'Men, Dreams' Slated for WS On Thursday

An unusual stage attraction comes to Wayne State Thursday evening in the form of the Claude-Kipnis-Mime Theatre.

Kipnis, who criticizes sometimes compare with silent film comedian Charlie Chaplin, will bring his "Men and Dreams" show to Ramsey Theater of the WSC Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m.

Pantomime drama has not been presented on the college special program series — at least, not for many years. And judging by comments of reviewers in major cities, Kipnis lifts the art of pantomime to high level.

He began about a decade ago when he went to Israel and created his first mime show—the one he will present here. That one and others that followed earned him acclaim in Europe's theatres, and then in America. He has performed on U.S. television.

The Kipnis show at Wayne State is open to the public. All seats are reserved and tickets are available at the college business office from 9 to 5 Monday through Thursday. It is free to WSC students and faculty. For others $1.50 for adults, 75-cents for high school students.

Tickets will be available at the door Thursday night, if any are left.

Students' Choice

FRESH CHOICE: Dawn Maystrick became Queen of the Fresh Friday night at Wayne State. Freshmen living in dormitories voted her the monarch from among six nominees. She is a graduate of Plattview High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maystrick, Springfield. At WSC she majors in elementary education.

New 'Behavior Shaping Unit' Will Open in Wayne This Week

A new program for young people with mental and physical handicaps goes into effect this week in Wayne with the opening Tuesday of the Behavior Shaping Unit.

The first floor of Pile Hall, an unused Wayne State College dormitory, has been leased to house the unit, and has undergone some remodeling for the new program.

Members of the area Youth Association for Retarded Children have done the painting and much of the clean up work and may be further involved in the program as it develops.

The former dormitory lobby, a 30-by-40-foot area, has been partitioned off to provide training and recreation areas. There also are nine sleeping rooms, a kitchen, bath and an apartment in the unit.

There will be enough room to enable parents to spend the first few days there with their children if it is necessary, an official said.

The program, operated by the Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities, is being set up with the aid of a $9,485 federal grant from the office of developmental disabilities, according to former Wallway, regional director.

Operational costs will be assumed by the regional office, but parents will be charged according to their ability to pay for residential services.

Youngsters enrolled in the program will spend 24 hours a day, seven days a week at the Behavior Shaping Unit, going Seventh grade—Carla Berg, Krisi Duering, Della Holtgrew, Brenda Voss; honorable mention—Lori Jensen, Becky King, Margie Valhamp.

Paintings, Woodcuts On Display at WSC
An exhibit of watercolor paintings and woodcuts by Wayne State students is on display in the college Fine Arts Center this week through Thursday.

The works by students of Richard Lesh range over many subjects; styles and techniques. Most of them are for sale at prices from $3.50 to $25, usually for $10 or less.

Several of the artists have graduated. Among the others are Cindy Carlson of Wayne, Jim Pokorny, Bill Wasson, Kent Baago, Shirley Ballagh, Theresa Brock, Phyllis Fleer, Ethel Hansen, Verne Horrocks, Satly Martens and Van Toyne.

Rural-Urban Training Meet Set for Laurel

The Rural-Urban Adult Leadership Training meeting will be held at the Laurel auditorium Feb. 23 for members of the Rural-Urban Youth (RY) club in the eastern part of Nebraska.

Indiana State RY leader, Howard Krussel, will be the main speaker at the session. He will focus on leadership possibilities in connection with the American Bicentennial celebration and with community improvement.

The meeting will also include a panel discussion on problems of leadership, headed by Robert Patfield of Laurel, eastern division president.

Janice Wright of Lincoln and Janice Theye of Beatrice will show slides taken on their RY sponsored tour of Europe in January.

RY, an agricultural extension service organization which emphasizes educational, recreational and community concerns, is open to single young adults from 17 to 30.

Shortages of Gasoline Face Area Schools

It's possible that Allen and Winside High Schools will face gasoline shortages in running their busses this winter.

The latest word from Allen superintendent Gail Miller is that the problem is critical.

"We're not sure how long we can run our five busses with the amount of fuel left," he said.

Allen High buys its gas from Felix in town, but recent reports are that the company may not be able to supply the school for a entire month of January.

Miller said if he does run out of gas before the end of the month he will have to search elsewhere for help.

In Winside, the gas shortage isn't quite as critical, according to superintendent Don Leighton. All three stations are cooperating as much as they can for now. Leighton pointed out, but they are not sure if there will be enough gas on hand to keep the five busses running for the rest of the month.

Both superintendents hope to know more about their situations this week.

Rate Changes Proposed by Taxi Company

The Nebraska Public Service Commission later this month will consider proposed changes in the rates charged by Wayne Yellow Cab Taxi Co.

Changes proposed include raising from 60 cents to 75 cents the charge for the first mile or part of a mile covered on trips.

Also proposed to be changed are raising from 75 cents to $1 the charge for delivery of messages, parcels and groceries, and raising from 10 cents to 25 cents the charge for carrying parcels to and from the cab.

Persons interested in the application have until Jan. 25 to write the commission either in support or opposition to the proposed changes. The commission will act on the application on Jan. 28 or shortly after.

Alcohol Is Subject for Area Teachers

Teachers from 34 high schools in Northeast Nebraska are planning to attend a workshop on Alcohol and Alcohol Safety scheduled at Wayne State College Thursday.

The manual is available to each high school in Nebraska.

Anton Netherland, associate professor of safety education at Wayne State, is arranging the workshop, to meet from 9 to 11:30 a.m. in the Student Center.

It is one of several such meetings planned throughout the state to present ideas on alcohol and traffic safety.

Company Seeks OK To Abandon Railroad

Citing lack of business and the loss of more than $62,000 during 1971 and 1972, the Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. has filed a request with the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval to abandon its railroad line between Wayne and Dakota City.

The transportation company said it lost $27,000 in 1971 and $38,500 in 1972 by operating the line.

Only 642 carloads were handled on the line in 1971 and only 646 in 1972, the company said in its request. Traffic over the line is "extremely low, averaging only 16.06 carloads per mile for the 12 month period" ending November of last year, according to the request.

"The line is in a deteriorated condition and requires a substantial expenditure for upgrading in the future," according to the transportation company. Keeping the line in operation also would keep the company from using salvageable material from it, the company said. Salvageable material in the line is valued at $240,300, according to the company.

Abandoning the 40.6 miles of track would isolate Wayne as far as railroad service is concerned. The transportation company a few years ago abandoned the line west from Wayne to Norfolk.

Stations which would be affected by abandoning the line would be Wayne, Wakefield, Emerson, Hubbard, Spur and Beermann.

The Interstate Commerce Commission will rule on the application without hearings unless protests are received, according to a legal notice describing the request printed inside this issue of The Wayne Herald.

Protests against the abandonment have to be filed no later than Feb. 28, according to the legal notice. Protests should be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C. 20423.

County Assessor Files For Another 4-Year Term

Wayne County assessor Doris Stipp filed for reelection Wednesday.

She is the first county official to file to run for office again. A total of nine county officials will have to be filled in November's all county assessors in the state in 1970. She also has attended the one-week school held each year for county assessors for about the past seven years, and she is active in the state association for county assessors.

She and her husband, Harold, who is a partner in Farmers Elevator in Wakefield, live in Wayne. Her son, Lynn Gunderson, is married and lives in Wayne.

Also up for reelection this year are sheriff Don Weible, county clerk Norris Weible, clerk of district court Joann Ostrander, treasurer Leon Meyer, superintendent of schools Fred Rickers, attorney Budd Bornhoff and commissioners Floyd Burt of Winside and Joe Wilson of Wakefield.

The commissioners last Monday approved 25 per cent salary increases for all elected county officials except themselves. The sheriff, clerk, treasurer and assessor will receive $9,000 a year when they begin their new terms next January. They currently receive $7,200. Receiving $8,125 will be the superintendent of schools, clerk of district court and attorney. They now receive $6,500. There will be no change in the commissioners' present salary of $6,500.

Commissioners Will Consider Road Program

A program calling for spending approximately $167,000 on county roads during fiscal 1973-74 will be considered for adoption by the Wayne County commissioners during a public hearing Tuesday.

The hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. at the courthouse in Wayne.

Major projects planned for during the coming fiscal year include grading and structure work on 2.5-mile road northwest out of Sholes. Cost of the project is estimated at $40,000.

Also called for during the year is grading of a mile of road five miles east of Hoskins. Cost of the project is estimated at $40,080, with the county paying $31,080 and the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District paying $9,000.

About $6,000 will be spent to blacktop a mile of county road just west of Winside if the program is adopted.

The program calls for spending $163,000 in fiscal 1974-75, $116,000 in 1975-76, $140,000 in 1976-77, $151,000 in 1977-78 and $162,000 in 1978-79.

City to Get More Fuel In January

Wayne's allocation of diesel fuel for electrical generation has been boosted from about 100,000 gallons to 240,000 gallons, according to city administrator Fred Brink.

Brink said he received notice of the increase Friday.

The increase will give the city adequate fuel to operate the generating plant during January, according to Brink, but that doesn't mean residents should not continue energy conservation efforts in their homes and businesses.

People should still try to limit their use of electricity in order to keep fuel consumption at the power plant at a minimum, he said.

The increase in January's allocation will be important a year from now, Brink noted, because the amount of fuel allocated in January of 1975 may be based on the amount of fuel the city uses this month.

Brink said it is possible the city may have its allocations for coming winter months increased also.

Wayne is one of several communities in the state which generate electricity in municipal generating plants.

Currently under construction is a power line which will connect the city with a Wayne County Public Power District power line south of Wayne.

When that Interline is completed, the city will be able to purchase power from other power suppliers. A contract which would permit the city to buy electricity from Nebraska Public Power District is being negotiated.

Hospital Head Is Elected To Academy

Academy president and constitutional officers will present the membership certificates and credentials at a convocation ceremony to be held in Chicago next August.

After he has maintained membership for a four-year period, Thomas can write a thesis which will make him eligible for fellowship in the academy.

Library Sets Open House

Hariett Karl, Wayne Public Librarian, has announced that an open-house will be held at the library Thursday, from 2 to 5 p.m. The public is invited.

Remodeling, begun several months ago, has recently been completed. Carpeling has been installed and walls have been painted in the adult section and new magazine racks and a new phonograph record storage cabinet have been added.

Coffee and cookies will be served throughout the afternoon by library board members Mrs. Roy Christensen, Mrs. Don Wightman, Mrs. Orville Sherry, Dr. Don Merrillman and Dr. Sid Hillier.

Behavior Shaping Unit Will Open in Wayne This Week

The Behavior Shaping Unit is not to become a permanent institution, emphasized Wallway. It is a short-term training program to help youngsters with speech, motor skills and the like, he said.

No child will be accepted for the program unless plans have previously been made for his eventual release into another program.

When the child is ready to leave the unit, a representative of the school or program he will be entering will come to the unit to spend a week working with him; and at the time of his departure a member of the local staff will accompany him to his new project to make the change less difficult, Wallway noted.

The Region IV office already has applications for 27 children for the program. Applicants are reviewed by a screening committee made up of region representatives, Educational Service Unit staff members and a psychiatrist-pediatrician from the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute at Omaha.

Guest opinions . . . on squeezing, squeaking and spending

This is free enterprise?

The way the federal government has run the fuels allocation program thus far leaves much to be desired. Never have we seen so much backing up, changing, reversing and excusing as this.

The rules so far have been, without exception, tilted against the retailer and wholesaler and in favor of the suppliers. It makes you wonder who wrote them. Then again, it is no wonder when you realize that they pretty much follow the same suggested pattern as put together by the National Petroleum Council, which is made up mostly of oil company personnel.

Most of the rules coming out of the Administration so far are the same as those recommended by the NPC in a report released last summer sometime. The government has limited your growth by the allocation program, they have frozen your margin by action of the Cost of Living Council, they have directed refiners to reduce your allotment and they are asking you to submit many times the amount of paperwork than you normally are asked to do. Then, on top of all of this, there is now a proposal to limit the profit that you can make to the average of the profit you had from 1967 through 1971.

If it is the intention of the Administration to squeeze you out of the "free enterprise system" then this is fine. For this will work. But, if it is the intention of the Congress to preserve the competitive forces within the oil industry, forces that have given this country the finest and cheapest oil products of any country in the world, then they better awake and see that the Windfall Profits Section of the Energy Emergency Act is removed before being sent to the President for his signature.

Higher property taxes

Nebraska property owners should get ready to pay more property taxes if the political parties insist on competing with each other with respect to lowering the sales and income tax rates.

Farm and ranch people, who must hold $4 in property valuations for every $1 in valuations held by urban people, will be first in line to pick up the lion's share of the tab that is tossed back in deficiencies to the local taxing agencies. One of the major questions in the 1974 session of the Legislature is how the state is going to replace the $20 million appropriated from federal revenue sharing funds last session — a one-shot proposition which eased school levies on property this year. Is this $20 million which boosted state aid to schools to $55 million to be replaced by state sales and income tax funds next year or will the burden fall back onto property owners with an increase in school levies to make it up?

The state income tax rate was reduced from 15 to 13 per cent for 1973 by the Legislature in the last session, and now the rate for 1974, established by the state equalization board at 11 per cent, may require some choices that might not otherwise have to be made. In addition to the $20 million in state aid funds cited, some of the other spending decisions include:

1. A $14 to $15 million penal complex for the state which the governor and some study groups say is needed.
2. Another $4 million annually to fund the homestead exemption increase voted in the last session to provide up to 90 per cent exemption on the value of homes of persons aged 65 or over.
3. A deficit appropriation of $6 to $7 million for the University of Nebraska's Life Science Building and a proposed new Animal Health Research Center to cost in the neighborhood of $8 to $10 million which is considered vital to continued growth of the state's $2 billion livestock industry.

4. An additional $6 million to fund another 12 1/2 per cent in personal property tax exemptions as called for by the law passed in 1972 which provides for a maximum 62 1/2 per cent exemption by 1977.

5. Money to fund the higher costs of state government administration and services such as welfare and care of the handicapped which are all affected by the same rising inflation which affects the private sector of the economy.

In addition, the technical colleges want a one mill property tax levying authority, the educational service units want more money in the form of levying power and the natural resources districts suggest more authority to tax property or else receive increased appropriations from sales and income tax sources.

Needs which are unmet from sales and income tax sources at the state level will have to be met at the local level and that can mean only one thing under the present tax structure, higher taxes on property, levied by the schools and other local taxing agencies. Nebraskans should keep that fact in mind during the 1974 session as the legislative and executive branches haste over spending priorities and how you, the taxpayer, are to pay for them.

Save, America, save

Early indications show that our voluntary conservation efforts are helping to ease the fuel shortage. We've gotten some breaks, too: The fall weather was milder than usual in many parts of the country. And there seems to be some oil "leaking" through the Arab blockade.

All of this taken together means we may be able to squeak by without resorting to gasoline rationing, though not — repeat, not — without inconvenience.

How much inconvenience? That's an important question. Americans are great at pitching in and sacrificing during a crisis. I suspect the instinct goes all the way back to hard times on the frontier and in the early colonies, when neighbors helped each other. But, we also have a strong aversion to being "taken" — we don't like to be tricked into doing more than our fair share.

The "fair share" guideline for home heating is setting the thermostat at 68 degrees (even lower in the evenings and for office buildings and businesses). But, what's a fair share for gasoline usage? Up to now, we have been asked to "cut down" on driving, take the bus, form carpools, etc., but hard figures on how much is enough have been almost as scarce as gasoline on a Sunday.

The great variation in fuel supply estimates is due to several things. First, petroleum products move around the world in such a complex web that few people, if any, really had a good grasp of the total picture when the Arab boycott began. Second, there's the unpredictability of the weather. And third, there's the unpredictability of the leakage.

So, the best fuel figures you can get will be informed estimates, subject to change with changing conditions. They will not all agree, but most will fall within the same range, and most will indicate the same trends.

Right now, the best estimates I know of on gasoline supplies show there will be somewhere between 20 per cent to 30 per cent less gasoline available for private automobile use than we would use under normal circumstances.

This shortage will continue even after the end of the Arab embargo, although the percentages will probably change.

The National Chamber is sponsoring a campaign asking everyone — businessmen and consumers — to cut down by that much.

That's not really so tough. Most of us have been in the habit of using our cars wastefully: The classic one-block drive to the store for a pack of cigarettes — or something — comes to mind.

Businessmen can do more of their buying and selling by phone, instead of in person. They can consolidate deliveries or pool delivery services with other businesses. And they can help employees form carpools, hold gas-saving contests, etc.

As individuals, we can take the bus or a carpool two days a week. Or leave the car in the garage over the weekend and walk or cycle. We can plan our shopping carefully, to do as much as possible in one trip, over the most efficient route. And we can form "social car pools" to pool shopping and recreational trips.

It all adds up. When it all adds up to 25 per cent, you'll have done your share.

OBSERVATIONS

It's about time

Those 25 per cent salary hikes for seven of Wayne County's 10 elected officials probably raised quite a few eyebrows among the taxpayers.

A 25 per cent salary raise is quite a raise in anybody's language, but we think it was justified in order to bring the county officials' salaries up to a respectable level and to keep the officials from receiving salaries too far below those received by officials in other counties of similar size and wealth.

We were particularly glad to see the county commissioners approve a plan whereby the county officials will receive cost of living raises each year. That will have several good results.

First, it will keep those employees from falling behind other public employees and workers in private business. Salaries may be changed for the county officials only once every four years while other public and private employees receive salary increases more regularly, usually once every year.

Second, it will keep those employees from ending up after four years earning, in effect, less than they did when they took office because of the seemingly endless rise in cost of living. We cannot expect to elect competent public officials, on the county level as well as any other level, without promising them a decent salary during their service.

Third, it will mean that similar large salary boosts may not be necessary four years from now. The salaries will have been raised a little bit each year by then, hopefully making it unnecessary to vote in large increases in order to pay the county officials a respectable wage for the job being done.

County officials across Nebraska have been underpaid for years, and only in recent years have their salaries started to climb to respectable levels. We think it's about time.

Let's close some roads

And now that the county commissioners have decided to spend more money to raise the salaries of elected officials, we think they should try to come up with some ways to cut down spending.

One way to do this would be to close the roads in the county which are seldom used by farmers or the general public. There must be at least four or five miles of county roads, probably many more, which could be closed by the commissioners, saving the taxpayers thousands and thousands of dollars in maintenance and upkeep.

Closing the roads would not mean that they could not be used by farmers who would occasionally have to travel them to reach their fields. It would mean, however, that the county would not have to continually gravel them, repair them, grade them, remove the snow from them and the like.

The abandoned roads could be allowed to return to native grasses, providing needed habitat for our wildlife while still being usable for travel the few times that would be necessary.

The approximate 800 miles of county roads which crisscross the county were probably necessary at one time. Now, however, with the rural population constantly dwindling, there seems little reason for the large expenditures necessary to keep all those roads open. Some of them could be closed, and we think this would be an excellent way for the county commissioners to start cutting back on their spending.

Let's do some face-lifting

Wayne city councilmen last week touched upon a subject which we have long been in favor of — uniformity in outdoor advertising signs in the downtown business district.

Numerous other communities in the state have spearheaded downtown improvement programs, and nearly all of those programs have included doing away with the hodgepodge of advertising signs that lined their main streets. Other communities have not undertaken major improvement projects but have made remarkable changes in the look of the business district by doing little more than trading that cluttered look for an attractive, uniform one.

It's amazing how much better a community looks when there is some rhyme and reason to the face it presents to the public. Store fronts look cleaner and more in harmony with one another. Their outdoor signs don't clash and fight with those of their neighbors, and yet they remain distinctive and appealing.

Shoppers are able to go about their business without having to face a visual headache every time they step outside.

True, it would cost many business owners money to change the fronts of their buildings so they would fit in with an overall look. But the cost would not be very large in many cases, especially for the numerous businessmen who have remodeled the outsides of their stores in recent years. There is also the possibility that the city would back such a business improvement financially.

Now that the subject has been brought up again, we think the city planning commission, which has not been bogged down with work in recent months, should go to work and draw up some plans for putting a new face on the business district. If the planners don't follow through, the subject probably will die for another year or two until something else prompts people to start thinking of ways to make Wayne a more attractive city.

Let's watch our spending

We assume the members of the Wayne Carroll school board are going to take a long, hard look at any suggestions that they build a new grade school at Carroll now that they know it could cost anywhere from $170,000 to $210,000.

At least we hope so, since that kind of money is an awful lot to spend to educate the small number of students who use the present Carroll grade school.

If better facilities are needed at Carroll, the board members could justify remodeling the present building much easier than they could justify building a completely new school. Remodeling, according to the architectural firm which came up with the estimated costs for the board, would turn the present school into a safe, attractive, useful one which could be used for at least 10 years, possibly for 20 years. And it would cost less than one-fourth what a new building would cost.

We can understand the feelings of those people in and around Carroll who want a new grade school in their community. It would be a fine addition to the town and give the youngsters a modern place in which to study.

But we also can understand the feelings of many people in the school district who feel that the school board should try to limit spending in every way so long as the educational opportunities of all the students are not lowered. The school board is faced with rising costs almost everywhere it turns — rising costs for supplies, rising costs for salaries, rising costs for textbooks, rising costs for maintenance and operation of buildings, rising costs for insurance. As long as that continues, we feel the board members would be put in a difficult position if they decided to go ahead with a new grade school at Carroll.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

OH, A LETTER FROM MY LAWYER!
HEY, WHAT'S THE IDEA!
THIS LETTER DOESN'T CONCERN YOU!
O.K. THAT'S ALL I WANTED TO KNOW!

A closer look . . .

By Norvin Hansen

Warner thinks that no government business should be conducted in private, and the aim of his bill is to open up meeting of special study groups created by the executive branch of government. He cited two instances where the public and the press couldn't find out what those study groups were doing until it was done — once when the governor named a group to study state aid to schools between the 1972 and 1973 legislative sessions, and once when the governor named a group to study the Hiram Scott College situation.

Warner said the bill would apply to groups at the local level as well as at the state level.

I'm all for that, since I'm one of those people who think that governmental officials have no right to keep things from the very people who elect them and pay them to serve them.

A lot of people argue that many times the public will get the wrong idea about what a "city council" or "school board" is trying to do and therefore it's best if they are kept in the dark until action is taken. They usually tie that argument into one something to the effect the public doesn't know all the facts and therefore doesn't understand the problem as well as the officials do.

How can they when the very information they need to form responsible opinions is kept from them?

Stay right in there, Warner. There's a lot of other people besides me who are back of you.

FOLKS DOWNSTREAM from Hoskins, Pilger and Wisner lake, note: "More sewage is coming your way."

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has given tentative approval to those and 13 other communities in the state to continue dumping treated sewage into public waters.

Hoskins dumps into the Spring Branch Creek, Pilger and Wisner into the Elkhorn River.

The agency said none of the discharges will harm the environment.

HAVE TO THANK Elwayne Fleetwood of South Sioux City for some choice "Way Back When" items he sent me a few days ago.

He remembers when Citizen's National Bank failed and everybody thought it was the end of the world. And when summer night wrestling matches were held on a makeshift platform in mid-main street, featuring local talent such as the Wades against out-staters.

Those items will be popping up on the front page of the newspaper during coming weeks.

Anybody else with some interesting memories of what it was like to live in Wayne years ago is welcome to send them in for use in the little featurette. We need more of those that help tell how life here really was in an age that's long gone.

Clubs To Study Appliances

Did you know you have a potential "mini servant" in your home? You do if you have portable electrical appliances, but sometimes these appliances aren't servants because they are misused or not used at all. During January, home extension clubs and other interested organizations in Dakota, Dixon, Cedar, Thurston and Wayne Counties will be learning how to make the best use of small appliances and turn them into mini servants. The lessons will include information on "knowing" your appliances, storing them and using them safely. Participants in the session also will learn how to make good appliance purchasing decisions. Joycelyn Smith, area extension home economist from the Northeast Station at Concord, will be conducting the training. Representatives of interested clubs and organizations can attend the training session on "Small Appliances - Your Mini Servants" and obtain information that will help them present the material to their own club members. Clubs wishing to take the lesson should contact Miss Smith so lesson materials will be available for all of your club members.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

ANTELOPE COUNTY officials will receive $15,200 more a year in salaries starting the first of next year.

County supervisors okayed hikes of $1,500 for the treasurer, assessor, surveyor and clerk, bringing their annual salary from $7,000 to $8,500. The clerk of district court and attorney also will receive $1,500, upping their annual pay from $6,500 to $8,000.

The county superintendent, presently paid $7,000 a year, will get $8,000 starting in 1975, and the sheriff will receive $7,500 annually, up $1,000 from his current pay. The supervisors upper their salary from $3,400 to $4,000.

AN ART SHOW and sewing contest will be sponsored by the Pender Junior Woman's Club on Feb. 2. The event will feature prizes of $10, $7.50 and $5 for the top sewing entries, with the top winner advancing to the district sewing contest in March.

PETITIONS containing names of 6,300 persons have been submitted to Madison County clerk David DeCamp by the Committee to Keep the Courthouse in Madison.

A group seeking to get the courthouse moved to Norfolk has been given a second extension on the deadline to submit petitions to the county commissioners. Latest deadline is Feb. 5.

The dispute arose when the state fire marshal condemned the present county jail at Madison, prompting a group from Norfolk to push for building the new jail at Norfolk. This idea was killed when the state attorney general ruled that the jail had to be located in the county seat. That resulted in the petition drive to get the courthouse moved to Norfolk, which prompted another group to petition to keep the courthouse at Madison.

If petitions from both sides contain enough signatures, the commissioners may have to get a court opinion to resolve the predicament since one group asks that the jail be built in Madison and the other asks that an election be held to determine the location of the county seat.

ANTONIO LARAVIE of Niobrara recently pleaded guilty to charges of second degree murder in the death of Chad Olson, 2½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chad Wilson of Niobrara.

Laravie had been charged with first degree murder in the death of the child in his bed last August before pleading guilty to the reduced charge.

The Niobrara man, who testified in court that he had struck at the young child after entering the Wilson home, will be sentenced Jan. 22 by district judge Merrill Warren. He could be sentenced from 10 years to life in the state penitentiary.

MOST DAKOTA COUNTY OFFICIALS will receive $11,000 annually beginning January of next year.

Receiving that yearly wage will be the county clerk, treasurer, assessor, sheriff, attorney and clerk of district court. The superintendent of schools and surveyor will remain at $6,500 annually.

Commissioners voted raises for their offices of $800, up from their present salary of $400.

ROSS RINGER has been re-elected volunteer "fire chief" at Winsor. Also re-elected were first assistant chief Harry Juergensen and second assistant chief Warren Carlsen. New officers of the department are Mike Kuzelka, president; Lonnie Nilges, secretary, and Barry Meyer, treasurer.

We're going to bring you the time and temperature 75% of the time...

...and still save twice the recommended amount of power!

The President has asked that everyone make an overall reduction of 15 per cent in their energy use. We're taking an even greater step. By turning off our time and temperature display from midnight to 6 a.m., we'll be saving 25 per cent of the power required by the display over a period of 24 hours. We appreciate how many people have come to rely on our display; however, these hours of shutdown should provide the least amount of inconvenience.

While energy savings of this kind will help, it's not the total answer by any means. In fact, all the electric lights in the country, together, account for only 1½ per cent of total electric energy consumed.

The truth is, we must all work together to solve the energy problem. Here are some ways you can help: 1) Cut down on all unnecessary driving. 2) Reduce the use of energy in your home in every way possible.

Most important, saving energy means saving jobs and strengthening the overall economy of our country. Thank you for doing your share!

Devils 'Run' to 73-58 Win

By BOB BARTLETT
Wayne High beat Madison at its own game Friday night.

Instead of the Dragons running down the Blue Devils in a fast-paced, run-and-gun game, the locals switched tactics and did some running of their own to stun the visitors, 73-58, at Rice Auditorium.

Senior Tod Bigelow had a 19-point first-half, then collected another nine during the remainder of the game for a game high 28 points.

The 5.8 speedster zipped in shots from the top of the key, and when that wasn't good enough he drove inside for layups.

Bigelow pumped in 11 points in the first quarter as the Devils jumped out to a 19-15 lead.

It didn't take long for either team to charge into the game. Wayne's Kerry Jech nailed one in from the side to start out the contest in the see-saw battle opened. Next was Madison's high scorer for a night—5.8 senior Duane Freudenburg. The guard amassed 19 in the first half, sending both teams into the locker at intermission with a 34-34 tie on a layup with four seconds left.

However, Madison's floor man suddenly drew cold in the second half and failed to make any shots. His inability to make the shots hurt Madison, said Dragon coach Fred Letheby. "But I think our whole problem was that Wayne fired us out. I didn't believe anyone could do that to us," he noted.

The Devils press was partially responsible for the Dragons' cool showing in the second half. Using a 1-2-1 court press throughout most of the game, Wayne caused Madison to run more with the ball to get it across the time line.

Madison managed to get the ball across without violating the 10-second ruling, but in fighting to get the ball down court the Dragons failed to get the good setups and consequently missed their chance to stay in contention the second half.

After both clubs exchanged leads in the early going of the third frame, the Devils spurred to a six-point lead, 46-40, on a pair of baskets by 5-10 junior Marty Hansen, who had second high with 11, and another bucket by Bigelow.

Madison's big man, 6.5 senior Kevin Kratochvil, retaliated with a bucket to make the margin four before senior Bill Schwartz helped to boost the margin to seven on a basket and one free throw. The quarter ended at 52-46.

Wayne's hustling offense showed plenty of depth as players filed off the bench. Sharpe had 13 players in the game, and only one failed to score.

The Devils only turned the ball over 14 times in the game while the Dragons crumpled up the ball 23 times.

Wayne held Madison's to only two points up to about four minutes left in the game before the Dragons unfracked and started hitting.

The reserves had to play catch-up for their fourth win against one defeat as Wayne won, 44-32.

Trailing 11-8 after the first quarter, coach Ron Carnes crew came back the following frame with 11 points to go into the second half trailing by two, 22-20.

Wayne then used a good defense, limiting the Dragons to two points while throwing in 13. The fourth quarter saw the locals hit 11 to Madison's eight.

Leading scorer for Wayne was Earle Overin with 12.

Wayne's varsity, now 6-2, was scheduled to meet Wisner-Pilger Saturday night before going on the road to Stanton Friday night. Wayne hosts Bloomfield, Jan. 19.

KEN DANIELS of Wayne, bottom, struggles to break free from Wisner-Pilger's Randy Von Setzer in the 112-pound class, but the Gator grappler earned the pin in 3:48. Watching closely is referee Larry Startman.

Team 4's Stall Earns Tie For First Place

Team 4's stall game in the last quarter enabled the club to nip Team 1, leader in the B basketball league, 38-35, during Wednesday night city recreation action.

Charles Schnepf pumped in 15 points as Team 4, now tied with Team 2 for the lead at 4-2, stayed in command throughout the game. The winners had a two-point margin after one period, 10-8, and continued to expand the lead to eight points going into the last period. Craig Tiedtke paced Team 1 with 12 points.

In a come-from-behind charge, Team 2 took a 47-40 win over Team 3. The winners, led by Dan Johnson's 12 points, were behind, 10-2, after the first period and trailed 20-14 going into the third period. Down 32-29 after three quarters, Team 2 surged ahead with an 18-point spree while limiting Team 3 to eight points.

High man for Team 3 was substitute Randy Workman with 16.

Teams 1 and 3 are tied for third place with 2-4 marks.

Wednesday Teams 1 and 2 will meet at 7:15 p.m., followed by Teams 3 and 4 at 8:30.

Team 4—Schnepf 15, Sherman 8, Overin 8, Lueders 6, Hansen 1. Team 1—Tiedtke 12, Manske 11, Casey 4, Fink 4, Schumacher 2, Maly 2.

Team 2—Johnson 12, Workman 9, Hix 8, Doescher 8, Graef 5, Maly 2. Team 3—Workman 16, Keenan 10, Wessel 8, Kumm 4, Roberts 2.

WAYNE'S SCOTT EHLERS faces a line of Madison players as he brings the ball down during Friday night's home contest against the Dragons. The lineup is made possible by the use of Madison's 1-3-1 zone defense. Wayne, however, worked around the Dragons zone in the second half to take win No. six: 73-58.

Control Game Pays Off

A new style of basketball has emerged on Wayne State's court. Instead of the fast-paced offense of recent years, the Wildcats are playing a control game, and it seems to be paying off.

In a week they won two games in a row for the first time this season: 71-69 over previously unbeaten Hastings and 70-59 over Chadron State. That pair hoisted Wayne to a 6-7 record, with a chance to reach 500 Saturday night in a home rematch with Doane.

Despite the slow-down in offense, Wildcat scoring mounted to higher levels than in seven previous games: five of them losses.

Coach Ron Jones explains: "The fast game wasn't working well enough, so we decided to take our time and work for better shots."

Result: fewer shots by the opponents while Wayne was taking time to set up the good shot. High-scoring Hastings got off only 56 field shots, and Chadron lofted only 46—both far below normal shooting. Though both hit a higher percentage, they did not shoot enough to win.

Wayne and Chadron opened the Nebraska College Conference series, and it turned out unhappily for the visiting Eagles, who lost all eight NCC games last year. Wayne led all the way by handy margins, 35-27 at the half, and more in late minutes.

Significant to coach Jones was this fact: his Wildcats balanced their scoring, with six hitting from 12—by Chuck Collins—down to eight. Two Eagles scored more, Brian Wendler with 19, Roger Ingabrand with 15. The loss put Chadron at 7-8.

Latest statistics of NAIA District 11 teams shows Wayne's Neal Walde the top scorer with a 19.3 average and also the leader in field goal percentage, .575; Charlie Henderson the leader in free throw percentage, .821. All of these figures reflect games through Saturday, Jan. 5.

Gator Grapplers End Devils' Win Streak

Wisner-Pilger ended Wayne High's seven-year dual winning streak over the Gators with a 29-20 win Thursday night at the city auditorium.

The Blue Devils took five of the 12 matches, one fewer than Wisner-Pilger. The only draw was in the 185-pound class where senior Mike Dunklau and Kent Meyer drew with two points each.

"Mike has really come a long way this season," coach Don Koenig pointed out about the veteran, "considering that Meyer was in the state wrestling tournament last year."

Up until that draw, Wisner-Pilger had a 27-12 lead after collecting two pins and three decisions. The visitors' first win came in the 105-pound division when Dan McGuire won his match by forfeit for a 6.3 lead.

Earlier, Randy Surber put Wayne on the board in the first match with a 4.0 decision over Kevin Knidschun in the 98-pound division.

From there, though the Gators were in control, another pin and two decisions made the score 18.3 before Wayne's Barry Ruback took a 10-2 decision over 132-pound Kurt Rathke. But the Gators came back with another pin and another decision for a 27-6 match.

"I knew Wisner would be tough," Koenig said, "but I didn't expect to lose."

Senior Tom Frahm decided 155-pounder Ken Donner, 5-4, in Wayne's comeback. Gordon Cook, 167, picked up the team's fourth win with a 4.2 decision over Rick Heller before Dunklau drew and heavy weight Charles Brockman pinned Randy Nissen.

The Blue Devils, 1-3, travel to Neligh tonight (Monday) before hosting Albion Friday.

Four pins and two decisions gave the reserves a 39-3 victory over Wisner-Pilger in preliminary action. Both Marr brothers, Bill and Dan, pinned their opponents. Also gaining pins were Roger Meyer and Don Nelson. Decisions went to Mike Hank and Don Nelson on the Wayne team.

All persons 14 years of age or older are required to have a fishing permit to fish in Nebraska waters.

WS Coeds Rip Doane

It may be hard to believe this score: 68-7.

That's what came out of the basketball game mismatching Wayne State and Doane College women's team Friday night in the Rice women's gym.

And it was the Wayne reserve team that played, not the varsity.

This explanation is necessary, however. Doane has just started women's basketball, whereas Wayne has been playing the sport for at least five.

Wayne scoring was pretty well spread around, with Deb Thurness of Davenport, Ia., hitting 12, Cheryl Finke of Columbus Junction, Ia., 11, and Sally Hanna of Lone Rock, Ia., 10.

Doane's coeds scored only one field goal and five free throws.

Saturday afternoon the Wayne varsity was scheduled for one of the season's toughest tests, at Kearney State. This is their second game, Wayne having won the first.

Cats' 63 Points Not Enough to Top HCC

Discouragement is not a part of Winside basketball coach Korin Luff's philosophy, despite his club's 0-6 mark. Not when his team gradually shows improvement.

During the second night of the Coleridge invitational Wednesday, the Wildcats scored their highest total this season, but a tall Hartington Cedar Catholic club took the match, 78-63. The game had been postponed from Tuesday night because of bad roads.

senior Larry Weible pumped in a total of 31 points for the night, with Hoffman leading the way at 18. Both starters helped to pace the club to a 39 per cent total from the field—10 per cent better than Hartington CC.

The Trojans ripped off 87 shots in the fast-breaking game, hitting on 26. For Winside the total was 22 good out of 57.

The team showed a lot of hustle, Luff pointed out, and the players put in one of their best performances this year even though Hartington Cedar had the height advantage.

Rebounding, of course, made the big difference. The Trojans grabbed 28 carsoms each half while Winside claimed a total of 30, nine of them in the first half.

"It was a 12-point game throughout most of the night," Luff said. "The Cats, down by only four after the first quarter, 15-11, saw the Trojans expand the margin to 13 with the score at 38-25 at the half. From there both clubs played about even ball, with the area team scoring 19 each frame while HCC put in 17 in the third period and 23 the next.

having problems trying to break the 12-point barrier. According to Luff the main reason was turnovers. Winside gave up 26, Hartington, about six.

Friday night the competition won't get any easier as the Cats travel to highly-ranked Class C Coleridge.

TV Notebook
By Larry Turner

Although the average American TV set is turned on for more than six hours a day, many people will deny watching very much and most of us complain about the poor quality of TV fare that is available. There's an alternative—public (non-commercial) TV. Supported by donations rather than by the sale of commercial time, PTV prides itself in airing cultural, educational and artistic shows.

To date, it's a good thing PTV is not dependent on commercials. No advertiser would buy time because almost no one is watching a recent survey showed that one of the better public TV stations enjoyed only 1.7 per cent of the total viewing audience.

Why not treat your family to a brand new color TV set? Stop in and let us show you how the new features can enhance your TV viewing pleasure.

Hunter-Safety Program Starts Today at Allen

The second session of Allen High School's hunter-safety program starts today (Monday), according to instructor Noelyn "Butch" Isom.

The classes, held at the high school, teaches students about proper gun handling, isom pointed out.

Thirty students are registered for the daily course that will run three weeks. At that time, both Isom and Charles Haag, another Allen instructor, will give the exams. Students who pass will receive a certificate, badge and card from the state.

"It may not be too far in the future before the state will require all hunters to take a hunter-safety course before he can get a hunting permit," Isom said. "What we're doing now is getting on the ground-level by starting the program."

Isom cited reports showing that in 1952 Utah had reported 87 hunters killed in hunting accidents—out of 110,000 registered. Ten years later, after the program was initiated, only three were killed out of 200,000 registered hunters.

Allen first offered the course last semester. Twenty-seven students completed the course.

Trojans Drop Knights, 60-41

The only thing Wakefield High coach Joe Cable was disappointed in during Friday night's 60-41 conquest of Oakland-Craig was the scoring — not enough of it.

"The Knights' control game limited the taller Trojan club's offense, he said.

"Our team played real good, especially Doug Soderberg," Cable pointed out. The 6'0 senior wingman ripped the home nets for 20 points in the Trojans' fifth win against three losses.

Soderberg was instrumental in getting the Trojans off to a good start in the first half after Wakefield started running. From there the Trojans got the good percentage shots.

But the third quarter was a different story. "They took away our break and we became impatient in our shooting," Cable said.

Wakefield knacked in only nine points that frame, just one better than Oakland. However, the Trojans reversed the roll in the last frame with a 21-point showing for a 50 per cent shooting figure for the game.

Defensively, Cable has to be pleased again. His team limited the Knights to only 16 field goals while getting off 26.

Two other Trojans in double figures were seniors Keith Siebrand and Sam Uelcht. Uelcht had 11, Siebrand 10.

Wakefield may have to run up its scores a little more during the next two weeks as the area club faces stiff competition.

The Trojans face Tekamah-Harman Friday, Pender on Saturday and the 25th. Madison comes calling on the Trojans, the Laurel Bears the following day.

Tank Runs Dry

A fuel tank ran dry at the electrical generating plant in Wayne about noon Wednesday, cutting off electricity throughout the city for about 20 minutes.

Norbert Brugger, plant superintendent, said the automatic pump which turned on when the fuel level in the tank dropped to a low level was unable to keep up with the large amount of fuel being burned by the generators. He said the engines were consuming about 200 gallons of fuel every hour when the tank ran dry.

'How's That Go Again?'

Would someone please explain to me again about daylight savings time? Somewhere along the way, I must have missed something... or maybe it's just because I'm only a woman that I can't understand how turning on lights in the morning rather than in the evening is going to save on fuel consumption. Kinda reminds me of that Indian of folklore fame whose blanket was too short to keep his toes warm, so he cut a strip off the top and sewed it onto the bottom. Hmmm. A cold nose wouldn't be any less cold than cold toes. It seems, but if this is what it takes to make our lawmakers happy and get them to work on some of our other problems, then I'll hold my tongue and not even wonder if it's true what they say about the fuel shortage scare being no more than one of those diversionary tactics to take our minds off Watergate. Actually, there are a couple of things I wonder about in our state government though. Like, now that the nickel-a-pack cigarette tax has more than paid for a fine new fieldhouse for the Big Red boys, why must we delegate that extra five cents per 20 fags to be the building in Lincoln for state offices? There are a lot of us outstater who might prefer, for instance, to see that money go for our state colleges where there is really trouble. But then, a new state office building is probably more important than quality education. Generally I don't give much thought to politicians, mainly because, like a caddy woman, their logic is elusive, their tactics somewhat shady and their goals nearly obscure, the work no doubt of the same type of ace gambler who one summer convinced me that my four month old car would collapse in the desert if I didn't get new shocks from him right away. But that was when I was very young and gullible, and believed in the attainability of things like fair representation, equality for minorities, justice for all and other fine fairy tale dreams.

Rich Dillman, a Wayne State senior from York, has been chosen to work in a new intern-ship program with the State College Board of Trustees in Lincoln. Dillman has been news director for Wayne State's campus radio station, KWSC-FM, and also has provided news for several area radio and television stations. News also will occupy part of his intern time, and he will prepare a slide presentation with information about the state colleges. Hauu Talks To Group on Bill's Effects

Francis Hauu, superintendent of the Wayne-Carroll school system, told a conference at Lincoln Thursday that a law requiring school districts to finance special education programs will be especially hard on districts the size of Wayne-Carroll. Hauu, president of the Nebraska Association of School Administrators, spoke during a conference sponsored by the University of Nebraska and the state education department. The law, LB403 passed by the last legislature, requires school districts to provide instruction for handicapped students either in their own schools or by sending students to schools which do provide instruction. Hauu said that the bill puts the schools in a quandry because it forces them to spend more than they are allowed to under the budgetary limitations put on them by the state. If they do spend the money to provide the instruction, they face the loss of state aid, he noted, and if they don't provide the instruction, they still face the loss of state aid. Part of the bill went into effect on Sept. 1 and the rest of it takes effect July 1, according to Hauu. He said the Wayne-Carroll school system has been able to comply with the bill so far without going over the limit on school spending, but he said that may not be possible when the rest of the bill takes effect. Hauu said that state senator David Stahmer of Omaha told those at the conference that the present legislature will study the effects of the bill and try to take action to make sure that implementing it will not put schools in the danger of losing state aid. Stahmer sponsored the bill last legislature. Hauu was a member of a panel which discussed implications of the bill during the meeting.
