City, Chamber Are Backing Merging Wayne State-NU

By NORVIN HANSEN
City and Chamber of Commerce officials in Wayne have formed the lead set by Kearney in backing a proposal which could lead to merging Wayne State College with the University of Nebraska system.

The city council Tuesday night passed a resolution giving the council's support to "the principal of merging Wayne State College with the University of Nebraska."

Saturday afternoon the Chamber of Commerce board of directors approved the following statement: "In the interests of furthering higher education in the state of Nebraska, the board of directors of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce expresses its support of the constitutional amendment proposed by Senator Terry Carpenter to merge Wayne State College into the University of Nebraska system.

Those two resolutions are similar to one passed by the Kearney Chamber of Commerce backing the other half of Carpenter's proposal, to merge Kearney State with the university system.

Members of the legislature's constitutional revision committee will have those resolutions before them, along with telegrams from Wayne mayor Kent Hall and others, when they take up the Carpenter proposal in Lincoln today. (Thursday).

The committee will decide whether to let the legislature vote to draw up a proposed constitutional amendment which could be put before the voters in November's general election. Carpenter said such an amendment would probably be necessary to merge the schools.

Representing the local Chamber board of directors at today's meeting in Lincoln will be Dr. Freeman Decker, education teacher at Wayne State College. Also present will be others from Wayne, including members of the city council and college people.

Carpenter said the two state colleges "are ideally located and they are qualified to become part of the university system."

Scouts Get Ready For Paper Drive

Residents in Carroll, Winside and Wayne are being asked to have their old newspapers ready for Saturday's monthly paper drive by members of Boy Scout Troop 175 in Wayne.

Scouts will begin collecting the papers at 8:30 a.m.

Noting that all four state colleges are "in trouble," the Scottsbluff lawmaker said, "We've got a lot of unused facilities, and there are helluva lot of people who ought to be using them."

He said student enrollment at the state colleges is not likely to increase during the next 10 years unless a way is found to make education available to more people.

An Allen area man was bound over to district court on a charge of second degree murder following a preliminary hearing Tuesday and Wednesday in Dixon County court at Ponca.

To stand trial in district court is Edwin Magnuson, charged with killing Verlyn Dale De Hart Bull early on the morning of Jan. 18.

Magnuson allegedly shot and killed Bull outside Magnuson's trailer home near the Dixon County Feedlots along Highway 20 northwest of Allen.

Magnuson, 21, was employed at the feedlots at the time of the shooting. Bull, a 25 year old Indian who worked in Colby, Kan., before moving to the Allen area, was working with the construction firm building confinement feeding facilities at the feedlot.

MARK MIDDLETON DANNY JOHNSON

2 Scouts to Receive Top Honor on Sunday

Two Wayne High School freshmen, Mark Middleton and Danny Johnson, will receive Boy Scout's highest award Sunday.

The two will be raised to Eagle Scout rank in a ceremony at 2 p.m. at the high school lecture hall. The event is open to the public, and a reception will be held following the ceremony.

Parents of the two youths are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Middleton and Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson.

The two, both 14 years old, began Scouting when they joined Cub Scout Pack 175 at the age of eight. When they were 11 years old, they joined Boy Scout Troop 175.

Mark has been a patrol leader, is a member of the leadership corps and is a member of the Order of the Arrow. He has attended district camporees in the area and took part in summer camps at Camp Eagle in Fremont. Two years ago, he and other members of his troop look a 17 day trip to the Eastern part of the United States.

Danny has been an assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and belongs to the Order of the Arrow. Like Mark, he has taken part in district camporees and went on the trip back East in 1972.

The two earned 21 merit badges each in qualifying for the latest honor. Service projects completed as part of the qualifications for the Eagle Scout rank were Mark's martin house for the Villa Wayne and Danny's martin house for the Lions Club Park east of the city.

They are the sixth and seventh Scouts from their troop to move up to Eagle Scout rank.

Fourth Time Winner for Kardells

Verna Kardell had some good news and some bad news for her husband Virgil on Monday.

First, the bad news: Plans to rent one of their apartments had to be cancelled. Then the good news: He is the latest winner of the Vagabond Vacation.

For the Wayne residents, winning the two-night stay at any Holiday Inn or Ramada Inn of their choice came at just about the right time. The Kardells are planning a vacation this summer, hoping to take off for Iowa and Minnesota to visit relatives.

"I told my wife that I was going to win the trip," Virgil smiled, noting this was the fourth time he was a preliminary winner in the contest sponsored by participating Wayne businesses.

Virgil was selected Friday as one of 27 preliminary winners in the eight-week contest. He was picked Monday as the seventh winner in a random drawing.

Hoskins Okays Paving, Sewer

The town of Hoskins will have a face lift late this summer and early fall now that the village board has okayed awarding bids for a new sewer treatment plant and paving of main street.

Monday night the members awarded contracts to Christensen Construction Co. of Pender for a new sewer and granted Norfolk Concrete Finishers of Norfolk the bid to pave a two block stretch of main street, including new storm sewers and lighting.

Cost of the sewer plant will be $148,359. The only other bid See HOSKINS, page 10.

Construction on New Industry Will Start Soon

Construction is expected to begin within the next few days on a Wayne industrial plant which will produce fiberglass bathroom fixtures.

The plant, called Emphasis, Inc. will employ about 30 people initially and will have a work force of about 100 when all three production lines are in operation within about two years, said Sid Cox, secretary of Emphasis, a Norfolk firm with a plant at Fremont.

The plant will produce fiberglass tubs, showers and accessories for marketing in an approximate 500-mile area to the north of Wayne, Cox said.

When in full production, the units will be marketed to the south, something plant owners are not able to do now because of inability to meet the demand, according to Cox.

An Emphasis plant in Fremont will be phased out of producing bathroom fixtures as the Wayne plant increases production, but it will continue in operation producing different products, Cox said.

Bathroom fixtures produced in the Wayne plant will be sold directly to plumbing wholesalers in truckload lots, according to Cox. Sales are not made directly to builders, he noted.

The payroll at the Wayne plant will amount to $200,000 a month at the start of production and will climb to about $750,000-$800,000 annually when all three lines are in operation, Cox said.

Each of the three lines which will be in operation in the local plant will turn out about 40 or 45 bathroom fixtures daily when they are in full production.

Cox said Wednesday morning that work on the 51,000 square foot, $425,000 plant will begin as soon as the Norfolk contractor can move onto the site on the north side of Highway 35 a mile east of the city.

Cox Tuesday night learned from the city council that the city will sign an agreement to furnish electricity to the plant for heat at a set rate which Cox had asked for. The rate will be 1.25 cents per kilowatt of electricity for heat generating purposes. Tied in with the rate will be an agreement that the city may increase the charge if prices for fuel to operate the municipal generating plant increase over the five years of the contract.

Cox told the council he would like to be able to purchase the electricity for 1 cent a kilowatt, but that he could "live with" the 1.25 figure.

Cox said he was very pleased with the hard work the councilmen went to in trying to whittle down the rate for electricity so both could live with it.

The council is faced with producing electricity with high-priced fuels and is not to be blamed for difficulties in arriving at the rate, he noted.

Helping bring the plant to Wayne were several citizens and businessmen who invested $150,000 in the firm to make it possible to build the local plant.

THIS IS an architect's drawing of what the new industrial plant to be built in Wayne will look like. The plant, which will make fiberglass bathroom fixtures, will be located on the north side of Highway 35 east of Wayne.

Uncle Sam's Take in County Expected to Top $7 Million This Year

To what extent will Wayne County residents be enriching the federal coffers, come April 15th, through their income tax payments?

The government counts on their contributions being larger than they were last year when local returns of personal income and employment taxes were close to $4,336,000.

That is the approximate amount that was turned in locally, based upon an unofficial breakdown on the statewide collection figures released by the Internal Revenue Service.

From the state of Nebraska as a whole, Uncle Sam received over $1,152,000,000 last year, the IRS figures show. Of this total, taxpayers in Wayne County paid an estimated $5 per cent.

The returns, generally, are expected to be bigger this year because of the wage gains chalked up by most families in 1973 and because more people were employed nationally than in 1972.

As a result, the budget submitted by the Nixon Administration looks for personal income and employment taxes to yield a record $202 billion this year.

That is $24.8 billion more than in 1973, when the tax haul was $177.2 billion.

Local taxpayers are expected to shoulder their share of this increase, reflecting the higher level of income in the area in the past year.

On that basis, the Wayne County collections next month will come to approximately $7,273,000, it is calculated.

The Administration's new budget for the fiscal year that begins in July calls for higher income tax receipts next year than See UNCLE SAM'S, page 10.

Allen Speaker: National Control Over Land Use Around Corner

Although private ownership of the land is one of the reasons for America's great success as a nation, land use planning is becoming a reality, the speaker said at Monday night's Dixon-Cedar County Farm Bureau annual banquet in Allen.

Gary Enright, secretary of the South Dakota Farm Bureau, told the approximate 150 persons attending the banquet that proponents of land use planning are getting stronger and stronger.

"We all thought we would have national land use planning this year, but the bill (in Congress) got locked up in a rules committee and now it's dead for this year," Enright said.

But national control over how land should be used are coming, possibly next year, Enright added.

Those who argue that there needs to be more controls over how all the land in this nation is used argue that the land belongs to all Americans and not just the small minority who own the land, Enright noted.

Farmers make up only about five per cent of the population of this country but they own almost two-thirds of its land, said Enright.

Because they are such a small minority, the farmers will be unable to stop the federal government from passing national land use planning legislation, he noted. Legislators from the heavily populated areas in the country will pass the legislation because their constituents are demanding it, he said.

Private ownership of land on such a huge scale as exists in the United States is one of the See SPEAKER, page 10.

'Emperor' Set in Chinese Village

Weeks of research in Chinese history were necessary to provide background information for Wayne State College Theater Department's children's show, "The Emperor's New Clothes".

The children's theater production, which each year draws almost 5,000 persons to Wayne, will be presented April 15 at the WSC Ramsey Theater.

The planned Chinese set will be the first entirely student designed for the college, according to Ron Wachholtz, instructor.

The sets, created by Pat Donahoe, will establish the Oriental atmosphere of a Chinese village, complete with the Street of the Royal Weavers, Chinese homes and the interior of the Emperor's palace.

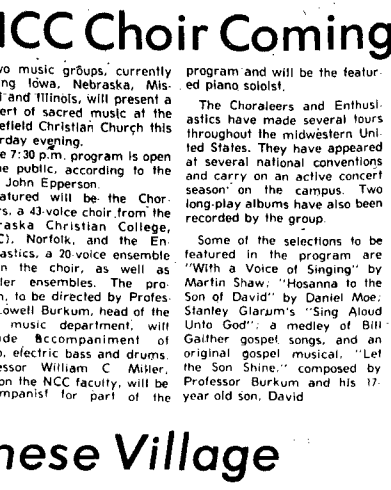

Special lighting effects are being developed by Dana Evans. Books on Chinese culture and children's theater manuals served as research material for the designing of the costumes, according to costume mistress Mary Harrison.

Nancy Wachholtz, theater instructor, notes that special work has also been done in the make-up department to create realistic Oriental characters.

Becky Miller, head of the publicity crew, has been busy getting information out to schools and handling reservations and advertising.

Over 4500 reservations have already been made. Ticket information can be obtained by calling the college box office.

THIS IS ONLY THE BEGINNING of many long hours of work to be put in by the stage crew for "The Emperor's New Clothes," a show for children of all ages, to be produced April 15 by the WSC drama department. The skeleton framework will have turned into houses in a Chinese village by opening day.

Birthday Dinner Held Sunday at Theophilus For Randolph Woman

A dinner honoring the 90th birthday of Mrs. William Wittler, Randolph, was held Sunday afternoon at the Theophilus United Church of Christ.

Mrs. Wittler was 90 on March 17 and relatives gathered in her home for dinner that day to mark the event also.

The Sunday afternoon program featured a hymn by the Sunday school and group singing which included Mrs. Wittler's favorite song, "Rock of Ages." A daughter, Mrs. Alford Patent, read "This Is Your Life."

About 45 attended the fete, including three of Mrs. Wittler's children and one great grandchild.

Mary Kruse was born March 17, 1884, near New Haven, Mo. On March 8, 1911, at the same home where she was born, she was married to William Wittler. The couple's first home was in Laurel where sons Ervin and Elmer were born. In 1916 the family moved to a farm just west of the Theophilus Church. They spent the next 13 years there and during that time the couple's three daughters were born. In 1935 Wittlers moved to the Randolph area and in 1965 they retired, when both were 81. Mr. Wittler died last year.

Mrs. Wittler taught Sunday School at the Theophilus Church, sang in the choir and is a charter member of the Ladies Aid. Her children were confirmed there.

Mrs. Wittler's children are Erwin of Carroll, Elmer of Spirit Lake, Ia.; Mildred of San Francisco; Lucille of Ames, Ia.; and Lorene of Randolph. There are 13 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Veterans, Freshmen Build Track Potential for Winside Girls

With a field of 24 girls out for Winside High girls track, fifth-year coach Jim Winch is hoping his team can improve on what he terms a very good team last year.

Ten returning veterans, including state qualifier Jill Stenwall, will spark the Wildkitten group. During the 1973 state meet Jill competed in the shot.

Returning include sprinters Sheryl Peterson, Joni Dangelberg and Jan Trautwein along with Barb Lonckecker, Sally Langlander, Lori Jenkins, Patty Mann, Nancy Morris and Gail Grone.

Trautwein currently holds the Lewis and Clark Conference record in the 50 yard dash, .06.8 but "that's not our school record," Winch remarked that record, .06.6, is held by another

Completing the coach's trio of sprinters is senior Joni Langenberg, No. 1 in 80-yard hurdles with a time of .13.7 set last year.

Distance runners could be another strong point for the Wildkittens. Sophomore Patty Mann, only beaten once last year and twice in two years, looks to be the girl to give Winch added strength in the quarter-mile as well as the 800.

Gail Grone and Nancy Morris will pace the club in the 220-yard dash along with Lori Jenkins. The long jump events will be led by Langenberg and Peterson, the coach figures.

But girls who have lettered aren't the coach's only prospects for the season. Winch believes his freshmen, including Julie Jaeger, Cindy Krueger and Barb Peterson, will play a major part.

"We had a successful season last year," Winch pointed out, "and I think we'll be better this year with the addition of more freshmen, giving our veterans good competition."

Trojan Track Hopefuls 'Inexperienced, Young'

First year girls track coach Ernie Kovar is just as confused about his Wakefield team, as most coaches are about their teams this time of the season.

He's not blaming himself or the girls for his hesitancy in trying to pick a strong team. It's just the weather hasn't cooperated to allow his 28 girls to work outside long enough and find out what they can do.

"We're young and inexperienced, I know that," he pointed out. There are a total of eight veterans on the team, including last year's state qualifier senior Kris Kraemer, who ran in the 80-yard hurdles.

The only means of comparison the coach has right now is to take a look at last year's squad. Senior veterans number the most on the team. Besides Kraemer, Judy Lovelace, Kitty Fischer, Cindy Keagle and Lori Utecht help make up the core of the sprint people. All five, at one time or another last year, ran on the 880 yard relay team as well as sprints.

Keagle probably will lead the girls in the high jump after her high last year of 4.11. Competing against her is another experienced high jumper, junior Ruth Bressler.

Both Fischer and Rita Taylor, a junior, will be working again on the shot and discus while, at this early stage, it appears junior letterman Lesa Utecht will run in the hurdles and the relay.

The rest of the squad includes one senior, a junior, a sophomore, and freshmen.

The coach will find out what his team can do today (Thursday) when Wakefield travels to Wisner Pilger for a triangular. Other meets on the schedule:

April 2 — Pender; 10 — Winside; 17 — at Emerson-Hubbard Invitational; 22 — at Randolph; 27 — Husker Conference at Columbus Lakeview. May 1 — Laurel.

Kamp Earns MVP Honors After Wildcats Place Third

For a pitcher who lost, Wayne State's Greg Kamp emerged admirably from the Texas Wesleyan University tournament. He was voted most valuable player and also cited on the all-tournament team, announced Saturday at Fort Worth.

Battling at a 500 clip won the honors for Kamp after he lost Wayne's season debut, 5-1, to Southwest Minnesota State. He gave up nine hits while Wayne scattered four.

In five succeeding games, the senior from Omaha bombarded opposing pitchers as Wayne's designated hitter. In 16 at bats, Kamp hit eight times, including two home runs, one of them a grand slam. That blast helped the Wildcats beat the University of Plano, 9-7, giving Plano its only tournament loss on the way to a championship.

On the following day, Saturday, Wayne encountered Plano again and floundered 8-1, thanks to a rash of seven errors. A Wayne win would have put the Wildcats in a championship tie with Plano and Texas Wesleyan at 4-2. But Wayne finished 3-3 in a third place tie with Southwest Minnesota State and Missouri St. Louis went 2-4, John Brown University 1-5.

Coach Larry Schultz came home "feeling good about it all." Lot of fine players in the tournament, and everything about it, was first class, he said.

In his pitching corps, Kamp is the only proven veteran. Schultz found three other capable hurlers in sophomore Bob DeVaul of Pechonaha, Ia., freshman Scott Sager of Wahoo, and junior Mark Prather of Sioux City.

DeVaul beat a St. Louis team rated No. three in the NCAA college division and likely to win a lot of games. Schultz said Sager relieved in the first inning of the first game with Plano after two pitchers had walked nine straight, scoring six. He went the route, yielded Plano one hit, and won with eight Wayne hits.

Prather spaced out four John Brown hits, and after trailing 3-0, went on to win on two Wildcat springings for a 5-3 decision.

Schultz said the team "played well together but needed consistency." There weren't many mental errors, he said, but lack of previous games showed up in too many fielding errors.

He noted that former Dodger outfielder Wally Moon coaches the John Brown team, and the after tournament banquet speaker was former major league manager Bobby Bragan. It was Bragan who presented the most valuable player award to Kamp.

Wayne scores, lost to Southwest Minnesota, 5-1, defeated Missouri St. Louis, 11-2, lost to Texas Wesleyan, 13-3, defeated Plano, 9-7, defeated John Brown, 6-4, lost to Plano, 8-1.

Next action for Wayne, Saturday at Northwestern College in a doubleheader.

Softball Team Faces Concordia

Wayne State women open their softball season today (Thursday) with a 5 p.m. match against Concordia College at the WS softball diamond.

Coach G. L. Willoughby, optimistic Wayne will continue to be a power in Nebraska, has a strong corps of veterans in this year's lineup. The main problem, though, will be depth in pitching, she says. Sophomore Mary Gerken is the only experienced hurler.

The 20 year veteran converted the 1-2-8-10 washout in the 10th frame of the third game to earn the 707 series while bowling for Wayne Greenhouse during the men's City-League.

Pitching Problems Bothering Coble

Wakefield High's baseball team has nine veterans on this year's squad of 15 players, but questions still plague coach Joe Coble.

Like who will be on his pitching crew? How strong will the team be at the plate? Or on defense?

"We only have three starters from last year's team," the first-year head man pointed out. Senior Bruce Paul is the only returning pitcher who saw consistent duty last season, including high school and American Legion ball. Outside of him, Coble continues to worry about his backup hurlers.

"Everybody says just bring out a bat and ball and you'll win games," he said. But graduation hurt the team, especially in the pitching ranks where, Coble pointed out, "you're only as good as your pitching is deep."

Coble does have backup people in mind to take over the mound as the season progresses. Among the candidates are junior veteran Doug Schwarzen, seniors Mike Barge, Doug Soderberg, Keith Siebrandt and freshman Dan Byers. Soderberg played shortstop last year while Barge was in left field. "One thing about these kids, they have a lot of baseball savvy," Coble quipped. "We could be strong defensively but we're not going to be a power club." The top hitter, he believes will be Barge, who hit near the 300 mark in the 1973 campaign. "There will be better than average speed on the Trojan club, the head man noted. The players can run about the same speed, he added; but the difference will be their knowing when to run. Wakefield opens its season

Sportsbeat

By Bob Bartlett

THAT'S NOT an error you see in today's Sports Slate — both Winside High's girls and boys track teams will be holding meets this afternoon (Thursday) at Winside. The boys will host Newcastle in a dual while the girls have a triangular against Newcastle and Pender.

It's neither unusual nor illogical to have both girls and boys track clubs at the same meet. In fact it's economical.

The girls compete in either a track or field event, leaving the boys to compete in some other event. "It's much handier to do it this way," pointed out Winside coach Carter "Cap" Peterson. "The schools involved save money on transportation and get their meals settled at once without having to worry about a future rainout, he added.

SPEAKING OF THE Sports Slate, this will be the first time to try it for spring sports. If it worked pretty well in the fall and winter since the majority of events were not cancelled due to bad weather, but spring weather might be a problem. We will continue publishing the schedule, with a strong hope coaches call in changes or additions to their schedules.

THE UNIVERSITY OF Nebraska released its spring football roster Sunday and on it is Wayne's Larry Shupe. The 209 pound 6 4 sophomore is listed among 75 offensive football players slated to report for the start of spring practice Monday. He will be battling 10 other hopefuls, including two-year lettermen Marvin Crenshaw and Mark Doak, both seniors, for tackle spots.

Not appearing on the roster are two area prospects, Doug Sturm of Wayne and Kirk Gardner of Wakefield. After lengthy physical examinations, Sturm didn't sign up for spring ball, but that doesn't discourage him from trying out for the freshmen team again next fall. After spring break this week Sturm intends to talk with the coach to see if he can play next year. "I'm a few hours short of being a sophomore so maybe I'll be able to play," he said. Gardner plans to try out when practice opens next week.

CONGRATULATIONS TO Wayne High's Tod Bigelow for making the Omaha World Herald's Class B All State priority list in basketball. According to the article, Tod was among those players who were close to making the Omaha paper's All State Class B team. Bigelow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bigelow of Wayne, was coach Bill Sharpe's leading scorer, averaging 15 points a game.

Ranking along with Bigelow were several other Northeast Nebraska Class B players, including Gene Scholl of Hartington, Cedar, Calhoun, Doug Eddie of Randolph, Steve Hornbeck of Wisner, Jim Pillen of Columbus Lakeview and Gerald McNally of Schuyler.

None of the area players in the four Class C high schools made the listing, but a few Class C players from other NEN high schools did — Kevin Krel, Cole-ridge, Kevin Roach, Plainview; Marc Riewer, Neligh, and Robin Reed, Osmond.

LAST NOTE: High School football coaches, circle April 10 on your calendars. That's the day the Nebraska School Activities Association will meet to vote on a football playoff.

Not that it means the NSAA representatives will make a playoff official or not. That depends on the schools. The vote at the meeting is to give schools a chance to voice opinions before members take the question back to their schools to decide for themselves. The idea is to set up a playoff system similar to the present one being used for state high school basketball championships.

Snow Blows Spring Football Practice Drills

Due to the recent snowfall, the spring training sessions for football have been inside with the exception of one night. Some 53 football players have turned out for practice, reported Del Stollenberg, head football coach.

The players are working on some minor adjustments in formations. Along with this, the coaches will be experimenting with different personnel in different positions.

The players will be putting on the pads and getting into the swing of things this week. Stollenberg remarked that spring training doesn't get the players in top shape, but gets the players in good enough shape to go through the drills at full speed.

The spring session will end April 6 with a game between the varsity players and alumni from previous years. Most of the alumni that come back have graduated from Wayne State in the past two or three years. Stollenberg noted that the game may have to be played on a practice field if re-soeding of the stadium field has started.

There are a couple of transfers this fall in the schedule. The two Minnesota teams, Morris and St. Cloud, have been dropped from the schedule. William Penn of Iowa and Doane College of Nebraska have been added, along with three teams from South Dakota. They are South Dakota Northern of Aberdeen, South Dakota State University of Springfield, and Black Hills of Spearfish.

The conference will remain the same this year, but a possible change could be in store for next year. Chadron and Wayne may join a conference in South Dakota. Stollenberg liked this idea because it would be a larger conference.

The annual band day will be held during Wildcat Days next year. Band Day is when high school bands from neighboring towns come to Wayne to compete against each other.

The bands will make their debut during the homecoming parade.

Dave Bernhard, chairman of the homecoming Planning Committee, said the city is looking favorably toward the street dance held Thursday of Wildcat Days.

The drama department is planning to put on a musical, "Celebration" following the queen coronation. If the weather is favorable the musical will run in the Willow Bowl and if bad weather strikes the musical will probably be put on in Rice.

The Homecoming Planning Committee is looking into possible changes in the selection of the homecoming queen but no decision has been made yet. New ideas are being explored in alumni activities. One suggestion made is to have a meeting place over the noon hour of

The first air freight carried by plane was a $1,000 bolt of silk that weighed 60 pounds. It was lashed next to the pilot on one wing of a wright biplane and flown 65 miles from Dayton, Ohio, to Columbus on November 7, 1910.

3 Leaders in Bowling Meet Remain Same

Three of the four categories in the St. Mary's Men's Bowling Tournament have the same leaders going into the final weekend of the five weekend tournament.

Ron Mulvihill, Norfolk, is on top of the all-events division. Rich Satter owns the singles lead and the duo of Elmer Freed and Ken Spiltzgerber is atop the doubles competition.

The only change was in the team event. Last week's leader, Einung's Sand and Gravel of Wayne, fell from its top position when the Wagon Wheel team from Laurel rolled a 3,187 three-game series. That left Einung's, with a 3,140 total, in second place out of 51 teams.

Satter, who had a 714, leads a field of 248 singles. The doubles team of Freed and Spiltzgerber have 1,392 to lead 128 doubles. Mulvihill leads the 60 all events entrants with 1,867.

Those interested in entering the tournament may contact Melodee Lanes in Wayne or Harold Murray, in charge of the meet.

Dyas: Republicans Should Have to Scrap For What They Get

Heads Dyas, Democratic candidate for Congress, told a Wayne State audience Monday, "We have got to make the Republican Party work and scrap for what they get."

In opening comments during a meeting Dyas also stated that, "This district is being short-changed with the delegation it now has."

Speaking to Wayne State faculty students and members of the community, Dyas remarked, "The only way to loosen the Republican stranglehold on this district is for the Democratic party to provide some tough competition."

Dyas also explained why and how he was running for the First District Congressional seat. Believing in the two party competitiveness, Dyas said he felt he must be involved in the things he was interested and concerned about.

In regard to leadership by the Democratic Party, Dyas said it has been high in such states as Iowa and South Dakota, but that in Nebraska there was a need for more productivity.

Major issues Dyas said were important included such things as transportation, health care, taxes and military funding. Feeling that the state has become too conservative in these and other issues, he commented, "There has been too much emphasis on the bread and butter issues."

Dyas made several comments about his opponent, Cong. Charles Thone, regarding previous campaigns, and past legislation that he had voted on in Congress. "Thone had about a 50-50 record, which indicates to me that he has been testing the air by putting his finger in the wind."

Speaking on his own campaign, Dyas said that there were many technicalities he had not perceived before and without complete knowledge of these facts he and his group were bound to make mistakes.

However, Dyas told of the promise he had made to himself in the beginning of his campaign, "I'm going to be honest." He went on to say that if he made mistakes, he would admit that he had been wrong.

In connection with his campaign, Dyas spoke of organization and finances. He explained that goals had been set for the campaign that would call for $100,000 of funding. Dyas told of the plan to raise the money with supporters contributing from $500 to $1. He also explained that the campaign was being supported by a monthly income of $500, pledged by followers.

Organization of the two month old campaign has been nearly completed with the aid of computers. Plans are now in effect for visiting 350 different precincts where work needs to be done, he said.

From April 1 to Sept. 1, Dyas said he plans on contacting as many people as possible with personal canvassing and phone surveys in an attempt to build people's knowledge of him.

In a question period, Dyas said he favors impeachment of President Nixon "simply so everyone can know the truth."

Local Seventh Graders Head to State Capital

About 80 seventh graders studying Nebraska History at Wayne Middle School will visit Lincoln today (Thursday) and Friday, talking with Gov. J. J. Exon and touring such sites as Elephant Hall on the University of Nebraska campus and the state capitol.

The group, being taught by social studies teacher Dan Johnson, also will talk with State Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City.

The same group of students is currently working with Wayne Senior Citizens Center members to learn more about what it was like to live in Nebraska years ago.

The students and center members will put on a show at the city auditorium on April 16 which will feature antiques donated for the show by center members and tape recordings of interesting details of their lives recorded earlier by the elderly.

The event also will include playing of music on an old wind up record player, butter churning by the students and center members, and a fashion show by center members wearing clothes popular years ago.

The students and elderly will be able to test how good they are at churning butter during the program.

The antique display will be open to the public after the program, said Johnson.

Planned as one of the final events in the approximate seven week course on the state's history is a clean-up day at LaPorte Cemetery southeast of Wayne. The cemetery is in a very rundown condition now, according to Johnson, and cleaning it up will be an apt way to conclude the study course.

Convention Trip For Honorary

Sigma Tau Delta members from Wayne State got the rare experience of combining learning and pleasure during a week break from regular classes last week.

Ten members of the local chapter of the English honorary and two faculty members, Dr. Laura Franklin and Norman Nordstrand, traveled by car to the biennial national convention held this year at Waco, Texas. The result was an opportunity overflowing in experiences in other areas also.

Every moment was full during their days spent in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, besides actual convention meetings held in Waco at Baylor University.

This two day period of time included a reading and workshop by Pulitzer Prize-winning poet, Laurence Lieberman, a session on writing techniques led by fiction writer W.D. Valgardson, and a Browning symposium led by Foyer, of Baylor's renowned Armstrong Browning Library.

Above all, the favorite speaker of the WSC group was Richard Eberhart, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet who held a poetry reading and workshop, leaving hopes for an appearance on Wayne State's campus in the future.

Wayne showed very well at the business meeting with its delegates being one of the largest groups present. WSC sponsor, Dr. Franklin, as member of the executive board, introduced amendments to the national constitution which passed, and students too had a part, as Lauren Rasmussen was elected a member of the national student advisory board for the northern region of the country.

Included in these duties will be paid trips to New Orleans and Philadelphia next fall for Dr. Franklin and Miss Rasmussen. The college's literary ability also proved its excellence as Miss Nancy Robinson was author of a poem, "Still Life," appearing in the honorary's publication, "The Rectangle," which entitles her to a writer's key.

"My lasting impression will be of a total learning experience, rather than just a few convention meetings," commented one student. The group seemed to agree that much was offered in every area.

As the majority had seen little of the South, it was a new experience to notice the oil wells of Oklahoma, red dirt of Texas, and endless flatness of Kansas. Each day was packed full of activities chosen for individual tastes, including a flower show, flea market, art display, and a pioneer village, all topped by a night on the town. Time also allowed for seeing Oklahoma's state capitol and the Dwight D. Eisenhower Museum at Salina, Kan., on the return trip.

One student commented on the trip's worth as a chance to get to know every person better each day and an opportunity for discussions ranging from religion to college courses. The trip proved so satisfactory that Nordstrand expressed a desire to extend an opportunity such as this to other departments and individuals.

Plans developed for the creation of new course offerings possible during future summer and third terms to revolve around student travel as part of the course.

Highlight of the Year Is Nearing for Feeders

It's that time of year again — time for livestock feeders to polish their boots, arrange for babysitters for the kids and purchase tickets for the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association Banquet.

This year's banquet will be held Saturday, April 6, at the Wayne State College Student Union.

Guest speaker for the evening is J. D. Anderson, prominent Omaha business and civic leader.

Anderson, president of Guarantee Mutual Life Co., will deliver a message spiced with humor and wit but ending with a serious thought.

Born and raised on a farm near Chickasha, Okla., Anderson has spent his entire life in the agricultural orientation of the Midwest.

Among numerous honors received, Anderson was crowned the 76th King of Ak-Sar Ben in 1970.

Besides his many local activities and responsibilities, Anderson is a vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a member of the board of trustees of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and president of the

J. D. ANDERSON

Mid-America Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Presentation of the Stockman Award will again highlight the program. Last year's award winner was Don Spitzer, Wayne County agricultural agent.

Gary Chapman of Producers Livestock Commission Co. in Sioux City will serve as toastmaster.

Music will be furnished by Mrs. Gene Doupnik of Emerson. A social hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne Fire Hall will precede the 8 p.m. dinner.

Tickets may be purchased from any association director. Members of the board of directors for 1974 are Bob Boals, Daye Denker, John Servino and Art Zeisler of Dakota County; Dean Dahlgren, Tom Gustafson, Cliff Rassmusen and Bill Weijerstein of Dixon County; Leon Bruns, Harold Hermelbracht, John Kruse and Fred Tremayne of Thurston County; and Clifford Baker, Byron Janke, Bill McQuislan and Norman Wickman of Wayne County.

Laurel Woman Killed in Crash

A 52-year-old Laurel woman was killed in a two-car accident on a county road four miles east of Coleridge about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Dead is Myrtle Wiebelhaus of rural Laurel. She was riding in a car driven by her husband Ralph as the couple returned home.

According to investigating state trooper Bill Watson, of Wayne, the Wiebelhaus' car was headed east. Another vehicle, driven by Phillip Chaney, 21, Norfolk, was southbound when the cars collided at an intersection. Chaney, who was thrown from his car, was taken to a Norfolk hospital with a fractured jaw and numerous minor cuts. Ralph Wiebelhaus was treated at the scene for minor injuries.

About 7:15 p.m. Sunday a car operated by Rickey Kay of rural Wakefield went out of control on Highway 15 about a mile north of Wayne and struck a tree on the Wayne Country Club golf course. Key, 17, was not hurt.

Exchange Students Speak To Wayne-Laurel Lions

Special guests at the joint Wayne-Laurel Lions Club meeting held March 19 at the Laurel Wayne High School were three Laurel High School students.

Randy Kraemer, a sophomore, told of his six-month stay in Asuncion Paraguay, with the Jose Vega family. Randy returned home in January.

Ann Withler, a Danish exchange student making her home this year with the Robert Lillards of Laurel, told how her opinion of America had changed since her arrival in rural Nebraska.

Perhaps no one will believe me when I go back home, but I know how good and kind every one is here, and how they help the disadvantaged and minority groups. Truly this is a great nation.

The third guest student was Giselle Simmitt from the tiny island of French Martinique. Giselle's host parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mel Olsen of Laurel.

Other special guests at the meeting, which was attended by 175 members and guests, were

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hoey and Mrs. Hoey's leader dog patches.

Given special recognition during the evening was Gene French, Lions district governor; Cleto Sharer, district governor elect from Wayne; Lester Alexander, extensive representative for Lions International; and Paul Hagaman from the Elk-horn Lions Club.

New members installed in a candlelight ceremony which was conducted by Cleto Sharer and John Vokoc of Wayne, were Brian McBride, Curtis Crandall, Gunnar Swanson, Olin Knudsen, Gilbert Krie, Bob Buss and Morris Kvols, all of Laurel; and Darrell Heiler of Wayne.

During Lions' luncheon, auctioneer Merle Swanson sold a Cleto Sharer tie to the Laurel Club for $78, with proceeds going for "right conservation". Proceeds from the egg and spoon race went to Lionism.

Lion Charlie Paulsen was presented the "It's Not Nice To Fink-Father Nature" award for pranks pulled on the Rev. Olin Knudsen, pastor of the Laurel United Lutheran Church.

Laurel High School stage band members performed under the direction of David McElroy.

In the senior division of the district music contest, a vocal contest, Claudia Mattat, vocalist, placed first, and the Laurel High School brass group was runner-up.

In the junior division, Mary Ebmeier, with a clarinet selection, placed first, and Marcia Ward, also clarinet, was runner-up.

The State Lions convention, to be held in Norfolk in June was announced at the conclusion of the program.

Sky Watchers See Plenty Thru Scopes

"People live under the sky all of their lives, but most of them don't realize what happens up there," said Carl Rump, teacher of a mini class called Sky Observing. Students in the class are free to use college equipment at any time to observe the sky.

Each student is expected to complete a project of his choice, working at the level of difficulty they are capable of. A low-division student might follow a certain area on the moon for a lunar month. He could observe how the shadows may change through the period of time. In addition, the student could use the library to find information about that particular spot on the moon.

The equipment available to the students includes two, three, and four inch refracting telescopes and a six inch reflecting telescope.

Advanced students could choose something more difficult. One student, Les Hines, is working with photography. He has taken several pictures, one of Saturn taken through the six-inch telescope with about a half second exposure on Tri X film.

Other projects include observing sun spots and plotting where heavenly bodies will be in the future, which involves using a computer plotter to figure their path out.

The class has observed such things as the Andromeda Galaxy, the Great Nebula, craters in the moon, Jupiter, Saturn, Mars, Mercury, Venus, and sun spots. Also the students viewed Kohoutek's comet, which was barely visible to the naked eye.

Possible in the future, the students may observe Vesta's Asteroid, a small planet revolving around the sun.

Upcoming events for the class offer many new opportunities for learning. Tonight the Sioux City Astronomy Club will visit the class to tell about its activities.

On April 8, the class is planning a trip to visit Midland College in Fremont. While there, the class will look at their facilities and equipment.

Since the mini course is not listed in the catalog, it will not be available again unless enough interested students ask for it.

A Long Walk

THE 20-MILE walk by area grade school, high school, college students and adults netted close to $2,700 during the annual Hike for HOPE Saturday. According to Phi Mu sorority member Jo Elta Latham, chairman of the walk, Winside High School won the high school participation trophy while Wayne Middle school won an award for its part in the walk.

Winner

(Continued from page 1) Preliminary winners for the final drawing will be chosen Friday after another week of registering in sponsoring businesses by area shoppers. Those winners will be named in Monday's issue of The Wayne Herald. The eighth and last winner will be named in Thursday's newspaper.

Hoskins

(Continued from page 1) came from Central Sand and Gravel of Columbus, $163,075. Construction is slated to get underway about Sept. 1, and will take a year to complete; officials said.

The total cost for the paving project comes to $117,000. Two other firms bidding were Christensen, $144,244, and Central Sand, $140,005.80. The project will start about Aug. 1 and be finished in about 60 days, according to officials.

Christensen's bid originally was $138,287.85, according to Duane Upton of Consolidated Engineers and Architects of Wayne, village engineer. But that figure will be reduced to $117,000 after parts of the project are eliminated, Upton said.

Speaker

Critics of America when it was founded said the experiment with letting the people own the land would never work, but it has worked and will continue to work if we let it, Enright said.

Farmers and ranchers (in America) have been the greatest environmentalists in the world. Enright noted as he explained that those pushing for national land use controls argue that the land must be used for the benefit of all Americans.

Farmers and ranchers know that they have to leave the land in better condition than it was when they took it over because the land is their livelihood, he explained. Private ownership of land is the best guarantee that it will be passed on from generation to generation in a productive condition, he said.

Providing entertainment during the evening were music students at Allen High under the direction of music teacher Lorrin Stamp.

Serving the evening dinner were Allen Band Mothers, who donated their proceeds to the drive to send the high school band on a trip to Rapid City.

Serving as master of ceremonies for the program was Marvin Hartman of Dixon, president of the Dixon County Farm Bureau. The Rev. Clifford Lindgren of the First Lutheran Church in Allen gave the invocation, and Vic Carpenter of Allen welcomed the group.

Other officers in Dixon County are Donald Thomas, vice president; Mahlon Stewart, secretary; and Carl Armstrong, delegate chairman. Paul Fischer is agency manager and Mrs. Matt Stapleton is office assistant.

Laurel Dairymen Named To Head District Group

A Laurel dairymen, Wayne Lund, was named district president of the American Milk Producers, Inc. during the group's annual meeting at Laurel Saturday.

Named vice president of the organization was Dean Wilker son of Coleridge, and Edger Wuebben of Wynot was named secretary.

The four voting delegates named during the meeting, held at the Wagon Wheel Steak House, were Jim Warner, Allen; Victor Kniesche, Wayne; Gary Frerichs, Coleridge, and Wallace Anderson, Laurel.

Everett Janssen and Gilbert Krie, both of Laurel, were named divisional directors, and Fordyce's Francis Arens was named resolutions committee man.

A total of 257 dairymen and their wives turned out for the meeting, presided over by president Wayne Lund of Wayne.

Danny Koester May Return Home in April

Early plans are for Danny Koester to return to his rural Allen home sometime at the end of April following the 14-year-old's bone marrow transplant operation at a Seattle hospital, according to Bill Snyder of Security State Bank in Allen.

Dan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Koester, entered the hospital in January to help find a cure for his inability to produce white blood cells. Doctors termed the Jan. 14 operation a success, but it takes 100 days to build up enough immunity.

The Koester fund, sponsored by the Dixon County Farm Bureau, totaled $14,115.49 as of Wednesday morning.

Forms for College Grants Available

Wayne High School students who will be attending a college or trade school next fall and who need financial assistance to help finance their education should pick up applications for one of the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants from Ken Carlson, high school guidance counselor.

The BEOG program is a federal aid program designed to provide financial assistance to those who need it to attend post-high school educational institutions, Carlson said. Because it is a grant, money given under the program is a gift and need not be repaid, he noted.

Grants for the 1974-75 school year will be in the $50 to $600 range. The grant for completing the BEOG application form is simply the cost of a stamp needed to mail the completed form to a computer center in Washington, D. C. After the computer has analyzed the contents of the form, results are returned to the applicant, indicating whether or not the applicant is qualified for a grant.

Reservations

Open for Honors Banquet

Reservations for the annual Wayne Kiwanis honors banquet for junior high and high school students may be made by contacting Wayne High School between the hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Nebraska Governor J. J. Exon will be the guest speaker for the April 29 dinner at Wayne State's Student Center, said Kiwanis banquet chairman Duane Upton.

Between 40 and 50 students will be honored for their scholastic achievements during the first semester of the school year, Upton said. In addition to receiving certificates, students also will receive pins, designating the numbers of years they have been honored.

Sister Jamesine Will Remain at Catholic School

Clifton Ginn, president of St. Mary's Catholic School board, has announced that Sister M. Jamesine will return to St. Mary's next year, assuring that the school will remain open. The rest of the staff will be announced at a later date.

Sister Jamesine arrived in Wayne last fall from Sleepy Eye, Minn., to fill the position of principal and social studies teacher.

No Fire Damage

Wayne volunteer firemen answered a call at the Merle Roebber home northeast of Wayne Tuesday morning after a fire was threatened to burn buildings close by, reports fire chief Cliff Pinkelman.

Pinkelman said there was no damage at the farm home, located five miles north and a mile and a half east of Wayne. The alarm was turned in about 11 a.m.

Russell Fails to Keep Council From Paying Attorney Bill

Despite objections from one member, Wayne's city council voted 5-2 Tuesday night to pay a $1,292.58 bill from a Lincoln attorney for representing the city during Mayor Kent Hall's attempt to fire chief of police Vern Fairchild.

Councilman Vern Russell, who was joined by Jim Thomas in the vote against paying the bill, said he would agree to paying $140 of the bill but that Hall should pay the rest because it was a "personal" bill which Hall was responsible for.

"I don't think the city should pay out personal bills," Russell said during his argument about why the city councilmen should not pay a bill for something which they did not authorize and which they were not consulted about.

Russell said at the last council meeting that Hall acted illegally in seeking another city attorney to represent the city during the civil service commission hearing on Hall's second attempt to fire Fairchild.

Not taking part in the vote on whether to pay the bill was councilman Ted Bahe, appointed to the council several weeks ago to fill out the unexpired term of Frank Prather. He said he lacked enough information about the subject to vote.

Bahe did vote, however, against amending a motion which would have resulted in the city's paying just $140 of that total bill. He also voted against tabling any further action on paying the bill.

As soon as the council voted to pay the bill, Russell moved to have the city pay the approximate $1,800 attorney fee Fairchild accumulated in trying to get his job back after Hall fired him.

Hall ruled Russell out of order, and the subject wasn't taken up again during the rest of the meeting.

Russell has argued at previous council meetings that Fairchild was fired illegally both times by Hall and that the city has a moral obligation to pay the bills he accumulated while trying to prove that.

During the meeting, councilmen learned that the Nebraska Liquor Commission will hold two public hearings on applications for liquor licenses by local establishments. Both applications have been protested, prompting the public hearings in Lincoln, according to the commission.

A hearing on the application for a bottle club license by the Gem Cafe will be held at 11 a.m. that same day.

The council has already recommended to the state commission that the Cityside license be issued but that the Gem Cafe license not be issued.

The state commission makes the final decision on whether the two applications will be granted, according to the city attorney.

In a related action, councilmen agreed to have a sample ordinance drawn up which would permit selling beer on Sundays in Wayne.

Councilmen agreed to having the city attorney draft the sample law for their consideration at their next meeting.

They agreed to consider changing the law after Andy Manes of Andy's Pizza House asked that he be allowed to sell beer on Sundays.

Manes told the council it was "discriminatory" to prohibit him from selling beer on that day when persons can "go right up the street" and buy what they want. He was referring to the Vel's Club and any bottle clubs which stay open that day.

Current municipal law permits bottle clubs to stay open if they wish during certain hours on Sunday. The Vel's Club can stay open Sundays by state law.

Manes said that he does a large amount of business on Sundays and that he is losing money by being prohibited from selling beer.

Also during the meeting councilmen —Heard city attorney Budd Bornhoff say there are no state laws prohibiting a member of the local civil service commission from running for public office. Dr. T. H. Stevenson had questioned whether it was "ethically proper" for commission member Freeman Decker to be seeking the mayor's post in Wayne. Bornhoff said if Decker is elected he would automatically be removed from his commission post. Commission members are appointed by the mayor to hear such things as complaints by policemen on firings, promotions and the like.

—Voted 4-2 to hike the salary of the police chief from the current $240 a month to $295. Against the hike were councilmen Harvey Brasch and Pat Gross. In favor of increasing the salary, urged by Vernon Russell, were Bahe, Thomas, Russell, Darrel Fuelberth, Keith Mosley and Ivan Beeks.

—Voted 7-1 (Brasch casting the dissenting vote) to pass an ordinance which would permit an experiment with parallel parking on the north sides of First and Third Streets in the downtown shopping district. The experiment will be tried for several months to see if it reduces the number of automobile accidents.

—Voted 5-3 (Gross, Russell and Fuelberth against) to draw up an ordinance which would give city employees a 5.5 percent salary increase. The increase would cost the city about $1,400 more each month for salaries, according to city administrator Fred Brink. Russell objected, saying each employee should receive the same dollar amount of raise based on a 5.5 or 6.0 percent average of all their salaries. That's fairer to the employees who receive smaller salaries, he said.

—Agreed to draw up an ordinance which will raise the salary paid Jocelyn Bull, director of the Senior Citizens Center, from $350 to $400.

—Learned by letter from Standard Oil Co. that the price the city will now have to pay for diesel fuel will be 2.3 cents higher, raising to 29.8 cents per gallon the cost for that fuel for the electrical generating plant.

—Agreed to have the city administrator discuss with Wayne-Carroll school superintendent Francis Haun the possibility of obtaining access to the school's land west and south of the high school. Bob Vakoc said there should be access to the land from the south for safety and ease of access.

—Agreed that adult supervision may be in order at the city swimming pool. Thomas said he had heard "a lot of complaints" last year about how the pool was being run. He said he objected to the profanity which was used in front of the children by some of those working at the pool. The city administrator agreed that it was his job to hire the manager this year, but Thomas said he would like to see the names of the applicants before a manager is hired.

CONCORD RESIDENTS Steve Martindale, left, Mrs. Glenn Magnuson and Vic Carlson discuss the state's community improvement program with Marcia Strand of Lincoln.

Concord CIP Group Is Told 'Every Town Is A Winner'

Every community that enters the Nebraska Community Improvement Program is a winner, a speaker told residents of Concord Monday night.

Marcia Strand of Lincoln explained the program to about 40 persons who attended the pot luck supper at the Northeast Station, emphasizing that whether a community actually wins in the contest doesn't really matter.

What matters is the changes and improvements that community minded citizens can bring about while they are trying to make their town a better place to live, she said.

The program, now in its 13th year, is a good one for every town which enters it because it gets a lot of people involved and concerned about the condition of their community. "The more people you have involved, the more you're going to get done," she said.

She urged the group to get the young people to take part in cleaning up and sprucing up Concord so they feel they have a stake in the community. That may just keep them from moving away when they grow up, she noted.

She also urged the group to include farmers living around Concord in their community betterment projects because they belong to the community just as much as the people who live within it.

Another group which should be urged to take part is the elderly, who have a "tremendous amount of skill and experience" they can donate to any improvement projects, she added.

At a short business meeting following the talk, the group decided to have a work day for cleaning up the community on Saturday. Volunteers are to bring their own tools—rakes, shovels, wheelbarrows and the like—to the fire hall at 1:30 p.m. Next meeting of the group will be April 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the fire hall.

Among those attending the meeting were officers of the community improvement program at Concord—chairman Steve Martindale, vice chairman Vic Carlson and secretary/treasurer Mrs. Glenn Magnuson.

Orr to Talk To 4-H'ers

John Orr, associate state 4-H leader from Lincoln, will be in Wayne twice during April to hold speech workshops for contestants in the 4-H Timely Topic Speech Contest.

He will be at the county courtroom on April 4 and April 17, both meetings starting at 8 p.m.

Serving as judge for the contest, scheduled for the evening of April 29 at Wayne State College, will be Dr. Robert Johnson, instructor at Wayne State. One other judge will be named later.

This year all contestants in the junior division in the contest will receive competition ribbons rather than the traditional ribbons, said county agent Don Spitze. Senior division contestants will receive regular ribbons. Also, the divisions will compete simultaneously to speed up the contest, he said.

Winners in the senior division will advance to the district contest scheduled for Norfolk on May 4, with the winners there advancing to the state contest.

Old Coming Down, New Going Up

WORK CONTINUES on the new steel building which Bill's Market Basket will move into on East Sixth Street in Wayne. Construction workers from Norfolk began erecting the steel late last week and will continue on the job for another week and a half, according to one of the men. Being torn down are several old houses on the south side of Sixth to accommodate the large building.

The Emperor Francis the First of Austria paid the equivalent of $20,000 for a precious waffletrap sea shell, the National Geographic Society says.

Book Club Meets

Members of the Laurel Book Club met March 18 at the Laurel High School library to tour the new room and view new facilities. Librarian, Barbara Hansen, explained the library program and methods.

The group then went to the Mildred O'Gara home for their meeting.

Ann Nelson was appointed to write a review on the book recently co-authored by Laurette James Pederson, now of Lincoln.

The book has been purchased by the club and placed in the City Library.

Barbara Osborne reviewed the book, "Two From Galilee." Lunch was served by co-host.

Bavarians call beer "liquid bread," and in 1973 they drank about 60 gallons per person, nearly 60 per cent above the national average for the Federal Republic of Germany, National Geographic says.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"We cannot do all things." Virgil

Although many people are blessed with great versatility and give the impression of being able to cope with any task or situation that may arise, there are times when they must face problems beyond their abilities. However capable and versatile we may be, it is foolhardy to attempt to give our personal attention to every detail of every task that confronts us. If we look about us we will usually find that there are many skills and strong hands eager to help us if they are but given the opportunity.

We feel privileged to provide this community with an essential service in a dignified and efficient yet always friendly manner.

Tax Deadline Creeps Closer

Less than one month remains for Nebraska taxpayers to file their 1973 federal income tax returns.

Michael W. Bilgere, Acting Director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska.

"March 15 is a good time to file," said Michael W. Bilgere. "Returns filing is at a low ebb and our service centers can more easily process returns filed at this time. We also know from our statistics that taxpayers who wait until April 15 to file make more mistakes. So we urge taxpayers not to wait until the deadline to file."

Bilgere gave these suggestions for an accurate return and a faster refund. Read tax instructions carefully, use peel off address label received on form package, check arithmetic; attach all W-2 forms and schedules, sign return (both spouses, if jointly filing); file early.

Toll free telephone numbers for Nebraska are listed on page two of the instructions with the 1040 tax package and page seven of the 1040A tax package. "This service allows taxpayers anywhere in the state the opportunity of obtaining tax information without long distance charges," said Bilgere.

Aides Learning 'No One Is Useless'

By SANDRA BREITKREUTZ
 "No one is useless in this world who lightens the burdens of another."

This comment, made by one of the volunteer teacher aides in Wayne's Project Success program, probably expresses the sentiments of most of the teacher aides who work regularly to help in classroom situations at the local public school and St. Mary's Catholic School.

The volunteer aide program in the Wayne Carroll school system was born through the needs of Project Success, a government-funded program started in 1971 to provide auxiliary teaching methods for students who are unable to learn through traditional methods. Project director Richard Mettler explains how the program works. Teachers are trained to understand why students may encounter learning difficulties, and then, to help them get around these difficulties, innovative teaching techniques in the areas of motor perception (physical development) and language arts are combined to help students achieve learning success in spite of learning difficulties. These alternate teaching methods which include taped social studies lessons for poor readers, tactile maps, sand trays for tracing letters, math games and more, are provided by the curriculum modification department of Project Success. Every student, whether he has learning problems or not, can benefit from the auxiliary teaching methods, notes Joan Owens, who heads the curriculum modification portion of the program. Teachers are attempting to "see individuals rather than classes," and teacher aides give instructors the extra hours they need to make such a goal a reality.

A teacher aide can spend several hours per week listening to a student read, encouraging him to learn to skip or playing math games with him. The aide can also check papers and prepare or distribute lesson materials, allowing the teacher more time to work directly with students.

Last year there were six volunteers working as teacher aides in the public school. This year there are 14 aides from the community, as well as over 40 high school students and eight Wayne State College students who receive credit for their aide work.

Who can be a teacher aide? Mothers of language disability students, housewives, area residents with leisure time, retired teachers, non-contracted teachers, high school students, college students who wish to gain teaching experience and college graduates can all help, says Mrs. Inez Olds, co-chairman of the Title III Community Council volunteer recruitment committee.

Requirements include the desire to learn the program, a willingness to work under the classroom teacher and an interest in students.

Persons interested in becoming volunteers in the Project Success program may contact MRS. LEE FOOTE, Wayne, is one of many teacher aides at St. Mary's, volunteering to help pupils in reading or working on math problems.

MRS. KEITH MOSLEY works with some of the children at West Elementary School during one of her sessions as a teacher aide.

Richard Mettler, principal of West Elementary School and director of Project Success, or Mrs. Inez Olds, chairman of the volunteer recruitment committee.

Volunteer aides should be prepared to work on a regular schedule, although the time each aide spends at the school can and does vary from an hour a week to several hours per day, depending on the volunteer. Community volunteers work in an aides at the public school this year are Mrs. Inez Olds, Mrs. LeRoy Simpson, Mrs. Paul Knapton, Mrs. Lillian Fresse and Mrs. Al Shufelt, first grade; Mrs. Mike Karel, Mrs. Charles Maier and Mrs. Robert H. Haas, second grade; Mrs. Keith Mosley, Mrs. Dick Knidel, Mrs. Francis Haun and Flora Bergl, third grade; Mrs. Vern Jacobson, fourth grade; and Mrs. John Barr, fifth grade.

There are about 40 Wayne State College students enrolled in aide programs this year, and eight students from Dr. Lyle Skov's physical education class at Wayne State assist Paul Eaton and Don Koenig in the area of motor perception. At St. Mary's, aides have been helping regular teachers for several years. This year's volunteer aides are Mrs. Lee Kopsensky, Mrs. Merle Sietler, Mrs. Leland Foote, Mrs. Linus Meyer and Mrs. Milo Meyer.

Each aide spends about an hour and a half per day, five days a week at the school, working with the same two or three students every day in the areas of phonetics, vocabulary development, oral reading, rate of reading, comprehension and mathematics.

Although some aides at St. Mary's have children in the school, they do not work with their own youngsters in the aide program.

Soil Samples Show Need for Nitrogen

The nitrogen fertilizer shortage probably has most farmers wondering if they will get enough nitrogen for the growing season. Adding to those worries are increasing prices for what is available.

"But for some farmers there may not be any problem, depending on the amount of nitrogen in the ground right now. The best thing to do is to run tests to find out exactly how much fertilizer crops will need, advises George Rehm, Northeast Station district agronomist.

To do a good job of raising crops a farmer has to know the nitrogen content of the soil, the specialist says. "That's why we are encouraging farmers to test their soil before planting season begins," he adds.

A farmer samples his soil by digging a hole 24 inches in depth to get the true nitrogen count. After spreading the dirt in places a sample in a container and then sends it to the Station or his county agent. From there it will be sent to the University of Nebraska Lincoln or a research firm, whichever the farmer prefers. According to Rehm, the cost is between $2 to $7 at the university, depending on the extent of the testing. Usually it takes about seven to 10 days before testing is complete, he says.

Reason for the 24-inch depth is the nitrogen's seepage. This type of fertilizer usually travels through the ground faster than, say, phosphorus, according to Rehm.

New soil samples aren't always needed to find out the soil's nitrogen content, however. Farmers can have samples tested from as far back as three years, says Rehm.

To get a good test, according to Rehm, it is best to take one sample about every 20 to 30 acres. Now is the best time to test since planting time is only a month away, he adds.

About 60 per cent of the 3,000,000 tons of sediment annually carried by the Susquehanna River is discharged into the Chesapeake Bay, making the river the largest single source of sediment on the East Coast.

Forget the Classes

ALLEN HIGH students took four days off their regular school schedules last week and participated in what they wanted to do — take mini-courses. The program, designed after a similar idea at Midland College in Fremont, allows students to select short courses they would like to sample. Starting last Monday, students dropped their regular studies to take up such courses as dancing, first aid, ceramics, bridge, golf and knitting, along with a host of other subjects. The only restriction — none of the students could take a study hall. Identification clockwise from bottom left, Lois Kraft playing golf; Marie Malmberg learning to crochet; Julie Osbahr painting her ceramics; Randy French practicing first aid; DeAnn Troth dancing.

Art Teachers Show Their Stuff

The multiple talents of two Wayne State faculty members will be displayed when Carlos Frey and Ray Replogle, both teachers and artists, present their works.

This year's faculty art show will begin Monday, March 25, in the foyer of the Fine Arts Center and will continue through Friday, April 5.

The show will primarily be one of work done by the two men since the last show, but other pieces may also be presented. Art forms will include sculptures, pottery pieces, drawings, weavings, and perhaps some portraits. Speaking of the art show itself Frey commented, "It's intended to be a yearly thing, and we're hoping to set a special date each year, but it's hard to plan that far into the future."

The faculty art show has two basic objectives: Not only does it spur student involvement, but it also keeps the faculty involved.

According to Replogle, "Many schools require their faculty to present art shows as a part of their jobs in order to vegetate ideas and pass the spirit on to the students." In many schools such things as advancement, raises, and rank depend on how much the artist-teacher produces.

Though Wayne does not hire their art teachers primarily on these premises, they have in Frey and Replogle, two professional working artists.

Replogle, who did both his undergraduate and graduate work at the University of Kansas from 1960 to 1968, has worked on commission and has sold some of his pieces. He has a BFA and an MFA in sculpture. He came to Wayne State in 1968 to teach sculpture.

Also calling the University of Kansas his alma mater, Frey did his undergraduate work there from 1956 to 1960, earning a BFA in sculpture. From there he opened a studio and painted portraits for five years. In the fall of 1966, he came to Wayne State.

At Wayne he taught sculpture for two years and also finished his graduate work at the University of Kansas. When Replogle came in 1968, the department was expanding and he took over the sculpturing classes. Frey took on the teaching of such art forms as pottery, drawing, and weaving.

In view that many of the people who see the art show aren't very knowledgeable about different art forms, the question was asked if pieces on display would be explained. As Frey remarked, "The art work is the message itself. And if it doesn't work, it just doesn't work. To talk about it only cheapens it."

Both men remarked that it was very difficult to get the art show together each year as they don't find time to produce enough of their own creations.

With only a three-man department, which includes Richard Lesh, teaching takes up all the time and there isn't enough time for their own work. Both Frey and Replogle expressed these feelings and Frey commented, "Most teachers on this college campus are overloaded with up to 15 hours whereas at other institutions they may only have eight."

"It's important for the students to know we create as artists. It's motivating for them and it makes us better teachers," said Replogle. The art show is one way of doing this.

Assistants

Named for

Swine Contests

Assistant superintendents for the open-class and 4-H class swine shows at the 1974 Wayne County Fair were named Monday night.

Assisting superintendent Dick Sorenson of Wayne in the open class will be Roger Lutt of Wakefield and Glen Nichols of Wayne.

Assisting superintendent Bob Hanson of Wakefield in the 4-H events will be Kenneth Gustafson, Wakefield; Alvin Anderson, Wayne; and Dwayne Rethwisch, Wayne.

During Monday night's meeting, several changes were made in the 4-H program for the fair, according to county agent Don Spitzer.

Added to that portion of the competition was a feeder pig class which will be open to all market pigs under 190 pounds. Also added was a club pen of four contest for breeding animals and a club pen of three contest for market animals.

This year's fair will feature two breeding classes, one for registered animals and one for grade and crossbred animals. In previous years there was only one class.

Discussed during the meeting were suggested reasons for the large drop in swine production in the county in recent years and what could be done to stem that decline.

Making the changes agreed upon Monday night should be a step in the right direction, according to Spitzer. He said swine producers will also start promoting swine in the county, something which hasn't been done to any great extent in past years.

Familiar ritual in legislature underway again

LINCOLN — The familiar ritual of school aid is being re-enacted this year. As usual, the Legislature passed a major school aid bill and, as usual, Governor J. James Exon announced he would veto it.

Always before, the governor has prevailed, but usually only by a whisker. In 1973, for example, the lawmakers twice tried to override and each time fell a single vote short of the 30 constitutionally required to adopt a bill over a governor's objections.

At this writing, the fate of Senator Jerome Warner's LB 772 wasn't clear, but the measure passed with 33 supporting votes. While that was cheering to Warner's supporters, they were sobered by the recollection that the 1973 bill had passed with 35 votes and only got 29 on the override motion.

The Warner bill that was sent to the governor proposed an eventual $144 million state contribution to school operating costs. That compares with the $55 million now being provided to the school districts.

Also passing the same day the Warner bill was adopted was a bill drawn to meet the governor's ideas of how school districts should have their spending limited.

Exon said he would sign that bill, LB 984, which sets a limit on salaries based on the latest consumer price index (with a two per cent cushion) and a lid on supply budgets based on the most recent wholesale price index (again, with two per cent extra).

Neihardt Bill Passed

While the Legislature was awaiting debates on the attempt to override the state school aid veto, the senators did adopt a bill over the governor's objections. It was LB 855, which establishes a John G. Neihardt Center at Bancroft, where the state's late poet laureate lived when he wrote some of his more famous works.

Exon had objected that the state couldn't afford the $200,000, but the lawmakers said the project was worth the money.

Helping them change their minds (they had failed to override the same veto once before and were reconsidering that decision) was word that the Neihardt family was thinking about having the poet's works and possessions put in a center in Missouri.

Two of Neihardt's daughters live in Missouri where Neihardt was a member of the University of Missouri faculty for many years.

Lounge Idea Dropped

It looked for a while last week as if the Legislature would spend $10,855 to rip the lockers out of what now is the cloak room and turn it into a carpeted lounge furnished by a decorator.

Using his normal procedure of asking if there are any objections (rather than calling roll) Chairman Terry Carpenter ruled that the Executive Board of the Legislative Council had approved the project.

Only Senator John Savage among the nine board members had protested the move. Savage said the cloak room is too small for a lounge.

The next day, some second thoughts led to a bill of the board members. Clerk Vincent Brown had a sheet of paper passed around, asking each member whether he wanted to proceed with the project.

Only Carpenter and Senator Loren Schmit of Bellwood voted "yes."

Brown said he wouldn't proceed until he had new instructions from the board. The original plan was to follow a design prepared by Miller & Paine, a Lincoln department store.

Tax Rate Is Issue

Senator Richard D. Marvel, the Republican, and Democratic incumbent J. J. Exon continued last week to debate what likely is to be the big issue in their campaign for governor this year.

It's whether an 11 per cent personal income tax is enough to supply the state with money this year.

Exon said it should be 13 per cent.

Marvel says 11 per cent is adequate for this year and next year as well.

Marvel says Exon wants to build a surplus in the treasury, and Exon says Marvel's estimates on how much revenue an 11 per cent rate will yield are built on faulty premises.

Figures released by the fiscal staff last week indicate Marvel will have to rely on a healthy Nebraska economy if he is to prove his revenue point. The Exon projections are more conservative, but his forecasts in the past have resulted in large budget balances.

DOZING

REPOSING

OBSERVATIONS

Tapping our own resources

A Wayne man came up with what we think is an idea worth consideration. The idea is to set up a senior advisory committee composed of people who have years of experience and training in a large number of fields.

The advisory committee, which could be open to almost anybody who would like to serve on it, could come into play when governing bodies and other groups were faced with making decisions which their members might not feel fully qualified to make.

The committee likely could have been tapped for ideas and recommendations when the city council was wrestling with the problem of whether or not the city should hook up with Nebraska Public Power District. There are many people in the city who could have given suggestions based on their experiences which might have made that decision easier to come by.

Also, the committee members could make themselves available to school and county officials when they are faced with problems especially difficult.

Reason for setting up such a committee is to tap the resources of a large number of men and women who have expertise in a great many areas but who might not want to take an active part in making decisions. Maybe the people would rather help out backstage rather than in the limelight. Maybe they consider themselves too old to be actively involved in county, school and city functions. Maybe they have served on governing bodies and now would rather help out only in special cases. There probably are other reasons why such a committee would result in bringing knowledge into play which might otherwise remain untapped.

The idea which has been tried successfully in other communities, sounds interesting. It might be worth trying.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 YEARS AGO

March 23, 1944: A heavy, wet snow fell Thursday night, bringing valuable moisture to this area. At a special meeting of Wayne board of education Monday evening, members of the city school staff were re-elected with increases in salaries for all. No damage was done by chimney blazes at the Nep Swagerly and Bart Scott farms, Wakefield. Carroll will graduate a class of 16 May 19.

Walter H. Weseman bought the AUGUST Westerhold farm at Pender and moved there this spring. Chamber of Commerce directors, meeting Tuesday evening, decided to sponsor a boy scout troop in Wayne. Rev. S. K. deFreesse will be scoutmaster.

25 YEARS AGO

March 24, 1949: Dr. Russell Rundquist, who has been associated with Dr. Walter Benckack for the past several months, left Wayne Sunday. He and Mrs. Rundquist plan an extended vacation in the south before choosing a new location. Mrs. Wayne Kerstine, Carroll, suffered a broken right ankle Tuesday morning while on the way to the school she teaches. Ray Engel had the tips of two fingers on his left hand cut off Friday when a jack slipped while he was helping move a churn at his creamery in Laurel.

20 YEARS AGO

March 25, 1954: Remodeling of the courtroom at Wayne County courthouse was started this week. The project, estimated at approximately $4,000, was authorized last week by the county commissioners. Elary Rinehart, Madison, leased the Fuelber Motors Building to house a new super-market scheduled to open June 1. Junith Thompson was named as Winside Girls' State choice. Wayne County's ASC will move to its new offices about May 1, it was announced this week.

15 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1959: Bill Wift received an award from American Legion Commander Marvin Weyhrich for winning the Legion-sponsored oratorical contest. Yvonne Krallman, Wayne Prep

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE

With today's emphasis on automotive pollution control devices, safety impact bumpers and seat belt interlock systems, one tends to overlook the attention car manufacturers focus on other car owner considerations — pleasing the woman motorist, for example. Since 43 per cent of all licensed drivers today are women (just 28 per cent 20 years ago), car manufacturers have directed increasingly more attention to color trends and styles that show up in the more traditionally fashion-oriented industries. One car manufacturer, for example, recently contracted an internationally famous designer of women's apparel to design interiors of a new model. Exterior colors to please the woman motorist include use of hues such as ginger-brown, gold glamour and chestnut.

Thoughts for the day

- Thursday — If you can't see the bright side of a thing, polish the dull side.
- Friday — Some people get their promotion, but they rattle around in it.
- Saturday — The selfish man is like a ball of twine, he is wrapped up in himself.
- Sunday — Many are in that uncertain state of health that makes them too frail to go to church on Sunday morning, but just well enough to go for a joy ride Sunday afternoon.
- Monday — God will accept a broken heart, but he must have all the pieces.
- Tuesday — If Christ is the way, why waste time traveling some other way?
- Wednesday — Many a man who is a big bug at the office is just an insect at home.

'Put school in mothballs for a while'

Wayne

Dear Editor: The Wayne-Carroll school board must make a decision in the next few weeks as to the future of the elementary school at Carroll. In a guest editorial titled, "Let's Keep Our School," the Carroll Community Club presented their arguments in favor of maintaining the school. I can appreciate their interest in keeping the school, but there are other taxpayers in District 17 who also must help pay the bill.

For that reason, the citizens of District 17 should know some other facts that the school board should consider in making their final decision:

1. Due to the declining enrollment, the elementary school in Wayne has the facilities to absorb the 33 Carroll pupils without any problem.
2. The Carroll pupils are now being bussed weekly to Wayne for their library and physical education classes.
3. All children receiving special help are already being brought to Wayne daily.
4. At present the school nurse, music teacher and principal must travel to Carroll. They are paid for their travel expense.
5. A custodian is paid for keeping two classrooms clean.
6. Two cooks are paid to prepare the noon lunch for 33 children.

To summarize these facts: By bussing the Carroll elementary students four more days per week to a modern school building which is able to handle the additional enrollment, the cost of $40,000 for remodeling the Carroll school, salaries for two cooks and one custodian plus the cost of heating and lighting could be saved.

Why not put the Carroll school into mothballs for the present until the women of the district start taking vitamins instead of "the pill"? Then there will be time to remodel it and make use of its facilities. — One Who Speaks for Many.

'Wayne's looking pretty shabby'

Wayne

Dear Editor: My son was here with his family visiting two weeks ago and quite early Sunday morning we were driving down Main Street from the north. There weren't any cars on the street and my son said, "Mom, you know something? Wayne is beginning to look pretty run down and shabby."

I told him how hard some people have been working to get a face-lift for the town, and he said, "It surely needs it." — Dorothy Parenti.

'It's an honor'

Wakefield

Dear Editor: I wish to thank The Wayne Herald for selecting me as a member of the 1973-74 all-area basketball team. This was a great honor and privilege to be one of this group.
