

Study: Splashes of Green Add Color, Life to City

By NORVIN HANSEN

Wayne's downtown shopping area would become a colorful, attractive place complete with trees and shrubbery, park benches, alley walkways and new lighting if a plan unveiled Monday night were followed.

The plan calls for a major change in the look of the downtown area without a major expense by any of the businessmen or the city, according to the Omaha architect who showed the plan to more than 50 people.

The cost would average "possibly $1,000" for each store or business, architect Steve Saylor told the group after reviewing the plan and showing colored slides of how the city looks now and how it could look in the future if there were a concerted effort to improve the appearance of the business district.

The plan, which Saylor said was very preliminary and could be altered to suit the tastes of local businessmen and citizens, includes removing of all parking on Main Street from First to Fourth Streets and routing of truck traffic on Pearl and Logan Streets to keep it off Main.

The approximate 55 parking spaces lost by removing parking on Main could be made up by increasing the number of parking spaces available on other streets in the downtown area and by acquiring property for off-street parking lots.

The result would be to "soften" the downtown area to make it a more "humane" area which would be attractive for shoppers to walk through, according to Saylor.

Major recommendations made in the plan include:

- Restoring, cleaning and repainting existing store fronts "in all cases where physically possible."
- Removing "extraneous and inefficient elements" on store fronts such as redundant signs, air conditioning units and unsound canopies.
- Removing many existing signs because proliferation of signs "only defeats the purpose of signs (to inform)."
- Unifying the downtown area by using "wood as a theme material." Wood was chosen to tie the business district together because it is ageless, inexpensive and requires little maintenance.
- Planting trees, shrubbery and grass on the sidewalks to make the area less harsh in appearance and to make it appealing so shoppers would like to spend several hours or an afternoon walking through it while doing their shopping.
- Removing the existing tall street lights and replacing them with more attractive lights slightly above head level.
- Turning the alleys entering Main into walkways leading to parking. The walk ways could feature benches, community bulletin boards, fountains or the like to make them attractive.

The total result of such a project would be to make the downtown area more competitive with shopping centers, according to Saylor.

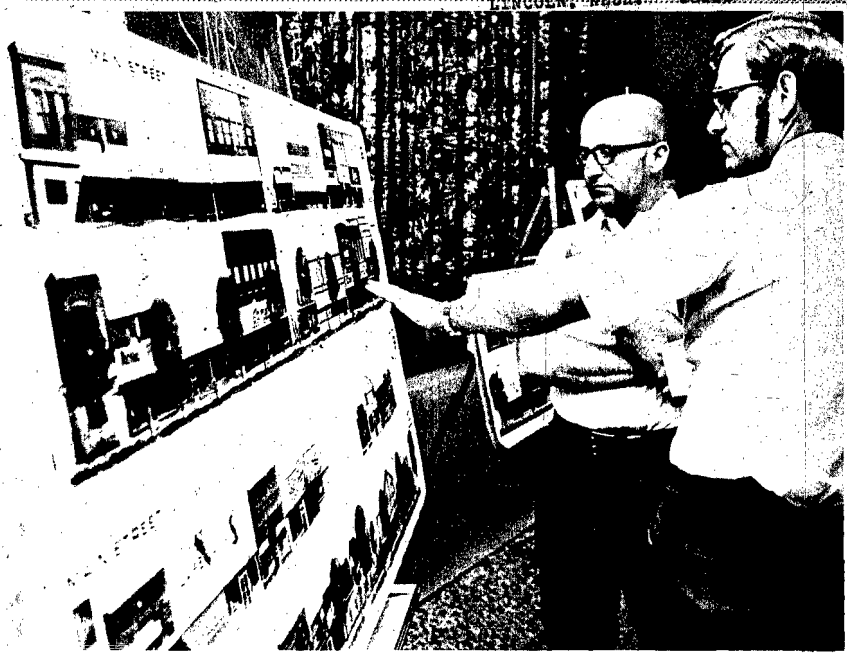

Shopping centers have many things in their favor when competing with business districts for the shopper's dollar, Saylor said. They have unlimited parking, clean and attractive places to shop, a large variety for the shopper to choose from and other assets, he noted.

But downtown shopping districts such as the one in Wayne have things working in their favor as well, he said, and the businessmen should try to make their area as attractive and appealing as possible in order to compete with shopping malls.

One of the things people do not like about shopping centers is that "everything looks the same," he noted. Wayne's downtown business district has much variety because of the different construction materials, different styles of architecture and the like. This should be emphasized and be made more appealing, he noted.

Saylor told the group that the investments which would be required to change the face of the downtown area would be returned in increased business over the years, increased property values, fewer empty stores, new businesses and the like.

"The implementation of these stand-

The Shadows Of Things

SHADOWS create interesting patterns when you take the time to look from the correct angle. That's true with the outside of the office building being constructed along with the new Marra Home Improvement Co. building on the city's industrial site east of the community. The office building includes concrete blocks which jut out of the face, creating interesting shadow patterns. Wilmer Marra, owner of the company, said he hopes to be able to move out of his present building on the south edge of the community and into his new one by Sept. 1. The building will be three times as large as the present one, providing him room to expand his home and commercial building window manufacturing facilities. The company employs 16 persons in its roofing and insulating business which services a 50-mile area around Wayne. The company also produces steel combination windows for dealers throughout the state. The company has been at its present site since about 1961, some nine years after the firm began on Main Street. Marra said a 100-foot addition to the new building will likely be built next year. Also going up on the east edge of the city is a new motel, a new plant which will manufacture fiberglass bathroom showers and tubs, and the new home of Logan Valley Improvement.

Council Okays Beer Sales on Sunday

Wayne's city council Tuesday night gave 5-3 approval to selling beer on Sunday.

The vote came several weeks after the council rejected an ordinance to allow selling beer in taverns on Sunday. Since that vote, however, several new persons have taken seats on the council.

Voting in favor of allowing on-sale beer business on Sundays were Jim Thomas, Ted Bahe, Vernon Russell, John Vakoc and Leo Hansen. Voting against the proposal were Darrel Fuelberth, Ivan Beeks and Carolyn Filter.

Sunday beer sales will become legal as soon as the ordinance is published in The Wayne Herald, possibly in Monday's issue, according to clerk treasurer Dan Shorry.

The vote came after two owners of establishments expected to take advantage of the new ordinance spoke to the council, noting that they would prefer an ordinance which would permit both on-sale and off-sale business on Sunday.

Dick Korn and Andy Manes agreed that the council will likely be asked to permit selling beer to go on Sunday since many bars may not be able to afford staying open on Sundays just for the on-sale business. Manes initiated action on drawing up the ordinance approved Tuesday night, just as he did for drawing up the one turned down several weeks ago.

In other action, the council tabled further action on how to pay for the ambulance service once the new hospital is opened in Wayne shortly after the first of the year.

Currently in effect is an agreement between the city, Wayne County and Wayne Hospital Board to pay for providing the service, but that agreement will no longer be in effect after the first of the year when the county ends its participation.

Budd Bornhoff told the council there is a state law which permits the city to enter into an agreement with the private organization which will run the hospital in order to share the cost of the ambulance service, but he noted there is no state law to permit counties to do the same.

The Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk, who will own and operate the hospital, have said it will cost approximately $7,000 a year to provide the ambulance service.

County commissioners earlier Tuesday tabled any further action on a proposal to enter into an agreement to provide the service on the advice of Bornhoff.

Forum at WS to Focus On Middle East Policy

Representatives from five nations will meet at Wayne State College Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to discuss United States foreign policy on the Middle East.

The conference will be open to the public.

Joining in the conference will be diplomats from Iran, Israel, the Soviet Union, the United States and a representative from the Arab Information Center.

All five are scheduled to speak individually, and all will join in a panel discussion at 10 a.m. Wednesday to analyze "United States Policy in the Middle East."

Morning sessions are scheduled in Ramsey Theatre of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center, noon meetings in the Student Center Walnut Room, and evening meetings at 7 in the Student Center Birch Room.

The forum will open at 10 a.m. Tuesday with an address by Ariel Kerem, vice-consul for cultural affairs in the Midwest, assigned to Israel's consulate general office in Chicago. His topic: "United States-Israeli Relations and the Middle East Conflict."

Kerem studied at the Hebrew University, served as foreign secretary for the World Union of Jewish Students, and was political secretary of the National Union of Israeli Students.

At noon Tuesday Musil Shihadeh of the Arab Information Center will discuss "The Palestinian Refugee Problem." Shihadeh, born and reared in Palestine, was twice a refugee as a result of wars in that region. He represents the Arab American Congress for Palestine.

Aleksandr Mettelkin of the Soviet Union will address the forum at 7 p.m. Tuesday on "Detente, the Super Powers, and the Middle East." Mettelkin is the second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, and he previously directed the American division of the Soviet See POLICY, page 8

4-H'ers On 'Sale' Tonight

Local and area residents looking for some enthusiastic — and possibly cheap — labor for a day are invited to do some bidding at the 4-H slave auction scheduled for the city auditorium in Wayne tonight (Thursday).

The slave auction, being sponsored by the Wayne County Teen Supremes, the 4-H junior leader organization, is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Four-H members from around the county will be sold for an eight-hour work day on Saturday.

Money raised from the slave sale will be pooled with that raised in the recent 4-H bake sales to help purchase equipment to furnish the new show ring being built at the county fairgrounds, according to agricultural agent Don Spitze.

That new show ring, a steel building 100 by 125 feet, should be completed in about two more weeks. It will be used for all dairy and beef competition during the county fair Aug. 1-4. Sheep and swine competition will be held this year in the same buildings as in past years, but in future fairs they also will be held in the new ring, Spitze said.

6-4-H'ers Earn Purples, Trip To State Fair

Six Wayne County 4-H'ers were selected to advance to the State Fair in Lincoln later this summer following Tuesday afternoon's home economics demonstration contest at Wayne High School.

Demonstrating in the Lincoln event will be Julie Maben and Susan Rethwisch, who received a purple ribbon for their foods demonstration titled "A Flop or Not?" Shirley Kleensang and Marilyn Strate, who earned a blue ribbon for their first aid demonstration titled "Wrap Session"; Janet Spitzberger, a purple ribbon winner with her demonstration titled "It's A Grand Old Flag"; and Anita Sandahl, a purple ribbon winner with her native products demonstration.

NPPD Delivers City's Industrial Fact Books

Wayne now has an industrial fact book packed with information, charts, pictures and statistical data which may come in handy when industrial prospects consider the community for location.

Copies of the fact book, prepared by Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) with the help of numerous local residents, were presented to the Chamber of Commerce during a luncheon Tuesday. More than 200 books have been printed for distribution by NPPD and the Chamber.

The book includes detailed and up-to-date information on economic, business, industrial, civic, cultural and physical assets and resources in the community and surrounding area.

It contains data on everything from population and labor supply to tax levies and local bonded indebtedness. Also included is information on such things as the history of the community, wages paid workers, truck and railroad transportation, form of government, churches, housing, recreation and service clubs.

Forty-two pages, the book is loose leaf so outdated information can be taken out and replaced with more current information. It will be updated about every two years, according to NPPD.

The book should prove very useful to officials in industries looking at Northeast Nebraska as a possible site for a plant, said Arch Gustafson, NPPD's community development supervisor who presented the books to the Chamber.

"They will read this book like you and I read the menu at a cafe," he said, noting that it contains about all the information industrial prospects will need to decide whether Wayne would be the right place to locate.

Gustafson also noted that the book may come in useful when See BOOKS, page 7

Leila and Richard Fischer Making Home in Wakefield

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD FISCHER

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fischer, who were married in June 29 at the Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord, will be making their first home at 402 Maple St., Wakefield.

Mrs. Fischer, nee Leila Pearson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Dale Pearson of Wakefield. A graduate of the Norfolk School of Vocational Practical Nursing, she is employed as a LPN at the Wakefield Community Hospital.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Wakefield High School, attended Wayne State College and is engaged in farming. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Fischer of Wakefield.

The Rev. Clifford Lindgren of Concord officiated at the double ring ceremony and Charles Soderberg sang "Come Live With Me," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Winton Wallin.

After a vase of peach gladiolas and ivory and coral finlet mums decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a full length gown which she fashioned herself. The gown, styled with princess lines and a high waistline, featured a skirt of ivory tulle and a neckline with a stand-up neck band and short lace puff sleeves. The bride's bodice was styled with an ivory Chantilly lace overlay. Her ivory elbow length veil was caught to a Juliet cap of ivory tulle with a lace overlay, and she carried a bouquet of ivory mums, coral roses and baby's breath with ivory and coral streamers.

Maid of honor was June Pearson of Lincoln, sister of the bride, and bridesmaid was Mrs. Gary Preston of Wakefield, sister of the groom. They wore identical light coral floor-length knit dresses designed with princess lines, high waistlines and short puff sleeves. Ivory lace trimmed the waist and neckline and they carried nosegays of ivory and coral tinted mums with a coral rose in the center and ivory streamers.

Best man was Gale Lundahl of Wakefield and groomsman was Gary Preston of Wakefield. Ushers were Duane Pearson, Allen Keagle, Raymond Larson and Terry Nicholson, all of Wakefield.

The men wore black trousers with white knit dress coats

Waitresses were Cindy Garvin, Lorrie Garvin, LeAnn Keagle and Kim Gustafson. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Pat Erwin, Mrs. Ted Johnson, Mrs. Jim Hirsichman, Mrs. Ted Fuoss, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. Everl Johnson, Mrs. Ernest Swanson, Mrs. Verdel Erwin and Mrs. Clifford Fredrickson.

Mrs. Kathy McGhee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chapman of Allen, is the recipient of a $500 national scholarship to attend the University of Nebraska.

Mrs. Kathy McGhee Receives Scholarship

The scholarship was awarded by the Stephen Buffon Memorial Education of Kansas City, Mo., an affiliate of the Sioux City Princess Sacajawea Chapter of the American Business Women Association.

Mrs. Chapman will be a junior at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln where she is majoring in home economics.

Ambulance Agreement Is Tabled by County

Wayne County commissioners Tuesday tabled further action on a request to cooperate with the city of Wayne in furnishing ambulance service once the new hospital is completed in coming months.

The county, city and local hospital board cooperated in recent years to make ambulance service available, but that agreement will no longer be in effect when the new hospital goes into operation early next year.

The commissioners were asked to pay half the approximate $7,000 yearly bill to operate the ambulance.

Meeting with the commissioners were hospital board members O. K. Brandtletter and Lyle Seymour; mayor Freeman Decker, councilman Darrel Fuetlberg and city administrator Fred Brink.

County attorney Budd Borchardt advised the commissioners to table further action until he has time to look into state laws covering such agreements.

Firemen in Wayne, Carroll Called Out For Tuesday Fires

Volunteer firemen in Wayne and Carroll were called to separate fires Tuesday, one caused by youngsters playing with matches and the other of undetermined origin.

Wayne fire chief Cliff Pinkelman said youths started a fire in a shed in the alley between Pearl and Lincoln Streets in the 800 block about the middle of the afternoon Tuesday.

The fire completely destroyed the shed and burned some electrical wires, he said.

Carroll firemen were called to put out a fire on a vacant farm owned by Paul Brader, one mile south and six and a half miles west of Carroll shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday.

That fire burned a barn, corn crib and garage.

CRABMEAT SPREAD

Gospel Trio To Appear In Wayne

The Chancellors, a young gospel trio from Sioux City, Ia., will present a concert Wednesday evening, July 17 at the Assembly of God Church in Wayne.

Known throughout the Midwest for their personal and television appearances, the group has appeared at several state-wide youth conventions in recent months.

The program, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., will feature old time gospel singing as well as new contemporary sounds.

The public is invited to attend.

Bride-Elect Honored

Bride-elect Barbara Longnecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Longnecker of Winside, was honored recently with two bridal courtesies.

Miss Longnecker and Stan Stenwall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stenwall of Winside, will be married Aug. 2 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winside.

Fifty-five guests attended the Sunday afternoon fête at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winside. Games served for entertainment and prizes were presented the honoree.

Guests were registered by Sally Landanger. Jill Stenwall, Janice Longnecker and Sally Landanger assisted with gifts and both mothers poured. Corages were presented Miss Longnecker and both mothers

Theresa Temme Baptized Sunday

Baptismal services for Theresa Jo Temme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Temme of York, were held Sunday at Grace Lutheran Church, Wayne, with the Rev. John Upton officiating.

Sponsors for Theresa Jo, who wore the baptismal dress belonging to her grandfather, Alvin Temme, were Debbie Cook of Norfolk and Vellvin Temme of Wayne.

Grandparents are Don Cook and Yvonne Cook of Norfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Temme of Wayne. Maternal great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ambroz of Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. Max Holdorf of Wakefield. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Temme and Art Magdanz, all of Wayne, are paternal great grandparents.

Dinner guests in the Alvin Temme home following services were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Temme and Theresa Jo, York, Don and Yvonne Cook and Debbie Cook, Norfolk, Lois Temme, Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ambroz, Carroll, and Pastor and Mrs. Upton; and Theresa, Charles Temme, Art Magdanz, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Magdanz, all of Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Max Holdorf of Wakefield joined them for lunch.

Janet Nielsen is June 29 Bride

Janet Nielsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Nielsen of Sioux City, formerly of Laurel, became the bride of Jeff Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morris of Rockford, Ill., in June 29 rites at the Billy Sunday Tabernacle in Sioux City. Dr. Martin Mosier of Sioux City officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stokes Jr. sang "Colour My World," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Precious Lord," accompanied by Arnold Fris.

Guests were ushered into the church by Jerry Nielsen of Sioux City, Brad Nielsen of Oklahoma City, Brent Branca of Rockford, Ill., and Dave Van Pernis of Holland, Mich. Candlelighters were Peggy Nielsen and Kirk Nielsen, and flowergirls were Erin Stokes and Christine Stokes, all of Sioux City.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a formal gown of white satin taffeta featuring a lace overlay of the bodice, long sheer sleeves fitted at the wrist, and an attached train. Her gown was complemented with a fingertip veil falling from a cap of lace and seeded pearls, and she carried a cascade of pink roses and white mums.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Twila Ostra of Sioux Center. Bridesmaids were LeAnn

MRS. JEFF MORRIS

Feucht of Lester, Ia., Cindy Jensen and Mrs. Sue Ann Jordan, both of Sioux City, and Mrs. Peggy Reiter of, Sioux Falls, S. D.

They wore full length double knit gowns in pastel colors featuring empire waists and puffed sleeves, and carried baskets of daisies.

Best man was David Morris of Rockford, Ill. Groomsmen were Brad Born, Drake Branca and Gary Greenlee, all of Rockford, Ill., and Chris Olson of Sioux City. The men wore gray Wind sor tuxedos.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nielsen chose to wear a blue full length dress of double knit trimmed in lace. Her corsage was of pink roses and white daisies. The groom's mother selected a full length dress of pastel green double knit, and her corsage was of pink roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Billy Sunday Tabernacle Hall with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Jensen of South Sioux City as host couple.

Mrs. Paulette Delperding of South Sioux City registered the 250 guests, and gifts were arranged by Beth Jernberg, Maureen Gray, Joanne Eppard and Janice Mogler. Mrs. Gladys Jensen and Mrs. Mary Stokes, aunts of the bride, cut and served the cake, and Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Mrs. Starr Nielsen, also aunts of the bride, poured Punch was served by Doris Stokes of Sioux City and Mrs. Barb Priddy of Sioux Falls, S. D.

Waitresses were Arlene Snyder, Rhonda Nielsen, Debbie Jensen and Debbie Behlers. The bride attended Laurel High School and graduated from East High School in Sioux City. She attended Sioux Falls College where she majored in math and science, and taught high school at Taylors Falls, Minn. this past year. The bridegroom is a graduate of Guilford High School in Rockford, Ill., and of Sioux Falls College at Sioux Falls, S. D. The couple took a wedding trip to Wisconsin and are making their first home at 2818 Knight Ave., Rockford, Ill.

Say Wedding Vows

Married June 30 at the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne, were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kalmburn, who are now making their home at Pleasant Dale, Ne.

Mrs. Kalmburn, nee Georgia Ann Fitch, is a grand niece of Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Fitch of Wayne. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Kalmburn of Omaha.

The Rev. S. K. deFreese officiated at the 2 p.m. rites and Mrs. Fritz Ellis of Wayne was organist. Gregg Noyes of Wayne ushered the guests into the church and Julie Hagemann, also of Wayne, pinned on flowers.

Given in marriage by her great uncle, the bride appeared in a full-length gown of tulle over lace. Her elbow-length veil fell from a pearl crown.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Duane Fitch of Omaha, wore a light blue knit suit.

Best man was Duane Fitch of Omaha. Mrs. Fitch chose to wear a pink dress for the wedding of her grand niece. The groom's mother selected a light blue knit dress. Both wore daisy corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Noyes of Wayne served as hosts to the reception for approximately 50 guests which followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Fitch of Wayne.

Mrs. Sam Noyes cut and served the bridal cake and an aunt of the groom served the groom's cake. Mrs. Duane Fitch poured and Julie Hagemann and LaVon Beckman served punch.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Wayne High School. The bridegroom served four years in the United States Navy and attended Millard Technical College where he studied plumbing and heating. He is presently employed with a firm in Lincoln.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Chris Jorgensens Mark Fortieth Year

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jorgensen of Norfolk, formerly of Carroll, who have been married 40 years, marked their wedding anniversary Sunday evening with an open house reception at the Holiday Inn banquet room in Norfolk, followed by a dance.

A 6 p.m. dinner for members of the immediate family was served preceding the open house.

Guests were present from Pierce, Winside, Stanton, Lincoln, Omaha, Bancroft, Ashland, Douglas, Tilden, Belden, Laurel, Carroll, and South Dakota, Iowa and Colorado.

Marilyn Rohde of Carroll granddaughter of the honored couple, registered the approximately 150 guests. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Dennis Rohde of Carroll and Mrs. Jim Jorgensen of Norfolk. Skip Jorgensen of Norfolk poured and Mrs. Larry Stark of Moultrie, Ia., served punch.

Jorgensens were married July 3, 1934, at Wayne and lived at Carroll for several years prior to moving to Twin Falls, Idaho where they resided for five years. The couple later moved to Belden and then to Norfolk where Mr. Jorgensen works at the Norfolk Regional Center. Mrs. Jorgensen is employed at the Hy Top Store in Norfolk.

Their children are Mrs. Dennis Rohde of Carroll, Rich and Jorgensen of Omaha, Gene Jorgensen who is an instructor at a Naval Training Base in San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Cliff Dompsey of Lancaster, Calif., Jim Jorgensen of Randolph, Mrs. Larry Stark of Moultrie, Ia., and Skip Jorgensen of Norfolk. There are 18 grandchildren.

Downtown Wayne — How It Could Look

WAYNE Chamber of Commerce president Wayne Wessel, standing at left, discusses suggested parking areas with, clockwise from bottom left, Gerald Botenkamp, Ted Bahe, Dick Keidel, Cliff Pinkelman and O. K. Brandsletter during Monday night's meeting at which a proposed plan for developing the downtown area was unveiled. The plan includes removing parking from First to Fourth Streets on Main and planting trees and shrubbery, installing new lights, providing park benches for shoppers, creating walkways out of the alleys and the like. Photographs of how the community looks now are juxtaposed with an artist's rendition of how they could look (above) if such a plan were followed through with. The large collages of pictures and artist's drawings are on display at the two banks in Wayne. About 50 people turned out for Monday's meeting, held in conjunction with the Chamber's quarterly membership meeting. Members of the committee who have been working on coming up with a suggested plan for changing the face of the business district have invited suggestions and comments on the plans unveiled Monday night.

Library Board Meets Saturday

Library board members met Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Prince, vice president, in charge of the business meeting. The village clerk's report was given, and Mrs. Harry Suehl Sr., librarian, gave the librarian's report.

Steve Ooten of Columbus, library coordinator for the northern network, recently visited the local library.

Windside Library board members plan to attend a workshop for the Lewis and Clark region July 23 at the Norfolk City Library.

Mrs. H. L. Neely was re-appointed trustee of library board. Library hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. each Wednesday and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturdays during the month of July.

Next meeting will be Aug. 3.

Budget Hike At Windside Given Okay

The Windside school board Monday night approved a budget increase of about $37,000 for the 1974-75 school year, bringing the total budget up to $466,786.88.

The increase means the mill levy will go up approximately 1.22 mills, said superintendent Don Leighton.

He explained that the budget will require an additional $10,532.88 in local tax money. "It is difficult to state what this will mean in additional mills as we do not know what the valuation will be for next year," he said. "We estimate the operating mill going up 1.47 mills, but we also anticipate the bond levy going down about .25 mills, which would put the total increase at 1.22 mills."

During the meeting the board voted to accept a firm bid to supply milk for the school lunch program at a cost of nine cents for white and nine and a half cents for chocolate milk.

In other action, the members discussed the possibility of an other fire hydrant for the school and metering of water used on the football field.

The board also appointed Leighton as administrator of the school's Title I project and not lunch program for the new school year, okayed the hiring of Jerry Malcom of Wayne to audit the school and voted to obtain driver education cars from Coryell Auto Co. of Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dufner, Hermann, Mo., were guests last weekend in the Irene Damm home. Irene Damm observed her birthday Tuesday evening. Cards furnished entertainment with prizes awarded to Everett and Matthew Schuetz and Rethel Damm, Mrs. LeRoy Herschfeld, Mrs. Götthilf Jaeger and Mrs. Albert Jaeger.

ards would not entail costly changes, but we feel the overall effect could be spectacular," he said in the report.

The approximate 50 people who turned out for the meeting was one of the largest groups to attend a meeting on downtown improvement in recent years. The meeting was held in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce's quarterly membership meeting at the Woman's Club room at the city auditorium.

After Sayler's formal presentation, he set up long boards with an architect's color drawings of what the downtown area would look like if the suggested plan were followed. Also displayed were long boards containing collages of black and white photographs of the store fronts as they exist, enabling businessmen and others a chance to compare the city as it now looks with what it could look like. Those drawings and photographs will be displayed in the two banks and in other businesses during the next few weeks, according to Darrel Fuelberth, one of the men who worked on the committee which was responsible for getting the preliminary plan completed.

Fuelberth noted that the plan "is just a guideline" and that the committee would like to hear as many comments and criticisms as possible in coming days.

He said another meeting will be held within a week or two after businessmen and interested citizens have had a chance to think and talk about the plan. The results of that meeting should give the committee an idea of what steps to take next.

Working with Fuelberth on the committee have been Clarence Kühn, Joe Nuss; Howard Witt, Norvin Hansen, Bob Reeg, Rowan Willst, Mern Mordhorst, Bob Jordan, Wayne Wessel, Phil Griess and Mike Jacobson.

Haun: Main Goal Top Education

There are five main areas of education which keeps the Wayne-Carroll school system ranked among the top in the area and nation, superintendent Francis Haun told Wayne Kiwanians Monday.

Educational planning, salaries, data concerning the school district, budget and evaluation are updated each year in order to constantly improve the system, noted Haun.

"Our main concern is educating the young people," he emphasized.

Evaluation is linked to part of the other four steps, said Haun, who noted that each year he talks with instructors to point out their good points and bad points. "We set a goal for the school and we expect every teacher as well as administrator to aim for that goal," he said.

Haun pointed out that three recently passed state laws are affecting both salaries and Council of Friendship Societies for Foreign Countries, in Moscow.

Dr. Golam Hossein Kazemian, minister counsellor for cultural affairs, Imperial Embassy of Iran, will speak on "The Middle East Conflict: a View from Iran" at 12:30 Wednesday. A graduate of American University, Washington, he has written extensively on problems of the Middle East.

For the finale at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Stephen Ward will bring the U. S. State Department position on "United States Policy in the Middle East."

Ward is director of the Office of Syrian, Jordanian, Iraqi and Lebanese Affairs, and desk officer for Jordan at the State Department. He holds degrees from Amherst College and Columbia University, has served extensively in the Middle East and speaks Arabic, French and Spanish.

The conference grew out of an idea Prof. Allen O'Donnell had when planning a summer course on "The United States and the Middle East" at Wayne State.

"How better," he said, "to enlighten our students on the problems facing American foreign-policy in the Middle East than to have them make personal contact with diplomats from that region. We decided to make this a fully open forum to allow Nebraskans and others a chance to take part."

Wanted: Recipe Favorites

If you have a special recipe for anything from pork chops to chocolate cake, you are invited to send it in for use in The Wayne Herald's special Farmer-Feeder Section scheduled for publication later this month.

Area housewives are being given a chance to share their special or favorite recipes with other families by contributing them for use in the special publication.

The special publication will include a variety of material — everything from stories and pictures on individual farm operators to statistical data on what has been happening to the area beef industry in recent years.

Recipes submitted for use in the publication should be in the Herald office by July 20.

OBITUARIES

Walt Jensen
Funeral services for Walt William Jensen, 47, of Wayne, are set for this Friday at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Wayne. Jensen died Tuesday at the Wayne Hospital.

The Rev. Harry Cowles will officiate and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Henry Walker
A Hoskins resident, Henry Walker, died Thursday in a Norfolk hospital at the age of 83 years. He was born at Frank, Russia on Aug. 28, 1890, the son of Casper and Catherine Amen Walker.

As an infant he came with his parents to the United States where he attended school at Trenton, Ill., and in Nebraska. He married Dorothy Schneider April 15, 1916 at McCook. The couple lived in the Norfolk and Hoskins vicinity until 1954 when he retired as a farmer and a carpenter and they moved into Hoskins.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Hoskins, with the Rev. Andrew Donsom officiating. Serving as pallbearers were Gary Heckman, Willard Marquardt, Mark Walker, Larry Walker, Roger Walker and Jeffery Walker. Interment was in the Hillcrest Memorial Park Cemetery, Norfolk.

Preceding him in death were one grandson and four brothers. Survivors include his widow; five sons, Raymond of Norfolk, Marvin of Elizabeth, Ill., Ben of Mount Morris, Ill., Don of Hoskins and Wes of Hanover, Ill.; three daughters, Mrs. Clarence (Lillian) Heckmann and Mrs. Erwin (Florence) Marquardt, both of Norfolk, and Mrs. R. D. (Marian) Campbell of Rice, Tex.; 29 grandchildren and six great grandchildren; two brothers, Ruben of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Await of Hoskins, and one sister, Mrs. Wesley (Clara) Joslassen of Schuyler.

Esther Fuoss
Esther Fuoss of Wayne, died Saturday at her home at the age of 68 years. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Grace Lutheran Church, Wayne, with the Rev. John Upton officiating.

Honorary pallbearers were Harvey Rastede, Marvin Rastede, Clarence Rastede, Bob Fuoss, Alvin Rastede and Larry Fuoss. Serving as active pallbearers were Gilbert Krallman, Glen Sampson, Levl W. B. Thompson, Victor Haase, Harlan Ruwe and Gene Fredrickson. Committal was in Greenwood Cemetery.

The daughter of John and Agnes Westing Bergerson, she was born in Wayne County May 2, 1906. She was united in marriage to Herman Fuoss Aug. 25, 1925 at Wayne. The couple farmed in Dixon County until 1938 when they moved to Wayne County. Mrs. Fuoss had made her home in Wayne for approximately 13 years where she was a member of Grace Lutheran Church.

She was preceded in death by her husband, one son and three brothers. Survivors include three sons, Marvin of Winsde, Ted of Carroll, and Earl of Wayne; four daughters, Mrs. Kenneth (Evelyn) Reikofsk of Omaha, Mrs. Otto (Esther Mae) Test Jr. of Norfolk, Mrs. Noel (Alice) Bennett of Wayne, and Mrs. Bob (Gayle) Henegar of Norfolk; 24 grandchildren; three brothers, Wilber Bergerson of Eagle Bend, Minn., Ted Bergerson of Fremont, and John Bergerson of Norfolk; and two sisters, Sophie Rodell of Wayne, and Bertha Nugent of Magalia, Calif.

The total budget of $2.6 million is about $157,000 greater than the budget for the current fiscal year.

City administrator Fred Brink described it as "rock bottom" as possible. He said it is less than two per cent greater than the current budget in a time when other communities are seeing hikes between 15 and 30 per cent in their budgets.

Council also tabled further action until the next council meeting on how to finance an access road to the new hospital, being built on the northeast edge of the community.

The road is needed in order to get the federal government to release funds which are necessary for paying for constructing the hospital, according to those instrumental in getting the funds approved.

Ken Olds, secretary of the local Hospital Foundation Board, told the council the hospital likely will be open for business in March and the road has to be completed by then.

The council is trying to determine a method to finance the road which would be fair to all residents of the community as well as to those who own property next to the proposed route for the road, from the east end of 10th Street north to the hospital.

Bornhoff has told the council it may be difficult justifying paying for the road with general tax funds if somebody questions such action in court. He said the hospital and property owners next to the road may gain some benefit from the road and would then have to share accordingly in its cost if it is built.

Council also: Approved 8.0 a bid of $4,634 from Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency of Wayne for workmen's compensation insurance for city employees. The bid was the low one of four submitted.

Approved 8.0 resolutions permitting the city to apply for government funds to help with development of the Lions Club camping park east of the community and Henry Victor Memorial Park on the south edge of town.

Approved 8.0 an ordinance giving property owners 30 days in which to arrange for removal of infected, dead or dying trees. Property owners are to pay cost of removal on terraces.

Approved drawing up a resolution which would result in water customers outside the city limits paying one and one-half the rate paid by customers within the city.

Approved 8.0 Dale Johnson as a member of the volunteer fire department. Johnson farms just northwest of Wayne.

Set for 8 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. on July 30 hearings on liquor license requests from operators of the Pizza Hut and the Gem Cafe.

Postponed until the next meeting action on a request for additional pay from the firm which constructed the electrical line from the city to Wayne County Public Power District's line south of the community. The line permitted the city to tie in with Nebraska Public Power District.

Local Plant Grinds Out Juice for Power Giant

Less than a month after the city of Wayne was completely dependent upon Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) for its electrical power, the city was selling electricity to the huge power company.

Norbert Brugger, power-plant superintendent, said the city began selling NPPD power at noon on Tuesday, the first time in the history of the community that power flowed out of the city. One June 15 the city was purchasing all of its power from NPPD, the first time since the power plant began operation just before the turn of the century that local residents weren't relying on it for electricity.

The city sold NPPD 2,000 kilowatts an hour from noon Tuesday to 10 p.m. and was scheduled to sell power again on Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., according to Brugger.

Supplying that much power at this time of the year resulted in engines at the power plant grinding out more electricity than ever before, Brugger noted. Engines at the plant were producing about 8,500 kilowatts an hour on Tuesday afternoon, considerably above the 6,500 kilowatt record established earlier this year.

Three engines were running Tuesday to supply electricity to both the city and NPPD, according to Brugger. Another three engines were idle.

The agreement reached several months ago between NPPD and the city enables either party to purchase power from the other.

Dry, drier, driest

VOLUNTEER firemen from Wayne fight a fire in a hay stack on the Melvin Samuelson farm northeast of Wayne last week as high temperatures, dry winds and no moisture continue to make it more and more likely that fires will break out. Fire chief Cliff Pinkelman has urged local and area residents to be very careful with fire because of the possibility of fire spreading into surrounding grass and buildings. If people will be careful, the good record of small fire losses can be continued, he said. During the period from May of 1973 to May of this year there were only 27 fire calls and approximately $9,400 in fire losses, the "lowest fire loss in all the years I have recorded for," said Pinkelman. Most of that dollar loss was from haystack fires, he noted. Pinkelman said he is fairly certain the no burning ordinance put into effect in the city of Wayne a few years ago has been largely responsible for the fewer fire alarms, especially in the summer when temperatures climb and rain is rare. He said the people in Wayne and the surrounding area have been "doing a very good job in keeping fires at a minimum. But now they should be extra careful." The state fire marshal has declared a ban on all open burning in the entire state until weather conditions improve, Pinkelman noted.

Tiemann TKO's Exon in highway sign fight

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — The signs are down. Those signs which had the state of Nebraska eyeball to eyeball with the federal government have been unbolted from their cement foundations and put in storage.

Governor J. J. Exon lost his battle to keep them in the Interstate Highway right-of-way where they have been used to lure vacationers to such Nebraska tourist attractions as Boys Town, Cowboy Country at Ogallala and the House of Yesterday at Hastings.

It was the Exon administration's position that the signs were so beneficial to Nebraska's economy and were such a benefit to the safety of the traveler that federal regulations should be revised to allow the signs to stay where they were.

The administration maintained that the signs generated about $3.3 million in tourist spending each summer, money which would have been spent in some other state if the vacationer hadn't been drawn off the Interstate long enough to look at a Nebraska attraction.

And the administration contended that those signs — breaks in the monotony of Interstate driving — had a safety factor because they relieved fatigued drivers.

But the federal government had some arguments, too.

It was the federal position that signs in the Interstate right-of-way should be limited to as few as possible on grounds that a large number of signs tends to dull a driver's response. He tends to start overlooking the signs and might miss information it is vital for him to know.

Another reason to keep down the number of signs in a right-of-way, according to the federal government, is that they present another "target" for an out-of-control vehicle.

The state, reluctantly, had agreed to take the signs down after the 1972 pilot project was completed and a request that they be allowed to stay was refused.

The governor, however, changed his mind and decided to fight down to the wire on the issue, contending that he thought he could convince federal officials of the virtues of the signs if he just had an opportunity to have a hearing before federal Highway Administrator Norbert T. Tiemann.

Tiemann, of course, is the man Democrat Exon defeated in the 1970 gubernatorial elections. There were strong hints from the Exon camp that Tiemann's refusal to schedule a hearing had "political overtones in this election year."

A federal judge, however, said that wasn't necessarily so.

When Tiemann ordered that approval and funding for federal-aid highway projects in Nebraska be stopped until the signs come down, the Exon administration went to court to have Tiemann blocked from carrying out his punishment.

The state's brief charged the federal government with unconstitutional invasion of state's rights, among other things.

But U. S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom ruled that Tiemann was perfectly within his rights in imposing the penalties (which involved about $39 million) and wasn't under any requirement to hold a hearing.

Exon had said he would take the signs down rather than have money actually be withheld from the state or have the highway program be delayed.

When the judge issued his decision rejecting the state's plea for a temporary restraining order, Exon ordered the signs removed.

Dear Editor:

It is hard to believe that my dentist, along with the other dentists in their letter to you last week, urged us NOT to sign a petition to bring the fluoridation issue to a vote of the people.

Should we not use the democratic process and exercise our right to vote? Is that what they mean?

Everyone interested in their constitutional rights should sign the petition without hesitation! — Wes Pfeuffer

(Editor's Note: Wayne dentists Robert Gormley, Gordon Shupe, Wayne Wessal, Richard DeNaeyer and George Goblirsch urged voters not to sign the petition which could result in a local election in November on whether to fluoridate Wayne's water. City officials will boost the fluoridation level in the community's water beginning the first of the year to comply with a state law passed by the last legislature. However, a successful petition drive would put the issue on the ballot in November and permit local residents an opportunity to keep the fluoride in the water at its present level.)

OBSERVATIONS

A scrappin' little guy

State senator Loran Schmit may be little more than a lightweight, but I wouldn't want to get into a verbal fistfight with him.

He isn't pulling any punches in his elimination rounds with a couple of beetles. Saleway and A. P. and I imagine he'll be swinging just as heavily if they ever get into the real ring where the courts will decide if what Schmit is saying has any grounds.

Some say I see (as the Omaha World Herald apparently has said) that Schmit has taken on the two chain stores for the political glory. I'm inclined to believe Schmit when he says, "I don't need that kind of publicity."

The state senator is convinced he has evidence that the chain stores are manipulating prices so that the shopper's tab for her meat purchases remains high while livestock producers are going broke because of the low prices they are receiving when they market their animals. He says he has evidence proving that, although he declines to reveal the evidence until his $1.5 billion suit gets into court. That's understandable, considering old Cassius Clay always kept his latest secret weapon under wraps until he stepped into the ring.

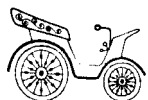

I'm certainly not qualified to comment on Schmit's charges that livestock feeders aren't reaping any of the profits being made on meat sales these days, but the way he puts things it does sound like something is wrong with the free enterprise system. Shoppers are paying record prices for the meat they are purchasing at the same time that farmers and feeders are losing money on every animal they take to market, he says. That, as they say down home, just ain't right.

What Schmit is calling for is a full scale investigation of why there is that large price spread in meat sold at the stockyard and meat sold over the counter at the local store. It doesn't sound like an unreasonable request.

But for Schmit's own benefit, I hope he has that evidence he has been talking about. Otherwise, he'll get knocked out of the ring pretty early in the fight. He admits that, and says he needs support of livestock feeders in the state if he hopes to win the fight. If that help isn't forthcoming, he vividly describes what will happen: "I'm gonna get my tail dragged across a gravel road." Even if that happens, it's going to be an interesting scrap to watch. — Norvin Hansen.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

Today's Carburetors

Rising fuel prices have prompted many car owners to request information on the availability of "super" gas-conserving carburetors.

In response to these requests, investigators in the Science Policy Research Division of the Congressional Research Service recently interviewed nationally recognized authorities on carburetion.

One leading authority in the field contends that carburetors in use today represent the best balance between cost and factors such as fuel economy, full availability of engine power at all operating speeds and smooth engine performance. The expert noted that through the years, special carburetors that offered significantly improved gas mileage — generally about 10 per cent — were complex and unreliable.

It is possible with current technology to build a carburetor that will provide dramatic gains in fuel economy. The California Institute of Technology, with a $3 million grant from one car manufacturer, has devised a super carburetor. It is a computer-controlled, fully electric device. When installed in one automobile, gas mileage was improved by 66 per cent — from 15 miles per gallon to 25 miles per gallon. The cost, however, is about $2,500 per unit. This would almost double the price of some cars, and the fuel economy would hardly compensate.

The auto manufacturers' conduct continuing research programs to improve carburetors. They also test various devices that claim to boost gas mileage. If they should find a device that lives up to its claims and presented no serious drawbacks, it would be incorporated into the basic design of the engine, because supportable claims of increased fuel economy would provide a sales advantage over the competition.

One company is currently testing and evaluating an invention that could replace the conventional carburetor. The device crashes gasoline at sonic speeds into a diffuser, breaking it into tiny droplets which burn more efficiently.

Another company plans to introduce, on some of its 1975 models, a carburetor that automatically compensates for changes in air density due to altitude and temperature.

While improvements are constantly being sought, a testing scientist with the Automotive Research Laboratory of Consumer's Union recently told congressional investigators that today's carburetors approach the practical limits of efficiency.

Local Residents To Aid Laurel With 'Disaster'

At least three Wayne residents will help plan and carry out the practice tornado disaster at Laurel on Monday night.

Helping will be Ray Butts, president of the local citizen band radio club and co-chairman for the practice disaster in Wayne several weeks ago; Keith Mosley, first aid instructor, and policeman Ron Penlerick.

Taking part in the practice will be fire department, law enforcement and medical personnel along with local Scouts.

The fake tornado will touch down in the community at a site which won't be revealed until it strikes in an attempt to make the event as real as possible. Sirens will sound the warning of an approaching tornado and various groups will respond just as if a real tornado were headed for the community.

Organizers of the practice are urging local and area residents to take part in the practice, giving help if they have first aid training.

The practice will be scheduled for another date if threatening weather is present Monday night.

Grubs
The best time to treat Nebraska cattle with systemic grubicide is mid-July to October 1. Because of the geographical differences in heel fly activity, southern cattle must be treated earlier. They will have grubs in their backs much earlier than native cattle.

Cattle from Texas, Oklahoma and other southern states should be treated June to August. Cattle from higher elevations in New Mexico and Arizona can be treated from July to October. Cattle moving into feedlots from the southern states in June should be treated if they will be marketed this fall.

Nebraska cattle that will be marketed from mid-December through April should be treated in August and September.

All systemic insecticides registered for grub control have been very effective if they contact the skin so they are absorbed. Generally, pour-on formulations have been a little more reliable than sprays if sprays are not applied with high pressure at close range.

NU Ag Students to Tour NE Station Next Week

Eighteen University of Nebraska-Lincoln agronomy students will observe various aspects of agriculture in Northeast Nebraska, including the North-east Station east of Concord, during the annual Agronomy Club Tour Monday through Thursday.

The group will also travel to Minneapolis and to Ames, Ia., according to club advisor Dr. G. A. Peterson, UN-L agronomy professor in soils.

Peterson said the purpose of the tour is to provide an opportunity for students to note regional methods of farming and agribusiness and to provide recreation. This year's tour is the third phase of a program designed by the club to examine

You're Never Too Old To Hear Better

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head. These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5814, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria Street, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Job Survey Set for Area

Representatives of the Bureau of the Census will interview a sample of households in the Wayne area the week of July 15-19 to obtain information on employment.

Area households are among 50,000 across the country that have been scientifically selected to represent a cross section of the American people.

The survey, which the Bureau conducts each month for the U. S. Department of Labor, provides a continuous measure of employment and unemployment for the Nation. Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

900 Farmers Signed Up As Deadline Nears

About 900 Wayne County farmers out of a total of some 1,200 had signed up for feed grain program benefits as of Monday, a week before the deadline for farmers to report their planted acreages and sign up for the benefits, according to Ray Butts, executive director of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Those farmers who don't sign up by Monday's deadline won't be eligible for any feed grain program benefits, including disaster payments, deficiency payments, commodity price support loans, loans on grain bins and dryers, and other benefits," said Butts.

Producers are required to report their feed grain and wheat acreage if they want to maintain allotments, according to Butts.

There are no acreage or other restrictions under this year's program, according to Butts, who advises all producers to sign up for program benefits.

HAVE YOU GOT MONEY TO BURN?

Have you got money to burn? Then why aren't you staining your house instead of painting it? Yes, stain; OLYMPIC STAIN, the finest finish for wood, can be applied right over painted surfaces and is guaranteed never to crack, peel or blister. That means the end of those expensive paint bills every 2 or 3 years.

In addition to that, since our stain is self-priming, you will probably only need one coat for the job. There are many colors to choose from, one of them might be just the right one for you; so get smart, don't burn your money, use it wisely with OLYMPIC STAIN.

Corps' Providing Youths Chance to Earn

The name of the program is the Neighborhood Youth Corps, and its primary goal is to provide area youths with part-time summer jobs that will benefit the community.

Chuck Nelson and Rick Rees probably don't worry about the goals of the program. Their main intent is to do their job while earning $2 an hour.

Both youths, along with brothers Terry and Duane Wayman, and Adel Kessinger, all of Dixon, are helping to fix and paint buildings at the Dixon County fairgrounds in Concord.

According to Mrs. Fred Opegaard of Concord, whose husband was instrumental in organizing the program in Dixon and Concord, youths start about 8 a.m. and work for about six hours. They are allowed to put in 32 hours a week.

The group plans to have the fairgrounds project completed by mid July in plenty of time before the three day Dixon County Fair starts Aug. 19.

Following completion of the Concord project, the youths may head to Dixon for more work.

Two Allen youths also are taking part in the Corps. Peggy Taylor and Lynn Smith are helping to manage the town's park and streets. Smith is helping street superintendent Ed Asbra with various projects in Allen while Taylor works at the park.

TERRY WAYMAN, right, and Rick Rees paint one of the buildings at the Dixon County fairgrounds in Concord.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Joycelyn Smith

The Peach Season

A peach is a delight — whether it's a pretty girl or a tasty fruit. Soon the peach season will be at its height.

Peaches are grown in parts of the country where winters are cold enough to provide a dormant period but not too cold. Many peaches bought in the stores come from Colorado and California.

Peaches are picked by hand to prevent bruises when the color is right. At the packinghouse, the peaches are washed and defuzzed. Rotating brushes loosen the fuzz and clean the fruit.

The fruit is then sorted into quality grades. Grading removes any damaged, diseased and decayed fruit.

Hydrocooling, a process that reduces spoilage, is carried out before the peaches are transported to market. Peaches are passed over a conveyor belt and showered with ice water which may contain a fungicide solution. The fruit then travels in cooled truck trailers or railroad cars.

During the time of Queen Victoria, a fresh peach was the mark of a high-fashion dinner. And no wonder — they cost a guinea each (about five dollars).

Select fresh, firm peaches free from blemishes. Mature fruit has a whitish or creamy yellow undercolor. Red color is not a sign of ripeness and bluish depends on variety. Avoid green-colored peaches — they are immature and will not ripen well. And avoid overmature fruit — it bruises easily and must be used immediately.

Public Hearing Will Focus on Elderly Persons

Wayne area residents interested in filling the needs of elderly persons are invited to a public hearing of the legislature's subcommittee on aging.

The meeting, second in a series scheduled around the state, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College in Norfolk.

The subcommittee hopes to find out how the needs of the elderly are being met in the way of transportation, medical care, housing, nutrition programs, and other related needs. The difficulties encountered in obtaining these services and the role of the legislature in making these services more responsive and appropriate for older Nebraskans are also to be discussed.

The Egyptians believed that gold and pearls were found only in southerly rivers.
