

Senator Blames Government, Chains for Market Slump

BY NORVIN HANSEN
State senator Loran Schmit of Bellwood blasted the federal government and grocery chain stores for the continuing slump in the livestock market during a Friday night meeting at Wisner. The meeting attracted approximately 300 livestock feeders from across Northeast Nebraska and a few from Iowa. Feeders came from as far away as Bloomfield. Schmit said the "federal government precipitated part of the crisis... and then aggravated it by bad projections." But he saved his severest criticism for the chain stores which he said are guilty of

"conspiracy and collusion" in setting prices on meat. Schmit said he and others who have filed the class action suit against two chain stores have evidence that the chains are guilty of manipulating the price of the meat they are selling their customers. The evidence, which he refused to detail because of the pending suit, came out in public hearings before the legislature's agriculture committee, which he is chairman of, he said. He asked for help from area feeders in Northeast Nebraska to join in the suit, which has been filed on behalf of all livestock raisers in Nebraska, and to contribute money to finance it. "He said he has heard 'time and again' the comment that chain stores are doing a good job of merchandising meat. He said he agrees they are doing exactly that, but he said it doesn't help the livestock producer because they continue to lose money when they sell their animals." He said the University of Nebraska has been studying for years how to improve the cutability of meat, but it is more important to boost the cut of the profit that livestock producers receive. "That's the cut I want to improve on," he said.

He predicted woes for both the livestock producer and the consumer if he loses the suit against Safeway, and A & P. "If the suit fails, Nebraska farmers and feeders 'will know that the livestock market in this state won't continue to survive' in the same form as it has in the past. More and more farmers will be forced off the land because of their inability to make a decent profit in their beef and pork operations, he said. "If the production of beef is ever concentrated in a few hands, it's not going to be cheap and it's not going to be plentiful," he warned. He criticized livestock producers for continuing to suffer economic losses without saying anything. "Our hides are hanging on the barn door... and we're supposed to thank the guy who's doing the skinning," he said after noting that many people coming to the chain stores for their successful marketing of meat. He said it doesn't help the feeder if grocery stores feature meat and sell great quantities of it if feeders lose money on every head they sell. That just increases the livestock producer's loss, he noted. Schmit described the last few See Livestock Woes, page 6.

Recipes Needed for Annual Publication

Area women with special dishes they take pleasure in serving their families and guests are invited to send in their recipes so they can be used in The Wayne Herald's coming Farmer-Feeder Section. The annual supplement, which will be printed later this month, focuses on area farmers and feeders, the strongest single economic force in Northeast Nebraska. Recipes should be submitted for use in the special publication by July 20.

SS Checks in Wayne County Top $175,000

A total of 1,340 Wayne County residents were receiving $175,000 per month in social security benefits as of December, according to figures released by Representative Charles Thone.

In the nation, 30 million people were receiving $4.3 billion per month. There were 231,315 in Nebraska receiving $32,490,000 per month, and 84,150 residents in Nebraska's First Congressional District getting $11,625,000 each month. Thone reported.

"These figures illustrate how many of our citizens are dependent upon social security benefits. The Congress must act to put the social security program on a sound financial basis," Thone said.

Of the social security beneficiaries in Wayne County at the end of last year, 720 retired workers received $109,000 per month in benefits, 30 disabled workers got $5,000 per month and 590 other beneficiaries, such as dependents and survivors, received $61,000 per month.

Hoskins Facing Water Shortage

A water shortage in Hoskins has forced town officials to limit water consumption for the rest of the summer.

Last week the town's standpipe nearly went dry after temperatures rose into the 100's. Officials attribute the rapid use of water to heavy watering of lawns.

"Persons living on the west side of main street are asked to water their lawns on odd days while those living on the east side should water on even days.

Presently, the standpipe holds between 35,000 to 40,000 gallons, officials said.

Wayne Girl In Med Class

A group of 145 freshmen registered today (Monday) at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

Marsha Rae Holdorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaunt of Wayne, is a member of the incoming freshman class.

This year's class is the third to enroll in the 12-quarter curriculum, shortening the traditional four-year course of studies to three years.

Six members of the class have advanced degrees, and one is a pharmacist. Eight members are veterans of active military service, and 25 members are women, an all-time high.

Blood Clot Is Cause of Death

A blood clot in a lung caused the death of Roger Miller, 27, of Winside, an autopsy revealed.

The autopsy was performed after Miller's death on June 30, just over a week after he was burned in a work accident at Winside Dehy, Inc., southwest of Winside. Miller reportedly took a cap off a radiator on an alfalfa cutter and was sprayed with boiling water.

Miller died in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Miller.

City Budget on Council Agenda

Wayne's city council will discuss a variety of subjects during Tuesday night's regular meeting, among them a proposed budget which would result in a tax hike of slightly over two mills.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at 8 p.m. The budget under consideration calls for expenditures totaling slightly over $2,600,000, some $157,000 greater than expenditures for the current year. The mill levy required to finance that budget is expected to be slightly under 25 mills. Current levy is 22.70 mills.

Also during Tuesday's meeting, council members will take up proposed ordinances which would permit bars and package stores to remain open on Sunday. The council several weeks ago rejected an ordinance which would have permitted selling beer on Sunday.

Council also will review requests for federal and state funds to help develop the Henry Victor and Lions Club parks. It will discuss an ordinance to require removal of dead trees from private property and will discuss setting rates for water customers outside the city.

West German To Live on Carroll Farm

The Fred Liedman farm family west of Carroll will have a German visitor in their home Thursday through July 29 under a program aimed at increasing the knowledge among foreign countries about how United States agriculture operates.

He is Mike Hurk, 23, a West German farmer who has been in the United States since late in April under the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

He will live with the Liedman family for just over two weeks before going to the Dwight Blomquist farm near McLean to stay there from July 29 to Aug. 15. He then will live with farm families in Holt and Madison Counties before returning to West Germany in September. He has already lived with a family in Oakland, Calif.

Hurk's visit to the United States is being sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation.

MS Drive Underway

Area chairmen have been named for the multiple sclerosis drive scheduled for Wayne all this week.

Heading up the drive will be Mrs. Larry Johnson, Mrs. Gene Mitchell, Mrs. Evan Bennett, Mrs. Paul Otte and Mrs. Fred Heier. The chairmen met Tuesday night to stuff envelopes which will be distributed during the drive.

In charge of the drive this year are Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Jerry Malcom and Mrs. Doug Barry. Mrs. Malcom and Mrs. Barry are among 10 Wayne residents who suffer from MS.

Omaha Firm Will Present Face-Lifting Ideas Tonight

Wayne residents interested in finding out what an Omaha architectural firm suggests be done to improve the look of the downtown business district are invited to a meeting tonight (Monday) at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will be held in the Woman's Club room at the city auditorium following the Chamber of Commerce's quarterly membership meeting.

The meeting is open to the public. The downtown improvement committee, which has been working on the subject of face lifting the business district for the past several months, is urging businessmen, employees and private citizens to turn out for the meeting.

"It doesn't have to be just people in the Chamber," said Darrel Fuelberth, one of the men instrumental in getting the committee organized. "The meeting is open to everybody who's interested in the total development of the city of Wayne."

Firemen Extinguish Fire in Hay Stack

Wayne volunteer firemen extinguished a fire in a stack of chopped hay on the Melvin Samuelson farm northeast of Wayne Friday afternoon.

Fire chief Cliff Pinkelman said a pile of burning brush near the stack apparently started the fire. There was little damage to the stack, he said.

Friday morning a grass fire near the Earl Fuoss home a mile east of Wayne was extinguished before fire trucks left the city.

Study: Marriage Bit Stronger in Wayne County

In this divorce-prone age, what are the chances of a marriage surviving in Wayne County? Do marriages last longer, locally, than they do elsewhere?

On the basis of the latest statistics, for the vast majority of local people, marriage is a one in a lifetime undertaking. For others, with equally high hopes and intentions, their marriages end up on the rocks.

As in most parts of the country, splitups are occurring more frequently in the local area than they did formerly. It is in line with the times. According to figures compiled by the Department of Commerce and by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the number of divorced persons in the United States has zoomed no less than 57 per cent since 1960.

In 1960 there were 3,205,000 men and women in the divorced column. Since then the total has climbed to 5,026,700. This does See Marriages, page 6.

Contestants came from Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston Counties for the district event.

Drive Against School Aid Bill Nears End

Volunteers in Wayne County are "still working" to get signatures on petitions which call for a vote in the November election on a legislative bill aimed at reducing the property tax burden in financing elementary and secondary school systems, reports Mrs. Frederick Mann of rural Wayne.

Mrs. Mann said Friday that many petitions are still being circulated in the county in an attempt to get as many signatures as possible by this week's deadline. Petitions have to be submitted to the state by 5 p.m. Wednesday, she said, noting she would be willing to take petitions to Lincoln personally on that day if there are still any which have not been mailed in by then.

The drive for signatures in Wayne County to bring the state school aid bill to a referendum is part of a statewide effort being headed by state senator Ramey Whitney of Chappell. A total of 24,000 signatures are needed to bring the bill to a vote of the people, according to Whitney.

The bill, LB 772, would equalize state and local tax support of public schools by 1976-77. Its enactment would trigger an additional state sales tax rate of one per cent and an additional personal income tax rate of four or five per cent beginning the first of the year.

Mrs. Mann said she doesn't know how many signatures have been obtained in Wayne County, but she said the total is considerably more than 150. She said she has personally sent in petitions containing 120 signatures.

Mrs. Mann said one of her biggest objections to the state aid bill is that it will mean tax money will be taken out of some counties in order to pay for financing school districts in other counties.

Irvin Brandt of Wayne, president of the Wayne Carroll school board, said he and others on the school board favor the bill because it is a step in the direction of equalizing education for all students regardless of where they live.

Brandt said the bill "is just as much a tax reform bill as it is a state aid bill" since it will result in support of schools coming equally from property taxes and from income and sales taxes.

The bill would result in "lessening the tremendous tax burden on the property owner," he said.

Superintendent Francis Haun has said LB 772 could result in a drop of about 20 mills in the Wayne-Carroll school district.

He has said the bill won't give school districts more money to operate with, but it will put more emphasis on sales and income taxes for financing school districts.

Policeman 'Pat' Plans Retirement

E. L. "Pat" Hailey, assistant chief of police in Wayne since Oct. 1, 1957, will retire from the police force on Aug. 16.

Hailey informed chief Vern Fairchild of his plans to retire on Wednesday. Fairchild said he hopes to be able to fill the assistant chief's position by the time Hailey retires. Filling the vacancy will be done through civil service competitive testing, according to Fairchild.

Hailey's announcement that he will retire came a week after the city council approved a retirement plan for elderly city employees. Prior to adoption of that plan, the city was without a retirement program for employees too old to qualify for a normal plan.

Hailey said he discussed his retirement plans with city officials in recent months, but he waited to announce the exact date when he will leave the force until after approval of the retirement plan. Known to almost every youngster who has grown up in Wayne in recent years, Hailey came to Wayne from Stanton as assistant chief under Dick Hansen. He was associated with an insurance company of Stanton.

Hailey, 63, was one of the 44 members of the original state patrol when it was formed in 1937. The 44 men attended six weeks of schooling at Ashland before being sent throughout the state to take over law enforcement on a state level. Prior to their graduating, Nebraska was without a state law enforcement agency. Hailey is one of the last members of that original graduating class to get out of law enforcement work. Still in that field is Scotts Bluff County sheriff Leo Knudtson, who graduated with Hailey and the other 42 patrolmen. Another is R. C. Beers, Chadron police chief. Hailey was with the patrol from 1937 to 1947, stationed first at O'Neill and later in Lincoln, Grand Island, Scottsbluff, Sidney and Oshkosh. He stayed in the Scottsbluff area after leaving the state patrol and then moved back to Stanton, where he had grown up after moving there from Kansas with his parents as a small child. Youngsters in Wayne have learned about Hailey through the bicycle safety classes and traffic safety classes he has held in recent years. See Hailey, page 6.

Councilwoman asks:

'Is Sunday beer really necessary?'

By Councilwoman Carolyn Filter
When I canvassed my ward and in comments for the paper before election I urged you to examine all issues closely and to speak out when you have strong feelings about something before its consideration at council meetings. You can't complain if you don't care enough to speak out.

An issue up for consideration at the July 9th city council meeting is the change in a city ordinance that would permit the holder of a beer license to sell beer on Sunday. This proposed ordinance still would not allow off-sale beer on Sunday, but it would allow beer consumption on the licensee's premises.

In the past and at present the argument has been used that the council is discriminating if they turn down requests for Sunday sales of alcohol beverages with one type of license when another type of license can sell on Sunday. I feel strongly that it is more a matter of discretion than discrimination.

The sale of all alcohol is regulated by the state liquor commission in that they must grant the license. The city council also has a say to the extent

MRS. FILTER questions if Sunday beer is best for the community that they recommend for or against any application for a license. The city also decides what type or types of licenses they will allow to sell on Sundays. Alcohol is a controlled business, as I feel it well should be. This issue is not a matter of discrimination, but of judgment as to what we want for Wayne and its image. How open do we want our town?

Wayne residents take a deserved pride in their community. Do we want those who drive through town on Sunday to leave with an unfavorable impression? Do we want to see a town with bars open?

In this very paper you have read complaints about the difficulties some citizens experienced when they tried to drive through the areas where beer is sold on premises on week days. Cannot we keep one day free from these problems?

It is history that Wayne once was open to beer sales on Sunday and this policy was discontinued because of problems of this type. I myself am not opposed to alcohol, but I feel that drinking on Sunday can be done at home. Those who agree with extended beer sales on Sunday suggest that people who cannot buy in Wayne will drive out of town. This is their choice. Wayne would deal with its problems by those buying here. There also are people who wouldn't bother going out of town to drink, but would drink here on Sunday just because it was here and handy.

Changing the subject, I would like to comment on the management of the swimming pool this year. The past several years there had been numerous complaints. This year, however, manager Douglas Krecklow, assistant managers Douglas Asmus and Lynn Stralman, and the lifeguards are doing an excellent job. Your efforts are being noticed. Keep up the good work!

LUCKILY for Ronald Nielsen, Wayne-Carroll school board member Dorothy Ley likes to joke about politics.

After the board hired Nielsen as ninth grade English teacher last week, Mrs. Ley saw a picture of him in his file. The picture rang a bell, and Mrs. Ley quipped: "Oh! I remember this kid. I take my vote back because as I remember it, he was president of the Young Republicans." Sure enough, Nielsen had been active in Republican affairs while at Wayne State.

Mrs. Ley, by the way, is a Democrat.

WAYNE COUNTY clerk Norris Weible flatly denies the rumor that he and county treasurer Leon Meyer have joined the Nebraska League of Women Voters.

Weible does admit, however, that he and Meyer took in one of the League's meetings in the big city a few days back. The League, you see, has decided to open up its ranks to men. It's even rumored the organization is considering changing its name to (God forbid!) The Nebraska League of Voter Persons.

THE NEXT TIME you get angry with your federal tax bill, consider these worthwhile proposed expenditures of your money:

—$6,000 to study the bisexual behavior of Polish frogs.

—$375,000 to determine if Frisbees might be used to carry flares.

—$121,000 to find out how many Americans say "ain't."

—$70,000 to conduct research on the smell of perspiration from Australian aborigines.

—$203,979 to establish travelers' aid centers for migrants who get lost on Los Angeles freeways.

Representative John Conlan, Republican from Arizona, took a closer look at the 1,700-page, $304 billion federal budget and found those worthwhile expenditures among the ways the feds proposed using the money from Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer.

All I can say is it ain't gonna help the corn grow to find out why the Polish frog leads such an interesting night life. And I doubt if flare-carrying Frisbees would help those poor migrants, who should know better than to get on these concrete cobwebs called freeways in the first place. And I'll bet the Australian aborigines think we smell funny, too. The only thing different, those aborigines don't have a habit of sticking their nose in other people's business.

Carhart Lumber Co. is making headway on enlarging its floor space and has plans for remodeling the outside of the building to give it a modern look.

Sherry's TSC Store looks worlds better with its new face. Dale's Jewelry should be much easier to shop in when remodeling is completed there. Gushall is expanding into the back part of the store formerly occupied by Lyman.

PRESIDENT NIXON still is pretty popular in Nebraska's First Congressional District, according to results of a poll by Congressman Charles Thone.

Forty-two per cent of those who returned Thone's mailed questionnaire said Nixon was doing a "good" job. Some 23 per cent said he was doing an "average" job. 33 per cent said it was "poor" and one per cent had "no opinion."

Inflation is the biggest concern of voters in Thone's territory, according to the more than 20,000 questionnaires returned. Twenty-six per cent cited that as the area which most needs legislative action. 16 per cent cited energy problems and 16 per cent cited the impeachment of Nixon. Eleven per cent said Congress is too tied up with Watergate matter to get on with other business.

Other interesting results of the survey: 32 per cent said their mail service is worse than a year ago, six per cent said it is better and 61 per cent said it is the same.

68 per cent want less spent on foreign aid. 63 per cent want less spent on both welfare and space research.

73 per cent want more spent on energy research. 62 per cent want more spending on crime prevention and 56 per cent favor pumping more money into mass transit problems.

OBSERVATIONS

A flagless July 4th

It is quite sad that the city of Wayne can't afford American flags to fly on Main Street on national holidays such as the Fourth of July.

On Thursday, the 198th birthday of this nation, I could see only one American flag on display as I looked up and down Main Street. And that flag, in front of the Vet's Club, flies daily. The complete lack of flags flying in some sort of community effort or community observance was unmistakably apparent.

It seems ironic that this community can afford a variety of services, projects and facilities but is unable to afford something as simple and inexpensive as a dozen or so American flags to fly proudly on special occasions. There is a new tennis court being built next to the nice swimming pool, talk of an expanded park for travelers on the east edge of the community, air conditioning in the council chambers, concern over attracting more industries to the city, a machine to kill pesky mosquitoes, a luncheon to show farm women they are really appreciated by local businessmen, coffee breaks and overtime for city employees. But there are no American flags for the community to pin on its chest each time a little pride is in order.

The city council is currently in the midst of whitening out a budget for the coming year. It's too bad a few hundred dollars could not be set aside to purchase some bright new flags and to fly them on special days like July 4th. Although the Chamber of Commerce is constantly wrestling with the problem of finding enough money to finance its activities, I would bet the Chamber would be willing to help purchase and fly those flags if asked. And I also would bet there would be a few citizens who would balk about spending the money necessary to make that possible. — Norvin Hansen.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

Electronic Ignition Components that start off as add-on equipment by performance buffs some times end up standard equipment on the family automobile — but for different reasons. The electronic ignition systems standard equipment on many of today's automobiles — and will be standard on most of the 1975 models — are a good example.

These units originally were installed by performance buffs because standard ignition components could not produce the strong spark required by competition engines which fire at much higher revolutions per minute.

While performance requirements of your family car's engine differ from a racing-type engine, electronic ignition systems benefit everyone by providing increased gas mileage, longer intervals between tune-ups and lower exhaust emissions.

Conventional ignition systems utilize a mechanical switch — commonly called "points" — which is activated by a rotating cam located inside the distributor. As the points open and close, a very high electrical current is produced by another component in the system — the coil — which functions like a transformer. This electrical jolt travels along the spark plug wire to the spark plug, where it jumps a small air gap at the tip of the plug, creating the spark that ignites the air-fuel mixture inside the cylinder.

Points are subject to mechanical wear and deterioration and must be adjusted and replaced periodically or the engine will run less efficiently or misfire. In addition to wasting gasoline, engine misfire typically increases exhaust emissions tenfold.

Most electronic ignition systems eliminate points by substituting electronic switching devices. Since these components do not wear, the engine "holds its tune" for longer intervals.

These systems typically generate a more powerful and longer duration spark, allowing for more complete burning of the air-fuel mixture and resulting in better economy and reduced emissions. The increased capacity of some electronic ignition systems also helps to fire fouled spark plugs and start flooded engines.

'A flagless Main Street is disheartening'

Dear Editor:
On July 4th, in driving from my house to the post office and hence to the Masonic Temple for the purpose of putting the flag of the U.S.A. on display, I counted five flags (including my own) attesting to the recognition of our country's anniversary.

The appearance of Main Street, to one who always felt a glow of pride when viewing the same, was disheartening to say the least.

If my information is correct, the stated reason for not putting the flags up was the fact that they were stolen when put on display. This brings up a most interesting observation and one that should be pondered. I was taught reverence to the American flag when in the grades, and since that time, as a competitor or spectator of sports, have retained the image of the flag implanted in my consciousness. Somehow or other the idea of stealing a flag is repugnant to me as a prank, or for any other reason.

To think that our consideration for the flag has sunk to the level that we can not publicly display the same without dire financial loss also goes against the grain, and my sympathy goes out to the distorted thinking that produces such action — for these are the ones who are PEOPLE WITHOUT A COUNTRY. — George Macklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Swinney of Wayne announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Jean, to Joseph A. Grashorn of Wayne.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Wayne High School, is a senior at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln where she is majoring in mathematics and business education.

Her fiancé attended Wayne State College, and Burnside Off Flight Training Center in Miami, Fla. He holds several pilot ratings, including a commercial helicopter license, and is employed by Wayne County Public Power District. No wedding date has been set.

WAYNE CATCHER Bill Schwartz watches a Sioux City North player slide safely home on a Wayne error. The local Legion team rebounded in the remainder of the first round contest at the Wakefield tournament to down North, 9-2.

Dakota City Stops Allen Win Streak

Dakota City stopped the Allen-Martinsburg win streak at two with a 6-4 setback Wednesday night at Dakota City.

Allen had bases loaded in the ninth, but could only score one run. Second baseman Kevin Hill drilled in the fourth run on a single to score right fielder Steve Diediker. With shortstop Bob Anderson on third and Hill on first, catcher Lee Schipool walked to load the sacks, but pitcher Jim Miller struck out to retire the side.

Dakota City, now 7-5, led 2-0 after two frames before Allen went ahead 3-2 in the fourth. Hill opened the frame with a single and advanced to second and third on a single by Schipool and Miller's walk. First baseman Pete Snyder singled to drive in one run. Center fielder Darwin Rubeck blasted a hit to Dakota City's third baseman who bobbled the ball, allowing two Allen runners to score.

Dakota City scored one in the third to tie the match before taking a one-run lead in the fourth, 4-3. The winners scored their last runs in the bottom of the eighth.

Allen remains tied with Ponca for sixth place in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League with a 4-8 record. Allen had two straight wins over Decatur and South Sioux City.

Dakota City, however, takes over the fourth-place after being tied with Wakefield last week.

Wakefield suffered its sixth loss at Homer Thursday afternoon, 6-1.

Lynn Tomjack and Bruce Paul shared mound duties for the losers, giving up a total of 13 hits.

Merlin Berkenpas and Ed Bradshaw homered for Homer. Bradshaw also had a pair of singles while Bob Jacobson added a single and double. Dave Rouse and Kip Bressler each singled twice for Wakefield.

Both Homer and Newcastle remained tied for second place with 10-2 marks. But that tie was broken Sunday night when the two collided at Homer.

Wayne, leading the league with a 12-0 count, went six and a half innings with South Sioux City Thursday night despite the visitor's lack of enough players.

Wayne won 4-0, with Randy Benish picking up the win on the mound. First baseman Whitley Mumm, who knocked in two runs on a pair of doubles, gave the locals a 1-0 lead in the first when he drove in shortstop Terry Luff. Both Mumm and Benish doubled in the third frame to put the team in front. 3-0 Benish scored Luff and then came home on Mumm's hit. Center fielder Dan Nedrig tallied Wayne's final run in the fourth.

Wakefield Nips Wayne, 2-1, To Take Tournament Crown

Wakefield Legion scored its 20th win of the season against five losses when it stopped Wayne, 2-1, in the finals of the four-team Wakefield tournament Thursday night.

Both clubs were tied at 1-1 after four frames when Wakefield ended the draw-on left fielder Roger Lueth's scamper home. Third baseman Dale Bell's fly out to center set up the score when catcher Mike Meyer dropped the ball after the throw home.

Wayne had its chance to tie the match in the sixth when center fielder Gordie Cook singled and went to second and third on passed balls. But that's where Wakefield left him. With one away, Meyer flew out to center. Then first baseman Bill Schwartz blasted one to deep left with all appearances of scoring one run, but Neil Blohm's one-hand stab killed those hopes.

Wakefield took a 1-0 lead in the third with Bell again responsible for scoring the run. Center fielder Doug Fischer doubled and came home on Bell's single.

Cook evened the game for Wayne after hitting a two-bagger, taking third on a sacrifice by Schwartz and scoring on pitcher Charlie Roland's fielder's choice.

Roland, in taking the loss, allowed six hits while striking out four. Wakefield's Scott Miller gave up four hits and fanned five.

Wayne won the first tournament game with a 9-2 conquest of Sioux City North.

North scored its runs in the second and third innings before the locals regrouped to tie the game in the bottom of the third on a pair of runs by Cook and Meyer. Wayne forged ahead in the next frame when Marty Hansen came home on a balk and Cook scored. His second run of the afternoon on a passed ball for a 4-2 lead.

Wayne all but ended the game in the sixth with five runs on three singles and a pair of doubles. Meyer, Schwartz and Roland each singled, with Roland's hit scoring two runs. Kerry Jech knocked in Roland before Kim Baker doubled and came home on Randy Nelson's two-bagger. Nelson scored on an error.

Wakefield easily got past Pender with a five-run fifth inning for its 19th win, 11-1.

Neil Blohm threw a no-hitter for the winners — his first of the season.

Wakefield suffered its fifth loss Wednesday night at Norfolk, 4-3. Norfolk had a 2-0 lead after two innings before Wakefield whittled the lead to one in fourth on Lueth's single to score Blohm.

Both clubs scored two runs in the sixth. Doug Soderberg walked and came home on Scott Miller's double. Miller advanced on an error before scoring on a fielder's choice.

Wakefield had two men on in the seventh, but Miller's high fly to deep left was caught in the wind and hauled in for the final out.

In their road trip to Minnesota, Wakefield took one of three games. The area club beat Worthington, 4-3, but lost to Richfield and Fairmont, 6-4 and 5-1. Richfield was in the Legion World Series last year.

It's Official: Jones Taking Year's Leave

It's official: Wayne State head basketball coach Ron Jones is taking a year's leave of absence this fall.

Jones, completing his fourth year as head coach at WSC, will attend the University of Kansas to further work toward a doctorate, said athletic director LeRoy Simpson.

A new coach will be named within 10 days to two weeks, Simpson said, pointing out that the new coach will not be selected from present WSC staff members.

Jones took over the head job in 1970 after serving as assistant since 1967. During his assistantship, he helped direct Wayne to three straight NAIA District 11 championships. As head coach, Jones held a 53-45 record, including a 10-14 season last year.

Jones played on Wayne State teams in 1961 and 1962 after graduating from Fort Dodge Community College. Jones led scoring as a senior with 457 points, earning most valuable player honor in both basketball and baseball that year.

Following graduation in 1963, Jones coached three years at Osage (Iowa) High School, then returned to WS as a graduate assistant and received a master's degree in 1966.

Wakefield Team Drops 2 Games

Wakefield's Midgets suffered two setbacks last week, falling to Bancroft and Norfolk. The area club lost to Bancroft, 10-4, at Wakefield Friday, after three Wakefield pitchers faced a host of Bancroft batters. Dan Byers went five innings before Mike Soderberg and Jono Kline split duty in the seven-inning contest. Catcher Doug Starzl scored a pair of runs on a single and double to lead Wakefield hitters. Wakefield drops to 2-6 in the Ralph Bishop League. Wednesday night Norfolk ripped the area club, 11-1. High light for Wakefield was a triple play in the fourth. Every vessel equipped with kitchen or toilet facilities must handle and treat solid and liquid wastes in a way that will prevent water pollution.

WAYNE'S 18 and under girls softball team racked up their sixth win against no defeats against Winside, 18-7, Wednesday to stay on top in the league. Still going strong for the local girls is pitcher Bobbette Caffey (left)—only 14 years old. Wayne's speed enabled the girls to mount a good lead. One example is Mary Kovensky's run to second as the attempted tag by Winside's Cindy Thomas (center) fails. But not all attempts to halt Winside's scoring came true. Joni Langenberg beats out a throw to home just as Wayne catcher Lisa Nuss grabs the catch.

Girls Softball

18 AND UNDER
Wayne 18, Winside 7—Bobbette Caffey pitched Wayne to its sixth win against no defeats Wednesday. The locals had eight hits, including a double and single by Steph Dorsey. Julie Kovensky had two singles. Jill Stonwall provided the big hits for Wayne, smacking two triples out of the team's five hits. Winside drops to 2-1.

15 AND UNDER
Wayne 21, Winside 10—Three

Wayne batters had a trio of hits in leading the locals to their sixth win. Tammy Schultz and Judy Janke both had a triple and two singles while Laura Hasev hit three singles. Barb Ritz had the big hits for Winside: a double and a single. Winside is 3-2.

15 AND UNDER RESERVES
Wayne 17, Winside 5—Peg Pinkel was blasted two homers and a triple to lead Wayne to its sixth win. Winside is 3-2.

Winside Board Okays Firemen

Winside's town board approved the appointment of two men to the town's volunteer fire department during the board meeting Monday night. Eugene Jensen and town policeman Mark Hervey will join the department said board chairman Dallas Puls. In other business, the board re-appointed Mrs. Alta Neeley to the library board. Puls said the board will discuss further the town's insurance program that includes employees and city property for the coming year in the August meeting. A new addition to the coverage will be the ball park.

Litho Speed

Leaving Carroll

Litho Speed, Inc., of Carroll is in the process of moving to Belton. The printing firm, started in Carroll about two and a half years ago by Jon Lambert, will complete the move sometime this week or next. About 18 months ago, Lambert went into partnership with Dick Brown, now of Hickok, when the pair started a weekly news paper. The paper ceased publication in less than a year.

Research Continues To Save Pheasants

Research nearly is complete on one method to save pheasant broods from the mower, and another device is still being tested, according to George Nason of North Platte, game division supervisor for the Southwest District. Nason reports that the "turn-out method" for cutting alfalfa will take very little time, but will save at least parts of pheasant broods. It's fairly simple, he said, and involves moving around rather than through the brood. The farmer loses no hay, because he mows the whole area, Nason explained, but the pheasant chicks are exposed to the mower blades only once. Normally, the farmer is aware pheasants are in the alfalfa, and he usually sees them before he runs through them. What happens when a brood is mowed, he said, is that surviving chicks move into the unmowed cover, making them susceptible to the next swath. If the operator will mow just around the brood, leaving an island of standing hay, pheasants will stay in that patch. When he completes the field, he can then just go back and mow the "islands", running through the brood only once. The resulting crooked windrow can be straightened when the remaining patches are mowed. The second pheasant-saver involves an ultrasonic device attached to the equipment. High-frequency sound flushes the pheasants out ahead, saving them from the dangerous machinery. The device is still being tested, but looks promising, according to Nason, the originator of both methods.

Veterans' Benefits Questions, Answers

Q. I was treated for a service-connected disability at a Veterans Administration hospital about two years ago, and the ailment has flared up again. Can I get treatment from VA again?
A. Yes. Since you have already established service-connection for your disability, all you need to do is apply for treatment again.
Q. I am in the military service, where I work in a medical laboratory. How could I go about getting a similar job with the Veterans Administration after I am discharged?
A. Suggest you contact the personnel office of the nearest VA hospital for information on job opportunities at the agency's hospitals and clinics. Also check on employment under a Veterans Readjustment Act appointment, which if you qualify, would eliminate much of the paper work usually associated with Civil Service appointments.
Q. The national cemetery in my state has been closed because of lack of space. Will the Veterans Administration pay an additional allowance for my father, a World War II veteran, for burial in a private cemetery?
A. Yes. VA is authorized to pay a $150 plot allowance, in addition to the maximum $250 burial benefit, for veterans buried outside national cemeteries.

TV Notebook

Among the most ingenious people in television are those who create the commercials. It takes something extra to rivet our attention on the tube when we really want to go to the bathroom. Some commercials are so entertaining that we enjoy them more than the program they interrupt. Ad men go to all kinds of trouble to create the best impression for us. When you see one of those "hidden camera" commercials where people give spontaneous, unhearsaid and complimentary testimony about the sponsor's product, it's quite likely that dozens, even hundreds, of subjects were put on tape before they found one with the glowing endorsement they want you to hear. We get glowing endorsements from all the people whose TV sets we repair. Usually we can fix a set right in the home. Just give us a try.

Marriages

 not include those who remarried after having been divorced.

Among residents of Wayne County, the divorce rate is somewhat lower than the national.

The tabulations show that there are nine divorced people in the area for every 1,000 residents over age 14.

Elsewhere in the United States, by way of comparison, the divorce rate is 34 per 1,000. In the West North Central States it is 29 per 1,000, and in the state of Nebraska it is 26 per 1,000.

The latest official count shows a total of 35 divorced men and 37 divorced women in the local population.

Nationally, the proportion of divorces to marriages is at an all-time high. Although both of them have been on the increase, for every three new marriages today, one old one ends in divorce or annulment.

The breakups are largely among young couples who have been married for five years or less and who have several children, states the Census Bureau. It finds, in fact, that the presence of children is much less of a bar to divorce than it was formerly.

Commenting on this, Prof. Paul Glasser of the University of Michigan states that "there appears to be a reverse in the tendency to keep an unhappy marriage together for the children's sake."

 months as the worst in the history of livestock production in this country, noting that farmers and feeders have lost billions of dollars during the slump.

And during that time, the federal government has taken little action to improve the situation.

He said when about $300 worth of carp were killed in a river several years ago, the story made the front page of the Omaha World-Herald and resulted in government action. But now that the livestock industry is "going through hell" all that is said is that farmers and feeders paid too much for their cattle, he noted.

He said proving that the chain stores manipulate prices would permit a return to the free enterprise system. He said livestock producers don't want handouts from the federal government.

"The government isn't suppose to guarantee us a profit, but what the government is suppose to do is referee the ball game to see that everybody plays by the rules," he noted.

Also speaking during the evening was M. J. Hankins, well known cattle feeder from Stanton.

He said there is "a greater real crisis in the making" if something isn't done about the market slump. He said the federal government "should do a much better job of acting as a referee at the market place."

He said "the least important thing in determining price to the housewife is the price of the original product." Schmit said the same thing, noting that a chain store executive told him exactly that when discussing the price of meat.

Also speaking during the evening was state senator John DeCamp of Neligh, an attorney who is helping out with the suit against the chain stores.

Moderating the nearly two-hour program was Wisner livestock feeder Herman Dinklage Jr. Also present for the meeting was state senator William Hasebrook of West Point.

 levy in the local school district would drop from its present 64.17 mills to somewhere around 44 mills by the time the bill is fully implemented in 1976-77.

LB 772 was passed by the last legislature over Gov. J. J. Egan's veto.

State aid to education began in 1967 when it started at $25 million annually, it later grew to $35 million and then to $55 million last year. It will continue at $55 million next year, then grow to $72 million when the first half of LB 772 goes into operation.

The 1976-77 level cannot be determined exactly, according to state officials, but Egan estimates the level that year at $160 million. The sponsor of the bill, senator Jerome Wiesner of Waverly, estimates the level that year at $144 million.
