Dixon Man Drowns in Gravel Pit

A young Dixon man who drowned Sunday, while swimming with friends near Glenwood, Ia., was buried in New castle Wednesday.

He was Patrick Coughlin, 24, who drowned while swimming in an unsupervised gravel pit about nine miles southwest of Glenwood, officials said.

Authorities said Coughlin called for help while swimming about 75 feet from shore in 30 feet of water. His fiancée tried to save him but was unsuccessful, they said.

Coughlin, who had attended schools in the Dixon and New castle area, graduated from Holy Trinity High School at Hartington. He had worked as a carpenter in Omaha, and he was employed in Newcastle at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at St. Pet. See DROWNING, page 9

Hospital Road Turns Into Headache for City Council

Wayne's city council will meet with representatives of the Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk Monday night to discuss who will pay for an access road to the new $15 million hospital being built on the northeast edge of the community.

The special meeting was scheduled by the council Tuesday night after councilmen learned from city attorney Budd Bornhoff that there apparently is no state law which permits the city to pay for the access road.

Bornhoff told the council that the road would be a "special benefit" to the hospital and therefore can't be paid for by the city regardless of an apparent commitment given the Sisters that the city would construct the road.

He noted that former mayor Kent Hall wrote a letter in January of last year which seems to commit the city to paying for the road. That letter went to the state department of health after the city council agreed to pick up its option to purchase land for the road, which would be constructed from 10th street north to the hospital.

That prompted councilman Jim Thomas to note that the council at that time did not agree to pay for the road. Thomas agreed with Bornhoff that "the whole road is out of the picture" as far as being paid for by the city.

Monday night's meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Woman's Club Room at the city auditorium, may result in some agreement between the Sisters and the city as to who will finance the road.

The road, which would likely cost at least $25,000, is necessary if the hospital is to open, according to the Sisters. The second road is necessary to meet government regulations, they say.

Bornhoff said after the council meeting that it's unlikely that the city could be forced to pay for the road if it is against state law to do so. He also noted that federal officials would probably not hold up opening of the hospital simply because the road had not been built.

Also to be discussed during Monday night's special meeting is the proposed budget for the coming fiscal year. Administrator Fred Brink told the council the proposed budget is 1.9 per cent larger than the See ROAD, page 9

Firm to Unveil Ideas on Downtown Development

Wayne businessmen and interested citizens will get a chance to see what an Omaha firm suggests to be done to revitalize the downtown shopping area during a meeting on Monday, July 8.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Woman's Club Room in the city auditorium following the 7:30 p.m. quarterly membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Explained during the meeting, which will be open to the public, will be the ideas and suggestions which Kirkham, Michael and Associates of Omaha has come up with since taking on the study of how to improve the business district.

The firm has been working on the project for the past several weeks after being hired by a downtown development committee composed of several businessmen interested in improving the look of the main business district. The firm's $1,500 fee for the project will be paid with the $850 donated by the businessmen and the $850 contributed by the city.

Steve Saylor, the architect who has been working on the project, said he will present a slide program and display colored drawings of how the business district could look if an improvement program were undertaken. See PLANS, page 9

Woman Elected to Association Board

Mrs. Betty Addison of Wayne has been elected to a three year term as a director of the Nebraska League of Savings and Loan Associations.

She was named to the post during a general membership meeting of the state group in Lincoln on Friday. Currently president of Wayne Federal Savings and Loan, she is the first person from Wayne to be named to the board of directors.

The state organization, made up of representatives of savings and loan associations from across the state, attempts to keep members informed about issues of interest to them.

Musil Shihadeh, self-described as "twice a refugee as a result of Israel occupation and eviction from Palestine," will appear at Wayne State College July 16-17.

Shihadeh will take part in an open forum on the topic of "The United States and the Middle East." Representatives from Israel and Iran previously announced participation in the forum. Ariel Kerem, consul general of the Israeli Consulate in Chicago, and Dr. George H. Kazemian, minister for cultural affairs of the Iranian Embassy in Washington, will appear with Shihadeh.

Professor Allen O'Donnell of the political science department at Wayne State, has stated that representatives from the Soviet Union and the U. S. State Department are also expected to attend the forum.

"They, the Soviet Union and the State Department, both have agreed to send representatives. We are now awaiting information on who will represent the Soviets and the United States," O'Donnell said. "No doubt this will be a tremendous learning experience for our students. And this is to be an open forum. All are invited to take part. We will put out a schedule so that all Nebraskans can come listen to and ask questions of the diplomats," he noted.

Shihadeh holds degrees from St. Joseph's College and DePaul University of Chicago. He is a spokesman for the Palestinian views in the Midwest and represents the Arab-American Congress for Palestine.

School Mill Levy Dip Anticipated

Wayne Carroll school district totals 64.17 or $4.17 on each $1,000 worth of assessed valuation. That includes a general levy of 53.80 mills, a sinking fund levy of three mills and a bond building levy of 7.37 mills.

Superintendent Francis Haun said the proposed budget calls for raising $800,037.94 through local property taxes. That figure is considerably under the $838,398.34 being raised through local taxation to finance the current fiscal year, he said.

"We're particularly pleased to be able to cut the mill levy again this year," said Haun, who noted that the mill levy has been lowered the two previous years. This year's anticipated drop of between two and three mills would be the largest drop See BUDGET, page 9

Marvel: Exon Is Continuing His 'Smoke Screen' Tactics

By NORVIN HANSEN
Republican candidate for governor Richard Marvel didn't waste time sparing during a campaign stop in Wayne Tuesday, saying Governor J. J. Exon is setting up "smoke screens" rather than attempting to deal with the real problems facing Nebraskans.

Gov. Exon, a Democrat, is misleading the voters about lowering taxes, is failing to take steps to help the farmer and feeder, and is making political hay out of the interstate highway sign problem, said Marvel.

Exon's claims about cutting taxes "is simply not true," Marvel told a gathering of about 120 Republicans at Bressler Park Tuesday night. Exon has almost double the approximate $30 million surplus that former governor Norbert Ticmann carried in his administration, Marvel said, noting that lower taxes would result if that surplus were reduced.

Marvel was on the last leg of his 14 day trip which began on June 14 and will take him to nearly 30 communities by the time he gets back in Lincoln tonight (Thursday). With him on the campaign swing along the borders of the state is Mrs. Anne Batchelder, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor.

An 18-year veteran of the state legislature, Marvel said Exon should be taking concrete steps to try to get pending legislation out of committees in the Congress so farmers can get some relief from low livestock prices. But rather than doing that, Exon is criticizing the administration in Washington and seeking a talk with President Nixon about the problem, the candidate said.

Livestock producers would be better off, said Marvel, if Exon used his influence in his party to get legislation concerning import quotas and government-backed loans out of committees and voted on by the Congress.

Both Exon and Mrs. Batchelder said they favor putting a quota on meat imports in an attempt to get farmers a higher price for the livestock they market. They also said they lean to favoring an embargo on meat imports and are in favor of government-backed loans to farmers to help them recover from the losses they have already suffered because of the depressed market.

Exon's handling of the interstate highway signs issue is just another example of his inability or refusal to get down to the "real meat of the coconut," according to Marvel.

Marvel said he agrees with Exon that the signs along the interstate highway are attractive and do promote tourism, but that is a side issue which Exon is focusing attention on in an attempt to get himself out of the "box" he got himself into.

The major issue as far as the signs are concerned is that Exon agreed to a one-year experiment with the signs after they were put up illegally and now he is trying to get out of that agreement, said Marvel. In doing so, he is jeopardizing $39 million in federal highway funds, he noted.

Marvel emphasized that the Republicans in this state should not "hang our heads" because of the problems in Washington stemming from Watergate. That problem is not a problem of the Republican party in Nebraska, he said, and it should not affect the November general election.

He said the primary election returns prove that the Republican party is still the strongest party in Nebraska because both he and Mrs. Batchelder polled more votes than Exon and his running mate, Gerald Whelan. And that was accomplished in spite of all the excitement and money spent in the Democrat's race for the lieutenant governor nomination, he noted.

Mrs. Batchelder joked during Tuesday's gathering that she has always looked up to Marvel, who is over six feet tall. "I stand five feet four and he stands five feet 18," she quipped. He has now added another inch to his height, she said, by buying a pair of cowboy boots in Elgin.

Marvel showed off those cowboy boots to the crowd, noting that he gained a lot See "SMOKE SCREEN," page 9

There's No Doubt: Local '9' Now Tops

Wayne's town team left little doubt in the minds of Newcastle and Homer players about which team ranks first in the North-east Nebraska Baseball League. The locals this week took a pair of games from both second-place teams for a solid 9-0 first-half lead in the loop.

Wayne downed Newcastle on its home field, 5-2, for its ninth win Tuesday night. Pitcher Randy Benish went the distance in the make-up game, striking out 10 to win his fourth contest.

Wayne jumped off to a 1-0 in the first inning when leading hitter Terry Lutt singled and scored on catcher Dennis Paul's double. Left fielder Mike Creighton boosted Wayne's lead to 2-0 in the following frame when he scored on center fielder Dan Nedrig's ground out before Benish made the score, 2-1.

Benish and third baseman Bob Weisenberg gave Wayne a 4-1 lead in the sixth after the pair singled. Benish scored on Weisenberg's hit before second baseman Randy Helgren singled home Wayne's first.

Benish and Lutt took first and second on a walk and single before Weisenberg doubled home the first two runs. Helgren unleashed the second double to top Weisenberg before left fielder Mike Creighton singled home Helgren.

Homer started chipping away at Wayne's lead with runs in the second, fourth and seventh frames. Weisenberg finished the night with 14 strikeouts.

Newcastle's Jon Ego was the man to beat in Wakefield's 4-0 loss in the league's second place club Sunday night.

The former Wayne State shortstop scored all four runs while striking out 10 batters. He smashed a two run homer in the first inning, then knocked in the first two runs on a pair of singles in the third and fifth frames.

Wakefield managed only three hits while pitcher Mark Feather suffered his second loss against non-locals. Wakefield's record is 3-1.

Allen Martinsburg plastered Pender 2-0 to score its second win of the season against six losses.

Gary Munter took the loss, giving up 10 hits as the visitors pounded out five runs in the fifth for its biggest run scoring in nine. Wakefield got on the scoreboard when first baseman Dan Byers and left fielder Scot Keagle scored in the fourth.

Wayne State

Wayne State basketball coach Ron Jones said an article in an area daily newspaper concerning his possible resignation is pure speculation.

Jones, entering his Norfolk Daily News sports editor's position, mentioned Jones may quit his post, said his resignation has not been confirmed. Jones told me Sunday "If I do decide to resign, you'll be the first to know."

Talk around town is that Jones might be taking a year's leave of absence to continue his studies, possibly at Kansas University. If he does leave, it would leave the Wildcats in a predicament. According to athletic director LeRoy Simpson, the college would have to hire another faculty member with basketball coaching experience to replace Jones.

Last year Larry Schultz assisted Jones, but Schultz already has a job — head baseball coach. "It would be too much of a load to ask Larry to take over basketball," Simpson pointed out. Besides, the college still would have to hire someone to coach some of the courses Jones taught — basketball theory, sports officiating, etc., said Simpson.

Simpson ruled out the possibility of last year's graduate assistant, Randy Rolison becoming the new head man. Right now Randy is teaching golf in Omaha.

Wayne town team fans are in for a real treat July 4th when the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League team faces South Sioux City. The whole family can get in for a buck, giving everyone a good chance to watch the NNBL's top team in action.

According to recreation director Hank Overin, he isn't sure if he'll have his beginner recreation boys playing in a pregame contest. That night Wayne's Legion will be at Wakefield's tournament.

An added treat at no cost will be the Wayne County Junior High fireworks display following the town team game. Early in the annual event draws a packed house, with youngsters and grownups lining the fences. Better get the city ball park early so you won't have to stand.

LeMars Sertoma Club is sponsoring a summer wrestling tournament July 20 at the LeMars Community Junior High School, with competition divided into three age groups: 10-12, 13-15, 16-18. Entry forms, due July 17, can be obtained from wrestling coaches or Rudy Adler. LeMars. Entry fee is $2.

If you want to see some top bull riding, mark Friday, Saturday, and Sunday on your calendar. That's when Nebraskan Jerome Robinson, one of the world's top bull riders, will be competing in Ponca's annual Days of '56 Rodeo. Last year the Brandon native placed ninth in the world with earnings over $14,000. The 26-year-old Colorado State University graduate has more than $4,800 in winnings so far in 1974. Performances at 7:30 p.m. will feature a saddle and bareback bronc riding, bull riding, call roping and steer wrestling.

Area golfers are invited to the 18-hole open golf tournament at Plainview Sunday. Tee off time follows 7:30 a.m. registration. Prizes awarded to the first four places in every flight, trophies to winner and runner up in the champion ship round.

Scattered Notes

If you didn't get a chance to view Winside's new ball field during the Midget and Legion ball games last week, take time out when the teams host Wakefield Lyons Monday night. Lights are up and working, the backstop is in and the new aluminum bleachers are installed. Once the fence is built and refreshment stand is completed, it should be an enjoyable place to watch and play softball and baseball.

Before town team fans start searching the rule books on age requirements for umpires, this word of explanation why Wakefield youth Kirk Peters is umping this year. Although only 16 (minimum age is 18 to work town team), Kirk has been allowed to work games through a special ruling. Peters said NNBL secre-

Fary Merlin "Lefty" Olson of Wakefield okayed his umping after a special league session.

Carroll Evens Record at 3-3

Carroll's softball team evened its record at 3-3 in the Pioneer Men's Softball League with a pair of wins over Coleridge and Verdigris.

Monday night the area team nipped Verdigris, 3-1, scoring all three runs in the sixth frame. Last Thursday Carroll smashed Coleridge, 7-5.

Tonight (Thursday), Carroll travels to Plainview, carrying its record to 3-3.

Wakefield Legion Downs Wisner for 1 in League

Wakefield settled the question of which Legion team is first in the Ralph Bishop League Monday night.

Coch Paul Eaton's club ripped former league co-leader Wisner, 8-2, for a 5-1 loop record.

Wakefield scored three runs in the first and five in the fourth on sharp hitting by pitcher Dale Bell, left fielder Neil Blohm and first baseman Roger Lueth. All three had two hits each for more than half the team total of 11.

In weekend games the area club boosted its overall record to 14-2, taking a pair from Sioux City North on Saturday in games at Wayne and one from O'Neill on Sunday.

Scott Miller and Neil Blohm posted wins in Saturday's matches as Miller led Wakefield to a 1-0 win in the first game of a doubleheader. No score was available for the second game.

Sunday Roger Lueth gave up five hits as Wakefield pounded O'Neill, 8-1. Miller and Lueth both hit doubles.

Wayne exploded for 13 runs in the first three frames to easily down Laurel Monday, 13-4.

The locals had eight runs in the third with the help of five hits. Catcher Bill Schwartz scored twice that frame after hitting a single and double to share the three-way batting leadership. Schwartz went two for four at the plate, as did second baseman Randy Nelson and right fielder Kerry Jech. Both had two singles.

Wayne's Charlie Roland picked up the win.

Laurel scored three runs in the first frame for a 3-2 lead on five Wayne errors, but Roland regained control of the game, striking out nine batters.

Sterling Stolpe started for Laurel, fanning one Wayne player before coach Brent Johnson put Jerry Stanley on the mound. Stanley struck out six.

Wayne has a 4-2 league record while Laurel drops to 1-4.

Overall Wayne stands at 8-5 including Sunday's home victory over Scribner, 9-6.

Both clubs were tied at 3-3 after two frames before Wakefield scored two in the third, three in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Scribner tallied one in the third and two in the seventh.

Out of seven hits the locals had three doubles, by Earle Overin, Kim Baker and Roland. Wayne's Randy Nelson, who suffered a pulled muscle in Friday night's contest, gave up pitching duties in the fourth. Baker and Overin finished to game. Nelson had the top bat for Wayne with a pair of singles in three at bats.

In other action Monday night both Winside and Pender pitchers tossed no-hitters. However, a walk and two Winside errors in the fourth allowed Pender to win its third game against two losses, 1-0.

Doug Lage, who started on the mound for Winside, suffered the loss. Winside's record is 1-5.

Climbing Temps Produce Records At Power Plant

Thursday's 104 degree temperature made life uncomfortable for area residents and led to record setting production at Wayne's municipal power plant.

Plant superintendent Norbert Brugger said both the peak production — amount of electricity being produced at a certain time — and total production records were broken.

One of the major reasons for the high production at the plant was the numerous air conditioning units in use in homes and businesses, said Brugger. "There are just more air conditioners, and they are running more of the time," he noted.

Total production during all Thursday was 115,200 kilowatt hours, breaking the 112,100 kwh record set on July 11 a year ago.

However, that new record was broken the following day when engines ground out a total of 117,495 kwh, primarily because the temperature never cooled off and many air conditioners ran throughout Thursday night and most of Friday, Brugger said.

Production was at its highest at 4:30 p.m.

shortly after the temperature crept to 104 in Wayne. Engines at the plant were producing 6,900 kilowatts, 100 more than they were producing when the previous record was set last July 11.

It was considerably cooler — if that's the correct word — on July 11 last year than it was on Thursday, however. The temperature in Wayne reached 92 on that day.

Although a new total production record was set at the plant Thursday, some of the electricity was actually brought in from Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD). A total of 15,600 kwh were purchased from NPPD between midnight and 6 a.m. that day.

The city just this month began relying on NPPD power to supplement that produced locally. On June 15, the engines at the plant were producing no power, and all electricity being used in the city was coming from NPPD. That marked the first day since 1898 that the local power plant was not producing electricity, according to Brugger.

A Lot of Work

THE EFFORTS of two Wausa youths to collect empty beer cans paid off big dividends Saturday morning when the pair received a $111 check for returning 15,447 aluminum cans to Wayne Cold Storage. The cans will be sent to the Olympia brewery in Washington where they will be melted down and used again. According to Tom Prenger (right), owner of Wayne Cold Storage, Olympia pays 15 cents a pound for empty beer cans. That means Rodney and Doug Tangeman (left) and their father, Don, collected 745 pounds of cans in the past several months. They did it by combing the Wausa area mostly, Tangeman said, but they also went to Creighton, Osmond, Magnet and McLean. The next project start again.

Demos Slate Telethon Party

In conjunction with the National Democratic Telethon, "Answer America," the Wayne County Democrats will hold a telethon garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Prenger beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Prengers live about one-half mile west of the drive-in theatre on the north side of the highway.

The garden party will be an ice cream social and is open to the public at large. "We invite all to our party," said county chairman Allen O'Donnell of Wayne. No one is excluded Democrat, Republican, Populist, Independent.

The garden party will also be an opportunity to honor long-time Democratic worker Henry Ley of Wayne. Ley is currently recovering from surgery at home and will attempt to be at Saturday night's party, according to O'Donnell.

The telethon will be seen over CBS-TV beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday. Its basic purpose is to raise funds for the Democratic Party for small donors rather than having party politics dependent on large donors. The first telethon was held in connection with the Democratic Convention in Miami in 1972. The 1973 telethon resulted in more than $30,000 being raised. This year county parties will receive one-third of all donations given.

Budget

In recent years, no small accomplishment in a period of inflation, he said.

Although operation of the school district for the coming year will demand less money being raised locally, the school district will actually spend more money during 1974-75 than it will this year.

Total expenditures for the coming year will be $1,253,838 compared to $1,153,115 for the present year, a difference of $100,723.

The mill levy is expected to drop in spite of that total expenditure increase because the cash reserve will be reduced from $411,000 to $350,000, according to Haun. The cash reserve is used to finance the school district from August until property taxes bring in funds about the end of the year, he said.

Also contributing to the anticipated drop in the mill levy will be the increased high school tuition rate — from the present $1,850 to $2,050 — and the increase in funds for federally financed school projects and classes, he noted.

Salaries for teachers and money for administration will take the biggest bite out of that proposed expenditure of $1.25 million, according to budget information supplied by Haun.

Costs for instruction — everything from salaries for principals and teachers to textbooks and library supplies — total $807,993. Costs for administration, including the superintendent's salary, total $44,550.

Instruction costs for the current year are expected to total $750,815, according to the budget data. Administration costs will total slightly over $40,000.

He said the colored drawings and slides should be especially effective because they can be compared to black and white photographs taken of all the business fronts on Main Street between First and Fourth Streets.

"We're trying awfully hard to soften the downtown area with such things as trees, benches, drinking fountains and the like," he said about the ideas he will discuss at the July 8th meeting.

"We're trying to capture some of the same things the interior shopping malls are offering shoppers to get some color and excitement in the downtown area," he noted. "At the same time, the firm has tried to emphasize some things in the downtown area which can't be offered by any shopping mall, he added.

present budget and would require a hike in the levy of 3.36 mills. The current levy is 22.70 mills, or $27.70 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

In other action Tuesday night, the council approved low bid for construction of water main extensions in the city's Industrial area east of the community.

Submitting low bid of $36,016 was Penro, Construction Co. of Plender. The firm would begin construction by Sept. 15 and complete it within 40 days.

Also submitting bids were Central Sand and Gravel of Columbus, $40,270 L. E. Ball Construction Co. of Norfolk, $41,220, and Tilden Construction Co. of Tilden, $44,000.

The council also:

Agreed 7-0 to have another proposed ordinance drawn up which would permit selling beer on Sunday in the city. The council last month voted a similar ordinance down, but several councilmen who were serving on the council at that time have now completed their terms.

Pizza house operator Andy Manes asked that the council consider the proposal once again. (Councilman Vernon Ruckert was not present for the meeting.)

Passed 6-1 (Thomas dissenting) an ordinance providing retirement benefits for elderly employees who cannot qualify for a regular retirement program. Six employees would be eligible for the plan.

Agreed 7-0 to permit automobile shops and the like to have unlicensed cars on hand to take parts off of in their business.

Okayed 7-0 the appointment of Larry Meier to the housing authority Member Wilmer Marra declined an opportunity to be named to another term on the board.

Learned of a meeting scheduled for the Women's Club Room at 8 p.m. on July 8 for unveiling of proposed ideas for beautifying the downtown business district.

Directed the city attorney to write a letter explaining that the city cannot pay for part of the cost of paving Grainland Road. The city administrator is to send copies of the letter to property owners concerned. Earlier in the meeting, Mrs. Clair Swanson, Mrs. William Workman and Mr. Charles Kudrna, who live along Grainland, told the council they want action on getting the street hard surfaced. Borhott said the road would benefit the property owners in the same way, the hospital road would benefit the hospital and therefore can't be financed by the city.

Took the action after learning that the city could obtain federal funds to help pay for purchasing a mini-bus and operating it for one year. The mini bus would be used to ease transportation difficulties for elderly residents of the city. The city administrator is to find out approximate costs of such a vehicle.

Officials in Lincoln

Several Wayne County officials were in Lincoln Tuesday to see how Lancaster County officials use microfilming to keep records.

Making the trip to Lincoln were clerk Norris Weible, deputy clerk Orregretta Morris, clerk of district court Joann Ostrander and county judge Luverna Hilton.

Wayne County commissioners have decided to spend about $20,000 in federal revenue sharing funds to purchase microfilming equipment.

Microfilming equipment is expected to be purchased and in use by this fall, according to Weible.

'Few Pennies Add up to Big Loss'

A quarter of an ounce difference in the weight of prepackaged meat can mean the difference in cost to the consumer of about two and a half cents per pound.

That's not much when you first think about it, Gary Wiebelhaus told Wayne Kiwanians Monday, but when meat costs $1.60 a pound, the total cost for Nebraskans in one year could be about $3,577,500.

Wiebelhaus, supervisor for the state weights and measures division, said that weighing and measuring all forms of products sold over the counter or in pumps is a big business in Nebraska and requires constant checking by the state. Sometimes nicknamed the "Balancer" or "Regulator," Wiebelhaus pointed out that his job takes him across the state. Because the staff is composed of about 10 people, a lot of traveling is required to check all scales, measuring devices and pumps used in retail sales.

"Wiebelhaus said he has encountered several instances when merchants were short-changing the consumer and even cases when the consumer was getting more than his money's worth.

It's common to find errors from two to 25 cents, he said. One example of a stiff overcharge found one merchant selling a pound of meat for $1.14 a pound over the regular price because he was underweighing his packages.

Usually three warnings are given in most cases of overcharging, but some cases go directly to court, according to Wiebelhaus. If found guilty of overcharging, a merchant can be levied a $100 fine or more.

"Some people may think the merchant is getting away easy, but there's more to a fine than just $100," Wiebelhaus cautioned. Once consumers find out that a store owner overcharged, he might lose some business, raising the actual cost of the fine, he added.

Wiebelhaus said that in his business, he doesn't always make friends. Several times he has been cussed out for doing his job, another time had a frozen chicken thrown at him.

The majority of complaints of overcharges usually are against gas stations, Wiebelhaus pointed out.

Nebraska in 1970 was the last state in the nation to establish a separate weights and measures division. The division began under the department of agriculture, with both agricultural and sanitation personnel handling the job.

GARY WIEBELHAUS admits his job involves a lot of time on the road, usually five to six days a week as he covers all parts of Nebraska.

Business notes...

Most Stations Will Be Offering Non-Leaded Gas

Most service stations in Wayne will be selling non-leaded gas this summer, the result of a federal regulation requiring gas station owners to offer the new fuel. The regulation goes into effect Monday.

The non-leaded gas, designed for 1975 cars, is adaptable for use in today's cars without any noticeable change in performance, station attendants agree. But the price of buying and installing new fuel storage tanks may mean elimination of premium gas.

Many station owners say they cannot afford to buy a new tank to store the non-leaded gas. Besides, the waiting lines are long for such equipment. The federal government will give owners until September to offer the new gas if there is a delay in getting needed equipment. But for many operators the wait is too long and too expensive. As a result, many owners say they will drain their premium tanks and fill them with non-leaded gas.

Not all filling stations in Wayne will be required to sell non-leaded gas, however.

Mert's Econ-O-Way, for example, has a choice of whether to offer the new fuel since it doesn't sell 200,000 gallons of gasoline a year. Stations have to offer the gas if they sell more than that annually.

For some, like Eldon's Standard, there won't be any problems because that station already sells non-leaded gas. The only question owner Eldon Barelman faces is whether to continue selling premium. Barelman said cars made after 1975 won't need premium gasoline, and most of the later model vehicles run well on regular.

A special look at thoughts on fireworks, education...

Government tosses another bone to safety groups

Another bone has been thrown to safety and consumer groups: In the view of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, in the latest fireworks regulatory action by the government — which this year adds firecrackers to the list of "banned hazardous substances."

works will still be around, says the Society, which has long campaigned for a ban on all fireworks except those used for licensed public displays. "The year-old Consumer Product Safety Commission, in banning only firecrackers, is continuing the piecemeal approach to effective fireworks control that was the impetus for its predecessor, the Food and Drug Administration," says the Society's executive director, Virginia Boyce. She added that the Society this year would not formally file its objections to government regulatory action "because we are forced to recognize this procedure as a futile gesture." In previous years the Society has filed objections, petitioned for public hearings and presented fireworks injury survey data — all of which were rejected. (The 1969 survey, the latest undertaken by the Society, revealed 1,300 injuries, with five deaths and 25 cases of blindness, caused by fireworks.) Ironically, had the Society again filed objections, it would have been joined this year by strange bedfellows indeed — trade organizations representing fireworks manufacturers. Estimates of fireworks sales each year range between $100-180 million, and firecrackers reportedly account for over 40 per cent of these sales. The industry petition will seek to delay the June 17 ban for 30 days, to allow the sale of firecrackers through the 4th of July. "In recent years, increasing numbers of organizations and individuals have added their support to the Society's total ban campaign, formally communicating their position to the government. Organization support includes the American Academy of Pediatrics, American Public Health Association, National Safety Council and National Fire Protection Association. Federal and state legislators, police and fire department officials, physicians, newspaper editors and safety specialists are prominent among individual voices. "Our 1969 survey sufficiently alarmed these people to align them with us in our press for a total ban on fireworks," says Mrs. Boyce, "while the government claimed 'insufficient evidence,' even denying our request for a public hearing. And yet more recent estimates of the Commission itself give fireworks injury statistics considerably more appalling — five times the number — than those presented with our petition. "Another important point, in our view," she said, "is the all-too-common availability of illegal fireworks where 'certain' fireworks are permitted for sale. The federal position also factually undermines the more stringent fireworks regulations that exist in 25 states. For example, during the past year Massachusetts and Utah faced — but turned back — legislative efforts to loosen up their fireworks laws." The Society notes that the major portion of the June 17 government regulation is devoted to the detailed standards for manufacturing and labeling of permitted fireworks. "Mrs. Boyce said, "We feel this is a tangential maneuver which skirts the main issue — which is — that all fireworks, even well made fireworks, are inherently dangerous."

'So you have a BA degree, but what can you do?'

A young friend graduated from college recently and started looking for a job. The experience was a shock. He put it this way: "Prospective employers would say to me, 'Yes, it's nice that you have a BA degree, but what can you do?' And I realized that after 16 years of education, I couldn't do anything; that I'd have to learn a skill of some economic value to society to earn a living."

Lots of college grads are having similar experiences these days. And lots more will in the future. Experts figure the supply of college graduates and the supply of jobs requiring them will remain in rough balance through the 1970s. But in the decade of the 1980s, the number of college graduates will far outstrip the supply of jobs for them. Maybe it's time we all did some hard thinking about the purpose of an education. Most educators do not think that a liberal arts curriculum should be structured to impart a particular economically viable skill. That, they believe, is the proper aim of a professional, technical or vocational school. On the other hand, many liberal arts students seem to have a vague expectation that by graduation they will have acquired a marketable skill. That's a formula for disillusionment and bitterness. Students need more exposure to the world of commerce and industry, and they need it early in the educational process. The buzzword for such exposure is "career education." Career education means learning something about the nature and variety of skills needed by society. In the process, students should visit factories, stores and offices, and they should hear lectures from business executives, union leaders and civil servants. An advanced education in liberal arts should be pursued for its own sake, not solely as a ticket of admission to a management-trainee job. We should not take the snobbish and ignorant position that a college degree is "wasted" on someone who happens to prefer earning a living as an electrician, a plumber or a mechanic. In most cases, the individual who works with his hands as well as his mind is quite free to wonder who wrote the plays of Shakespeare, how to trisect an angle or why Napoleon invaded Russia. The popular philosopher Eric Hoffer became a part-time college professor on the strength of what he taught himself while working as a longshoreman on the docks of San Francisco. Until he reached retirement age, he chose to remain a longshoreman. College graduates would be making a big mistake not to consider work outside of the fields regarded as the traditional preserve of the degree holder. The skilled trades pay very well today, so do many technical fields. According to the American Movers Conference, there is a shortage of truck drivers in the interstate moving industry. Drivers who contract with one big company in the moving industry gross an average of $42,500 in their first year, and that's an eleven month year. Experienced drivers can make that much in only eight months, with careful scheduling and hard work. After deducting expenses such as truck payments, fuel, insurance, etc., the driver who grosses $37,500 has an average of $2,750 left. That's not a bad annual income. There are undoubtedly other jobs like that going begging, just waiting for someone adventurous enough to take off the blinders and find work that suits him, regardless of his official educational status or the preferences of his mother-in-law. By Arch Booth, president of Chamber of Commerce of United States

OBSERVATIONS

'Safe' fireworks are dangerous

Although this country has finally seen fit to ban some types of fireworks, there will be several deaths and numerous injuries this Fourth of July. Why? Because many of the deaths and injuries which have occurred in past years were the result of the "safe and sane" class C fireworks. A survey prepared in part by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness indicated that there were 1,300 cases of personal injury and property damage, including five deaths, reported across the nation in 1969 due to fireworks. The class C fireworks were responsible for 42 per cent of all injuries. According to the Nebraska Society for Prevention of Blindness, class C firecrackers measuring one and one-half inches in length and sparklers have caused more eye injuries and loss of vision than any other class. We hope that parents and others keep these facts in mind when they tell their youngsters go to the fireworks stand to purchase items to help celebrate the Fourth. And parents should keep them in mind when they make their own purchases to use with their youngsters who aren't quite old enough to handle fireworks on their own. Operators of these fireworks stands should use special care when selling their wares. They should not let youths light fireworks around their stands as has been done at times in previous years. That's asking for trouble. And the police should be especially watchful this year to make sure that those people who explode fireworks do so in such a way that it doesn't endanger those around them. If somebody is spotted exploding fireworks carelessly, they should be called down immediately by the proper authorities. They should not be allowed to make the Fourth of July unpleasant for others. — Norvin Hansen.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

Washout disappears

Filling that long washout northeast of Wayne with concrete rubble left from the bases of the government grain storage bins on the south edge of the community is an excellent way to solve two problems at once. That washout, dangerous to drivers and attractive to people who don't care much if the whole world sees their leavings, has pretty much disappeared now that the blocks of concrete have been used to fill it. The fill will make it less of a traffic hazard and less likely to be a place for area residents to dump their trash and garbage. There are plenty more dangerous washouts along county roads which should get the attention of the Wayne County commissioners this summer. They should be filled while there is plenty of daylight hours to spend on the task. If not, one of these days we are going to see a story in the news about somebody being seriously injured or killed after having driven into one of those washouts. Those that are not filled this summer should be clearly and plainly marked in an effort to make motorists as fully aware of them as possible. The washout northeast of Wayne was one of those where adequate warning was lacking. — Norvin Hansen.

Wayne Dear Editor: Two days are left from a year, full of fun and experiences. When I go home I will miss a lot of things I saw and learned in the U. S. Starting with chocolate chip cookies to waterskiing to the beautiful sunsets here in Nebraska. I met very many people with all different kinds of opinions and faiths. This way I learned to be a lot more open-minded. Everything was so different from the things I knew from Germany. I want to thank the faculty of Wayne High for their patience whenever I didn't know how to say something in English. I think Wayne has a very good AFS chapter. During that year everybody really helped me in any way. I hope that the members will always be that enthusiastic. They really tried to understand me and make me feel at home.

My last "thanks and good bye" go to the students from Wayne High. Because from them I learned very much about the way of life of the young people here. I really hope that the AFS program will exist for many more years here in Wayne, that there are always families who want to take a student and that there will be enough money to make the whole thing possible. I want to close with my best wishes for Derald Hamm with their "new daughter" Selwa, and I will never forget the year I spent in Wayne, Nebraska. — Monika Plehn. (Editor's Note: Monika, American Field Service student from Kassel, Germany, leaves Wayne this week after spending the past year with the Rowan Wittse family while studying at Wayne High School. The Derald Hamm family will be the host family for next year's AFS student, Selwa Dowly of Lebanon.)

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — The Legislature's Education Committee is going to look into the virtues, if any, of a variety of ways the state's public higher education would be rearranged. The committee has ordered from its research staff an analysis of effects of realignments of the University of Nebraska system, state colleges and technical community colleges. At the tail end of the 1974 session, Senator Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff raised the possibility of uniting the state colleges with the university system. There were those who said they thought it might be a good idea, but the idea died with the session. The Education Committee was assigned by resolution to examine questions involving coordination of higher education. Chairman Jerome Werner of Waverly said the committee would schedule a joint meeting sometime this summer with the Nebraska Coordinating Council for Postsecondary Education, created by executive order to monitor expenditure of federal funds by Nebraska's public and private colleges and universities.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

Cottonwood, Minn. Current "Billions of dollars of foreign money are now being invested in the United States. A decade ago Americans had invested $96 billion in foreign countries. The French feared we would soon own Europe. Now it's turned around. Why? The devaluation of the American dollar. Foreign investors can buy twice as much American investment for their money now. America is now a good buy."

Legislature to study higher education

Also on the legislative group's list of things to get done in the interim is a check into education offered to Mexican American children in Nebraska. Stan Porras, executive director of the Nebraska Mexican American Commission, appeared before the committee to say the dropout rate among Spanish-speaking students in some schools is as high as 60 per cent. Porras said it has become apparent that teachers need special training to conduct the kind of bilingual, bi-cultural classes Mexican-Americans believe their children need if they are to succeed. At the urging of Senator Ralph Kelly of Grand Island, the committee also is going to take a look at education in Omaha. Kelly said problems many outstate communities are facing or will soon have already been confronted in Omaha. He said it would be valuable to know how successfully Omaha has dealt with the problems he said he was referring to. On the other side of the coin, however, is the prospect of shortening the period of campaigning — and, thereby, cutting campaign costs. Candidates now have to retrain up their campaign workers come fall after a lull from spring politics. The reason senators were thinking about a change in the primary date was that they are considering an early-session recess in legislative sessions. The idea was to convene on schedule in January, elect officers, appoint committees and introduce bills — then take two weeks or more off so lawmakers and the public would have an opportunity to study pending legislation before it gets stirred into session machinery. If this were to happen, or so goes the rationale, senators would be ready to return to work after the recess and plunge into what with a better understanding of what is before them. But this scheme would call for a session that would bump into the primary, unless the election date is changed. Also under consideration is a move-up of the Legislature's starting date.

Recently employed with the idea of changing the primary election date. The primary now is held in May and is conducted just after the adjournment of the even year legislative sessions. Because of this, a plan to extend the time period in which the 60-day sessions are held becomes impractical. Senators said consideration ought to be given to changing the primary date to August, or maybe, September. Carroll's Secretary of State Allan J. Beermann held up a hand to caution the senators. Among the problems — and Beermann said there would be plenty of problems — involved in a later primary are loss of the popular presidential primary and election of delegates to national party conventions. Furthermore, Beermann said, many local elections are held in conjunction with spring primaries and it would be complicated to change the primary date. On the other side of the coin, however, is the prospect of shortening the period of campaigning — and, thereby, cutting campaign costs. Candidates now have to retrain up their campaign workers come fall after a lull from spring politics. The reason senators were thinking about a change in the primary date was that they are considering an early-session recess in legislative sessions. Thoughts for the day THURSDAY — Unless jealousy is curbed, it will result in much evil. Solomon 8:6 — Love is strong as death, jealousy is cruel as the grave. FRIDAY — A Christian is a living sermon whether or not he preaches a word. 1 Peter 4:9 — Be hospitable to one another without complaining. SATURDAY — A Christian's life is the world's Bible. Matthew 10:38 — And he who does not take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. SUNDAY — We who look for Jesus ought to be joyful. — Matthew 2:10 — When they saw the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. MONDAY — Anchor to the throne of God, and then shorten the rope. Hebrews 6:19 — which hope we have as an anchor to the soul, TUESDAY — So do your duty, and trust God to give the seed you sow. Isaiah 32:20 — Sow beside all waters. WEDNESDAY — Quiet waiting before God would save from many a mistake, and from many a sorrow. Isaiah 49:23 — Thou shalt know that I am the Lord; for they shall not be ashamed that wait for me. Tolman Gets Praise for Research Northeast Station beef specialist Walt Tolman gained praise Sunday for developing the Station's beef research programs over the past 15 years, but he said he preferred looking at what lies ahead rather than what has been done in the past.

Tolman told those who turned out for the reception honoring him before his retirement at the end of this month that the Northeast Station "is just one or two steps on the way to a great future." He said he has simply played a part in getting that program started along with the numerous farmers and feeders who have helped over the years.

Frank Baker, chairman of the animal science division of the University of Nebraska Lincoln extension service, called Tolman "a living example of a dedicated University of Nebraska animal science member."

Also praising Tolman were Tom Gustafson of Wakefield, president of the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association; Robert Craft of Foster, president of the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association; and Woody Collins of Meadow Grove, president of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association.

They said Tolman deserved recognition for helping develop the beef research programs at the Northeast Station from almost nothing to programs which have gained national recognition.

"All of the livestock feeders across the state have benefited from his work," noted Collins.

Tolman and his wife Gladys were the honored guests during the reception at the NU research facility a mile east of Concord. The Sunday afternoon affair attracted some 100 individuals from across Northeast Nebraska, with persons coming from as far away as Verdara, Winnebago and Scribner.

Tolman, 69, has been at the Northeast Station since 1959 when the beef cattle research program got underway and when the research facility was just two years old. He has done work in the areas of nutrition, urea utilization, storing and feeding high moisture corn, and the like.

Also attending the reception was the Tolmans' daughter, Mrs. Larry (Caroline) Bauer, her husband and their two children, Kenny and Patty. The Bauers live in Omaha.

Tolman's position at the research facility will not be filled until the middle of August when Plainview native Vernon Krause takes over. His hiring is dependent upon formal action by the University of Nebraska Board of Regents. Krause is currently at Columbia, Mo., with the University of Missouri research and extension division.

Durability in Boys' Jeans

There was a time when mothers who wanted durable jeans for active young boys had to settle for dark blue, all-cotton denim, but times have changed. Jeans now come in a variety of colors and in durable press models which need little or no ironing.

Durability of jeans will depend mainly on two features—fabrics and construction. In a series of tests by Consumer Reports, the durable press synthetic cotton blend of at least 60 per cent polyester fiber proved to be particularly tough. In addition, they were highly resistant to abrasion, shrinkage and fading. When manufacturers' laundering instructions were followed, the durable press jeans required very little, if any, ironing after washings.

Construction features definitely add to durability of boys' jeans. Waistbands should be folded back and stitched, not just overcast. Look for double seams where stress is likely, side seams of the legs, the crotch and seat seams.

Check the lower end of the zipper where raw edges should be turned in and sewn down. Bar-tacks or rivets should reinforce the lower end of the zipper. The zipper should have a self-locking pull tab and double stitched tape.

A brass or stainless steel zipper chain is more durable than a narrow one of aluminum. Side pockets should be stitched twice or firmly overcast so raw edges of the pocket sack are not exposed for raveling. Ends of all pocket openings should be reinforced with bar-tacks or rivets so pockets won't tear out

Yard Quiz

How do you get rid of night-crawlers in the lawn?

Use a minimum of one pint of chlordane per 1,000 square feet of lawn. There are also 10 per cent granules of chlordane that can be used at five pounds per 1,000 square feet. Chlordane must be watered into the soil and the grass should be moistened before application. There is always some danger to pets when using chlordane. If the spray is allowed to run off into puddles and the pet drinks it, it can be dangerous.

What causes the top leaves of bean plants to be eaten off?

This is probably caused by rabbits, who love to feed on legumes. Use dusting sulphur as a taste repellent. Application should be made only in cool weather because leaves are tender and can burn in hot weather.

What causes yellow leaves on bottom of rose bush?

The leaves turn yellow from black spot disease. Treatment may not help because the disease is in the plant sometime

How can you kill elm seedlings growing around the house?

Cut off seedlings about an inch below the surface. Squirt oil or amine solution of 2,4-D, mixed with kerosene or fuel oil, on the stump and cover with dirt.

Local Youth Studies Abroad This Summer

Kathryn Heppburn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Heppburn of Wayne, is among 28 students participating in the St. John's University Summer Program in Chartres, France, this year.

Site of the world-famous Gothic cathedral, Chartres was one of the most important centers of medieval art and culture. Attending intensive French language classes taught by teachers from the French school system, students will also study Gothic Architecture, Medieval Thought and art. Concluded in a series of walking tours, this course is directed by Malcolm Miller, official English language guide at the Cathedral and international lecturer on Gothic art and culture.

"An integral part of the entire program is a series of guided tours to other artistic and cultural centers of France," said the Rev. John Kulas, OSB, of the Department of Foreign Languages of St. John's. At the conclusion of their two-month stay in Chartres, students will have one week to travel outside France before returning home.

Drive carefully this Fourth of July weekend. The life you save may be your own.

Thought for Today
"He who neglects the present moment throws away all he has."
William James

We cross the threshold but once in this life, so why not make every moment a moment of satisfaction for ourselves and for those around us? When the present moment has passed there is no way of recapturing the opportunities it offered. Neglecting to take advantage of an opportunity when it arises is, for all practical purposes, throwing it away. How much better to have the satisfaction of knowing what we made every moment count, rather than to live in regret for having sat back and allowed our chances to slip by.

Foreign Institute Underway

A group of 175 college students, sponsors and adults are in Europe as participants in the first Nebraska-European Institute.

The group, which includes 12 students and Institute director Dr. Rafael Sosa from Wayne State College, flew from New York to Madrid, Spain, Monday for the first stop on the institute.

After staying in Madrid for about two days, the institute participants will travel to Valencia, Tours and Munich for their individual institutes in Spain, France and Germany.

This is the first year for the combined institute, an outgrowth of the Nebraska-Spain Institute which has been in existence for several years. A total of 86 individuals are taking part in the German institute, 67 in the Spanish institute and 22 in the French institute.

Although most of the students and adults taking part in the program come from Nebraska, there are individuals from Illinois, Iowa, Arizona and Florida.

Kearney State College has a large number of students and teachers participating, partly because the original Nebraska-Spain Institute was co-sponsored by Kearney State and Wayne State. Also, Dr. Ari Sosa, brother of the Wayne State teacher who is institute director, teaches at Kearney State and serves as director of the academic study programs in the foreign countries.

Most of those taking part in the three pronged institute will earn six hours of college credit by taking daily classes in civilization, culture, literature, basic conversation and grammar. While in the foreign countries, institute participants will tour the cities they are living in as well as the surrounding country.

Those taking part in the institute will stay abroad until July 31 when they leave Madrid for their return flight to the United States.

Cancer Drive in County Already Surpasses Goal

Volunteers in Wayne County's 1974 Cancer Fund drive have already passed their goal, collecting a total of $3,680.99 so far, report drive officials.

The goal for the year was $3,250.

Collections to date include $1,067.80 in the rural areas, $113.50 in Carroll, $113.30 in Winside, $1,490.39 in the Wayne business district, $393.50 in the city of Wayne and $602.50 in memorials.

A total of $3,065 was collected in last year's drive, $65 over the goal.

Drive officials said they were "very pleased" with the results of this year's drive. They credit the "many volunteers who put forth a concerted effort" for the success of the drive.

Heading up the drive were rural chairmen Mrs. Lester Hansen and Mrs. Wilbur Giese and city chairmen Mrs. Fred Gildersleeve and Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

They noted that memorials or donations may still be sent to memorial chairman Mrs. Gil dersleeve or to Mrs. George Macklin, treasurer for the county-wide drive. Both live in Wayne.

Following are the amounts in the rural areas by precinct, with 1973 figures in parentheses:

Brenna — Mrs. Jim Jensen and Mrs. Fredrick Janke, chairman, $84.25 ($85); Chapin — Mrs. Dennis Greunke, Mrs. Richard Wolstlager, $87.75 ($84.70); Deer Creek — Mrs. Melvin Magnuson, $81 ($51.50); Garfield — Mrs. Larry Koepke, $38.50 ($24.50); Hancock — Mrs. Werner Mann, Miss Joleen Miller, $73.30 ($69); Hunter — Mrs. Deilwyn Sorenson, $156.50 ($122.75); Leslie — Mrs. Billy Hanson, $59.75 ($64.75); Logan — Mrs. Rudy Longe, $90 ($71); Plum Creek — Mrs. Harris Pflueger $88 ($73.50); Sherman

Sheriff Attends Convention at Las Vegas

The National Sheriffs' Association's annual convention last week at Las Vegas drew over 1,500 sheriffs, including Don Weible of Wayne County and Clyde Storie of Thurston County.

The Nebraska sheriffs attended day long meetings to help them improve their ability to serve their home counties. Seminars were conducted by national law enforcement people, and delegates exchanged crime-fighting techniques with fellow sheriffs from across the country.
