W-C Board, Teachers Near End of Salary Negotiations

Tentative agreement has been reached on salaries to be paid teachers in the Wayne-Carroll school system during the 1974-75 school year.
Irvn Brandt, chairman of the school board's negotiating team, and Ted Blendorn, chairman of the Wayne Education Association negotiating team, announced Thursday that they have agreed on a base salary of $7,175 for the coming school year.
The base salary tentatively agreed upon is $375 higher than the present base of $6,800.

The salary schedule which will be considered for approval by the board proposes no changes in the present four per cent increase in salary for each year of experience or in the present five and a half per cent increase allowed for each nine hours of graduate credit, Haun said.
Complete details of the salary agreement, will be announced following official board ratification, said Haun.
The two negotiating teams have been meeting periodically for the past three months in an effort to come to an agreement on salaries to be paid certified employees of the school district. They had earlier established March 15 as the deadline to complete negotiations, then moved that date to April 10 when they were unable to complete negotiations.
Haun said he has not determined exactly how much more in salaries the proposed agreement will cost the school district if approved by the board. He noted that the equivalent of 65 fulltime teachers will be affected by the salary agreement.

USIA Head To Address Graduating WS Seniors

James Keogh, director of the United States Information Agency and a former Omaha newsman, will be the speaker for Wayne State College's spring commencement Monday, April 15.
About 200 seniors and graduate students are candidates for degrees, to be awarded at a 7:30 p.m. ceremony in Rice Auditorium.
Keogh attended Wayne State University in 1938, worked at the Omaha World-Herald staff as a reporter from 1938 to 1948, then became city editor from 1948 to 1951.

JAMES KEOGH

Moving to Time magazine in 1951, Keogh worked as a writer, contributing editor, associate editor, senior editor, assistant managing editor and executive editor.

His book, "This Is Nixon," was published in 1956. During the 1968 presidential campaign he was chief of research and writing for Richard Nixon. He served as special assistant to President Nixon, 1969-70, was a freelance writer, 1971-72.
The president nominated Keogh to head the U.S. Information Agency on Jan. 1, 1973.

A native of Platte County, he graduated from Humphrey High School in 1932.

8 Students Rank High in German Test

Mrs. Inge Atkins, Wayne High School German instructor, received notice last week that eight of the 35 WHS students who took the national German tests in February scored above the 90th percentile.
Those students are Phil Koeber, Wayne, 96; Lori Losh, Wayne, 94; Kevin Hansen, Carroll, and Ann Owens, Wayne, 93; Kris Nedergaard, Wayne, and Jo Tomrdle, Wayne, 92, and Lee Ann Richardson, Wayne, 91.
Twenty-nine of the 35 local students scored above the 60th percentile, Mrs. Atkins added.
Five of the top-ranking students have applied for the trip to Germany which will be awarded one Nebraska student on the basis of test score and grade point average. Trying for the trip are Koeber, Schmoldt, Ann, Kris and Lee Ann.
Last year, Lisa Lesh from Wayne High School, was state winner and spent a month in Nuremberg.

Seymour Named WS Head

WAYNE STATE'S new president, Dr. Lyte Seymour, talks with reporters after being named to that post Saturday morning.

Dr. Lyte Seymour, interim president at Wayne State College for just over a year, was named college president Saturday morning.
Dr. Seymour, 51, has been temporary president of the college since March of last year when former president Dr. William Brandenburg's resignation took effect.
Vice president for academic affairs before becoming temporary president, Dr. Seymour was named to the post by the board of trustees of the state colleges during their regular monthly meeting at Wayne State Saturday.

Dr. Seymour, who initially was not a candidate for the post, said a petition signed by faculty members at Wayne State helped change his mind to seek the president's job. The petition sought to have the board change its stand of naming an interim president who would not seek the post of permanent president, he said.
He also noted that his year of experience as head of the college led him to believe he can make contributions to the school.
Dr. Seymour was one of four final applicants for the post, all of whom went through the screening process after applications were received from persons throughout the country. The other three applicants were from outside Nebraska.
A longtime resident of Wayne, Dr. Seymour said in a press conference after being named to the post that the type of education offered at Wayne State may change greatly in coming years. See Seymour, page 5 is "Young America. Lead the Way! Help. Preserve good laws. Change bad laws. Make better laws." Programs and activities will be directed toward the youth of our nation, who comprise nearly one-half of our population.

This year's Law Day has four specific aims: To convey to youth a deeper knowledge, understanding and appreciation of the law and legal process; to examine areas where the law has failed to provide equality of individual rights, especially for minority groups and alienated youth; to provide a realistic conception of the potential for change within the legal process, and to encourage support of the legal system and institutions and to develop a desire to participate in the democratic process.

Activities are now being scheduled in counties across the state for the last week of April and first week of May. These See Law Day, page 5

More Weekend Workshops Slated at WS

Additional weekend workshops are on the Wayne State College Schedule for the third term. Scheduled by success of the first weekend series.
Loren Kamish, director of continuing education, said several new topics are included in the added workshops.
Also, he said, six weekend classes concerning specific learning disabilities — currently being offered — were scheduled for a second run in third term and summer, and most of them already are filled. Two additional SLD topics also are on the summer schedule, titled Syntax and Semantics, June 28-30, and ed in Columbus at the Holiday Inn April 26-27, and concluding a month later, May 25. Dr. Robert Lemcke of the Wayne State education faculty is in charge. Two senior or graduate credits. Selection, Care and Use of Modern Household Appliances, on campus May 3-5, taught by Mrs. Eena Adams of the WSC home economics faculty, two credits.

Think Metric, a workshop designed to help teachers, manufacturers, business people get acquainted with the metric system, first was scheduled May 17-19. That one filled immediately, and another session, May 24-26, also filled rapidly.
As a result, off-campus class in Think Metric are scheduled in Omaha June 28-30, Columbus July 12-14, and O'Neill August 19-21, all for two credits and in

Winside Teacher Offered Principal's Job at Allen

Randall Shaw, vocational trades and industries instructor at Winside High School, has been offered the job as head of the career education program and school principal by the Allen school board.
According to Allen superintendent-Gail Miller, if Shaw signs the contract, he will receive $13,300 a year to coordinate the school's new career education program as well as become the school's first principal in two years.
Shaw, who taught at Colorado for three years before moving to Winside in 1972, received his bachelor's degree in education and master's in industrial and vocational education at Wayne State. Currently he is completing a master's in guidance and counseling at Wayne State. He also has done graduate work in school administration at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
Monday night the board members selected Shaw from five other applicants, Miller said. As a result of the new position, the job of assistant superintendent, now held by Garland Mills, will be eliminated, Miller said. Mills,

Salary Hikes For Employees Council Item

Cost of living hikes for all city employees in Wayne will be one of the subjects local city councilmen will take up during Tuesday night's regular meeting.
Councilmen will vote on passing an ordinance which would give each employee a 5.5 per cent increase over his base salary.
Also scheduled for discussion: an ordinance which would permit sale of beer on Sundays, the agreement between the city and Emphas, Inc., for sale of electricity for heat at the industry's plant on the east edge of the city, an ordinance boosting the salary of the director of the Senior Citizens Center from $350 to $400 a month and setting of a date for a public hearing on the request by Richard Korn to take over the license at the Nu Tavern now held by him and his brother.

MRS. DONNA NELSON

Dixon Woman Named Clerk

A Dixon woman has been hired as Dixon's town clerk and treasurer to replace former town clerk Lowell Saunders.
Mrs. Donna Nelson will start in June, the town board voted Monday night. Presently she is Concord's town clerk, taking over for Richard Kramer. Earlier this year Kramer replaced Norman Anderson, who resigned.
Saunders, whose term expires this year, is one of three persons running for two positions on the Dixon town board.

Many Favor Downtown Remodeling, Some Say It's Unnecessary

By NORVIN HANSEN
A disappointingly small number of readers responded to The Wayne Herald's latest Speak Out survey, but the majority of those who did are in favor of renovating the downtown business district.
A total of 33 readers filled out the forms printed in the newspaper asking readers their opinion on whether the downtown area should be remodeled to make it more attractive. Twenty-two of those favored renovation, 11 opposed it.
The number of readers taking part in the survey was about a third the number who participated in other surveys conducted by the newspaper in recent months.

22 YES, I think changes need to be made in the downtown business district to make it a more attractive, appealing part of the community.
11 NO, I don't think any changes are needed in our downtown business area. The shopping district looks fine like it is.

Comments by those in favor of some type of remodeling of the downtown business district often centered on the need for getting rid of the large variety of signs and replacing them with uniform signs throughout the shopping area. Others mentioned the need for additional parking space, the need for improving the fronts of many of the buildings and the need for businessmen to emphasize the beauty of their old buildings instead of trying to hide it under plastic signs.

Those who opposed remodeling commented that the shopping area looks fine the way it is now. Others said they opposed it because they were afraid local tax money would be used to pay for any improvements or businessmen would hike their prices to pay their share of the work.
The survey is a timely one, since an Omaha architectural firm is currently conducting a study on possible ways the shopping area could be improved. The firm is studying large photographs of buildings on both sides of Main Street from First to Fourth, talking with businessmen to get ideas about what they would like to have done to the business district and studying such things as parking facilities and traffic patterns. The firm will make a preliminary report to a local group interested in downtown renovation within the next few weeks, presenting the group with an architect's drawing of what the area could look like if a remodeling project were undertaken.

Following are some of the comments made by readers taking part in the survey.

PRO
"I think you should have better parking in the business district. I get tired of driving around, trying to park. Sometimes I get discouraged and go to Sioux City to shop as you can always find parking there."
"I'm with you 100 per cent on the idea of bringing down all the junky advertising signs. A tasteful sign flush with the buildings — preferably in one style throughout the town — could do wonders. Anyone doubting it, visit Palm Springs, Calif. I did 15 years ago and have never forgotten its beauty."
"I think any good citizen is proud and/or concerned about his home town. Thus, any possible improvement could be considered a personal investment and should be encouraged."

"I feel that it would be costly, yet it might help. And besides, many of those buildings aren't that old. If a few stores between Third and Fourth Street would do it, that would also help."
"Take those old two-hour parking signs down. No one can relax and shop for fear of a ticket, especially at Christmas time."
"I think it is going to be very sad to have one grocery store in downtown Wayne, and a lot could be done in getting rid of the stores."
"There is much beauty in the older buildings on Wayne's Main Street. See Remodeling, page 5

WSC Children's Show Is 'Really Neat'

"It was really neat," according to a couple of area youngsters overheard discussing the Thursday-night performance. And who, after all, is more suited to administer children's theater critique than a child?

"The Emperor's New Clothes," presented last week at the Wayne State College Ramsey Theater, was the 16th annual children's show to be presented by the WSC theater department. An estimated 5,000 persons saw the Charlotte Coopering play, noted Dr. Helen J. Russell, director.

The story, which is something of a parable, finds Zar and Zan, a pair of free lance jesters, intent upon adventure. Their search takes them to the Street of the Royal Weavers, where they plot to aid the miserable craftsmen who live there. This involves exposing the evil ways of haughty Han who uses his power as the Emperor's minister to keep the weavers in constant fear and poverty.

By pretending to weave a wonderful cloth which only those worthy of their positions are able to see, Zar and Zan involve everyone in a ridiculous game of pretense. For, of course, no one will admit he cannot see the emperor's robes which have been fashioned from this marvelous, mythical material. And the emperor, pretending like everyone else to be able to see the beautiful clothes, parades conspicuously through the streets.

At last, a child who is not yet wise enough to be so foolish, exclaims that the emperor has no clothes on, and all in the village are set to laughing at themselves. The weavers are returned to their positions, and Zar and Zan set off in search of another foolish town for their next adventure.

The WSC production was staged in an oriental setting, simple yet elegant, which looked like it had been torn right out of a child's colorful story book. Costuming, especially in the case of the emperor, did not do justice to the beautiful sets, and makeup in most cases was over apparent to those seated in the front half of the theater.

Exceptions to this were Han, a gorgeous creature played by Greg Black, and Mary Harrison as the empress, an exquisite character whose pure beauty stole the hearts of the audience. The performances of these two were as flawless as their appearance.

Zar, played by Ed Havlovic, and Zan, portrayed by John Stark, were the stars of the show and although both actors have given better performances, their festive "balloony" in "Emperor" provoked constant delight. Especially charming were the dance like antics and amusing physical contortions they achieved in the process of "getting an idea." These scenes were particularly complimentary to Havlovic, whose on stage movements displayed cat-like grace and quiet.

Joel Miller's portrayal of the vain and foolish emperor was excellent, and his parade through the village was especially outstanding.

Generally, the show was an enchanting break from reality.

Others in the cast were Jackie Rupp as Tsen, Mike Scheidt as Ling, Annette Botlard as Mong, Neil Lawton as Fah, Sam Reynolds as the gong boy, Noel Rennerfeldt as the general, Katie Batenhorst as the child, Suzanne Gould as the old woman, Suzanne Roeppke, Harold Grant, Rick Pippitt and LeAnn Parmenter as weavers, and Lori Adams, Deb Holmsstead, Becky Miller and Connie Morrow as Citizens.

DIARY OF AN UNBORN CHILD

DIARY OF AN UNBORN CHILD

OCTOBER 5 — Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet, I am as small as a seed of an apple, but it is I already. And I am to be a girl. I shall have blond hair and blue eyes. Just about everything is settled though, even the fact that I shall love flowers.

OCTOBER 19 — Some say that I am not a real person yet, that only my mother exists. But I am a real person, just as a small crumb of bread is yet truly bread. My mother is. And I am.

OCTOBER 23 — My mouth is just beginning to open now. Just think, in a year or so I shall be laughing and later talking. I know what my first word will be: MAMA.

OCTOBER 25 — My heart began to beat today all by itself. From now on it shall gently beat for the rest of my life without ever stopping to rest! And after many years it will tire. It will stop, and then I shall die.

NOVEMBER 2 — I am growing a bit every day. My arms and legs are beginning to take shape. But I have to wait a long time yet before those little legs will raise me to my mother's arms, before these little arms will be able to gather flowers and embrace my father.

NOVEMBER 12 — Tiny fingers are beginning to form on my hands. Funny how small they are! I'll be able to stroke my mother's hair with them.

NOVEMBER 20 — It wasn't until today that the doctor told mom that I am living here, under her heart. Oh, how happy she must be! Are you happy, mom?

NOVEMBER 25 — My mom and dad are probably thinking about a name for me. But they don't even know that I am a little girl. I want to be called Kathy. I am getting so big already.

DECEMBER 10 — My hair is growing. It is smooth and bright and shiny. I wonder what kind of hair mom has.

DECEMBER 13 — I am just about able to see. It is dark around me. When mom brings me into the world it will be full of sunshine and flowers. But what I want more than anything is to see my mom. How do you look, mom?

DECEMBER 24 — I wonder if mom hears the whispering of my heart? Some children come into the world a little sick. But my heart is strong and healthy. It beats so evenly: top-tup, top-tup. You'll have a healthy little daughter, mom!

DECEMBER 28 — Today my mother killed me.

TV Notebook

By Larry Turner

If the beautiful food you see on TV commercials gives you a complex about the grub your family eats, don't feel too bad. The TV variety is produced for its fine appearance and is probably inedible. The scoop of ice-cream (which would quickly melt under the studio lights) are probably lard. What you think is boiled rice is never a sticky, glass mass of starch because small stones are used instead of rice.

The cake made from the advertised mix is bigger, lushier and lighter looking than yours because layers are split and three halves are used to make one cake, which is sprayed with moisture to give a fresh, shiny look before photographing.

TV shows and commercials all look better when you're watching one of our sensational new color TV sets with automatic time-tuning—solid-state components and all the other latest features. Stop in and look 'em over!

Trojanettes Beat Pender

Sophomore Kathy Tullberg raced to first in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and tied for first in the 50-yard dash to lead Wakefield past Pender, 63.37, in a dual track meet Tuesday.

Junior Rita Taylor scored first in the shot and discus while senior Cindy Keagle won the long jump and 80-yard hurdles.

Wednesday afternoon Wakefield will host Winside girls in a dual.

Norfolk Wins Meet

Norfolk Catholic captured the 13 team Howells invitational junior high wrestling meet last Saturday, scoring 79 1/2 points.

Winside finished fourth in the meet with 49 points, Wayne 10th with 21.

Undeleted Ed Morris, 14.0, won the 106-pound division for Winside; also winning from Winside was LaVerle Miller, 12.2 pounds. Miller's record is 10.4.

Taking second for coach Doug Barclay was Tom Anderson, 82 pounds, and Randy Wilks, 98 pounds.

Bud Meyer and Kelly Hansen of Wayne finished second for coach Steve Hix. Meyer wrestled in the 90-pound class while Hansen competed in the 130-pound division.

Egg Hunt Saturday

Carroll will hold its annual Easter egg hunt Saturday afternoon from one o'clock in the town park. The hunt, sponsored by the Carroll Community Club, is under the direction of Mrs. Dennis Rhode.

Mrs. Day Hosts

Sunshine Home Extension Club members met Thursday with Mrs. Roy Day. One guest, Mrs. Emma Hicks, joined the sixteen members at the meeting.

Gilbert Kraflman read "Tradition Beckons, Senator Withdraws Holiday Laws," and Mrs. Armos Echenkamp, health leader, read "Coming Disease, Warning Cough."

Plans were made for the May 1 guest day meeting, after which the group will not meet until September.

12 Allen Students Earn A Grades in 3rd Quarter

Twelve Allen High School students earned all A grades during the third quarter of classes.

Seniors led the group with seven getting A grades. Juniors and freshmen had two each with perfect grades and the sophomores had one.

Receiving A grades: Seniors: Melodie Davenport; Diane Fahrenholz, Kim Jackson, Kendra Linafeller, Sue Peterson, Karen Schultz, DeAnn Troth.

Juniors: Lesa Carpenter, Trudy Matlock.

Sophomores: JoAnne Roberts, Freshmen: Lori Erwin, Lori VonMinden.

Wakefield Girls Stater Is Selected

Ruth Bressler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Bressler of Wakefield has been chosen to represent Wakefield High School at Girls State in Lincoln this June.

Alternate is Joan Elizabeth Gustafson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berneal Gustafson, Wakefield.

Ruth's school activities have included Pep Club, Drama Club, annual staff and girls glee. She is a varsity cheerleader and has participated in volleyball and track three years, earning letters in both.

At Wakefield Covenant Church Ruth is a member of Hi-League, has taught Bible school and is president of the senior choir.

Joan is a member of Pep Club, Drama Club, National Honor Society and the Nebraska Council of Youth, and is student council secretary and class treasurer. She also belongs to girls glee, band, triple trio and varsity choir, and serves as accompanist for other musical groups.

Joan is an active member of St. Louis Lutheran Church and the Lutheran League. She has served as church organist since 1971, accompanies the junior high church choir and sings with the senior church choir.

Wakefield Girls Staters are sponsored by the Wakefield American Legion.

Miller Seeking 1-Year Contract At Allen School

Contract talks with Allen School superintendent Gail Miller are continuing after he asked the school board Monday night to withdraw its offer of a contract for two or three years in favor of a contract for one year.

Miller, who has been superintendent since 1971, said he prefers a one-year contract. "If this community would feel that my ideas of progress were not the same as the ideas of the majority of patrons, I would not want them saddled with me as their superintendent for two or three years," Miller noted.

Miller, who is helping to draw up a career education program at the school, pointed out that "as long as the needs of a segment of our school population are not being met, I will be moving for curriculum and staff changes."

Salary was not discussed, Miller said.

Winside Hires Police Chief

A 20-year-old Logan, Ia., man has been hired as Winside's chief of police on a part-time basis.

Mark Hervey, who lives in Wayne, took the job last week to replace Warren Jacobsen, who quit the first of the year. The job pays $3 an hour.

Mayor Vernon Hill said Hervey will become full-time in May when he completes his first year of police training at Western Iowa Technical College in May. Hervey also attended the University of South Dakota at Vermillion.

Hervey's wife, also of Logan, Ia., is a junior at Wayne State, majoring in accounting.

The couple intends to move to Winside this summer.

Remodeling

which goes unnoticed. I would hope a downtown improvement plan would serve to enhance the individual design of each building, rather than to camouflage it behind a veil of pastel plastic. A sense of unity could be achieved, however, by having businessmen agree to keep all signs flat to their buildings."

"Face-lifting, store improvements, customer parking, up-dated individual merchandising - all desperately needed."

"The total downtown area must be considered. Sidewalks, streets, utilities, lights, parking (on and off streets), traffic pattern, etc."

"Only if the businesses don't pass on the costs of construction to the shoppers through higher prices for their products."

"And the change should be implemented as soon as possible."

"At one time the thought was to close Main Street for two or three blocks and build an open downtown mall. Why not go one step further and enclose parts of Main Street and provide building space for new business or expansion of old business in the downtown area? This would be similar to the Omaha Westroads. Maybe they would drive 30 to 60 miles to Wayne to shop in something comparable. No matter what is done in the downtown business district, it would be a great improvement to the community."

CON

"The shopping area is adequate. Changes would be nice, but an expense to the businessmen which is felt passed to the consumer."

"The business area could be improved by carrying a larger variety of merchandise. "Why spend taxpayer's money? Employers and employees should leave their cars home, or park outside downtown area."

"During the last few years, Wayne's business district has gone through some remodeling of store fronts and improved lighting. Why does Wayne always have to have such big city ideas? Why do we have to have another out-of-town agency look us over for another costly fee? If they suggest a mall, will we build such a silly thing? Instead of hiring this firm, the city could be using this money for purchasing available space for city parking lots. The city has already let some close-in property slip away."

"We and many more farmers moved to Wayne not to have our tax money spent to fix up the businessmen's store fronts, etc. Who came out to the farm from Wayne to beautify our front yards? I looked the store fronts over as I drove through Wayne and most all of them have nice brick fronts. Widening the car parking south of the hospital and north of the auditorium up to the sidewalk would be a better way to spend our tax money."

"Your question deserves more than those few lines on the coupon. I think most merchants have improved their businesses and not much more needs to be done. I do think Wayne expects too much from the merchants. I doubt a week goes by that someone isn't asking for a donation. I have neighbors going to Norfolk and Sioux City to do their shopping, yet they expect Wayne merchants to support everything. Last you think I'm a merchant, I'm not. I'm 75 years old."

OBITUARIES

Bert Pinson

Funeral services were held Monday at Seattle, Wash. for Bert Pinson, 95, father of Mrs. Mildred Carlson of Allen. He died Wednesday.

Before moving to Washington in the 1940's, he farmed east of Emerson.

Other survivors include his widow, Etnel, and several other sons and daughters.

Anton Olsson

Funeral services for Anton Olsson, 60, of Concord, are set for 2 p.m. today (Monday) at the Evangelical Free Church, Concord. Olsson died Friday at the Park View Haven Nursing Home, Coleridge.

The Rev. Delton B. Lindquist will officiate and burial will be in the Concord Cemetery. Pallbearers are Frank Noelle, Henry Noelle, Merideth Johnson, Harris Dahlquist, Carsten Graverhold and Martin Blohm.

The son of Ola and Johanna Pehrson Olsson, he was born March 27, 1889 at Arbo, Ossia Skaine, Sweden. On July 26, 1913 he was married to Hilma Marie Johnson at Sweden. The couple came to the United States in 1919.

He farmed near St. Edwards for 15 years, near Laurel for ten years and near Martinsburg for 16 years before retiring and moving to Concord.

Preceding his death were two sons. Survivors include his widow, two sons, Glen H. Olson of Stanton and Harry R. Olson of Coleridge; two grandchildren, one step grandson and two great step grandchildren, and one brother and two sisters in Sweden.

Mrs. George Robey

Former Wayne resident, Mrs. George Robey, of Fremont, died there March 31 at the age of 68 years. Helen E. Loomis was born at Craig Oct. 14, 1905.

A graduate of Wayne State College, she taught school at Inman, Albion, Cedar Bluffs and Kennard, and resided in Wayne and Craig before moving to Fremont in 1940.

She was united in marriage to George P. Robey June 25, 1945. Mrs. Robey was a member of the Fremont Garden Club and the Greater Omaha Iris Society.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at the Bader Funeral Home in Fremont with the Rev. George Krebs officiating. Pallbearers were John Mitchell, Paul Bartlett, John Underwood, Hank Patrick, Elmer Ross and Tom Barlets, and burial was in the Memorial Cemetery, Fremont.

The Rev. John Epperson officiated at funeral services Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Wakefield Christian Church for Ivar Carlson of Wakefield. Carlson died Wednesday at the Wakefield Hospital at the age of 69 years.

Surviving as honorary pallbearers were Per Peterson, Bryan Johnson, Harvey Henningsen, Harley Bard, Ellis Johnson, Paul Soderberg, V.H.R. Hanson and Pat Murphy.

Ivor Morris

Funeral services for Ivor Morris of Marengo, Ia., formerly of Carroll, were held March 31 at the Zion Congregational Church, Carroll, with the Rev. Gail Axen officiating. Morris died last Wednesday at the Colonial Manor Nursing Home in Middle Amana, Ia. where he had been a patient since March 11.

Law Day

include talks and discussions in schools and organizations, special church observances and presentations over radio and television.

Swartz, associated with the legal firm of Olds and Swartz, said he is still working on programs and activities for Wayne County's observance of Law Day. Those activities will be announced later, he said.

Swartz has been practicing law in Wayne for nearly two years, moving to Wayne from North Platte where he was a lawyer for about a year and a half after graduating from law school.

Everyone knows gasoline and alcohol don't mix. But, alcohol and pills are perhaps as volatile.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. George (Evelyn) Huey of Marengo, Ia.; one grandson, John Huey of Denver, and one brother, L. E. Morris of Norfolk.

Firemen Answer Two Calls

Winside Volunteer Firemen answered two calls during the week.

On Saturday, March 30, they were called to the Bud Miller farm, six miles south and 1/2 mile east of Winside to extinguish a grass fire. Miller was pushing when he noticed the fire around 3 p.m.

Approximately 6:15 p.m. Tuesday firemen were summoned to the Winside De Hy Plant one mile south of Winside to put out a fire.

De Hy employees were burning remains of old hay stacks when the wind changed causing the fire to get out of control. No damage was reported.

Confused about voting wards, districts?

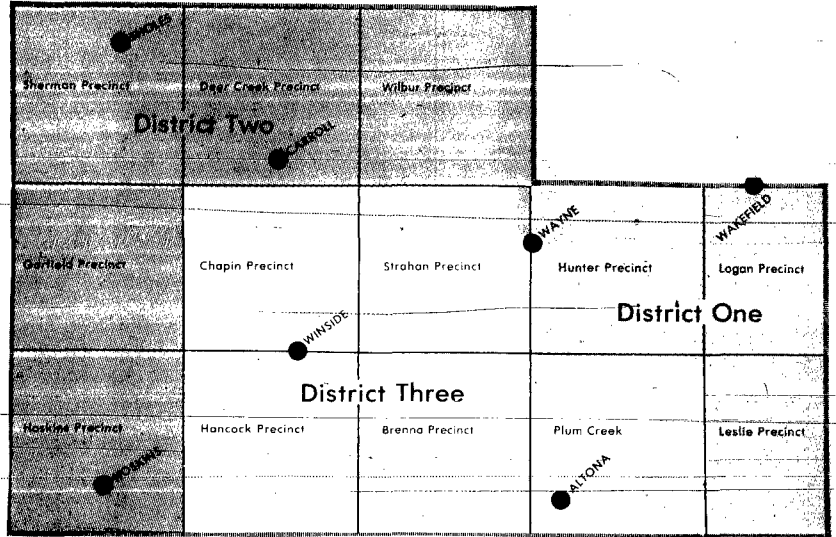

This may help

HERE'S AN uncomplicated map showing where the voting ward lines are in the city of Wayne. In addition, it shows where the county commissioner district borders are — with district one (Joe Wilson) covering all of the first and second wards, district two (Ken Eddie) covering the third ward and district three (Floyd Burt) covering the fourth ward. The ward lines, more complicated than the former division of the city into three voting areas, were drawn up after the 1970 census showed the city's population over 5,000. That enabled the city to go to four wards by becoming a first class city. The complicated ward lines are an attempt to have equal population in each ward. The city was formerly divided into three wards — with everything south of Fifth Street in ward one, the area east of Main in ward two and the area west of Main in ward three. In addition, the city formerly was all in the first commissioner district. Portions of the city were put in all three commissioner districts to make each district fairly equal in population.

Wayne County voting districts

THIS IS THE WAY the voting districts now exist in Wayne County. District one (Joe Wilson) covers the precincts of Leslie, Logan and Hunter. District two (Ken Eddie) covers all of Hoskins, Garfield, Sherman, Deer Creek, Wilbur and a small portion of Strahan. District three (Floyd Burt) covers all of Plum Creek, Brenna, Hancock, Chapin and most of Strahan. Parts of the city of Wayne are in all three districts, a change made a few years ago in order to have approximately the same population in all three districts. The work districts — the areas the commissioners are responsible for in their day-to-day duties — are still the same as before the voting districts were changed. District one covers all of Leslie, Logan, Plum Creek, Hunter and Strahan. District two covers Wilbur, Deer Creek, Sherman and Garfield. District three includes Brenna, Hancock, Chapin and Hoskins. What that means is that quite a few people in the county — those living in Hoskins Precinct and the western portion of the city of Wayne, for example, vote for one county commissioner even though they are served day after day by another commissioner.

Rural Delivery

By Al Smith

A closer look...

By Norvin Hansen

THERE'S quite a bit of confusion about what county-wide zoning is all about, judging from some of the comments made at Tuesday night's meeting in Winside.

Rural zoning, as I see it, is simply a way to help assure that development and changes in the use of the land in a county take place in something of an organized manner. It's a way county residents can plan for the future, looking down the road 15 or 20 or 30 years in hopes that what happens in the county happens in such a way that it benefits as many people as possible.

Explaining what would take place from here on out in Wayne County if we went ahead with rural zoning might help more people understand what it's all about. Here are the steps:

—Appointing a county planning commission, probably one with heavy representation from the rural areas throughout the county.

—Preparing a comprehensive plan (showing how various pieces of land could be used to gain the most benefit) and zoning regulations (stipulating what is and isn't permitted at various places throughout the county).

—Holding public hearings on the comprehensive plan to give area residents an opportunity to object to specific parts.

—Adopting the comprehensive plan.

—Holding the public hearings on zoning regulations, again so area residents could voice dissatisfaction.

—Setting up some method of making sure the plan and regulations are followed.

—Keeping the plan and regulations up to date.

Those steps should also make clear that anything adopted by the county would be adopted only after considerable opportunities were given to the public to object to anything in the comprehensive plan or zoning regulations which they didn't like. If you thought your rights as a landowner or taxpayer were being threatened by what was in the plan or regulations, you would have plenty of chances to tell the county commissioners exactly that. If your complaints were justified, it's reasonable to assume something would be done before anything was officially adopted.

SOME specific examples might also help to explain what rural zoning is all about.

Suppose you had a nice farm home along one of the county roads. There's nothing which says another farmer or some outside corporation couldn't come in and build a large feedlot across the road from you. You would probably soon realize that your home was no longer as valuable as it was before the feedlot moved in.

Likewise, there's nothing which says a housing developer can't come along and build several houses close to your feedlot. That would be fine, except the homeowners might later file a nuisance suit against you because of the health hazard your feedlot poses to them. It's possible a court might order you to close down your feedlot or move it somewhere else.

However, if you have rural zoning, you can avoid problems such as these because it will be spelled out how different pieces of land in the county could be used. Zoning regulations might say, for example, that a housing developer can't build houses within a half mile of existing feedlots, avoiding hard feelings, complaints or suits. Those regulations might also say, for example, that feedlots can't be built within half a mile of existing housing, avoiding many of the same problems.

CERTAINLY, there are some bad points to rural zoning.

Some rights of the landowner would have to be given up. He may no longer be able to do just as he pleases with his land after zoning is adopted. He may find that he might have to build or expand according to regulations. He may find that some uses of his land might not be permitted.

But I doubt if those regulations would be that big of a problem. After all, every landowner and taxpayer would be given a chance to take part in drawing them up. And there will be specified ways to have them changed once they are in effect. There also would probably be ways regulations and restrictions could be relaxed in exceptional cases. Also, there would be problems involved with some people saying to hell with the regulations and going their own way in spite of them. That, however, isn't a fault of the zoning, but of the way it is enforced. Zoning would have to be enforced so some powerful or influential people couldn't sidestep it.

ALL IN ALL, I think rural zoning would be beneficial to the county. The residents would be gaining more through protection than they would be losing through regulations and restrictions. If you feel differently, please feel free to write a letter or a guest editorial. There are certainly some things I've not touched on which might need airing before we go any further in the direction of county-wide zoning.

SQUEEZED OUT: Janet Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hansen, of Carroll, recently earned an accounting and management degree from the CE School of Commerce in Omaha. She is working with an Omaha auto supply firm. Gene Bigelow, education teacher at Wayne State, is a candidate for president-elect of the Nebraska State Education Association's third district. Also seeking the post are Gary Osborn of Randolph and Mrs. Kay Schilling of Walthill, public-school teachers. Results of the mail balloting to be released in May. Lesa-Carpenter of Allen High earned an excellent rating in interpretation of prose during the district speech contest held at Wayne State late in March.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

So they said

"(The paper crunch is putting the) squeeze on nation's newspapers as publishers try to cope with diminishing newsprint supply. Visible effects: smaller papers, both in size and number of pages, shrunken comics and display ads, multi-colored editions (green, pink, salmon, yellow, or whatever color is available), tighter editing of news copy, smaller photos. Three main factors affecting newsprint supply, says Roger Williams, executive secretary and manager, Oregon Newspaper Publishers' Association, are: (1) Newsprint has smallest margin of profit among all wood products, so producers tend to put capital into improvements and new plants that give better returns; (2) High cost of meeting rising environmental protection standards, plus uncertainty over new restraints, has stalemated plant development; and (3) General expansion of U.S. economy has increased demand for printed news and ad space while total newsprint production has slightly decreased." — Burlington Northern publication.

'Cost of living increase should be fair to everyone'

Dear Editor: I would like to take this opportunity to inform you and the citizens of Wayne with some facts about the proposed ordinance for a cost of living increase and proposed ordinance 778 (now tabled) dealing with salary schedules for city employees.

Proposed ordinance 778 is being rewritten at this time to correct some irregularities. There is no hurry to pass this ordinance because it will not effect anyone until August 1. It must also be put on a budget for the next fiscal year. A great deal of consideration should be taken before passage of this ordinance because it should take care of all raises, promotions and longevity increases for many years to come. It could also take care of any future increases for cost of living increases.

The ordinance to be considered on April 9 by the council will have a great deal of impact on the salaries of city employees. It could make a considerable difference in the increase received by all employees. For instance, an employee receiving base salary of $300 a month would receive an increase of $16.50 while a department head receiving $1,000 a month would receive $55. Should one employee receive more than three times as much money as another for cost of living?

My stand on this issue has been, and will be, that all employees be treated equal as far as cost of living is concerned. I find the following points need to be considered before passage of this ordinance:

1. City administrator, clerk-treasurer and city attorney should not be considered because their salaries are set by council each year and cost of living built into the salary.
2. That the base salary of all employees should be totaled and averaged. Example: payroll for 42 employees $24,425.00; average of $581.50 each; cost of living 5.5 equals $31.99 each. Isn't this more fair for all employees to receive $31.99 each than for one to receive $16.50 and another $55?
3. The cost of living according to U. S. Labor statistics office for Feb. 1, 1973 to Feb. 1, 1974 was 10 per cent increase, the city is talking 5.5 per cent. Is the city being "big-hearted" to the employees? With an increase of $32 a month, they are still losing $26.15 a month over a year ago.

Wayne How has your employer treated you in the past year? — Vernon Russell, 1st Ward Councilman.

'Our private line would be shorter'

Dear Editor: In reference to your editorial on the possibility of our own short-line railroad (April 4), I suggest that our own short line would be a good deal shorter than the Great Plains short line.

If Wayne and Wakefield determine that it would not be economically feasible to operate all the way to Dakota City, we could operate from Wayne to Wakefield to Laurel, making contact with the Burlington Northern in Laurel. If, after a survey of grain elevators and other shipping between Wakefield and Dakota City we determine that that operation is feasible, so much the better. But the point is that in either case our initial cost would be far under that of the Great Plains short line.

Also, if we run only from Wayne to Wakefield to Laurel we might use a truck equipped with railroad wheels as a locomotive. In addition we might be able to operate the railroad almost exclusively with part-time help. There are so many possibilities that a study should begin at once. — Samuel B. Hepburn.

(Editor's Note: The editorial referred to drew attention to the effort by people in the Seward and Superior areas who are trying to raise a total of $300,000 through selling stock in order to operate the railroad between the two communities. The line is more than twice the length of the line between Wayne and Dakota City which will be abandoned if the Interstate Commerce Commission gives its approval.)

'Thanks for dinner'

Dear Editor: We would like to thank the Second Guessers for the banquet honoring athletes and cheerleaders Monday evening. The time and effort put forth shows the interest which the community of Wayne has in its athletics. We appreciate your support in our programs. — Wayne High Coaches, Athletes, Cheerleaders.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

VOTERS at Elkhorn turned down a proposal to spend $1.2 million on a school building during a bond election Tuesday. The proposal lost by a 52-253 vote. The bond issue was defeated at both the Tilden and Meadow Grove polling places, with Meadow Grove voting 208 to 32 against and Tilden voting 324 to 221 against. The total vote of 785 was termed a heavy turnout by county officials.

JAYCEES at Pender will hold their first annual flea market April 27-28 at the Legion Hall. The event will include for sale such things as craft items, baked goods, ceramics, candles and the like. Proceeds from the event will go into the Jaycees' scholarship fund.

TWO RESIDENTS of Dixon County, Philip Knerl of Ponca and R. V. Hanson of Newcastle, will participate as delegates in the first annual Archdiocesan Pastoral Council Assembly for the Archdiocese of Omaha on April 19-21 at Omaha.

More than two years of planning by a committee of lay people, priests and others have gone into preparation for the three-day session which will attract more than 400 representatives from both the rural and urban areas of the Archdiocese.

KAY MUMM of Wahoo has been appointed area home economist for Antelope, Pierce and Knox Counties. A 1973 graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, she replaces Mrs. Kerrol Skokan. She joins Mrs. Judith Ghorashy in serving the three-county area.

MEMBERS of the United Methodist Church in Plainview last week okayed plans for a new church to replace the one completely destroyed by fire late last year.

Estimated cost of the property, site development and general construction is $204,792. Church officials hope construction can begin within the next 30 days.

PLANS ARE UNDERWAY to hold an antique aircraft race from South Sioux City to Scottsbluff and back sometime in August or September.

The 1,000-mile race is to be limited to planes of 1949 vintage and older.

Sponsoring the race are the Kilberg brothers of South Sioux City, who recently purchased a reconditioned 1943 Steerman biplane.

WAYNE OETKEN has been named president of the volunteer firemen organization at Emerson. Other officers named last week: Marvin Pallas, vice president; James Otto, secretary-treasurer; Mort Henderson and Duane Strong, captains; Jim Sherlock, fire chief; Gayle Moody, assistant fire chief.

WORK is expected to begin this week on Highway 13 in the eastern part of Pierce County. The project is expected to be completed near the end of the year, with traffic detoured on Highway 98 to Wee Town until the job is done. Cost of the 9.2 mile project is about $2.1 million.

Planning for A Vacation

LOOKING OVER a profitable future set which would be perfect to take along on any vacation are eight Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Meyer of rural Wakefield, eighth and final winners in the Vaagabond Vacation Promotion sponsored by 77 Wayne businesses. Sweeping from the set is Larry Turner, owner of Swanston TV, where Meyer was selected as one of the preliminary winners for the final drawing last week. The couple may spend two nights at any Ramada Inn or Holiday Inn in the United States, Canada or Mexico and will receive $67.50 in spending money — all compliments of the businesses who put on the two month promotion. The couple has six months in which to decide where to take their vacation.

High School Education Is Offered Area Adults

Adults interested in qualifying for high school equivalency examinations or in reviewing specific areas of study are invited to contact Mrs. Stanley Willis of Wayne for information regarding the area adult education program.

In the past two and a half years, between 20 and 30 area adults have received their diplomas through the General Educational Development (GED) program, according to Mrs. Willis.

The GED program receives federal funding and there is no charge to students.

Although some students attend regular evening classes, many study on their own. All students work at their own pace. Mrs. Willis notes that she has text books available to lend to students.

High school graduation examinations are given monthly at the Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College at Norfolk.

Mrs. Willis attended a workshop in Norfolk Saturday for instructors working with various adult education programs. Over 100 attended the workshop sponsored by the State Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Mrs. James Sellon from Western Iowa Technical College in Sioux City, spoke on the GED program.

NU Directory Is Available

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Human Resource Inventory, a listing of members of the NU community with specialized skills that can be employed outside the university, has been published by the NU Political Science Department and Extension Division.

Dr. Peter A. Shocket of the science department, who developed the resource inventory, said it is aimed at "bridging the gap between the university and the community by providing a central document which people in communities throughout Nebraska can refer to when seeking information on specific topics.

If someone wants information or consultation on topics such as environmental deterioration, the director will pinpoint those people on the university staff who have done work in the area, as well as provide the names, addresses and telephone numbers of these people.

Major categories included in the resource directory include public finance, government, public relations and management, and general problems such as physical, environmental, marketing and accounting.

Funds for the publication were provided through a federal grant. Copies of the directory will be available through county extension agents, city and county clerks, public libraries, citizens' groups and state agencies throughout Nebraska. The directory can also be obtained by writing or calling the Office of Internal Education of the NU Extension Division.

Firestone the people tire

SAVE GAS WITH OUR STEEL RADIAL 500 TIRES

STEEL RADIAL 500 tires can give you up to 30 extra miles per tankful!

This gas savings is based on a car with 20-gallon fuel capacity and currently averaging 15 miles per gallon. Naturally, your savings will depend on how much stop and start driving you do. Firestone's radial cord body design in this steel-belted tire enables the tire to roll more easily than other types of tires. This means less energy is needed to move the tire. Result — an important gas savings for you! Steel Radial 500 tires — original equipment on many of the finest new 1974 cars — also give superb road handling, excellent traction and are GUARANTEED FOR 40,000 MILES!

Firestone Steel Radial 500 tires are guaranteed to give you 40,000 miles of treadwear in normal passenger use on the same car. If they don't take your guarantee to any Firestone Store or participating Dealer, we'll replace the tire with a new one and give you credit for the mileage not received based on the then current adjusted price (approximate national average selling price) plus Federal excise tax. A small service charge may be added.
