Certificate Winner

ADMIRING the certificate presented recently to the local Youth Association for Retarded Citizens are association president Marilyn Wiesler, left, and Kathy Dranselka, who was in charge of making arrangements for local members to visit the Beatrice State Home regularly. The local association has been sending members to the home every six weeks since September of 1971 to work on a one-to-one basis with residents. The Wayne group was one of five associations presented the certificates during a special tea earlier this month.

Students at WS Select Senate Head

Tom Carney, a junior from Norfolk, was elected as president of the student body at Wayne State College, it was announced Thursday after balloting Tuesday and Wednesday.

He defeated Dan Stoller, a sophomore from Elkhorn, who automatically becomes senator at large in the Student Senate.

Carney, majoring in both mathematics and physical education, has been a student senator the past year. A 1972 graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, he is a member of the national mathematics honorary, Kappa Mu Epsilon and letterman on the college swimming team.

Mary Sue Ricketts, sophomore history major from Nebraska City, was elected vice president, without opposition. She is a sister of Jim Ricketts, student president the past year.

The new officers took over Sunday night when the new Senate was installed.

Re-elected senators are Pam Edgar, Omaha; Darice Waggle, Newell; Ia. Darla Dreesen, Hartington; Rich Hall, Fremont; and Kim Kramer, Crofton.

New senators are Mark Stevens, Council Bluffs; Cheri Helmer, Neligh; John McKinney,

Candidates May File With County Clerk

Persons wishing to file for either city office or Wayne County office may do so at the Wayne County clerk's office.

Clerk Norris Weible said candidates may file with the city clerk for the mayor or council positions or with the school for the school board seats. They also may file for those races at his office in the courthouse in Wayne, he said.

Four positions on the city council and the mayor's position will have to be filled in the May 14 primary. Expiring terms in office are mayor Kent Hall and councilmen Vernon Russell in the first ward, Pat Gross in the second ward, Keith Mosley in the third ward and Harvey Brasch in the fourth ward.

Ending their terms on the Wayne-Carroll school board are Morris Sandahl of Carroll, Wilbur Giese of Wayne and Mrs. Max Lundstrom of Wayne.

November's general election is March 15. Filing fee is one percent of the salary paid for the office. School board members receive no salary, but councilmen in Wayne receive $1,000 a year.

The May primary will determine who will be on the ballot for county office come November. Ending their terms on the county level are two commissioners, sheriff, clerk, assessor, treasurer, clerk of district court, superintendent of schools, attorney and two members of the noxious weed board.

Early Winners For 'Vagabond' Are Selected

The second set of preliminary winners in Wayne's Vagabond Vacation promotion is announced in a two-page advertisement inside this issue of The Wayne Herald.

A random drawing will be held this week to determine which one of those 27 persons is the winner of the second of eight free weekend vacations which will be given away during the promotion. The winner will be announced in Thursday's issue of the newspaper.

First winner in the eight week promotion was Mrs. Ric Nelson of Wayne.

Winners in the promotion are treated to a free Vagabond Vacation, complete with two nights of accommodations at any Ramada Inn or Holiday Inn and $50 in spending money.

Winners may take their vacations anywhere in the United States, Canada or Mexico during the next six months.

Area residents may sign up for each week's drawing at any of the businesses sponsoring the promotion.

Deadline Near for County Taxpayers

Wayne County residents who haven't filled out their property assessment schedules have just a few more days to do so before the deadline.

Schedules have to be filled out by March 1. Available to help area residents with that task are assessors in the lobby of the courthouse in Wayne. The assessors will be available to assist taxpayers Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. from now until the deadline.

Since the courthouse is closed in observance of Washington's birthday today (Monday), county taxpayers have just eight more days to fill out the schedules.

'74 Tags Awaiting About 2,000

About 2,000 motor vehicles in Wayne County will have to be licensed within the next few days if their owners hope to get that task done before the March 1st deadline.

County treasurer Leon Meyer said late last week that about one-third of the approximately 6,000 of the owners of motor vehicles in the county still had not purchased their 1974 license tags and paid their taxes.

He said there is no penalty for not registering the motor vehicles by the deadline, but owners risk being fined if they drive without their new license tags after March 1.

Owners are to take their tax statement they received in January, their vehicle registration and their payment to the county treasurer's office so the tags can be issued and the taxes paid.

Those wishing to license their vehicles by mail may do so if they make sure to include all the necessary items, according to Meyer. Tags will be returned to those people by mail.

Radio Club To Be Formed Next Month

About 13 people turned out Wednesday evening for the second meeting of the group interested in forming a citizens band radio club in the Wayne area.

The group postponed selecting a name for the club and picking officers. Those and other topics will be taken up when the radio enthusiasts meet again on March 4 at 8 p.m. in the ASCS office in Wayne.

Discussed last week were the emergency channels available, the area club being organized for Northeast Nebraska and possible rules and regulations governing the local club.

Ray Butts of Wayne, recently named an officer in the area club, said the local club will be limited to licensed radio operators.

He noted that anybody in the area interested in radio communications is welcome to attend the coming meeting.

Cute and Coy

MICHAELA LUTT, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Korlin Lutt of Winside, appears shy when it comes to getting ready to dig in at the annual Winside Community Club pancake feed Thursday night. She and her parents were among a large group of people who turned out for the event. Another picture, page five.

Dr. Seymour: Hearing On Budget Is Cordial

The most cordial hearing in years — that is the way Wayne State President Lyle Seymour described the attitude when the Legislature's Appropriations Committee heard a budget presentation by state colleges Monday.

Dr. Seymour reported to the WSC faculty Wednesday that the hearing was "not acrimonious," in contrast to some budget sessions of past years.

"The senators' questions were probing but not maliciously asked or answered," Dr. Seymour said.

Although funding requests of the state colleges have a long way to go through legislative debate, the president said it appears there is a change evident in the basis for allocating funds. Instead of pegging dollars directly to student credit hours, it appears the dollars might be tied to the support of academic programs, Dr. Seymour said.

Also, there seems to be legislative sentiment to give the colleges what is termed a "continuation budget" that is, funds at about the current level for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

However, the colleges are being asked to analyze their entire academic program, their purpose and goals, also to set up performance ratings, thus to justify their needs.

Wayne State already is doing this, by way of a wide-ranging goals study. Nine committees composed of faculty, students, alumni and area residents are examining every aspect of the college, each of them to complete a report by March 28.

Dr. J. S. Johar, in his report to the faculty, agreed with Dr. Seymour's description of the legislative hearing. He called it friendly and productive. Dr. Johar, a chemistry professor, attended the hearing as one of the Higher Education Association of Nebraska.

Subject of Meeting: 'Futures'

A meeting on using livestock and grain hedging as a management tool will be held Tuesday afternoon at the national Guard-Armory in Wayne.

The meeting, slated for 1:30 p.m., will be conducted by University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension specialists Don Frahm and Mike Turner. It will include discussion of such areas as the mechanics of futures trading, cost requirements of futures trading and the difference between speculating and hedging.

Those attending the meeting, one of three scheduled, will be given an imaginary account with which they can buy and sell on the futures market through the Wayne County extension office. Other meetings on the subject are scheduled for March 5 and 21, both at the same place and same time as the first one.

'Keep Dealer Informed of Fuel Needs'

"The essential thing a farmer must do to help assure himself adequate fuel for agricultural production is tell his distributor how much he needs," says a Wayne County ASCS official.

"Unless a local distributor or dealer knows what his farm customer requires," said Ray Butts, executive director of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, "that distributor cannot take the necessary steps to get enough fuel for them."

Informing the distributor becomes even more important if a farmer intends to increase his acreage considerably or if he wants to expand dairy, poultry or other farm operation, Butts noted.

Local dealers will need this information to request additional fuel from their suppliers, he added.

"Agricultural producers who are all to receive priority allocations will be required to certify to an ongoing fuel conservation program on their operations," Butts said.

"USDA, in cooperation with the Federal Energy Office and the Environmental Protection Agency, has developed a conservation leaflet. Scheduled to be available in early March, the leaflet includes an energy management certification that there is an ongoing conservation program and that priority fuel will be used for agricultural production," he concluded.

No Charges To Be Filed In Drug Case

No charges will be filed against 10 young people arrested in Wayne early in January following a drug raid at a local residence, Wayne County attorney Budd Bornbath said last week.

Bornbath said there was not "sufficient evidence" to warrant filing charges in the case. He said the attorney for the state assigned to help counties with drug cases decided there was no reasonable chance of conviction so no charges will be filed.

The 10 people were arrested at a local house on Jan. 12. They made the effort to hand out on the highway beside his stand. Sales fell overnight.

Dealers Agree: Area Car Buyers Just Keep Right on Buying

By SANDRA BREITKREUTZ
Detroit automakers tell us passenger car sales for a 10 day period in January were down 30.6 percent from last year, and because sales have dropped, their dealers have half again as many cars on hand as compared to this time a year ago.

The story is told of a man who was happy operating a very successful roadside hot dog stand. One day his son, who had been to college, said "don't you know we are in the midst of a great economic crisis?"

could have a more adverse effect on the automobile business than any energy crisis — real or imagined. Automobile dealers in Wayne agree that sales, far from being down in 1974, are as good as ever and in some cases, better.

The biggest recent change for car dealers has probably been in getting new cars delivered. Delivery on a new car, which once took from three to six weeks, can now take up to six months, especially in the case of the smaller cars, car dealers note.

At area car buyers shifting to the small car market? "No, definitely not here," says Ed Wolske of Wolske Auto. "Ninety per cent of my sales are for bigger cars.

Roy Hurd of Wortman Auto, backed up the argument that the average buyer wants and needs a larger car, although there has been slightly growing interest in smaller cars recently.

Jill Froehlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin "Bud" Froehlich of Wayne, remains in intensive care at Lincoln General Hospital where she was taken following an automobile accident which occurred near David City Feb. 3.

Her doctors say she is holding her own, according to her father. She is taken off the respiratory machine for five to 10-minute periods several times each day and drainage tubes have been removed from her left lung, but she is still being fed intravenously.

Until she is out of intensive care, no visitors will be allowed except family members who can visit five minutes each hour. She does enjoy mail, her father said.

Both of Miss Froehlich's lungs were collapsed and she suffered a dislocated hip, broken ribs and facial cuts in the accident.

Her address is Room 547, Intensive Care, Lincoln General Hospital, Lincoln.

Nancy Ritter, a Wayne State College student from Lincoln who was a passenger in Miss Froehlich's automobile, underwent surgery Tuesday for a broken jaw and facial injuries. She will be out of intensive care in a few days, according to reports.

The couple came to the Wakefield area in July of 1966 to serve St. Paul's Lutheran Church, eight miles south of Wakefield, and the Altona First Trinity Lutheran Church, ten miles south of Wayne.

Bingers have four children, Mrs. Gardena E. Malchow of Pickrell, Eugene A. Binger of Rochelle, Ill., and Madelyn and

A Poem About Jenny J.

Today's column is dedicated to every middle child. The little poem was originally written for my own daughter when she first began to feel the pang of being the second of three children. I don't think she'll mind my sharing it.

"It's called 'Jennifer Josephine's Secret Wish,'" and here's how it goes:

Jennifer Josephine Jacobsen had a crinkly, turned-up nose, long red braids, huge grey eyes and fat little fingers and toes.

Five of each on the left you know, and five of each on the right, and a billion and six hundred treckles if you counted from morning 'til night.

Jennifer Josephine had a dog, a kitten and two little fish. She had a grandma, a swing in the yard, and she had a secret wish.

She told the puppy, she told the cat, she told her old rag doll, after swearing them all to secrecy, what she wanted the most of all.

And none of them told, I know for a fact, for they were all really quite true. But somehow the secret must have got out, for Mom and Daddy knew.

Now Jennifer's family was mostly all girls — three to be exact. Sue Jean was the oldest, and everyone said "just as sharp as a tack."

She had a baby, of course, who wasn't a year, never did anything bad. She dumped her milk on the pampered old cat, and Mom wasn't even mad.

And right in between was Jennifer J., neither very big nor little. She had no loose tooth or piano lessons, she was simply the one in the middle.

But Jennifer J. was mischievous — whatever that word might be. Mommy and Daddy used it a lot when they talked together quietly.

They said it when she learned to write — and did it on the wall. She heard it whispered when Mommy's new vase just happened to fall.

Sometimes it sounded loud through the house when Dad came home at night, like the day Jenny washed his dirty pipe and the clock that no longer worked right.

Because Jenny wasn't the youngest and cutest, or oldest and wisest like Sue, she worked extra hard, all day, every day, finding good deeds to do.

She helped to clean and cook and wash and put the clothes away, even when Mommy pretended she didn't need Jenny's help that day.

When Daddy decided to wash the car Jennifer J. was there. But she got Daddy wet with the garden hose when she sprayed it into the air.

Trouble just happened, though sometimes it's true, Jenny knew what she did was wrong, like the day she hid baby's teddy bear and tore Sue's piano song.

But mostly Jen worked so very hard, she was tired when day was done, from trying her best to let everyone know that she indeed was the one.

"The one what?" asked the dog, "The one what?" asked the cat, "The one what?" asked the old rag doll, "Why the one who's the sweetest, or oldest or best, or the one who's MOST anything at all?"

The one who's the dearest or nicest would do, or the one who's the cutest and little, I just wish that I could be ANYTHING besides the mischievous one in the middle."

And so it happened that Mommy and Daddy, who somehow knew the wish, referred to little, middle Jennifer J. as "the world's most trying miss."

And in order to prove her new little fil, Jenny J. tried to be extra dear, and never you mind that trouble still tagged her or mischiev still lingered near.

For Jennifer Josephine Jacobsen, while teasing or putting her feet on the wall, knew Mommy and Daddy would still say that she was "THE MOST TRYING MISS OF ALL."

Second-Half Defense Boosts Trojans Past Cats, 39-29

For the second year in a row, Wakefield's freshmen captured more basketball team trophies than the Winside invitational tournament. But this time the Trojans had a little more breathing room than last year.

The visitors ripped Winside, 39-29, Thursday night after taking a one-point squeaker over the hosts last year, 19-18.

The color of this year's final game rapidly changed in the second half after Winside carved out a 10-point lead at one point in the second frame before Wakefield cut the margin to four, 20-16, at intermission.

At that point a more relaxed Wakefield squad applied a strong defense — strong enough to hold the Cats to only one point. Result: A 29-21 lead for Wakefield going into the final frame.

"Turnovers hurt us a lot," pointed out Winside coach Mike Jones, "especially those four quick turnovers we had in the early part of the game."

Wakefield sophomore Scott Mills, who had 14 points, began hitting from the middle, getting help from Mark Kober, Winside, on the other hand, had shots from outside but could not penetrate inside against 6-4 Scot Keagle.

"They're a pretty good ball club," admitted Wakefield's head mentor, Ernie Kover.

Winside made it to the finals by clipping Decatur Wednesday night, 41-38. Wakefield dumped Ponca, 38-32. In the consolation round Thursday, Ponca beat Decatur, 49-28.

The tournament marks the end of regular season action for the Winside and Wakefield quints.

Legion Seeks Donations for New Uniforms

The Wayne American Legion post is looking for donations to help buy at least 17 new uniforms for this year's baseball team.

According to member Loren Ellis, the cost of a uniform is $25 each. They will be in the same pin striped design as the team uniforms, he said.

"We have to start on the project now," he pointed out, "because the baseball season will soon be upon us."

The organization also hopes to get enough money to buy some new equipment, he added.

Anyone wishing to make a donation may contact Ellis, Dick Nuss, Chris Barenholz, Dick Dean, Jim Sturm or Ken Roland.

Trojans to Meet Walthill at Tourney

Wakefield High's basketball team will take on Walthill in the first game of the second night of the Class C district tournament at Lyons.

TWO PLAYERS from Wakefield and Winside go for a loose ball in finals action of the Winside freshman-sophomore basketball tournament.

Commissioners to Set 1974 Regulations

Regulations for Nebraska's 1974 spring turkey season will be set by the Game and Parks Commission on Feb. 22, following a public hearing to be held at 10 a.m. at commission headquarters in Lincoln.

At the session commissioners will decide on the turkey units to be open, number of permits in each unit, shooting hours and other regulations.

They also will set opening dates on seasons for all species, except waterfowl and decide application periods for wild turkey, deer and antelope permits.

The remainder of Nebraska's regulations will be decided at later meetings. Sometime in April commissioners will set deer, antelope, cottontail and squirrel regulations.

In June they will decide snipe and rail seasons, and in August waterfowl, pheasant, quail, grouse and fall turkey hunting regulations will be finalized, along with trapping seasons on muskrat and beaver.

In September commissioners will deal with 1975 fishing regulations.

So says the VA... HEY KID! DID YOU KNOW THE VA WILL PROVIDE ON THE JOB TRAINING THAT NEW BENEFITS ARE AVAILABLE UNDER THE PENSION LAW THAT WAS JUST PASSED...

Gene Casey and Steve Schumacher each had 10 points to go with Team 1 to a 40-31 conquest of Team 2 in the second game of the night.

The winners, down by one at the half, evened the match at 25 all going into the last period.

Before the championship game, Teams 2 and 3 will battle for third place in the playoff.

Is Your Deer, Antelope Trophy A State Record?

Most deer and antelope trophies taken during 1973 are now eligible for scoring for inclusion in the state record book and, perhaps, national recognition by the Boone and Crockett or Pope and Young Clubs.

Game and Parks Commission scorers at offices in Alliance, Bassett, Norfolk, North Platte and Lincoln measure trophies at the end of a 60-day waiting period, allowing time for shrinkage of the rack and cartilage in the skull.

All antelope bagged during the 1973 season are also eligible for measurement, as are archery-deer taken before the opening of the firearm season and all trophies bagged in previous seasons.

Nebraska's trophy records will list archers' and firearm hunters in separate listings. The state record book scoring stem is identical to that used for national recognition by the Boone and Crockett Club for firearms and the Pope and Young Club for archery.

There is no charge for entry into the state record book, but a fee is charged if the rack qualifies for national recognition and the hunter wants to enter.

High scoring typical deer racks are generally quite massive, reflected in measurements of main beam diameters at several places. A large inside spread of the main beams also helps, as does good length of the main beams, long points and the absence of irregular points.

The same basic criteria are also important in the nontypical category, with one exception. Unlike the typical class, nontypical racks are given credit for 11 points, whether or not they conform to the regular patterns of the species.

In the typical category, these points detract from the score.

Minimum firearm scores for the Nebraska record book include: typical whitetail, 150; nontypical whitetail, 140; typical mule deer, 150; nontypical mule deer, 170; and antelope, 73.

Archery minimums are typical whitetail, 115; nontypical whitetail, 125; typical mule deer, 125; nontypical mule deer, 135; and antelope, 50.

Garlick Stars In 56-46 Win

Marco Garlick's 32 points set a scoring record in Wayne eighth grade's 56-46 win over Macy Thursday night.

Garlick, who had 17 points in the first half, bettered the old record of 29 set by Earl Overin in 1971 as the club evened its mark at 6-6.

Thursday night Wayne enters the eight-team Hartington tournament when it takes on Hartington Holy Trinity at 4:30 p.m.

Teams 1, 4 Square Off Wednesday

Teams 1 and 4 will battle for the B league basketball crown Wednesday night after both clubs won their playoff games last week.

Team 4 took the lead in overtime when Charlie Schneck, high point man with 18, hit a pair of free throws and hit a point.

No Injuries In Mishap

A 19-year-old Butte man escaped serious injury when the car he was driving skidded out of control and went about 300 feet before slamming into a tree about 12:30 a.m. Thursday in Wayne.

Ronald Schroettin told police he was headed south on the 1000 block of Main when he lost control of his vehicle. The rear end of his car struck a tree on the Wayne State campus.

A passenger in the car, Lynda Mahannah, also of Butte, was treated for shock at a campus dormitory.

Dealers

driver's rack up the average 10,000 miles per year. For those who are concerned with savings to pocket book, as well as fuel conservation, that amounts to between $60 and $100 per year.

Many owners of full-size cars have found that slower speed, now mandatory, has reduced gas consumption, said one dealer.

A definite disadvantage to owning a small car is the lower trade-in value.

"There isn't as much mark-up on a small car as on a full size car," explained Hurd, "so the customer takes a beating when he trades."

What if all boils down to is that the dealers are setting, just like always. The customers are buying, just like always. So where's the problem? There's apparently not one in Wayne.

Premium ride without premium gas!

Today a premium ride is not enough. You also need a car you can afford to run. And for 1974 Mercury Marquis is designed to be that kind of car. It uses regular fuel. Its standard steel-belted radials give thousands of extra miles of tread wear over non-radials. And a '74 Mercury is designed to save you an estimated average of 26% on scheduled maintenance costs when compared to a '73 Mercury in 50,000 miles of normal driving. That's due to innovations like solid state ignition. So you see, a premium ride is just not enough. Unless it comes in a car you can afford to operate. We invite you to come drive the Mercury Marquis for 1974—the premium ride that uses regular gas!

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ABANDONMENT PURSUANT TO 49 CFR 1121.21

Notice is hereby given that the Interstate Commerce Commission is being requested to issue a certificate of public convenience and necessity, permitting abandonment of the railroad line extending from the intersection of Highway 197 and North Western Transportation Company extending from railroad Milepost 7.3 near Dakota City, Dakota County, Nebraska, to a point in the southwesterly direction to railroad Milepost 28.9 near Emerson, Thurst County, Nebraska, and from railroad Milepost 0.0 near Emerson to railroad Milepost 19.0 near Wayne, Wayne County, Nebraska, a total distance of 40.6 miles, all in Dakota, Thurst and Wayne Counties, Nebraska. This line includes the stations of Beermann Spur, Hubbard, Emerson, Wakefield, and Wayne, Nebraska.

The interest of employees will be protected by the "Burlington Conditions," as described in 257 ICC 706.

The reasons for this proposed abandonment are that traffic over the above described line is extremely low, averaging only 16.06 carsloads per mile for the 12 month period December, 1971 through November, 1973, inclusive. A total of 442 carsloads was handled on the abandoned trackage in calendar 1971, and 446 carsloads were handled in calendar 1972. In the years 1971 and 1972, applicant lost $27,000 and $35,800, respectively, from the operation of this line. This line is in a deteriorated condition and requires a substantial expenditure for upgrading in the future. Continuation of maintenance and operation of this line in the future would constitute an undue burden on interstate commerce, and would deprive applicant and shippers on its lines, at other places of the use of salvageable material of the line. Estimated total net salvage value of the line is $240,300.

The name and address of applicant's representative to whom inquiries may be made is Christopher A. Willis, Commerce Attorney, Chicago and North Western Transportation Company, 400 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois 60606.

The Interstate Commerce Commission will rule on this application without hearings unless protests are received which contain information indicating a need for such hearings. In the opinion of the applicant, the proposed abandonment does not constitute a major federal action having a significant effect upon the quality of the human environment. In accordance with the Commission's regulations (49 CFR 1100.255) in Ex-Parte No. 35-1596-40-41, promulgated under the Environmental Policy Act, 1969, 340 ICC 43 (1972), any protests may include a statement indicating the presence or absence of any effect of the requested Commission action of the quality of the human environment. If any such effect is alleged to be present, the statement must include information relating to the relevant factors set forth in Ex-Parte No. 55-1500 No. 41, supra, Part (b) (1) (5), 340 ICC 431, 461.

Any protests referring to this notice, No. AB 1 (Sub No. 26), shall be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C. 20423, no later than March 30, 1974.

Answer to Question Is Minimum Till

"How can Wayne County farmers farm more with less?" That's a question Arnold Marr, district conservationist at the Soil Conservation Service office in Wayne, asks now that many farm programs have been eliminated and the possibility of fuel and fertilizer shortages remains.

One solution to these problems is to reduce some tillage operations, says Marr. It might be unnecessary to plow every acre of corn ground this year, resulting in less consumption of energy and reduction in erosion, he notes.

Reduced tillage is used in many forms, including: the use of discs for surface planting, use of a minimum-till planter, use of slot planter, adoption of no-till system and hard ground tiler. Maybe area farmers can adopt one of these systems to their operations, Marr notes.

The Northeast Station near Concord has been using a minimum-till planter for several years, and officials found yields to be equal to conventional tillage systems.

There are a number of farmers in the Wayne area using a reduced tillage system who are very pleased with it, Marr adds. Results of a recent survey in the state indicate that only 21 percent of the corn acreage for 1974 will be plowed. Plowing is more predominant in Northeast Nebraska, but maybe it doesn't have to be that way, said Marr.

Middle East Officials Will Visit Campus During This Summer

Plans are being made now for representatives from countries in the Middle East to be on the Wayne State College campus approximately a week this summer as part of a special course offered through the political science department.

Embassies already committed to sending representatives are the USSR, Iran, Israel, Jordan and the United States State Department, according to Allen O'Donnell, political science instructor.

"This is a big thing for the college," said O'Donnell. He added that to his knowledge no other gathering of this sort had ever been attempted in the state. The class, the United States and the Middle East, will deal with foreign policies and relations between nations involved, and will be a 95-level course, open to graduates, or upper division undergraduates with instructor's permission.

O'Donnell plans on having numerous countries' representatives on campus' represent during July to deliver lectures to class members, answer questions on their foreign policies, and participate in a final panel conference with the other countries.

The beginning idea of a Middle East class came into being when planning summer courses according to O'Donnell. "Every summer or third term I try to offer a special course on foreign policy," he said. "The past two years we have covered China and the United Nations, but the Middle East course is the most extensive to date."

O'Donnell has contacted countries directly through their national embassies, and he reports enthusiastic responses. Financial aid may be available through the Special Studies area of the college, for as Russia has requested transportation funds, other money must be arranged.

"Sports Wrap-up" follows all Wayne State College home basketball games. Mark Praetzer talks with Coach Ron Jones about the game and upcoming events.

Programs currently being developed include a wrap-up following each Student Senate meeting. Also being added will be "Review," a program following the drama department's plays, discussing and critiquing the performances. Being considered for the future is a program featuring WSC president Dr. Lyle Seymour commenting on the school's progress and a short religious program.

Recruiting officers will again be available at all troop area headquarters to assist those who might be interested.

The basic training program will be conducted from Sept. 16 through Oct. 31 at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Center at Lincoln Air Park.

Orthodontist To Stop in City Regularly

Dr. Phil Samuels, a Lincoln orthodontist, will be making weekly trips to Wayne starting this week.

Dr. Samuels, who received his degrees in dentistry and orthodontics from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will be at the local dental firm of Shupe, Wessel and DeNaeyer each Wednesday.

Dr. Shupe said if the work load is too great for Dr. Samuels to handle one day a week, he will make more frequent visits to the community.

The Lincoln orthodontist is a part time faculty member in the orthodontic department of the NU College of Dentistry.

State Patrol Is Seeking New Troopers

The Nebraska State Patrol is accepting applications for the position of state trooper, according to Colonel C. P. Karlhauser, who noted that the number of trooper candidates accepted will depend upon existing vacancies due to retirement, normal attrition and reassignment.

Karlhauser said only those applicants would be considered who possess the basic qualifications, which include a high school education, excellent physical condition and between 21 and 35 years of age.

Recruiting officers will again be available at all troop area headquarters to assist those who might be interested.

The basic training program will be conducted from Sept. 16 through Oct. 31 at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Center at Lincoln Air Park.

We appreciate your newspaper, but...

Wayne

Dear Editor: I am a student at Wayne State College. Every Wednesday and Saturday the students anxiously wait for The Wayne Herald. I thank you for making the newspaper available to us. Your kindness is appreciated.

I am also an ardent wrestling fan for the men up here at WSC. I would like to see a few pictures of your star. We have a few men up here who are having excellent seasons and they need to be recognized. In order for them to be rated high at nationals, the second week of March, they need to be heard of. This is only a suggestion to help the team and also the interest of the readers. I realize you have many interests to follow, but we would appreciate your consideration of this suggestion. I enjoy your paper!

Student at WSC

(Editor's Note: Most newspaper editors will readily admit they are not covering local and area news as well as they would like to. There are only so many hours between deadlines, and many times news events are not covered as well or completely as they should be. The Wayne Herald is no exception to this malady, but we appreciate very much those people who realize that covering everything to everyone's satisfaction just isn't possible. We do apologize for not covering some Wayne State activities more fully. We'll try to do better in the future.)

'A simple thanks'

Wakefield

Dear Editor: In behalf of the congregation, I would like to express our appreciation to you for printing our schedule of church services and activities each week for the past year.

This article, written by city editor Bob Hansen, appeared in last Monday's issue of The Sioux City Journal. Since the railroad is a source of many pleasant and some not-so-pleasant memories for residents of the Wayne area, we thought our readers would enjoy Hansen's comments on the subject. Hansen, who writes his 'Noteworthy' column for the daily newspaper 'Hutchinson Times-Permit', is a 1948 graduate of Wayne State College.

There also are the pictures taken by my father of trains buried in snow drifts near Emerson in the 1930's and earlier.

THE MEMORY LIST is endless, but just one more. As a high school football player I recall the "railroad" supplied us with a scouting report on the nearby Wakefield team. The engineer on one of the freights that moved through Wakefield happened to be the dad of one of our players. He observed the Wakefield practice from the cab of his locomotive and passed on one play that we were able to defend with ease. It was about the only thing we did well against the big Wakefield squad. For myself, the rival team freely used me as a part of their field!

NOW, the railroad, it seems, must go. And for good reasons of expense and low traffic. What can we say but "thanks for the memory."

second a section house for the railroad. And the town grew with a steady pace.

AT ONE TIME, I am told, Emerson had a train in and out of the village every several minutes, heading west or south or back east. The line to Omaha went out of operation many years ago with a bridge failure near Thurston, Nebr., and the present east-west service includes only an occasional small freight. The Emerson station no longer is used by the railroad, and the roundhouse that always seemed to have an engine on hand to sound the beginning of a New Year is gone.

AS A NEWSBOY, many of my customers were railroad folks and I remember riding the caboose of a freight from one end of town to the other as I made my monthly collections.

There were the days of the Great Depression, when many walked the tracks to pick up a few pieces of coal that had fallen from a locomotive.

DELICIOUS is the only way you can describe the long list of "Do You Remember" items sent in by Elwayne Fleetwood of South Sioux City.

Here's an example of some of the memory jarring things that'll be appearing in that little front page feature: "Do you remember when Grandpa Morgan shot at the dog in his front yard with a 22 rifle from his front room chair and forgot for couldn't see that the window wasn't open?"

Fleetwood must have an extraordinary memory, judging from some of the things he remembers about the old Crystal Theater, Burt Fleetwood, the Corn King Limited super train engine, the old golf course east of Wayne, the "Tom Thumb Wedding" play at the Opera House and Dr. Ingham.

Although I wouldn't have grown up when those things were going on even if Wayne were my home town, those memory twitches make fascinating reading. Can't figure out how Fleetwood knows all those things. He must be a native of Wayne who has kept some sort of record of what it was like to live here in the early days. Wish more people would jot down their memories. As Fleetwood noted when he sent his contributions over: "Traveling down memory lane is more fun than boozing. Keep the column in. I'm sure everyone enjoys it."

ONE OF THOSE damnable typographical errors popped up last week when I wrote about the price the city could purchase of peak power from Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

The city can produce its own electricity under current fuel prices for about 1.85 cents a kilowatt (about 1.65 now that diesel fuel prices are a bit lower, says a city official). The city can purchase of peak power (10 p.m. to 3 a.m.; holidays and weekends) for about 30 cent a kilowatt. (It appeared in the paper as .08) Savings per kilowatt - about one cent.

THERE'S PLENTY of talk about the local Safeway store closing, but it is "no more than a rumor," according to a public relations man for the chain in Omaha.

Elmer Harder, a Wayne native who worked in the Safeway store in Wayne when he was young, said negotiations are still going on concerning the lease on the building where the store is located. Harder said the store is "very definitely a part of Wayne... and we hope to remain a part of it."

The rumor has prompted several letters to the Safeway office in Omaha, one of them from the local Chamber of Commerce saying the Chamber would hate to see the store leave the city and offering its help in keeping it here. Harder said Wednesday that he would have more to say on the subject within a few days.

SEE WHERE ALLEN is one of seven communities in the state to receive tentative federal approval to make sewage discharges into public waters.

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has given tentative okay for Allen to continue discharging into the South Creek. The discharges will not violate water quality standards, according to the agency.

THE GRANDDAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Gamble of Wayne has received a letter from President Richard Nixon.

Lisa Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Taylor of rural Akron, Ia., and a high school sophomore at LeMars, wrote the President as an assignment in a speech class. Students were to write some government official about a current issue, so Miss Taylor decided to go right to the top. She told the President how concerned she was about the affairs of the nation, expressed her love for her country and told of her respect and trust in President Nixon.

President Nixon replied: "Your support at this time reaffirms my belief that the faith of the young people of our great Nation is strong."

Lisa's mother is the former Marilyn Gamble. She and her husband, a native Iowan, attended Wayne State in the late 1940's.

WAYNE COUNCILMAN Vernon Russell has given up on his drive to get signatures on a petition asking for the removal of Kent Hall as mayor.

Russell said a few days ago that Hall's announcement that he isn't going to seek another term in office threw cold water on the drive. Started after Hall, according to Russell, went too far in trying to get his firing of the local police chief upheld. Russell said he had about 30 or 40 signatures on the petition before deciding to give it up.

A HOST of compliments go out this week to:

The youngsters and adults who helped put on that benefit for Danny Koester at Allen High School recently. Judging from the reactions of the large crowd who took in the basketball games and pudding eating contest... it was a highly successful event. Still can't get over the tremendous response by Allen area residents to the drive to raise money to help pay young Koester's medical expenses. More than $12,000 raised in a few short weeks, and the contributions continue coming in.

The people who are willing to work on getting some sort of downtown improvement project going in Wayne. The businessmen have really backed initial efforts, and the city council seems willing to spend some money to get the thing started. It's going to take a lot of work and cooperation, but the results would certainly be worth it. Darrel Fueslberth gets much of the credit for getting things moving.

The volunteers, youngsters as well as adults, who helped in Sunday's drive in Wayne to raise money for the Heart Fund. It's hard to get anybody to do anything on Sundays, especially when you aren't able to offer them much more than some personal satisfaction. Mrs. Mabel Tiefgen worked to get volunteers lined up for that drive.

THE Local Lions Club for the large contingent it sent to Fremont Sunday to back member Cleve Sharer in his bid for the post of district governor. It would be a feather in the community's hat to have a local member as head of some 29 clubs in eastern Nebraska. Working to get a large number of club members to attend was William Kinslow, better known as "Skip."

That's just a few of those deserving a thank you. Am sure you can add quite a few more to the list.

IF YOU'RE a fan of old time songs, KWSC-FM was the radio station to tune in over the weekend. The Wayne State College station featured more than 50 hours of favorite songs played at request. The Golden Oldies event, designed to enlarge the station's listening audience, ran non-stop from 8 p.m. Friday until 1 a.m. today (Monday). Played during the special were songs from an 11-volume set of oldies purchased for the station and records obtained from area residents.

News of Note around North Platte

SOUTH SIOUX CITY teachers will receive $7,275 base salary during the 1974-75 school year under a salary schedule approved by the school board last week.

The schedule has a top level of $11,275 for a teacher with a master's degree and 14 years of teaching experience. The present schedule has a base salary limit of $6,800 and a top limit of $10,800. There were no formal negotiations between the board and teachers this year because of the impasse reached during negotiations a year ago. A suit by the South Sioux teachers against the board has been tried in the Industrial Relations Court but a decision has not been handed down.

THURSTON COUNTY sheriff Clyde Storie has filed for another term in office. He is one of five persons seeking office in that county. Raymond Wingett is seeking another term as county supervisor, Irene Wagner will try to replace Vera Hansen as clerk, Mark Fuhrman is after the county attorney's job and Lois Appleton is seeking the post as county treasurer. Vera Hansen will not run for another term in office.

SAYS DICK LINDBERG in his "Nearly News" column in the Cumby County Democrat: "irked by today's coffee breaks, leather-bedding and other unproductive gimmicks, p... Hugo said: 'We used to lay two lengths of pipe, then Dad would turn the water on and we'd have to stay ahead of it.'

TWO NELIGH YOUTHS who allegedly stole a car from a school parking lot were returned to Neligh last week after being arrested at Weatherford, Okla. The two were reportedly trying to steal gas from a farmer's supply tank. Charged with auto theft, the two were arraigned in juvenile court in Antelope County last week.

WISNER'S Chamber of Commerce has kicked off a membership drive this week. The Chamber is seeking to enroll private citizens by offering memberships at $10 each. Retail businesses will be charged $30 annually while service businesses will be charged $20 a year.

ISADORE SCHWEIGMAN, 37, of Hartington was sentenced to one year in Cedar County jail after pleading guilty earlier this month to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. Schweigman was sentenced by district judge Joseph March on the charge, which grew out of a complaint by an elderly Hartington woman last November. Schweigman has been held in Dixon County jail.

PIERCE school officials decided last week to suspend classes for at least two days because of the large number of students who were sick with a flu-like illness. Nearly a third of the high school students were absent last Monday. Elementary students were apparently not hit as hard.

A 'NOTEWORTHY' ITEM: What can we say... except... thanks for the memory

OBSERVATIONS

Some 2nd and 3rd thoughts

Here's a few thoughts about last week's local city council meeting which came to mind after mulling over some of the things which took place. For a council made up of some members who have argued at great lengths over a few hundred dollars in the past, there was surprisingly little said about the salary the new city attorney will receive if a city ordinance is changed. The last city attorney was receiving $3,900 a year. The new one will receive $8,100 annually if the ordinance is altered. Maybe we should not second guess those members' discussion may come when it gets down to voting on that ordinance alteration.

After anticipating council approval for signing a contract with Nebraska Public Power District, another in a long list of postponements was rather discouraging. Those wanting to wait even longer before signing that contract argued that they need more "historical data" about the local power plant and that they should wait to see what the power company does with its rates. The "historical data" isn't going to change black into white, and the city won't be able to do anything about those rates whether the contract is signed now or after they are announced. Certainly, the power line is a good insurance policy for the city, but it's a policy which can't go into effect until the city signs that contract. As former mayor William Koerber said to the council in his letter: "You have committed yourselves to the construction of a line at great cost to the city of Wayne. I do not feel that you can come up with any reasonable excuse for the waste which will be involved should you allow this new equipment to remain unused. The time to have considered an auxiliary hookup was before the commitment. There is no longer any justification for your procrastination."

Unlike last year, council voted 4-2 to donate another $4,000 to the committee which is trying to help promote Wayne State College through such things as radio and television commercials. One of the two who voted against the donation apparently is concerned that this is going to turn into an annual subsidy. That may well happen, and that may well be one of the best annual expenditures of funds the council could adopt.

Councilman Pat Gross said he looks upon the proposed but now abandoned park on the northeast edge of the city as a nice, quiet place to picnic. Jim Thomas said "That's awful high priced picknicking." Council voted 5-1 (Gross standing alone) to dump the project. Purchase of the land would have cost either $38,000 or $42,000, a quarter of which would have come from local funds. Many people will agree that more park land is needed in the city, but a lot of those people think it can be obtained for less money than that project would have cost.

Everett, Wash., Herald "When one finds shoddy merchandise or mediocre service in the marketplace he is inclined to long for 'the good old days' when men were proud of their craftsmanship. But wait. Before he makes comparisons of today's quality with the way it used to be, he ought to remember the textiles which shrank, the tires which blew out after low mileage, plastics which were brittle and foods which had to be prepared from scratch in the home. Automobiles weren't recalled in the good old days, because if defects were found they were considered the responsibility of the buyer, not the manufacturer. Time dims the memory of unpleasant things but it is quite likely there was just as much good-and-bad for sale in earlier years as there is now."

Steps can minimize tax on profits of home sale

LAST OF FIVE ARTICLES

As a result of the upward trend in real estate prices, taxpayers who sold their homes in 1973 are likely to have enjoyed capital gains on the sales. In some cases there are steps that can be taken to minimize—or at least postpone—the taxes on those gains. If the taxpayer has reinvested the proceeds of the sale in another house, cooperative apartment or condominium casting at least as much as the selling price of the one disposed of, there is no immediate problem—the capital gain tax is deferred until the gain is actually realized.

To qualify for such a tax deferral, the new home must be purchased—and occupied—within 12 months of the sale of the old one. If the replacement home is being constructed by the taxpayer, the time limit is extended to 18 months.

What happens when a taxpayer finally gives up home ownership in favor of moving in with the children or renting? Then the tax on the previously untaxed capital gains on homes owned earlier must finally be paid. But for many taxpayers this comes after retirement, when tax rates are likely to be lower than they were during the working years.

Also, for those past 65, there is no capital gain tax on homes sold for $20,000 or less if the home was owned and occupied as a principal residence for a total of five years during the past eight-year period. On a home that sells for more than $20,000, a proportionate amount of the capital gain is tax-exempt. For example, two-thirds of the gain is tax-free. This is a tax break that can be taken only once in the taxpayer's lifetime.

One other means of lessening the tax bite during a year in which there is a big capital gain or jump in earnings is "income averaging." This permits the use of reduced tax rates if the current year's income is substantially more than one's average income in the previous four years.

Education Students Are Now Playing Games

Multiplication Bingo, Temperature Zipper, "Indianapolis 500" Math, "Post Office Special Delivery" Math.

These are only a few of the innovative games created by elementary education students of Wayne State College. The names have the ring of educational games one might find in most department stores.

Dr. Lyle Skov, professor of elementary education, assigned his students to create five math games. One of the games was supposed to be above excellent in quality. The students recently displayed their games and gave a sales pitch, emphasizing the best features. They were to sell a game based on how it would help the children of the teachers that were gathered around listening to their sales talk.

The third floor of the Education Building had a carnival atmosphere. Displays were set up on tables and on the floors. Some of the students stood behind the tables and sold their projects, while others milled around from display to display. Punch and cookies were on hand, which added to the carnival atmosphere.

The games were eye catching, and as the inventors explained how the games worked, one could observe how appealing they would be to students.

In Multiplication Bingo, the teacher passes out BINGO cards. Then she or one of the students holds up a flash card with an equation on it and the students write down the answer. If they write down the right number and it corresponds with a number on their card, they cover the number. The first one to get a BINGO wins the game. In "Post Office, Special Delivery" Math, the students mail flash cards through a box of numbered pigeon holes. If they deliver the flash card letter to the right address number, the person on the other side of the box sends a letter in response. If they mail it to the wrong address, the person on the other side puts the card in the return address slot and mails it back. The Thermometer Zipper is a white cardboard with the degrees written on it and a red zipper. The students check the thermometer outside at different times during the day. Then they zip the Thermometer Zipper up or down according to the number of degrees on the outside thermometer and record the temperature reading. At the end of the day they add and subtract how cold or how warm it was during various times of the day, they figure the range in temperature, or they could figure the average temperature of the day.

MATH TEACHING: Elementary education student Millie Halsey demonstrates a clever device to teach mathematics. For a correct answer, "Elroy" says "right on."

One of the most unusual displays was Elroy by Mrs. Millie Halsey. The teacher or one of the students holds up a flash card and asks for the answer. The person holding the flash card asks, "Is that right, Elroy?" If the answer is right, his right hand goes up and he holds a card that says, "Right On!" If the answer is wrong, his ears wiggle.

State Receives 40 Trucks, Jeeps for Rural Fire Districts

Nebraska received a total of 40 trucks and jeeps in 1973 for use by rural fire districts, according to Joe Range, extension fire control specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. This brings to about 1,200 the number of excess government vehicles available to Nebraskans for the combat of wildfire in rural areas.

Most of the added vehicles, he said, were obtained when the Iowa and Nebraska National Guards received new equipment.

The vehicles were loaned at no cost to the state from the General Services Administration through the Clarke McNary program. This program, Range said, is the result of a federal law passed in 1924 which established a cooperative base between the United States Forest Service and the states.

The vehicles are loaned to the state under the responsibility of the state extension forester, who in turn distributes them as needed to rural districts for fire programs.

In addition to the surplus government vehicle acquisition and distribution program, Range said, the state extension forester and the Nebraska Fire Service are cooperating in training some 14,000 volunteer firemen.

The state forester has offered assistance in the form of guidance, teaching materials and subject matter to the 15 Nebraska Fire Service instructors. In the past, the forester has trained the firemen, but in 1974 the Nebraska Fire Service will offer the training to local volunteer firemen. Additionally, local firemen will receive 24 hours of training in 1974, the same compared with 18 hours of training previously received. The extra six hours include instruction on fighting timber and range fires, and are financed through the Clarke-McNary program, Range added.

SLAP Group To Meet On Tuesday

Surveying the city of Wayne in an attempt to improve the traffic flow will be discussed Tuesday night during a meeting of the local SLAP committee. Members of SLAP (Selective Localized Accident Prevention) will meet at the ASCS office in Wayne at 7:30.

Present to discuss the possibility of "surveying" the city's traffic flow will be representatives of Wayne State College, according to SLAP chairman Ray Butts. He said the survey may be taken on as a class project by Wayne State students.

The SLAP committee was organized recently in an attempt to cut down on the number of traffic accidents in Wayne County, serving as vice chairman of the group is Robert Nissen of rural Wayne.

The group is trying to determine where traffic hazards exist in the county so work can begin on eliminating them. Persons with suggestions on cutting down traffic accidents are welcome to suggest them to any committee member. Butts noted.

Also on the committee are Dean Pierson, Kurt Otte, Orville Sherry, Al Wittig, Dick Keidel and Fred Brink, all of Wayne.
