'Embarrassing' Acts Of Council Result in Attorney Resigning

Wayne's city council is expected to appoint a new city attorney at its next regular meeting on Feb. 12.

The city attorney for about the past nine years, John Addison, resigned his post Wednesday.

Addison said in his letter of resignation that he has been "very disappointed over some of the decisions, non-decisions, and changes in decisions of the city council."

He used as an example the council's decision Tuesday night not to sign a contract with Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) for purchasing electricity. "He said that decision, which came on a 4-3 vote, will cost local residents 'substantial sums of money.'"

He said in his letter that the council has ignored his legal opinions on such things as the proposed pension plan for city employees. The council also caused him "extreme embarrassment" by cancelling, ignoring and not following through with commitments made by him to industrial prospects, he said.

"These matters and other actions of the council have resulted in undue criticism of me by individuals who have not realized that such decisions were not mine but those of the city council," he said.

Addison said he spent many hours during the past several months negotiating a contract with NPPD for purchasing electricity after the council asked him to take on that job.

The council Tuesday night rejected what Addison calls the best possible contract available from NPPD. That action came during the same meeting at which the city council approved spending approximately $3,500 for installation of the equipment which will permit the city to tie into Wayne County Public Power District's line south of the city so electricity can be purchased from another power company. Addison advised the council before the vote that the city will not be able to connect with that line if no contract has been signed with another power company.

The rejection of the NPPD contract also comes in the midst of work on the approximate $185,000 intertie power line which is being built south of Wayne.

Mayor Kent Hall said he probably will recommend an attorney to take over Addison's post at the next council meeting. The council will have to approve Hall's appointment.

Budd Bornhoff of Wayne will handle legal matters for the city until a permanent attorney is named, Hall said. Bornhoff is currently county attorney and served as city attorney several years ago. Addison took over the job after Bornhoff resigned.

Radio Buffs To Form Club On Feb. 13

Officers of a citizens band radio communications club which is being formed in Wayne will be elected at a meeting Feb. 13.

The meeting is scheduled for the ASCS office in Wayne at 8 p.m.

About 19 people turned out for an informational meeting on the subject of forming the club last (See Club, page 8)

Vacancy in Teaching Staff Board Subject

Joan Longley, special education teacher for mentally handicapped students in grades five through 12 in the Wayne Carroll school system, has resigned effective the end of the current school year.

Superintendent Francis Haun said Miss Longley told him last week of her plans to leave the school system at the close of this year. This is her first year in the system.

Haun said he will discuss the resignation and tell the school board members he will try filling the vacancy immediately during their regular meeting tonight (Monday). The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

School members also are expected to discuss hiring a new attorney for the school district in place of Budd Bornhoff of Wayne. Bornhoff resigned effective the first of next month after agreeing last week to serve as temporary city attorney in place (See Board, page 8)

Hoskins Men Eye Office in May Election

Two area men filed for reelection to the Hoskins town board last week in the only town board filings thus far in the eight area communities.

Lloyd Ave and Gene Barcas will seek additional four-year terms on the town board. According to reports, Hoskins chairman George Langenberg will not seek another term. Those are the only terms expiring this year.

No other filings were recorded in the other seven towns as of Friday. There are three terms expiring on the Allen, Wakefield and Winside boards. Dixon, Laurel, Concord and Carroll boards each have two members whose terms end this year.

5 File for Office in Dixon County

Five persons, including three incumbents, had filed for Dixon County offices by Friday.

Incumbents seeking additional terms are sheriff Dean Chase, Republican from Allen; clerk Esther Brenndahl, Democrat from Ponca, and assessor Virgil Putman, Republican from Ponca.

Filing for two of the four county supervisor positions which will be filled in the November general election were Raymond Nelson, Democrat from Newcastle seeking the third district seat, and Merle Von Minden, Republican from Allen seeking the fifth district seat. Currently holding those posts are Don Thomas, Newcastle Republican in the third district, and E. G. Lundahl, Allen Democrat in the fifth district.

Also ending their terms as supervisors are Jerry Knerl, Ponca Democrat in the first district, and Donald Mackling, Emerson Republican in the seventh district.

Not up for reelection are Doyle Hanson, Newcastle Democrat in the second district; Willis Johnson, Laurel Republican in the fourth district, and Art Doescher, Wakefield Democrat in the sixth district.

Also ending their terms as superintendent of schools, Otis Decker of Hartington, who also serves Cedar County; treasurer Jack Conrad, Ponca Republican; attorney Merle Kingsbury, Ponca Republican; clerk of district court Irma Foulks, Ponca Republican; and county surveyors—Burton Brush, Hartington Republican.

Supervisors will receive $3,300 annually when they begin their new terms in January, an increase over the $2,400 they now receive. Salaries for the other county offices, with present salaries in parentheses: Superintendent of schools, $4,000 (if full time or $4,500 if serving two counties (same as at present)); clerk of district court, $7,280 ($5,600); sheriff, clerk and assessor, $9,100 ($7,000). The surveyor is paid $5 an hour but not more than $40 a day.

Deadline for filing for office is March 15. The primary election will be held in May.

RAY BUTTS
Butts, Nissen
Picked to Head
Safety Group

Members of Wayne County's newly organized accident prevention organization last week named Ray Butts of Wayne as chairman and Robert Nissen of rural Wayne as vice chairman.

The organization is officially known as Selective Localized Accident Prevention (SLAP), similar to other traffic safety groups organized across the state in recent years.

Butts said the group is seeking help from the public in locating traffic hazards in the communities and rural areas in the county. Once the hazards are located, work can begin on getting something done to eliminate them, he said.

Discussed at last week's meeting were several possible tasks the group might tackle, including eliminating the hazard existing at the intersection of Highways 35 and 98 four miles north of Winside. The intersection has been the site of several accidents within recent months and numerous ones over the years.

The group also discussed the need for two-way radios in all school buses, a defensive driving course, study of the traffic flow and new traffic lights in Wayne, and improvement of rural intersections.

A survey of Wayne will be undertaken to determine the best way to route traffic in an orderly manner, according to Butts. Tying in with the study will be reports on accidents in the city and county compiled by Nissen, county highway superintendent, and Fred Brink, city administrator for Wayne.

Also members of the organization along with Butts, Nissen and Brink are Dean Pierson, Kurt Ote, Orville Sherry, Al Wittig and Dick Keidel.

Anybody in the county with suggestions on traffic improvements is invited to contact any member of the group, Butts said.

Free 'Vagabond Vacations' Offered to Area Shoppers

Go ahead, be a vagabond for a weekend on The Wayne Herald and 27 local businesses.

They will pick up the tab for your weekend of fun and relaxation anywhere in the United States, Canada or Mexico, thanks to the Vagabond Weekend promotion being kicked off this week.

Winners in the weekly drawings have the choice of where they want to spend their weekend vacation. Some might choose to travel to Denver for some sightseeing and skiing. Others might decide to go to Kansas City for a professional baseball game in the city's fabulous new sports complex. Still others might opt to go to the West Coast for some swimming and relaxation on the beach.

Wherever you go, the vacation will be on the local businesses sponsoring the promotion.

A total of eight free vagabond vacations will be given away during the promotion. Winners in the weekly drawings may choose to take their vacations anytime during the following six months, giving winners a chance to get away from the cold winter weather or wait until summer comes along for the trip they've been hoping to be able to take for years.

Winners will receive luxury accommodations for 2 nights in Ramada Inns or Holiday Inns in the cities they decide to visit. They also will receive $67.50 in spending money during their stay. Transportation is not provided in the promotion.

Couples who win in the promotion may take up to three children under 12 with them at no cost. Single persons may take a friend with them during their vacation.

The contest, open to any shoppers in the Wayne area, is simple.

You simply register during the week at any of the businesses taking part in the promotion. Each Friday there will be a drawing to determine a preliminary winner from each business, followed by a final drawing to determine that week's winner of the vagabond vacation.

Drawings will be held weekly during the coming two months. Shoppers may begin registering at any or all of the businesses starting today (Monday). The first drawing to determine preliminary winners will be held Friday, with the winners from each business listed in a two-page advertisement in next Monday's issue of the newspaper. Winners of the free vacation will be announced in the Thursday issue of the newspaper next week.

More details explaining the promotion are contained in a full-page advertisement inside this issue of the newspaper. (The businesses helping the (See "Vagabond", page 8)

4-H Beef Project Slated for County

Four-H youths in Wayne County interested in taking part in a beef breeding project are invited to attend an organizational meeting which will be held this month.

County agent Don Spitz said the meeting will be held in Wayne but a definite date has not been selected yet.

Leaders of the project will be LeRoy Sievers of Wakefield and Jim Teeter of Wayne.

Spitz said there will be about 400 active members during the project, which will provide 4-H members with such information as how to select breeding animals.

Sick Kids Leaving Desks Empty

A rash of absenteeism in some area schools is blamed on the recent eruption of an upper respiratory infection.

Symptoms include sore throat, fever, general achiness and sometimes coughing, usually lasting three to five days. It has not been determined whether the illness is definitely influenza, according to local physicians.

It is possibly the same infection which has forced the closing of several schools in the Omaha area.

The Wakefield schools have been among the hardest hit in the area, with absences during late last week averaging 70 per day in the high school, considerably above the normal 10 per day, according to Richard Anderson, principal.

County Attorney, Clerk Seek Office

Already filing were sheriff Don Weible, treasurer Leon Meyer, assessor Doris Stipp, clerk of district court Joann Ostrander and commissioners Joe Wilson of rural Wakefield and Floyd Burt of rural Winside. All filed as Republicans.

Commissioner Ken Eddie of Carroll does not finish his four-year term this year.

Bornhoff, 54, has been county attorney since taking over the job formerly held by Don Reed in June of 1972. Reed left Wayne for a job in Hawaii.

Bornhoff and his wife, Juanita, have two children at home, Robyn, a freshman at Wayne High, and Bob, a seventh grader. They also have three older sons, Todd, a sophomore at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Rick of Omaha and Budd of Albuquerque.

Bornhoff also has served as city attorney for Wayne, a job he has temporarily taken over following last week's resignation by John Addison.

County clerk Weible, 58, will end his second term in office this year.

He is president of the state association of clerks and register of deeds as well as secretary of the regional crime commission, a job he has held since the commission was formed about two and a half years ago.

He and his wife, Helen, have three children, Dean of Las Vegas, Mrs. Judy McKnight of Pagosa Springs, Colo., and Linda of Omaha.

WS Teacher Invited to Workshop

Dr. J.S. Johar of the Wayne State chemistry faculty has been invited to attend a workshop on water pollution at Argonne National Laboratory, Chicago, Feb. 8-9.

He is among about 15 college chemistry professors selected for the workshop. It will deal with new techniques for chemically detecting, identifying and estimating the amount of pollutants in water.

Dr. Johar said he expects to bring back information and methods which he can apply to his chemistry class. And he hopes this will eventually develop practical application for Northeast Nebraska.

Hoskins Has High Goal

A town of about 270 population is investing more than $100,000 in the future, hoping to reap dividends in such ways as attracting new businesses.

Hoskins town board voted last week in favor of a $117,000 street improvement project that will include two blocks of paving on the main street, 10-foot wide sidewalks, storm sewers and new underground water pipes to handle what the board believes will be an expanding business area.

To complete the project, Nebraska Public Power District has agreed to install new light fixtures in the business district. The wiring will be underground and poles will have receptacles for 110-volt service for Christmas decorations. In addition, NPPD agreed to remove some high-voltage lines on the north end of the business block to improve the appearance of the downtown area.

Also in the planning stages is planting of trees to enhance the (See Goal, page 8)

Contributions continue to pour in for the Danny Koester fund as the amount reaches closer to the $25,000 goal.

As of Saturday morning, $9,183.01 had been collected, according to Bill Snyder of Security State Bank in Allen.

Helping to reach that figure last week were three charity basketball games sponsored by Dixon and Concord communities. They brought in more than $320.

Another benefit basketball game is slated for Friday at the Allen High gym when junior high boys take on the girls at 7:30 p.m. The boys, however, will be at a disadvantage — they will be wearing overcoats and boots along with different types of gloves.

Also that night Allen teachers will have a pudding-eating contest as the instructors tackle jars of pudding with their hands held behind their backs.

Thursday night the Concord fire department will hold its annual social gathering with a share of the ticket money going to the Koester fund.

Reports show the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Koester of rural Allen is responding to a recent bone marrow transplant at a Seattle hospital. Doctors are optimistic, said Danny's brother Jim. (See Koester Fund, page 8)

Wayne County commissioners Joe Wilson, Floyd Burt and Ken Eddie Wednesday attended hearings on legislative bills which would result in using highway funds for mass transit.

Burt said he and the other two commissioners oppose using highway funds to help large metropolitan areas such as Omaha improve their mass transportation systems. Testimony for and against the bills was given in a packed room, and committee members may have heard enough opposition from out-state persons to help kill the proposals, Burt said. The committee took no action on the two bills or on one which would permit levying up to three mills for mass transportation in Omaha.

LB 879 would skim five per cent, about $5.8 million of $117 million, from the highway fund. The other bill, LB 875, would permit any municipality to use up to 25 per cent of its highway user funds for mass transit.

Home in 'Homestyle Baking' Is Wayne

Mrs. S. B. Whitmore

By SANDRA BREITKREUTZ
"Homestyle Baking," a book published last year by Dorrance & Co., Inc., of Philadelphia, will be of interest to "the baking buff who wishes to make a half-size cake... a small batch of cookies... or just one loaf of bread," according to authors Irol W. Balsley, Larhylla Whitmore Wood and Nanna Carson Whitmore.

If area bakers find the recipes have a familiar ring to them, it may be because two of the authors grew up in Wayne and the third, their mother, still makes her home here.

According to Mrs. S. B. (Nanna) Whitmore, the 464-page book is mostly the work of daughter Irol Balsley.

"She's been cooking since she was about 10," said her mother, "and when her husband, Howard Balsley, was working on his doctorate at Washington Lee University in Pennsylvania, she decided to spend her time compiling a cookbook."

Mrs. Balsley graduated from Wayne State College in 1933; received her master's degree from the University of Tennessee and her doctorate in education from Indiana University.

She is a professor of education at Texas Tech, at Lubbock, and has been a professor at other universities, including Louisiana Tech, Indiana University, Russell Sage College and the University of Utah.

Dr. Balsley is the author and co-author of several textbooks and other professional publications in business education. She holds membership in several honorary societies, including Delta Pi Epsilon, Beta Gamma Sigma, Pi Lambda Theta and Sigma Tau Delta. Her husband is also a professor at Texas Tech.

Also helping put the book together was Mrs. Whitmore's other daughter, Mrs. Larhylla Wood. At Wayne State College, where she graduated in 1942, she was selected for inclusion in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." She earned her master's degree at East Tennessee State in Johnson City, where she is now an assistant professor of English. She has done additional study at the University of Mississippi and at Texas Tech. Her husband, Star Wood, is also a professor at East Tennessee State.

Mrs. Whitmore ("Call me, Nan," she says) will be 90 in September, and still makes her home across from the college campus where all six of her children studied.

She was born in Virginia and as a child came with her family to Stanton County in a flat-bottom wagon pulled by oxen. They settled at Priger. After completing a two-year teaching course at WSC (then Nebraska Normal College) she taught at Beemer and in country schools.

She met S. B. Whitmore at college, where he was taking a business course. The couple came back to Wayne from Orchard in 1922 to build a home and business and raise their children, all of whom graduated from the campus high school and Wayne State College.

The Whitmores operated the Student Supply Store, which was sold after Whitmore died four years ago. It is now the Paper Airplane.

The couple's oldest daughter, Mrs. Lyle (Niulah) Rich of Sioux Falls, and another daughter, Mrs. Benjamin (Lillian) Wells, now deceased, both graduated from Wayne State in 1930.

MRS. WOOD

A son, Llewellyn, graduated in 1937, and was the first Wayne County man to die in World War II. The local VFW post is named for him.

Another son, Quentin, lives with his wife in Wallingford, Pa., and works for Boeing Air Plane Company. He graduated at WS in 1941.

Mrs. Whitmore is a past Worthy Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star in Wayne and a member of the VFW Auxiliary.

She has compiled and edited a history and directory of the Nebraska Normal College, but of this past achievement, says, "I wasn't quite satisfied with the results and burned my copy up."

These are the authors of "Homestyle Baking." Available at the Wayne Public Library, the book includes recipes for over 500 different breads, cakes, cookies and the like.

For those who do not wish to make a trip to the library before sampling some of the recipes, we have included "Old-Time Johnnycake," "Vinegar Nut Pie" and "Brandy Wafers."

Old-Time Johnnycake
Start oven heating at 450 degrees. Sift together 3 times 1/2 cup sifted flour, 1/2 cup white cornmeal, 4 tablespoons brown sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon soda. Place in mixing bowl. Add 1 beaten egg, 1/4 cup sour milk, 1/4 cup sour cream. Mix well. Pour into prepared pan. Bake about 20 minutes, cups plus 3 tablespoons flour. Wrap dough in waxed paper and chill thoroughly.

Lary's Hasty Waffles
Start waffle iron heating. Beat 1 or 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons salad oil, 3/4 cup milk. Sift into liquids 1 cup sifted flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Stir until blended. When iron is correct temperature, bake waffles. Serve with hot brown sugar syrup made by boiling together for 5 minutes 1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup hot water. Yield, about 4 waffles.

Vinegar Nut Pie
Prepare 6-inch baked pie shell. Chop 3/4 cup nuts (pecans or walnuts). Set aside. Combine 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup vinegar, 1 beaten egg. Add 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cup water, 1 tablespoon vinegar. Mix well. Cook over hot water, stirring frequently, about 15 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in 1/16 teaspoon nutmeg. Stir in 1/4 cup of nuts. Pour into pie shell. Sprinkle with remaining nuts.

Brandy Wafers
Mix together in top of double boiler 2 tablespoons butter, 1/3 cup packed brown sugar, 3 tablespoons white corn syrup, pinch of salt, 1/4 teaspoon ginger. Place over boiling water and stir until butter melts and ingredients are well blended. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Stir in gradually 1/2

Baptist Church Honors Pastor's 40th Anniversary

The Rev. Harry Cowles, who serves Wayne's First Baptist Church, was honored by his congregation during worship services Sunday morning, and with a dinner and program which followed at the church basement afterward.

Wayne. Guests also were present from Hastings where Pastor Cowles served 19 years prior to coming to Wayne in July. Mrs. John Ream, president of the American Baptist Women's group, presented flowers to the Rev. and Mrs. Cowles, and special music was provided by Floyd Bracken and Mrs. Dennis Urbans. Mrs. Carlos Martin also paid tribute to the couple.

The afternoon program included special music by Jerry Malcom, Mrs. Dennis Urbans and Dean Sorensen. Jerry Malcom gave a "This Is Your Life" presentation. Mrs. Dean Sorensen presented the pastor with a bundle of correspondence sent for the occasion by former church members in Hastings and other acquaintances.

Geriatric Aide Training Begins Feb. 11 at Dahl's

The first section of a three-part geriatric aide training class will begin Feb. 11 in Wayne. Classes will be held each Monday evening, beginning at 7 p.m., at Dahl Care Centre, according to Ken Dahl, administrator of the centre.

The course is being offered through the cooperation of the Nebraska Nursing Home Association, the State of Nebraska Vocational Education Department and the Wayne-Carroll school district.

Successful completion of all three portions of the 90-hour course will entitle the qualified students to State of Nebraska Care Staff Member Certificates. As of April 1 of this year, aides must have this certificate in order to be in charge of a shift, Dahl noted.

The course will be taught by Mrs. Mary Fisher of Wayne, a registered nurse. Enrollment is open to the public. A $12-tuition fee for each section of the course will cover the cost of books and other materials.

Club

Also attending the meeting were Vern Fairchild, Wayne police chief, and Don Weible, Wayne County sheriff. Fairchild told the group that the CB radio at the city police station would be available for the club as its base radio.

Named at the Feb. 13 meeting will be a club president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and public relations director.

The club is open to anyone in the Wayne area who owns CB radios or other short-wave radios, according to Ray Butts, who helped county civil defense direct T. P. Roberts organize last week's meeting.

Butts said the club could prove very helpful in case of severe tornado weather, downed planes, large fires or other emergencies.

But letting for the project won't take place until Feb. 25, according to board member Herman Opler. At that time the town may know more about when the improvements will be completed.

According to Duane Upton of Consolidated Engineer Architects in Wayne, designer of the project, properties adjacent to the main street will be assessed part of the cost for the improvement. Water and sewer funds also are to be used along with federal revenue sharing money and paving bonds.

Free Tips on Paying Taxes

Free income tax assistance is no further away than your telephone says Michael Bilgere, acting district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska. Bilgere said that most taxpayers should be able to prepare their own returns by following step-by-step instructions that come with their Form 1040 or 1040A. If taxpayers need additional help, they can call the IRS, toll-free, for tax assistance, he said.

Toll-free telephone numbers for Nebraska are listed on page two of the instructions with the 1040 tax package and page seven of the 1040A tax package.

"This service allows taxpayers anywhere in the state the opportunity of obtaining tax information without long distance charges," Bilgere said.

He also noted that several IRS offices in Nebraska will provide regular walk-in service to help taxpayers to prepare their returns. We have assigned additional personnel to assist taxpayers this year, he said.

THE MAN WHO SOLD NEWSPAPERS

When Mark Twain was a young man, he was editor and publisher of a growing newspaper in a small Missouri town.

One day he received a letter from one of his subscribers. The subscriber said that he had found a spider in that morning's edition of his paper. He wanted to know if this was an omen of good luck, or of bad luck. Mark Twain, a hustling space salesman as well as an editor, wrote to his customer:

"Dear Sir: Finding the spider in your newspaper yesterday morning was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which of the town's merchants is not advertising. He will then go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Illustration of Mark Twain at a desk with a spider on his paper. Below the illustration is the text 'THE WAYNE HERALD'.

The 1974 Mercury Marquis

MERCURY MARQUIS BROUGHAM shown with optional white sidewalls and wheel covers.

Premium ride without premium gas!

Today a premium ride is not enough. You also need a car you can afford to run. And for 1974 Mercury Marquis is designed to be that kind of car. It uses regular fuel. Its standard steel-belted radials give thousands of extra miles of tread wear over non-radials. And a '74 Mercury is designed to save you an estimated average of 26% on scheduled maintenance costs when compared to a '73 Mercury in 50,000 miles of normal driving. That's due to innovations like solid state ignition. So you see, a premium ride is just not enough. Unless it comes in a car you can afford to operate. We invite you to come drive the Mercury Marquis for 1974—the premium ride that uses regular gas!
