Council Learns Citizens Must Initiate Vote on Fluoridating City's Water

It will take signatures of 470 persons on petitions if Wayne voters are to be given the chance of deciding whether the city's drinking water should be fluoridated starting next year, city councilmen learned Tuesday night.

City administrator Fred Brink told the council that 270 signatures is 20 per cent of the 3,352 registered voters in the city, the minimum percentage required for voters to initiate a referendum on the issue.

City attorney Budd Bornhoff agreed with mayor Freeman Decker that the council cannot put the issue on the ballot but must wait for a petition drive before ordering a vote on whether the drinking water should be fluoridated.

At least two council members, Carolyn Filler and Jim Thomas, agreed that the council should not decide whether the water should be treated as required by a law passed by the 1973 legislature.

Said Mrs. Filler: "I think the people should vote on it."

State law requires all communities to fluoridate their water supply starting in January if it is not naturally fluoridated unless voters reject fluoridation. Wayne's water contains natural fluoride less than that required by law.

Three area communities rejected fluoridation and one accepted it in the May 14 election. Turning down fluoridation were Concord, Dixon and Newcastle. Laurel voted in favor of it.

Thomas noted that "there is nothing the council can do about" getting the issue on the ballot. The voters will have to take the initiative to put it up for a vote, he said.

WS Salary Agreement Offered Trustees

A salary agreement designed to improve the quality of instruction at Wayne State College has been submitted to the state college board of trustees, following ratification by the faculty bargaining unit and administration.

Trustees took the agreement under study at Saturday's meeting in Falls City. In other action the trustees approved realignment of four Wayne State departments into two and endorsed a regrouping of several administrative functions.

The departmental change will put biology and physical education into one, Seymour said the merger will draw together programs of related functions, particularly aimed at future medicinally oriented courses co-operating with the new Wayne hospital when it is completed and operating.

The departments of mathematics and science also will become one, under chairmanship of Dr. Frank Prather, now head of mathematics.

President Seymour said the administrative change will designate Loren Kamish as director of student affairs. He now is director of special services, in charge of placement bureau and continuing education. His extended positions will have responsibility over directors of

All for One

Bleachers Coming for Gym

Wayne Carroll school board members Monday night approved spending just over $32,000 for bleachers for the high school auditorium, solving one of the major problems facing them in recent years.

The folding metal bleachers supplied by Stephenson School Supply of Lincoln will cost a total of $32,502.72. The purchase price includes $974 for an electrical power unit to fold and unfold the bleachers.

The approved bid was the highest of three submitted at the board's last meeting, but board members decided that the higher priced bleachers are better designed and will last longer than the lower priced ones.

Also submitting bids were Hoover Brothers of Kansas City, $31,826; and Triangite School Service of Sioux Falls, $28,673. Both bids were for wood bleachers.

The bleachers approved for the auditorium, which has been without seating facilities since the new high school was finished 1967, have vinyl bonded onto the seats. They are constructed so little if any sweeping will be required underneath them.

Money to pay for the bleachers will come from the school district's sinking fund; a savings account established several years ago to pay for school improvements. The fund currently contains about $80,000, according to superintendent Francis Hawn.

Board president Irvin Brandt said after the 4-0 vote approving the purchase that "with the amount of use they are going to get you (the board) will be happy with the investment."

The bleachers, which should be installed by the middle of October, will enable the school to play its home basketball games in the auditorium rather than at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium and to hold its wrestling meets in the auditorium.

Circus Coming Here Saturday

Local and area youths can come to the circus in Wayne Saturday when the Wayne County Jaycees bring the Dailey Brothers Circus to the community for two performances.

Performances will be given in both the afternoon and evening, at 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the county fairgrounds.

Advance tickets at $1.50 each are available from the First National Bank, State National Bank and Wayne Federal Savings and Loan. Tickets at the gate will sell for $2 each.

the auditorium, according to superintendent Francis Hawn.

Hawn said "there may be some problems with parking" but those problems may be solved by graveling an area near the paved parking lot.

The bleachers will not be installed in time for girls volleyball, which begins in September, noted Hawn. Volleyball games will be held in the auditorium and chairs will have to be set up again this year to provide seating for the crowds.

"Four sets of bleachers will be installed on each side of the auditorium, providing seating for 1,400 people. The bleachers will be 14 rows high and 80 feet long.

Also approved 4:0 during the evening was low bid on a nine passenger vehicle to replace one presently owned by the school district.

Submitting low bid of $4,223 without a trade-in was Ed Wolske Auto Service of Wayne.

Also submitting bids were Corell Auto Co., $4,485.47 with trade-in, and Wortman Auto Co., $4,569 without trade-in.

"Giving their approval" to both purchases were board members Margaret Lundstrom, Morris Sandahl, Milton Owens and Wilbur Giese. Dorothy Ley was not present for the meeting.

Board members also voted to continue offering German as a foreign language and not to begin offering Spanish after studying preliminary budget estimates for the fiscal year beginning in September.

The 4-0 vote came after several board members agreed with superintendent Hawn that

Concord Variety Store Closing As Earl Hughes Finally Retires

By NORVIN HANSEN

About 13 years ago, Concord business man Earl Hughes is going to retire.

And when he does, that little community of some 180 people won't be quite the same. It will mean the old variety store Hughes has operated over the years will be gone, forcing local youngsters to go somewhere else for their one-cent Tootsie Rolls, bubble gum and candy bars.

Farmwicks won't be able to stop in his store and pick up everything from a deck of cards to candles, from crepe paper to light bulbs.

And one more of the original soda fountains—complete with wire stools and a cool marble counter—will no longer be in business.

Hughes, 83 years old, is selling out of his E & H Store some 13 years after retiring as Concord's postmaster, a job he took over a few years after moving from Albion to Concord way back in 1911 to manage the old Edwards and Bradford lumber company on the south edge of town.

Hughes admits he wasn't very enthused about moving to Concord: "I knew Concord was just a little spot, and I didn't want to mess around here. But I came, and I've been here ever since."

And during those 60-plus years in Concord, Hughes has had a hand in quite a few of the local businesses. He managed the combination lumber yard-hardware store-furniture business for a few years, then took on the postmaster's job. Later he became major owner of the Concord Farmers and Merchants Telephone Co., a business he stayed in for more than 50 years until it was sold to the present Northeast Nebraska Telephone Co.

He got into the variety store business a few years after moving to Concord when Dr. C. L. Philipps was practicing medicine there. He and Dr. Philipps ran the store together, recalls Hughes, but Dr. Philipps later moved to Lexington. The store still sports a sign outside calling it the "Philipps and Hughes" store.

He has had the business ever since the early 1920's, he notes, but he really moved into running it when he retired from the post office and his brother-in-law, who was managing the store, decided to move to California.

"I had planned to spend all my time fishing and hunting," says Hughes. Hughes and his wife, who died 14 years ago, seldom missed a fishing trip to Minnesota in the spring or a hunting trip to western Nebraska in the fall, he remembers.

Hughes, who "doesn't regret" moving to Concord, says he can remember when the community had two banks, two blacksmith shops, two garages, a couple hardware stores and two lumber yards.

Helping him sell out of the variety store is his daughter, Mrs. Jerry Martin, date of Green River, Wyo., and her family.

But before the store is closed, Concord residents will honor Hughes with a pot luck dinner, an event scheduled for Friday at 7 p.m. at the Northeast Station east of Concord. The dinner is open to the public.

Decorations were in blue and white, colors used for the wedding. Game prizes went to the honoree.

Mrs. Ernest Eckmann, the bridegroom's mother, registered gifts and Mrs. Ival Luellmann of Norfolk, mother of the bride, poured. Twenty-five guests attended from Winside, Norfolk, Hoskins and Carroll.

Hostesses were Mrs. Florence Jenkins, Mrs. Wilva Jenkins and Mrs. Roy Jenkins of Winside and Mrs. Melvin Jenkins of Carroll.

Questers Visit Home in Stanton

Confusable Collectables Questers Club members toured the Mulse home in Stanton during their June 3 meeting. Thirteen members took part in the tour.

Mrs. Mulse has turned her home into a small museum with separate rooms for dolls and glass. She also has on display several organs, crocks, stained glass windows, candelabras, and many other articles, some dating from the 1800's.

Questers stopped for a no host supper enroute home. The group will not meet again until September.

Wayne Girl Wins First Gold Medal

Nine-year-old Melissa Stoltenberg kept repeating to herself to "try to get first place" as she awaited the sound of the gun to start the 100-yard dash.

Thirteen seconds later Melissa's face changed to an excited "I just won the race" as she finished first in the bantam division during Friday's Midwestern AAU Junior Olympic finals at Hastings.

For Melissa it was her second win in first-year competitive running—and her first gold medal.

June 1 Melissa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Del Stoltenberg of Wayne, won the 100 to 14.4 to earn a bid in the regional meet. She also qualified for the long jump, but did not place in Friday's meet.

Wayne's other entry at Hastings, Lisa Barclay, finished sixth in the junior division shot put with a heave of 29.11 during Saturday's rain-soaked events. She won that event in the Sioux City meet.

Winside's Gregg Lage ran a 4:34.8 mile to finish third in the senior division during Saturday's competition at Hastings.

Other entries competing: Patti Stark of Laurel finished fourth in the 880-yard run. Other Laurel qualifiers who competed but did not place were Dave Lindgren, 880 and mile; Anita Eckert, shot put and discus; and Phil Martin, high jump.

Weight Lifting Pays Off for Former WHS Basketball Star

A former Wayne High basketball player is featured in a story on weight training in the brochure on the approaching North-South all-star basketball game.

He is Tod Bigelow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bigelow of Wayne. The 5'10 guard is the focal point of a story by Larry Fauss, sports information director for the all-star game.

According to Fauss, the story centers on how weight lifting training develops a person's skills in basketball. Usually weight training is considered best for building a person physically for football or wrestling. Fauss noted, "but because basketball is considered a skill sport, weight lifting was not one of the main factors in training a few years ago."

While talking to Fauss, Tod mentioned how important weight training is to a basketball player. Right then, Fauss' mind started going to work on a feature story.

At first, Larry began to center the story on weight training, but that wasn't what he was looking for. The story was missing the human factor, so he decided to switch the point of the story from weight lifting to the person involved.

Tod didn't know he would be the subject until the night of the all-star game last August in Lincoln when both he and teammate Bob Keating were at the game. During the fourth quarter, Fauss talked with Tod and asked him if he would like to work on the story.

"Fauss first did his homework, checking with coaches and some of the people in Wayne about Tod's personality and background. 'We had to pick the kind of person a town would be proud of,' Fauss pointed out. That is the same idea followed in selecting players for the all-star contests."

It was last September that Larry went to work on the story, shooting pictures of Tod working out and getting an interview on what weight training does for an athlete. "I'll never forget that day," Fauss said. "I had tickets to the University of Nebraska-North Carolina State football game and I couldn't go," he smiled.

Weight lifting for Bigelow apparently paid off — he became Wayne's leading scorer, averaging about 16 points a game as a senior last season.

WAYNE'S Tod Bigelow has proven that weight lifting can improve a basketball player's ability.

Allen Jumps Out of Loop Cellar With 13-0 Shelacking of Walthill

By BOB BARTLETT
Allen-Martinsburg boosted itself out of a two-way tie for the cellar in the Northeast-Nebraska Baseball League with a 13-0 ripping of winless Walthill Tuesday night at Allen.

Pitcher Jim Miller, throwing a two-hitter, went four for four at the plate in leading the area club to its first win in four starts.

Miller connected for a triple, a double and a pair of singles in driving in four runs as the home team unleashed 14 hits.

Walthill was at a disadvantage, however. With only seven players on the field, the visitors gave up several runs when the ball landed in the outfield covered by only two players.

Allen started out with a 2-0 lead in the second after Miller, a Sioux City product, doubled and catcher Lee Schapool walked. Both scored on Mark Brasel's double.

The home team then blasted in six runs in the third frame on four hits for an 8-0 margin. Player-coach Bob Anderson unloaded the team's first triple in the bottom of the fourth to set up the squad's ninth run. He came home on Miller's single.

Miller blasted the second triple in the fifth to make the score 12-0 after Hill drove in the 10th run on a single.

Allen, now 1-3, is tied with Pender for eighth after Wayne dropped Pender, 19-0 Tuesday night.

The locals ripped six runs in the first inning and five in the fourth for their biggest outputs stretching their NEN mark to 4-0.

Randy Benish picked up the win on the mound, throwing a one-hitter while striking out 12. Center fielder Bob Weisenberg ripped a pair of home runs in the seven-inning game, collecting six of his eight runs batted in six runs in the third frame on four hits for an 8-0 margin.

Tonight (Thursday) Wayne fans have a chance to see Weisenberg on the mound, facing Dakota City at home, in his last outing against South Sioux City, the right hander hurled a no-hitter — the first in the league this year.

Overall, Wayne is 5-1 after Monday night's loss to Crofton, 11-1. The Lewis and Clark League powerhouse club allowed the locals only four hits. Wayne scored its solo run in sixth when left fielder Mike Creighton singled and scored on a Crofton error.

Roger Saul started on the hill for Wayne, giving up six runs until manager Hank Overin sent in Dave Schulte to take over.

Wakefield and Dakota City are tied for fifth after Wakefield blasted Ponca, 17-2, in the only rescheduled game Tuesday night.

The area club knocked Ponca out of the contest with nine runs in the last inning of the abbreviated eight-inning match.

Fifteen runners went to the plate that frame for Wakefield, nine of them after two outs. Rob Eaton, who had five hits in six at bats, led the club with a pair of doubles and three singles.

Pitcher Lynn Tomjack, now 2-0, had a triple and two singles. Kip Bressler had a double and two singles.

STAIN OVER OLD PAINT?

Of course Olympic doesn't make a stain for horses. But we do make one that can be used to cover old paint on rough wood. We call it Olympic Solid Color Stain. And it works beautifully. It goes on over old paint easily, without streaking. Olympic covers like paint — yet won't crack, peel or blister. And you get a complete range of colors, too! Try it. We think you'll agree it's a horse of a different color.

Wayne Midgets, Legion Split Tilts at Norfolk

Wayne's Midget and Legion teams split a pair of games at Norfolk Tuesday night, with the Midgets taking the fourth win against one loss, 6-5.

Pitcher Paul Mallette went the distance, earning his second win against no defeats.

Norfolk had a 2-0 lead going into the sixth when the locals scored three runs via a two-run double by first baseman Bob Keating and a walk by shortstop Ritch Workman forcing in the third run.

The following frame both clubs scored three runs each. Wayne tallied its runs on singles by Dave Hix and Larry Creighton and a Norfolk error.

In a reserve game, the Midgets downed Norfolk, 4-1. Dave Hix hurled the win, striking out 11 Norfolk batters.

The Legion club fell to Norfolk, 7-1, to drop its record to 1-3.

Norfolk opened the second frame with three runs, one on a homer, before the host team scored two in the third and so-runs in the fourth and fifth. Wayne scored its run in the third when left fielder Marly Hansen scored on a Norfolk error. Randy Nelson got credit for the run batted in.

Friday night the Midgets travel to Bancroft to resume action in the Ralph Bishop League while the Legion team is idle.

FOR THE first time in Wakefield's 20-plus years of participation in American Legion baseball, the area club won't be playing in the Class B district. The team is moving up to Class A competition.

The team voted to go that direction after coach Paul Eaton gave the members an alternative — either drop some out-of-town players or go Class A.

Wakefield has 17 players on the roster, including three from Emerson, two from Allen and one from Newcastle. The combined boy enrollments from each of those high schools with Ponca is over 300, the dividing line for a club to move from B to A.

Ponca has to be included because a Legion rule states that if a player in this case, (Scott Miller of Newcastle) drives past another high school enroute to playing for a team (Wakefield), the boy population from that high school (Ponca) must be included to determine the club's class ranking. The situation would be similar if Miller headed towards Wakefield via the only other paved route — past Laurel.

THE big reason we went Class A is that we wanted to be fair to players from Emerson and Newcastle," Eaton said, pointing out that the team didn't want to drop Miller in place of three from Emerson or visa versa.

That's understandable. Last year Miller was instrumental in aiding Wakefield to the state Class B Legion crown, hurling crucial wins during the tournaments. And the team didn't feel it was fair to drop the Emerson players. "All three are very good," Eaton said.

Eaton added that some day Wakefield hopes to merge with Emerson and Allen to form a three-town Legion club; similar to the Walthill-Lyons-Winnebaggo entry in the Ralph Bishop League. Eliminating Emerson could hurt that chance. Until this year, Wakefield had had to rely on using some of its Midgets to complete the Legion roster.

Allen has had players on Wakefield's team for the past six or seven years. This year Tim Hill and Neil Blohm are on the roster.

The rest of Wakefield's club: Dale Belt, Roger Leuth, Tracy Norris, all of Emerson; Doug and Mike Soderberg, Chuck Lindstrom, Richard Puls, Sam Utecht, Doug Fischer, Keith Siebrandt, Doug Schwarzen and Tim Rouse, all of Wakefield. Bob Twite and Randy Hallstrom, also of Wakefield, are listed but are not eligible to play since they play for Wakefield's town team. Eaton included the pair in case he found replacements before the July 10 deadline to add players for the district tournament.

WAKEFIELD SHOULD be in pretty good shape when the Class A district tournament starts July 26 in Columbus. The area club could have about 40 games under its belt, providing too many aren't rained out.

According to Eaton, this year's slate has a few more games than last year when Wakefield played about 37 games. That should put the club about equal in playing time with the other five teams in the district — Columbus, Norfolk, York, Millard and Fremont.

Looking at the teams, Eaton figures his club should be a strong contender in the double elimination tournament. Norfolk isn't as strong as in the past, possibly the first open gate to the championship. Already Norfolk has beaten Fremont — gate No. two — and Wakefield has more stable foreign language than Spanish, French and Latin as far as enrollment and number of schools offering foreign languages.

Set during the meeting was a date for the public hearing on the school district's budget for the coming fiscal year. That hearing will be held on July 1 during the board's next regular meeting. It is open to any residents of the district who wish to comment on the proposed budget.

Also set during the meeting was the free high tuition rate which will be charged for the coming school year. The rate will be $2,050, $200 more than the rate for the past year. The new rate same as the rate set recently by the Winside school board.

This is the last year school districts in the state will be allowed to establish the rate,

IRS Tips

Q. Can anyone under 65 ever qualify for the retirement income credit?

A. Yes. If you are under 65, you may qualify for the retirement income credit if you receive retirement income from a public retirement system, such as those set up for Federal, state or local government employees, armed forces personnel, public school teachers and policemen.

Remember, if you are eligible to claim the retirement income credit, you can have the IRS compute it for you. See your tax form instructions and Schedule R for details.

Q. I'm divorced and have custody of my child. Can I take advantage of the lower tax rates for "heads of household" or must I file as a single taxpayer?

A. Generally, you can file as a head of household if you meet the following requirements:

- 1) You must be unmarried on the last day of your tax year.
- 2) You must maintain a household and contribute over half the cost of maintaining it.
- 3) Your unmarried child must live with you in the household you maintain as the principal residence of both you and your child. The child needs not be your dependent.

Deer Permits Nearly Gone

Nearly all 25,000 permits authorized for Nebraska's 1974 firearm-deer season and all firearm-antelope licenses have been spoken for, reports the Game and Parks Commission.

Only the Sand Hills, Upper Platte and sub-unit of the Upper Platte still had permits available. However, there are approximately 2,500 applications yet to be processed.

The June 3 drawing allotted permits in the Blue, Buffalo, Galeus, East, Ekhornt, Frenchman, Keys, Paha, Loup West, Republican, Pine Ridge and Wahoo deer units and all but the Wildhorse antelope unit. Remaining units were filled by second choice requests and first-come, first-served applications already received.

Those eliminated in the drawing will receive refunds within the next two weeks.

Landowners who were unsuccessful in the drawing may apply for a limited permit, good only on their land. To be eligible, a farmer or rancher must have applied during the initial application period and been eliminated in the drawing. Only one limited landowner permit is issued per farm or ranch.

13,000 Shiners Added to Lake

Some 13,000 spottail shiners were stocked last week in Lewis and Clark Lake according to Lee Rupp, Game and Parks Commission's fisheries supervisor for northeast Nebraska.

The shiners are being stocked in Lewis and Clark in hopes of providing a better food base for walleye, white bass, catfish and other game fish in the lake. A lack of forage fish is a primary cause for the big lake's poor showing as sport fishery, officials believe.

The spottail shiner may be one answer to the lake's woes, which originate in its extremely fast rate of turnover. The entire volume of the lake passes through the dam once every four to seven days, carrying most of the fry of forage species to the Missouri River below the dam.

The spottail shiner, however, spends its early development stages in shoreline weeds away from the currents in the main part of the lake. Spottails have done well under similar conditions in regulatory reservoirs on the Mississippi River.

Spottails were first stocked in Lewis and Clark last year, and there is evidence that they are reproducing. Fisheries biologists say it will be several years before the spottails' success or failure in the reservoir can be assessed.

Wayne, making three second grade teachers there next year. There were only two sections last year.

Mrs. Lindahl, whose husband graduated from Wayne State in 1970, attended Cersco High School for two years and graduated from Central High School in 1969. She and her husband have been living in Creighton while she was teaching at Royal.

Those hirings leave two vacancies to fill for the coming school year, according to superintendent Francis Haun.

Yet to be filled is a ninth grade English position and the school nurse position. Nurse Pautette Clark, in the school system one year, resigned earlier this year.

The budget will not allow further spending for teacher salaries. "I don't know where there is any more money (for teachers) in this year's budget without cutting out something," Haun told the board.

Sandahl, echoed those thoughts: "I'd like to see us go into Spanish, but... I don't see how we can."

Haun had told the board before the vote that department chairmen and principals had agreed that the top priority in grades seven through 12 should be given to hiring teacher aides and—that the second priority should be given to hiring an additional person to teach art. They listed an additional person to teach foreign language as third in importance, he said.

Board members have been urged in recent months either to include Spanish as a second foreign language offered in the school system or to drop German and offer Spanish in place of it.

Board members received during discussion of the subject copies of a letter from German teacher Inge Atkins in which she said "the program now offered would be bound to suffer" if another foreign language were offered. Noting that she was not opposed to a second foreign language, she said there is lack of space at the present time for an additional foreign language. She cited a state-wide study which showed that German is a more stable foreign language than Spanish, French and Latin as far as enrollment and number of schools offering foreign languages.

Set during the meeting was a date for the public hearing on the school district's budget for the coming fiscal year. That hearing will be held on July 1 during the board's next regular meeting. It is open to any residents of the district who wish to comment on the proposed budget.

Also set during the meeting was the free high tuition rate which will be charged for the coming school year. The rate will be $2,050, $200 more than the rate for the past year. The new rate same as the rate set recently by the Winside school board.

This is the last year school districts in the state will be allowed to establish the rate, gave 8-0 approval to a $150 donation to the Wayne County Jaycees to help finance the Jaycees' annual Fourth of July fireworks demonstration at the city ball diamond. The donation is the same as was given last year.

Council also approved unanimously the requests from LeRoy Barner and Ed Niemann to move buildings into the community for fireworks stands. Barner's building will be moved to a parking lot on East Seventh Street, Niemann's to the corner of Seventh and Valley Drive. Both have been issued permits to sell fireworks.

Given 7-1 approval was a request from liquor license holder Les-Lutt to remodel his businesses. The council's vote will be sent to the state liquor commission, which will make the final decision on the request. Lutt plans to separate his off-sale liquor store from his on-sale beer portion so bottle club patrons can go into the off-sale area, according to plans submitted with the request.

Councilman Vernon Russell voted against allowing the remodeling after noting that he could "see no need" for the change. Lutt has all three licenses available in the city, said Russell, but he has "objected" to others receiving similar licenses.

That comment prompted councilman John Vakoc to note that the council should not be deciding whether a businessman can or cannot expand his business. The council too often "sticks its nose into" the operations of local liquor licenses rather than letting them operate as long as they comply with state law, he said.

The meeting was the first regular session for new mayor Freeman Decker and new council members Carolyn Filler from the second ward, Leo Hansen from the third ward and John Vakoc from the fourth ward. Continuing on the council are first ward representatives Ivan Beeks and Vernon Russell, who was re-elected in the May 14 election, second ward representative Darrel Fuelberth, third ward representative Ted Bahe and fourth ward representative Jim Thomas.

Council also:
Approved 8-0 the applications from Dale Preston and Robert Woodard for membership in the volunteer firemen's organization.

Agreed to draw up for consideration an ordinance which would permit parking unlicensed cars at repair shops. Agreement came after Lawrence Smith complained that he has been warned to remove an unlicensed car from the rear of his business, Smith's Auto Clinic. Council agreed the existing ordinance is unfair to repairmen who use such cars for parts in their work.

Postponed a vote on an ordinance which would provide retirement benefits for six older city employees who are not eligible for a city-wide retirement plan. The proposed ordinance will be read at the next council meeting before being voted on. Thomas, Beeks, Russell and Fuelberth voted to do away with the third reading.

Voted 7-1 (Bahe dissenting) to require at least one more and possibly two more readings on a proposed ordinance adopting a revised set of city laws. City clerk Dan Sherry and attorney Bornhoff are to review the revision and report back to the council at its next meeting.

Voted 8-0 to draw up a resolution giving administrator Fred Brink authority to apply for two state grants to help develop the Lions Club park east of the city and the Henry Victor Memorial Park in the south part of the community. Brink told the council he would request about $5,000 for each project. Twenty-five per cent matching funds from the city would be required if the grants are approved, according to Brink.

Agreed to discuss at their next meeting the subject of buying workmen's compensation insurance to cover employees injured on the job. Bids submitted on coverage ranged from about $4,600 to $5,400 annually, according to Brink. Bid requests were sent out after city light department employee George Henderson suffered serious injuries when he came into contact with an electrical line several weeks ago. Henderson is still hospitalized, with his medical bills being paid by the city since no insurance policy is in effect.

Agreed to have Brink obtain bids from two blacktop firms currently working in the city for hard-surfacing Grainland Road on the southwest edge of the city. Bids will be obtained on armor coating and blacktopping.

of faculty, will recommend promotions in rank, based on academic advancement toward higher degrees or equivalent outstanding achievement in the appropriate field.

A merit committee, also new, will determine meritorious service by the faculty, according to rules listed in the agreement. Merit recommendations by this committee are designated as the basis for salary increases rewarding excellence—teaching ability the dominant factor.

Dr. J. S. Johar, chairman of the faculty negotiating team which worked out the pact with administration representatives, said the agreement will foster improved instruction because it brings all segments of the college—faculty, administration and students—into the process of evaluating the faculty. Salaries will reflect this evaluation, Dr. Johar said.

President Seymour said he concurred that the agreement will lead to higher quality instruction. Another innovation in the agreement is a salary base, $9,000 for a two-term appointment—the basic contract for all faculty who are not on 12-month contracts. The base clause includes a range of salaries for each faculty rank, up to a maximum factor of 1.9 of base for a full professor.

The agreement says a cost of living adjustment will be negotiated as an item separate from promotion and merit factors. Federal consumer price index figures will be used as a reference for negotiating cost of living adjustments with deflation also to be considered if it exists.

Other innovations in the agreement include a system for administrative evaluation of faculty members. The rating gives teaching effectiveness 50 per cent of the weight. Other factors are relationships with students, inter-department relationships, product contributions, community service, and intangibles.

The agreement also embraces a form used by students this —Obtaining paid and free advertising time over television and radio stations.

—Purchasing of 15,000 copies of an eight-page publication filled with pictures and information about the college, and distributed primarily through the admissions office.

In addition, the committee has obtained more than $29,000 worth of free public service announcements on radio stations in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota, according to Reeg.

That free publicity was obtained by Wayne State radio-television student Kirk Hutton, who the committee hired to contact radio stations in the area.

The committee is also considering other activities, including contacting returning veterans who may plan to attend college; advertising in theaters and sponsoring a cultural fair in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce to coincide with a weekend activity at the college.

Other members of the committee include vice president Frank Prather, secretary-treasurer Gay Thorbeck, Jim Hurmel, Jim Marsh, Wayne Wessel, Norman Nordstrand, Ruth Eldson, Terry Sullivan and David Burnhart. Wayne State instructors Jeff Young and Tim Wilder served as advisors during the past year.

WH Graduate Winner of College Award

A spring graduate of Wayne High School, Kay Pankratz, has been named one of seven winners of the Outstanding Student Awards at Bethel College at North Newton, Kan.

Miss Pankratz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pankratz of Wayne, was selected along with the other 50 candidates who had earlier been named Thresher Honor Award winners.

The Outstanding Student Award carries a stipend of $400 to $600 per year, depending upon need. Selection of students for the awards is based not only on high academic performance in high school and ACT test scores, but also on leadership roles in school, church and community.

Miss Pankratz shared valedictorian honors with Beth Pedersen in this year's graduating class.

Butts: Need 2nd Mock Tornado

It may take another mock tornado before Wayne citizens know how well equipped and prepared the city is to handle a real disaster, said Ray Butts, co-chairman of last Friday's simulated tornado.

"We thought we had a lot of questions solved before the tornado struck," Butts told Wayne-Kiwanians Monday. But last week's episode created more problems than first anticipated, he added.

Some of the problems, Many people, especially in the south-west part of the city, could not hear the siren; there were not enough first aid people ready to help; there was lack of bandages, splints and other first aid equipment, and there was lack of communication among citizen band radio operators.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S practice tornado did have some problems, explained Ray Butts, but they can be worked out.

Low Bidders Named On Area Road Work

Lincoln and Sioux City firms were apparent low bidders on road and bridge work near Wynot and Allen.

Dearborn Asphalt Co. of Sioux City submitted a $24,746 bid for armor coating an eight-mile stretch of Highway 9 south of the junction with Highway 20 north of Allen to about four miles north of Wakefield. The project, scheduled to start about July 1, will take about four to five days to complete, according to a spokesman for the department of roads in Wayne.

Later this fall, two bridges are slated to be built about a half-mile east and north of Wynot. Capital Bridge Co., Lincoln, estimated the work, including grading and adding culverts, at $756,915.

We need action now to prevent destruction of cattle industry

By CONG. CHARLES THONE
Every consumer in America will pay dearly in the future unless the desperate plight of cattle feeders improves immediately. Unless there is relief now, seed stock cowboys that have taken generations to produce will be liquidated. This will cause a beef shortage that will last for years.

I am working on an eight-point program to provide immediate and long-range solutions. The points are:

1. A bill to provide for immediate suspension of all meat imports into the United States has been introduced by me.
2. A bill to provide that the President can suspend meat import quotas for no more than 60 days without the approval of Congress has my sponsorship.
3. I have introduced legislation to make feedlot operators eligible for Farmers Home Administration loans.
4. By means of this newsletter, I am urging all Nebraskans to urge members of Congress from urban areas to support measures to give relief to cattle feeders.
5. A telegram to the President from me has urged that quotas on meat imports into the United States be reimposed immediately.
6. In personal visits with Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, Under Secretary Phil Campbell and Assistant Secretary Clayton Yeutter, I have urged that pressure be put on other beef-producing nations to restrict their shipments to America voluntarily.
7. During a visit with James Halvor-

Thoughts for the day

THURSDAY — We who are saved find rest in Jesus. Matthew 11:28 — Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

FRIDAY — Poverty is a hard heritage, but those who trust in the Lord are made rich by faith. Psalms 9:18 — For the needy shall not always be forgotten.

SATURDAY — No blessing can come to us through dishonesty or double dealing. Deuteronomy 32:28 — Observe and hear all these words which I command thee that it may go well with thee when they doest that which is good and right in the sight of the Lord, Thy God.

SUNDAY — Abundance of grace is a thing to be coveted. Matthew 13:12 — For whoever has, to him shall more be given, and he shall have an abundance.

MONDAY — When a home is ruled by Christ, angels might be asked to stay all night and would not find themselves out of their element. Hebrews 13:2 — Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for by this some have entertained angels without knowing it.

TUESDAY — A house is no home unless it contains food for the soul as well as for the body. John 4:32 — But He said to them, I have food to eat that you do not know about.

WEDNESDAY — It takes two to make a marriage — a single girl and an anxious mother. Hebrews 13:4 — Let marriage be held in honor among all.

OBSERVATIONS

Needed: more first aid people

The approximate 100 persons who took part in last week's mock tornado disaster in Wayne are due a vote of thanks by all the officials and private citizens in and around the community.

They spent several hours going through all the motions they would if a real tornado ever struck the town — rushing to the scene of the disaster, removing the victims, transporting them to the makeshift hospital, giving them immediate medical attention. Some of those volunteers, the "victims" in the basement of Rice Auditorium, donated even more time, starting a few hours earlier in getting themselves made up to look like they had really suffered everything from broken bones to severe cuts.

Certainly, there were some mistakes and errors made during the practice drill. That is to be expected, for few of those volunteers had been through a similar drill or through an actual disaster where there are numerous injured.

Along with spotting those mistakes, those involved in the practice drill found out that the number of persons with first aid experience who could be expected to volunteer in a disaster is not as large as might have been thought. There are other individuals in the community and immediate surrounding area with that kind of training, but they did not participate in the drill. That means that many more persons should take that training so there is a better chance that a large number of volunteer first aid people will turn out if the community is struck by a tornado or similar disaster.

There are some other things which, those involved in the drill learned during the exercise, but the small turnout of first aid people is possibly the most serious. We hope a few dozen more individuals take that training so they can be qualified to lend a helping hand if a real disaster ever strikes the city. — Norvin Hansen.

Explain to kids vandalism costs

Some youths reportedly did extensive damage to a newly poured sidewalk in the northwest part of the city earlier this week.

The youths drove a bike into the fresh cement, made handprints in it and carved names on it, making it necessary to spend more money and time on the project.

There is going to be quite a number of new sidewalks installed in the city within the next several weeks, all of them open prey for inconsiderate youths who find joy in destruction of things belonging to other people. We urge parents of youngsters in the city to take a few moments to explain to their children that it costs quite a bit of money to put in sidewalks. A little advance work on the part of parents might mean there won't be any reruns of this kind of vandalism. — Norvin Hansen.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

OCTANE RATINGS

Miles per gallon of gasoline is an important priority today, but there's another money-saving factor you should consider — using the least expensive gasoline for your make and model car.

You should buy the lowest octane fuel your engine will burn without knocking. The knocking phenomenon — a sharp metallic noise — occurs when the air-fuel mixture burns unevenly inside your car's engine. In addition to causing a loss in power and fuel economy, knocking also can damage expensive engine components.

Octane requirements can vary between individual cars and drivers. An engine that is out of tune, for example, requires a higher octane gasoline than one properly maintained. Driving habits, such as stop and go driving, increases combustion deposit build-up and the octane requirement. Many other factors also influence the octane requirements of your engine. The higher the air or engine temperature, the higher octane fuel your car needs. The lower the altitude and the relative humidity, the higher the octane requirement.

Understanding octane ratings can be confusing because different methods of determining ratings can produce different results. Your owner's manual recommends the minimum octane rating of fuel for your particular car. The octane number is listed as Research octane.

Most late model cars are designed to operate on regular grade fuel, usually specified as 91 octane (Research). You may find, however, that the owner's manual octane rating for regular gasoline is three or four numbers higher than the regular grade octane rating posted on service station pumps. This is because the octane rating that the Cost of Living Council requires be posted on the pumps is determined differently than the Research method.

The octane rating of gasoline is determined in the laboratory using a specially designed engine. When the gasoline is tested for engine knocking under mild operating conditions of low engine speed and low fuel-air mixture temperature, the resulting figure is called Research octane. A test run under more severe conditions of higher engine speeds and higher fuel-air mixture temperatures causes the same gasoline to knock sooner and yields a relatively low octane rating. This is called Motor octane. Averaging the gasoline's Research and Motor octane ratings yields the octane number posted on the gasoline pumps.

Therefore, don't worry if the octane rating of the gasoline you buy is a little lower than that recommended for your car — unless your engine starts to knock. In that case, just switch to a slightly higher octane fuel until the knocking stops.

Present legislation gives the President the power to suspend the quotas imposed by the law. The amendment would provide for sharing that power between the executive and the legislative branches.

My bill on Farmers Home Administration loans to feedlot operators provides that money would be available only when borrowers could not obtain commercial financing. No new money would need to be appropriated as USDA revolving loan funds are already ample.

The FTC has assured me that top priority is being given to the investigation of the "relative inflexibility of food prices at the retail level when the supply increases." The agency's people are now in the field collecting data. More FTC personnel are involved in this new study than in any other investigation by the agency.

All the groups involved in producing beef for the American consumers need to agree on a system for promoting its consumption here and abroad. When such support any legislation needed to implement the plan.

Once the production of beef declines — and it has already dropped — it takes three years to increase the supply. For the sake of every consumer in America, steps must be taken now to rectify the disastrous circumstances that are causing widespread destruction of the beef producing industry.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1788.

On challenging, puffing and assessing

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — There is a rare contested election this year for president-elect of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

A petition candidate has been offered as a challenger to Alfred G. Ellick of Omaha, who was nominated by the bar's executive council and could be considered the official nominee.

The mail ballots which were posted this week and are due back in mid-July also include the name of Thomas Morrissey of Tecumseh, whose nomination was made by a group known as Nebraska Lawyers for Responsible Reform.

A spokesman said Morrissey's name was offered because of concern that the regular leadership of the bar appeared to be getting "out of touch" with the general membership, especially practicing attorneys.

Lawrence Murphy of Lincoln, secretary for the group sponsoring Morrissey's candidacy, said action by the bar in the uniform probate code discussions was "the straw which broke the camel's back."

He said Ellick was chairman of the House of Delegates when it supported changes offered in the probate rewrite in principle. An initiative effort put the question up to the general membership; Murphy said, and the probate changes were voted down by a 3-to-1 margin.

He said the practicing attorneys he speaks for also think the bar should take a more firm stand on no fault insurance proposals and efforts to have government lawyers handle more legal services.

According to the rules the State Supreme Court has established for the bar, a nominee for president-elect is offered by the executive council. He runs unopposed unless someone else is nominated by petition, as was done this year with Morrissey.

Smokes Go Up

Like everything else, the cost of smoking is on the rise.

State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters, who is charged by law with administering the Unfair Cigarette Sales Act, has announced a penny-per-pack increase in the minimum retail price.

The act requires Peters to compute the minimum price that cigarettes may be sold at over the counter or in a vending machine.

The new price is 40 cents for regulars and king size and 41 cents for the 100-millimeter length.

On carton sales, retailers must charge at least $3.99 for regular and king sizes and $4.10 for the 100s. Those prices compare with $3.83 and $3.93 before the latest increases.

Assessors Need to Pass

The State Revenue Department will be conducting examinations Sept. 17 for persons who wish to become county assessors or deputy assessors.

There are some persons who are counting on passing that test because they are candidates for assessor in the November election and won't be able to serve in the office unless they get the certificate which goes with passing the exam.

There are seven counties which don't have anyone who has passed the test running for assessor. One of those counties, Gage, doesn't have an assessor candidate at all.

In Gage County, someone with proper credentials will have to be appointed by the county board to serve as assessor unless someone with certification is elected by a write-in vote.

And, unless the winning candidate passes the test in the other six counties, the county boards will have to find someone who has to be assessor.

That goes, of course, for the counties which have a non-certified candidate running against one who has passed.

Counties in which there isn't even one candidate with certification are (in addition to Gage) Cass, Douglas, Hayes, Nuckolls, Thayer and Valley.

Records on file with the State Revenue Department show that there have been 53 run-ins for assessor so far. The testing started in 1970.

The county with the most flunks is Rock County where there have been test failures by seven applicants.

Rock County was involved in a State Supreme Court test of the examination law. The judges of the high court ruled that the law was valid and that the state could insist that persons serving as assessors have passed the test.

"If you think Americans face gasoline shortage problems, consider the plight of the average citizen of Moscow, as reported in a Reader's Digest article. With just 20 public gasoline stations in the entire city, gas sometimes line up for blocks to reach the pumps. Moreover, car repairs often take months, and disabled cars wrapped in tarpaulin are among the commonest sights in Moscow."

Somerset, Ky., Commonwealth Journal

"It's an ill wind, etc. The government decision to clamp controls on the distribution of propane gas; to be followed by rationing of heating oil, together with predictions of severe fuel shortages anyway if it's a hard winter, have caused a boom in sales of oldtime wood-burning stoves. It's unbelievable," says a spokesman for one large manufacturer, who says he already has more orders on file than he can possibly fill. Ben Franklin's fireplace, which always was an efficient heater, has been considered mostly a decorator item for 10, these many years, is also enjoying a comeback. The phenomenon raises the question, of course, of where everybody is going to get the wood to burn in all these stoves, not to mention the effects on air pollution. But one problem at a time, please."

EXTENSION NOTES

Keep cool and save energy at the same time. With careful and limited use of the heating appliances, the amount of heat inside the home can be reduced.

Whenever possible, do heavy baking in the cooler time of the morning or evening. Or at this time, plan to do the laundering as it avoids peak load periods on electric current. It would also save the energy used by the air conditioner. Vent the clothes dryer to the outside to reduce heat and moisture in the house.

Use the exhaust fan to remove excess moisture in the bath or kitchen, keeping it on only for the short time it is needed.

Electric skillets with high dome lids can be used in place of the large oven when only a small amount of baking needs to be done. Portable electric broilers could easily substitute for the large oven broiler when there is only one or two persons to prepare for.

Turn off light bulbs, radios, TV and even phonographs when they are not in use. It will lessen the amount of heat passing out into the room and also will mean a smaller electrical bill.

National Guard Heading For Training Exercises

Units of the Nebraska Army National Guard's 67th Infantry Brigade (Mechanized) will begin their movement to Fort Carson near Colorado Springs, Colo., on Friday morning.

Several guardsmen and officers, who make up an advanced detachment for each unit in the state, left Wednesday morning to establish the base camp at Fort Carson in readiness for the arrival of the main body of troops on Sunday.

The movement to Fort Carson will involve some 3,500 men and women, and over 600 vehicles and aircraft. In some instances, commercial busses will be used to transport personnel not able to travel on the vehicle convoys.

Among those taking part in the training at Fort Carson will be about 110 members of the Dennis O'Neill unit, according to Wayne Spangler, administrative supply technician at the Wayne Armory.

The two-week stay at Fort Carson, unlike last year's training in Nebraska, will afford members of the Brigade an opportunity to function and train as a Brigade sized entity.

2nd SS Hike Comes in July

The second part of a two-step increase in monthly social security benefits will be included in checks delivered in July, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

The overall increase will amount to 11 per cent for most people getting social security payments. A seven per cent increase was included in checks starting in April.

"The increase will enhance the financial security of about 30 million people who get social security benefits," Branch said. "People getting social security checks don't have to do anything to get the higher payments. The increase will be added automatically."

Starting in July, average social security retirement payments will go from $161 to $181 a month. Average social security disability payments will go from $184 to $206 a month. Average survivors payments to a widow will go from $148 to $168 a month. Average survivors payments to a widow with two children in her care will go from $418 to $435 a month.

For 1974, the amount of yearly earnings subject to social security deductions has been increased from the first $10,800 to the first $12,200, but there is no increase in the contribution rate. Employees and employers will continue to pay 5.85 per cent each on covered earnings, and the rate for self-employed people drops to 7.9 per cent.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Willse
"Happiness is not a point to be reached... it is a way of traveling."
Schopenhauer

Many of us think of happiness as an elusive point at gold at the end of the rainbow, when in truth it is a state of mind which is within the reach of everyone. Working in anticipation of a point to be reached can often bring more satisfaction than the actual reaching of that point. The road we travel, the circumstances we make and the experience we gain along the way are, for the most part, of our own selection. Our happiness depends on the choices we make in other words, happiness is a way of traveling. Luckily, It Was Just A Mock Tornado . . . Not The Real Thing

If last Friday night's mock tornado disaster in Wayne had been the real thing, these pictures might tell a grim story of what happened after the tornado struck. Luckily, they merely show many of the volunteers who took part in that practice drill, held in an attempt to find out where the bugs are so they can be ironed out in case a real disaster ever strikes. Scenes from the practice disaster, clockwise from top left: Ray Buffs, co-chairman of the drill, listens to reports on the approaching tornado from citizen band radio operators. Volunteer victims sprawl out in the basement of Wayne State's Rice Auditorium, the disaster site, as if they had been knocked unconscious by the tornado. Dr. Robert Benthack and Mrs. Miron Jenness treat injured victim Marion Haayer, Wayne State wrestling coach, after rescue people brought him to the National Guard Armory, makeshift-hospital for the practice drill. Wayne police chief Vern Fairchild gives his criticisms of the operation at a critique following the drill. Dr. Benthack and Mrs. Jenness discuss medical treatment for another victim as Debbie Hudson listens. Mrs. Berniece Fulton, Wayne State teacher who helped line up victims for the disaster, waits for WS basketball coach Ron Jones to tear off one of "injuries." Volunteer firemen Dean Bruggeman, Joe Dorcsey, Jim Thomas, first aid volunteer David Hamm, and fireman Pat Gross lift one of the victims onto a stretcher.

Beiermann's Campaign Is Most Costly

Wayne farmer Merlin Beiermann, successful in his bid for the Republican nomination for the first district commissioner's job in Wayne County, spent more money on his campaign than any other candidate in the May 14th primary election, reports reveal.

Beiermann spent a total of $249.11 on his campaign, according to reports filed with county election commissioner Norris Weible.

Burt of Winside, who currently holds the commissioner's post. Burt spent $36 on his campaign, according to the reports filed with Weible. He listed no contributions.

Spending no money on their campaigns during the primary election and listing no contributions were sheriff Don Weible, a Republican, and superintendent of schools Fred Rickers and Maxous weed-board members Mike Karel and John Owens, non-political candidates. All are from Wayne.

Expenditures by the other candidates, all seeking another term in office: County clerk Norris Weible, $4.40; district court clerk Joann Ostrander, $9.52; treasurer Leon Meyer, $8.80; assessor Doris Stipp, $50.30. They listed no contributions. All were unopposed in the primary race for the Republican nomination, no Democrats ran in any county race.

HECTARES, QUINTALS, ETC.
The U. S. winter wheat crop may be harvested from 18,540,000 hectares in 1974, with an expected average 23.7 quintals per hectare and a total production of 43,874,000 mega grams.

Even the most accomplished farmer may not readily match those numbers with the common English measures and weights of acres, bushels and tons. However, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Crop Reporting Board is helping close the knowledge gap by including metric measures for several commodities in their monthly Crop Report from Washington.

A quick comparison shows a hectare equals 2.471 acres, quintal equals 3.67 bushels of wheat, or 220.46 pounds, and meqagram is the same as a metric ton which is 2,204.62 pounds.

Applying these metric conversions to the May crop estimates indicate there are 45, 813,000 winter wheat acres for harvest, with an expected yield of 35.2 bushels per acre, for a total crop output of 1,612,000,000 bushels.

Here are some easy ways to remember the differences between metric and English measures and weights: metric ton, 2,200 pounds heavier than our ton; hectare, about 2 1/2 acres; kilo meter, 5/8 of a mile; meter, 1/3 yards.

FOOD PRICES SOFTENING
Retail prices of some foods are coming down because of lower farm prices. However, according to a USDA spokesman, not all the change is going to the consumer. The Consumer Price Index for April showed a 1.1 per cent drop in the retail price of U. S. farm foods, mostly beef, pork, poultry, eggs and tomatoes. Not all decreases in farm prices have gone through to the consumer because marketing margins of food retailers and processors have widened sharply.

New Gridiron Grass

AFTER YEARS of patchwork sodding, the football field at Wayne State's Memorial Stadium is getting a complete renovation this spring. The first major step: regrading of the soil to crown the field with a slope to each sideline. Then resodding, a task which a Lyons sod firm finished in two days last week between rains. A crew of Lyons area boys handled sod rolls in assembly line speed. Included in the renovation is an underground sprinkler system that will cover most of the field saving many man hours of watering labor. Only the football playing area is sodded. Sideline areas will be seeded.

Squeeze Test
One way to estimate moisture content is to use the squeeze test. Squeeze a handful of chopped forage into a ball and hold it 20-30 seconds, then quickly release your grip. The condition of the ball shows how much moisture it contains.

Here is a guide for estimating moisture content:
Ball holds shape, considerable juice, over 75 per cent moisture; ball holds shape, little juice, 70-75 per cent; ball falls apart slowly, no juice, 60-70 per cent; ball falls apart readily, below 60 per cent.

Time To Prune Pine Trees
Now is the time to prune pine trees. They should be pruned between June 15 and July 15.

Here are some pruning principles for pines:
1. Leave only one leader to avoid a two pronged tree.
2. Other than removing the secondary leader, don't alter the pine's basic shape.
3. Retain wide angled branches for the strongest catches.
4. Remove all diseased wood.
5. Make cuts at crotches and don't bare stubs.
6. Remove broken branches.
7. Apply wound dressing to cut surfaces, which are over one inch in diameter.

Moldy Silage
Moldy silage can be a problem and is caused by air coming into contact with most forage or silage, the result of poor packing, a leaky silo and or poor seal of exposed surface.
Molding can reduce palatability, cause off feed conditions and may even result in sick animals or abortions.

Here are some ideas for prevention of moldy silage:
1. Harvest the crop at an immature stage, have sufficient forage moisture, chop finely, distribute evenly during filling and pack firmly. Use a heavy tractor for packing bunker, trench or stack silos.
2. Fill the silo rapidly with a minimum of interruptions.
3. Avoid leaks in structures. Keep bands tight, doors in repair and sealant on joints of conventional upright silos when leaks become a problem.
4. Use a plastic cover for sealing the top of conventional uprights and to cover exposed silage and horizontal silos. The cover should be applied immediately after filling and must be weighted down with a material that completely covers the plastic. Without a continuous complete cover, even one break in the plastic will allow the entire surface to be exposed to air.

4-H Feeling Affect of The Feminist Movement?

Seeds of the feminist movement may be sprouting under the 4-H clover leaf. No longer do Nebraska 4-H girls only want to type the letters that lawyers write or wipe the sweaty brow of surgeons. They want to become doctors and attorneys, according to a survey of 23 girls and 12 boys, currently attending 4-H Club Week at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Those surveyed were selected randomly from about 240 registered for the four day conference. They are ages 14 through 18 and represent the approximate ratio of boys to girls at Club Week.

The survey indicated that the girls were more interested in post-high school education than the boys. All 22 plan to continue their schooling; only eight of the boys said they would.

There was more interest among boys in agricultural vocations and rural living. Five of the eight who anticipate more education after high school want to study some kind of agriculture. Of the remaining three, one wants to be a mechanic, another a theologian and a third has not decided about his career.

Two of the four not going on in school want to farm or ranch. A third wants to be a mechanic and the fourth says he will enlist in the Navy.

None of the boys want to live in a large city. Eight prefer a small town, three a medium sized town and one is undecided. The girls' ambitions were more diverse. In all, 15 different potential vocations were mentioned in the survey. They included nursing, animal ecology, accounting, psychology, veterinary science, veterinary technology, medicine, medical technology, scientific research, law, dental technology, crafts, fashion design, extension home economics and secretarial work.

Seven girls want to live in a large city, six in medium sized towns, nine in small towns and one is undecided.

Career selection is a major part of Club Week. On Wednesday, the 4-H'ers journeyed to Omaha to be guests of 22 businesses there.

The 4-H'ers split up into smaller groups according to the vocations they were interested in then spent the afternoon touring and learning about their host businesses.

The group returned to Lincoln after a dinner given by the Greater Omaha Chamber of Commerce at Peony Park.

Attending Club Week from Wayne County were Alan Ekberg, Kris Anderson, Gloria Hansen, Rhonda Kniesche, Cindy Bull, all of Wayne; Steve Gramlich and Dan Loberg, both of Carroll; Kari Wittler of Hoskins; and Les Thomsen and David Gustafson of Wakefield. Alan Jensen of Wakefield attended from Dixon County.

NRD BOARD OF DIRECTORS TO BE ELECTED IN NOVEMBER

The November general election will be the first opportunity for voters to choose the directors they want to represent them on the Lower Elkhorn NRD board of directors. When the Lower Elkhorn NRD consolidated soil and water conservation districts, watershed advisory boards, watershed districts, watershed conservancy districts and planning board met in July, 1972, the members of those boards also were consolidated into the Board of Directors of the Lower Elkhorn NRD.

With the coming election in November, the consolidated 77-member board will be reduced to a more workable and efficient 19-man board. State law provides for a range of 5 to 21 members on the Board of Directors. Nineteen members were chosen for the Lower Elkhorn NRD as the best representation of the natural resources district as far as hydrologic drainage, valuation and population.

Nine subdistricts have been set up, again according to state law, for nomination purposes only.

Every voter votes on all nineteen directors; however, by using the subdistricts for nomination, fair representation for all areas and problems is assured.

Two directors from each subdistrict will be elected with the largest vote-getter serving a four-year term and second largest vote-getter, a two-year term.

Then every two years an alternate director from each subdistrict will be elected to a four-year term.

In addition, one director at large will be elected to a four-year term. This director may live anywhere in the district. All others must live in the subdistrict in which they represent.

In the case of the Lower Elkhorn NRD, there will be nine subdistricts with two directors from each subdistrict or eighteen directors.

Election of the director at large would then make up the full board of nineteen directors.

Interested candidates may place their names on the ballot by petitions with twenty-five signatures. Those petitions are available from either the offices of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District at Norfolk and Clarkson or the County Clerk's office in the county in which you reside.

Either the candidate or a representative may circulate the petitions, however, signers and the candidate must live in the same subdistrict.

There can be no "write-in" candidates.

City Among Qualifiers For Flood Insurance

The city of Wayne is among 65 more areas in 27 states which have qualified for flood insurance for residential and non-residential properties, according to the National Flood Insurers Association (NFIA).

Damage from flooding is not covered in standard property insurance policies. The servicing organization for the city of Wayne is Royal Globe Insurance Co. of Kansas City, Mo.

Private insurance agents and brokers are authorized to offer flood insurance to interested owners of residential and non-residential properties. Coverage on contents also will be sold to owners and occupants of such buildings.

The insurance industry is participating in this program through the NFIA, an organization representing about 125 insurance companies. Participating companies act as servicing organizations on behalf of the association for the benefit of all agents, brokers and other companies.

The new flood coverage is being offered in accordance with requirements established under the terms of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973. The act requires that communities interested in becoming eligible for flood insurance take action to restrict unwise land use in flood-prone areas.

NOTICE OF MEETING - The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will meet on Tuesday, June 18, 1974 at the Wayne County Courthouse from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The agenda for this meeting is available for public inspection at the County Clerk's Office.

Democrats OK $1,000 for Dyas' Bid

Wayne County Democrats have voted to contribute $1,000 to Hess Dyas' campaign for Congress in the First District. The financial contribution, announced by Alan O'Donnell, Wayne County Democratic chairman, represents one dollar for each registered Democrat in the county.

Dyas, a Democrat, is challenging incumbent Republican Charles Thone for the First District seat.

The Wayne County Democrats have also approved a resolution criticizing Thone for inconsistency in his votes in the House of Representatives.

"Thone has often managed to take both sides of important issues," O'Donnell explained, "voting one way when a bill is progressing in the House, and then voting the other way when it comes down to the final vote." "That way, he expects to be able to fool the voters and change positions when it's expedient."

The group also criticized Thone for "not providing enough help and leadership for agriculture," the chairman said.
