

Give Him A Few More Years

IT WILL BE quite a while before two-year-old Matt Peterson will be able to wrestle in high school competition, but the son of Winside's assistant wrestling coach, Carter "Cap" Peterson, isn't willing to wait until then. He'll even take on his sister, Sara, despite her advantage of two years. Both youngsters "worked out" with Winside High's wrestling team last week in preparation for this week's district meets Saturday. The Cats will host the Class C tournament Saturday. Another area team, Wakefield, will compete there while Wayne travels to Albion for Class B action. On the far left, Matt readies for his opponent as he dons his wrestling garb — made special by his mother — then warms up with some exercises before he and his sister tangle. It looks like he got the better of his older sister. (Photos by Bob Bartlett).

Rickers Last Incumbent Filing for Another Term

Fred Rickers filed Friday for another term as Wayne County superintendent of schools. He was the last incumbent county official to file for office. Rickers, 68, is in the final year of his first four year term as county superintendent, a post he won in the 1970 general election after long time county superintendent Gladys Porter decided to step down from the job. He faced no opponent in that election.

years before coming to Wayne in 1943. He received his undergraduate degree at Peru, then earned his master's degree at Colorado State Teachers College, now University of Northern Colorado at Greeley.

Rickers' wife, Violet, retired from teaching in the Wayne-Carroll school system last year after 28 years of teaching. The couple has one son, Frederick, an actuary at Lincoln.

FRED RICKERS

Rickers was Wayne High principal for 21 years before retiring from that job in 1970. Prior to becoming principal he was a teacher and assistant coach in the local school system for five years.

A graduate of Peru State Teachers College, Rickers taught at Blue Springs for five years and served as school superintendent there for 12

Free 'Cake Feed' Set for Residents

Winside area residents are invited to a free pancake and sausage feed at the city auditorium in Winside on Thursday. The annual event, scheduled for 4 to 8 p.m., is sponsored by the Winside Community Club. General chairman for the event this year is Carl Troutman. Floyd Burt is chairman of the early shift, Dale Miller chairman of the late shift.

Incumbent county officials who have already filed for office include sheriff Don Weible, clerk Norris Weible, assessor Doris Stipp, treasurer Leon Meyer, attorney Budd Bornhoff, clerk of district court Joann Ostrander and commissioners Joe Wilson and Floyd Burt. All filed as Republicans except Bornhoff, who will run as an independent. Rickers' post is non-political. They have been the only people to file for county office to date.

The names of those nine people will be on the ballot for the May 14 primary election, with winners of that race going into the November general election. Filing deadline for county, city and school board posts is March 15. There were no filings by last week for local city council, mayor and school board posts which will have to be filled in the May voting.

For Taking CLEP Deadline Is Near

Wayne High School seniors interested in taking the CLEP examinations in preparation for enrollment at Wayne State College next fall are urged to contact the financial aid scholarship office at the college no later than Friday, February 15 if the student wants to take the CLEP Test on March 9, says Wayne High counselor Ken Carlson.

The CLEP Program is the College Level Examination Program. It is designed to grant college credit by examination rather than by course enrollment. Up to 30 hours of college credit may be granted upon successful completion of the CLEP TESTS. The college will administer the CLEP tests at least twice this spring and summer.

Some Get Pudding-in Face

Allen Fund Drive Gets A Shot in the Arm

The Danny Koester fund drive at Allen got a shot in the arm Friday night, but some students and teachers had to get some pudding in their face to accomplish it.

More than 300 persons turned out for a couple benefit basketball games by junior high students and a pudding eating contest that saw the students teaching the teachers how to gobble down their food.

The event should kick the fund total way over $11,000, considering that there was $10,878.52 in the fund Saturday morning before proceeds from the benefit were counted and turned in.

Goal of the fund drive is to raise money to help pay the $25,000 hospitalization and doctor bill the Duane Koester family of rural Allen is expected to receive by the time their 14 year old boy finishes his treatment for a rare blood disease in a Seattle hospital. The bill for the first 31 days of his stay there was over $9,000, a family member said last week. Young Koester, an eighth grader at Allen, is expected to remain in the hospital 100 days.

He is suffering from paroxysmal nocturnal hemoglobinuria, a rare blood disease which stems from the bone marrow's inability to produce enough white corpuscles. The disease was discovered about three years ago, and the youth steadily got worse until doctors at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., advised his parents to take him to Seattle to undergo a bone marrow transplant operation that doctors there have been experimenting with in an attempt to curb effects of the disease. He is reportedly progressing following the operation early in January. Friday night saw some of his classmates stage a basketball game for him—with the boys being forced to do everything from long winter coats to boxing gloves and overshoes to even things up for the opposing girls' team.

The boys overcame those disadvantages—plus a couple referees who tended to give the girls the benefit of every doubt—to rack up a 32-28 win.

The referees, teachers Charles Haag and Mrs. Janelle Erickson, gave the girls three points for a "field goal" on a shot that went over the backboard and through the supporting bars. They also kept their whistles quiet when the girls grabbed hold of those long coats to keep the boys from scoring and when the girls happened to take three or four steps without dribbling the ball.

Mrs. Erickson even made a free throw for the girls, something the girls were having trouble doing during the game. At one point she tried riding a bicycle during the game, but gave that up after she repeatedly found herself going one way while the players were going the other.

NPPD Contract Is Back on Agenda

Wayne's city council Tuesday night is scheduled to once again discuss the contract for purchasing electrical power from Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

The council voted 4-3 at its last meeting not to sign the contract with NPPD, something the council has been considering for more than a year.

Councilman Darrel Fugelberth, one of those who voted against the contract, has requested the topic be included on the agenda. Currently under construction is an intertie line which will link up with Wayne County Public Power District's line south of the city. If tied in, the line will permit the city to purchase NPPD power as well as continue producing its own electricity at the municipal generating plant.

However, the city will not be permitted to tie into that line until the contract with NPPD has been signed, according to Cal Comstock, manager of WCCPD.

Also scheduled for discussion during the meeting is the city's contract with its planning consultant. (See Council, page 6) teachers how to eat pudding quickly during halftime, not seeming to mind that their hands were tied behind their backs. The teachers apparently found that disadvantage too much to cope with.

Play-by-play action during the game was taped by Allen Trube. The recording, which also includes cheerful comments by his classmates, will be sent to Young Koester.

Also playing during the evening were basketball teams made up of fifth and sixth graders.

Another benefit event held to help the fund drive was the

Young Files

Dixon's village board chairman, John Young, filed for re-election to the town board during the board's meeting Monday night.

Young, however, says he is not seeking the chairman post. Another board member whose term expires this year, town clerk Lowell Saunders, made it definite he is quitting his post. Saunders has served on the board for 18 years.

Local Man Files For Weed Board

Mike Karel of Wayne filed Thursday for another term on the Wayne County noxious weed control authority.

Karel and John Owens, also of Wayne, are the only two persons on the five-member board completing their four-year terms at the end of this year. Owens has not filed for re-election; Karel is finishing his fourth term on the board.

Board members not finishing their terms this year are Duane Rethwisch of rural Wayne and rural Carroll residents Enos Williams and Lester Menke.

The non-political posts pay members mileage for attending meetings and $12 per meeting.

Winners Picked

Preliminary winners for the first of eight free Vagabond Vacations are named in a two-page advertisement inside this issue of The Wayne Herald.

A drawing will be held this week to determine who will receive the free vacation, paid for by the 27 sponsoring businesses. The winner will be named in Thursday's Herald.

Winners in the eight-week promotion may take their vacation anywhere in the United States, Canada or Mexico. They receive two night's accommodations at any Ramada Inn or Holiday Inn plus $67.50 in spending money.

WS to Help Offer Course on ETV

Nebraska educators and college students will have an opportunity this spring semester to earn two hours of college credit by participating in a televised course to be broadcast on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

The 12-week course, "Designing Success Strategies," is being offered jointly by the Nebraska Educational Television Council and Wayne State College. NETCHE is a non-profit corporation of colleges and universities in Nebraska who use educational television for credit courses and supplemental instruction.

The course will be broadcast each Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. on the Nebraska ETV Network beginning Feb. 20. Repeat broadcasts will be offered at 12:30 p.m. on the following Saturdays. In addition, KYNE TV, Channel 26 in Omaha, will broadcast the course at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesdays beginning February 19, with repeat broadcasts at 9 p.m. on Thursdays.

Designing Success Strategies is a course about elementary education directed primarily toward elementary and high school teachers. It features Dr. William Glasser, educational inventor, lecturer and author of several books.

Filmed entirely on location at one of Dr. Glasser's schools without failure, the series reveals first hand the practicality and beneficial results of his ideas. All 12 half-hour lessons feature Dr. Glasser working with the staff of one of his model schools to illustrate how students can be more involved in learning.

Individuals interested in enrolling in the course, which is offered for two semester units of graduate or advanced undergraduate credit, should contact the registrar at Wayne State. The course fee is $31.

Dyas: Our Men in Washington Sputtering Along on 2 Cylinders

By NORVIN HANSEN

Nebraska's representatives in Congress have been sputtering along on just two of three cylinders, a Democratic candidate for the House said Thursday night at Wayne State.

Hess Dyas, bidding for Representative Charles Thone's job in Washington, said Thone and Senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska have been working to cut red tape for their constituents and have been present on the floor to react to bills and ideas introduced by other Congressmen.

But they have not been providing leadership, the third function of any Congressman, Dyas said.

"It's been a representation devoted to permanency rather than fighting what's needed," the Lincoln resident told a group of about 25 during his stop at the campus.

Republicans Thone, Curtis and Hruska are much more interested in keeping their jobs in Washington than they are in introducing new legislation, coming up with new ideas and providing leadership similar to other Congressmen from Midwest states, said Dyas, 36-year-old former chairman of the state Democratic Party.

"It's time we had a mixed delegation from this state... somebody more concerned about fighting for the rights of the people in this district rather than permanency," Dyas commented. The state would benefit greatly, he said, by electing a Democrat to one of those seats because it would make the jobs competitive and mean that whoever held them would have to be running on all three cylinders instead of just two.

Dyas said he would try to provide that leadership by fighting for such things as the minimum wage bill, better health care for everybody in the country, reduced military spending and better welfare coverage for the people who need it.

He said the main issues of the coming campaign will be the cost of living and the energy crisis.

The Watergate affair may have some indirect effect on the elections in November, he noted, but how big an effect it will have is difficult to predict. It has helped the Democratic Party because it has made Democrats more enthusiastic and more willing to work in campaigns, he noted.

The high cost of living and the energy crisis will be the main issues, however, because they touch everybody in the country, he emphasized.

Dyas noted that one of the reasons for both the inflated economy and the energy shortages was the national government's lack of knowledge about what was going on in this country.

Government officials don't know how much oil or gas is being produced, how much is in storage or how much remains in the earth, said Dyas. They also lacked knowledge about such things as how much grain

This is the first of several special reports on major political candidates which will be published between now and election time. The reports on the candidates who stop in Wayne and the surrounding area should prove helpful to voters when the primary and general elections roll around.

was available in this country, prompting the sale of huge quantities of wheat to Russia and the subsequent shortages in this country.

Government leaders should know exactly what is going on in order to "manage and regulate" so similar shortages and hikes in the cost of living do not develop if they can be avoided.

He said one of the reasons for the fuel shortages in America is "vertical integration" — where one company owns and controls a product all the way from initial steps in production to purchase by the consumer. This is what oil companies are doing by taking fuel from the earth, processing it, transporting it throughout the country and selling it out of their gas pumps.

Dyas said there are several areas where he disagrees with what Thone (See Dyas, page 6)

Who Needs Organization?

Maybe it's because I'm basically a very gullible sort and find it difficult to believe that I should be otherwise. Perhaps it's because I have a deep-rooted psychological fear of being locked out — or in. More than likely it's just because I'm scatterbrained, as I've been told on occasion.

Whatever the reason, I belong to a class of individuals who cannot be trusted with keys.

I forget them in pockets that go to the cleaners. I lose them in out-of-town phone booths. I drop them in six-foot snow banks and down furnace gratings. I leave them in the outside locks of motel room doors, on top of the mailbox, in the car trunk or inside the shed I've just padlocked shut.

From time to time I have tried to mend my ways, but most attempts — like our keyboard invention — have been something less than successful.

The keyboard idea developed a few years ago when we were looking for a church key in the kitchen catch-all drawer and came up with about a dozen and half assorted keys to heaven only knows what.

Driven by inspiration, I ransacked the garage for an appropriate piece of plywood, trimmed it painstakingly if not accurately with the coping saw and covered the mistakes artistically with some Japanese grass cloth which matched the pain on the wall very nicely.

Measuring carefully and allowing for ample accumulation of still more keys, I drove 24 finishing nails part way into the board and taped appropriate labels beneath them for the deep freeze key, car keys, pickup keys, front, back and side door keys, attic key, bedroom keys, keys to three padlocks which had temporarily been mislaid, keys to the desk, book case and one daughter's bank, keys to the mobile home we rented out, two keys we had been holding for a relative since his vacation five years before, and six keys which I was sure we would be able to identify in time.

I located the studs in the wall, mounted the key board with a couple of number 16's, and stood back to admire my work and anticipate the praise from hubby when he discovered the neat job of organization I had accomplished.

Hubby wasn't impressed.

He seemed to feel that it wasn't exactly in the best interests of security to locate the keyboard near the back door, which of necessity is always left unlocked.

It wasn't that I hadn't considered that factor. It was simply that the board fit there better than anywhere else in the house. And besides, as I patiently explained, we could always code the key tags so that no one other than ourselves would be able to tell what key was for what lock.

The theory held water, but the practice leaked.

I can never remember if MH stands for "mobile home" or "mother's house," and was JB for "jewelry box" or "Jenny's bedroom"? Let's see. GC could be "gun case," but I rather think it was "Gerald's car."

Whether it was a "real" matter. Except for the keys we never did find locks to fit, they are all back on top of the refrigerator, in hubby's pocket, in the mail basket and in the catch-all drawer.

So much for organization.

TV Note book

By Larry Turner

The writer of dramatic TV shows has a double-barrated job. He has to tell a fascinating story in 24 or 48 minutes, so interesting that you'll just want to tune in again next week to see another one like it. And he has to tell it according to a format that keeps you from checking to see what's playing on other channels during his show.

First, he starts with a "tease," an opening which is shown before the credits and which is so interesting and promises so much to come that you wouldn't think of changing channels. Each "act" must also wind up in an exciting, suspenseful situation so you won't be tempted to switch to a competitive program.

You won't be tempted to buy your new TV set anywhere else, once you listen to our one-on-one saving deals. Our own service department will install and adjust your set to assure your complete satisfaction.

Local Cancer Meet Attracts 25 Workers

The American Cancer Society's district workshop at Les' Steak House in Wayne Tuesday attracted 25 volunteer workers from Wayne, Schuyler, Wausa, Wakefield, Lincoln, Omaha and Columbus.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson, president of the Wayne County Cancer Society, welcomed the group, and five filmstrips on recruiting and public education were shown by Jack Schuetz of Lincoln, state crusade committee chairman. A group discussion afterward was led by Peter Zwiler of Omaha, education, extension and vice president of the Nebraska unit.

Gene Lilla of Omaha, state public education director, showed slides and reported on the state use of campaign funds.

"Sixty per cent of the funds collected by the state are returned for use in the state," he explained, "and 40 per cent goes to the national division."

The national unit is required to spend 70 per cent of their share on research. Approximately $162,000 has been returned to Nebraska in grants to Lincoln and Omaha doctors.

A native of California, Custer graduated from San Francisco State College with a degree in education and psychology. He is a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary and is an ordained, Presbyterian minister. He served as pastor of the Tracy, Calif., Presbyterian Church eight years, and as executive director and minister-at-large of Omega Fellowship.

Currently he is in the process of establishing a non-denominational center in Oregon for religious and group leadership training and personal growth. Custer appears before large and small groups throughout the United States, Canada and Europe, and has been on radio and television.

He has returned to the Wayne area annually for the past three years for lectures, small group meetings, prayer and healing sessions and retreats.

The weekend retreat will begin Friday evening with registration from 6 to 7 p.m. An hour will be devoted to getting acquainted and a devotional session and Custer will speak on "Learning to Know the Real Jesus."

Saturday's schedule will begin with breakfast at 9 a.m., and a talk by Custer on "The Anger Cycle" from 10 a.m. until noon, followed by lunch. A personal sharing session is scheduled from 2 to 3 p.m. and supper will be at 6, following a free period.

Sunday evening Custer will speak on "The Power of Christ Within." Both Friday and Saturday programs will conclude with celebration and prayer.

Sunday, breakfast will be at 9 a.m., with a Bible study of Matthew 25:14-30 from 10 to 11. Custer's topic will be "Take Up Your Cross," with worship, sharing and a question and answer session afterward.

The retreat, to conclude at noon Sunday, will be held at St. Anne's Catholic parish hall in Dixon. Participants are to bring sleeping bags or blankets for sleeping on the floor, and will help with preparation of the meals.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Rev. Paul Reimers at the CCM Center.

Lakeview Drops Wayne for West Husker Crown Title of the first period. But with Wayne's change came a change in the Trojans' scoring — only seven the second frame while the Devils poured in 13 for a 27-27 first half.

4 Area Players on Tourney Team

Three Wayne High basketball players along with a Wakefield player were named to the 10-man West Husker Conference all-tournament team Friday after Columbus Lakeview won the division title with a 67-56 win over the Blue Devils.

Wayne didn't feel the full effect of the trio's combination until the second quarter. After both clubs tied at 16-all at the end of the first period, the Vikings started breakaway plays with long passes down the court for quick scores and a seven-point margin with seven seconds left in the half.

Lakeview nearly put the game away in the third period by limiting Wayne to only four points while collecting 12 to take a 49-36 lead going into the last period.

For a while it looked like the Devils might stage a comeback, though, knocking in seven straight points to cut the lead to 55-49 at one point in the last frame. However, the locals started fouling Lakeview, sending the Vikings to the line where they sank 15 of 21 tosses.

Wayne guards, Tod Bigelow and Marty Hansen along with center Bob Keating were the big guns for the locals, with Bigelow burning the rim from the outside for 20 points. Both Keating and Hansen dropped in 12.

Wakefield's senior guard Doug Soderberg knotted the game at 37-all in the beginning of the fourth period with a quick basket, but both Hansen and Kim Baker retaliated with a bucket each to push Wayne out in front 41-37. Fischer struck again to narrow the lead to two before Wayne's defense put a halt to Wakefield's scoring.

A major led in Wakefield's game plans came in the last quarter when Addink picked up his fifth foul, sending the senior to the bench with just under four minutes left in the game and Wayne ahead, 47-39.

Sorensen Wins 21st As Wakefield Falls

Hooper Logan View stopped Wakefield's chances of a winning dual season Wednesday night, 42-28, but the home team failed to stop undefeated Steve Sorensen from keeping his string intact.

The senior star pinned 145-pound Brad Peterson in 2:49 for his 21st victory before Saturday's Class C district tournament at Winside.

Sorensen gave the area club 4.5 for the year in dual action, six points in the match, but during the meet the Trojans lost 18 points when they had to forfeit three matches. Terry Borg (98), Brian Newton (105) and Jim Allvin (132) missed their matches due to the flu.

Two other veterans not able to wrestle were Roger Gustafson (138) and John Polen (119). Neither one was sick, but they had reached their 26-match limit.

Coach Lyle Trullinger praised Sorensen's efforts to keep his string going as well as the performances by 167-pound Steve Greve and 185-pound Dave Gustafson. Both Trojans won their weights, Greve taking a 17-1 decision and Gustafson pinning his man in 3:48.

The Cats, 1-11 as of Wednesday's seeding, will battle fourth-seeded Pirates, 4-8, at 8:30 p.m., according to Winside's head man for Karl Lutz.

Logan View 42, Wakefield 28
99—Terry Johnson (L.V.) won by forfeit.
105—Scott Braun (L.V.) won by forfeit.

The first game of the night will pit top-seeded Pierce, 8-5, against Tilden-Elkhorn Valley, 4-10. Feb. 26 third-seeded Omond, 9-7, faces Norfolk Catholic, 6-8; and Battle Creek, second seeded with an 8-5 mark, takes on Stanton, 4-11.

Winside High's wrestling team continued polishing up for Saturday's C district tournament by adding another win to its already impressive dual mark. The Cats leveled West Point, 47-12, for a 7-1 final season mark Thursday night at the Cadet's gym. All six state-rated mainmen won their matches.

Cats host seven other schools, including Wakefield, in district competition.

Huskers Cancel Benefit Game

If you had plans to watch the University of Nebraska football team take on Wakefield players in a benefit basketball game Feb. 20th, forget it.

The Husker squad cancelled out after the team decided to raise the fee from 50 per cent of the gate to a minimum of $500, according to Paul Eaton, in charge of the project.

Last week, he said, the NU team played in Gothenburg but netted only half of the $500 gate receipts. The players expressed dissatisfaction with the amount and decided to ask for a minimum amount, Eaton said.

Still scheduled for Wednesday night is Oakland Athletic baseball coach Vern Hoschelt's talk on major league basketball. The first of two talk sessions will start at 7:30 p.m., the second at 8 p.m. Afterwards the Plainview native will hold an open discussion session.

Bahe Coming Back To Wildcat Territory

Former Wayne Prep and Wayne State basketball standout Al Bahe returns to Wayne this summer—not as a player but as head of this year's North squad. The coaching veteran, along with assistant coach Jay Muma of Schuyler, will ready their all-star squad for the annual North-South basketball game to be played at Lincoln's Pershing Auditorium Aug. 16.

Bahe, a 1946 Wayne Prep

graduate, served notice of his basketball skill early when the team he played on the last three years of his high school career went to the state tournament. "He has proven himself at Fremont," said all-star director Bob Morris of Waverly, referring to Bahe's current 10.1 mark at Fremont. That boosted his estimated career totals to 247 wins and 179 losses.

Bahe, who has headed Fremont's basketball program since 1957, also had coached at West Point and Central City.

Both the Wayne native and his assistant will be going against one of Bahe's closest rivals—Wally McNaught of Lincoln Southeast. Both teams have battled each other on the courts during the past eight years in a highly spirited series.

"I have great respect for the coaching of Al and the determined, competitive play of his teams," McNaught added. Bahe is the son of Mrs. Al Bahe of Wayne.

League Race Continues in Clark Division

Two positions remain uncertain in the final standings of the Lewis and Clark Conference even though both division titles have been snapped up.

Ponca took the Lewis division Tuesday night with a win over Newcastle for an 8-2 record while Coleridge remained undefeated at 9-0 to claim the Clark category. The only questions left are who will take second and third in the Clark loop.

Osmond is second with a 6-4 league record and its loop action completed. But Wausa and Hartington, both 5-3, could give the Tigers a run for second since each team has two conference games left. Coleridge and Wausa battle Tuesday night before Wausa takes on Hartington Friday. Hartington's last game is Feb. 22 against Wynot.

According to Jim Winch of Winside, in charge of this year's league statistics, both division leaders will collide Feb. 19 at Wakefield for the league title.

Prior to the playoffs the L-C loop will select its all-conference team Saturday at Allen High School.

Nine Firsts Give Tankers 9th Dual Win

With a leading freestyler missing and the No. 1 diver injured, Wayne State swimmers won their ninth dual without defeat on a 64-47 decision over Concordia College at Seward Wednesday.

Dave Justl, who seldom loses, stayed home to study for a test. Diver Craig Fullerton suffered an ear injury when he hit the water hard on his side. He was not expected to dive in a Saturday meet with South Dakota State at Brookings.

Coach Bob Cooper shifted some of his swimmers into different events. Still they came up nine firsts of 33.

As usual, Bob Floerchinger garnered a pair, in the 500 freestyle and 200 butterfly. Dan Carney also claimed two firsts, in the 200 backstroke and 200 breaststroke. Singleton winners were Doug Krecklow in the 200 freestyle, Tom Carney in the 500 free and Bill Walters in the 100 free.

Wayne's medley relay, not usually a winner, came in first this time with a quartet of Dan and Tom Carney, Floerchinger and Krecklow. The 400 freestyle relay, almost always a winner, did it again, with Dennis Davis, Walters, Tom Carney and Krecklow.

After an 11-day layoff, Wayne will swim next at home against Buena Vista Feb. 20.

WS Home Finale Against Kearney

One home game remains for Wayne State cagers. It ought to be a dandy.

Kearney State, currently the Nebraska College Conference leader, comes here Tuesday for a 7:30 p.m. Rice Gym tussle that quite likely will settle the league championship.

Kearney enjoyed a 3-0 NCC status before its Saturday clash at home with Chadron, 1-2.

Athlete Honor Goes to Jones

The title of Athlete of the Year at Wayne State College belongs to senior basketball forward Ronnie Jones in 1974.

Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity announced the fifth annual award at halftime of the Wayne-Omaha basketball game Thursday. Members of the fraternity chose the winner from nominees by coaches in five major sports.

Jones, a product of Westview High School in Kanikakee, Ill., has been a fixture in the Wayne

RON JONES

State basketball lineup since mid-freshman year. The 6-4 and 190-pound Jones attracted attention early in his rebounding finesse. He started 13 of 24 rookie games on the varsity and now has a string of 81 consecutive starts, 83 in all.

With only four games left, Jones will fall short of the starting record, 95, set by Dean Eloffson of Wayne in 1967-70.

But with 886 career rebounds, "Jones" is within range of Eloffson's 932, which ranks second only to the 969 grabbed by Larry Coney in 1959-62. That is a mark not likely to be challenged often, as is Coney's season rebound peak of 351. However, Jones claimed the "string" game—a rebound record last year at 25. His high this season is 18, and his total is 223, an average of 11.1.

Though not a prolific point producer, Jones has been over 200 the past three years and scored 150 as a freshman. Previous Athlete of the Year honorees were Bill Goodwin, a basketball-baseball ace, the first in 1970; wrestler-footballer Ken Monroe in 1971 and 1972; swimmer Jim Onstoft in 1972. Goodwin was a NAIA All-American in baseball, Monroe a three-time NAIA wrestling champion.

Wayne is 2-1 in conference, its only loss at Kearney.

The Wildcats lost to Kearney by a 101-90 margin Jan. 22. Last week the Antelopes dropped a 99-95 shootout at UN-Omaha, and Thursday night the run-and-gun Omahans bopped Wayne here, 80-70.

Whatever that series of scores means is hard to figure. One thing is sure, Kearney hopes to gain its first victory against Wayne here in two decades.

On the other hand, seven Wildcats seniors hope to make their home finale a joyful memory. They are Ron Jones, cousins Tom and Rod Erwin, all starters, Jim Merchel, Bob Wentz, Jeff Pitbeam and Dave Marron.

The Cats, in a 9-11 season of frustration, suffered another chapter of woes against Omaha. It can be summed up in one sentence: the Mavericks simply out-shot, out-moved and out-defended the Wildcats.

Key statistic: Omaha shot 53 per cent from the field while Wayne hit 42, about normal. They were even on free throws, only one apart on rebounding.

Allen, Decatur Open Rounds of Winside Tourney

Allen and Decatur will open up Winside High's eight-team freshman-sophomore basketball tournament tonight (Monday) at 6 p.m.

Hartington and host Winside will collide at 7:15 p.m., with Ponca and Snyder rapping up the night's action, according to tournament director Jim Winch.

Tuesday night only one game is on tap, with Newcastle taking on another area team, Wakefield. Wednesday night the four winners will battle for spots in the finals, slated for 8:15 p.m. Thursday. Consolation round will be at 7 o'clock that night.

Wayne Teams Beat Emerson

Both Wayne's seventh and eighth grade teams were victorious Thursday night against Emerson Sacred Heart.

Led by Brad Emry's 11 points, the seventh grade remained undefeated with their sixth win, 32-22. Marco Garlick netted 12 to lead the eighth grade to an 4-4 mark with its 33-29 victory.

Others scoring: Seventh Grade — Tom Ginn 7, Sean Willis 6, Mike Niemann 4, Al Nissen 3, Jay Stoltenberg 1. Eighth Grade — Vic Sharpe 8, Kevin Murray 6, Steve Bodensmidt 5, Jeff Backstrom 2.

Tonight (Monday) the locals will play at Hartington Holy Trinity.

The Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act of 1963, administered by the U. S. Department of Labor, protects migrant workers and their families from exploitation by farm labor contractors.

Defensively, the Mavericks played one of their best games, sports publicist Fred Gerardi thought. Usually the Mavs depend more on out-scoring the foe. Kearney is pretty much the same.

The Omahans accomplished what few teams have done against Wayne defense. They repeatedly drove for lay-ups. But they were not a bit charitable on opening the lay-up door to Wayne.

In early going, the Wildcats stayed close, pulled into a 10-10 tie after four minutes, then watched the margin mount to a 41-27 UNO half lead.

From then on, Wayne out-scored the Mavs and chopped the lead to eight a minute and a half from the end, after Charlie Henderson and Neal Walde found the key to the basket. Charlie closed with a game-high 20, while Walde got 15 and Ron Jones 14.

The Cats did thwart Cal Forrest in becoming Omaha's all-time top scorer. He needed 19, but got 17.

In the preliminary, Wayne's junior varsity took an 86-57 trouncing, but Coach Randy Rohlfisen was philosophical: "There's no way we could beat that team (Brody's of Lincoln). They would beat our varsity and a lot of other varsities." Two Brody players were familiar figures to Wayne cage fans—Dave Schneider and Paul Emanuel, among the acres of Wayne's championship team, 1968-70. They hadn't changed a bit, except maybe to show even more finesse. Schneider scored 16, Emanuel 12. Two other Brody men hit 20 and 18.

The junior varsity leader was Dave Rhylander with 18. Originally, UN-Omaha was scheduled to bring its JV team, but canceled out, with an explanation of cutting back its program.

Laurel Shrugs Off Cold First Period for Victory

Laurel shrugged off a cold first period Friday night and stormed back with a pair of 20-point quarters to turn back a hopeful Bloomfield club, 68-47.

The Bears, slowly recovering from the flu, took a quarter to set up their offensive game plans, then applied a strong defense to claim their 10th win in 15 starts.

"We weren't shooting too much in the first half," commented coach Joel Parks. But the steady Bears came back with balanced scoring in the second half.

Until Thursday the head man wasn't sure if he would have enough players show up for the match at Bloomfield. Only three players were healthy, and the rest of the team was home sick with the bug. "I didn't know what to do until the team players slowly drifted back to school, hopefully ready to play," Parks said.

Evidently the team was ready to play as the club hit 26 of 41 field attempts for a whopping 64 per cent. The Bees hit 39. In the rebounding department again it was evident the Bears had snapped back from the virus, collecting 38 caroms to 30 for the home team. Leading the board work for Parks was Kirk McCoy with 11 while Gregg Anderson chinked up eight.

You'll see it in this Comet's soft, reclining bucket seats and rich, woodgrained vinyl paneling. In the thick shaggy carpeting and handsomely padded door panels. PERF-A-LOT

A Totally New Concept in Feedlot Flooring That Eliminates the Problems Caused by Stress and Increases Livestock Performance.

THE CONCEPT OF PERF-A-LOT!

Perf-A-Lot® has been designed and patented after perforated steel matting that was proven highly successful by the military to provide a durable surface that would support heavy equipment over soft ground, and was fast and easy to install, even under adverse conditions.

Perf-A-Lot® is a perforated steel barrier to the soil, designed to eliminate mud and dust; that flexes with animal weight—reducing hoof and leg problems; and generally, relieves animal stress by providing a dryer lot condition than either dirt or concrete.

Over the past five years the patented Perf-A-Lot® concept has been researched and proven highly successful in extreme weather conditions varying from 10 to 50 inches of annual rainfall, heavy snowfall, as well as with many types of lot management. Close confinement permitted with the use of Perf-A-Lot® provides reduced feed costs and in many instances faster daily weight gains. Perf-A-Lot® is ideal for conditioning calves just off the range. Weight gains in the first 30 days have been excellent.

is doing in Congress. Thone has never questioned military spending and has "almost a solid (voicing) record against working people... and organized labor."

He said he would work to get a minimum wage law passed and would continue high spending for defense. The Pentagon is the biggest lobbying force in the world, he noted, and it is time more Congressmen started looking hard at their budget requests rather than just approving them. It doesn't make sense, he said, to keep some 360,000 servicemen in Europe almost 30 years after the end of World War II.

He said this country should remain strong militarily because we live in a dangerous time. However, being strong doesn't mean we have to approve everything the Pentagon asks for, he added.

Dyas, from Thone's home town of Lincoln, was head of the state Democratic Party for three years before resigning recently to seek Thone's job.

He was executive director of the party for three years before taking over as state chairman.

Dyas, brought to the campus by the college's Young Democrats, was scheduled to continue his swing through Northeast Nebraska on Friday, stopping at Pender, South Sioux City, Hartington and other communities.

Several persons who have ties with Wayne and Wayne State College are working for him.

Chairman of his campaign is Francis Moul of Syracuse, political science teacher at Wayne State from the fall of 1968 to the spring of 1971. He is now involved in newspaper publishing. Managing the Dyas campaign is Dick Kurtenbach of Lincoln, a Wakefield native who attended college here four years. News secretary is Ann Pedersen, a graduate of Laurel High School and a student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Her mother is Mrs. Ruby Pedersen, English teacher at Wayne State.

HESS DYAS, Democratic candidate for the First Congressional District, talks to Francie Lawson while Geri Ann Keenan listens. The two were among Wayne State students who quizzed Dyas during a stop at the college Thursday night.

Hoops' Team Upsets Lamp's

Hoops' team upset Lamp's to take the lead in the high school recreation basketball league Tuesday night.

Paced by team captain Rod Hoops, who set a league record with 33 points, the new league leaders broke the close game with a 20-point fourth quarter for a 54-48 win.

In a hacking battle, Lowe's team beat Manes', 49-42, as both teams were called for a total of 49 fouls. In the first game of the night, Magnuson's forfeited to Workman's.

Hoops', 3-0, leads the league. Three teams tied at 2-1 for second, Lamp's, Lowe's and Workman's, while Magnuson's and Manes' are still looking for a win after three starts.

After a break this week, the league will resume action Tuesday night next week. At 6:30 Magnuson's will take on Manes', followed by Lowe's vs. Hoops' and Workman's vs. Lamp's.

Others scoring:

Hoops' — Tim Howell 10, Steve Schneider 6, Kirk Wacker 5; Lamp's — Randy Workman 22, Jeff Lamp 18, Robin Kudrna 6, Jeff Kraemaer 2.

Lowe's — Mark Lowe 13, Brad Carlson 12, Mike Foote 10, Scott Nissen 7, Mark Schram 6, Roger Fredrickson 1; Manes' — Mike Brandl 6, Kevin Jech 5, Randy Pinkelman 2, Ron Boyce 2.

Errant Car Strikes

A car with something of a mind of its own slowly backed out of a parking stall, crept around through a driveway and rammed into the west side of the Super-Vatu store in Wayne Wednesday night.

Mrs. Harlin Anderson of Concord told police she had left the car running when she parked in front of the store. It apparently slipped into reverse and made its neat circular trek to the side of the store, knocking out two plate glass windows when it finally came to a rest. The mishap occurred about 11:30 p.m.

Local Girl Remains In Intensive Care

Following Accident

A Wayne girl injured seriously in a two-car accident on a county road east of David City about a week ago remained in intensive care in a Lincoln hospital Friday.

She is Jill Froehlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin "Bud" Froehlich of Wayne. A 1973 graduate of Wayne High School, she is a first-year nursing student at Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College at Norfolk.

Also injured seriously in that accident and placed in intensive care along with Miss Froehlich at Lincoln General Hospital was Nancy Ritter, a Wayne State College student who was riding in the car. Treated and released was another passenger, Ann Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Ellis of Wayne.

Miss Froehlich's northbound car was in collision with a southbound automobile driven by Gerald Kudlacek of Brainard. Neither he nor his two children in his car were seriously injured.

Investigating officials said the Froehlich automobile went out of control at the crest of a hill south of Bruno, striking the Kudlacek car in the southbound lane of traffic.

Miss Ritter suffered a collapsed lung and dislocated hip. Miss Ritter received severe facial cuts and other facial injuries.

AH Band Past Halfway Mark

In $1,500 Drive

Allen High School's band is over the halfway point in its drive to collect $1,500 to attend the Rapid City band festival May 31-June 2.

According to band instructor Miss Lorna Stamp, the total collected as of Friday morning was $800. The total probably would climb over the weekend, she said.

The annual event attracts bands from all over the United States and last year it brought some bands from Europe.

If the band can raise the money it will be a first for the school to attend such a festival, according to Miss Stamp. "This is a chance for us to meet other bands and learn more," she pointed out.

Contributions may be sent to Security State Bank or Bernard Keil in Allen.

4-H'ers, Adults

Take Part in Training Meet

About 65 youths and some 25 parents and club leaders turned out Tuesday night for a 4-H officers training session at the city auditorium in Wayne.

The session, which provided youths and adults with information on how to make their clubs run smoother, was the first held in Wayne County for several years.

Helping out with the individual sessions during the evening were Dixon County agricultural agent Roy Stohler of Concord, who talked with recreation leaders; Joyce Lynn Smith, area home economist at the Northeast Station near Concord, who had secretary-treasurers; Mrs. Herb Hansen of Wayne, who had presidents, vice presidents and parliamentarians; Norvin Hansen of Wayne, who had news reporters, and Wayne County agent Don Spitze, who had leaders and parents.

HOME LIGHTING

When daylight saving time was thrust upon us recently as a measure to help prevent an energy crisis, we all had mixed feelings on what electrical energy was really saved.

In the home it just means shifting the amount of electrical energy used in lighting from the end of the day to the beginning of the day. Therefore, we need to consider another alternative in the home for conserving the electrical output.

Better energy management in lighting can start with turning off unnecessary lights. Home lighting accounts for about five per cent of the total electrical energy load in this country. It is estimated that if, in every home, one 150-watt bulb in an unused room were turned off for 100 hours every evening, 18 million kilowatt hours of electrical power could be saved each day.

We are not suggesting that the family walk around in poor quality light or in total darkness, but that it is possible to economize on energy use by more efficient lighting.

To make every watt count, the following suggestions would help:

1. Fluorescent lights are about four times as efficient as incandescent lights and last seven to 10 times as long.
2. New lower wattage light bulbs (krypton gas filled) use less electricity for the same amount of light output of standard bulbs. They come in sizes of 55, 92 and 138 watt sizes.
3. Outmoded lamps and dirty fixtures use more electricity, costing more money and producing unwanted heat and inefficient light.
4. Use better lighting in specific work areas and less over all lighting in the room. Fit the wattage to the eye task.
5. Buy the proper size bulb for lamps and fixtures.
6. Turn off lights when a room is not in use.

Allen Bus Drivers To Get Pay Increase

Allen's school board approved a salary increase for its bus drivers as a result of increased gasoline costs.

The drivers will receive an additional one-cent-per-mile for every five-cent raise in the cost of gasoline above 41.2 cents per gallon, explained assistant superintendent Garland Mills. The rate increase will go into effect in March.

During the board's special meeting Thursday morning, the members voted to purchase a dictating machine for the office education class at a cost of $343. Also okayed was the buying of a used davenport for about $30. The board discussed but took no action on teacher salary negotiations.

NPPD Project at Allen Is Completed

A $1,122 improvement project in Allen has been completed by Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

The project required the installation of 1,100 feet of electrical line. The new facilities will provide better voltage regulation and improve service to customers, NPPD said.

Sam Knepfer, NPPD local superintendent at Allen, worked with Ponca sub-foreman Leo Brill and lineman Bob Anderson on the project.

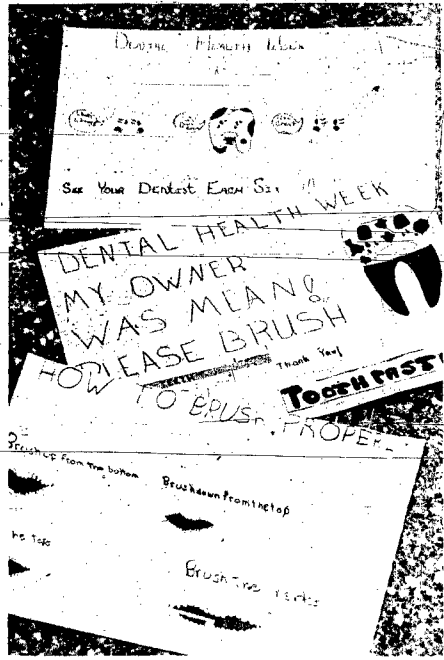

Volunteer Workers Being Sought for Easter Seal Drive

During March the search for volunteers within the city of Wayne will be conducted. City volunteers will receive their kits in April.

The kits, containing information about Easter Seal services and envelopes for contributions, will be passed from family to family and then returned to area chairmen.

Wayne County contributions to date have been $903.75 compared with a total of $978.55 during the campaign a year ago.

Goal of this year's campaign is to raise more than $212,000 in the state.

County residents have contributed more than $984 to the campaign, nearly $100 more than had been contributed at the same time in the previous year's campaign. Total collected in the 1972 campaign was $922.30.

Cedar County contributions to date total $1,006, more than $100 less than at the same period in the campaign a year earlier. Total collected in that county in 1972 was $1,281.35.

Cost of earning income is often tax deduction

FOURTH OF FIVE ARTICLES

Traditionally the policy has been that a taxpayer can deduct from his income the costs incurred in obtaining that income. This is reflected in many varied deductions or exemptions permitted on tax returns.

The ordinary and necessary costs of business, travel and entertainment are deductible, for example, if one is not reimbursed for these by an employer. All you have to be able to prove to Uncle Sam in that the expenses were directly related to the earning of income.

One expense connected with the earning of income that cannot be deducted is the cost of getting to and from work, except in the case of a worker who must carry heavy or bulky tools or materials to and from the job, in which case he might be able to deduct car costs. Even here, though, the car costs are not deductible if the individual would use his car anyhow, even if he didn't have a load to carry.

A working taxpayer who incurs expenses for the care of young children in order to be able to go to work can in some cases deduct those costs.

Under certain conditions, if one has moved his place of residence because of a change in his place of work the costs of making the move are deductible.

Professional fees paid to lawyers, brokers or CPAs for guidance or assistance in such fields as investments and taxes can be deducted, along with the cost of a safety deposit box for the protection of securities, as well as subscriptions to investment advice services, financial publications, etc. All are considered as having contributed to obtaining income or managing income-producing property.

If a taxpayer owns income-producing property — a second house, for example — he can deduct the costs of maintaining and renting it out, along with payments for interest and taxes, which are deductible in any case. However, if he himself lives in the second house part of the year, expenses other than interest and taxes may be deductible only up to the amount of income the property produces.

Even gamblers (who declare their gambling winnings on tax returns) are permitted to deduct the costs of earning those incomes. They can deduct their losses, up to the amount they have won.

REMEMBER THAT $43,700 charge that at least one Wayne councilman was so worried about when it came down to the nitty-gritty of signing the contract with NPPD?

That's how much it would cost the city for just tying into Wayne County Public Power District's line south of town during the 10 years of the contract. That's a lot of money — so much, in fact, that councilman Frank Prather used it in stating his argument for not wanting to sign the contract right now.

Another question: Do you know how long it would take the city to save each month's payment of $360 over the life of that 10-year contract?

Answer: About two and a half evenings of using NPPD power under ideal conditions in place of power generated at the local light plant.

Here's how you figure it in layman's terms (about the only way I'm able to make sense out of the Greek that power officials often use):

At the current fuel prices it costs the city about 1.85 cents to generate one kilowatt of electricity at the power plant. By signing the contract with NPPD the city could purchase off-peak power (between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m.) for .08 of one cent a kilowatt. Savings for each kilowatt: about one cent.

On an average graveyard shift the local light plant will generate about 2,000 kilowatts an hour. If we were to purchase off-peak power from NPPD in place of generating our own we could save $20 an hour. Over an eight-hour shift the savings would be $160. Over two and a half evenings the savings would be $400, more than enough to pay that $360 charge for the whole month.

That leaves you something like 26 or 27 evenings during the month when you could continue purchasing off-peak power cheaper than you could produce it yourself. As they say, that's gravy.

THERE'S ONE weak point in that reasoning, and at least one councilman, Keith Mosley, and mayor Kent Hall touched on it before the vote went against signing the contract.

Nobody knows what's going to happen to the price of fuel. Maybe it will continue spiraling upward. Maybe it will level off. Maybe, just maybe, it will drop. If the price of fuel does fall, it would lower the city's cost of producing electricity and, consequently, would mean the city wouldn't be able to save the price of each month's payment to NPPD as quickly as at current fuel prices.

Councilman Jim Thomas said it much better than I can when he asked: "Do you think you'll ever see the day of 12 and 13 cents for a gallon of diesel fuel?" The city has been paying anywhere from 25 cents to 30 cents a gallon in recent months.

If I were a gambling man, I would bet money that the price of diesel fuel — as well as the price of natural gas — goes anywhere but down. It might drop, of course, and the government might even force a rollback in prices. Those are possibilities — they just seem a helluva lot less likely than continued high, if not higher, prices.

IF BEING ABLE to pay each month's fee to NPPD in just a few evenings isn't enough reason to hook up with the power company right now, there are a couple other ones which come quickly to mind.

Contrary to what some people believe, the city won't be able to hook up its approximate $185,000 interconnection line at the drop of a hat.

"The city can't hook onto our line until they sign a contract with NPPD," says Carl Comstock, manager of Wayne County Public Power District. The city's line being built south of Wayne will actually tie into WCCPPD's line, but power will be purchased from NPPD.

Comstock said he will not permit that connection to take place until the contract between the city and NPPD has been signed. He has legitimate reasons for taking that stance. WCCPPD purchases its power from NPPD. If the power district permits the city to tie into its line, it would be putting its customers in jeopardy because monthly bills might have to be hiked in order to pay its bill to NPPD. Why should WCCPPD's customers be required to pick up the bill to guarantee the city power from NPPD? That's a question Comstock asks, and he has every right to tell the city to work out its own contract for buying power from NPPD rather than putting the liability on WCCPPD.

Some councilmen and local citizens think WCCPPD will be forced to let the city tie into its line south of town if an emergency ever hit the city. That may be so, but it's a pretty screwy way of thinking as far as I'm concerned. If there are hard feelings between the city and WCCPPD now, I would hate to see the results of somebody forcing the district to let the city use its line without a contract with NPPD.

So, if there is ever an emergency at the local light plant and the intertie hasn't been made, it's going to be necessary to get city and NPPD officials together to sign a contract. Then the actual physical interconnection will have to be completed. That would take several days. An emergency demands instant reaction, something which wouldn't be possible unless that contract were signed and the connection made in advance.

ANOTHER REASON for hooking up right now is the strong possibility that the city might be burning diesel fuel almost year around come October.

Councilman Keith Mosley, who happens to manage the local gas company, told the council this before the vote went against signing the contract.

Mosley said the gas companies in this country have received approval from the Federal Power Commission to begin drastic restrictions of natural gas to power plants starting in October. The reason, says Mosley, is that there is much more waste in using natural gas for producing electricity than there is, say, in heating a home. The power companies want to give their product, which certainly isn't unlimited, to the people who can get the most use out of it. The people running electrical generating plants don't fall in that class.

The local power plant uses large amounts of natural gas during the year and is forced to burn straight diesel fuel when the gas company can't supply natural gas. That happens many times during the year, usually in the winter when the cold spells mean home owners and other customers are burning enormous amounts of natural gas.

And what's happened to the price — not to mention the availability — of diesel fuel in recent months. The price has more than doubled, and more than once in the past year or so city officials were making hurried telephone calls in an attempt to just find fuel to buy to keep the generators running at the local power plant.

By signing the contract and purchasing power from NPPD, the city could conserve what diesel fuel it does obtain.

STILL ANOTHER REASON for signing the contract with NPPD and starting to make use of that interconnection line as soon as it is completed is very plain.

What business would invest huge sums of money in something and then not try to make use of it? Ever seen a smart businessman build an addition to his store and then let it stand idle? Ever seen a trucking firm buy three or four new rigs and then let them gather dust in the garage? It just doesn't make sense, especially when you're talking about such a huge investment that Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer are footing the bill for one way or another.

The argument to that line of thought is that the line was ordered built by the council as an insurance policy in case it ever has to be used. That's true, but you would think the council would want to start making use of that policy as soon as possible in order to pay the premiums.

THE NPPD CONTRACT is scheduled for discussion at Tuesday night's regular council meeting. One of the members who voted against signing it has apparently changed his mind after thinking it over. The great amount of public criticism the council received after that decision may have had something to do with that change.

Voting against the contract were councilmen Ivan Beeks, Vernon Russell, Darrel Fielberth and Frank Prather. Favoring the contract were Keith Mosley, Harvey Brasch and Jim Thomas. I'm sure they would like to hear your thoughts about whether they should stand by that decision or go ahead with signing the contract.

ENOUGH of that, now for some humor. Skinner's Constant is that quantity, which, when multiplied times, divided by, added to or subtracted from the answer, your data show, gives you the answer you should have gotten. (Borrowed from the little science newsletter put out by Wayne High science teacher Verne Mills.)

OH, don't light up if you take in Tuesday night's council meeting. The ordinance prohibiting smoking while the council is in session went into effect with its publication in Thursday's issue of The Wayne Herald. You can thank (or curse, depending on your point of view) councilman Keith Mosley for that.

OBSERVATIONS

Candidates needed

Some people better start filing for the city offices which have to be filled come June. As of late last week nobody had filed for the city council posts or the mayor's job which are now held by persons in their last months in office.

There is considerable concern by many people that the problems the city has had in recent months has scared away some potential candidates. Those people reason that the city council and mayor have come under considerable criticism for some of their actions lately and that those who might have been considering running have decided against it. They would just as soon let things cool down before they try their hand at helping run the city, that reasoning goes.

That may be correct, but we like to think that the concern shown by many people over the way things are going in this community will prompt some of them to seek one of those jobs in an effort to do what they think is best. It seems reasonable to expect some of those people who are critical of the city government to stand up and be counted at election time.

There is no doubt that the council and mayor have been the subject of some interesting discussions over many a coffee cup during the past year or so. To put it simply, they have caught the devil from some of their constituents. Some of that criticism has been justified, some not.

This newspaper has been critical of the local governing body many times. We have no plans to be any less critical in coming months. If we think it is necessary regardless of who is serving as mayor or councilman. We assume the general public has the same view.

How about the others?

Last week's announcement by mayor Kent Hall that he will not run for re-election was a considerable move on his part.

He could have held off with that announcement for several more weeks, leaving everybody wondering up to the filing deadline whether he would file. By making the announcement now, more than a month before the deadline, he makes everybody aware that somebody else is going to have to throw his hat in the ring by March 15 if we are to have a mayor in June.

We think the councilmen who are ending their terms this spring should follow the mayor's example and tell the public whether they plan to seek another term. That will make it very plain to their constituents, giving them a chance to start looking around for somebody else to fill the posts held by those who aren't going to run again or a chance to start finding somebody they think can do a better job than those who will seek re-election.

We hope all those who are completing their terms this year file for another stint on the council. We hope that not because we agree with what they have done as councilmen but because that's a step toward competition for those jobs. The next step, of course, is finding somebody else willing to run against the incumbents. That may or may not be easy, but it is necessary. It's necessary because it's a healthy situation when the voter is given a choice come election time.

Worth imitating

The approximate $1,100 local school system will spend on a summer course on environmental studies may well be the school's best buy in a long time.

There is a great need for a public better informed about what man is doing to the environment and what man can do to put a stop to our daily assaults against it. There have been some strides made in this direction in recent years, but there is a long way to go if we hope to clean up the portions of the environment which have been dirtied by man. We can't think of a better way to attempt to take those strides than by teaching our young people about man and his environment. The decision to go ahead with this summer course is a decision which other school systems in the state should consider making.

By the Automotive Information Council

TECHNICIANS TESTED FOR CAR REPAIR SKILLS

Finding a qualified service technician to repair your car should be made easier this spring when the National Institute of Automotive Service Excellence (NIASE) makes available to motorists a directory of service facilities employing certified technicians.

These technicians will have passed one or more examinations dealing with specific systems on your car, such as engine repair, automatic transmission, front end and brakes. The certified technician wears an orange, blue and white gear-shaped shoulder patch with bars underneath indicating specific areas of certification. A technician who passes all tests wears a double-gear patch indicating he is a certified general automobile technician.

To date, almost 26,000 technicians have been certified in one or more specialties, with 8,000 passing all the tests in the series.

The voluntary tests are held twice each year at over 200 locations across the country and are changed each time they are administered. Technicians pay a registration fee plus an additional fee for each test they take.

A technician's certification is valid for a three-year period after which he has to take another battery of tests to be re-certified, ensuring that the technician is aware of new developments and current practices in his field.

The NIASE program should not be confused with proposed government licensing which concentrates more on ethics in the service industry than on the competence of technicians. The NIASE approach to the current shortage of qualified technicians is also to encourage development of effective training programs.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

GLEN BOWKER, reporter and feature writer for the Norfolk Daily News for the past two years, has taken over as editor of The Tilden Citizen.

Bowker lives in Neligh with his wife Elsie and a son, Tommy. Another son, Russ, lives in Minneapolis.

NELIGH VOTERS will have a variety of candidates to choose from in the May election.

Running for mayor are Noel Brennan, Ramon Brandt and LeRoy Cole. Seeking seats on the council are Eugene Wittrock, Van Jacobsen, Eldon Kaschke, Ray Francis, Dean Magwire and Gene Bartak.

MRS. LARRY OLSON of Wakefield is teaching on a part-time basis at Emerson-Hubbard. A December graduate of Wayne State College, Mrs. Olson is teaching physical education and elementary classes.

CITY COUNCILMAN Gene Meyers of Plainview has resigned his position in order to file for mayor.

Meyers announced his resignation last week, bringing to three the number of positions on the Plainview city council which will have to be filled in the May election. Ending their terms are Warren Milnitz and Virgil Newman.

BERNARD SMITH of Sioux City remained in jail last week after being arraigned in Dakota County on charges of shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim. Bond was set at $25,000.

Smith is charged in connection with an accident at South Sioux City recently in which John Bunch was shot in the upper right arm. The incident reportedly occurred when Smith went to the Bunch home to see his three-month-old daughter. His daughter and his wife, who he is separated from, were living at the Bunch home. Bunch took his daughter after the shooting, and police later arrested him at a Sioux City home. Tear gas was used to get Smith out of the Sioux City home.

IDENTICAL TRIPLE CALVES were born at the Howard Hirschman farm near Hartington recently. Such a birth is extremely rare, occurring about once in several thousand births, according to authorities.

THE WEST POINT school board is now looking for two school administrators. Earl Boyum, junior senior high principal, resigned last week, a few days after superintendent Earl Lowe announced his resignation.

DARREL THIBAUT has been named postmaster at Pender.

Officer in charge of the Pender post office since the retirement of postmaster Maurice Swanson last May, Thibault assumed his new position the first of this month. He has been a postal employee for more than 20 years, starting out as a substitute rural mail carrier in 1952.
