By SARA ESTES

Shortly after Mrs. Val Peterson moved into the old Nebraska Governor's Mansion in 1947, the state fire marshal condemned the third floor.

"The place was a firetrap," said the former Nebraska First Lady. "The third floor, which contained the ballroom, only had one stairway."

Now living with her husband in Wayne, Mrs. Peterson resided at the old mansion during her husband's three two-year terms as governor of Nebraska from 1947 to 1953.

"The lower part of the mansion was in great need of redecorating when we moved in," she said. "The two living rooms hadn't been redecorated since 1923."

Mrs. Peterson had new carpet and wallpaper put in the first and second floors of the mansion the first two years she was there. The last major improvement done to the house while the Petersons lived there was the remodeling of the kitchen. Mrs. Peterson said that project was so successful that much of the kitchen equipment was taken to the new governor's mansion when it was built.

Mrs. Peterson remembers the day the new electric range was installed in the old mansion's kitchen.

"It was the day the Shrine Circus was to perform that night in the Coliseum," she said. "We were to have an early dinner and the cook was preparing dinner when the oven insulation on the new range caught on fire. The mansion filled with smoke and the firemen had to come out to put it out."

When the Petersons got to the circus, Mrs. Peterson said one of the state senators sitting behind them asked, "Why didn't you let the darn place burn down?"

The old mansion was in bad shape, according to Mrs. Peterson.

"It was just a very old house," she said. "The wood was rotten and things kept falling down in the mansion. If we had a cold winter wind the dining room cupboards stood straight out from the wall and snow often came into the room."

During her husband's terms as governor, Mrs. Peterson said she fought off the purchase of various private homes that were offered for sale for a governor's mansion, "simply because not one was built for such a purpose or could have been remodeled without more cost than it would have been worth."

It was not until the Petersons were in Denmark, where Peterson was a United States ambassador from 1957-61, that a new governor's mansion was planned and built.

Mrs. Peterson said she corresponded with Mrs. Victor Anderson, then Nebraska's First Lady, and helped develop the plans for the new mansion.

Born Elizabeth Howells Pleak in Omaha, Mrs. Peterson attended elementary school and high school in Iowa, where her family had moved. She went to a girls' school in Illinois before attending the University of Nebraska where she graduated with a degree in education.

She met Val Peterson when they both were teaching school in Carroll and married him in 1929.

The daughter of a retail food dealer, Mrs. Peterson said she never dreamed she would someday be a governor's wife.

When her husband wrote to her from overseas during World War II saying he was going to run for governor of Nebraska when he returned, Mrs. Peterson wrote back asking, "What about me?"

Peterson replied that he thought the least a wife could do was to "keep her feet out of her mouth."

Now at 70, Mrs. Peterson laughs and

Teachers at Winside To Get Salary Hike

Teachers at Winside will receive a $450 increase in their base salary plus an additional half per cent increase in their salary raises for each year of teaching experience, the school board agreed Monday night.

The base salary for the 1974-75 school year will go from $6,500 to $6,950 and the experience increment will go from three and a half to four per cent of the base salary.

The four per cent increment for every nine hours of preparation will remain the same.

Winside teachers last week approved the salary schedule for the coming year.

Cooks and custodians also will receive a pay increase for the coming school year. The four part-time cooks — Ethel Hamm, Evelyn Hoeman, Bonnie Frevert and Mrs. Ken Wagner — will receive $2 per hour under the minimum wage law until Jan. 1 when their pay will go up to $2.10 per hour. The head cook, Dorothy Stevens, will receive $3.170.

High school custodian Wall

Hamm will get $6,430 while elementary custodian Andy Mann will get $6,125. Ethel Hamm, part-time custodian, will receive the same hourly wage as the part-time cooks.

The board revised the salary for Norma Brockmoller, elementary secretary, from $3,100 to $3,200 because her previous salary was not up to the minimum wage law standards.

Four teachers have said they will not return next year, according to superintendent Don Leighton. They are Calvin Stumher, Mary Stumher, Roger May and Randy Shaw. Stumher taught high school math for three years. Mary Stumher taught fifth grade for one year, May taught business education for three years and Shaw taught trades and industries for two years.

The four teachers bring the total resigning at Winside to seven. Earlier Jean Swanson, Sharon Scott and Sharon Shaw handed in their resignations.

During the meeting, the board verified the successful teaching experience of Mrs. Nancy Powers for a teacher certificate. She teaches English and is head librarian.

The board also reaffirmed its decision of last spring not to have a junior honor guard at baccalaureate and commencement exercises May 12-13 at the high school gym.

Cut Chin Doesn't Stop Violinist

As they say in show business, "The show must go on."

The concert went on in this case, when 11-year-old Eric Grossman of Norfolk tucked a violin against an eight-stitch gash in his chin Monday night and led the Wayne State College orchestra in one of its feature numbers.

The gash, said Eric's mother, Mrs. John Grossman, resulted when he fell about 14 feet off the Episcopal Church Sunday. Luckily, the tumble did not injure the sixth grader's hands or arms, but the cut happened to be on the left side of his chin, exactly where a violin is placed.

But no matter, Eric played anyway, joined by three other Norfolk youngsters who took the limelight in a stirring rendition of Vivaldi's concerto for four violins and string orchestra. The others in this quartet: Colette Grossman, 13-year-old eighth grade sister of Eric; Stephanie Forster, 16-year-old tenth grad.

Merger Idea Won't Get on Election Ballot

Voters in the state won't be asked whether they want to combine the state colleges with the University of Nebraska system.

State senators Tuesday turned down by a 23-18 vote Senator Terry Carpenter's attempt to give the consideration top priority to the merger question could be put on the November ballot. Carpenter reportedly said after the failure that he will not push for special consideration for the proposal, which he made several weeks ago.

Senator Herb Nore of Genoa reportedly said the proposal needs much more consideration by the senators before they can give the voters a chance to decide the issue.

City to Advertise for Full-Time Engineer

By NORVIN HANSEN

The city of Wayne will advertise for a full-time engineer to see if it would be more economical than having a local engineering firm serve as city engineer.

Council agreed 7-0 Tuesday night to advertise in trade publications after reading a letter from the city administrator saying the city had paid $79,082.98 to Consolidated Engineers and Architects of Wayne for work the firm has done over the past 42 months.

Noting that amounts to almost $1,883 monthly during that period, Fred Brink told the council in the letter that "Wayne is ready for a full-time city engineer."

The city could hire a full-time person for that job for between $12,000 and $14,000 a year, Brink told the council.

He noted that engineering and building inspection services being provided the city in recent months has cost just over $2,100 a month. Hiring a full-time person to take care of both tasks would save the city about $1,000 each month, he said.

Brink also noted that the city needs engineering constantly on street, sidewalk and sewer projects, assuming that the city is going to continue growing.

"Brink said he will put the subject of hiring a full-time engineer on the council's April 30th agenda, giving councilmen two weeks to consider making that move.

The information in Brink's letter to the council may be just the ammunition councilman Jim Thomas has been looking for in his attempts to terminate the city's contract with Consolidated Engineers, an Omaha firm with offices in Wayne.

Thomas succeeded last August in ending that contract, but the council voted in November to re-hire the firm after Brink recommended accepting the firm's proposal. Brink had said at that time that many experts agree it is cheaper in the long run to contract for engineering, architectural and legal services than it is to take bids on individual projects.

Brink said then that the local firm was very familiar with the city's history and would be able to provide much information for engineering work cheaper than if different firms or individuals were hired as projects came up.

Sunday Beer Sale in City Is Step Closer to Reality

Sale of beer on Sunday in Wayne moved a little closer to reality during Tuesday night's council meeting, but there are still a couple hurdles ahead before sipping suds on the Sabbath becomes possible.

City councilmen took up a proposed ordinance which would permit taverns to sell beer seven days a week, but they will have to read the ordinance at least one more time — possibly two — before they get down to voting on it.

Opposing putting the proposed ordinance to a vote without any additional readings were Keith Mosley, Darrel Fuelberth, Ivan Beeks and Harvey Brasch, a large enough number to stall a vote on permitting Sunday beer sales until at least the next council meeting.

Brasch said he had heard some "minor" objections to the proposed ordinance, but he was the only councilman to say what the public reaction had been to the proposal.

Pushing for the ordinance is Andy Manes, pizza house owner who argued again Tuesday night that many people are going out of town on Sundays to drink beer.

Those people will continue going to such communities as Laurel and Dixon if Sunday beer sales aren't allowed in Wayne, he said, and Wayne might as well get their business as let it go elsewhere.

He has said he wants Sunday beer sales because a large number of his customers on that day like to drink beer with their pizza. He told the council that a few years ago another person asked for and received the right to sell liquor on Sundays because he serves diners on that day. He apparently was referring to Les Lutt, owner of a steak house who began serving dinners on Sundays after the council changed the city law to permit him to sell liquor during certain hours on that day.

That split vote was one of the few recorded Tuesday night, something unusual considering the numerous split votes at meetings in recent months.

One other split vote came during consideration of a 5.5 per cent cost of living increase for all city employees.

That salary hike for each employee — determined by his base salary — was okayed by a 7-0 vote, but not until councilman Vernon Russell sided against the other six members present on the question of putting the salary increase to a vote without any additional readings of the ordinance. Russell voted with the other councilmen in approving the hike after he failed to stall a vote for at least one more council meeting.

Russell had argued that the cost of living raise for each employee should be the same, determined by totaling all the base salaries and giving employees a 5.5 per cent increase of the average.

As it is, employees will receive a 5.5 per cent hike over their own base salary, something which will cost about $1,400 a month more in salaries. The increased cost to the city would have been about the same had the council gone along with Russell's proposal.

Councilmen earlier in the evening voted 8-0 to pay Roy Korth $300 for damages and inconvenience caused by construction of water and sewer lines on the north side of his home on Oak Drive.

Korh had argued that he wanted $500 because the city had not obtained easement rights across his property before beginning construction — of the

Keogh Unable To Speak at Graduation

James Keogh, who was scheduled to address the Wayne State College commencement Monday, has had to cancel, but he hopes to be here for the summer graduation, President Lyle Seymour said Monday.

Keogh, director of the United States Information Agency, called from Washington to express regrets that an unexpected change in appointments would keep him from visiting Wayne.

He is a former Wayne State student who went on to a news career with the Omaha World-Herald and Time magazine, then served as an assistant to President Nixon.

Substituting as commencement speaker will be Val Peterson, no stranger to the public stage through his long career in politics and foreign service. He has been the WSC graduation speaker on previous occasions.

The ceremony will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Rice Auditorium. All seats are open to the public, except those reserved for the graduating class of about 200.

Several honors will be presented by the college and the Wayne State Foundation. The Rev. Paul Reimers, campus Lutheran pastor, will give the invocation and benediction, and the college band will provide music.

Wayne Man Presented Award

Willis Meyer of rural Wayne is this year's Stockman Award recipient, presented during the annual banquet of the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association Saturday night at Wayne State College.

Meyer, who farms about 320 acres eight miles southeast of Wayne, started farming in 1946. He now has between 300 and 400 head of cattle and some hogs.

A crowd of about 700 people attended the banquet, one of the biggest audiences ever to turn out.

Guest speaker J. D. Anderson, prior to the award presentation, talked on building leadership.

"Everyone today is in search of a happy life, looking through books to find a solution," he said.

But Anderson believes it takes only five essential qualities to be happy as well as successful. Physical well-being, balanced mental health, social well-being and financial security are just four of his goals. The fifth one, he pointed out, is the most sought after — spiritual conviction to give "our life direction."

Others present at the dinner included Wayne mayor Kent Hall, association officers and Gary Chappman of Producers Commission Co., Sioux City, who served as toastmaster.

Kuska pointed out that the National Livestock and Meat Board plays a major role in the promotion of beef across the nation. He said the organization advises the public of the health aspects of eating beef as well as beef's contribution to the economy. The board does this, he explained, through its national advertising program.

Before Anderson's talk, Mel Kuska, member of the National Livestock and Meat Board, presented Tom Gustafson, president of the feeders organization with

'Okay, Kids, Go Find Them!'

PARENTS GIVE a push to their youngsters as Joyce Yates tells them to go find the hidden Easter eggs during Sunday's hunt at Bressler Park. More than 100 youths turned out for the annual event, sponsored by members of Chi Omega, Sorority and Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity at Wayne State College. About 6,000 candy eggs were hidden for the youths to seek out, with some of them earning the kids special prizes. Prizes also were given away for best costumes and most eggs found in each age division. Local businessmen contributed more than $100 to help make the Easter egg hunt possible.

DeAnn Geewe Is Honored

Two courtesies were held recently for bride-elect DeAnn Geewe of Norfolk.

Miss Geewe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Geewe of Wakefield, will be married in April 27 rites to Doug Hellmers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hellmers, Norfolk, at Wayne Redeemer Lutheran Church.

About a hundred guests attended the March 29 tele. at Redeemer Lutheran Church, hosted by relatives of the bride. Mrs. Gerald Otte conducted the program which included several readings by Mrs. Dennis Otte and a vocal number with guitar accompaniment by Judy Kurn.

Club Studies Dale Evans

Members of the Minerva Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Stanley Morris.

Mrs. Joe Corbit presented the study on women, telling about the life of Dale Evans.

Miss Evans, according to Mrs. Corbit, was born Frances Octavia Smith and loved to sing even as a child.

Her first marriage, at age 14, ended in divorce, leaving her with a son, Tgm, to support. Conflicting careers caused her second marriage to also end in divorce, and she finally married Roy Rogers, a widower with three small children.

The couple had only one child of their own, Robin, a Mongoloid, about whom Dale Evans' book, "Angel Unaware," was written.

Mrs. Corbit noted that Roy Rogers and Dale Evans adopted and raised several other children of varying nationalities and lost three of their children to death.

The next meeting of the Minerva Club will be at 2 p.m., April 22, with Mrs. Mildred Jones.

Nancy Bingham Enters Nursing

Nancy Bingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bingham, Dixon, has been accepted by the Omaha Medical Center School of Nursing and will begin her studies there Sept. 3.

Miss Bingham graduated in 1972 from Laurel High School and has attended the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the past two years.

Herfels Honored

Surprise guests in the Wilmer Herfel home, Dixon, Sunday evening for the couple's 40th wedding anniversary were Harold Paul of Sioux City, Ia.; the Lamont Herfel family and the Larry Herfel family, Lawton, Ia.; Elsie Brawner and Tony Allen; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Paul and family and Harold Smith, Wakefield, and Mrs. George Rasmussen and Randy, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dempster and family, Dixon.

Guests Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lehner of Dixon.

Aid Meet Held Friday

Eight members and one guest, Mrs. Frieda Stelling, attended the Friday afternoon meeting of the Altona First Trinity Lutheran Ladies Aid.

Mrs. Charles Stelling led devotions. Mrs. Ernest Siefken presided at the business meeting and Mrs. Val Damm reported on the visit to the Wayne Care Centre.

Mrs. Harris Heinemann, Mrs. Anton Pfeueger, Mrs. Merlin Reinhardt and the Rev. Eugene Juergensen were honored with the birthday song.

Hostesses were Mrs. Siefken and Mrs. Charles Stelling.

Open House Set Next Week for 90th Birthday

An open house reception to mark the 90th birthday of Mrs. Dave Theophilus of Wayne will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday at the United Methodist Church, Wayne. All friends and relatives of the long-time Wayne resident are invited to attend the informal fete.

Mrs. Theophilus was born in 1884 to Josiah and Margaret Jane Thomas on a farm near Home, Kan. She grew up in Kansas and married David Theophilus at Salina on June 15, 1922. The couple came to Wayne in 1941, and prior to that had lived in Carroll, Randolph and Iowa.

Mrs. Theophilus has two sons and two grandsons and three great grandchildren.

Dr. Don K. Theophilus is a veterinarian, and with his wife, Frances, makes his home in Norfolk. Claire Theophilus, an engineer for the Washington State Highway Department, and his wife, Cloe, make their home in Bellingham, Wash.

Grandson David Theophilus and his wife, Carol, have two children, Matt and Nicole, and make their home in Sioux Falls, S.D., where he is employed by the weather bureau. Her other grandson, Dr. Don L. Theophilus, is a dentist in Norfolk. He and his wife, Anita, have a six-month old son, Brandon.

Ernest Lundahl Open House Held Sunday at Wakefield

About 200 guests attended the Ernest J. Lundahl open house, coming from Taylor, Ark.; Sioux City, Ia.; Omaha, Oakland, Wayne, Emerson, Laurel, Allen and Wakefield.

The Wakefield couple observed their golden wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon with a reception at the Wakefield Legion Hall. The event was hosted by the couple's children.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lundahl of Wakefield registered guests and arranged gifts.

LeVern Lundahl of Wakefield served as master of ceremonies for the 2:30 p.m. program. Earl Lundahl read the history of the couple's life and Mrs. LeRoy Lundahl of Emerson accompanied group singing.

Ronnie Lundahl played a trumpet solo. Kenny, Ronnie and Mark Lundahl sang, and Kenny Lundahl played guitar selections. Devotions were given by the Rev. Robert Johnson, pastor of Salem Lutheran Church.

Mrs. LeRoy Lundahl and Mrs. Earl Lundahl cut and served the cake, baked by Mrs. Marloie Gustafson of Wakefield. Bonnie Paul and Eva Conner of Wakefield poured and Mrs. JoAnn Jackson of Taylor, Ark., and Mrs. LeVern Lundahl served punch.

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary served the lunch.

Lundahls were married April 10, 1924, at Sioux City, Ia. Their wedding attendants included Mrs. C.R. Ash of Wakefield, who was also present for the anniversary observance.

The couple farmed south of Wakefield until 1952 when they retired and moved into town.

Their children are LeRoy, Earl and LeVern Lundahl and JoAnn Jackson. They have nine grandchildren and three step grandchildren.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Wilbur Heft with 10 members.

May 2 meeting will be with Mrs. Ray Loberg at 2 p.m. Members will answer roll call with a plant or seed exchange.

Officers Chosen

New officers, named at the April 4 meeting of the EOT Club, are Mrs. Cyril Hansen, president; Mrs. John Gathje, vice president; Mrs. Harry Hoeldt, secretary; and Mrs. Dale Clausen, treasurer.

Poem in Sunday Paper

A haiku, written by Mary Stevenson of Omaha, appeared in Randy Jaroch's poetry column in the Sunday Omaha World Herald Entertainment section.

Miss Stevenson, 23, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Stevenson of Wayne. She received her BA in history from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., in May of 1973, and will enter the University of Minnesota Graduate School of Library Science at Minneapolis in June. She is presently working at St. Joseph's Hospital in Omaha.

The haiku is a 17-syllable Japanese verse written in three lines. Five syllables each appear in the first and third lines, and seven in the second.

Miss Stevenson's poem reads:
Gentle April breeze
Brush my winterhardened cheek
With your soft fingers.

Fete Given

Members of the Wayne Evangelical Free Church WMS in the home of Mary Headlee to quit Friday evening.

Afterward the group adjourned to the home of Mrs. Charles Kudrna for a surprise baby shower honoring Mrs. Larry Ostercamp. They were joined by surprise guests, Mrs. Marvin Brown and Paula of Grand Island, the honoree's mother and sister.

Mrs. Kudrna led devotions and Mrs. Virgil Kardell read a poem, "Baby." Mrs. Headlee had charge of games. Lunch was served by WMS hostess Mabel Sundell.

Next regular meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., May 3 with Mrs. Kardell.

New Officers Take Over At Monday AFS Meeting

Officers and committee chairmen who took over at the Monday evening meeting of the American Field Service Committee are Mrs. LeRoy Simpson, president; Mrs. Herbert Niemann, vice president; Robert Porter, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Peterson, secretary; Mrs. Larry Schull, chairman for exchange speaking engagements; Mrs. Robert Sulherland and Mrs. Cyril Hansen, home selection; Mrs. Max Lundstrom, projects, and Mrs. C.F. Maynard, publicity.

The group met with 13 members in the home of Mrs. Simpson. Teri Bigelow, coordinator for the AFS student carnival held at the school Friday, reported that over $400 had been cleared with the event. Robert Porter noted that the treasury contains about $700, but another $200 will have to be collected in the next couple of months in order for the school to participate in the exchange student program during the 1974-75 school year. Monika Plehn, AFS student at Wayne High School from Germany, will be in Rapid City April 18-25 for a short term student exchange program. Persons who find they have unwanted books or magazines after spring cleaning are asked to call Mrs. Lundstrom or Mrs. Simpson who will pick them up for the annual AFS book sale in the fall. Next AFS committee meeting will be May 3.

Cooper, Mrs. Patty Simonsen and Mary Ann Adair, all of Pender, Barb Young of Lincoln and LaDonn Grieser, St. Paul's Ladies Aid members served. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Jodi Bena, Connie Tonjes, of Sioux City, Ia., Mrs. Cheryl Malmborg and Karla Slutzman of Lincoln and Mrs. Nancy Trimble. The couple will make their home at 2701 North 70th Street in Lincoln.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY AND THE CITIZENS OF WAYNE

We are sure that all of you know what Wayne State College means to the City of Wayne. Its annual payroll of $1,640,000 for faculty and staff plus the local spending of its 1,800 students can't help but make a significant contribution to the economy of Wayne. Do we take all of this for granted or do we feel an obligation to, in some way, do our part to help the college with those things that can't be done with tax dollars? What percentage of your sales are directly or indirectly attributed to the presence of the college in Wayne? Do you rent rooms, apartments or houses to college students or staff? Would you or your business suffer if it weren't for the college? We believe that the obvious answer to these questions would be a resounding "yes."

What can you do to show your appreciation? You can help by making a contribution to the Wayne State Foundation, a non-profit, tax-exempt corporation that was organized in 1961 with the sole purpose of assisting the college. This organization has a budget this year in excess of $20,000 that must be raised from alumni and others interested in the college.

Nearly $14,000 of the budget is ear-marked for scholarships, $2,000 for recruitment, $1,000 for public relations plus $800 for on-campus institutes that will bring hundreds of people to Wayne. We believe that the decrease in enrollment has been halted partially as a result of the varied activities of the Foundation.

We know that you will want to help Wayne State to grow and maintain its reputation as a first rate college. You can help by mailing your contribution today to the Wayne State Foundation, Box 1910, Wayne, Nebraska 68787. We will publicly thank all Wayne contributors since September 1, 1973 by listing their names in this space on April 17.

Executive Committee, Wayne State Foundation
Signed
John Carhart, Kenneth Olds, Kent Hall, Adon Jeffrey, Val Peterson, Henry Ley

Eagles' Defense Blanks Wayne, 1-0

Allen's defense left 12 Wayne players stranded on base Tuesday night while the Eagles took advantage of a Wayne error to beat the Blue Devils, 1-0.

Right fielder Darwin Ruback scored the lone run in the bottom of the third after he singled to first, stole second and came home on a pop fly by teammate Neil Blohm. Wayne shortstop Kim Baker appeared to have the lazy blooper but the ball popped out of his glove, giving the Eagles their second win in two starts.

The locals threatened to score when they loaded the bases in the top of the second, but coach Mike Mallette's club couldn't get the hits to drive in catcher Mike Meyer from third. Pitcher Earle Overin and right fielder Dave Hix were on second and first. "You can't take anything away from Allen's defense. They played heads-up ball," Mallette pointed out.

Wayne again left men on bases in the third, fifth, sixth and seventh frames. Their biggest chance came in the top of the last frame when second baseman Paul Mallette hit a line drive to center with Hix on first. But Ruback, again the game-saver, snagged the fly to retire the side and give Wayne its first loss of the season.

Both pitchers — Overin for Wayne and Blohm for Allen — went the distance, with Blohm taking his first win and Overin his initial loss.

The Devils started out the season with a 10-0 blanking of Homer in a five-inning game Monday while starting pitcher Paul Mallette and reliever Dave Hix combined for a no-hitter.

Center fielder Gordie Cook, who went two for three at the plate, connected for a single in the second frame to score the team's third run. Cook knocked in third baseman Rod Turner after Hix came home. Later, Mallette, who scored Wayne's initial run in the first on a double by left fielder Kerry Jech, drove in Cook on a sacrifice.

Wayne bats cooled off in the third inning after Jech slapped a single and stole two bases before coming home on a wild pitch to make the score 5-0.

Catcher Mike Meyer and shortstop Kim Baker unleashed a pair of hits in the fourth that proved in four more Wayne runs. Meyer ripped a single to score Mallette and Jech before Baker's triple brought home Meyer.

Baker crossed the plate on a passed ball. Wayne ended the game with the 10th run in the fifth after first baseman Bill Schwartz doubled and walked home when Homer's pitcher filled the bags and then walked Mike Rehwisch.

The Devils had 11 hits and eight runs batted in. Stolen bases were another factor in the club's victory, with Jech leading the club with three and Cook collecting two. Wayne's pitchers had 12 strikeouts, Homer two.

The Devils, now 1-1, travel to Hooper Logan View today (Thursday) before moving to Wakefield Tuesday. Allen resumes action April 19 at Homer.

Wakefield Girls Beat Winside During Dual

The Wakefield duo of Kathy Tullberg and Cindy Keagle literally wiped out Winside's chances of capturing a dual girls track meet between the two schools Monday as the pair took six firsts.

Tullberg, only a freshman, won the 50, 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchored the winning 880 yard relay team to help give the Trojanettes a 64-36 win over the Wildkittens at Wakefield.

Senior Cindy Keagle took first in the 400, then went to the field events where she captured the long jump and high jump.

Winside's high moments came when sophomore Jill Stenwall continued to break school records in her favorites — shot put and discus.

Jill snapped her own shot put mark of 40-6 set earlier this season with a heave of 42-6. Then she proceeded to throw the discus about her feet further (103-1) than her 1974 record of 101-2.

Sheryl Peterson also got in on breaking records. The sophomore passed her old record of :06.5 in the 50-yard dash with a :06.5 clocking.

Tuesday night Winside will host a triangular with Norfolk Catholic and Wynot. Wednesday Wakefield travels to the Emerson-Hubbard invitational.

Results:

Pool Manager Hired by City

A Wayne State College student, Doug Krecklow, has been hired as municipal swimming pool manager in Wayne for this summer.

Krecklow, hired by the city council Tuesday night, will replace Gary Egler, Wayne State student who managed the pool a year ago.

Salary for Krecklow has not been determined by the council. Krecklow was one of two applicants for the job. Also seeking the post was another Wayne State student, Allen Steen, 20.

Krecklow, 21, will graduate from Wayne State in December with a degree in physical education. From Omaha, he is married. He and his wife, Leslie have no children.

RON COLES

Coles Picked Top Grappler

Heavyweight Ron Coles won the title of most valuable wrestler at Wayne State College for the 1973-74 year.

Teammates elected the senior from Indianapolis, who finished sixth in the NAIA national tournament and had a 24-5-1 record, including a team-leading nine wins by fall.

The team also elected 126-pounder Jim Meyer of Wakefield and 177-pounder George Biszack of Sterling, Ill., as co-captains for next year.

Meyer, a junior posted a 22-3-1 record. Biszack, though a senior academically this year, plans to return next year since he has wrestling eligibility left. He had a 10-7-1 record this season, his first as a regular.

Golf Teams Take Two

Wayne High's golf teams racked up two victories Monday night, whipping Wisner Pilger and Pender at Wisner.

Scott Ehlers led the first team with a 37 for nine holes, while Randy Workman carded a 41, Robin Kudrna shot 42, Tod Bigelow shot 43 and Mark Schram shot 44 for a 207 team total — 37 strokes better than Wisner.

The B squad turned back Pender's A team, 247-267, with Tom Johanson leading the way with a 43. Behind him were Roger Wacker with a 44, St. Prather at 47, Jon Ley at 55 and Norman Brown at 58.

Next Thursday, Wayne will travel to South Sioux City.

WS Women Now 7-1

With a 7-1 record, Wayne State women softballers were scheduled to visit Kearney State Wednesday. They already own two wins over Kearney, the 1973 state champion.

The Wildkitts split with the University of Nebraska Saturday at Lincoln. They had an unusual experience in the first game's fifth inning when a streaker streaked onto the field, romped over to second base and shouted, "you're out." He was appaared in stocking cap, tennis shoes and socks.

For whatever this was worth, the Wayne girls went on to beat UNL, 11-4, on Gary Gerken's four-hit pitching, plus home runs by Lori Tiengen and Cheryl Finke.

Coach G. I. Willoughby used many substitutes in the second game to give them experience. The result: a 7-2 loss, largely due to nine Wayne errors. Brad Thurness was charged with the loss, although she gave up only two hits.

Sunday on the home diamond Wayne beat the University of Nebraska Omaha twice. Gerken again tossed a four-hitter for a 5-2 victory aided by wild UNO pitching which yielded nine walks.

The nightcap gave Thurness a pitching win of 4-2, with fourth-inning relief from Gerken. Each hurler gave a single hit.

3 Records Fall As LH Girls Open Season

Three Laurel High girls snapped three school records during the club's first track meet last week.

Senior Barb Hirschman broke her own high jump record of 4.8 during Tuesday's triangular at Plainview by going 4.9 to win the event. Senior Carol Stark had a 13.3 clocking in the 80 yard hurdles for a fifth place showing. Patti Stark, who won the 880 yard run, ran the event in 2:39.5 to better Carol Stark's 2:48.5 time set last year.

Laurel finished second with 68 points, while Pierce scored 88 and Plainview had 37. Laurel's next meet is April 17 when the girls head to the Emerson-Hubbard Invitational.

Laurel picked up a number of seconds, including Julie Hirschman's 14.6 mark in the broad jump. Earlier she won the 220 yard dash in .30. Others placing second were Deanna Erwin, .065 in 50 yard dash; Kathy Maxon, 1:10.8 in the 440; and the 40 and 800 relay teams in field events. Denise Magnuson was second in a shot put with a heave 31.0.

According to coach Alan Rainbolt, there are 20 girls out for the team, eight of whom lettered last year. They include state qualifiers Deanna Erwin, sprinter; Julie Hirschman, sprints; and long jump; Barb Hirschman, high jump; and Kathy Maxon, 440. Other returning lettermen are Senior Carol Stark and sophomores Anita Eckert, Kaye Thompson and Renee Walling. Assisting Rainbolt is Susan Baech.

The rest of Laurel's schedule: April 23—at Osmond Invitational, 30—NENAC at Randolph, May 3—open.

Third Straight Win

WAYNE HIGHS' gun team made it three years in a row by winning the high school division of the fourth annual Cornhusker Regional trap shot at Norfolk Sunday. The team hit 771 rocks out of 1,000 to capture first. Coming in second with 760 was Allen High School. Three Allen shooters also placed in the individual shoots. Vic Schultz and Rick Chase were second and fourth in the Class C division, for second 100 targets in the division, breaking 53 of 100 rocks. Shooting on Wayne's team were, clockwise from left (totals in brackets), Ken Baier (135), Steen Anderson (156), Randy Pinkelman (166), Lane Ostendorf (170), Steve Jorgensen (154).

Juniors Nip Seniors by 1

The juniors nipped the seniors, 84-83, in overtime to win the season standings in the city high school recreation basketball league Monday night. Playoffs start next week.

Earle Overin, who led with 20, converted one of two foul shots with about two seconds left in the game to put the victory away. The seniors had the game wrapped up when Bill Schwartz hit a two pointer with time just about out. But a quick pass down court gave Rick Mitchell the chance to score, only to be fouled. With no time left, Mitch made both shots to send the game in overtime.

For the seniors, Kim Baker was top scorer with 26. Right behind was Tod Bigelow with 20. The senior's record is 2-1.

In the first game, the sophomores beat the recreation team, 65-55. Rob Mitchell and Monte Lowe led the sophomores with 16 while Gordon Emry had 13 for the recreation squad.

Monday night the sophomores will battle the seniors at 7:30 at the city auditorium before the recreation club tangles with the juniors at 8:30.

4 Overtimes Gives Team 4 Two-Point Win

It took four overtimes for city recreation Team 4 to nail down its third win of the season Tuesday night, a 47-45 win over Team 1.

The game was knotted at 30-all going into the first overtime when the members of the sixth and seventh grade recreation basketball teams pumped in three points in the first OT, two points in the second and four in the third. Finally, Team 4 nipped Team 1 by two points, eight to six, in the last extra frame.

Tim Maier led the winners with 18 points. High scorer for Team 1 was Jay Stollenberg with 21.

Team 2 stays on top of the loop with four wins and two losses after squeaking past Team 3, 21-17.

In the standings Teams 3 and 4 are tied for second with 33 records while Team 1 is last with a 2-4 mark.

Last week Team 1 got its first victory with a narrow 24-23 win over Team 3. In other action, Team 4 beat Team 2, 25-23.

Sportsbeat

By Bob Bartlett

THIRTY THOUSAND dollars is a lot of money to spend for bleachers, for the Wayne High gym. But if you consider how prices are soaring, maybe now is the time to check into buying bleachers before the price goes up even more.

Last week during the Wayne Carroll school board meeting, superintendent Francis Haun said he would check into the costs of seating about 1,800 people in the gym. Haun figured the maximum cost to be $30,000.

According to the superintendent, it will be at least 45 days before more accurate estimates are known. Then the school board can decide which route to take—buy now or wait.

MOST ATHLETES generally agree that having a home court is a definite advantage, both in practicing and playing basketball games.

Wayne High athletes are no exception, but they don't actually have a true home floor advantage.

Since 1964 the Blue Devils have used Wayne State's Rice Auditorium for the majority of their home games, occasionally playing at the city auditorium. The cost has been about $25 per game, according to John Struve, business manager at the college. But that cost will be going "up" this fall. "How much" still remains a question, Struve pointed out.

WAYNE STATE football followers don't have to be reminded of some of the players' abilities, not after Saturday's alumni varsity football game.

The annual rivalry didn't really bring out all the potential the club may have next year—both offensively and defensively—but the defensive plays added a little excitement to the game.

The varsity threw two vertical lines of defensive players at the alumni's shot gun offense. The funny thing about it is that it worked, stopping the alumni dead at the line. Of course, the varsity only used it once—when it was ahead.

The alumni had its chance for a show on the last play of the last quarter. Instead of two single file rows, the team lined up in one row. Not only did it stop the varsity, it caused a turnover.

FOR JUNIOR Stan Lewis, the game was especially fun since he intercepted a pass and ran it back for a touchdown.

The 240 pound defensive end hauled in the ball and legged about 40 yards, helping the varsity to a 22-6 victory.

Just looking at Stan, a top pro prospect already being checked over by the Atlantic Falcons and Dallas Cowboys as well as an independent agent, makes me wonder how the college managed to lure this 6'5" strong man.

According to head football coach Del Stollenberg, when Stan graduated from his Illinois high school he only weighed 190 pounds—stretched across that 6'5" frame.

Michigan University showed some interest in him, Stollenberg confessed, but the interest wasn't mutual. "Stan wanted the smog free air and better country living," Stollenberg noted. Of course, that isn't the whole story. Some strong Wayne State backers also had a hand in bringing Stan to this area.

So far Stan has done a good job for the college football team. Stollenberg is hoping he'll do even better next season when the Wildcats open their 10 game season against William Penn, Sept. 7.

ANOTHER GOOD point about that alumni varsity game was the freedom to move about the field including on it without getting in the way of officials or players. That's the option both Dick Manley, public information director for the college, and I had while shooting pictures. By listening in on some plays, I had a pretty good idea where the next play was going so I just aimed my camera and clicked away.

Wakefield Raps Logan View

Shortstop Doug Soderberg connected for a two run homer and hit a two run double Monday night as Wakefield trounced visiting Hooper Logan View, 14-7.

Soderberg started out the scoring in the first, ripping the were steals by Jerry Munter and Doug Fischer. Each had four.

Pitcher Doug Schwarzen picked up the win on the mound after going four frames and giving up four runs. According to coach Joe Coble, Schwarzen had trouble with his control later in the game and ended up walking five. Keith Siebrandt and Mike Soderberg finished pitching.

After Wednesday night's battle at Bancroft, the Trojans host Wayne Tuesday night.

Maier Finishes 2nd in State

Wayne's only entry in the state junior Golden Gloves tournament finished second in finals action Saturday night. Tom Maier lost a decision in the 132 pound division, during bouts at Hastings.

During semifinals Friday night Maier knocked out his opponent—the only boy to do so during the tournament. Prior to the tournament, Maier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maier of Wayne, had only boxed in six matches.

Nebraska's top-ranking typical white-tailed deer, taken by fire arm, was downed in Dakota County in 1966 by Keith Farenholz of Allen. The rack scored 192 points on the Boone and Crockett Club scale.

A Touch of Winter

LEAVES cling to snow-covered branches after last week's unseasonal snow blanketed much of the county. The snow only lasted about a half a day, though, as warm spring temperatures melted it and added more moisture to the soil. The scene was shot in Winside.

Thurston Man 'Bucks' Winner

A shopper from Thurston, Jim Mueller, won the consolation prize in last week's Birthday Bucks drawing in Wayne. He received $25 in coupons which can be spent in any participating firm by being the shopper present with the birth date closest to the one drawn at random earlier. He was shopping at Sav-Mor Drug when the winning date was announced. Since the grand prize was not claimed last week, it will be worth $400 tonight (Thursday) to the person whose birthday matches the date drawn. A person must be present in one of the participating firms to collect either the consolation or grand prize. If the grand prize is not claimed again this evening, it will climb to $425 next week.

(Continued from page 1) lines. Korth told the council he would consider the city's offer and decide whether to accept it or seek a higher payment. In other unanimous voting the council: —Approved a contract for selling electricity for heat to Emphas's, Inc., which plans to build a plant on the east edge of the city for construction of fiberglass bathroom fixtures. —Okayed hiking the monthly salary of Senior Citizens Center director Joceli Bull from $350 to $400. —Agreed to set public hearings on two liquor license changes for April 30 at 8 and 8:15 p.m. Dick Korn of the Nu Tavern is asking that the license for his bar be in his name only instead of his and his brothers. The owners of D & K Bottle Shop are asking to delete the name of Ken Dahl as one of the owners. The license would be issued just to Doug Finn and Dennis McGonigal, who would operate the business under the name Wayne Liquors, Inc. —Approved an alteration in the construction of the water and sewer lines being built on the south side of Highway 35 on the west edge of the city; the change will cost $389. —Approved requiring a $50 bond from Dan Sherry while he is moving a garage from one plot of land to an adjacent one in the northeast part of the city. —Agreed to permit street superintendent Vern Schultz to try to purchase a road maintainer at an auction at Hubbard. The grader would replace a 1939 model currently being used by the street department. —Agreed to have city attorney Budd Bornhoff determine whether the first ward polling place for the primary election can be changed. Miron Jenness said many elderly and handicapped persons have difficulty climbing the steps at the public library, polling place in past elections. Bornhoff said it may be too late to change this election year. —Approved applying for a Farmers Home Administration grant to pay for developing the city's industrial site on the east edge of the community. A city official said it has not been determined how much the city will apply for, but funds are available to pay for paving, water and sewer work on industrial plots of land.

Businessmen To Be Quizzed On Remodeling

Wayne businessmen will be asked what they think about remodeling downtown when an architect from an Omaha firm visits with them Tuesday. Talking with the businessmen to get their ideas on what could be done to improve the looks of the main shopping area will be Steve Sawyer, architect with Kirkham Michael and Associates. Local businessman Darrel Fuelberth, one of those responsible for getting a preliminary study started on downtown development, said Sawyer will have with him a photographic composite of both sides of Main Street between First and Fourth. The composite will give businessmen an opportunity to see at a glance what the business district looks like and offer suggestions on possible changes, he said. After talking with the businessmen, Sawyer will work with others in his firm to come up with possible plans for remodeling the business district. Fuelberth said. Also prepared will be an architect's drawing showing what the shopping area would look like after a remodeling project was completed, he added. The Omaha firm was hired for the preliminary study after several businessmen contributed $50 to help pay its fee. The city council matched those donations.

Let's Record Our Heritage

Samuel B. Hepburn Says:
My door to door campaign has proven extremely educational because there are so many interesting people in Wayne. I suggest that we begin now to tape record their recollections. Wayne State College already has begun a pilot project and their personnel have offered guidance. If deemed historical, the college library has offered cataloging and storage facilities and the Wayne County Historical Society can help coordinate the activities. Volunteers of nearly all ages can help in the tape recording. This is a project that the community can enjoy now and in the future, and it will bring us all together.

First Lady

says. "As a result, I've had them in my mouth ever since and I've thoroughly enjoyed it."
Mrs. Peterson remembers national issues as being mild during her years as First Lady.
"Most of our struggles involved trying to get things," she said. "It was after the war and things were scarce and slow to arrive. The materials were not too good either."
"We didn't have any children of our own, so we've always used other people's," said Mrs. Peterson. The Petersons brought a Chinese boy over from the South Pacific while Peterson was governor and they helped put him through school at the University of Nebraska.
"There was nothing he wanted more than to become an American citizen," she said. "It took a special act of Congress to make him one, but his friends in Nebraska all wrote to Congress and it was no problem."
An employee who became a good friend of Mrs. Peterson's at the governor's mansion was the cook, Hulda Appell.
"Hulda was frightened at the prospect of cooking at the mansion," said Mrs. Peterson. "She said she didn't know anything but meat and potatoes and pie, and I said that's just what we need."

"Hulda did everything by instinct and was a very inventive cook. She even was resourceful enough to handle Val's spur-of-the-moment lunches with up to 12 people — and with three courses."
During her relatively little spare time as First Lady, one of Mrs. Peterson's favorite pastimes was gardening.
"I planted lettuce and radishes and onions around the rose beds," she said, "and had chive plants, parsley, tomatoes and green peppers in a free strip by the house."
In comparing her experiences as a governor's wife with those as a United States ambassador's wife in Denmark and Finland, Mrs. Peterson said that as an ambassador's wife she entertained much more frequently and to larger crowds.
She said that as an ambassador's wife she also had in some ways a "dire financial problem" because the state department does not support the embassies.
"When we moved into the embassy in Copenhagen in 1957, it needed furniture desperately, but there was no money to buy any," she said. "We didn't have many of the things the average Nebraska housewife takes for granted so we just learned to do without."

Denmark was a "perfectly delightful place to be" when the Petersons were there (1957-61), according to Mrs. Peterson, because the United States was then a very popular country.
However, when Peterson was an ambassador to Finland from 1969-73, the war in Vietnam was a "nasty issue" and Americans were not very popular, she said.
Today, Mrs. Peterson said her husband is busy in Wayne working as a resources coordinator for Congressman Charles Thone. He is on the board of a bank in Wayne, is president of the Wayne State College Foundation and is continually asked to speak at various places, she said.
Mrs. Peterson said she is busy just trying to keep up with him. She is also decorating the home they recently moved into in Wayne.
Because of arthritis, Mrs. Peterson said she is limited much of the time to reading. She said she enjoys warm weather when she can have someone help her with her old love, gardening.
After all of her travels, Mrs. Peterson says she still loves "every inch of Nebraska."
"As a governor's wife, I got to travel all over the state and meet hundreds of people. That's what I enjoyed most about being a Nebraska First Lady," she said.

Local Band Is 2nd at Jazz Meet

Wayne High's stage band won second place in Class B competition during the third annual Midlands Jazz Festival at Midland College last Friday and Saturday.

The local band, directed by Ron Dalton, was one of 65 stage bands and swing choirs from Nebraska and Iowa which competed during the two days of judging.

Winning first place in Wayne High's class was Carroll Community High School of Carroll, Ia. Third place went to Ainsworth.

Twenty-seven groups, first, second and third place winners in three school classes, were chosen, including nine stage bands, nine "stand-still" swing choirs and nine "choreographed" swing choirs.

The first place winners in each of the nine categories performed individually at the winners' concert. The mass band was directed by Dick Grove, president of First Place Music Publications, Inc., Studio City, Calif., who was judge for the bands during the two-day Midlands Jazz Festival. Director of the mass choir was Keith Textor, head of Textor Publications, Inc., of New York City, who was choir judge during the two days of competition.

GINA STUTHMAN

Senior Wins Scholarship

Wayne High's Gina Stuthman is one of 203 Nebraska high school seniors who have been selected as recipients of one-year Regents Scholarships to attend the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The one-year scholarship winners were selected on the basis of results from the Scholastic Aptitude Test given seniors who rank in the top quarter of their high school class.

In addition to having a student named as a scholarship winner, the school had 11 seniors named alternates, an unusually large number, according to superintendent Francis Hawn. It is "especially satisfying" to have that many students rank high enough to earn alternate status, he said.

Miss Stuthman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Stuthman, who farm near Altona. Seventeen years old, she was in the first class to graduate from the parochial grade school at Altona before it closed four years ago.

Teacher Files Suit

A former associate professor at Wayne State College, Robert Brady, has filed suit in Lancaster County district court seeking reinstatement and at least $12,179 for lost salary and moving expenses.

Brady says in the suit he was terminated at the college last year because of "financial exigency" but that a faculty member was hired after he was fired for a salary of $17,000.

He names the state colleges board of trustees as defendant, arguing the board violated his rights due process and contractual rights.

Roscoe Dewey Dempster, son of Thomas J. and Grace Ross Dempster, was born in Dixon County June 27, 1898. He attended rural Laurel schools and Wayne State College.

On March 8, 1927 he was married to Eva Howard at Laurel. The couple farmed north of Laurel until moving into Laurel in 1943. He retired from farming in 1964. Since that time they had spent the winters in Phoenix, Ariz.

He was a member of the Cedar-Veal Country Club and Laurel Development Company, the Laurel Chamber of Commerce and Laurel Masonic Lodge, and had served as elder of the Laurel United Presbyterian Church.

He was preceded in death by one sister. Survivors include his widow, Eva of Laurel; one son, Thomas H. of Labrad, Pakistan; one daughter, Mrs. F. M. (Mary Ellen) Miles of Flagstaff, Ariz.; five grandchildren, two brothers, Oliver of Orchard and Wayne of Laurel; one sister, Mrs. Fern Hadley of Woodburn, Ore.; and several nieces and nephews.

Kevin Lee Schlus

Funeral services and burial for Kevin Lee Schlus, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Schlus of O'Neill, were held there Friday.

Kevin, who was born April 1 at O'Neill, died April 3 after being transferred to an Omaha hospital.

Survivors besides his parents include a brother and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Schlus of O'Neill, formerly of Carroll, and Mr. and Mrs. John Matthews of O'Neill.

Nels Petersen

Former Wayne County resident, Nels Petersen of Fremont, died there Thursday at the age of 73 years. Funeral services and burial were held Saturday at Fremont.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Petersen, he was born March 1, 1901 at Carroll. He farmed near Wakefield for several years before moving to Plerson, Ia. He had resided in Fremont for approximately six years.

Preceding him in death were two brothers, Van and Pete. Survivors include his widow, Lucille of Fremont; two sons, Milton and Don, both of Phoenix, Ariz.; one daughter, Mrs. Bob (Arlene) Friemark of Oregon; one brother, Chris Petersen of California, and two sisters, Mrs. Annie Hansen of Fremont and Mrs. George (Thelma) Langferman of Wayne.

Housewarming Held Saturday

Members of the Town and Country Garden Club and their husbands held a housewarming party Saturday evening for Mrs. Hilda Thomas and family.

Pitch prizes were won by Mrs. George Langenberg Sr. and E.C. Fenske, high, and Mrs. Meta Pingel and Dan Fulton, low.

Members of the club presented Mrs. Thomas with a gift and a carry-in lunch was served.

Following the program the group went to the Andrew Andersen home for a short business meeting.

Plans were made for guest day May 2 at 2 p.m.

Twelve members and Pastor Jordan Arft attended the Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid and LWML meeting Thursday afternoon in the church basement.

"Abide Oh Dearest Jesus" was sung and the LWML pledge was recited.

Pastor Arft led devotions and his topic was "Being Together in Christ."

Roll call was answered with a one cent donation to the penny pot for each verse of the favorite hymn of each member.

All ladies of the congregation are invited to attend the 50th anniversary of the Lutheran Hospital Aid May 7 at Grace Lutheran Church in Norfolk.

Named to the May Altar Guild were Mrs. Ernst Eckmann and Mrs. Dallas Schellenberg.

Earl Anderson and Mrs. Guy Anderson were named to the flower committee.

Seated at the birthday table was Mrs. J. Robinson. Hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Koepke and Mrs. Alvin Jonson.

May hostesses will be Mrs. James Bargstadt and Mrs. Elmer Laubsch.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schroeder returned home from Texas April 3. The Schroeders left Jan. 10 for Edinburg, Tx. Enroute home they visited in the Ralph Harding home, San Antonio, Tx. and in the Bart Bloomer home, Ponca City, Ok.

Searcy: Plan for Bicentennial

DON SEARCY

With the nation's 200th birthday coming up in 1976 there is little time to waste as states, countries and communities start planning how they will join in on the celebration.

According to Don Searcy, executive director of the Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, now is the time to form committees to get projects going.

Searcy, speaking to Wayne Kiwanians Monday, pointed out that the themes of the celebration are Heritage, Festival and Horizon. "It's easy to get people working on heritage and festival themes, but the problem is developing horizon projects," he said.

Heritage projects involve a community's background while festival projects are similar to such things as the annual Czech Festival in Holton projects, however—involve more study, turning an abandoned court house into a museum. It involves reconstructing part of the past or building something for the future that will have significance, he pointed out.

Searcy said two of the state's towns and cities already have qualified to be recognized as a part of the nation's bicentennial.

Wilber and Bellevue have projects which merit a flag commemorating the nation's 200th birthday, and the towns' efforts will become a permanent part of the Bicentennial record at Washington, D.C.

Those communities that have participated in the state's Community Improvement Project might already be a step ahead in developing a program for the Bicentennial," Searcy pointed out.

All that is needed to get recognition and become a part of the nation's bicentennial is to set up a committee, usually composed of eight to 12 individuals representing the multifaceted segments of the community, chamber of commerce, college, a major industry and the like, he said. The committee then lists a program or project, either new or ongoing, that is connected to the bicentennial. If it is approved by the state commission, the application will be sent to the regional office in Kansas City before going to Washington, D.C. Upon approval, the town will receive a bicentennial flag as well as stationery with the bicentennial emblem.

Norris Weible, state director of the Izaak Walton League, and chapter president Glenn Walker attended Sunday's quarterly meeting of the organization's state directors in Columbus. Both men are from Wayne.

Those attending the all-day meeting discussed the state convention slated for Lincoln this summer and heard committee reports.

Cards of Thanks

WE WISH TO THANK all of our friends and neighbors who remembered us with prayers, service, food and expression of love and sympathy. This helped so very much. Amy's family: Jan and Gene Lundin, Suzanne, Peter and Mary Jo, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lundin. a11

A SINCERE THANK YOU to all the kind people who remembered us in our recent sadness with cards, flowers, food, memorials and visits: to Dr. Coe and the hospital staff who made her last days comfortable; to Pastor Johnson for his comforting visits; to the SOS Club for serving the dinners, and to the choir for the message in music. A special word of appreciation to all who remembered us in their prayers. These acts of loving concern have been a big help to all of us. May God bless you. The family of Gladys Mortenson: Marvin Mortenson, Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Holm and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mallum and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tiedtke and family, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Utch and Aron, Erwin Mortenson. a11

I WISH TO THANK my friends and relatives for the visits, cards and gifts during my stay in the hospital. A special thank you to Rev. Niernmann and Rev. Gode for their visits and prayers, and to Dr. Robert Bernhack and the hospital staff, Christine Weierhauser. a11

Deadline Near For Signing Up For Institute

Deadline for signing up with Wayne State College's Scandinavian Summer Institute is nearing — next Monday — but the departure date has been delayed five days, to June 3.
Norman Nordstrand, director, said the later date is intended to accommodate teachers who might like to join the study tour after school is out.
The sixth Scandinavian Institute provides four hours college credit at undergraduate level, and graduate credit also is available. However, it is possible to participate in the tour and classes without taking credits.
Before the June 30 return trip, members of the institute will spend two weeks at a school in Herning, Denmark, three days visiting the nation's capital, Copenhagen, then a week of individual travel in Scandinavia or other countries.
Full information can be obtained from Norman Nordstrand or Dr. Ed Elliott at Wayne State College.
The group will fly from and return to Chicago.

OBSERVATIONS

Is that legal?

This column got squeezed off Monday's editorial page. There just wasn't room for it after giving almost half the page to the maps of Wayne County and city of Wayne in hopes voters will better understand what voting districts and wards they live in.

Leaving the column out was worth it, however. Those maps resulted in quite a few compliments from readers who weren't quite sure exactly where those district and ward boundaries were. If you don't understand where those boundaries are after looking over those maps, there's little we can do to help.

Those maps started us thinking about whether the way the county is divided up into voting districts is legal.

Voters in Plum Creek precinct, for example, are in Floyd Burt's district as far as voting is concerned, but they get their road work done by Joe Wilson.

Voters in and around Wayne are in all three districts — Burt's, Wilson's and Ken Eddie's — but they have their work done by Wilson.

Voters in Hoskins Precinct are in Eddie's district, as far as voting is concerned, but Burt is the one who is responsible for the roads there.

In other words, many voters are casting ballots for commissioners who aren't even responsible to them. They vote for one person, but they have to go to another person to voice any complaints they have about the way things are being run in their area.

That doesn't sound right to us.

Those are misunderstandings

There are quite a few people who don't understand that any major remodeling or face-lifting of the downtown business district would not be done at the expense of the taxpayers.

Many persons who oppose remodeling of the downtown area do so because they think they will have to pay for it. That's not correct. Any major project in the business district would have to be financed by the businessmen who would benefit from them. We doubt if the present city councilmen or any future ones would try appropriating tax funds for such things as remodeling business fronts and the like. They would quickly hear plenty of complaints — valid ones — from the taxpayers if they did so.

Others oppose any downtown development project because they think business owners will hike the prices for their goods and services to offset their expenses. This also is untrue. Businessmen who invest money to make their places of business more attractive and appealing do so with hopes they will be able to pay for those investments through increased business. Businessmen have enough to think they could hike their prices probably wouldn't be around for very long. They would soon find that their customers would be going someplace else to make their purchases at more reasonable prices. Competition assures the consumer that most businessmen won't try billing their customers for remodeling.

What apparently started many people thinking that the taxpayer would foot the bill for work in the downtown business district was the council's decision to spend several hundred dollars to help pay the architectural firm for a preliminary study on what could be done to the area to make it a better place to shop. It can be argued that the council's decision was wrong, but we don't think it was. If a small amount of tax money can be spent to make the business district look better, we think it is correct to do so. Any project which results in a more appealing, attractive shopping area is going to benefit everybody in the community — businessmen as well as all the other residents — and it seems logical that the general public should contribute something toward making that project possible.

We're not sure exactly what's going to happen now that the preliminary study is underway. We hope businessmen get together and do something to turn our downtown shopping area into something which they — and everybody else — can be proud of.

'Sorry, there's no deadline on the cruelest tax of all'

By CONG. CHARLES THONE

After the April 15th deadline for paying federal income taxes, you and I and all other citizens will continue each day paying what amounts to another federal tax.

I'm speaking of inflation, the cruelest tax of all. It bears down heaviest on the old, the poor and those on fixed incomes.

There are increasing signs that inflation is on a runaway course. Based on the U. S. Department of Labor consumer price index, the cost of living in February (latest available month) was up 10 per cent over the same month in 1973. The worsening situation is indicated by the fact that this rate is even up from the 9.4 per cent that the index in January increased over the first month of last year.

The Department of Labor's wholesale price index often is a forerunner of what retail prices we will see in months to come. The index for the first three months of 1974 has increased 24.3 per cent over the first quarter in 1973. The increase in March was the second largest jump ever.

The chief cause of inflation is government deficit spending. The President is not without blame in stimulating inflation, since he submitted a $204 billion budget to Congress for the fiscal year beginning July first.

The main villain in causing inflation, however, is Congress. Three-fourths of the proposed spending for the new fiscal year has been mandated by laws passed by Congressional majorities of past years. Only a fourth of the federal spending for fiscal 1975 can be trimmed without repealing previous acts of Congress.

Despite the fact that the Administration's budget for next year would cause the U. S. Treasury to go $9.5 billion further in debt, we can almost be certain that Congress will increase that deficit. The likelihood is that Congress will increase that red ink spending by $5-10 billion.

As if this didn't place us in perilous enough straits, several U. S. Senators are vying with one another to see which one can propose the biggest tax cut. Their proposals would cause our deficits to increase by an additional $3.5-6.5 billion per year.

My contention that the on-hand and growing inflation is a far more serious threat to America than the possibility of a recession is supported by Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He has said that "we must face up squarely to the gravity of the inflation problem. The pace of inflation needs to be substantially reduced, even if it can't be halted, this year."

Burns has declared that "the paramount task to which economic policy in all countries must be devoted at the present time" is getting inflation under control. Though inflation is a worldwide problem, the United States ought to be a responsible leader in bringing it under control instead of a Pied Piper leading others to destruction.

For my part, I pledge to do everything to reduce borrowing by the federal government. Just as I voted April 4th against a 274 million dollar foreign military aid bill, I will continue to fight to trim federal spending.

Senators buckle down as term ends

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — A legislative session which often seemed to be dragging its feet while the work piled up pulled a surprise last week.

The senators buckled down and worked their way through a huge stack of pending bills which appeared headed for a mass execution.

There still will be a bunch of measures which will die without individual attention when the 1974 session is adjourned for good. (That may have happened by now, but it wasn't scheduled for.)

The big day — a day when the senators spent nearly 10 hours at their desks — was Wednesday last week, the 56th and toughest working day of the session.

The workload was possible because of a limit on debate which hadn't been tried before, but which impressed the senators themselves when they saw what they could accomplish.

Instead of allowing only 10 minutes per speaker (and allowing each senator to speak twice on each issue), lawmakers limited themselves to 10 minutes total on each bill. That included discussion of amendments and all other motions.

Speaker Richard F. Proud of Omaha enforced the rule firmly. Several times, senators sought to sneak in a few extra words or get Proud to permit consideration of another motion. He set them down each time.

When the long day finally wound to a close, lawmakers gave Proud a hand and congratulated him on his work. Some even were considering a rule change for the 1975 session which would put a limit on the time a bill could be debated.

The bills which got attention during that hectic day were those which had been underlined on the legislative work sheet, indicating they were measures senators considered should be given priority consideration.

Each senator was allowed to pick one bill from the long list awaiting preliminary floor debate and give it priority status.

The variety of issues involved in the bills dealt with that day was a good indication of the kinds of problems the Legislature tackled.

They considered raising judges' salaries, allowing reduced bus fares for the elderly, daylight saving time, political campaign contributions, liquor licenses, the practice of law, the food sales tax credit system, and a state office building for Omaha.

The 1974 session has seen action on about as many bills and resolutions as the 1973 session — and it ran 30 more days. The Constitution limits odd-numbered year sessions to 90 working days and the sessions in even-numbered years to 60 days.

But it turned out that there was as much to take care of this session as in 1973.

The hallmark events of this year's session will be the adoption of a massive state aid to schools bill and a rewrite of the state's probate code.

The school aid program doesn't start until the 1975-76 school year and then only at half pace. The full implementation will come in the 1976-77 school year.

As for the probate code, it isn't due to go into effect until 1977 and the intervening legislative sessions will be available for amendments.

The 1974 session also saw another year of legislative executive battles. Governor J. J. Exon, already the all-time veto champion, issued a spate of vetoes again. On one major issue, however, the governor said a veto wasn't necessary because he was convinced, and had the attorney general's backing, that the law was unconstitutional and therefore wasn't effective anyway.

The senators weren't pleased with that interpretation. They said the governor must enforce all laws unless the courts say they aren't effective. He can't pick and choose, the lawmakers said.

But Exon stood his ground and even chastised publicity news media accounts which he claimed have misrepresented his stand. The press accounts, however, reflected the same interpretation of the governor's message as the legislators had.

The issue which Exon said illustrated his dispute with the senators was a provision in a Budget Bill, requiring that the fund source be printed on every state warrant (the same as a check).

Exon, with a written opinion from the attorney general saying the Legislature appears to have overstepped its authority, said that was an invasion of the executive domain and he wouldn't obey it.

Good Friday — The Crucifixion

John 19:16-21 & Mark 15:33-39

Then Pilate gave Jesus to them to be crucified. So they had him at last, and he was taken out of the city, carrying his cross to the place known as "The Skull," in Hebrew, "Golgotha." There they crucified him and two others with them, one on either side, with Jesus between them. And Pilate posted a sign over him reading, "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews." The place where Jesus was crucified was near the city, and the signboard was written in Hebrew, Latin, and Greek, so that many people read it. Then the chief priests said to Pilate, "Change it from 'The King of the Jews' to 'HE SAID, I AM KING OF THE JEWS.'" About noon, darkness fell across the entire land, lasting until three o'clock that afternoon. Then Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" ("My God, my God, why have you deserted me?") Some of the people standing there thought he was calling for the prophet Elijah. So one man ran and got a sponge and filled it with sour wine and held it up to him on a stick. "Let's see if Elijah will come and take him down!" he said. Then Jesus uttered another loud cry, and dismissed his spirit. And the curtain in the Temple was split apart from top to bottom. When the Roman officer standing beside his cross saw how he dismissed his spirit, he exclaimed, "Truly, this was the Son of God!"

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

SPRING DAMPENERS MISNAMED

Like most motorists, you want your automobile to deliver a smooth comfortable ride. And like most motorists, you probably believe your car's shock absorbers are responsible for absorbing the road shocks — a widely held misconception. It is the springs and/or torsion bars at each wheel that actually absorb the bumps, the shock absorbers merely dampen the up and down movement of the suspension. If your car did not have shock absorbers, the car would continue to oscillate long after you passed over a bump. This oscillation could become so great that you could lose control of the car.

One interesting thing about modern shock absorbers is that they automatically provide varying degrees of damping control depending on road conditions and driving habits. On a smooth surface, especially at low speeds, suspension movement is slight and only a small degree of damping is required. Rough roads and higher speeds require stronger damping action to keep suspension movement under control and provide a smooth ride.

A look inside a shock absorber reveals how this damping is accomplished. A piston, attached to the car chassis, rides inside a cylinder filled with hydraulic fluid. The cylinder is attached to the moving suspension, so the up and down movement of the wheel causes a parallel action to take place within the shock absorber. The piston is forced downwards, forcing the fluid through small valves or holes in the system. The valves put up resistance to the fluid, and this creates the desired damping effect. The action is similar to the way a hand-operated bug sprayer works. If the handle is pushed slowly, very little resistance is encountered. Push the handle rapidly, and a considerable increase in resistance is caused by the trapped air which creates back pressure as it tries to flow through the restrictive spray nozzle.

Shock absorbers gradually lose their effectiveness as internal parts wear. Worn shock absorbers can cause problems ranging from a bouncy or rough ride to tires that wear excessively and show signs of cupping. If your car dips excessively when braking, or vibration or wheel shimmy occurs at highway speeds, worn shock absorbers are prime suspects.

'It's a bit of railroad irony'

It is indeed ironic that a rail line in southern Nebraska extending from Seward to Superior and offering rail service to communities in which alternative rail service is available, a rail line which should never have been built, is being preserved by local business interests while in northern Nebraska a rail line which has long been recognized as the most direct line between the mighty Union Pacific system and the cities of Sioux City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, the only rail line serving Wayne County and the City of Wayne, is being abandoned.

In addition to more routine and local shipments which could and should use this route, the Chicago and NorthWestern and Union Pacific have recently inaugurated "run-through" trains between the Twin Cities and Union Pacific's big North Platte yard. These trains travel a longer route through Missouri Valley, Ia., and Fremont.

If a case can be built for the preservation of the Seward-Superior line, then a case for the preservation of the Norfolk-Sioux City line is apparent both to those who benefit from the alternative "long haul" and to the people of Wayne County who have the most to lose. — James Burke.

STOP THE CRABGRASS

Now is a good time to apply pre-emergence lawn weed control materials. An application of a crabgrass preventer now will keep to a minimum in July and August such weeds as crabgrass, foxtail and goosegrass.

All of the more than 60 commercial crab grass preventer products are designed to give good results. There are three steps for success with pre-emergence lawn weed control chemicals.

1. Rake and clean up the area to be treated. If there is an excess of dead grass accumulation, remove it, clean out all dead leaves and other debris that may be present.

2. Apply the pre-emergence chemical exactly as directed. Don't stretch a bag designed to cover 1,000 square feet to try to cover 1,500 square feet. Apply the product uniformly. A half application in two directions is better than a once-over application in one direction.

3. After application, water thoroughly. Apply approximately one-half inch of water immediately. The water forces the chemical into the soil where it has to be to do its job.

Bromegrass Pastures

Grass root reserves below the ground determine how much top growth can be harvested from a bromegrass pasture.

Grass roots grow first, then the tops. Because of this fact, you should delay pasturing your bromegrass until there is good top growth. This is especially important if the bromegrass was pastured last fall. Fall grazed pastures do not build up root reserves. The lack of root reserves will delay spring growth, requiring that spring pasturing be delayed.

Funds Now Available for Farmer-Feeders Planning Waste Control Measures

There is gold waiting to be picked up by some Nebraska farmer-feeders, according to William Steinkruger of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) of Nebraska. He was speaking of $3.7 million in funds for the 1973 Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) which had been impounded by the federal administration and recently freed by court order. The funds are available to farmer-feeders to help with the cost of building feedlot waste control structures. Steinkruger told a meeting of the state Livestock Waste Advisory Committee at the University of Nebraska Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Nebraska was fortunate in having state and county REAP plans already approved, but on the shelf and quickly dusted off, he said.

This may be the last opportunity for the farmer-feeder to get help in paying for the waste control structures that are required by law to be built by December 31 this year, he said. The cost sharing is available only to farmer-feeders, not to commercial feedlots, he said. The sharing is limited to $2,500 maximum to any one individual, he added.

However, a farmer-feeder who wishes to cost share on conservation practices such as terraces, dams, etc., can qualify for up to another $2,500 this year, Steinkruger said.

This is under the new Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP), which has $2.128 million available in Nebraska, he said.

The REAP program could be a one-shot opportunity which will be gone if Nebraska farmer-feeders do not take advantage this year, he said.

Controls already completed or started are not eligible for the REAP cost sharing, he added.

Lanny Icenog, head of the Agricultural Pollution Control Division of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control (DEC), pointed out that feedlot operators in Nebraska have only until Dec. 31, 1974, to comply with state control regulations.

Of 4,279 livestock operations of a size to come under control regulations, his inspectors have found 887 that require controls, he said.

Of these, 334 have completed waste control structures, he said.

E. A. Olson, NU Extension agricultural engineer, suggested that farmer-feeders, even though they may not be using their feedlots this year, should consider taking advantage of the REAP cost-share funds so they will be in compliance with the waste control regulations when they start using their lots again.

Also, they should file with the DEC a request for a permit to discharge pollutants into waters of the state, he said.

The term "permit to discharge pollutants" is a misnomer, he said.

Actually, the "permit" is a protection for the feedlot operator in that it covers him under the law if his control structures overflow as a result of a torrential storm which the structures could not be designed to contain, he said.

Norman Klocke of the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regional office in Kansas City, Mo., said his office has received only 75 to 80 requests from Nebraska for discharge permits.

Of these, five have been issued, 70 or 75 are on public notice and about 40 have been notified that they are exempt from regulation because they constitute no danger to the waters of the state, he said.

One indictment has been returned against a feeder in Nebraska for allowing animal waste to be discharged from his property, he said.

The EPA will be looking for more violations and probably will return criminal indictments where they are found, he said. While Nebraska feeders apparently are reluctant to apply for the permits, they should do so for their own protection, Klocke said.

A discharge under extreme weather conditions that is not covered by a permit will result in prosecution, even though it would not result in prosecution if covered by a permit, he said.

Even if a feedlot is below the 1,000 head limit now covered by federal regulations, if the owner believes he could have a polluting discharge from a heavy rain, he should apply for a federal discharge permit, Klocke said.

Commissioners OK

Bridge Money Bid

Wayne County commissioners last week approved applying for federal funds to help construct a bridge nine miles south and three and one quarter miles west of Wayne.

The present bridge, near the Harris Heinemann farm, is in a rundown condition and the design is obsolete, according to the application form filled out for the federal funding.

Total cost of the 40 foot bridge is estimated by county officials at $26,000.

Worth Some Laughs

ALLEN HIGH'S production of "Everything's on Ice," a story about two daughters who rent out rooms while their parents are gone, drew plenty of laughs and applause during the Friday and Saturday night performances by seniors at the high school gym. Laughs, like when Flisly, played by Jim Koester (left), was caught posing for his manager, Ear Drummond, played by Roger Anderson, during the second act of the three-act play. The pair discovered a camera left by Clarence Clayton, a well-known photographer played by Darwin Rubbeck, and decided to try it out. On top Mikki Roeber, as Mrs.

Fletcher; left, and DeAnn Troth as Jane Foley, get into a discussion near the end of the play. Prior to the production Darwin Rubbeck gets a touch of makeup to enhance his mustache. Robert Moore directed the play with the assistance of students Kay Schroeder, Mel Davenport and LeAnn Nobbe. Other students helping were Kathy Moore, Randy Lanser, Susan Malcolm, Randy French, Rex Raslede, Colleen Chapman, Carmen Blohm, Sandra Dowling, Larry Gotch, Kendra Linafetter, Danny Nice, David Riffey and Teresa Rooney.

Never underestimate the value and versatility of alfalfa!

You'll never again have misgivings on the value of your next alfalfa crop when you plant Sexauer alfalfa.

There's more tonnage, finer quality, greater profits in each cutting, and never before has the price of hay been better.

Sexauer's 80 years of experience and leadership in the farm seed business has created an extensive research program developing just the right hardy alfalfa for your specific growing conditions.

Our growers and customers have found alfalfas can be a much bigger crop than corn for protein. Sexauer alfalfas have potentials of 8 to 10 ton yields producing 1 1/2 tons of protein per acre. No other crop offers the versatility in feeding, or matches the high protein, energy vitamin and mineral values of alfalfa.

Alfalfa builds up soil fertility due to its capacity for nitrogen fixation. And during these times of fertilizer shortages, this plus for alfalfa is most important.

See your Sexauer dealer for all the facts on the complete line of Sexauer alfalfas.

Thought for Today
By Rowan Wiltse

"Without a belief in personal immortality, religion is like an arch resting on one pillar or like a bridge ending in an abyss."
Max Muller

The concept of immortality is a comforting one. Death does not separate us forever from our loved ones; it is but a portal through which we all must pass to attain an eternity of blissful associations with all that is pure and good.

During this Easter season, Christians rejoice in the triumph of Jesus Christ over the grave. His resurrection is all the proof we need that all of us can achieve immortality.

We sincerely hope that everyone will worship in the church of his choice on Easter and that the message of Easter will provide both hope and solace.

Bond Sales in County Total $63,000 So Far

Sales of U.S. savings bonds in Wayne County during the first two months this year totaled $63,045, according to Henry Ley of Wayne county chairman.

Sales in February were $29,668 and brought the county to 33.8 per cent of its sales goal for the year.

Sales in Dixon County during the first two months of the year amounted to $49,213 while sales during February amounted to $25,204. Those two-month sales brought that county to 21.2 per cent of its 1974 sales goal.

Cedar County sales in January and February amounted to $109,777 and during February amounted to $56,201, bringing it to 24.3 per cent of its yearly goal.

Ley said, "The new higher interest rate of six per cent being paid on E and H Bonds when held to maturity had sparked additional sales this year." The new rate was effective Dec. 1.

Statewide sales during the two-month period totaled $11,696,494 for a gain of 3.2 per cent over the same period last year, and puts the state at 18.9 per cent of the 1974 sales goal.

Easter Message: If You Look in The Right Place, You Will Find Jesus Christ

The main problem confronting three women on their way to the grave that first Easter morning was a large stone that had been used to seal the entrance. How were they ever going to move that thing? They would need help; but who would help them? They were still hashing over the situation as they drew near the grave and found, much to their amazement, that some one had already moved it. This called for closer examination!

But when they entered the grave which had been hewn out of the hillside, they received a surprise even more amazing for the body of Jesus was gone and a strange young man was seated inside as though he had expected them. They didn't know it at the time, but the young man was an angel who, according to Mark's Gospel, had these words for them: "There is no need for alarm. You are looking for Jesus—of Nazareth, who—was crucified; he has risen he is not here."

They ran out of there "frightened out of their wits," but I am sure that when they had taken the time to think about what the man had said, the words "He has risen" must have puzzled them the most. "What did he mean? It couldn't mean that He got up and walked out of there, could it? After all, no one does that kind of thing.

But He was surely gone! They had seen the place where He was supposed to be lying, but there was no body. Someone apparently had moved it to a different place for reasons obscure to them. Yet the angel had said something about Jesus meeting the disciples in Galilee, and dead men don't meet people. Maybe He really was alive... but no, that's impossible!

Their fear and confusion was due to the fact that they had failed to hear what Christ had been saying all along: He would suffer and die and rise from the dead on the third day. As the angel had pointed out to them, they were looking in the wrong place for their Lord. Faith in His words would have led them to seek elsewhere than the grave.

But a lot of people today look for Him in the wrong place because of this same lack of faith. Those who fashion themselves intellectuals and who can't reproduce a resurrection in a test tube sneer at such a tale. "Self-made" men and women who need no help making it on their own laugh at the gullibility of Christians who can believe the Easter story. There is no chance of making sense of the Easter Resurrection of Christ without faith. Without the eyes of faith, people end up looking in the wrong place for Christ. They peer into the grave and decide that "somebody moved the body."

But to those hundreds of people who actually saw Him after Easter, who talked with Christ, touched Him, ate with Him, there was no doubt. They needed no further proof. For them it was undeniable. He has risen, as He said! And there could be only one explanation for that—Christ has to be the Son of God. There were those who had to experiment, such as Thomas who said that he would have to touch Him to believe it. He got his chance, and then believed.

Where should you and I look for Christ? Must we be Thomases who insist on putting our hands into the nail prints before we believe? Should we search for Him in the grave or elsewhere? If you lack the eyes of faith, your search will be in vain. You'll examine the evidence, find it inconclusive and say "phooey" to the whole thing. With the eyes of faith, however, you will find the grave empty and the Lord Jesus very much alive and very much the Savior of your soul, who conquered death for you. You can only find Him if you look in the right place, not in the empty grave but very much alive and well and wishing to enter your life.

History has never denied that Jesus died—the evidence is simply too great. And yet the evidence is just as great or greater, due to the scores of statements from eye witnesses, that Jesus Christ rose from the dead. But that's an impossible thing to believe, except through the eyes of faith.

Rev. John Upton,
Grace Lutheran Church,
Wayne

Now kids can look it up in their own Funk & Wagnalls.

After 60 years of making encyclopedias for adults, Funk & Wagnalls has learned enough to make one for children. It's called the Young Students Encyclopedia. And it's designed to do something more than just get them through the next homework assignment—to make them want to learn on their own. Instead of burdening your children with tons of forgettable detail, it appeals to their native curiosity. The article on Airplanes, for example, illustrates an experiment children can perform at home showing how things fly. There are hundreds of other drawings, games and puzzles that not only teach but provoke, involve and entertain in the process. In other words, it's an encyclopedia children will actually use. They'll also use it a long time.

It's designed to be simple enough for children just learning to read and comprehensive enough to serve until they're ready for an adult encyclopedia. They can't outgrow it the way they do shoes.

Which brings up another nice point about the Young Students Encyclopedia: it's intended exclusively to help children, but it helps grown-ups too.

First, it doesn't put much of a dent in your budget. Since it's sold direct to you through us, you can buy the complete 20 volume set a volume or two a week for only $1.89 each. And the first volume for the introductory price of twenty nine cent.

you from doing what you shouldn't be doing—anyway—your children's homework. It provides the answers; you just provide the encouragement. So instead of just shopping for things to nourish growing bodies, come in and pick up a Young Students Encyclopedia. And nourish their minds as well.

Experiment Aims at Recruiting

NATIONAL GUARD equipment—an armored personnel carrier and a trailer complete with displays advertising the Guard—rolled onto Wayne streets last Thursday in the Guard's attempt to increase its numbers. Discussing progress of the experimental recruitment effort are, from left, Dennis Spangler, administrative supply technician at the local Armory; Major Ross Winters, command staff assistant at Omaha, and Master Sergeant Thomas Sladek of Norfolk. The two pieces of equipment were also set up in South Sioux City during last week's attempt to boost enlistments in Northeast Nebraska. Working in the smaller communities around the area were National Guardsmen who explained the Guard's program to potential members. The National Guard nationwide is attempting to sign up men to boost its numbers. The local unit is currently 19 men short of its authorized strength, Spangler said. Some Guard units in the state may be closed this summer if more Guardsmen cannot be signed up.

Grant Conference Slated At Wayne State

A Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Conference for high school counselors will be held at Wayne State College on April 18. The conference will be held at the Student Center Birch Room at 10:30 a.m.

One of over 400 to be held throughout the United States between April 8 and May 11, the conference will provide training in the technical aspects of the basic grant program.

Don Miller, state trainer for the Nebraska Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, is coordinator for the six Nebraska conferences. Miller is director of student financial aids at Peru State.

Congress has appropriated $475 million for the 1974-75 Basic Grant program. The Basic Grant serves as a foundation of financial aid for post-secondary students at two and four-year public and private institutions, proprietary schools, vocational technical schools and hospital schools of nursing.

Students are eligible to apply for the Basic Grant if they are attending a post-secondary institution for the first time after April 1973. Grants to eligible students are expected to range from $50-$800 for 1974-75. Applications are available in secondary school guidance offices, post-secondary financial aid of fices and public libraries. The conferences are conducted under a contract between the U. S. Office of Education and a consortium of education associations. The consortium consists of the National Institute for Financial Aid Administration, the American Personnel and Guidance Association and the National Association of College and University Business Officers.

An additional 300 conferences will be conducted nationally between May 13 and June 14 for post-secondary financial aid and fiscal administrators.

MERCURY MARQUIS BROUGHAM shown with optional white sidewalls and wheel covers.

Premium ride without premium gas!

Today a premium ride is not enough. You also need a car you can afford to run. And for 1974 Mercury Marquis is designed to be that kind of car. It uses regular fuel. Its standard steel-belted radials give thousands of extra miles of tread wear over non-radials. And a '74 Mercury is designed to save you an estimated average of 26% on scheduled maintenance costs when compared to a '73 Mercury in 50,000 miles of normal driving. That's due to innovations like solid state ignition. So you see, a premium ride is just not enough. Unless it comes in a car you can afford to operate. We invite you to come drive the Mercury Marquis for 1974—the premium ride that uses regular gas!

AFS Carnival Provides Fun For Everyone

FRIDAY NIGHT'S carnival at Wayne High School sponsored by the local American Field Service chapter proved to be plenty of fun for everyone — workers as well as carnival goers. The event earned the chapter more than $400 to add to the fund for bringing a foreign exchange student to Wayne High School next fall. Scenes from that carnival (from left): Jim Shulteis, left, and Kirk Wacker bark at another customer willing to try his hand at their dice stand; a reluctant youth heads toward the jail, compliments of some of his friends; Pam Sutherland readies the balloon board for another dart thrower; Kay Pankrat counts out another handful of carnival money to a youth wanting to try his luck at one of the booths. The carnival, first held since 1971, featured a variety of booths as well as a spook house for impressionable youngsters.
