uniting in marriage Ann Stusse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stusse of Hinton, to Steven D. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson of Carroll.

Miss Stusse, a 1970 graduate of Hinton Community School, has attended Wayne State College three years and is employed in Wayne. Peterson is a 1971 graduate of Wayne High School and a student at WSC.

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN PETERSON

The couple will make their home in Carroll. The bride's attendants were Mrs. Mary McKenzie of Minneapolis, Minn., Annette Stusse of Hinton and Nan Chilson of Sioux City, Ia. Attending the bridegroom were David Peterson and Dennis Harmer of Norfolk and Russell Peterson of Carroll.

David Getz of Sioux City was ring bearer and Amy Peterson of Norfolk was flower girl. Candles were lighted by Krista and Kerrie Klingebiel of St. Paul, Minn. Guests, registered by Jeanne Stusse of Hinton, were ushered into the church by Allen Stusse of Hinton, Bryan Stollenberg of Carroll and Ken Ote.

The Rev. Donald Wuertz of the school officiated at the double ring rites and Vickie Meyers of Missouri Valley, Ia., sang, accompanied by Mrs. Irene Jones of Hinton, organist. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klingebiel of St. Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Derald Peterson of Cherokee, Ia., greeted the guests at the reception held at the Hinton Community Hall, following the ceremony.

Gifts were arranged by Ruth Johnson of Columbus and Glenda Shanyefelt of Norfolk. Mrs. Bette Spies of Hinton and Pam Peterson of Cherokee cut and served the cake and Janelle Givens of Boone, Ia., and Rosemary Schueder of Larabee, Ia., served punch. Waltresses were Connie and Julie Holtz of Merrill, Ia., LuAnn Stabe and Susan and Tammy Binnebose of Hinton, Roseann Graham of Hartington and Jeanne Lackore of Sioux City.

For her wedding the bride chose a toe-length, empire-style gown of bridal satin trimmed in lace and seed pearls. The dress was styled with long bishop sleeves, a fine skirt and chapel-length train caught to a center back bow. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap and she carried white feathered carnations, green pompons, blue roses and lemon leaf.

Her attendants wore toe-length, A-line frocks in a blue and green print polyester knit and carried white pompons and lemon leaf.

'Sustained Effort' Gains WS Win Over Hastings; Chadron State Next Foe

Wayne State used a control offense, spirited defense—and consistency—to upend unbeaten Hastings College, 71-69, in a significant basketball clash here Saturday.

Consistency has been a non-negotiable quality in Wayne's 5-7 season, but coach Ron Jones credited a sustained effort with keeping Hastings in check for all but a few brief periods.

The host Wildcats led by five in mid first half, slipped to a 32-32 tie at intermission, trailed by four briefly after the half, then regained the lead until a late lapse.

After gaining a 40-54 pad with 7:50 to go, Wayne went scoreless for four minutes while the Broncos raced to a 65-60 lead. Then Wayne defense limited Hastings to one fielder and a pair of free throws while four Wildcats combined for 11 points in the final 3½ minutes.

Senior guard Jim Merchel of Hazel Park, Mich., started the surge, and it was his jump shot from the top of the key that put Wayne ahead, 70-69, with four seconds left. Two seconds later on a Hastings throw-in, Merchel drew a foul and hit the final point.

Wayne got its major scoring from junior guard Charlie Henderson of Tampa, Fla., with 24 and junior center Neal Walde of Denison, Ia., 20. For Hastings, 6-10 center Paul Thomas hit 23, Mike Storfous 12, Chuck Minister and Brad Schneider 10 each.

While Hastings outshot Wayne from the field, 52 per cent to 45 per cent, Wildcat defense limited the Broncos to 29 of 56. Wayne hit 33 of 74.

A Nebraska College Conference game is next on the Wayne slate, at home against Chadron State tonight (Thursday). In the 5:30 preliminary, Wayne's junior varsity will have a rematch with Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College of Norfolk.

Platte College defeated the Wayne JV, 80-69, in Saturday's preliminary. The Raiders, after a 38-33 halftime lead, stalled off a Wayne rally which briefly gained a one-point lead, then climbed to the final 11-point margin.

Wayne statistics show Walde still on top of scoring with a 19.3 average, and now on top in rebounding too with a 10.7 pace. Forward Ronnie Jones is a fraction behind in rebounding at 10.6 and third in points on a 10.9 average. Henderson ranks second in scoring at 15.9, and he tops the team in free-throw percentage with a lofty .821. Walde has shot .575 from the field while Henderson is second best, shooting .442.

Winside Takes 3rd at Pierce
Winside's freshmen sophomore basketball team captured third place in the Pierce invitational Saturday night, dawning Osmond, 41-33.

Norm Libengood paced the winners with 13 points, and an improving Brian Denkiau hit 12, coach Korlin Luft pointed out.

Score by quarters: Winside 11 10 14 6-41 Osmond 7 6 12 8-33 Winside-Norm Libengood 13, Brian Denkiau 12, Bob Hoffman 10, Tyler Frevert 6.

The Gators possess plenty of heights, thanks to 6-8 center Steve Hornback. Add 6-3 Tim McMaster along with an improving Randy Kindschuh and the Winsner crew looks to be strong in the front court.

This game, however, won't take place in Wayne State's Rice Auditorium as will Friday night's Due to a scheduling conflict (Wayne State plays Doane that night), the battle will shift to the city auditorium where Sharpe hopes to continue his winning streak.

"I don't know what effect the size of gym will have on Wisner," Sharpe reflected. "Most of our players are used to playing in the auditorium so I don't anticipate any problem for us."

Wayne's first and only game at the auditorium on Dec. 14 found the Devils charged up for a strong Class A South Sioux City team—charged up enough to take a 73-72 win.

Wisner-Pilger only had one loss as of Monday night. The Gators were 4-1 going into Tuesday night's contest with Scribner.

That lone loss was to one foe Wayne has already met—Columbus Lakeview. Wisner lost 77-40, about as bad as Wayne's 73-40 defeat.

Because of the Wayne State girls basketball college game Friday afternoon, reserve action won't get started until 7 p.m. Varsity action will follow.

The only other game around the area Friday finds Wakefield playing host to Oakland-Craig. The Knights are relatively inexperienced this year with the loss of most of their state tournament team of a year ago.

In size, the Trojans definitely have an advantage with 6-6 Gary Addink blocking the middle for coach Joe Coble's 43 team.

Looking at the prediction record, it still stands at 12-4 since the vacation break before holiday tournaments started. That figures out to be 75 per cent.

TWO OF Hastings basketball players give Wayne State's Neil Walde trouble as the 6-8 senior prepares to shoot during the Wayne-Hastings game Saturday night.

Devils Open 2nd Half With 2 Home BB Game

Wayne coach Bill Sharpe will have two things going for his team as it opens the second half of the 1973-74 basketball campaign—two home games.

Friday and Saturday the Devils host Madison and Wisner-Pilger, in that order, in what Sharpe believes will be two interesting contests.

"I don't know too much about Madison except it does have two tall players, about 6-3 or 6-4," he said. But ask him about Wisner-Pilger and the answers start to flow.

They Gators possess plenty of heights, thanks to 6-8 center Steve Hornback. Add 6-3 Tim McMaster along with an improving Randy Kindschuh and the Wisner crew looks to be strong in the front court.

Trojans Win Rough Battle For Coble's 100th Victory

It took a physical battle between Wakefield and Stanton to decide the outcome of their basketball game Tuesday night.

but the Trojans came away with a bumped and bruised 59-53 victory. A total of 63 fouls were called in the struggle for the Trojans to break the 500 barrier, boosting the team record to 4-3 before Friday's home match against Oakland-Craig.

Despite the roughness, coach

DOUG FISCHER

Joe Coble, who celebrated his 100th career win against 64 losses, pointed out that the "team played a real good game although it was just a little rough."

Three Trojan and three Mustang players exited with five fouls during the game at Stanton's court. But as Coble put it, "We can afford to lose people on fouls because of our bench strength."

Senior Doug Fischer, with two fouls, was the only member of the starting quintet not to get in serious trouble. As a result, he stayed in most of the action, collecting a game-high 18 points.

Others, like Gary Addink, Loren Hamner and Larry Siebrandt, found themselves in and out of the game before leaving the contest in the final frame. The three totaled 17 points—Addink six, Siebrandt eight, Hamner three.

"Our defense played a whale of a game," Coble said, noting that any team which limits its opponents to just 13 field goals has to be playing some kind of defense.

Wakefield had only a one-point margin going into the second quarter, 13-12, but the Trojans led 29-27 at halftime before dropping in 16 points in the third frame to Stanton's 11.

Stanton's big man, 6-3 senior Rex Hawkins, led his team with 16. In reserve action, the Trojans easily collected their fourth win against one defeat with a 52-23 drubbing of Stanton's B team.

Alan Johnson led the area reserves with 10 points.

W-P Grapplers Hope To Break Devils' Jinx

One thing Wayne High wrestling coach Don Koenig and his crew have going for them in the match with Wisner-Pilger tonight (Thursday) is the team's record of never having lost to the Gators.

Since wrestling began at Wayne High eight years ago, Koenig's team has mastered the Husker Conference foe every time they have met.

But that doesn't mean the Blue Devils are going to take Wisner-Pilger lightly. After the Gators' good finish in their four-team tournament during the holiday break, they could surprise the locals during the home match at the city auditorium.

"I don't know too much about Wisner," Koenig said. The team has good middle and upper wrestlers, he pointed out.

It also is hard to compare the two teams by schedules. Although Wisner-Pilger has taken on such reputable opponents as Class C powerhouse Winside in tournament action and wrestled other members of the Husker loop, Koenig believes his team has had a stiffer schedule with such Class A foes as Blair and South Sioux.

Although Wayne grapplers have been idle during the holiday break, Koenig expects his crew to be in shape for tonight's match and Monday's match against Neligh.

Neligh, however, probably isn't worried about the Blue Devils right now. The Warriors' main concern is the 10-team Winside Invitational Saturday. Neligh is the only team so far this year that has pinned a loss on coach Doug Barclay's team in dual competition. That, alone, is probably plenty incentive for the Wildcat mentor and his squad to get fired up for the annual event.

In addition to Neligh, other top grappling schools in the tourney include Plainview, Randolph and Wakefield. Also on the list are Norfolk Catholic, Niobrara, Newman Grove, Hartington and Stanton.

Wakefield and Hartington may get a taste of what it's like to face each other during the day-long meet. If they don't, both will have their chance Monday when the Trojans travel to Hartington. That will be an opportunity for coach Lyle Trullinger's club to improve its dual record. The Trojans are now 1-2.

Pledges Paid For Hospital Top $250,000

A total of $257,260 in pledges has been received to date to help finance the new hospital under construction on the northeast edge of Wayne, according to the Wayne Hospital Foundation.

That amounts to almost 30 percent of the amount pledged by local and area residents toward the new hospital.

A total of $877,000 was pledged by individuals and firms, with payments to be made over a five-year period. Some $866,000 of that money was pledged during a six-month fund drive which ended in March of 1972.

Those pledges will be matched by $750,000 from the Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk, who will operate the $1.5 million, 26-bed facility. Also being used to help pay for the facility is $384,300 in federal funds.

The first phase of construction is scheduled to be completed in the fall of this year. Additional construction will boost the hospital to 50-bed capacity.

Action Is Theme of NEN Meet

Mental health and alcoholism are family and community concerns which call for action, and that is the theme for the sixth annual meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Family and Community Affairs Council.

The meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. next Monday, Jan. 14, at the city auditorium in Laurel. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

The morning program will feature Merlin Wright of Wayne, district probation officer, speaking on the topic "Probation and Youth." A film titled "Conspiracy of Silence" which shows early recognition of the problem drinker in a family setting will be shown.

John North, director of the Nebraska Division on Alcoholism, will speak in the afternoon on the topic "Prevention — Are We Ever Going to Get Around to It?" The Rev. Keith McKay, president of Region IV Association for Mental Health, will discuss actions taking place in the regional and state associations for mental health.

Those attending the annual meeting will have opportunities for discussion and questions. Those wishing to attend are asked to make a noon lunch reservation with Mrs. Kendall Martin of Laurel by today (Monday).

Northeast Nebraska Area Extension Service and the Norfolk Regional Center are assisting with program arrangements and publicity.

Chamber Is Asking Businesses to Close Early on Thursdays

Firms belonging to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce are being urged to close at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday evenings beginning this week.

The recommendation came out of a meeting of the Chamber's retail committee and the Wayne Retail Association last week.

The group voted in favor of the earlier closing time in an effort to conserve energy during the present shortage. The earlier closing time on Thursdays will be in effect during January, February and March. Many stores have been closing at 8:45 on Thursdays, 15 minutes earlier than normal, because of the energy shortage.

Also during the meeting, the group voted to table action until further study is made on a suggestion to issue window stickers for persons owning vehicles in Wayne as a method of controlling parking in the business district. The suggestion came out of a recent council meeting at which it was suggested that just those vehicles with stickers be ticketed for over-time parking while out-of-town vehicles be permitted to park without restrictions.

School Board Moves Toward Salary Talks, Offers Superintendent Haun $1,000 Raise

Members of the Wayne-Carroll school board took their first step toward negotiating salaries with teachers for the 1974-75 school year and offered superintendent Francis Haun a $1,000 salary hike during Monday night's regular board meeting.

Board members agreed to recognize the Wayne Education Association as the representative of all teachers in the school system during negotiations for salaries for the coming school year.

Board members also agreed to negotiate five general areas during their talks with teachers. Haun was offered another three-year contract, with a salary for the coming school year of $21,250 and $500 hikes each of the next two years. Haun now receives $20,250.

Board members agreed to negotiate with the teachers in the following five areas: base pay and salary raises for preparation and experience, hospitalization and income insurance plans, leave practices and procedures such as leave of absence and sabbatical leave, extra duty schedule, and the grievance procedure used when teachers wish to register a complaint against the school.

However, the board decided not to negotiate two other areas requested by the education association — release time for teachers wanting time away from school for other activities and revision of the recognition agreement, whereby the school board acknowledges the bargaining agent for the teachers.

Recognizing the education association and accepting areas to negotiate is one of the first steps toward carving out salaries for teachers in the school district next year.

The first meeting of the negotiating committee for the board and the teachers will be later this month to lay the groundwork for the negotiations. Then they will start trying to agree on what salaries and benefits the teachers will receive during the 1974-75 school year.

It is expected to take several meetings between the two negotiating committees before they can come to some agreement on a salary package to present to the board and the teachers.

The offer of a $1,000 salary increase for superintendent Haun came after board president Irvin Brandt read from a prepared statement complimenting Haun on the exceptionally fine job he has done for the school system.

Haun said after the meeting that he would inform the board of his decision whether to accept the offer at the next board meeting, slated for Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

In other action, the board:

—Learned from Haun that the school anticipates little trouble heating the school buildings this winter. Up to this week the school had been cut off natural gas service under its interruptible contract for only about three days since the heating season began, he said. The school currently has about 71,500 gallons of diesel fuel on hand, enough to operate the schools in Wayne for about 25 days if natural gas is not available. The school at Carroll burns coal in the winter.

—Heard a report on the trip to the Cotton Bowl by the Wayne High marching band. Director Ron Dalton said the students "were absolutely fantastic" during the trip. He said the "whole community" deserves a thank you for supporting the fund drive, which resulted in more than $13,500 being collected after a goal of $12,000 had been set. Any money left over will be spent for stereo equipment for the band. Dalton said.

—Learned that Mrs. Elaine Nicol is now the secretary to high school principal Deryl Lawrence, replacing Jeanne Brownell, who resigned her job in December.

—Agreed to have board member Morris Sandahl and possibly board president Irvin Brandt attend the Grand Island seminar on teacher salary negotiations on Jan. 20-21.

—Received a list of 18 students who have graduated to be classified as graduates at the end of the current semester on Jan. 18. The mid-year graduates are Patricia Anderson, Cathy Barclay, Susan Barker, Cindia Carlson, Debra Granfield, Connie Hammer, Lynn Kamish, Jeff Kraemer, Don Nelson, Kathy O'Donnell, Daniel Pinkelman, Jean Proffitt, Timothy Rees, Deb Schwanke, Deb Vrtiska, Terry Urwiler, Myrna Wacker and Marilyn Weiseler. The students may graduate with their class in spring commencement services.

Hall fired Fairchild late in December, the second time he has fired him in just over eight months. The first firing was ruled void in Wayne County district court and the city was ordered to restate Fairchild earlier in December because the city had not provided civil service coverage for paid members of the police department as required by state law. The city has since done so.

If the commission rules after the hearing that the firing was justified, Fairchild could appeal to District court.

Crisis —

Already the townpeople have proven that. Brink went on. During the days the city cut down on street lighting, along with the cooperation of residential reduction in the use of electricity, the city saved about 14,000 gallons of fuel a month.

As a result of those savings and the current fuel on hand, the city started lighting the streets again Monday night. It will take a while before all the lights are on, Brink said, but it is hoped the job will be completed by the end of this week.

Brink also pointed out that the city's 300,000 gallon tank is another reason for the city being in the shape it is. Without that storage tank, it would have been hard to predict how Wayne would have come through this winter, he noted.

Before the city council purchased the tank, the city only had storage for about 40,000 gallons. Now Wayne has about 350,000 gallon storage capacity.

During the Kiwanis board meeting, members refused to accept the resignation of president Harland Pankratz. The head Kiwanian told the board

Council —

(Continued from page 1) manager to take over the job when Johnson's contracts run out later this winter. They also agreed to advertise for bids on farming the land, an idea dropped Tuesday night when the council agreed to continue the council agreed to continue the matter in court if the severance pay was granted.

Prather said he would prefer waiting to see what happens with Fairchild's attempts to get reinstated following his second firing by Hall late in December.

Voting in favor of the $1,650 payment were Thomas, Mosley, Gross, Harvey Brasch, Ivan Beeks and Darrel Faelberth.

The council, with Faelberth absent, voted 7-0 at that special meeting late in December to approve paying Evers the equivalent of one month's pay plus benefits following his dismissal.

Earlier Tuesday evening councilmen voted 6-2 (Russell and Beeks opposing) in favor of getting outside legal advice concerning the proposed park on the northeast edge of the city.

City attorney John Addison told the council that he will not advise the city what to do now that the land has been appraised at $42,000, $4,000 more than the option the city once had for purchasing the land. He cited "possible conflicts" as his reason for not wanting to recommend what the city do now.

Reportedly, the city may offer the owner of the land $38,000 for the approximately 12 acres of land. If he accepts, the city would pay 25 per cent of the purchase price while the federal and state governments pay the rest to acquire it for park development. If he refuses that price and wants the appraised value, according to the city attorney, the city would have to pay the difference or could apply for governmental matching funds amounting to $3,000.

Councilman Russell, who failed in a move to table the subject, said he was in favor of "killing the whole thing. There's too much public opinion against it (building a park there)," he said.

Also during the meeting the councilmen tried to clear the air after airport manager Don Johnson presented them with facts and figures showing that the city has received everything it had coming to it from farming of land at the airport during recent years.

Johnson offered councilmen the information because of a comment by councilman Russell at a December meeting in which Russell said he couldn't understand how the number of acres farmed at the airport could vary so much from year to year.

That comment apparently left the impression with some people who were at the meeting or viewed it on cable television that the council was questioning the honesty of Johnson.

Councilmen quickly clarified that Tuesday night, voting 8-0 to renew Johnson's contracts with the city to operate the airport for another year.

Councilmen last month agreed to advertise for an airport that he may not be at the college next year due to the anticipated reduction in the number of teachers at the state colleges. Pankratz was one of eight teachers notified he may not be rehired next year.

In other action, the members voted to send Gene Bigelow, Dan Sherry, Roy Hurd and Don Koerber as official delegates to the mid-winter Kiwanis convention in Omaha, Jan. 26-27.

The group also voted to have each member decide whether he wants to contribute to the Kiwanis foundation at its Monday meeting. The group voted to go that route after the members declined to donate $1 for each member from the treasury.

When LeRoy Ley (brother of the late Rollie Ley and Uncle of Henry Ley) was paid $10 for taking a girl's bloomer from the top of the High School flag pole.

Petitions —

(Continued from page 1) said Monday. He noted, however, that he thinks Hall was wrong when he initially fired police chief Vern Fairchild and that Hall is committing the same error all over again in trying to fire Fairchild the second time by following steps required under the state's civil service law.

"I feel that the Fairchild case has cost the taxpayers entirely too much money. Hall was advised in the beginning not to fire him, and now he has turned around and is going to try to do the same thing," Russell said. "In my opinion, his charges (against Fairchild) are not going to stand up."

Fairchild's case will come before the local civil service commission in a public hearing next Wednesday. If the commission sticks by its earlier decision to uphold Hall's decision to fire Fairchild, the case could go once again into district court. The district judge ruled in December that Fairchild had been fired illegally because the city had not instituted civil service for paid members of the police department. The judge did not rule, however, on whether Hall was justified in firing Fairchild.

The city was ordered to pay Fairchild back wages from the time he was fired in April to the time he was ordered reinstated in December.

Russell said he hopes to have 16 people circulating the petitions, four of them in each ward.

He said the petitions should give the council an idea of what the public thinks of the way mayor Hall has been doing his job. If enough people sign the petitions, maybe the council will ask Hall to resign, Russell said.

Meeting Canceled

The city planning commission canceled its January meeting due to lack of business, said city clerk Dan Sherry. The next meeting will be Feb. 4 at the city clerk's office.

Commissioner Ken Eddie was named chairman of the county welfare board, county clerk Weible was named clerk for the commissioners for another year, and The Wayne Herald was chosen again as the official newspaper for the county.

Also, the commissioners postponed taking action on purchasing all risk insurance for county road equipment. The insurance being considered would provide about $500,000 worth of coverage at a cost of about $2,000 a year, according to the county clerk. It would cover equipment in the event of such things as vandalism or fire, he said.

School Buses, Kindergarten Running Later

Wayne-Carroll school buses Wednesday began running 15 minutes later in the morning in an attempt by school officials to keep students from having to ride the buses in darkness now that daylight savings time has gone into effect in Nebraska.

Superintendent Francis Haun said the buses will continue running late each morning for about the next six weeks. Buses should now arrive at the schools about 8:40 a.m., 10 minutes before school begins, he said.

Also changed because of DST was the starting time of the two sections of kindergarten which meet in the morning. The classes will now begin at 8:50 a.m. rather than at 8:30 as they have in the past.

School board members approved the two changes at Monday night's regular board meeting after deciding not to make any change in the starting time for classes. Allen, Winside and Wakefield this week began starting school about half an hour later because of daylight savings time.

Superintendent Haun said the two changes will last for only about six weeks because by then the sun will be coming up early enough that the students won't be going to school in the dark.

Local Japanese Trainee Now Studying at UN-L

A bit of oriental culture is blossoming on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Agriculture as 58 Japanese trainees begin three months of study of Midwest agriculture.

Among the trainees is Kiyoshi "Nelson" Ogata, who has been living with the Dick Sorenson family northwest of Wayne for the past year. The Sorensons are well known swine producers. He and the other Japanese students, who arrived at NU this week, will live and study at the Hall of Youth at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education before returning to their host families for about two months. The trainees will then return to Japan. They are part of a larger group of approximately 150 trainees who are currently in the United States as part of a two-year work study program in agriculture.

But while "Nelson" is studying at UN-L, the Sorensons are becoming acquainted with their latest Japanese trainee, Tatsusaki "Chuck" Yamagami, 20, who arrived at the Sorenson farm Dec. 28.

"Chuck" is the eighth Japanese trainee the rural Wayne family has hosted under the Japanese Agricultural Training Program, sponsored in the U.S. by the National 4-H Club Foun-

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Klima and granddaughter of Pitzer and Mrs. Iner Peterson and Ricky were Sunday afternoon guests in the Arvid Peterson home.

The Herman Utechs and Earl Hughes spent Dec. 30 through Jan. 3 with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Martindale. Greenriver, Wyo. Mark Martindale returned home with them after spending the Christmas vacation in Wyoming. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Holden and Debbie, Talking Rock, Ga., left Wednesday after spending a week in the Glen Rice home.

Birthday guests in the Quinten Erwin home Thursday evening honoring the host were Rich Erwins and Todd, Alvin Rastedes, Allen, and Harvey Rastedes, Laurel.

The Bob Blohm family, Allen, were guests in the Kenneth Anderson home Saturday evening in honor of Kevin's tenth birthday.

Oscar Johnsons, W. E. Hansons, Ted Johnsons and Morris Backstroms were guests in the Laurence Backstrom home, Wayne, Saturday evening honoring their 30th wedding anniversary.

The Morris Peterson family, Othella, Wash. and Arthur Johnsons visited in the David Johnson home Friday.

New Year's day guests in the Leroy Koch home honoring Cheryl's birthday were Carl Kochs and the Harlan Anderson family Friday overnight guests in honor of Cheryl were June Stapleton, Sue Lancer, Leatta Kerl and Terri Jones.

The Vance Senters, Omaha, visited in the Paul Hanson and W. E. Hanson homes Saturday.

Birthday guests in the Oscar Johnson home Saturday in honor of Paulette Hanson of Minneapolis, Minn., were the W. E. Hanson family and Perry Backstrom, Wayne.

The Sorensons are the only family in the state which has participated in the program every year since it started at NU with 35 trainees in 1967.

The Sorensons newest trainee, who comes from southern Japan, will live with them until next January when he will go to UN-L for agricultural study. He then will return to Wayne for about 60 days to live with the Sorenson family before returning to Japan.

During their stay at NU, the 58 Japanese students will be concentrating on the areas of beef, dairy, swine and poultry production. The non credit short course will involve the students in an in-depth study of animal agriculture from production to utilization.

In addition to examining U.S. agriculture, the trainees also will be exposed to the American culture in a variety of ways. Often the students become involved in student organizations and share their culture with community groups.

The unique aspect about the work study program is that it is basically self-supporting. After a one-month English course when they arrived in the U.S. July, 1972, the entire group of Japanese students worked in large groups in the fruit areas of Oregon, Washington and California, enabling them to earn money for their study in the U.S. and at the same time get accustomed to the American way of life.

In January last year the study group joined their first host farm families for a first-hand look at life on a U.S. farm. Fourteen of the students came to Nebraska while the remainder lived with families in Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Oregon and Washington.

Temperature rises early inside state capitol

CAPITAL NEWS

LINCOLN — Despite temperatures far below zero outside, it didn't take Nebraska's legislators long to warm up.

They plunged into controversy the first day—well, it really wasn't the first day. The very first day was New Year's Day and the senators obeyed the state constitution and convened the 1974 session, but remained in their seats only 11 minutes.

The second day, however, they stayed on duty until late in the afternoon and disposed of some of the carryover business from the 1973 session.

One bill — Omaha Senator Ernest Chambers' proposal to have Omaha school board members elected by districts — generated some heated debate, but still moved up the legisla-live ladder. There wasn't any final decision, but the senators also spent some time on the time issue.

When Congress decided on year-around daylight saving time, the action was described as part of the effort to conserve energy. Nebraska senators used up a lot of their own energy battling the issue around.

Senators from rural areas, although conceding privately there isn't much chance of getting rid of daylight time, were determined to make a show for the folks back home during an election year that they are interested.

The proposal was to have all of Nebraska go on Mountain Daylight Time, which would have the effect of putting the eastern two-thirds of the state on Central Standard Time. States with a time zone boundary cutting across them can go to a uniform time if they wish under the federal plan.

But switching in Nebraska would put Omaha, for example, out of clock synchronization with Council Bluffs. In fact, all of Nebraska currently in the central zone would be an hour behind its neighbors and out of step in such matters as television programming and airline scheduling.

Rural senators, however, said children from their areas would have to leave home long before sunrise to get to school on time under winter daylight saving schedules. Farming and construction work also would be upset, they said.

If Senator Richard Marsh of Milligan had trouble with his anti-daylight saving time resolution, Senator E. Thome Johnson of Fremont didn't have any problems at all getting his resolution adopted.

Johnson's resolution praised coach Tom Osborne, his staff and the Cornhusker football players for their Cotton Bowl triumph.

The senators got to watch the game, thanks to an abbreviated New Year's Day meeting. The state constitution required launching the 1974 legislature on the first Tuesday of the year, holiday or not and bowl game or not.

The lawmakers, however, were willing to sacrifice one of the 60 working days allotted this year under the annual sessions system so they could get to television sets in time to watch Texas go down to defeat.

The opening gavel for the brief meeting was brought down by Speaker Richard F. Proud of Omaha, even though Lieutenant Governor Frank Marsh wanted to do the honors. Marsh, however, was acting governor (since Governor J. James Exon fell it was his duty to be in Dallas with the team) and the constitution says he can't preside over the legislature when he is acting as chief executive.

Marsh—who says he will run for something this year but hasn't determined what, still managed to get some time before the television cameras.

When the traditional committee of senators went to his office to inform him officially that the session had begun, Marsh returned with the senators and gave a brief speech.

Marsh isn't the only politician looking for headline ink or television time.

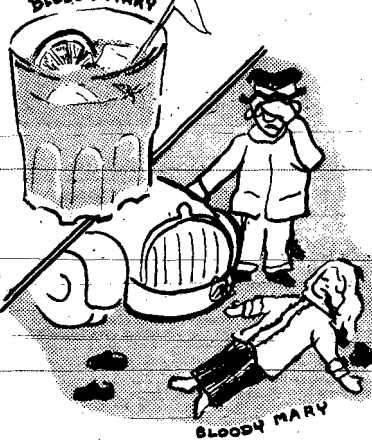

The first three senators to speak when the legislature began its session in earnest the second day were Richard D. Marsh of Hastings (candidate for the Republican nomination for governor), Frank Lewis of Bellevue (candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor) and J. W. Burbach of Crofton (another Democratic lieutenant governor aspirant).

And Chambers, who has plans to run for governor as a petition candidate, was active in the early floor debates.

Chambers' candidacy, by the way, has raised questions about the new requirement that governor and lieutenant governor candidates run as a team in the general election. Attorney General Clarence Meyer has said some provision must be made for petition candidates or else the whole team election concept may be tossed out by the courts.

OBSERVATIONS

Step in right direction

You can't say Wayne State College isn't attempting to offer courses of interest to just about everybody in the area.

Take a look at what's being offered in the evenings during the second semester, for example. There's everything from a course on the energy sources of the future to one on science fiction literature. Everything from a course on personal finance to a seminar in United States history. Everything from a course on alcoholism to one on musical instrument repair.

The college is trying to shake off its image as a school only interested in teaching and training students to become teachers. That has been the college's primary purpose over the years, and it will probably remain one of its main functions during years to come. But with declining enrollment, changing interests of students and reduced need for teachers across the nation, college officials are starting to realize that they are going to have to offer courses of interest to a broader range of people than those offered in the past.

We think steps are being taken in that direction, and we hope the trend continues. Proof of that are the courses being offered the second semester. Get a list of the courses available, and you'll see what we mean.

Mental meanderings

Some random thoughts:

—Members of the Wayne High marching band deserve a pat on the back for conducting themselves in such a way that they left a favorable impression on almost everybody they met during their stay in Dallas. We heard numerous compliments about the band from people who made the trip to the Cotton Bowl, and the two letters that are printed elsewhere on this page back up those compliments. Reports like those will make it a lot easier for the band members to raise money for some future trip if they decide to take one.

—That humorous spoof of the local police of chief situation on the editorial page in Monday's issue of the newspaper was unfair. Satire, by its very nature, is unfair. It's good to step back once in a while and laugh at ourselves, however, even when the situation is anything but humorous. Sometimes it helps clear the air.

—We do hope, however, that the chief of police situation can be taken through the local civil service steps as quickly as possible, and, if need be, through the district court with little delay. Before too many weeks it will be a full year since the problem first emerged, and everybody is probably wishing the whole mess could be resolved without taking too much more time.

—Area residents will be able to talk personally with Congressman Charles Thome when he stops in Wayne next Monday afternoon. He'll be at the county courthouse from 4:30 to 5:30, ready to listen to any suggestions or complaints from his constituents. It's an opportunity you shouldn't pass up.

—We hope the drive to raise money to help the Duane Koester family of rural Allen is successful. Young Danny, 14, has a serious blood disease which is threatening his life. He is now in Seattle undergoing treatment which hopefully will restore his health. But that treatment may cost as much as $25,000. Donations may be sent to Security State Bank in Allen.

—Most people would probably guess that medical services would rank high in a community attitude survey, and the survey the newspaper made of its readers revealed exactly that. In fact, our survey showed medical services to be the top concern of local and area residents. That should help spur on efforts to get more doctors to move to the community.

'Band deserves high marks'

DALLAS

Dear Mr. Dalton:

We would like to express our appreciation to you and Wayne High School for the privilege afforded us in serving your group over the New Year's holiday. We trust our facilities and service were entirely satisfactory. We endeavor to provide the type of service that will bring us repeat customers, which are the backbone of our business. We try to make service more than just a word at the Travelodge at Market Center; we make it our image.

We wish to express further that the Wayne High School group was certainly well-organized and one of the most outstanding and disciplined school groups we have had the pleasure of serving. We will be most happy to have you come back as our guests any time.

RUSTY JAY (Ms.)
Sales Manager

WAKEFIELD

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the $8 that I won in the coloring contest. It will come in handy. I was glad I entered the contest; otherwise I wouldn't have won. Thank you again.

HEIDI MUNSON

(Editor's Note: Heidi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Con Munson, won first place in her division in The Wayne Herald's Christmas Coloring Contest.)

WAYNE

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the $5 prize. I'm putting the money in the First National Bank to save for college money. Thanks again.

SHELLEY EMRY

(Editor's Note: Shelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Emry of Wayne, was a second place winner in The Wayne Herald's recent Christmas Coloring Contest.)

WAYNE

Dear Editor:

Ron Dalton's Blue Devil marching band members are to be commended for their behavior, appearance and attitude during the Dallas trip. We, the sponsors, give those young ladies and gentlemen of Wayne High a standing ovation for their excellence in representing the two communities, Wayne and Carroll, and the state of Nebraska. It certainly made the time and effort involved worthwhile.

NED CULBERTSON ABBOTT.
For fifty years of this century the varied activities of Ned Culbertson Abbott contributed to the progress and heritage of the state of Nebraska. His varied career spanned several fields. He was an educator, historian, author, and a civic leader. As a well-known public speaker his topics ranged from his unique personal experiences to historical events such as the Battle of Wounded Knee. Abbott, the son of a pioneer Fremont physician and his wife, was born in 1874. Until 1892 Abbott remained in Fremont with his parents. The diaries of his mother during his boyhood are contained in the State Archives of the Nebraska State Historical Society. They reflect the demanding problems of a pioneer existence, the courage, strength, and hard work necessary to create an ordered society. The example of his parents remained an inspiration to Abbott throughout his life.

Abbott at 18 years of age entered the University of Nebraska, maintaining a Spartan existence during his early college years. He received a B.A. degree and later a law degree. He was admitted to the Nebraska bar in 1900 but never formally established a law practice. In 1918 he received an M.A. degree at the University, which in 1948 bestowed on him an honorary doctor of law degree. In 1901 Abbott and his newly wedded wife Lillian sailed for the Philippines, where both were employed as teachers.

the U.S. schools in Moro Province. Three years later they returned to Nebraska, and for five years Abbott held teaching and school administrative positions. In 1909 he was appointed superintendent of the Nebraska School for the Blind at Nebraska City, a position he held for thirty-six years until his retirement in 1947. (For two terms, 1911-1913, he was employed elsewhere.) Many improvements were made during his tenure, both in the physical plant and in the curriculum. Abbott always endeavored to increase public awareness of the capabilities of the blind.

During his residence in Nebraska City, Abbott became one of its foremost citizens, holding at various times official position in almost every civic organization. He conceived the now-familiar oval design with its "Plant Trees" inscription — which is found on many Arbor Day publications. In promoting the work of J. Sterling Morton, under of Arbor Day and the builder of Arbor Lodge, Abbott came to be recognized as an authority for the collection of Morton's personal papers which are now at the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Abbott devoted much time and energy in the public affairs of the state. Twice he was elected president of the Nebraska State Historical Society. Of his many services to the University of Nebraska, one was as president of its Alumni Association. His death came in 1960, two weeks before his 86th birthday.

A chief reporter on London's Fleet Street, would be the city editor on an American newspaper.

Film on NETV To Show How State Operates

"Nebraska for the People," a special documentary program on the structure and workings of Nebraska state government, will be broadcast Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 9 p.m. on the Nebraska ETV Network.

This is the first in-depth TV film on state government and came about as a result of a bill passed by the 1972 Nebraska Legislature directing that such a film be produced by the Nebraska ETV Network for broadcast and made available to schools in the state.

The program offers an unusual insight into the legislative, executive and judicial branches of Nebraska's state government. The program's senior producer, Joel Fowler, says, "Many people will be surprised by this program to see the myriad of services available only through the state government system. We believe this documentary film presents clear examples of these services and functions that affect Nebraskans' daily lives."

Two additional programs on the state capitol and governor's mansion will be seen this week. "Build Us A Tower," to be broadcast Friday, Jan. 18, at 9:30 p.m. gives NETN viewers a colorful tour of the building that draws more than 200,000 visitors a year.

"Governor's Mansion Tour," on Jan. 18 at 10 p.m. includes a color tour of the mansion and interviews with Nebraska's first lady, Mrs. J. James Exon, and the wives of former governors — Mrs. Norbert Tiemann, Mrs. Frank Morrison, Mrs. Ralph Brooks and Mrs. Victor Anderson.

New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Houston, Indianapolis, Boston, Cleveland and Jacksonville are just a few of the major American cities with active 4-H programs.

Feeder Pig Co-ops Becoming Major Cog in Swine Industry

Nebraska now has at least 36 feeder pig co-ops in some stage of planning or development, and all but five of those have come about in the last two years.

According to two University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension livestock specialists, these units could represent nearly eight per cent of the state's pig crop if they're operated near full production capacity.

Bill Ahlschwede and Keith Gilster, who will speak on feeder pig corporations during the upcoming Area Swine Days Jan. 22-25, agree that feeder pig co-ops "are getting to be a major part of the swine industry in Nebraska."

"For a farmer seeking feeder pigs, it's a very logical solution to his perennial problem of finding feeder pigs. The biggest advantage to co-ops right now is that they by-pass the market function: the farmer doesn't have to search for feeder pigs or face the pricing problem," they concur.

These joint farrowing units

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A copy of the book "The Truth About Nerve Deafness" will be given to anyone answering this advertisement.

The book contains 8 pages of facts about today's most common hearing problem, the early warning signs, and the possibility of medical or surgical help.

This book is free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands of copies have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 2854, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill., 60646.

may also have some economies of labor and economies of size due to superior management and full utilization of facilities, Ahlschwede adds. Ahlschwede will appear on the Swine Days program at Bloomfield, Jan. 22, at Arlington, Jan. 23, and Wilber, Jan. 24.

Gilster, who will do the talking at Kearney on Jan. 25, believes that the recent boom in feeder pig co-ops "is an indication of the strong demand for feeder pigs in Nebraska. This demand also represents an opportunity for individuals to profit by producing feeder pigs for sale."

IRS Urging Land Owners To File Right

Last year, many taxpayers with farm rental income were incorrectly assessed for self-employment tax because they reported this income on Schedule F instead of using Form 4835, says the Internal Revenue Service.

This happens when they do not clearly indicate that it is farm rental income.

The IRS urges individuals reporting income from farm rental to use Form 4835. By using this new form, individuals can report farm rental income based on crops or livestock, produced by a tenant, where the landowner does not materially participate in the operation or management of the farm.

In addition to Form 4835, the IRS said individuals should report this income on Schedule E under rents. In the case of landowners, however, who report cash rent received for pasture or farm land where the amount is based on a flat charge, this income is reported on Schedule E only and not also on Form 4835, according to IRS.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the IRS toll-free 800-642-9960.

Also slated at all four locations is a producer panel on "How I Handle Liquid Manure," and a talk on "Pricing Feeder Pigs" by NU Extension ag economist Larry Bitney. "Pork Production — It Takes Capital" will be presented by Merv Aegerter, vice-president of the First National Bank at Omaha, at Wilber and Kearney, and by Richard Adkins, president of the Osmond National Bank at Osmond, at Bloomfield and Arlington.

Also at Bloomfield and Arlington will be Northeast Station swine specialist Bob Fritschen, who will discuss feed and leg problems of growing-finishing pigs. At Wilber, Farmland Foods president Fred R. Clymer of Pankville, Mo., will detail plans for the new pork plant, and at Kearney, Ahlschwede will talk on "Pork — An Opportunity Enterprise..."

All programs begin at 10 a.m.

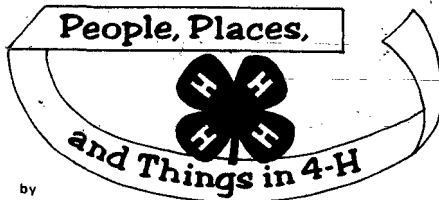

County Youth To Exhibit at National Show

A Wayne County youth will be among 68 Nebraska 4-H and FFA members who will travel west this week to exhibit livestock in the 1974 National Western Stock Show at Denver.

He is Jack Sievers, son of LeRoy Sievers of rural Wakefield.

The nine-day show drew a record high number of livestock entries — 1,987 — compared to the previous high of 1,645 shown last January. In the Junior Show, Nebraska exhibitors will be among 635 4-H and FFA exhibitors from 15 states.

The Junior Show's 727 cattle entries are the most at the National Western Show since 1948 when a quota was imposed on junior steers. Entries from Nebraska include 70 steers, 27 heifers, 16 barrows and 14 lambs, reports University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension 4-H livestock specialist Dave Williams.

COMMITTEES
Committees are an important part of any organization and the Wayne County 4-H council is no exception. At our last 4-H council meeting it was decided that there should be committees on awards and recognition, promotion and recruitment and on the budget.

Awards and Recognition
All people like to be recognized for their accomplishments, and this committee would have the responsibility in the areas of county, state and national awards, special awards and other methods of recognizing the accomplishments of 4-H'ers and their activities. Members of this committee are Mrs. Dennis Greunke, Mrs. Allen Spittger, Mrs. Lester Hansen, Keith Owens and Herb Niemann.

Promotion and Recruitment
The council recognizes that only a relatively small per cent of eligible boys and girls are enrolled in 4-H. This fact is especially true in the city of Wayne. This committee hopes to expand the 4-H program through recruitment of new members, as well as leaders. Members of this committee are Mrs. J. J. Liska, Mrs. Ted Bahe, John Anderson, Roy Gramlich and Melvin Wilson.

Budget
Each year the council and junior leaders have a food stand at the county fair. This money is used throughout the year to furnish scholarships and trophies. It is the hope of the 4-H council that through careful budget planning this money can be even more effectively used to expand the 4-H program.

Mrs. William Holsinger, Mrs. Wallace Anderson, Mrs. Merrill Baier, Harold Wittler and

Dwaine Rethwisch are on this committee.

Eagle Scouts
Last Saturday evening I attended an Eagle Scout ceremony for Vincent Knesche. I understand this is the first time a rural boy, as well as a 4-H'er, has ever attained the rank of Eagle Scout. This is a real honor for Vincent, our congratulations.

Meaning of 4-H
Mike Rethwisch, Hi-Raters 4-H Club, while explaining all the things he had been doing in 4-H made this comment: "At any rate thanks to some hard work and lots of luck, my savings account has grown since I became a 4-H member and my learning has only just begun. Four H has been good to me."

Lands for Wildlife Program Offers Benefits to Area Farmers, Public

Farmers in the Wayne area can now receive cash payments for taking their land out of production to provide more cover for wildlife.

The offer is being made by the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, which recently approved a "Lands for Wildlife" program.

The program offers payments of $20 per acre per year to farmers who take land out of production and plant either sweet clover, red clover, vetch or native grass on the land.

An additional payment of $2.50 per acre will be made to farmers who permit the public access on foot.

Under the new program, farmers will contract with the Lower Elkhorn NRD on a three-year basis. At least 10 acres of land must be involved, with a maximum of 80 acres allowing per contractor, unless a watershed is involved. No grazing or burning is allowed during the contract period, and mowing can be done only to control noxious and nuisance weeds. Mowing must be done after July 15.

Also under the program, Conservation Approved Plan (CAP) acres seeded to native grasses will be eligible when they expire under the CAP program.

Contracts for the program, which can be made during the first three months of the year, become void if the land changes hands, but they can be renewed if the new owner desires. Payments to landowners will be made annually each January.

Lower Elkhorn NRD officials note that they will try to distribute funds under the program throughout the whole district, and thus priorities may be given to assure the equal distribution.

The CAP lands that did exist in Northeast Nebraska have been depleted by about 60 per cent in recent years, and the acres will be depleted even more in another year, NRD officials note.

The Lands for Wildlife program, which has been well received by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, offers several benefits to farmers and the public, according to NRD officials.

Some of the benefits include providing nesting areas for all wildlife, especially pheasants and quail, and providing winter cover. The program also will improve the total environment, control sediment from all types of erosion and provide more hunting and hiking areas for the public.

We're going to bring you the time and temperature 75% of the time..

...and still save twice the recommended amount of power!

The President has asked that everyone make an overall reduction of 15 per cent in their energy use. We're taking an even greater step. By turning off our time and temperature display from midnight to 6 a.m., we'll be saving 25 per cent of the power required by the display over a period of 24 hours. We appreciate how many people have come to rely on our display; however, these hours of shutdown should provide the least amount of inconvenience.

While energy savings of this kind will help, it's not the total answer by any means. In fact, all the electric lights in the country, together, account for only 1 1/2 per cent of total electric energy consumed.

The truth is, we must all work together to solve the energy problem. Here are some ways you can help: 1) Cut down on all unnecessary driving. 2) Reduce the use of energy in your home in every way possible.

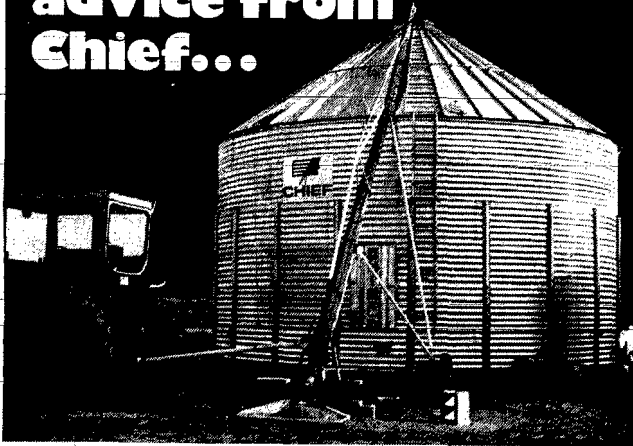

Most important, thank you for doing your share!

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to come in for a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular degree of hearing loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available. Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told an aid won't help should have a hearing test and find out about the very latest kinds of hearing correction.

The free hearing tests will be held at Morrison Hotel, Wayne, Nebraska, January 11 from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. If you can't get there on that day call 375-3300 and arrange for an appointment at another time.

Workshop on State's NCIP Set for Area

Community leaders in the Wayne area wishing to enter the 1974 Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) can learn more about the program at a workshop scheduled for Harlington Monday.

The workshop will be held in the municipal auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Community leaders will be able to learn how improvement efforts in a community are coordinated through a community improvement council and how one is formed. The workshops also will provide participants with the opportunity to exchange ideas about community development projects in areas such as social services, recreation and leisure time, downtown improvement, farm and ranch facilities and governmental services, health and safety programs, environmental action, economic development, interlocal cooperation and tourism promotion and special events.

The workshop will be conducted by staff members from the Community Affairs Division of the Department of Economic Development and the Community Development Department of the University of Nebraska Extension Division. They will explain how the NCIP works and answer as many questions as possible.

Last year a record number of 187 communities and 14 neighborhoods entered the program. The NCIP, which is designed to stimulate greater interest and action in community improvement and to recognize communities for outstanding achievements in their community development programs, is sponsored by the Nebraska natural gas companies. The program is co-administered by the Department of Economic Development and the University of Nebraska Extension Division.
