

West Point Woman Honored As Near-Record Class Gets Degrees at WS Graduation

Wayne State College presented its Distinguished Service Award to Mrs. Margaret Hasebroock of West Point Monday night at spring commencement.

The award, given periodically for exceptional service in education and public affairs, recognizes Mrs. Hasebroock's long career in many organizations, including presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

President Lyle Seymour presented the award at the conclusion of graduation ceremonies in which 228 students received diplomas. He noted that the number of graduates has remained near record levels despite declining enrollment the past four years. Only twice before have a few more seniors than the present 219 been graduated, he said.

The Wayne State Foundation presented three annual awards. Val Peterson, foundation president who earlier had given the commencement address, announced these recipients.

'Pledges to Hospital Needed to Pay Bills'

Persons who are delinquent with their pledges to help build the new hospital under construction in Wayne are urged to make their payments as soon as possible, notes the chairman of the committee in charge of keeping track of how pledges are being paid.

Ken Olds said all persons should be paying their pledges on time now that construction of the hospital is underway and bills are coming in.

Olds said that as of last week a total of nearly $497,000 has been paid out for materials, labor and the like.

The money is being paid out much faster than it is coming in now that construction is in full swing, he said, and that is why all donations have to be made as originally pledged.

A total of $877,000 was pledged by businesses and individuals when the fund drive to raise money for the hospital was underway. Pledges by local and area residents will be matched by the Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk, who will operate the $1.5 million, 26 bed facility.

The hospital, which is to be called Providence Medical Center, is being built just east of Wayne State College on the northeast edge of the community. Additional construction will boost the hospital to 50 bed capacity.

Working with Olds on the pledge service committee are Freeman Decker, Walt Moller, Cal Ward, Don Meriman, Dick Kendeil and Lyle Seymour. Recently named to the committee were Joe Nuss and Roger Nelson.

Olds noted that persons who have not made recent payments on their pledges may catch up on those payments by sending their money to the medical center office at the Chamber of Commerce building in Wayne.

Wayne, Allen Seniors Scholarship Winners

Seniors at Wayne High and Allen High are among 18 Nebraska students named by the board of trustees of the state colleges to receive scholarships to Wayne State College for the 1974-75 school year.

They are Brenda Gaunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaunt of rural Wayne, and Karen Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz Schultz of rural Ponca. Miss Gaunt plans to major in pre-pharmacy. Miss Schultz has not decided on a major area of study.

The 18 students are among 86 graduating seniors named by the board Tuesday to receive scholarships to the four state colleges.

The scholarships consist of remission of tuition for the academic year. They are awarded on the basis of outstanding academic achievement and on the basis of examinations presented by the state board.

The 86 students bring to 267 the total number of scholarships awarded by the board since the 1971-72 school year.

Other students named to receive scholarships to Wayne State are Ronald Morse, Ponder; Claudette McMahon, Dakota City; Julie Spatz, Plainville; Lee Todd, Brunswick; Alan Swipes, Okola; Debra Heinrichs, Norfolk; Garba Kibara, Columbus; Sally Oberg, Neke; Frederick Robertson, Schuyler; John Schueth and Debra Neujahr, both of Grand Island; and Mary Balters, Torrington. 2 Counselors To Work on Drug Problems

Two counselors will soon be available to work with Wayne area residents on drug abuse problems, according to Mrs. Elaine Schmadeke of Dakota City, a former Wayne resident who is now on the Nebraska Drug Commission.

The two counselors will be available throughout Northeast Nebraska to counsel those with drug problems, speak to groups and help compile a directory of resources to be used by local drug abuse groups, law enforcement officials, judges and others.

Salaries for the counselors will be paid from a grant from the Nebraska Drug Commission. Mrs. Schmadeke said. The counselors will be named as soon as they are hired, she added.

Mrs. Schmadeke urged parents, school officials, law enforcement officials and others to contact either her or Dr. Richard Sanders, director of the Mental Health Center at Norfolk, if they know any young people who are using drugs.

Quarts Copped

Stolen from the Wayne County Club sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning were three quarts of liquor, reports the Wayne County sheriff's office.

Taken were quarts of vodka, gin and whiskey after the glass on the front door on the basement level was broken to gain entrance.

The theft was discovered Wednesday about 9 a.m. by Jim Wacker and Dale Fjell as they prepared to play golf.

Interest on $1 Million Awaits Mother

Some area mother will collect $137 on May 11, thanks to plans by the retail committee of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce to hold a "Millionaires for a Day" contest in conjunction with their three-day Mother's Day promotion scheduled for May 9-11.

The $137 is the interest at five per cent paid on $1 million for one day. Area residents may register the names of their favorite mothers with participating local merchants until 2:30 p.m. Saturday, May 11.

The winner must be at least 18 years old and must be a mother, grandmother or wife. She does not have to be present at the time of the drawing to collect her prize.

The women are invited to stop at Peoples Natural Gas Company Saturday, May 11, for coffee and cookies to be served from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The first 300 mothers to stop in will each receive a potted petunia. The winning name will be drawn there at 3:30.

Wives of Chamber of Commerce members will be serving. Chamber wives interested in taking part are asked to contact Mrs. William Kaup or Roger Nelson, who are in charge of the annual promotion.

New Official At NU to Tour Wayne Area

Dr. Duane Acker, newly appointed vice-chancellor for Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will visit northeast Nebraska on Tuesday.

The visit is planned to acquaint Dr. Acker with the area and with the University's agricultural research and extension programs in the northeast part of the state.

The agricultural division of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce will host an informal coffee for Dr. Acker at the city auditorium from 10 to 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday, and the University of Nebraska Alumni Association has arranged a reception at the Villa Inn in Norfolk at 6 p.m. Anyone who wants to meet the new vice-chancellor is invited to attend either event.

In addition to these public appearances, Acker will have lunch with the board of directors of the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association and will review programs and facilities and will meet the staff at the Northeast Station.

Dr. Acker assumed his duties on April 15 as the new agricultural and natural resources in state. The institute will include the statewide Agricultural Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station, the College of Agriculture, the Conservation and Survey Division and the Water Resources Research Institute.

Wayne businessmen will be able to see in about three weeks an architect's proposal for what the downtown business district could look like after completion of a remodeling project.

Steve Saylor, an architect for an Omaha firm, told a group of local businessmen Tuesday that it will take about that long to compile information gained from businessmen and complete the architect's drawings once the firm decides the best way to remodel the business district.

Saylor met with several businessmen who have been working in an attempt to get a remodeling project started. He was in Wayne talking with local store owners and managers, getting their ideas on what they would like to see done with the main shopping area.

He had with him a photographic composite of both sides of Main Street from First to Fourth.

The photographic composite will be compared with the architect's drawings when they are completed, he told the group.

Among the businessmen meeting with Saylor were those who donated several hundred dollars to hire his firm to do the preliminary study. The donations were matched by the city.

WS Faculty Members Reminisce at Dinner

Considerable reminiscing was necessary to cover the main topic when the Wayne State faculty had its annual recognition banquet Tuesday evening.

The topic—honoring retiring members of the faculty—four of them whose combined teaching at Wayne State totals exactly 100 years.

They are Willard Wollenhaupt, who joined the business faculty in 1937; Raymond Schreiner, who came a year later to the industrial arts department; Mrs. Mildred Jones, a 1928 WSC graduate who began teaching at Wayne Prep in 1953, then moved to college English teaching when Prep closed in 1962; and Dr. Freeman Decker, also a WSC graduate of 1930 who joined the faculty in 1968.

With that combination of long tenure, there were recollections aplenty by the faculty who gave tribute talks and by the retirees responding—recollections serious and comic.

Schreiner recalled that when he first came to Wayne he did some sports officiating. One day he was asked by the Wayne High principal to referee a Wayne-Norfolk basketball game. Big game. Needed careful officiating, the principal said. The fee would be $5.

Schreiner suggested that for such a game it would be wise to have two referees. Good idea, the principal said. Schreiner, new to this area, asked who might help officiate. The principal suggested a fellow named Freeman Decker.

So Schreiner and Decker did referee. The game turned out to be close, as expected. City auditorium was packed. And after the battle ended, Schreiner recalled, the principal told the two officials, "You did a fine job. So we're going to raise your fee. It will be $3 each."

Mrs. Jones and Decker had their own supply of reminiscences, as did the people who told about their careers. Jim Hummel for Decker, Mrs. Ruby Pedersen for Mrs. Jones, Tony Nelherda for Schreiner, Wollenhaupt was unable to attend the banquet.

In the main, the recollections were of pleasures from long experiences in education, especially at Wayne State.

Parish Fair to Attract 1,000

The Wayne State College Student Center will take on a county fair atmosphere Sunday afternoon as more than 1,000 representatives from some 100 Lutheran churches gather to stage the first Northeast Nebraska Parish Resource Fair.

The fair, similar to one held in Lincoln earlier this month, will include banner workshops, 50 booths, bulletin displays and demonstrations of various congregational projects and programs.

Entertainment throughout the afternoon will be furnished by visiting dramatic and musical groups. The groups will include the Gems, a ladies trio from Salem Lutheran Church at Wakefield—which specializes in religious songs on a lighter note, a German choir from Leigh, Immanuel Lutheran choir from Laurel, a youth choir from Pierce, and the Joy Folk singers from the Wayne State College Cooperative Christian Ministry. Keith Franzen, from western Iowa, is expected to have a multi media worship presentation, incorporating the use of guitar and sound track equipment. Salem Lutheran Youth from Wakefield will have a drama presentation, "Worship in Motion."

Parishland, USA, a maze leading to various parish activity learning experiences, will be manned by local Lutheran youth.

A mobile parish resource center, which will be driven by Bob Stanley of Wayne throughout Northeast Nebraska this summer, will be parked south of the Student Center.

Companies will set up office machine and theological book displays, and representatives will be on hand from Concordia Teachers College at Seward, Dana College at Blair and Midland College at Fremont.

The snack bar, operated by the college food service, will be open during the fair.

Invitations to participate and to attend have been extended to Northeast Nebraska congregations of the American Lutheran Church (ALC), Lutheran Church in America (LCA) and Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

Other visitors are also welcome, according to the Rev. Doniver Peterson, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne. The fair will run from 2 to 8 p.m.

"We expect between 1,000 and 2,000," he said.

What's New at the Library?

There was a time, and not too long ago, when libraries were considered quiet, rather formal places, devoted almost exclusively to books and magazines.

"But times have changed, and so have libraries," says Harriet Kerl, Wayne public librarian.

"Today's library is a friendly, active place, offering a wide range of important services, not only the printed word, but sound, color and action as well," she noted. The Wayne Public Library has available records, filmstrips, fine art reproductions, and a typewriter, as well as books and periodicals. The typewriter is a new service which allows individuals who are without a typewriter of their own, to do typing at the library.

The librarian can help procure almost any book that is in a Nebraska library through an inter-library loan service, so most books are no more than a telephone call away.

Individuals physically or visually handicapped to the extent that they cannot read conventional books comfortably, are eligible for talking books, unabridged and narrated by professional readers on long playing records. Both the talking books and the record players are mailed out free of charge to the borrower. Children and adult selections are available.

The local library also includes over 20 fine art reproductions which are loaned on a two-month basis without charge.

"Have you visited the newly remodeled library?" asks Mrs. Kerl. "It's the city's investment for your reading and listening pleasure. Come and visit us during National Library Week, April 21-27," she invites.

son, Myrtle Weber, Goldie Leonard, Malhilde Harms and Mary Kieper.

Local Squad Blasts Wakefield, 9-2

Wayne High unleashed 13 hits, including four doubles, to bomb area rival Wakefield, 9-2, Tuesday at Wakefield.

Catcher Bill Schwartz, who led the club with a pair of doubles, helped the Blue Devils break a 1-1 deadlock in the top of the third when Wayne scored three runs.

Second baseman Paul Mallette got the first of three doubles in the third after right fielder Dave Hix slapped a single and advanced to second on an error. Mallette's double drove Hix in for a 2-1 game. Schwartz got another double to bring in Mallette before left fielder Kerry Jech blasted another double for a 4-1 score.

Wakefield hurler Bruce Paul, whose record is 0-2, stayed in the contest one more inning before coach Joe Coble replaced him with sophomore Doug Schwartz.

But Wayne didn't show any mercy. The Devils got three more runs in the fifth and added two more in the sixth with the help of Schwartz's second double before the Trojans collected their second run in the bottom of the sixth.

Besides Schwartz's pair of doubles, the senior connected for a single to lead the club with three hits in four at bats. Right behind him were three Wayne players who went two for three at the plate. Mallette and Dave Nuss each had a single and a double, and Dave Hix ripped a pair of singles.

Junior Earle Overin took the win on the mound to even his season mark at 1-1. Overin, who gave up just four singles, fanned 12 Trojan batters.

Going into Wednesday's doubleheader with Hooper-Logan View at the Wayne ball park, the Devils carried a .403 team batting average. Wayne has collected 30 hits in 77 times at bat. Bolstering the high average is Schwartz with a hefty 500 mark, rapping five hits in 10 tries.

Baseball Opens On Saturday

City recreation baseball opens Saturday in Wayne when third and fourth grade boys start practice at the city ball diamond at 9:30 a.m. said recreation director Hank Overin.

Boys in fifth and sixth grade will practice from 11 until 12:30. The afternoon sessions will be for girls from fifth grade to high school playing softball.

Overin pointed out students will use the city ball park on Saturdays, but will work out at the practice football field by West Elementary School or the west side of the high school during weekdays.

Rubber spikes instead of steel are recommended, Overin said. Not only are rubber spikes safer but they will save parents from having to buy a pair for fall recreation football, he noted.

 Tuesday-Friday: Seventh grade boys, 4:5-30 p.m.

Wayne, Winside Cindermen Pace Area Clubs With Five Top Places

Wayne and Winside High track teams paced a trio of area track teams in first place finishes during the nine-team invitational at Stanton Tuesday.

The Devils finished No. 1 in both the 880 yard and mile relays to help them take third with 38 points. Bolstering the locals was first place finisher Lane Ostendorf with a 2:15 clocking in the 880 yard dash.

Winside's Gregg Lage and Dave Mann got the Wildcats their two firsts. Lage set a new school record in the mile with a 4:43 run. Mann, a sophomore, took the top spot in the 440-yard dash in 55.9. The Cats, however, finished seventh with 23 points.

Wakefield, coming in fifth with 33 1/2 points, was led by junior Chuck Lindstrom with a 6.0 first place performance in the high jump.

Norfolk High's reserve team captured the meet, scoring 44 points. Madison was next with 41, followed by Wayne with 38, Stanton with 34, Wakefield with 33 1/2, Battle Creek with 31 1/2, Winside with 23, Osmond with 19 and Norfolk Catholic with 9.

PAT NICHOLSON

Despite Wakefield's lone first place win, the Trojans had numerous seconds, including junior Pat Nicholson's in the 100 yard dash and 180 yard low hurdles.

Going into the last three events, the relays, Wakefield was a point and a half out of first place, but the Trojans managed to win only the two-mile relay event. Wayne took care of the rest.

"We should have won the track meet," claimed Wayne mentor Al Hansen. "In fact, we should have run away with the meet."

POLLUTION IS A MENACE TO ALL AMERICANS ...
NOT JUST THOSE IN THE "WRONG" NEIGHBORHOODS

Out of sight, out of mind. Perhaps ugly scenes like this are never viewed by most of us but they do exist. They are a menace, not just to those who live or work in the vicinity of polluted areas, but to all of us. You can't isolate something like pollution — it spreads its insidious filth through every level of society, contaminating our air, water, and land today and threatening disastrous consequences for generations to come. We must all mobilize against the elements that contribute to pollution — beginning with the empty beer can tossed out of a car window, to the conditions that permit rat-infested slum areas. Our environment is a precious heritage . . . let's preserve it for ourselves and for future Americans!

INFORMATION IS
Our Best Weapon
AGAINST DRUG ABUSE

I believe we can make facts about the dangers of drug use available on a continuing daily basis to people of all ages, especially the young, by means of a corps of young volunteer experts. The corps leader can receive information regularly from THE NATIONAL TRAINING CENTER ON DRUG ABUSE — REGION FIVE: THE ALCOHOL, DRUG ABUSE, AND MENTAL HEALTH ADMINISTRATION, DEPT. OF HEALTH, EDUCATION AND WELFARE, THE NORFOLK REGIONAL CENTER, and other channels. Then the leader distributes the information to each volunteer at a monthly discussion meeting so that the youth can be an informed expert for his own three-block area.

This program has no size limitation; all interested volunteers are welcome. I have already found enthusiastic response for this idea among teenagers, established citizens, and officials at the Norfolk Regional Center.

Although official Wayne sources tell me that "hard" drugs are not a problem in Wayne, we need to be alert to future danger. Young people will respond best if they learn facts from reliable sources close to them.

There is growing scientific evidence that marijuana is more harmful than was previously thought, so we need to begin this community-wide program now. This proposal will serve as a supplement to the information services already conducted by our police and schools. Please write me if you have questions.

History Comes to Life

BUSY QUILTING. Mrs. Mary Echtenkamp of Wayne gains the attention of four boys during Tuesday afternoon's special program at the city auditorium for Wayne Middle School seventh grade students. Mrs. Echtenkamp's quilting and Mrs. Rachel Bull's butter churning were just two of the things which made history more meaningful for Dan Johnson's students as part of their study of Nebraska history. Also included in the program were short talks by Ella Harrington, a Red Cross canteen aide during World War I, and by Maude Theophilus, who read remembrances by 93 year old Maude Auker. Thirteen women modeled clothes worn during the early history of America, the Senior Citizens Center band performed, students danced — and took part in — square dancing, and about everybody got a taste of the butter churned during the program. On display were numerous antiques, including those being viewed by the four women at the right. Johnson said he was very pleased with the success of the program, which may be repeated for next year's seventh graders.

'Find Those Eggs'

IT DIDN'T take long for both Carroll and Winside children to find the hidden Easter eggs during the communities' hunt Saturday — less than 10 minutes for Carroll and about 45 for Winside. Winside worked its egg hunt a little different this year. Instead of children finding candy eggs, the Community Club marked colored eggs worth as much as 25 cents. In addition, the club also handed out candy eggs to all participants. In Carroll members of the town's community club and United Methodist Church trapped several chicken eggs in foil in addition to the regular candy eggs. Those finding the foil-wrapped eggs received gifts. On the left, Don Leighton helps one of groups at Winside get in line before the hunt. On the right, two Carroll children, Cory Nelson and Anne Hansen, display some of the eggs they found. Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hansen; Cory is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Nelson.

For about 20 minutes after eating, whether it is a full meal or a snack, bacteria which attack teeth increase in activity. Between-meal snacks encourage the growth of disease-causing plaque. It is best to brush with toothbrush, use dental floss, or at least rinse immediately after eating a single sweet or other snack.

WHAT IS A CHEAP DRUG?

How do you define cheap in the context of health? Sure, some supposedly alike drug products can be manufactured at a "cheaper" price but at what sacrifice to the quality of the medicine? The question is are you willing to rely on your physician to select the drug product he determines best for you or do you want some government regulatory agency virtually telling him what he must prescribe?

In our pharmacy we carry a great many drugs made by a great many companies. Some, of course, will be less expensive than others but we will only stock products that are made by a drug company in which we have confidence.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge discounts.

Another award for excellence in teaching was presented to Edwin O'Donnell, associate professor of political science, by Blue Key, national honor society for college men. Jim Wacker of Wayne, president announced the award.

Wayne and Dixon County home extension councils are sponsoring community meetings on venereal disease in Wayne and Concord next week.

Youth and adults are welcome at the 8 p.m. meeting Tuesday at the Wayne city auditorium.

Statistics show that venereal disease is the nation's number one communicable disease after the common cold, and new cases are occurring on a national scale at the rate of one every 15 seconds.

and the 9:30 a.m. meeting Wednesday at the Northeast Station east of Concord.

Mrs. Roberta Sward, associate state extension leader, and Richard L. Bernum, VD educator from the Nebraska Department of Health, will conduct the program. "The Truth About Venereal Disease" at each meeting.

The first line of preventive education through public understanding, says home extension council members who are sponsoring the two programs, "To understand the problem, we must discuss the problem."

Peterson told an audience of some 2,300 in Rice Auditorium some recollections from his own experience at Wayne State, dating back to the 1920's before graduation in 1927.

Remembering some of the early "hard times" can put current problems into perspective, Peterson said, and he predicted Wayne State will continue strong not only in 1991 — the hundredth anniversary of the original private college but in 2091.

He sounded a ringing challenge to the "college family" — students, faculty, graduates, parents, friends — to work positively to make Wayne State better.

The spring class included 57 seniors graduating with honors, six of them at the highest level, summa cum laude. Both figures tie records.

There is one change in the listing of honors previously reported. Susan Heithold of Wakefield finished magna cum laude rather than the lower level of cum laude.

The former three-term governor and U. S. ambassador, now on the WSC faculty, suggested that Nebraska and Iowa should eliminate the barrier of their state line. This nation would be no trade taxes between states he said, and asked "Why should we tax students from Iowa by charging them extra tuition to attend college here?"

WAY BACK WHEN

30 YEARS AGO

April 13, 1944: The Wayne Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an indoor carnival Apr. 28 and 29 at the city auditorium. The city band will provide music both nights. Mrs. Stephen Rockwell had both arms and both legs burned when acid, with which she was testing cream at Graham's plant, accidentally spilled Monday afternoon. Heavy rains in east Nebraska Monday night gave another soaking to this area and raised the Missouri River to near flood stage between Sioux City and Omaha. Prof. M. C. Bloss, member of the college faculty here, has been granted a leave of absence to serve as USO director in one of the cities of this country for the duration. Farmers from Greeley County were in Wayne County the last of the week to buy oats and barley seed. The Commodity Credit Corporation is offering for sale to farmers certain wooden grain bins located in Wayne County.

20 YEARS AGO

April 15, 1954: Wayne's two banks agreed Tuesday night to purchase the bonds issued to finance construction of the swimming pool. Dr. Roy M. Matson will construct a new office building and clinic south of the city auditorium. Fire Thursday morning in the Felix Dorsey farm home damaged the oil furnace and caused slight smoke damage to the house. Wayne's Blue Devils copped the Stanton Invitational track meet Thursday. Tryouts for the 1954 Wayne baseball team will be held Tuesday night at the ball park. A meeting of men interested in forming an Izaak Walton Chapter in Wayne has been called for tonight at 7:30. Offices at the Wayne County courthouse will be closed next Thursday, Apr. 22, in observance of Arbor Day.

15 YEARS AGO

April 16, 1959: Don Echtenkamp and Don Wightman Monday were named directors of the board of the Wayne Scholarship Association at the group's annual meeting. Nearing completion this week is the new Benhatch clinic located just west of the Wayne post office. A 75-year-old Wayne residence has been torn down to make room for progress. The former H. A. Sewell farm home was recently sold to Robert Lindstrom. Wayne, so that the ground could be cleared for the city's new elementary school. Wayne High track men scored 10 1/2 points in the annual Midland College relays at Fremont Monday. L. T. Carlensen, pastor of Wayne's First Church of Christ since last June, has resigned. He and his family will leave Tuesday to make their home in California. Philip Rees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rees, recently was awarded a junior membership in the American Shorthorn Association, oldest purebred livestock organization in America.

10 YEARS AGO

April 16, 1964: Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne, will observe its 75th anniversary Saturday and Sunday. Douglas Lyman, professional photographer from Yankton, has purchased the Olson Photography studio in Wayne. The studio will be officially opened Friday. Women's Christian Temperance Union speech contest was held Sunday at Wakefield Christian Church. The silver medal went to Lynell Johnson and the bronze medal was won by her brother, Brent. Terry Janssen, Wayne, was named chairman of the Wayne County Centennial committee at their meeting Friday. M. D. (Mike) Smith, manager of the Lyons exchange for Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, is coming to Wayne to replace Bob Pankoast. Judith Sievers received a trophy from the Crisco Company as outstanding homemaking student of the year. The Wayne High baseball team lost their season's opener last Tuesday at West Point to the Cadets' Club, 2-1.

OBSERVATIONS

Don't destroy cover

Two brush fires on the outskirts of the city of Wayne Tuesday prompt us once more to recommend that brush not be burned except where absolutely necessary.

Brush fires not only pollute the air with smoke, but they also destroy valuable wildlife cover for birds and small animals.

In recent years a large amount of natural wildlife cover has been destroyed in the Wayne area as farmers have put more and more land under production, cleaned out ditches and creek beds on their property, thinned out groves of trees and the like. At the same time, state and county road workers have cut and removed large amounts of undergrowth along highways and roads. And businesses have spread outside com-

LETTERS

'Now that wasn't any Easter Bunny!'

Wayne

Dear Editor:

Is there a list of rules you can print on the front page concerning dogs and cats in Wayne, or is this really "Dog Town" as one former resident called it?

We moved to Wayne several months ago and see that both dogs and cats really do run at large.

This morning I opened my front door and "what to my wondering eyes should appear" but "doggy leavings" on our astroturf door mat. I guess this was "in lieu of grass" as we don't have any yet. I suppose when we do sod or seed we can expect it to get all dug up by our wandering friends, plus the joy of stepping in the messes.

As for now, please don't tell me it was the Easter Bunny who visited our astroturf door mat! — Name Withheld by Request.

(Editor's Note: City laws require that all dogs be leashed or be directly under their owner's control at all times, according to the police department. There are no ordinances concerning cats; the police department ads.)

Tornado time again

Local government officials in the state should make certain that their procedures for warning the public of imminent tornadoes are up-to-date and that officials responsible for the operation of warning points, sounding of sirens and working with radio and television stations understand their responsibilities.

That reminder comes from the state Civil Defense director, major General Francis Winner, who said he was prompted to make the statement because of the large number of deaths, injuries and property damage accompanying the recent series of tornadoes across the nation.

"These tornadoes remind us with horrible emphasis that even a few seconds of warning can make the difference between life and death," Winner said.

Elected officials should check with their Civil Defense directors-coordinators and public safety officials to be sure everyone knows exactly what his job is and understands exactly how the system works in the community. When a tornado is on the way there is no time for consultation or for referring to manuals, he noted.

Winner also advised school officials to check on their plans to protect students.

Along with those comments, we would like to urge once again that Wayne and the area communities take steps to standardize their warning systems. Right now the warning systems are so different that people from one community stopping or visiting in another community could easily be confused as to whether a siren warned of an approaching tornado or merely signalled a fire.

We think the warning system should be standardized across the state as well as across the nation, but that would probably require some type of legislation. At least if the warning system were standardized for this area of the state, the people living here would know exactly what the sirens mean when they are sounded. Maybe standardizing our signals would pave the way to getting them standardized across the state.

So they said...

"Our industry's critics have been so successful with their demagoguery — their lies, distortions of fact, and false allegations. In so doing, they have threatened the energy base on which our national economy literally rests. The American people's elected representatives should stop playing games with the American people's pocketbooks and, most of all, with their security."

—Robert Buschman, president, Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

New Car Timetable

The timetable for producing a new model automobile has much in common with baking a pie, according to a major car manufacturing engineer. They both require lead time to see the project through from the planning stage to the finished product.

In baking a pie, sufficient time is obtained to decide on the kind of pie, obtain the ingredients, select the correct size mixing bowl, pie pan and other utensils, and take into consideration the actual preparation and baking time. If you want the pie out of the oven by a certain time, you have to work backwards to set up a schedule or timetable.

The same principle applies to producing an automobile, plus a few more complications. The schedule needed to introduce a new engine, for example, might be as long as five years, depending on the extent of changes involved. The manufacturer sets an announcement date and then plans the schedule accordingly.

Actual production design and processing requires decisions as to the kinds of new machines and dies that may have to be developed and built to produce the engine components. If the engine is a radical departure from conventional engines, it might possibly need a different type of starting motor, generator or carburetor, all requiring more research and development, and of course, more lead time. Engineers have to develop not only a product with satisfactory performance, but one that can be manufactured at a reasonable price. This involves still more time in the choice of materials and production methods.

Before a new model is introduced to the public, it must be put through an extensive testing program. Time is needed to evaluate the car's ability to perform under extremes of heat, cold, rain, poor road surfaces, etc. New cars must also be tested no less than 50,000 miles just to determine that they meet government emission standards.

Lead time also depends on the number of units produced. One industry spokesman states that Detroit could build a single car from the ground up in three weeks, but to build one million cars on assembly lines across the country presents far-reaching timetable problems, not the least of which is to make sure the right quantities of component parts are at the right places at the right time.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

New Rockford, N. D., Transcript

"You think groceries have gone up in the price. They have. It's true, but they're coming down a bit once more. If you think that's bad, give a thought to what Uncle Sam has done to your budget. Total personal income in the nation in 1972 was $737 billion and the government took 15 per cent of it from you. Five years earlier the total was only $629 billion and taxes took only 13 per cent. You're paying quite a tax bill and there are those 'benevolent' members of Congress who want to take even more from you for a variety of additional programs. The day when the government will take your entire income and dole some out to you is closer than you think."

Top items during '74 law session? May be probate code, school aid

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — If historians ever find it necessary to pick out something special about the 1974 legislative session, they probably will refer to the rewrite of the probate code and the adoption of a fully-implemented school aid bill.

The probate code isn't due for use until 1977 and intervening legislative sessions may do some tinkering with its provisions, but the one and one-half inch thick measure represents a major contribution to Nebraska's lawbooks.

Some attorneys aren't happy at all with its provisions, but the Legislature passed it and the governor signed it.

The Legislature passed the school aid bill, too, but the governor sure didn't sign it. He vetoed it, as he had vetoed similar bills the three previous years.

In each of the preceding sessions, however, the lawmakers sustained the Exon vetoes, even though the margin of his victory was only one vote in two of those years.

But the 1974 Legislature gave 30 votes — just enough — to an override motion and bill which will send something like $160 million in state-raised money out to the local school districts by the 1976-77 academic year was adopted.

There were reams of other legislation considered during the 1974 session, of course, but those two bills are the most likely to attract the attention of historians.

What the scholars might not catch, however, is something which was apparent to everyone closely connected with the daily events in the legislative chamber.

The lawmakers tried to jam more work into the 60 days allotted by the Constitution than they had time to give deliberative consideration.

A blackboard full of bill numbers never got any discussion on the floor because of a time crush — partly caused by the 60-day limit and partly caused by inefficient use of early-session meetings.

Many mornings during January and February, the lawmakers would get tangled in some issue and never get to the first-reading agenda, letting bills pile up.

When that logjam finally broke loose late in the session there wasn't enough time left for all the bills and many went into a mass grave. So many remained for late attention that there were 36 bills on the final reading docket on the 60th and last day of the session.

Many senators said they found the session especially frustrating. The toll in frayed tempers and ragged nerves was epic.

Legislative staffers, newsmen and senators all were snapping at each other before it was over.

Politics played a roll this year, as had been expected.

Before the New Year's Day beginning, there were a number of announced political candidates among the legislators. That field grew as the session went on.

It wound up with two for Congress, a pair of candidates for governor, three for lieutenant governor, one for auditor and one (if you count Lieutenant Governor Frank Marsh as a legislator) for treasurer.

They took a variety of approaches to using the legislative forum as a campaign tool.

The most unorthodox, probably, was Senator Terry Carpenter's. He spent much of his time attacking the ticket he seeks to join on the Democratic ticket.

The other two Democrats for lieutenant governor — Frank Lewis of Bellevue and J. W. Burbach of Crofton — also had their differences with Exon, but not as many as Carpenter.

The congressional aspirants are J. James Waldron of North Platte and Gerald Sromer of Kearney, both interested in the Republican nomination in the Third District where long-time Representative Dave Martin is retiring.

The candidates for governor are Richard Marvel of Hastings — and Ernest Chambers of Omaha. Chambers won't be on the ballot until he gets adequate signatures on petitions to become an independent candidate.

He has indicated he may go to court to challenge the requirement that he have a lieutenant governor candidate on his petitions with him.

Dave Stahmer of Omaha is running for state auditor as a Democrat and Marsh is a Republican candidate for treasurer.

Then, there are all the legislators who are seeking re-election.

Carpenter's decision to go after the lieutenant governor nomination cost him a chance at re-election and he will leave the Legislature after some flamboyant years. Speaker Richard Proud of Omaha isn't asking for a new term and he will be gone, too.

Cattle Feeding Study Is Underway at NE Station

"Part fat" steers are being fed only a mixture of high moisture shelled corn, a little corn silage and a mineral antibiotic and vitamin supplement at Northeast Station, and some other steers are being fed only ground snapped corn and the same supplement.

Previous experiments at Northeast Station and recent tests at other Stations show that finishing cattle require less protein, especially late in the finishing period, than is often fed, says district beef specialist Walt Tolman. These "extreme low protein" rations for the latter part of the cattle finishing period are being compared to other rations with moderate additional alfalfa or urea supplementation, he notes. Among feeds being used are a mixture of high moisture shelled corn and corn silage, stored in a plastic covered bunker silo and also a mixture of high moisture shelled corn and alfalfa stored in a plastic covered bunker silo. Another bunker silo contains field harvested ground snapped corn, which is the lowest protein basic feed on test. All these bunker silos stored grain and roughage mixtures are keeping well when fed at a moderate rate, according to Tolman. Corn silage or alfalfa haylage were mixed with high moisture shelled corn, moved into the bunker and packed with a tractor with scoop at harvest time. The silage or alfalfa was added in proportions to supply about 10 per cent of the mixture as roughage and 90 per cent grain. Additional corn silage was fed for about a month as cattle were brought to full feed. All rations were also fed some supplemental protein until the full grain feed was reached.

Comparisons at the end of two months' feeding period showed the rations leading in rate of gain and amount of gain per pound feed were the high moisture shelled corn and alfalfa mixture stored in a bunker, the high moisture shelled corn stored in a sealed bin and fed whole with alfalfa haylage, and the high moisture shelled corn and corn silage stored in a bunker. Tolman says.

These were all about equal, he says, and dried shelled corn plus alfalfa haylage had performed a little less well and the ground snapped corn produced considerably slower gains. In part of the snapped corn lots, most of the ground snapped corn is being gradually replaced by high moisture shelled corn. Gains are expected to increase greatly as more grain and less roughage is fed in these lots, according to Tolman. Alternate steers were implanted with Synovex in each lot, making possible a study of the effectiveness of the implant on gains. Improved gains were caused by this implant in a similar test last year. The Synovex response was greater with high moisture corn than with dry corn last year. We are not surprised that the whole stored, whole fed, high moisture corn is excellent, says Tolman. This type of grain has outperformed the same corn dried before storage and rolled before feeding, and also outperformed high moisture shelled corn ground before storage in four previous tests, he notes.

This year the dried shelled corn is being fed whole, too, instead of being rolled before feeding. Very little difference is expected with dried corn whether it is rolled or fed whole, based on experience of many experiments, says Tolman. The heaviest group of these cattle will probably be marketed in early May. A highlight field day is planned Friday, May 24, before the final marketing of younger cattle on the same rations and when results of the first marketing are available, according to Tolman.

$63,000 Available for Soil, Water Conservation In Wayne County in '74

Approximately $63,000 in federal funds will be available for cost sharing in soil and water conservation work done by Wayne County farmers in 1974, announces Representative Charles Thone.

The county's share is part of $7,914,000 that will be available to Nebraska during the year. Of the total, $2,728,000 is for the new Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP). The remainder, $5,186,000, is money appropriated for the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) for 1973. The Administration imposed last year's funds over my strong protests. A federal judge this year ordered the Department of Agriculture to release last year's funds. In March, USDA announced that Nebraska farmers would have available $3,706,000 in 1973 REAP funds. This was because department officials thought the court was ordering them to release the funds that had been allocated by USDA to the states. The court, however, was ordering USDA to release all REAP funds which we in Congress had appropriated. This resulted in a figure 56 per cent larger," Thone explained.

"Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) recently announced county by county allocation of REAP funds, based on the $3,706,000 figure for Nebraska. Thone said he has increased these figures proportionately to reflect the state's actual $5,786,000 share in REAP. The estimated REAP funds for the county will be $48,250 Thone said. RECP funds allocated to the county are $14,774.

Deadline for applying for RECP funds has passed, the congressman noted. REAP funds may be applied for throughout 1974 and are available to pay for part of the cost of work started and substantially completed during the calendar year. Thone explained. ASCS must approve planned work before it is begun, he pointed out.

"The county most likely can obtain even more REAP money, since it is expected that many counties will not be able to use their full allocation. Keeping our topsoil from eroding and preventing water pollution is tremendously important. Therefore, I hope Nebraska farmers will make every effort to take advantage of these funds this year," Thone said.

These were all about equal, he says, and dried shelled corn plus alfalfa haylage had performed a little less well and the ground snapped corn produced considerably slower gains. In part of the snapped corn lots, most of the ground snapped corn is being gradually replaced by high moisture shelled corn. Gains are expected to increase greatly as more grain and less roughage is fed in these lots, according to Tolman. Alternate steers were implanted with Synovex in each

3 Steps Are Necessary To Cash in on Pastures

By DON SPITZE, Wayne County Extension Agent

What is the most neglected crop on most Northeast Nebraska farms?

If you don't answer pastures, you are wrong. But this doesn't need to be so if you follow a good pasture program.

Let's look at three suggestions for planning a good pasture management program.

First should be improved grazing procedures. Often cattle are allowed to continuously graze bromegrass through the summer. Under these conditions, bromegrass should be stocked so no more than 50 per cent of each year's growth is used. Rotation grazing using warm season grass in conjunction with bromegrass is another good practice. Native grass can provide summer grazing while bromegrass rests. Annual sudangrass can also be worked into the rotation grazing program. The months of July and August are the hot months when bromegrass grows very little and should not be grazed. Fertilization of grass should be the next step. Bromegrass will profitably respond to 60-80 pounds an acre of nitrogen when rainfall is normal. Bottom land brome will respond to 100-200 lbs. N per acre. Warm season grasses also respond to fertilizer — the key to using fertilizer on native grass is the correct time of application. Use the same fertilizer program on native grass as on brome, but fertilize early in June and add phosphate according to results of the soil test.

Weed control is the third step toward improving pastures. Weeds are a result of poor grazing practices and lack of adequate fertility. But to reclaim unproductive pasture, chemical weed control will be necessary. Herbicides can control annual broadleaf weeds like musk thistle, sunflower, common ragweed and some perennial weeds. The key to weed control will be timeliness of herbicide application. Many pasture weeds start growing in late April or early May. Use 2,4-D sprayed at one or two pounds per acre.

Why not plan a successful pasture cropping program by using a good rotation, grazing, weed control and fertilizer program?

Soybeans & Soil Erosion
In a recent experiment, land in a two-year rotation of corn and soybeans lost more soil by erosion than land in continuous corn, and the heavy erosion occurred the year following the soybeans.

For many years farmers have noticed that the soil seems looser following soybeans than corn. This looseness made the soil more susceptible to wind and water erosion.

During a five-year period the average annual soil loss from four plots in soybeans following corn just equaled that from continuous corn. Soil loss from corn following soybeans was 40 per cent greater than after continuous corn.

During the first and second months after seeding, runoff from corn following soybeans averaged 18 per cent higher and soil loss 25 per cent higher than continuous corn. Losses represented about 75 per cent of the annual soil loss, although only about 36 per cent of the erosive rainfall occurred during this period.

GARDEN WEEDS
It's garden time and that means weeds and hoeing. But there is a chemical out that does a pretty fair job of controlling weeds in gardens. Dacthal is the herbicide that has made registration for weed control on the greatest number of garden crops and is also most readily available on the market. Garden crops for which it is registered include snap beans, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, cucumber, eggplant, garlic, honeydew melon, kale, lettuce, mustard greens, onions, peppers, potatoes, squash, strawberries, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, turnips and watermelons. The time of application varies with different garden crops. Dacthal can be applied at seeding or transplanting on broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, cabbage, garlic and onions; it should be used at seeding time on snap beans, kale and turnips. For cantaloupe, honeydew melons, watermelons, cucumbers and squash, Dacthal should be applied postemergence 4-6 weeks after seeding. Follow the directions and precautions on the label, including information on the rate of appli-

Swine Expert Urges Care in Buying Stock

Nebraska pork producers are advised to exercise caution in stocking new pork production units and in restocking existing units.

Bill Ahlschwede, extension swine specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said disease outbreaks in two recently established feeder pig production corporations underline the close scrutiny needed to avoid health problems. Although neither installation has been quarantined, the nature of the diseases involved makes depopulation and restocking the only workable method of eliminating the problem, he said.

The usual mode of transmission of the two diseases, bloody dysentery in one case and pseudotuberculosis in the other, is pig-to-pig contact, making it likely that the disease was purchased with the animals. These problems represent severe financial losses to the owners of the units.

The same type of loss awaits any pork producer who fails to take adequate precautions in introducing new stock to his unit, Ahlschwede said. "Health protection in the new feeder pig 'coops' has been of particular concern because of the concentration of sows and pigs and the vulnerability of the piglet to infection. Good sanitation procedures and building layouts provide the new units some protection from introduction and spread of disease. However, these procedures offer no protection against highly contagious diseases brought in with the breeding stock."

Ahlschwede encouraged producers buying breeding stock to personally inspect animals for symptoms of common diseases. In cases where large numbers of pigs are involved, a veterinarian should inspect the herd from which the pigs are coming. Buyers should check the health status of the seller's herd with someone other than the seller, and they should insist that the pigs purchased have been com-mingled for at least 30 days prior to introduction. When large numbers are involved, the pigs often come from several production units; even though they may be delivered in the same truck. When reasonable precautions are taken, introductions of breeding stock can be made without undue risk.

Yard Quiz

Q — When is the best time to plant potatoes?

A — It has always been traditional to plant potatoes on Good Friday but they can be planted any time the ground is open within the next few days. Plant them about four inches deep and mound the dirt over them.

Q — Can year-old bean seed be used?

A — Test the germination of year-old bean seed first and if the germination is low, plant more seeds than called for.

Q — How do you keep flowering crabs from bearing fruit?

A — You can spray the tree with Sevin (two tablespoons gallon) one week after blooming and then three times in 10-day intervals. Or you can remove the tree and plant a spring snow flowering crab, which blooms white and has no fruit.

When Sexauer says, "Plant our SRF Soybeans 35 to 40 lbs. per acre and not one bean more," ...they mean it!

The key to producing an abundance of four-seeded pods from Sexauer SRF soybean varieties is lighter plantings. Heavier plantings actually reduce potential yields. The narrow leaves developed in the SRF varieties help to direct sunlight to penetrate lower plant areas and to the seed pods. These SRF developments produce top soybean yields for you over the common varieties. Results such as these were discovered through extensive research programs conducted by the Sexauer Company. And this year-around effort has created top yielding soybean varieties, which Midwestern farmers are depending on for superior bean yields. This year choose the SRF varieties from the Sexauer Company and plant them at their recommended rates. See what Sexauer means when they say, "Plant our SRF Soybeans 35 to 40 pounds per acre, and not one bean more!" You'll profit by it.

KENT RESEARCH MAKES IT HAPPEN.

Kent Pig Nuggets have always been one of the most palatable baby pig starters you could buy. In fact, Kent has guaranteed Pig Nuggets' palatability for many years now.

But recently, Kent Feeds researchers, led by Glen Menke, Director of Nutrition and Product Development made them even more tasty. They conducted a series of baby pig "taste panel" trials comparing regular Kent Pig Nuggets to a Pig Nuggets formula with two new flavor factors.

The baby pigs at the Kent Research Farm most preferred the new formula. The pigs selected the new formulation nearly 8 out of every 10 times, a highly significant preference.

The new formula Pig Nuggets are now available from all Kent Dealers everywhere. We thought Flav-R-Ized Pig Nuggets were good before... we know they're even better now.

At Kent, we never really stop trying to improve on a good thing, and that's why we're still the only major feed company with a money-back guarantee on every single feed we make.

Getting A Taste of Kindergarten

Fifty-one youngsters attended kindergarten roundup at West Elementary School last week, according to Richard Metteer, elementary principal.
The children, who will enter kindergarten this fall, got a taste of school life as their parents filled out enrollment cards.
Metteer spoke to parents on the kindergarten program, explaining the characteristics of a typical five-year old, and suggesting ways in which parents could help their children prepare for school.

Mrs. Paulette Clark, school nurse, explained the medical records which parents must complete and return by the first day of school in the fall. Each child should have a medical and dental checkup, she noted, and immunization records must be updated.
Kindergarten roundup for Carroll youngsters who will be five years old on or before Oct. 15, 1974, will be held at Carroll Elementary School this Friday, beginning at 9 a.m.
Parents are reminded to bring the child's birth certificate with them to the roundup.

City Official Takes Part in KU Seminar

Wayne city administrator Fred Brink was among administrators from 54 cities attending the 27th Annual City Managers Seminar last week at the University of Kansas.
The group participated in discussions of current problems facing city administrators, including the energy crisis, public employee-labor relations—and federal revenue sharing.
The seminar, held Wednesday through Friday, was sponsored by the Institute of Public Affairs and Community Development at the University of Kansas.
Among featured speakers for the three-day session were Graham Watt, director of the Office of Federal Revenue Sharing; Philip Essley, deputy assistant administrator of policy analysis and evaluation with the Federal Energy Office; Theodore Clark of the law firm of Seyfarth, Shaw, Fairweather and Geraldson of Chicago, an expert in public employee labor relations, and Dr. Bill Roy, U. S. Representative from the Second Kansas Congressional District.

SS Man Here Soon

George Reed, representative of the Norfolk social security office, will be at the Senior Citizens Center in Wayne from 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday.
Reed said that application for supplemental security income payments may be made at any social security office. The new income maintenance program is for people 65 years or older or blind or disabled who have little or no income, he said.

$2,000 Grocery Bill
Two thousand dollars is what the average family spends on food each year. Most of us would do some research to compare cost and value before plunking down $2,000 for a major appliance, but too few plan their food purchases, which cost just as much.
Surveys show six out of 10 shoppers do not bother to compare food prices or even make a list. The average consumer passes 250 items a minute when in the grocery store, so there is not much time for deliberation.
What can help lower the food bill? The answers: Planning and comparing prices.
Knowing what foods will be served for the upcoming week will reduce the number of items you have to compare. Of course, you still need to be alert to specials offered so you can substitute a food on special into your menu.
Buy foods according to the intended use. If you'll be preparing a casserole, stewed tomatoes should be selected rather than fancy whole tomatoes.
Check ingredients of packaged and canned foods. Ingredients are listed in descending order of quantity with the largest one first. Different brands of products vary considerably in some cases.

The larger container is not always the best buy. Let the cost per serving be your guide whenever feasible.
Find out what you are paying for convenience. Is it worth it to you or could you prepare it for less in the time you have? For example, whole chickens cost less than a cut-up chicken. Roasts cost less per pound than steaks and chops. Packaged combination foods cost more than home prepared products.
Consider also if it may be more economical to buy a prepared food if you need to buy a special uncommon ingredient to make a food you only eat occasionally.
Last but not least, cut down on food waste, paper and plastic products to save at the grocery store. Savings on paper toweling, fluff and plastic bags add up to money that can be spent on food. But remember to plan — if you need to save money on groceries, don't cut down on the kind of food the family members need for their good health.

Among some Moroccan tribes, women play ball to bring on rain. That's a lot of RBIs—rains batted in!

'Report Changes

People getting supplemental security income payments should promptly report changes in their other income to social security, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.
Supplemental security income payments have established a nationally uniform income floor for people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled.
Increases or decreases in income may affect the amount of monthly supplemental security income payments. People getting supplemental security income checks should report changes or expected changes in their wages, self-employment earnings, pension payments and other income from any source except general increase in social security benefits.
Changes can be reported by contacting any social security office.
People getting supplemental security income checks should also promptly report change of address, marriage, separation and any other circumstance that might affect their payments, according to Branch.

The NRD Board That Is Sincerely Concerned About Proper Resources Development!

THREE FEDERAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

To Choose From

A long disputed court battle has finally ordered release of the 1973 allocation of REAP Funds and added 3.1 million dollars to the 2.7 million dollars set for the 1974 Rural Environmental Conservation Program and Long Term Agreements for conservation work.

These federal programs are now available through your local ASCS or SCS offices in your county.

The Land and Water Development Assistance Program of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District has been amended to supplement the return of the federal programs.

The Land and Water Development Assistance Program of the Lower Elkhorn NRD was the first comprehensive program funded by local government following the impoundment of funds for the REAP program in December of 1972.

Now that these federal funds have been ordered released, your NRD has again modified goals to blend funds available into the most effective use for conservation assistance.

Lower Elkhorn NRD assistance will still be available on large projects not applicable to the REAP or RECP, and LTA Programs.

Amendments to the "Land and Water Development Assistance Program" have restricted assistance to these practices: "Lands for Wildlife," county road structures, special projects and park and recreational development.

Comprehensive Planning for counties received a "shot in the arm" with the adoption of a policy statement by the Lower Elkhorn NRD at the March Board meeting.

If federal funds for Comprehensive Planning for counties are not available, the Lower Elkhorn NRD will assist at a 50 per cent rate with counties on their costs.

The NRD chose the 50 per cent rate to help where necessary but still encourage counties to apply for federal assistance which cost-share at the 65 per cent rate.

Comprehensive plans are being carried out or drawn up by Pierce, Stanton, Madison, Dodge and Wayne Counties in the Lower Elkhorn NRD, with several others expressing interest.

Comprehensive Plans help to organize growth of urban and industrial areas, recognize and prepare for utility and transportation problems and help prevent costly building errors.

Local Man Accepts Press Group Award

J. Alan Crámer of Wayne, president of the Nebraska Press Association, accepted an award for the association from Gov. J. James Exon during the Nebraska Highway Safety awards and recognition dinner in Lincoln recently.

The press association was recognized for its contribution in the highway safety campaigns of 1972 and 1973.

The luncheon saw 35 individuals or industries recognized for contributions which has helped lower the state's highway death toll dramatically and made Nebraska's highway safety program effort recognized as one of the best in the nation.

Gov. Exon singled-out Nebraska's news media, saying that "when it comes to being committed to reducing the death and suffering on our roadways, Nebraska's media is the best in the nation."

By Rowan Wittse
 "Some falls are means the happier to rise."
 Shakespeare

Although it is difficult to envision misfortune in any form as being a prelude to happiness, it sometimes works out that way. Often it is the setbacks and disappointments along the way that make the eventual realization of our dreams and ambitions all the sweeter.

We seldom accomplish anything of consequence without experiencing momentary setbacks, hardship and a severe testing of our mettle. Our ability to overcome these hardships re-attains the faith we must have in ourselves and in the worth of our goals. The falls we suffer are unfortunate, but they do serve to make success that much more enjoyable.

 DOWNTOWN WAYNE

Former Wayne Resident Responsible for Part of Historic Space Mission

Former Wayne resident Ray Larson has been appointed vice president and command and service module spacecraft program manager at Rockwell International Corporation's Space Division at Downey, Calif.

Larson's family lived in Wayne from 1928 through 1941. His mother, Mrs. Ray R. Larson, now lives in Fullerton, Calif. He graduated from Wayne High School and took pre-engineering courses at Wayne State College before entering the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Prior to assuming his new duties, Larson had served for more than four years as vice president of Assurance Management. In that capacity he headed reliability, quality assurance and safety efforts on all division space projects, including the Apollo, Skylab and Space Shuttle programs.

In his present post he will be responsible primarily for division work on the spacecraft for the Apollo Soyuz Test Project — history's first international space mission. Scheduled for mid-1975, the flight calls for a United States' Apollo spacecraft docking in Earth orbit with a Soviet Union Soyuz. The two spacecraft will remain docked for as long as two days, with the crews exchanging visits and possibly performing joint scientific experiments.

Space Division is building the Apollo spacecraft for the flight, the docking module that will serve as a "passageway" for crew transfer between spacecraft and the U. S. half of the docking system that will link the two vehicles.

Larson joined Space Division in 1954 and worked in a number of engineering assignments on missile programs and study projects until joining the division Apollo team in 1962. He subsequently was named Apollo assistant program manager, a position in which he was responsible for the management of division work on the spacecraft for the Apollo 9 Earth orbital flight, and for the Apollo 12, 13, 14 and 15 lunar missions. He held that post until being named vice president of Assurance Management in January, 1970.

In October, 1969, Larson was presented a National Aeronautics and Space Administration Certificate of Appreciation for "his outstanding contributions to the Apollo program, culminating in the world's first lunar landing."

Rockwell International, a major multi-industry company, is a leading manufacturer in five principal areas: automotive, aerospace, electronics, industrial products, and utility and consumer products.

Hepburn Heads Bicentennial Proposal

Dr. Charles Hepburn, Wayne State College instructor, was appointed director of the oral histories proposal during the monthly meeting of the college bicentennial committee at Hastings College last week.

The proposal is to be brought to the attention of the Nebraska Bicentennial Commissioners meeting on April 26 for endorsement.

Dr. Hepburn addressed the group on his lecture series entitled "The Declaration of Independence as a Preserver of Liberty." The series will be available free of charge to any high school or junior high schools in Nebraska.

Purpose of the college bicentennial committee is to exchange ideas among Nebraska's institutions of higher education and to organize projects to be presented before the commission for endorsement and possibly for matching funds.
